

EXCITEMENT IN CONVENTION

Much Talk About Imprisonment of the Leaders,

But It Is No Sure Thing That They Will Go to Jail.

Big Protest Suggested—May be St. Louis Next Year.

(Special Wire to the Times.) Toronto, Ont., Nov. 16.—When President Gompers, Vice-President Mitchell, and Secretary Morrison, of the American Federation of Labor, leave Toronto, at the end of the week, to further appeal their case or serve their terms of imprisonment for contempt of court in the Buck's Store and Range Co. boycott case, they will be accompanied by Washington by the majority of International officers attending the big A. F. of L. convention around the convention headquarters last night and this morning was the impending imprisonment of their prominent labor leaders. All kinds of suggestions were offered by delegates in the direction of making a demonstration of protest against the action of the U. S. courts.

One delegate suggested that the convention should adjourn in Toronto to-day and that other delegates should proceed to Washington to finish the work of the convention, and there voice the protest of organized labor against the sentence imposed upon the labor leaders. Another representative of the Garment Workers' Union said it would be better to finish the work of the convention in Toronto and then proceed to Washington, where a master mass meeting could be held and where addresses could be delivered by prominent international officers.

The probability is that this suggestion would be carried out, and that Washington will see one of the most significant labor demonstrations in its history when the convicted labor leaders return to A. F. of L. headquarters.

President Sullivan, of the Sheet Metal Workers' International Union expressed the opinion that the labor leaders would not stay long in jail.

"There is no doubt but that President Taft will pardon them and give them their release," he said.

It seems that nothing but a vindication of the attitude taken by the A. F. of L. relative to that company will satisfy President Gompers, and that he is prepared to stay in jail until the constitutional rights of United States citizens are recognized.

It was reported at this morning's session of the A. F. of L. convention that an effort would be made to finish the business on Friday night. Considerable discussion ensued over the need of organization in the shipbuilding yards in Canada and the States. The matter was referred to the International body, which will co-operate with the Executive of Federation.

At this juncture, President Gompers took exception to so many matters being referred to the Executive Committee. "There is a limit to human endurance and human possibilities," he stated.

A letter was read asking that the convention next assemble in St. Louis, and from the applause that greeted it, it looks as if it will be St. Louis in 1910. The trouble between the International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen and Engineers was referred to the adjustment committee.

The resolution which one of the delegates described as "a club held over our heads," suggested that the firemen be instructed to prevent interference with the engineers' positions in times of trouble and that when a fireman becomes an engineer he takes out a new card.

The resolution declaring the Switchmen's Union to be the only bonafide organization in affiliation with the Federation was adopted.

MAY STILL APPEAL. Washington, Nov. 16.—President Samuel Gompers, Vice-President John Mitchell and Secretary Morrison, of the American Federation of Labor, who are under sentence on the charge of contempt of court, will not have to return to Washington from Toronto, to appear before the District Court of Appeals to file notice of their appeal until next Monday.

It is expected that they will then sue out a writ of habeas corpus before some judge of the District Supreme Court, and should the judge refuse to discharge them under the writ the next step would be an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States.

BUDGET BILL.

Lord Lansdowne Will Move Its Rejection By Lords.

London, Nov. 16.—In the House of Lords to-day Lord Lansdowne, leader of the Opposition, gave the formal and expected notice of his intention to move for the rejection of the Budget Bill when it comes up next Monday. His motion, he said, would be expressed thus: "I move that this House is not justified in giving its consent to this bill until it has been submitted to the judgment of the country."

IS DOING WELL.

Mr. George Stroud, the well known cattle dealer, underwent an operation yesterday afternoon for an internal trouble at the City Hospital. A few weeks ago Mr. Stroud was ill from the same trouble, but did not think it serious enough to warrant an operation. He was reported to be resting easily this morning, but it will be some time before he will be able to attend to his duties.

VILLAGE BURNED.

Pittsburg, Nov. 16.—The village of West Zellarsville, Washington County, was destroyed by fire of unknown origin early to-day, with a loss of over $50,000. A score of sleeping persons were rescued.

NEGOTIATIONS IN PROGRESS AGAIN.

Hydro Commission Will Meet City Representatives in Toronto To-morrow.

Negotiations between the city and the Hydro Commission to fix the terms upon which Hamilton will enter into a contract for a supply of Niagara power have been resumed. The commission has consented to meet Mayor McLaren and a small committee from the Council. The conference will be held to-morrow in Toronto. The Hydro clique has freely predicted that the city will get a severe rebuff. Mayor McLaren and the aldermen are not so sure of that. They are confident that they will be able to convince the commission that the terms Hamilton demands are reasonable.

The city's position is clearly set forth in the following letter which His Worship has forwarded to Hon. Adam Beck: Referring to our conversation of the 5th inst., over the phone and to your letter of the 6th, I may say that the views of our Council are that, owing to Hamilton's peculiar position in having a company here, whose power must cost them, delivered in Hamilton, no more than the Hydro-Electric Commission pays at the Falls, we do not want to lose any advantage to Hamilton that may accrue from that situation.

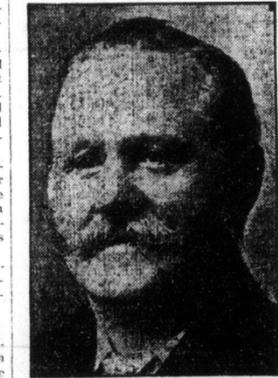

At the same time we are willing to buy 1,000 horse power from the commission—an amount we can fully use all the time, and in that way get the lowest possible cost out of it. After we see the result of a year's use and learn the adjustment of the cost, we are willing to buy more, if it is not to the disadvantage of our citizens. We are also willing to buy any amount of power that any corporation or person may be willing to take off our hands and pay for it at not less than our cost.

We are in a different position from any municipality already in the contract with the commission; at the same time we are going to bind ourselves to it for thirty years for what we now think we can use, although we believe it will cost us more than from other sources.

He Suicided.

New York, Nov. 16.—Loss of his son and nine employees in the fire which destroyed his comb factory in Brooklyn last week is believed to have been the cause of the suicide to-day of Robert Morrison, head of the firm which conducted the establishment.

Mr. Morrison's lifeless body was found in the bathroom of his home, where he had turned on the gas and died of asphyxiation.

POPE'S JUBILEE.

Spent Day Quietly and Breakfasted With His Two Sisters.

Rome, Nov. 16.—The Episcopal jubilee of Pope Pius X. occurred to-day. Many messages of congratulation and well wishes reached the vatican. The Pope desired to spend the day quietly and without any formal celebration. He celebrated mass in the private chapel, admitting only his own sisters from Venice, with whom he afterwards breakfasted. Later in the day His Holiness received the officials of the vatican, who presented their greetings. To these the Pontiff showed the gold pectoral cross, which was given him by Pope Leo in 1884, upon the occasion of his appointment as Bishop of Mantua.

In honor of the jubilee, many homes in the vicinity of the vatican were decorated. The pilgrimage from France ended here to-day.

The rumor is persistent that Mons. Falconio will be created a Cardinal. The Pope also received Cardinal Merry Del Val, Papal Secretary of State, and Cardinal Gasparri, who preceded the other prelates sitting at the Vatican, all of whom offered greetings to the Pontiff. The only cardinal from without the Vatican to be received was Cardinal Vives Y. Tulo.

NO HOPE FOR MEN IN MINE.

Their Sleepless Wives Ask If There Is a Chance,

But the Authorities Think There Is Little Chance.

1,000 Orphans and 200 Widows—Burial of Rescued Victims.

Cherry, Ill., Nov. 16.—Dawn to-day brought increased anxiety to the families of the 300 miners, who are still entombed in the St. Paul coal mine, as a result of last Saturday's disaster.

Despite the belief expressed by the State and Government officials that there is little or no possibility of any of the men ever being brought to the surface alive, scores of grief-stricken wives gathered about the mouth of the hoisting shaft, which late yesterday had to be sealed on account of the renewal of the fire in the interior.

Jaggard and almost worn into exhaustion by the terror of three sleepless nights, the women approached the officers, imploring some glimmer of hope.

"There is still a chance, ain't there, mister?" they pleaded. "Don't say they are dead for certain." The mine officers, assisted by the State and Government authorities, who had remained on the premises all night, began early to ascertain whether it would be practical again to send rescuers down the shaft.

It was decided that if the fire had been sufficiently smothered by the closing of the mine during the night, descent would be possible, and no time would be lost. A number of water tanks were brought here from LaSalle on flat cars before daylight and run on a switch ready to be poured into the pit. At the same time a supply of fire extinguishing chemicals was on hand. Among them were chemicals intended to produce carbonic acid gas. If the fire is still raging in the timber supports, it was proposed to bore holes through the lid, or seal, at the mouth of the shaft and by means of iron pipes force the gas to the bottom.

With the smoke drifting into the remotest alleys of the mine for almost three days, the men must certainly have suffocated, according to President Duncan McDonald, of District 12, United Mine Workers of America. He declared also that the fire had burned away the timber supports, and some of the men undoubtedly had been buried in the caving in of walls and roofs of the passage ways.

Not only would the men have been without food, but they must have groped through interminable passageways in total darkness, to reach water, if water could be found at all.

NOT HIS LINE.

Complaints About Market Made to Mr. Berlinghoff.

A number of complaints have been made to John Berlinghoff, S. P. C. A. Inspector, of late about the quality of goods that is being sold on Central Market. A few days ago George Knott, of the Vineyard Hotel, bought a couple of fine-looking turkeys, and paid $1.25 each for them. When they were being prepared it was found that the fire had burned the turkey.

"Did you complain to Mr. Berlinghoff," he had to explain that it was out of his jurisdiction to meddle with market affairs. The market constable used to be the S. P. C. A. Inspector, and probably that is the reason many people naturally look to Mr. Berlinghoff.

FINE OF $25

And Complainant Should Have Been Punished, Too.

When Charles Smith was tried this morning before Judge Monck on a charge of cutting and wounding Fred Peterson, the court room was permeated with darkness to such an extent that the electric lights had to be turned on. The case was fully gone into in the police court yesterday. His Honor imposed a fine of $25 or three months in jail on the grounds that the prisoner was guilty only of carrying concealed weapons.

The charge against the prisoner was a serious one, but the evidence clearly proved that the prisoner acted in self-defence. In giving his evidence the defendant, Smith, said:

"I wasn't going to use the razor on Peterson, but I was afraid of 'Buddy' Black, who has the reputation of sticking a man in St. Catharines."

"Did you threaten to shoot a man in Victoria Park and were you chased by the crowd at that time, or did you ever use a knife as I understand you are pretty handy with one yourself," asked Mr. Workman.

"No," responded the witness. "It was a play gun and I did it in fun. They only chased me a block."

"Did you hit Arthur Workman with a ball?"

"No, he hit me, but we are just as good friends as we ever were, I don't want to talk about that."

"It's funny that you were hit and he was laid up for two weeks. Did you not strike him in the fight?"

"Which fight do you mean, you have been talking about three or four fights," was the reply.

His Honor, in passing sentence, said that as the prisoner had the weapon before the row he was liable under the criminal law. Peterson, too, ought to be punished. He would have certainly found Peterson guilty of assault if he had been charged with it.

REVOLUTION IN LOCAL TORY CAMP.

Young Blood Promise to Make Trouble—Will Try to Oust President Milne.

The red flag of revolution is floating over the local Tory camp. The young blood, which comprises the majority of the rank and file, is up in arms, and it is feared that before the smoke of battle clears the party will be in a sadder plight than Napoleon's army after the clash at Waterloo.

Johnnie Milne is the cause of the latest split. Mr. Milne has been the president of the association for many years. He has occupied that office for four or five years in succession now. Some of the young blood have a notion that it is nearly time they had a look in. They do not like the way Mr. Milne and his friends hold sway. Disaffection has been brewing since the last Provincial election when the J. J. Scott nomination was practically railroaded through.

Many in the rank and file do not think Mr. Milne is any great help to the party as head of the association. They point out that at the time of the Provincial election in East Hamilton the charges made against the local stove manufacturers that they had stoves manufactured in the United States, brought into this country and labelled Canadian made goods, was a body blow to the Conservative candidate.

The recent moulders' trouble, the rank and file argue, makes Mr. Milne a load to carry if the party has to engage in any election. They feel sure that the fact that Mr. Milne is interested in this would turn a big section of the labor element against the party. With such a mass of argument it was thought that Mr. Milne could be prevailed upon to step down quietly. With that in view he was waited upon by members of the party yesterday afternoon. But what a shock. Mr. Milne announced that he was there to stick. Some of his friends advised him to run for the office of president again and he intends acting on their advice.

There is sure to be a row at the annual meeting. Mr. Milne will be opposed and the strength of the faction over which he presides will be tested. The first of the ward meetings will be held to-night when delegates to the general meeting will be elected. J. W. Lammoreaux, William George Armstrong, S. D. Biggar and others are mentioned as candidates for the office of president.

There are several other little questions to be settled. The Hydro clique, which has organized to use the Conservative organization for its own purposes, seems bent on making a fight to get the party to nominate a man to oppose Mayor McLaren. There is sure to be a warm time over this if the matter is pressed. Prominent men in the party say that this would cause endless trouble as it has always been the rule not to oppose the mayor for a second term. To do so now would be establishing a precedent which would likely be followed.

The meeting of the association will likely be held before the end of the month. In the meantime a storm is brewing that threatens to lift the roof off the camp unless the wind shifts around before then.

BURNED DOWN.

House on Beach, Owned by Charles Kime, Consumed.

Fire on the Beach this morning totally consumed a good summer residence owned by Charles Kime, painter, situated at Station 9. Mr. Kime lives in another house in rear, but the one burned had been vacant since the close of the summer season. How the fire, which was discovered between 2 and 3 o'clock, originated is a mystery. It burned until about 7 o'clock, when there was nothing left to burn. It was a frame building, assessed at $1,500, and only partly insured.

Magistrate Jelfs received word this morning from the Department of Justice asking him to report on the case of John Johnston, whom his Worship sentenced to 23 months in Central Prison on April 21, 1908, for theft. The reason that the Magistrate is asked for a report is that Johnston is suffering with chronic tuberculosis in the Central Prison, and the machinery is being put in motion to allow him out on parole.

TO RID CITY OF VAGRANTS.

Police Enter Upon Campaign With Renewed Vigor.

Police Broke Up a Sunday Game of Crap.

Fine of $10 In a Cruelty to Animals Case.

With the determination to keep the city from being infested with vagrants during the coming winter the police have renewed their crusade against those undesirable with renewed vigor, and they intimate that it will be kept up. Evidently thinking that the campaign had been dropped the Weary Willie and Tired Tim brigade have begun to pour in. Several well known crooks and a number of idlers from outside points have been seen loitering around the city during yesterday. Yesterday Chief Smith hunted to the famous hunters of vagrants, namely, P. C.'s Cameron and Barrett, to get busy. They did, with the result that three suspects were arraigned before Magistrate Jelfs this morning.

Roy Courage, a Toronto youth, by his own confession an undesirable, was gathered in for vagrancy last night. A few days ago he arrived in town.

P. C.'s Cameron and Barrett swore that he has the qualifications of a vagrant, for he has been frequenting hotels, pool rooms, etc., besides associating with characters whose reputations are unsavory.

Roy had the courage to plead not guilty, and said he had been working for two days.

"Are you wanted by the police in Toronto?" asked Chief Smith.

"The Toronto detectives told me to leave town," said the youth.

"Were you ever in an Industrial School?" asked his Worship.

"No, sir; but I was in the Shelter."

"Why?"

"Because my mother could not look after me."

The boy's hair was cut in typical prison fashion, and that evidently aroused suspicion. He was remanded for a few days to allow the police to make inquiries about him.

Henry McDonald, 103 York street, looked indignant when charged with vagrancy, and pleaded not guilty. What a contrast Henry was to the youth arraigned before him. The former's face was round as a dumpling, of fresh color that goes with youth, but Henry's wore the marks of chronic dissipation.

P. C.'s Cameron and Barrett unrolled a long line of incriminating evidence against the defendant. They swore he keeps company with women of the very lowest order, frequents pool rooms and haunts that respectable people shun.

Henry wished the court to understand that he is an apple picker, farmer, etc., though reluctantly he confessed in exchequer boasted of only 85 cents. He said he had worked all summer, and quit last Saturday. He told his Worship he had a job to go to this morning for a Hydro-Electric commission contractor. He was allowed to go.

Martin Rolley, of one natural leg and one artificial, was ordered to be escorted to a Brantford electric car and started on his way to the Telephone City, which is his home.

If he is seen here again he will go to jail. He was up for vagrancy.

"Which would you rather do, go back to Brantford or go to jail?" asked his worship.

"Go back to Brantford," said Rolley.

P. C.'s Cameron and Barrett said he was chased out of Brantford; that he has an artificial leg, but he doesn't wear it very often, the reason, they inferred, was that in following his occupation as a pencil vendor, he can more easily arouse sympathy without it. In the vending of the said pencils the officers said he frequents all sorts and conditions of shady dens, and in short is a nuisance.

The magistrate said: "If they won't have you in their home town, Hamilton don't want you." He further told Rolley that if he were deserving there would always be many ready to help him in the place where he belonged.

