LAKE AND RIVER.

ST. LAWRENCE, ST. PETER AND ST. FRANCIS.

THE SEASON AT ABENAKIS SPRINGS.

Beautiful Yamaska County—Lake, Rivers, Mountains, Groves and Plains—Pleasure and Profit Hand-in-Hand—The Resort for Duck Shooting—The Baby Bridge and the Mineral Water—Notes.

Most of our citizens other than the irresponsible politicians, if suddenly asked where they would go for a vacation, would probably go to the Abenakis Springs. The topography of the country, would try to evade the question; it sharply corners, and locates it like one who has a "somewhere about Gaspé." Yamaska, in fact, is within easy reach of the city, and it has aptly been described as the "resort of the province. The St. Francis River runs through it in numerous beautiful and fertilizing channels, and the main stream reaches the St. Lawrence at about the middle of the county. Steamboats of a fair size navigate for about twelve miles from its mouth and the commerce of the district is so considerable that the Federal Government is now employing dredges and constructing works to improve the water-course. On the bank of the St. Francis and on some of the large islands is the reserve of the Abenakis Indians, a rather famous tribe under the old French regime.

"THE MEDICINE WATER."

For their reserve, has for years been highly thought of by them, and we believe they were the discoverers of the celebrated Abenakis mineral springs in the olden time, and regarded them as a cure when sickness overtook the braves as a penalty for the exposed and wandering life they led. That the Indians were not wrong in placing a high value on the medicinal qualities of the water was, of course, made manifest to them in their own experience. The "pale faces" have referred to science, and the testimony of Prof. Harrington of McGill University, and Dr. Baker Edwards, proves the excellence of the water beyond cavil. For years past the Springs have been regularly visited by invalids suffering from rheumatism, nervousness, palpitation, dyspepsia, liver and kidney complaint and general debility, the visitors boarding out among the lake people. Last year

THE ABENAKIS HOUSE,

A very fine commodious hotel, was opened to the public, the most valuable of the two springs being properly enclosed. The situation is charming, and guests bent on pleasure find a picturesque country with splendid roads and the prettiest water stretches possible. With an enterprise worthy of the proprietors, Messrs. J. S. Snow, E. H. Cassidy and R. W. Leitch, all "Townships men," a fine building of two flats has been constructed this year to comprise ball-room, billiard-room and bowling alley. There is a large livery stable in connection with the house and boats in readiness at the landing, also all conveniences for lawn sports. A drive through a part of the country was undertaken. The road skirted the broad navigable channel of the ever winding, ever beautiful river, and always at a height to command an extensive view. A glance at the country side showed carefully cultivated farms which will repay the agriculturist. The grain in most instances was ready for the reaper and we noticed splendid fields of wheat, oats, peas, red, flax and potatoes. At the Indian farms the men stick to their old crops of corn and potatoes and fill their spare time in making birch canoes and many-colored baskets of innumerable sizes and shapes. One of the fine stables their number was now about 50 and they support a Catholic, a Protestant and an Adventist church. They live in comfortable wooden houses and in appearance they were less picturesque than the average Indians, most of them dressing quite as neatly and well as their French and Old Country neighbors.

A good story is told of the worthy pere of the parish. An interviewer noticing as he thought the musical tongue of a son of St. Patrick in a French district, was rather surprised, and so he remarked that the father was surely an Irishman like himself. To the greater astonishment of his questioner the father responded "Fait et I am not."

Of course the rev. father had received his training among Irish brethren, and this accounted for his little peculiarity of tongue.

At the hotel it is one of the sights to see the babies "polish off" the mineral water. Two of them, both under two years of age, were the worst and gave their maternal ancestors no end of trouble. After taking three glasses in about a minute one of them, the cup being hidden from him, made a very good attempt to get more and was nearly tumbling over the spring itself—a big tank about five feet deep. The mother of this interesting little staid one was at the Springs last year when the youngster took the water and relished it when only five months old. Next year, when the hotel people will be prepared to look this "exterminator," or "destroyer," as you like it, (of mineral water) against the "blue water" "concocter," or "swallower," as the latter, who appears to be missing Abenakis, is then alive.

Abenakis Springs being only about 12 miles from Lake St. Peter by water makes it the place for sportsmen fond of duck shooting, and the management in adopting very reasonable rates to induce them to visit this fall. For $3.50 a Montreal man can pay his fare both ways and spend a week at the Springs. The best way is to go by boat, taking the steamer Sorol at Sorol on the morning of the 14th, and the steamer Sorol at Sorol on the morning of the 15th, and the water of these springs is undoubtedly the most superior ever.

Dr. Harrington of McGill University, and Dr. Baker Edwards, proves the excellence of the water beyond cavil.

principal one contains chloride of sodium; potassium; magnesium and calcium; the carbonate of iron; magnesium of lime; bromide and iodide of magnesium; sulphate of lime; alumina and phosphoric acid. A ball takes place every fortnight, the Waterloo string band being engaged.

MEANS OF ACCESS
 To Abenakis Springs, near St. Francois du Lac, Yamaska county, P. Q.:

By Rail.—The morning G. T. R. express going east from Montreal and the morning G. T. R. express going west from Island Pond are connected with at Acton by the South Eastern Railway morning passenger train going north from Sutton Junction via Acton to Yamaska (the Abenakis Springs Station) and to Sorol.

By Steamboat.—The steamer Three Rivers leaves Montreal on Tuesdays and Fridays at 1 p.m., and connects at the town of Sorol with the steamer Sorol, which reaches the village of St. Francois du Lac about 8 a.m. (where the coach of the Abenakis House is in waiting for guests.) On returning the steamer Sorol leaves St. Francois du Lac on the afternoons of Sunday and Wednesday, and connects at Sorol with the steamer Three Rivers for Montreal.

AN AFFECTING INCIDENT.

A BRAVE SON DROWNED IN HIS FATHER'S SIGHT.

KINGSTON, Aug. 11.—On Saturday night, Joseph Mercier and his son went to Clayton in a skiff, and started on the return yesterday morning at one o'clock, with two heavy trunks. When near Howe Island, at day-break, a swell made by a passing steamer filled the skiff, when the son lifted a trunk and cast it into the river. The act surprised the boat. The son clung to a trunk, and the father got on top of the skiff, which was bottom up. They drifted apart, but kept talking to each other. Finally the son, thinking his father was weakening, left the chest and swam to him, but the latter persuaded him to go back, telling him he was all right, and that they would get picked up as soon as the farmers arose. The son went back to the chest, after kissing his father and bidding him good-bye, believing that they would not be rescued. Time wore on, and again the boat from the boat, started to go to him, but he had not gone far when he was seized with cramp, and went down a few yards from the boat. The old man could not swim a stroke, so he clung to the boat till seven in the morning, when he was picked up by L. Rusford, who put out from the shore in a boat. He says he was fully four hours in the water. The drowned man was 22 years of age, and sober and industrious. The circumstances are extremely sad.

DAVITT AND PARNELL.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 9.—Michael Davitt writes that the statement that he is at war with Parnell is a "malignant fabrication." Davitt says no letter of an unfriendly nature has ever passed between them, nor has a line upon any subject been exchanged during the last twelve months. He has never in public speech, letters, or in private discussion or conversation spoken of Parnell except in terms of respect.

NEWS FROM THE OLD WORLD.

SIR JOHN LUBBOCK—DEATH OF A NOTED VIENNA PIANIST—THE KING OF SWEDEN NOT YET INVITED TO WINDSOR CASTLE.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Sir John Lubbock, the banker, parliamentarian and scientist, who owes his chief fame to his wonderfully minute researches in entomology, has been compelled to forego his visit to Montreal to meet his fellow members of the Royal Society, and Sir Lyonel Playfair will be deprived of his companionship during the voyage. Sir John is again prostrated by his old enemy the gout, and the present attack is said to be more painful and violent than any that have preceded it. He is indebted for it to that spirit of enthusiasm which has survived his youth and which has led him into taking an active part in the exciting mass meetings lately held to boom the Franchise Bill and denounce the Loris. He has been conspicuous at several of these assemblages, and notably at the one held at Manchester on the 29th ult. For the past few days he has suffered terribly, and his feet are swollen to an abnormal size. At last he has been compelled to take to his bed and cancel all engagements, including his proposed visit to Canada. His married young wife, to whom he was bequeathed last May, in presence of one of the most fashionable assemblies ever gathered in St. Peter's Church, Belgavia, is constant in her attendance upon the invalid, and seems tireless in performing her self-imposed duties as a nurse.

