

BRITAIN WINS 100 METRES U. S. SECOND AND KERR THIRD

The Blue Ribbon Sprinting Event of the Olympic Games Captured by a South African Sprinter, Defeating the United States and Canadian Entries.

London, July 22.—The 100-metre final was won by Walker, South Africa, in 10 4-5 seconds; J. A. Rector, University of Virginia, was second; Kerr, Canada, third, and N. J. Cartmell, University of Pennsylvania, fourth.

London, July 22.—This is the first really fine day since the opening of the Olympic games, and the officials at the stadium looked for an attendance exceeding that of any previous day except Saturday.

The fine weather today is particularly fortunate, as the final in the 100 metres dash, in which the public takes the greatest interest, is on the programme. It should be a great contest.

Those who qualified are: R. Kerr, Canada; F. E. Walker, South Africa, and J. A. Rector and N. J. Cartmell, United States.

The experts are wary about attempting to pick the winner of this event, although most of them predict that it will be either Kerr or Rector.

Another final today is in the 400 metres hurdle race, in which Hillman and Bacon, of the United States team, have opposed to them Burton and Tremor, of the United Kingdom. The sports this morning began with the running broad jump, which event will also reach its final today, and which is going on at the same time as the semi-final of the 200 metres flat race.

Kerr (Canadian) in Front.

London, July 22.—The first heat of the semi-finals of the 200 metres flat race, Kerr, Canada, beat Hamilton, United States. Time, 22 2-5 seconds.

The second heat of the semi-finals of the 200 metres race was won by Cartmell, United States, with Sherman and Huff, Americans, second and third. Time, 22 3-5 seconds.

The third heat went to Cloghen, United States. Time, 22 3-5 seconds. Hawkins, United Kingdom, defeated his team mate Roche in the fourth heat by a yard in 22 2-5 seconds.

A Girl Executed By Beheading Father Mayor of Freiberg, Saxony

She Had Killed the Young Man Whom She Had Engaged to Marry.

Freiberg, Saxony, July 22.—Gretel Beier, the 18-year old daughter of the mayor of Freiberg, was beheaded last night sometime between dark and daylight in punishment for the murder of the man to whom she was engaged to be married.

The executioner of this young woman reached the city last night. He carried a thin, long box containing the axe with which he did his work and brought with him also a handkerchief with a suit of evening clothes. The wearing of this garb is an official requirement of the sombre occasion.

The preparations for the execution at the prison had been completed and the man did his work quickly and privately and departed from Freiberg as quietly as he came.

The executioner is an anonymous person who was sent down here from Dresden on the announcement that the King of Saxony had refused to pardon Gretel Beier for her crime.

The personality of this young girl, who came of a good family, and her thoughtfully arranged murder of her fiancé, Herr Pfeiffer, a rich young civil engineer, attracted international attention. She was seemingly a happy and fun-loving girl.

At her trial she admitted, with the utmost simplicity, that she visited her fiancé's house one evening, gave him cyanide of potassium in a drink, she mixed for him and then to make sure of his death shot him in the mouth with his own revolver. She then dropped the weapon at the dead man's side, placed a forged will in her own favor on his desk, together with a note of good-bye, also forged, saying that she feared to lose her love through the revelation of a dishonorable treason.

In addition to these papers, the young girl also left behind a package of forged letters purporting to come from a woman in Italy, accusing Pfeiffer of desertion and threatening to tell Gretel everything.

These forgeries were so skillfully done that they successfully deceived the police and coroner.

Gretel fell under suspicion a month after the crime through a love letter to an unworthy man, hinting at what she had done. This letter was found when the man was arrested for a misdemeanor.

As a result, it is said, of Long attempting to commit suicide in the boarding-house. On the occasion referred to he was found under the bed, and said he had taken strychnine. For several days previous he had been acting strangely and flourishing a razor. On Sunday morning Mrs. Long when she awakened found that she had a number of burns on her face. How they came there she does not know, but it was at first thought that her husband in a fit of rage had entered her room and thrown acid in her face. The police are working on the case, but so far have made no arrests.

While delivering papers in the northeast end of the city last evening, John Gyde, a young lad, who lives with Mr. Henry Craknell, 511 Grosvenor street, was bitten by a large collie dog on the thigh and arm. The boy's injuries are very painful, and he will be laid up for several days. Dr. C. Reason cauterized the wounds, and looks for no serious consequences.

Young Gyde, who is an Advertiser boy, went into yard in the north end to deliver papers. As he did so, the big collie rushed at him and grabbed him by the arm. The boy screamed and ran. The dog let go, and grabbed him again on the thigh.

The neighbors were aroused by the boy's screams, and the dog was driven off.

Dr. Reason was immediately summoned by telephone, and dressed the boy's injuries.

The arm is torn considerably, and the thigh is also quite badly bitten. The bites were cauterized.

There is no danger from rabies, as it is thought that the dog is not affected.

This is the second case of the kind in a week, Mrs. Bibbings being severely bitten some days ago.

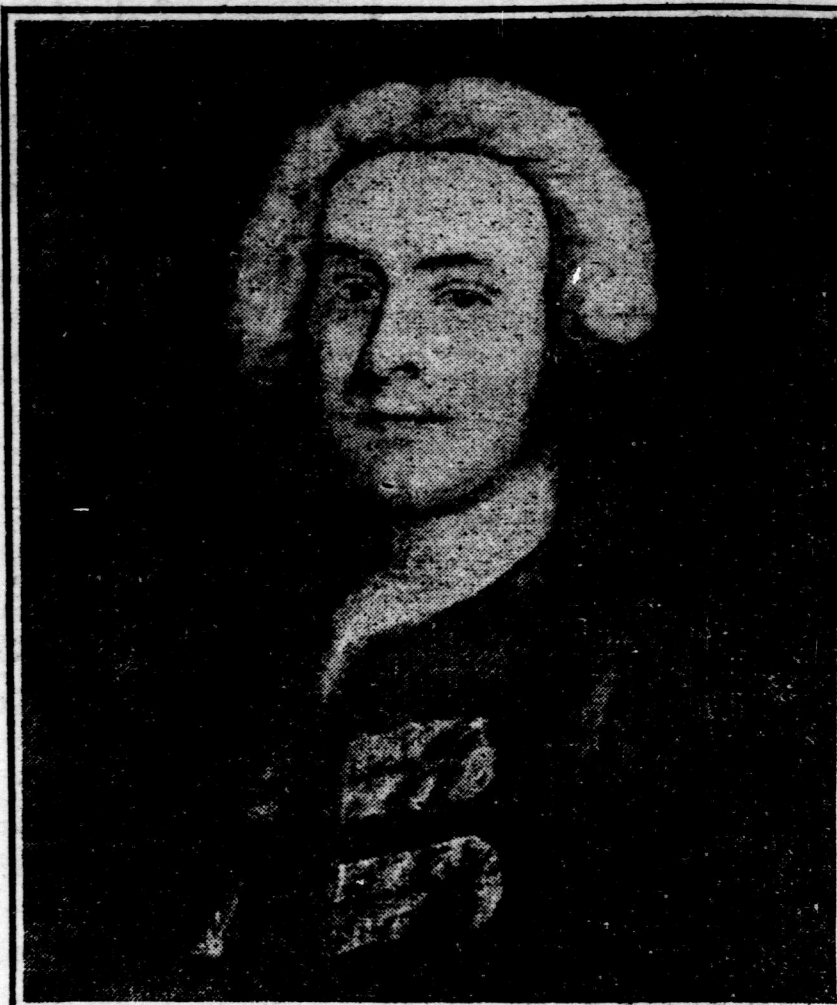

took him to task and declared that she intended to leave him.

Coombs lost the outside door and attempted to draw it across his throat, when Miss Cook grabbed it.

The first two fingers on her left hand were nearly amputated. She was taken to Emergency Hospital, where her wounds were dressed, and Coombs locked up.

She will not prosecute.

Lord Roberts Not Coming Can't Change Programme

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Quebec, July 22.—It has been definitely decided that Lord Roberts cannot visit London. Mayor Stevely and others did their utmost to secure the presence of the general at the Forest City during the Old Boys' celebration, but it was found impossible for his lordship to change his programme.

The Indomitable, with the Prince of Wales aboard, passed Riviere du Loup at 8 o'clock this morning. He will reach Quebec about 2:30, but will not land until 4 o'clock.

A One Dollar Old Boys' Ticket Gives Seat for Four Entertainments

Membership Tickets at That Price Until Friday Night.

In order to keep faith with the citizens, the Old Boys will sell them membership tickets for one dollar up to Friday night, when they will be withdrawn to make provision for visitors. The membership ticket gives you a reserved seat for four entertainments in the grand stand in Queen's Park—that is, for one dollar you get a reserved seat for Monday afternoon, Monday night, Tuesday night and Wednesday afternoon. When one considers that in New Orleans you pay three and four dollars for a seat along the route of the Mardi Gras the offer of the Old Boys is a most generous one. This is the only occasion the Old Boys ever charged for an entertainment.

Cleveland Old Boys have chartered a boat and will leave Cleveland Saturday, coming via Port Stanley.

TIMBER DEAL JUST A STORY

Nothing in Yellow Yarn Put Into Circulation by the Conservative Press.

Ottawa, July 21.—The labor department has received an application from the employees of the Cobalt Central Mine for a board of arbitration under the Lemieux act, to adjudicate on matters in dispute with the company in reference to wages and hours of labor. One hundred and five are affected.

Telegraph wire received here this morning by Mr. R. T. Borden and Hon. Clifford Sifton announcing the dissolution of the Saskatchewan Legislature. Elections will be held Aug. 17.

The story published in the Conservative press this morning to the effect that a big timber limit deal involving timber on twelve million acres is on with the Government in connection with timber areas in Keewatin is denied by the officials of the department of the interior. No action looking to the disposal of any such large area has been taken nor is it contemplated. The story is based on unsubstantial rumors.

SWIMMING POND FOR NORTH END BOYS

Another swimming pond will be opened in the north end at the corner of Adelaide and St. James streets.

Application has been made to the city to have a gate put on the property, and Ald. Ferguson, who is acting mayor, gave instructions to Acting City Engineer Kirkpatrick to have the gate made and erected at once.

There has been a great demand for the place, and it is expected that it will be well patronized by the youngsters.

CANADA'S CROPS AND LIVE STOCK

Figures From Census Office—A Great Grain Crop—Decline in Hog Raising.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, July 22.—The census and statistics office in connection with the department of agriculture, in the July monthly bulletin of condition of crops and live stock in Canada, estimate the average yield of fall wheat in Ontario at 25 bushels per acre, and oats from 35 to 40 bushels per acre.

The average for the Province of Hay and clover crops is estimated at about 11.2 tons per acre.

The bulletin says that correspondents of the department throughout the Province say that everywhere farmers are reported as giving up the hog industry, which, it is stated, at present is ceasing to pay owing to the high price of feeding materials, and the low prices ruling for pork. The number of swine in the Province is reported as 1,947,193, as compared with 2,049,668 last year. All other descriptions of live stock have increased considerably in number over 1907.

CRAZY PASSENGER Creates a Scene on G. T. R. Train Near Niagara.

Niagara Falls, July 21.—The passengers on No. 8 Grand Trunk express this morning had an exciting time between St. Catharines and the Falls. Francesco Sabello, ticketed through to France, became violently insane, tearing off his clothing and stabbing himself with a big jackknife, in the abdomen, inflicting nine wounds, one very severe.

The passengers, not being armed, did not interfere. He was secured by the train hands. The company's physician here attended him. He had American naturalization papers, which secured his admission to American territory, where the authorities took of him.

HAD A SPLASHY JOYOUS TIME

Hundreds of Small Boys Take Advantage of Free Baths—Girls' Day Friday.

The opening of the sulphur baths to the boys of the city was a great success this morning. Over 400 youngsters were in line with tickets, and all had the time of their lives. Prof. Butterworth was in attendance and looked after the youngsters, giving them lessons in swimming. The boys were quick to grasp the suggestions, and many became excellent swimmers with but little coaching.

Taken in Sections.

The opening was advertised for 9 o'clock, but long before that time the youngsters were on the job. A long line of them stood for a considerable period clamoring for the doors to open.

They were taken in sections. The first bunch contained about 100 boys and they had a fine time. There were not enough trunks to go round, but the boys were not dismayed, knowing full well that no policeman could molest them, they took the plunge as Adam would have done it, and had just as much fun.

After one hour's swim, the first bunch were turned loose and the second contingent had the baths. They were just as happy, and just as good swimmers as the other fellows. Most of them, however, needed the attention of Prof. Butterworth, and they had a fine time.

Too Good To Hurry.

In the meantime a long line of swimmers became tired of waiting, and for minutes the cry was heard from a hundred lusty throats, "Hurry up, hurry up." The other fellows did not hurry up, however, but stayed the limit.

Ald. Armstrong and Parks Commissioner Pearce represented the Playground committee and remained a couple of hours watching the boys swim. The girls will have Wednesday to themselves. Mr. McGuire, who has charge of the playgrounds has the tickets, and will give them to those making application. Prof. Butterworth will be in attendance.

YOUNG INDIAN CURRIE DOWN FOR A YEAR

He Confessed to Burglary of a Store At Melbourne.

