CHAPTER XXVII

We will wait and see if my prophecy comes true, Lady Pentreath. Mademoiselle answered, graciously.

"I am to see Dr. Sutherland tomorrow, you know," Lady Pentreath continues, sighing, "and then there may be a consultation, and I may not be able to see any one; and I want to see Yolande Glynne first."

Her voice trembles a little, for poor Lady Pentreath's doctors begin to speak of an operation as necessary to arrest the progress of a complaint from which she has undoubtedly been suffering.

"Then you shall see her, dear Lady Pentreath," Mademoiselle Isabelle says, with that quiet assurance to which a nervous invalid clings. "Make your mind perfectly easy. I cannot have you made anxious for any one; you shall see Mrs. Glynne to-morrow."

And on the morrow mademoiselle's prophecy comes quite true. Lady Pentreath receives a note from Yolande just as Dr. Sutherland has taken his departure, begging to be excused from dining with her that evening, and adding that Lady Nora and she will call the next day to explain her reasons. "There is a hasty scrawled P. S.:

"I am so very sorry not to be able to come this evening. Yours very truly, YOLANDE."

"That," mademoiselle says, laying her finger on the postscript, "is genuine. The rest is made up and dictated by Lady Nora."

"You think so, Isabelle?" the countess asks.

"I am sure of it," answers Isabelle, calmly. "But she will come, Lady MRS. MISENER'S ACHEs AND PAINs. Vanished After Using Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Branchton, Ont. 'When I wrote to you for help my action was mostly prompted by curiosity. I wondered if I, too, would benefit by your medicine. It was the most profitable action I have ever taken. I heartily assure you, for through its results I am relieved of most of my sufferings. I have taken six boxes of Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound and a bottle of Lydia E. Finkham's Blood Medicine, and I can honestly say I have never been so well before. I had suffered from pains and other troubles since I was fifteen years old, and during the 'Great War' period I worked on munitions for two years, and, in the heavy lifting which my work called for, I strained myself, causing pelvic inflammation from which I have suffered untold agony, and I often had to give up and go to bed. I had doctored for several years without getting permanent relief, when I started to take your medicines.'—Mrs. GOLDWIN MISENER, Branchton, Ont.

Write to the Lydia E. Finkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario, for a free copy of Lydia E. Finkham's Private Treatise, 'Book of Allsorts of Women.'

Pentreath; if I can only see her for a minute."

"What a curious girl you are!" Lady Pentreath says, half envious, half admiring. "How do you make people do things, Isabelle?"

"I believe there is great truth in odic force, my lady," mademoiselle answers, with an aspect of meek self-abnegation.

Accordingly mademoiselle goes out, ostensibly to call at Rutland Gardens; but, instead of calling, she leaves a note for Lady Nora and one for Mrs. Glynne.

Then the clever young woman goes into a confectioner's and eats an ice and some strawberries and cream, and sips a liqueur glass of old cognac and eats a water-biscuit. Next she drives to Madie's and selects a new novel, and thence drives back to Harley Street, where the countess is staying. The new earl is too starchy to take a house in town, and he has let the family town residence long since on a twenty-one years' lease.

Mademoiselle has thus spent a pleasant afternoon, run no risks, and suffered no annoyances; and, just as she has removed her walking attire, a second note arrives from Yolande: "Dear Lady Pentreath:—Some three or four visitors we expected had not arrived; so may I come and dine with you, after all?"

Yours in haste, YOLANDE. "Voila, madam!" laughs Miss Isabelle, as the countess hands her the open note.

"You are certainly a wonderful woman, Isabelle," the countess says, smiling.

And yet the quondam governess' note to her former pupil has been only a little gush of ladylike regret at her refusal to dine with them. And her note to Lady Nora has been something of the same description.

"Dear Lady Nora:—The countess is so much disappointed at not seeing Mrs. Glynne this evening. In her present state of health, any worry or depression of spirits is bad for her. Could you not kindly persuade Mrs. Glynne to alter her decision?"

Yours faithfully, ISABELLE GANTIER. "P. S.—I obtained some views of Cheltenham a short time since when I should like to show you. I know you have very interesting associations with that place. I G. Y."

"And, while you are receiving the confidences of the forsaken bride, Lady Pentreath," her companion says, in a businesslike way, "may I go out for an hour to see some of my relatives at Brixton? You know I told you I have a lot of poor music teacher cousins, and drawing-master uncles, and poor folk of that kind."

"Certainly, dear," Lady Pentreath replies, kindly. "You need not be back until ten, Isabelle. And, if there is anything you wish to take to a sick friend—any wine or jelly or fruit—order it, please, Isabelle."

"You are so generous and kind, my lady!" the quondam Miss Glover says, with a little gush of emotion; and she really does wipe one small tear away.

Mrs. Dallas Glynne does not come until five minutes before dinner time, and immediately after they have risen from the table, mademoiselle utters her adieu: "You will have gone before I return, I suppose, dear?" she says to Yolande. "I am sure Lady Nora and you will take a long time with your toilets. I am going to see a lot of my poor relatives and sick relatives at Brixton; and there is a curious glitter of humor in Miss Glover's eyes and certain queer curves at the corners of her lips."

Brixton does not lie anywhere near Rutland Gardens, Hyde Park, but certainly that is the destination of the cab that Miss Isabelle takes; and the cab stops at No. 9; and, when the footman opens the door and mademoiselle gives her name, Lady Nora's woman, Maudie, comes forward at once, and escorts her upstairs to Lady Nora's dressing-room.

CHAPTER XXVIII

Yolande and Lady Pentreath sit for some time, after mademoiselle has left the room, talking on ordinary topics.

"My dear," Lady Pentreath says suddenly, in a kind, persuasive voice—a vast improvement on her usual melancholy, cold, slow tones—"as your relative and your husband's relative, will you tell me candidly and frankly the reason why Dallas-Glynne and you have parted, it is not too painful for you?" "Oh, no, not at all!" Yolande says, with a slight forced laugh. "It is quite a commonplace, everyday sort of reason, Lady Pentreath. My husband did not care for me."

"Or you did not care for him?" Lady Pentreath asks, quickly. "Which is the truth?"

"Oh, no!" Yolande says, bitterly, her fair, pale face one burning flush. "I fell in love with Captain Glynne, and, as he easily perceived the state of affairs, he decided on marrying me—particularly as I had money, and he wanted money."

"Then why did he leave you, and plunge into poverty, and refuse to share a shilling of your fortune with you?" asks Lady Pentreath.

"I don't know," Yolande replies, drearily, "except for the reason I gave you before. He cared so little for me that he would rather forego advantages than possess them shared with me."

"My dear," Lady Pentreath says, in her quiet, lachrymose, passionless voice, "do you know, I think you are wronging Dallas Glynne. He told Lord Pentreath he loved you."

"Who loved me?" Yolande asks, with a new light flashing into her face, the hot blood bounding in her pulses.

"Your husband," Lady Pentreath answers, with a faint, amused smile. "Don't give way to agitation, dear. Walk up and down the room slowly a few times, and drink a small quantity—say, an ounce or two—of cold water, and then—"

"When—did my—husband say he loved me?" Yolande asks, her lips quivering over the words, her face suffused with a soft warmth, as a shy maiden's at the first mention of a lover.

"He said to my husband, who took him to task because you left Pentreath so soon," the countess replies, in a cool, matter-of-fact tone, as of one who states an unimportant fact. "Lord Pentreath is the most rigidly correct of men with regard to a husband's morals and conduct, and he was afraid of your husband's reaction, and he was naturally surprised to hear he had gone abroad; and—Oh, pray don't give way to excitement, my dear!" Lady Pentreath exclaims, letting her air-pillow slip and jerking away her footstool as she did so.

