pledged her support to Italy, in the event of a rupture of friendly relations between that country and France. It is known that there is a crisis in the relations between France and Prussia, which causes much uneasiness and apprehensions in monetary circles. Gen. Menabrea, Prime Minister of Italy, in a note justifies the advance of the Italian troops into the Papal territory. He says the dignity of the Italian Government and the violation of the September Treaty by the French required this movement. The trial of General Warren for complicity in Fenianism is concluded. He was found guilty of treason and felony. To the summons of the King, Garribaldi replies by refusing to dishonour his army or give up his enterprise against Rome unless a change is made in the present reactionary Ministry, which will put the Government of Italy in accord with the national will. Dublin, Nov. 1st.—Great excitement has been caused here by the shooting of two policemen on Wednesday night. A proclamation has been issued by the Government, offering a reward of £1000 for the arrest of the assassins. The police in this city and throughout the Island are searching for the murderers. Two suspected persons have already been apprehended, and are now in custody awaiting examination. London, Nov. 1.—As the last mail steamer was leaving Rio Janeiro, a report reached that city that the Brazilian troops had captured the town of Pilara—called by the natives Neumbun, the chief port of Paraguay. It was also reported that many prisoners and a great quantity of military stores had fallen into their hands. Florence, Nov. 1.—The Nations of this morning derive the truth of the rumor that French troops have arrived at Rome. The Italian army, which has entered the Papal territory, is under the command of Gen. Garibaldi. He has retired from Montedison. He made no reply to the summons of the Italian Government to disarm his volunteers. The marriage of King George of Greece to the Princess Olga took place to-day with great pomp and ceremony. The Minister of today, says that the Emperor Napoleon has demanded of King Victor Emmanuel an explanation of the invasion of the Roman territory by the Italian forces. At the last accounts from the South, Garribaldi remained at Montedison, with a force estimated at 5000 strong. He has taken possession of and closed the bureau of the National party, and the headquarters of the Italian organization at Florence and elsewhere, by order of the Italian Government. The Provincial Correspondence, a journal possessing a semi-official character, says Prussia will enter the Roman Empire only on such a basis as will be necessary to preserve the peace of Europe.

From Mexico.

New York, Nov. 1st.—Insurgency from the city of Mexico says at the present moment Mexico enjoys more freedom from petty internal strife than she has done for years before, there being perfect quiet throughout the whole Republic, except in the State of Queretaro, where Juarez, continuing the Santa Anna's trial has been concluded, and he has been condemned to death. Through his Counsel he has asked to be pardoned and banished, a prayer which the press only to the President to grant, declaring that he would be a terrible act to execute the General, in view of some of the good and valiant deeds he has performed for Mexico, and to hunt to carry out the sentence of death upon an old and decrepit man. He will probably be banished or imprisoned for life.

WESTMORLAND FAIR.

The above Fair came off on the 25th inst., as advertised, and although there was every appearance of a continuous rainy day, yet it cleared off in the afternoon. Upwards of 1000 persons collected in a very short time. Never was there a scene of more active operations for the time allowed to set off the articles to the best advantage for the exhibition. The Band was in attendance, but really had not an opportunity of sounding an instrument. The hall was crowded to excess. Mr. Henry Palmer, as Agent for the Fair, the proprietor of the Lot, under whose great countenance the fair has been conducted, and he has been commended to death. Through his Counsel he has asked to be pardoned and banished, a prayer which the press only to the President to grant, declaring that he would be a terrible act to execute the General, in view of some of the good and valiant deeds he has performed for Mexico, and to hunt to carry out the sentence of death upon an old and decrepit man. He will probably be banished or imprisoned for life.

