WEIRD AND WONDERFUL TALES OF TROUBLE ABROAD TO IMPRESS ELECTORS OF BRITAIN

How a Man by the Name of Nelson Has Got Millions From a Grateful People—Comment on the Attitude of the Colonies Toward Imperial Issues.

(Special Cable to the Montreal Star and St. John Star)

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Roblin's speech, widely quoted, appears most apposite on the morning of publication of Lloyd-George's declaration at Reading when he said: "Our colonies brethren have been watching this budget with great interest."

The Daily Express, under the heading "Colonial Premier Infuses Lloyd-George," set the foregoing passages in parallel columns with Roblin's fears of the result if Socialists dominate the British parliament.

As election day approaches the statements of free lances on each side are growing more and more sensational.

Again the United States is pictured as overlooking with replete unemphatic, ten millions in curricula alone one enterprising journal announced, while those who have work are represented in the Chronicle today as paying 20 to 46 per cent higher for food than a few years ago, owing to the tariff.

The Manchester Guardian also makes a great play with what it calls the American tariff revolt.

Winston Churchill in a long published letter, written in London, makes the date of official trade paper, makes the most of these horseflesh and other stories, especially emphasizing the serious unemployment during the 1907-8 financial collapse.

The Express correspondent, coming from New York, reports great amusement caused by Lloyd-George's description of America as a protectionist Eden with the serpent of hunger, want and unemployment hissing in every part of the land.

STOMACH DISTRESS AND DYSPESIA GO

Heartburn, Gas and Indigestion Vanish and You Feel Fine in Five Minutes

REGULATES DIGESTION

As there is often some one in your family who suffers an attack of indigestion or some form of Stomach trouble, why don't you keep some Diapiesin at home handy?

"Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Diapiesin. It will tell you exactly why it makes indigestion, sour stomach, heartburn, and other distress go in five minutes and relieves at once such miseries as Belching of Gas, Eructations, Flatulence, food, nausea, headache, dizziness, constipation and other Stomach disorders. Some folks have tried so long to find relief from indigestion and dyspepsia, or an out-of-order stomach with their present generation, who has been engaged in the past half century, that they have made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe that in a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach, or Cancer. This is no doubt, is a serious mistake. Your trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid, gas, and indigestion, which enters into the digestive tract and intestine, and becomes, poison the breath with nauseous odors. A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or pain, is the result of Diapiesin or more, as you see as you decide to try Diapiesin.

ARIST PAINTS GREASE SPOTS ON SOAP TO EARN ALIVING

Another Paid His Way Through College by Passing Examinations for Others—Citizens of Russia Go to Jail for Employers at From 20 to 40 Cents a Day.

WARSAW, Poland, Jan. 1.—There are more ways of making a living than in the various government reports on trade and labor, and it happens that a man who has been in various countries on the continent has run across some of them and made personal investigations. He has written a book, which is confessed, more for the humor of the thing than from any profound taste for political economy. The results proved diverting and, put at their lowest value, they represent original ideas, and another strange would hardly seem worth a restaurant keeper's while to pay a man to make his soap look greasy, even when the service only costs a few cents a day. But, at any rate, one Paris cook-shop, in the neighborhood of Montmartre, employs a man for this purpose, and possibly many more. The man in question is not French. He has a strange look of the North Briton and a foreign accent. He is miserably clad and wears the furlike look of those who have come down in the world and fear that others will notice it. He passes the whole day in the restaurant, waiting for the next order. He has a dirty-cook-shop frequently by the door, and the Paris poor-beggars of both sexes, out-of-works who have long since ceased to look for employment or too stupid to rise above the deal of petty pilfering. He must sleep in the restaurant, for if he enters so soon as the shutters are down in the morning you will find him near one of the mud-stained windows, his elbows on the table and his long legs stretched under it. At noon, when the "clients" at the cafe and restaurant begin to come in, the restaurant keeper beckons to him with an authoritative gesture, whereas he looks at the man and slouches into the kitchen behind the bar, whence he emerges only when the last supper has been eaten.

