THE TEACHERS INSTITUTE WAS OPENED THIS MORNING Large Number of Delegates Were Enrolled at the First Meeting.

Interesting Paper by President Dykeman on Factors of Education - - - From Home Training Until Final Graduation Day.

The St. John County Teachers' Institute opened its session in the High School building this morning...

A second number was rendered by the orchestra and after Mr. Owen, principal of St. Patrick's school...

Mr. Dykeman said in part: "Education has been defined as comprising all the influences which tend to form the character. The influence in the complex phases of life as it now is the strenuous life...

Thus we frequently hear of self-made men and the statement that if the schools have not had part in the education of such as they, that so much training in school is wasteful of time and a source of unnecessary expense...

As the first and most important factor in impressions made in childhood are more easily made and retained, may be mentioned the home and family training. It is said that the future destiny of the nation lies in the home training, especially that given by the mother.

The child should also be taught the lessons that exist between himself and the secondary instructions—obedience, readiness to receive the truth, willingness and earnestness to do what is asked...

The speaker next dealt with the preparation of home studies and the means that teachers should employ to see that the work is properly carried out. The misuse of questions implying the answers "yes or no" in school examinations was pointed out.

Mr. Dykeman also spoke of the motives that should inspire the student, the parents' approbation, the establishment of a school opinion in his favor, and the desire of distinction.

CROSS OF HONOR AWARDED TO PABST

MEDALS FROM BELGIUM

Rare Trophies Won at the International Hygienic and Pure Food Exposition at Antwerp.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 5.—Valued above the other hundreds of awards voted to the Pabst Brewing company by national and international expositions held at various times in the last few decades, a collection of awards which was received by C. G. Gustave Pabst from Antwerp will occupy a higher place in the esteem of the company than all the other medals in the Pabst collection.

The awards were brought to Milwaukee by special embassy from the International Hygienic and Pure Food exposition at Antwerp, Belgium, and include the cross of honor of Belgium, known as the grand prize of the exposition, a gold medal and a diploma elaborately studded with seals of noted Europeans, and setting forth that Pabst "Blue Ribbon" beer of quality, received the highest award for purity and excellence at the great exposition held in Antwerp. The awards were made only after the severest tests known to enlightened science, and demonstrate, under the signatures and seals of the jury and commissioners, that the product of the Pabst Brewing company stood alone among hundreds of other beers submitted at Antwerp for the exhaustive tests of experts.

The arrival of the special messenger from Belgium was an event at the offices of the Pabst Brewing company, and already the medals have been exhibited to many Milwaukeeans interested in the excellence of this city's products compared with that of the best known breweries in two hemispheres.

GET HIGHEST POSSIBLE HONORS.

The gold medal which is about two and a half inches in diameter, bears on one side the head in relief of King Leopold of Belgium who was the patron of the exposition at Antwerp. On the other side is a likeness, also in relief, of the huge building at Antwerp in which the pure food and hygienic exhibit was held.

DIPLOMA OF BEAUTIFUL DESIGN.

The diploma setting forth the fact that "Blue Ribbon" beer was awarded the grand prize at the Antwerp exposition is a beautifully designed document bearing four idealistic figures. The entire wording is in the French language, the court language of Belgium. The body of the diploma sets forth that the "diplome de grand prix" has been awarded to the Pabst Brewing company of Milwaukee. The array of official signatures is the chief feature of the document. The diploma is signed by the president of the jury which awarded the honors, by the lord mayor of the city of Antwerp, honorary member, the administrator general, and president of the committee of commercial patronages.

The signatures of the exposition officials are verified and attested to by the minister of foreign affairs of the Royal Belgian government. All these signatures are in turn attested to by the vice and deputy consul general representing the United States government at Antwerp, the two certifications being written in the lower margin of the diploma and accompanied by the respective seals of office.

Cross of Honor.

The background of the middle portion of the diploma sets forth in dim outline a view from the harbor of the port of Antwerp, showing the great shipping interests and in the extreme background the famous cathedral of Antwerp with its high steeple.

turers, scientists, legislators and workers for the public good from every corner of the world. The awards of the juries are made with such unmistakable impartiality and are so decidedly announced for or against certain food products that the knowledge gained from a visit to the exposition serves as absolute protection against fraud.