The musical world of Vienna is in mourning for one of its brightest stars. Among the many marvellous pianists whom the Queen of the Danube has produced none was more promising than Ernest Lowenber, a pupil of Rubinstein, of whom his friends predicted that he would rival the greatest masters when his powers had reached their maturity. To the most perfect power of execution and great brilliancy of touch, he added a deep musical sympathy which charmed his hearers. He recently returned from Russia, where he had given a series of performances in St. Petersburg and other towns with a success that has laid the foundation of a European reputation. But in the course of his professional engagements he contracted a cold, which settled on his lungs, and he returned home to die in the arms of his friends at the age of only 28 years.

The King of Sweden is at present enjoying himself on a yachting trip on the English coast. He has visited Portsmouth and the Isle of Wight, and was on board the Victory at the entertainment given by Admiral Hornby to the Philadelphia cricketers. Next week he visits the Earl of Breadalbane at Taymouth Castle, in Perthshire. He is a popular guest with both lords and commoners, and his easy carriage and courtesy are subjects of general and favorable remark. But he has as yet received no invitation from the Lord Chamberlain to become the guest of the Queen for even a short visit, and the papers are beginning to comment upon what seems to them a strange lack of hospitality.

One journal asks: What is the use of maintaining, at the public cost, Buckingham Palace, Windsor Castle, Balmoral and Osborne house if the sovereign is unable to show some civility to a King who has most hospitably entertained Englishmen of all classes in his own country? With the exception of the Shah of Persia, hardly any royal guests have resided at Buckingham Palace in recent years, the Queen generally having allowed her own visitors to put up at Clarridge's Hotel in Bond street.

TO GREET THE LEAGUERS.

ELABORATE ARRANGEMENTS PERFECTED BY THE BOSTON COMMITTEE.

BOSTON, Aug. 9.—The Local Committee of Management of the Irish National League convention, under the direction of Rev. Father McKenna, the State Executive, are doing all that good taste and liberal expenditure can do to give welcome to their Irish guests of next week. The effort is not merely perfunctory; there is heart and earnestness in it, and the determination is apparent to make the gathering one to be remembered, not only in its immediate success, but in the mapping out of a new programme of action for Irish patriots, which will give to the locality of the famous "Tea Party" of old another incident in the direction of national liberty to be a landmark of history. "Ireland's Independence Day—When" has been a question with Irish patriots on every recurring Fourth of July, and has been resolved for Old Faneuil Hall, standing almost under the shadow of Bunker Hill, to initiate a policy that may lead to speedy solution.

The grand old hall, sacred to so many associations of human progress, is being appropriately decorated, each State and Territory and the Canadian provinces will be assigned separate accommodations, and to avoid any grumbings on the score of priority or favoritism the disposition will take place by ballot. The local branches of the League, while not undertaking to anticipate the proceedings of the convention or dictate to the national delegates, will be prepared to submit to the committee on amended organization and resolutions an amended and progressive plan for future work; and this will embrace, so far as it can be done with expediency, a cutting loose from the cant of constitutional agitation and the adoption of a declaratory demand for Irish Home Rule pure and simple, with "the golden link of the Crown" recognized with some qualifications and limitations of the existing bond, but with the cry of "Ireland for the Irish" as the guiding motto of the amended platform. Of course this will be open to discussion in Canada, and perhaps opposition for safety sake in an open convention, but that it will be the prevailing spirit of nine-tenths of the representative Irishmen assembled, there can be no doubt. Indeed, it would not be going too far to say that the unanimous feeling will be in that direction.

to say that the unanimous feeling will be in that direction.

The delegates from long distances will begin to arrive here early as Sunday or Monday forenoon, and there are ample preparations for their reception and information. I have already sent you the tariff of charges specially arranged for at the leading hotels. The literary and scientific and social organizations of the Hub are vying each with the other in effort to exhibit courtesy and hospitality to their Irish guests. Libraries, museums and clubs are to be open to visitors of the League. A large number of individuals, too—and some of these are real downright Yankees—do not hesitate to express of sympathy in this Irish movement. The delegates will be all well received. Members of the Old Guard of the Fenian times will be on hand to receive old-time associates, and special preparations are in progress for special honor to Sexton and Redmond, as the direct missionaries from home and the accredited representatives of Charles S. Parnell.

A LETTER FROM ALFRED WEBB.

THE RELATIONS BETWEEN DAVITT AND PARNELL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The following letter, on the alleged dissension between Parnell and Davitt, has been addressed to the New York Sun by Mr. Alfred Webb, a prominent Irish Nationalist in Dublin:—

To the Editor of the Sun.—Sir:—For many years I have been a not inactive observer of Irish politics. I sat for several months on the committee of the National League with Mr. Parnell and Mr. Davitt. I see Mr. Davitt constantly, and we are in the habit of talking over public affairs. He is the least factious of any man I ever knew, and I never heard him say anything disrespectful of Mr. Parnell. It is, therefore, with very great astonishment that I read in your columns of "war to the knife between Mr. Davitt and Mr. Parnell," that "the quarrel between Messrs. Parnell and Davitt has assumed serious proportions," &c. We on this side are quite unconscious of such a quarrel, and if such news is sent to you as true, all I can say is that there must be some very great mistake somewhere. Those who elevate ordinary differences of opinion, such as inevitably prevail between leaders in all great causes, into "war to the knife" or the like, are incurring a very serious moral responsibility.

[Mr. Parnell, like most of us here, goes in for peasant propriety. He did right at Drogheda in putting down his foot regarding the question. Mr. Davitt more or less favors Mr. George's views. He has a perfect right to his opinions, and a perfect right to put them forward. I challenge any one to show that he has put them forward contentiously or in a factious spirit. Since Mr. Parnell has expressed his, it appears to me that Mr. Davitt has studiously avoided obtruding even discussion of the question.

Mr. Parnell, as chairman of the Land Purchasing Company, in which I hold a considerable number of shares, concluded the purchase of a certain estate for migration purposes. Mr. Davitt thought the price too high and said so. Mr. Baldwin explained, and I have not seen that Mr. Davitt has factiously followed the matter up. Surely Mr. Davitt has a right to give the public the benefit of his opinion upon such a matter. And Irish public opinion is not now a plant of such tender growth that it will not bear a little healthy difference of opinion.

No Irish patriot stands deservedly higher before the world than Mr. Davitt. No Irish patriot has ever effected more for his country than Mr. Parnell. I need only refer to the letter written by Mr. Davitt from prison enclosing his subscription to the Parnell fund upon the appearance of the Parnell letter to show what one man thinks of the other. I need only refer to Mr. Davitt's letter declining a memorial or subscription a few months ago, to show that he did not think a memorial subscription to Mr. Parnell uncalled for.

One would think it should be the object of lovers of their country to make the least instead of the most of inevitable differences. The character of neither Mr. Davitt nor Mr. Parnell can be impugned or lowered without lowering and discouraging the self-respect and hopes of Ireland. Neither require my advocacy, and both of them will, I am sure, stand higher in the estimation of their countrymen by refusing in any way to come forward "to clear" themselves from unfounded accusations made by anonymous writers. Very sincerely yours,

ALFRED WEBB,
74 Abbey street, Dublin, July 22.

AN EARTHQUAKE.

