BRITISH TARIFF REFORM REPORT ON RECIPROCITY

Commission Announces Results of its Investigations Regarding Canadian-United States Agreement--Effect on Canadian Lumber Trade.

Ottawa, March 18.—The report of the Tariff Commission of the Tariff Reform Party of Great Britain on the probable effect of reciprocity on the British market has been received in Ottawa. The report goes into details and a number of opinions of tariff reformers are quoted.

Mr. I. Hamilton Bean, M. P., director of Pries & Pierce, Limited, London, and Pries Brothers & Company, Limited, Quebec, makes the statement that the effect upon the Canadian lumber trade with Great Britain by reciprocity must be considerable. The striking fact is that according to many authorities the available supply of timber does not exceed twenty years' life at the present rate of consumption. While he believes this an extreme view, Mr. Bean thinks it explains the fire lumber item in the new agreement. The opening up of the United States market will mean a considerable appreciation of standing properties throughout the Dominion.

As to the effect on the British market, Mr. Bean points out that fifteen or twenty years ago 33 to 35 per cent of the British imports of timber came from Canada. At present this has fallen to 22 per cent, mainly due to increased supplies from Russia and the Baltic. 'Anticipate,' he continues, 'that with the agreement in force the decline in the proportionate British use of Canadian timber will be greatly accelerated, and it seems inevitable that British piece-meal go up.'

Mr. Bean adds that the export on food products and hay to the United States will restrict the supplies of these articles for local consumption, and therefore, raise the price.

In that event the cost of getting out the lumber will be increased, and to some extent may counteract the advantage of increased prices.

The English member thinks that the provincial governments will not relax their pulp regulations, but having regard to the limit of supply in the United States, he thinks the day near when the duty on news print will have to be removed, and Canadian mills will furnish the supply.

For the Coronation Contingent

(Outlook.)

The final selection of the three men from the 69th regiment to go on the Coronation Contingent was made at Middleton on Saturday.

We understand that the officers of each regiment were allowed to select three men for the Canadian contingent. The officers of the 69th regiment appointed Col. McNeil, Major Ritney and Major Purdy to make the selection.

On Saturday the committee met at the Armoury in Middleton. But five of the captains presented candidates for the contingent. From these the following were selected:

Sergt. Geo. Messenger, Wilmet;
Sergt. Gesner, Belleisle and Sergt. Jos. Longley, Bear River.

Sergt. Guy Bent, of Paradise, was selected as spare man.

DIGBY CASE FOR RAILWAY COMMISSION

Ottawa, March 16.—One Maritime Province case is listed for hearing before the Railway Commission at a sitting here on Tuesday next, March 21st.

The case is the complaint of D. and O. Sproule, of Digby, N.S., alleging excessive charges made by the Dominion Atlantic Railway between Digby, N.S., and St. John, N.B. on fish.

Wheat Growing in Annapolis County

To the Editor Monitor-Sentinel:—

Another year proves more fully the adaptability of soil and climate of this County to wheat growing. The amount harvested in the season of 1910 certainly shows a very remunerative crop.

Land that would scarcely cut 500 pounds of hay per acre, ploughed, and with a very small dressing of fertilizer, produced good crops, about 30 bushels per acre being the average. One man in the Clarence district reports 40 bushels from one acre.

In the same district from Capt. Morris' to M. C. Marshall's, a distance of about five miles, there was harvested about 700 bushels of good, clean grain, besides quite a lot with mixed grain.

At Williamston the writer was told they grew about 300 bushels almost within a gun shot.

Your correspondent called on a friend at Hampton. All around the house was scarcely more than a ledge of rock. He took me down half a mile in the bushes to a little cultivated spot, in one corner of which was a plot of wheat which yielded 15 bushels.

A SUCCESS EVERYWHERE

To my mind the three following points are most essential:

- 1st. Select good clean seed, full of vitality and of a good variety.
- 2nd. Plant on new land.
- 3rd. Do not use stable manure as a fertilizer, where wheat straw has been used as bedding.

The principal variety grown in this section was White Eye. One year 1909 the writer bought some imported seed of White Russian, which failed to grow. On being heated, some few kernels grew, and produced a long open head, but the tips did not fill.

THE NEXT STEP

Will there be as much wheat grown this season? No doubt twice as much will be grown.

This question faces every farmer, where shall we get it ground? So far as I could learn after considerable correspondence, there is not a roller mill or Hungarian process in the province. As for stone mills, I think we have the best in the Province at Wilmet. Those who ought to know say that grinding with stones beats the flour and turns it dark. Then the capacity is insufficient.

Should not some of our business men take this matter up and by getting a bonus or help in some form from the government, build a good flour mill? It appears to your humble servant the time is not far distant when we can raise wheat for export at remunerative prices.

THREE-MASTER ASHORE IN FUNDY

One of the Crew Drowned and Captain Rogers and Crew of Five Were Saved.

Digby, March 17.—In one of the worst storms of the season, the American three-masted schooner, Edwin Breen, commanded by Captain Samuel H. Rogers, of Rockland, went ashore at twelve o'clock last night near Flems Cove, on the Bay of Fundy side of Long Island. The cook was washed overboard and drowned just before the vessel struck, but the body has since washed ashore. Captain Rogers and his crew of five saved their lives with the greatest difficulty. In their wet and frozen clothes they tramped for some time through dense woods, reaching the house of Leslie Powell, Central Grove, where they were tenderly cared for until daylight, when they returned to the scene of the disaster. The drowned man is Ambrose Annis, fifty-five years of age, of Rockland, Maine. He leaves a widow, but no family.

Mrs. P. Tagne, of Rad-Hill, Colo., has been appointed county judge of Eagle County, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of her husband, Judge Tagne, who held the office for 30 years; during the past four or five years Mrs. Tagne did the greater part of the work of the office. Although there were four applicants, all leading Republican attorneys, the office was tendered to Mrs. Tagne.

SYDNEY MAN VICTIM OF STRANGE ACCIDENT

Guy Pierce Throws Cartridge in Furnace Along With Sweepings and Receives Shot in Leg.

Sydney, N.S., March 13.—Guy Pierce employed in Moore's hardware store here, threw a shovelful of paper and other floor sweepings into the furnace this morning. There was a 12-gauge buckshot cartridge among the sweepings and the whole charge of shot poured through the furnace door, filling the young man's legs with shot from ankle to hip. Surgeons are now extracting the shot.

LOBSTERS UP TO FORTY-FIVE CENTS.

Portland, Me., March 16.—Live lobsters are quoted at 45 cents a pound at wholesale. This is the highest known in the market for years and probably is a record. The bad weather in Maine and Nova Scotia is the principal cause for the shortage.

Cancer Cure will be Found

Tuberculosis Also Will Vanish From Earth, Says Dr. Maurice H. Richardson in Harvard Medical School Lecture.