One morning I questioned him about his business, but received only negative answers. He would not cook, nor wash-up, never left the restaurant, was not French and had nothing but matches for a stove. He had a small table in the room behind the bar. After much persuasion he finally accepted an invitation to supper in a neighboring restaurant. He himself recommended as being "all right." He grew communicative before the meal, and I asked, "because I know the soup's all right and the meat's not painted, I tried to get the soup made up, but it was over, and if you come into my kitchen tomorrow when the patron is away you will see what I mean." "Do you see this?" He drew a camel-hair brush from his pocket and held it up to the light. "That's what I use to clean the plates. I've got to stare on ten sours a day. I dip this into a bit of oil and rub it into the meat's fat and the broth is spiced with another look of pride he put the brush into his pocket. A visit to his kitchen next morning proved that he was right. The soup, made with water in which odds and ends of boiled vegetables and bread had been boiled, was poured into bowls as the "clients" ordered. Then, with the brush in one hand, he dabbed it on the surface of the soup, such dexterity that little grease stains, which the Frenchmen love to see in their soup, disappeared. He then took a very ugly red-rubber rod, and rubbed it over the surface. He then took a white cloth and rubbed it over the surface, and the broth is spiced with another look of pride he put the brush into his pocket. Even venerable seats of learning or track to the man hard-pressed for any other bread. I remember once when near the Baltic Sea, being struck by a very ugly red-rubber rod, and rubbed it over the surface. He then took a white cloth and rubbed it over the surface, and the broth is spiced with another look of pride he put the brush into his pocket. In summer, when work is to be had, the demand for prison substitutes exceeds the supply, and 20 and 40 cents a day are paid. A porter, who must keep the streets well watered and carries something extra by looking after rats whose owners are away, says this, but the caddy prefers to go to prison, in August especially, trade being at its sickest owing to the wholesale exodus of the town population to the country during this month. But perhaps the most ingenious way of all occurred to a citizen of St. Petersburg, who wished to make money and did not care for commerce. He is a Jew named Shaim Saalk. Jews are not allowed to live within the confines of that city—a restriction which many merchants and business men find most troublesome. The only way is to get baptized, and many object to this, as it goes against their conscience. Hence a deal with Shaim Saalk to get baptized for them. When that is arranged for this purpose he takes his customer's passport to the police, gets over the inevitable red-tape and sealing-wax formalities with them and then goes to a church, where he is quietly baptized. After receiving the certificate of baptism from the priest he returns to the police, has the word "Jew" with it struck out, and returns it to its owner, who now has the right to live where he likes. Shaim's charges are in accordance with his customer's means. Sometimes he earns several hundred dollars a day, sometimes he takes but a few cents or nothing at all. He admits, however, that he is making a fortune, with which he hopes soon to retire, leaving his "trade" as he calls it, to his sons. In the meantime, he spends all his free time in the

MYSTERY IN MAN'S DEATH

Well-to-do Business Man Found Dead in Factory Loft—Bound Hand and Foot.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Morris Nathanson, a well-to-do middle-aged real estate holder and clothing man, was found dead to-day in the loft of his factory bound hand and foot to a chair with half-inch rope. He had been dead for hours, and the big vacant loft was filled with escaping gas from a broken pipe just above his head. There were no marks of violence on the body. Minute inspection of the loft showed that the body had been thrice wound with half-inch rope under the arms and bound to the back of the chair. Both legs were fastened to the legs of the chair. The right hand was free, but the left hand was bound with two twists, and so firmly knotted to an arm of the chair that the coroner said he could not believe a man with only one free hand could have tied the knots. On the floor were a few loose coins. There was no money in the pockets, one of which had been turned inside out, and Nathanson's key to the loft was also missing. His desk, which he shared with his partner, was opened, and littered with torn and crumpled papers in the wildest confusion. On a simple table was a woman's fur-lined kid glove, torn and partly turned inside out. The safe was locked. Next to the table was a woman's hat, and above it the gas lamp had been broken. Nathanson, so far as is known, had no reason to commit suicide. He was forty-nine years old, and in the best of health and spirits. His business was solvent, he had ample outside resources, and lived happily with his wife and daughter.