Dismemberment of Empire Seen.

Danger of Recent Independent Treaty Signing is Hinted—European Decay—Action to Enlighten Public in Britain and Dominions Urged.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—(Star Special by Staff Correspondent.)—The Times publishes a very lengthy letter signed "Lionel Phillips" the theme of which is the danger to the Empire and Dominions contained in the recent drift towards independent treaty action.

The most suggestive statements follow: "Unless steps are taken to enlighten the public here and overseas of the trend of events it is possible that the Empire will dissolve into a number of independent states without the people being made aware of what has transpired. It is an exaggeration to say that without the Dominions the position of Great Britain in the world would be greatly weakened. Without Britain the Dominions will be in grave peril. The moral decay of the Empire is likely to mean the decay of European civilization and subjugation of the white races. In the realm of time their pre-eminence will have been brief, to-day the last shred of parental authority is in danger of being renounced—is it wise or necessary?"

"Great captains of the past would have been appalled as most thinking men to-day at the weakening ties. The explanation is given showing the Dominions as children, growing up daughters, being mistresses in their own homes, but the question is asked should they become mistresses in the parental household also? For that is the plain meaning of equality between each self-governing Dominion as units and Britain as a unit, the latter states."

Lack Courage. "I am convinced," the writer says, "that an overwhelming majority of inhabitants of the Empire would be horrified at the idea of its dismemberment. If danger threatens the spirit of 'Civis Britannicus Sum' becomes very warm but in peace it becomes cooler, because the idea of the Empire tumbling to pieces has never been dreamt of. There lies the real danger."

The writer points to the Canadian-United States Halibut Treaty signing as an illustration of separatist spirit and adds "Something has got to be done, or the Empire will become disrupted, not of malice aforethought but because the Prime Ministers of the Empire lack the courage to face and settle awkward questions. A distinguished statesman said not long ago that we should make no effort to force one of our partners to stay in the firm if we wished to resign. Is that view sound or even true? If Britain acquiesced would the rest of the Dominions be equally accommodating. Carnarvon's dream of Imperial Federation is dead. An Empire Parliament is impracticable and a meeting of Premiers at rare intervals is inadequate. But something must be done, not merely discussed and shelved. An Imperial Council sitting permanently might be serviceable."

A Hornet's Nest. PORT WILLIAM, Ont., Sept. 7.—A complaint was turned in to the City Hall recently which has kept City Clerk McNoughton guessing. The complainant set forth that a certain hornet had built itself a nest under one of the wooden sidewalks and proceeded to raise its rather large family, was now annoying the subjects of the King by prodding them with their stings. As a rule the City Clerk has difficulty in allocating complaints to their proper department, but here was a host of peculiarities. Should the case be referred to the poundkeeper, as being one of purely animals running at large, or to the sanitary inspector, as a nuisance and a menace to health? Or would it be better to notify the chief of police, since the realm was being disturbed? Another thought was that it came under the department of the street commissioner, because they were obstructing the sidewalk but this was negated by the fact that they had built a house without a permit, so that the building inspector was clearly the man to interfere. Ald. Darrell's industrial and entertainment committee was well used to dealing with strange visitors, but it might come under the ken of the fire chief, since the place was evidently being made pretty hot, and again, if any damage had been done, there was the claims committee to refer to. So far the hornet's nest is still a position and the various departments are scrapping among themselves for the privilege of not monkeying with the nest.

ITALIAN DISPUTE WILL LIKELY END IN PEACE.

PARIS, Sept. 7. The League of Nations Council of Ambassadors, after considering the Italian proposal announced upon adjournment of the session of the Council, has decided to keep the decision pending despatch of a note to the Greek Government, which will also go to the League of Nations Council at Geneva. At the conclusion of the session the Italian Ambassador told the newspaper correspondents that the Council's decision was quite satisfactory and it was probably acceptable to the Greek Government should Greece accept the Council's demands.

MOSCOW, Sept. 7. In reply to the note sent by Foreign Minister Tchitcherine to Great Britain, Minister of War Wrangel to the expedition of Vihjalmar Stefansson, the explorer, Great Britain has informed Russia that the expedition was a private affair organized by Stefansson, and it does not touch the question of Russia's Sovereign rights over the Island. However, any attempt made by Russia to hamper the work of the expedition, the British note says, would be viewed by Great Britain with the utmost gravity. In reply to Great Britain, M. Tchitcherine accepts the explanation.

Mems. for Mothers.

Infantile disorders can be prevented by the exercise of common sense, or cured by prompt action. For example, summer diarrhoea may be brought on by giving baby cheap sweets or biscuits. Don't do it. If it has been done, and the trouble begins, stop all food, give a teaspoonful of castor oil, and for 24 hours give nothing but water. If at the end of that time there is no improvement, call in the doctor at once.

Excellent Bill of Vandeville and Maske. A snappy show from every standpoint is last night's bill at the Crescent. Pat Harrington, the Vaudeville Boy Wonder was right at home with his audience and received the whole-hearted applause of the large gathering. His dancing is very clever and his novelty songs are indeed a feature worth hearing. Jack Cronan's skilled manipulation of the effects together with the piano accompaniments by Al Pittman provides plenty of snappy music. If you have not already taken in this show, to-day is the last chance to do so. On Monday next the Juvenile Trio will be heard in new and catchy selections. Pat Harrington has selected an appropriate program of songs and step dances. At the Crescent the snappiest show in town.

THE GREAT CHAMPION OF THE WORLD.
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., August 30--(Special Correspondent).--For the fifteen years that are to elapse before he is to be crowned as champion of the world, Luis Angel will be within his rights in being called the greatest champion and the greatest power of pugilism. Luis Angel is doing his figuring now and he is serious about it. He has made no plans to return to his home after he meets Dempsey and on the contrary he has decided to remain for a long time in the States.

Won't Need Manager.
Luis also has gone far enough into his plans to decide he will not need a manager when he gets the title. As far as outward manifestations of nervousness are concerned, he shows no more anxiety about his fight than his player-boys who beats out music six days long.

Men and Things.

(The Review)
The housing situation is greatly improved in Great Britain, it is reported. So it is here in Canada, even in big Montreal. The building has almost caught up with the demand in most places. In Montreal there is now a surplus of houses for the first three times since the war.

Remarkable Memory.
Firpo reads all the papers, or has them read to him, and he has a most remarkable faculty of remembering the names and faces of the writers and he has a hobby of checking up to see what they write. He has a fine memory on all ring topics. He can tell the round and the kind of a punch that won every big fight for years back.

The Health Department of the province of Quebec is conducting an anti-tuberculosis campaign by spreading information through newspaper advertising and by other means. The Quebec Government is looking after its people in many ways and the health campaign is a most important one.

Men and Things.
The skipper of a rum boat is dying of wounds and the cook of the boat is also wounded, both being in the hospital at Gloucester, Mass., as the result of an attack by rum pirates. The rum business on land and sea is now about as rick-a-trade as men can engage in. Raids and murders are almost daily occurrences on the American coast. Prohibition in the United States brought a train of new evils in its wake, whatever else it did.

About 2,500 members of the Philadelphia Police Department were recently insured by the city under a blanket policy amounting to more than $7,000,000. The premium on each officer is $2,000 and the contract is the largest municipal group insurance policy ever written.

