CHOIR'S ANNUAL DINNER

Second of Kind in Connection With First Presbyterian Church.

The second annual dinner of the Peanut Vendor Has Two Charges to choir of the First Presbyterian Church was held in the schoolroom of the church last night. Rev. W. J. Clark, the members of the music committee, Mr. Clarence Gilmore, and Mr. Joseph non-payment of wages, laid by Joseph Saunders, were present, in addition to about 40 members of the choir. Owing to Friday night's practice, representatives from other choirs were unable to be present.

The supper, a substantial one of oysters and fowl, was in charge of a committee of ladies of the choir. It was followed by a short programme of toasts, introduced by the chairman, Mr. keeping a vicious dog. The dog attacked Miss Eliza Kelly, while she C. G. Jarvis, J. I. Anderson, J. Saunders, Clarence Gilmore, Geo. C. Phelps and Rev. W. J. Clark responded, the speeches emphasizing the pleasant relations that exist between the pastor, music committee and congregation, on the one hand, and the organist and choir on the other.

In the intervals between the speeches, songs by Mr. Crawford and Miss Green, and recitations by Miss Carmichael, enlivened things. After a vote of thanks to the committee of ladies, moved by Messrs. W. H. Phelps and E. S. Crawford, and the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," the meeting broke up, after one of the jolliest evenings that good spirits, a good supper and mutual goodwill combined,

Now Is a Good Time to Buy Christmas Umbrellas

No hurrying crowds, no jostling, no crowding-you can take your time and choose carefully, if you come to our Umbrella Department now.

And our collection of Christmas Umbrellas is complete. Widest choice if you select now .- Quite the largest and most comprehensive assortment of Umbrellas shown in Western Ontario, we believe.

When you make a present of an Umbrella selected at the Satisfactory Store you can rest assured that the recipient will always feel kindly disposed toward you.

Our Umbrellas are not the kind which sport handsome handles, but have deceptivelooking coverings-the kind that look allright at first, but soon display a tendency to go to pieces and look shabby, and cause the recipient to harbor unkind thoughts towards the donor. Be sure of your store when choosing gift Umbrellas, for there are lots of these deceptive-appearing Umbrellas placed on the market 'round Christmas time.

We buy Umbrellas on the principle that they are intended as a protection against the rain - otherwise a cane would do just as well. We select the coverings first-see to it that they are made of strong, thoroughly waterproof, long-wearing materials. We choose the handles afterwards—always with our eyes wide open for the newest and most handsome styles. And because we buy such immense quantities we are able to get prices down to the lowest notch-and the price advantages we secure we share with you, as very likely you

THE APPROACHING SESSION.

The Dominion Parliament will reassemble on Nov. 22. It will be a bustsession, and the Government will do well to submit its measures, especially its tariff proposals, without loss of time. A revision of the tariff is aldisturbing to the industries of the country, and producers should not be kept in suspense longer than

The bill must be already in an advanced stage of preparation, if not actually completed, but the secret has been strictly guarded. In 1897 the public had no inkling of a preference on Britfish imports until Mr. Fielding announced it in the House. The antidumping provision was another surprise two years ago. The intense interest with which the revision of the tariff was awaited nine years ago is wanting on this occasion, because the work was done so thoroughly then, and the consequences have been so satisfactory, that no radical amendments are expected or demanded by the mass of the people.

An experiment new to this countrya triple scale of duties-is to be incorporated in our fiscal system, and there is a mild curiosty as to how it is to be worked out. A maximum tariff is to be applied to foreign countries which confront us with excessive duties. The minimum or general tariff will be lev-1ed on the products of countries which are disposed to cultivate our commercial friendship. Below this scale of duties will be the preferential tariff on imports from Great Britain, and from British colonies which accord us pre Cerential treatment. The guess may be hazarded that the minimum tariff will not vary greatly from our present general tariff.

"Relieving as I do that there was victim of an innocent man, I have deemed it my duty to analyze this evidence at length."

The judge has no doubt, after his careful analysis, that the hotelkeeper, at Toronto. Butler, tried to blackmail the Liberal candidate, Mr. Hepburn, by threatening to connect his name with two disorderly women who were brought to Butler's hotel, at the instance of Butler himself, when Mr. Hepburn chanced to be there. Mr. Hepburn refused to pay over the hush-money, and the judge animadverts severely upon the fact that the prosecution was delayed and brought on at a time calculated to damage his political cand-

CHAMBERLAIN AND HIS BED-FELLOWS.

The British Chancellor of the Exchequer, in supporting, in the Imperial House of Commons, the bill for the abolition of plural voting, quoted from an address by Mr. Chamberlain, while he was fighting the battle of the common people under Mr. Gladstone, and before he had gone over to "the enemy." Mr. Chamberlain said:

"I am in favor of the principle of one man one vote, and I object altogether to the plural representation of property. I will take my own case. I am a terrible example. .

"I have three votes for as many borough constituencies, and I have three votes for as many county constituencies: that is to say, I have six votes. I use them on the right side. I consider this is an anomaly altogether inconsistent with the principle for which we stand. That principle is that every householder, at all events, has an equal stake in the good government of the country; and his life, his happiness, his property depend on legislation which he is equally entitled with every one else to assist in framing. If we are to make any distinction. I am not quite certain whether it is not the poor man who ought to have more votes than the rich man; for, after all, his interests are more direct than the rich man's, and if you have bad legislation you lessen the income of the one and destroy altogether his means of subsistence." He was content to support the Government's proposals by quoting that admirable state-

It is too bad that the member for Birmingham was by ill-health prevented from being in his place while Mr. Asquith was thus adducing his unanswerable argument against the existing discrimination in favor of the rich man and against the great mass of the and offenders bill, which provides that people. ### PROSPEROUS PALESTINE.