AMUSEMENTS

HOW THE NICKEL STARTS THIS NEW YEAR.

The indications are that today—weather clause inserted—will be a notable one in the history of Nickel Theatre. Commencing at noon today the following program will be shown; the Biograph character-study entitled "In Little Italy," being a charming film-story of cosmopolitan life. But what will doubtless interest the people most will be "A Steamship Trip From Bremen, Germany, to New York." This is one of the Nickel's imported and exclusive films and is of rare educational value, depicting the great seaports, also life on the ocean during the passage of a great North German-Lloyd greyhound. The third reel, under the caption "The Right to Love," by the Italia Co. of Turin, will supply romantic entertainment of a superior order. In the musical department Miss Gertrude LeRoy will make her bow to Nickel patrons in a pleasing concert number, with elaborate orchestral accompaniment. Miss LeRoy is not a stranger to St. John, but her magnetic charm and her lovely voice will make her first appearance at the Orpheum today. All those who can make it convenient to do so, should be in their seats early tonight and so avoid the great rush between eight and nine o'clock. Many regular patrons seem to have listened to the same idea that Enoch performs some sort of an illusion. The management of new friends and patrons will be kept that all the performances of this remarkable man are in a tank full of water and that he is unable to see us or to let us in, but we were provided with a house outfit, and remained for some time giving medical aid to the people.

ROBINSON OPERA COMPANY WILL PRESENT "FRA DIAVOLO" TONIGHT.

"Fra Diavolo" will be sung by the Robinson Opera Company in the Opera House to-night which no doubt is highly gratifying news to lovers of opera in the city. Ever since their return to the city, Enoch has been the subject of much interest here the management of the company have been asked to put on this famous opera, and that it will be sung to-night, combined with the fact that the Robinson organization will stay another week in the city, is greatly appreciated.

The Robinson Opera Company have never failed to please St. John audiences. They have always lived up to Enoch, the Human Fish, known as the water wonder of the world, will make his first appearance at the Orpheum today. All those who can make it convenient to do so, should be in their seats early tonight and so avoid the great rush between eight and nine o'clock. Many regular patrons seem to have listened to the same idea that Enoch performs some sort of an illusion. HUNTING CROCODILES AT STAR.

New Year's Day the cosy little Star Theatre, in North End, made its debut as a new friend and patron by the exceptional quality of its long programme. This is one indication of the fact that the date picture house intends doing in 1910, provided unforeseen mishaps do not intervene.

"MAEBETH AT THE GEM."

Since the Gem, (Waterloo street, the latest addition to St. John's motion picture houses) opened two weeks ago it has grown rapidly in popularity with the public. The subjects shown at this house were received with such enthusiasm that the management have been requested to repeat some of the many subjects shown. Last Monday and Tuesday Macbeth, a condensation of Shakespeare's famous tragedy, was shown. Since then the management has been besieged with requests to repeat this subject. On account of these requests the management have decided to repeat this subject, which is over two thousand feet in length, for Monday and Tuesday.

Part of the expedition struck westward into a land of nomad robbers. At Yuko W. M. Ferguson, who was with Mr. Brooke, spent three days in massaging the chief, and the latter was so pleased at the success of the treatment that he gave the travelers passports through his country.

HORSES IN LITERATURE.

In sacred writ it was deemed worthy of record that Solomon's importation of the war steed in Job is described in the book of Job. In Greek myth and English satire the qualities ascribed to Genie and the Hionyhymms testify sufficiently to the high regard in which the horse has ever been held.

Dead City of Caves—One Tribe Ruled by Woman, Who Lives in Castle on Mountain Peak

LONDON, Jan. 1.—Immense cave dwellings of a prehistoric race a colossal elephant of bronze, a valley which is a Garden of Eden, cannibal tribes, popples, wild flowers eight inches in diameter, and a huge castle governed by a woman chief, are among the romantic discoveries which have been made by a British expedition to the hitherto unknown borderland between China and Tibet.

