Declares Egyptian Was Brought To England By British Agent Staff Man

Canadian Press. LONDON, Sept. 16.—Prince Ahmed Selfeldine of Egypt, who recently escaped from an insane asylum at Hastings, now is resting in the home of a relative on the Sea of Marmara, near Constantinople.

Should the Prince, who is a brother-in-law of King Fuad of Egypt, be declared sane, a message from Constantinople says, that he will immediately make claim for his fortune of more than $2,000,000, which is being held in trust for him.

INQUIRY URGED The Westminster Gazette declares that an inquiry is needed into the part played by the British government in holding the Prince in an asylum in England for almost a quarter of a century.

With regard to a flour mill at Saint John, Mr. Williams pointed out that the mill cannot afford to ship the product back toward the wheat fields, and said Saint John could not, with the long grain haul, compete for export business, while its local market would be too small, under competition, to enable it to flourish.

J. C. Stephenson, of the Montreal Leather Co. Ltd., was just as strong for Canadian ports, but pointed out that we have no adequate steamship service to South America, whence they import hides.

Mr. Campbell, of the Consumers Cordage Company, said that some of their raw material from the Far East comes by way of Halifax and some via Boston.

Other charges Further, the newspaper says, it is stated that the Prince was brought to England by a member of the staff of the British agent general in Egypt, when Great Britain was cementing her position there, and was anxious to be on the best terms with the Egyptian royal household, against which the Prince made an attack.

Simultaneously with his departure it was declared in authoritative quarters that Premier Poincare and his cabinet were determined to stand or fall upon the result of the Washington negotiations.

NEW HUDSON SEAL IS PRODUCED

C. & E. Everett, Ltd., Make Exceptionally Interesting Window Display.

Beautiful Hudson Seal, so much admired by all ladies, can be seen in its various stages of manufacture in the show windows of Messrs. C. & E. Everett, Ltd., manufacturing furriers, Charlotte street. This company is showing the many processes necessary before the New Brunswick muskrat skin becomes Hudson Seal. The first exhibit shows the skin as received from the trapper. It is then planed or clipped until the fur is about half an inch in length; it then goes through four processes of plucking, during which all the long hairs are taken out. Then comes the dyeing process. The dye is brushed on, leaving the pelt fresh and untouched. To obtain the beautiful shade for which the Everett furs are noted, it is necessary for the skins to be dyed six times. The finished exhibit, showing the skin ready for manufacturing into a coat, is an object of beauty and is coming in for a considerable amount of admiration from those who saw it at the Saint John Exhibition, and again in the Everett window. Messrs. Everett state that the New Brunswick muskrat skin leads all other skins as Hudson seal, and that it always obtains the highest prices at the Lamson fur sales, London, England. The exhibits shown are as prepared by Messrs. A. Hollander & Sons Ltd., of Montreal, and are skins from New Brunswick.

It is well worth the time for every lady to make a point of seeing the Everett window display, and the company will gladly give any information or advice on the selection of fur wearing apparel.

One very promising note in Fall Footwear innovations is the leeway you have in being individual.

Above is suggested a Smardon model in Tan Calf with Apricot bordering, and covered medium Spanish heel, $9.85.

Another will show panel insertions down vamp and quarters of nothing less than Lizard, Fawn Calf or Apricot Kid.

Or it will be decked out in a double shawl tongue—Hazelwood Fawn or National Gray Calf. Medium Cuban heel, $8.75.

THAT ECONOMIC CONFERENCE.

Those who are active in making preparations for the coming national conference of Boards of Trade and other interests, at which the economic problems of Canada will be discussed, are to have a preliminary meeting in Montreal next week.

our armor is our faith, and the tie that binds, more firmly each year, is ever-increasing acquaintance and comradeship through interchange of citizens; and the compact is not of perishable parchment, but of fair and honorable dealing which, God grant, shall continue for all time."

These are worthy sentiments, and it is well to keep them continually before the people of the State in its friendly councils. Friends and admirers of the late President will find much satisfaction in the thought that his last public utterance was devoted so effectively to the cause of peace and friendship.

Conservatives in Quebec attach great importance to the decision of Hon. E. L. Patenaude to enter the federal campaign. Mr. Patenaude took a long time to consider, but he has at last been persuaded that if the water is not fine at least it is not so cold for the Conservatives as the Liberals represent it to be.