The numerous friends of Admiral and Mrs. Bayfield deeply regret to observe our ordinary list of to-day, a notice of the death of their eldest daughter, which sad event took place in this city on the afternoon of Saturday last. The young lady who has been so unexpectedly called from our midst to a better and brighter world, was highly esteemed in the community for her Christian virtues, and will be held in grateful remembrance in many a humble cottage where she is visited to read the scriptures, instruct the enquiring and comfort the sick. Would that it were possible for us to do more than contribute our mite to the universal sympathy which is felt for her bereaved parents, as well as to the other members of the family, in their trying bereavement. The funeral of the deceased took place yesterday at 3 o'clock, p. m., her remains being followed to their last resting place in the Protestant cemetery by a large and respectable procession.—F.

The Brig Sulina, Stewart, owned by J. Duncan & Co., arrived here from Liverpool on Tuesday last, with a general cargo. Mr. James McLeod, formerly of P. E. Island, accidentally fell down a shaft at Mt. Unacke (said diggings, where he was working on Friday night last, by which his leg was broken in two or three places.—Pictou Chronicle.

Medical Notices.

Hallway's Pills—Aches and Pains.—There can be little doubt that many of us are suffering from the health than in its least sickness, for by this means has kind Nature fore-warned him to guard against the impending malady. When these ailments, aperiens, and purifying Pills have recourse to when the first departure from ease proclaims the approach of disease, how many tortures would be spared—how much misery avoided. Hallway's Pills need no comments here on the good services they render in restoring or remedying complaints at their outset, which, through injudicious delay, false delicacy, or reprehensible neglect, will run their rapid course to danger in defiance of the deepest medical skill and the most indefatigable nursing.

MRS. S. A. ALLEN, A LADY OF WORLD-WIDE REPUTATION. Her World's Hair Restorer and Zylolalsamum or World's Hair Dressing are unequalled, and so acknowledged by all who use them for restoring, invigorating, beautifying and dressing the Hair, rendering it soft, silky and glossy, and disposing it to remain in any desired position; quickly cleaning the scalp, arresting the fall and imparting a healthy and natural color to the Hair. They never fail to restore grey Hair to its original youthful color. They act directly upon the roots of the Hair, giving them the natural nourishment required. No lady's toilet is complete without the Zylolalsamum or Hair Dressing. It cleanses the hair and imparts to it the most delightful fragrance, and is suited to both young and old.

THE RESTORER REPRODUCES, AND THE HAIR DRESSING CULTIVATES AND BEAUTIFIES. If your hair is thin try it, if scurfy try it, if harsh try it, if lustreless, try it, if none of these try it, for all who use it will preserve their hair through life. For sale by all Druggists.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A CLEVER OPERATOR.

(From the Toronto Globe.)

Some weeks ago, General Doyle, Commander of the Forces and Lieutenant Governor of New Brunswick, was accused in the streets of Fredericton by a tall, gentlemanly individual, who had been identified as the stranger who had passed him before or had passed from his Excellency's recollection. The stranger was not slow to make himself known. He was Col. Graham, recently Military Secretary to the Emperor Maximilian, but he had served some years before in the same regiment as the General. He had been present in the United Service Club when the General had made a brilliant speech, which he (Graham) had profited by many times since. To make a long story short, by the mention of persons and things, Colonel Graham managed to convince the General that he was a genuine individual who had served in the same regiment; he was invited to Government House, and being a well-informed, agreeable man, who had seen much of the world, he became a welcome guest in the best circles of New Brunswick's Capital. Governor Dundas, of Prince Edward Island, came to Fredericton on a visit, and was so charmed with Col. Graham, that he invited him to pay a visit to Charlottetown. The Colonel consented, but a serious difficulty presented itself. The English mail had not arrived, the Colonel had been previously disappointed in not receiving remittances, and expected all deficiencies to be made good by the next mail. In the meantime he could not accompany Governor Dundas; he told General Doyle's aide-de-camp, because he was afraid that, as a stranger, no banker would cash his draft. Gen. Doyle was consulted, and at once, with the generosity of a soldier towards an old comrade, told his aide-de-camp to introduce Col. Graham to a banker; and the Colonel, nothing loath, made a draft on his agent in England for £180 sterling, and so was enabled to make his projected trip to Prince Edward Island and visit Governor Dundas. But in Charlottetown he became impatient again, and playing the same game skillfully, he made another haul of nearly the same amount. He left Prince Edward Island for Canada, bearing a letter of introduction from Mr. Dundas to Mr. Carter, who was very polite, as befitted his station and his disposition. He in turn gave Col. Graham a letter of introduction to His Excellency Governor Beloeux, at Quebec, and there again Col. Graham felt the necessity of making a draft on his London agents for £1500, which was cashed through the intervention of the urban Lieutenant Governor. From Quebec Colonel Graham came to Toronto, but we have not heard that he obtained any money here. We are afraid that Toronto is not so hospitable to strangers as the more retired capitals of New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Quebec. The hero of our tale went from Toronto to one known whither, and all that remains to be told is that the drafts on the London agents have been returned, and that no one has yet been able to find a trace of Colonel Graham of Maximilian's army.