The police were intensely suspicious. Rumors had reached them of some mysterious expedition into the other side of Tibet, and although they offered us no bodily harm, they refused us provisions.

WOMAN CHIEF.

"At the capital of the Runga tribe we found a huge castle perched on an almost inaccessible crag, and governed by a woman chief. The lady refused to see us or to let us in, but we were provided with a house outfit, and remained for some time giving medical aid to the people.

"While there we paid a visit to a great monastery, and distributed a large number of mirrors to the children. This had the reverse of the desired effect, for the people declared we were trying to blind them.

"They urged us to leave, and as we declined, they held a great ceremony, the object of which was to solemnly curse us. This was an impressive function, at which many musicians were present, and was largely choral.

"This was increased when we discovered that we were coolly smoking cigars and taking photographs of the dead ceremonial, but we thought it as well to move on.

"We next made our way southwest over a very high pass, where our people were all down with mountain sickness, and where we discovered some wonderful popples with flowers eight inches in diameter, which we sent home as a curiosity.

"Soon afterward we arrived at the Kermer river, which we crossed by means of a cable, a type of craft we had never before seen in China. The valley of the Kermer was followed through a country of surpassing loveliness, abounding in parrots and butterflies of every color.

"Part of the expedition struck westward into a land of nomad robbers. At Yuko W. M. Ferguson, who was with Mr. Brooke, spent three days in massaging the chief, and the latter was so pleased at the success of the treatment that he gave the travelers passports through his country.

"In August the two sections of the expedition met at Mungun, the principal Chinese outpost. After this we returned to Chentu and set out on our second trip among the unknown Lolo, an expedition that had so disastrous a termination.

"We first visited the sacred mountains of Ornel Shan, a celebrated pilgrimage place for Buddhists from all parts of China and Tibet. Half way up we saw a colossal bronze elephant which was supposed to have been brought all the way from India.

"Near here we thoroughly examined a number of remarkable cave dwellings, and found many interesting objects, including figures of men and animals. None of these caves, of which there were an immense number, had been studied before, probably owing to the superstitions felt with which they are regarded. Even the guides who were with us would not venture near.

"We could find no traces of human remains, but the figures we discovered showed evidence of a very high and ancient civilization. No one of whom we inquired knew anything about the original dwellers, but we formed the conclusion that the place had probably not been inhabited for a thousand years."

BORDER PEOPLE ARE PLANNING TO HELP KELLEY

Much Sympathy—Burns the Prosecutor in the Famous Case is Decried.

So strong is the sympathy of the border people for Mr. Kelley, the Canadian man now in Portland gaol awaiting the sentence of the United States district court, that an attack upon U. S. Revenue Officer Burns, that a large sum of money has been subscribed to finance his defence. It is reported that the subscription list, which has been thoroughly circulated, has been increased by the addition of many names.

The border people on the American side of the line are for the most part just as keen in their sympathy for Kelley as are the New Brunswickers, and are just as anxious that the negotiations between Ottawa and Washington shall result in an international decision that Kelley was kidnapped upon the Canadian soil.

Burns, the United States officer whom Kelley is accused of having attacked, and who showed a remarkable knack of varying testimony at the time of the trial, is in very bad odor among those living along the line. He bears the reputation of having been a few years ago, the most finished smuggler along the line. He managed for many years to baffie the customs services, and was seemingly immune from capture. As they could not get to him, the United States authorities appointed him a revenue man, so utilizing his inside knowledge of the tricks and personnel of those engaged in the contraband business. In this connection he has earned all the general animosity which is usually directed toward a turn-coat.

PLOT WAS HATCHED IN FLYNN'S BAR
Scheme to Rob Express Office—How Dobson the Clerk Was Rounded Up.