[Chicago Tribune.] The Holy Land is flowing with milk and oney. The stimulus given to Palestine rade is in great measure due to plentiful rains and subsequent good cereal and orange crops and the absence of quantiative restrictions. Twenty years ago the revenue was about $50,000, while last year it was estimated at $200,000. Another incentive to trade is the annually growing number of tourists who now visit the country in spring and autumn, arriving requently in specially chartered vessels. At Gaza the Government purposes to build a sea jetty, which would give an impetus to trade there, as at present there is only an open roadstead, and whenever the sea is rough the loading or discharging of cargoes is impracticable. ### ONE OF FEW FAILURES.

[Toronto Saturday Night.] As a platform orator the late Jame Fahey had few superiors, and usually carried his audiences with him when he undertook to voice his opinions on public affairs. Like many other gifted orator, however, he had his "off-days," when the personal magnetism did not work, and when the fickle audience would listen to neither rhyme nor reason. One of these occasions caught Fahey in the Chatham town hall during a by-election, when Henry Smyth and Dr. Sampson were pull ing and hauling for first place at the polls. "Jim," as he was familiarly called, had made a reference to a previou speaker that was not in accordance with the facts, and the audience placed itself unmistakably on record that a retraction was in order, and the chairman of the meeting decided that a retraction should be made. Fahey retracted by saying: "Mr. Chairman, I bow and before he could get any further the clear-cut tones of Hon. # Straight Piano Selling

. The sliding-price method of selling planos is more or less of a fake game, with odds greatly in favor of the purchaser being persuaded by some wily salesman to give more for the piano than it is really worth. Certainly it seems strange that this old-time sliding-price method should have survived so many years, when it is so obviously unfair and unjust. Possibly-and we can think of no other reason-the cause of this sliding-price method still being in force is because it is rather profitable. It is often easier to get more money out of some people than others, because some don't know as much about pianos as others. And how are you to know whether you will get in "on the ground floor" or be "held up?" There's one way to make sure of getting a square deal every time, and that's to go where they sell pianos on the One-Price System. And that's here

-at Nordheimer's. No confidence game—no inside track—no rake-offs to friends—no discounts to anybody except 10 per cent for those who desire to pay spot cash. A' square deal for everybody-that's the Nordheimer principle, and it means safe piano-buying for you. We are not looking for immediate returns only, but are building for future business as well. That's why we have adopted the fairest, squarest, most satisfactory system—the One-Price System—for selling pianos. A satisfied customer is not slow to tell his or her friends about our methods of doing business. And we are doing our utmost to satisfy every single customer, as you will see for yourself when you drop in to see us. Courteous salesmen are always ready to give you all the information you desire, whether you are ready or not to buy a piano. And we think we can demonstrate beyond all doubt that the Nordheimer piano is the best piano built in Canada. Easy terms, if you desire. Small cash payment down; balance in small monthly installments.

Today's Rugby match at Dundas, between the pigskin artists of tha place and our own tailenders, will settle all arguments as to whether it will be Dundas or the Hamilton Cubs who play off for the Dominion championship in the intermediate class with the Argos. The race this season between the Cubs and the Valley crowd has been very close. Up to date the Cubs have defeated London twice, the first time by a score of 29-0, and later by a score of 15 to 11. Dundas has met the local team but once this season, and the game resulted in a victory for the Valley aggregation by a score of 15-2. The Cubs were walloped to the tune of 13 to 6 in the first struggle with Dundas, but managed to turn the tables in last Saturday's game when they won out by a score of 7 to 6. If Dundas loses today's game it will be out of the race entirely.

PROBE SYSTEM

His Roads Thought To Be Operating Under Plan Like the Northern Securities.

Washington, Nov. 9.-A general investigation of what is known as the riman system of railroads, under authority conferred by law, is one of the subjects that has been disby the inter-state commerce sion. Because of the pressure work now before the commission the great amount of labor and time involved in such an undertaking, matter has thus far been considered only in an informal and tentaway and no final decision has been reached as to when the proposed inquiry shall begin or the methods to be followed in securing informa-

The propriety of an investigation of the system has been talked by the members of the commission for some time and that body, it is said, really stands committed to an inquiry.

"We have been informed," a member of the commission said tonight, "that this system, in some of its features, is not unlike the Northern Securities Company, which was dissolved through the interposition of the Attorney-General of the United States."

Any steps which may be taken by the commission along the lines referred to will be, it is said, in accordance with the general powers of the commission conferred by law, and not because of any immediate specific complaint of a violation of the statutes. In January, if time permits, the commission will take up the complaint of the municipality of Spokane against the Northern Pacific, the Great Northern, the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, the Union Pacific and the Oregon Short Line Railroads, involving alleged discrimination in charging a higher rate for a shorter than for a longer haul.

This complaint was the first filed with the commission under the amended inter-state commerce act. It is regarded as of considerable importance, as its disposition will logically have a bearing on the whole question of transportation in the west from the Canadian border to Mexico, and Chicago and St. Louis to the Pacific coast. It is also of importance with the proposed investigation of the Harriman system, whose territory and connecting lines cover a large portion

THE LORD'S DAY ALLIANCE

Annual Convention of the Organization Now Being Held at Toronto.

Toronto, Nov. 9 .- With a good attendance of delegates the eleventh an-Alliance opened today in Knox Church, Rev. George Orman conducting the devotional part.

The principal report was that of the executive, which had been drafted by Rev. T. Albert Moore, general secretary, and adopted by the committee yesterday. It contained a concise summary analyzing the new Dominion Lord's Day act so far as concerns new points affecting the Province of Ontario.

The important points which are said to be a decided gain over the former position of the Province include the following advantages:

That the great railway companies are for the first time put under the laws as to Sunday labor, traffic, and that the entire business of railway news agents on trains is prohibited on the Lord's Day.

Sunday excursions for the object of pleasure are absolutely prohibited. The employers of lads for distribution of Sunday-imported papers are put under heavy penalties.

