

STICK PLAYS STAR PART IN WRIGHT-WAY DAMAGE SUIT BEFORE ASSIZES

Question at Issue Is "Did Gordon Wright Have His Cane in His Hand When T. M. Way Struck Him With Hoe?"

DEFENDANT DECLARES BLOW ACCIDENT

Hearing of the Wright-Way damage action was resumed before Hon. Justice Masten at the spring assizes this morning, and will likely be concluded late this afternoon. Mr. Wright is claiming $3,000 for injuries alleged to have been received when struck on the head with a hoe in the hands of Thomas Way on the afternoon of Aug. 29 last, while the plaintiff was gathering pears from an orchard on his wife's property adjoining to Mr. Way's house.

PERCIVAL SMALL TESTIFIES BEFORE TORONTO HEARING

Witness Believes Someone Tried To Kidnap Missing Theatre Magnate.

ASKED FOR HUSBAND

Testifies That Mrs. Ambrose Small Was at Theatre on Night of Dec. 2, 1919.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, March 21.—Percival Small, a half-brother of Ambrose Small, was the first witness called this morning when the hearing on Mrs. A. J. Small's application to declare her husband, who has been missing since December, 1919, as legally dead, was resumed by Judge Coatsworth. He told Mrs. Small, sitting in the theatre the night of Dec. 2, 1919, asking if her husband had been down. Witness said that it was not for four days after the disappearance of her husband that she became concerned at his brother's absence. He did not go to the police, she said, but "looking out through the streets to see Mr. Small's car."

Would Visit Theatre.

Judge Coatsworth expressed a desire to visit the theatre, where Small was buried. He admitted that "Small was seen" at 7 o'clock on the night of December 2, 1919, it would shatter his theory. The witness said the last time he saw Mrs. Small was when he was going from his office to his private office in the theatre on the day he disappeared. Answering questions of counsel, he said that the caretaker and his family lived in the back of the theatre and downstairs some distance from the front office. Referring to the kidnapping charges that had been laid against Doughty, now serving a sentence for theft of some of the Ambrose Small bonds, he said he had never seen Doughty.

Tried to Kidnap Him.

"You don't believe now that anyone kidnaped Small, do you?" "They tried to kidnap him—they complied to," was the answer. "Mr. Small said he was not to say anything for not proceeding with the charge laid for the kidnapping of his half-brother, which was laid by himself. The crown could go on with it whenever they were ready. Percival Small said that he had been on good terms with the missing man. Since the disappearance of Mrs. Ambrose he had made a trip to Europe with Mrs. Small at her expense. Mrs. Small had been very generous with him. He had accompanied his half-brother abroad several times.

WENIGE WILL PROBE CITY HALL SALARIES

Question To Be Considered at Special Gathering of Council.

Mayor Wenige gave assurance today that city hall salaries would receive consideration at an early date, confirming his previous statement. In December last, he declared that certain reductions were essential, while a more equitable adjustment could be made. The entire wage and salary question will be considered, it is promised, at a special gathering of the council, which will be held on Monday. Questioned today, by John Mox, the city treasurer explained that provision was made in the estimates for a slight increase in expenditures in this connection, if such were needed. The long-debated question concerning "bonuses" for officials is bound to arise, and the mayor has already insisted that these were included last year as a part of the salary, although granted the previous year, merely as a bonus.

IMPROVING UTILITIES BUILDING

Alterations are being made to the interior of the Public Utilities Building on Dundas street. A portion of the west wall of the main saleroom is being torn out and an elevated office or the manager is being built in its place. The office will overlook the whole room and will facilitate the work of the sales department, it is expected.

Pointed Opinion On Hospital Cut

It doesn't take brains or bravery to rob the sick. This is the opinion today from James Gray, member of the Hospital Trust, relative to the further slash of more than $20,000 from the City Hospital estimates at the last night's session of the city council. "The hospital estimates will stand in excess of 1922," replies Mayor Wenige, also a member of the Hospital Trust. "We told at the spending bodies at the first of the year that their estimates must not exceed last year's."

placed his knee on my chest." "No the blow fell him at all?" "No the blow didn't interfere with his ability at all. He kept coming right after me. I was in a position that I couldn't use either hand and he was trying to stab my throat. I didn't put my hands on him because he wouldn't let me." "Mr. Wright came out and ordered Mr. Wright to get up out of that and to get off that man." Mr. Wright's right knee was on me and he was supporting himself with his cane. Then he got up and said, "You see what this man has done to me?" and then he was arrested that afternoon and taken to the police station?"

No Longer Sensation.

Mrs. Maxwell went on to say that a fire such as the burning of "Bonnyglenn" had long ceased to create a sensation in Canada, because of the frequency of their occurrence. Speaking further on this matter, she still followed the course of the "German mark," so that today real estate in Ireland would not bring a property to Mr. Wright and that it was returned to him. Mr. Wright continued that in damp weather his left chest still pains from the effects of Mr. Wright kneeling on him. Mrs. Wright did not tell him not to take the hoe and to stick the dog on him, witness said. "Did you tell Mr. Wright that you would brain him?" counsel for the plaintiff asked. "No, I certainly did not. It would be an inhuman thing to say. Witness did not think that the cane excited in court was the one Mr. Wright carried on the day in question. "Why did you take the hoe?" "Because he was so wrathful and worked up I took the hoe in self-defense." "But did you know he was going to strike?" "No, but I was suspicious."

Rehearsed Battle.

Mr. Wright took the hoe in his hand and Mr. Meredith took the cane and the two went through the motions of the time when the hoe is alleged to have cut Mr. Wright's head. "Why did you undertake to use physical force at that time?" Mr. Henderson asked. "Why did he take my cane?" Mr. Wright said. "Didn't you see that you might have killed him?" "I didn't have any intention of striking him," Mr. Wright retorted. "Did your wife say anything about it to you?" "Oh, no, she didn't know anything about it."

Dr. MacNeil, called by the defense, informed the court that he is an X-ray expert, and has done X-ray of Mr. Wright. He took an X-ray of the skull. He further stated that the photograph shows there was no fracture of the skull. He further stated that the skull had suffered a scalp or superficial wound. Neighbor's Story. John Farr of 129 Elmwood avenue was the next witness for the defense. He told the court that he was on the roof of the house at the time of the shooting. He stated, "I heard a noise, and went to where the noise was coming from. I saw Mr. Wright kneeling on him, and Mr. Wright himself with his walking stick. I told Mr. Wright to quit, and he got up. Mr. Wright took the cane away with him. "Do you know where the hoe was at the time?" "Yes, the hoe was across Mr. Way's head and I couldn't see very much of Mr. Wright." "When shown the cane in court, he said that it was not the cane he saw on the 24th of August. "Where was the other cane?" Mr. Farr suddenly demanded. "This was followed by laughter. "You were never on the stage?" Mr. Meredith, counsel for the plaintiff, asked. "No. Nor I don't want to be. But where is the other cane?" witness replied. "You wouldn't swear that this is the cane?" asked Mr. Henderson, showing the stick.

Two Cans.

"No, I wouldn't; but why didn't you fetch the other cane?" Mr. Farr persisted, and then he asserted that when the case came up in police court there were two cans exhibited. "Is there any doubt in your mind that there wasn't a cane there?" "Not a bit." "Miss Helen Patterson told the court that she lives in Thamesford and was staying in the upper flat of Mr. Way's house on the day in question. "Some time during the afternoon I saw Mr. Wright go into the backyard," she said. "I saw him from the porch at the back." "Were you watching him?" "No, not at all. The next thing I heard was loud talking in the backyard. I went to the door thinking I heard a groan. Then in a few minutes I saw Mr. Wright coming out again. His head was bleeding. I also saw Mr. Farr. Mr. Wright was carrying his hat, a cane, and a basket of peaches."

Questioned by the plaintiff's counsel,

Miss Patterson repeated that Mr. Wright was carrying a hat, a cane, and a basket. "Mr. Wright was bleeding profusely," counsel asked. "Yes, I would say so." "Were you alarmed about the blood?" "Yes, I was," witness answered. CHECK ACKNOWLEDGED. The Women's Christian Association wish to tender their thanks to the welfare fund for the generous check recently received.

"Bonnyglenn" Fired in Erin, Saddens a London Home

Was Birthplace of Mrs. E. M. C. Maxwell, 74 Emery Street, and Her Daughter, Mrs. E. H. H. Mackey, Both of Whom Will Put In Claim to Irish Free State.

With the burning of "Bonnyglenn," Aranmore, County Donegal, Ireland, is revealed a sample of Irish irregular fighting, which touches very sorely three residents of London. "Bonnyglenn" was the home of William M. Sinclair, British consul-general in Philadelphia, and his sister, Mrs. E. M. C. Maxwell, her daughter, Mrs. Mackey, and her son-in-law, David Mackey, are living at 74 Emery street, South London. "Bonnyglenn," it seems, was the birthplace of Mrs. Maxwell and Mrs. Mackey, and is not to be confused with the "manor" referred to in Tuesday's Free Press. The family residence of a past generation could be described as a "manor," but this "Bonnyglenn" is situated in the Ulster County, 30 miles distant from "Bonnyglenn," near Aranmore, County Donegal.

"My reason for coming to Canada, well, was simply that the De Valera was making it too hot at home." Asked she could give any possible or likely reason for the burning of "Bonnyglenn," she replied that in activities of other kind, she had been entertained for there has been the slightest friction between the Sinclairs and the tenants occupying their estate at "Aranmore." Mrs. Maxwell and Mrs. Mackey were both very indignant over the fact that Mrs. Maxwell's "Free Press" Sinclairs are descendants of their line, living on their land since 1662. The land was granted the Sinclairs under royal patent, for the purpose of starting a colony in Ireland and the family has lived for centuries in that land among descendants of the original colonists they helped to settle there.

Asking Compensation.

Both Mrs. Maxwell and her daughter, Mrs. Mackey, are at present laying claims for compensation being passed through the Irish Free State Government for the loss of property sustained at "Bonnyglenn" during the previously mentioned raid. Mrs. Maxwell is shocked on learning that their former home had been so wantonly destroyed. "It is not the actual loss of the property," she said, "but the wiping out of so much that had traditional and genuine interest for ourselves and the country." Mrs. Maxwell is a philosopher, however, for turning to a dainty cot she said: "The loss of Bonnyglenn is really a small thing, having regard to the arrival of the first grandsons of the John Sinclair Mackey arrived two days ago today, and came as it were to celebrate the anniversary of his parents in London, Ont. The proud father, Mr. David Mackey, holds a rank of lieutenant in the late war. At present Mr. Mackey is in the service of the R. J. Dunlop financial agents, in London.

Irregulars Enter House.

The family had gathered at their home, and had been having a quiet and enjoyable time for almost a week, when the night before the house was entered by a party of Irish irregulars. They entered the house and took charge of the proceedings. One of the men, who was armed with a revolver, ordered the family and household to be subjected to a nerve-racking search. The search was carried away much to the indignation of Mrs. Maxwell and Mrs. Mackey. The very vivid and painful recollections of this episode, and one

"Sol" Jumps Over Equator Announcing Spring Is Here

Smiling Faces Welcome New Season—Golf Fiends, Gardeners and Grandmothers All Turn Out To Celebrate.

Out of the mists of forgotten months, a welcome stranger has returned. Spring, the adored throats and housecleaners, has sprung back to the scene. Today the birds sing longer to the strings, and a billion hearts palpitate with the first thrill of vernal joy. All hearts are welcome! After the months of picking and shelling of the kettle, and thawing out the cat's whiskers, spring is again with us. It is back on the balcony to stay—temporarily. From now on, it leads the procession. Today thousands of golf-finders, gardeners and grandmothers poked their heads out of the bay window, and got the first sniff of spring, 1923. The first sniff was not as satisfactory as some could have wished, nor as relishing its strange hold on this section of the country. And now dear old spring has returned to the rescue of citizens "fed up" with Esquimo life.