Thomas Currie, the self-confessed Indian burglar, was sentenced today to serve one year in the Central Prison by Judge Elliott, in the county judges' criminal court.

Currie, who is 29 years of age, recently entered the store of Thomas Hussey at Melbourne, and stole a number of razors, baseballs and tape-lines.

After being arrested Currie was also identified as being the man who had entered the home of Mr. George Sponenburgh, of Melbourne, early one morning, and had been frightened away before he could steal anything.

Mr. John Macpherson appeared on behalf of the prisoner, and made an eloquent plea on the ground of the first offence.

Currie's mother and an uncle also appeared in court.

SEVENTH REGIMENT MARCHED TO MEET PRINCE OF WALES

London's Corps to Act as Special Guard To His Royal Highness—Quebec Thronged by Immense Crowd Hard to Handle—Dynamite Outrage Frustrated.

[From Our Own Man.]

Quebec, July 22.—This is the first big day of the tercentenary celebration, and it is a busy one for the Seventh Regiment and all others in camp. At 1:30 the troops formed in division, and marched down to wharf 4, as the Prince of Wales was booked to arrive at about 2 o'clock. The Thirtieth, Hamilton, was chosen as the first guard of honor.

The Seventh will furnish a hundred men for the special guard Friday night. Capt. McCrimmon will be in command, Capt. Becher first lieutenant, Capt. Hunt second lieutenant, and Capt. Frank Andrews will carry the colors. The city is alive with troops today. Infantrymen line all the streets, and mounted police and cavalrymen are galloping everywhere.

Quebec's Big Crowds.

Quebec appears unable to handle the crowds. There were numerous rows last night, caused by people who attempted to take food by force from cafes, where the proprietors said they were cleaned out. Many visitors went hungry to bed. A break in the 30-inch water main caused great inconvenience from Monday night till Tuesday afternoon. One small main is in operation, but it would not force water into the city, and the hotels were tied up. No tea or coffee could be served in the Chateau Frontenac and other places, and people were furious. Londoners here claim it is an object lesson for the people of London.

A Sensational Story.

There was a sensational story today of an attempt to dynamite the grandstand during the grand pageant on Monday. Capt. Coles, of London, and Capt. Hurley, of the Seventy-fourth, Buffalo, who is a guest of the Seventh, were with a number of other Londoners in the stand, when Capt. Hurley dropped his walking-stick between the seats. A programme boy went down for the cane, and on returning notified (Continued on Page Nine.)

Local Officials Fear Car Famine When Great Crop Begins Moving

Enormous Number Needed and Other Departments Will Be Drained.

In view of the great volume of business which they will be called upon to handle shortly, there is some fear being expressed among railroad officials regarding a shortage of cars. An official stated today that it is not unlikely that a car famine will result. Many of the American roads are feeling the effects of a car shortage already, and are getting new cars built as quickly as possible. The railroads handling the grain trade will require an enormous number of cars, and this is certain to drain the other departments. It is well known that when the recent slump in business came a number of the roads did not do much repair work on their cars, but as quickly as they became unit for use instead of running them to the shops, placed them in sidings, where they have remained ever since. In the United States the opening of the mills and the unexpected call for cars from all sides, has caught a number of the railroads unawares, and there is a great rush of work in many of the repair shops. Railroad men are looking for similar conditions to prevail here as soon as they start to handle the harvest.

Getting Ready for the Big Fair

The committees of the Western Fair are already very busy getting things in shape for the big exhibition to be held here in September. Last week several hundred of the large Western Fair signs were sent out. They will be placed in conspicuous places all over the province. These signs are always splendidly designed and suggestive of things pertaining strictly to a high-class agricultural fair.

Car Jumps the Track and Hits Pole

Car no. 98, of the Oxford line left the tracks at the corner of Main and the Hamilton road last night about 11 o'clock and was considerably damaged.

The car was running west at a fast rate when it jumped and ran along the road striking the north curbing and a telephone pole.

The fender was badly twisted and the front steps broken off. The passengers on the car were shaken out of their seats when the pole was struck, but luckily no person was seriously injured. The car was replaced on the rails and taken to the barns with difficulty.

Will Not Have to Pay $29,240,000

Chicago, July 22.—The Standard Oil Company decision, by which the company was fined $29,240,000 by Judge Landis of the United States district court, was unanimously reversed by the United States court of appeals today. The case was remanded for new trial.

The decision handed down today by the United States court of appeals was on the appeal made by the Standard Oil Company, of Indiana, from the verdict rendered April 15, 1907, by which the company was found guilty of accepting rebates and was later fined by Judge Landis, of the United States district court $29,240,000, the maximum under the counts of the indictment.

"BOBS" IS INVITED TO IRISHMEN'S PICNIC

Famous General Asked To Attend the Outing at Port on Aug. 6.

Nothing daunted by the fact that it will be impossible for Lord Roberts to visit London during his stay in Canada, the Irish Benevolent Society have sent an invitation to "Bobs" to attend the great Irish picnic to be held on Thursday, Aug. 6.

The great, little general, as is well known, is an Irishman, and it is thought that he cannot resist the invitation of his compatriots to attend the greatest of all picnics in this district.

President Stephen Grant and Secretary John Loughlin have forwarded the invitation, and it is expected that it will reach him today. A definite answer is expected within a day or two.

In the meantime the Irishmen are going ahead rapidly with the preparations for the event. Some very new and original features have been added and it is said that the picnic will be the greatest in the history of the society.

TURKEY'S TROUBLES

Whole Ochrida District in Revolt—Two Villages Burned.

Constantinople, July 22.—It is reported from Monastir that the whole Ochrida district has declared in favor of the revolutionary movement, and that Greek bands are committing serious depredations in the village near Monastir. Twenty-five Bulgarians were killed at Ribarska and 30 at Belpicia, both villages being burned.

LURED TO HER DEATH

Handsome Young Woman Murdered in a New York Park.

New York, July 22.—Lured to a lonely summer house in the centre of Irving Square Park in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn early today by an unknown man, the police believe, a tastefully-gowned, handsome young woman of 24, was shot through the head, and left to die alone. Although it is believed she resided not far from the scene of the crime, a search of many hours failed to reveal any trace of her identity.

DEATH SUMMONS

REV. JAS. DYER

A Veteran Methodist Clergyman Well Known Here Passes Away.

Toronto, July 21.—A veteran minister of the Methodist Church, Rev. James E. Dyer, of 555 Markham street, died at 7 o'clock this morning at Grimsby Park, as the result of a paralytic stroke sustained over a week ago, it being the fifth stroke he had suffered.

On July 2, while in feeble health, Mr. Dyer was taken to a nursing home, where he remained until a few days ago, when he was fatally stricken. At that time his condition was considered so critical that his relatives were summoned, and were with him when he died.

Rev. Mr. Dyer joined the Wesleyan Methodist Church in 1854, being stationed at that time at Guelph, when he was removed the following year to Gray, then to Wallace and Peel, remaining in each place for a year. From 1858 to 1860 he was at Erin, going from 1861 to 1862 at Wellesley, going from there to Georgetown, where he remained till 1865. He was next stationed at London, South, where he stayed for three years, and in 1869 was sent to Westminster for three years. From 1872 to 1874 he was at Lucan, and from 1875 to 1877 at Belmont, from which place he went to Drayton, where he was in charge of the parish from 1879 to 1880, going from there to Oakville for three years. In 1884 he went to Ancaster for three years, and in 1887 he was appointed to his last active charge at Stony Creek, where he remained till 1889. After that he was placed on the superannuation list, and from that time had made his home in Toronto, living on Markham street since he came to the city.

He was a member of Bathurst Street Methodist Church. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Hodson, of Lockport, N. Y., and one son, James A. Dyer, of Wilson, N. Y. He also leaves an adopted daughter, and one sister, Mrs. Hepburn, of Toronto.

MACHINISTS MAY STRIKE.

Montreal, July 22.—There is a possibility that there will be a general strike of machinists on the C. P. R. The verdict of the commission does not meet the favor of the men, as was shown by the refusal of Mr. Somerville to sign the finding of the majority. The men here have decided nothing yet. It is not likely that anything will be done till Mr. Somerville has sent out his report to the union.

THAW AGAIN IS BEHIND BARS

Sheriff Gives Good Reason for Putting Him There Despite Rumors.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 21.—Twice since Sheriff Robert W. Chanler's return from his vacation in Europe has Harry K. Thaw been transferred to different apartments in the Dutchess County Jail. He is now behind bolts and bars in a section on the south side of the jail in the men's department.

There is the usual crop of rumors regarding the reasons for shifting Thaw around. Among other things, it is said that Sheriff Chanler does not approve of any leniency to the slayer of his friend, Stanford White.

To show his real reason for the transfer the sheriff pointed out that Thaw's last sleeping place was dark and not airy. It is seldom aired and is unfit, in his opinion, for continued occupancy.

A corps of cleaners is now at work scrubbing it and it will be repainted. "The corridor Thaw had is in need of renovation," added the sheriff, "and I transferred him to a better place."

Liabilities of Graham, Riggs & Co., $171,000; Assets $70,000.

Gallipolis, O., July 22.—Graham Riggs & Co., of this city, the largest apple dealers in Southern Ohio, with cold storage houses in Minneapolis and New York, have assigned.

Liabilities $171,000; assets, $71,000. Low prices are given as the cause of the failure.

CONFESSED MURDER

Brooklyn Veterinary Shoots Wife—Surrenders to Police.

New York, July 21.—Andrew D. Cropsey, a veterinary surgeon, living in the Bath Beach section of Brooklyn, today, it is alleged shot, and killed his wife, Gertrude, from whom he had been separated since last fall.

Servants alarmed by the shooting, notified the police, who found Cropsey waiting for them at the doorway of the house, when they reached the scene.

"Did it" is the greeting the officers say Cropsey gave them as they approached him. Cropsey was locked up to await the action of the coroner.

THE U. S. VICE-PRESIDENT

Representing His Country at Great Celebration in Quebec.

Toronto, July 21.—Charles S. Fairbanks, vice-president of the United States, passed through Toronto this morning on his way to Quebec. He will represent his country at the celebration there. Accompanying him were his wife, his private secretary, Major Mott, and two aides.

Mr. H. R. Charlton, of the Grand Trunk, is also with the party.

They are traveling in Sir Charles Rivers Wilson's private car "Violet."

THREE NATIONS JOIN HANDS TO WELCOME PRINCE OF WALES

His Royal Highness Expected to Arrive at Quebec at Noon Today

—Pageant in Honor of Champlain in Full Swing—Fifteen Thousand Troops in the City.

Quebec, Que., July 21.—Final preparations for receiving the Prince of Wales on his arrival aboard the battleship Indomitable tomorrow have been made, and tonight the city is on the tiptoe of expectation over this momentous event in its history. The city is invaded by 12,000 to 15,000 soldiers, representing the regular and militia strength of all parts of the Dominion with hundreds of official visitors and the titled nobility of England and other parts of the world and thousands of interested spectators from American cities and all parts of Canada.

Quebec is elaborately decorated with triumphant arches spanning the main thoroughfares, the buildings hung with British and French flags and devices commemorating the deeds of the old French discoverers and testifying loyalty to the royal visitor who will come ashore tomorrow.

The Indomitable is expected to come around Point Levis, the outpost of the city, about noon tomorrow. Her appearance will be the signal for a royal salute from the guns of the British flagship Exmouth and the shore batteries on both sides of the river, followed by the combined salutes of the international fleet of French, American and British warships and the answering guns of the Indomitable. The latter will come to anchor alongside the United States battleship New Hampshire, thus completing the double chain formation of warships and bringing side by side the two latest types of British and American fighting machines.

Distinguished Welcoming Party.

At the King's landing will be gathered a distinguished party of officials to welcome the Prince, including Earl Grey, Governor-General of Canada; Field Marshal Lord Roberts, representing the British army; Premier Laurier and his cabinet; Admiral Jauréguiberry and the official French envoys, and Vice-President Fairbanks, representing the United States Government, and Admiral Cowles, representing the American naval department.

The landing stage has been decorated for the occasion with truly royal splendor. Two massive arches emblazoned with the royal arms and topped with the Hon and unicorn guarding the British crown, mark the passage of the Prince from the landing to the shore, where he will be met by him to the citadel. To the right of the landing has been erected a pavilion richly hung with the colors and arms and insignia of the reigning family. Here the first greetings will be exchanged and welcomes extended in behalf of the imperial Government of Canada and the army. These ceremonies concluded, the Prince will drive in an open carriage up the steep streets leading from the harbor level to the heights of the city. All along the route the buildings are ablaze with color, with garlands and flowers looped across the streets, and patriotic emblems and mottoes, in French and English, expressing loyalty and devotion to the Prince.

Great Precautions Taken.

The popular outpouring to witness the passage of royalty is expected to be immense and extreme precautions have been taken to guard against any disorder in the narrow, precipitous streets.

The official guests already here include the Earl of Dudley, representing Australia; the Earl of Ranfurly, representing New Zealand; Sir Henry de Villiers, representing South Africa; the Duke of Norfolk, premier peer of England; Lord Marshall, Lord Roberts; Count Bertrand Montcalm and George Wolf, representing the two generals whose battle on the Plains of Abraham settled the destiny of the Marquis de Levis and Marquis de La Riviere, descendants of the General Levis who sought to wrest Quebec back from the British; Captain Arthur Murray, M. P., representing General Murray, who resisted Levis' attempt to retake the city; the mayor of Brouage, the birthplace of Champlain; the official and naval representatives from France and the United States, and scores of lesser celebrities in the historical struggle over Quebec.