Those permitted to work on Sunday are given one full day off during the Advertising anything prohibited by the act, such as theatricals or sports, even though the performances are given in another country. Any prohibited work in loading or unloading freight vessels is limited to the close of navigation, and in the case of grain, coal, or ore carriers, work must be done before 7 in the morning and after 7 at night. No freight vessel can start out on Livery hiring is restricted for the personal use of the hirer or his family. This will do away with the tally-ho, so often seen on the streets on Sunday. Ferries can only operate when authorized by a competent authority to carry passengers on Sunday. This shuts out mere excursion traffic carried on by certain steamers under a ferry license. The main prohibitory clause forbids not only working at one calling, but doing the work of another for gain. This applies to members of brass bands and singers. These can only perform on the Lord's Day in connection with divine worship or where they give their services free. The last paragraph, which forbids any action or prosecution for a violation of this act without the leave of the Attorney-General for the Province said to be not so satisfactory, but the alliance expressed a hope that this ction would not seriously hinder the enforcement of the law. Treasurer's Statement.

The treasurer, Dr. Chas. J. Copp. in s statement showed receipts to be 6.941, and a balance of $110 in cash, and $275 in the bank. The reports of he several branches of the work which were of a detailed nature, were included in that of the executive.

At the meeting this afternoon the sident gave his address, which dwelt apon the progress of the work since he organization of the alliance. Rev. D. W. Snider, of Mount Forest. appointed minute secretary.

Add PHOSPHORUS and you have FERROL

For many years it has been recognized by physicians everywhere that Cod Liver Oil and Iron should be given in combination if possible, as where one is required the other is in all probability needed, too, each enhancing the value of the other.

Strange to say, although many attempts have been made, no one ever succeeded in combining the oil and iron until, quite recently, a Canadian physician, after some years of study and experiment, managed to solve the problem He then added just a little phosphorus; the result is Even so great an orator as Mr. Gladstone got his tongue tangled, and was frequently guilty of little lapses. My friend, the parliamentary reporter, pointed out several singular mistakes in his speeches, like: "I will not reiterate what I was going to say." "If I have not already said it, I will repeat that." "The time has come, indeed, if it is not already rapidly approaching." You would expect such confusing contradictions from one who is unaccustomed to extemporaneous speaking, but certainly not from a man of Mr.

Gladstone's experience. You will remember the remark of been cited as "the most perfect Irish evening next. > My friend the reporter tells me that one of the funniest scenes that ever occurred in the House of Commons was due to an innocent remark made by Robert Spencer, who is now Lord Althorp. His lordship was one of the greatest dandies of the House. He was noted for his fastidiousness in dress, and had a very effeminate voice and manner. One evening he appeared in the House in an immaculate dress-suit, with a white tie, a white waistcoat, and dangling a pair of white kid gloves in his hand. When his turn to speak came he arose and with the utmost solemnity began:

"Mr. Speaker, I am not an agricultural laborer."

From anyone else such a remark would have attracted no attention, but from him in the costume he was then wearing it sounded so ludicrous that the House roared with laughter, and it was fully ten minutes before he could go on with his speech

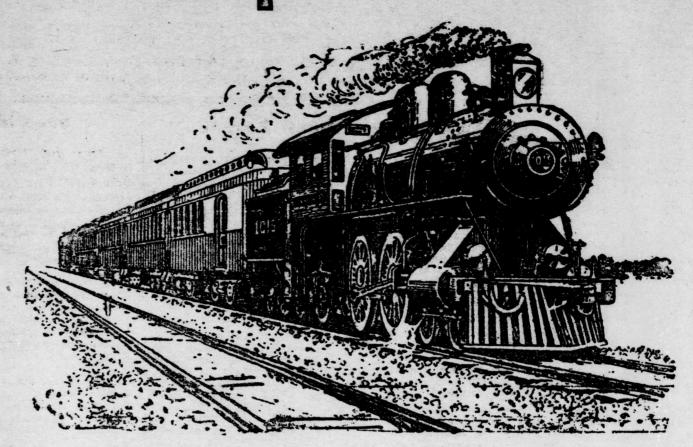

The rule of cloture in the House of Commons, for closing a debate when everything possible has been said concerning the subject under consideration, is accepted by everybody as a wise and just proposition, and members of the British Parliament often express their surprise that a similar regulation has been opposed with such determination by parliamentarians in the United States. They declare that it is the most valuable regulation they

Such a rule is therefore quite as necessary in the British House of Commons as in any other legislative body.

Free Trip to Toronto

We're setting a new pace for retail business by refunding railroad fares to out-of-town customers and giving them the same shopping privileges as city people. Toronto is head-center for style and quality, especially in Furs, and anyone wanting the best must of necessity come or send here. We believe in seeing all there is to see and choosing from the best and fullest assortments. Out-of-town people buying Furs here this month will get their

Railroad Fares Refunded

Which amounts to a very considerable concession. No other store has ever made any such liberal offer at this season of year, and with all prices marked in plain figures, the genuineness of the proposition is beyond all question.

The point we're aiming at is to put Dineen Furs in larger evidence all over Canada. We claim preeminence in every detail of style, quality and value, and welcome the most criticial comparison from any and every source. We insist that this is Headquarters for Furs, with enormously big stocks held subject to your approval. The styles we show and the assortments we control make it well worth a trip to Toronto -doubly so now that you can come at our expense.

The offer of free transportation is limited to one month, and is based on the following conditions:

During November we will refund one round-trip railroad, steamboat or trolley fare from any place within a radius of FIFTY MILES of TORONTO to each individual spending not less than TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS at the Dineen Store.

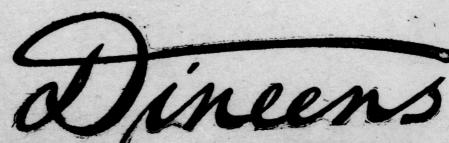

Round-trip fare will likewise be refunded to any person who comes from a point within ONE HUNDRED MILES and over 50 miles of Toronto whose total purchases at the Dineen store amount to at least FIFTY DOL-LARS.