P. C. Tuck said on Sunday there was a group of young men on a vacant lot at the foot of Emerald street. Their antics suggested that dice were being thrown. He and P. C. Merritt swooped down on the gang, but they fled leaving 50 cents in silver on the ground, which was produced and will be placed to the police benefit fund.

Jaggard said as he was passing the lot in question he stopped for one minute to look on, but could not say if they were gambling, neither did he know any of the young men.

"Do you swear that you did not gamble, and knowing that for perjury you could be sent to prison for a term of years?"

"Yes, sir."

He was discharged, the magistrate inferring that he was convinced that he was convinced the boy was innocent.

Chas. Steward, of Glanford, worked his horse with a sore shoulder. Inspector Berlinghoff prosecuted. Steward was fined $10 and costs.

A dispute over 25 cents was what brought John Harris and George Bentley to court. Both are engaged in the white-washing business. Bentley claimed from Harris 25 cents on a day's wages, claiming that the agreement was for $1.50 a day. Harris contended Bentley was not worth more than $1.25. His worship said Bentley was paid all he earned, and dismissed the case.

Gone Dry.

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 16.—In the fifteen counties of South Carolina which voted dry on Aug. 15 last the drastic prohibition law enacted at the last session of the Legislature went into effect last night. With the closing of the dispensaries in these fifteen counties of the State, only six counties remain "wet," twenty-one having been dry at the time of the local option election last summer. The State not only forbids the sale of liquor in the dry counties, but it prohibits "keeping in possession any liquor whatsoever."

EGGS AT 60.

Eggs, which have been so dear all summer and fall, have become very scarce during the last few weeks, and the dealers can see little consolation ahead for the householder who has grown quite peevish over the way in which everything is going up, and nothing coming down. Eggs are becoming more and more scarce as the weeks go by, and the consensus of opinion among the dealers is that the price may soar as high as sixty cents this coming winter.

"Good eggs are 38 and 40 cents a dozen today," said the proprietor of one of the stalls on Central Market, this morning. "We have some at 28 and 30 cents, but we cannot guarantee them. If you want every one of your eggs strictly fresh you will have to pay more than 35 cents for them."

"Why are they going up? Because the hens aren't laying, that's the reason. The farmers are complaining that their hens are giving them very few eggs these days, and they blame it on the coming of cold weather."

The high price of the fresh-laid has increased the demand for storage eggs, and several dealers on the market are having difficulty in securing these as the dealers have shipped most of their produce to the west.

ONLY FINED.

Previous Good Character Got Jas. Wyse Light Sentence.

James Wyse was tried this morning before Judge Monck on a charge of indecent assault. His Honor imposed a fine of $25 or six months in jail. Wyse was employed by John O. Gingrich in East Lamboro, and enticed the employer's little daughter, but three years old away, and committed the offence with which he was charged. The reason the sentence was so light was because of the previous good character of the prisoner, a number of witnesses testifying on his behalf. W. E. S. Knowles acted for the prisoner.

WILL CASE.

Judge Snider's Ruling as to Mode of Procedure.

The Brandon will case came up this morning before Judge Snider for a ruling as to the mode of procedure. THE WHIP.

Suffragettes Will Use It on Other Ministers.

Bombs Spoken of—Churchill Did Not Prosecute.

London, Nov. 15.—The indications are that the members of the Ministry may be prepared for more dog-whipping, such as was administered Saturday to Winston Churchill. To-night the organization of militant suffragettes issued the following pronouncement:—
"The punishment which Miss Garnett sought to inflict upon Winston Churchill is by universal admission the appropriate method where other means are unavailable of avenging the insult of denying to women the right of citizenship."

ONE FLEET, ONE ARMY

Lord Balfour's Plea For Imperial Defence.

London, Nov. 15.—Lord Charles Balfour, speaking at Bristol, dismissed the idea of Britain's going downhill. She only needed waking up. He was sure the old patriotism would appear when danger loomed, and the suffragettes issued the following pronouncement:—
"The punishment which Miss Garnett sought to inflict upon Winston Churchill is by universal admission the appropriate method where other means are unavailable of avenging the insult of denying to women the right of citizenship."

TEMPERANCE.

Rev. D. V. Lucas Says Work is Making Good Progress.

Rev. D. V. Lucas, a minister well known in Hamilton, now in his seventy-sixth year, and fifth year of his ministry, is in England, and recently spoke at twelve temperance meetings in eight days. In a letter to a friend in Toronto, Rev. Mr. Lucas says England is away behind Canada and the United States in temperance work. Temperance sentiment, however, he explains, is advancing, and England will some day overcome the evil. Leicester, with a population of a quarter of a million, has 850 licenses, whereas Toronto, with 300,000 people, has 110 licenses. It was said at a temperance gathering that in twenty London licensed places in four days there were 39,000 women and 10,000 children. The barmaid system has, Mr. Lucas says, much to do with the drinking of women. In speaking of the fight waged for temperance in the past, Mr. Lucas says if the workers had asked for prohibition they would have had a local option law by this time.

LIABILITY LAW.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The employers liability law of 1906 was to-day declared by the Supreme Court of the United States to be constitutional in territories of the United States and the District of Columbia, despite the fact that more than a year ago this law was declared to be unconstitutional when applied to the States.

In the criminal supreme court at Sydney, N. S., Justice Russell delivered sentence. Joe Nash, found guilty of manslaughter, was given 20 years in penitentiary. A number of men convicted of assault or unlawful assembly in coal strike disturbances were sentenced to from one to three months in jail.

A Spanish Beauty

CHAPTER VI.

The fire had flickered and faded out on the marble hearth, the wax-lights had burned low; but Inez, Countess of Clontarf, lay motionless on her sofa, clasping the picture of her beloved one to her heart.

She had fallen asleep, with the soft drooping of the embers, the beating of the rain, and the wailing of the wind for her lullaby. She had fallen into that slumber, the tears still wet on her dark lashes; but the slumber was a very light one.

The gentle opening of the door aroused her. She looked up to see the silver-white vision of her daughter, the loving smile on the beautiful face, the camellia crown on the upturned head.

"Asleep, mamma? And I have disturbed you! Shall I ring for your maid? It is much too late for you to be up!"

"Not yet, my daughter. Come in. You do not look sleepy. Your eyes are like blue stars." She kissed the drooping lids with a passionate love that had a deeper meaning than her daughter knew of. "What has made them so bright, dearest?"

Lady Evelyn laughed as she sunk down by her mother's couch. The beautiful, brilliant face softened wondrously; all its cold pride vanished; she was another creature by that beloved mother's side.

She made a radiant picture there, her perfumed faces floating stately about her, the crimson-crowned head drooping, the rich blue eyes so luminously sweet.

"How can I tell?" she said, gayly, in answer to her mother's question. "Not belladonna, certainly, mamma. Perhaps Mr. Vivian Trevannance. We have been together for the last two hours."

"Indeed! An unwonted concession on my Lady Evelyn's part, is it not? He is agreeable, then?"

"Most agreeable; very conservative; very clever," Lady Evelyn responded, with perfect calm.

"How quietly Donna Evelyn says it! As though he were seventy, and hoarse-headed!"

The violet eyes opened wide.

"What does that signify, mamma? Mr. Trevannance can talk—more than I can say for many men in society. He is clever and agreeable, and—knows it. He talked to me of Clontarf."

"Of Clontarf? He has been there, then?"

"Last year. He has promised me a sketch of the old castle. Ah, how much I desire to go there! Mamma, why is it that papa will gratify every other whim of mine but this?"

The pale face of the countess darkened; a strange glitter came into her eyes.

"It is one of your papa's secrets, my dear. He has many. I do not think he will ever visit Clontarf of his own free will again."

"And why? Mamma, why is this estrangement between him and you? Is there some dark and hidden secret in the life of the Earl of Clontarf? Why does he wear that dark brooding face? Why does he always look at me with such a moodily unhappy? He never laughs; he never smiles; he is ever wrapped in gloom; he looks at me sometimes as though he feared me. It seems strange, mamma, but it is true."

"It is not strange," Lady Clontarf said, that glitter shining in her black eyes. "He does fear you."

"And why?"

"Because, my daughter, you look at him with the eyes of the dead!"

"Mamma!"

"Oh, my love! my daughter! there has been terrible, terrible wrong done in the past. My life has been blighted, my heart broken, and another heart that loved me—the noblest, the bravest, the best that ever beat in man—stilled forever in death. You have the eyes of the dead—the blue, bright eyes of Roderick Desmond, the plighted husband of my youth, the one love of my life. My child, my child! but for you I should have died or gone mad in my misery long ago."

"Mother!"

"Wild words, are they not? I have hidden, or striven to hide, my trouble from you and the world for many a weary year, but I must speak at last. Oh, my darling! my life has been a very bitter one—long, cruel martyrdom dragged on for your sake. Thank God the end is very near now."

"Mamma! mamma!" her daughter cried, wildly, "what do you mean? Has papa—"

"Hush! not a word! He is your father, and he loves you. Once he loved me, too; but I—my heart was another's before I ever knew him. My heart has been with that other all these years in his unknown grave."

"He is dead, then, this other of whom you speak?"

"Dead for twenty long years, my daughter—most foully, most cruelly murdered! Twenty years slain, and still unavenged!"

Lady Evelyn had grown very pale. She sat clasping her mother's hands, gazing with troubled earnest eyes into that mother's pallid, aged face, a dread forbidding of something horrible weighing upon her.

"You will tell me your story, will you, my mother?" she said, thoughtfully, caressingly. "I have so long desired to hear it. And it will do you good—a sorrow told is a sorrow half alleviated. Brooding darkly over our troubles in secret adds tenfold to their burden. You will tell me, mother mine, this sad and cruel story the past, the lover you loved, and his picture is it not?"

She lifted the locket and gazed long and earnestly at the pictured face.

"And this was Roderick Desmond! A noble and beautiful countenance, one to win any woman's heart. And they murdered him! so young, so bright, so fair! It was a cowardly and diabolical deed, one that should not go unavenged!"

"Then be it yours to avenge it!" her mother exclaimed, suddenly; "do you have strength for what I never dared undertake. You are braver, stronger, more self-sustained, cleverer than I ever was. Be it yours, then, Evelyn Desmond, to bring to light this hidden murder, to ferret out this unknown assassin, and drag him to his doom!"

She grasped her daughter's wrist, her black eyes blazing, a hot, hectic flush burning deeply on either cheek.

"I was a coward, I tell you, Evelyn, a moral coward—the first of my race that ever was. I was afraid to discover the murderer of the man I loved, lest he should prove to be—Oh, my God! what am I saying? And he is her father!"

She dropped her daughter's wrist and shrunk away, hiding her face in her hands, shuddering from head to foot.

Evelyn sat and gazed at her with startled, solemn eyes, deathly pale.

"No, no, no!" the Countess of Clontarf cried. "Heed me not, Evelyn! Neither must you seek for him. Let the dead rest, let the murdered go. There is One above you, in His own good time, will avenge innocent blood. But, oh, it is hard, it is cruel, it is bitter as death! In the deep dead of the night, Evelyn, he rises up before me, my Roderick, with his pale, reproachful face, as if to ask why I do not bring his slayer to punishment. I see him, Evelyn, often and often, as plainly as I see you now."

"Mamma! Lady Evelyn said, softly, soothingly, in their own liquid Castilian tongue, "be calm. See! the cold drops are on your poor, pale face, and your hands and temples are like fire. Forget this wild talk of vengeance; tell me the story of your lost lover, who is in heaven now. I will bathe your face and hands with the Cologne, and we will speak of finding the guilty one after."

The caressing tone soothed the excited countess; the flush faded, the glitter died out of her black, melancholy eyes in a mist of tears. She kissed her daughter's caressing hand.

"My dear one! you are better and wiser than I. Yes, I will tell you. It was twenty years ago, but to me it is as twenty hours. The events of yesterday are as a burning dream of all those long, lonely, intervening years. Out of the retrospect, that time alone stands clear and vivid—the golden summer of my desolate life."

"I saw him first, my daughter, one never-to-be-forgotten night, beaming down upon me through the flames and smoke of a burning ship—the face of a prevailing angel. We were off the Irish coast; our vessel had taken fire; it was a wild, windy night; there seemed nothing but death inevitable. We stood together, alone, to die, my father and I. He came to us, Evelyn, in his yacht. I can see him now as he stood erect upon the deck in the lurid glow of the flames—so brave, so bright, so beautiful. I can hear his clear voice as he called to us to leap into the sea, our one chance amid the horrors of that night. My father took me in his arms, there was a plunge into the mad, black waters, then darkness, and all life blotted out."

"I opened my eyes in the cabin of the 'Nora Creina,' and he was bending above me. I was alone in the world. He had saved me at the risk of his own life, but my poor father had gone down!"

"He took me to his home, to Clontarf Castle—dear old Clontarf!—where his father and aunt received me as they might have received a child of their own rescued from death. And there I learned to love him—my, had I not loved him from the first? My whole heart went out to him, and he never abandoned that I pray you may never know. And he loved me, my Evelyn, as dearly, as truly, as purely as man ever loved woman. Our wedding-day was named; our sky seemed without one cloud; my life, sleeping and waking, was one endless dream of bliss. I was too happy; my heaven was on earth. I had never known such happiness as never last in this lower world. The blow came sudden and swift, without one word of warning, and I lost all in an hour."

"A girl was found drowned—a peasant girl who had loved my darling, as who could fail to love him? She was betrothed to an Englishman named Morgan, a hang-dog-looking ruffian whom she had despised, but whom her father was forcing her, for his own selfish ends, to wed. They found her drowned, and they fixed the guilt of that horrible deed upon my Roderick, who loved her as he might a sister. They forged a note in his hand—I know it was forged—appointing a meeting at the river—that meeting from which she never returned alive. It was Morgan who was the murderer, but I—my heart was another's before I ever knew him. My heart has been with that other all these years in his unknown grave."

"He is dead, then, this other of whom you speak?"

"Dead for twenty long years, my daughter—most foully, most cruelly murdered! Twenty years slain, and still unavenged!"

Lady Evelyn had grown very pale. She sat clasping her mother's hands, gazing with troubled earnest eyes into that mother's pallid, aged face, a dread forbidding of something horrible weighing upon her.

ardor; but, Evelyn, he hates me now!"

"Oh, mamma, mamma!"

"It is true, you are no child. It is plainly enough to be seen if I were dead to-morrow he would rejoice in his secret heart. It seems very terrible for me to say this to you, but it is plain to the world, and if you do not know it now, you soon must. He has no power to make me happy or unhappy, save through you. My daughter, do not let him blight your life; do not let him force you into a marriage with a man you dislike."

THE HAMILTON TIMES

TUESDAY, NOV. 16, 1909.

A PITIFUL POSITION.

Parliament has begun the session well by disposing of the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne in about five hours, thus clearing the way for actual business.

How long will it take the Toronto Council to exhaust the margin created by this last turn of the taxation screw by the assessors? And some fool controllers babble about a great scheme of tube railways! Toronto seems to be even shorter of sense in its Council than of dollars in its treasury.

OUR INCREASING BURDENS.

The cost of education per child per annum, even on the basis of registered attendance in Toronto schools, was, in 1880, $7.45. Last year it was $20.63. There is no wonder that a showing like that should awaken the people of Toronto to take interest in public school affairs.

Hamilton's case would seem to be no better. According to the report of the Minister of Education, the total registered attendance of high and public school pupils in 1908 was 9,550. That is putting the best face on the matter as it allows a Collegiate Institute attendance of 930.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Herald-Judas appears to be eager to earn his thirty pieces of silver; but not many "Independent" (?) newspapers would care for the work which it daily follows up.

"Rubber payments," with crude rubber soaring near the $2-a-pound mark, may be fine for City Hallers to talk about, but just a little too smooth for the ratepayers' pocketbooks.

The world do move. Here is our contemporary, the Spectator, which was wont to treat the bay front improvements with derision and represent it as a great disadvantage to the city, speaking of it in terms of almost approval!

The discovery of a system by which four messages may be sent at the same time over an ocean cable, is expected to result in the cheapening of cablegrams and removing the cable service from any fear of competition by the wireless system.

The junior local Tory organ is very angry because the senior organ intimates that the Tory machine would not run a candidate against Mayor McLaren at the coming municipal elections.

That Boston story about the discovery of a cave in a remote part of England in which it is expected that Bacon's library is to be found sounds like "a very good Morgan." However, if the explorers meet with anything like the success which they expect, a literary revolution is nearly due.

The latest threat of the Tory-Hydro-maniacal local organ is that a Tory will be placed in opposition to Mayor McLaren "if the Council does not at its next meeting sign a contract with the Hydro-Electric Commission." What do the Liberals think of that? Are any of them yet fooled by the organ's pretences of "independence"?

Our old friend Mr. Lewis, M. P. of West Huron, has re-introduced, thus early in the session, his views on female suffrage. He modifies his demand now, however, by the proviso, "no babies, no ballots." We see some trouble in store for Lewis coming from the direction of the noisiest clamorers for female suffrage.