Nature's Triumph.

In celebration of nature's triumph, the crows barked loud and the owls hooted in chorus. Flossie, the happy, conjured up visions of several Easter bonnets. Little Willie is already planning to dig a hole and play Indian; and the tired business man actually said "good morning" to his mother-in-law twice before breakfast. From now on, seed catalogues will commence to come in with delightful exuberance, and glowing pictures of exaggerated and unnatural things will adorn its outside pages. Yes, spring is here! It took a long time coming, and its journey was fraught with danger, but it made the grade. It signalized many important events. June brides will begin to think of trousseaus of gorgeous silks and lace, while poets shall dedicate their lives to odes immortal regarding the daffodil.

COMMITTEE DIVIDED ON INDUSTRIAL AREA

Difference of Opinion as to the Wisdom of Local Improvements There.

The board of works is by no means a unit when it comes to a favorable consideration of the proposed local improvements to the industrial area. "We can't touch it," advised Mr. Douglass, chairman, at last night's session. "Sell it, if possible," commented Ald. May. "You'll never get property like that as cheap again," warned Ald. McKay. "You'll never get the improvements there until you make the improvements, and you may as well make them now," advised Ald. P. J. Watt. "They paid $1,000 a acre for it. Let them sell it," said Ald. Patterson. "Well, you can't get that sum now," contended Ald. Douglass. "I would like to know definitely just how many prospective industries have looked at 'Lots of them,'" explained Ald. Watt. "But how many," persisted Ald. Douglass. "I don't know how many. I am not the Chamber of Commerce," retorted Ald. May. "We have to get this place in shape," urged Ald. Hayden. "Well, you just start, and hear what the people on Brydges street will say," assured Ald. Patterson. "Well, if you stop at everything," declared Ald. Hayden, "you may as the machinery and stop everything. We want more industries in this town."

After Heated Debate, Settle Troublesome European Problem.

An enjoyable debate was held last night in New St. James' Presbyterian Church Hall, in which it was resolved that France was justified in her occupation of the Ruhr, ended in the defeat of the resolution. The debating parties were, for the affirmative, Hamilton Road Presbyterian Church; for the negative, New St. James' Presbyterian Church. The debaters were: Affirmative—Mrs. Edwin Burns and Angus Munroe. Negative—Miss Mildred Edgewood and Neal Miller. The judges were Messrs. Edw. Grange, Clark and Ferguson. A very enjoyable evening was spent, and refreshments were served afterwards in the church hall. These debating evenings are becoming more and more popular, and form a valuable adjunct to the attractions that the church is able to offer to the young people in the winter evenings.

Associated Press Despatch. London, March 21.—The Daily News conjures up the shudder with which Gladstone would have heard Bonar Law's announcement in the House of Commons that a cabinet committee had been appointed to consider what steps could be taken to prevent the publication of official secrets by former ministers of the government and others. Tarsal-Ease Shoes Will Relieve Those Poor Tired Feet!

Above all else, the feet to be healthy and comfortable must have proper ventilation. Feet which are cramped in badly-made, ill-fitting shoes, cannot be healthy or comfortable and will always be tender and sensitive. It's this cramping of the feet which makes them so susceptible to cold in winter. Immediately the foot is cramped in tight, ill-fitting shoes it loses its life and springiness and free circulation is checked.

Corns and calluses are produced by pressure and friction. Just as long as pressure and friction are exerted on the toes, the soles and other parts of the foot, just so long will women have corns, enlarged joints, ingrowing nails, calluses, etc. Tarsal-Ease Shoes make it possible for ladies to be smartly and stylishly shod and yet have shoes which give every comfort.

When you try on Tarsal-Ease Shoes you realize how style and comfort have been made possible in footwear.

The Survival of the Fittest

Statistics, covering many years prove that nine out of every ten persons over 21 years old usually have imperfect sight. At 31 the proportion is larger, and it is still possible to find a person over 40 with perfect sight.

A recent examination of 10,000 factory and commercial house employees proved that 53 per cent had uncorrected faulty vision, and 13 per cent had corrected defects, making a total of 66 per cent with defective eyes.

Some years ago the examination of several thousand school children in one city showed that 66 per cent of them had faulty vision of such a degree as to warrant the wearing of glasses.

Mr. Steele has a very wide experience in testing school children's eyes. He has not only your child's eyes examined at once?

PRESENT-DAY business is a battle of brains. The keen mind is the gold winner. Poor vision dulls the mind and handicaps the individual. Most of us — unknowingly — have poor vision in some degree.

Know the condition of your eyes! Have them examined now. Get the facts about your vision; eliminate handicaps; keep fit, and be a winner.

Mr. Steele recommends glasses only when he is sure of beneficial results.

CAR PAINTIFF IN WRIGHT-WAY DAMAGE SUIT

HEAR PLAINTIFF IN ELMWOOD AVE. ASSAULT CASE

Thomas Way Claims Gordon Wright Threatened Him With Cane.
DOCTOR BILL UNPAID
Mrs. Wright Says Trouble Arose Over Way's Neglect of Garden.

A silver-banded walking-stick and an agreement for the sale of a house at 133 Elmwood avenue are playing the leading parts in the damage suit before the Hon. Mr. Justice Mastran at the spring assizes. Gordon Wright, a retired businessman, Journalist, residing at 420 Ridout street, is suing Thomas A. Way of 133 Elmwood avenue for $3,000 for an assault alleged to have been made by the defendant on the afternoon of August 29 last.

Mr. Wright claims that on the day in question he was picking fruit on a lot belonging to his wife, adjacent to the Way property, when the defendant struck him without warning over the head with a hoe, inflicting a deep gash.

The defendant, on the other hand, claims that Mr. Wright raised his walking-stick as if to strike, and it was while he (the defendant) was attempting to stop the blow with his hoe that the garden implement was turned aside by the cane and hit Mr. Wright on the head. Yesterday afternoon Albert Judd and W. B. Henderson sought to prove, through several witnesses, that Mr. Wright had left his cane a few feet from the sidewalk at the front of the lot near three baskets of pears, and that he had no weapon of any kind in his hand when the alleged assault occurred.

In the evidence it was brought out that the defendant bought the house and lot from Mrs. Wright in 1919 for $2,200, and in the agreement it was stipulated that Mr. Way was to have the use of the lot belonging to Mrs. Wright, adjacent to the property, until such time as Mr. Wright would need it or have occasion to sell it.

Counsel for the defence claimed that there was no clause in the agreement binding the defendant to cultivate the lot and keep it free from weeds and that there was no clause forbidding the defendant from picking the fruit from the trees on the lot.

On the stand, Mrs. Wright admitted that the whole trouble about the property arose through the defendant's allowing weeds to grow on the property and his taking the fruit from the trees.

Mr. Wright testified that he had picked three baskets of pears and was going toward the street, accompanied by Walter Weston, when he encountered the defendant, Mr. Way.

Called Counsel.
"Way rushed out and said: 'You've no right on my property, lay down the fruit.' I laid the baskets down, and he told me to get out of the way. I got tired of listening to his demonstration and said to Mr. Way: 'See here, this talk doesn't get you anywhere. This is my fruit, and I told you I was a sneek and a coward, and that I came at night to carry the fruit away. I told him that I had an empty basket and would go and fill it. He then told me he would brain me if I ever set foot on his property again.'

TAKE ACTION TO CHECK TYPHOID IN COCHRANE

Epidemic Believed To Have Been Caused by Polluted Water.

Canadian Press Despatch.
North Bay, March 20.—Drastic action has been taken by the provincial board of health in grappling with the epidemic of typhoid fever, of which upwards of 125 cases are now reported in Cochrane. Dr. Egerton George, provincial officer of health for the district, stated today that a chlorination plant had been installed, and that the town would be ordered either to retain the plant supplied or purchase a new one.

The newspaper Zeit, speaking for the industrial interests, says it is doubtful whether the proposed guarantees by industry could now be upheld on account of the decreased sharply production resulting from the occupation of the Ruhr machinery.

"The German Bankers' Association has issued a warning against the proposal to introduce gold marks in sharply reduced quantities, and to put the German government and industries were unwilling to accept the Ruhr occupation. The general lines of the proposal are already known.

FRANCO-BELGIANS TAKE INVENTORY OF RUHR WORKS

Engineers List Machinery, Equipment and Products of Manufactories.
SEIZURE SUSPECTED
German Bankers Issue Warning Against Using Gold Marks in Business.

Special Cable to The London Advertiser and The Philadelphia Public Ledger.
Berlin, March 21.—The Franco-Belgian engineering commission, for whose ostensible protection General De Goutte's army seized the Ruhr and which recently has been busy taking inventories of the coal and coke stocks of the Ruhr mines preliminary to shipment westward, now has extended its activities to the machinery and equipment of Ruhr industrial plants.

A delegation of engineers with a military escort visited the Thyssen establishment at Samborn today. The machinery included a new electric power plant as well as the stock of finished and half-finished goods. It is suspected that this is perhaps a preliminary to the seizure and transportation to France and Belgium of the modern equipment in Ruhr establishments.

It is understood that the government will publish details of its thirty billion gold mark proposals for a reparations settlement, which were sent to Paris in January for submission to the Entente premiers, but which the Germans had no opportunity to now being prepared for a necessary document to show what the German government and industries were willing to accept the Ruhr occupation.

AEMILIUS JARVIS FIRM WILL OPEN OFFICE IN CITY

Big Bond House Will Make London Headquarters for Western Ontario.
PLANS COMPLETED
D. B. Weldon Resigns Johnston & Ward Management To Open Jarvis Branch.

The growing importance of London and Western Ontario as an investment centre received additional recognition yesterday, when it was learned that the firm of Aemilius Jarvis & Co., with headquarters in Toronto, and branches in Montreal, New York and London, England, will open an office in the Royal Bank here, making this city the headquarters for their growing business in Western Ontario.

The London office will be under the management of Major O. H. Mabee, who hitherto has been with Aemilius Jarvis & Co. working out of their Toronto headquarters, and Capt. D. B. Weldon, for some months London manager of Johnston & Ward.

Both Major Mabee and Capt. Weldon are well known locally. Major Mabee was a member of the 48th Highlanders, and saw service with that battalion in the Great War. Capt. Weldon went overseas with a New Brunswick unit, and also has an enviable war record.

POLICE DISCOVER LIQUOR CARLOADS FALSELY MARKED

Bring to Light Gigantic Whiskey-Running Business at Toronto.

Special to The Advertiser.
Toronto, March 21.—That whiskey is being shipped into Toronto from Montreal in carload lots—300 cases to a car—under fictitious shipping bills was the statement made to The Advertiser yesterday by Inspector George Lydiatt of East Toronto police station, who with his men uncovered a gigantic whiskey-running business in the yards of the Grand Trunk at East Toronto.

From information so far gathered there is a ring of bootleggers working in conjunction with several Grand Trunk yardmen and other officials handling cars of whiskey at East Toronto yards.

The police have statements from several yardmen that one man was given $500 to cut off the cars onto a side track, where they are unloaded near Danforth avenue, while other yardmen say they have been paid for the services with whiskey. The police have the names of five Toronto firms who have been receiving carload shipments of whiskey under false shipping bills.

Some of the cars were marked "Brass castings" and "Farmers' produce."

Mrs. John Scott Asks Steps Be Taken To Stamp Out Vice.