Persons living at a greater distance will be credited on the same basis. For instance, anyone coming 150 miles will be allowed a rebate for 100 miles on a $50 purchase—the balance to be paid by themselves.

Our name has always stood for a certain forwardness in trade, and with times good and plenty of money in sight we purpose doubling our lead and giving Dincen Furs the prominence they deserve Instead of mapping out a big Mail Order campaign we discount our own best efforts by inviting outof-town people to the store at our expense. You can more readily believe the evidence of your own eyes, and the impression you get of this store and its Furs will prove to be the best advertising we have ever done.

THINKS DIRECTORS KNEW OF TROUBLE

Former Ontario Bank Official Wouldn't Sanction Alleged Irregularities.

Toronto, Nov. 9. - The examination of Charles McGill, ex-general manager of the Ontario Bank, upon the preliminary charge of issuing false statements to the Government, today developed several interesting phases. The examination was conducted by

Crown Attorney Corley, with James Bicknell, K. C., and Hon. A. B. Morine, present, upon behalf of the Canadian McKay appearing for Mr. McGill. J. L. Langton, the former chief accountant of the Ontario Bank, was an important witness, and obtained at the suggestion of his counsel, N. W. Rowell, K. C., the protection of the court. Mr. Langton declared that he left the service of the bank in 1903 because he was unwilling to longer be a party to the publication of statements which he knew to be incorrect. At that time Mr. Langton was inclined to believe that the directors were aware of the speculative nature of the bank's investments and of the facts that these were being concealed in the returns to the Government. He swore to seeing the president, G. R. R. Cockburn, and General Manager

HOLDS BOYS BEFORE TRAIN

A Texas Father Commits a Terrible Crime While Intoxicated.

Trinidad, Col., Nov. 9. - A tragedy was enacted three miles out of Childress, Tex., on the Colorado and Southern Railway, which shows the depravity to which strong drink will lead a human being.

Two little boys, scarcely more than babes, were deliberately held in front of a passenger train by their father, who stood in the center of the track and calmly awaited death.

The man's name is C. A. Carham The train was late into Childress, and was running at a high rate of speed to make up lost time, when three miles out, as the engine rounded a sharp curve, the engineer saw a man and two little boys standing on the track. Bankers' Association, and Mr. R. L. The father was standing directly between the rails, holding with each hand one of his sons.

A shrill blast of the whistle was given, but the man never moved. The youngsters vainly tried to pull away from their father, but were held firmly. The engineer reversed and threw on the brakes, but it was too late. The engine hurled their bodies from its path, the father dead, the boys fatally injured.

Before using Herpicide the top of my head was completely bald, but the use of only two bottles has brought a new growth of hair. I had spent between $30 and $50 on other remedies, but failed to derive any benefit until using your Herpicide. I cannot commend this remedy too highly to any with dandruff, baldness or falling hair." (Signed) CLARENCE HAMILTON.

Atlanta Police Department,

WHILE CHRONIC BALDNESS is incurable, many cases of primary or incipient baldness have been completely cured with Newboro's Herpicide, the original remedy that "kills the dandruff germ." Of course, the rational plan is to save the hair while there is hair to save, but even after it is gone there is a "fighting chance" if the hair follicles are not atrophied. Herpicide stops itching of the scalp instantly.

LOOK UP TO STUDY EARTH.

It may seem strange, but it is nevertheless true, that we have learned more about the state of the earth's interior from examining its behavior with respect to the sun and the moon than from any actual samples of its interior. Samples from the depths of the earth are ejected every once and a while by volcanoes, but these have given us very erroneous ideas of the make-up of our planet. We used to be taught in school that the earth is a Does fit olten mass surrounded by a thin crust of solid matter. This was a natural in- Doesn't ference, based on the lava thrown out from the volcanoes. Furthermore, it has Shrink long been known that the earth grows hotter the further we penetrate into the Interior. For every 50 feet of depth there is a rise in temperature of one degree Fahrenheit, so that at 100 miles below the surface we would reach a heat sufficient to melt and vaporize all known elements.

But astronomers tell us that notwithstanding this evidence the earth cannot be fluid inside, for if it were the moon and I Trade Mark sun would raise great tides in the molten sea, tides so powerful that were the crust of the earth 100 miles thick and of solid steel it would bend under the enormous pressure and rise and fall just as do the tides of the ocean. One of the very best proofs that the earth does not bend in this way is the fact that the ocean does have tides, because if the floor of the ocean were bulked up just as much as is the surface, the depth of water would always remain the same, and there would be no visible tide. Undoubtedly the earth is distorted a trifle under the attraction twenty-fifth of an inch in diameter it the waer through, it may be made to of the moon, but just how much it is

Mr. Thomas Petry, of Aylmer, Que., was troubled with severe heart complaint for five years, the pain, at times, being so severe that he could not attend to business. Every other remedy failed until he tried Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart, which gave immediate relief, and his words are these: "I have now taken four bottles of the remedy and am entirely free from every symptom of heart disease."

A cold in the head need not be trifled with, for it is catarrh in an incipient condition, and catarrh is not to be trifled with. ### "THERE SIMPLY ISN'T ANY OTHER LIKE IT," SAYS LEW FIELDS.

"'Blindfolded' simply cannot be compared. The plot 'blindfolded' me until the last page of the book. It is the greatest combination novel and detective story that I have ever read. In fact, it is easy to say it is the best of its kind, because there simply isn't any other like it. The minute I finished reading it I started right in to read it the second time, and I cannot remember when any other book has been so fascinating and exciting as to make me want to do that."—LEW FIELDS.

Talks on Orange Meat (THE PURE FOOD)

Oven Perfection.

