against a Liberal majority of 697 in 1885, when Glynn was elected. The Liberals say that registration has of late been entirely neglected in East Dorset, and that there have been many complaints by Liberal workingmen who have been unable to get their names on the voting list. Nevertheless, some of the best Liberal speeches of the campaign and some excellent work have triumphed over the determined ruffianism in public and intimidation in private, which have made this little borough a close Tory preserve in past years. There has been a general recovery, so far s political opinion on the Irish question is serned, of the position held before 1886. The loss on registration and by general neglect has neutralized this to some extent, and the raising of the temperance question by Mr. Glyn brought a powertheir only chance of a victory was that the rowdy element would get too drunk to

GLADSTONE ON BRITAIN'S FUTURE

Mr. Gladstone was on Saturday a participant in the exercises attending the formal opening of a recreation hall at Port Sunlight, near Birkenhead. He was one of the speechmakers appointed for the occasion. He said the newspapers were teeming with reports of political addresses, but, however, much as he desired not to speak, it was impossible that he should remain altographes silver heaves such silence.

Reports from some of the famine-stricken provinces say that the peasants are burning the hay and straw of their landlords. Stories of the distress caused by the wide-spread famine in Russia continue to be received with painful monotony. Death and pestilence caused by the character of the food to which the people have been compelled to resort in their efforts to prolong life are doing their work and daily the mortality increases. Many of the inhabitants of the various famine-stricken Mr. Chamberlain's speech, contrasted with what he said at a meeting in Wiltshire, in October, 1885, is very curious Ralisbury's challenge. Speaking later, Mr. Gladstone dealt at length with the labor question. He said idle wealth was far worse than heavy labor. The laborer had a legitimate place in God's creation, but no place had been appointed for the idle wealthy man. To his (Mr. Gladstone's) mind there was no case for alarm as to the future of workingmen. He did not believe that there would be a permanent fight between capital and labor, because he believed in the good sense and good feeling of both parties. The problem could be solved not by magic or mathematics but by a sound, civil, secular and Christian feeling and respect for mutual rights. Only within a few years had the labor party become strong. The system of profit-sharing was most attractive as an adjustment, but then came the question of how it was to be adopted in those years in which there was a loss instead of profit. In any case it was most important to give the any case it was most important to give the laborer the same interest in production as the capitalist. To this end he looked with confidence in view of the good disposition displayed on each side. Doubtless strikes helped the workers' cause, but he thought all would agree that they were only adapted to what he might call a rude state of indus-try. It was to be hoped that the workmen were now in a better position than to become compelled to have recourse to such wasteful methods. In an eloquent peroration Mr. Gladstone appealed to employers to give the workers, besides an increase of wages and a decrease of bours. of hours, a sense of common feeling with their employers, to establish a brotherhood of man and man, to look to heart and con science as well as appetite and ambition for a sclution of these difficulties—above all to look to the Providence that shapes our end, and recollected the sacred words, "Behold how good and pleasant a thing it is for the brethren to dwell together in unity."

CANADIAN ECCLESIASTICS ABROAD. The Archbishop of Montreal and the vice-rector of the university have arrived in Rome. The object of their visit is to obtain the consent of the Propaganda to the establishment of an independent civil corestablishment of an independent civil cor-poration for the university, instead of being dependent on the Quebec University. The rector of the Quebec University and Car-dinal Taschereau oppose the project. It is generally believed, however, at the Vatican that the mission of the archbishop and vice-rector will be successful.

He therefore procured seven nails, each three inches long, and yesterday hammered them into his skull. A St. Petersburg dispatch says: The imperial family have started from the Crimea on their journey to this city. Crowds of ragged and starving peasants wait on the stations along the route to present petitions to the Czar imploring heip. The gendarmes are unable to prevent the people from assembling. Reports from some of the famine-stricken incresses. Many of the inhabitants of the various famine-stricken Provinces are migrating from one part of the country to another, hoping by some stroke of fortune to improve their condition. As they are absolutely penniless, they find the task of procuring bread equally hard everywhere. The distress among the Tartars is increasing in severity. Many of them who own homesteads have abandoned them and have adopted a roving nomadic life.

Mr. Osler said-I understand the shortest Mr. Osler said—I understand the shortest time in which the residue of this trial can be completed would be five or six days. I ask, with my learned friend your Lordships to fix a time when a week can be given there being only two and a-half days after to-day at the disposal of your Lordships. I feel there should not be two adjournments, and I ask that after to-night, until it can be given that time, the trial be not continued. I understand that you cannot give that time to finish it until Jan. 18.