Dr. Maurice H. Richardson was the speaker Sunday at the Harvard Medical School, says the Boston Transcript. His subject was "What the layman should know of early symptoms of surgical diseases." Cancer and tuberculosis were referred to. "That we are on the verge of discovering a cure for cancer without the knife," said the doctor, "I fully believe. No one will welcome that blessed day more eagerly than the surgeon. So, too, tuberculosis will vanish from the earth. No greater cause of the good of humanity can be found than that of preventive medicine and reparative surgery; and to those men who are working in laboratories, with little more remuneration than the glory of their discovery, and those men like Rockefeller and Carnegie, who are making this work possible, will be giving to the world a benefit that will return a thousand fold, yes, a millionfold, on their devotion and their investments."

"In some of these 'mechanical' diseases, notably cancer of the stomach, the commonest form of cancer, not one case in fifty comes to the surgeon in time for even an attempt at radical cure. The reason is that the organs thus affected are the seat of so many common and comparatively harmless symptoms that the patient with cancer thinks his complaint also harmless.

"Perhaps the most important mechanical diseases that escape early detection are situated in the stomach. Of these, cancer is the most important, because the most frequent, as well as because its signs are almost always attributed to simple dyspepsia.

"The symptoms of most mechanical diseases are pain, interferences with function, and usually, in cases of cancer, loss of weight. Loss of weight is due primarily to the imperfect physiological work of the organ affected, and, secondarily, to the effect upon the nutrition due to the disease itself, if cancer.

"All abnormal feelings are significant, especially if they contain blood and if there is loss of weight. All persistent symptoms that to the patient seem more than ordinary are significant. All such should be investigated. Happily, most of them will prove ephemeral and of no account."

Diamond Wedding at Kentville

An event of more than local interest was observed on the 17th inst in Kentville, when the sixtieth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Masters was celebrated. Ten years ago Mr. and Mrs. Masters celebrated their golden wedding, an event which created a great deal of interest, on account of its rarity, and enjoyable memories will be remembered by those present. But to celebrate the sixtieth wedding anniversary is an event almost unknown, even in this country, where climatic conditions are so conducive to longevity. Mr. Masters is eighty-seven years of age the oldest man now living in Kentville. He has passed a busy and active life and those of the older generation will remember him as man of great activity and always interested in the welfare of Kentville. Mrs. Masters has always been identified with every good and worthy cause, particularly in temperance and church work. They have lived long and useful lives, respected by all. The occasion was observed in a quiet manner in keeping with their advanced years.—Exchange.

JAPANESE AND CHINESE HOSTILITIES.

St. Petersburg, March 19.—China has not yet replied to the last Russian note which amounted to an ultimatum insisting upon a closer adherence to the provisions of the treaty of 1881. A despatch to the Novoe Vremya from Mukden says that an attempt by the Chinese police to enter the quarantine lines has led to serious conflicts between the police and the Japanese guards at Fushun. One Japanese and one Chinaman were killed, and many were wounded on both sides.

Pioneer Advertiser Completes Half Century

The name of John Wanamaker is indicative of big things, big ideas, big enterprises. At a very beginning of his business career he showed the high qualities of mind and heart which have made his business what it is today.

The first day's receipts of the little store which he opened in Philadelphia fifty years ago were $24.57. He "kept the sixty-seven cents for making change next day" and immediately spent the $24 for newspaper advertising.

That investment took courage, a bigger amount of courage than the expenditure of ten thousand times the amount would cost him now. It meant too, a big confidence in his goods and a big knowledge of human nature.

This year Mr. Wanamaker completes a full half-century business life, his associates have celebrated the occasion by publishing a volume called The Golden Book of the John Wanamaker Stores.

It is interesting reading this golden jubilee book. It is the story of a bigy which grew into a giant because it had a giant's heart. Although a tale of peaceful commerce, it is a record of exciting battles fought and won for a principle. It is the history of a great revolution in business methods; of interest to, and with an influence on every person who either buys or sells anything in the civilized world today.

John Wanamaker was the abolitionist of a principle of buying and selling so old that the ancient Romans coined the phrase "Caveat Emptor" (let the buyer beware) to express it. Until his little store in Philadelphia advertised its new policy of a square deal to its customers, every merchant looked upon a buyer as his legitimate prey. To get as much as one could and give as little in return for it as possible was considered the height of business acumen.

John Wanamaker was the apostle of fair play in business; from the beginning of his career he preached and practiced the doctrine that a bargain was not a bargain unless both parties to it benefited by the transaction.

A fixed price, exchange of goods or refund of money, courtesy with no obligation to buy, rigid investigation of manufacturers' statements and absolutely no misrepresentation of goods are ordinary business virtues expected now in any first-class store—because John Wanamaker fought and won a battle for each principle involved.

FIGHTING AT CLOSE RANGE IN MEXICO.

Presidio, Texas, March 19.—Eleven soldiers and two insurgents were killed today in the siege of Ojinaga. With the river ford between Presidio and the besieged city, and the town surrounded, bottling up the main body of federal troops, the rebel forces are centering their attention on two adobe huts on the Canada ranch on the outskirts of Ojinaga, where forty soldiers are virtually held prisoners, and to the guard house near the river crossing held by the federals. For twenty-four hours firing at close range has been almost continuous. Early today the detachment at the Canada ranch made a rush from the adobe shelters. They were met by a withering fire and were forced to return to the huts after nine had been killed.

Town Council Authorize Street Committee to Purchase Stone-Crusher and Commence Work of Permanent Street Improvement at an Early Date.

A special meeting of the Town Council of Bridgetown was held on Wednesday evening in the Clerk's office with Mayor Harlow in the chair and Councilors present as follows: E. A. Craig, W. H. Burns, C. B. Tupper, S. F. Pratt, A. L. Anderson and A. B. McKenzie.

The meeting was especially called by the Mayor to take action upon the matter of road construction. After full discussion by the members present it was resolved that the sum of $4000 voted by the rate payers in 1909 and authorized by chapter 67 of the act of N. S. 1909 be spent the present season on the permanent repairs of the streets, the details of construction to be left with the street committee, the Council recommending that the work be done with crushed stone as advised by Mr. Bishop, superintendent of the streets of Dartmouth, who addressed the rate payers on the subject when the vote was taken. The committee was authorized by the council to purchase a stone crusher, with the necessary appliances, and ordered to commence work as soon as weather shall permit.

The Clerk was instructed to communicate with the McLoughlin Mfg. Co. of Boston regarding the purchase of crusher, and the sending of a man to inspect the stone crusher offered by the company.

The next matter of importance before the council was the appointment of a policeman to succeed James Goldsmith whose resignation is accepted to take effect the 1st day of April. The police committee reported that they had received several applications for the position and having carefully examined the qualifications of the several applicants they would recommend William Connell. Mr. Connell was thereupon appointed policeman, collector of taxes, superintendent of streets and of water works at a salary of $430; also janitor of the schools at a salary of $120.00 making in all the sum of $550.00 per year. Mr. Connell was requested to provide a bond in the sum of $1000 for the faithful performance of his duties.