A POPULAR HOUSE DRESS MODEL (WITH INSERTED POCKETS).
4426. The slenderizing features of this style, will appeal to the stout woman, while the practical points will make the style attractive to all figures. Figured percale with trimming of mercerized poplin is here shown. Gingham, with an edging of rick rack would be good--or, damask, with organdy for collar and cuffs.

A PRACTICAL APRON MODEL.
4268. Gingham was selected for this design, with white bias banding for a finish. Satton, cretonne, chintz or crepe could be used with stitching or braid for trimming.

A NEW VERSION OF A POPULAR STYLE.
4004. Smart plaits lend graceful fullness to this charming "one piece" model. It will develop well in taffeta, linen, crepe, ratine, or sponge.

A CHIC FROCK FOR THE GROWING GIRL.
4298. Here is a very charming model suitable for any of the pretty materials now in vogue. One may have the dress with or without the puff sleeves. Dotted net with ruffles of satin ribbon is here shown. Crepe and crepe de chine also figured voile and batiste are good for this design.

A PRETTY UNDERGARMENT.
4441. Nainsook, cambric or crepe may be used for this style. The skirt portion could be made of flouncing, or embroidered nainsook, or chamois and the waist portion of cambric.

A PRETTY FROCK FOR MOTHER'S GIRL.
4149. Figured voile and organdy could be combined for this model, or crepe and challie. It is good also for gingham and percale. In crepe de chine or net with self trills or embroidery, it will make a pretty "party" dress.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. A 10 year size requires 2 yards of 40 inch material. For collar and band cuffs of contrasting material 1/2 yard, 32 inches wide is required.

Saturday, September 8, 1923.

The Mail is Reminiscent.

The Mail awoke from its long slumber yesterday, and apparently unaware that much water had passed under the bridge since it retired, dealt with matters in the editorial column that were long ago past tense. Had they appeared in another part of that paper under the heading Twenty Years ago, they would have been interesting reading. There is, of course, a possibility that they were intended to appear there. The fact that so many events chronicled in that column bear such a striking similarity to the events of to-day, namely a reference to an assassination in the Balkans, a Lipton challenge, and last but not least a Royal Commission—that the writer may well be excused for confusing the one with the other.

We regret, however, to find that our contemporary seems to have gained but little benefit from its repose, and that its mental outlook has not improved. It still shows as little faith in our public men as it did—shall we say twenty years ago? We expressed no doubt in our confidence of finding men of honesty and integrity among our politicians, but the Mail would have us believe that there is not one.

We are equally at a loss to decide which of the politicians the Mail would class as our opponents or our friends, as we are to distinguish those of our contemporary. We are clear on one point, however: neither the Government nor the Opposition has considered it necessary to emphasize its disapproval of our views by boxing our ears.

We should hesitate to consider many of those who are in the Government ranks as our enemies. We go further, and claim those who firmly resisted a continuance of misrule and extravagance as deserving of our strongest sympathy.

We are accused of inconsistency and hypocrisy, and of making a volte face if it is inconsistent to expect of our public men honesty and integrity we plead guilty. In stating that as we are constituted it is impossible to divorce altogether Legislators from public contracts, we fail to perceive the hypocrisy. This practice has existed in the past, and exists now, and however undesirable it may be, it seems impossible to prevent. There was no retraction from what we had previously stated, nor was it said "for fear of something that might fall on us." We are unaware of any danger that may threaten to shake our views, and were our contemporary in the same happy position, it would doubtless accomplish much towards the development in our public life of a higher moral code, and in the adoption in our public affairs of the same rule of thrift and savings as applies in the management of our private concerns.

Magistrate's Court.

The two postal officials charged with stealing letters from the General Post Office, which case was postponed a few days ago, came up for hearing this morning. Mr. W. J. Higgins, K.C., who acted on behalf of the accused, entered a plea of guilty on the charge laid against the assessor, while as he was unable to proceed with the charge laid against the letter carrier, he asked the court to postpone the further hearing until Tuesday next, which was granted. Mr. Higgins made a strong plea for mitigation of sentence on behalf of the official who had admitted his guilt, and left him at the mercy of the Court. The accused had been in the service for a period of nine years, and was always looked upon as a trusted employee. The evils of drink, however, got a hold on him, and were mainly responsible for his downfall. The man comes from a respectable family, while it was also his appearance in court. Judge Morris took into consideration what the learned counsel said. Before passing sentence the Judge gave the accused to understand the seriousness of the offence, and rather than send him to jail, to mix with a hardened set of criminals, a fine of $200.00 or 12 months imprisonment was imposed.

Two shopkeepers were charged with selling hop beer over the 2% proof. Mr. D. J. Davie, the Government analyst, who analysed the home brew, found that the samples as obtained by the police contained 3.8% and 3.7% of alcohol by volume, respectively. The accused in the first case was fined $100, or 30 days, it being his second offence, while the second case was suspended with the payment of costs. The latter case was that of a widow who is in very sad circumstances.

Two young boys were arranged before the Juvenile court for being loose and disorderly. The complaint was laid by an employee of the Sanitary Department, who saw the boys acting in an unbecoming manner in a field within the city limits. The complainant's evidence did not conclude up to 1 p.m., when postponement was taken until 3.30 this afternoon.

Kekle Sails With First Cargo.

S.S. Kekle with the first direct cargo of new seasons fish sailed last night for Alicante and Naples. The ship, loaded at Carbone, Bonavia and St. John's, is taking about 2,000 cases. The shippers are Messrs. J. & W. Moore, Philip Templeman and Crobbie & Co. The S.S. Insula under charter to the Nid. Shipping Co. has finished loading and is due to sail this afternoon.

Watchful Reported.

The Justice Department received a message from Mr. F. J. Summers, K.C., Crown Prosecutor, yesterday, stating that the Watchful from the Circuit Court on board arrived at St. Anthony Wednesday afternoon and was leaving for Rigolet Thursday morning.

Fishery Reports.

According to a report from Sub-collector, M. J. Murray to the Board of Trade, 11,410 qtls. of fish have been landed to date from Little St. Lawrence to Lava Point. For the week ending Sept. 4th, only 69 qtls. were taken. In the district of Fort-cune Bay from Richard's Harbor to Raymond's Point the total landed to date amounts to 4,800 qtls. Two hundred and fourteen seines and stiffs are operating. Squid is plentiful. In Twillingate district, the prospects are not good although bait is plentiful. The local fishermen are quitting the fishery to seek other employment.

Young Girl Assaulted.

A 13 year old girl was the victim of a serious assault on Thursday last while picking berries on the South side hill. A thirty year old resident of Rosette's Lane who for a short while was presumably employed looking after the children in Beanesman Park has been arrested as the assailant. In court this morning he was formally charged with the crime of rape and sent to the penitentiary on remand. The victim of the assault is a niece of the accused's wife.

St. Bon's Athletes Tendered Dinner.

VICTORIOUS TRACK TEAM WERE RIGHT ROYALLY ENTERTAINED.

