CHAPTER VI.

"I will obey you," he said. "But at any rate, there can be no reason why I should not tell you mine—"

She shook her head quickly, and laughed with all a girl's willfulness. "No, that would not be fair," she said.

He sighed as he echoed her laugh. "You are very hard! You will neither let me know or be known to you. I half regret my self-sacrifice, and am nearly resolved to call at the farm, after all."

"No," she said; "I can trust to your instincts."

A look of gratification came into his eyes.

"Yes," he said, "you may trust me. Who knows, we may meet under circumstances which will render a proper introduction unavoidable. But it cannot be yet. I start for France to-night; my yacht is lying in Gloucester harbor; and I may be away for—"

"For years," she said. "You see, I am a wanderer, and one place is as good as another to a man who has no object in life but to get through it with as little boredom as possible."

A vague feeling of disappointment and sadness had crept over Iris, and she sat motionless and speechless. He was going away, then—for years, perhaps! Come as often as she may to the brook she would not meet him again!

Her sadness seemed catching, for he smiled.

"Rather a hard lot, isn't it?" he said, smiling.

She started slightly, as if awakened from some train of thought.

"Hard?" she said.

"Yes. Most men have some object, some tie to bind them to some particular spot on earth. I have none. I am just a wanderer, and that is all. Fate has, in sportive mockery, placed me in a position which sets me apart from my fellows, and, like the stormy petrel, I fly over the seas of life alone!"

"But I beg your pardon!" he said quickly, and as if he were ashamed. "I did not mean to—"

"You did not mean to—"

"Thanks! I didn't mean to complain even! But you can understand now why I came back here this afternoon. In a life like mine such an adventure is one to remember and to dwell upon. I am going to take it with me to think even in many an hour of solitude! I shall see my friend the hill; I shall see the sky, as it looked when I glanced up at it, as I rather thought for the last time, and I shall see, more clearly and distinctly than anything else, you!"

His voice had dropped until it had become almost a whisper, low, and earnest, and musical.

The voice, his look, his manner, were exerting an influence over Iris which filled her with a vague uneasiness and even alarm, and, fighting against the influence, she forced a smile and said lightly:

"You will have forgotten all about it in a week!"

"Do you think so? Honestly, I mean?" he said significantly, and his eyes sought hers eagerly.

Her eyes dropped under the long lashes, and the hand that held the whip quivered.

"I think it is probable," she replied. "You will see fresh scenes, fresh people, and win fresh adventures—" she stopped, and gathered up the reins. "That is a polite way of saying that I am heartless and ungrateful," he said, with a reproachful smile. "Is that to be your last word to accompany me on my wanderings? Choose kinder ones, will you not?"

Iris looked from one side to the other with a little troubled look, that lent her face an exquisite softness and gentleness.

"What am I to say?" she said, with a little catch in her breath. "The ordinary ones? That I wish you every prosperity and happiness?"

"That is better," he said earnestly. "Far—far better—if you do really wish me them."

"Why should I wish you otherwise?" she retorted, smiling. "One might wish even one's enemy that!"

"And I am not your enemy!" he said, quickly.

As he spoke he took off his hat, and held it in his hand, to let the cool breeze blow on his forehead.

Iris looked down.

"I cannot be your enemy!" he said. "Do you forget that you saved my life?"

Iris raised her eyes with a spark of playful malice in them.

"They say that to save a man's life is to make him an enemy for the rest of his life!" she said.

"Ah, then I will be the exception to the rule!" he retorted, not playfully by any means, but with a grave earnestness. "All through my wanderings I will keep the thought close to my heart, that though you will not tell me your name nor hear mine, I will be your friend! Yes, in spite of you!"

As he spoke he moved his hat to emphasize his words and Iris's downcast eyes fell upon the inside of it. As she did so the dreamy expression in them gave place in a second to one of startled surprise, which was followed, as cloud follows cloud across a summer sky, by one of consternation and even horror.

And then, emotions, emotions which had sent all trace of color from her face, and made its warm ivory white as death, were caused by two words—two words printed in gold upon the lining of the hat—

"Heron Coverdale."

It was the name of the family which had always, since she could remember, been held in abhorrence by her father; a name which she herself—why, she knew not—had been taught to dislike and dread.

And this Heron Coverdale, one of the race which had in the past done her father some deadly injury, was the man whose life she had saved, who now pleaded that she would accept him as a friend!

No wonder her face whitened, and that she drew herself up in grief and dismay.

"What is the matter?" he asked quickly, apprehensively. "Are you ill?—or have I said anything to offend you? If I have, forgive me; oh, forgive me! I would rather—"

"He stopped, overwhelmed by her paleness, her averted eyes, and trembling lips. "What have I said?" he asked her imploringly. "Was it wrong to say that I would consider myself your friend?"

"Yes!" she said quickly, and as it seemed to him, harshly. "There can be no friendship between you and—"

"Let me go, please!"—for, seeing her gather up her reins, he had in his excitement laid his hand upon the bridle—

"Let me go, please!—I have stayed too long!"

His hand fell from the bridle, and he stepped back, looking at her with amazed, sorrow-stricken eyes. The look was too much for her. With a jerk she pulled Snow up, and trembling visibly, said brokenly:

"Good-by! I—I—hope that we may never meet again!" and with this she struck Snow sharply with her whip.

Astonished and disgusted, the horse sprang forward, and before Lord Coverdale could speak or move, she had gone.

CHAPTER VIII. AN HISTORIC QUARREL.

Almost as if she feared Lord Coverdale would jump on his cob and pursue her, Iris galloped at racing speed across the meadows, going as the crow flies, straight over hedge and dyke.

Her brain was in a whirl, her cheeks at one moment as red as fire, the next as cold as death.

As if under a spell she had sat there for how long—listening to the stranger, listening with a pleasure that was none the less vivid for being unreasonably and strange. And he was a Coverdale all the while! One of the race which she knew her father detested and hated; and which, therefore, as a dutiful daughter she ought equally to detest and abhor.

But mixed with her dismay was a feeling of sorrow and sadness which made her heart ache.

"After all, what had this young man done to her that she should hate him? And what would the think of her who had thrown back his offer of friendship in his teeth? Scarcely pulling rein she rode straight for the Holt, and flinging the bridle over the gatepost, hurried up the narrow path to the door.

A comely and motherly-looking old woman, who from the window had seen her coming, opened the door and dropped a reverential and welcoming courtesy.

"I might a know it was you, Miss Iris!" she exclaimed garrulously. "There's no one in these parts as rides so helter-skelter like. But do go 'emind now, my dear! Accidents happen often we know it—but how tired you look, my dear!" she stopped to remark.

Iris went into the sitting-room, and dropping into a chair, sat looking straight before her, her boom heaving heavily, her eyes downcast.