As the movement under review is wholly non-political, the work has no partisan bearing upon the political campaign now going on, but as the country's attention is to some degree absorbed by the political activities of Liberals, Conservatives and Progressives, it may be well that the conference will be deferred until after the verdict of the electorate has been recorded.

The economic conference will seek to improve Canada. Its work should be an important contribution to the sense of unity and prosperity as well, and if it is successful its conclusions will necessarily have some effect upon all the parties and upon the policies of the next incoming government.

There are rocks upon which an economic conference might be in danger of splitting, unless there is broad vision among those who participate, and unless tact is employed in preventing the exploitation of such a meeting by selfish interests. At the same time, frankness and courage in examining the problems of the day and proposing measures for their solution will be highly necessary.

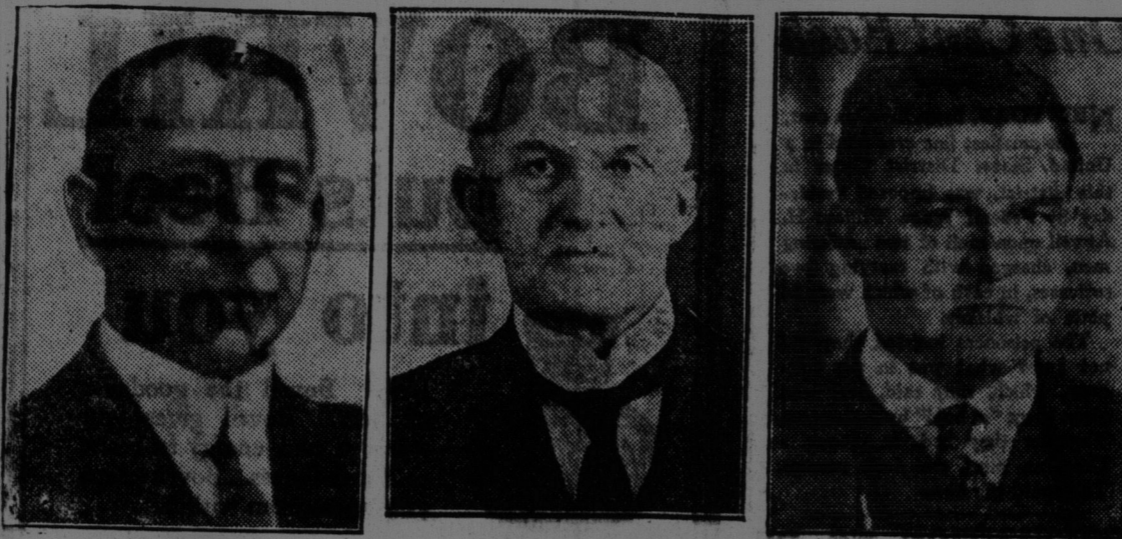

A GOOD-WILL MEMORIAL.

What is called the Harding International Good-Will Memorial, erected in Stanley Park, Vancouver, will be dedicated this week. The monument is the work of Kiwanis International, and its cost has been met by the voluntary subscriptions of nearly 100,000 members of this organization in the United States and Canada.

It will be recalled that on his return from Alaska Mr. Harding visited Vancouver, and there gave expression to striking sentiments of international appreciation and good-will. That was his last public utterance, being followed soon afterwards by his sudden death, which was thought to have been caused largely by over-exertion to which his failing health was unequal.

giving of their best to the world during the precious minutes that both shared the heavens. Here is a phenomenon of remote regions and deserted seas, a glory of nature in a part of the south Pacific visited by only a few far wanderers, such a reward of hardship as sometimes comes to intrepid seakers into the little-known. And as the sunset fades and the moon, mounting rapidly toward mid-heavens, comes into her full radiance there is the glow

"Of silver, shifting moonlight on a sea-ward-going swell, And a gleam of broken water passing by." It shines in an ethereal whiteness upon the sails of our little schooner, as they round to the milk-warm trade breeze; it spreads presently over the entire face of the waters in a brilliance unknown to a northern clime. And we of the little schooner, but a speck upon the South Sea vastness, are as alone here in the moonlight as if on another planet.