A petition was presented to the council signed by thirty-seven residents of the town praying that Mr. Moses of the firm of Moses and Young be not permitted to erect and carry on a slaughter house on property owned by him and situated at the eastern end of Granville street, the matter of the granting of the permit being then before the council for consideration.

The council after closing the business of the evening, including the passing of the bill of C. F. DeWitt for $14.63 for service of snow plough, and of Joseph I. Foster $13.00 on poor account, resolved itself into a meeting of the Board of Health and, acting upon the request of the petitioners, after due consideration dismissed the application of Mr. Moses.

C. P. R. and Train Ferriage

The C. P. R. had probably given careful consideration to the problem of train ferriage before it purchased the Dominion Atlantic Railway. There appear to be no difficulties connected with ferrying a train from St. John to Digby which the resources and enterprise of the great Canadian corporation could not satisfactorily solve.

European capitalists are now contemplating a line from Europe to South America involving the crossing of the Straits of Gibraltar by ferry. The Poro Marquerite Railway successfully operates a car ferry across Lake Michigan, and the General Manager of that road is quoted as having said that he would undertake to send one of his ferries, loaded with cars on a voyage around the world.—Chronicle

Taxation of Land Values
 (Ottawa Citizen)
 The Saskatchewan legislature is now considering a motion introduced by Mr. J. A. Sheppard, of Moose Jaw county, which has for its object the taxation of unencultivated arable land held by speculators.
 The position of the Canadian province in the west is unique in view of the contemplated effect of the reciprocity agreement. Land is already going up and, in Premier Scott's opinion, the value of agricultural land in the province will soon equal that of Iowa, the Dakotas and other states where values are now quoted at considerably over $100 per acre. The great danger in Saskatchewan is that land suitable for agricultural purposes will fall into the hands of foreign holding companies and that intending settlers will find the prices so high that, naturally, they will seek other localities. In and about the city of Moose Jaw at present values are quoted at a high figure. Mr. Sheppard's bill is one that evidently has good grounds for introduction.
 It is hard to convince city dwellers that the price of agricultural lands is any concern more than that of the farmer. But a moment's thought will reveal that the financial condition of the agriculturist is an all important factor in the matter of food prices. The farmer has in many cases to struggle along under a heavy mortgage and this onerous debt directly influences his income. If every agriculturist were owner of his land, food prices would drop. Conversely, if farm land prices are high the interest has to be paid and the consequent result is the last analysis be taxed for this purpose. Starting the farmer free from financial handicap is one of the best methods whereby a young and growing province may ensure moderate food prices in larger centers. Saskatchewan is growing at an astonishing rate and small settlements of from fifteen hundred to two thousand years ago are now flourishing and ambitious cities of from fifteen to twenty thousand population are being started. To this, as much as to Canada's superior soil and advantages of the influx of American settlers is due. The lesson is so clear that it will indeed be strange if the wide awake people in the three great western provinces do not profit by it.
 The Shafner bill is an attempt to conserve for the community the benefits of a vast agricultural district. It is a step in the right direction but it should not end there. The taxation of land values, of values created by the community solely, is the next and final step in the march towards ideal economic conditions.

Magic Pictures
 (By Ida Kenniston, in the Youth's Companion)
 It is hard for a healthy, wide-awake eight-year-old boy to be tied to a chair or a couch with a broken leg. Six whole weeks of fun, of glorious coasting, skating, snowballing, taken right out of the boy's calendar. So perhaps it is no wonder that Glen got heartily tired of it all.
 "I'm tired of looking at pictures," he said. "They don't do anything. There's one of the boys just going to throw a snowball, but he never throws it. And the man is driving a horse that looks as if it was going whiz, but it doesn't get anywhere."
 Glen spoke in a discontented tone, as if the boy and the horse in the picture might have done better if they had wished.
 "So you want some pictures that will move do you, Glen?" said Aunt Fannie. "Well, perhaps we will have some."
 "Can we, aunty? What do you mean?" Glen looked a bit more cheerful. Aunt Fannie was often thinking of nice things to do. "Do you mean truly pictures, aunty?"
 "Truly pictures that truly move," said aunty, laughing. "I will go and get the picture-book ready and after dinner we shall see it."
 Next to the sitting room was a small room with only one window. Aunt Dennis went up in the attic and came back with a worn old bed comforter—thick and heavy. In this she cut a small round hole. Then she went into the little room and arranged the comforter over the window, fastened it securely at the top of the window-frame. Of course it shut out the light and made the room very dark. When the door was closed, the only light in the room came through the small hole cut in the lower part of the comforter. Then Aunt Fannie borrowed the French reading-glass that had been one of grandpa's Christmas presents. She fastened it to the comforter so that the glass covered the round hole. Then she put a stiff white card—it was the back of the biggest calendar she could find—on a small table in front of the window. The picture was to appear in the small hole cut in the lower part of the comforter. When father carried Glen to a chair and placed him close to the little table by leaning over a bit he could see the big white card that faced the hole at the window. He gave a gasp of surprise. On the card was a brilliant picture in colors. It was a small picture of the front yard and of the street in front of the house. And even as Glen looked the picture moved! The wind swayed the slender branches of the trees; a horse and sleigh came in sight at one side of the picture, and moved across the streak of road to the other side. Then came two small boys running. It was really wonderful. Glen gave a great sigh of satisfaction and looked up at aunty. "Oh, it's—it's splendid!" One funny thing, however, was that the picture was upside down.

 By and by father said, "That is the way Aunt Fanny and I used to make pictures long ago, but we had no reading-glass; we had to use one glass of grandma's spectacles."
 That afternoon he brought home a square of ground glass, which he put in place of the stiff card, and then laid a small looking-glass in front of it, that is on the side nearest Glen. Then Glen found that the pictures came in the bright colors on the white ground glass, shone through and he could see it plainly in the looking-glass, and right side now, so that he could watch it more comfortably.
 It was great fun. Horses trotted by, and soon the school children were passing on their way to school. Two boys even stopped right in front of the picture to throw a snowball, and Glen really saw the boy throw a ball in the picture as he had wished. Of course he could have seen the same thing if he had looked out of the windows, but it was more fun to see them all in the small picture, so very tiny, and yet moving about as if it were a magic picture. Glen enjoyed it every day, until at last the broken leg was good as new, and he could go out and throw snowballs with the boys.

MEN AND WOMEN TEACHERS SHOULD BE PAID EQUALLY.
 The editor of the New York American lately states that it is perfectly ridiculous that men should receive higher wages than women in the teaching profession. He states that it is no more fair to pay a man more than a woman than it is to decide "that dark haired people should be paid more than blondes. Experience has shown that in the lower grades particularly women are better teachers than men. They have greater patience and more sympathy with the little ones. How absurd it is then, to make the remuneration of the better teachers less than that of those who do not accomplish so much." In regard to women having the same pay for the same work, the editor says that the reason that they have not always had it is due to the tyranny of an outgrown idea that there is something charitable in employing of any kind a woman and the belief that she ought to be correspondingly grateful at being allowed to earn any sort of a living.

M. K. PIPER

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 22, 1911.