A man about 70 years old, living in Vienna, was recently attacked with religious mania and became impressed with the idea that he was called upon to make a sacrifice. He therefore procured seven nails, each three inches long, and yesterday ham-

He had no recollection of destroying the requisition and although he had searched for this one appears to the company had been considered to the company of the compan quisition and although he had searened for this one among the others he could not find it. Did not know whether it existed or was inadvertently destroyed; he had no reason to destroy it.

Mr. Osler—What about these tickets?

A.—They were charged to Preston.

Mr. Biake objected that this evidence was not admissable.

A. J. Boyd, registrar of the North Perth Election Trial Court at Stratford, was called and produced some documents which he got there. He had four original papers filed as exhibits in the North Perth election trial and some papers from the registrar of the South Ontario election trials.

Three of these original papers were tickets, A. I. M.; and the other, H. I, was the requisition. he requisition.

Q.—How did you get them to the station? A.—I told them to go to the station and get on a train leaving between 7 and 8 p.m.
Q.—Had you saything to de with a special train? A.—I asked Mr. Taylor if it would be possible for voters to ride in the Globe train. Afterwards I found there were too many going, and the Globe train left too soos. I told Mr. Taylor this, and the second day before the election he told me this other train was going. I told the voters.
Q.—How many got on board? A.—I didn't count them.
To Mr. Gibbons, Q.C.—My idea was to let the voters who could not afford it ride on the Globe train. There was not the slightest arrangement between me and anybody in London whereby money was to be provided to buy tickets for Toronto people. I understood the tickets were issued by the Grank Trunk free. I explained to every voter that they were tickets supplied by the Grand Trunk.

BLIND TOM'S DECLINE.

Famous Musical Predigy Passing The greatest musical wonder of the negro race—"Blind Ton"—who for years delighted the public with his remarkable performances upon the piano, is passing the closing days of his life amid the pathetic scenes of an insane asylum.

Tom, in the days of slavery, was the property of General James N. Bethune, a planter of Georgia, who, after the war moved to Virginia and took up his residence on an estate near the town of Warrenton, or of the partition will be a single partition. on an estate near the town of warrenton, one of the prettiest villages in the old commonwealth, a classic spot in the history of the war, and noted then as now for its cultivated and pleasure-loving people. Here it was, in the shadow of the beautiful Blue Ridge Mountains, that "Blind Tom's" genius unfolded itself, found vent in that atmost phere of refinement and entire and finally.

unfolded itself, found vent in that atmosphere of refinement and culture, and finally astonished the world.

His masterpiece, "The Battle of Manassas" (which was fought a few miles away), is a miracle of imaginative form. His conception of the event captivates the car with it first chord, and in the execution that follows he imitates the music of the fifer and drums, the charge of the cavalry, the thunder of the batteries, and the agony of thunder of the batteries, and the agony of the wounded and dying so faithfully that a great martial panorama seems to float through the tancy of the hearer. When a mere lad Tom would conceal him self in his master's house, and after mid night creep into the parlors and play the same airs with which his young mistres, had entertained her guests a few hours be fore, being cautious to suppress his notes by placing his foot on the "soft" pedal He was soon detected, however in this innomarvelous powers, encouraged him to play on all occasions by stealth. But his genius became so manifest that his master found it to his interest to have it cultivated and turned to profit.

Tom has been a simpleton from his birth. Tom has been a simple on from his orici.
As an evidence of his mental weakness he invariably applauded himself by clapping his hands and appeared as if in a fit of eestacy after each performance.
Although nature fashioned him simpleminded she gracefully atoned for this shortcoming, attuned his gentle soul to a weakless hereasy.

wondrous harmony.

Previous to his retirement he could reproduce the notes of the most extraordinary reformers. Eminent musicians who have tasted his acumen for music agree that he has the finest native ear for one who was sudden Recovery of a Woman Long New York, Nov. 26.-Ten years ago Miss New YORK, Nov. 20.—1en years ago Miss' Nellie Bennett, a daughter of Barnardus Bennett, of Jamaica, became afflicted with a spinal trouble, which finally deprived her of the use of her legs, so that she could not walk without the aid of crutches. At times she was confined to her bed. Three weeks ago she visited a friend, Mrs. Montfort, in India street, Greenpoint. One evening while there she had her hap full of pictures and photographs, which she was examining. While she was doing this she surprised Mrs. While she was doing this she surprised Mrs. Montfort by calling out to her to come and take away the pictures, as she was going t get up. Her actions and tone alarmed Mrs. Montfort, who said:

"Wait until I get your crutches."
"I don't want my crutches," replied Miss Bennett.
"I feel that I can walk without them."