"Law, miss, what have 'ee been doing?" exclaimed Mrs. Hartley. "You've been riding too hard and knocked yourself up! Dearie me, now! Let me take your hat and give 'ee a cup of tea," and, with affectionate concern, she gently unfastened Iris's veil and took off her hat, peering a hand lovingly and admiringly over her soft silky hair as she did so.

"Thank you, nurse," said Iris; "do so—I am tired," and she laid her head upon her hand, and shading her eyes, gazed sadly and dreamily at the fire, revolving all that had happened to her, while Mrs. Hartley bustled about and got that panacea for every feminine ill, a cup of tea.

"There now, my dear," she said soothingly, "you'll be better when you drink that. But you do look pale and tired. Why do 'ee ride so fast and so far, Miss Iris?"

"I've not ridden far, though I have fast," said Iris, taking the cup mechanically.

"Ah, it's the sudden warm weather," said the old lady; "it do overcome one so. Here's May only, and it might be July, mightn't it? There's one thing to be said for it, it's good weather for the chickens. How do that lot do up at the Revels that I sent last spring, my dear? Let me give you some more cream. Will you have a little bit of toast now? Just a sippet," and the old lady fussed round her with loving solicitude. Iris sat and submitted gently and gratefully, but her thoughts were far from spring chickens, and cream, and presently the old lady, who was by no means without brains, saw it, and became quiet, taking up her work, which she had laid down at her visitor's arrival, and knitting in all silence, and only now and then glancing at the beautiful face wrapped in its dreamy thoughtfulness.

Just Folks

THE BEST ARE BACK.

It was easy in the old days and the bitter days to shirk—

The best of all the nation had been called away from work—

We could hold our own places with indifferent service men.

But to-day the war is over and our best is back again.

We had little competition with our soldier boys away.

The stoutful and the lazy could command a master's pay.

But the idle's days are over, we are done with methods slack.

For the finest of the country and the best we have are back.

They who fought to save the nation have returned to do its work;

There's a good man and a true man now to crowd out every shirk.

Oh, I don't know how to say it but it seems to me somehow

That it's up to every one of us to start to hustle now.

We must bend our backs to labor and the pleasures we must shun.

We must give the best that's in us to the duties to be done.

Now the test is one of merit as it used to be of yore.

And it's goodbye to the loafers for our best is home once more.

MOTOR MADNESS.

My shining car no more you see around my stately residence; the windshield hangs from a tree, the axles are—astirre a fence, and warily my weird I dree, and wonder why I have no sense. "Don't go so fast," I have been told by many wise and prudent guys, "or soon a wooden box will hold a delegate about your size;" their counsel was as good as gold, but prudent counsel I despise. And so I stepped upon the gas and made my glided wagon fly, and I would let no auto pass, however barely it might try; and sage advice like sounding brass appeared to me, as I whizzed by. "I've warned you once, I've warned you twice," the friendly speed cop to me said, "and if I have to warn you thrice, a prison cot will be your bed, or maybe you'll be laid on feet, with papers at your feet and head."

My pastor urged me to reform and use my small supply of brains, "all day," he said, "the sauheds starn along the pike in noy-waits, and soon the coroners will swarm, and sit on your and their remains." And so I went my dippy way, and lugged at maxims and adsaws, at frantic speed I pushed my dray, and wasted all the traffic laws; and now you see me here to-day, the worst old wreck that ever was.

Keep Efficient by Keeping Well

This Letter Will Tell You How

Plunkett, Sask.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness. I had pains in the back and bearing-down pains in the abdomen and was in a general run-down condition. I could not sleep, rest or work and was quite unfit to do even slight household tasks. A friend told me about your Vegetable Compound and I in my turn truly recommend it, as my severe symptoms vanished and I am better in every way. I do my own work, look after my children and see to chickens, a cow and my garden. I also recommend it for young girls who are weak and rundown as my 16 year old daughter has taken it and is quite her own gay self again."—Mrs. FRED. WILEY, Plunkett, Sask.

This letter is but one of a great number received every year from women, young and old, and from almost every walk of life. These letters testify to the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Wiley suffered mentally as well as physically, because her home and her children demanded the care and attention which she was unable to give because of her wretched health. Finally she tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and in this letter tells what it did for her.

The Vegetable Compound contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and can be taken in safety by any woman. Your livelihood depends on your health. So try

Attempt to Kill.

LADY MEMBER OF I. K. K. Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 12.—Five shots were fired last night at Mrs. Elizabeth Tyler, assistant chief of the propagating bureau of the Ku Klux Klan, according to her reports to the police, but while the bullets smashed her bedroom window they failed to hit her. An investigation resulted in no indication who did the shooting, but a few minutes after the incident, a man called the Atlanta Constitution on the telephone and said:

"I just want to say that we got Mrs. Tyler to-night and we will get Simmons (the imperial wizard, who is in Washington) to-morrow."

Mrs. Tyler had been entertaining several women friends earlier in the evening and was said to have just gone to her bedroom when the firing started. After the shooting she notified the police and members of the Order, and a investigation was begun.

SWEET, PURE MILK—always on hand when you want it!

If you have never used Libby's Evaporated Milk, you will be amazed to find how good, how convenient and economical it is. Many women who first tried it in some emergency now use it always—they find it gives such satisfactory results.

There's no waiting for the milkman—you can always keep several cans on the shelf and in summer there's no bothering with ice, and in winter the milk wagon can get stuck in a heavy drift of snow as often as it wants to!

And there's less waste—a can of Libby's Evaporated Milk will keep indefinitely before being opened—and after you have opened a can you can use just what you need; the rest, put in a cool place, will keep several days.

Libby's Milk comes from the finest dairying section of America and is processed in our own sanitary condensaries—it is not the "distributed" product of an unknown and nameless plant.

Order a tin from your grocer to-day.

Sealing by Aeroplane.

Yesterday afternoon the Telegram had the pleasure of a call from Mr. F. Sidney Cotton, the aeronaut in charge of the venture of locating seals from planes and transmitting their whereabouts to the sealing fleet by wireless. Last spring operations were not so favorable as they might have been, the delay in getting ready militating greatly against prospects, and being an initial attempt, finalisation of plans were somewhat haphazard. Profiting by the experience gained, Mr. Cotton has now perfected his arrangements for the coming spring and will have everything complete for the starting. Dominion industries other than sealing are to be considered, and the company expects to utilise aircraft in many ways, their idea being to put planes in service for surveys, mail carrying, rescue work and other avenues where the public good will be served. Hangars will be erected at St. Anthony and other points, and caches of petrol and oil will be made at intervals along the land route to be flown over. The first official report of last spring's flight over the frozen ocean, as published in Aeronautical Engineering, is the only actual version given the English press, and was written subject to Mr. Cotton's editing. The article which is entitled "Seal-Spotting from Aircraft," is given beneath in full. We desire to state here that Mr. Cotton is not responsible for the absurd stories appearing in the English papers anent this undertaking, one of which was published and commented upon in this column Saturday.