The exposition is held annually at different cities decided upon by the board of commissioners. In 1906 it was held in Paris, this year in Antwerp and next year it will be held in another city of the continent or in Great Britain. Crowned heads of Europe unite in aiding its welfare, and every civilized country each year sends its most noted scientists to participate in the gathering together of experts from all parts of the world. In Europe the exposition is annually given the greatest publicity throughout the different centers of population, it being the understood object to apprise the people of what is good and what is not good for their general welfare.

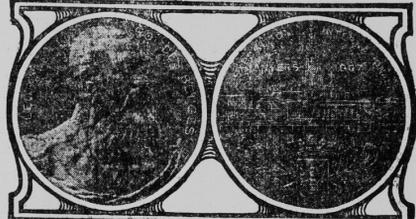

The department of brewing at the Antwerp exposition was one of the chief features. The fact that the first beer was brewed in what is now the kingdom of Belgium added to the interest in the exhibit and inspired wonderful showings from the different interests of the world. All the great breweries of Germany, America, England and other countries made efforts to excel in their exhibits, and when the time came for the highest awards interest was at fever heat.

The tests of the hundreds of samples of bottled beers were most severe. The jury which made the exhaustive tests of the brewery products was made up of scientists, university professors and chemists of note appointed by the Belgian minister of education.

SUBJECTED TO HEAT AND COLD.

The jury's task was a severe one, the tests of each beer extending over a considerable time. Pabst "Blue Ribbon" beer, along with all the others, was for weeks alternately subjected to extreme degrees of heat and cold. Of all the beers so tested Pabst "Blue Ribbon" beer was the only one found upon examination to retain all the properties originally contained in the brew. It was finally determined that the "Blue Ribbon" beer took first place among all the other varieties submitted by American and European breweries. Consequently the highest possible honors of the exposition were awarded.

The fact that the American beer took first place was all the more remarkable from the fact that it was necessarily transported a great distance, a factor that might ordinarily have been a decided handicap as against the other beers sent to Antwerp. The time that the beer was in transit from the brewery in Milwaukee was something like four weeks, and it is a generally accepted theory that beer loses through transportation. The Pabst beer apparently was unaffected. Its durability and pureness were found upon examination to be without fault.

The exposition at Antwerp this year was held during the months of June, July and August, the months in which the tourist travel is largest. It was opened by King Leopold, under whose protection it was held, the various monarchies and the French republic appointing delegates to represent them in the international show. The exhibits were placed in the great building erected several years ago at Antwerp and designed especially for large expositions of the nature of the pure food show. The juries appointed to make tests in the several departments of the exposition were appointed by the Belgian minister of education with the approval of the different nations participating in the gathering, the members being selected with special view to their peculiar fitness to judge of the merits of the products coming under their examination. One of the noted members of the jury which undertook the stupendous task of testing the bottled beers and awarding prizes was Prof. Alfred Jorgensen of Copenhagen, Denmark, than whom there is no better known authority on the subject of scientific and hygienic brewing. Others on the jury were men of undoubted ability in their line. The fact that the host of exhibitors in the department of brewing unanimously approved of the membership of the jury bespeaks their ability.

It is probable that the awards now in the care of the Pabst Brewing company will be placed on exhibition at an early date, it being the desire of the officials to permit the public at large to examine the medals and diplomas signifying the par excellence of Pabst Blue Ribbon beer.

A CIVIC MISTAKE

The mistake made by the city in permitting the double tracking of that portion of Union street between Waterloo and Brussels streets is now apparent to all who pass that way. The city council should have foreseen what would result from placing two tracks in so narrow a space in one of the busiest places in the whole city.

ABOUT COL. McLEAN

There seems no doubt that an effort is being made to secure for Col. H. H. McLean the nomination of the Liberal party as their federal candidate in Queens County. It is argued by his friends that if Col. McLean could secure the support of Senator King he would poll a very large vote in Chipman, and that if all the Queens county men employed on the St. John street railway were sent up to canvass for the Colonel he would make a great showing.