Miss Bennett is about 40 years old and quite stont. The answer startled Mrs. Montfort, but she was more amazed when Miss Bennett arose from her chair and started to walk across the floor. At first her step was wavering and undecided, but it became firm before she walked across the it became firm before she walked across the room. Mrs. Montfort wanted to help her, but she needed no help. She was so elated over her recovery that her friends had difficulty in restraining her from exhausting herself. The following Wednesday she returned to her home in Jamaica. Her mother caught sight of her entering the house without the aid of crutches and, it is said, she actually fainted. Then her sister, Mrs. Siney, saw her and she, too, it is declared, fainted.

When Miss Bennett appeared in the streets of Jamaica without the aid of her crutches she was greeted with astonishment by her friends. Her recovery appears to be permanent.

Dr. P. M. Wood, of Jamaica, who h Dr. P. M. Wood, of Jamaica, who ha attended her for more than twelve years said her sudden restoration was remarkable. He saw she was afflicted with paralysis of the spine, and that palsy of the lower had of the body had fully developed. She had not received any treatment for her malad for three years.

In describing her recovery, Miss Bennet says only that she suddenly felt life rus through her limbs. She felt she could walk and on the impulse she stood up.

Strathroy was in a ferment on Thursday evening. Mrs. Taylor, mother-in-law of C. B. Edwards, the recently-appointed head master of the Hamilton road school in London, started to pay a visit to Mrs. English about 3 o'clock. The distance was about half a mile. At the expiry of a couple of hours a messenger was sent for her, when it was found that she had never reached her destination. A search was then instituted, a number of friends of the family taking part therein, and about 10 o'clock the fire bell was rung, and the citizens turned out en masse, the search continuing during the night. One party of about twenty worked at the tallen bridge on Kittridge avenue, having been informed that a lady answering the description of Mrs. Taylor had been seen going west from Head street. NOTICE TO CLEAR OUT AGAIN GIVEN.

It is officially announced from Ottawa that the Dominion Government intends to apply for the extradition of Owen Murphy and Robert McGreevy, now in New York. These men are accused, with the Connollys, of aiding in the robbery of the Dominion treasury. It was first heralded from the housetops that they were to be prosecuted. That intimation of Sir John Thompson gave them time to clear out, and avoid arrest. They are now informed that it is time for them to get into a country from which they cannot be extradited. They have queer ways of doing justice at Ottawa these days. They do not wish to try any of these men if they can help it, for the good reason that they are known to possess ecrets affecting the present managers at Ottawa that would still further damage them in the eves of the people. deceived by the comedy now in progress over the books of the firm of L nolly & Co. There are 12 seminaries, 28 classical colleges, 487 pensionnats and academies, 2,782 schools for boys and girls, 148 hospitals and 105 religious communities. The clergy is made up of 1 cardinal, 30 archbishops and bishops, 2,363 priests and 405 ecclesiastics.

HARD WORK FOR STATESMEN.

HARD WORK FOR STATESMEN.

[London World.]

There has recently been a discussion in some of the papers as to whother any British statesmen was ever killed by hard work. Putting aside Mr. Pitt and Mr. Canning, who are the statesmen invariably mentioned in support of the contention, it is a fact that in 1846 Sir Bobert Peel told to Once, that he would never again take the Queen that he would never again take office, because he could not forget that official work and worry had made Lord Castlereagh a maniac and Lord Liverpool an idiot. I have heard that a minute of the very remarkable conversation which took very remarkable conversation which took place between the Queen, Prince Albert and Sir Robert Peel, when that statesman resigned in 1846, is preserved in the private library at Buckingham Palace, which contains a unique collection of political papers, consisting of every letter and memorandum which has been written to or fear the Ocean downing the present rejer. nemorandum which has been written to or the Queen during the present reign, and all the correspondence connected with ninisterial changes.