In Queen Elizabeth's time a law was passed in the interest of the protection of woolen manufacturers penalizing the exportation of sheep. For a first offence the culprit's goods were forfeited, he was imprisoned for a year, and his left hand was cut off and nailed up for the public edification. For the second offence he was hanged. The Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post notes that the Yankee laws for the protection of the woolen men do not go quite so far. "Hand-chopping," it says, "we would not tolerate. Sending wives and children of famers and workmen by the million into winter with spring-weight, or half-cotton, clothing, for which they have paid more than the price of thick, warm wool, we not only tolerate but applaud.

Perhaps some simple-minded Liberals, to get whose money the Herald plays the "Independent" role, may be astonished to see that organ assuming—over the Spec's head—to dictate the local Tory policy to be opposition to Mayor McLaren—the Toryizing of the Council. Wonder if those Herald Liberals remember the story of the Woodcutter and the Asp?

The Hamilton Herald delivers an editorial lecture on the importance of a public service company preserving public confidence. Meanwhile by daily lies and half-truths, which it is such an adept at using, it maliciously tries to break down public confidence in the home electric concern. It is a dirty business. How much better is it than horse-racing or incendiarism?

Dr. Theodore Ruggles Timby, who died in Brooklyn the other day, is said to have been the inventor of the revolving warship turret, first used on the Monitor, and now generally adopted on all warships. He is also claimed to have invented floating dry docks and turbine water wheels. A committee will try to get the United States Congress to grant him some recognition.

ON THE CAR. (Buffalo Express.) "Why is the baby crying?" asked the polite street car conductor. "I suppose it is complaining about the service," she answered, stiffly.

ABLE TO VOTE. (Exchange.) The report of the lynching at Cairo, Ill., says: "Women in the mob were eager to handle the rope." Can any further proof be asked that these women are as well qualified to vote as men are?

TWO STRIKES. (The Circle.) "You told me that the light of your life had gone out when your wife died, and now you're going to be married again."

ON THE CAR. (Toronto Star.) Always "knock" your own local service in the presence of strangers. It makes you solid with them, and by all means don't forget to roast the general manager. It will surely improve the service.

FASHION NOTE. (Toronto News.) A social item: Lady de Blynck Waldorf Wallis has invented a convenient and unobtrusive skirt pocket for holding stones. Yesterday, while driving in Hyde Park, she nailed a cabinet Minister just back of the ear, and was not even suspected. Society is all agog over the device.

PERFECTLY SIMPLE. (Chicago Tribune.) "Maria, what's this salad made of?" "Chopped celery, onions, vinegar, salt and pepper."

TORIES AND THE NAVAL POLICY. (Toronto World.) The Toronto Telegram, which professes to be a good Conservative paper as either the News or Journal, and is certainly an independent, has read Mr. Borden out of the Conservative party, for the position he has taken on the naval question.

LONDON NOT INTERESTED. (London Advertiser.) Not many trades unionists of the city availed themselves of the opportunity on Saturday night of seeing and hearing—free of charge—the greatest man organized labor in America has produced—John Mitchell. Employers of labor and professional and business men comprised the majority of the audience, which numbered less than three hundred.

ZAM-BUK CURED HER BABY

Mothers will find the following statement of more than passing interest, showing, as it does, how Zam-Buk cures the skin diseases of children, even when ordinary remedies have completely failed.

"Not long ago my baby's face broke out in an eruption. The spots would crack, and be very irritating and smart. At other times they itched fearfully, and caused the child to scratch and rub, thus making the sores very inflamed and painful. I tried all sorts of ointments and salves, but they somehow did not seem able to remove the trouble.

"I tried all sorts of ointments and salves, but they somehow did not seem able to remove the trouble. Zam-Buk proved very different, and a few applications gave the child relief. The sores are now healed completely.

"Since that time my little daughter has had occasion to use Zam-Buk for skin trouble. She broke out in blotches on her hands and arms, and in her case also Zam-Buk proved a cure.

"We now keep Zam-Buk handy as a household balm, and do not intend to be without it.

AT TRINITY.

English Lutheran Church Gave a Fine Entertainment.

An appreciative audience that filled the Conservatory of Music Hall to capacity last evening thoroughly enjoyed the excellent programme given at the first annual concert of the Trinity English Lutheran Church.

The following local legal cases were heard at Toronto yesterday: Hamilton Bridge Co. vs. General Construction Co.—G. H. Kilmer, K. C., for defendants, renewed his motion to stay action until plaintiffs comply with order of Meredith, C. J., made on appeal from order of master in chambers, dated 29th September last.

Federal Life vs. Siddall—J. M. McEvoy, for defendants, in the action, appealed from the report of his Honor J. F. Monk, a local judge at Hamilton. J. G. Farmer, for plaintiff, contra. The appeal of the defendants was against the allowance by the judge to plaintiffs for various improvements, etc., which defendant alleged were unnecessary improvements and made before the trial.

CITY MAKES MOVE IN CANAL PROJECT.

Strong Deputation Will Proceed to Ottawa Before the Cabinet Meets.

City Engineer Macallum Makes a Report Upon Two Terminal Propositions.

When the chairman of the civic committee met yesterday afternoon to consider the petition to annex Westmount survey, Mayor McLaren brought up the question of the new Ontario-Erie canal.

"In coming up the Grand River to the point of leaving I believe there will be a continuous road of unexcavated material, and the summit, and, in all probability, one may be required, and possibly two, to save heavy excavating. This information, however, can be obtained from a survey. The down lockage would be one at the summit ridge and the remaining locks coming down the face of the mountain to the lake.

"If the Stoney Creek route be advisable then the canal from that point should be turned so as to enter Burlington Bay, where the docking facilities can be placed, otherwise the value of a terminal may not be of much advantage to the city.

"The principal objection to the route of the Dundas Valley will be the railway bridges at the mouth of the Desjardins Canal. While this is an obstacle, it is not an extremely difficult one, for the necessary locations and levels of the railway system have lifts or draw-bridges with the same or more traffic.

"In order, however, that an intelligent idea may be secured of the best possible route, I would advise the placing of a survey party in the field to obtain the necessary locations and levels for the best practical route between the Grand River and this city. To make such a survey with the necessary plans would take about six weeks, and would cost between $1,100 and $1,300. I believe, however, in a matter of so much importance to the city that the money would be well spent if there is a possibility of securing this canal.

AT EBENEZER.

First of Series of Addresses Last Evening.

The first of a series of five addresses on "The Feasts of the Lord" was given by Mr. Robert McMurdo, illustrated by a large chart, in Ebenezer Hall last evening and was much appreciated and enjoyed by all who were present.

Mr. McMurdo read a portion of the 23rd chapter of Exodus, wherein is contained a list of the feasts of the Lord, some of which have been fulfilled, others to be fulfilled in the future. In opening he explained that the feasts in the Old Testament were but shadows of the feasts in the New Testament and it was this fact that lent to Old Testament study its richness of interest.

Mr. McMurdo will continue his address to-morrow evening and a cordial invitation is extended to any wishing to hear him.

A FRIENDLY FREAK. (The Circle.) A certain gentleman, on revisiting the village where his boyhood had spent, was greeted to see so few persons whom he knew. At length, however, he found an old friend who recognized him. "Well, well," the visitor said, after the first greetings were over, "it does me good to find one familiar face to shake hands with!"

HIGHEST FOOD-VALUE. Epps's Cocoa is a treat to Children. A Sustainment to the Worker. A Boon to the Thrifty Housewife. EPPS'S COCOA BREAKFAST SUPPER. In strength delicacy of flavour, nutritiousness and economy in use "Epps's" is unsurpassed. Children thrive on "Epps's."

BETRAYED BY CONFEDERATE.

Andreas Slander's Life Was Sought by His Associates

Because He Had Not Divided the Spoils Fairly.

Dead Desperado Was a Resident of Winnipeg.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 16.—Despatches from Pittsburgh state that Andreas Slander, the Rainy River, Ont., bank robber, who shot himself when pursued by detectives, was betrayed to the police by one of his two confederates in the Rainy River robbery, John Dombrowsky, alias Symouski, under arrest in Pittsburgh, who claimed to have been cheated in the division of the spoils.

Dombrowsky says he was planning when arrested the death of Slander and the other member of the gang for revenge.

Slander, a pretty 19-year-old widowed bride was freed to-day at the conclusion of the coroner's inquest. There was no evidence of her complicity in any of Slander's criminal actions. She declared that not until the revelations following his tragic death had she suspected him of being a criminal. Furthermore, she said she had been unaware that he ever had used the name Slander, he having represented to her that his name was Edward Mynarski, and she being known as Mrs. Caroline Mynarski.

Evidence adduced at the inquest indicates that Slander possessed remarkable vitality. With two wounds, which would immediately render an ordinary man helpless, he ran so swiftly that at the end of about three miles and within a block of the Lee avenue car line, for which he was headed, he had entirely distanced his pursuers.

The St. Louis police will claim the reward of $1,500 offered by the Bank of Nova Scotia for the arrest and conviction of any of the robbers.

IS A CANADIAN.

Winnipeg, Nov. 16.—Andreas Slander, the outlaw who shot himself at St. Louis yesterday, after a running fight with police and Pinkerton detectives who sought to arrest him for complicity in the robbery of the Rainy River branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia on July 2nd last, was a resident of this city for a number of years and his parents still live here. Although only nineteen years of age, he was known to the police as a very dangerous and desperate criminal, and had several aliases. He was one of a party of ruggens, who, when surrounded in a house here several years ago, opened fire on the detectives and effected their escape under the yowls of automatic revolvers. Victor Symouski, the real leader of the gang, and the man who organized it here, and who is now under arrest, was best known in the west as Lowandoski. He had other aliases. He, too, is a desperate character. The third bandit, who took part in the raid is Watlow Winicki, who hails from Chicago, and is well known to the Pinkertons there as a professional burglar.

A FAREWELL.

Evergreen Club Gives Send-Off to Popular Member.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Rabatille, MacNab street north, was the scene of a very happy gathering last evening, when a farewell party was held in honor of Jennie Rabatille, who leaves shortly for Clairholm, Alberta. Games and a musical programme preceded a dainty spread, after which the party adjourned to the parlor, where the president of the "Evergreen Club" presented her with an address, expressing how sorry the club was at losing such a energetic member and wishing her every happiness and success in her new home. The recipient made a suitable reply in which she thanked the gathering and assured them that she would always have a kind remembrance of the club.

The gathering dispersed in the small hours after thanking the host and hostess, and wishing their club mate a safe journey and every success.

GALA NIGHT FRIDAY.

The Britannia roller rink will give band concerts by the famous Lomas orchestra every Wednesday and Saturday hereafter, when all the latest selections will be rendered, arrangements having been made to that effect.

A special gala night will be held at the popular east end rink on Friday evening, Nov. 19, when skating will be free to all. A great crowd should take advantage of this opportunity to skate on the largest floor in Hamilton.

The great joy carnival next Tuesday will indeed be a joyful event for those who are fortunate enough to attend. The affair was originated by Miss Elsie Janis at the Metropolitan rink, New York. All those skating will be presented with instruments of torture, including cow blls, tooters, sirens, clappers, rackets, etc. In fact a whole toy department has been secured. Manager De Vandrey has just returned from Buffalo with the consignment, and each and every one will be given a souvenir. In addition Lomas' band will be in attendance. Regular prices prevailing.

PLAYED CARPET BALL.

At the regular meeting of Hamilton Lodge, A. O. U. W., four candidates were elected. The members of Concord Lodge were present by invitation, and at the close of the regular business a friendly game of carpet ball was played between a team from each lodge. The game was keenly contested, and at the close honors were declared even. Light refreshments were served after the game. On Nov. 24 Hamilton Lodge will play a challenge game with Dixon Lodge for the silver challenge cup at present held by Dixon Lodge.

WOULD NOT SPOIL THE MOMENT. (Fliegende Blätter.)

"Good gracious, we've been sitting on a newly painted bench."

"I know."

"You knew, and didn't say anything?"

"Don't be angry, dearest. You were just telling me you loved me, and I wanted you to finish first."

The masculine girl naturally looks buoyant.

That Double Chin

Every woman who is fat, and especially every woman (or man) who has a hog-like double chin, will welcome this news paragraph. Your night masks and sticking plaster strips and strokings are at an end. A method of reducing double chins (also fat abdomens and hips, shoulders, ankles and neck), that really does reduce them, has been found.

And would you believe it, it is nothing more than a simple, harmless home receipt that any ruggist will fill for you, viz., 1/2 oz. Armonia, 1/4 oz. Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 1/4 oz. Peppermint Water, a teaspoonful of which after each meal and at bedtime will take off up to a pound of fat a day. Try it—it is good for the stomach—strengthens that organ—so it turns the food into energy, bones, muscle, as it should, instead of into fat, as yours is doing now after each meal. Eat what you wish; drop exercising; be lazy even; this mixture will still trim up your figure. And it will do it evenly, too, without causing wrinkles; removing the soggy fat, such as double chins and stout abdomens are made of, first.

FIFTY-FOURTH.

Zion Sunday School Has Long Record of Good Work.

From 1855 to 1909—fifty-four years as one of the Sunday school centres of the west—that is the record of Zion Tabernacle Sunday school, which held its anniversary last evening. An excellent programme had been provided.

Early in the evening the members of the Sunday school and their friends gathered in the church, so that when the pastor rose to make a few complimentary remarks standing room only was available.

After the excellent programme had been carried out, Mr. W. Cook, the secretary, read his report for the past year which showed the progress made by the school. He stated that there were 611 names on the roll and the average attendance for the year was 383. The general collection amounted to $294.35, which left, after deducting expenses, amounting to $214.40, a balance of $80.13 to the school's credit. In addition to the general collection, the sum of $200 for mission work and $128 towards the new building, were received.

The musical programme of the evening was: "Mother's Prayer," "The Holy Spirit," "Blow Softly," Primary class; recitation, Frances Cooper; "Little Gardeners," Eddie Park, Oliver Park, Marjory Cross, Rita Balbirnie and Eva Montgomery; "Counting Their Blessings," ten primary girls; recitation, Lydia Schwartz; "Ten of Them," eight Primary scholars; solo, "Nobody's Little Girl," Eva Montgomery; "Who's Old Santa?" George Lewis, Nelson Morrison and Wilfred Lavery; chorus, "Hark the Birds Are Singing," Primary class; recitation, Lydia Schwartz; "Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe," Ila Montgomery and Primary scholars; recitation, Alice McKenzie; dialogue, "An Hour at School," Miss Olive Dent's class; "Yard of Dandelions," Primary girls; recitation, drill, T. H. Bennett's class; drill, "Christmas Stars," Mrs. T. M. Elliott's and Mrs. Fleak's classes; "A Doctor's Busy Morning," young men.

DUNDAS.

New Industry to be Launched—Teacher's Bonuses.

Dundas, Nov. 15.—The proposal to establish a factory on the canal bank, near the Hydro-Electric distributing station, for the manufacture of gas-line engines and launches, has reached that stage, it is stated, that tenders for the erection of the necessary building are being asked for.

Teachers of the Public School are doomed to disappointment, it seems, as far as receiving a special bonus from the Educational Department for the year 1908. It now appears that the grant for 1909 only is to be added to salaries, the one for 1908 going into the general fund of the school. It was at first understood that both these grants were for augmenting teachers' salaries.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kerwin were in Paris on Saturday, attending the funeral of Charles O'Neil, an old friend. The Methodist Church choir, for whom time without a leader, was yesterday placed under the leadership of Mr. Jarvis, of Hamilton.

Wm. and Mrs. Kerwin, of Toronto, spent yesterday at his parental home here.

BRAKEMAN KILLED.

Barrie, Ont., Nov. 15.—C. E. GARRY, a young G. T. R. brakeman, whose home is in Washaga, fell from his train while pulling into Allandale from the north this morning at an early hour and was killed. No one saw the accident. An inquest will be held, though death seems to have been purely accidental.

CHILDREN

In disorders and diseases of children drugs seldom do good and often do harm. Careful feeding and bathing are the babies' remedies.

Scott's Emulsion is the food-medicine that not only nourishes them most, but also regulates their digestion. It is a wonderful tonic for children of all ages. They rapidly gain weight and health on small doses.

MUSICIANS.

Federation Delegates Entertained In This City.

The Hamilton Musicians' Protective Association Sunday entertained the delegates from the American Federation of Musicians to the Labor Convention at present being held in Toronto. The delegates were Joseph N. Weber, president; Owen Miller, secretary; D. A. Carey, International officer; James Winkler, president of the Chicago local, and E. Jarrot, president of the Toronto association. They were driven around the city and on the mountain top, after which they were taken to the Royal where luncheon was served. They were also taken to the Central Fire Station where Chief Ten Eyck courteously made a quick hitch-up. In the afternoon they attended the meeting of the local association in the Trades and Labor Hall where all gave short addresses on the success of the Federation since its inception some years ago. One point brought out was that 9 years ago there were only two thousand members whereas now there are over fifty-five thousand, which showed the rapid progress made. It was also stated that fully ninety-five per cent. of the musicians in Canada and United States are members. President Weber and Mr. Winkler were accompanied by their wives, who were presented with suitable souvenirs of their first visit to this city.

After expressing their appreciation of the enjoyable day spent they returned to Toronto on the 7.05 p. m. train.

TEMPERANCE.

First Church Federation Heard Excellent Addresses.