THE NORTHERN STATES GET A SHAKING UP—SCENES AT NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—A few minutes after 2 p.m. this city and vicinity was startled by an earthquake, lasting ten seconds. The sensation caused by it was so unusual and the shock so pervading that universal panic seized the population. The first impression which took possession of the people was that the houses were about to fall. They ran into the streets terror-stricken and with blanched faces, only to discover that all their neighbors were rushing out amazed and panic-stricken like themselves. The first intimation of the earthquake was a low rumbling sound, followed by a shock like that of a violent explosion, which caused the buildings to quiver. The rattling continued about eight seconds. The effect of the jar was much more perceptible in houses of light structure. In many instances a clearly defined rocking movement was felt, and dishes were shaken from the shelves. No damage of any kind, has been reported. So far as ascertained the shock was entirely imperceptible on the water and no tidal waves were observed here. A number of windows and ceilings were cracked. The shock was most perceptibly felt in the district bounded by 125th and 132nd streets and Third and Fourth avenues. Men, women and children rushed screaming from their homes, coatless and hatless. Police Captain Petty says he noticed three distinct shocks. When the rumbling noise was heard, the utmost excitement prevailed in the thickly populated tenement houses. The inmates blocked the stairways in a mad rush for the street, windows were broken, crockery smashed and policemen called to preserve order. The great TOWERS OF BROOKLYN BRIDGE OSCILLATED visibly, while the bridge rocked as if struck by a hurricane. At the iron steamboat pier the motion was so violent that the ticket-takers rushed from the offices. Large crowds at Central Park were thrown into a state of violent excitement by the shaking and the strange rumbling in the ground. Animals in the menagerie were frightened. There was a panic at the large hotels on the island, guests making a general rush for the open air. At Long Branch the earthquake loudly frightened the people; one lady was thrown out of bed, and persons who were bathing alone they felt a slight electric shock.

A SECOND SHOCK WAS FELT at the Atlantic Highlands, N.J., but was less violent than the first. The severest shock was reported from Seabright, N.J., where the depot was shifted, mixing up the contents and alarming the inmates. At Long Branch the jars of the battery in the telegraph office were overturned and communication interrupted. In Brooklyn the streets were alive with people who had come out to ascertain the cause of the rocking. One scientist, upon the first perceptible motion, took out a stop watch and

TIMED THE VIBRATIONS.
 He reported that the shock began as nearly as could be determined at 2.06.50, that the first shock lasted 10 seconds, and the "quieting down" took nearly 50 seconds more. At Trenton the shock was timed at 2.05, while at more southerly points it was felt at 2.10. Coney Island was thoroughly shaken and the visitors greatly alarmed, the fright in some cases amounting to a panic.

IN BROOKLYN, people living over working about the oil works located on the shore of Newtown Creek fled, thinking an explosion had occurred there. All the fire companies harnessed their horses in readiness to respond to an alarm of fire, which they thought would follow. The sensation experienced on the receiving ship Vermont lying at the navy yard was similar to that felt when a broadside was discharged. Many Sunday schools were in session at the time, and the teachers had in some instances great difficulty in allaying the terror of the children and preventing a panic. From reports it appears the earthquake visited that region with greater severity than in Brooklyn. From Rockaway to Long Beach the shock was very violent and the vibrations seemed to increase as they travelled inward. In Jamaica the vibrations lasted for 10 seconds and the chimneys on several houses toppled over. In Long Island City, Flushing, Whitestone and College Point the trembling of the ground was distinctively felt.

ELSEWHERE.
 Perceptible shocks were felt at Stamford, Bridgeport and Shefford and Waterbury, Conn. At Cleveland, O., the shock was plainly but sharply felt. At Bordentown, N.J., the vibration lasted half a minute. At Philadelphia and Allentown, Pa., the shock was severe, and at Boston six distinct shocks were felt.

LONG ISLAND CITY, Aug. 11.—The earthquake yesterday cracked the walls of the church at Jamaica, the openings being one to two inches in width and extending from the roof to the foundation. A colored camp meeting near Jamaica was broken up by the shock. Those in attendance were praying at the time. They jumped up shouting and ran to their homes.

HARTFORD, Ct., Aug. 11.—Reports from Norwalk say a moderate shock of earthquake was noticed in several places at 11 on Sunday night, much lighter than in the afternoon.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Another shock of earthquake was felt in the villages along the south side of Long Island this afternoon, not so heavy as yesterday, but sufficient, with the rumbling which accompanied it, to create excitement.

HAVERHILL, N.H., Aug. 11.—A shock of earthquake was sensibly felt this morning on Mount Washington. The shock jingled chandelier pendants, opened inside blinds, and awakened people from their slumbers.

RICHMOND, Aug. 11.—The earthquake in the surrounding counties shook the ground; in some cases the destruction of buildings was threatened.

CARDINAL McCABE'S LETTER ON THE CORNWALL SCANDAL.

DUBLIN, Aug. 6.—The papers of this city are generally disposed to give respectful attention to the pastoral letter, which Archbishop McCabe promulgated yesterday, urging the press to suppress the details of the Cornwall and similar trials. Several newspaper proprietors are willing to suppress everything, but a mere mention from time to time of the progress of the trials, but they fear that in that case those papers which see fit to publish long accounts will get the most readers. On the other hand, many papers, which have their circulation chiefly or wholly among Catholics, fear that unless they heed the Archbishop's warning, the readers will desert or boycott them, as suggested in the pastoral letter. Under these circumstances all the publishers agree that an unity of action is very desirable, and they are now parleying with a view of uniting in a pledge as to their action. A printed agreement, which pledges the signers to publish nothing but formal and uniform statements of the progress of the cases, is in circulation and has already been signed by several publishers. It is probable that most of the respectable papers will finally come into this agreement, leaving the daily dose of filth to be dashed up, only by the "Penny dreadfuls," which are already practically under the ban of the church.

SPOILATION OF CHURCHES IN ROME.

THE DOMINICANS AND FRANCISCANS—GIVEN FROM THEIR CONVENTS—A CHATELAIN RECRATED.

ROME, July 28.—The Government has ordered the general of the Dominicans to vacate his apartments in the convent on the left of the Minerva. The new general is a Portuguese, and the Italian Government refuses to give him a residence. The headquarters of the order will be in a house adjoining the church, between the Piazza del Collegio Romano and the Piazza della Minerva. It has bought the property.

The Franciscans have been driven from the Araceli Convent. This historical pile is to be destroyed to make room for the monument to Victor Emmanuel. The General and his assistants have gone to a newly built convent on the via Merulana, between St. John of Lateran and Sta. Maria Maggiore. The Convent of St. Mary, in Araceli, was formerly a Benedictine convent. Pope Innocent IV. turned it to the Franciscans in 1250. In 1447, when Pope Sixtus IV. turned it over to the Minori, a distinctive branch of the Franciscan order, and they made it the residence of their prior. Paul III., who favored the Capuchin order, built a palace next to the convent connecting it with the convent of St. Mark by a viaduct. Pope Julius III. lived in this palace, and finally gave it to the monks. Sixtus V. confirmed the gift forever by a bull. In the reign of Clement XII. a Portuguese nobleman embellished the convent, Portugal paying the expense. When the Italians took possession of Rome there were 69 Franciscan priests, and 36 lay brothers in the convent. They were expelled from it. Twelve or fifteen returned and remained there with the General up to the present time.

These, however, are not the only robberies committed by the King. The Pauline Chapel of the Quirinal has been desecrated. It was constructed by Maderno, and dedicated by Paul V., but ever since the occupation of Rome by Victor Emmanuel, in 1870, it has remained untouched. Now, however, Humbert has ordered it transferred into a museum, in which the flags, wreaths, and parchments brought to Rome in the national Victor Emmanuel pilgrimage are to be deposited. Catholics comment bitterly on this desecration. The chapel is decorated with rich marbles and fine paintings. It was always used for the adoration of new Popes in the conclaves. Pope Leo XIII., Pius VIII., Gregory XVI., and Pius IX. were proclaimed in this chapel.

THE CORNWALL CRIMINALS.

ARRAIGNMENT OF THE PRISONERS—PLEAS OF NOT GUILTY ENTERED—THE TRIAL ADMORSED ON FRENCH'S ACCOUNT.

DUBLIN, Aug. 11.—There was a dramatic and unique scene at the Court of Queen's Bench, when C. Cornwall, Jas. F. French, Dr. Fernandez, James Pihlar, Charles Little, Captain Kirwan, and Malcolm Johnson were called up to plead to the indictment charging them with unnatural offences. The prisoners had been arrested separately, and met for the first time since their incarceration in the felon's dock.