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, JULY 22.

THE FRUITS OF THE SESSION.

The session of the tenth parliament of Canada, which closed on Monday, began on Nov. 28. There is no valid reason why it should not have ended in April or May. As it was, several important measures, notably the insurance bill, had to be shelved, owing to the policy of the purposeless obstruction pursued by the Opposition, at enormous expense to the country.

The Opposition has failed in its campaign of slander, persistently waged since the opening of the session. No fixed impression has been made upon the public mind by the fulminations of Messrs. Foster, Bennett, Fowler, Taylor, Ames and the other scandal-hunters. A cloud of charges and insinuations vanished into the air. The Opposition expected a coup in the Hodgins case, but it proved a boomerang. No member of the Government was smirched by the Opposition's mud-throwing, and the cry of graft and corruption was not sustained by any evidence of maladministration for which a Minister could be fairly held responsible.

In spite of obstruction and time-killing, the session was not barren. The civil service reform bill alone would make it fruitful. This legislation marks the beginning of the end of the patronage system, and the dawn of a better day in Canadian politics. It is a courageous step, which no other administration, federal or provincial, has ventured to take. Among other important measures are the following:

The land bill, which throws open millions of acres in Alberta and Saskatchewan to settlement on easy terms.

The placing of telegraphs and telephones under the jurisdiction of the railway commission.

The restriction of Japanese immigration by agreement with the Tokio Government.

The arrangement for the prevention of Hindu emigration to Canada.

The act restraining the use of tobacco by minors under 18 years of age.

The initiation of the Hudson Bay railway project.

The prohibition of the manufacture and sale of opium in Canada except for medicinal purposes.

The amendment to the banking act, by which an emergency currency will be available to prevent a monetary stringency during the harvest season.

The French treaty, which, however, awaits the ratification of the French Senate.

The reduction of the postage on dropped letters in cities and towns.

The old age annuities bill.

The extension of the boundaries of Ontario, Quebec and Manitoba.

The pledge of financial support to the All-Red route.

The act respecting juvenile delinquents, which is intended to protect children from the influences of vicious environment.

THE LATEST AIRSHIPS.

Count Zeppelin, the German inventor, though 70 years of age, is as hopeful of the complete success of his airship as if he were a man of 30, and had not met with many discouragements and spent fortunes in a work to which he has devoted his life. It is eight years since he made his first ascent with his first dirigible balloon, and a short time ago, in an address before an assembly of German engineers, he declared that with proper preparations one of his airships would rise and land without difficulty.

Recently Count Zeppelin's newest airship sailed across half of Switzerland at a speed of 34 miles an hour, remained in the air for twelve consecutive hours, carried fifteen passengers and alighted in safety. It is not surprising that even greater feats are predicted for this aerial wonder, and that its next test, which has been delayed owing to an accident, over a still greater distance than that of its last voyage, is awaited with keen interest.

Already German strategists and politicians are mentally rearranging the map of Europe as they calculate the military uses to which such contrivances may be put. Evidently, however, the German war minister refuses to take this invention at the value placed on it by these enthusiasts, for he has demanded that the inventor operate his craft in a storm before its acceptance by the Government. Zeppelin is himself optimistic as to what would happen were he caught out in a gale, for he asserts that the principle behind the movement of his airship can in no wise be affected by sudden atmospheric pressure or change of current. He claims that his rigid type of airship can go further in the same time than one of the semi-rigid kind and retains its shape even when it has lost some of its buoyancy, while the loss of one of its gas chambers is comparable to the flooding of a single compartment of an ocean liner. Moreover, the rigid airship retains its form quite independently of the action of its motors. If the inventor succeeds in making good all his claims in his next voyage, all doubt as to his entire success must vanish.

Meanwhile Germany is not the only country in which the matter of aerial navigation is claiming attention. Some time ago it was learned that the British war office had been quietly experimenting with dirigible balloons, and is believed to possess in the Nulli Secundus an airship equal to any yet invented. If the next conflict in which Britain becomes engaged should involve a test of aerial invention, it may turn out that after all the talk of Zeppelin's wonderful machine she is mistress of the air as well as of the sea.

WEIGA OF TAMAGAMI.

Our gifted fellow-citizen, Mr. Cy Warman, has turned his pen to good account since he has made his home in Canada. His chief field has been the Canadian West, and he has done much to spread the story of its growth and greatness throughout the United States. He has now found literary treasures in the Highlands of Ontario. "Weiga of Temagami," his latest volume, is a collection of Indian folk-lore tales and poems, redolent of the life of the Indians in the lovely region where "the moose and reindeer roam, where the summer is short, and the twilights long, and Lake Temagami lies limpid beneath the northern sky."

There is a simple beauty in Mr. Warman's treatment, a musical utterance in perfect harmony with the theme. No one but a lover of nature, with the heart of a poet, could have created this atmosphere. This description of how the Indian god, Gitche Manitou, made Temagami, is a sample of the charm of the work:

"Gitche Manitou made the forests and streams and the fishes, whose fins he glided with the gold of the sun. He dipped the wild rose into the liquid glory that floods the west when the day is dying. He brought the blue from the hazy sky, swept the silver from the shimmering lakes, mixed it with a million sunbeams, and scattered it broadcast over all the earth, and there is your silver, your cobalt and gold, for which the white man will burn and battle and fight and die."

The stories of Indian lore are interspersed with quaint bits of verse, as:

Gitche Manitou, the Mighty,
Mitche Manitou, the bad;
In the breast of every Redman,
In the dust of every dead man,
There's a tiny heap of Gitche,
And a mighty mound of Mitche—
There's the good and there's the bad.

It is seldom that a handsomer volume is issued from a Canadian printing house. The colored page borders, full page photographic illustrations, and pen and ink decorations are a credit to the publishers, McLeod & Allen, of Toronto.

The Seventh Regiment has been praised by Lord Roberts, and what higher praise could it have?

"Bob" is the idol of the populace in old London. When he comes to new London, make him think he is at home.

The lawn bowling tournament, the Old Boys' reunion and the visit of Lord Roberts will prevent a midsummer calm in the city.

The United States has lost a great citizen, as well as a great ecclesiastic, in Bishop Potter. He had the air and dignity of an old-world prelate, but was intensely modern in spirit.

The second provincial election in Saskatchewan will be held on Aug. 14. The first was held in December, 1905. A midwinter election in the West is a test of endurance and there is a valid argument for bringing it on just before the harvest operations.

GROUCHY.

[Cleveland Leader.]
"Would you like me to trim a little off the ends of that hair, sir?" asked the barber.
"Now!" snapped the grouchy customer.
"Leave the ends alone and take some out of the middle."

BERNARD SHAW AND THE SUFFRAGISTS.

[London Correspondence New York Sun.]
Bernard Shaw was expected to take part in the woman suffragists' procession. But though his wife was in it he remained a looker on. Found at Hyde Park corner, he was asked why he was not walking with the suffragists.
"Because," he replied, "this is a woman's procession. I'm not a woman; therefore I'm not in it. If I had my wife there'd not be a single man in it, or a married one."
"I told my wife that I'd go on one condition—that I should sit in a bath chair and that she should push it all the way. She didn't accept the offer."

"The procession was a fine sight. There has never been a procession in which the average of good looks was so high. But the horses of the mounted police would take the prize for real beauty, for the humans would be a long way behind; for, see, the horses are well looked after. They're valuable, and if one dies some one loses money. Human beings don't seem to be so valuable."
Three features in the procession arrested Shaw's eye. First, his wife, whom he greeted with uplifted hat; the second was a man carrying a baby; the third was a woman carrying a toy dog. The juxtaposition struck the philosopher.
"Look there," said he, "only one baby in the procession, and that carried by a man; only one dog in the procession, and that carried by a woman. What would Father Vaughan say if he were here to see it?"

The cost ten plunks a day.

By way of calming silence,
Of toll and trouble none,
She wore eleven costumes
From dawn to set of sun.
And then for calming silence
The band with crashing peals
Gave forth two concerts daily,
And also played at meals.

LONDON THROUGH OTHER EYES.

[Brussels L'Eventail.]
Saturday night in London! The life of the giant city broadens out in rumblings, costermongers' cries, the hars of hissing oil-lamps in the wind, improvised shops of tomatoes, rhubarb, meat, fowls and china. It is a tempest of cries and colors before the Sabbath rest.

SPOILING THE TRIP.

[Woman's Home Companion.]
A certain Kentucky justice of the peace was called upon to marry a runaway couple who drove up to his house. When the final words were said the bridegroom fumbled in his pockets and finally fished out a silver dollar.
"Jedge," said he, "this here's all the cash I've got in the world. If you wants it you kin have it; but I don't mind tellin' you that I set it aside for the honeymoon expenses."

BRIDE STARTS A FATAL FIRE

A Spark Caused by Her Shoe Sets Fireworks Plant in a Blaze.

New York, July 21.—A spark from a nail in the heel of her shoe, it is thought by the police, was the cause of an explosion of fireworks in the Fortillo powder plant, foot of Williams avenue, Jersey City, which resulted in the death of Josephine Fabo, 20 years old, of No. 127 Williams avenue, who was in the plant with her husband's dinner.

In the meadow section of Jersey City are many powder plants, where fireworks are manufactured for big New York concerns.

Michael Fabo, employed in the Fortillo plant, is an expert fireworks maker. His wife, Josephine, had, since their marriage, six months ago, been in the habit of carrying her husband's dinner.

About twenty men were busy at the plant at noon-time when Fabo announced that it was nearly time for his wife to arrive with his dinner.

"Here she comes now," said a fellow-workman, as he opened the door. The bride came into the little inclosure, not much larger than a good-sized woodshed, with the familiar dinner basket in her hand.

As she spied Fabo she started across the powder covered wood flooring to get her reward—a kiss. She was not half-way across the room, however, when one of the men cried out a warning. He had seen a spark fly from a nail in the young wife's shoe. Hardly had he spoken when a blinding flash of light came.

The rest of the workmen fled, but Fabo ran with all speed to the side of his wife, who stood in a shower of sputtering and exploding fireworks, but continued to clutch the dinner basket.

With the fireworks shooting all about them, the husband struggled to the door and out into the open with the limp and badly burned form of his bride in his arms. An ambulance hurried the woman to St. Francis Hospital, where, after feebly calling for her husband, she died before he could reach her side.

GOMPERS FAVORS BRYAN'S ELECTION

But He Does Not Undertake to Deliver Labor Vote to Democratic Candidate.

Washington, D. C., July 22.—In advance of publication in the Federationist, the newsmen of the Federationist, President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, liberated tonight the press sheets of a Democratic editorial that will appear in the August issue of the paper. There are three double columns of it, much of the type being used in quoting the written demands that Mr. Gompers and his associates made upon the Republican and Democratic conventions for insertion in their party platforms.

Two of the double columns are given to the proposals of Mr. Gompers to the conventions and accounts of what followed. The statements Mr. Gompers expressed the belief that labor will solidly support the candidate of the Democratic convention. While disavowing an intention to "deliver the labor vote," he expresses the opinion that the worker will have to answer to his fellow-workers.

In any case, my wife, God bless her, will benefit by my demise, even if I don't.
"I have seen many disagreements and much suffering in my life, and I don't want to see you suffer. I am due to you. A selfish peacock, whose name in these times amounts to nothing, and who is almost, if not entirely, forgotten, in circles once tread."
"I am now in no humor to be trifled with, and I wish to go on record that I will take action on sight, unless something is done at once. You gave Harold $5,000 and a trip to Europe. What have I had for my honest?"
"Signed," "J. A. RENNELSALAER."

"I want you to raise on that fancy name of yours $5,000 for me. If you are such a great lady, make good; if not, keep out of my sight. I can raise cash enough yet, to go to you wherever you are, and I have a good name."

Van Rensselaer is a son of John King Van Rensselaer, and grandson of Brigadier General Henry Bell Van Rensselaer, aide-de-camp to Major General Winfield Scott. The Van Rensselaers are descendants from Col. Jeremie Van Rensselaer, who was a member of the colonial assembly in this state, and its speaker in 1664.

SOTHERN WON'T DEFEND

New York, July 22.—It was learned that E. H. Sothern, the actor, had been served with papers in a suit for divorce brought by his wife, Virginia Harned, his former co-star, alleging incompatibility of temper. The service was at the Hotel Netherlands three days ago, where Mr. Sothern had been living before he sailed for Europe.

Virginia Harned is now said to be living in Reno, Nev., where she has been for some time that she might bring a suit for divorce. The laws of that state, where incompatibility of temper is a cause for divorce.

The suit will have a speedy trial, and it is said that there will be no defense. Mr. Sothern is at present in France. He opened his season in Pittsburgh on Oct. 26, but may not return to this country until then.

The papers allege that the parties to the suit have not been living together for six months and are so constituted in temperament that it is impracticable for them to live together again.

THERE BEFORE TELLS MAGISTRATE

Would Not Take Advantage of the Court and Magistrate Commends Honesty.

Frank Black sprung a surprise on Magistrate Love at the police court this morning. Black was arrested last night for being drunk, and this morning Magistrate Love was about to let him go as a first-timer.