CHOOSING CANDIDATES

From rumors on the streets there is apparently some ground for the statement that quite a number of ambitious young gentlemen would not be averse to the acceptance of a place on the opposition ticket in this city in the next provincial election. It may be observed at this stage, before the work of choosing candidates has been entered upon, that the electors will not take kindly to weak candidates. The influential men in the party should leave no stone unturned to get strong candidates, who are well known and worthy of the most vigorous support.

THE SUN IS CLOUDED

It is a cause for sincere regret on the part of its friends that the Sun has developed into an unreliable and misguided newspaper. This morning it said: "An instance of the evening Conservative organ's fairness was afforded in an editorial article yesterday, quoting as the St. John Globe's opinion—the Globe says: 'The Globe tells' we quote from the Globe—an interview written by and credited to Mr. Hazen and published both in The Globe and The Telegraph."

and place it seeks to convey the impression that the Globe did not say what it did say on the previous evening. The Times quoted from an article in the Globe concerning which the Globe said in its editorial columns:—

"In another part of this issue of the Globe is printed a statement which people who are interested in provincial affairs should read. Probably those who take an interest in the affairs of New Brunswick are well aware of the facts given; but there may be some who think too lightly upon a matter of this kind, and who think that we may go on forever investing the public money in resultless undertakings."

The Liberals of British Columbia are not very far from an attitude of sympathy toward some planks of the Conservative platform. At the provincial convention in Vancouver resolutions were adopted in favor of the Natal exclusion act, to apply to Ontario. A report of the convention states further that the convention endorsed the principle of government ownership of telegraphs and telephones, and recommended that government control be extended to these, after the pattern of the railway commission, till such time as they could be taken over.

Says the Charlottetown Guardian:—"If Montreal is to be made a free port—the government undertaking to reimburse the city for the port charges which will be abolished—the same should be done for Halifax and St. John. The latter ports are open all the year round, while Montreal is closed by ice for five months of the twelve. A single free port for Canada, and that far inland and closed in winter, would not only be an absurdity but a downright injustice."

Will street may rave, and a portion of the press may denounce President Roosevelt in the most vigorous terms, but so long as such revelations of high finance as are now being made in New York continue, the general public will endorse the president in his campaign against the rich thieves. The story of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company is as good an example of the public interest as the best of the insurance companies.

THE WEST AND THE TELEGRAPHS

Fortunately for the early success of the public ownership movement on this continent public service corporations are their own worst enemy. What could only be slowly accomplished by the force of argument is being rapidly completed by the arbitrary, unreasonable and tyrannical action of franchise-holding companies. After the sharp lessons many of them have received in recent years and the evidence everywhere afforded of the taunting side of popular irritation and resentment, ordinary evidence would certainly counsel greater circumspection and fairness in the conduct of the public service entrusted to them. Unruly habits, however, are not easily overcome, and officials accustomed to bully their customers into submission are slow to accept diverse criticism by methods direct and indirect that impose penalties on its utterance, find it difficult to realize that the day of their power has gone and the hour of reckoning has come.

The attempt made by the C. P. R. Telegraph Company to control the news service and policy of the western press of Canada and to limit its right to discuss and criticize freely any and every matter affecting the public interest is the latest example of corporation intolerance. This public service company has, according to the Manitoba Free Press, monopolized over a sufficiently wide district to produce the inevitable fruits of monopoly—an inefficient service and an insolent disregard for its duties as a common carrier. This pithy verdict on the manner in which this company discharges its duty as a public trustee is finding ample support in the more recent actions. Not content with arbitrarily and greedily raising its tariff for newspaper matter it is now getting back at its press critics by charging commercial rates.

If the story ended there the evil attending the private operation of public services would be strikingly exemplified. Excessive rates are a common enough feature of corporation conduct with public franchises. This particular company, however, has gone further by summarily depriving a western newspaper of its telegraph service, unless a contract is signed, undertaking not to criticize its future acts. But it is of the essence of a public service that it be free to all and to corporation entrusted with it has a vestige of right to discriminate either in favor of any of its patrons or against any of them. Attempts on the part of public service companies to muzzle the free expression of opinion by withholding privileges that are of general right cannot be too strongly condemned. What is now happening in the western provinces provides the strongest possible argument for the nationalization of all public services of the class immediately concerned.