Their manner exhibited a marked contrast. Cornwall maintained the utmost self-possession. He seemed cool, calm and collected and had a smile on his face. He was dressed with scrupulous care, and his grey moustache was carefully waxed and twisted. He bowed to the judge, and his carriage throughout was that of a man thoroughly at ease. James Pihlar seemed utterly unmoved. His face was pale and his lips colorless and tremulous. He stood with difficulty and with his head bowed down. French had all the

OUTWARD APPEARANCE OF A LUNATIC.

His hair was unkempt, his beard unshaved, his eyes wild and his mouth drivelling. It is said by the Parnellites that in these appearances the prisoner was shamming to avoid the consequences of his crime. The indictment was read. It not only charged the prisoners with specific acts of crime on particular occasions; but also with conspiracy to commit the same with others not in custody. When called upon to plead to the indictment, all the prisoners pleaded not guilty, except French, who appeared quite unconscious of the scene going on around him. Finding it was impossible to obtain any answer from him, it was moved that the medical experts engaged in the case should have farther opportunity of considering their decision as to his sanity, and counsel requested that the trial be postponed for some days in order that during the interval French might be closely watched, and a clear medical certificate given of his

SANITY OR INSANITY.

The court granted the motion and the trial was adjourned until the 10th inst. In the meantime French will be carefully watched by the doctors in the case, and if they conclude that he is shamming, the court will order a plea of not guilty to be entered in his name. With a view to the protection of the public morality, having regard to the horrible nature of the details of the case, the court will probably sit in camera, and neither the press nor the public will be admitted.

AN INFORMER'S STORY.

DUBLIN, Aug. 11.—The informer Casey declares that neither Myles Joyce nor the four men now serving sentences were present at the Macrauns murder. He asserts that he was compelled to swear falsely by Crown Solicitor Bolton. Bolton told him that if he did not swear as he did, he would be tried himself and surely be hanged. Casey's brother-in-law, Phibbin, corroborates the statements and declares that Bolton induced him to perjure himself. Bolton, in an interview to-day, declared the whole story a fabrication.

LOVE AND MONEY

BY CHARLES READE. Author of "It's Never Too Late to Mend," "Orphan's Quest," "The Hard Cash," "Put Yourself in His Place," &c., &c.

And now a higher class of visitors began to find their way to the general factory. The first was a fair young lady of surpassing beauty.

But she did not herself intend our readers to feel it so, or we would not spend so much time over it. But as regards that one adjective, Mr. Monckton is a better authority than we are.

1. That Colonel Clifford resumed his determination to marry Julia Clifford to Walter, and postponed Fitzroy entirely, declaring him five feet nothing and therefore far below the military standard.

2. That Hope rented a cottage from Walker about three hundred yards from the mine, and had a long detached building hard by, which Walter divided for him, and turned into an office with a large window close to the ground, and a workshop with a doorway and an aperture for a window, but no window nor door.

3. That Hope got more and more uneasy about the matter, and the reason of his uneasiness was that he felt that he must be robbing somebody of it without the excuse they once had. He, for his part, would work to disgorge his share.

4. Hope went to London for a week, and Mary spent four days with her husband at the hotel near the lake, and the one left by Mr. Easton's sister. This change was by advice of Mrs. Easton. On this occasion Mary played the woman.

5. Hope went to London for a week, and Mary spent four days with her husband at the hotel near the lake, and the one left by Mr. Easton's sister. This change was by advice of Mrs. Easton.

case as a dog in the manger (who grudgingly Barley the profits of a risky investment he had merely sneered at and not opposed, until it turned out well; and also disregarded the interests of the little community to whom the mine was a boon.

No," said Hope, "tell your lawyer that I am Barley's servant, but love equity. I have proposed to Barley to follow me, and when the seam of coal under Colonel Clifford's park. We have no business there. So if the hell-gate will hear reason I will make Barley pay a royalty on every ton that comes to the surface from any part of the mine; and that will be $1,200 a year to the Cliffords. Take this to the lawyer and tell him to unfix that hero's bayonet, or he will charge at the double and be the death of his own money—and yours."

Walter threw up his hands with amazement and admiration. "What a head!" said he. "Fiddledee!" said Mary; "what a heart!"

"In a word, a phoenix," said Hope, dryly. "Praise is sweet, especially behind one's back. So pray go on, unless you have something better to say to each other." and Hope retired briskly into his office.

"Of course it is," said she. "But I know it is the time of day when you are kind to anybody that comes, and need not be afraid of them. I would not mind them for their impudence in wasting your time so. And I am as bad as the rest. For here I am wasting your time in my turn. Yes, dear Mr. Hope, you are so kind to everybody and mend their things. I want you to be kind to me and mend—my prospects for me."

"Your prospects, Miss Bartley! Why, they are brilliant. I refer to all the growing wealth of the country, and the new money that is being made. 'Wealth and power!' said the girl. 'What is the use of them, if our hearts are not broken?' Oh, Mr. Hope, papa is so unkind, he has forbidden me to speak to him. Then, gravely, 'That command comes too late.' 'I have long suspected something of the kind,' said Hope. 'I have long suspected something of the kind,' said Hope.

"That you and Mr. Clifford—" "Yes," said Mary, trembling inwardly, but commanding her face. "Are engaged." "What makes you think so?" said she, looking inquiringly.

"Well there is a certain familiarity—no, that is too strong a word; but there is more ease between you than there was. Ever since I came back from Belgium I have seen that the preliminary of a suit of love, and you two looked at yourselves as one." "Mr. Hope," said this good, arch girl, and left off panting, "you are a terrible man. Papa is eyes and no eyes. You frighten me; but not very much, for you would not watch me so closely if you did not love me—a little."

"Not a little, Miss Bartley." "Mary," I have seen you a sickly child; I have been anxious—who would not? I have seen you grow health and strength, and every virtue." "And seen me tumble into the water and frighten you out of your senses, and there's nothing more to be said about that, especially if she were to die." "Mr. Hope, I have seen you a sickly child; I have been anxious—who would not? I have seen you grow health and strength, and every virtue."

"I suppose you know we have done a contemptible thing—listening."

"Well," said Walter, "it wasn't good form," but," added he, "we could hardly help it."

"Of course not," said Mary. "We have been guilty of a concealment that drives us into holes and corners, and all manner of meanness must be expected to follow. Well, we have listened; and I am very glad of it. We have got secrets. Now, tell me please, what does it all mean?"

"Well, Mary," said Walter, "to tell the truth it isn't all Greek to me, except about the money. I think I could give a guess where that came from."

"There, now!" cried Mary; "that is so like you gentlemen. Money—money—money! Never mind the money part; leave that to the care of itself. Can you explain what is a Hope's superior man, and papa's adviser in business. But, after all, he is in papa's employment. Papa pays him. Then how comes he to care more about my happiness than papa does—and say so?"

"Why, you begged him to intercede."

"Did you ever hear tell of such a thing?" "Well, now you put it to me, I don't think I ever did."

"And yet you could run off about money. What's money! This compact is a great mystery. It's my business from this hour to a month that mystery. Please let me think."