A large and enthusiastic gathering of athletes of St. Bon's College were present at the Aula Maxima last night as the invited guests of the Brothers, to a dinner and entertainment in honor of the season's victories in the athletic arena. The Brothers had prepared an excellent spread and an impromptu concert followed, which proved highly successful and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Rev. Bro. J. B. Ryan, President of the College, occupied the chair. Amongst those seated around the festive board were Rev. Dr. Carter, Rev. Bro. J. F. Ryan, J. G. Higgins, B.L., the other Brothers of the College, and a number of pupils. The spacious room was tastefully decorated for the occasion, the colors of the College predominating. A splendid array of silver cups, won in many a hard fight, was evidence of their prowess in the field. The St. Bon's orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Jack Phelan, was in attendance and their musical selections helped greatly to the success of the evening. Rev. Bro. J. B. Ryan, President of the College, in a very happy speech thanked one and all for their presence. He congratulated the St. Bon's Track Team on their recent achievements. Without making any invidious distinction where all had done well, he felt justified in particularly congratulating Mr. Dick Fraser, who broke the pole vault record. Special mention was also made of Mr. John Howlett, the champion hammer thrower, whose praiseworthy remarks were also tendered to the St. Bon's Rowing Crew, and Mr. Phil Brown, the coxswain. The season had been a successful one for the College. They had carried off the hockey and football trophies, besides the celebrating of the athletic victories was indeed a coincidence, because during the day the good news had been received that Mr. Geo. Power, of Grand Falls, a brilliant pupil of the College, had won the Jubilee Scholarship. He has been a pupil of St. Bon's for two years and during the past year he had been voted the Ideal boy by his schoolmates. Bro. Ryan was a great believer in games and athletic training as it goes hand in hand with religious and industrial development. Regret was expressed at the departure of Bro. O'Connell who had left for Halifax. He had been succeeded by Bro. J. B. Ryan who had returned after a year's absence. Bro. Ryan also took occasion to congratulate Mr. J. G. Higgins on his excellent work as manager of the Track Team. Mr. J. G. Higgins, on behalf of the Track Team thanked Bro. Ryan for his very kind remarks. He referred to the splendid work of Bro. Ryan since taking charge of the College, the encouragement of athletics, and everything in general, pertaining to the uplifting and teachings of the boys. He then presented to the College the Relay Cups won at the A.A.A. last year. The toasts and responses were excellent and full of enthusiasm for the Alma Mater. The following was the complete toast list: The Victorious Team: Prop. Rev. Bro. Ryan, Res. Mr. J. G. Higgins. Song—Rev. Bro. Pennessay. Rev. Dr. Carter, Prop. Rev. Bro. J. B. Ryan. Resp. Rev. Dr. Carter. Recitation—Rev. Father. Piano Solo—Mr. J. Kiely. The Press: Prop. Mr. W. B. Skinner. Resp. Press representatives. Song—Rev. Dr. Carter. The St. Bon's Regatta Crew: Prop. Rev. Bro. Strapp, Resp. The Orchestra. Song—Rev. Bro. McAleer. The College and Christian Brothers: Prop. Mr. J. G. Higgins, Resp. Rev. Bro. J. E. Ryan. Singing of the National Anthem and Auld Lang Syne brought the season's athletic event of St. Bon's College to a most successful conclusion.

NOVA SCOTIA TO SEND JOINT PROTEST WITH DOMINION TO U.S.A.

OTTAWA, Sept. 3. Attacks by United States citizens upon Canadian schooners off the United States Coast are the subject of a joint representation by the Dominion and the Province of Nova Scotia to the United States authorities, it was stated this evening by W. J. O'Hearn, K.C., Attorney General for Nova Scotia. Mr. O'Hearn said he had discussed the assaults with the Justice Department. It was decided to make a joint representation with a view to the arrest and punishment of offenders. He mentioned the attack on J. Scott Hankinson on August 30th, particularly.

RELIEF POURS INTO JAPAN.

LONDON, Sept. 3. With the communication between the devastated earthquake district of Tokio and the southern Japanese ports of Kobe and Osaka partially restored by airplane and road transport, and with Japanese troops converging upon the disaster district exerting strong efforts toward keeping peace and restoring order, news from Japan begins to give definite reports of loss. There are approximately one hundred dead among foreign residents, half of whom are British. Besides these there are scores of British missions including four of British Consulate staff. The world wide nature of unprecedented relief efforts are receiving attention from Russia, South Africa, and every part of the globe is contributing generously.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 3. Nison Dempo Agency reports that not a single house remains in Kamakura, and that all the villages along the coast in that direction were destroyed. The tidal wave came when thousands were in bathing and all were swept out to sea and drowned. Many famous temples were destroyed.

HON. R. ROGERS CALLS FOR A RALLY OF CONSERVATIVES.

MONTREAL, Sept. 3. In a statement issued here today Hon. Robert Rogers of Winnipeg strongly urges that a national conservative convention should be held as quickly as possible. He declares that never in the history of Canada was there such a clear call for conservatives to rally to the service of their country as now, and that call can, he claims, be answered through such a convention with representatives from all parts of the provinces of Canada. The big question to be decided is how best to answer the country's call in such a way as to save Canada from that over hanging danger with which it is so burdened that it threatens the very existence of seventy-five per cent of the homes in country.

Disorderly House Raided

As a result of a raid made on Saturday night by Detective Leo Walsh, a young married woman resident of Beaumont Street was hauled before court this morning and fined $100. The charge was that of keeping a house for immoral purposes. According to the evidence three married women resided in the house in addition to the mistress. Boys whose ages ranged from 17 to 19 years were cited as frequenters of the place. One witness stated that they went there at night on pretence of having a party. The responsibility of parents in this connection cannot be too strongly emphasized. Children even of tender years are permitted to roam the streets at all hours of the night, and as long as the home discipline is lax so long are such regrettable cases as that quoted above likely to happen.

Held on a Serious Charge

Constable P. Devins arrived in town by last night's shore train, having in charge a resident of Bell Island whom he arrested under warrant in connection with a fracas which occurred at Chapel's Cove, H. Main District, last Monday. The prisoner with his hand in sling was brought before the Magistrate this morning on a technical charge of assault on John Duggan and Michael Puer, according to the Inspector General who is prosecutor in the case. The Crown will probably stick to the charge of assault on Michael Puer, who is charged with having attempted manslaughter as the man Puer still lies unconscious at the General Hospital as a result of the row. Owing to the seriousness of the case Hawco is held without bail.

SPORTSMANLIKE ACTION.
 Butler, who is leaving to-day for London, Ohio, has returned to the prize he won for his 10 mile walk. Butler threw in his money for the prize. Butler's performance in the 10 mile walk was so good that it might be included in the program. The prize was through Tommy's kindness that will possess now a peculiar value to the winner.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J.
 Being with lefts—straight lefts, hook-left and uppercut lefts—Luis Firpo hunched four sparring partners out at his training camp. Under the watchful eye of his trainer, the local boss, Firpo is doing virtually all of his work to develop the portside punch. Firpo, the young Brookline heavyweight, whose style is to that of the heavyweights, furnished stiff opposition to the challenger.

What's the straight rights for the left looks to the body tell of their mark, but Firpo took them rolling away, never letting the full force of the blows. His left straight to Koebel's and hooked him on the jaw, constantly throughout.
 Larkie, the Joplin "Ghost," with his shiny head bobbed up and down and around incessantly, but escape a drubbing. He was knocked out at the finish. Tom McCann and Natalio Pera were made to repeat and they, as well Koebel and the "Ghost" were well done up by the Firpo.

TILT-CUP SERIES MONDAY.
 The Tilt-Cup series were drawn and resulted as follows:
 Guards vs. Felidiana.
 R.I.S. vs. C.L.B.
 Saints vs. C.E.I.

TO-DAY'S BEST LAUGH

The locum tenens stood at the door of the surgery and watched him approach. His head was bandaged with a red handkerchief; his head was a mess; there was a piece of stamp paper on his cheek, also sundry cakes of mud.
 He was sucking a wounded finger; the hand of his other arm was caught up in a temporary sling; his jersey was torn.
 He walked with a limp; through a big rest in his knicker a bruise showed plainly; long scratches ran down his legs; one boot was off.
 "Hurt?" asked the doctor.