First Church Federation had a temperance night at its regular meeting last evening, with interesting addresses by Ald. Geo. H. Lees and Ald. J. M. Perrine. The chair was occupied by the president and the proceedings were varied by a song very sweetly sung by Miss Alma Tallman and a piano solo by Miss Eanc Mooney.

Mr. Lees gave a very interesting account of the progress of temperance in Canada and in Hamilton from the time ever 30 years ago, when there were 127 saloons and 93 liquor shops in this city, with a population less than half of what it is now. He also showed how the liquor business is a detriment to every other line of business, and made it clear that the Citizens' League campaign is against the bar only, not against the hotel.

Mr. Perrine congratulated the young people of First Church upon uniting their efforts in the federation and gave a splendid half-hour talk upon temperance lines. He laid special stress upon the present day attitude of organized labor towards liquor and the saloon.

Ald. Geo. H. Mills, who was present as a visitor, also spoke a few encouraging words.

LABOR MEN.

Delegates to Congress In Toronto Spoke to Carpenters.

The local union carpenters and many members of other building trades were addressed last night in the Labor Hall by Samuel Botterel, President of the State Council of Carpenters, of New Jersey, and a member of the Executive Board of the U. B. of C. and J., and Frank Duffey, General Secretary of the U. B. of C. and J. Both gentlemen are delegates at the A. F. of L. convention now being held in Toronto.

Those present were spoken to on the principles of trade unionism and some of the accomplishments that organized labor had brought about were expounded. Some of the ideals yet to be attained by the workers were, the speakers said, the abolition of child slavery, the paying to women workers the same wages as men, the propagating of the crusade to minimize, and if possible, prevent, the curse of tuberculosis, and everything that will tend to ultimately bring about a higher and better civilization.

The addresses were attentively listened to by a fair sized audience.

Mr. W. Frid was chairman. Allan Studholme, M. P. P., was also on the speakers' platform.

MILLAR-CORRIGAN.

On Monday, Nov. 15, at St. Mary's Cathedral by Rev. Dean Mahony was solemnized the marriage of Miss Ruth Marie Corrigan, only daughter of the late Geo. D. Corrigan, C. E., and Mr. H. T. Millar, formerly of Dundee, Scotland. The couple were attended by Miss Agnes O'Connor, of Toronto, and Edward O'Sullivan, to whom the groom favors were a pearl pendant and gold scarf pin. Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," selections from Beethoven and other music were rendered by Mr. Compton. The young couple left on an afternoon train for New York and Passaic, New Jersey, and upon their return will reside at Akron, Ohio.

Music and the Drama

A good programme is offered at the Bennett Theatre this week and yesterday afternoon and evening large audiences seemed well pleased with the entertainment. The acts cover almost every line of vaudeville endeavor and plenty of comedy is supplied. Orth and Fern in "Sign That Book," one of the funniest sketches seen this year on a local stage, made a bit and had to answer to several encores. Orth proved himself a clever pianist and his stunt of playing on covered keys was particularly bright. Fern is a laugh producer of unusual merit. All interested in Darwin's theory should see Galetti's monkeys and baboons. They perform really remarkable tricks and their antics provoke much amusement. The shaving parlor scene is excruciatingly funny. Minonetti Kokin, the English comedienne, is very vivacious and her Dutch character impersonation is both clever and amusing. Charles B. Mahan and Alice Lawlor made as big a hit as they did at the Savoy two years ago. Their act is entirely different, and their character songs and acting very good. The Sleedes in their novel pantomime, "The Mysterious Hotel," have an original act. By the aid of mechanical contrivances they work some extraordinary happenings. The remaining numbers on the programme are good and on the whole the show is well worth seeing.

A PLAY OF ALASKA. In "Two Women and That Man," a new play of life in Alaska, which comes to the Grand to-morrow and Thursday evenings, a thrilling and picturesque romance is promised. The play is a story of life and conditions found in that theatre of tragedy and adventure, the valley of the Yukon, during the year 1893. The play gives an accurate picture and story of the country and its people in all real color and scenes. These characters placed in the atmosphere of the great North present a phase of life as interesting as it is new. The play is said to be capitally staged in every detail, even to the theatre being filled with the odor of pine as the curtain goes up on the first act, displaying a great forest of the North.

A ROMANCE OF ITALY. "The Lily and The Prince," a romance of Italy, will be presented at the Grand for the first time next Monday evening. The story is based on an attempted overthrow of the Papal States. The play is said to be well staged and in the hands of a capable company which is headed by Miss Lucy Blake, who will be seen in the role of Angela, originated by Mildred Holland.

THE PRINCE OF TONIGHT. An operetta with a fanciful but well defined plot, a music score that is much better than tuneful, a cast of clever principals, an attractive chorus including an exceptionally good group of male voices, and bright, colorful stage settings, is what "The Prince of Tonight" is said to be, which comes to the Grand next Friday and Saturday.

"The Prince of Tonight" tells a definite story and while the material for the plot seems to have been spun out of moonbeams, the quality fits well into a musical setting. Henry Woodruff, who becomes for one night the Prince of Lunatia, does much by his good acting and attractive stage presence to preserve the illusion that carries the action through the mythical realm of a moon kingdom to Palm Beach, Florida. A beautiful transformation scene between the first and second acts shows the impecunious college man and pretended "life saver" transported to the moon kingdom, where he is transformed into a prince whose reign is to last for one night. In the second act he returns to Palm Beach, where he conquers the imperious beauty who had formerly tricked him into loving her. Henry Woodruff is said to carry the role with easy grace. Miss Ruth Peebles, who plays the part of Virginia Stuart, has personal charm and excellent voice, while Viola Hopkins as Bonnie Stuart is said to be most charming and girlish; in fact, the company is much above the average. The chorus and ensemble numbers, are all exceptionally good, one of these being the college song, introducing the several college yells. The sale of seats will open to-morrow morning.

"JOE" MURPHY WEDS.

Philadelphia, Nov. 14.—Friends of Joseph Murphy, veteran actor, famed for his work in "Kerry Gow" and reputed to be worth $3,000,000, were surprised to-day to learn that he had been married in San Antonio, Texas, to Miss May Frymier, an actress, whose home is in this city. Murphy is seventy years old, and his bride is twenty-five. The marriage took place on Thursday last.

Miss Frymier is known on the stage as May Firmier. At the time of the marriage she was on a tour in "A Woman's Way." She was formerly leading woman in the company headed by Jas. J. Corbett.

THEATRE UNDER THE BAN.

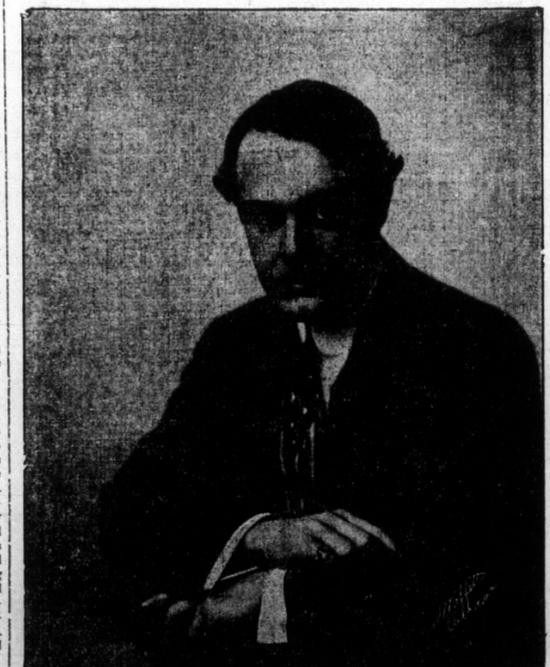

Montreal, Nov. 14.—Theatrical circles were considerably shaken up this morning by a letter read at eight o'clock in all the Roman Catholic Churches from the Archbishop of Montreal, condemning in the severest possible terms the performances at the Academy of Music, which his grace designates as a place of peril and danger.

This theatre was taken over some months ago by a company of French artists from Paris, and the character of the representations have been more or less a subject of criticism.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Greater Hamilton Association has been called for Wednesday afternoon next, at the Board of Trade rooms, at 4.30 o'clock sharp, to take action on the projected new Welland Canal, and other important matters.

A full attendance of the members is particularly requested.

Frank Cherry, a wealthy farmer, is under arrest at Prince Albert, Sask., under a warrant sworn out by his son, charging him with failure to provide adequate medical treatment for his little daughter, who had a leg terribly broken in a runaway three weeks ago. Since that time the bone has been protruding through the flesh, and he wouldn't allow her to be treated. Finally, the son, unable longer to stand the sufferings of his sister, swore out a warrant against his father.

STANLEY MILLS & CO., Limited

Tuesday, Nov. 16th, 1909

One strong feature of this store's service is the advance preparations it is continually making for the coming seasons—months before. The actual selling time for certain merchandise comes round the management and the staff of experienced buyers of this business are giving their thoughts and attention to it. Plans are laid weeks, months and in fact a whole year, sometimes, in advance of their consummation.

Take, for instance, the holiday season that is fast approaching. On the 20th December last year this store made notes how and where it could better its service for the rush times of another season—actually laid its plans then for the Christmas campaign of this year. VAPOR IN AIR

Would Cover the Earth Depth of an Inch in Water.

Melted Ice of Polar Regions Would Cover It 5 Feet Deep.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The water which exists as a vapor in the atmosphere, if precipitated, would cover the whole area of the earth to a depth of an inch, and the ice in the polar regions if melted would cover the whole area of the earth five feet deep, according to the hydrographic offices of the United States navy.

This estimate is made in an official computation of the amount of water in the great lakes. It is improbable that as much as one-tenth of one per cent. of the fresh water in the world is contained in the great lakes and their tributaries.

The official estimate gives 307,496,000 cubic miles as the quantity of water in the oceans of the world, and 11,500 cubic miles as the volume of the great lakes and their tributaries.

The lowest estimate of the free waters held in the earth crust would be equivalent to a uniform sheet over the entire 197,168,798 square miles of the total area of the earth's surface to a depth of about 100 feet. This, however, accord-

Shot By Negro

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 15.—Ed. Cardwell and Ed. Koonts, young white men, boarding a street car last midnight, crowded in ahead of William Smith, a negro. The white men stood on the rear platform while the negro, who sullenly resented their act, entered the car. After travelling several blocks the negro drew a revolver, rushed to the rear door, shot both men dead and leaping from the car, escaped. Later he surrendered to the police.

The staff of the Attorney-General's

The medal is suitably engraved and bears the crest of the Province and the words "Superintendent of Police." It costs nothing to think as long as you don't think out loud.

NAVY FOR CANADA.

Brilliant and Patriotic Speech by Premier Laurier.

His Scathing Reply to Speeches of Mr. Monk.

As Britons We Have Duties as Well as Privileges.

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—The House of Commons settled down to work today with a celerity which augurs well for the expeditious despatch of business during the session just begun. The debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne, usually a matter of days, was finished in five hours. The debate was marked by a speech of great brilliancy and power on the naval question by Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

It was significant that none of the Conservative speakers who took part in the debate referred to the subject of the navy except Mr. W. F. Maclean, who boldly asserted his belief that the Canadian people would stand by the mother country, and not only build a navy, but also give a contribution in money if necessary.

MR. ECREMENT'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Ecrement, the youngest member of the House, in opening the debate in a neat speech in French, touched on the several items mentioned in the speech from the throne, and referring to the question of naval defence, declared that Canada was strong enough, wealthy and proud enough to be no longer a pensioner on the mother country. A Canadian navy, built by Canadian labor, was the only true and permanent policy for Canada.

MR. KYTE'S SPEECH.

Mr. Kyte was equally felicitous in seconding the address. He congratulated the Government on its I. C. R. policy, noting with approval the proposal to acquire some of the lines and expressed himself as opposed to a cash contribution to the Imperial Government for naval defence. He heartily supported the Government policy of a Canadian navy.

MR. R. L. BORDEN.

Mr. Borden commenced with an expression of sympathy with the family and friends of the late Dr. Wilbert McIntyre, whose death he said, occasioned a loss not only to Parliament, but to the country. After congratulating the mover and second, he called attention to the difference in the tenor of the speech from the throne from that of last year. Last year the Government attributed its financial difficulties to "world-wide depression," but this year there was no reference made or credit given to the "world-wide prosperity." The Government left the inference that that prosperity was due to itself. Comparing the last ten years of Conservative administration with the ten Liberal years from 1900 to 1909, Mr. Borden said that there had been an increase in the aggregate revenue during the latter period of $321,500,000, and although, in view of that increase the country might have expected a decrease in the public debt, there had actually been an increase of thirty-six millions.

Mr. Borden proceeded that Parliament be informed of the probable date of the completion of the National Transcontinental Railway and of the Quebec bridge. He noted that there was no reference in the speech to the waterways treaty or to the all-Red line, and he hoped that the Prime Minister would inform the House as to the effect of the Franco-Canadian trade treaty upon the tariff relations of Canada and the United States in view of the new American tariff. He pointed out that under a section of the American tariff 25 per cent. more duty would be charged on goods from countries which discriminated against the United States than on goods from countries which did not, and he thought that was a matter for consideration by the Government, particularly in view of the fact that Canada imported twenty-five times as much to the United States as to France.

Referring to the paragraph in the speech on naval defence, he said that after listening to Mr. Kyte he was in doubt as to whether Canada was still a portion of the British empire. He did not propose to discuss the naval question until the Government brought its programme down, nor did he propose to allude to some other remarkable speeches by members of the Government, as he understood that in one case at least the Minister disclaimed having used the language attributed to him. But if Liberal journals, which had been proclaiming that he (Mr. Borden) was entirely favorable to the Government's proposal, imagined that any such proposals as those outlined in at least one speech by a Minister of the Crown would meet with his approval, they were decidedly under a wrong impression. "I neither approve of nor denounce the Government's proposals, because I do not know what they are. I am very happy indeed to say that I thank His Excellency for his gracious speech, but in doing that we do not concede for one moment that we are restricting our right of action in any respect in connection with the proposals of the Government, when they come down. Like all other proposals of the Government, they will receive reasonable and fair consideration, and the sooner they are brought down and the sooner we get to work on them the better."

SIR WILFRID LAURIER.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier joined in the expression of sympathy for the death of Dr. McIntyre, and in Mr. Borden's congratulations to the mover and second. Mr. Borden had referred to the prosperity of Canada, and to the fact that under the present Government $321,000,000 more had been taken in revenue than in the same period under the Conservative Government. He did not dispute that, but he pointed out that now money was obtained from a wealthy, happy and contented population, whereas in the Conservative days it was a case of getting money from an impoverished and discontented people. He would not say anything now about the Quebec bridge, as Mr. Graham would deal with that later, but the remarks of Sir Charles Rivers Wilson with regard to the construction of a portion of the line had been scarcely justified, and, in fact, had been fabricated by the events. Sir Charles Rivers Wilson had complained

We Cannot Improve it

Taylor's Infants' Delight represents over forty-three years of constant effort along one line—the effort to make a perfect soap.

A liberal reward is waiting for any one who can tell us how to improve it in the slightest. We ourselves believe it to be perfect and can conceive of no way of improving it. The choicest oils from the Orient enter into its composition—olive oil from the first pressing of selected fruits—cocoanut oil, the best the market affords, and that refined with extra care—and with all this just sufficient otto of roses—that choicest perfume from the Sultan's Domain—to impart a delicate, wholesome fragrance to the skin. that the line had not been completed from Winnipeg to Superior Junction, and that, therefore, this year the railway could not carry the crops to Lake Superior. Since these words were uttered that part of the railway had been completed, the road was now open to traffic, and wheat was being carried at this moment from the Prairie Provinces to Lake Superior over the National Transcontinental Railway.

Proceeding, Sir Wilfrid said: "My hon. friend has not discussed the subject of naval defence, and that is the very thing which, I think, on the present occasion should be discussed, for the reason that the policy which we adopted last session—unanimously adopted—seems now to be attacked in quarters where we had reason to expect support. When at the last session this policy was adopted, when the House came to the conclusion that Canada should organize a naval service in co-operation with the British Admiralty, we informed Parliament that we were going to send to Britain two members of the Cabinet for the purpose of discussing these very questions, and of forming plans as to the best method of carrying out the will of Parliament as expressed in that resolution. The Minister of Marine and Fisheries and the Minister of Militia went as soon as the session was over. They attended the Imperial Defence Conference in London, and they also had a conference with the Admiralty, and they came to a conclusion which will be laid before the House at an early date."

Mr. Monk, Sir Wilfrid said, had complained of the silence observed by the Government, and had suggested that it concealed some nefarious design. There had been no secrecy, but even if there had been, Mr. Monk would not have been hurt by it, because he had told the people of Jacques Cartier that he did not want any action to be taken, and of course no action could be taken until the papers were brought down. The papers will be brought down on Wednesday, both here and in Great Britain. The leader of the Opposition thinks it would be better to wait until these papers are brought down. But I think on the contrary, that this is the time to discuss it. If we had reason to believe that the policy, as laid down here at the last session, was to be adopted by the Opposition, as it was adopted last session, then there would be no reason to say a word on the subject; but it appears that it is not a happy family which sits on the other side of this House. It was not the angel of peace, but the spirit of discord, which appeared to preside over them."