If you are a woman, you would revel in the huge ovens that cook Orange Meat. Much of the crisp deliciousness of Orange Meat is due to their matchless baking. After the wheat has been cleaned, steam cooked malted and flaked-the moist flakes are conveyed by automatic carriers to the ovens.

Endless steel screens carry the flakes back and forth, toasting each flake to a rich, golden brown—the final stage in our peerless process of converting a grain of wheat into the most perfect food known to science.

As the major part of every meal for thin people—dyspeptics—"bloodless" folk—those whose systems are "tell run down" and acceptable for children 'all run down''-and especially for children-Orange Meat has a place that nothing else can satisfy.

A lady in Walkerton says:—"Orange Meat is very wholesome. My brother at 81 years old, has taken a great liking to it, and I am glad, as it seems such a light wholesome food. I would recommend to those afflicted with stomach trouble."

At all grocers in 15c. and 25c. packages. Every 15c. package contains a coupon, good for premiums. 25c. or "Jumbo" package contains 21/2 times the quantity of 15c. size. Write "Orange Meat, Kingston," for new premium catalogue.

Tom Tit's Tricks

HAVE a really curious and surprising experiment to tell you about today boys and girls.

Take a piece of thin wire or a hairpin and bend it into the shape indicated on the right of this picture.

In the sharp bend you have given the one end of the wire firmly fix a coin, and on the hook at the other hang a ring.

Now take a darning needle, stick the head of it into the smaller end of a well-formed cork, set the cork on a flat surface and then rest the coin on top of the needle.

On your letting go, it would, of course,

Balanced on the Point of a Needle seem that the wire, ring and coin would immediately fall over. But that is where the surprise comes in!

Instead of falling over, the weight of the whole apparatus adjusts itself on the needle point and finds a position of perfect equilibrium, and there it rests for an indefinite time.

Suppose you then give a gentle touch that sets it into motion. Even then it will not fall over, but will apparently swing around on the needle point as a pivot, and you can keep it moving as long as you please.

Try this experiment. It will interest your friends as much as yourself.

Now I shall tell you of a perfectly safe wager you can make if you wish, of you can exhibit this as a trick.

Make a proposition that you will fill a glass with water and place it on a table in such a manner that your friend cannot move it to another place without spilling the whole of its contents.

The way to do it is as follows: Fill a glass with water, and having laid over it a piece of paper, which covers a glass with water, and having laid over it a piece of paper, which covers the water and the edges of the glass, place the palm of your hand on the paper, and, taking up the glass with the other hand, turn it upside down very quickly, and place it on a perfectly flat part of the table.

Then gently very cently withdraw the part of the table.

Then gently, very gently, withdraw the paper. The water in the glass will remain in it, since the air cannot enter, and your friend cannot move it any way without allowing the air to enter, and consequently spilling the water.

You see, do you not, how safely you can make a wager on the success of this performance?

Upside Down at the Bottom of the Sea

A CAPITAL diving story is told in an English school paper by a man signing himself "An Amateur Diver."

I believe (says he) by some remarkable process of nature every third male person is born a diver. Whitstable is the place where most divers grow, and where I caught the temptation to go a-diving myself.

I mentioned my desire to one or two old divers, but met with jeers and suspicion. But Whitstable never produced a diver that could put me off. I bought a diving dress, and got permission to go down and amuse myself on a sunken coasting vessel lying off shore a little distance.

It was a noble diving suit, and the new india rubber squeaked musically as I moved, and smelt very refreshing. There was a shield-shaped plate, rather like a label on a decanter, hanging on my chest, and a noble metal collar — about thirty-two the size would have been on the usual scale.

I had also a very fetching red night-size would have been, on the usual scale.

I had also a very fetching red night-cap, while my helmet was a terror to all beholders. I don't mind confessing to a certain amount of discomfort while they were building me up in this dress—partly due to a vivid imagination. The helmet made me think of the people in the story who put hot pots on the heads of strangers, and I seemed stifling at once.

All Ready for the Descent.

All Ready for the Descent. There wasn't much comfort to be got out of the leaden shoes—try a pair for yourself and see—but when all was ready, I made a shift to get overboard and to crawl slowly down the ladder.

It was not a great deal of the outer world that I could see through my

It was not a great deal of the outer world that I could see through my windows, and I hung on to that ladder with something of a desperate clutch. When at last the water stretched away level around my windows, then, I confess, I hesitated for a moment. But I made the next step with a certain involuntary blink, and I was under water.

All the heaviness—or most of it—had gone out of my feet, and all my movements partook of a curiously easy, yet slowish character after all. At the top of my helmet the air escape valve bubbled merrily, and I tried to think of myself as a plumed knight striding among the fishes. You do think of the silliest things on certain cheerful occasions.

knight striding among the fishes. You do think of the silliest things en certain cheerful occasions.

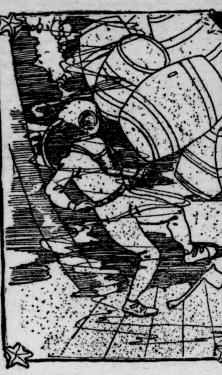

It was not as long as it seemed before I was on the wreck, and down below in the nearest hold. Regular professionals had already been at work, and access to different parts of the ship had been made easy.

Now, in this big hold were an immense number of barrels, stood on end and packed tightly together—barrels of oil, to judge from externals. I tried to move one, but plainly they were all jammed tightly together, and not one would budge.

I took the light axe, with which I had provided myself, using it alternately as wedge and lever, and at last felt the barrel move. I had certainly loosened it, and I pulled up the axe with the intention of trying to lift the barrel, when suddenly I was ingulfed in an awful convulsion, as of many earthquakes in a free fight!