OFF FOR HALIFAX.

In charge of Stan Cullen, who is possibly the foremost exponent of athletics in the country, the Newfoundland representatives in the Canadian Championships—Jack Bell, Ron O'Toole and Grant Burnell—left to-day by S.S. Silvia, and were given a great send-off by the large crowd of enthusiasts who were at the wharf to wish them bon voyage and good luck. The sports will be held at Halifax on this day week, and whether our boys are wholly successful or not, we feel sure they will make the same honourable impression for their sportsmanlike qualities that their predecessors did two years ago. They will be pitted against Canada's best track and field performers and the Halifax people estimate that 1,000 spectators will turn out. Cheap railway fares will be in effect on all lines and some thousands from the smaller towns are planning on making that trip to the city. This will be the greatest event of the year and those who have craved for the chance to see America's top notch performers in action will have the opportunity. Every word while town, city and village in Canada will be represented and it will be such a gala day that Halifax merchants have been asked to make it a special bargain day at the stores for the large number of visitors who are expected here.

Back in 1908, the Canadian Championships were held at the Wanderers and drew 7,000 spectators. At that time the running game was enjoying wonderful popularity and the world stars competed. With amateur sports far more popular than ever, twice as many spectators are expected at the 1923 meet, which Toronto, Montreal and other big cities, tried hard to get.
 In the 1908 meet, Halifax saw such wonders as Bobby Kerr, then world 220 champion; Tom Longboat, who never has had an equal over the marathon distance; Percy Selton, great middle distance runner; Abbie Wood, who later made his name famous in professional running; Lou Sebert, great Toronto University star and member of the Canadian Olympic team; Hans Holmer, professional running champion; Chuck Skeen, walking champion and dozens of other less notable figures, not to speak of the Maritime champions.
 All the above have since passed out of active competition and Nova Scotia will see many newcomers on Sept. 15. Foremost among the newcomers is Cecil Coates, Illinois A. C. Chicago, late of Winnipeg. Coates thrilled Americans with his great work over the century and was induced to move to Chicago. He equalled the world record for the century at nine and three-fifths seconds on several occasions and is to-day classed as one of the best sprinters in the world. Coates is bringing a relay team with him and will be after the Canadian Championships.
 Pat Duncan, weight champion, will make the trip from far off Vancouver in an effort to retain his many titles. From Montreal 25 leading athletes will come and the Ontario and Western champions will be in Halifax to hold up their laurels they won last year.
 While the Upper Canadians are stronger than the easterners in the big meet, the faith of Nova Scotia is pinned on Billy Moomer, Eric Smith, Victor MacAuley, Ralph McKay, Phil MacDonald, Steve Kennedy and Len MacDonald. These men are expected to win places, especially Moomer and MacAuley, who many predict will win the events they start in. Billy Maynes, a New Brunswicker, is also a likely winner in the quarter mile.

HELPFUL CRITICISM.
 Editor "Sportographs":
 Dear Sir,—May I offer a suggestion re all long distance road races. No doubt all supporters in cars, etc., want to be with the winner or favorite, but it should be remembered that there are others in the race as well.
 During Wednesday's 10 mile road race and the previous 10 mile walk, in each case the last couple of men coming out the eastern section of Topsail Road were alone.
 All cannot be winners, but the fact of these same competitors being left at the rear is to say the least not very encouraging to them, and they deserve great credit for finishing the course as they did.
 So now to you, gentlemen of sports committees, I say look after the tail ender. He is doing his best. Give him some encouragement and who knows but some day he may be a winner though not being neglected when first he began to race.
 Yours truly,
 BACK 'EM UP.

ANSWERS.
 Editor "Sportographs":
 Dear Sir,—For the benefit of a competitor in the quarter mile junior at yesterday's A. A. A. sports, would you kindly answer through the medium of your column the following questions:
 (1) Did O.C. Lynch present his birth certificate in accordance with regulations?
 (2) What age did O. C. Lynch give when entering in 1921, 1922 and 1923?
 (3) What is his age?
 Yours sincerely,
 JUSTICE.
 September 6th, 1923.
 Mr. Mackenzie, as clerk of the course in the A. A. A. sports, states in all cases without question competitors in junior events must produce birth certificates before the entry is accepted. "Justice's" queries are answered as follows:—
 (1) Yes.

Next Week's Big Motion Picture Attraction.

"In The Name of The Law" Is One of The Best.

"In The Name of The Law" which will be shown at the Nickel Theatre on Monday, was made for the main purpose of entertaining the millions of men and women and children who patronize moving picture theatres. But its purpose goes also beyond the mere idea of entertainment. It is a big human document of strong emotions, of tense drama, of swift action. It unfolds a tale of poignant humaneness. It tells a story about Policeman Patrick O'Hara and his family, consisting of Mother O'Hara, who is the bustling type of lovable housewife, and their two fine sons, Harry and Johnnie. An adopted daughter, Mary, also plays an important role in the picture and about this family group has been woven a story of striking appeal.
 Policemen, the country over have given "In The Name of The Law" their heartiest approval because it shows for the first time on record the sweet home life of a policeman's family. It depicts the years of toil during which a policeman and his devoted wife so diligently and at last put away sufficient money to buy a home. It shows how firmly they both stand in the big crises of their lives.
 In the cast are such capable players as Emory Johnson, who produced the picture; Ralph Lewis, who appears as Officer O'Hara; Ella Hall, Johnnie Walker and others.

WEEK-END NOTES.

(I. C. MORRIS.)

THE ROYAL COMMISSION.

Speaking of the Royal Commission which is being appointed to investigate our public affairs, it may be worth while to remark in the beginning, that some people hold the opinion that any discussion at present is illegal, as the case is what is legally termed Sub Judice. But this idea is entirely erroneous, because so far there is not any charge; hence there is no case, hence there is no contempt. At the present moment the public are mostly in the dark as to why Sir Richard Squires stepped down from his high position. Notwithstanding the rumours that have been rife, and all the insinuations which have been made, there is nothing definite known as to what really occurred, and the ex-Premier has shown commendable firmness in keeping his own councils so far. The public generally, have been so long accustomed to hearing charges made against governments and political parties, that they have ceased to mind them; hence they pass as sort of current gossip. The average person is aware that most of the hard things that politicians say against themselves are "but" carried out, and they are not heard. But the present case is a very different one from what has hitherto occurred because in the past, when a political party disagreed, or a leader was defeated, it was of course the work of his opponents; but in this case there is the anomaly of a leader being deposed by his own colleagues, by his own Executive. Therefore it cannot be said that the retirement of the ex-Premier has been caused by his political enemies, nor by those who in any way opposed him. His own friends have either suggested, or requested, or demanded, his retirement, with the result that he has stepped down from his high office. Such a step was one of the unexpected things amongst the many that may have been anticipated. That there might have been a possibility of another election, or sundry changes, seemed probable, but that the leader of the government should be defeated by his own side, was not dreamed of. Sir Richard Squires had a good support in the election; and men of all sides of politics sympathize with him in the strenuous time which he had during his term of office, owing to the results of the war. The Premiership of Newfoundland after the war, was no flowery bed, and the ex-Premier had a difficult time; and friends and foes sympathized with him for that reason. With four years more of power Sir Richard had a chance to do something, and to put the country in a better position than she has been in since the war. It was indeed the chance of a lifetime, because there was the likelihood of improved conditions, and by bettering things by the end of the term. What then has caused the change, and why has Sir Richard Squires retired? These are the questions that will be answered by the work of the Commission; therefore it is vain to surmise, or to suppose, what really has happened. But coming to the Commission itself, we think that it ought to mean much to Newfoundland, and should result in establishing her government upon a better basis than seems to have been recognized of late. In one of his addresses at the House, Sir Michael Cashin regretted that three local men could not be found to form a Commission. But Sir Michael could not have meant that. Very evidently what he really meant was, that the three gentlemen who had been appointed, refused to it. The gentleman who has been appointed by the Imperial Government to act as Chairman of the Commission, will come to the office entirely independent, and will be untrammelled by any local or partisan leanings; and will thus be in a position to exercise discretion in the performance of his duties; so that whoever the personnel of the entire Commission may be, there is the gratification that the presiding member is one who is above all party prejudices, and who cannot be influenced one way or the other. This should strengthen the position of the Commission in the public thought, and should impart confidence to the people, that the enquiry will be worth while. Considering all that has been mentioned, it is due to those interested that the enquiry proceed, and they be given a chance to justify their actions. There is sometimes a possibility of enclaves developing partisan feeling, and thus falling in the accomplishment of their purpose; but with a chairman who stands in the position of the gentlemen appointed, there is room to hope that fair play will be meted out; and that our public affairs will be established upon a more honorable basis than they appear to have been in the past.