Sir Wilfrid read the defence resolution, unanimously adopted last session, and pointed out that the policy there defined was clear cut. "There is no ambiguity about it; it is as precise as words can make it. Parliament stands unanimously committed to the policy that Canada was to organize a Canadian naval service. This was to be done in co-operation with the British Admiralty. Nothing could be clearer than this resolution, which was deliberately and unanimously adopted, and it was based on a resolution introduced by Hon. George E. Foster, which had stood for six weeks on the order paper. Therefore, nobody was taken by surprise."

The vote on the resolution had scarcely been taken when there were certain whispers heard from the other side of the House that it was not to meet with approval in some quarters. The whispers had increased to murmurs, which had since become ominous rumblings. He must give credit to the generalissimo of the opposing forces, that up to the present they had stood manfully to their guns, whatever they might do hereafter, but behind them, in the rank and file, there were some young bloods who were clamoring for something spectacular. "That was one side. But there was another side, high up in the councils of party, high up in the staff itself, who, like Lucifer, declared, 'I will not serve thee, O Lord, for I have defied the authority of Agamemnon, and withdrew, sulking, to his tent.'" party, which insisted that Canada should not have a naval organization of her own, but that she should give a contribution to the mother country. The example of Australia was quoted against the Government at that time. Australia was paying a certain proportion of its revenue to the Imperial exchequer to help the mother country to maintain her navy in the Pacific and waters contiguous to Australia, and the Canadian Government was told that Australia was following the true policy; but time had shown that Canada was in the right, for Australia was now coming to the policy of Canada, and was no longer contributing to the Imperial treasury, but was organizing a squadron of its own. Then last March there was great excitement when the news came that New Zealand was to contribute a Dreadnought to the Imperial navy. There, too, public opinion has since been moving, and he gathered from the press that New Zealand, too, was coming to follow the example of Canada. If the British Empire was to remain strong, every daughter nation must be allowed to develop herself, so that if danger arrived each should be at the summit of her possibilities of energy and strength.

There was still another side in the Conservative ranks. He had been dealing with the aggressive, he would now deal with the spine. He would borrow from the American vocabulary and describe it as the party of "stand pat" chief of whom was the member for Jacques Cartier (Mr. Monk).

Mr. Monk—Is it quite fair to discuss this question and keep the papers from Parliament? If the British Empire was to remain strong, every daughter nation must be allowed to develop herself, so that if danger arrived each should be at the summit of her possibilities of energy and strength. There was still another side in the Conservative ranks. He had been dealing with the aggressive, he would now deal with the spine. He would borrow from the American vocabulary and describe it as the party of "stand pat" chief of whom was the member for Jacques Cartier (Mr. Monk).

Mr. Monk—You should not speak in Parliament on a subject until the papers are brought down. Sir Wilfrid—it would be just as well not to speak outside of Parliament until the papers are brought down. The member for Jacques Cartier has apparently changed his mind since March last. I have a vague recollection that he was in his seat on the 20th of March. He did not speak. He "stood pat" even then. But he did not offer any objection to the resolution. Speaking in his own constituency he did not hesitate to discuss it or to express an objection to the policy which was adopted last year and in which he was a participant himself because he did not challenge the vote. He voted for the resolution, and having done so, he later chose to attack the policy of the Government party and to declare that he would not stand by it.

Mr. Monk appealed to the chair for a ruling as to whether Sir Wilfrid was in order in referring to the subject until the papers had been brought down. Sir Wilfrid said he was not discussing any papers not laid before Parliament. He was discussing a resolution before Parliament, and when the member for Jacques Cartier went into the Province of Quebec and tried to raise some prejudice against it he (Sir Wilfrid) had a right to refer to it.

Mr. Monk resented the suggestion that he had tried to raise prejudice. Sir Wilfrid pointed out that Mr. Monk had spoken of twenty millions to be spent on the navy, and he considered that was an appeal to prejudice. Mr. Monk would find when the papers were brought down that he had been far astray in his figures. Mr. Monk had told his constituents that if Canada built a navy she might be drawn into a European war. "Whether we have such a navy or not we shall not lose our right to self-government, and if we have a navy it will go to no war unless this Parliament chooses to send it." Mr. Monk had also asked what was the object or occasion of building a navy. There was a time when Canada had no railways and no public school system, and if now she had to organize a navy it was because she was growing as a nation. Mr. Monk had told the electors that this was a Canadian question, which must be dealt with finally from a Canadian standpoint. In that he agreed with Mr. Monk. It was a Canadian question primarily, but there was something more than that. "We are Canadians and we have to consider this question not only from the standpoint of our status as Canadians, but we have to approach it from the standpoint of our status as British subjects. We have rights and privileges as British subjects, and we have duties and responsibilities. Mr. Monk had ignored that altogether when he discussed the subject. He had discussed it from a Canadian point of view, but he should have gone farther and discussed it from the point of view of our status as British subjects, and so long as we enjoy the rights and privileges of British citizenship, so long we must and shall assume and accept all the responsibilities that appertain to that position. These are the sentiments with which we should approach this question. I say 'we.' I mean Canadians of all origins, of all races, of all nationalities. I mean Canadians from the east and from the west. I mean Canadians, above all, of the Province of Quebec, who claim the honor of being descended from a race which has always stood foremost in chivalry, in honor, and in idealism."

Sir Wilfrid went on to say that in what they had already done Canadians were performing their duties as British subjects. Producing a letter which he received from a friend visiting in Rome, Sir Wilfrid said he would be able to illustrate it what are the rights and privileges of Canadians as British subjects. In the City of Rome, a Canadian college was built a few years ago by the priests of the Society of St. Sulipice, of Montreal. At the date this letter was written, Rome was in the throes of a violent emotion, occasioned by the execution of Prof. Ferrer in Barcelona, and riots were imminent in different parts of the city. The Spanish embassy was threatened by an infuriated mob. Sir Wilfrid's friend asked if there was no danger. The Rev. Father Superior had replied: "No, I will hoist the British flag if we are attacked. It is our talisman here."

MR. W. F. MACLEAN. Mr. W. F. Maclean, who gained the Speaker's recognition before Mr. Foster, declared that Canada stood at the head of the way in Imperial co-operation, and he applauded "old Sam" for his grit. But the earnest faces and the tense conversations of the men who crowded round the three convicted leaders spoke of the feelings the telegram had aroused. "From now on I vote Socialist," said one young delegate as he gripped John Mitchell's hand. The remark was significant. The sending of the three men to prison has done more to feed the fires of class consciousness than all the harangues of the Socialist orators. Man after man expressed his indignation with the United States executive that it has stood idly by while their leaders are sent to prison. Already in the eyes of the delegates the three convicted leaders are martyrs. It looks as if four hundred delegates are going back from the Toronto convention white hot with indignation to preach the gospel of class conflict.

HON. G. E. FOSTER. Hon. G. E. Foster turned the attention of the House to the financial aspects of the Government administration. He drew in colors of gloom the dire results which would have followed had Canada not been blessed with good crops this year. With respect to the proposed ratification of the Franco-Canadian trade treaty, he was afraid the House could not rely on the hope that this would not be regarded in the United States as a basis for the imposition of the maximum American tariff against Canada. There was ample evidence in the new Payne tariff that the intention of the American legislators was to place themselves in a position to force the hand of Canada in the matter of fiscal relations. He argued that not only would the extra twenty-five per cent. duty apply to all dutiable goods entering the United States from Canada, but it might also apply to all Canadian exports now entering the States free of duty.

Mr. Alex. Haggart (Winnipeg), like the previous Opposition speakers, steered clear of the naval question and dwelt in the main on the need of quicker action by the Government to implement its promises with regard to the construction of the Hudson Bay Railway. Dr. Sproule devoted his speech to a criticism of the Government's immigration policy and the expenditures on the Transcontinental. NO BABIES, NO BALLOTS. Mr. E. N. Lewis closed the debate with an expression of his views on the question of women's suffrage, which he declared, amid loud laughter, should be granted on the basis of "no babies, no ballots." He gave notice of a resolution prohibiting immigration from any country outside the limits of forty degrees south and twenty east. The customary resolution to transmit the address to the Governor-General was then adopted, and the House adjourned.

JAIL FOR LABOR MEN.

Gomper, Mitchell and Morrison Must Serve Sentences.

Court of Appeal Refuses to Stay Proceedings.

Dramatic Scene in Convention When Telegram Came.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—A small piece of yellow paper, handed by a telegraph messenger to President Sam Gomper, just as the latter was raising his gavel to adjourn the American Federation of Labor's Convention yesterday afternoon, turned a listless, apathetic gathering into a tense, united mass, and provided the most spectacular ending of any meeting ever held in Massey Hall. The telegram was from the Federation's attorney in Washington, who through the day had been arguing before the District Court of Appeals in an endeavor to get a stay of proceedings, so that President Gomper, Vice-President John Mitchell and Secretary Frank Morrison might appeal to the Federal Court from the sentences of imprisonment passed on them by the District Court of Columbia. It read: "Darlington agreed to fifteen days' extension, but court refused any extension. The mandate of the court goes down on Saturday morning."

MUST BE THERE ON SATURDAY. This means that on Saturday morning the three officers of the Federation must surrender to the court and commence their sentences or forfeit their bail of $12,000. The sentence on Gomper is twelve months, Mitchell nine months, and Morrison six months.

The reading of the telegram drew the convention up in an instant. It was only the Gomper's quizzical look on face and hearty laughter as he caught sight of Morrison's serious aspect that prevented a demonstration. Instead the convention joined in the laughter, and then applauded "old Sam" for his grit. But the earnest faces and the tense conversations of the men who crowded round the three convicted leaders spoke of the feelings the telegram had aroused. "From now on I vote Socialist," said one young delegate as he gripped John Mitchell's hand. The remark was significant. The sending of the three men to prison has done more to feed the fires of class consciousness than all the harangues of the Socialist orators. Man after man expressed his indignation with the United States executive that it has stood idly by while their leaders are sent to prison. Already in the eyes of the delegates the three convicted leaders are martyrs. It looks as if four hundred delegates are going back from the Toronto convention white hot with indignation to preach the gospel of class conflict.

PRESIDENT GOMPER'S REQUEST. Immediately upon receipt of the news President Gomper on behalf of himself and colleagues sent the following telegram to his attorneys in Washington, Messrs. Ralston & Siddons: "The sending of our request for a stay being refused, we would like to remain in Toronto until close of Federation's convention on Saturday evening." But it is not expected that the court will comply with the request. President Gomper's pointed out that the feeling of the court towards the appellants was shown in the fact that a stay had been refused even in the face of Attorney Darlington's consent. Darlington is counsel for the Bucks Stove Company of St. Louis. It was he who took out the injunction which resulted in the three labor leaders being sent to prison.

If, as seems very certain, the three officers have to leave for prison while the convention is still sitting, the valedictory proceedings on Friday morning will be of a memorable character. The three leaders will have to leave before the election of officers is reached. GOMPER'S POPULARITY INCREASES. Incidentally the judgment of the court kills all hopes for Delegate Max Hays and the secessionist party. In the face of the prison sentences no opposition to the Executive's re-election would be listened to. One prominent secessionist came up on the platform and shook Gomper by the hand—probably for the first time in the convention—and said: "All the secessionists are with you, Sam."

"Well, that cheers me," replied the genial little man with a smile. "Asked if they had anything to say to the public, each of the three leaders disclaimed having any further explanation. WHAT THE LEADERS SAY. "Everything I had to say I said in my speech on the matter on Friday," said President Gomper. "The court has spoken and we have got to obey the court. We are in doubt as to whether we are entitled to have a re-hearing by the Federal Appeal Court, but our attorneys will do everything they can while we are in prison. I'd have liked to finish up the convention and arrange the Federation's business as far ahead as possible. To a delegate he said: "I'm sorry. This spoils our organizing trip to Tampa. You'll have to go without me." Secretary Morrison said: "We've got to go to prison. That's certain. There's no getting away from that. I expect our attorneys will enter a case with the Appeal Court and endeavor to get us out with habeas corpus proceedings." John Mitchell looked worried. "I don't know any more than the telegram says. I suppose we have got to obey the court."

The court's decision was admittedly a great surprise. "Our attorneys assured us that there was no doubt about our request for a stay being granted," said Mr. Gomper.

The papers and cur-setters had asked permission to organize a union for the blue-stone cutters. The committee referred the matter to the convention. Delegate Duncan, President of the Granite Cutters' Union, wanted the matter referred to the Committee on Jurisdiction, saying that it obviously belonged to the stone-cutters. WESTMOUNT ANNEXATION.

Civic Committee Discusses Project With W. D. Platt.

Deputation Will Go Over the Property at Early Date

To See If Satisfactory Terms Can be Agreed Upon.

The annexation committee yesterday afternoon did not show any great desire to take West Mount Survey, running from Garth street to the golf links, south of Aberdeen avenue, into the city on the terms set forth in the petition, signed by W. D. Platt and other property owners. The territory covers about seventy-three acres.

City Solicitor Waddell pointed out that the petition wanted it stipulated that the city should pay sixty per cent. of the cost of cement walks and the property owners forty. This would tie the city down for all time. The property owners also wanted the right to have water supplied when they demanded it. The city would also have to pay the school debt due to Barton township. He thought a petition for annexation should be made without setting forth terms, leaving it to the city and those interested to see if they could agree. This was what was done in the east end annexation.

Mr. Platt replied that the city would undertake none of the obligations it had to assume in annexing the territory east of Sherman avenue. He declared that his enterprise in building up this portion of the city had not been rewarded by any expenditures by the city for the benefit of the properties in question. The city spent $5,000 fixing up Garth street after he had given it the park property, near Chatham. "I am prepared," said Mr. Platt, "to buy that property back for $20,000."

Mr. Platt stated that he had already spent $12,000 on the Westmount Survey. Cement walks already laid had cost $2,500, and it would take about that much to complete the same.

One of the chief objections demanded by the petition is that the section shall have a township assessment for five years.

The city engineer reported that the sewers for the district would cost $19,000.

The city engineer and the chairman of the Board of Works and Sewers Committees will go over the property and then see if they cannot arrange terms satisfactory to Mr. Platt.

OLD SCROOGE.

E. S. Williamson in Dickens' Christmas Carol.

To faithfully interpret an author's writings is one of the greatest factors in immortalizing his name. Mr. E. S. Williamson, of Toronto, is one of the most faithful and accomplished interpreters of Charles Dickens in Canada today, and has been largely instrumental in promoting an increased admiration for that wonderful writer of stories that touch the chords of human interest.

Last night Mr. Williamson gave a recital of Dickens' "Christmas Carol" in Centenary Church school room, under the auspices of the Ladies' Mission Circle, to an audience that entirely filled the room, and the fact that there was such a large turnout gave further verification of the fact that Dickens is as popular to-day as he ever was.

Mr. Williamson's recital was complete. He is an elocutionist of distinction. Probably the season he is so good with his positions of Dickens' works is because he loves everything Dickensian. His mannerisms are excellent; he is master of his voice, and last night the audience almost fancied it was the harsh grating voice of old Ebenezer Scrooge they heard and the sepulchral voices of the respective ghosts.

Those present learned of the great transformation and regeneration of Scrooge, from the cold, hard, selfish man he was to a man who awoke in the morning with his heart literally overflowing with a desire to do good and endeavor to do his share to make the world happier.

Dr. Crandall was chairman, and the Misses Mills and Marshall played a pianoforte duet, and Miss M. Lovinger and Mrs. George Allan sang solos.

WENTWORTH.

People of Baptist Church Enjoy Anniversary Entertainment.

The anniversary social of Wentworth Street Baptist Church was largely attended. The programme was arranged differently than those of other years, in that a number of local ministers were secured to give addresses on loyalty. The addresses were very interesting and inspiring, as the different phases of the church life were pointed out, showing the best manner in which to be loyal to Jesus Christ and always keep the Christian cause in view. The ways in which the Christian could be disloyal were also pointed out, showing the dangers which would need to be avoided.

The programme was as follows: Hymns, "Onward Christian Soldiers"; prayer, Rev. C. E. Barrett; organ solo; Miss Boniface; chairman's remarks, Rev. W. Quarrington; anthem, "Great is the Lord," choir; address, "Loyalty to Christ," Rev. H. McDiarmid; address, "Loyalty to the Home," Rev. James Grant; duet, "Love Divine," Mrs. Peurr and Mrs. Dorland; address, "Loyalty to the Church," Rev. C. E. Barrett; address, "Loyalty to the Public Services in the Church," Rev. Jas. Bracken.

After the programme, which was rather lengthy, had been run off, the supper was served in the basement of the church, under the direction of the ladies.

There is an old babechee out in Manassah named A. Locke Smith. No wonder love laughs at him with a name like that.

Do You Need Shaking?

Like a Stove Choked With Ashes. You have probably noticed how much more briskly the fire burns when freshly built or shaken. You doubtless remember, too, how much more briskly you used to get around when you were in your teens or twenties. The cases are parallel. You are like the fire that is choked with ashes. The cells which compose the body are constantly dying and being renewed. There is the indigestible part of the food to be removed. This cleansing of the body is the duty of the bowels, kidneys and skin. When any of these organs fail to do their work properly, the system becomes clogged and the fire of life burns low.