Yet there is friendliness, a kind of comradeship, in the moon's radiance tonight. For it reveals moonlight in many lands and many a sweet and tender hour. New England on a sparkling night in February, the Grand Canal in Venice on a carnival evening, the peace of an English country-side in June, the glistening side of the Jungfrau from Interlaken. We are not alone, for the thousand memories summoned by the brilliance of the South Sea moon cluster like sentient things about it. And so,

"In the cool of the starlight skies, The lullaby of the foam," we are revived and cheered after the heat of the tropic day. We forge steadily onward, lifting and falling to the loveliest of swells, far from the world, but deeply content.

Odds and Ends

"You never know what you'll find among the odds and ends."—From "Notes by a Wayfarer."

The Truth Serum

(New York World.) Dr. E. R. House of Texas, addressing the Eastern Society of Anesthetists, gives an exposition of the properties and application of another. It is his usefulness if administered to persons accused of crime. Thus once more we see that science is one thing, practical application another. An Edison could invent an incandescent lamp, but it took other and greater minds to connect the electric stopper. So with the serum, he begins to say. He says with others, better qualified, see what can be done with it.

Obviously, its greatest sphere of usefulness will be in the field of judicial politics. Think of the possibilities! The candidate rises, he quaffs the water, he begins to speak in the usual manner. "We are gathered here tonight, from all corners of the hall come the cry, 'Serum Serum!' Rebutantly the chairman steps forth with the needle. The candidate lapses into the "artificial consciousness" described by the doctor and begins to speak thus: "Ladies and gentlemen: It is true that I am a strong silent man, but how are you going to say something when you haven't anything to say?"

EXHIBITION FEATURES. To the Editor of The Times-Star: Sir—My attention was accidentally drawn yesterday to an article in Monday's Globe, commenting on different features of the recent Exhibition, in no mention was made of the splendid work done by the Saint John Cadets.

I wish to rectify this oversight and acknowledge their splendid work, and also the community work which inspired the boys and their instructor, Capt. Palin. They contributed their services to the Exhibition without any cost whatever. I think, Mr. Editor, this acknowledgment is due them and trust you will publish this letter. Your very truly, (Sgd.) Ravin's of a Plute Post Poet.

(Note:—The versifiers of the Mid-western States, and some of those of New England, have been cultivating the colloquia. This contribution to The Saturday Review of Literature parodied the whole black movement and not any particular American poet—except, perhaps, Poe.)

Once upon a midnight dreary, eerie, scary, I was weary, full of worry, thinking of my lost Lenore, Of my cheery, airy, feary, scary Dearest —(Nothing more.)

I was rapping, when a tapping on the overlapping coping, woke me, gapping, yapping, rapping . . . toward the rapping, I went hopping, leaping . . . hoping that his rapping on the tapping

Was my little lost Lenore. So I opened wide the door. What was there? The dark weird and drear door,—or I'm a liar—the dark mire, the drear mirror, the mere door, and nothing more!

Then I stepped a stately Raven, shaven like the hard of Avon; yes, a ravin' ravin' Raven, seeking haven at my door. Yes, that shaven, ravin' Raven had been movin' (O! me, Stephen) for the bars and levin' haven of my stove an' oven door— Open door, and nothing more.

Ah, distinctly I remember, every ember that December turned from amber to burnt ember: I was burning limber lumber in my chamber that December, and it left an amber ember.

With a sicken, and uncertain shiver of a certain curdiness. That old Raven, bold and callous, perched upon the bust of Pallas, Above my chamber door: (A bust, may I tell you, Alas! Wallace.) Just above my chamber door: (A bust, may I tell you, Alas! Wallace.)

Had that callous curd shows malice? O sough! sough! there on Pallas? (O! may I tell you, Alas! Wallace.) Tell this soul with sorrow laden, hidden in the shade, an' broodin', If a maiden out of Eden sent this sudden bird invadin'!

My peep chamber; and protrudin' half an inch above my door. Tell this broodin' soul (he's breedin' bats by too much sodden reading)—reading Snowden's Ode to Odin! Tell this soul by nightmarish ridden, if (no kiddin' on a sudden)

He shall deem a radiant maiden dead: in AEsch or in Layard or indeed in Baden-Baden— Will he grab this broodin' maiden, gad-did in forbidden Eden, When the scrolls named Lenore? Then that bird said: "Never more."

"Prophet," said I, "thing of evil, wavel, novel, or boll weevil, You shall travel on the level! Scratch the gravel, now, and travel! Leave my novel, I implore."