OCTOBER WOODS

The frost has opened the chestnut burr. And the nuts fall easily, two and three. The squirrel chatters, the partridge whirs. And the red-capped woodpecker hoves his tree. Oh, lightly and lightly the birch leaves float. Like golden butterflies loosed in Spring; And bright as the sails of a fairy boat The walnut leaves take wing. Now come, now come, far down the lane The asters beckon, the robins call. The shrunken brook grows brown again, And leaps in a laughing waterfall. Over the stile and over the bridge, Adown the path where the meek cows stray To follow at the woodland way. See! how the marvellous cloth of gold— A Trian tapestry woven fine— Wide as we wander still unrolled, Rustling o'er your feet and mine! The boughs of the woodland is joy to breathe— The mingled odor of leaf and flower; And clustering fruit where the wind vines wreathes The oak-tree's mossy tower. Softly into the vistaed wood Through painted windows the sunbeams gleam. The husband wide walk in pensive mood Down many a solitary path. The golden clouds hang low in the air. And the tall trees stand as if in prayer; With their beards upon their breasts, IDA WILFLEDE BENJAM.

IN LIGHTER VEIN THE GOOD OLD-FASHION.

An old physician of the last generation was noted for his brusque manner and old-fashioned methods. One time a lady called him in to treat her baby who was slightly ailing. The doctor prescribed castor oil. "But, doctor," protested the young mother, "castor oil is such an old-fashioned remedy." "Madam," replied the doctor, "babies are old-fashioned things."

HER GRATITUDE

It was at the Saturday night ball in the East End of London. They met at the second dance and sat out and danced alternately until, just after midnight, he resolved to unburden his bosom of a load of care. "It's funny, Ethel," he whispered, tragically, "but that gum-looking chap over there by the conservatory door is a-folgering wherever we goes. Who's 'is little game? Who 'is 'e?" Ethel looks in the direction indicated and answers nonchalantly: "Int' Oh, 'e's the bloke who bought me my ticket."

WILLING HANDS

There is a good story going the rounds in Pittsburg of a young man formerly a stock-broker, who dropped many thousands in speculation during the early spring. One night shortly after going to bed, the Pittsburger was awakened by strange signs. At his first motion to jump up he was greeted by a hoarse voice. "If you stir, you're a dead man!" it said. "I'm looking for a light, I shall deem it a favor to be permitted to assist in the search."

NEVER SUSPECTED

"Why," he asked, "do girls like so much to display diamond rings on their engagement fingers?" "Well," she replied, as she carelessly twirled the jewel on her third finger, "you know there is nothing like a shining eye to stimulate just one when he has a purpose in mind." When she had time to speak again she cried: "Oh, Fred, I hope you don't think I was trying to throw you a hint, I never suspected that you cared about me at all."

MORE ABOUT JONAH

The teacher in the Sunday school asked, "Who was it swallowed Jonah?" "I dunno," giggled Willie. "Bobbie, can you tell me who swallowed Jonah?" "You can search me," said Bobbie. "Tommy, who swallowed Jonah?" asked the teacher, a little severely this time. "Please, ma'am, it wasn't me," said Tommy. "Well, I declare," said the teacher then turning to the boy, she asked, "Johnny, who swallowed Jonah?" "I'll bite," said Johnny. "What's the answer?"

MR. BORDEN'S TOUR (Victoria Colonist)

Mr. Borden's tour through the province of British Columbia has been a great success. Everywhere he has met with the warmest reception and everywhere he has made many friends by his strong and frank exposition of the policy of the Conservative party, and his vigorous criticism of his opponents. Mr. Borden, who was able to accompany him during a part of the time, also met with a very cordial growing more and more numerous every day, as he exhibits in increasing degree the qualities of successful leadership. It is to be regretted that an appointment made with Messrs Hazen and Morse of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway company, which for some reason, and yet known they were unable to keep, compelled Mr. McBride to hurry home in the very first train that started westward. There is no room for doubt as to the excellent effect which Mr. Borden's visit to the province has had. It has made the public acquainted with him, and to know him is to respect and feel confidence in him. It has completely disabused the public of the notion, which the Liberal press has so diligently cultivated, that while he is an honorable and patriotic citizen, he is not forceful and constructive enough for leadership. At his Canadian Club speech in this city, Mr. Borden said that it might be possible for him to spend his declining years here. If he will not wait until the decline begins, but come out here and settle in some British Columbia constituency, he need not trouble himself to look elsewhere for a seat in the next House of Commons.