Decree for Annulment of Unconsummated Marriages.

Procedure and Methods of Preparing Cases in Which Dispensations are Sought Devised in Detail by Roman Curia.

(By Mgr. Enrico Pucci, Rome Correspondent, N.C.W.C. News Service).

Rome, Aug. 2.—One of the most important recent legislative acts of the Roman Curia is the establishment of the new procedure to be followed in the granting of dispensations of matrimony "ratum non consummatum."

As is well known, cases of this kind—aside from the so-called Pauline privilege which applies only in the case of non-Catholics—are the only ones in which the Church has the faculty of annulling a true, real and valid marriage. All the other causes of annulment of marriage do not concern the dissolution of a real marriage, but only the proof that in certain attempted marriages there was a defect existing from the beginning which rendered them null; hence they consist in the juridical recognition and proclamation of such pre-existing nullity.

In the case of a marriage "ratum non consummatum," however, there is a true and real dispensation from the matrimonial bond contracted through a valid marriage, a dispensation which can be granted by the Apostolic See when that marriage, although valid in itself, has not been integrated by the consummation.

Regulating Procedure.

The Holy See has now felt the need of regulating the procedure for these dispensations because this procedure has been developed in the past more according to practice than according to fixed and set rules. The necessity for these rules was very great, inasmuch as the procedure for such dispensations was developed so far as all the preliminary stages are concerned, in the various dioceses in which the petitioning parties lived and these diocesan investigations were not always carried on in a sufficiently exact juridical manner. It has often been necessary to have recourse to supplementary inquiries which rendered the judgments uncertain and the proceedings very long. In view of all these reasons the Sacred Congregation of the Sacraments has established a new method of procedure, and has made it law by a decree in which are explained the reasons which have made such action advisable and the Catholic belief concerning the nature and consequences of the dispensation of matrimony "ratum non consummatum."—Catholic Register.

Noted Fugitive Engaged—Beckett's Shy Fiancee.

Joe Beckett, the boxer, has become engaged to Miss Ruth Ford, the prettiest daughter of the proprietor of the Marine Hotel, Worthing, Sussex. Joe has given her a diamond cluster engagement ring.

"They are doing their best to keep it quiet," Miss Ford, sister of Joe Beckett's fiancée, told a pressman last week. "They are very fond of each other, and I think it a most suitable match. Ruth is fair-haired and extremely pretty. Mr. Beckett is a very nice man."

Speaking to a newspaper representative, Miss Ford said she personally had made no announcement of her engagement. "You see I'm shy," she laughingly remarked. Beckett is still at Worthing, was busy training when the engagement took place. Miss Ford confessed that she had received congratulatory messages.

Women Pioneers for Public Health in Northern Ontario.

THREE NOTABLE WOMEN ON 3,000 MILE AUTO TOUR CARRY GOSSIP OF SOCIAL HYGIENE INTO REMOTE PARTS OF NORTH ONTARIO.

(Written for the Canadian Press by ANNE PERRY.)

TORONTO, Sept. 7.—After motoring nearly 3,000 miles through outlying parts of Northern Ontario, addressing twenty-two audiences and many thousands of people in summer resorts, towns, hamlets, pioneer settlements and agricultural districts, three intrepid women workers for the cause of social hygiene have just returned to Toronto from a five weeks unique journey, during which they conducted an intensive and highly successful campaign for better standards of private and public health.

The women gossippers were Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, one time suffrage leader in Great Britain, Mrs. R. A. Kennedy, prominent war worker and clubwoman of Ottawa, and Miss Estelle Hewson, Ontario Secretary of the Canadian Hygiene Council, which was sponsor for the trip. Travelling alone, with Miss Hewson at the wheel and in charge of arrangements, these apostles of child welfare, racial improvement and the highest standards of public health brought to the remote parts they visited what was in many instances an absolutely new message of social regeneration. It was given to rich and poor alike and there was no mixing of words or trifling with facts. Audiences included town crowds in the more southerly centres, fashionable, cultured gatherings in the big summer hotels, French-Canadian lumbermen in the mill towns in Parry Sound district, scattered groups of pioneering settlers on the north shore of Lake Superior and farmers on Manitoulin Island. Getting across to the latter place meant negotiating a suffering sedan into a ferry unaccustomed to motor cars or women gossippers, but the thing was done and nearly a week was spent among the habitants of the big island, where meetings were addressed daily.

Over five thousand people throughout a widely scattered region heard it, it is estimated, the subject of social hygiene discussed frankly by Mrs. Pankhurst and her companions, who unwearied by the wear and tear of almost continuous travelling, faced interested and often wondering audiences almost every evening. In the town halls, the schools, the churches—numbers of these in the newest towns being Union Churches—the hotels, in fact, anywhere that room could be had or a crowd gathered, they delivered their message and distributed literature. At South St. Marie an audience of 800 filled the auditorium of the Technical School, while across the river the American "Soo" greeted the Canadian visitors with an attendance of over 500. This was the only time during the trip that any point outside Ontario was touched, though many interested American tourists in the summer hotels and colonies of Muskoka turned out to the meetings. At one well-known hotel the proprietor had reserved choice quarters for the social hygiene missionaries, entertained them as guests and saw that their successful meeting was well advertised in advance.

Contrary to all expectations the summer guests in the Muskoka resorts, among whom were many notable persons from many parts of the continent, displayed unusual interest in the Pankhurst party and its message, deserted their bridge tables and ballrooms to attend their meetings and exhibited both personal and practical sympathy with the objectives of the mission. Less illustrious gatherings in small towns or settlements along the route were not less responsive and the social hygiene gossippers felt that the main object of the tour had been accomplished.

This was, to bring to the people of the remote parts of Northern Ontario a clearer realization of the menace of venereal diseases as a race destroyer; the urgent need for open-eyed, uncompromising, common sense and courageous dealing with a social plague which thrives on secrecy in all communities big or small; and to outline the necessity for the better education of old and young alike in the way to attain not only personal but community health.