"I don't want to take advantage of you," said Black. "I have been here before."

"I don't remember you," said the court. "It must have been a long time ago. Anyway, you are the first man in my experience who was ever honest enough to tell me about it, and you can go. Honesty is the best policy."

His First Appearance.
Arthur Twitichin said he had lived in London for forty years and this was his first appearance in court. He was allowed to go.

Michael Costello was fined $10 or ten days for being drunk. Magistrate Love thought Costello had been drinking so hard lately that he ought to be put on the Indian list. Mr. Costello said he did not want to be on the list.

Michael Davis, an Indian later, was fined $10 for being drunk. Magistrate Love threatened to send Davis down for three months for not telling where he got the liquor. Davis pledged his word that he had been given a few drinks by a man whom he did not know.

Allan McRae, for being drunk, was fined $5 or ten days, and took the days.

SAYS HE'S GLAD HE'S ARRESTED

A Member of a Notable Family Wants Money—Threatened to Kill Mother.

New York, July 21.—John A. Van Rensselaer, eldest son of Mrs. John King Van Rensselaer, of Newport and Philadelphia, who has become somewhat well known through his literary productions concerning eligible daughters of various wars and New York's old families, was arrested yesterday afternoon and locked up in police headquarters, charged with sending his mother a letter in which he threatened to do her bodily harm unless she gave him $5,000.

Van Rensselaer, who was arrested in front of an apartment house at No. 116 Waverly Place, where he occupies a rear apartment with his wife, Kathryn Buxton, whom he married within the last year, told the detectives he wrote the letter in question and they say he repeated his threat to harm her. He said he did not mind being arrested and hoped the case would receive notice in the newspapers.

Van Rensselaer's letter was brought to the attention of the police by his mother who said that her son recently married an actress, had spent $50,000 and was demanding more.

The letter is as follows:
"I have just seen Lawrence Lee, and I am given to understand that you will pay $20 per month for my board if I will go 300 miles from New York, and that I must have your written consent to leave the place that you may select."

"Did it ever occur to you that I have an absolute remainder interest in Aunt Frances's estate securities, and that by blowing your head off, that my wife would have an income sufficient to support her?"
"I will take that course, if necessary, and upon my head will rest the consequences. (Thaw is still alive, may be I will kill her workers.)"

"In any case, my wife, God bless her, will benefit by my demise, even if I don't."

SOTHERN WON'T DEFEND

New York, July 22.—It was learned that E. H. Sothern, the actor, had been served with papers in a suit for divorce brought by his wife, Virginia Harned, his former co-star, alleging incompatibility of temper. The service was at the Hotel Netherlands three days ago, where Mr. Sothern had been living before he sailed for Europe.

Virginia Harned is now said to be living in Reno, Nev., where she has been for some time that she might bring a suit for divorce. The laws of that state, where incompatibility of temper is a cause for divorce.

The suit will have a speedy trial, and it is said that there will be no defense. Mr. Sothern is at present in France. He opened his season in Pittsburgh on Oct. 26, but may not return to this country until then.

LADY SWIMMER HELPS SAVE TEN

Many Gallant Acts Mark a Day's Bathing at Midland Beach.

New York, July 22.—In the presence of several thousand pleasure-seekers, William Doyle, the veteran lifesaver at Midland Beach, Staten Island, assisted by Miss F. Hurst, an expert woman swimmer, who is training for a long distance match, rescued nine women and one man from drowning at Midland Beach yesterday.

The rescues followed one after another in rapid succession, and as the lifesavers brought their charges ashore on each occasion, they were heartily applauded.

Dr. Bossan, who is living at the Beach, attended all of the victims, after which they returned to their homes.

Five of the rescued women had gone beyond their depth and were being rapidly carried out into the bay when saved. The others had been seized with cramps.

Those saved gave their names, as follows: Mrs. William Jones, of Newark, N. J.; Miss Louise Brand, of Jersey City; Miss Anna Jacobs, of Newark; Miss Jennie Werner, of Jersey City; Roberta Wayne, of Manhattan; Mrs. George Smith, of Newark; Mrs. Harry Redmond, of Jersey City; Miss Lulu Gordon, of Newark; Miss Nellie Smith, of Jersey City, and Patrick Johnson, of Manhattan.

Lifesaver Doyle is a member of the United States Life Saving Corps, and since the first of May he has 35 rescues to his credit.

The Arncliffe Puzzle

By GORDON HOLMES, Author "A Mysterious Disappearance."

But Hobson, finding himself completely at a loss, was ready to follow the slightest clue. Bradshaw, like Lester, had declined from the beginning to admit even the possibility of Edith's guilt; but he realized nevertheless that there was negative evidence in existence against her which, though it might not place her life in peril, yet might embitter it irrevocably. And, as far as lay in his power, he resolved to save her.

"I have been studying the geography pretty carefully," he explained to his companion when the lighting of a new cigar aroused him from a reverie. "There is a tree which looks conveniently into that window. A boy who is accustomed to birds-nesting might fix himself up comfortably."

"Perhaps," suggested Hobson, acidly, "you could suggest something suitable to a man of forty-five who suffers from rheumatism?"

"I haven't any rheumatism," replied the American, cheerfully, "and I guess I can climb that tree. I will tell you a fairy tale about what I see after ward. Things ought to be reasonably quiet at the Hall about 11; and if we reach there half an hour later, that will do. Smoke!" and he handed over a Havana from his waistcoat pocket, "but don't talk to me, I want to figure things some more."

And so they sat again in silence, until presently Bradshaw looked at his watch and closed it with a snap. "Ten past eleven," he said. "Twenty minutes' walk to the Hall. Come along, partner, we had better make a move."

They went down-stairs softly. "Jolly Jim" Jones was just clearing away the empty tankards of his village customers. "Going out to breathe for awhile, boss," said Bradshaw. "Don't worry about me; I have my key."

"All right, sir. You won't take a drop of my special to keep the cold out before you go?"

"No, thank you, I have people dependent on me in the United States. Good night."

The country lane was utterly deserted. It was silent enough to ears not tuned to the myriad voices of the night—the chirp of the cricket, the rustling of a dry leaf as an errant breeze kissed it, the trembling of a branch touched by a weasel gliding forth on foray, the sudden soft whirr of wings as an owl swept down on its prey, the stirring of the undergrowth in the Park by the unseen animals which abounded in its fastnesses.

And so the two advanced, as noiselessly as possible, until there came a fitful gleam between the trees. It was the light for which they had come to look; the light which had shone night after night—telling what story? Perhaps only the story of a mother's anguish—the anguish of a mother whose son was coming home with dimmed eyes and faltering steps. All this Bradshaw thought of, but he thought of Edith Holt, too, and went on.

A short cut through the woods and they found themselves beneath the lighted window. There was an oak which spread its branches close to the room, thirty feet above. Without a needless word, Bradshaw drew his companion close to the trunk and climbed upon his shoulders to reach the first stout limb of the tree.

Once within the boughs, the American climbed up like any schoolboy, and settled himself on the branch nearest to the window, perching precariously at the extreme limit of safety. He found that the window was closed; therefore, nothing could be heard, yet the scene within the room offered ample material for speculation when he came to ponder on it afterwards.

Harry Warren, looking utterly cowed was sitting in an armchair, while his mother stormed up and down the room like a very fury. There was, through all her anger, the repression characteristic of the woman. It was no exaggeration to say that she stormed, yet her voice was never raised; strain his ears as he might, Bradshaw could hear no syllable of the conversation. He waited until he grew cramped and until Hobson beneath was hoarsely impatient, and still Mrs. Warren talked with fiery animation, but always, it seemed, with her natural restraint.

Then, at last, she quitted the room. Her son, who had sat dejected and nervous during the harangue, jumped up alertly. He pulled open the drawers of the desk and searched them so frantically, with such bungling haste, that he did not notice his mother's return. She entered, with a certain stealth, and stood behind him, impassive as ever. Warren apparently found what he sought and thrust it guiltily into his pocket. And so the incident might have rested a mere matter between Harry Warren and his mother, if Bradshaw had not coughed. It was a little cough, altogether too slight to be noticed, one would have thought.

Mrs. Warren laid a caressing hand on her son's shoulder, seeming to comfort him. Then she stooped to one of the drawers he had ransacked, and, turning swiftly, fired point-blank through the glass at the figure she could see dimly outlined in the branches of the oak.

CHAPTER XVII.

A Night of Strange Incidents.

As the shot rang out, Bradshaw fell crashing through the branches, clutching frantically at boughs and twigs in his descent, stripping away the young bark and searing the palms of his hands into patches of white-hot agony. But it was only one of those cases in which a man must break either his fall or his neck, and the American's sympathies were largely in favor of the first alternative. Nevertheless, during the brief space of a sheer drop there was only thin air between himself and mother earth, and this distance he fell like a stone, landing heavily at Bradshaw's feet. Luckily the ground was soft, and he stood up in an instant, apparently sound in limb and otherwise fit for action, except that he was breathless.

"Quick!" he gasped, dragging the detective close under the shadow and shelter of the house. Not a moment too soon were they. Mrs. Warren had thrown up the window now and was firing shot after shot into the gloom where Bradshaw had fallen.

"Keep cover," gasped Bradshaw again, "or you are liable to get filled—full of holes. That bullet—whizzed past my ear—like a toy cyclone."

"I thought you were killed when you fell as you did," murmured Hobson. "I suppose you were startled and lost your hold."

"Startled!" The American drew a deep breath or two to test his ribs. "I am not going to be startled any, not if you fire at me with a Gatling gun, but if I had come down in the orthodox manner, mama, Warren would have shot me about eleven and a half times before I had climbed a yard. I have read reams about the British specimen, I don't wonder that she is highly respected in the bulk. Here," he continued, when the house began to gleam with fitful lights, "we had better make ourselves scarce."

Crossing the garden close under the house, they reached a shrubbery and plunged into the thickness of the neighboring firs.

The detective asked if they were to return to the village. "Don't speak to me," faltered Bradshaw—he had not recovered from his fall yet—"I am working up the right story to meet the situation. We are sure to strike some of those prowling gamekeepers if we keep on, and it won't look natural for us to be running away from the Hall. Now, you strike the drive and hurry back toward the house, while I rest right here and make myself as tidy as I can under the circumstances. I will call for help presently and put up a big yarn of how I heard the shots fired, and grappled with a man whom I met running from the Hall. I don't like having to admit that any one has liked me, but it can't be helped."

"But why?" began the detective. "Because I raked in a blow on the forehead from a bough when I fell, and it appears to have bled enough. I must explain it somehow, and I don't see any other way out of the difficulty. Don't you worry. I will arrange a scenario about that fight that will make your hair curl. Don't stop to argue—we are running a risk every moment of delay. Of course, you will say that I strolled part of the way with you, and said good-bye a little while before you heard the shots."

Hobson, not quite clear as to the nature of the affair, hurried off. Left to himself, the American proceeded to arrange the battleground, crushing down the softer vegetation and scoring the earth as it might be scored by the feet of men engaged in deadly grapple. The only thing that troubled his imagination was the state of his hands. As far as he could judge from his sensations, there did not appear to be an inch of skin left on the palms. However, he must endeavor not to let them come into evidence. When he thought his efforts had attained a sufficient degree of realism, he flung himself down and waited, utterly exhausted.

The fall from the tree had shaken him badly, and the cut on his forehead had bled far more profusely than he had told Hobson.

Once or twice, when he caught sight of a moving light in the distance, he shouted, but was evidently mistaken. There was nothing for it but to wait until Hobson reached the Hall, when the detective might be trusted to engineer the search parties in his direction.

At last! there came the close sound of footsteps. Bradshaw, in accordance with the part he had to play, raised a feeble call for help. His cry was answered by a quick rush through the overgrowth, and, well, the groom, knelt violent on his chest, yelling triumphantly: "I've got him, I've got him!"

"Let go, you blithering idiot!" gasped Bradshaw, tearing away the coarse fingers which endeavored to strangle him. "What in thunder do you think you are playing at? I am Mr. Bradshaw."

Wilson peered down at him, trying to pierce the darkness, but he did not relinquish his advantage. "I want to be sure of that," was his reply, uttered with grim determination. "Besides, even if you are Mr. Bradshaw, what are you doing here at this hour?"

The American was spared any explanation by the arrival on the scene of Inspector Hobson, Harry Warren, and several servants carrying lanterns and armed with miscellaneous weapons. As the light fell on Bradshaw's pallid, blood-streaked countenance, the detective sprang forward with a well-simulated expression of surprise. Wilson, too, released his prisoner, when he saw that he was indeed the nephew of Lord Arncliffe whom he had handled so unceremoniously.

"Good heavens! Mr. Bradshaw!" cried Hobson with anxious solicitude. "What has happened to you?"

"I am not sure whether it was an earthquake or a dynamite explosion," answered the American, rubbing his head ruefully. "I heard two or three shots fired shortly after we parted. I ran back toward the Hall to find out what the shooting was about. I heard some one making his way rapidly through the wood. Naturally enough, in view of the shooting, I tried to stop him, but, and he glanced at his torn and blood-spattered clothes. 'I think he must have regarded my interference as impertinent. But do, for goodness' sake, my dear fellow, help me up to your rooms, and let me clean some of the dirt out of my eyes. My friend appears to have given it to me good and hard, and just at present I feel like walking on air.'"