A communication from one of our progressive agriculturists is published on the first page of this issue, the subject being one of timely interest to Annapolis County farmers. There is already sufficient evidence that this valley is well adapted to the raising of grain and there is a growing conviction that the time is ripe for the developments of this line of agricultural industry.

Our correspondent, looking ahead to future developments, makes a pertinent suggestion in regard to the need of a flour mill. Now here is an opportunity for local capitalists. Which of our enterprising communities will be the first to respond? Why could not Bridgetown, well known as the most enterprising town in the valley in the matter of industries, act upon this suggestion? Being centrally located it is admirably adapted for the venture.

Possibly one of the existing industries having the power and accommodations might add the necessary equipment and take the business up as a side line until such time as the business developed to larger proportions. Here is a problem worth the consideration of our honorable Board of Trade.

In this connection we are reminded of the remarks of a contemporary in a late issue which says:

"The trouble here is that if the apostle Paul came before most of our citizens and gave his sacred word backed by all the expert testimony possible that an industry would succeed if started here, he could not raise twenty dollars, that is if he were a native. An outsider probably could."

"The people must help themselves if they want to succeed. So long as all the ready cash saved up goes to Mexico, San Paulo, Rio, Trinidad and other out of the way places, instead of being put to work right here under the owner's eye, just so long will this town remain dead, and the young men will leave."

May this never be said of Bridgetown.

The Monitor-Sentinel has frequently suggested the advisability of our merchants holding a "Merchants' Day," as an inducement to the county trade. The plan has been tried in other towns with increasing success. The following excerpt contains some suggestions which may be of practical interest to our merchants.

"Fabrics, Fancy Goods and Notions," says: "An agreement was reached in a western town (presumably through the influence of the local newspaper) between all the merchants whereby they offered special sales on certain days each merchant selecting some special line of goods upon which he made a lower price than usual. Thus one dry goods house would sell gloves at a special price, while another would offer bargains in dress goods. One hardware merchant would reduce the price on skates. Every line of business was represented, and care was taken that no conflicts occurred. Prizes were then offered to the farmer bringing in the best load of grain, the finest lot of hogs or cattle coming the longest distance, etc., and the bargain day was extensively advertised in the surrounding country, the names of the merchants and their special sales being in all cases stated. The farmers responded in a most gratifying manner, and the merchants were well pleased with the plan. The idea has already been carried out in several cities."

The desirability of patronizing one Company in preference to another is justifiable and wise, when clearly demonstrated that it is in the first rank respect those features in which you as a policy-holder are materially interested, viz—

COUNTY HOSPITAL RECREATION HALL FUND.

Editor Monitor-Sentinel—

Subjoined I give the balance sheet of the Masquerade Carnival held Monday, 6th inst together with subscriptions to hand since my last acknowledgment.

On behalf of our Committee I desire to thank those who so kindly assisted either by the donation of prizes or patronage. Not that we should like, on my own account, to point out to the public what, from conversations I have had with various people, seems to be lost sight of, viz, that raising money for philanthropic purposes by public entertainments is by no means all gain.

That what I have in mind may be precisely seen contrast the items of the following. Three public entertainments have been held and this is the lump balance sheet—

Gross receipts	$232.27
Expenses	145.53
Net benefit to Hall	$86.75

I wonder how many realized when they were patronizing these entertainments, (a large proportion solely because of the object) that not half of what they were contributing would go into the Treasury for the cause we have in hand? Then, if we add to this the cost of prizes and dresses, none of which appears in the above lump balance sheet, being private expenditure, one does wonder whether it would not be possible to induce those who contribute on account of the object and, therefore, not really desiring anything in return, (and this, I believe, is a large proportion) to do so directly, and so let the whole go into our treasury. Some people need entertaining to make them seemingly generous, but not all, and I should like to appeal to this latter class to think well over what I have here written. Needless to say we would gladly receive and acknowledge all sums, whether large or small.

With regard to the Fund generally, we are almost at the end of our subscription list, and yet there is much to be done before the hall can be paid. In the Recreation Hall we have a building of which this community may be proud, a part from its object thanks to the unremitting work and attention of the Superintendents of the respective Institutions and their more than willing assistance "True Economy" has been the watchword all through and much help has been received in this direction, but furnishing and decorating have to come in as well as actual building. We are, therefore, still before the public as a needy concern and trust they will assist us again and again (preferably directly) so they may be able with contributions large or small.

Truly yours,
Secy-Treas.

POLITICAL PARTIES

HONOR WOMEN.

The municipal elections in Sweden took place January 11th. Thirty-five women have been elected town councillors, eighteen by Liberals, nine by the Conservatives, three by the Socialists, and several on independent tickets. One had the joint nomination of both Liberals and Conservatives. Most of the women elected are capable and popular school teachers.

Fruit Industry of Nova Scotia

Another feature of great importance is more careful spraying. Not that we have more difficult problems to deal with than other countries, on the contrary, in the Annapolis Valley we have only one brood of codling moth, which is quite easily controlled by spraying at the right time. In other fruit sections west of Toronto, there are several broods. A neglected apple tree will produce a times more wormy fruit in Ontario, or New York States than south. Not so in Nova Scotia. When we come to fungus diseases we are up against something that apparently Nova Scotia has her full share of. Still L. Casser of the Ontario Agricultural College, in a recent bulletin just published, says we can control at least 75 per cent of the spot by proper spraying. The codling moth causes an annual loss of $2,000,000, in Ontario.

Cornell has spent thousands of dollars this year and proven that greater things than preventing black spot can be done by spraying at the right time. In an experiment carried on in Wayne county, New York, under the direction of Cornell, last year, and while attending a fruit growers meeting there, 800 visitors were shown where a row of trees properly sprayed had 16 times more fruit than the adjoining row, where just one spraying was omitted.

If we bring these conditions home to the valley, and double as we can, during the wet seasons it would mean that an orchard capable of producing 1000 bbls. would only have about 40 or 50,000 acres of orchard in the Annapolis Valley capable of producing at a very moderate estimate, a million bbls. only giving $100,000.

There are orchards not many miles from here, that have, previous years, produced five to six hundred bbls. of apples, that last year did not produce sufficient for home use. In searching for the cause of this shortage it might be this well spent to look towards the Cornell experiment and perhaps by that we can account for the Kings, dropping so unexpectedly, last spring, and also the Greenings doing the same thing, a few years ago. Both seasons were similarly wet.

SWIMMING IN SCHOOLS.

Will Form a Part of the Regular Curriculum.

Chicago, March 9—Swimming is to be taught in the Chicago public schools as a part of the regular curriculum. Plans were approved yesterday by the Board of Education for the new Nicholas Senn school building, which is to occupy the block at Southport and Francis avenues and Ferry street, and it is here that the first pool will be constructed. Pupils at this school are to be given swimming lessons by an expert.

The discussions on woman suffrage have spread to Vienna and petitions are being presented to Parliament, to become members of the political unions. Among such petitions is one represented by the Austrian Women's Association, and bearing many thousand signatures. The general opinion in Parliamentary circles is that the petitions will be favorably considered.