The world was a mob of bouncing oil barrels, which hit me everywhere, as I floundered in intricate somersaults, and finally found myself staggering at the bottom of the hold, and staying at the roof, whereunto all the gering at the bottom of the hold staving at the roof, whereuato all the barrels were sticking, like baloons, ab-solutely blocking up the hatchway above they grinning at me from the corners of the hold? Or, had some vast revolution in the ways of Nature taken place in a se ond, and the law of gravity been reversed? It was not at all warm down there, but I perspired violently!

Then a notion flashed upon me. Those barrels must have been empty. Jammed together, they stayed below, of course, but once the jam was loosened, they would fly at once toward the surface. the surface.

Gloomy Thoughts of a Fool. Then I thought more. I had been Then I thought more. I had been an ass. Of course, those barrels would do as they had done, even were they full of oil. Oil floats on water, as everybody should know. They might be either full or empty, it didn't matter a bit. I had forgotten that I was moving in a different element from moving in a different element from the air I was used to, where bar-rels of oil did not rise up and fly into space without warning.

Obviously, I had made a fool of myself; but I had some comfort in the reflection that there was nobody about to see it. Then it came upon me suddenly that I would rather have some one there after all, for I was helpless. Those horrible barrels were having another jam in the hatchway having another jam in the hatchway now, and my retreat was cut off entirely.

Here I was, like a rat in a cage, boxed in on every side. My communication cord and my air pipe led up between the barrels to outer safety; but what of that? Why did I ever make a submarine idiot of myself, and go rummaging about, where I had no business, at the end of a rubber gas pipe? If I could have dated myself back an hour at that moment, I believe I should have changed my mind about going in for this amuse-

I made an effort, pulled myself together, and determined on heroic measures. My axe lay near, and, with a little groping, I found it. I would hew my way out of this difficulty through the side of the vessel. I turned on the inoffensive timbers at my side and hacked away viciously—with, I really fancy, a certain touch of that wild, stern, unholy joy that any one feels who is smashing somebody's else property with no prospect of having to pay for it. Every boy with a catapult, who lives near an empty house, will understand the feeling I mean—especially if the empty house has a large conservatory. I made an effort, pulled myself to-

The timbers were certainly stout. The The timbers were certainly stout. The work was a bit curious to the senses—the axe feeling to work with a deal more dash and go than the arm that directed it. At any rate, the exercise was pretty hard. Any millionaire in want of an excellent, healthy and expensive exercise should try chopping his way through the sides of ships—it will do him a world of good, and will take off my leaden shoes, and rise to the surface triumphantly, like an air cushion, or, say, an oil barrel. Specific gravity having taken a rise—all the rise—out of me, I would proceed to take a rise out of specific gravity—a great, glorious and effective rise to the upper world. No office how on promotion averworld. No office boy on promotion ever looked forward to his rise with more I Had Turned Upside Down hope than I to mine. It was a desperate expedient certainly, but what else could I do? be as expensive as anybody could possi-bly desire. After a while I found that I had well started a plank, and, once through, chopping away round the hole was not so difficult. Still, when I had

I do?

I took off one leaden shoe and loosened the other, ready to kick away. I shut the escape valve. I cut the cord with my axe on the rock I had been sitting on, and then, when the air had blown out my dress to most corpulent proportions, I took the decisive stroke. I chopped through the air-pipe. I stuffed it as well as possible, and tied it in some sort of a knot-it was very stiff—in a great hurry, and then I kicked off the leaden shoe. Everything Upside Down.

I did not feel by any means as fresh as I had when first that horrible copper pot was screwed down over my head. I squeezed through the hone and at the first step I had ever made on the sea bottom, I came a complicated cropper over my communication cord. I got up, but as I stepped clear of the cord, a frightful conviction seized my mind that I was a bigger fool than I had ever given myself credit for being.

What in the world was the good of getting out through the side of the vessel, when that communication cordmy only means of signaling—and that alipine—my only means of submarine life—led up through the boat itself and among those horrid oil barrels? Awful! Awful! I sat down helplessly on a broken rock and stared blankly through my windows. To weep would have been mere bravado, with so much salt water already about me. Everything Upside Down.

Never, never, never shall I forget the result of my forlorn dodge. I kicked off the shoe, as I have said, and, in an instant, the whole universe of waters turned upside down and swirled away beyond my head. In sober fact I had turned upside down—as I might have known I should.

Of course, the moment my leaden shoes went, down came my copper head-pot, being my heaviest part, and up went my feet. I had a pretty quick rise, certainly, but I prefer not to recall my feelings during the rush. I can quite understand now why a rise in the world makes some people giddy. All that I had before felt of amazement and horror, I now felt multiplied by fifty and squeezed into about two seconds, so that they felt like ten hours. Up through that aw-ful water and those moving shad-ows I went, feeling that I was in reality held still like a man in a nightmare.

When at last I stopped, I felt that it was but a matter of moments, and the air would leak away through that cut tube, and I sho ld go down again, still head under, for the last time, to die in that grisly combination of mackintosh and copper kettle; also I felt choking, stifling, when — something had me roughly by the ankle, and I was dragged, a wretched rag of misplaced ambition, into a boat. The appearance of my legs sticking out above water caused intense amusement among the boat's crew—a circumstance which probably ought to have gratified me, although it didn't.

GOT ENOUGH OF DIVING

GOT ENOUGH OF DIVING I have little more to add, except that I shudder to this day whenever I see an acrobat standing on his head, because it is so remindful. But, if anybody is thinking of going in for diving, by way of placid enjoyment, I shall be delighted to treat with him for the sale and purchase of a most desirable diving dress in unsoiled condition, cut in the most fashionable style, with a frinating copper helmet and commodious collar, and a neat label for the chest. The shoes will not be included in the bargain, having been inadvertently left in a damp place.

How Paper Was Invented

JUST think if some one had not invented paper! There could be no such thing as Polly Evans' Story Page for Boys and Girls!
Hundreds of years ago there was no paper! We couldn't get on without it in these days, could we? We are always wanting it—to write upon, to wrap things up in; and last, but not least, to print our books and newspapers on.