And that Raven, never flitting, never knitting, never tatting, never spouting, "Never more!" Still is sitting (out this ballad) on the solid bust (and pallid)—on the solid, valid, pallid bust above my chamber door:

And my soul is in his shadow, which lies floating on the floor, Fleeing, floating, yachting, boating, on the foaming of the morrow,— Matting on my chamber floor.

PREMIER AND MEIGHEN OPEN CAMPAIGN IN THE MARITIMES

Liberals Aim to Build Up National Port Business—Opposition Leader Would Pay Portion of Freight Rates Paid for Outlying Areas.

PREMIER W. L. MACKENZIE KING and the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Conservative Opposition in the Canadian House of Commons, opened their Maritime campaigns at Amherst, N. S. and Halifax last night. Hon. Mr. King made an urgent plea for the development of overseas trade. The British West Indies commercial treaty was referred to by the Premier who pointed to the opening it gave for Maritime development. Hon. Mr. Meighen outlined the method he proposes to adopt, if returned to power, to tie the Maritimes closer to the Union and re-stated the Conservative policy in regard to the Intercolonial.

King's Speech

AMHERST, Sept. 15—Premier King opened his Maritime campaign to-night with an urgent plea for the development of overseas trade. "Build up trade in British markets and in the markets of the world," he declared. "Build up larger markets. That is the thing to build up the Maritime Provinces. And our policies should be developed to build up this part of Canada." He defined the policy of the Government in these terms:

- 1—Development of natural resources.
2—Lowering duties on the implements of production.
3—Lowering the duties on the necessities of life.
4—Reducing the cost of living.
5—Developing trade with the Empire.
6—Extending Canadian trade to all quarters of the globe.

QUESTIONS TAKEN UP

Largely, the Prime Minister took up questions he discussed during his Ontario campaign. It was only when he came to speak of Maritime rights that he urged the development of overseas trade as a solution of Maritime problems. Just previously, Hance Logan, the local member who organized the Ottawa conference (which resulted in the West Indies treaty) had suggested "Canada for export trade" as the slogan and on the phrase the Prime Minister pressed his argument.

H. J. Logan, who was this afternoon for the seventh time, chosen Liberal candidate in this county of Cumberland, declared that the natural market for the Maritimes was in export trade. For 45 "mortal" years the country had been trying to lift itself up by its bootstraps under a policy which had drained the life blood of the Maritimes. Mr. Logan praised the West Indies as an outlet for Canadian trade. In the West Indies he thought Canada could do another $25,000,000 worth of trade and that the Maritimes would largely benefit.

SAYS DEBT IS DECREASED.

Hon. Senator Beland, Minister of Health and Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, observed that when the national public accounts of Canada showed the national debt of Canada had decreased in the last four years, it became Mr. Meighen's duty to stand up for each and every legitimate right of the Maritime Provinces.

C. N. R. ABSORBED.

Mr. MacDonald charged the Meighen government with having absorbed the I. C. R. in the National Railway system and removed its direction from Moncton to Toronto.

"Mr. Meighen destroyed conditions which had existed on the I. C. R. for forty years," declared he, "and yet he will come here and talk to you about Maritime rights."

Meighen's Speech

HALIFAX, Sept. 15—Maritime Province problems, notably those which have to do with the transportation of the products of the Atlantic provinces to the central markets of Canada found prominent place in the opening speech of Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader here to-night. Mr. Meighen revealed to an audience of 5,000 people in the Arena the method which he proposed to adopt if returned to power, for assisting the Maritime Province shipper.

FAIR RATES URGED.

The rates fixed should be fair to the roads and fair to the public, but having done that, then there should be a portion of these rates paid for the benefit of the outlying parts of the country from the general treasury of the nation. By that you will tie the Maritimes closer to the union, and the Dominion as a whole will share the geographical burden which, under present conditions, the Maritimes and Western Provinces share themselves. And in my humble judgment, the Maritimes share is more even than the West, more than any portion of our country. This will bring about that feeling of mutual help and mutual interest sadly wanting in these days.

Weddings

Hagerly-O'Connor
St. Peter's church at 6:30 o'clock this morning was the scene of a wedding of interest to many Saint John people when Rev. C. Cloran, S.S.R., rector of the parish, solemnized with nuptial mass the marriage of Miss Irene Loretta O'Connor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William O'Connor to John Urban Hagerly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hagerly, all of this city. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a toast flat crepe gown with real brown panne velvet hat trimmed with orange flowers and carried Opheila roses. She wore a handsome brown fox fur. Her only ornament was a white gold bracelet set with rubies, the gift of the groom. Attending her was her sister, Miss Mary Margaret O'Connor, who wore a smart jade green flat crepe with ermine ornamentation and chic black panne velvet hat. She carried a bouquet of sweet peas and snapdragons.