Selling to our Neighbors

(Montreal Witness.)

The reasoning of some of the ones on the reciprocity question shows with what wisdom the world of today is liable to be governed. Here is one: "If you or Laurier can show how we would have a larger market in a country exporting more than we raise, I would be inclined to say 'yes—otherwise the question is absurd.'" With this reasoning the reduction of the cost of things to our own people is beneath consideration. As for the United States market for our products, if there is none, why all this panic about our being whittled by north and south trade into the United States federation? Surely those who have been making this hideous boohoo are afraid of something. If there is not going to be any "New Year's holidays" but let us take the agreement easy. It will be nothing more than an exchange of compliments. Here is another: "Canada's trade should be developed 'Surely the writer does not mean the 'open markets of Europe, Great Britain, India, Australia, South Africa, China and Japan, where there are millions of people wanting what Canada produces, and by 'filling up the Northwest with 'class emigrants, we shall be able 'to keep our shipping and the Canadian Pacific Railway and the 'Grand Trunk Pacific busy all the 'year round, because the more settlers that take to land there will be 'more prairie to move, and the more 'emigrants to go west after making 'money, will want to go home to the 'Old Land to spend Christmas and 'the New Year's holidays. But we 'shall be glad to do a little trade 'with Uncle Sam.'" Now what in the world is there in reciprocity that is going to hinder us dealing with those interesting peoples as freely as we wish? Surely the writer does not mean that we are to be forced to do it more than we wish? How can the agreement reduce the settlement of the prairies, with its necessary result in increasing east and west traffic, as pictured here? If reciprocity causes us to sell south instead of east and west, it will be because we get more money for our products, and more money will bring more settlers, not fewer. Our people have a right to get for the products of their soil all they are worth, and it is misgovernment not to secure them in this freedom. The above writer goes on to discuss "what our sentiments should be towards Uncle Sam's policy in regard to Britain." This we have left out, as, in view of the fact that he is willing to have little trade with Uncle Sam, it is entirely irrelevant. If we are not so busy as to be petitioned by the touch of our neighbor's products or his money, then the only question that remains is the same as that of any shopkeeper, how much can I sell at a profit to myself? We are surely the first nation in the world afraid to sell to its neighbor.

NEARLY 6,000 IMMIGRANTS TO COME THIS WEEK.

The Settlers for Canada Who Arrived Yesterday at Port of Halifax Were 1,000.

The immigrants who landed at the port of Halifax yesterday, numbered 1,000. They came on the steamers British and Campanella from Glasgow and Rotterdam respectively, and are bound west, as also are 4,000 others who will arrive this week. The Canadian will leave 213 this morning for 391, the Victorian 1,470, the Laurentie 500, all from Liverpool, and the Indian 710 from Glasgow, a total for the week of 5,914.—Herald

There have been a number of tramps around lately, and some have applied at houses for food. In the majority of cases it is misplaced charity to feed them and they should be directed to the proper town authorities who, if they are really worthy, will be prompt in giving them necessary aid.

The friends of Mr. Justice Longley will be pleased to learn that his condition is so improved that he will be able to take a carriage drive this week. It is understood he will ask for a six months' leave of absence, and it is anticipated he will then be able to return to his judicial duties in perfect health.—Chronicle 20th inst.

A general breaking up of winter has set in since the middle of last week when snow blizzards on Wednesday and Thursday gave their lusty tokens of farewell. A light snow storm on Saturday was followed by springlike sunshine on Sunday. Since then snow and rain have alternated. The ground is nearly bare and the frost is coming out of the ground rapidly.

Messrs. J. H. Hicks and Sons were more than satisfied with the results of their special "Bed" advertisement which has been running in the Monitor for some few weeks past. They inform us that they were completely sold out of this line and were obliged to re-order to meet the demands for this special sale. The sidebar adv. in this issue is another attractive bargain.

Mrs. George H. Dixon returned on Saturday last from Boston, where she has been for the past fortnight in consequence of the illness of Mr. Dixon, who has recently undergone a severe operation at Eliot Hospital. Their many friends will be glad to learn that the operation was entirely successful and that Mr. Dixon, who is doing as well as could be expected, will probably be able to return home in about a fortnight.

All the other services are well provided for.

The steamer Boston on her trip from Yarmouth to Boston last Wednesday is reported to have encountered the roughest gale she has met in fourteen years. Throw Open the Rivers to All the People

To the Editor of the Chronicle.—Sir—I am particularly interested in the correspondence in your columns concerning the salmon fishing monopoly, and I desire to say that for one, I entirely approve of all that has been said.

That the Crown Lands of this Province should be used for the purpose of making special fishing reserves for special people is something no one ever expected or intended. The law certainly never intended that a few people could gobble up all the Crown Lands along our rivers and keep them in the state primeval in order that the general public should not be able to interfere with their sport.

At a meeting of the Dominion Rifle Association executive it was decided the Canadian Biathlon team should sail on June 23. This means that they will not be there in time for the coronation. The competition which occurs on July 10, on the Biathlon meeting, are only for British regiments, and the first the Canadians could enter are on July 17th. Thus if the Canadians went for the coronation it would mean a month's stay in England.

VARIOUS MERCHANTS.

(A prose poem by Walt Mason) One day a man with a downcast face blew into the village grocer's face. "I have dealt with you many moons," he said; "I've bought your codfish and prunes and bread, and I have always paid when I said I would, and you doubtless know that my credit's good. Now I'm out of work and without a dime, and I'd like to buy a few things on time." And the grocer sold him a lot of truck, and hoped he would soon have better luck. He told his tale to the clothing men; they all remembered that he had paid, and they were pleased when they saw his truck, and now that luck for a time had changed, he found no one of these men estranged. They sold him things in their stately stores, and wished him luck when he left their doors. And then the man of the luckless star dropped in at last at the booze bazaar. He told his tale; he was all in, but wanted credit for beer and gin. His coat was fanned by the barkeep's feet, and he bounced two yards when he hit the street.

Look Out for the Brown-tail Moth

Messrs. Payne, Randolph, and Gilliat, the brown-tail moth inspectors are still working in the vicinity of Bridgetown and we regret to state, find the orchards herabouts badly infested with the pest. In the orchard of Capt. J. W. Salter their search resulted in finding upwards of a hundred nests. Upon two trees in a yard near Charlston's Corner, one hundred and fifty nests were discovered. Some of the ornamental shade trees of the town, were found to be infested and it being impossible to reach the tips of the branches permission was obtained from the town authorities to shoot of the tips of the branches containing the nests, with fire-arms. Our citizens should be thoroughly aroused to the danger from this pest and act promptly before it is too late, as the caterpillar will soon emerge from its web.

BAPTIST CHURCH DEDICATED.