Special to The Advertiser.
Montreal, March 20.—"We should picket the hall until the vice area is cleared up," said Mrs. John Scott today when she spoke at a meeting of the Montreal Women's Club yesterday.

Mrs. Scott is president of the club, and as its head stated that, "It is high time the women of Montreal were up to the mark in their fight against vice and doing. It's been more than a month since Dr. Haywood brought these conditions to light, and nothing has been done to stamp out the vice area and do it."

WIND HAMPERS VESSEL TRYING TO CROSS ERIE

Lakeland Was Expected To Reach Detroit Some Time Today.

Associated Press Despatch.
Detroit, March 21.—The steamer Lakeland of the Tri-State Steamship Company, attempting the first crossing of Lake Erie this year, was expected to reach here from Cleveland yesterday, after a laborious journey in which ice and wind hampered progress.

The steamer, which left Cleveland early yesterday, reported this morning that she was off Point Pelee, with two miles of ice ahead, and a strong head wind. She will await a shift in the winds.

The Lakeland will take on a cargo of automobiles here, and return to Cleveland.

PARIS TERRORIZED BY NEEDLE STICKER

New Type of Maniac Jabs Sharp Instrument in Girls' Arms.

Paris, March 21.—After the "gown slashers" and the "vitrail spreaders" who were the terror of the women of Paris some months ago, we have now with us a new species of maniac, known to the police as the "sticker."

His peculiar specialty consists in entering a big department store and going from department to department, leaving traces of his trip in the shape of painful punctures in the arms and backs of the salesgirls, apparently inflicted by means of a long needle smeared with a more or less poisonous substance.

The "stickers" seem to be more dangerous than their predecessors, who were content with merely destroying women's garments by slashing them or spraying sulphuric acid in daisies and subway trains in the rush hours.

COMMUNISTS LABOR TO PREVENT NEW WAR

British Member of House of Commons Advocates Action.

Associated Press Despatch.
Frankford-on-Main, March 21.—Exhortation of all efforts against a fresh outbreak of war on the continent and the conversion of such a movement later into an international revolution were advocated before yesterday's session of the international communist conference here by J. T. W. Newbold, Communist member of the British House of Commons.

The duty of communists, he asserted, was to ward off the danger that Europe and the entire world will be thrown into a hopeless carnage now to be compared to that of 1914.

The first task, he added, was to bring the German workmen to the point of overthrowing the bourgeoisie and putting the great industries of the Rhineland into the hands of the German revolutionaries.

SOCIALISTS DEMAND U.S. ARBITRATE IN RUHR

Allied Leaders Suggest Question Be Referred To League of Nations.

Associated Press Despatch.
Paris, March 21.—Arbitration by the United States government of the Ruhr problem, falling within the entire situation must be referred to the League of Nations. This was the unanimous decision reached at a conference of Belgian, English, Italian and French Labor and Socialist parliamentarians, which was held yesterday in one of the committee rooms of the French Chamber of Deputies.

All the delegates were of the opinion that the present situation created through the French occupation of the Ruhr, if "continued to a fatal crisis," would be detrimental to the pacific reconstruction of Europe and also that "the pride of the government interested forbidding arrangements towards negotiations must be set aside and politics abandoned, so that a modus vivendi may be reached, which can be done only through intervention by the United States or a decision of the League of Nations."

Housing Did It.

Housing the people is the reason why the Bonar Law government in England is facing the serious business of losing three of its members in by-elections.

The tenants now, in small houses, are a protected class. The government knows that it is causing the people to huddle together in these places, some of them squalid and not desirable.

This act has given the tenants a tremendous leverage on the government, because any move to change it, or do away with it, is simply a call to the tenants to march their troops to the polling place and smother the candidate proposing such a thing.

The rent restriction act, while affording temporary relief to a lot of poor people, is going to leave them ultimately in a position worse than that from which they were delivered.

The People's Money. Controller Thomas Foster wanted Toronto to cut off grants to conventions holding forth in that city, but he failed to get his ideas sold to the rest of the officials.

The Council Was Right. London city council were quite right when on Monday night they decided not to cut down the cost of the new registry office by putting cement and artificial stone in place of the real article.

Note and Comment. Unafraid of unlucky numbers, the Stratford Beacon chuckles over 13 cars of hard coal pulling into town.

Cutting Down Wages. Trackmen working on the London and Port Stanley electric road have had their pay reduced from 40 to 38 cents an hour.

Home, Sweet Home. The wife of Mr. Hohenzollern has given an interview to the press, the first since her marriage. She found it necessary to sit at rest some of the stories that she and Wilhelm were not getting on well together. The report that she had thrown a rolling-pin at the kaiser, and that he had thrown it back, is declared to be quite untrue.

Success or Failure? When Thomas Edison was a telegraph operator at Stratford in 1855 he did not make much of a success.

Edison, as a result, was ordered to report to his superior officer in Toronto, but he did not like the idea of being brought up on the carpet there, so he left for Detroit.

So as a telegraph operator Edison would be regarded as a failure; as an inventor, the verdict is correct.

Our school system should aim to do that difficult thing, viz. lead the young mind in its proper channel.

When a man builds automobiles because he loves the work, and another man sells them because in that field he finds full and pleasant outlet for his powers, you have there a combination of forces that will go a long way on the road to happy success.

Your Health

WHAT YOU CAN DO TO REMEDY SOME FISSURES IN YOUR SKIN. By Royal S. Copeland, M. D., United States Senator from New York, Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

One of my correspondents wrote me the other day: "I am informed by physicians and chiropodists that many men and women, after they reach 60 years of age, are afflicted, especially in cold, windy weather, with cracks or crevices or fissures in their feet, due to impoverished blood, which brings about dry skin; that these cracks or crevices or fissures are miserably painful, and if not properly attended are apt to become ulcers."

We have two kinds of skin disturbances. One is the primary form of skin inflammations and diseases. The other is the secondary form, such as my correspondent describes. The latter type is due to an added to the primary condition.

Such disabilities are unlikely to occur if the skin is normal and the general health is good. In eczema, psoriasis and other skin disturbances they are not unusual. Persons of poor circulation and undernourishment are more likely to suffer.

It is amazing how neglectful some persons are of the covering of the body. What would you think of the mover of a fine piano who neglected to find it scratched and broken?

Then the skin must be kept clean. To this end, water and soap may not be enough. Wash your face thoroughly, and then wipe it with a cloth wet with alcohol—you will be ashamed to see the blackness of the fag. Soap and water are not enough for many skins—indeed, soap is irritating to many.

BRITISH PARTIES TO UNITE AGAINST LABOR

UNITE TO BATTLE SNOWDRIFT ATTACK ON "CAPITALISM"

Liberals and Conservatives of the British House Will Fight Labor. WILL NOT BE PASSED Expect Resolution To Precipitate Most Dramatic Debate Ever Known.

Special Cable to The Advertiser. London, March 21.—Liberals and Conservatives marshaled forces today for a united fight against Labor, when Philip Snowden's resolution to substitute socialist systems for existing ones again comes up for debate in the House of Commons.

The government is to allot a day for continuance of the discussions which last night gripped a crowded house and gallery, as the challenge to the "capitalistic system" was met by Sir Alfred Mond, one of the richest men in England, and by Sir Philip Lloyd-Graeme on behalf of the government. Snowden spoke for more than an hour, advocating nationalization of property. While he talked, giving socialist statistics regarding poverty and riches, he looked across the house to where a half-dozen members of the government lounged in evening dress, returned from dinner parties for the occasion. In the galleries, which were crowded to capacity, jeweled and titled ladies rubbed elbows with plainly-dressed working women and socialist sympathizers.

Snowden, an eloquent speaker, declared that the Labor party was back of his motion, "as a direct challenge to the holders and defenders of the capitalist system." Members opposite feigned boredom or amusement. Occasionally one, stung by the Labor P's words, would jump to his feet and interrupt. For the most part they listened more intently than they admitted. "It is capitalism that is the cause of socialism," Snowden declared, insisting that the test of any system of government should be "Does it deliver the goods?" Snowden in the afternoon introduced a bill in favor of nationalization of land, but his main resolution was in favor of the "provision of the capitalist system" by a socialist system of government. While the resolution will not pass, the debate on it will be one of the most dramatic the house has ever known.

Special Cable to The Advertiser. By HENRY SOMERVILLE.

Copyright. London, March 21.—The Commons debate on socialism was no disappointment, as a display of dialectics, Philip Snowden has no superior, as an orator in lucidly powerful and unshaking facts, and in impressing hearers with a sense of his own passionate conviction which makes a physical intimacy which makes a table all the time when he is speaking. His eloquence made the whole house, and Lloyd-Graeme and other ministerial front benches, scribbled notes of enthusiastic congratulations, which they passed to Snowden. At the end of his speech, Snowden said he was astonished at the interest his motion had aroused. This interest was indeed great, and had been made for cabling verbatim reports all over the world.

Surprise Genuine.

Snowden's surprise was genuine. As he said himself a few years ago, Socialists had no platform except at street corners and market places. It is not depreciation of the merit of Snowden's speech, but the fact that many reporters, who were in the gallery last night, had heard Snowden make the same speech repeated by at Socialist propaganda meetings fifteen years ago. He brought his figures up to date, and added a few illustrations from recent events, but in substance it was the same speech Snowden delivered at open-air meetings as a young man.

There was dramatic appropriateness in Sir Alfred Mond being put as a defense of capitalism. Snowden, with pale, sunken cheeks, deep set, burning eyes, and lofty forehead, his face a mask of physical pain which always afflicts him, is the very type of convinced idealist.

Mond is a millionaire Jew, and looks it, with his short, squat figure, prominent nose, which he is continually stroking with finger and thumb, and a turn of his nose and mouth of his eyes expressing cynicism and scorn sentiment.

Weakness of Case.

The weakness of Snowden's case is that he did not show that any system had ever been more successful than capitalism. Snowden spoke as a practical capitalist with no historical knowledge of other past systems, and no imagination of anything different possible in the future. He always would have had existed, and it is a great virtue of capitalism that it could eliminate inefficiency by means of the bankruptcy law. When the debate is resumed, it will be clear that not all the opponents of capitalism have the same quality as Mond. The socialist movement is of an extremely modern sort. The Labor party last night appointed as its members at its side David Kirkwood, who is a socialist, and a man who will not let him from interrupting.

NEW UNIVERSITY BUILDING READY BY EARLY AUTUMN

Good Progress During Winter on Western's Building Program.

SUMMER ACTIVITY Summer School in Arts Starts July 2nd and Last Six Weeks.

Progress in the building of Western University has been well up to schedule during the winter and officials announced today the new structures are certain to be completed by early autumn.

The heating tunnel extending 1,500 feet from the boiler house under the main building, which has been finished, the boiler house, the chimney foundation providing for a stack 160 feet high and 6 feet 6 inches interior diameter have also been completed. The wall of the science building has been erected and the second floor started. The main building has been held up owing to the laying of the heating tunnel under the basement, but the first floor is well on its way.

Col. Walter J. Brown, executive secretary, announced that Easter vacation would commence March 23 and terminate April 5. The summer school for those wishing to take arts courses begins July 2 and continues through August 15. Those offered are those leading to a general degree and honor degree. There will be 13 different subjects taught.

Special Course. Western is the only university in Canada offering courses in geography and physiology for special students and special groups of students. This feature only recently inaugurated.

Col. Brown stated extension courses were becoming so popular and the subjects demanded so varied that it was almost impossible to keep pace with the desires of the students. Night classes are also gaining in popularity.