"Mr. F. Sidney Cotton has recently returned to this country after a successful pioneer seal spotting expedition in Newfoundland. It may be remembered by readers of this paper that last year he left England for Newfoundland, taking with him the Napier Westland limousine which won the Martlesham competitions in August, 1920.

Mr. Cotton met a Major Clayton Kennedy in England in June of last year. Major Kennedy then told him that he was on a scheme for taking airships to Newfoundland to help with the seal fisheries, and was thinking of taking an aeroplane as well. Mr. Cotton retained out to him that weather conditions were not all favorable for airships, and he suggested that aeroplanes were more suitable for the job.

Mr. Cotton then entered into a contract with him to use his own machine, a Westland limousine, in which Colonel Frank McClean was also interested. He also obtained a pilot in charge; D. Plinets, who was found to be an old D.H.9 which had been used by the old Aircraft Transport and Travel on continuous service on the London to Paris route for some time.

However, the machine was assembled and was duly flown, but the range was not great enough to be of much use. Various experiments were carried out at different times by fitting skis to the machines for landing on ice. The ice was by no means a good landing ground at all times. Sometimes it would melt and form about a foot of water all over the top of the ice. At other times it was covered with from two to three feet of snow. On one or two occasions the machine left the ground when the ice was perfectly solid and on returning found at least a foot of water covering the surface. However, the experimental landing gear was found to be quite successful.

Mr. Cotton and his party arrived at Batwood, Newfoundland, in November, 1920, and discovered the truth of the late Mr. W. S. Gilbert's sayings. "Things are seldom what they seem." After various incidents Mr. Cotton, unfortunately, for the seals, bought out Major Kennedy's interests and took on the contract with the Sealing Company himself, as his own machine was already on the spot—with another pilot, Mr. Plinets, and mechanics. The contract was squared after considerable delay, and on January 23rd they began work.

Continuous blizzards were experienced all through February and most of March. Although the first flight was made on February 28th, owing to various mechanical troubles they were unable to commence real work till March 28th.

Considerable trouble was experienced owing to the extreme cold with radiators and pipes freezing up, and owing to the low temperature it was very difficult to handle the engine without gloves. Most of the flights this year were really only experimental, in which they were trying to overcome such troubles as cold, climate and topography.

One long flight was made in the Westland in the direction of sealing ships, as a result of which the sealing captain who was carried in the machine was able to instruct the sealing ships as to their proper course. Eventually they found the seals to the east.

The seals pup on the ice about February 28th, and are supposed to go back to the water about March 25th. All spotting work, therefore, must be done in this time, and as the long flight was made on March 21st to a distance of 165 miles from their base, it was hardly reasonable to expect that the seals would be picked up at that time. Enough experience was gained to prove that aircraft are actually invaluable.

The flights in future would be better undertaken from St. Anthony, as the seals pup within 40 or 50 miles of this place, and remain on the ice, being carried in different directions, depending on the wind and currents, and, therefore, the view obtained from aircraft cannot be compared in utility to the small range of vision from a ship.

One of the most severe winters of recent times was experienced this year, and the fact that the winds were all from the west caused the seals to be blown miles outside the usual course, and away from the base at Batwood. (See.)

In all, 61 flights were made and a distance of over 2,000 miles covered before the ice became too dangerous to use as an aerodrome. The machines were then housed in the shed, which in the summer resembles a seaplane shed, the water coming right up to the door.

Mr. Cotton suggests that owing to the condition of the country in Newfoundland and the vast area of lake surface, aeroplanes are the ideal aircraft for use in Newfoundland, and as there are many parts of it still unexplored the aeroplane will probably play a very important part in the development of the country.

When not actually engaged on the seal fisheries, Mr. Cotton carried mails on several occasions for the Newfoundland Government for experimental purposes. During that time in Newfoundland valuable assistance was given by Capt. S. Bennett, a Newfoundland of a very cheerful disposition, who had served with distinction in the late lamented inter-tribal disturbance on the Ontario.

Mr. Cotton intends to resume operations next year, and he has not yet decided what type of machine he will use then. During the winter in Newfoundland even the trains are held up for over a month at a time by snow, and the aeroplanes is then the only means of transport other than dog-teams.

Taking it all round and considering the enormous difficulties and misfortunes which occurred in the first year's experiments were entirely successful as experiments pure and simple.

The personnel of the expedition was as follows: F. Sidney Cotton, pilot in charge; D. Plinets, assistant pilot; Capt. Nathan Keen, age 45, the sealing expert, a thoroughly sporting individual; W. Heath, wireless operator; H. B. Wallis, engineer; A. Cleaver, rigger and mechanic—C.P.

Gower Street
Official "At Home."

The Gower St. Church Silver Jubilee celebration are continuing through the week. This evening the Official Board will be "At Home" to the adult members of the congregation. The first part of the evening will be taken up with a Commemoration Meeting in the Auditorium at 8 o'clock. At this gathering an address will be given by Mr. John Lesmon, Recording Steward, entitled "Glimpses of the past twenty-five years." There will be music by the Choir and Mrs. King will sing a solo. At 9:30 o'clock refreshments will be served in the Lecture Room and a social hour enjoyed. The official Boards of the other Methodist churches will be present, and an enjoyable time may be undoubtedly expected.

Reception to Rector.

A reception to Rev. E. C. Earn, new rector of St. John's, will be held in the Canon Wood Hall to-night when the congregation will be given an opportunity of individually making the acquaintance of Mr. and Mrs. Earn. Short musical programmes have been arranged, and refreshments will be served by the ladies of the Women's Association and St. Margaret's Guild, after which, the new rector will be introduced to all.

Serious Accident.

Annalas Miller, a native of Topsail, met with a serious accident this morning, owing to what appears to have been a gross piece of negligence on the part of Government employees. Whilst Mr. Miller was near Woodstock on the outskirts of Topsail in his car, some man who was raising telegraph poles blasted a hole without warning and a piece of flying rock hit him on the first head, smashing it almost to pulp. First aid was rendered at "Woodstock" to the injured member and medical aid was rendered in town. Mr. Miller says that as he was passing the place where the explosion occurred all he heard was the word "fire." No warning of any kind was given.

Put On Trial.

A Prohibition case which has been postponed several times, was heard before Judge Morris this morning, when Bert Long charged a resident of the West End with having liquor in his possession. A jar of moonshine, which analysis showed to be 40 under proof, was produced by Mr. Long. The defendant, however, a lady, said for the grounds that it was manufactured before Prohibition. The Judge, however, said the burden of proof was on the defence and Mr. Long will state his case this afternoon.