Joseph A. Cokerly, B. C. L., Miss Isabel Gormley and Miss Evelyn Walsh. The bride donned a brick point tulle costume for going away, with hat of brick velvet. The bride and groom left on the Boston boat for a honeymoon trip to New York, Boston and Portland, Maine, and returned at 11 o'clock on the 14th. Among the gifts received by the bride was a check from the firm of McDougall and Cowans, also a silver candelabrum from the manager of the firm to the bride, who was an efficient stenographer in his office. The groom, who is with the International Harvester Company of Canada, Ltd., received a handsome mahogany gate-legged table from the staff.

The bride was given many showers, the last being on Monday evening when 25 friends assembled at her home and under the direction of Miss Isabel Gormley presented to her various articles necessary for kitchen purposes in her new home.

Kinsella-Duplessis
Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kinsella and Master Harold Kinsella left yesterday for Chatham to be present at the marriage of Mr. Kinsella's son, Joseph, who was married this morning in St. Michael's Cathedral, Chatham to Miss Adeline M., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Duplessis, of that town. The groom is a popular young Saint John man, who is employed with his father, in the P. Kinsella and Son monument works. Mr. and Mrs. Kinsella will reside in Saint John, after their honeymoon.

Stevens-Adams
The home of William Adams of Golden Grove was the scene of a pretty wedding yesterday afternoon, at 1 o'clock, when Rev. Hugh Miller, pastor of Silver Falls United church, solemnized the marriage of Miss Lisa Blanche Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Adams of Golden Grove, and H. Hoyt Stevens of Somerville, Mass.

The bride looked charming in a gown of white tulle with a train of ermine, silver lace and carried a bouquet of sweet peas and roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mabel Adams, who wore a gown of pink tulle with ermine, Gordon K. Scott, of Somerville, Mass., attended the groom. After the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served. The bride and groom will reside in Egin, Alberta county, where they will visit the groom's mother. They will reside in Somerville.

Snegrove-Snegrove
The marriage took place in Brooklyn, N. Y., in the Sixth avenue Methodist church, on Sept. 9, of Miss Minnie E. Snegrove and Jordan Snegrove, both of Newfoundland. Rev. E. Beland, pastor of the church, officiated at the ceremony. The bride formerly resided in Saint John and is a sister of Mrs. John Martin, Queen street. Mr. and Mrs. Snegrove will make their home in Brooklyn.

Deaths

Kenneth MacDonald
Much sympathy will be extended to Mr. and Mrs. Austin P. MacDonald, of Model Farm, Kings county, in the death of their infant son, Kenneth, which occurred at the age of one day on Sept. 15. Besides the parents there is one sister, Margaret Caroline, surviving. The funeral will take place today at Buctouche.

Look Into Matter Of More Y. M. C. A.'s

A survey is to be proposed to determine whether more Y. M. C. A. branches should be formed in the Maritimes. A committee of six, including two from Saint John will go into the matter. It is proposed that a full time territorial secretary for the Maritime Provinces be appointed. Harry Ballantyne of Toronto, national secretary, has been in Moncton on Y. business. He will go to New York and seek to have John R. Mott, general secretary in North America, visit Moncton for the next annual meeting of the Maritime association.

PAROLED ONE DAY SLAYS ON THE NEXT Lunatic Escapes From Same Asylum As Harrison Noel

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—Police and hospital attendants are searching for another lunatic who had escaped from the Overbrook Asylum from which Harrison Noel, accused murderer and kidnapper, escaped last July.

The fugitive was John Kuebler, 35 years old. Police from Montclair and several townships adjoining Overbrook were called in by the hospital authorities after it was reported that the man had fled.

Kuebler was extremely fleet of foot and had succeeded in outrunning guards and attendants more than once. Kuebler was able to elude the guards easily because of the so-called "King's X" law or ruling, which prohibits the guards from crossing certain limits in pursuit of a prisoner.

When the police began to arrive, however, Kuebler quit, taking refuge in the peculiarities of Jersey jurisprudence and took to his heels. He outran a policeman and disappeared.