Gilmore Brown, C. E. and T. M. Burns, M. P. of Bathurst, have been appointed by the local government to make an inspection of the branch lines in the province and submit a report. When asked about the matter yesterday, Mr. Brown said that a start would be made as soon as possible and that, according to present arrangements, he and Mr. Burns would leave on their first tour of inspection on Monday. Mr. Brown said he had almost completely recovered from the sudden illness which attacked him on the trip to Chipman and Minto on Tuesday.

 At the meeting of the board of health yesterday afternoon one of the inspectors reported that practically all the large milk dealers had decided to install plants for washing the milk cans and that the smaller dealers were making arrangements to have them wash their cans. The board will have an inspection of the plants made before approving them.

DISCLOSURES IN METHODS OF FINANCIAL MAGNATES

New York Financiers Coolly Confess to Bribery and Looting—A Startling Expose of a Game of Craft.

New York, Oct. 9.—The whole history of the famous insurance investigation did not bring out such startling instances of barefaced thievery on the part of "high financiers" as have been told about in the short time that Governor Hughes' public service commission has been investigating the traction affairs of the city.
 The public service commission is Hughes' own personal creation. It was set up in the face of the opposition of both parties, and he named his own men after very careful consideration. Hughes' Wall Street experience must have made him cognizant of a great many of the things that are now coming out of the investigation. There is no possibility of the turn, the present investigation is taking being prompted by any faction of financial or political influence. Big corrupt men of all shades of financial affiliation and political association are involved. Therefore it is no hard guess that the voice of the voice of Hughes, and there are those who say that the governor is just as good a politician as they make them. He is going his own serene way, and his name is heard in connection with the inquiry, but eventually and before long, it will be Hughes who will get the credit of having for the public good, uncovered the rotten nest of financial corruption ever exposed in the United States.
 Every man in New York City who finds himself treated worse than a beast in trying to get from his home to his place of business by the wretchedly infested means of transit is beginning to sit up and take notice and talk about the millions that the plunderers put in their pockets. Such a record of shameless looting has rarely been spread upon the official record. Professional men, lawyers of reputable newspaper men of high grade, politicians and legislators have been used with a cynicism that is almost incredible. He seems to have been careless of the man who did not get his finger into the traction pie. And the way the dear public was exploited, by the aid of creatures of the law, while the public treasury pulled the strings sardonically behind the scenes would make the angels weep.
 The story so far is a story of the wrecking of a vasty prosperous property, to the financial undoing of thousands and the physical discomfort of millions of citizens of the great metropolis. The men who have been dimly wondering for years why they suffered worse than cattle by reason of their living in a city that would disgrace a small western town, are now beginning to understand. The men who will get the credit of having done it and is virtually worthless, have known something about it for some time, but they have been helpless. The general public is getting another lesson in "high finance."

One of the smaller transactions, it involves only $100,000, is peculiarly striking because of its brazenness. This is the case that Anthony Belmont, one of the "traction magnates," hesitatingly admitted yesterday. In simple terms the men who controlled the Metropolitan Street Railway Company sold to that company a railroad that had been built, but a rail was laid, not a car was built. There existed only a dubious franchise, and that was blocked by a perpetual lien of $20 and is still in force. The price paid was $95,000. This was split up, "divided" between the trustees of the company, Thos. Dolan, P. A. B. Widener and W. L. Elkins and the brokerage firm of Moore & Schley. They not only put the money into their pockets, but they also turned the poor Metropolitan's capitalization and had themselves paid dividends upon it.
 Brady testified that the franchise bought by him cost $250,000 and that the money was then the controlling spirit in this city's street railways. He said that he had better confine his operations to Brooklyn, offering to buy the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, but they cost. Brady testified that he sold them, receiving a check from the Metropolitan Street Railway Company for $800,000 and a voucher of the company shows that sum to have been paid to Brady, who accounted for the difference between the price he said he sold the franchise for and the amount of the check as follows: He divided, he said, the $715,000 into six parts, sending the six checks to Whitney, one for Whitney himself, one each for Messrs. Ryan, Dolan, Widener and Elkins (these five checks for equal amounts), and one for a slightly larger sum, to the brokerage firm of Moore & Schley. The four men for whom checks of equal amount with Mr. Whitney's were drawn were all members of the inside group of traction promoters.