The United Baptists of Canning, dedicated their new church on Sunday, Rev. Dr. Crowell, of Halifax, the last pastor, preached in the forenoon, Rev. J. D. Spidell, of Kentville, in the afternoon, and Principal De Wolfe, of Acadia Seminary, in the evening. Rev. Dr. Manning offered the dedicatory prayer in the morning. Rev. Mr. Beals, of Canard, assisted. The Methodist appointment for this day was cancelled and Rev. Mr. Hockin and many of his people were present. Pastor D. H. McQuarrie, M.A. conducted the services most efficiently. The choir was augmented by Mr. Allen, of Middleton, and local talent.

IMMIGRATION TO CANADA INCREASED 50 PER CENT

London, March 17.—The Canadian immigration officers at the headquarters in London estimate that the immigration to Canada from the United Kingdom so far this year is fifty per cent. more than in the corresponding period of 1910. All the overseas berths on vessels bound to Canada are booked up to the middle of May.

At a meeting of the Dominion Rifle Association executive it was decided the Canadian Biathlon team should sail on June 23. This means that they will not be there in time for the coronation. The competition which occurs on July 10, on the Biathlon meeting, are only for British regiments, and the first the Canadians could enter are on July 17th. ### A Layman on Life Insurance

The public is accustomed to hearing life insurance companies and agents discourse upon the necessity and advantages of protection, and in some instances may undervalue the argument somewhat as coming from an interested source, accordingly we quote below a view of one who is evidently a layman so far as life insurance is concerned, as expressed in a little paper—Character Builder, published by the Madison Heights Methodist Episcopal Church, South of Memphis, Tennessee. This article expresses the views of the editor of that paper and was presumably published without the previous suggestion or knowledge of any one connected with the life insurance business. We print the article just as it is because it has "chunks of common sense" somewhat roughhewn but effective. The third paragraph, for instance, is decidedly picturesque. Some very good points are made in an effective way. The article follows:

"Every man should carry life insurance to the extent of his ability or up to the point that he knows that his loved ones are protected. No sane man will deny his obligations along these lines, and it is therefore very important that all young men should take some life insurance as soon as they reach the producing stage, or, better still, their parents should take it out for them before they reach the producing stage in order to get the benefit of the cheap rates, and to insure that the boy will have a paid up policy while he is yet in the prime of life.

"Yes, we know that it is inconvenient to pay the premiums right now, but we also know that if you find it inconvenient to scrape up the small amount needed for premiums, your loved ones are going to find it impossible to scrape up the amount of the policy when you are dead. Some people don't seem to think a wife or mother or sister or little children will have any trouble whatever to get along when they are left penniless. They even seem to think that the money for their funeral can be scraped from the pockets of some shade tree.

"Some husbands won't carry insurance because they are afraid that their wives will squander it or use it in the support of another husband. Well, perhaps she will, but a woman who has that kind of a husband now, is entitled to another draw and she could not blame her for thinking that she could improve on Number One.

"It ought to be a comforting thought to a man to feel that his loved ones would be objects of charity so soon as he is gone. It is perhaps true that they won't starve but it isn't his fault that such a fate is not in store for them. Some young men say that they have no one dependent on them, perhaps they haven't, and it is no doubt true that those that they should feel interested in know them too well to even think of depending on them. There is no one dependent on them, perhaps they haven't, and it is no doubt true that those that they should feel interested in know them too well to even think of depending on them. There is no one dependent on them, perhaps they haven't, and it is no doubt true that those that they should feel interested in know them too well to even think of depending on them.

DON'T BE A PROMISE BREAKER

Every time you fail to make good an agreement it's a draft against you in the bank of adversity.

The man whose word is as good as his bond finds his word worth more than his hand. Decker's promise to pay has always been worth more than his actual millions.

The promise of a promise-keeper is backed by his real money plus earning power, and the world never forgets it.

Neither real money nor the power to perform goes far toward establishing the credit of a promise breaker. We haven't time to do business with a man who doesn't live up to his obligations. Our terms for him are spot cash. When he hasn't ready money he needs to come around. He's a business outcast, and near kin to a pirate. When he goes broke we say he's got what's coming to him and let it go at that.

That's true in business and true in society. It's true in every other relation in life. You can't succeed without the confidence of your neighbors. The way to secure that confidence is to keep your promises. The way to lose it is to break them.—UNCLE GAV

A Question for Everyone

Every man ought to ask himself at least once a year, "How much am I fooling myself?"

Let him go over his achievements, and see if they compare with what he might have accomplished by quiet, steady industry.

Let him consider the position he holds, and make sure whether or not he has really earned it.

And, above all, if he has talent let him not fool himself into the belief that he is using it, unless he has so employed it that it has brought its actual results.

The idler is likely to delude himself with the belief that he is industrious, because he merely works by fits and starts.

No talent, however great, will amount to anything unless it is developed by hard work. Once in a century a man is born who cannot help being industrious, but only once in a century. The great majority must eat their bread in the sweat of their face, and find little enjoyment in the working.

QUEBEC MAY BECOME THE PORT OF ST. LAWRENCE.

The snowfall in the Province of Quebec has been phenomenal this year. In many places along the line of railroad the banks are higher than the cars and in some cases the telegraph poles are almost buried out of sight. It is with great difficulty that the trucks are kept clear for traffic.

The ice in the River St. Lawrence shows no signs as yet of breaking up. The government steamers Lady Grey and Montcalm make daily trips from Quebec to Cape Rouge, breaking the ice jam so as to facilitate the navigation of spring. So difficult has been the task this year that on many occasions propeller blades have been lost. The opinion is now freely expressed that Quebec will shortly become the real port of the St. Lawrence, as the increased tonnage of the ships that are building for the various companies will prevent them from sailing to Montreal. Even at present the C.P.R. employees do not proceed to Montreal but remain at Quebec.

WHY THE UNITED STATES TROOPS ARE TO INVADE MEXICO.

Washington, March 10—The military campaign in Mexico will be at the instigation of foreign governments, which have demanded protection from the United States for the billions invested in Mexico. It has the sanction of the Diaz government. The revolution is growing in strength in Mexico, with the possibility that ultimately a radical government will be established in Lower California. Lower California commands Magdalena Bay, which the United States would like for a naval station, being a strategic point in the fortification of the Panama canal. Japan's wish to secure Magdalena Bay also furnishes a motive.

AT LAST, A CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

"Fruit-a-lives Cured Me!" Says Mrs. Baxter.

"I was a helpless cripple from Rheumatism for nearly a year. All down the right side, the pain was dreadful and I could not move for the agony. I was treated by two physicians without help. I saw 'Fruit-a-lives' advertised in 'The Telegram' and decided to try them. After I had taken one box, I was much better. When I had taken three boxes, I could use my arm and the pain was almost gone. After taking five boxes, I was entirely well again. The cure of my case by 'Fruit-a-lives' was indeed splendid because all the doctors failed to even relieve me. 'Fruit-a-lives' cured me. MRS. LIZZIE HANTER, 4 HOME PLACE, TORONTO, Dec. 15, '09."

In hundreds of other cases, "Fruit-a-lives" has given exactly the same satisfactory results because "Fruit-a-lives" is the greatest blood purifying medicine in the world. "Fruit-a-lives" is the famous fruit medicine regulates kidneys, liver, bowels and skin, and prevents the accumulation of uric acid, which is the prime cause of Rheumatism.