Results of this efficiently conducted tour include the formation of three new social Hygiene Councils to link with the national body, the arousing to interested action of groups of prominent citizens in almost every locality touched and the offer co-operative individual effort from mayors, magistrates, ministers, judges, doctors, health officers, large employers, business men, clubwomen and mothers of growing families.

Defining social hygiene propaganda as "The great crusade of the twentieth century and perhaps the greatest reform movement of all time," Mrs. Pankhurst on all occasions and to all audiences based her appeal for good hearing and hearty help on the slogan, "Every child in Canada ought to be assured of its three-fold birthright of physical, mental and moral health." People who came to see a belligerent militant leader typifying rebellious womanhood, remained to hear a softly spoken, gentle lady with a forceful message. The essential motherliness of herself and her constructive message carried conviction everywhere.

Mrs. R. A. Kennedy, the second member of the party, contributed largely to the success of the crusade by her knowledge of war and after-war conditions. During the war she was treasurer of the Canadian Women's War Work Committee at Folkestone and in charge of the Maple Leaf I. O. D. E. Club in Comaught Place, London, an institution which did such commendable work that she was decorated by the King and Queen. As President of the Women's Club of Ottawa she has a wide acquaintance all over Canada, touches the national life at many angles, is a gifted speaker and thoroughly good "mixer." During the trip she met many boys who had been entertained in her hotel and in every town was able to offer practical advice concerning after-war social conditions. As one of a family of five, all of whom served in some capacity at the Front—her husband as a doctor, both sons in the army and her daughter as a V. A. D., and Mrs. Kennedy herself as a nurse—she speaks as a veteran and thinks as a genuine patriot. She has now become a volunteer in the army combatting venereal disease.

Fractious evidence of the sympathetic reception accorded the health campaigner lies in the fact that the entire expenses of the trip were paid from collections taken at the meetings or personal donations offered by individuals.

Great credit is due to Miss Estelle Hewson, Ontario Secretary of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council, who acted as chauffeur and general manager of the tour. Miss Hewson's management of the car and the tour were equally efficient. In the whole three thousand miles covered by the party only one delay was caused by car trouble and it came from a trifling tack on the road. But the message and its messengers went marching on despite any hindrances and over all obstacles, such as rocky trails, narrow passages and unknown territory. The gossippers in many cases found that local practitioners and health officers were warmly grateful for a public exposition by trained speakers of conditions with which they had to deal every day and disease they have to combat without the support which publicity gives or any clear understanding by the public of the alarming ramifications of venereal disease in all communities. In a few cases, however, the old animosity of prejudiced medical men was encountered and resentment at the intrusion of lay performers into what used to be exclusive medical territory. One of the great victories of the trip lay in meeting and conquering this prejudice, where it existed, and in lining up those who held it to do battle with the old, common enemy. The missionaries were greatly helped by the assistance of various women's clubs at points on the tour, and the Provincial Board of Health.

Just Folks.
BY EDGARD A. GUEST.

GIVING
When friendly hands come in and bring
To me some friendly offering,
It pleases me some day to take
A gift to them for friendship's sake.
I jump for joy when they make known
A trinket they would like to own,
And with that gift to them I go
My gratitude and love to show.

Life daily plays the friend to me,
It gives me splendours I may see,
The stars at night, the morning sun,
The playground where the children run.

It gives me laughter through the years,
Strength for my task and faith for tears,
Love at my heart, and all I own—
A new day when to-day has flown.

Then shall I, taking while I live
So much from life, not also give
A little of myself in turn—
That life my gratitude may learn.

Shall I take all, and day by day
Give nothing back along the way?
Shall naught of service come from me
That life on earth may happier be?

Or shall I not refuse to find
Some little need for being kind,
And seize the chance this gift to make
To one from whom so much I take?

That heart is cold and dull as stone
Where gratitude is never known,
And thoughtless he who while he lives
Takes all from life, but nothing gives.

Monkeys Rang the Tocsin.

A correspondent in Naples tells an amusing tale of two escaped monkeys, which, after frightening a whole district for several days, mobilized the countryside by ringing the tocsin in the village church. The two delinquents were acquired by two rich Neapolitans, who wished to have a Venetian operation performed. Pending the moment when the celebrated professor could proceed to Italy, the monkeys were kept in a cage. One day they managed to break the doors of the cage and escape. Reaching the Royal Park of Capodimonte, the simian visitors considerably startled the people there, until finally they were chased into the village church. Spring two ropes, the monkeys made a dash to climb up to what must have seemed a safe point of vantage. Soon the bells at the other end of the ropes began to toll a tocsin, which grew ever wilder as the beasts, driven half frantic by the unknown sound of clanging, swung widely back and forth until crowds attracted by the ringing bells captured them both.

MARKET REPORTS

Indicate that there is no surplus of Anthracite Coal in the U.S. The shortage caused by the strike of Anthracite Miners last year has not been made up, and American hard coal will, in all probability, be hard to get and high priced. Coke is an excellent substitute for hard coal, and we have on hand a stock of same that will soon be disposed of, because a shortage of hard coal invariably creates an increased demand for our product. We advise our customers to book their requirements as soon as possible.

SIDE TALKS. By Ruth Cameron.

HOW THE POOR MAN BENEFITS. "What have the poor folks gotten out of all these tremendous advances in material civilization, all our inventions and our organizations?" asks a generous-hearted young member of the community. A Wonderful Luxury. Sanitation. Sewers are not regarded as luxuries but they certainly are. Costly luxuries and yet cheap at the price. Lighted streets. A light in his home at a very small cost. Streets made fairly safe by police. Laugh if you will but if you could spend a few evenings on the streets of New York as they were 75 years ago you would not think our present policing quite so exquisitely funny. Water coming out of a faucet in the poorest city home, whereas the rich get hard to go to the corner and buy water at the public pumps in New York 100 years ago. Free schooling. Reading matter free at the public library or at a very small cost in the newspaper and magazine. Free hospital care for those who cannot afford to pay for it. Transportation at incredibly small cost. Slowly But Surely. Hours in most industries cut from 13 or 14 to eight or nine. In many cities health inspection of the children in the schools. There are a few—just a few—of the benefits which make the poor man of today infinitely better off than if he had been born in the same walk of life 200 years ago. Mind you, I do not pretend to say he has his fair share. I don't know anyone but God who could compute that. Or anyone but God who could adjust it off-hand so that he could have.

THE WORLD'S PRESS.

GERMAN COMPETITION. Daily Mail: German manufactured goods are under-selling British products in our own towns and cities. We want to see a great influx of German raw materials, with a moderate proportion of manufactured articles, by way of payment in kind of the British share of reparations. A RATE-AIDED STRIKE. Daily Telegraph: How long is the dock strike to be allowed to be kept going in the London area by the aid of public money? It has already collapsed in the other great ports and would have long since ended in London also were the strikers left to their own resources. It is being sustained merely by the rate-aid provided by the Board of Guardians of Poplar and Bermondsey, for all other financial support has long since been withdrawn. In the case of a striker with a large family it pays better to file than to work, so the temptation not to admit defeat, inevitable defeat, is obviously overwhelming on the part of men who, untutored, unreasonable, and embittered, take short views, if they have any views at all.

THE AERIAL AGE.

Daily Chronicle: Someone has said that the world cannot revive as it did after the Napoleonic wars because it cannot produce anything to equal the development of machinery which then took place. But is it not just possible that in our mastery of the air we have at hand the source of all the power we need for recuperation?

THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

Singapore Free Press: The object of the Imperial Economic Conference, as regards the Colonies should be first to increase their productive power and develop their resources so that their internal wealth may grow; and secondly to see that the growth of the demand for manufactured goods consequent on increased wealth may be filled by Imperial goods, rather than by those of foreign countries.