"Mary's face now began to show great power and intensity; her eyes seemed to veil themselves, and to turn their glances inward. 'What was struck with the intensity of that fair brow those remarkable eyes, and that beautiful face; they seemed now to be all strung up to concert pitch. He kept silent and looked at his wife with a certain reverence, for to tell the truth she had something of the Pythian priestess about her, when she concentrated her whole mind upon any one thing in this remarkable manner. At last the oracle spoke: 'Mr. Hope has been deceiving me with some good intention. He pretends to be subservient to papa, but he is the master. How he comes to be master I don't know; but so it is, Walter. If it came to a battle royal, Mr. Hope would side, not with papa, but with me.' 'That's important, if true,' returned Walter, dryly. 'It's true,' said Mary, 'and it's important. Then she turned suddenly round on him. 'How did you feel when you ran into that workshop and saw your father, and hid like criminals or slaves?' 'Well,' said Walter, hanging his head, 'to tell the truth, I took a comic view of the business.' 'I can't do that,' said Mary. 'I respect my husband, and can't bear him to hide from the face of any mortal man; and I am proud of my own love, and indignant to think that I have condescended to hide it.' 'It is a shame,' said Walter, 'and I hope we shan't have to hide it much longer. Oh, brother, how unfortunate! here's my father. What are we to do?' 'I'll tell you,' said Mary, resolutely. 'You must speak to him at once, and win him over to our side. Tell him Julia is going to marry Percy Fitzroy on the first of next month; then tell him all that Mr. Hope said you were to tell the lawyer; and then tell him what you have made me believe that you love me better than your life, and that I love you better still; and that no power can part us. If you can soften him, Mr. Hope shall soften papa.' 'But if he is too headstrong to be softened,' faltered Walter. 'Then,' said Mary, 'you must defy my papa, and I shall defy yours.' After a moment's thought, she said: 'Walter, I shall stay here till he sees me and you together; then he won't be able to run off about his mines, and his lawsuits, and such rubbishy things. His attention will be attracted to our love, and so you will have to do with him, whilst I retire a little way—not far—and meditate upon Mr. Hope's strange words, and ponder over many things that have happened with my recollection.' True to this policy, the spirited girl waited till Colonel Clifford came on the green, and then made Walter as perfect a comrade as ever graced a minutet at the court of Louis le Grand. Walter took off his hat to her with chivalric grace and respect. Colonel Clifford drew up in a stiff military attitude, which favored rather of the parade or the field of battle than the court either of the great monarch or of little Cupid. CHAPTER XV.—THE SECRET IN DANGER. 'Ham!' said the Colonel, dryly; 'a petticoat!' 'Et cetera,' suggested Walter, meekly; and we think he was right, for a petticoat has never in our day been the only garment worn by females, nor even the most characteristic; fishermen wear petticoats, and don't wear bonnets. 'Who is she, sir?' asked the grim Colonel. 'Your niece, father,' said Walter, meekly. 'And the most beautiful girl in the county.' 'The Colonel snorted, but didn't condescend to go into the question of beauty. 'Why did my niece retire at sight of me?' was his insidious inquiry. 'Well,' said Walter, meekly, 'the truth is, some mischief-making folk has been telling her that you have lost all natural affection for your dear sister's child. The stout Colonel staggered for a moment, snorted, and turned it on your back. 'You and she are very often together, it seems.' 'All the better for me,' said Walter, stoutly. 'And all the worse for me,' retorted the Colonel. 'And as men gravitate toward their leading grievance, he went off at a tangent. 'What do you think my feelings must be, to see my son, my only son, spoiling the daughter of my only enemy; of a knave who got on my land on pretense of farming it, but instead of that he burrowed under it, like a mole, sir; and now the place is filled with coal dust, the roads are black, the sheep are black, the daisies, and on your nose, turning black. There's a snout on your nose, Walter. I forbid you to spoon his daughter, upon pain of a father's curse. My real niece, Julia, is a lady, and an heiress, and the beauty of the county. She is the girl I mean.' 'Oh, Walter,' said the Colonel, indignantly, 'you have been talking about the seventh commandment.' 'Inquired, Walter, putting his hands in his pockets, as if he were counting. 'In our walk of life it's the man's fault if the woman falls out of the ranks.' 'That's not what I mean,' said Walter. RELIGIOUS PROFESSIONS.

Impressive Ceremonies at the Convent of Jesus and Mary, Hochelaga.—Taking the Veil—Four Young Ladies Make Their First and Twenty-one Their Final Vows. —The Clergymen Present at the Ceremonies.—The Music by the Sisters.

The impressive ceremony of the Taking of the Veil was performed at the Convent of Jesus and Mary, Hochelaga, on Tuesday week, the Rev. Father Desjardins, S. J., officiating. There were also present the Rev. Fathers Fortier, Dorval and Caissac. The following are the names of the young ladies who took the veil:

Miss Ellen McGovern, in religion St. Mary Benedict; Miss Melanie Lacroix, in religion St. Jean Faumont; Malvina Dagenais, in religion St. Marie de Bon Secours; Eustasie in religion St. Marguerite de Corcoran; Adeline Duplessis, in religion St. Marie-Anne; Agathe Blanchette, in religion St. Anne; Marie; Ailida Perron, in religion St. Marie; Marie; Vitalie Maynard, in religion St. Marie; Elmore; Elmire Routhier, in religion St. Marie Zozime.

When the impressive ceremony was over, thirty-three young ladies, coming from the adjacent houses of the Order scattered over Canada and the United States, applied for admission, and were received into the institution by the worthy and highly esteemed Father. Father Desjardins then delivered a brilliant sermon on the virtues which should be practised during the time of the novitiate, and his eloquent remarks were duly appreciated by his pious listeners. The same reverend father also conducted a ten days' retreat in the Convent, which was participated in by three hundred Nuns from different houses of the Order, who generally unite for a couple of weeks during the vacation. The retreat closed yesterday morning and was immediately followed by the imposing ceremony of the taking of the veil.

Again this morning the Convent of Jesus and Mary at Hochelaga, which has long and justly enjoyed a world-wide reputation for its excellence, and which has always been spreading its usefulness over the entire continent, was the scene of another very impressive ceremony, when His Lordship the Right Rev. Bishop of Montreal received the first vows of four and the final vows of twenty-one young ladies. His Lordship was assisted by the Rev. Father Tassé, curé of Longueuil, the Rev. Father Jasmin, curé of Beauport, among other members of the clergy present being the Rev. Father J. C. Casse, chaplain of the Convent; Rev. Father P. L. Huet, chaplain of the Longueuil Convent; Rev. Father N. Fortier, superior of the Levis College; Rev. Father J. Primeau, curé of Boisville; Rev. Father J. B. P. Primeau, curé of Archibald; Rev. Father D. Casse, curé of St. Sulpice; Rev. S. P. Lorange, curé of Notre Dame de Bon Conseil; Rev. Father L. Duhamel, curé at St. Pie; Rev. Father C. Duprat, curé of Father Donnelly; Rev. Father E. Moreau, curé of St. Arthemi; Rev. Father Prud'homme, curé of Epiphany; Rev. Father Adam, curé of Hochelaga; Rev. Father St. Louis, curé of Waterloo, and Rev. Father Piette.

The following are the names of the young ladies who made their vows in religion:—

First Vows—Sister Marie de St. Joseph, Sister Marie Evariste, Sister Marie Lybie, Sister Marie Casimir.

Final Vows—Sister Marie Ernest, Sister Marie Frs. de Paul, Sister Marie de la Parition, Sister Marie Louis, Sister Marie Catherine de Sumer, Sister Marie Camille Telle, Sister Marie Marie, Sister Marie Justine, Sister Marie Francis Xavier, Sister Marie Emeraude, Sister Marie Conge, Sister Marie du Scapulaire, Sister Marie Pierre Damuzis, Sister Marie Agnès, Sister Marie Joseph d'Arin, Sister Marie Guillaume, Sister Marie Cesarie, Sister Marie Cosarine, Sister Marie Suzanne, Sister Marie Lazare, Sister Marie Germain.

The music on these occasions was under the direction of the Sisters of the Convent, and was executed in a manner rarely equalled. The instruments used were an organ, two pianos, two horns and two guitars. Lambert's Laudis Sura, a Consecration to the Sacred Heart, and the opening and final marches were particularly well rendered, and drew forth the most favorable comment from all who had the good fortune of being listeners. There were many friends of the young ladies present, besides the rev. gentlemen whose names are given above, and the music by the good Sisters of the institution was well calculated to produce a lasting impression upon them all.

We have already, in previous articles, given a fair idea of the extent and usefulness of this magnificent Convent, and there is very little left for us to say now. Our readers can easily judge for themselves, from items which appear from time to time in THE POST, of the vast amount of good which is constantly being accomplished by the Sisters of this Convent, and the fact that 23 young ladies applied for and obtained admission to the institution only yesterday is a sufficient illustration of its superiority. May the good Sisters live long to spread their usefulness over the world.

A FRENCH INFIDEL IN A MONASTERY.