THE ENGLISH LIBERAL LEADER. The Veteran Statesman in Vigorous Health and High Spirits,

London, Nov. 28.—The British Medical Journal states that it has the best authority for absolutely denying the statement that Mr. Gladstone has continued to fail in and that be goes to the Riviera owing to his feeble condition. The exact reverse of all this, says the Journal, is the truth. Mr. Gladstone Journal, is the truth. Mr. Glasstone is in vigorous health; in fact, for a man of his years. So far from being enfeebled, he is in a state of high physical vigor, mental activity and good spirits. He did not suffer in the least from his exertions at the Newcastle meeting. So paseless is the rumor affecting his health, baseless is the rumor allecting his health, that it may be said that Sir Andrew Clarke, Mr. Gladston's physician, is no longer in regular attendance upon the distinguished patient, and does not think it necessary to visit him before the journey.

ELMIRA, Nov. 28.—The Waterloo Junction Railway, from Waterloo to Elmira, was officially opened to-day by a grand excursion and Banquet. At 1:80 over 300 left Elmira and St. Jacobs for Berlin, returning at 3:30, when over 600 were on board, together with the Waterloo and Berlin bands. A banquet was held in the evening, at which 1:00 to 200 guests were present. Mr. W. B. Snider, M. P. P. for North Waterloo presided, assisted by Warden Umbach, of Waterloo; Reeve Bitseer, of Berlin, and Reeve Erb, of Elmira. This road runs ten miles north from Waterloo, through St. Jacobs to Elmira, and was built by J. C. Boyd, contractor. It was bonused by Woolwich township, St. Jacobs, Elmira and Peel to the extent of $47,000 and the Government granted $35,200. The balance was supplied by the G. T. R., which will control and operate the road. It runs through a rich country and will have a direct train daily to and from Toronto. To Mr. Snider, M. P. P., and Mr. Wragge is due the chief credit for the railway, aided as they have been by the other members of the local board, Messrs. Dr. Walmsley, Elmira; Dr. Wells, Waterloo, and J. L. Sad Event at Sea.

A sad occurrence happened recently on the steamer obdam, by which two lives were lost. The steamer started from Rotterdam, Holland, to New York, having on board Jacob Holtzman, his mile and their child, 18 months old. On the voyage the woman went up on the top deck to get some fresh air. While there a stove fell over on her, crushing her to death. The sight of her body being cast into its watery grave drove her husband insane, and he committed suicide by cutting his throat. The little child reached New York in safety and was taken care of by friends who had assembled to meet Holtzman and his family. The orphan is now in a Chicago hospital.

The Newsboys' Home-Lost a Hand-Drowned in the Bay.

Toronto, Nov. 28.—The new Victoria College building is advancing rapidly. The walls are completed and the roofing has been begun.

The 23rd annual meeting of the Newsboys' Home was held yesterday afternoon at the home on Frederick street. The annual report says the conduct of the boys is on the whole good; in fact as good as could be expected from boys of this class. The majority of them are either friendless orphans without a home or boys who are forced to seek shelter in the institution on account of criminal or drunken parents. The transient lodgers number 298. Total receipts, $4,459 62; balance in hand, $18 43, besides which the board has $500 invested.

About 1 o'clock yesterday morning a sailor named Arsene Jean, who had been engaged all season on the schooner Shickluna slipped from a plank at the foot of Church street and fell into the bay between the wharf and the boat and was drowned. He had received $180 for his season's work during the afternoon from the captain, but foul play was not suspected, as over $150 were found on the body, and Jean had spent quite a sum during the evening.

Three Whalebacks.

Duluth, Nov. 28.—The keel has been laid by the American Steel Barge Works for three American whalebacks. Each will carry 140,000 bushels of wheat, drawing fifteen feet of water. They will be 365 feet long, 40 feet beam, 20 feet deep, and are to be built exclusively for the lake trade.

The Whale Hemicide.

STRATFORD, Ont., Nov. 28.—Daniel Wale, of Mitchell, a former Toronto hotelkeeper, who is now serving a life sentence for killing his wife, is reported to have made a confession about the time of the coroner's inquest o the effect that on the 30th November, 1890, he had an altercation with his son-in-law, Seldon, and the latter threw him out of the bar of the Royal Hotel. Some days after, during the course of a quarrel, Mrs. Whale had twitted him about being thrown out of the hotel. He said he became very angr, and told her if she ever mentioned the matter to him again he would kill her. On the morning of the tragedy Mrs. Whale again mentioned the affair to him in a sneering manner. Being under the influence of liquor he became so enraged that he seized an empty bottle and struck her a powerful blow on the head, and that was the blow that drove the skull in and finally produced death. He then threw the bottle behind the woodpile in the yard, where it has been found since.