There is an increasing tendency towards constipation, kidney trouble and poisoned blood as one grows older. In most cases, the need is felt of something to regulate these vital organs. "Fruit-a-tives" does this perfectly. It acts directly on the liver, increasing the flow of bile and causes the bowels to move regularly and naturally. "Fruit-a-tives" is the greatest of kidney regulators, overcoming the tendency to congestion of the kidneys and strengthening these organs. "Fruit-a-tives" also stimulates the skin to renewed action.

By their combined action on bowels, kidneys and skin, "Fruit-a-tives" keeps the system free of all poisons and renews the vigor of youth. "Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c—or may be obtained from Fruit-a-tives, Limited, Ottawa.

THE FARM OCTOBER ROOT, SEED AND FODDER CROPS OF CANADA.

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—The Census Office gives out to-day a statement on the root, seed and fodder crops of Canada for the month of October, together with their values, as reported by the regular correspondents. The yield of potatoes is 99,087,000 bushels, which is 22,697,000 bushels more than last year. Turnips are reported at 107,724,000 bushels, being 5,476,000 bushels more than last year. The hay and clover crop is 427,000 tons more than last year. Fodder corn shows a decrease of 149,000 tons, the crop being 2,780,000 tons. The average condition of potatoes over Canada is 93.98 per cent.; of turnips and other roots, 91.64 per cent.; of hay and clover, 88.68 per cent., and of fodder corn 90.68 per cent. The total value of the four crops is $202,473,790, as against $188,505,000 last year. Prince Edward Island is credited with $5,748,900, or 2.83 per cent. of the total; Nova Scotia with $18,741,300, or 9.25 per cent.; New Brunswick, with $13,497,900, or 6.61 per cent.; Quebec, with $59,952,000, or 29.69 per cent.; Ontario, with $97,475,000, or 48.15 per cent.; Manitoba, with $2,886,500, or 1.42 per cent.; Saskatchewan, with $1,896,500, or .93 per cent., and Alberta with $2,276,000, or 1.12 per cent. The value of hay and clover alone is $132,287,900, being 110,403,000 more than last year. The potato rot has done much harm in the Maritime Provinces as a consequence of the heavy fall rains; but in Quebec and Ontario the yield and quality rank high. Good reports are also made from the Northwest Provinces, but considerable damage has been done there in places by early frost in September. In British Columbia all the crops are reported as excellent in quality and yield, but no areas have been procured for that province. The full report on the root and fodder crops will be printed in the Census and Statistics Monthly.

SCRAP BOOK POETRY

THEY DIDN'T THINK. Once a trap was baited With a piece of cheese, It tickled so a little mouse It almost made him sneeze; An old rat said, "There's danger! Be careful where you go!" "Nonsense!" said the other, "I don't think you know!" So he walked in boldly— Nobody was in sight— First he took a nibble, Then he took a bite; Close the trap together, Snapped as quick as wink, Catching mousey fast there, 'Cause he didn't think. Once a little turkey, Fond of her own way, Wouldn't ask the old ones Where to go or stay; She said, "I'm not a baby. Here I'm half grown; Surely I am big enough To run about alone!" Off she went, but somebody Hiding saw her pass; Son like snow her feathers Covered all the grass. So she made a supper, For a sly young mink, 'Cause she was so headstrong That she wouldn't think. Once there was a robin, Lived outside the door, Who wanted to go inside, And hon upon the floor. "No, no," said the mother, "You must stay with me; Little birds are safest Sitting in a tree." "I don't care," said Robin, And gave his tail a flick, "I don't think the old folks Know quite everything." Down he flew, and Kitten seized him, Before he'd time to blink; "Oh," he said, "Oh, sorry, But I didn't think." Now my little children, You who read this song, Don't you see what trouble Comes of thinking wrong? And can't you take a warning From their dreadful fate Who, when their thinking Shows it was too late? Don't think there's always safety When no danger shows; Don't suppose you know more Than anybody knows; But when you're warned of ruin, Pause upon the brink.

And don't go under headlong, 'Cause you didn't think. Phoebe Cary.

WHAT IS GOING ON TO-DAY IN THE WORLD OF SPORT.

WIGLE MAY NOT PLAY NEXT SATURDAY.

Jungle King's Great Line Plunger Has an Injured Toe and Finds It Difficult to Navigate—Jack Gray's Ankle is in Shape.

"Now for Ottawa!" is the Tigers' battle cry. The Jungle Kings showed conclusively on Saturday that they have a championship team. Their goal was never really in danger from the ineffective onslaughts of the Scullers, and their playing against a dead wind was the best seen on any gridiron this year.

Great credit is due the Argos for their plucky and stubborn defence. Their wing line played a great game for three-quarters, but fell away somewhat in the last fifteen minutes.

The yellow and black team should work hard this week. The Rough Riders are several points stronger than the Argonauts, and have a team that has been welded into a great football machine by King Clancy's careful coaching. However, the Tigers have nothing to fear if they are in condition when the crucial moment arrives. The game here a week ago last Saturday showed that the Jungle Kings have a little on the Senators in every department of the game, and on form the Tigers should win by a good sized score.

The announcement that Gerald Wigle may not be able to play next Saturday will be bad news for the Hamilton fans. Wigle has developed as a wing man until he is now considered the best line plunger in Canada, and the Tigers will suffer a big loss if he is not on the team when they line up against Ottawa. In last Saturday's game one of his toes was injured, and it has been so sore since that he has hardly been able to walk around.

Jack Gray will be in shape to play, however. He was at the practice held last evening, and was as spry as usual. In the event of Wigle being out of the game, Bethune, spare, or Gerard or Farrell, of the intermediates, may be put in the scrimmage, and Brammer put out on the line. The big cop played a great game last Saturday.

The back division for next Saturday's game will be the same as that used against the Rough Riders in the game here: Moore, Simpson and Burton on the half-line, and George Smith at full back.

At a meeting of the Inter-Provincial to be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock Dundas' protest against "Kid" Smith will be considered.

Secretary Robinson, of the Inter-Provincial last evening wrote to the Ottawa Football Club asking them to suggest officials for the saw-off.

A meeting of the Rooters' Club will be held on Thursday evening at the Ramblers' Club. A section of the Rose all stand has been reserved for the Hamilton rooters, and two hundred and fifty tickets will be sold at the meeting.

PRESS COMMENT ON THE TIGER-ARGO GAME.

Toronto Telegram: As has been the case all year, Ben Simpson was the whole work for the Tigers, and to his credit goes every point that Hamilton made, Ben's punting being for gains on every kick with or against the wind, and the last following up of Lyon and Marriott prevented the Argo backs from running the punts out from behind the line.

Mert Kent, the Argo centre half, punted in his usual good way, but Simpson directed his kicks to the other halves, and Kent was not given very many chances, and the other Argo backs could not punt near as far as either Kent or Simpson. On the Tiger back division, besides Simpson, Davey, Tone played his usually strong game, and his run from behind his own line for forty yards through the Argos, saving a point for his team, was the feature of the game.

Art Moore and Smith, the other back division men of the Tigers, caught and ran the ball well, but not until the third quarter did they get away for any of their end runs, when they made several that looked like sure scores but for the tackling of the Argos. And speaking of tackling, the Argos had it on the Tigers all the way, invariably the Tigers going for a man high, grabbing for the head, while the Argos went for their men low, around the knees. Tiger's wing line had nothing at all on the Argos, and during the whole afternoon they failed to make yards through the local's line. On more than one occasion did the Argos' backs through the line get them the ten yard gain for first down, the Hamilton line being unable to stop the Argos. G. Taylor, Pud Kent, Heuther and Grant. There was no doubt but what the better team won, and the difference told in the back divisions, where the Tigers had the speed as well as the punters. They also worked in better unison than the Argos halves. Whenever a Tiger half got the ball there was always some other half there to help him carry it if he was tackled, or when catching a punt there was always another man there to back him up in case of a fumble.

Toronto News: In the opinion of practically all of the Rugby enthusiasts of this city Hamilton will walk away from Ottawa, and thereby qualify for another and final meeting for the Dominion honors with Toronto Varsity. But there the confidence in Tiger's stops short off. It was the general statement after Saturday's game that Tigers will have to play 15 or even 25 per cent. better football to defeat the intercollegiate champions.

Before the contest there was justification for the expectation in the minds of many that the Scullers would defeat the "Big Four" champions. Tigers were not supposed to be in first-class condition, nor were they expected, in view of a sense of security on their part and a desire to save their men, to be at full strength. But no sooner had Flynn's end will be $1000. They will meet at catch weights, and if Ketchel is fit he will have no trouble in winning decisively. Since the death of Wilkes Britt Ketchel is said to have forgotten all about physical culture.

Reports are out that George Gibson will go on the stage and tell the people how it all happened. Then the rumor is that Hans Wagner and Jack Miller will do a team stunt called "Gloves on Our Fingers, Wings on Our Feet," for which they'll pull down $500 per week.

They say that Promoter Jim Coffroth has an ace up his sleeve in the negotiations for the Jeffries-Johnson fight. There is a rumor down east that some time ago Jack Johnson received a cash bonus of $5,000 from Coffroth in return for a written agreement to accept the offer of the Colma Athletic Club for the battle with Jeff. It is said when the time comes Jeff will have to fight at Colma or not at all. Coffroth denied it all, but the gossipers are busy furnishing stuff for the New York pugilistic experts to write about.

London Sporting Life: In England the wicked "faker" has ceased from troubling and the weary patron of wrestling is at rest, but in the States they are experiencing the trouble which we got through a few years ago. The remarkable collapse of professional wrestling in England is, to Walter Dunderdy, one of those things that any fellow can understand. "Faking" by continental and, perhaps, British wrestlers for some years past has led to the sport being in the same dishonored state that pedestrianism and sculling are in these islands. The continental wrestling "faker" is a gregarious animal, and, consequently, when he runs the game in one country he and his brothers and cousins betake themselves to another happy hunting ground. At the present time they have chosen the United States, and what is America's loss is England's gain. Long may they remain in America, and allow the National Amateur Wrestling Association to rehabilitate the sport in the opinion of the British public.

Stanley Ketchel, who it is understood needs the money, has agreed to meet Jim Flynn in a ten-round bout at Promoter McCarry's club at Naud Junction, near Los Angeles, next month. Ketchel will receive $5,000, win, lose, or draw, while

Ottawa Players Are Threatened Anonymously

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—Members of the Ottawa Football Club executive are incensed over the action of some of the Tiger rooters in sending anonymous letters to the Ottawa players, threatening them with all sorts of vengeance in next Saturday's big match at Toronto. The letters have been arriving during the past few days, several being addressed to Bert Stronach. One tells the big Scot that he is a disgrace to the game, and that he ought to hang up his football togs and quit at once. Another advises him that he is a marked man, and that he had better not play against the Tigers on Saturday. Stronach feels hurt over the letters, and says that he never dreamed Canadian football followers capable of descending to such a level. Stronach is, undoubtedly, one of the cleanest and best players in the game, and the accusations have led him to say that he feels like quitting football for good. Jim Vaughan, Jack Williams, Pete Ferguson and "Doc" Sheriff have also received communications.

The officers are too far-seeing and intelligent to think that the Tigers would tolerate such underhand work if they were aware of the writers of the letters, but they feel that great injustice is being done the players, and may ask the police to interfere and investigate should they continue. One man writes from Petrolia to Stronach, and signs the name McDougall. Letters are also post-marked Orillia, Toronto, Dundas and other places in western Ontario.

The teams lined up than all hope vanished.

From the kick off to the final whistle the yellow-striped visitors were on top. Always, local rooters were given opportunity to cheer with any feeling of hopefulness. Tigers had to hold themselves steady in defence of their line on a good many occasions, but for three-quarters of the game play was in Toronto territory and the Argonauts fighting with their backs to the wall.

Kicking won the game. There it is in a nutshell. The wing played a very important part, for it was strong straight down the field of play. The team kicking west had an immense advantage in this respect, and of the two Tigers knew best how to make use of it.

The feature of the game was the kicking of Ben Simpson, who scored practically all of the Tigers' fourteen points. From the Argonaut point of view, the feature was the dismal failure of the backs at booting. The wind was there waiting to be used during the whole game, with a slight slackening toward the end. Yet Hamilton were quite alone in reaping the advantage. Simpson's left leg is in glorious form. He did most of the booting, and did it well, though George Smith and Dave Tope helped out and contributed fine punting assistance. Any of the three was better than anything they opposed. Mert Kent didn't give the ball a good-sized decent swallop all day long, while he handed the Tigers' point after point by kicking plum-socks into his own scrimmage or into the advancing Tiger wings, thus losing ground in heart-rending and disastrous fashion. The other backs seemed to have no power in their toes either and a whole lot of healthy wind went to waste.

Toronto Star: The Tigers appeared in their full strength, reports to the contrary notwithstanding. Ben Simpson and Art Moore were on hand, as usual, and Dave Tope and Don Lyon were conspicuous with their virgin white uniforms. Tope played up to his old-time form, his best performance being in slipping out along the touch line from behind his own goal line through the entire Argonaut team when a score looked sure. He showed a bad example to Smith a minute later by trying to kick out against the gale with Argos all around. Smith tried it on the return punt, and the ball went straight up in the air. Argos should have had a try, as November got the ball, but he was over the dead line. However, this was about the only mistake Smith made. His catching was brilliant, and he was a great source of strength to the team. He also kicked as well as Simpson. Lyon improved as the game progressed, and it was his great following up and deadly tackling that turned the tide in the final quarter. Art Moore caught better than against Ottawa, while Simpson's 40-yard run in the last quarter from a scrimmage was the best of the day.

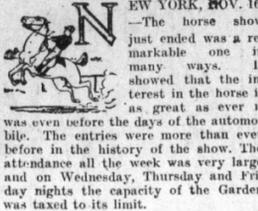

The wing lines were about of equal strength. Both teams gained their yards several times by line-bucking, but more often they lost the ball on downs. Mert Kent had a number of kicks blocked, not by any weakness on the line, but because of his slowness in getting the ball away and the erratic passing of Corvill. Outside of Lyon, the most noticeable players on the Tiger line were Ishibe and Brammer, who worked like leavers all afternoon. Both teams used questionable judgment at times, but as nothing disastrous occurred, the "dampfold plays" need not be described here, though the players responsible have probably heard of it before this.

In the matter of expectations there is quite a difference between the consumption and the consummation.

Many a man isn't satisfied to be the whole thing. He wants to be at least the half of something else, too.

SUCCESS OF BRITISH AT N. Y. HORSE SHOW.

How the Different Cups and Championships Were Won—British Officers Made a Big Hit and Canadians Captured Several Prizes.

NEW YORK, NOV. 16.—The horse show just ended was a remarkable one in many ways. It showed that the interest in the horse is as great as ever it was even before the days of the automobile. The entries were more than ever before in the history of the show. The attendance all the week was very large and on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights the capacity of the Garden was taxed to its limit.

Another feature of the show which proved popular was the competition between the British and United States army officers. The jumping contests were arranged, and of these the British won two and the home officers one. They met again in classes for chargers, and although the British had not brought chargers with them, they won one event, chiefly through the brilliant riding of Major The Hon. T. G. Balfour, while Lieut. Barrett, U. S. A., won the other. The British also won one contest for hunters, so that they have taken away a fair share of the prizes. The next show these international contests will be renewed.

The prize list this year was a large one. Some $40,000 in cash and cups were offered. In all there were 38 cups, and of these eight were challenge cups. Some of these have been won outright, through some exhibitor successful two or three times. J. W. Harriman won the Forest King Cup with Nala, that horse having been unbeaten for three years, and now a cup donated by Mr. Harriman, called the Nala Cup, is to take its place. Alfred G. Vanderbilt won a leg on the Arrowhead Ina Cup with his road team. This cup must be won twice.

The English Society's gold cup, worth $500, was won by William H. Moore's Lady Seaton, and is still in competition. The Holland House Cup, $150, for park hacks, was won for the first time by Vesta Tilly, owned by Mrs. John Gerken. The James T. Hyde Cup for five gaited saddle horses was won by Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury, and is still in competition. The Delatour challenge cup for pairs of roadsters was won for the second time by Pearl Onward and Lucia G., owned by E. T. Stotesbury, and is now his property. The Sherry Cup for the best collection of three harness horses was won for the first time by William H. Moore's exhibit. The Jay F. Carlisle challenge cup for park teams was won for the first time by the Fairmount Farm's team.

There were the usual championships for the different breeds and types exhibited. The winners were: Hackneys, Henry Fairfax's Baghorpe Sultan; Hackney mares, Grand View Farm's Chestnut Polly; Clydesdale's Graham ras; Garty Pride; perchlerons, Grouch & Son's Richelieu; roadsters, single horse, M. F. & J. McDonald's The Mladro; pairs, E. T. Stotesbury's Lugano and Como; harness horses, single, under 15 hands, Avondale Farm's Lady Dillham; 15 to 16.2 hands, W. H. Moore's Lady Seaton; over 15.2 hands, Avondale Farm's Nala; pairs, under 15 hands, W. H. Moore's Amaryllis and Phyllis; 15 to 15.2 hands, W. H. Moore's Lady Seaton and Lady Auckland; over 15.2 hands, Avondale Farm's Nala and Avondale; saddle horses, lightweight, Lawrence Jones' Poetry of Motion; middleweight, Ballygunge Stable's Marksman; heavyweight, H. R. Res's Heartspring; hunters, lightweight, H. C. Phipps' Streator Cyclone; middleweight, U. D. Benner's Sunday Morning; heavyweight, J. S. Phipps' Baronet.