 Apparently, from Brady's testimony, Mr. Whitney, a former agent of the Metropolitan, arranged for the purchase of the franchises for $250,000, represented to the street railway company which controlled that they were to cost $600,000 and arranged with Brady to divide between him and his associates, the difference, namely, $350,000. Whitney managed through a syndicate, which in this instance would have bought of Brady and sold to the company, dividing the profits. But in Brady's testimony there was no evidence of a syndicate, and on the books of the traction company the transaction is presented as a sale between Brady and the Metropolitan. It appears to have been a case of an agent arranging for one price with the seller and another with the buyer and pocketing the difference. The franchisees were represented to the Metropolitan Securities Company by Brady, who consented to appear to the company as charging that sum, while really getting only $250,000.
 Another development of the inquiry more shameful than Quigg's confession was the calm recital by John B. McDonald of how he had been bribed to prevent his competition with the traction merger. John B. McDonald built the present subway. He is one of the biggest, best and most competent contractors in the world. After his experience with the first subway he would naturally be the man to build a municipal subway. His experience would enable him to do it better and cheaper than any one else.
 As Mr. McDonald said, "When the dirt is off your shovel Wall Street does not give a damn for you." He was naturally aggrieved that the subway of his construction should be taken from him by August Belmont, who had done nothing to further it except to provide on most profitable terms a municipal subway for the financing of Mr. McDonald's work. Naturally Mr. McDonald was looking for the opportunity to build a new subway. He had $50,000,000 to build subways to compete with the Belmont subway. For his services, skill and experience Mr. McDonald was to receive one-twelfth of the stock.

Brady and Brady threw McDonald overboard, just as August Belmont had. After using him as a means of frightening Belmont they combined with the Belmont company. The first thing McDonald knew of the traction merger was what he saw in the papers. But, afterward than Belmont, Brady and Brady did not want McDonald to be at large as a possible competitor. They paid him $200,000 in cash and gave him a contract at $50,000 a year to do nothing. This they had a legal right to do. If McDonald was willing to sell himself for that price, the loss to the city was not great, but the fact that he had no redress. But instead of paying this money out of their pockets, Ryan and Brady secured the backing of other capitalists, Thomas F. Ryan, Anthony N. Brady and three of their friends, among them J. J. McLaughlin, a real estate man. This syndicate agreed to put up $50,000,000 to build subways to compete with the Belmont subway. For his services, skill and experience Mr. McDonald was to receive one-twelfth of the stock.

Brady testified that the franchise bought by him cost $250,000 and that the money was then the controlling spirit in this city's street railways. He said that he had better confine his operations to Brooklyn, offering to buy the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, but they cost. Brady testified that he sold them, receiving a check from the Metropolitan Street Railway Company for $800,000 and a voucher of the company shows that sum to have been paid to Brady, who accounted for the difference between the price he said he sold the franchise for

LOOTING OF BANKS IS ON THE INCREASE THIS YEAR
 Beneficial associations had their funds depleted in the extent of $400,703, as against $142,034 in 1906 and $298,876 in 1905. More than $253,000 in cash and funds were stolen in 1906, or only $5,000 over the same period in 1905. In the first half of 1907, $705,513 of court funds disappeared through peculation. The transportation companies lost $104,552, as against $73,064 in 1906, and $62,369 in 1905. The insurance companies were the smallest sufferers. They lost by thievery only $13,561 in 1907, as against $157,487 in 1906 and $13,561 in 1905. This does not include funds juggled in dodging insurance commissions or "yellow dog" accounts.