NIAGARA FALLS, Jan. 2.—An interesting story of how detectives unearthed the robbery of the Canadian express office at Niagara Falls and fastened the guilt on Cashier William Dobson so that he confessed his share and implicated a number of other men has come to light. Flynn, a saloon keeper on the United States side and Whistler, a mechanic in the Corundum Works appear to be the principals. The plot was hatched at Flynn's saloon and he agreed to find two men to slug Dobson and take the cash. Dobson telephoned the bank to send the money to the office early, and this started suspicion against him. Then he was unable to account for a hundred and fifty dollars found in his trunk, and he bought a set of furs for a young woman and had them sent from Toronto to him under an assumed name. He stened for them in the express office. Communications between Dobson and Flynn and other conspirators were intercepted by the police. In one letter Dobson asked for fifteen hundred dollars as he wanted to get away. Flynn sent him fifty. These letters were all intercepted and read by the police and resulted in Dobson's confession.

The set of furs was worn to church by the young lady with Dobson, and a

JACK POWERS TALKS OF A FAMOUS FIGHT

The Greatest Sporting Event He Has Ever Seen

Was the Ferry Round Bout, Black vs. White, of Dixon and Murphy, Fought in 1889.

As the first of a series of articles on "The greatest sporting event I have ever seen," written for the Halifax Herald, the following appears from Jack Powers, of this city:—

You have asked me, "What is the greatest sporting event I have ever seen?" Well, now, that is a hard one. I have seen so many really good events that it is hard to particularize. Of course, it is natural for me to say of the greatest event I have ever seen, "The greatest sporting event I have ever seen." It was the fight between George Dixon and Johnnie Murphy, who fought their famous forty-round argument in October, 1889, before the Gladstone Athletic Club, in Providence, U. S. A.

This was a fight for fair. I will never forget it. Johnnie Murphy gamely stood out the forty rounds before the black demon in spite of the fact that his hands were broken. Yes, sir, he actually stood there all the time landing on the negro with his both hands all the time.

George Dixon was at that time just in his prime. He was taking all sorts of chances and making good, too. He was then the featherweight champion of the world, and he had the best of his class all over the ropes. Johnnie Murphy was stepping some at that time, and was a strong brawler. He was a featherweight honors. He was after the scalp of Dixon, with his blood up for fair.

Thomas O'Rourke, of Boston, was the man behind the famous little Halifax boxer, and how he was was on his second. Dennis Murphy was backing Johnnie Murphy, while Dan Gill, of Boston, and myself, were his seconds. Dan Saunders, sporting editor of the Boston Globe, refereed, and Tom McDougall managed the fight for the Gladstone Athletic Club. The purse was for $1,500 and it was to be a fight to the limit, as all the fights at that time were.

You would almost think that the seconds would be able to see something that was taking place. Well, as I said, I was one of the seconds for Murphy, and I didn't see it all. I certainly thought I did, but there was one thing that escaped my notice.

The two were mixing it up well in the tenth round. Murphy was punishing Dixon pretty hard. Somehow or other during the round, Murphy broke his thumb, but kept fighting away. Of course he never did anything else until after the fight. In the fourth round he had broken his right hand, but that did not stop him.

The fight was held on an evening in October. It was not a particularly hot night, but when we got together into the building where the scrap was to be pulled off, rammed and jammed like sardines in a tin, the atmosphere went up. It was sultry some. You could smell the celluloid collar buttons burning on some of the spectators' coats.

Some of the spectators on tickets were sporting new fall coats the Sunday after the scrap. Seats were sold in hundreds at ten dollars a square foot. At that time ten dollars of Uncle Sam's silver was a mighty big item for a seat at a scrap between two featherweights. The pasteboards certainly went up and were at a premium even at that.

The fight had attracted much attention all over the States. Sporting men came from far and near, and both the fighters were known with reputations as fast scrappers.

At three o'clock in the afternoon the men weighed in, and tipped the scales at 114 pounds. Dixon was the favorite in betting circles, and not an awful lot of money was staked on the result. The men used two ounce gloves.

When the straps slipped into the ring that evening they were given a good reception. The scrapping up to the fourth round was pretty even. Dixon, who was always a careful fighter, was watching himself this night. Murphy, too, was on guard, and as I said before, up to the fourth round honors were even.

In the fourth round trouble started for Murphy. He was receiving a goodly amount of punishment and seemed able to take it when he smashed his right hand. Many a fighter would have quit right there and then, but not so with Murphy. He kept up the battle in spite of the broken member.