The famous Mrs. Yelverton being about to give readings in New York, the Herald suggested that she should read some of her own love letters to the major—letters which called forth the admiration of even the grave Lord Westbury. The lady thereupon sent the following very clever epistle to the Herald:—

I notice, in a recent number of the New York Herald, that in accordance with the practice of ancient and modern authors, I am about to give readings from my own writings. I must ask you kindly to correct the error, and try to explain that the "Yelverton Correspondence" alluded to is nothing more or less than the love letters written to my husband, Major Yelverton, prior and subsequent to our ill-starred marriage. They were written by the silvery moonbeams that light the shores of the classic Mediterranean, for our beloved eyes alone, or by the still more mystic shores of the Bosphorus, in sight of the very Tower where Hero plied until Lander breathed the treacherous wave. They were the first outburst of a young heart, believing, with earnest faith, in all that is beautiful in God's creation—the first bloom of the plum; the first perfume of the bud, which after time destroys. Whatever their merits as literary productions, whatever their interest as historical documents, I do not inquire. To me they are the only relics of "love's young dream" and now that the heart is broken and the object that they were addressed to—dead to me—a useless wanderer, unknown, uncared for. Those letters are the sepulchre or funeral urn which contain the ashes of all that ever was, of all that ever can be, and it would seem like a desecration to me to expose them for the criticism or amusement of the public. True, they have been brought before the astonished gaze of bewigged lawyers to interpret, to the best or worst of their ability, according to the side they were engaged in. True, the two judges on the bench have been moved to tears in quoting them. True it is that most people have a ridiculous fancy about love letters, for the reason given by the brilliant French poet:—

Qui que tu aies vu-tou maitre
Et, si, tu n'en es point.

Those who have not been in love wish to ascertain precisely what it is like; those who have wish to renew, if only for a moment, the pleasant delusions. I shall be most happy to contribute these Elysian dreams by rendering, to the best of my ability, the loves of Heloise and Abderard, or, if I am not glib, I always respect the green turf now growing over the grave of my own.

HINTS FOR PEDESTRIANS.

There is no better or more natural exercise than walking, and none that is more shamefully neglected. The majority of people who live in cities, in choosing a residence, will take up with a poorer one at a higher cost, because it is three or five minutes nearer to their place of business, than a more comfortable one in the opposite direction would be the best possible thing for benefiting their health and their pocket. To one who knows the beauties of grove and field that may be dispersed in the suburbs of almost any city, year after year, how many inhabitants can live, year after year, without venturing the sidewalk? A pedestrian—a delightfully suggestive word, in its original significance—has come to mean either going to a crowded watering place and being the slave of publicans, as long as the purse can stand it, or else being jolted to an omnibus down a dusty road, in the morning, to a bit of dirty water surmounted with beer shops, and going back as night "lead to death," and glad to get home. Paris physicians, Dr. Fauchon, has been studying the affections of the feet produced by walking, and the best means of preventing them. In addition to advice as to the shape of the boots, he recommends the repeated employment, during the march, of cold ablutions of the feet. Walkers, he says, should stop when they pass running streams or stagnant water long enough to take off their boots and to put their feet in water for a minute or a minute and a half. In incalculable places vessels of water may be procured for this purpose, and the feet kept in till the sensation of heat or burning has disappeared. If any blister form, a thread of wool or cotton should be passed through it, and loosely tied. Thus the fluid escapes, but the epidemia is preserved—a precaution by which severe subsequent pain is avoided. Excoriations are best treated by a soft oxide of zinc ointment (made with beezetard and a little glycerine). The shoes should be soft and supple, although sufficiently thick. A dozen or two small nails in the sole, where it wears most, suffice to preserve it. The leather may be softened by rubbing a mixture of linseed oil, turpentine or lead or lead. Stockings should always be worn.