Heavy Rains Bring Out Logs Held Up

FREDERICTON, Nov. 16—Lumber drives in various parts of central and southern New Brunswick which had been tied up since last spring and have been brought out by the unprecedented downpour of rain during the week-end. George B. Jones, M. P. for Royal, reported that Jones Bros.' drive had come out to their mill at Apohaqui, while Hon. Lewis Smith, Minister of Agriculture, reported that the Bonny River Lumber Company's drive in Albert county had also been brought out. A Sunbury county drive owned by E. C. Atkinson, M. L. A., also was brought out, but the rain was not sufficient to bring out the logs of the Fraser Companies, Limited, on the Ormoco.

Just sprinkle the fine powder or rub the Bon Ami Cake on a damp cloth. (Never use the cake direct.) Then apply the soft lather. When the lather dries, a few rubs with a clean, dry cloth will instantly bring back the mirror-like sheen.

The dainty woman does not KEEP Corns

Almost every woman spends hours every week in the care of her face—cold-creaming it, cleansing it, massaging it, to guard against the tiniest blemish. . . . But that doesn't prove her daintiness. It may merely indicate pride and vanity. . . . The real proof of perfect daintiness is the care a woman takes of the things that are not seen. . . . A blemish on her foot is as objectionable to her as one on her face. The moment a corn appears, she applies a Blue-jay. At once the pain goes, in 48 hours the corn goes too.

Felling reference was made to the death of Mrs. George F. Smith and Miss Elizabeth Patton. Miss Patton was one of the oldest Sunday School teachers in the city and in the early days was associated with the late F. D. Berton in conducting a Sunday School in Orange Hall, Prince Edward street.

RUTH MUST WORK HARD TO REGAIN LOST PLACE

When Jack Dempsey was introduced recently at the dedication of a new boxing club in Los Angeles, he was greeted with hisses and boos. The greeting awakened him to the fact that the public was sour on him and that a king is just as open to the raspberry as a bum.

He had a temporary spell of serious thinking and told his friends on the way that he was going to spend the winter in the New Brunswick woods and that he would come back next spring in perfect condition. It is doubtful that he can ever get himself into perfect condition, and it is quite certain that he never will be the hitter that he once was.

A. committee for the schools of West Saint John, Beauséjour and Fairville, it has been decided to postpone the meet from the coming Saturday until Oct. 3, by which time it is hoped that greater interest in the meet will have been aroused and sufficient entries will have been secured for the senior classes.

The shield which has been provided for perpetual competition in West Saint John school boy athletic meets is the gift of the men residing on De-Monts street, West Saint John, and has now arrived at the city.

MGR. CAMPBELL IS GIVEN LAMP BY SAINT JOHNS

Popular Baseball Leader Given Big Surprise By His Associates

HAD the executive of the City Senior League, which wound up the 1925 season with a banquet recently, gathered around the board to distribute the trophies for the season in an even-handed manner, the members could hardly have done better than did the cold averages of the year.

THE sequel to this sportsmanlike action occurred last evening at Manager Campbell's home in Duke street when every member of the Saint Johns and many of their friends invaded the Campbell home and before the large and happy gathering, Victor Markham presented Mr. and Mrs. Campbell with a handsome floor lamp in token of their appreciation of his services during the year.

He was given to understand shortly after he left the hospital in the spring that his superiors felt that he was responsible for his own condition and that his loose way of living had wrecked himself and wrecked the club. He was told that he wasn't even a $5,000 ball player and if he didn't get hold of himself he would be put in the future just what he was worth.

He has had a temporary spell of serious thinking and told his friends on the way that he was going to spend the winter in the New Brunswick woods and that he would come back next spring in perfect condition. It is doubtful that he can ever get himself into perfect condition, and it is quite certain that he never will be the hitter that he once was.

He has returned to the future and he is getting out of baseball broke. He has cultivated high ways in rolling cigars, a trade that he picked up at school, or turning into a chauffeur, an art that he picked up when he got into the big money.

C. H. COCHRANE HEADS KEYS IS WINNER INTERMEDIATE LEAGUE

Development of rugby football as the leading fall pastime in sports in this city took another step forward last evening when a strong intermediate league was organized, composed of four teams: Orioles, Martellos, Canucks and Wanderers. NEW YORK HAS NOW CUT LEAD TO SIX GAMES

Rain Robbed Pittsburgh Of Win Over Brooklyn Yesterday

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—World series preparations in Pittsburgh went steadily forward today in spite of the sailing of the Pirates' advance to six games over the Giants, and the menace of other eastern teams now making their last swing through the west. McClellan's club opened with a blast of hits against the Robins yesterday to balance their alarming slump of last week, only to be denied a victory by rain. The Pirates had piled up a six to nothing score in three innings.