A broken hand in a fight like this was a mighty big handicap. Murphy knew it and felt the disadvantage.

After the seventh round, Murphy took a lot of punishment but trying gamely to fight back. Then the fates were again set dead against Murphy and a little later snap went his thumb on his left hand. There was no rubbing it out that Johnnie was hard up against it. Two broken hands and the toughest little featherweight the world has ever seen in the person of George Dixon, stilled against him, was what Murphy had coming to him.

Twice before the final round Murphy was forced to his knees, rising, however, before the final count was made. The fight during the latter stages was simply an exhibition of an almost helpless man with two broken hands, and it was only a matter of how long Murphy could stand the battering which Dixon was handing out.

In the fortieth round the end came. It came without Murphy knowing it, and without even a knock-out blow. Murphy went down and with his hands broken, crawled to the ropes, and with the assistance of his elbows

MONTREAL TO HAVE SUBWAY

MONTREAL, Jan. 2.—Activity and much higher prices for Montreal Street Railway and Montreal Power stocks have caused much speculation as to what was going on underneath the surface. There has been talk of a merger. According to the latest reports an even greater project is under way, it being proposed to build a six-track subway from the eastern end of the city to the western, taking in all the railway stations, etc. English capital is behind the move, which will take in the street railway and power companies and necessitate an investment of a hundred million dollars.

DAM WASHED OUT.

STERLING, Ill., Jan. 3.—The dam of the Keystone plant of the International Harvester Company in Rock River was washed out by high water and ice last night, causing a loss of $50,000 and throwing 1,500 men out of work.

was getting to his feet, when we threw up the sponge. Murphy did not see us throw up the sponge in the ring, but tottered to his feet and prepared to fight again. The referee told Murphy what he had done, and he retired. Dixon had won the fight, and ended the greatest sporting event I have ever seen—great because Murphy was same.

The ending of the scrap almost caused a riot. There was a misunderstanding among the fans regarding the end of the fight, because Murphy did not know that the scrap had ended. Feeling was running high on account of Dixon being a negro, and many colored fans were at the ring-side. However, the good judgment of a number of the sports stopped a free fight.

MADRID, Jan. 2.—Serious news from Barcelona has caused General Weller, captain general of Catalonia, to curtail his visit here, and he will leave immediately for his post. The anarchists threaten a general strike. The troops are now held in their barracks in readiness for an emergency.

ATHENS, Jan. 2.—The minister of the interior, M. Triantaphyllakes, has resigned, following a demand made by the military league, and a conference between the king and Premier Mavromichalis. The league has also demanded the abolition of all Greek legations abroad except that at Constantinople.

PEKING, Jan. 2.—Negotiations extending over five months between China and Portugal over the question of Macao's boundary have failed, and today the Chinese government sent a formal message to the Portuguese government that it will under no circumstances consent to arbitrate. It is pointed out that only China and Portugal can settle this between themselves.

MACAO is situated on an island of the same name at the mouth of the Canton river. China holds that all the dependencies of the city of Macao have been occupied illegally by Portugal since 1583, and that the only possession of territory ever made to Portugal was the town of Macao. China insists that the territory and adjacent islands be evacuated by Portugal.

A special meeting of Journeymen Painters' Local Union, No. 3, will be held this evening, when all members are requested to attend.

Further statistics of the operation of the civic departments obtained yesterday showed that 1909 had been the best year for travel on the ferry on record and also that although the fire department were called out to more alarms than in 1908 there was only one really bad fire during the year.

MONTREAL, Jan. 2.—An interesting report has reached the Mexican Northern Power Company's offices in this city from Washington to the effect that Governor Greel of Province of Chihuahua in Northern Mexico is slated as next president of Mexico.

As Governor Greel is one of the largest shareholders of Mexican Northern Company's stock, local shareholders naturally feel that the future of the company will not suffer in the hands of the new president.