SENT BACK TO ASTLEN.—The two inmates of the Poor Asylum who yesterday appeared before Judge Morris on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, and who were remanded to the lock-up for the night, when the Superintendent announced his willingness to give them another chance. His Honor gave the two men a severe lecture and warned them to keep off drinking in the future. They were then allowed to go.

Frozen Salmon for the King.

Letter of Thanks from Master of the Royal Household.

The products of the Cold Storage Plant of the Newfoundland Atlantic Fisheries Company are rapidly becoming known throughout the North American Continent and Mr. W. L. McIntosh, the local manager, has just returned from Boston where he has been establishing a distributing centre for Canada and the United States. Mr. McIntosh showed the Telegram the following letter received by him from His Majesty the King in appreciation of a box of salmon sent some time ago.

Balmoral Castle, 27 Sept. 1921.
"The Master of the Household is commanded by the King to thank Mr. W. L. McIntosh very much for the box of salmon which was forwarded by the Newfoundland Atlantic Fisheries, Limited for His Majesty's acceptance. The salmon arrived in excellent condition. The Master of the Household regrets that owing to a slight error this reply has been delayed.

Whilst in Boston Mr. McIntosh made arrangements for cold storage accommodation with the Colonial Cold Storage Co. of Boston, a small city room which his own company possesses there has only a capacity of 10 tons. The reason for making Boston the continental headquarters is because it is the only port to which direct cold storage freight space can be obtained.

There are wonderful possibilities before the N.A.F. Co. and Newfoundland itself will materially benefit from any success of their business. At present the cold storage accommodation on the Digby, whether she is going to Liverpool or Boston, is usually completely taken up with our fishery products, and in Boston particularly, they are preferred to any others. On the last trip of the Digby from this port cold storage fishery products were shipped to Boston to the value of $15,000. Smoked caplin, smoked fillets and kippons seem to be chiefly in demand. The present year will be mostly occupied in filling sample orders, but next year an enormous demand is expected, and it is hoped that the local fishermen will be able to help the company to cope with it and to supply all requirements. The ultimate object of the company is to introduce the fish to the world over and in time, and with the progressiveness which they are showing this will undoubtedly be accomplished and we will benefit accordingly. A complete cargo of salmon to supply the English market during the Christmas season will shortly be shipped and in the meantime besides the large quantities consumed at home, orders are coming in from the Sydney, Glace Bay, Halifax and other places in the Maritime Provinces.

The Nystrand's Cargo.

FISH BEING DUMPED OVERBOARD.
The Nystrand's cargo is still the subject of much discussion in trade circles. Some few days ago the Nystrand was called to the attention of Patras said that the fish was unsuitable for the Greek market and was being dumped at sea. It is reported that sales even at this price could not be made, and it is said that the fish is being dumped. The Nystrand's cargo consisted of mostly fish purchased by the Government last fall, and was the last of the $350,000 purchase. The ship cleared here on September 1st, taking 8,535 cwt. from the Union Export Co. for Naples and Genoa; for Patras, Greece, shipped by the Marine and Fisheries, 5,493 cwt.

"That Girl Patsy."
Presented by The Gladys Klark Co. Scenic productions, costumes, acting and dialogue, all made a perfect rapport at the Casino Theatre last night when the Gladys Klark Co. presented "That Girl Patsy," a play that was pathetic, humorous and human at one and the same time. First night-ers certainly were well pleased, and the spontaneity of their applause at the various climaxes testified their appreciation. A full house greeted the rising of the curtain, and from start to finish the attention of the large audience was seldom diverted from the theme. The radius of the play covers a period of three months, the scene being laid at Long Island, New York. As it will be put on again to-night, the plot should not be given away here, but those admirers of Miss Klark who desire to see her at her best, backed up by a strong cast of characters, can spend no more pleasant evening than by seeing her in the role of Patricia Davis (Patsy). Magnificent stage scenery, handsome sets, clean, honest acting and clear enunciation of speaking parts all form an attractive ensemble. The passing of the clouds, visible from the verandah in the second scene, where the Warren guests dance by moonlight, is worth the admission price alone. Some of the company are well known to local theatre goers, and the more recent additions will not be long in finding a place in the hearts of St. John's folk. It is not our intention to give the individual names in this brief write-up. These will appear in their various characters later. The C.I.B.C. Band, under Capt. Morris, contributed excellent music between the acts, an encore being called and responded to for several numbers. The presentation for to-morrow night is "Patsy," a play for all children from eight to eight.

Telegram to Mr. Ahearn.
J. E. Ahearn, Sporting Editor, Halifax Herald.
Many thanks for your illuminating report of road race. The Herald is to be congratulated on its great success. It, this year, being more popular and more enthusiastically contested than ever. We are, as you say we should be, proud of Bell, who has brought great honour to himself, the National Sports Committee and the country, for to come second out of nearly one hundred and thirty runners of such proved ability as those against whom he ran is something with which everyone must be delighted. Newfoundland is indeed proud of Jack Bell's performance. He returns Mendax test, and the reception planned for his homecoming is one of the like of which this country has never before seen. All classes, creeds and denominations of both sexes will turn out to do honour to the one, who, more than any other, has been instrumental in placing Newfoundland in the athletic firmament. You with your remarkably clever and graphic reports have conduced largely to the great interest taken in the sports and race. The Committee are not ungrateful and steps are under way to show our appreciation. All are anxious to put on record how much our boys owe to the hospitality so largely displayed by the people of Halifax and those with whom they came in contact.
Following the worthy example of the Halifax Herald our Senior of Journalism, W. J. Herder, Proprietor of the Evening Telegram, a sport himself and the father of a family of sportsmen, has notified the Newfoundland Amateur Athletic Association that he will present for competition, next year, a cup for a ten mile road race which the Association are anxious shall be known as "The Telegram Ten Mile Trophy." By so doing Mr. Herder is greatly developing the sporting spirit which already in St. John's, is now spreading throughout the length and breadth of the island.

S.U.F. Grand Lodge Goes to Canada.

Extension of the Order Outside Newfoundland -- Whitney Pier Gets Honor of Being First Establishment -- "Maple Leaf" Lodge Instituted With Wealth of Ceremonial.

In was the privilege, no less than the honor and pleasure of the writer, to be associated with the members of the Grand Lodge of the Order of United Fishermen, who comprised the deputation which went from St. John's, Newfoundland, to Sydney, via Port aux Basques, for the purpose of organizing and instituting the first Lodge of that Order outside Newfoundland; proper application having been received and accepted by the Supreme Grand Lodge through its Executive. All the formalities having been completed the deputation, made up of the Right Worthy Grand Master, Bro. J. S. Curnew; the Deputy Grand Master, Bro. C. T. James; the Grand Chief Officer, Bro. James Rendell; the Grand Secretary, Bro. A. E. Withycombe, and Past Master, Bro. J. L. Oke of "Buckland" Lodge No. 75, Harbor Grace, boarded the express on Sunday, October 2nd, thus beginning a trip which was to mark a new era in the annals of the Society of United Fishermen. At the station a number of Brethren of St. John's Lodge, No. 5, had assembled to give a send-off to the Grand Officers, and as the train pulled out, cheers for the success of the venture were heartily given and responded to; so great being the enthusiasm that most of the bystanders had no idea of what it was all about, and questioned others as to the cause of the demonstration.