The New York Tribune says: "Much comment was lately excited by M. Franquise Sarcey going to a monastery hospital for surgical treatment, after making himself notorious by his animosity towards the Church and all its institutions. He devoted the first article he wrote on returning work to an 'explanation' of his course. 'Yes,' he says, 'I go to the Monastery of Les Frères de France. I went there without being compelled, because it pleased me, because I thought it ought to go; and now I believe that I did right. I will say more; I left the monks treated with gratitude for the good grace and good humor of their devotedness. They are model nurses, and one of them, Frère François, is more than a nurse; he is an intelligent, learned and amiable man. If I were to be pressed, I would even say that they appeared to me to be disinterested. Everything that I asked for beyond the ordinary rules, whether in food or attention, I obtained without extra charge. In fine, my feeling is one of gratitude towards those excellent brothers; and my suspicion is now removed; that the brilliant article in 'on the road to Damascus.'"

The Forty Hours' Devotion commenced at Ste. Cecile de Valleyfield yesterday.

The anniversary service for the two sons of Chief of Police Paradis, who were drowned at Yamaska, will be chanted in St. James' Church, on Friday next. The Pilgrim of Palestine is the title of a new paper which has just made its appearance. It is established in connection with the Committee of the Holy Land, lately founded in New York by the Franciscan Fathers under the auspices of His Eminence Cardinal McCloskey. The Pilgrim of Palestine, which will be issued quarterly at the low price of 25 cents a year, contains much interesting reading relative to the Holy Land. It is well printed on fine paper, and is a model of neatness in the make-up. On the first page is a beautiful illustration of the Chapel of the Holy Sepulchre of Jesus Christ, and if the first number is a sample of what may be expected in future, we have no doubt that this new paper will meet with a hearty reception at the hands of the Catholic people.

On Sunday a plain chant Mass was celebrated in Notre Dame Church, under the direction of the Rev. Father Desrosiers, in the most touching manner. At the Offertory Mr. J. S. Dubois, a French-Canadian from Detroit, who is spending a few days in Montreal, sang in an admirable manner Damus, Ave Maria with an organ accompaniment by his professor, a Mr. Elliott, who is said to be one of the best musicians in the States. Mr. Dubois is a fine tenor singer. His voice, which produced the best effect, could be heard without any effort in all parts of the church. Messrs. Elliott and Dubois greatly admired the church, the largest and perhaps the richest on the continent. They also admired the organ.

The beautiful little chapel at Valois presented, yesterday, a spectacle at once pleasing and edifying. The Rev. Father Connolly, S. J., at the invitation of Mr. L. J. R. Valois, conducted services in English morning and evening. The Vespers in the afternoon, which were followed by a sermon and Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament, were attended by a large congregation, quite a large number of people of all denominations being present from the city, attracted thither by the advents which this delightful summer resort so favored by nature affords. The little chapel was completely filled, and many were obliged to stand outside the door during the service. The sermon, which was delivered in the most eloquent terms, was listened to throughout with the greatest attention. The music was executed with much taste by the Valois family, who were assisted by several vocalists from amongst their English friends.

On Tuesday, 5th inst., Sister Jean de la Croix, superiress of the Mission of the Sisters of Providence at Fort Vancouver, Washington Territory, left the mother house on Ste. Catherine street in this city, in company with six Nuns and two young postulants for that place. The names of the Sisters who accompanied the superiress to the far West are Sister Joseph du Sacre Coeur, Sister Wilbrod, Sister Félicité, Sister Agapite, Sister Adrienne, Sister Hilairion and Miss Blanchette, of Ste. Flavie, Quebec, and Miss Béraud, of Louisville, who will finish their novitiate there. The first mission was established at Fort Vancouver, Washington Territory, in 1852, and since that date no less than fourteen other missions have been established. Four are devoted to the work of educating the Indian children; ten are used as hospitals, and the remaining four as educational institutions for the training of young ladies. A novitiate has been established at Fort Vancouver, where twenty-five young ladies have already made their final vows. The total number of sisters now engaged in the work in the West is 98, and it is expected that several other missions will be established before the close of the present year.

VICE-REGAL SWINE

A PIGGERY SAID TO BE ESTABLISHED AT RIDEAU HALL.

A correspondent, under the somewhat hoggish monosyllable, "Grunt," requests the Free Press to give publicity to the fact that a piggery has recently been established at Rideau Hall. It contains seven large swine. The correspondent states that those people in New Edinburgh, and the hands employed about the gubernatorial residence who in the past have been given the surplus skinned milk do not at all relish the idea that henceforth the gratuitous and very acceptable offerings are to be discontinued, and that "a horde of pigs are to be fed on the milk." "Grunt" thinks it is something disgraceful that the poor people should be deprived of the surplus, and that a pigsty should be established at the Hall. He relates that when a certain official of the house asked one high in authority if any milk was to spare after the pigs had been supplied should it be given away to outsiders, but "throw what was not required into the gutter."—Free Press.

A STORMY SCENE IN THE FRENCH-CANADIAN CONVENTION.

ALBANY, Aug. 6.—The proceedings of the national convention of French-Canadian to-day were uninteresting in the main until the announcement by the presiding officer that the governor had invited the body to visit him at the executive chamber. This created a perfect fever of excitement, many delegates construing it as an insult and an attempt to curtail political favor. After a heated discussion the convention took recess with a motion to accept the invitation and an amendment declaring the acceptance without political significance still pending. After the adjournment about half of the body called on the governor.

A DOUBLE DUEL IN TEXAS.

AN ACCOUNT OF A SAVAGE AND DEADLY FIGHT BETWEEN FOUR DESPERADOES.

FREDONIA, Tex., Aug. 9.—A fierce combat occurred Monday evening ten miles north of this village between four desperate characters who happened to meet near the line between San Saba and Mason Counties. Samuel Faulkner and Henry Allen attacked the two Woodall brothers, opening fire at short range with repeating rifles. The Woodalls, dismounting, retired behind their horses. Eight shots were rapidly fired by each side. Allen fell about the fifth round, pierced through the heart.

One of the Woodalls received a bullet in the shoulder near the neck, disabling him. The other Woodall and Faulkner then approached each other with bowie-knives drawn, and a fearful duel followed, both being skilled handlers of the weapons. The wounded Woodall, lying near by bleeding to death, urged his brother on in the deadly conflict. Faulkner, however, after a few sharp struggles, seized Woodall's left wrist and gave him a quick jerk, which brought him to his knees. As the man fell Faulkner plunged his knife into his just below the heart. No sooner had Faulkner triumphed over his enemy than he turned to look after Allen, his dead companion. As he did so he received a bullet in the breast from the pistol of the elder Woodall, who witnessed the duel while lying with his neck and shoulder split open by a rifle wound. Faulkner may recover, but both the Woodalls are dying. Mr. Burner, who tried to prevent the hostilities at their opening, received severe flesh-wounds in the arm. Burner and two other men saw the battle from the beginning, but dared not interfere.

Both the Woodalls soon became unconscious from loss of blood. Faulkner told one of the spectators that the fight was the result of an old feud in Arkansas.

FRANCE AND CHINA.

PARIS, Aug. 11.—M. Patenote, minister to China, in a note to the Chinese government at Peking, referring to the capture of Kelung, says it was not an act of war, and that the port will be returned to China when the indemnity is agreed on. Should China refuse to pay, the frontiers of Tonquin will be declared and the French squadron will bombard other ports, whether open to international commerce or not.

The London Times and Standard are convinced that a war is imminent between France and China, and both have already sent out special correspondents to cover the principal centres of news during the expected struggle.

THE CHINESE COMMISSION.—MR. VAN HORNE'S VISIT.

TORONTO, Aug. 7.—A special to the Globe from Victoria says:—Hon. J. A. Chapleau, chairman of the commission to investigate the Chinese question, arrived here to-day. They are accompanied by Mr. N. F. Davis, secretary, and Mr. L. R. Church, ex-treasurer of Quebec. The sittings of the commission will begin at once. The matter has excited no little interest here, and the commissioners will have every opportunity afforded them to secure evidence on the important question with which they are to deal.