HOW MUCH CLEVER UNITED STATES ROGUES STOLE DURING FIRST SIX MONTHS OF 1907.
 (N. Y. American.)
 The bonding companies of this city have just found out how much the clever rogues here and elsewhere in the United States have stolen during the first six months of the present year. The total, compared with the corresponding period in 1906 and 1905 is as follows:
 1905 $5,324,985
 1906 3,829,390
 1907 5,482,087
 Total for the three periods . . . $14,546,071
 April is the favorite month with embezzlers. They begin their operations with the first gladsome warbles of spring, just before the race tracks are swept up for the season. The defalcations by months, this year, were as follows:
 January $ 728,715
 February 1,380,101
 March 1,421,900
 April 1,130,633
 May 406,962
 June 204,416
 Total for six months . . . $5,482,087
 In April, 1905, the nimble thieves got away with $233,046, and in the following April they made their biggest haul.
BANKS SUFFER MOST.
 The banks and trust companies were the worst sufferers. They lost $2,080,525 in 1907, as against $1,290,525 in the first half of 1906. The public service corporations and the like were the next hardest hit. They lost $1,290,525 in 1907, as against $883,380 in the first half of 1906, and $202,900 in the first half of 1905. Next come general business houses, which, as compared with $1,020,373 in the first half of 1906, lost $1,020,373 in the first half of 1907. Miscellaneous institutions, brewers, tavern saloons, stores, etc. were robbed of $817,874, as against only $459,159 in the same months last year.

Motion Picture Tour of the Emerald Isle Makes an Excellent Entertainment.

The Nickel's new show is a winner, certainly one of the most interesting programmes of motion photographs ever thrown on a canvas in St. John. The big cosy auditorium was crowded all yesterday afternoon to see it, and last evening many disappointed ones could not gain admittance. As the various scenes were shown, applause and laughter indicated an appreciation of those present. This was particularly true of the Irish pictures—a fifteen minute tour of old Ireland's beauty spots.
 Dublin was traversed about an electric omnibus, the grand old city being seen at its very best; then came the Irish constabulary, Limerick, Blarney Castle, River Shannon, Peat Bog, Industry, Rural Scenes, Cottagers, An Irish Beauty and some rare old types of people, a few of them smoking away complacently at their clay pipes. The photography of this long picture was excellent and the subjects admirably chosen. Every scene in a while bursts of applause were given in return for the absorbing and instructive pictures. The pictures in lighter vein were The Fly, a comedette, which showed how serious a thing the harmless house fly might be if one took it seriously. Stage Struck kept the crowd in convulsions of laughter while its twelve minutes of ever-changing scenes were unrolled.
 A feature of the whole entertainment were the Irish Airs played by orchestra, and several new intermezzi and entr'actes, some of them very good.
Catarrrhal Deafness is Cured
 By a thickening of the lining membrane of the middle ear owing to prolonged inflammation of the Eustachian tube. The only cure is fragment, healing (Catharrrho) one which is carried by the air you breathe to the remote parts of the throat and ear; it reaches the source of the trouble and cures deafness permanently. Every sufferer from impaired hearing should use Catharrrho in the same manner that August Belmont tried to rob the taxpayers of New York by charging his lawyers fees and commissions to subvert equipment.
 Ryan and Brady had the brazenness to charge John B. McDonald to the property and franchise account of the Metropolitan Securities Company, to mark him down as an asset, like a street car or a trolley car. Ryan and Brady did not want McDonald to be at large as a possible competitor. They paid him $200,000 in cash and gave him a contract at $50,000 a year to do nothing. This they had a legal right to do. If McDonald was willing to sell himself for that price, the loss to the city was not great, but the fact that he had no redress. But instead of paying this money out of their pockets, Ryan and Brady secured the backing of other capitalists, Thomas F. Ryan, Anthony N. Brady and three of their friends, among them J. J. McLaughlin, a real estate man. This syndicate agreed to put up $50,000,000 to build subways to compete with the Belmont subway. For his services, skill and experience Mr. McDonald was to receive one-twelfth of the stock.