ON THE TRAIN.

The run across country was uneventful, weather being beautifully fine and all the passengers on board fraternizing in true Newfoundland style. Nothing occurred to mar the pleasures of the long railway journey, and the train run ended at Port aux Basques about 9 o'clock on Monday night, when after registering with the Purser and receiving immigration cards, all passengers have to the party embarked on the Kyle and immediately embarked, fearing that the crossing of Cabot Strait might disagree with them. Such fears, however, were groundless as there could not have been a more perfect passage, the waters of the Gulf being smooth as the proverbial millpond. Arrival at North Sydney was made on time, and whilst other passengers were obliged to get up, dress and pass the Customs and Immigration officials, the deputation was permitted to snooze it out until the stewards came in to clear the cabins. Reaching the deck of the Kyle, what was the astonishment of all to find a steady downpour of rain, and a thick atmosphere, in marked con-by adjusting the compass, and at length anchor, dropped in exactly the right depth, water (terribly at St. Alban's Hall objective. And so, like St. Paul, all was safe to land, discovering friends in need in the person of Rev. J. J. Rector of the Parish, who took into his house because of the rain and cold, until the other day turned up, which they did the other. Then indeed we were safe.

THE INSTITUTION OF "MAPLE LEAF" LODGE.

Punctually at 10 o'clock on the evening of Tuesday, October 4th, Grand Lodge officiated at St. Alban's Hall, base of St. Alban's Church, where the Brethren who were desirous of forming a new Lodge were assembled, to receive the full regalia of their various orders, and received the Grand Lodge deputation in manner befitting thealted positions. The Right Worthy Grand Master took the chair, having appointed acting officers to guard the Lodge, opened the sea according to the first degree rit, using a special form of prayer, than that laid down in the ritual followed by prayer Psalm CXXXIII, read by the R.W.G.M., after which the Lodge was declared open in form. The institutional oration was by the Deputy Grand Master, C. T. James, and was heard with rapt attention by the Brethren. Next in order came an ode, the line of which, "O Thou whose name on the waves" will be familiar members of the S.U.F. At the conclusion, the Worthy Grand Secretary, A. E. Withycombe, read the Charter granted to "Maple Leaf" Lodge, No. 77, the Grand Chief Officer, James Rendell, delivered the Regalia of the officers elect to the R.W.G.M. At this juncture the Worthy Master and officers elect were introduced to the Worthy Grand Secy, who asked if the brethren each and all of them. Being asked in the affirmative, they were presented to the R.W.G.M., following which all the minutes of proceedings of the Lodge to be instituted were read by the Grand Secretary, confirmed by the Grand Master, then in full with his signature, John S. Curnew. Psalm CVII was then read responsibly concluding with the Gloria. Grand Honors were next followed by prayer by the Master with an antiphonal psalm. The Brethren were next arranged in processional order and led by the Deputy Grand Master paraded around the Lodge Room, singing the verses of the old hundredth, "Alas, that on earth do dwell." Grand Honors were again given, after all the brethren of the new lodge by the Worthy Master and Officers passed in front of the R.W.G.M. acknowledged their obedience to the Lodge authority by making the promise. On taking their seats, by command of the R.W.G.M. the Lodge was called up, when the institutional proclamation was made by the Deputy Grand Master, as follows:—

ARRIVAL AT DESTINATION.

Leaving the Kyle the party taxied to that well known hospice the "Belmont," where after a refreshing wash-up, and a rearrangement of toilet, breakfast was partaken of; after which the ubiquitous press men were interviewed, and told as much as was consistent with secrecy to give way. Being of the calling himself, the writer was naturally the medium through which all the information filtered, as he, knowing the game, was appointed by the Right Worthy Grand Master as press agent. After the reporters had been satisfied (no easy matter, as they almost insisted upon being shown the rituals and given the signs) a courtesy call was made on the North Sydney Herald, the editor of which, Mr. Thomas, received us with every evidence of kindness, and made this scribe sit down at a reporters desk and write up some copy for that day's issue. But that was all in the day's work. A visit to the Eastern Club, to which all were given the entree, terminated the stay at North Sydney, as 11 o'clock was approaching and the Cape Breton Electric Company's steamers, running the ferry service between the Sydneys, wait for no man when the scheduled time for sailing strikes. So we had to hustle to the ferry wharf, the rain all the while descending in torrents, where we boarded the "Electronic" for across the water, being accompanied on the voyage by two good brethren, who met us at North Sydney, Peers and Bartlett. The weather still continued to be of that quality known as "fishermen's," and the whole party had to oil down, not only for the run across, but during the drive from Sydney to Whitney Pier, our taxi man by the way not knowing exactly where we had to get off, driving us around aimlessly, until at length we discovered from a school boy that we were on the wrong course, which was speedily rectified.

"BRETHREN—I am directed by the Right Worthy Brother, John S. Curnew, Grand Master of the Order of United Fishermen, to make proclamation and announcement to all here present, that by virtue of the power and authority of the Supreme Grand Lodge these Brethren are now constituted and created into an Ordinary Lodge of the Order of United Fishermen, by the title and designation of the "Maple Leaf" No. 77, to be held at Whitney Pier, City of Sydney, in the province of Nova Scotia, and from henceforward they are fully empowered to exercise all the rights and privileges of a Lodge of United Fishermen, agreeably to the term and tenor of their Charter, the Constitution and Laws of the Supreme Grand Lodge, and all the usages of this Fraternity, and may the Grand Master of the Great Grand Lodge on high ever be with them."

All then sang the Doxology, "Praise God from whom all blessings flow." The Scripture lesson, taken from XXVII chapter of the Acts of the Apostles was read by the Grand Master, following which the Lord's Prayer was repeated. The ceremony was concluded by the singing of the hymn beginning, "O praise our God to-day," and Grand Honors again being given, the Right Worthy Grand Master declared the institutional session of Grand Lodge closed in due form.

INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS.