MORSE OFF TO 15 YEARS IN PRISON
Makes a Supreme Effort to be Cheerful

Most Brutal Sentence Ever Pronounced Against a Citizen in a Civilized Country, He Asserts.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—With a supreme effort to be cheerful, but with emotion occasionally getting the better of him, Charles W. Morse left New York today to serve fifteen years in the Federal Prison at Atlanta, Ga., for violation of the National Banking Law.

Before leaving the Tombs, where he has been confined for the greater part of the past year pending the outcome of his futile appeals, Morse received his wife and two sons and then the newspaper men. He was too affected to say anything, but he handed out a carefully-prepared statement of comment on his case. The general understanding was that his wife was to accompany him south, but it could not be ascertained whether she was on the same train with him.

Morse left Jersey City on the Birmingham River of the Southern Railway at 10:32 a.m. in custody of Deputy United States Marshal John Stebbing and Henry Lindeus, Marshal Kenkel, who has had charge of Morse during the trial, accompanied his prisoner as far as Washington. Morse's statement is bitter and dramatic.

"I am going to Atlanta to begin penal servitude under the most brutal sentence ever pronounced against a citizen in a civilized country," is his opening sentence.

"I have hoped," the statement continues, "with that hope which comes from a consciousness of my innocence that I will not have to close out my life under such an inhuman sentence. I had felt that the fact that I had paid a fine of $7,000 and served a year in prison would satisfy the cry for a victim and I have steadily believed that the courts would be compelled to give me a new trial. When I learned that the private detective who had been sent to watch me in my home and in my business, and that as a result two of them were rendered unfit, and that a third would be allowed another trial by another jury free of these hostile influences."

"It seems, however," the courts intend to establish, "the practices which make rum-drinking a part of the custodians of a jury a permanent institution. By the sentence and judgment I may be brought to ruin, but I do not intend to let my family be damaged by the sentence and judgment I may be brought to ruin. I am now in years and months of my life, and I have great faith that all right-thinking men and women who know of me and my case and who realize the humanity of my sentence, will make known their feelings to the president."

"Whatever the future may hold in store—liberty or imprisonment—I shall endeavor to meet in the same way I have struggled against the misfortunes of the past two years."

C. W. MORSE.

ENGLAND'S FARMER KING IS ALWAYS A PRIZE WINAER
His Majesty's Keen Interest in His Land and Live Stock Brings Results—Prize Animals Eagerly Bought by Breeders—King's Consideration for His Servants.

(Staff Correspondence.)

LONDON, Dec. 23.—England is beginning just now its cattle show season, and King Edward without doubt will repeat his former performance as a prize winner. He has an annual exhibitor at the Southfield show, which is just over this year, and he receives more prizes and selling most of his exhibits, thus proving his right to the title of "The Farmer King."

Uriah Robbins, King Edward's herdsman, has been in the king's service just thirty years. He is a good-looking old fellow with a rosy, rugged face and seems born to crown a smock frock. He is immensely proud of his royal master's record and at Smithfield last year celebrated the fact that the king had won a sheep championship for three successive years, by entertaining all the Smithfield shepherds to supper at the farm.

"The king knows a good animal when he sees one," says Uriah, "and he never looks twice at an untidy one."

Although dog breeding scarcely comes within the scope of the average farmer, it is interesting to note that some of the finest kennels in the country are to be found on the Sandringham estate. "The farmer king" shows the same zeal in breeding and exhibiting thoroughbred dogs as he does in the more lucrative avocations of farming. The king rarely stays abroad without his mischievous little terrier, but at Sandringham he is much more ambitious. No variety comes amiss in his splendid kennels, and he has a few harriers, deerhounds, spaniels, bulldogs, fox-terriers, St. Bernards, basenjis, and Newfoundland retrievers. He has secured the co-operation of Queen Alexandra, who often makes a point of his work as a farmer, and he feeds the dogs with biscuits and feeds the dogs with her own hands.

No monarch in the history of England has better earned and sustained the title of "The Farmer King" than Edward VII.