When the university moves from its present quarters, the buildings probably be used by Huron College who are the lessors. An appeal has been submitted before the county council for consideration of the proposal to endow Western with a number of dormitories to take care of out-of-town students. It has been suggested that each township provide or take residence for one student, but several counties intimated they would co-operate to the best of their ability.

Merger Proposed.

A proposal from another Canadian university which was received by Western, in which it was suggested that the local college merge its extension courses with the university making a suggestion that the local authorities have done nothing definite in this connection. There are many impediments in the way, but if it could be arranged a larger and more complete range of subjects would be open to extension students in Western Ontario.

EDWARD GERRY HAS HAND BADLY CUT IN FACTORY

Edward Gerry, of William Gerry & Sons' planing mills and sash factory, had his right hand badly cut yesterday at his mill. It seems that he was working with a universal turning machine at the time, and in some manner his right hand was caught in the machine. The fingers of the right hand were badly mutilated and medical attention will be required. Mr. Gerry is back at the mill this morning, although he will be unable to use his right hand for some weeks.

Advertisements for various services including engraving, ragged sally, and removal of business.

HOW THE ADVERTISER LOOKED BACK IN '65. There isn't much in common between the four-page, six-column Advertiser of 1865, part of the front page of which is reproduced in this section, and the London Advertiser of 1923, with its four daily editions, its battery of typesetting machines, its multiple press, its special news services, copious illustrations, and facilities for covering the entire news of Western Ontario.

Old Issue of Advertiser Recalls Civil War Days

When a Grey Street House With One and a Half Acres Sold for $500 and Lee's Surrender Was Still Treated as News.

Evolution of the newspaper is no better demonstrated than by a comparison of the London Advertiser of 1865 with the London Advertiser of 1923. A sharp, a life-long subscriber to this newspaper, resurrected one of the ancient editions, a reproduction of which is printed on this page. To modern eyes the news columns and advertisements could not be called worthy of a metropolitan daily, but they possessed many unique features, some of which are interesting to recall.

One of the oldest Advertiser subscribers, Mr. Sharp, presented this newspaper with an issue of The London Evening Advertiser of 1865, a section of which is reproduced on this page. His interesting story of London newspapers and newspaper men is also told herewith.

ARCHIBALD SHARP, AN OLD RESIDENT, TALKS ABOUT '65

Personal Friend of John Cameron and Bremner Brothers Discusses Newspaper and Politics.

Newspapers, newspapermen and politics were some of the subjects discussed by "Archibald" Sharp, 320 Central Avenue, in an interview with The Advertiser today. Mr. Sharp is a resident of North London, a native of this city, and a former friend of many well-known newspapermen who have winged into the beyond.

Back in the heydays of '65, "Archibald" knew the Hon. John Carling, John Cameron, former proprietor of The Advertiser, "Archibald" and Malcolm Bremner, brilliant newspapermen, and a host of others who have departed. The Londoner for whom he professes the most admiration and respect is Hon. C. S. Hyman, and the greatest man Canada ever produced, in Mr. Sharp's opinion, was Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

There is a thrill in Mr. Sharp's delightfully-phrased reminiscences. Back to the days when London strutted about in swaddling clothes, with all the self-importance of a metropolitan, he "Archibald" told of the problems, achievements and sensations of his time.

The local press of old days was a remnant of what it has since developed into. Mr. Sharp believes no other national institution has made such great progress as the daily newspaper. He is not one who expresses heartfelt longing for a return to the "good old days." He sees many Turn to Page 15, Column 5.

BELIEVE OFFICERS ARE CLEANING UP VICE IN MONTREAL

Officials Point Out Few Men Taken in Raids on Places.

DENIES 500 HOUSES Alderman Brodeur Declares Keepers Not Tipped Off When Police Coming.

Special to The Advertiser. Montreal, March 21.—The members of the executive committee of the city maintain that the present administration is doing more than any previous administration to rid the city of disorderly houses, and pointed to the fact that in the raids made recently there were few men taken in the houses, contending that this proved the keepers were getting scared and were closing up their houses.

The chairman, Ald. Brodeur, disputed the statement made by Nathan Gordon, before the Montreal Women's Club on Monday, that there were 500 disorderly houses in Montreal, asserting that they did not reach anything like that number. A suggestion that there must be a leak somewhere, and that the keepers of houses were tipped off when a raid was to be made, was indignantly denied by Ald. Brodeur, who declared that on Saturday night only one person besides himself knew where the raids were going to be made, and that the few people found in the houses showed that things were not so bad as they used to be.

Do Much More.

"We are doing what we can, and in a very short time the public will find that we are going to do something very much more," declared Brodeur. Discussing jail sentences for the keepers, Mr. Brodeur said, that the executive committee had nothing to do with that. They gave their instructions for raids, and it was up to the keepers to impose the penalties provided by the law. The opinion was further expressed that if less publicity were given to the matter the police would be able to do their work better, and the disorderly houses that did exist would not get so much advertising.

Agrees With Spirit.

Judge F. E. Knight stated that he agreed entirely with the spirit expressed by Mr. Gordon, with regard to the vice conditions in Montreal. He was glad to see, he said, that there were some people who were spirited enough to come forward and fearlessly discuss a question which has for a long time been among those things which everyone closed their eyes to.

Present Vice Situation in the City.

He said, "is one that absolutely must be remedied, disregarding entirely the moral aspect of the question, and looking at it from a standpoint of health alone. Present conditions must not be allowed to continue. A strong current of public opinion is the only thing that will accomplish anything. This will become aroused if the situation is treated as openly as it was dealt with by Nathan Gordon yesterday."

FORD SETS NEW MARK FOR DAILY PRODUCTION

Associated Press Despatch. Detroit, March 21.—A new production record was established by the Ford Motor Company on Monday, March 19, when 5,759 cars and trucks were turned out. This is the highest number ever produced by the company in one day, and is 60 more than the last high record of 5,699 established on Aug. 29 last year.

The United States delegation's resolution, covering consideration of a world economic conference will not be placed before congress before Friday.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES MAY DINE COUNCIL OUT OF GRATITUDE

Mayor Makes Suggestion, But So Far It Has Not Been Seconded.

REAL LOVE FEAST Lion and Lamb Meeting Will Have Nothing on This Gathering.

Its decoration day in city hall circles. Members of the city council have kind words for all—even the members of the board of education.

As a matter of fact, Mayor Wenigo has invited the council and himself to a real "bang-up" dinner, with the school trustees enacting the role of the "smiling host." His worship quizzed Trustee Bryden Campbell in this connection, and the school trustees assured that he personally was ready to participate in a "get together" luncheon (one of the kind that ex-Mayor Wilson used to have with the civic commissioners).

Board Would Pay.

"There is no antagonism in the school trustees," explained the mayor, "and we ought to have a feed together, at their expense, of course. I think we have it coming to us. Trustee Campbell seems agreeable, too. There are a number of things we can talk over, as I still maintain, in a spirit of friendliness, of course, that there are certain educational expenditures that could be well eliminated or reduced."

"I would like to have the members of the board of health in attendance if we have a dinner, and we can find that suggestion from Ald. Watt (which is worthy of much consideration) that school nurses be dispensed with."

Criticism Nurses.

"This situation arose, to my mind, by the effort on some person's part in the past to create a position for someone, and I think that Ald. Watt hit the nail on the head when he said that a qualified teacher should be able to detect a child with a dirty neck and send it home."

If the suggested "spread" is staged with satisfaction, the mayor will consider cancelling the summer, when the city council will try to get the trustees at baseball, football or any other outdoor pursuit that pleases. There are certain educational expenditures that could be well eliminated or reduced.

URGENT FOREST RESERVE FOR EX-SERVICE MEN

Returned Men Present Claim Before Royal Commission at Winnipeg.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Winnipeg, March 21.—That the Dominion government approach the Ontario government with a request that a certain portion of the Nipigon forest be reserved for ex-service men might engage in the pulpwood industry, W. C. Miller (For. William) presented the commission here. Members of the commission here, these returned men, and will return to Halifax for a week, sitting in Toronto on April 2.

In his recommendation on the pulpwood industry, Mr. Miller embodied another for industrial loans to ex-service business men and ex-service men desiring to engage in business, Mr. Miller pointed out that the first was contingent on the second, but the loans would have the added advantage of being made to ex-service men who, for lack of funds, were unable to carry on the lines of business in which they were engaged before enlistment, to re-engage in the same line of business. American interests are developing 60 per cent of the pulpwood industry in Northern Ontario, witness said, and with industrial loans and wood limits granted, these returned men would be able to make a good living in that particular occupation. Transportation of every stick of pulpwood in this area is by water, as possible, and at one-fifth of the cost of transportation by rail.

SALOON-KEEPER KILLS 2 BANDITS IN HOLD-UP

Third Member of Gang, Waiting in Automobile, Makes Escape.

Special to The Advertiser.

Granite City, Ill., March 21.—Two bandits were killed in an attempt to hold up the Walter S. Nichols saloon here today. Nichols was slightly wounded. As the two robbers lined up customers in the crowded bar, the saloon keeper grabbed his revolver and opened fire. One bandit fell dead with three bullet wounds. The second robber returned the fire, slightly wounding Nichols. With the chamber of his own revolver empty, the saloon keeper grappled with the robber, wrested the revolver from his grasp and fired, the bandit dropping dead as he staggered out the door. A third member of the gang, who waited outside in an automobile, escaped.

International
Speed Truck
 (Capacity 2000 lbs. Made in Canada)

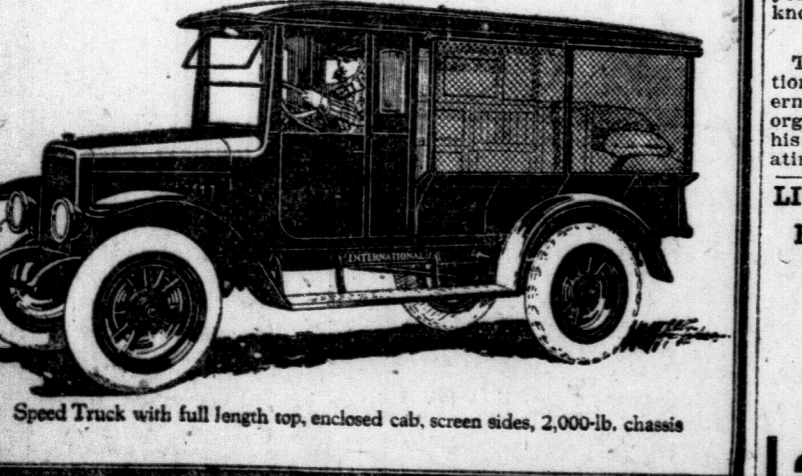

EVERY thinking merchant is trying constantly to make his delivery system more effective from the standpoint of his customers and more economical for himself. International Speed Truck is a real aid in performing this double duty.

International Speed Truck is fast—it is convenient—it is an attractive advertisement for any business. Further it is economical because it is built to withstand the hard use it gets in every-day service for the average busy concern. The rugged strength that has made friends for heavy-duty International Motor Trucks is incorporated in the Speed Truck—plus the necessary speed that covers ground quickly.

Free Inspection
 The International Speed Truck, like the entire International line of trucks, stands on a foundation of more than 90 years of manufacturing experience. Daily performance is backed by the unequalled International after-sales service, with free inspection at regular intervals for the life of the truck.

It is impossible to realize the value of this plan, plus International construction, without a closer study of its various phases. Why not go to the nearest International dealer and learn more about the Free Inspection Service Policy? At the same time you can look over the various models, from the 2,000-lb. Speed Truck to the 10,000-lb. heavy-duty truck.