"Fruit-a-lives" will positively cure every case of Rheumatism, when taken according to directions. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 3c. At all dealers or from Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.

The People Who Do Things

Practically everything that is done in this world is accomplished by people of determination, the men and women who say "I will"—and mean what they say. They are individuals who find a way to perform the things that they undertake—even those that seem most impossible. Give such a person an opportunity and he grabs it with avidity, for he has all the elements of success in his heart. More than all however he has the will to succeed—the desire that is so deeply implanted that nothing save health can kill it. Let obstacles after obstacle arise and defeat follow on the heels of defeat, his courage will never fail him, but with the firm determination to succeed unaided he will fight on until every obstacle has been overcome and victory is attained.

$100,000 TO FAMINE

Canada's Contribution to Starving Chinese Expected to Reach That Sum.

Toronto, March 9—Canada is expected to give $100,000 to the famine relief fund in China, according to a cablegram received yesterday in Toronto telling of the great need.

The following cablegram was received from the Rev. D. McGilivray, chairman of the committee in charge of the distribution of the famine relief fund in China. It tells its own story and makes its own urgent appeal:

'Area of famine much larger than formerly believed. The committee is beset by appeals from missionaries on the spot for help for thousands already. The present estimate is that a million and a half in Anhui and a million in Kiangsu are starving. Food from America is slow. Need cash. Expect Canada to give at least $100,000. To such an appeal there should be an immediate and a liberal response.'

THE SMALL DETAILS OF DRESS.

"It's the little things that count in appearance as in everything else, you know, and I want to say just a few words today on dressing carefully."

"That sounds a good deal like an insult, doesn't it? But, oh, if you would look around and see the hundreds of women with torn collars, and skirt-hems showing, and dangling shoelaces, and unmade-up gloves, you would feel, as I do, that it is a necessary warning. Not for you, of course, but for your next-door neighbor."

There is the woman who seems to think that because she looks all right in front her back doesn't matter, and who, therefore, goes around with a shirt-waist coming out of the top of her belt and a skirt-hem protruding at the bottom, and within recalcitrant safety pin situated somewhere between the two. The fitting of the back of a shirt-waist is an art, and its first principle is to look well to the belt. If it will not hold otherwise, it should be pinned down; and the same is true of the back of the collar. Nothing is uglier than a neck-band that escapes from under a linen collar, while the collar buttons glide gently down the back.

The front of the dress, of course, must not be neglected. A sense of fitness is needed to dress well, or even tolerably, and some idea of neatness as well. The "do-it-with-a-pin" girl will never seem well dressed.

Belts, for instance, should be crossed so that there are no overhangs; ends should be pinned or buckled exactly in the middle. Skirts should be hung straight, so that each gore comes in proper place. Ties should be evenly and tidily pinned. The heavy pin that tears a lace collar is absolutely out of place, and so is the collar after it is torn.

Even the Dutch neck has some thing to answer for in this respect. Today I saw a woman in a pretty low-necked gown on which she had fastened a beautiful lace collar. But unfortunately the collar was pinned only in front, and whenever the wind blew her collar went up in the back, between her neck and the gown. A tiny gold pin in the back would have solved the difficulty.

The fitting of the sleeve is another matter that needs attention. A good deal depends of course on the cut and make of the shirt-waist; but often a really well-fitting sleeve is worn so that it seems out of shape. That is because it is not properly pulled up, or because the "cut" is fastened so as to make it seem "too wide. Placing a cuff so that it will look well is a "strenuous proposition." The safest thing to do is to provide correctly placed buttons and b"tonholes."

All the little accessories should receive their share of looking after. Hats should be pinned on straight, and the ends of hairpins should not project beyond the trimming or go through it where they can show. Veils should be fastened neatly at top and bottom, and not look like meal sacks. Gloves should never be worn with holes in them, and should be clasped, not allowed to hang loose. Shoes, above all, should be well polished and supplied with all the necessary and properly adjusted buttons or laces. It is said that you can tell a well-dressed woman by her gloves and her shoes, and for this reason, if for no other, these should not be neglected.

All mere details? My dictionary says that a detail is a "separately considered particular or portion of anything." Separately considered—that is the point. It is because people notice first the little things that you should be particularly careful of them. It may take a year to find you are a noble-hearted heroine but it takes about ten seconds to know that you have a hole in your veil. Therefore, be warned, and for the sake of the larger things, look to the little ones.

whatever in the report of the cell's death; that it first appeared in an American paper and was later copied in Canadian papers, and that there was nothing whatever in it.

Petticoats made of soft foulard are what must now be worn with the spring tailor suits. Stiff rustling tulle is not soft and crushable enough neither is it as desirable as foulard in other ways, now that the quality of stiffness is no longer required. Everyone knows from experience that foulard wears well, and for petticoats it may be bought at most reasonable prices. The petticoat foulards show little polka or pin dots in white or colors of the dotted material, finished with the plain fabric, is quite the thing. The same color as the dress or costume is chosen, or, if that is not available, a color that harmonizes with it, never one that is a contrast. There are washable foulards, too, for tub dresses.

For service in the many avenues of business life, the shirt-waist, as a thing very similar to it—it is always popular. It is the closest, the most serviceable, the most sensible, and, to many, the most becoming waist. There are two distinct fashions in shirt-waists, one being a return to the strictly tailor-made model of linen, madras or fine lawn, with a stripe or dot in it. The garment is plaited both back and front with a regular man's shirt sleeves and with this is a return to the stock or linen collar. The other shirt-waist is a long-sleeved affair, with a ruffle over the hands and a ruffled front down the center. It is of finest lawn either in plain white or evening gowns. This one is very dainty, like a butterfly or on leaf or flower outlines.

Fichu and bertha of white lace knotted with black velvet, a velvet ribbon and black sleeves frilled with lace are popular and extremely pretty features of the fashions of the moment.

Girls are wearing frocks with simple straight tunics. This one is very dainty. It is made of crepe de chine over a skirt of silk, which is faced with velvet at the lower edge. The blouse has two tucks over the shoulders that are becoming to girlish figures.

These May Manton patterns are cut in sizes for misses of fourteen, sixteen and eighteen years of age. Send 10 cents to this office, giving numbers—blouse 830 and skirt 870—and they will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two-cent stamp for letter postage, which insures more prompt delivery.

BREWERS AND SUFFRAGE
Mrs. Elizabeth N. Barr asserts that the brewers of Missouri have raised a fund of $1,000,000 to defeat the submission of the woman suffrage amendment, asked for by the Kansas P.S.A. Mrs. Barr claims authentic information as to this fund. She further says that she has the names of several of the brewers of Missouri which contributed to it, altogether with the amounts subscribed. Her original manuscript was published in a newspaper man employed as a special correspondent at the capital by one of the largest newspapers in Kansas City.

The Kansas W.C.T.U. has sent in a petition with 8,000 signatures in support of the suffrage amendment.