"Maple Leaf" Lodge was then opened on the Red Degree by the Grand Master with the following subordinate officers: the Grand Secretary taking the minutes of proceedings; the Grand Chief Officer, Bro. Jas. Rendell, and the acting Grand Second Officer, Bro. J. L. Oke at their respective stations, the Deputy Grand Master acting as Marshal and Director of Ceremonies. Minor Officers to guard the Lodge were appointed from the Brethren present. After Lodge had been declared open the annexed address of welcome was read on behalf of its members of the new Lodge, and presented to the R.W.G.M. by the Director of Ceremonies:—

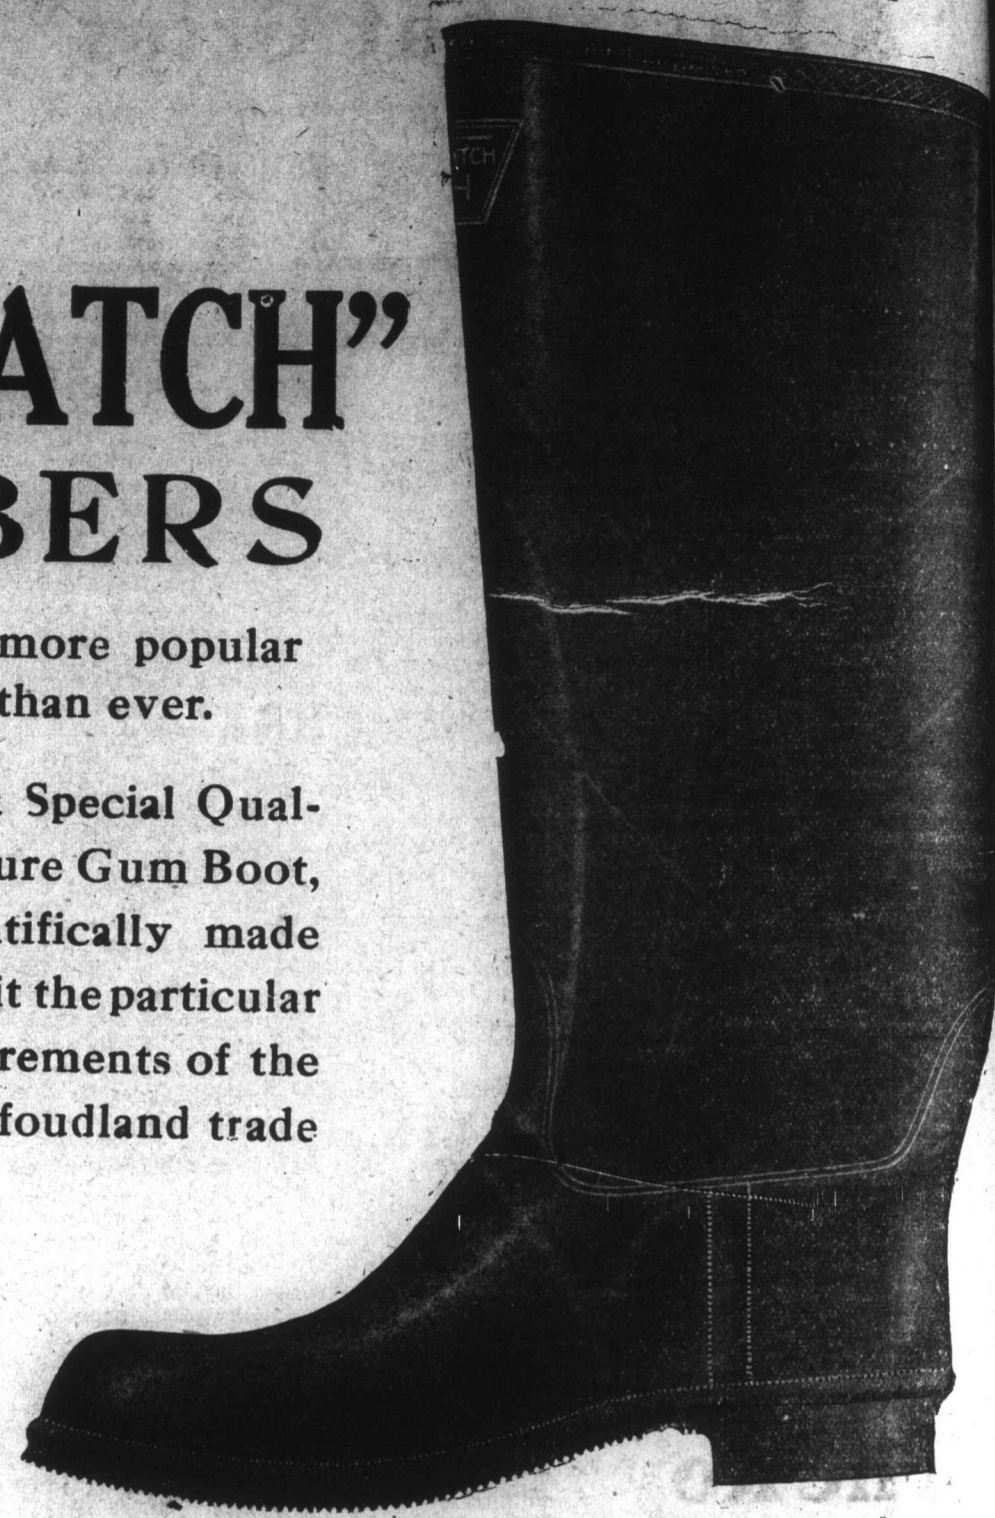

Sydney, N.S., Oct. 4, 1921.

At 10 o'clock last night the Norwegian steamer Arlang Hsaland arrived in port with two blades of her propeller gone. The ship is eleven days out from Liverpool bound to New York in ballast. Heavy weather was encountered on the passage across, and being light in the water, the engines were continually racing causing the loss of the two blades.

Repairs will likely be effected here and it is thought this can be accomplished without docking. The ship has only recently been launched and is making her second trip. She is 4,643 tons gross, 2,833 net, and is built with all modern appliances for a cargo boat. The Purser, Withy Co. are the ship's agents whilst in port.

Obituary.

Rose Richardson, wife of Martin Murray of Walnut Street, Newton Lower Falls, died Monday night Sept. 5th, at the Newton Hospital, after about three weeks illness. Mrs. Murray was born in St. John's, Newfoundland, and came to Newton Lower Falls about six years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Murray have been married five years and have two small children. Mrs. Murray leaves a father and mother, five sisters and one brother, all of St. John's Newfoundland. She was a woman of exceptionally high character, and loved by all who knew her. The funeral of the entire community attended to the bereaved husband and the two little children who are dependent of a mother's loving care. The funeral services were held Thursday morning at St. John's Church, Newton Lower Falls. Interment was at Needham.

Fishermen! Here's the Boot for You-"Excel"!

"EXCEL" Made 'All in One Piece'

"EXCEL"

The Fishermen's Friend

All fishermen know from experience what happens to ordinary boots when used in fishing. You've seen how salt water seems to take the life out of rubber and how the uppers crack and the soles wear through in a surprisingly short time.

The "EXCEL" is a different and better kind of boot. It has been made especially to stand up under the unusually hard use a fisherman's boot gets.