It was a clever little Japanese gentleman who first invented it. This little man was a merchant, and as he had ever so many parcels to send out from his shop every week, he found the silk in which he always wrapped them a rather expensive item. rather expensive item.

He was always thinking and puzzling

He was always thinking and puzzling his brains to try and invent something that would be cheaper.

One day while he was walking in his garden he came across a wasps' nest, and he noticed how wonderfully it was made—how the, clever wasps had used some kind of wood, softened it into a thin paste with their jaws, and, after carefully shaping it, had left it to dry.

"If wasps can do a thing like that," thought the little gentleman to himself, "why can't I? If I could get some kind of wood, form it into a pulp by means of river water, wouldn't the result be something like the fabric of the wasps' nest. I'll try, anyway, and see what I can do. It would save myself and other people quite a lot of money if my experiment succeeded."

The little Japanese gentleman tried—and succeeded, too, in putting into practice the lesson that the wasps had taught him. taught him.
So that's the way paper was invented —years and years ago out in far Japan.

I tried to signal with the communication cord, but it was caught somewhere in that congregation of oil burrels. It seemed to me all up, except myself, who was all down, with no prospect of ever rising in the world again. Shadowy forms came and went in the water about me, and I speculated desperately in how long or how short a time these sea creatures would be having a dinner party, with me as the chief attraction. I wendered, casually, whether the india rubber would agree with them, and hoped that it would not. Then I wondered what they would take for the indigestion, and I thought they would probably take each other—it's their way, I believe.

I was wandering on in this way, when an inspiration seized me—a great inspiration. I should have called out "Eureka!" as did the venerable discoverer of that principle of specific gravity that had lately (literally) taken a rise out of me, if I had thought of it, but I didn't, which was fortunate, because it was rather a chestnut after all.

True Story About Hugh

UGH'S father was a switchman. He went to work early in the morning and stayed all day at the railway tracks. Hugh took him his lunch at noon.

There was a long bridge over the river which ran near the place where Hugh's father worked. At first Hugh, who is only 10 years old, was afraid to walk across the ties, and see the river running beneath, but after a while he thought it fun to see how quickly he could cross the bridge.

One day he ha. taken his father's lunch, and, after his father had eaten, Hugh started back home, swinging the big. tin dinner pail.

What was that smoke that Hugh saw a little way ahead? It seemed to come from the railway bridge.

"Fire, father," cried Hugh, "the bridge is on fire."

"Run, Hugh," answered his father. "Get some water from the river! I cannot leave the switch to help you. Be as quick as you can."

Hugh slid down the railway embankment to the river. In a moment the cover was off and Hugh had a brim-

He climbed up the bank, holding the pail as carefully he could. But his shoes sank into the gravel, and the water slopped over the top of the pail. But Hugh reached the top of the bank, stepped quickly upon the bridge and poured the water upon the blaze. Then he slid down to the river to refill his pail.

The sweat stood out on his forehead, his back ached anu his shoes were filled with gravel, but he did not stop. He could see his father standing near the switch watching him.

"Take another pailful, Hugh," he heard him call from far down the track, "you will have the fire put out soon."

Hugh could not count the times that he dipped his pail in the running water and climbed the steep bank. But with each trip the red and yellow flames grew smaller and the black charred spot on the bridge grew larger.

At last the fire disappeared and the smoke drifted away. With his empty pail Hugh trudged back to his father at the switch.

An Owl Stole a Puppy

An Owl Stole a Puppy

A CONNECTICUT paper, mentioning the purchase of a fine Gordon puppy by a gentleman named Haas, added: "On Thursda" he went away to work, leaving the puppy shut up in the barn. He did not get back till 8 o'clock in the evening, and while he was putting out his horses the puppy ran out in the barnyard.

"In a few minutes Haas heard it yelping piteously. Thinking that one of the cattle had either hooked it or stepped on it, he ran out just in time to see a huge horned owl flying off with the puppy in his claws. He ran after him, hallooing, but the owl swooped off through an orchard, and this was the last he has since seen of his Gordon puppy."

Cheese Straws. Make a good pastry (if you do not chance to have some left over from yesterday's pies). Cut into shreds, about the size of pipe macaroni, and roll in Parmesan cheese (powdered). Coat them thickly with this, and bake quickly in a buttered pan. Line a heated dish with a napkin and lay them in it. Fold the napkin over the

"Old Hare" Soup.

(A Southern Recipe.)

Skin, clean and joint a pair of wild hares. Leave them in cold salt and water for one hour. Then rinse and wipe dry. Have ready in a deep frying pan enough good dripping to cover the meat, fry in it a sliced onion, then the pieces of hare. When slightly browned turn the contents of the pan into the soup kettle; strew over the meat four tablespoonfuls of chopped salt pork, and cover with cold water an inch deep. Put on the lid of the kettle and simmer slowly three hours, or longer, should the hares deserve the name by which the born Southerner knows them from the time they are a day old. When the bones have fallen from the meat, take the kettle from the fire, and set aside until the soup is cold. Take the fat from the top. (It will make delicious dripping.) Strain out the meat, squeezing hard and dry; stir into the liquid, when you have reheated it, two tablespoonfuls of browned flour cooked to a boil in two tablespoonfuls of butte.; boil up once and add a pinch of cayenne, the juice of a lemon, and, just before it comes from the fire, a glass of sherry. (If the length and details of this recipe remind you of your "distracted" Martha's "mock turtle," take my word for it that even a tyro need not err therein.) Breast of Mutton, Braised With Macaroni. Chop half a pound of salt pork and sprinkle it thickly in the bottom of a broad pot. Lay the mutton on this; strew with small dice of carrots, onlons and tomatoes, bits of celery and parsley. There should be enough to bury the meat out of sight. Add two cupfuls of boiling water, cover closely and cook slowly for nearly three hours, or until tender. Half an hour before you take it up, cook half a pound of macaroni tender. Half an hour before you take it up, cook half a pound of macaroni tender in salted water. Take out the meat and lay on a hot platter. Keep it warm over boiling water. Strain the gravy left in the pot, rubbing it through the colander, back into the kettle. Put the macaroni into this, bring to a boil, and pour all around the meat on the

A savory and an economical dish. N. B.—The mutton must be freed of every bit of its own fat before it is cooked.