FASHION FOIBLES.

The Fashionable Decolletage For the Young Girl.
Young girls do not wear a deep decolletage this winter. It is considered snarler and certainly prettier to have the waist carried well up over the bust and then draped a bit higher with a tucker of flesh pink tulle.

A tucked lawn side trim will be held down by folds of black satin over which fall clusters of tiny rosebuds, two or three in a bunch, and arranged like a shower bouquet.

Burnt orange is one of the new shades in gloves intended for street wear with tailored street suits.

Fans of gold and silver gauze are among the dainty accessories for dogs and birds have been realistically reproduced in brilliant for some seasons past.

Irish lace has lost none of its popularity and is shown in lovely patterns and more effective pieces than ever. Especially good are the square yokes effects, either with or without the standing collar of the same material.

Embroidered cotton voiles will be the materials for lingerie dresses of the coming season. Many will be embroidered with white or colored popeline bands when the nesty padded embroidery is not used.

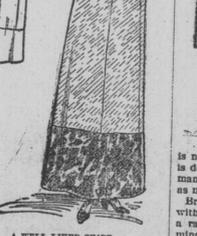

The suits illustrated may be made in several ways. As pictured it is made over a guimpe lining. When made in the yoke and short sleeves style it is a very stunning waist for any occasions.

FASHION PARAGRAPHS.

The Flower Shaped Girls—Black Satin Suits For Spring.
For a white gown to be worn by the young girl comes the corse satin girde with its cut and shaped flower rosette.

The importers are sending in coat suits of black satin. They are made with narrow skirts, box plait down the back and short jacket trimmed with black velvet bands and a separate black velvet band on the skirt. Stocks of black and white are in high fashion made of half satin and half velvet, with the white near the chin. These stocks are well up to blouses in place of the universal lace ones.

This skirt is the smartest and best liked for all materials heavy enough to allow of a tailor finish. In this sense the upper portion is made of serge and the lower portion of silk. Various combinations will suggest themselves.

Auto Caps in Newest Form Are Made of Chenille—Red Fox Popular Fur.

Stripes of chenille in all colors, done up in packages like velvet, may be found. They are intended for those who wish to knit the new chenille auto toques that are beginning to replace the worsted kind.

As winter advances more and more red fox is being worn. While this fur is not becoming to all complexions, it is decidedly becoming to the right woman. It is appearing in hats as well as muffs and stoles.

Broad white satin ribbon, appliqued with large circles of blue velvet, makes a rather smart but conspicuous trimming for a young girl's hat.

For small boys whose knitted outfits may be bought, consisting of a sweater jacket, leggings, a skating cap and a muff hung from a neck ribbon. The suits come in brown, in scarlet, in white and in gray. The knitted muffs also come separately and are in high favor among the little fellows.

Hats are gradually giving way to clusters of little curls, and the change is a relief from the puffs.

Here is a mighty pretty house gown for a young girl. It is finished with the big collar that is a feature of the season's modes and is closed at the left side.

This is certainly a move in the right direction. When our merchants realize that they must go after and not wait for the trade to come to them, that they must fight with the weapons which have been so successful in taking the money from them to the larger stores who have catalogued these items most effectively, giving the people a chance in the quiet of their own homes to compare local prices with Upper Canadian prices, then they will find the money staying at home and will prove the now almost worn-out phrase, "It pays to advertise."

CANADA'S GIFT TO THE TWELVE NATIONS

No doubt now that Canadian Farmers are to be Exposed to the Competition of all the Great Food Exporting Countries of the World.

(From the Canadian Century.)

When it was first made known that the Reciprocity not only gave American farmers free entrance to Canadian markets and extended the same privileges to the United Kingdom and the British colonies, but also opened the door wide to the Argentine Republic, Austria-Hungary, Russia, Spain, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Switzerland, Japan, Bolivia, Columbia and Venezuela, Canadian farmers in general thought there must be some mistake. They could not believe that without getting any concessions whatever from any country except the United States our Government would admit farm products from all those countries into Canada to compete freely with Canadian products. The wording of the Reciprocity Agreement was very plain; there seemed to be no doubt about its meaning and yet it was such an extraordinary arrangement, so unfair to Canadian farmers, and so likely to lead to disputes with the American customs officials that many people believed that the Government would give some explanation showing that the agreement had been wrongly interpreted. However, there is no longer any such hope. Mr. Robert L. Borden questioned Hon. Mr. Fielding on this point and Mr. Fielding admitted that the Reciprocity Agreement meant exactly what it appeared to mean and that Canada would get nothing whatever in return from any of the twelve foreign nations or the British colonies that share with the United States the privilege of sending their farm products freely into the Canadian market.

If the Reciprocity Compact simply provided for free trade in farm products between Canada and the United States there might reasonably be difference of opinion as to whether it would be advantageous to Canadian farmers or not. We think that even such an arrangement would have been a bad bargain for Canadian farmers, because the surplus of farm products in the United States is enormously greater than the surplus of Canadian farm products, because the farming season is earlier and longer in the United States, and because our farmers would always be at the mercy of the tariff legislation of the United States Congress, while they would have no voice in the election of Congress, but still there would be room for argument as to whether our farmers would gain enough by admission of their products to United States markets to compensate them for losses in the home market, but from the farmers' point of view nothing can be said in favor of allowing twelve foreign nations and the food-exporting British colonies to send their farm products freely into Canada without giving our farmers anything to compensate them for this unexpected competition in the Canadian home market.

CHINESE IMMIGRATION TAX.

(Montreal Witness)

The separation of families was ever considered the crowning wrong of slavery in the Southern States and every great source of degradation from which the communities responsible for it are still suffering. Yet the separation of families among the Chinese is virtually what has been done in this way. First, the dating nails are manufactured, with the proper minerals on the heads, indicating the year; for example, '11' meaning the year 1911. Then one of these nails is driven into each new tie as it is laid on the track. Thus in future the maintenance of way experts will be able upon the replacement of a tie to know just how long it has lasted.

The steadily rising price of lumber compels the railways to use wood that has undergone "treatment" to prevent decay. It is expected that the injection of creosote oil into the pores of the wood will double its life.

WILL STIMULATE FARMING.

The Ottawa Journal, Conservative, like the Citizen does not see any danger to Canada in reciprocity with the United States. It expresses the view that the change would be of general benefit. If there should be a higher cost of food to our own people here and there as the result of a larger market for the farmer, two factors would quickly affect the situation. Thus:—

"First, the increased profits of farming will stimulate farming, will cause a greater production of food, and so tend naturally to a return to lower prices. Secondly, the greater profits of farming at first, or later, the increased amount of farming done, must stimulate national prosperity, and result in better profits and higher wages to the mercantile and industrial classes, so that even if food remains more costly, people will have more money to pay for it. The Journal imagines that the first effect of reciprocity will be to increase the price of food in Canada a little here and there; but that very speedily the stimulus given to food production in Canada by the arrangement will result in national advantage which will more than compensate a majority of the people."