WILL CANCEL AID IF ASSOCIATION BREAKS FAITH

Hon. Charles Stewart States Colonization Scheme Is Safeguarded.
NO VOTES PASSED
 Immigration Estimates Before House For the Fourth Time.

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, March 21.—For a fourth time immigration estimates were laid under consideration in the house and again no votes were passed. The agreement under which the government is to give financial assistance to the Canada Colonization Association was the forefront. Hon. Charles Stewart, acting minister of immigration, promised to surround the proposed scheme with all possible safeguards, and Premier King added that, if the association departed from its original purpose or from its representations to the government, that would be regarded as sufficient reason for reconstruction of government aid.

Two letters written to M. A. Brown, vice-president of the association, were read to the house. One from Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the opposition; the other from Robert Forke, leader of the Progressives. The two communications, claimed Premier King, virtually represented indorsement of the association. Mr. Meighen replied that his letter favored a voluntary non-profit sharing company, and such, he withdrew nothing. There was not a word in it favoring government assistance for the organization. In his letter Mr. Forke said he had "no position in indorsing the scheme so well suited to the requirements of the country." He pointed out to the house, however, that he had written the letter before he knew of the policy of the government, adding that he had no apology to make for what he had done.

Late Sitting.
 Just before adjournment Premier King gave an intimation of a late sitting, unless some progress is made when the immigration estimates are next before the house.

Immigration estimates were taken up in the house today, when Hon. H. H. Stevens expressed the opinion that the agreement between the government and the Canada Colonization Association was "fraught with very grave possibilities." The government was embarking on a road "which may lead to chaos or even worse."

The association was said to have 50 or 60 agents already at work trying to sell Canadian lands in the United States. What supervision had the government over these agents? The government must be prepared to assume responsibility for their acts. The Canadian colonization scheme means that an immigrant would have to work two years to catch up with where he started, owing to commissions and interest charges, and those under a 32-year payment plan. Neither was the plan fair to the vendors.

Mr. Stevens had nothing whatever against the bona fides of the men backing the scheme, but no matter how estimable they were, simply formed into a real estate agency work the government was entering into a real estate listing and sale proposition rather than a sound immigration policy.

Had Backing of People.
 Hon. Charles Stewart, acting minister of immigration, said he could not give a certificate of character for the men behind the association, but the scheme was backed by all the trade boards in the country, by the banks and railways, and was heralded as a patriotic endeavor to settle some of the vacant lands in Canada. As minister of immigration he felt that the Canadian Colonization Association had the backing of the people of Canada who were interested in land settlement.

After hearing the discussion Mr. Stewart had come to the conclusion that "the man who could evolve an immigration policy which would satisfy the members of this House would be a second Moses."

The Canada Colonization Association had not been entirely approved of by the people who had subscribed to it. The C. P. R. had approved the 32-year settlement scheme, but J. S. Dennis of that company did object to the 10 per cent commission. Mr. Stewart said he had been repressed on all sides since last July to make use of this organization.

Mr. Boys asked why General McRae had left. Mr. Stewart replied that General McRae's scheme had not been approved by the association.

Mr. Boys said that General McRae had received a salary of $25,000 a year, but the minister said he had no knowledge of it.

Creates Furore By Claim of Bavarian Plot In 1919
 Ray Baker, in Book, Alleges Secret Negotiations For Establishment of South German Empire.

Special Cable to The London Advertiser and The Philadelphia Public Ledger. Berlin, March 21.—German indorsement of Ray Stannard Baker's peace conference book has started a political storm here owing to its revelations of secret negotiations between Dr. Heim, one of the most prominent Bavarian leaders, and Marshal Foch in 1919, looking toward the secession of Bavaria and other South German states and the establishment of a new South German empire under Entente protection.

Says Cecil Has One Foot In Middles Ages And Other One In League of Nations

Special Cable to The London Advertiser and The Philadelphia Public Ledger. London, March 21.—Perhaps the most "untitled" cargo of travellers the Majestic has ever transported will sail from Southampton this morning. Lord Robert Cecil, minister of blockade during the war and now Great Britain's leading exponent of the League of Nations, Sir J. J. Thomson, master of Trinity College, Cambridge, and the Countess Di Balme, will be the only titled individuals among nearly 700 first-class passengers.

Lord Robert has a towering, slender figure and the beak-like nose typical of the old English aristocracy, but his mind is not of the same category. He had been found very satisfactory. Of eight bank failures in recent years, only three had involved losses to depositors. It was not held that the shareholder in the bank was entitled to the same degree of protection as the depositor. The shareholder in a bank should guard his own interests just as in any other commercial enterprise.

AUSTRIAN EMPLOYEES ADOPT I.W.W. METHODS

Postal, Telephone and Telegraph Workers Announce New Policy.
 Special Cable to The London Advertiser and The Philadelphia Public Ledger. Vienna, March 21.—I. W. W. methods have been adopted by the postal, telephone and telegraph employees in Austria as a protest against the government's action in abolishing free railroad passes for state employees as an economy measure in its reconstruction program.

Without quitting work the employees announced yesterday morning a so-called policy of passive resistance, which means sabotage, in all branches of communication, carried on by the meticulous observation of the finest and seldom used rules. For instance, a person wishing to send letters while each bank note is examined through a magnifying glass. No letter will be delivered unless the address is complete, even to the door number, and since according to an article in the regulations, two men are required to deliver important letters, all letters are regarded as potentially important, two men are officiating in the delivery. A maximum speed of six miles an hour, as provided in police rules, is now observed by the carriers. PASTEURIZED WINE, NEW LIQUOR SCHEME

French Scientists Plan To Apply Milk Method To Beverage.
 Special Cable to The London Advertiser and The Philadelphia Public Ledger. Paris, March 21.—Pasteurized wine and cider may yet provide a happy drinking medium for prohibition countries, according to scientists who met yesterday in Paris to discuss application of the Pasteur method to foods and beverages other than milk.

They contended that pasteurization is not fully developed as a food preservative and that it may be possible to treat vintages in such a manner as to prevent alcoholization and yet retain the flavor and freshness. Scientists have invited the growers to co-operate with samples of burgundy, bordeaux, and champagne for testing purposes.

DO YOU KNOW WHY THE GEAR-SHIFT IS DIFFERENT?
 The design of Dodge Brothers gear-shift takes into consideration the natural inclinations of the driver.
 To start, you throw the lever forward. To reverse, you pull the lever backward. And when the car is running in high gear—which is about ninety per cent of the time—the lever is in a forward position, out of the way, where it does not interfere with passengers, robes, or luggage.
 Moreover, the transmission, developed and patented by Dodge Brothers, is so designed that the countershaft—used in intermediate speeds and in reverse—is disconnected when the car is in high. There are no gears in mesh. Power is transmitted directly from clutch to rear axle.
 This exclusive feature prevents the loss of power through friction, reduces gear-box noises and eliminates a vast amount of wear.
 That is why the gear-shift of Dodge Brothers Motor Car is different.
 The price of the Business Coupe is $1,560 delivered With 5 cord tires and bumper.

TURKS MUST WAIT AT LEAST A WEEK FOR ALLIED REPLY

British, French and Italian Officials Plan For Conference.

RENEW PARLEY

Financial Experts To Play Big Part in the Negotiations.

Special Cable to The London Advertiser and The Philadelphia Public Ledger. London, March 21.—British officials are setting the stage for another "hush" talkfest between British, French and Italian frock-coated representatives, who will determine the feasibility of applying a pulmotor to the defunct Lausanne negotiations for a Near East settlement. The main business of the conferences will be to draft an answer to the Turkish counter-proposals, which constituted Ankara's comeback to the treaty drafted by the Allies in Switzerland, but which the Turks refused to dignify with their signature.

Turks Ask Early Answer.

The Turks told Lord Curzon they wanted an answer at the "earliest possible moment," but a foreign office spokesman yesterday indicated they would have to wait another week at least. It is candidly admitted the conference will be kept very secret and its old friends, "the financial and economic experts," probably will occupy the middle of the ring. The foreign office mouthpiece showed a disinclination to discuss M. Venizelos' unexpected reappearance in London yesterday at the reported invitation of the British government. The arrival of Lord D'Abernon from Berlin and of Montague Norman from Paris junket, is regarded as a happy coincidence. Official knowledge of Lord D'Abernon's visit had been disclaimed for three days, but today the foreign office lifted the veil shrouding the purposes of the race today and to spend Easter with his family.

Reconsider Ruhr Policy.

The reasons for the coincidental gathering of others, who would be useful in discussions of Near-Eastern and perhaps Ruhr affairs were not vouchsafed, but it is understood they have come for neither the horse race nor Easter. Additional background is lent to the suggestion that the Near-Eastern pow-wow is to serve as a smoke screen for the more urgent business of reconsidering the British Ruhr policy by Ambassador Harvey's decision to return to London from the country tomorrow instead of at the end of the week as he intended.

Heifetz Dazzles Londoners With Violin Performance

Large Audience in the Winter Gardens Last Night Demanded Recall After Recall From Young Artist.

By A MINOR.

Appearing in the Winter Gardens last evening, Jascha Heifetz was placed in one of the most unwelcome and difficult positions an artist could be called upon to face. He was confronted by an audience which had listened to Fritz Kreisler less than two weeks before, and a sudden demand by the compelling personality and superb artistry of the more mature violinist. Comparisons were inevitable, and comparisons are not exactly pleasant when the measuring-rod is labeled "practical perfection."

Beside Kreisler, Heifetz was the young David, a striking, slender youth, in spite of the Victorian sideburns, which gave him a much older appearance, and even an untruthful suggestion, perhaps, of the blonde.

The lighting was less flattering than that of the theatre had been for Kreisler, the whole environment less grateful. It was all the more triumph for Heifetz that he won his way to the top of the program, and the audience, a bit cold in the beginning, practically refused to go home until the violinist made it very definitely understood after his second encore that he had given his final bow.

Every Trick Known.

Heifetz has every trick known to the violinist. He could fill his whole bag in his last number, the "Rondo des Lutins" of Bazzini, a dizzy rush of notes, glides and runs, which he played with a dexterity and deftness of the juggler who can keep a dozen plates whirling in the air at once, without a suspicion of slip in his technique.

Heifetz astounds with his dexterity and dazzles with his brilliancy, but he is no mere trickster. His art is built up on an absolutely sound foundation, and the whole structure is characterized by truth and sincerity. His tone is fluent, melodious, with the brilliancy of the diamond, but none of its hardness. It has a lustre which suggests the color and fire of the opal behind it.

The purity of tone, the chasteness of the technique were strikingly apparent in the Handel Sonata No. 4 in D major and in the Mozart Minuet. It may be possible to stir the works of some other composers and get away with it. Handel and Mozart must be absolute and definite in tone, intonation and phrasing. Heifetz adequately met all these demands, adding to his musicianly reading of Handel a vitality and warmth. The Largo Maestoso had breadth and dignity, the Allegro, a clean crispness, the Larghetto an appealing quality which tugged at the heart-strings, and the Allegro Con Brio the sparkle of star-dust.

Infusing Feeling.

Decidedly more temperamental was the Wieniawski Concerto in D minor, the young artist infusing into the Romance feeling and imagination. The fireworks of the finale movement "A la Zingara" won for Heifetz his first real ovation of the evening. The program as he had built it included next the Wilhelmj arrangement of Schubert's "Ave Maria," played with the sustained beauty of a vocal quality that might be expected from a world-famous violinist, who has a very generous endowment of heart as well as knowledge of his craft, and delicately balanced artistic judgment. The Mozart "Minuet" placed next in happy contrast was given just a little different twist of rhythm and interpretation which added to its charm.