Electricity as Applied by the Owen Electric Belt and Appliances

Is now recognized as the greatest boon offered to suffering humanity. It has, does and will effect cures in seemingly hopeless cases where every other known means has failed. We give the most positive proof that rheumatism and nervous diseases cannot exist where it is thus applied. It is nature's remedy. By its steady, soothing current, that is readily felt, it will cure:

RHEUMATISM.

RHEUMATISM.

It is certainly not pleasant to be compelled to refer to the indisputable fact that medical accionce has utterly failed to afford relief in rheumatic cases. We venture the assertion that aithough electricity has only been in use as a remedial agent for a few years, it has cured more cases of Rheumatism than all other means combined. Some of our leading physicians, recognizing this fact, are availing themselves of this most potent of nature's forces.

selves of this most potent of nature's forces.

To Restore Manhood and Womanhood.

As man has not yet discovered all of nature's laws for right living it follows that everyone has committed more or loss errors which have left visible blemishes. To erase these evidences of past errors there is nothing known to medical science that will compare with Electricity as applied by the Owen Electric Body Battery. Rest assured any doctor who would try to accomplish this by any kind of drugs is practicing a most dangerous form of charlatanism. We Challenge the World to show an Electric Helt where the current is under the control of the patient as completely as this. We can use the same belt on an infant that we would on a giant, by simply reducing the current. Other belts have been in the market for five and ten years longer, but to day there are more Owen Belts mannifactured, and sold than all other makes combined.

Beware of Imitations and Cheap Belts.

Our attention having been attracted to an imitation of the genuine Owen Belt that is being pedied through the country from town town, we desire to warn the public against such Messrs. Brener Bros., the successful manufacturers of Nos. 182-190 Horton street, London, are in the field with a new leader, which has been happily named "THHH. PATROT," They intend to make this cigar popular wherever the Union Jack and Stars and Stripes float. It is a Cuban hand-made cigar, of which the filler is all Havana, mild and fragrant. The label, which is the design of the Patrol Co., is strikingly original. The words in which the names of the manufacturers occur at appropriate intervals. Nothing in the way of at label that is so simple, and at the same time so rich and attractive, has been originated, and it would be impossible to present to the trade a more elegant package. "The Patrol," cigar is certain to win instant recognition, and to increase largely the annual output of its manufacturers.

This that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps of swellings; which causes painful ruming sores on the arms, logs, or feet; which develops allers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors." It is a more formidable enemy than consumption cancer alone, for scrofula combines the worst possible features of both. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it. How can it be cured? By taking Hood's Sargarailla, which, by the cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine from strong and the course it has affected are really wonderful. The differences in these features of the situation are not meantime to be regarded as constituting danger of war as both the Russian and French Governments desire to assure a strict application of the existing treaties by pacific means. M. de Giers has further communicated the fact that no treaty has as yet been signed and has intimated that the French Ministers desire the conclusion of a formal contract as alone properly defining future responsibilities and rendering it possible to pursue a distinct policy before Europe, while at the same time avoiding the represents of cherishing warlike designs. BEGIN AT THE BEGINNING. The Work of Prison Reform-Starting with the Children-Recommenda-tions of the Commission Indorsed. Toronto, Nov. 28.—About 150 delegates from the various philanthropic organizations of the Province and from the various public institutions met yesterday morning as the Ontario Prison Reform Confesence. Dr. E. A. Meredith presided, and W. H. Howland made the opening address.

Dr. Rosebrugh read letters of regret at inability to attend from many leading public men. Hon. Mr. Mowat wrote that the subject of prison reform was one in which he took a deep interest, and he was "glad it was receiving the attention of the Prisoners' Aid Association."

Judge McDonald writes: "May I suggest that due attention be given by the conference to our present wretched county jail system of imprisonment of convicted of fenders?"

about 200 white and colored people in the room, and speeches were made.
Q.—Was Mr. Hyman there? A.—He came in and spoke a short time. I saw him doing nothing else.
Q.—Did you know who was there? A.—I saw no beer nor anyone drinking. Some man came in endeavoring to sell pige' feet. He sold some.
Q.—Is that all you saw? A.—Yes.
To Mr. Gibbous—A mob was outside making a disturbance.
Alfred Talbot was called upon and he did not answer.