Meanwhile the Giants slipped half a game from the margin of the National League leaders. Allowing five hits, Kent Greenfield gave the Reds but a single run, while the Giants were gathering five tallies off Rixey.

The outlook of the leading Senators in the American League continues favorable. Yesterday the champions balanced a Philadelphia triumph over the receding White Sox by nosing out the Tigers 5 to 8. The defeats of Detroit and Chicago, enabled the St. Louis Browns to tighten their hold on third place in the American League by shading the Red Sox with a two run ninth inning rally. St. Louis Nationals lost ground to the Phillies in the fourth place fight of the senior league by tossing off a game to the Phillies, 4 to 2.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The world's series will open Wednesday, October 7, in the city that wins the National League pennant, it was announced yesterday after a conference of leading club officials of both leagues with Commissioner Judge Landis here.

Those attending the conference with Commissioner Landis were: Leslie M. O'Connor, secretary; Sam Wattens, secretary; Pirates; Clark Griffith, Senators; Edward Eynon, secretary; Barney Dreyfus, president, Pirates; Tom Shibe, president, Athletics; James Tynan, secretary, Giants.

Two games will be played in the National League park, after which the contenders will move to a three game stand on the American League diamond, it was announced. If a sixth or seventh game is necessary for a decision, they will be played at the National League park.

The series will be played through with no intervening days of rest. If a game is postponed because of rain or other cause, the teams will remain at that park and the subsequent games will be moved back to accommodate the delay. The starting time of the games will be 2 p. m.

ESKIMO DANCE IS DESCRIBED

Was Held in Honor of MacMillan Crew in Greenland Town.

Dizzy Whirl, Faster Than Any on Montmartre, Says Explorer.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 — In a radio dispatch received by the National Geographic Society, Commander MacMillan gave a description of a native Eskimo dance, in honor of the Bowdoin, at Sukkertoppen, an isolated hill town of Greenland, known as the "Venice of the north."

"Two lanterns yellow with candle light threw into chiroscuro a low-ceilinged room which, in working hours, is a copper shop serving the white whale industry which gives prosperity to Sukkertoppen," the message said.

"Modestly hidden in one corner was a nimble-fingered accordion player alternating Broadway successes with old Eskimo tunes, exotic in intervals and beat. Now he swings his puppets into a waltz with the swing accentuated by the touch of soft boot on gritty floor, precise as the evolutions of Czecho-Slovak sokol participants. Now he throws the older men into a frantic dance with rapid cries and staccato poundings of Eskimo sealskin kamiks on the resonating floor."

COLORED GALLERY.
"Around the room, standing on half-finished hogheads, old women and children seem decapitated by the deep shadows of roof timbers. Their faces are bloused in bright checks, their legs are marked by striped scarlet leather and neutral toned sealskin or reindeer hide.

of this improvised gallery wear blue tape, tightly wound around spare top knots which rise stiffly from their heads, bald on the sides from winding their hair tightly back. They lack the neat black satin side pads with which the Chinese granules, bald for the same reason, cover their denuded temples.

"Indeed, the circle always are the same girls, bright in bead collars and sort, shiny scarlet or blue boots.

DIZZY WHIRL.
"Their partners change to fit the Eskimo or cosmopolitan tunes. When the tune is familiar the scene becomes more exotic, the natives while faster, collide less often and laugh more freely. Our men are slower, with a longer turning radius. They tower above the young Eskimo men, in caps, buttonless blouses with hoods thrown back, shapely tight trousers and soft boots.

"The dance is a whirling wheel with the men gripping the rope hub and the girls clasped tightly to prevent their being torn away by centrifugal force. With a sharp command the pace ceases, and each man swings his outer arm over his partner's head and draws to him the girl in front and the gaudy rims slip backward on the mud-covered spokes. When every man has embraced every girl, the girls take the inside and turn the dance into a breathless, dizzy whirl, better calculated to make one lose his head than all the fox trots on Montmartre."