He looked and felt really on the verge of collapse. It was only by leaning heavily on his shoulder that Wilson and the detective that he was able to walk the short distance to the Hall. When the cortege arrived there, an eager crowd of women were waiting for tidings. Mrs. Warren, untroubled as though she had been shooting at clay pigeons, still had the revolver in her hand, and Bradshaw noticed with the quick appreciation of a man who has carried a "gun" all his adult life, that it was of a caliber built to kill. Your man of the frontier has no use for the "deadly toy" so beloved of the lady novelist.

Edith, in a dressing gown, and with her glorious hair rippling over her shoulders, was endeavoring to calm the fears of the huddled maids, and to soothe Mrs. Ainger, who was tearfully protesting that she would never have left her own home had she known she was to be continually molested in her bed. The young mistress of Arncliffe made so fascinating a picture that Bradshaw, who at once found himself an object of tender solicitude, would willingly have lingered near her despite the pain he was suffering.

Hobson, however, silenced all questioning and hurried the American to his room. The stains of moss on Bradshaw's boots and clothes would suggest tree-climbing to the least astute of observers, and both were glad when the door of the bedroom closed behind them. Harry Warren had followed, but Hobson got rid of him for a moment by begging him to fetch bandages. He obliterated the oil-tail marks during Warren's absence with a few deft strokes of a clothesbrush and a rub with a damp towel.

"Give me a big drink—a real big drink," said the American.

He drank thirstily from the glass Warren handed to him, and then shook himself, with tentative twistings.

"That's better," he cried with a nod of approval. "I will be a man again in two minutes. Just bathe this cut over my head, will you, Hobson?"

He leaned over the basin with his burning hands in the water, and experienced a delicious sense of relief, in reality, though, very nearly so, badly injured as the intense pain led him to suppose. When Hobson had finished with him, covering the ugly gash on his forehead with a strip of plaster, he looked comparatively respectable again.

"We are still in the dark, sir," the detective reminded him, "as to how you came to be so badly used—in the park, that is, as to details of the attack upon you."

"Come down-stairs," answered Bradshaw, "and I will explain the whole business. I am feeling quite fit now, and there is no need for me to tell the story a dozen times over. He was well aware that it is difficult, if not impossible, to relate a 'tall story' more than once, without some little deviation from its original beauty. Like a conjuring trick, such an effort of the invention should never be submitted to the same audience twice."

He was no more shy than the majority of his fellow-countrymen, but he found the situation decidedly embarrassing. Wilson had already described a blood-curdling combat in the depth of the woods. When his hero appeared, interestingly pale, and with just enough of disorder in his appearance to support Wilson's story, he was overwhelmed with attention.

SOCIETY WOMEN IN NIGHT RESCUE

Saved Twenty of Shipwrecked Crew From the Jaws of the Sea.

New York, July 21. — Eleven society men and women working like longshoremen, under the direction of Captain Hodge, of the Montauk lifesaving station, saved twenty lives early yesterday. Drenched to the skin, women who never had done any harder work than holding a pair of lines over a spirited horse or playing alone at the table of a breaches buoy until twenty men of the crew of the steamship Chippewa had been hauled ashore.

They then turned their hands to making hot coffee and reviving the men from the stranded steamer who were exhausted by the battle they had been through for their lives.

Raced to Rescue in Autos.
That the rescues were effected was due to the fact that the society folk, camping twelve miles from the Government house, heard the signals for aid fired by Capt. Hodge, who was alone at the station. Provisionally the wind was in the direction that carried to them the sound of the booming gun, telling of a ship in danger, in three automobiles the party made the twelve mile tramp to the station in twenty minutes, and then worked eight hours until the rescues were accomplished.

In the party of campers were Mr. and Mrs. David L. Van Nostrand and Miss Viola Van Nostrand, of Great Neck; Mr. and Mrs. William Post, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Post, Mrs. Scott Lihy and Mr. and Mrs. William Titus, of Williston, and Everett Woodruff, of Flushing.

Mrs. Lihy is very prominent in the Meadowbrook colony, and Mr. Van Nostrand formerly was County Clerk of Queens County. The others are equally well known in Queens and Nassau Counties.

Menaced by Tremendous Sea.

The Chippewa, bound from Charleston, S. C., with a cargo of lumber and animals, went ashore nearly three weeks ago. It was decided the vessel could be saved, and she was being lightered of her cargo. A wrecking crew had placed the animals aboard a float yesterday when the waves were running tremendously high. The ship was to have been floated at high tide. She swung on the rocks, but held fast while the seas washed over her.

Captain Hodge, alone in the lifesaving station—the crew having been laid off until Aug. 1—saw the signals of distress. He wheeled the signal gun out upon the beach and fired as rapidly as he could load, in the hope of attracting attention. He felt certain that if he could get help he could put a line across the ship from the Lyle gun.

Society Women's Weary Work.

After nearly a half hour of rapid firing there was the sound of honking horns and the camping party arrived. Exactly what were the captain's feelings when he saw the kind of help providence had sent him probably never will be known. Undoubtedly he would have preferred a crew of weather-beaten Long Islanders from a gannet, but the readiness with which the men and women responded pleased him.

The Lyle gun was brought out. The line was ready and the first shot went out. It fell short. Then came the wearing work of reeling it in, and the society women, once they saw what was wanted, toiled with a speed that commended itself to the captain.

"Well do just as you say," said the men.

"So will we," said the women. Shot after shot was fired. In the meanwhile the waves were mounting over the Chippewa. Darkness came on fast. The sea was a white water over the workers on the beach.

Lights in the rigging showed the captain where to aim, and at 10 o'clock at night a cheer came from the ship. The line had caught. Then it was pulled until the cable went out, and with it the breaches buoy.

This is the rough work at a station. The hauling on the water-soaked hawser puts splinters of Manila rope in the hands of the men. But every hand was needed to pull in the breaches buoy, and the strength of no woman was despised.

In the emergency an auto was hitched to the rope, but the pull was jerky and there was a danger of the work by breaking something. The society folk fell to the work again, and Captain Hodge talked to them as a captain to his regular crew.

The Captain Comes Ashore.

"Now, all together, boys. That's it. Slack off. Now all together, hard through that wave. That's the stuff," he went on, and finally, at an hour before midnight, the first man landed, wet through and exhausted, and gave a surprised look in the half light from the station as he saw his rescuers.

Then came another, another midnight the captain of the Chippewa came through, the surf tossing him about as the women and men held the lines to aid him.

"In the last," said the captain, as he looked about and stood open-mouthed at the sight. With sleeves rolled up, skirts tucked up and hair down their backs, the women were ready to give in.

Tears Tell Gratitude.
Tears filled the eyes of the men on the Chippewa. They have been no time to look after the crew. They were stretched upon the beach and in the Government house. A pair of hands, however, had been spared, and there was a boiler of hot coffee, condensed milk and pilot biscuit.

"It isn't a bad lot for a rescue," said one of the women as the rescuers fell to when the seamen had had a bite to eat and drink, "but doesn't it taste good?"

In the thanks of the crew and a hearty handshake from Captain Hodge, the autos were filled and the rescuers made for camp, twelve miles away, a very tired but happy lot of society folk.

"It was hard work," said Fred Post.

"The credit, of course, is due to Cap-

WOMAN TO BRAVE LABRADOR'S SNOWS

Newspaper Writer Will Make a Trip to Frozen North Alone.

Manchester, N. H., July 22.—To familiarize herself with the work of Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell in Labrador, and believing that conditions there have never been fully reported, Flora Kendall Edmond, a well-known writer of this city is preparing to start alone for that region.

Assisted by the Rev. George E. Hathaway, pastor of the First Unitarian Church, a personal friend of Dr. Grenfell, she hopes to become a passenger on the hospital ship Strathcona, which cruises among the ice of the deep sea fisheries of Labrador, and which was a gift by Lord Strathcona of Canada.

The New England secretary of the Grenfell Association has informed Mrs. Edmond that Dr. Grenfell has already left "Back" Harbor on his summer cruise and that he intends to penetrate as far north as Cape Chidley, the extreme northern point of Labrador across from the southern part of Greenland. He expects to continue this cruise until late next fall.

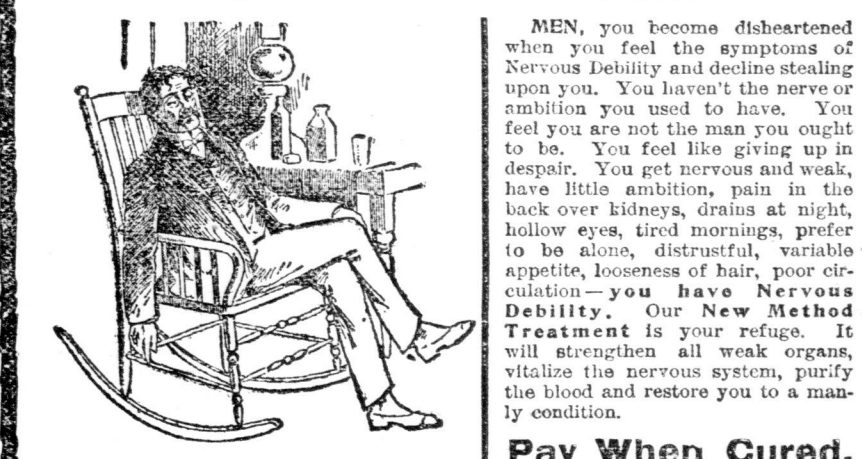

Despite this fact, Mrs. Edmond will begin her journey and will make every effort to join the ship at some point where Dr. Grenfell may be found to take her on board. Sailing from Boston, she will proceed to North Sydney, N. S., and Port au Breque by steamer and then overland to the Bay of Islands, where she intends to board the vessel Home, which will take her up the west coast of Labrador to Battle Harbor, and where he has established hospitals.

Mr. Hathaway has already sent a letter to Dr. Grenfell, telling him of Mrs. Edmond's plans and urging him, if possible, to take her on board the Strathcona in order that she may get a practical insight of his great work. Two years ago Dr. Grenfell visited Manchester and delivered an interesting lecture before a large audience at Mr. Hathaway's church. Mrs. Edmond was so impressed with the recital of his work that she then determined to visit the scene of his operations. Behind the facts unfolded in the lectures she believes there is a story which would appeal to philanthropists throughout the land, and she intends to secure it by personal observation.

BRYAN IS OUT FOR NEGRO VOTES

Practical Politics—He Puts a Chicago Banker on Work of Organizing.

Lincoln, July 21.—Mr. Bryan has begun the play of practical politics. He summoned to Fairview Don C. Farnsworth, a Chicago banker who has a weakness for the politics game, and asked him to undertake the task of organizing the negroes of the north against Taft and for the Democratic ticket.

Farnsworth was recommended by a number of Democrats as an organizer who can organize and who has peculiar facilities for reaching the negro voters. He came here direct from a conference in the west with James, of Kentucky, Clayton and Heflin, of Alabama, and other leaders, who are his sponsors.

Farnsworth admitted after the interview that he had been asked to take up the work, and he said that he believed from the knowledge he has of the sentiment entertained by the negroes of the Middle West toward the Republican ticket that they will be a big factor in determining Roosevelt's successor.

Farnsworth was the sponsor for the Towne boom at Denver. He and his wife took luncheon with the Bryans.

Bryan Surprised.

When Mr. Bryan was informed of what Farnsworth had told the newspapermen he expressed great surprise that anything had been said of the object of his visit, declaring he had no authority to make such a statement. He did not, however, deny it. "That is work that belongs to the committee which is yet to be elected," he said. "I do not understand how I could take up the business of campaign management in that way."

Two hundred students of a normal college at Fremont marched in a body to Fairview Saturday afternoon from the Lincoln station. It was a mixed company of men and girls, and as they passed Bryan each dropped a flower at his feet. Mr. Bryan made a fifteen-minute speech. He said he had not been officially notified of his nomination, but certain things that had been said had raised a suspicion in his mind that he is the candidate. He said that the divine law of reward is that each person shall enjoy in proportion as he gives. He said that anything that person by energy and industry and intelligence contributes to the world. Governments should as nearly as possible follow this law. To correct the conditions that now exist, where these rewards are inequally distributed, is the promise made in the Lincoln platform. He paid the teaching profession a high compliment, and asked the members to compare their rewards with those exacted by the trusts for the service they perform.

Mr. Bryan said the Democratic party is not expected to bring the millennium, but it does purpose to secure a better adjustment of rewards to service by restoring the Government to the ancient doctrines and making it more responsive to the will of the people.

Aim of Democracy.

"Our aim," he said, "is to adjust those rewards in such a way that every one will feel that there is something to strive for. The best way is to assure them that that reward will be proportionate to their endeavor. Along this way lies national greatness. I have wondered why the teachers in this country would go year after year, and vote to turn the nation over to exploitation by great trusts and monopolies when they themselves are so poorly paid for the great and important work they are doing."