Cauliflower a la Creme. Boil the cauliflower in two waters, when you have trimmed it properly, exchanging the first water for boiling fresh at the end of ten minutes. Salt slightly, and cook for half an hour longer. Drain, and dish the cauliflower, and cover with a good drawn butter. Set over boiling water for ten minutes and serve.

Caramel Custard. Caramel Custard.

Make the custard in the usual way, bake in a buttered mould, and let it get cold. Set on ice until you are ready to use it. Then turn out on a glass dish and pour over and about it a cupful ocaramel made by browning half a cupful of sugar over the fire and, when it is melted and boiling hot, adding a half cupful of boiling water. Cook one minute and cool. This is especially nice made of maple sugar.

Paper Flags for Decorations

THE prettiest flags for decorating church fair booths may be made of crinkled paper, and are only a matter of a few minutes' work.

Cut the paper, not into a stiff oblong, but with undulating edges, as though the flag were flapping in a breeze, and paste one end of it to a handle of wood. For these handles an ordinary wooden box, provided the boards are fairly thin, may be split up without much trouble.

WHAT CONSTITUTES CLEANLINESS

misery.

There was once a traveling man, connected with a big corporation, who in the course of his journeyings put up at a hotel that was very much to his liking. "I have a private bathroom," he wrote back to one of his fellow workers, in the home office, "and the tub is a dandy. I can hardly wait for Saturday night to take my

A T FIRST GLANCE it seems just a trific absurd that there should be any doubt in a matter of this kind. When a thing is clean, why it's clean, and that's an end of it, but—it isn't. Said a busy woman not many days since, "I am obliged to change my boarding place, and I dread the move, but I must be where it is clean."

"I thought Mrs. B—— was a model housekeeper," objected a bystander. "I am sure her house looks immaculate."

"Well, the house does," admitted the first speaker, "but I had to go into the kitchen a day or so ago, while she was making cake, and I haven't been able to eat a mouthful since with any degree of comfort. Of course, what you don't know in this world doesn't hurt you, but once having had ocular demonstration that your cook tests the flavor of her batter with her fingers, and lacks discrimination in the use of knives and spoons, you aren't apt to forget it. My only chance now is to move into a new house and steer clear of the kitchen."

Cleanliness, that is, one's personal idea of cleanliness, that is, one's personal idea of cleanliness, varies according to upbringing nationality, and inborn instinct. Given a certain degree of refinement, finger nails above reproach are a matter of course. but I must be where it is clean.' stinct. Given a certain degree of refinement, finger nails above reproach are a matter of course; yet haven't you met two members of the same family whose notions on the amount of soap and water required to keep the human body in presentable shape were as widely divergent as the two poles?

A Frenchman looks askance at the Englishman's daily tub; a French dressmaker told me that one of the greatest trials of her life was fitting a magnificent gown on a Russian lady of high rank over a corset cover that had been worn for six weeks; but you don't suppose for an instant that woman thought she was dirty. Possibly if you had got into a discussion upon such a matter with her, she would have called your attention to the filth of the peasants as

Down quilts and small feather or down pillows which have become soiled can be washed at home, with very little trouble or expense. First choose a good day, for the drying is half the battle, and you need plenty of sunshine and a gentle wind. Use lukewarm water and one of the many pure soaps that are in the market just now, and avoid a washboard. It won't be of any help, and it will certainly pull your quilt or pillow out of shape. Rub thoroughly with the soap, squeezing and patting with your hands as you might fine woolen underwear. Rinse in two or three clear waters and Rinse in two or three clear waters and hang up to dry in the sunlight. A dash of salt in the water will keep the colors from fading. Cleaning a Rusty Grate

A RUSTY grate is an eyesore, yet grates will rust either from damp or neglect, and this is how they can be made presentable again.

Cover the grate thoroughly with black lead, and leave it to dry on—perhaps for three or four days. This will eat away the rust. Then clean in the usual way with black lead to which a little turpentine has been added. With this treatment your grate will be as good

What is one man's poison is another's meat. What is fastidiousness to one is ordinary comfort to another. The Russian Jew brought from the slums to a hospital receiving ward considers the immersion of his body by the authorities there as much a work of supererogation as does the man who "takes a bath once a week, whether he needs it or not," the daily ablutions of his daintier neighbor.

whether he needs it or not," the daily ablutions of his daintier neighbor.

I know women whose houses are in a continual turmoil of disorder; yet they are satisfied because "the corners are clean." I know others who present a shining, spotless front to the world; yet their neighbors hint darkly of untidy cupboards, mouldy vegetables in the cellar, and impossible back yards. I know women whose bathing propensities are a joke in their families, who pry into cake boxes, snift down lamp chimneys and squander their last pennies on antiboxes, sniff down lamp chimneys and squander their last pennies on antiseptic preparations, who will not shy at a soiled collar or a stained skirt binding or even at a handkerchief a little the worse for wear. And I knew one woman, the daintiness of whose small belongings were the admiration of all her friends, who told me quite frankly that she detested the outward application of water, and only took a bath in order to be sanitary.

only took a bath in order to be santtary.

Of course, there ought to be an accepted standard of cleanliness, to which we might all strive to attain, but I am afraid it would be almost as hard to decide upon as a standard of beauty, or brains, or attraction.
For the present, we'll have to jog along in the old way, each one believing his or her own idea of cleanliness is the true one.