The rubber and fabric in "EXCEL" boots are of the very highest quality. But it is the special method of curing, under tremendous pressure, that makes the "EXCEL" so wear-resisting. The pressure forces the layers of rubber and fabric together so that they are actually "one-piece", without losing the least bit of the life or resiliency of the rubber. Salt water has practically no effect on "EXCEL" boots. The UPPERS remain pliable and weatherproof, and resist the drying-out action of sun, heat and extreme cold far longer than other boots. Consequently they don't crack anywhere near so quickly. The SOLES are almost wear-proof, because they are made like an Auto Tire, with 8 plies of rubber and fabric welded by tremendous pressure into a "tire-tread" sole that rivals an automobile tire for toughness and durability.

These are exclusive features of "EXCEL" boots.

The picture, at the right, of an "EXCEL" boot cut apart, with every detail of construction visible, shows how "EXCEL" boots are reinforced at every point of strain. There is not a single feature but what has been proved necessary and desirable by tests of severest use. Your own experience will tell you that a boot with these features simply must be a better boot.

Study this picture. Learn these features. Remember them when you compare "EXCEL" boots with ordinary boots. And remember, too, that very important point which the picture cannot show, namely, that "EXCEL" boots are cured under tremendous pressure, which leaves the rubber pliable, weatherproof and wear-resisting. It is only by the use of this tremendous pressure combined with highest quality materials that the best results are obtained.

"EXCEL" Boots are sold by all reliable dealers from Coast to Coast.

PEOPLE AND THEIR PICTURES.

Don't you think it is interesting to watch and study peoples' reactions to pictures of themselves and other people? A friend of mine always detests a picture which she has taken. Some times I can understand her feelings for if we really believed that we looked like some of the snap shots our friends take of us we should want to adopt the custom of the ostrich. But on other occasions I think the pictures really look like her and am surprised at her distaste. I should like to see a picture of herself as she sees herself. Plainly it would not at all resemble herself as she is.

Another friend surprises me equally by the delight she seems to take in any picture of herself no matter how unattractive the presentation. I have seen her point herself out in a group snap shot with the inevitable, fateful "that's me" when the picture was such that I should think that she would have torn the thing up. I used to think at first that this was a sign of great modesty on her part. "She does not realize," I said, "that she is reasonably good looking." But I have seen cause to change my mind. She sees realize that is reasonably good looking (in fact I doubt much if she would use that qualifying adjective). But she has such a habit of seeing everything belonging or pertaining to her through rose colored glass that often and beautifies it that she does not see the crude lines, the distorted grin in the picture as we do. Instead she sees it as charming because it is the, and therefore must be charming.

I think these two people are extreme types of two large classes into one of which the average human being falls.

One in a Million!

You may think this is exaggerated, but I think it is. People who see things about themselves as they actually are are rare, but how infinitely rarer are people who see themselves as they feel!

Northern Notes.

The men who had been working on the Hall's Bay line are all home now, and are getting ready for potato digging. As usual the Government made a big mistake in its method of conducting the building of this line.

Most of the men from the Labrador are now home, and although some did well, the catch on the whole has been well below the average. But what is the good of fish when we can only get $5 per quintal at the Union Store, whilst they are selling flour at $15 per barrel and other commodities in proportion.

Despite the fact that the year was a bad one, the summer proved fairly enjoyable. Only two deaths occurred during the year, these being Mrs. Stanley Hackett, of Burnt Island, and Mrs. Stanley Loveman, of Leading Tickle, East.

The summer holidays are now over and the children are returning to school. Miss Penny, who is teaching at Burnt Island, has proved very successful.

Mr. Leander Rowell, of Cull's Island, has been taking the census lately. He is now home again and has resumed his duties as teacher in the C. of E. school.

Fishermen have done very well during the past week on the local grounds, but bait is very scarce.

Motor boats are kept very busy these days carrying berry pickers back and forth to the bays and islands.

Rev. Dr. Facey, Principal of Queen's College, was here last week and gave a splendid illustrated lecture.

Our C. of E. school has been closed only one week. Mr. G. E. Squires, a native of Bonaville, Bay, is our teacher, and he has done exceptionally good work. We are very sorry to realize that he is leaving us soon. He held a garden party here recently, which proved a great success. It was followed by a dance and games, in which young and old of both sexes took part.

Leading Tickle, N.D.B., Oct. 3.
Old-Timer Passes Away.

By the death of Mr. John Griffin, which occurred at Harbor Grace on Thursday evening last, an old and highly respected resident has passed away. Mr. Griffin was a descendant of that good old Kerry stock which came to this country in the early days of the past century, and by their honesty, industry and economy always managed to keep up a sturdy independence, rearing large families and devoting themselves to agriculture, combined with the fisheries. For many years Mr. Griffin prosecuted the codfishery at Labrador, as well as the seal-fishing with some of our most successful masters. About thirty years ago he devoted his energies entirely to agriculture, supplementing it with his horse and cart on the street. He was also one of the most skillful seal-skinners for many years. Mr. Griffin was highly respected by all classes of the community for his honesty, integrity and high social qualities. He was about 80 years of age.

C. C. C. Promenade Concert.

The C.C.C. Band Promenade Concert at the Prince's Rink last night was attended by over 800 people, the majority of whom took part in the dances. Features of the evening were "The Boy and the Blue Birds"—descriptive, and "Fanciful"—a new Fox-trot. It is the intention of the Band to hold a carnival of dancing, similar to skating carnivals, during next week. This affair promises to be a huge success as hundreds have already signified their intention of going.

Disabled Ship Towed to Port.

S.S. Canadian Trooper with her tow, S.S. Otta, reached port at 10.30 last night after a most trying experience. The Otta, which is a Norwegian ship left Montreal over two weeks ago bound to England, having on board 6,000 tons grain. The ship met good weather until 500 miles off this coast, when she encountered a heavy gale, resulting in a severe drifting, which resulted in the smashing of her rudder stock. The ship became unmanageable and S.O.S. calls were sent out. The Canadian Trooper of the C.M.M. bound to Montreal in ballast, picked up the signals, and proceeded to the disabled ship's assistance. For ten days both ships have been endeavoring to make port. Time and again the tow lines parted, and yesterday no less than three times, the last break occurring in Freshwater Bay last night. The tugs Mouton and Hero went to the steamer's assistance; with the Trooper steering and the tugs ahead, the Narrows was safely navigated, and the ships came to anchor. The Otta will be delayed some weeks in port having repairs effected.

Notes From Cambridge, Mass.

TELEGRAM EVERYBODY'S FAVORITE.