EASTERN ROUMANIA SWEEPED BY BIG FLOOD

PHILIPPOLIS, Bulgaria, Jan. 1.—Eastern Rumania has been swept by the most disastrous flood in sixty years. Many persons are reported drowned, while the losses in property, especially in the Danube valley, are estimated to be very heavy. Soldiers in pontoons are busy rescuing the people cut off by the rising waters.

MISPLACED SWITCH CAUSES COLLISION

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—A misplaced switch caused a collision between a passenger train and a freight train on the Boston and Maine Railroad at Charlestown early today, in which one fireman, Colby L. Harlow, aged 28, was fatally injured, and another, Sherman Carter, aged 27, was severely hurt. Both men were running in the cab of an unattached locomotive coming out from the north terminal station. The switch was set for the rear of a freight train. The engine was practically demolished. The contents of the engine, including a boiler, were moved to the Massachusetts General Hospital. He lived in Somerville, where Currier also resides.

Seemingly the arrival of the real winter season has not yet been felt, as is concerned was postponed until the first of the New Year. Last night's crowd of shelterers at the Salvation Army Metropole was very much larger than that of any previous night since winter set in. There were forty-six men under the roof in all, every bed being occupied and a number having to content themselves with bunking on the seats. But for the fact that most of the men were left on Friday's boats, the management of the Metropole would have been altogether unable to cope with the rush.

There are now 30,000,000 feet of lumber piled at the city mills and in lighters, all destined for shipment from here to the English market during the winter season. Beside the lumber, there is now on tramp steamer loading here. There is also on the road to this port 10,000,000 feet of lumber, the shipment of which has been contracted for. The only mills now saving here are Stetson and Cutler's two at Indian-town, and at Pleasant Point, and the Cushing mill. These are engaged in filling small orders for the American market. The Gibson concern is the only shipyard which has as yet completed its shipments to the Old Country.

SURVIVORS WERE BROUGHT TO N. Y.
12 Men of the Johanna Were Lost

The Others Picked Up by Nova Scotia Schooner—Captain Relates Experience.

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Such are the fortunes of those who go down the sea that twelve men who were lost on Thanksgiving Day of last year when the British schooner Johanna went down not 150 miles from the Delaware Breakwater, were not even known to be missing until the survivors were brought to port here today from St. Thomas, in the Danish West Indies, by the steamer Korona of the Quebec Steamship Company.

"The Johanna was bound for the Breakwater from the Philippines for orders," said Captain C. A. Dickinson today. "When she became unseaworthy in heavy weather, two lifeboats were put out—some with thirteen men aboard, of which I took command and the other with twelve men. There was a howling wind, and a mountainous sea. My boat at first was blown down against the sky line on the crest of a wave and then, presently, we saw to north of her."

"I had hoped on reaching this port to get some word of her. We were carpenter reported by the Nova Scotia schooner E. A. Sabean and carried to the West Indies. I hoped the others might be equally fortunate, but since you tell me nothing has been heard of them in all this time they must undoubtedly have been lost."

It was five o'clock in the morning of Thanksgiving Day that the ship's carpenter reported to the captain that the Johanna had her port engine opening up fast amidships. All hands were ordered to the pumps. The men worked hard, but no water was ejected. For a moment the captain was puzzled, and then he remembered his cargo—the Johanna was laden with sugar.

It was clear enough what was happening. Down in the hold, the sugar bags were swollen to the bursting point with water and were pushing up against the pumps. The men who worked hard, but no water was ejected. For a moment the captain was puzzled, and then he remembered his cargo—the Johanna was laden with sugar.

HUDSON WAS BURIED
BENEATH HUGE SEAS

Schooner Had a Rough Time in the Christmas Storm.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Jan. 2.—Bearing ugly scars of a terrific experience in the Christmas blizzard, the schooner George P. Hudson, with coal from Norfolk for Boston, arrived here today saved from ruin through the staunchness of her Maine-built hull and the grit and seamanship of her Yankee skipper. Anxiety for the safety of the Hudson had been felt in Norfolk, although the steamer Katahdin, which arrived in Boston Friday, reported having sighted the schooner on Wednesday off Five Fathombank Lightship badly crippled but refusing assistance.