Manager Van Horne, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, left Vancouver Island to-day for the mainland. The business now before him is the very important one of selecting a terminus for the road. The choice is between Coal Harbor and English Bay, both of which are on Burrard Inlet.

A NEW QUESTION.

A question, probably never raised before, namely, whether a lady more than 100 years old is not presumably of insufficient disposing mind, memory, and understanding to make a will, has been decided by the Civil Court of Lyons. The testatrix was Mme. Lacene, one of the most brilliant women of the Restoration. At her decease, when she died last December, in her 104th year, she owned estimated Mme. de Stael, Mme. Reomier, and Benjamin Constant. In 1873 she made a will, by which she left a great part of her fortune to the wife of the notary who drew it up. This will she revoked by a subsequent will in 1880, and divided all her property among nephews and nieces. The notary's family contended that at the extremely advanced age of 101, which she was in 1880, she could not have possessed testamentary capacity. The tribunal, however, was satisfied on the evidence that the contents of the will in the full enjoyment of her faculties, and established the will in favor of the legatees.

OBITUARY.

General Sir William John Corring is dead. Amalie Haizinger, the Austrian actress, is dead.

Miss Jessie Vokes, the well-known actress, is dead. She was a member of the versatile Vokes family and a thorough favorite with British playgoers.

Sir Erasmus Wilson, M.D., the well known English physician, is dead, aged 75. Deceased became a member of the Royal College of Surgeons in 1832, and founded the first chair of dermatology in the college in 1839. His first professional endeavors were directed to works on anatomy. He shortly took up the subject of diseases of the skin and made a specialty of it, his writings on which are voluminous.

The Right Rev. P. Cloughton, D.D., is dead. Piers Calvely Cloughton was born in 1814 and was a brother of the Bishop of St. Albans. He was for some years rector of Elton, and held the bishopric of St. Helena from 1859 to 1862, when he was transferred to Colombo, which latter See he resigned in 1870, on being appointed Archbishop of London and coadjutor to the bishop of that See, and a canon of St. Paul's. In 1875 he succeeded to the post of Chaplain-General to H. M. forces.

It is with deep regret that we are called upon to chronicle the death of Thomas Alfred Buchanan, son of Mr. Thomas Buchanan, provision inspector, which sad event occurred at the residence of his father, 688 Palace street, at an early hour on Saturday. The deceased, who had not yet reached his nineteenth year, was a most estimable young man and a general favorite with all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. Some three years ago, while attending college, he was attacked with congestion of the lungs, never completely recovering from the malady which eventually lapsed into consumption, the terrible scourge of the young, and to which our young friend fell a victim. To the friends of the deceased we extend our heartfelt sympathies in the sad bereavement that has overtaken them. The funeral will take place at 8.15 a.m. on Monday to St. Patrick's Church and from thence to the Côte des Neiges Cemetery.

The reception of a telegram from Valleyfield on Aug. 6th, conveying the sad intelligence that the Rev. Father F. D. Ethier, one of the Vicars of St. Bridget's Church, Montreal, had been drowned during the afternoon, spread the most profound sorrow throughout the parish and heads of St. Bridget's Parish and in fact over the whole city, as the young priest was well and favorably known amongst the Catholics of all the city parishes. Father Ethier had formerly acted as vicar at Valleyfield, and had only arrived on Tuesday on a ten days' visit to the reverend curé of Valleyfield, by whom he was always held in the highest esteem, and to whom the same feeling of friendship was returned by the late priest, when the sad accident occurred. The previous afternoon he went into the river to bathe with two young men, and it is thought that he was seized with cramps, as he disappeared suddenly and was not seen again alive, the body being recovered about half an hour afterwards. The steamer Bohemian brought the remains of the regretted young priest to this city to-day, and they were met at the wharf by the Rev. Fathers Pincault, Longeman, Kiernan and Dugas, and a great number of the parishioners of St. Bridget's parish. The funeral cortege was then formed and proceeded to St. Bridget's Church where the corpse was received by the Rev. Father Pincault and laid upon a rich catafalque covered with floral offerings of his grieving relatives and friends.

DEATH OF THE REV. FATHER CHEVIGNY.

The Rev. Father Marie Joseph Edmond Chevigny, departed a long and painful illness, after this life Friday morning at the presbytery of St. Augustine, of which parish the Rev. Father had been curé for the last five years. He was called to the priesthood in 1846, and consequently had sequentially exercised the ministry during thirty-eight years. He began his priestly career as professor in l'Assomption College, and subsequently filled the position of pastor of St. Henri de Mascouche, Ste. Anne du Bout de l'Île, and finally at St. Augustine. The deceased priest had reached the comparatively advanced age of 68 years.

The deceased Father, who was beloved by his congregation and esteemed by his fellow-priests, was a member of the Society of One Mass.

KILLED BY THE DOZEN.

WHOLESALE HANGING OF HORSE THIEVES BY YELLOWSTONE COUNTRY COWBOYS.

FORT KOGG, M.T., Aug. 7.—Between the Mussel Shell and Judith rivers are the most daring and powerful bands of horse thieves, regularly organized and captained, that have ever existed in Montana. For the past month horse thieves have been having things all their own way. In the Yellowstone country no less than twenty-three have been lynched during that time. Numerous steam boat woodwards all along the Missouri river are nothing more than nests and hiding places for the robbers, who are now known to be both white and red. Vigilance and safety committees are at last being organized to hunt the rascals down, and from reports coming in much good work is being done. Many telegraph poles and trees bear the bodies of white men, Indians, or half-breeds.

Mr. Reece Anderson was the first citizen to open the campaign, and with twenty-five cowboys belonging to Stuart & Kohn's Cattle Company, cleaned out in short order a nest of cattle-thieves, who infested the Mussel Shell and Lower Judith basin. Thirteen in all, including two half-breeds, were rounded up and hung. Anderson's party then purposed and overtook a number of horse-thieves, who were attempting to drive a large band of horses across the line into British territory. All the stock was recovered, but the eight thieves escaped into the Canadian possessions. Another band of cowboys captured at Rocky Point a few days ago a gang of five horse-thieves, recovering from them thirty-two head of horses. The five outlaws were then suspended from the nearest tree.

TERRIBLE SHOOTING AFFAIR.

ASTON, Tex., Aug. 7.—Near San Saba on Monday evening Samuel Faulkner and Henry Allan attacked two brothers named Woodall, opening fire with repeating rifles. The Woodalls retired behind their horses. Eight shots were fired on each side, when Allan fell pierced through the heart. One of the Woodalls received a bullet in the shoulder near the neck, disabling him. The other Woodall and Faulkner approached each other with bowie knives and a fearful duel followed. Faulkner after a few short struggles plunged his knife into the chest of Woodall, and the latter fell. The other Woodall, who witnessed the duel lying at his feet, was shot in the breast by the elder Faulkner, and fell. Both Woodalls were killed, and Faulkner and Allan were the victors. Faulkner received a severe flesh wound at Valleyfield, the cause of the duel.

IRISH NATIONALISTS IN QUEBEC.

THE GOOD WORK OF THE LEAGUE.

There was a numerously attended meeting of the Quebec branch of the Irish National League, at the Champlain Market Hall, the president, Mr. John P. Sutton, in the chair. Mr. Tucker, treasurer, read his report of the recent picnic, showing a net profit of two hundred and eight dollars.

One hundred and twenty-five dollars were voted as a contribution to the Parliamentary fund to be handed by the delegates to the treasurer of the League at Boston. After deducting the expenses of the delegates and the donations, there will remain about sixty dollars on hand. Exclusive of these amounts, the Branch has put up one hundred and fifty-one dollars membership dues during its nine months' existence. This is creditable work, but we hope that with the commencement of the second year in November next, every Irishman in Quebec will consider it his duty to be enrolled as a member of the League. He only is Irish that acts as an Irishman ought; and every Irishman's duty is to support Parnell. Before separating a series of resolutions were passed expressive of the deep disgust of Irishmen at the recent scandalous developments of Dublin Castle away. Before Canadians condemn the Irish leaguers let us ask ourselves honestly: "What would we do if Rideau Hall was a second Dublin Castle?" The Irish seek that responsible government which we possess, and he is not an honest man who denies to another the rights that he himself lays claim to. Success to the Irish cause say we! Messrs. Gallagher and Ryan, the delegates to the Boston convention, leave by the 4 p.m. train tomorrow evening. We wish them bon voyage and a successful mission.—Quebec Telegraph.