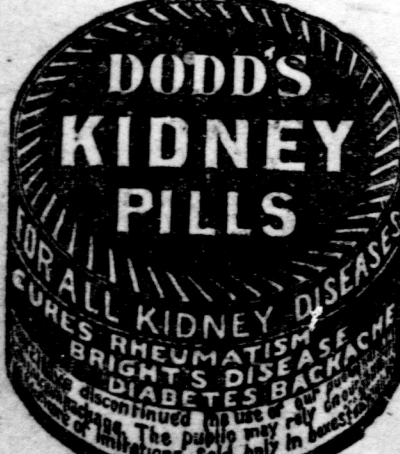

"While I am convinced that our platform does present the best solution of public questions now possible and that its purpose is more equitable than the purpose expressed in the Republican platform, I am much more anxious that each voter shall do what his conscience and judgment dictate is right than that he shall do what I think to be right, to the end that when the election is over each will feel he has done his duty to his country and given it the best he has."

The Democratic state committee was called today to meet here next Wednesday afternoon to prepare for the campaign. Bryan will address the gathering. The real organization of the state has been undertaken by the Bryan volunteers. President Mullen of the organization paid his respects to Bryan today. He told him he had 600 clubs already organized and that new members were being added every day.

The Lancaster County Republican committee, Bryan's home county, met here today. The city members reported considerable disaffection and disposition to vote for Bryan, but the county members said the farmers were well satisfied with Taft. Twelve years ago when Bryan first ran seventeen members of the Republican county committee of fifty sent in their resignations to the chairman, saying they were for Bryan. This year there were no resignations and the country precincts were nearly all represented.

Mr. Bryan was a guest at dinner tonight with the out-of-town newspaper correspondents at a downtown hotel.

A new monthly postal service across the Sahara has just been established. The messengers are mounted on camels.

MR. TAFT JOINS A LABOR UNION

Is Member of the Steam Shovel Society—Urged to Make Speeches.

Hot Springs, Va., July 21.—Mr. Taft has received notice of his honorary election to the International Society of Steam-Shovel Men and is preparing now to receive President T. J. Dolan and the executive committee of the organization when he goes to Cincinnati to be told of his nomination. The steam-shovel delegation will formally notify him of his election and give him the credentials of membership. Mr. Taft learned to know a good many members of this union in Panama, where they were working on the canal.

Mr. Taft will leave here Saturday night for Cincinnati. The formal notification is to take place Tuesday, but he will probably be detained in his home city until Aug. 1. Many Republicans have asked for conferences with him while he is here. In Cincinnati Mr. Taft will have his executive headquarters at the Hotel Stanton and will live at the home of his brother, Chas. P. Taft. Mrs. Taft will accompany him on the trip from Hot Springs.

After the formal programme is over, there will be a big informal celebration. As soon as he can get away from Cincinnati Mr. Taft and his wife will return to Hot Springs, where he will remain until Sept. 1. Then he will go back to Cincinnati to begin the campaign in earnest.

Mr. Taft has declined the invitation to speak at the fair in Syracuse in September. The probability now is that Mr. Taft will not appear in New York State at all in the campaign. In fact he now expects not to leave Cincinnati during the fight, following the precedents set by Mr. McKinley of speaking only to delegations that called upon him.

A good many Republicans think Mr. Taft will be obliged to change his programme. Some of them are still urging him to visit the doubtful states and meet the people. They are trying to convince Mr. Taft that his personality alone would be a big factor in winning votes if he would only get out and travel around. The Republicans in Indiana, where the fight is going to be very hot, are particularly anxious to have Mr. Taft deliver at least one speech in that state.

Mr. Taft has received a letter from Mr. Sherman in which the vice-presidential nominee says he has been assured by his physician that he will be able to enter actively into the campaign, providing he has no setback before Sept. 1.

Mr. Taft is still hacking away at that speech of acceptance, trying to get it down to what he regards as a readable length, about 3,500 words.

Professor Willis Moore, chief of the weather bureau in Washington, and Frank B. Kellogg, the Minnesota trust buster, will be here. Mr. Taft said Professor Moore was interested in the labor problem and he desired to discuss some phases of it with him. Mr. Kellogg is coming for a conference on the references to trusts in the speech of acceptance.

MONTREAL DETECTIVE SHOOT A BURGLAR

Caught in the Act—Shows Fight—Not Badly Hurt.

Montreal, July 21.—John Oldacre, 19 years old, who claims to have come from London, England, two weeks ago, was shot by Detective Robert Carpenter, of the Canadian Detective Bureau, after having broken into the store of J. F. Alexander, 406 St. Catharines street, west. The burglar took effect in the muscle of his right arm, and he was removed to the Western Hospital, where it was stated that the wound was not serious.

The Alexander store has been broken into five times since June 3, and each time entrance was gained by forcing a door or window in the lane in the rear.

Detective Carpenter with Detectives McCormick and Olver had kept watch in the store every night since last Tuesday. At last Oldacre forced open the kitchen door and entered. From the kitchen he climbed through the skylight into the diningroom, and was making for the cash register when Detective Carpenter ordered him to throw up his hands.

Instead of obeying the order he swung at the officer with a hatchet that he carried in his hands. The official fired once to frighten Oldacre, but he did not appear to be scared and advanced, whereupon the detective fired again, the bullet striking him in the arm.

Oldacre then having broken into the place before, but from the way he entered the detectives are convinced that he was the perpetrator of the other breaks.

LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEERS

Meeting Grand International Auxiliary Opens at Ottawa.

Ottawa, July 21.—The union meeting of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Grand International Auxiliary was formally opened here today with about 1,500 members of both bodies in attendance. Preliminary business occupied attention during the day, and in the evening there was a public reception in the Russell Theatre, which was crowded to its utmost capacity. The enthusiasm which prevailed was a revelation to the chilly capital. Among the speakers were W. B. Prenter, F. G. E. Controller Hopewell, Robert Stewart, M. P. A. E. Frapp, K. C. M. L. A., Rev. Walter M. Loucks and Rev. Father Fitzgerald.

A feature of the convention is the number of ladies who have accompanied the delegates, and they are here from all parts of the continent from Mexico to Montreal. The largest delegation is from Cleveland, the headquarters of the order. The Entertaining Ladies' Chorus, numbering 35, belonging to Columbus, Ohio, is also present.

Fine Form—Sheppard
Breaks 400-Metre.

London, July 21.—Better weather, a much larger attendance and exciting finishes made today's Olympic sports at the Stadium far and away more interesting than any that have preceded them.

Melville W. Sheppard, of the Irish-American Athletic Club, who took the measure of the world's best distance men in the 1,500 metres run at the Olympic games last week, added another victory to his long list today, when he won the 800 metres event, establishing a new Olympic record of 1:32.4 for the distance.

A gold medal went to America when Harry F. Porter, of the Irish-American A. C., captured the high jump by clearing the bar at 5 feet 3 inches and beating the Olympic record made by J. K. Baxter in Paris, 1900, of 6 feet 2.4 inches.

While not so spectacular as the races the running high jump was the most keenly contested event of the day.

In the heats of the 200 metre flat race, Lawson Robertson, Irish-American A. C., was defeated by Roche, the Irish champion, and W. W. May, University of Illinois, was compelled to take the dust of the fleet Canadian, Kerr.

In the 100 metres sprint the Americans, May and Stevens, lost their heat to Walker, of South Africa, and Kerr, of Canada, just beat out Sherman, of Dartmouth University, but the other two heats were gathered in for America by Rector and Robertson.

400 Metres Race.
There were four heats in the semi-finals of the 400 metres hurdle race, in two of which went to Great Britain and two to America.

George, United Kingdom, won the first heat of the 200 metre dash in the Olympic games today, beating Henney, Holland, the only other competitor. Time, 23.5 seconds.

Huff, United States, won the second heat from Duffy, South Africa. Time, 22.4 seconds.

Roche, United Kingdom, won the third heat from Robertson, United States. Time, 22.4 seconds.

Cartmell, American, won the fourth heat in 23 seconds.

The fifth heat went to Malfait, of France, who defeated R. C. Duncan, United Kingdom. Time 23.5 seconds.

Laafman, Sweden, won the sixth heat in 23.5 seconds.

Radoczi, Hungary, had a walk-over in the seventh heat.

Cloughen, American, captured the eighth heat easily from Barozzi, Italy. Time 23.5 seconds.

The ninth heat was won by Hurdless, United Kingdom. Time, 23.5 seconds.

Hamilton, United States, won the tenth heat, defeating Sebert, Canada. Time, 22.5 seconds.

Kerr Won.
Kerr, Canada, won the eleventh heat, beating May, United States, by two and one-half yards. Time 21.5 seconds.

The twelfth round was won by D. R. Sherman, United States, who beat Morton, former champion of the United Kingdom. Time 22.5 seconds.

Reed, United Kingdom, won the thirteenth heat, Time 21.5 seconds.

Gutormsen, Norway, won the fourteenth heat, there being no other entry.

The fifteenth heat was won by Hawkins, United Kingdom. Time, 22.4 seconds.

In the first section of the running high jump, Monson, Norway, and Leader, United Kingdom, each cleared the bar at 5 feet 10 inches. Gidney, United States, was third, with 5 feet 9 inches.

In the second section of the running high jump, C. Leahy, United Kingdom, made 6 feet 2 inches; Ree, France, 6 feet 2 inches, and John N. Patterson, Chicago A. A., cleared 6 feet.

In the third section of the running high jump, Harry F. Porter, Irish-American A. C., cleared 6 feet 3 inches, beating Leahy's jump by 1 inch. F. Moffit, University of Chicago, was second, with 6 feet 1 inch.

In the third heat of the high diving, Laberg, Sweden, got 68.9 points, and Freyschmidt, Germany, 67.3 points.

In the fourth section of this event only Barber, Canada, with 5 feet 9 inches, and Wilson, United Kingdom, also with 5 feet 9 inches, competed.

A Protest.
A protest by the first section of the running high jump on the ground that the spot selected for their performance was not so good as that on which the other sections jumped was allowed. All the competitors jumped over.

In the re-jump, H. A. Gidney, Boston A. A., was the first with 6 feet, 1 inch. Leahy, United Kingdom, was second with 5 feet, 9 inches; Haluzinsky, Hungary, third, with 5 feet, 7 inches, and Belcher, United Kingdom, fourth, with 5 feet, 2 1/2 inches.

The following men qualified for the final in the high jump: Gidney, Hendelund, Sweden; Andre, France; John N. Patterson, Chicago A. A.; Somody, Hungary; C. Leahy, United Kingdom; Harry F. Porter, Irish-American A. C.; and F. Moffit, University of Chicago. Hendelund was scratched.

The final was won by Harry F. Porter, Irish-American A. C. He cleared 6 feet, 3 inches; Leahy, United Kingdom, and Andre, France and Somody, Hungary, tied for second place, with 6 feet, 2 inches.

Porter then made a try at 6 feet, 5 1/2 inches in an exhibition to beat the world's record, but failed.

Kerr Wins Again.
The first heat of the semi-finals in the 100 metres (109.3 yards) flat run was won by Walker, South Africa, in 14.5 seconds, equaling the Olympic record. W. W. May, University of Illinois, was second, and L. B. Stevens, of Yale, was third. The second heat of this event was won by Kerr, Canada, in 11 seconds.

The third heat of the 100 metres was won by J. A. Rector, University of Virginia, in 10.5 seconds. H. J. Huff, Chicago A. A., was second.

Fourth Heat.
The fourth heat was won by N. J. Cartmell, University of Pennsylvania, in 11.5 seconds. Lawson Robertson, Irish-American A. C., was second.

The first semi-final in the 400-metre hurdles was won by Harry L. Hillman, N. Y. A. C., in 56.2 seconds. H. L. Coe, University of Michigan, was second.

The second heat was won by C. J. Bacon, Irish-American A. C., in 58.4 seconds.

The third heat was won by Burton, United Kingdom, in 59.4 seconds.

The fourth was won by Tremmer, United Kingdom.

There was no eighth heat run in the 400-metre flat.

The ninth heat was won by H. P. Ramey, Chicago A. A., in 49.3 seconds.

Sebert, Canada, won the tenth heat in 50.1 seconds.

J. C. Atlee, Princeton University, won the eleventh in 50.2 seconds, and Davies, United Kingdom, the twelfth in 50.5 seconds.

The thirteenth heat was won by N. A. Merriam, University of Chicago, in 52.1 seconds, and the fourteenth by J. C. Carpenter, Cornell University.

Halswell, United Kingdom, won the fifteenth in 52.5 seconds. Halswell is the English champion.

The sixteenth and last heat was won by G. W. Young, United Kingdom, in 49.2 seconds.

400 Metre.
In the first heat of the 400-metre run, Montague, United Kingdom, beat Paul H. Pilgrim, New York A. C., his only competitor. His time was 50.1 seconds. The second heat was taken by Ryle, United Kingdom, who ran alone. In the third heat J. B. Taylor, Irish-American A. C., was first.

Taylor's time in the 400 metres was 50.4 seconds. He won an easy victory over his two competitors, an Italian and a Swede. The fourth heat of this event was won by Nicol, United States, in 50.4 seconds.

The fifth heat was won by the fifth by Malfait, France, in 50 seconds. W. C. Robbins, Cambridge, Mass., won the sixth in 50.2 seconds, and W. C. Prout, Boston A. C., captured the seventh in the same time.

The final heat in the 400-metre (374 yards) flat race was won by Melvin W. Sheppard, Irish-American A. C. Lughli, Italy, was second, and Braun, Germany, third. Sheppard's time was 1:55.4 seconds. He won by ten yards and a half.