Heifetz was obviously much in a Chopin mood, and in the mood for playing the Nocturne in D Major, in which he achieved to a remarkable degree the duet effect, and at times that of a whole orchestra with his remarkable double stopping. His Chopin playing apparently enjoys the almost poignant sweetness of tone and a distinctly romantic flavor.

Dash and abandon characterized the Chorus of the Derivishes (Beethoven-Auer), and almost its odors, was the shock of sharp contrast, like the effect on his audience. A vivid picture of the Orient, with its sights and sounds, and almost its odors, was conjured up in the Scherzo, "March Orientale" (Beethoven-Auer) with its fascinatingly accented rhythm. A Tschakowsky "Melody" beautifully sung, and another demonstration of lightning transformation of role, the "Ronde des Lutins" (Bazzini) were reserved for the last group.

But not the last. Heifetz requires a good deal of coaxing before he is convinced he is really wanted back.

After the Wieniawski Concerto his concession to repeat an encore was a Spanish Dance by Granados. "Valse Bluette" (Drigo-Auer), with haunting, sensuous rhythm, was the response after the third group.

The two final encore numbers did not need to be labeled to make it very clear what they were all about. The first was "Guitarre," by Moszkowski, and the second a fine bit of reproduction of the music of nature, "Waters at Play," by Grasse, the blind American composer.

Plays in Simple Manner.

The sideburns are the one thing about Heifetz which might be construed as affectation. He goes about his playing in a simple, business-like manner, not a movement or gesture wasted. He is slightly diffident, but very far from indifferent to his audience, though he has said during his visit in London that he has never known what it means to be really nervous.

One point which impressed was the care he took to have his violin absolutely in tune with the piano. As his accompanist Mr. Heifetz has Mr. Samuel Chotznoff, a finished pianist and artist. In the sonata and concerto, however, the piano was a bit too obvious for the perfect accompaniment.

Turkish Men Who Are On Marriage Bent Must Cut Expenses Or To Jail Be Sent

Special Cable to The London Advertiser and The Philadelphia Public Ledger. Constantinople, March 21.—Get a certificate of good health and you can marry cheaply, otherwise you stay single—such is the policy Ankara has adopted to overcome the losses of population and the incursions of disease caused by twelve years of war. The commissary of public health has decided to begin immediately the application of a law requiring strict physical examination of both sexes before marriage, which measure was passed by Turkey in 1917.

Another Law aims to encourage marriages by minimizing wedding expenses. On the pain of a fine of $70 or six months in jail, it is forbidden to give more than two dresses, or for the bride to exhibit her trousseau to the public. It is also prohibited to give betrothal or wedding gifts, to have the customary dancing boys perform, to give banquets or musical entertainment lasting more than a day. Those various expenses, which tradition required of a bridegroom, desirous of maintaining his good standing in Turkish villages, have done much, not only to kill polygamy, but to prevent monogamy.

Find Body in Sheet, Hunt Victim's Wife

Detroit Police Make Vain Search For Mrs. Angelina Vitale.

Special to The Advertiser. Detroit, March 21.—Police have been unable to locate Mrs. Angelina Vitale to question her in connection with the death of her husband, Chris Vitale, whose body was found wrapped in a sheet in the rear of 2513 Joseph Campau avenue, Monday.

Vitale had apparently been beaten to death, and his body carried to the place where it was found. The police said they wanted to question Mrs. Vitale in relation to a mysterious telephone call which directed the authorities to the body.

Mrs. Vitale shot and wounded her husband last summer during a quarrel over her daughter by a former marriage. She was tried and acquitted of the charge.

Young Girls Need Care

FROM the age of twelve a girl needs all the care the thoughtful mother can give. Many a woman has suffered years of pain and misery—the victim of thoughtlessness or ignorance of the mother who should have guided her during this time. If she complains of headaches, pains in the back and lower limbs, or if you notice a slowness of thought, nervousness or irritability on the part of your daughter make life easier for her. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is especially adapted for such conditions. It can be taken in safety by any woman, young or old.

Read How These Mothers Helped Their Daughters

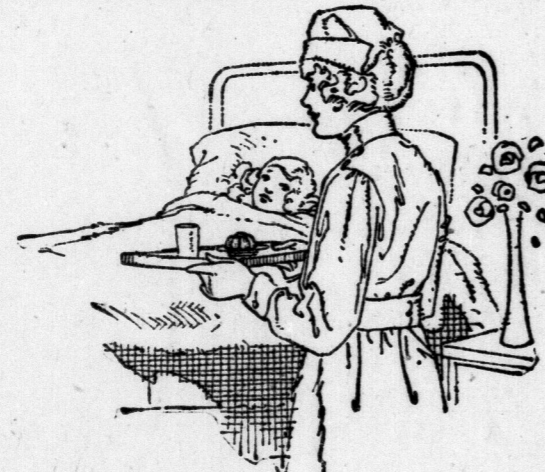

Vancouver, B. C.—"My daughter is a young girl who has been having severe pains and weak and dizzy feelings for some time and had lost her appetite. Through an older daughter who had heard of a woman who was taking it for the same trouble, we were told of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My daughter has been taking it for several months and is quite all right now. I am never without a bottle of it in the house, for I myself take it for that weak, tired, worn-out feeling which sometimes comes to us all." Mrs. J. McDONALD, 2947, 26th Ave. East, Vancouver, B.C.

Hamilton, Ontario—"When my daughter was thirteen and until she was fifteen, she suffered every month so that she could hardly move around the house, and when she would have the pains in school she would have to be carried home. She also had headache, dizzy and faint spells, and soreness in her back. I saw your advertisement in the "Hamilton Spectator" and got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for her. She does not have the least bit of trouble now, and we recommend your medicine. She works in a candy-shop now and seems well and strong." Mrs. I. P. CLAUSE, 83 Oxford St., Hamilton, Ontario.

Granites in Trip Five-Goal Lead On Saskatchewan, Winning 6--1

GRANITES GRAB FIRST ALLAN CUP FINAL, 6-1

Outclass University of Sask. All the Way Through Ragged Game.

HAY IS GOOD IN GOAL

His Marvelous Work Kept the Granite Score Out of Double Figures.

Canadian Press Despatch. Winnipeg, March 20.—The Allan Cup, emblematic of the Canadian amateur hockey championship, seems due to stay the seat for at least a year. The Toronto Granites, Eastern champions, scored a 6 to 1 victory over the University of Saskatchewan here tonight, in the first game of the Allan Cup final, in a contest marked by rough play and a few hard hits.

It was a case of the dope working to perfection. The western finalists were not conceded a "ghost of a chance" to overcome the much-heralded Granites crew, and though they battled hard all the way, they were simply outclassed, save for the final period when they seemed to take a new lease of life and they held the easterners even.

Granites Fail to Impress

Varsity was selected to play and gave Cameron, the Granite goalie, little chance to show his wares. Touted as one of the greatest goalkeepers in the west in years, the Granites failed to impress. This was to a great extent due to the fact that the Granites were trained by a coach who was never threatened and seldom seemed to exert them-

Granites enjoyed by far the best of the exchanges, and after a rather slow first period which netted them a two-goal lead, the winners opened up in the middle session and took some things which were practically the only bright feature of the contest. Huzhig Fox teamed with Roy Ramsay and Munro on the defence, and they had little difficulty in rathoming the one-man rushes of the opposition. Ramsay was a tireless worker and taken off the defence he performed at left wing. Cameron was always safe in goal.

Three players stood out on the varsity team. Hay in goal, though allowing two goals, was a real find. Cameron was a truly great game. Turvey was easily the best of the defence.

Scoring by Periods. First period: 1. Granites, Watson, 1-0. 2. Granites, Rogden, 1-0. 2. Granites, Watson, 1-1. 3. Granites, McCaffery, 1-2. 4. Granites, Watson, 1-3. Third period: 1. Granites, McCaffery, 1-3. 2. Granites, Broadfoot, 1-3. The line-ups: Granites—Hay, Cameron; defence, Fox and Ramsay; wings, Watson and McCaffery; center, Smith; subs, Monroe and Cameron.

University of Saskatchewan—Goal, Hay; defence, Art and Turvey; wings, Hoffman and Huzhig; center, Broadfoot; subs, Collins and McNeil.

Referee—Jerry Laffamme, Toronto; Jack Hughes, Winnipeg.

ALLEN SKIPS WINNERS AT THISTLE BONSPIEL

Only Rink to Win Two Games—Games Close On Keen Ice.

F. N. Allen was the winner at the Thistle Curling Club mid-week bonspiel held last night. He was the only rink to win two games in five, the game being one of the closest, seen on the north-end of the city since the late 1910s.

Allen, who won one and lost one, and J. A. McKay, E. L. Morren skipped good games and lost. His second game was very close.

The Thistles are hoping that the cold snap will hang on for a few days. It is not likely, however, that ice will remain much longer. Last night the ice was in mid-week shape, and the curlers were turned out very enthusiastic.

First Series. Chapman, E. Laur; Dettler, E. Maitland; E. Chapman, A. Fergusson; H. Allen, sk., 6; J. A. McKay, sk., 12; Benson, G. Darch; G. Turnbull, G. O'Leary; L. H. Keene, sk., 5; E. L. Morren, sk., 3; F. N. Allen, sk., 6; E. L. Morren, sk., 4; H. N. Keene, sk., 8; J. A. McKay, sk., 4.

STRATFORD COUNCILLORS REMEMBER CHAMPIONS

Special to The Advertiser. Stratford, March 20.—Plans were furthered for the presentation to be given the champion intermediates at a meeting this afternoon by the executive of the city council and the executive of the hockey club. No definite decision has been reached as to the form of the presentation, but it will be something worthy of the honor the team has brought to the city.

Stage Fright Hit Giant's Rookie

Special to The Advertiser. New York, March 20.—Sometimes an athlete is a very delicate piece of mechanism. There is the case of young Joe Dillard, the Texas college star, who came to the Giants and at his first trip to the clubhouse here sustained a nervous breakdown. For days he brooded in his hotel room and finally had to be sent home.

This Dillard is a great baseball player, too, according to all the reports who have looked him over. Also he likes the game. Yet when the chance came to join the Giants he seemed to go all to pieces. The latest report is that he will join the team later.

Do you think that such a nervously inclined young man ever will be able to make good in the big league? John McGraw was asked. "Certainly," said Mr. McGraw promptly. "Some of the best ball players in the world are highly sensitive and hysterical. Dillard seems to have had merely a case of stage fright. Any young fellow might get the blues. The baseball player I have heard he is, I look for him to come back again and make good absolutely."

ST. THOMAS MAY HAVE PUBLIC GOLF LINKS

City Council Committee Favors Renting of Old Course to Westerner.

Special to The Advertiser. St. Thomas, March 20.—The old golf links that will be abandoned this year when the members will be privileged to play on the new course at Union, has wintered fairly well, according to information obtained today. The high wind, however, on Monday made a clean sweep of the section of the building that it was proposed to remodel and use for a caddy house at the new links at Union.

It was decided to wait until Mr. Lewis visited the city before finally closing the Westerner. It is understood that the Westerner desired to rent the golf links for the purpose of establishing a public golf course in operation in the city of St. Thomas. A meeting was held in the city hall Tuesday afternoon.

CENTRAL C. I. FIVE BEAT STRATHROY IN WOSSA

Get 12-Point Lead in First of Semi-Final Play-Offs.