"Then comes a game of tag when men and maids keep step with the music and combine speed with tempo. Lines of men and girls face each other as in a Virginia reel. Around these lines the players pursue one another, touching the ground lightly in the midst of a stride, or hide behind the tightly packed row to make faces throw back the glint of candles, bright colors of the dress materials weave fantastic patches in the gloom, vast-colored toques hiding jet black hair, studded with cheap combs, echo the chief tint in polychrome. Bead caps, containing pounds of beads, are individually designed. Men's black boots keep time with women's boots, brilliant with mosaic design like embroidery.

AIR REFRESHMENT.
"For refreshments there is the cool night air. Here and there a cigarette appears in the dark. Men and maids stroll together and the ever-watchful governor walks about with

MONCTON ENJOYED SATURDAY'S GAME

Deciding Contest of Semi-finals One of Most Exciting in Years.

Moncton fans to the number of 1,800 and more watched the deciding game of the New Brunswick semi-finals there last Saturday, and, judging from newspaper accounts, the crowd thoroughly enjoyed everything but the result. The Moncton Times said, in part:

"The visitors, a hard and heavy slug-ging team, collected an even dozen hits off Harris Wall, but only three of these came in winning any one. A single by Ira Hinshaw in the third frame sent Charlie Gorman and Eddie Sparks over for two counters, while a three-sack wallop by Mr. Sparks and another single by Johnny Corrigan in the eleventh proved the lucky wallops of the old ball game. In short, they hit safely when they really wanted hits, while the local players were unable to connect with the apple at opportune times, with one exception, that of Wall, who drove in the A. A.'s only two counters with a slashing hot single through the box in the eighth. The A. A.'s made seven hits, off Stirling.

SAINT JOHN BOY IS TORONTO MANAGER

Thos. S. Daley Wins Appreciative Notice in Theatrical Life of City.

The Evening Telegram of Toronto publishes a picture and an appreciative sketch of Thomas A. Daley, a Saint John boy, who has made a success in the theatre business. He is now manager of the Tivoli Theatre in Toronto. "To his experience and tact," says the Telegram, "Tivoli audiences owe their comfort and enjoyment."

"After nearly 20 years in the theatrical business," says the newspaper, "Mr. Daley is well versed in the intricacies, knowledge of which tends to success with the public. He started with the Bennett Theatrical Enterprises at Saint John, N. B., on May 24, 1908. For seven years he managed the Casino Theatre, Halifax, N. S. As buyer for the F. G. Spencer circuit of 14 theatres in the Maritimes, Mr. Daley gained deep and wide experience in securing entertainment features of the type that appeal and in learning to set aside those that fail to satisfy the exacting retired on strikes in the eighth, however, 1,600 people were given a chance to yell, and we're telling the populace they did yell. Harvey McDonald got hold of a fast one and, baby, he laced it a two-play wallop to left field. Don McFarlane took three healthy swings at the ball, but Sparks dropped the pill, and Don reached first when Craft dropped the throw from Sparks, and during the commotion that followed McDonald walked around to third and Don sauntered down the line to second, with the 'Foggy City' stars looking at each other to see who was to blame for the whole affair. McPhee attempted to bunt McDonald in, but was ordered to hit; he took three nice cuts and returned to the bench. Up to the plate came Harris Wall, the outfielders moved back, and infield played a bit deeper, Harris looked the situation over, two men on bases, the team two counters behind and two out, so he took it upon his own shoulders to even the count. He cut at a fast one and drove it through the box with such velocity that Stirling moved out of the way or he would have undoubtedly been punctured by the wallop. McDonald and McFarlane counted before the ball was relayed in from the outfield and the crowd stood up and rocked the bleachers with their cheering. With two men out and two men on the sacks, Ev Agnew fell a victim to Stirling's slants and the tide was retired with an excellent chance to have won the ball game right there.

"The Watermen scored twice in the third, and the whole field full of humanity pleaded for the locals to even the count every inning from then on, but in each frame only three men faced Stirling until the seventh when Cecil Taylor clouted out a safety, only to die on first. After Cameron had been an eye on things and folk. It is midnight. There is no cabaret. Work on the morrow.

"The last strains of the accordion blast and the lights go out. Shadowy forms accompany us to our boats. Laughing faces, picked out by flashlight, line the pier. A farewell song fades into the misty night as we row past in distinct hulk in the narrow ford to the pale, graceful Bowdoin, slowly swinging at anchor before rugged shadowy hills."