You find space in your paper for interesting remarks from an ex-territorial in this "land of the free" and home of the brave. Your remarks may be of some interest to your readers in Newfoundland. Many Newfoundlanders live around Boston, particularly at Cambridge and Somerville, which are part of Metropolitan Boston. If one goes to Central Square, Cambridge, at night, it is easy to pick out two, or perhaps half a dozen Novians from among the passing throngs that are continually passing by the public library, a chance of passing at the public library, a chance of passing in passing, the carriage spoken in passing, the "car-marks" by one can pick out a son of the old Terra Novian into a Newfoundlander. In fact the process is never completed, but the young generation born in this country grow up with a new America, and are eager to defend the newspaper Room of the Boston Public Library, (where really all the world's papers are kept) is a good place to pick out a Newfoundlander face on any day.

There is sure to be one; very likely half a dozen. Can you guess the magnet is that draws them? None other than the good old Telegram whose honest, reliable news is discovered, (generally in a battered condition) hanging from the racks. No paper in that vast room on file here is more eagerly read or more thoroughly tattered. February 19th of last year I was in the room near the Telegram. The paper hung there, it was Jan. 23. I was surprised that no had taken it from its resting place for at least twenty minutes. Why there were no competitors among those present. But I was mistaken. Just then the came hurrying along with a bundle of papers; among them a Telegram dated Feb. 9th. No sooner had it been in place than at least half a dozen dashed for the prize! This was some other misadventure of mine which the Telegram required.

In the above mentioned room hanging the "Pink" sheet, I was called by a sweet voice, pitched in a key, "Would you be so kind as to give me the date of the paper?" "Of course," I replied. "I was greatly surprised, not knowing a piece of news in the entire city, (at the time) it's easy for an ex-territorial to things moving once he is started. Well, she belonged to the Grace, was handsome, etc., looked pretty good, so I saw her she lived in a very nice rooming house in the Back Bay district of Boston. We talked at the door for a while. I thinking, "well, here's a chance to make a hit!" Just then a six-foot chap stroled nonchalantly up the stairs, pushed by me with a brusque "Get out of here!" and carried on into the "Pink" sheet. "Oh, don't mind him, he's my steady," "Oh!" I says I backing down the steps, "Oh!" I snaked, softly down the stairs humming "The Yanks are coming."

After or later, amongst so many Novians, one must come upon somebody one knows; several times I had this experience, sometimes in person, sometimes otherwise. If you happen to meet a chap from Boston, who has not been any one the home land for many moons, he is liable to explode at you a distance of twelve or fifteen feet. He does not adapt his language to the immediate surroundings; and the intonation of hearing a Bonavista dialect pitched in a tone rivaling that of Senator himself, as the owner of the hand in the midst of a crowded street is an experience which, however heartless, one can never encounter too frequently. This brings to my mind an incident which I had during the summer season that is past. I shall relate it to you; if you can endure this use of the personal pronoun. This little episode came very suddenly and disastrously for me. I met the chap who was the instigator of the case of the old friend. It was in the middle of a small scale. It was a moving-picture theatre at Central Square, Cambridge. Probably there were a score or more of Terra Novians present, but I was not of their presence, being "on my feet."

The "News film" was showing a scene from the march "Over the Top" which was in 1914. The great noise in my rear. On turning I beheld the face of an old friend. He was of the X of B. Co. It was a delightful surprise, for my last remembrance of him was that he had met with a nasty fall in drinking a large quantity of "gin" from a petrol tin, under the impression that the tin contained "black boards" leading towards the "back boards" of blessed memory. The night was dark, so I doubt if he was aware of the fact. The next morning he was sent to hospital, a thoroughly disoriented, and well lubricated. And how he turns up again in the U.S.A. The astonishment of the reader will learn.

"Hello X. old chap, how are you!" rather louder than I intended. He looked at me silently for half a second, and fifty other people also looked; I knew what was coming, and I trembled. "Holy sufferin' (asterisks)!" he howled, jumping up and grabbing me by the shoulders. "How is the name of so and so, and so and so, are you?" Well sir, times a time. The theatre police came hurrying from all directions, the female screamed, the boys giggled, the men howled with laughter. Both of us were grabbed by half a dozen husky guards and given the "bums rush" to the door. It took much persuading, and more of my weekly pay envelope to convince the authorities that we were fit to be at large. We escaped, and walked silently down the street for about five minutes. Finally X. burst into a loud "Ha! Ha! Ha!" "Well if that don't beat—!" I heaved, and I joined the shout too. We went our way and I, sir, just as more. If we meet again, may it be on some open space, say, by Quill's Lake-side! In the past, Canadians and Newfoundlanders have not enjoyed a great deal of influence upon political affairs in this state, although they form a very considerable number of the population. There are signs however of a great change in this direction in the near future, and citizens of Canadian extraction may be depended upon to take an ever-increasing part in public affairs in the near future. Already many papers show a marked deference to their opinions, and realization of any interest in their freedom, I shall be pleased to hear from our friends abroad.—Editor.

A white satin gown is strikingly trimmed with jet. Stitching in heavy colored thread is seen on blouses. The bell sleeve is shibboleth and laced up at the side. There is a decided tendency toward the fuller skirt. Core-colored lingerie makes a successful appearance. A coat frock of navy blue is trimmed in cherry color. Coat frock models feature long pointed apron draperies. Sandal shoes and strap slippers continue to be favorites.

Bell Island Knights Celebrate Columbus Day.

Conception Council K. of C. Hold a Joyable Banquet.

Columbus Day was fittingly celebrated by the members of Conception Council, No. 1280, Knights of Columbus, Bell Island, when an enjoyable reunion of the members and their lady friends was held. The reunion consisted of (1) impromptu musicals, (2) card tournament, (3) supper, (4) dancing which lasted till the early morn. The guests were received by the Grand Knight, Mr. J. M. Greene and the Deputy Grand Knight, Mr. D. J. Jackman. The musicale consisted of several selections by the B.I.S. orchestra, who went to Bell Island especially for the occasion, while numbers were given by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Murphy, Rev. Fr. E. J. Rawlins, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Jackman, Miss Minnie Murphy, and a short address appropriate to the occasion was delivered by the Grand Knight, Mr. W. J. Higgins, M.H.A., of Terra Nova Council, St. John's, who was visiting the Island, was a guest of the evening and delivered an eloquent address. The card tournament was conducted by Chairman J. L. Connors and the House Committee; the lady's prize being won by Mrs. P. Fitzgerald and the gent's prize by Mr. T. Conway. After supper was partaken of, dancing was indulged in to the harmonious sounds of the B.I.S. Orchestra under Mr. Skinner, and a most enjoyable evening was spent, all present voting the Columbus Day Reunion one of the most successful yet held.

"Laugh and grow fat" is an old axiom. We advise the use of a good tonic. "BRICK'S TASTELESS" is a wonderful tonic and will certainly improve your health. The selection of a tonic is a matter of great importance, as your health depends upon it. To fight disease successfully during the changeable autumn months the system should receive a tonic up. The facts we state about Brick's Tasteless silence all criticism. Weigh yourself the day you commence to take Brick's Tasteless, then weigh yourself two (2) weeks later and note the increase.