William H. Moore, with his harness horses, tandems and four-in-hands had wonderful success. His horses were in fine condition. He won in all 26 first prizes, and the total amount of his wins was $6,025. This amount includes cups on which he has won one leg. The Fairmount Farms, owned by C. W. Watson, next, and the Avondale Farm third.

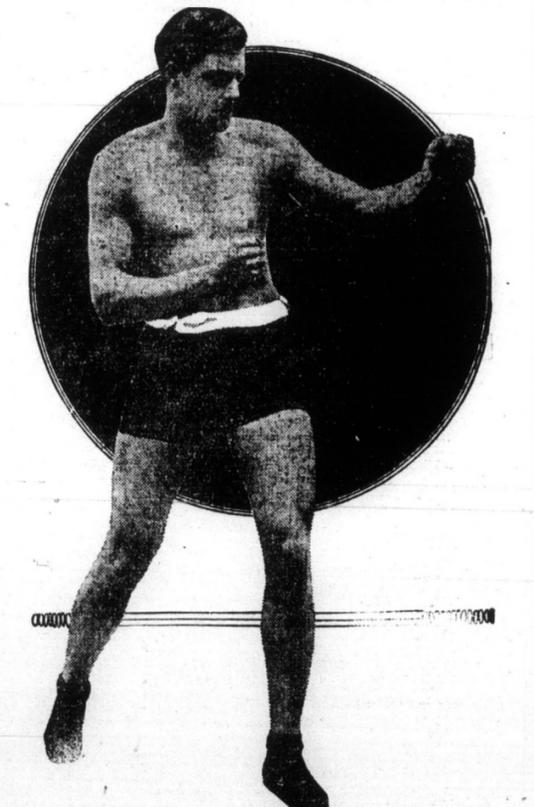

Following is the list of ribbons credited to each Canadian exhibitor and the total value of the prizes won, including the cups won outright or partly won this year:

Crow & Murray	1	2	3	h.c.	$1110
Graham Bros.	6	5	0	4	980
British Army O.	4	3	1	0	890
George Pepper	1	0	1	1	550
Hon. Adam Beck	2	5	3	0	550
Miss K. Wilks	3	1	1	0	525
Grand total	28	31	6	6	$4,605

The other large winners were: Wm. H. Moore, $6,025; Fairmount Farms, $2,425; Avondale Farm, $2,020; Oakland Farm, $1,755; J. Crouche & Son, $1,300; E. T. Stotesbury, $975; Morris & Co., $850; British Army Officers, $800; Grandview Farms $795; U. S. Army officers, $720; E. H. Weatherbee, $675; Elsinoro Farm, $655; McLaughlin Bros., $650; Henry Fairfax, $650; Charles L. Punn, $575; Lawrence Jones, $510; John S. Phills, $500.

It is estimated that the receipts of the Horse Show amounted to $100,000 and that the profit to the management was $30,000.

BIG JIM STEWART WINS FIRST FIGHT IN EUROPE.

Big Jim Stewart, the Brooklyn heavyweight, whose advent into pugilistic circles a year and a half since created a laugh, won his first fight abroad when he defeated the Englishman, Jewey Smith, a second-rater, in Paris. Stewart won via the k. o. route in six rounds. Like a lot of other new good men, Stewart left this country because there was no nourishment in losing continually, and went where the cherries were ripe.

No Athlete Under 16 Can Run Over 5 Miles New Rule Laid Down by the A. A. U.

New York, Nov. 16.—Everett Brown, of Chicago, was elected President of the Amateur Athletic Union at the annual meeting in New York city yesterday, succeeding James E. Sullivan, of this city, who had held the office for three years. Mr. Sullivan, who has been secretary in previous years, was chosen for the position of Secretary-Treasurer yesterday. He was not a candidate for reelection to the Presidency. Among the many routine matters passed upon were the adoption of a new rule designed to protect young athletes from overstrain. By this regulation competitors under 16 years of age are barred from competing in races exceeding five miles. Total receipts for the year were $8,380. Cross-country and gymnastic championships alone showed a deficit. President Sullivan, in his annual address, regarding the hammer-throw accidents, which have been somewhat numerous, expressed himself in favor of retaining the event on the A. A. U. list, but thought that some changes to make the competition safer would be advisable.

BELGIUM COACH IMPORTED TO INSTRUCT OARSMEN.

It had to come to it. The Belgians having carried off the Grand Challenge cup at Henley often enough to make the English oarsmen sit up and ask themselves what was wrong, the Cambridge University Boat Club took the bull by the horns and got one of the Belgians to show them. For it seems that Herr Van der Waerden, one of the most prominent of the Belgian rowing coaches, has been engaged by Cambridge University to show the Cantab the best points of the Belgians' style. There is to be no great reformation at Cambridge, and the Belgian was only tried more or less in the nature of an experiment. But it was a radical departure and one which means that Cambridge wants to be up with the times as far as boat pulling is concerned. Four men were put under the tutorage of Van der Waerden. They were A. L. Lloyd, H.

G. Palmer, F. S. Hellyer and J. R. Roher, the latter the stroke or of the boat. While they tried out the Belgian style the crew stayed at Nuffield, about seven miles from Henley. D. C. R. Stuart, the noted Cambridge stroke and sculler, is responsible for bringing the Belgian to England. Van der Waerden, it will be remembered, was coach and coxswain of the victorious Belgian crew of 1906, which won the Grand Challenge Cup. In speaking of the men under his care Van der Waerden says: "They do not know how to sit in a boat properly and are lacking in watermanship." He praised them for being apt to pick up whatever he told them and they showed fine pace toward the end of the couple of weeks' coaching. The crew did not use the wide blades, like the Belgians, but it is understood that the Cambridge oarsmen will row with this style of blade in the future.

DICE ROLL WAS BAD FOR JACK JOHNSON.

Jim Coffroth, besides being the world's greatest promoter, is also some bear with the bones. He will shoot craps for anything from a cigarette to a thousand. Just before the late Ketchel-Johnson fight Artha blew into Coffroth's office, and with the "golden smile" working, said: "Mornin', Jim. How's the house going to be?" Coffroth replied: "Oh, it's going to be big. Is that all you want to know?" Johnson waited a minute and then asked: "I want to know if you could afford to lose a little change to me," and with that he pulled out two big red dice. "Well, how much have you got?" asked Coffroth. "Five beans, exactly five," piped the smoked brother, and started to juggle the bones. "Too little for me," retorted Coffroth, who, by the way, was only there with three beans himself.

Well, they started after a lot of rag-chewing, and rolled for a dollar a flop. Coffroth copped the five simoleons, and then started for $50 to $100 a crack. They rolled there for three hours, first one winning and then the other, until Coffroth had $400 on the slip against Johnson. "Shoot the $400," chirped Johnson, and would you believe it!—Coffroth poured out a pair of sixes (box cars) and blew the roll. He started again, however, and before the colored person eased out the door had stung him for $1,100 washers. After the fight Johnson blew into the office for his end. He picked up a roll of bills and also a piece of paper. On the paper was written: "J. Johnson, Dr., to J. Coffroth, $1,100, craps." "Oh," said Johnson, "are you really going to take it out of the purse?" "No," piped Coffroth. "No, I just took it!"

Tiger Bucks and Varsity Tackles

In expectation that they will meet in the final for the Dominion championship, the Toronto News sizes up the Tigers and Toronto Varsity Rugby teams as follows: Saturday at Rosedale was the first time that Toronto had a chance to see the Tigers play this year, and all those interested in Varsity were on hand to see the team that will, in all probability, meet Varsity for the Dominion honors.

They defeated the Argos by 14 to 4, but at no stage of the game were they in any danger, although in the last quarter, with the wind against them, they showed their class by shutting out the Argos and adding three more points to their own score. It was the only quarter in which they put up real football and indulged in any running.

SMITH. George Smith is one of the best backs seen here in many a day, and he will bear a lot of watching. His catching on Saturday was just about perfect. He is a rangy fellow, and when he starts running the ball back it takes some real tackling to bring him down. He is not so hard a man to down as Lawson, nor so heavy, but his catching is surer. Simpson is undoubtedly a fine punter, as he is not so good a running half as Gall, while Dixon, when the game is a close one, is quite as good as Tope. The way he ran the ball back from behind the line against Queen's a week ago was marvelous. Moore is undoubtedly a fine running half, but he did not show up so well as Smith, and it looks as if one of the old guard will have to make room for Smith. Awrey is a good quarter, but he has nothing on Foulds. The Varsity scrimmage with either Jones or Gage at one outside, can look after itself.

THOSE WINGS.

It is on the line that the Tigers have the advantage. They are heavier, and, although the Argos held their bucks pretty well, Wigle and a couple of the other big fellows showed that they knew how to hit a line low, and hit it hard. They did not smother the Argos bucks very well though, and when Varsity tries it on them with Lawson or Muir leading and "Bull" Ritchie and Hume in behind they are liable to give the Hamiltonians a big surprise.

Lyons at outside wing played a great game on Saturday, but Marriott did nothing particularly brilliant, and although a number of people believe that Duncanson and Ramsay were better men than the present two outside wings, Varsity are not weak in that department, and both Park and Thompson have come on wonderfully in the last few weeks.

TACKLE WELL.

The following up and tackling of the Varsity line as a whole is superior to that of the Tigers, and their halves will find it mighty hard to get away for any long runs. Hume and Muir, although they are big fellows, are two of the best tacklers on the team, and nobody can teach George Kingston anything about it, while Lajoie is also good. So their tackling will offset the lack of weight. Varsity, after their two years' experience, will not suffer from nervousness, and the Tiger record will not scare them one little bit. Hamilton have a stiffer row to hoe to land the honors than they have had for many seasons.

At the conclusion of the services on Sunday night in the Rockwood Methodist Church, Guelph, a chandelier, containing a dozen oil lamps, fell. The congregation formed a bucket brigade. The fire was extinguished after burning practically all the seats and doing several hundred dollars damage.

GRIDIRON GOSSIP

Dr. Hendry has agreed to handle the T. A. C. Parkdale game next Saturday, and consequently, there will be no chance of getting him to officiate at the "Big Four" saw-off.

Montreal Gazette: Toronto had kept Lawson out of the game with a view of saving him from possible injury. Dixon went out of the game and was replaced by Pearson on the half line. Then Parkes went under and Lawson was substituted. The big half was at once a target for McGill's attack, and the first time he handled the ball he was downed in his tracks by Bignall. Lawson displayed good judgment and kept booting the ball frequently, forcing McGill back in the final period, but the locals were too strong in line defence at that time to afford Toronto the desired opportunity. Gall proved to be the real strength of Toronto's back field, and the consensus of opinion at McGill is that he is the best back in the game.

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—The Ottawas had a stiff practice yesterday afternoon, all the men being out but Stronach. Stronach says that he may not play, but it is certain that he will be induced to get in the game. Eight hundred tickets have been reserved for the Ottawa Club, but only a few were sold or taken, as the trip, although arranged at as low a rate as possible, $7.70, is an expensive one, and necessitates an absence of two days. The team will go up on Friday morning. Practices will be held today, Wednesday and Thursday, and new plays are being tried.

The general verdict after the game at Hamilton was that Ottawa played too much of a kicking game. They will change their tactics this time, and use the men on the line offener. Tom Clancy himself went into the scrimmage yesterday and showed the players some fine points. There is a rumor that a change will be made on the back division, giving Gordon Johnson up to right half, and giving McCann a rest. Tom Clancy, however, states that the team will be unchanged. McCann has been unfortunate in catching lately, but is likely to be in good form for the next game. No officials have yet been suggested, but the clubs parlaying in hope that the other will take the initiative. On Wednesday the Ottawa Executive will meet and discuss the referee question. The Ottawas are after good, strict officials, the names of Messrs. Richardson and Eberington, of Kingston; Keet and Hay, of Toronto, and Walter Moison, Craig, and Savage, of Montreal, being mentioned. The question of officials promises to be quite a problem.

Toronto, Nov. 16.—The touring Pilgrims team, the powerful English combination of Association football players, will be seen in action in Toronto tomorrow. They will arrive in the morning, and will meet a picked team from the Toronto and District League at Scarborough Beach at 3.30 in the afternoon instead of at Varsity field. The interval will be occupied in entertainment by the local Association men. The visitors will be introduced at the City Hall and taken to see the sights in automobiles. In the evening they will be dined at the St. Charles, and will leave later for Quebec to sail for home. The Pilgrims have lost only one match in their long tour of the States. That was with the Libermans, of Philadelphia, whose team included four old Toronto Thistle players.

The T. and D. team was chosen at last night's meeting of the Executive, and the sides for to-morrow's match will be: Pilgrims—H. M. Lemoine, goal; F. H. Milnes, right back; J. J. Bayley, left back; A. K. Campbell, right half; H. C. Littlewood, centre half; W. Stanser, left half; H. J. Eastwood, outside right; J. Brown Sim, inside right; G. R. Hoare, centre forward; E. J. Cotton, inside left; W. Davidson, outside left.

Toronto and District—Stansfield (Centre), goal; Campbell (Thistle), right back; Lewis (Tellico), left back; Jones (Brit.), right back; Bingham (Thistle), centre back; Rigby (Thistle), left half; Gillespie (Brit.), outside right; Raven (A. S.), centre forward; Morgan (West Tor.), inside left; C. Rowe (Brit.), outside left.

Referee—W. S. Marchie, Linesmen—E. Cooper and H. Wells. Campbell will be captain of the home team, and the reserves are: Carpenter (Stanley Barracks), Hilton and G. Wright (West Toronto), Adair (Don Valley), and Cotes (Thistle), Wm. Corbett, the Thistle trainer, and St. V. Kelly, who look after the team, as substitutes. Robertson will be in charge of affairs until the kick-off.

The home team will play in navy uniform of elate and blue, which are Lord Rossby's, and the Scottish international colors. All players selected are required to report tonight at 8 o'clock.

Scheme Might Be Worked With Success

It is a well-known fact that the game of football does not contain the same interest for the spectator who does not know the players as it does for the fan who is acquainted with the contestants. When the Tigers and Rough Riders meet in Toronto next Saturday to fight it out for the supremacy of the Inter-Provincial Union, the majority of the spectators will not know the players, and on this account they will not enjoy the game as they otherwise might. To overcome this difficulty the Times makes the following suggestion to the Inter-Provincial, with the hope that they will see fit to adopt it. That is, to placard the players with numbers. On the back of each member of each team place a numeral that would be the same as that opposite his name on the programme.

In this way the onlookers would know who were making the sensational plays by simply turning up the programme. The good men of both teams are known by reputation, while the faces of few of them are familiar.

This scheme has been tried in the United States and has worked to perfection. The people have shown more interest in the game and the gates have been larger as a consequence. It is a good scheme, and well worth trying.

Ernie Russell Is Still Out.

M. A. A. A. Refused to Reinstatement Player Who Was Expelled.

Montreal, Nov. 16.—A motion based on the case of Ernie Russell, expelled two years ago from the Montreal A. A. A., when, after giving his word that he would play for the association's hockey team, he threw in his lot with the Wanderers, was the feature at the semi-annual meeting of the M. A. A. A. last evening. The motion was to amend the constitution and make possible the reinstatement of an expelled member by a majority vote of the members. At present there is no means of reinstatement for an expelled member. He may seek re-election through the board of directors, and this Russell tried to do last evening, but it was with failure. Two black balls are sufficient to prevent election.

The motion last night was withdrawn and another substituted to make possible reinstatement by a majority vote of the directors, not the members. Even this failed, being rejected by a vote of 12 to 77.

The financial statement showed the big association to be in a good position with $5,000 paid off for the half year on the debt, and a credit surplus of $3,000 for the period from May to November. As previously reported, the Lacrosse Club made up $3,000. There will be, as usual, a deficit for football, the deficit now being over $600, with the account not yet closed.

Motion Pictures of Johnson-Ketchel Go.

Has Johnson got a chance against Jeffries is the question that fight fans have been asking for months now. The motion pictures of the Johnson-Ketchel fight which come from the Palm Gardens, opposite the Armouries, next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday for two performances a night, the black 'n' whites and science are seen at their best. He had a hard fight to win out from Ketchel, who is not in the same class with Corbett, Fitzsimmons or Sharkey. Of course, in case of this the answer is "No; not if Jeffries can come back." The closeness of the fight between Ketchel and Johnson is perfectly shown in the film.

Y. M. C. A. QUARTETTE.

The Y. M. C. A. quartette, which has had such a successful career in musical circles for the past five years, was forced to disband a few months since, owing to one of their number leaving the city. A reorganization was effected last evening under the new name of the Y. M. C. A. Concert Male Quartette. The parts will be taken as follows: Will Crooks, first tenor; A. K. Brown, second tenor; T. F. Best, first bass; Charles Williams, second bass.