HISTORY A SCIENCE.

Auckland Weekly News: Once history was a branch of literature. Now, instead of being a bare cataloguing of names and dates, or even a pleasing record of events, it takes account of general tendencies in human progress and decay. It need not cease to be literary, giving delight through the manner of its telling, but first and foremost it must be exact. It has developed a method no less than have the sciences often exclusively so called. Indeed, it may, with accuracy, be described as biology writ large.

LIBERAL EDUCATION.

Brooklyn Eagle: Paris, like the rest of France, does not repel the newly rich. It merely milks them down to the varietal stripplings. The money that is taken in prices and tips, with a shrug of the shoulder, does mitigate scorn for the sinner if coarseness is the keynote of his temperament and Main Street the keynote of his culture. He is a necessary evil, but an evil at that. Rudeness in response to Latin flirtation, drunkenness in public places, loudness of voice and manner, arrogance of wealth, still shock Frenchmen and Frenchwomen.

MEN AND MORE MEN. Le Canada: A bigger population in Canada—and we have room in this country for a vast number of settlers—will benefit us greatly by the increase of production and the provision of work for a much greater number of people. By increasing our population, we will reduce the burden of our taxation, a crushing consequence of the Great War, and, above all, of our prodigality in transportation both on land and sea. The Government, in calling a Ministry of Immigration, intends to attract to Canada a stronger movement of settlers and all those who wish well of the country will welcome this wise and opportune decision.

Asiatic Deserts Below Sea Level, Teem With Ruins. There is a place in Chinese Turkestan, called Lukchun, that is far below the sea level. This forbidding region is one of the most interesting in the world. Everywhere it is found ruins of human habitation. Great cities are here, with their maces, farms, and industries, dead as though time had stricken them as they stood. When Atlantis stood high the gulf stream played on one side of it and Arctic currents on the other, but

THE WALKERS.

Along the high-ways, day by day, the spayed hooves wand their way. Unwashed, unshaven, I see them go, at eve and morn. The town they lately left behind was rather brutal and unkind; the cops pursued them through the streets, and called them bums and likewise beasts, and many another ghastly name which ought to bring the blush of shame. The town ahead these boys will spurn; no welcome lamp will for them burn; as soon they appear the cops will execute some leaps and hops, and center blithely on their trail and chase them to the city jail. My intellect is surely grand; a lot of things I understand. But I could never see the sense of walking without recom-pense, of drilling through the summer heat, the autumn rain, the winter sleet, without a welcome anywhere, without a bed or easy chair. For if a man is amply strong to walk the dusty pipe along, he's strong enough to push a plow, or wield a saw or groom a cow. And doing simple tricks like these will help him purchase pies and cheese, will buy him hats and shirts and shoes, and like a bed in which to snooze. And when some day he goes to town the peeler does not run him down; they bow politely as he wanders, and all good people are his friends. I cannot see why any lay should pass this up to beat his way.

G.P.R. MAN'S BITTER DILEMMA—SAVED BOY.

KALADAR STATION, Ont.—(A.P.)—Three year old Carolyn Noren Spencer was crushed to death and her brother Ronald, miraculously saved, when the express wagon in which the two were playing toppled off the station platform and tossed them under the wheels of a passing freight.

Their father, Roy Spencer, C. P. R. agent here, glanced up from his key in the station window as the train came in from the West and noticed that the children were close to the track. Before he had time to shout a warning the freight came opposite the wagon, suddenly caught and turned it sideways, and the children fell under the wheels. In the fraction of a minute left before the wheels would have passed over their bodies he rushed out and, realizing instantly that he would be unable to rescue both, he reached desperately for the boy, who was nearest. One wheel caught the boy's knee as he grasped him, but in spite of this the father was able to drag him out to safety.

His tiny daughter was crushed to death before his eyes just a few inches beyond his reach.

Spencer, who has only been in Kaladar a short time, comes from Wallaceburg, Ont.

Keep your face towards the sunshine and the shadows will fall behind you.

A woman is never so disappointed as when she orders a man to behave and—he obeys.

There are few women who can understand why, if they want a thing, they shouldn't have it.

A smoking room for nurses was recently proposed by a member of the Portsmouth Infirmary Committee.

Towels and table-cloths, like silver, are "collected" as souvenirs by visitors staying at our big hotels.

They not only test the fibre of character, but strengthen it. Every conquered temptation represents a new fund of moral energy. Every trial endured, if weathered in the right spirit, makes a soul nobler and stronger than it was before.

We often falter in our task of happiness either by cowardice or hypocrisy. True love of honor, righteousness of character, and a steadfast faith in God, are far more valuable treasures than riches. If men were to strive more earnestly to try and lead good Christian lives, by the observance of the Divine Law, they would find a panacea for all their ills, and the world would be much sater in every way than it is to-day.

"The laws that He made He was first to obey them."

The counsels He gave were both simple and true—His legions of soldiers, were He to array them.

Would fill the vast space in you conceive of blue; He came down on earth for that glorious strife, To give man a new birth and Eternity's life."

To Watch Speeders.

Motor Cycle Police to Make Drivers Respect the Law.

The Quebec Government is determined to stop speeding on the provincial highways, both in the interest of the roads and of safety.

The wild speed does harm to the surface and also is responsible for the numerous accidents. Hon. Mr. Perron has time and again warned and appealed to automobile drivers to respect the laws, and the majority no doubt have given heed to the urgings.

There is a minority of drivers, however, who care nothing for the regulations and who turn a deaf ear to all the appeals and warnings. These gentlemen are to be dealt with summarily, and to catch them hotfoot, as it were, a special squad of provincial motorcycle men has been appointed by the department of Hon. Jacob Nichol, provincial treasurer, for the enforcement of the motor vehicle speed restrictions. Ten motor vehicle police are already being trained and these will be stationed on the main and national highway. Their particular task will be to regulate the great and growing tourist traffic in particular, to instruct the drivers as to the Quebec laws, and to curb the gentry who refuse to take the hints.

The presence of these men on the roads will have the desired effect, without a doubt.—Review.

misfortune at their own private peace, like a clock during a thunderstorm." In fact, the two virtues of cheerfulness and patience are linked together and go hand and hand. Speaking of these virtues reminds me of a well-known clergyman, professor in a college for nearly half a century. During that long span of years, he was never known, even under trying difficulties, to have lost his temper, or to have shown the least impatience. Quite a difficult task.

"Daddy." Now students, we did not call him that as a nickname. No, we called him "Daddy" on account of his fatherly affection and loving disposition. Needless to say, the students fondly appreciated the kindly reference to the cheerfulness and patient professor, who blushed greatly at the speaker's remarks.

Charity, that great virtue, as St. Paul says, "still binds us together," is sadly lacking in its practicability. Charity is not selfish, thinking always and only of your own convenience and pleasure, but giving a thought and doing something for others.

That life is a kind of pilgrimage—sort of Jericho road. And kindness to one's fellows is the sweetest law in the code.

The want of charity, in word and deed, recalls these lines:— The world is bad enough we own, And many need more light; Yet, with true love to all, may we Help in the cause of right. Lift up the sinful and the weak, The soul by care perplexed; Well knowing that to drink the gall, It may be your turn next.

Happiness, the greatest of all treasures here below, comes to those whose conscience is at rest with God and man—the fruit of duty well and carefully done.

Buckingham says: "Trials, temptations, disappointments, all these are helps instead of hindrances, if one uses them rightly."