THE ABYSSINIAN WAR.

We copy the following extract and comments from the London Telegraph. It really does appear as if the country was being plunged into war on false pretences:—

The Diplomatic Review denounces the entrance into the Abyssinian territories, for which preparations are now being made, as a crime. It says, that this armed entrance which is proposed cannot be called "war, which is a necessity," but an "intended assassination." It says further that "two characters belong to it; first, that it should be just; secondly, that it should be lawful. The first refers exclusively to those who provoke it by committing a crime, the second to those who make it by taking cognizance of that crime and doing execution on the guilty." From this, of course, we are to infer that Abyssinia has not "provoked" war "by committing a crime," so that there really is no crime in her case to take cognizance of, and so guilty parties to have execution done on them. On this point the Review is divided.—The whole affair seems to be involved in inextricable puzzle-headness. War or not, it will be neither profitable nor glorious. The following letter from Mr. Davis to Lord Stanley, dated July 22nd, taken from the "Blue Book," is furnished by the Review, as containing the origin of the quarrel.

"It is an interview I had with Earl Russell, at the Foreign Office, in 1863, I informed his Lordship of a intrigue which had been set on foot at Gondar with a view to frustrate British influence. I stated that the servants of the British Consul at Nasawak, were in pay of the hostile party, and that the despatches which the Consul received from the Foreign Office, before coming into his hands, were favourably first taken to that party, opened, copied, translated into Amharic, and when the contents were prejudicial to the Government of Theodore, that despatch was forwarded to the King. Copies of these documents are now in the public office of a European Government. Now, it appears that the Consul favored the rebel who attempted to supplant Theodore on the Abyssinian throne, and promised to aid him with arms and ammunition. The Consul wrote to the foreign office on the subject, and it seems that the Earl of Clarendon, under whose auspices I excavated the ruins of Carthage, seconded the views of the British representative at Massawa. His Lordship's reply, promised supplies of arms and ammunition to the rebel, and by that channel reached the eyes of the Abyssinian King. His Majesty swore vengeance, and what other vengeance than that which he has taken was within the reach of Theodore? All this I explained to Earl Russell, and at the same time suggested a plan for removing the evil, and this he took to that party, opened, copied, translated into Amharic, and when the contents were prejudicial to the Government of Theodore, that despatch was forwarded to the King. Now, it appears that the Consul favored the rebel who attempted to supplant Theodore on the Abyssinian throne, and promised to aid him with arms and ammunition. The Consul wrote to the foreign office on the subject, and it seems that the Earl of Clarendon, under whose auspices I excavated the ruins of Carthage, seconded the views of the British representative at Massawa. His Lordship's reply, promised supplies of arms and ammunition to the rebel, and by that channel reached the eyes of the Abyssinian King. His Majesty swore vengeance, and what other vengeance than that which he has taken was within the reach of Theodore? All this I explained to Earl Russell, and at the same time suggested a plan for removing the evil, and this he took to that party, opened, copied, translated into Amharic, and when the contents were prejudicial to the Government of Theodore, that despatch was forwarded to the King.