The London Collegiate cagers defeated the Strathroy C. I. team in a semi-final W.O.S.S.A. game at the Central Collegiate gym last night by a score of 24 to 12. The game was fast at times, but was slowed up by the hard checking of both teams, particularly that of Strathroy. The halftime score was 12 to 8 in favor of London, and in the second they managed to get 12 more, while Strathroy counted 4 more. The close checking of the Strathroy boys held in London, who seemed unable to get away. The London team showed a better brand of basketball, by a narrow margin. Linton and Lamont were the pick for Strathroy, while Lawrence, Barbour and Williamson netted London's points.

The return game will be played in Strathroy on Friday night, and with 12 points to their credit, London "centrals" are the favorites.

The lineups: Strathroy C. I. (12)—Smith (2), Linton (4), Lamont (6), Nicholson, Whiting, Wyatt, Burckholder and Leitch. London C. I. (24)—Lawrence (10), Barbour (8), Wanless (2), Wilson, Ardell, Williamson (4), Morris and Chapman. Referee—Dismore.

St. Thomas Wins. The St. Thomas Juniors defeated the Central Seconds in a fast preliminary game, 25 to 15. The St. Thomas boys led at half time, and in the second half ran up a big score. Murray and Grillon were good for the Central, while Lang, Westrope and Hind netted the points for St. Thomas.

The lineups: St. Thomas (25)—Lang (10), Balkwill, Westrope (6), Hind (2), Saunders, Polle (2), Small (2), Scott. L. C. I. Seconds (15)—Griffin (6), Taylor, Murray and Grillon (2), Taylor, Cummings (2) Brown and Cook. Referee—Dismore.

Down the Line In All Sports

Playing a "twin" lacrosse team with London and St. Thomas players will have its problems, but with the chances of meeting St. Marys or Sarnia, to mention in open meeting two of the nearest and strongest lacrosse rivals, on even terms, will give the pastimers plenty of reasons for finding ways to overcome inconveniences. An endeavor will be made this week to find out just what the St. Thomas players are prepared to do, and Recording Secretary Stan Reid will be requested to call a meeting of the London A. A. this week or early next so that enthusiasts who have carried the burden of the game for the past few seasons may formally shift the game over for administration by the L. A. A.

So far as is known, the L. A. A. doesn't harbor any lacrosse enthusiasts, so the thought of taking over this game isn't apt to provide cause for uncontrolled merriment among the members of the executive. The L. A. A. will likely institute a revival of lacrosse in the schools.

The national pastime's most ardent well-wisher would hardly prophesy the return of lacrosse to ascendancy in Canadian sport, but with the game properly fostered in the schools and kept going otherwise, it will hold its own. Lacrosse is too valuable as a game for any community to ignore.

While fairly unanimous that Firpo would be a delight to the eye in an argument about the tough waterfront section, or in one of those affairs which were wont to happen in ancient times, in places of low repute but high concentration known as "bars," the experts see nothing but gloom surrounding his future. All admit the force of his right smash, but the man has no left. Positively! Modern boxing technique demands that a man have a left. And yet, there were such men as Mace, John L. Sullivan and Ruby Robert Fitzsimmons, uncouth fighters, it's true, who achieved results of a kind without using their lefts much except for purposes of support against the mahogany.

Softball, which descended on London in a cloud last year, threatens to occupy a still bigger place in the city's summer sport program than ever. Both men's and girls' teams are looking for wider organization. In the case of the former, the meeting to be held at Hamilton will be the start of province-wide elimination competitions modeled along the lines of the O. H. A. or the O. A. B. A. Girls' softball, will eventually reach that stage too, but if enthusiasts are wise, they'll step carefully, in this case. Both amateur and pro baseball will receive benefit, too, from the growth of the softball game and the fans of the future will be more critical than ever they've been.

Girls' softball, will eventually reach that stage too, but if enthusiasts are wise, they'll step carefully, in this case. Both amateur and pro baseball will receive benefit, too, from the growth of the softball game and the fans of the future will be more critical than ever they've been.

Softball, which descended on London in a cloud last year, threatens to occupy a still bigger place in the city's summer sport program than ever. Both men's and girls' teams are looking for wider organization. for discontinuance of dental display advertising in Canada. Apparently it was considered ethical to advertise dentistry up until 1911, when the Dental College at Toronto recommended that no further advertisements be given to newspapers.

An Exception. The case of Dr. McLaren of Toronto, who advertised in spite of the ruling, has aroused interest throughout dentistry in Canada.

May Start Again. "How about special dental supply concerns that advertise to sell equipment?" he was asked.

ORANGE LODGE HOLDS SERIES OF LECTURES

Capt. W. C. Riddiford To Speak in Local Churches This Week.

Final arrangements were made at a special committee meeting held in the Orange Hall last night for a series of meetings in London, to be addressed by Rev. Capt. W. C. Riddiford, grand organizer of the Grand Lodge of North America, and others. Capt. Riddiford will speak on "Patriotism and Protestantism."

Sunday afternoon the Orangemen of London will parade from the district hall to the Masonic Temple. Services, to which the public is invited, will be conducted at 8 o'clock.

Capt. Riddiford and the other speakers will address a meeting at St. George's Anglican Church, West London, Monday; Egerton Street Baptist, Tuesday; Askin Street Methodist, Wednesday; Maitland Street Baptist, Thursday; and Petersburg Presbyterian, Friday. All these meetings will commence at 8 o'clock in the evening.

ONTARIO GRANTS BONUS TO CATTLE BREEDERS

Government Aids Essex Association in Better Livestock Campaign.

Special to The Advertiser.
Essex, March 21.—It is announced by Justus Miller, agricultural representative for Essex County, that the provincial department of agriculture has granted a bonus of 20 per cent of the cost price to all farmers buying pure bred bulls, in connection with the campaign being carried on by the Essex Livestock Improvement Association for the elimination of scrub bulls and boars in Essex County.

While no bonus will be paid on the purchase of pure bred boars, it is announced that any ten farmers, owning together at least 20 sows, may procure the loan of a pure bred boar from the department of agriculture. The campaign is being conducted vigorously in Essex and the far has brought to light the fact that nearly 50 per cent of the sows are not pure bred. There is a general tendency being shown by the owners of inferior sows to purchase pure bred ones this spring. It would appear from results to date that the objective of the association to eliminate all grade bulls and boars in Essex in three years will be attained.

CIVIC FATHERS AUTHORIZE SCHOOL BOARD TO PROCEED WITH ENTIRE PROGRAM. MR. BELL SURPRISES City's Financial Expert Shows Saving by Cancellation of Debentures.

The rumbling dies down on the municipal front. The aldermen are "beating their swords into ploughshares." The war is over.

After a minute survey of the city's general financial position, extending back over a period of two or even three weeks, he was able to show the council that by the cancellation of $1,200,000 debentures, expiring in 1923 and 1924, but not yet issued, the city could save a sufficient sum to drive the rate well below the 1922 point.

While no objection was registered to a second motion from Ald. Judd that a bylaw be introduced tonight to strike a tax rate not exceeding 34.7 mills, Ald. J. Watt, during an impassioned address of several minutes' duration, showered the board of education with "economical" suggestions.

Although subjected to a grueling cross-examination by several members of the council, Mayor Wenig insisted that the members of the Hospital Trust had not long ago agreed to meet any sum, not in excess of $5,000, that the fair board might be short of $36,000 receipts.

It was decided to close on Wednesday afternoon this year in June, July, August and September, and a committee was appointed to go into the question of early closing.

"THE STRANGER"

A Story of Tangled Human Emotions Told With Sympathy By a Great Writer

BY JOHN GOODWIN

Joan Drinks a Toast To the Memory of Her Mysterious Father

CHAPTER XXXIII.
An Addition to the Staff.

There was a pause. The man's attitude was humble, yet Joan was conscious of something strangely compelling about him. It occurred to her vaguely that the Abbey was badly in need of more help, with so many guests coming. Mr. Deane had said as much to her.

"I remember you," said Joan, "and you are seeking work—here?"

"If you please, my lady."

"How? In the stables—the stables? Are you used to horses?"

"I have had experience with horses. But if there is room for me I wish you to be installed as a footman."

"A man-servant! Do you understand a footman's duties?" asked Joan.

"I am well acquainted, your ladyship," said the man gently, "with everything that concerns the service in a gentleman's house."

It came into Joan's mind that he would make a most impressive footman.

"You are somewhat altered since I last saw you," she said, "you were a beard, I think."

"I have removed it, my lady, that I might have better hope of employment in this capacity."

"Your name?"

"Isaac Goodenough, my lady."

"It has a dependable sound," said Joan, smiling. "Well," she added with a sudden impulse, "I will engage you. Go to Mr. Deane, who has charge of everything, and tell him I wish you to be installed as a footman. I daresay they will find a livery for you. We are short-handed."

"I thank your ladyship," said Goodenough with a most respectful bow and drew back. Joan rode on her way, rather silent and pensive. Philip urged his horse alongside. He had listened to the conversation without making any comment, and he looked more amused than surprised.

"Do you think that was wise, dear?" he said.

"Wise!" answered Joan. "I don't know. He is the first servant I have ever engaged. What wisdom to do with it?"

"You are the most impulsive darling I ever knew," laughed Philip. "What a way to engage a footman! You know nothing about him, do you?"

"Not much, certainly. But I think he is honest. I like his face."

"Do you?" said Philip rather dryly. "I should say it is the face of a man who has led a peculiarly chequered career."

"Well, so have I," smiled Joan, "so we ought to suit each other."

"Where have you seen him before?"

"The first day I ever came to Knyath. I met him on the road and he begged from me—though I hardly can call it begging. I gave him silence. The curious thing was that he refused half a crown, saying he did not want to rob me of so much."

"She described the rest of the incident as they rode into the garden. And that was before you ever knew of your inheritance, Joan?" asked Philip.

"Why, yes. I learned of it the very next day, in London."

Philip made no answer. He was silent and thoughtful until they had dismounted. The horses were taken by a groom, and Joan went up to her own quarters. She wondered why she remained so persistently in her mind. Many a time she had thought of him since that first meeting; so much so that it was a slight shock to see him again. Still odder was it that in some way he had made her think again of "Uncle Jim," whose face indeed was no more than the dimmest half-memory of her early girlhood. "I wonder if that is why I engaged him?" thought Joan, smiling. "If so, it was absurd of me; there is no resemblance really—even less than none, now that he has shaved his beard. I think I liked him better with his beard. But I suppose footmen can't wear them."

Joan splashed joyously in the marble bath adjoining her bedroom, and changed into a charming muslin frock. A little later she came down to the hall, singing to herself; the new man-servant had passed out of her head. At the foot of the staircase, however, she met Mr. Deane, looking distinctly worried.

"About this man Goodenough, whom you required me to engage as a footman, Lady Tallois," he said, "I have done so, of course. But do you know much about him—had he any references?"

"No," said Joan calmly. "I know nothing about references, and I do not have any, of course. But do you know much about him—had he any references?"

"I cannot help feeling doubtful about it," murmured Mr. Deane.

"Why? Is he no use at his work?"

"Yes, as far as that goes," admitted Deane, "he seems to know his work particularly well, and I am very pleased with him. He is a good type for a footman; though somehow, I should not have thought it had been the man's line. I confess we need men badly now, and they are hard to get. But, forgive me, are you mentioning it?" added Mr. Deane uncomfortably. "I have had a sharp lesson against engaging people who are not thoroughly vouched for. There was a man called Floyd, who served here—he came apparently with good references, but they were not enough; it was transpired since that some of them were forged. I was to blame for not investigating further. The end of it was unpleasantness—indeed, tragedy."

Joan's brow clouded.

"I do not wish to talk of that," she said. "It shows, if anything, that the greatest care must be exercised. I had nothing to do with it. It would be absurd even to consider that dreadful affair in the matter of my engaging Goodenough."

"Yes, sir," said Goodenough respectfully.