Fairbairn-Crawford made the pace at the start, sprinting speedily for 300 yards, when Sheppard passed him, followed by Lughli, Italy, and Just, the English champion, in the order named.

Sheppard raced around the back stretch. The three men formed the first division, for the other runners soon fell considerably to the rear. Sheppard established a decisive lead at the last turn and never again was challenged.

Just dropped back on the flat, but he was not beaten, and Braun, Germany; Boder, Hungary, and Halsstead, N. Y. A. C., passed him in the last stretch. Neither Fairbairn-Crawford, nor Baird Ames University, finished.

Second Post.
In the expectation of a record a second finishing line had been established at the half-mile post, 18 feet beyond the 800-metre mark. Sheppard finished the race full of vigor and kept on to the half. When the announcer called through his megaphone: "Sheppard continued to the half-mile and made the record, 1 minute and 54 seconds, for this distance," everybody cheered generously.

In the first round of the catch-as-catch-can wrestling, middleweight to 161 pounds, Craig and Narganes, United States, drew byes. In the second round Beck, United Kingdom, threw Narganes, and Anderson, Sweden, beat Craig on points after the two men had struggled on the mat for the full fifteen minutes without either securing a throw.

The city of London police team, which won the Olympic tug-of-war, was challenged for a match with the American team, the members of both teams to be in their stocking feet or in any way the Americans prefer, and the match to be for love or any charity.

CLINTON BOWLERS DEFEAT MITCHELL

MANAGER KELLY RESIGNS POSITION
Toronto, July 21.—At the expiration of a lengthy conference this afternoon between President J. J. McCaffery, of the Toronto Ball Club, and Manager M. J. Kelley, it was announced that Mr. Kelley had resigned his position as manager of the club, the resignation to take place at once. He will sever his connection with the team at once.

The ball club directors will hold a meeting tonight to select a successor to Mr. Kelley. It will likely be Larry Schady, the present second baseman of the team.

HATS OFF TO BOBBIE KERR—the one best bet in the Olympic sprint!

KERR WILL HAVE to move along all the time to win the final of the 100-metre race over Rector, the Virginian, but Canadians will bank on Kerr to win today.

ON THURSDAY the 300-metre race comes off, and Kerr is looked to to repeat in that contest. Speaking of Kerr's grand record, the Hamilton Spectator says:

His athletic record shows that he has been constantly improving, his late races in England being the best of his career. His best time, prior to going to England, for various distances up to 440 yards, was:

75 yards—7.4 seconds.
100 yards—9.4-5 seconds. Indoors—10 seconds.

220 yards—21.2-5 seconds.
440 yards—51 seconds.

BOBBY KERR deserves a great reception, even if he does not win another heat at the Olympic games. But it is a good bet that he will clean up in both the 100 and 200 metres now that he has gone so far—Hamilton Herald.

REGARDLESS of the weeping and wailing of one Jim Sullivan, the professional booster of Uncle Sam's Amateur Athletic Union, some members of the Yankee team have the manliness to speak well of their hosts, the gentlemen of the British Olympic committee, who have a reputation for fairness.

I would willingly be taken for my life by the judges of the Olympics. It is a fair field and no favor.—Toronto Exchange.

ENGLAND'S long-distance runners are entitled to a world of credit. It takes rare stamina and grit to run a five-mile race or such an event as the steeplechase. Grit and stamina the English long-distance runners always have. They run hard all the way and stagger over the finish line with every last ounce of stamina expended.

THAT CHALLENGE of the English policemen tug-of-war team to the Americans is a funny one. It won't seem half so funny, though, as the spectacle of the Yanks crawling in their hole and pulling the hole in after them.

THE TORONTO STAR remarks that Lukeman, of Montreal, has done nothing in England, which would seem to entitle him to the Olympic trip. Judging by the way Kerr is romping over the tape, there will be a new Yankee sprinter who will be in the same box when the sprints are over.

TOM FLANAGAN has named the donkey that pulls Longboat over the country roads to church in Ireland. Jimmie S., after the United States commissioner of the Olympic games, Hamilton Exchange.

IN DISCUSSING Olympic winners the New York World states that Sheridan, the American weight-thrasher, is the most reliable point winner the world possesses. Sullivan takes a biscuit, though, as a harpoon flinger.

TORONTO WORLD: Here's to Canada's champion sprinter, Bobbie Kerr! May he score the first win for the Dominion. Canadians little know how near they were to losing the athlete who now holds the limelight in England. It was last fall, while the Toronto baseball team were on their way to Columbus. Bobby met the train at Hamilton, and was busy talking to several of the party in the coach, when the train commenced to pull out.

Bobbie jumped off, but there were two tracks between the ball team's train and the platform. Another train was on the first track, and Kerr alighted, he walked behind the coach onto the track nearest the platform, just as a yard engine came thundering down, and here Bobbie's quick start saved his life just by an eyelash.

BIG SCRAMBLE
FOR NEW STAMPTercentenary Issue Sold Out
Here in Ten Days.

ALMOST RIOT AT MONTREAL

Unprecedented Rush by Collectors
From All Parts To Get Sets of Beautiful New Stamp.

The demand for sets of Tercentenary stamps has been so great at the postoffice that yesterday the last complete set was disposed of, and the authorities have sent to Ottawa for a new supply. The stamp vendor stated to The Advertiser yesterday that over 500 complete sets have been sold during the few days that the stamps have been on sale. There are still plenty of one and two-cent stamps. The supply of half-cent stamps is just about exhausted, and in order to give everybody a chance to get them, only two will be sold to any one person. This is deemed a sufficient number for any collector. The sets have not, by any means, all been sold to collectors. Large numbers of visitors from the United States and other places are buying them as souvenirs.

A Beautiful Set. The Government of Canada from a stamp collector's standpoint, has issued more really beautiful and interesting stamps than any other country on the globe. Sets of Canadian stamps are among the philatelic most highly prized treasures and from an artistic standpoint surpass any stamps that have been issued. A notable feature in connection with the present set is that the value of the highest stamp is twenty cents. A few years ago when the Jubilee stamps were issued, the values included stamps valued at 50 cents, $1, $2, $3, $4 and $5. Only the wealthier collectors could afford to invest so much money, and the sale was comparatively limited. All collectors like, when possible, to obtain a complete set of any issue, and no little dissatisfaction was heard among stamp men at such large denominations being issued. The stamps were practically never used for postal purposes, and were designed simply to be sold to collectors. That they have recognized that there is more money in selling stamps to collectors than in selling them to the public is a fact. The stamps are being sold at a profit, and the Government will clean up about half a million dollars.

Good Business.

This is good business policy and the collectors are more than pleased with the arrangement. At Ottawa every mail brings thousands of dollars in money orders from dealers all over the world, wanting to buy complete sets. Practically every one of the thousands of visitors at Quebec will buy a set of the stamps, and in Montreal postoffice there occurred what were very nearly riots in order to get the stamps. People jostled and fought to get a place at the wicket to such an extent that it was found necessary to keep men there to keep them in order.

Personal Mention.

HAPPENINGS OF A DAY
IN BUSY EAST LONDON.EAST END DISCUSSES
OLD BOYS' DECORATIONSEach Businessman Will Contribute
What He Considers Fair.

A meeting of the businessmen of the east end who are interested in the scheme for the illumination and decoration of Dundas street, between Adelaide and Lyle streets, was held at the offices of the Somerville Manufacturing Company last evening and plans discussed.

It was found that the estimates secured from an electrician on a previous occasion were inaccurate. The cost per light greatly exceeded his estimate, but it is still very reasonable. Instead of each man being asked to pay a certain amount, they will be asked to contribute what they consider is fair.

The second scheme will be just as successful as the first plan, and all realize that they are getting it at a very good figure.

It is understood that the lights will be allowed to remain up until fall week, when they will again be used for decorating the streets of the east end.

EAST END PICNIC

To Be Biggest of Its Kind.

Things are being hustled by the officers of the east end picnic, which is to be held at Queen's Park on Wednesday, July 29.

The prizes are coming in rapidly, and at the present rate there will be sufficient to make the picnic one of the biggest events of its kind ever held in this city.

Most of the businessmen of the east end have been canvassed, but there are several who have not yet

W. END BREAKWATER
IN NEED OF REPAIRHeavy Growth of Noxious Weeds
Around Wharfedale Road.

The residents of West London are becoming somewhat anxious as the breakwater is loosening and caving in at the Blackfriars Bridge.

For some time the wall has been dropping in places, and it is feared that the spring freshets will again menace that suburb.

The breakwater has been a great protection to West London. Since it was built that section has gone ahead very rapidly, new houses have been built, its population has increased, and it has experienced a general boom.

ANNUAL GARDEN PARTY
OF ST. GEORGE'S CHURCHHeld on the Rectory Grounds Last Evening, and a Big Success.

The annual garden party in connection with the St. George's Church was held on the rectory grounds last evening, and was a big success.

The different booths were beautifully decorated, and were well patronized. Addresses were delivered by Rev. T. B. Clark, the pastor of All Saints' Church, and by Rev. G. W. Dewey, of Empress Avenue Methodist Church.

A gramophone was kindly lent for the occasion by Mr. T. Fowler.

Those who had charge of the booths were:

Coffee and sandwiches—Miss Gahan, Mr. Jeffries and Mr. Hobbs.

Candy—Miss Hudson, Miss Smith, Miss Ellis and Miss Bowey.

Fruit—Miss Platt, Miss A. Gower, Miss Smith and Miss Andrews.

Ice cream—Mrs. Garratt, Mrs. Kershaw, Mrs. Stanton, Miss Edwards and Miss Gower.

The funds will be used for church work.

A MECHANICAL MIXER

Barber Company Request That They
Be Permitted to Use One.

The request of the Barber Asphalt Company that they be allowed to use a mechanical mixer, was considered at a special meeting of No. 2 committee yesterday afternoon.

The company pointed out that the use of the machine would allow them to make very rapid progress with the work, and it might be completed by the time the Old Boys came. It would do the work just as satisfactorily as it was being done by hand, and the city would not lose anything by it.

The committee, as a whole, did not take very kindly to the proposition, as former experiences with the machine had not been the most satisfactory. However, a test will be made of the machine this afternoon, and if the work is done to the satisfaction of the committee the company will be allowed to use it on the streets.

been seen. These are requested to inform the president, Mr. Thomas Shaw, of what they intend to donate, as the list of prizes must be arranged at tomorrow evening's meeting, which will be held at the east end hall.

Arrangements will probably be made for the procuring of a band, but nothing definite has been decided yet, as it is not known whether the cash contributions will be large enough to pay the bandmen.

A quelling match has been suggested, and arrangements for one will probably be made tomorrow evening.

Work on the Chesley avenue school improvements is being pushed forward in order that they may be completed in time for the reopening in September next.

As the heating plant last year was very unsatisfactory a new and up-to-date steam heating plant is being installed.

There were formerly about ten hot air furnaces, but it was impossible to heat the large building with hot air. The new system will be a great improvement.

Mrs. C. Wilkey, of Brooklyn, N. Y., is visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Newell, of English street. Mr. Wilkey will visit this city during Old Boy week.

Mrs. R. S. Simmons, of Dundas street east, has returned home after spending her holidays with her daughters at Embro.

May Queen Lodge, No. 5, of the Daughters of Rebekah will hold the second summer picnic this season on Saturday. The first was held at Springbank, but it has been decided to hold this one at the lakeside.

The residents of the east end in the vicinity of the Lorne avenue school complain that the sand and rubbish from the school is several inches deep on the sidewalk, and that the walk is therefore in a dangerous condition.

The school is being remodeled and the rubbish is strewn over the walk.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday by the Rev. G. B. Sage, pastor of the St. George's Church, West London, when Miss Elma Mansell became the wife of Mr. Robert Ely. Both the bride and groom are of this city.

Building permits were issued by Acting City Engineer Kirkpatrick this morning to Mrs. Finch, William street, for a two story brick residence; to J. S. Borden, Dundas street east, for a brick veneer cottage on West Dorinda street, and to G. E. Tait for a story and a quarter brick residence on Van street.

A big metal planer arrived in this city this morning for the Grand Trunk roundhouse. It will be a big addition to the machine shops, and will make it possible to attend to all repairs much more speedily.

A sneak thief has been operating around the Grand Trunk station lately and several thefts of grips, coats and minor articles have been reported to the officials. So far no one has been captured, although a close watch is being kept.

Colonel White, senior army service officer of Toronto, was in the city yesterday presiding over a court of inquiry in connection with some serious irregularities that took place at the Guderich camp. The local officers were made to make statements regarding the matter.

The funeral of Mrs. Christina Herr was held yesterday at the undertaker's parlors of Smith, Son & Clarke to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Schwake. Mrs. Herr formerly lived in Mitchell, and had been ill for several weeks.

The annual match between the Thistle and Bowling Club bowling teams will take place this afternoon on the London Bowling Club greens. Ten rinks each will be in play and the journey will be one of the most interesting ever held in the city.

A large vat at the Canada Cement Company's plant on Bostory street fell over this morning but no serious damage resulted. The vat was set up several feet in the air on a wooden framework, which spread and allowed the vat to fall, but there was no person in the vicinity at the time.

The death took place yesterday afternoon at the family residence, No. 5 Seale's Terrace, of John H. Perkins, an old and esteemed resident of this city. Besides his wife, Mr. Perkins leaves two sons, William and James, and two daughters, Misses Frances and Maud, to mourn his loss. The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon to Mount Pleasant Cemetery, services being conducted by Canon Dunn.