To Mr. Meredith—I was at three band room meetings. Was told by John Stevenson to come as the band had been engaged, and Mr. Thomas Hobbs would make it all vight.

The witness Nathan Martin continued: Saw Mr. Harper, Mr. Hobbs, Mr. Durkin, Mr. Talbot and W. S. Niles at another meeting at 8 o'clock. They asked how the crowd were going. Wm. Brown, Hobbs, Fountain and Wm. Berry spoke. There were two quarter-kegs of lager drank that night. It was drank by the crowd—white and colored. Crackers and cheese were given out with the beer. The meeting was on when I left at 10:30. The beer was all gone then. Didn't see Mr. Carrothers there that night. A subscription list was passed around that night; it was for band instruments.

Judge Ferguson said he could scarcely credit that so much beer had been consumed by so few people.

Witness—People were coming in and going out all the time. Horace Duncan was the last man I saw with the subscription list.

Mr. Blake objected to the line of examination. It was irregular.

Judge Ferguson thought so, too. They must first show that there was money subscribed by an agent. Then the counsel could show what he paid while doing the act. Witness said he saw some of these parties sign a paper.

Mr. Blake again objected.

Judge Ferguson sustained the objection.

The examination was then adjourned till the book was produced.

but an ordinary day coach for the accommodation of way passengers was attached to the rear, and it was this which suifered. The Flintand Pere Marquette engine plowed its way through the car until the pilot was more than midway of the coach. The seats and floor were torn up, and the unfortunate passengers, braised and maimed, were badly scalded by the escaping steam from the broken pipes. The crash is described by those who heard it as terrific.

A NARROW MARGIN.

The time of arrival of the Flint and Pere Marquette train is 4:55; that of the Lake Shore train 4:55—thus giving but two minutes between them. The former train seems to have been a socuple of minutes between them. The former train seems to have been a socuple of minutes between them. The former train says that just as he was coming to the tunnel, running fast, he saw the rear lights of the Lake Shore train and believed it to be in the tunnel. Knowing a collision in evitable, he shut off steam and both he and his fireman jumped, escaping with a few bruises, they knowing that a collision in the tunnel would give them no chance for life. The list of casualties reported at this hour is as follows:

The severed hand of a laboring man, probably a brakeman, was found in the wrecked car, but so far the injured man has not been discovered. The car entirely envelops the engine as far as the cab, the two being wedged closely together.

No one in either train was hurt save those in the wrecked day coach and the conductor of the Flint and Pere Marquette train.

The Lake Shore officials are inclined to put the blame on the Flint and Pere Mar-quette train. The engineer of that train is a new hand, and it was his first run over

The results of the accident have been more serious than at first feared. The wounded sustained more serious injury than was supposed at the time. Nearly all were frightfully scalded and burned about the face and hands, and many will be dis-figured for life.

Nea looked like the embodiment of spring as she stood there in her white gown. Selow her was the cool green garden of the equare where she had played as a child, with the long morning shadows lying on the grass; around her were the twitterings of the house-martins and the cheeping of sparrows under the eaves; from the distance came the perfumy breath of violets. Such days make the blood course tumultuously through the veins of youth, when with the birds and all the live young things that sport in the sunshine, they feel that mere existence is a joy and a source of endless gratitude.

I have no reason there was a terror and confusion in Belgrave House. Nea, flitting like a humming-bird from flower to flower, was ruddenly startled by the sound of heavy jolting footsteps on the stairs, and, coming out of the corridor, she saw stange men carrying the insensible figure of her father to his room. She uttered a shrill cry and sprung toward them, but a gentleman who was following them put her gently saide, and telling her that he was a doctor, and that he would come to her presently, quietly closed the door.

Nea, sitting on the stairs and weeping passionately, heard from a sympathizing bystander the little there was to tell.

Mr. Huntingdon had met with an accident in one of the crowded city lanes. His horse had shied at some passing ebject and had thrown him—here Nea uttered a low cry—but that was not all.

His horse had flung him at the feet of a very Juggernaut, a mighty wagon piled with wool bales nearly as high as a house. One of the leaders had backed on his haunches at the unexpected obstacle; but the other, a foolish young horse, reared, and in a pother moment would certainly have trodden out the brains of the insensible man, had not a youth—a mere boy—suddenly rushed from the crowded footpath