QUEBEC BRANCH IRISH NATIONAL LEAGUE.

At a meeting of the Quebec Branch of the Irish National League held in the Champlain Market Hall, the President, Mr. John P. Sutton, in the chair, the following resolutions were adopted unanimously:—

Moved by Mr. Michael Hurly, seconded by Mr. Jos. McDermott,—"Whereas, it has been proved that for years past Corry Connolly, a prominent official of Dublin Castle, exiled from his native land for Sabony has been for fifteen years the recipient of a pension of £488 per annum from the British Government while the said Government was fully cognizant of his crime; and Whereas, Gustavus S. Cornwall, head of the Post Office Department in Ireland, and James Ellis French, chief of the Detective Department, with many other English officials, are now in prison, charged with the same unnatural and nameless offence; and Whereas, the English Government has used every available means to protect these bestial instruments of its tyranny and shield them from the justice of outraged humanity; therefore,

Be it resolved—That the members of the Quebec Branch of the Irish National League of America do hereby protest against the continuance of English rule in Ireland, and that we pledge ourselves in common with our countrymen all over the world to labor unceasingly to overthrow a system of irresponsible tyranny so outrageous in conception, that sodonites, perjurers and adulterers are considered proper mediums for the administration of law in Ireland.

And be it further resolved—That the Quebec Branch of the Irish National League of America do hereby offer their heartfelt thanks to Wm. O'Brien, Esq., M.P., for his courage and perseverance in exposing to the world the horrible rottenness, and putrid immorality that so long flourished under the proteging wings of Dublin Castle; and that the secretary be ordered to send a copy of the foregoing resolutions to Mr. O'Brien, and also to the Daily Telegraph for publication.

J. GALLAGHER, Secretary.

PICNIC OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCHES OF CHATHAM AND WALLACEBURG, ONT.

Tuesday week the joint picnic of the Catholic churches of Wallaceburg and Chatham was held with great eclat, and the auspices of Fathers Ryan and Wall, and the Rev. Father O'Neil. Over three thousand people were on the grounds, including excursionists from Chatham, Dresden, Marine City, Algonac, St. Clair, and elsewhere. The Chatham Excelsiors and the St. Clair bands played during the day. Meals were served in the grove. After dinner all hands adjourned to inspect the immense water wheel when in action in its work of draining five thousand five hundred acres in the gore of Chatham. The wheel is twenty-eight and a-half feet in diameter, and lifts three hundred and thirty-five tons of water per minute. It is the invention of Mr. Pike, of the Coopage Company, Chatham.

Afterwards a contest for a gold watch and chain, between Mrs. E. J. Roach, of Chatham, and Mrs. D. Duggan, of Wallaceburg, resulted in the election of the former by a large majority. The speaking was necessarily curtailed on account of the rain, but Dr. Mitchell, the chairman, had the pleasure of securing an eloquent and brilliant address from Mr. J. J. Hawkins, ex-M.P. for Bothwell, in which the latter urged the duty of cherishing a love of Canada generally, irrespective of party, and gave a forcible sketch of the wonderful progress of Wallaceburg. He sat down amid an enthusiastic ovation. Fathers William, Ryan, Bauer, Ronan, and other clerical gentlemen were present, while letters of apology were received from Sir Hector Langevin, Messrs. W. R. Meredith, Henry Smyth, M.P., Trevis and others who were unavoidably prevented from attending. The affair was a magnificent success.

BIGGAR AND DAVITT.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Mr. Biggar has written a letter declining to attend the meeting at Monaghan on the 15th instant, when Mr. Healy will deliver an address to the electors, if Mr. Davitt should be present, on the ground that he disagrees with Mr. Davitt on the question of land nationalization and with his conduct in other respects. Mr. Michael Davitt was found at the Imperial Hotel in the case of Wallaceburg. He sat down amid an enthusiastic ovation. Fathers William, Ryan, Bauer, Ronan, and other clerical gentlemen were present, while letters of apology were received from Sir Hector Langevin, Messrs. W. R. Meredith, Henry Smyth, M.P., Trevis and others who were unavoidably prevented from attending. The affair was a magnificent success.

SARSFIELD'S ROCK

Archbishop Croke on Love of Country His Discernment

Limerick, Junction, July 18. On Sunday a grand and imposing demonstration in honor of the late Archbishop of Cashel, Rev. Dr. Croke, was held at Sarsfield's Rock, the historic spot where the defenders of Limerick two centuries ago intercepted and destroyed the siege train of the Williamite army.

The building, which is erected on a commanding site overlooking the counties of Limerick and Tipperary, on the twin borders of which it stands, is in the modern Gothic style. It consists of a nave, transepts, and chancel, providing ample accommodation for the very large number of parishioners.

Such, my dear friends, are the leading features of the life and sufferings of the sainted Archbishop Hurly, who was born and raised not far from this spot, and whose Christian heroism has shed such a lustre on the Church and diocese of which he was so distinguished an ornament.

When his Grace had concluded he announced that after the dismissal of the congregation a meeting would be held at Sarsfield's Rock, and a demonstration made there. The demonstration at the Rock was one of the grandest and most imposing that could be conceived.

The appearance of Archbishop Croke on the summit of "the Rock" was greeted with enthusiastic cheers, again and again repeated, and during his address the enthusiasm was unbounded.

The Limerick Mechanics' Band and the Bohemian National Band, with their banner, attended, and several bands were present from Tipperary, Oola, and Doon.

The Rev. M. Power then read an address to the Archbishop from his devoted priests and people of Pallasgreen and Templebreedin, bidding him welcome to Sarsfield's Rock on his third visit within a comparatively short time to this historic spot.

Archbishop Croke, who was received with cheers, again and again repeated, replied to the address as follows:

My dear friends, I have to thank you, and I do so most heartily, for the very kind, but too flattering, words which you have just addressed to me, as well as for the many other acts of filial devotion which I have had, from time to time, to acknowledge at your hands.

That the best thanks of the priests and people of Templebreedin are due and hereby given to their friends and benefactors, present and absent who have aided them in building their church.

That Sarsfield's Rock should be looked upon as one of our grand national monuments, and should not be desecrated by being quitted away for public use; and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the chairman of the county of Limerick grand jury, and to the county surveyor, that the present wooden cross which surmounts the rock should be replaced by a stone or public Celtic cross as a monument to the immortal Sarsfield on the very spot where he struck his best blow for Ireland.

The Rev. gentleman, speaking to the resolutions, said that his parishioners heartily joined him in the expression of heartfelt thanks to their great and patriotic Archbishop, who gave them such aid in the erection of the church (cheers); to Mrs. Fitzgerald, who gave them the site for the church; and to the liberal Protestant landlord, Mr. Thomas Bennett, of Knockany, who gave half an acre of land as a site for the church, and a lease of it for ever.

The Rev. M. Ryan, in conclusion, expressed his gratitude to the people of Doon, Knockbreedin, Pallas, Tipperary, Emly, Knocknol, Kilmallock, Limerick and Cappanore, who had given him such generous aid in erecting the splendid church, which was a credit to the arch-diocese of Cashel and Ireland (cheers).

The Mayor of Limerick supported the resolutions, and Rev. Canon Cahill and the Ven. Archdeacon Kinane also delivered short addresses.

A collection was then taken up, and about £700 was subscribed. The Archbishop headed the list with £50. Rev. Mr. Ryan announced that, thanks to the Lady League, an evicted and reinstated tenant, named Daniel Hickey, was able to subscribe £45 (loud cheers for the Lady League).

The proceedings terminated by the Archbishop bestowing his blessing on those present. It is in contemplation to erect a marble Celtic cross on the top of Sarsfield's Rock, to replace to the present wooden one. A movement is on foot to obtain the consent of the Sarsfield Monument Committee in Limerick to the granting of the surplus of £301, in the hands of Mr. Hall, J.P., for this purpose.