The C. P. R. auxiliary was called to Kent Bridge shortly before noon today to replace a freight car which had jumped the track. While making a siding to let the Chicago express pass, one of the wheels mounted the track and the car, which contained a large quantity of glass, was thrown off the track and quite a lot of it smashed. The Chicago express was delayed for half an hour.

One of the warmest struggles on this season's sporting calendar is scheduled for this afternoon at Springbank, London's finest and the street car men engage in a baseball contest for the championship of Dubville. It is reported that the winners will challenge the winner of the Press game a week from today. I had arranged for some time, said a prominent citizen today.

Work has commenced this morning on the painting of the city hall. Contractor Wignmore has a good force of men at work, and it is expected that the "Ark" will be a very substantial building by the time the decorators get through with it.

GENERAL ELECTION
IN SASKATCHEWANThe Saskatchewan Legislature
Has Been Dissolved—Election August 22.

Ottawa, July 22.—A private wire to Ottawa states that the Saskatchewan Legislature has been dissolved, and that an election will take place in 20 days, on Aug. 14.

Regina, July 21.—The first Legislative Assembly of the Province of Saskatchewan was dissolved yesterday, and the writs issued for a new election. Nomination day has been fixed for Friday, Aug. 7, and polling one week later, on Aug. 14.

The reason for dissolution at this time is to give the earliest possible effect to the new redistribution of the writs issued for a new election. Nomination day has been fixed for Friday, Aug. 7, and polling one week later, on Aug. 14.

The intention is to hold a fall session, and if the present under-represented portions of the province are to be given their proper representation therein, an election must be held immediately so as not to have it conflict with an impending early harvest.

At the fall session it is proposed to pass a new municipal act for the rural communities, and it is considered of the utmost importance that all sections of the province should be adequately represented, and pass upon this new measure, which will be of such great moment to all the people.

While going home Monday night several residents of the north end found Mr. Charles Owen coachman for Hon. Adam Beck, lying on the walk on St. James street with blood pouring from his ears and nose, and quite unconscious.

It was not known how he was injured. There were a couple of other men near him at the time, and the rumor was soon afloat that he had been slugged and badly injured.

The man was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, where his injuries were attended to.

It took considerable time to bring him to, and at first it was thought that his injuries would terminate fatally.

Mr. Owen could give no account of how he was injured. He was on his way to his quarters at Mr. Beck's when he received the injuries.

It will be remembered that Mr. Owen was badly injured by being kicked in the head by one of Mr. Beck's horses some time ago, and it was thought that his injuries would terminate fatally. An operation was performed on him, and he rallied, making a good recovery.

Whether he was overcome by a dizzy spell due to his former injuries, or whether he was slugged, could not be determined.

There was a persistent rumor afloat this morning that he had been slugged, but nothing definite could be learned of it.

The police have not been notified of the occurrence.

Mr. Owen is still in the hospital. His head is very sore, and he has a bad scalp wound, but it is thought that he will be about in a day or two.

OIL DEAL IS OFF

Negotiations to Purchase Romney-
Tilbury Fields Dropped.

Chatham, July 21.—According to oil men here, including N. H. Bowley, the Buffalo millionaire, the deal between the British syndicate and local owners for the sale of the Romney-Tilbury oil fields has fallen through. Local men wanted $1,000,000, and the British offered $750,000.

The Crestview community of West-ern Ontario and the city suffered a severe loss this morning in the death of Rev. Mother Mary Baptiste, for twelve years Superior of the Ursuline Convent here and later assistant Superior. She was aged 67, being in the forty-fourth year of her religious profession. Her name before entering religion was Jane Frances O'Grady, a native of Troy, N. Y.

CAVANAGH INDICTED

Manager of Brighton Betting Ring
Must Stand Trial.

New York, July 22.—It was announced last night by Jake Heilprin, lawyer for the race track interests, that the three men indicted in connection with the race track gambling investigation are William Engelman, principal owner of the Brighton Beach race track; Christopher Fitzgerald, president of the Brighton Betting Association; and John G. Cavanagh, manager of the betting ring.

Lawyer Heilprin said: "My clients were to have been at the Brooklyn police headquarters at 11 o'clock last night, to surrender themselves to the police. I had arrangements to have bail furnished."

LATEST STOCK MARKET REPORTS

(Special from Harris, Winthrop & Co., to H. C. Becker.)

New York, July 22.—The market has been strong and active on the decision, reversing the fine against Standard Oil. This was the main factor of the day, and there has been excellent buying in all departments. There are better reports from the steel centres, claiming heavy increase in volume of business. This and the Standard Oil decision, it is expected, will be very beneficial to the general market.

A genuine treat is in store for the people of Poplar Hill next Friday evening, when Mrs. E. Charlton Black will appear at the Disciple Church. Mrs. Black has arranged a very interesting and attractive programme for the evening, and no doubt will be greeted by a very large audience. Mrs. Black was recently appointed to the professorship of elocution and oratory in Boston University.

TRADED COWS FOR THEIR WIVES

A Returned Missionary Tells of Matrimonial Methods in the Soudan.

A most interesting address was given in the Christian Workers' Church, King street, last night by Rev. Mr. Seipel, a missionary, who has spent the last seven years working in the Soudan.

"In the district where I was," said Mr. Seipel, "a man's wealth was reckoned solely by the number of wives he possessed. A man who had only two or three wives was a very poor man. The people there trade cattle for wives. A man will go and give another man a cow or sheep for his daughter when she is a little bit of a girl. Another missionary and myself traced one of them and before we lost track of it found that it had been traded for wives sixty-seven times. The girls stay with their parents until they are twelve or thirteen years old, and then their husbands come for them. It is a remarkable fact that 75 per cent of the women of the country are blind in one eye. This is due to the fact that many of them when they are twelve or thirteen years old refuse to go with the husbands to whom they have been sold in the childhood. When the girl refuses she is first given a flogging by her father. Then the other wives of her husband come and take her and squeeze the juice of red peppers in one of her eyes.

Women the Workers.

"When I first went to the Soudan I wanted to learn the language, but no one would teach me unless I would pay them for every word they taught. The women there do all the work, and I watched them catching fish. Half a dozen women would take a net and start to chase one fish. On many occasions the fish would escape and when captured there was invariably a dispute as to the ownership. I sent and got some fish hooks. As soon as the women saw the ease with which the fish could be captured they were only too glad to learn the language for a fish hook. I have known women come twenty miles to get a fish hook."

Mr. Seipel related many other instances of his life and work among the people in the interior, and his address was greatly appreciated by those present.

Advertiser Correspondence

The Water Question.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

The recent expensive water scheme being defeated, and no feasible substitute offered, allow me to make a suggestion or two relating to the north branch spring water one, fully outlined in my previous letters.

I observe the Hon. Sir John Carling stated at the board of trade meeting that "the Shanty springs would give 500,000 gallons a day." It is more than my estimate of them. They are, however, only three of the thirteen north of the Cronyn-White bunch, having a flow of but one-fifth of that number, or one-tenth of all along the proposed course of the pipes.

What surprises me is the total ignorance of the great majority of the citizens regarding the numerous fine springs on the north branch, and why the commissioners have always been so anxious to go longer distances down the river for a much smaller supply of water, to be pumped uphill, at twice the cost, and seeming to turn their backs on springs that give double, and will flow by gravitation to a reservoir near the city, without pumping.

I would say, let that part of the $125,000 that was proposed to be spent on collecting a mere 500,000—If so much—down at Kilworth (including $65,000 for a 16-inch main, when a 10-inch one would be sufficient), be used in a 20-inch one to the Cronyn-White springs, not merely for the 1,375,520 gallons they give (the figures 800,000 evidently being taken from an estimate of Maury, or someone else, without his having included the George White and McLeod ones at opposite sides of the river). I say, a 20-inch main, for the purpose of carrying the additional water of the thirteen farther north by extending smaller pipes to them, decreasing in size until they reached Stoddart's, adding 1,200,000 gallons more, all to flow to a ten, fifteen or twenty million gallon reservoir north of the city, or of whatever size desired. I think the smaller one would be ample, by laying a branch pipe from nearest point of the present Springbank main to it, having a stop-valve, by opening which the water from the Springbank reservoir could, at any time of a large fire, be turned into it, dispensing with such a much larger size reservoir be adopted.

Then, instead of high pressure engines and separate system, costing $250,000, installed on some part of the Thames, scattering its untended, germ-laden, polluted waters on the streets and lawns, drawing flies by the million, and spreading epidemics, I would place them on this reservoir, to be used at all ordinary times, as the carrying pipes through the business part, and as far east as expedient—co-laterals and stop-valves were required—dispensing with a dam, with chief part of cost of enlarging city mains, and the $85,000 for a duplicate Springbank one.

All together would be a complete, pure spring water system, costing at least $200,000 less than the late scheme, when the $85,000 came to be added to the $560,000, as the second Springbank main would be quite unnecessary—a scheme which, though protecting the business part, no one could say was for the special benefit of the centre, at the cost of the entire city, and one which, if submitted, would carry with a sweeping majority. All figures of construction when necessary.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT AT PORT STANLEY

Miss V. McDougall, of London, Walks Off Cliff—Sustains Fracture of Wrist.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Port Stanley, July 21—Last night while walking along New Orchard Beach, Miss Vera McDougall, the eldest daughter of Mr. James McDougall of London, had the misfortune to get too close to the edge of the cliff, and in the darkness she walked off, falling about twenty-five feet to the beach below. The young lady was badly shaken up and had her wrist fractured. Her escape from further injury is remarkable, as the beach at this point is composed of hard clay and peat. The accident should be a warning to the summerites to keep their lamps along the water's edge burning brightly, as on dark evenings it is next to impossible to promenade the beach in safety.

Bonfire Welcome.

Last evening there was a large bonfire at Erie Rest in honor of the numerous visitors at that point. Mrs. Linn and her son Frank Pelton, of Detroit, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. St. Clare Leitch, on Hill Crest. Miss Andrews, of Hillside Glen, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. S. O. Perry, Hill Crest. Mrs. Price, Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Cuvlin, of Willow Beach, are spending a few days in London.

A Good Catch.

A very large fishing party from Hill Crest drove to Harding's Pond today and hauled in a large cargo of black bass. This is the truth, not a fish story only.

Miss McPhaddon, of St. Thomas, is the guest for a few days of Mrs. Dr. McKillop, Fraser Heights.

Norman Bodin, of Delaware, is visiting Dr. Hughson, at Bide-a-White Cottage, Erie Rest. On several occasions of late Londoners who are summering at Erie Rest have been seized with an inspiration to revisit the city that gave them birth. Then the said Londoners have packed their few possessions and repaired to the Southwestern Traction Company's line. Now, just here is the question of how to get the fare and the traveling public are aware that the Traction Company sell their tickets at the local postoffice. In fact, most people do not know that there is such a thing as a street car station in the village royal, and many of them are greatly surprised to learn that they are obliged to pay full fare. True, the company have a small sign in front of the postoffice, but few there are that have ever noticed it.

Let the royal mail folks make it well known that they have an agency in Port Stanley and much inconvenience will be saved.

Miss Myrtle Tallman, of the nursing staff of Woodstock's General Hospital, and Miss Mildred Tallman, of St. Thomas, have returned to their homes after visiting Mrs. Dr. McKillop, Fraser Heights.

Mrs. Bessie Kinsley, of St. Louis, is the guest of her friend, Mrs. Dr. Hughson, at Bide-a-White, Erie Rest. Miss Edna MacRobert, of London, has returned to her home after spending the past week with Miss Vera Rest, at Shady View Cottage, Erie Rest.

Miss Florence Stevely and Miss Mabel MacRobert were entertained to afternoon tea at Shady View, Erie Rest, on Monday.

The young ladies of Erie Rest, planned an enormous picnic at Tenneyson Falls today, but were forced to postpone it indefinitely owing to the unsettled weather.

Miss George Green and her mother, Mrs. Frank Shepherd, left this evening on the steamer Biker Dike for a cruise up the lakes.

Miss Gladys Berry and her sister, Mrs. Anthony, of Buffalo, are home on their holidays.

Freight Steamer Calls.

The steam freighter Biker Dike, called here today en route from Montreal to Detroit.

Mrs. George Green and her mother, Mrs. Frank Shepherd, left this evening on the steamer Biker Dike for a cruise up the lakes.

Miss Culmer Carpenter, of Hamilton, is the guest of Miss Edna Pulver, at the Clifton, Hill Crest.

Mrs. Leslie Edy, Miss Irene Edy, Miss Edna Edy, of London, and Miss Hazel Edson, of Lornien, South Dakota, are rusticating at Brunswick House, Hill Crest.

Mr. Ellis Hyman, of the School of Practical Science, Toronto, is spending a large part of his summer holidays on Hill Crest.

Miss Carry Green, of St. Thomas, spent the week-end with Miss Edna Pulver, at the Clifton, Hill Crest.

Miss Winnie Robinson, of Hill Crest is in St. Thomas.

Miss Ella Smith, of Orchard Beach, has returned from a visit in Detroit.

Elmore Drake was on Hill Crest yesterday, making arrangements for the monster masquerade ball on Thursday.