"However, it is to be presumed that you are an honest man?"

"Honest men are rare, sir," said the footman gravely, "but I trust that I am one."

Philip started slightly at the phrase. It recalled to him a curious memory. He looked at Goodenough's face, which was as immovable as stone.

"There is, I assume, no reason to think otherwise," said Philip quietly, and took up the glass.

"Is there anything else that I can do, sir?"

"No, thank you."

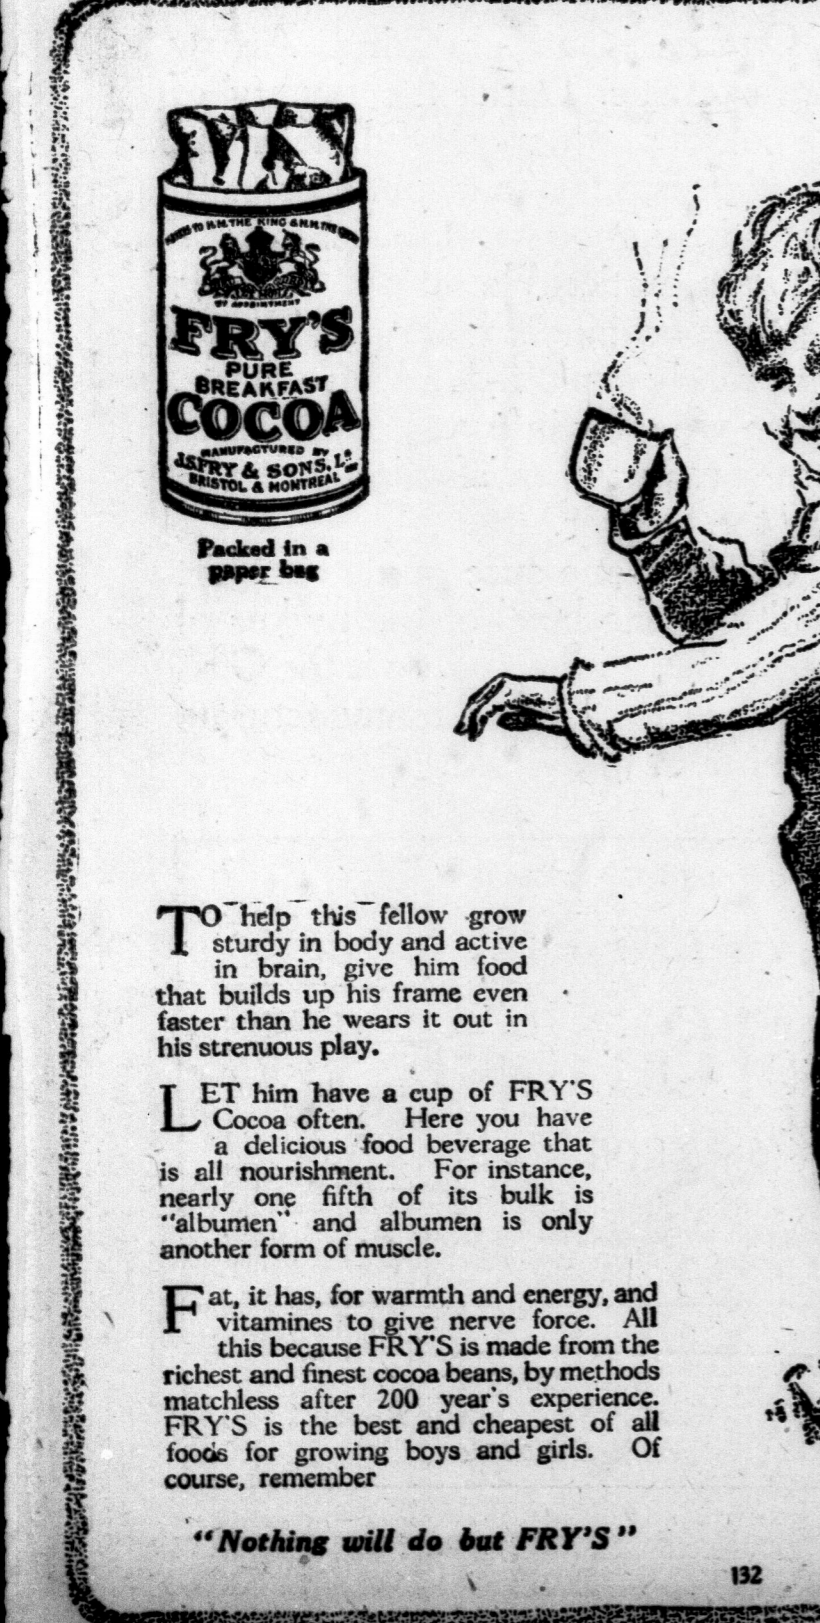

Goodenough bowed, and left the room. Mottisfont lit a cigarette and, crossing the hall, intrusted his telegram and letter to the butler for dispatch; he then joined the guests assembling in the drawing-room.

The zong sounded soon afterward and Joan took her place as hostess to preside over her first dinner party.

A merrier debut could never have been made. There were fifteen at table and Lady Dulnic had made her choice well; they were admirably assorted. The talk was bright, the dinner perfect, the old Pommeroy from the Knyath cellars was a dream. Joan herself did little more than sip at the frothing gold in her glass. The happiness in her heart needed no stimulant.

It was otherwise with old Gen. Sinker, who was silent at first, but after his third glass of champagne began to blossom out like a pony, as his custom was. A famous story was a dream. Joan herself did little more than sip at the frothing gold in her glass. The happiness in her heart needed no stimulant.

This time it was a chicken. It wasn't one of his chickens, but must have come from some other farm. On the following morning a Squirrel lay there.

But this time Farmer Brown's Boy was becoming so interested that he could think of nothing else. "I've got to find out about this somehow," said he. "What is more, I am going to find out about it if I have to sit up all night. Somebody is leaving these things here, but what for I don't know. It's a mystery. It certainly is a mystery. Could we not have a double motto—one that would mean more to us than just that we have written a few letters to the Mail-Box? "Every member of our family seems to be so enthusiastic to do good, not only to the members, but to those outside, including such dear, sick children. When we pin the badge on our spring coat, why not say, down in the depths of our hearts, "consecrated" to God? Then our good works shall be done in His name. In unity there is strength. Let us unite to look up, and lift up."

MARGARET LINDBLEY.

Was glad to hear from you again, M. L., although you will see that I had to omit a few lines of your letter. It was coming in so thick and fast just now. Your idea of the badge is lovely. I am sure a great many will be disappointed if the badge suggestion does not meet with adequate approval from the Boxes. The cook book is really helping the S. C. H. Fund, because it keeps the letters coming, and the Boxes are always generous in remembering a mite.

Dear Miss Grey—Owing to illness in our home, I did not see the letter that introduced the cook book. It is only to have our best receipts in one book, it is worth while. If it is to raise funds for a cot in the S. C. H., we cannot estimate the value of the good it may accomplish. Calmly Ann must have her hands full. I picture her a very busy woman. Regarding our badge, I have suggested a maple leaf with C. G. in the centre, and I think that Union Jack with C. G. in the centre. We all know that C. G. is for Cynthia Grey. Could we not have a double motto—one that would mean more to us than just that we have written a few letters to the Mail-Box? The Easter Breakfast

Premium Ham or Bacon

THAT breakfast on Easter Morning should consist of Bacon and Eggs has become almost as honored a national institution as Turkey for Thanksgiving.

But on this Easter Morning, bright with the promise of Springtime—vigor—and joy—the Bacon certainly should be "Premium"—the world's standard—as befitting the occasion. Substitute ordinary Bacon or Ham for Swift's "Premium" and you dull the joy of the meal.

For Swift's "Premium" Bacon is of characteristic and distinctive quality. Firmly, by its choice selection—for "Premium" Brand must have just the right proportion of fat and lean. Then next it possesses an unmatched succulence and savoriness due to the exclusive Swift process of curing and smoking.

Be careful to get Swift's "Premium" when you buy Bacon or Ham—make sure of it this coming Easter Morning. Order from your Butcher or Grocer.

HERMINE THINKS
WILSON PICTURED WORLD ROSY HUED

Ex-Kaiser's Bride Says U. S.
Ex-President Moved by Idealistic Motives.

FREE FROM ILLUSION

Princess Declares Former German Royal Family Financially Embarrassed.

By FERDINAND JAHN
Special Cable to The London Advertiser and The Philadelphia Public Ledger.
Doorn, March 21. — "What I reproach your former President Wilson for the most is that he saw the world through rose-colored spectacles."
With this succulent comment, the Princess Hermine, bride of the ex-kaiser, who was granting me the only interview she has accorded since her marriage, summarized her impressions of America's war-time president based upon her reading.
Contrary to most of her countrymen, the princess did admit the belief that Woodrow Wilson had idealistic motives. "But he did not hold it necessary to seek, even from neutrals, a picture of actual conditions in Germany."

Victim of Propaganda.
Wilson, therefore, Hermine continued, "was a victim of Entente propaganda, not entirely without fault on his own part."
Regarding Germany's immediate future—and in this connection the ex-emperor agrees with his bride—the princess is free from every illusion. As I pointed out to her the national spirit sweeping Germany as a result of the Ruhr occupation she sighed. "I'm pessimistic," and switched the conversation to personal affairs.

Apologies of the crown prince, who on Christmas and his father's birthday came to Doorn and who is expected here at Easter, Hermine called attention to his unenviable lot—banishment to Wieringen.
"In this he resembles his father,"
the princess said. "Both possess unusual energy and do not permit themselves to be crushed by exile."
She told how the island home of the crown prince once was isolated by ice from all communication with the mainland, the population, including the prince, was gradually approaching starvation and aeroplanes were being made to transport food.
Just as the Dutch government was about to undertake this rescue mission a thaw came, breaking the ice.
That the ex-kaiser is living in no superfluity, but on the contrary modestly, could be seen in his bride's remarks about the growing hard times in Germany, with consequent flood of appeals for help.
"Unfortunately it has been impossible to meet all requests," Hermine said. "Suppliants who ask for ten or twenty guilders—four or eight dollars—and think they are quite modest, do not understand our situation.
That is for us a considerable sum of money."

Must Live Modestly.
The court chamberlain later explained to me how in Doorn one must "cut the cloth closely," especially as long as negotiations between crown and state regarding division of the emperor's fortune continue. They must live modestly here. When guests are invited the dinner consists of soup and entree, meat and dessert.
For their own meals the ex-kaiser and kaiserin have one meat and fruit, Friday's menu, for instance, consisting of thick soup, baked sole, cake.
This was considered a great feast.
The court chamberlain assured me that talk of any difference within the Hohenzollern household, hidden away from the usual world by way was the purest fantasy of fevered journalistic minds. The villagers—they are not entirely without prejudice, and surely willing to gossip—say that what they have seen of the couple bears out the statement that Wilhelm and his bride are real honey-moons.

AWARD SCHOOL CONTRACT.
Special to The Advertiser.
Waterloo, March 20.—Announcement was made today by the chairman of the separate school board that the contract for erection of the new addition to the Waterloo separate school has been awarded to Ellert Bros., local contractors. The new building will cost $63,000, according to the bid of the successful tender.

BODY OF WINNIPEG BOY FOUND IN ASSINIBOINE
Canadian Press Despatch.
Winnipeg, March 20.—The body of Harvey Simpson, aged 5, was taken from the Assiniboine River today.
Harvey and his chum, Sidney Morris, disappeared eleven days ago after they had gone to play, and when an exhaustive search had failed to reveal their whereabouts it was taken for granted that they had been drowned.