The new organization had its first rehearsal last evening, and the blending and balance of the voices proved quite satisfactory. Weekly practices will be held regularly, and the organization will be open for engagements for concert and church work after the holidays.

Tuesday, Nov. 16.—Trade was noticeably dull on Central Market this morning.

The offerings of produce were small, but were not any too small for the demand which was poor. No doubt the unsettled state of the weather prevented many farmers and shoppers from attending. Montreal.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, receipts for the week ending Nov. 13 were 2425 cattle, 2525 sheep and lambs, 3000 hogs and 675 calves, while the supply for local consumption this morning was 1400 cattle, 1700 sheep and lambs, 1500 hogs and 350 calves. The cattle supply this morning was much smaller than a week ago, with a continued slow demand, as butchers generally have laid in larger supplies than usual on account of the low prices ruling and stocks of dressed beef in cold storage are fairly large, while the weather is unfavorable for keeping stock. This had a tendency to check any advance in prices, except for a few really choice steers, which sold at 5 to 5 1/8c. The bulk of the trading was done at 4 1/2c to 4 3/4c; good, at 4 to 4 1/4c; fair, at 3 1/2c to 3 3/4c; medium, at 3 to 3 1/4c; good bulls, at 3 1/4 to 3 3/4c; culling bulls, at 2 1/2 to 3c, and cows, at 1 1/2 to 1 3/4c per lb.

The trade in lambs was fairly active and sales were made at from $3 to $12 each. Hog supplies were ample, and prices ruled steady, with sales of selected lots from west of Toronto, at $8.65, and from east of Toronto at $8.50 per cwt, weighed off of the cars.

There was some activity in Cobalt issues in Toronto yesterday, with a weakness in Crown Reserve, due to a little drive in the stock which sent it down below the $5 mark. Other issues held steady. IS A VICTORY FOR THE CITY.

Street Railway Must Repair Roads Outside of Track.

City Has Now 741 Arc and 36 Nearest Lamps.

Fire and Water Committee Will Consider By-law Again.

The long drawn out dispute with the Street Railway Company as to whether it is obliged to keep the road in repair two feet outside the rails on certain streets has been decided by the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board in favor of the city.

The amount involved at present is only about $2,500, but the decision means much to the company and city during the balance of the franchise, especially in view of the fact that new pavements are to be laid wherever the new tracks are laid.

The board's opinion is as follows: "This is an application by the city of Hamilton against the Hamilton Street Railway Company for an order to compel the company to put in good repair, according to the provisions of by-law No. 624 of the city and covenant of the 26th of March, 1892, which together form the agreement between the city and the company, all that portion of the pavement which is embraced between the outer rails of the company's railway tracks and for two feet outside of such rails on King street from James to Bay streets."

On the 14th of June, 1909, A. F. Macalium, the City Engineer, gave the company notice in writing to put these streets in repair, according to the provisions of by-law No. 624, for two feet outside of the rail, with similar materials to those of which the roadway was constructed, the city being ready to furnish the materials when the company were ready to proceed with the work. The company received this notice, but refused to comply with it, and denied the city's right to have the repairs made by the company.

Counsel upon the argument stated that the sole difficulty was as to the repair of the two feet outside of the rails. It was contended by Mr. Osborne on behalf of the company, that reading section 11 along with section 5 of the by-law, the company were not bound to keep the two feet outside of the rails in repair. The Board dissent this argument.

The Board are of opinion that the repairs outside of the rails are regulated by section 5 of the by-law. Section 11 provides for paving or re-paving and repair of the space between the rails. The Board are of opinion that the company under section 5 of the by-law are bound to repair the pavement for two feet outside of the rails on the streets mentioned in the application.

Counsel for the company contends that the city must remedy the roadway under section 16 of the by-law, and that if the company fails to keep the streets in good repair, according to the provisions of the by-law, the city's only right is to cause such repairs to be made and to collect the cost from the company. In reply to this the city engineer, Macalium, on behalf of the city, contended that the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board Act, 1906, and asks that the company be compelled to specifically perform the agreement with the city. What the city asks is that the company do the work of repair themselves. The Board are of opinion that the company has committed a breach of the agreement with the city and have neglected and refused to repair the two feet outside of their rails on the streets mentioned in the application. The Board think it reasonable and expedient to order and direct the company to make the repairs on the said streets for two feet outside of their rails with material which the city are ready and willing to supply.

The Board makes no order as to costs, except that the company shall pay $10 for stamps on the formal order.

The city now has 741 arc lights and 36 nearest lamps under the new contract with the Cataract Power Company, and, while there are still some spots that are poorly lighted, Secretary Brennan and the Engineer, Macalium, say that Hamilton compares favorably with any city of its size for illumination. They say that the chief drawback here is the way King and James streets are lighted. In the cities they visited on the way to Little Rock, Ark., where they attended the convention of the American Municipal Union last week, they found the main streets brilliantly illuminated. In Chicago, on Michigan avenue, ornamental cement posts, standing about sixteen feet high, are placed every sixty feet apart. A somewhat similar scheme of lighting the central portions of King and James streets here was rejected by the Board of Works this year. The city officials say that if it was not for the electric signs the main streets would be very dark. The aldermen think that any extra lighting on King or James streets should be done on the local improvement plan.

The Fire and Water Committee will hold a special meeting to-morrow night to consider the new waterworks by-law, which has already been introduced in the council. There is a wide difference of opinion on some of the points, and it is believed that a long discussion in the council will be avoided if the committee threshes it out first.

The Board of Works officials have been informed that Barton Township is still doing work in the newly annexed district. The matter will be looked into as the city understood it was to have control of all work after the annexation order went into effect.

Joseph Dwyer was granted a permit to-day for two frame houses on Beechwood avenue, east of Sherman avenue, to cost $2,200.

The Board are of opinion that the company under section 5 of the by-law are bound to repair the pavement for two feet outside of the rails on the streets mentioned in the application.

Counsel for the company contends that the city must remedy the roadway under section 16 of the by-law, and that if the company fails to keep the streets in good repair, according to the provisions of the by-law, the city's only right is to cause such repairs to be made and to collect the cost from the company. In reply to this the city engineer, Macalium, on behalf of the city, contended that the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board Act, 1906, and asks that the company be compelled to specifically perform the agreement with the city. What the city asks is that the company do the work of repair themselves. The Board are of opinion that the company has committed a breach of the agreement with the city and have neglected and refused to repair the two feet outside of their rails on the streets mentioned in the application. The Board think it reasonable and expedient to order and direct the company to make the repairs on the said streets for two feet outside of their rails with material which the city are ready and willing to supply.

The Board makes no order as to costs, except that the company shall pay $10 for stamps on the formal order.

The city now has 741 arc lights and 36 nearest lamps under the new contract with the Cataract Power Company, and, while there are still some spots that are poorly lighted, Secretary Brennan and the Engineer, Macalium, say that Hamilton compares favorably with any city of its size for illumination. They say that the chief drawback here is the way King and James streets are lighted. In the cities they visited on the way to Little Rock, Ark., where they attended the convention of the American Municipal Union last week, they found the main streets brilliantly illuminated. In Chicago, on Michigan avenue, ornamental cement posts, standing about sixteen feet high, are placed every sixty feet apart. A somewhat similar scheme of lighting the central portions of King and James streets here was rejected by the Board of Works this year. The city officials say that if it was not for the electric signs the main streets would be very dark. The aldermen think that any extra lighting on King or James streets should be done on the local improvement plan.

The Fire and Water Committee will hold a special meeting to-morrow night to consider the new waterworks by-law, which has already been introduced in the council. There is a wide difference of opinion on some of the points, and it is believed that a long discussion in the council will be avoided if the committee threshes it out first.

The Board of Works officials have been informed that Barton Township is still doing work in the newly annexed district. The matter will be looked into as the city understood it was to have control of all work after the annexation order went into effect.

Joseph Dwyer was granted a permit to-day for two frame houses on Beechwood avenue, east of Sherman avenue, to cost $2,200.

NO HOPE FOR MEN IN MINE.

Organization of all charitable efforts into a centralized plan was proposed for a meeting called to-day. Among those on the ground are E. P. Bicknell, of Washington, D. C., director of the National Red Cross. It was stated that unless a substantial sum of money is contributed, great suffering will obtain this winter among the 2,000 orphans and 200 more widows left almost destitute.

Albert L. Hopkins, of Chicago, announced he had been authorized by the French Consul at Chicago to help care for the families of the entombed miners who were natives of France. Some of the women and children of these families, he said, would be transported back to France by the French Government.

300 COFFINS ORDERED. It was said to-night that 300 coffins have been ordered. Meantime, the several scores of nurses who were rushed here look forward to no prospect of work in reviving injured men. It is believed that no one will be brought out of the mine alive.

Rescuers descended four times into the hoisting shaft yesterday, on one occasion, 300 feet to its bottom. Then groping their way with electric lamps, and kept alive by oxygen carried with them, they penetrated 150 feet into the bottom gallery.

None of the miners, dead or alive, was found. It was conjectured the miners had crawled into recesses, remotest from the fire, but to these the rescuers were unable to go without reascending. Before they could re-descend, the fire had broken out.

As a result of the disaster there are in this town of only a few hundred inhabitants, at least 1,000 orphans and 200 widows. These are the figures of Duncan McDonald, President of District No. 12, United Mine Workers.

At an early hour this morning the main shaft, sealed since Saturday, was opened. Mine Examiner James Taylor, R. L. Williams and others appeared in their oxygen outfits and helmets, ready to descend.

"I'm ready," said Inspector Taylor, as he buckled on his helmet. Williams and James Webb also stood prepared in the shaft cage. Automobile horns were carried for signaling.

"Let her go!" shouted President Newman of the State Mining Board. Fifteen minutes passed. Then a blast of the horn echoed through the shaft.

The explorers reported that they had walked in a vein of the mine for 150 feet from the base of the shaft and that they had found no living man or dead body. The atmosphere in this vein was considerably better than had been expected. With the aid of their electric lanterns the searchers had been able to see plainly.

In other veins leading from the main shaft much smoke was encountered and nothing could be seen. A consultation followed and it was determined to start the ventilating fan at the opposite side of the mine. This was to clear the galleries of the smoke.

FIRE BREAKS OUT AGAIN. In half an hour the fan was suddenly ordered stopped. Smoke began to pour from the main shaft. The experts, lowered to investigate, reported flames had broken out afresh where the original fire occurred. Attempts to extinguish them failed. The shaft was sealed with steel sheets and a heavy layer of sand.

The men and women with loved ones in the mine turned away in despair. Apparatus to fight the fire was ordered from La Salle, Ill. A fire engine arrived to-night on a special train. Inspector Taylor, who was one of the discoverers of the renewed fire, asserted that the flames had not spread beyond the stable of the mine.

John Crowley, the engineer in charge of the elevator when the thirteen rescuers lost their lives at the mine on Saturday, was taken to Princeton, Ill., to-day in an automobile by Sheriff Skoglund. Rumors of an assault upon Crowley last night and reports that the miners were planning to kill him, because they believed that he was responsible for the death of the rescuing party, caused Sheriff Skoglund to remove him from possible danger.

Sheriff Skoglund was summoned by the mine officers to-day and asked if he had heard of any action regarding the reports. He expressed surprise at the news.

"I have not asked for militia, and do not expect to," he said. "On the contrary, the crowd has been so orderly that I reduced the force of deputy sheriffs last night. I was much impressed with the actions of the grief-stricken people yesterday after the sealing of the mine. In every case where miners attempted to pass the line the deputies easily persuaded them to keep back. Last night I had only nine deputies at the mine."

Cherry's gloom to-day is increased by a deluge of rain, which began early this morning and still continues. That the main shaft in the mine will not be opened to-day seems assured.

To-day is the semi-monthly payday at the mines. Nineteen thousand dollars to meet the pay roll is on deposit at the Cherry Bank. Clerks will keep check on all who appear, and in this manner it is believed the number of men entombed in the mine can be definitely established.

Many of the 1,000 men in this town of about 2,000 people are single. The total vote averages 425, so that the number of foreigners in the population seems to equal that of the citizens.

The St. Paul Company to-day sent out several cars of coal from which the people will be supplied at the company's expense.

Funerals of the twelve rescuers who perished on Saturday night will be held to-day, and the surviving miners and families of the dead will file through the streets behind the hearse.

HOMING PIGEON DINNER. To-morrow evening the Hamilton Homing Pigeon Society will hold its second annual dinner and concert in the club room, Arcadium Hall, in the Arcade. Mayor McLaren will be present to present the prizes won during the year. A special invitation has been extended to the ladies.

Initials or Monograms On Note Paper

To emboss initials or monograms on note paper requires a die which, if purchased in the ordinary way, would cost from $3.00 to $5.00.

We make a special offer, however, which relieves the customer of the cost of the die. We take the risk of the die being used on several orders, and charge only for the embossing.

The first order, however, must be for not less than $1.50 for the work, in addition to the cost of the paper. Further particulars on request.

CAME HOME.

But the Visit Was Not Occasion For Rejoicing.

Charlie Crisp came from Toronto yesterday, to visit his father, but ere his arrival at the old home he was past self-government. However, he entered the old home, and it is alleged proceeded to drag his father's housekeeper into the most futile arguments, despite the remonstrances of the lady. Later he called at the police office and wanted to swear out a warrant for her arrest. When asked the why he said she had given him a forcible tap behind the lobe of his left ear with a bottle.

There was evidence that Charles had received a tap in the form of a deep gash and much blood. He was told to call in the morning, but he did not do so. Prior to the exciting state of affairs, the officer yesterday Constable Gillespie was called in to prevent trouble at his father's home.

SEEING THE SIGHTS.

Two small children, named Shaw, who live on the Wood Street, yesterday, started on a little sight-seeing trip away from home. The first few blocks of their travel were pleasant, but their thoughts of home overcame their wandering tendencies, and they longed to be back again. Not knowing which way to go they continued their journey until they arrived at McBeth's grocery on York street. Mr. McBeth notified the police and the two youngsters were taken home.

AN EXCITING RIDE.

A man who was riding on horseback on King street west yesterday afternoon had a narrow escape from being injured. The horse was rather wild, and was waiting all over the road. A street car going west on King street was passing, when the horse made a bolt as if to get past it to run up Park street. It jumped on the fender and broke it. The rider finally managed to get the animal quieted down.

(Special Wire to the Times.)... Bradford, Nov. 16.—The inquest in the death of Mark Boulder, who was killed by a falling smoke stack at the Malleable Iron Works here last Tuesday, resulted last night in a verdict that the deceased met an accidental death. It was shown that the contractor took all ordinary precautions to safeguard the lives of the employees in the shop below. The breaking of a guy wire caused the accident.

MAY LOSE IT.

Proprietor of Berlin Hotel Summoned to Toronto to Explain.

Toronto, Nov. 16.—Mr. Ed. Hollinger, in whose name the liquor license of the Walper House, Berlin, is issued, has it is understood, been summoned, under orders of the Ontario Government, to appear before Hon. W. J. Hanna, the provincial secretary, to-morrow to show cause why his license should not be cancelled forthwith.

The trouble, according to reports in Berlin, arose over the neglect by the owner of the hotel to comply with the orders issued by Mr. W. K. Snyder, who was appointed by the Government some months ago as provincial commissioner to secure standardization.

BERLIN LICENSE.

Walper House Must Make Repairs on Lose License.

(Special Wire to the Times.) Toronto, Ont., Nov. 16.—Unless the owner of the Walper House, Berlin, complies with the orders of W. K. Snyder, Provincial Inspector, and spends several thousand dollars on repairs, the license of the hotel will be revoked. This was the ruling of the Hon. W. J. Hanna this morning, before whom the owner and lessees of the house appeared to show cause why the license should not be cancelled.

"We have undertaken a straightforward business, like administration of the license law in this Province," said Mr. Hanna. "No other considerations than these can have weight. I will be frank with you. I have made up my mind, in view of the circumstances as presented, to cancel the license of the Walper House to-day. The department will refund the license, who is not to blame for the existing state of affairs, the unearned portion of the license fee paid the owners of the house. If they decide to proceed with the improvements required, if the conditions are complied with by the first of May, I have no doubt that the license will be continued."

HELD UP.

Robber Fires at Two Women and Steals Fare Box.

(Special Wire to the Times.) Kingston, Ont., Nov. 16.—A masked robber, armed with a revolver, early last evening terrorized three women inmates of the Bath road toll house by pointing his revolver at them and demanding money. The women were too terrified to answer, and the desperado fired his revolver at their feet, seizing the fare box, which contained over a dollar in change, and making a hurried departure. When the women recovered from their fright they sounded an alarm, but the robber, who had secured a good start, and could not be located. He is described as a young man stylishly dressed.

BIBLE TRAINING CLASS.

Last night in the Y. M. C. A. junior parlors the Hamilton Boys' Club Union organized a Bible training class. The object in organizing this class is to train young men and older boys to teach. There is a dearth of young men teachers in every Sunday school, and the union is seeking to help every Sunday school in the city. Mr. John Bainbridge was elected president, and Harry Fisher secretary. The union was fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Frank McIlroy as leader and teacher of the class. This is a rare opportunity for every young man and the only requisite is that every one who wishes to attend should hold a membership card in the union. The class will meet next Monday night at 8.30 sharp.