A DUTCHMAN'S HONEYMOON

"Laugh and the world laughs with you, weep and you weep alone." What is the use of weeping when it is so much easier to laugh and not only be happy yourself, but make those around you happy. Every time you are made to laugh you are happy. A Dutchman's Honeymoon, which will come to the Opera House Friday evening next, will cause so many laughs that you will forget their troubles. This splendid comedy has made wonderful success as a laugh-provoker during its short career. Tunes, music, dances, catchy songs and laughable situations follow one another in such rapid succession that it may be truthfully styled a whirlwind of merriment. It is undoubtedly the comedy treat of the season.

OPERA HOUSE PICTURES

Bumper houses greeted the moving pictures in the Opera House yesterday afternoon and evening. The first picture, The Books are Fine, was a faithful portrayal of the spectators would imagine they were present at the big meet. The comedy picture, Bathing Under Difficulties, was the signal for plenty of laughter and the other films were both interesting and amusing. Fred T. McKean sang the illustrated songs and was abundantly applauded. The pictures will be continued this afternoon and evening.

GOOD TIME TO INVEST
 (Stock History, New York.)

From an investment standpoint the stock market has reached a level that should be attractive to the most conservative investor. It has been many years since the dividend returns on good railroad securities have made such handsome yields on the amounts required to purchase them. The present low level of prices has been brought about by a combination of circumstances and conditions, not only here, but in Europe as well, that inspired a feeling of unrest and loss of confidence far below the line of value by the anticipation of adverse conditions that not only were not, but probably never will be, brought about. The result has been, however, to place the better grade of stocks on a basis where investment purchases not only return the greatest yields that have been possible in many years, but on one where the purchase is a matter of comparative safety, as a ready decline from the present level is improbable.

WHERE THE STOLEN CASH WENT.

About one-half of these embezzled millions went directly into Wall Street, the experts say, where they were swallowed up in unshaky speculation. One-half of the remainder was lost in gambling on the race tracks and in pool-rooms. The remainder was spent in the old-fashioned traditional way, on wine and women. The automobile dealers got their share. When the rooms of one of these New York bank defaulters were broken into the skulls found more than two bushels of champagne corks, which the defaulter's "best girl" had kept as souvenirs. They finally caught the fellow himself, as he was walking, at daybreak, with the young woman on the shores of Lake Mahopac. The detective laid all night in the bushes near the woman's cottage before they found their prey. When confronted the man made no resistance. He had the banks of New York now have their system of cages, bookkeeping and espionage so perfected that unless the cashier is the plot, not more than $100,000 can be stolen without detection. In general, only one day's low-cash can be taken, and the thief and his confederates make use of the correspondence bureau of the institution.

BUSTER BROWN BOOKS ARE MAKING HIT WITH CHILDREN

The Buster Brown books which the Evening Times is giving away to all subscribers who pay 50 cents for Times subscriptions are making a great big hit with the little folks of St. John. Evidence that they have caught on is found in the rapidly increasing demand for them. Young and old, toddling wee kiddies and matured men have been equally anxious to make Buster's acquaintance in his new guise. The little ones all enjoy the funny stories of Buster and Mary Jane and Papa—don't you under any consideration forget Tige—the most comical dog that ever winked an eye or wagged a curly tail. And the Dewdrops, we've had a large number of staid adults calling for these books—"to amuse the children" is the way they put it as they pay up the 50 cents for an extension to the subscription for their favorite paper and pocket a book. Many of them are so pleased with the first one that they come back for a second. Quite a number have secured the whole series.

One man sent in $2 by mail yesterday morning and wrote as follows: "Send me four more Buster books and send the Times as long as this money will pay for them. The books are fine, the pictures funny and the inimitable Buster resolutions in each book are fine. Any man who cannot get 50 cents worth of good hard sense out of Buster's 'resolves' should be doing duty as a cigar sign."

These little tales, two boys and a little girl, furnished another example of Buster's popularity. They toddled into the Times circulation office with the necessary half dollar, paid for mamma's paper and then proceeded to select their book. They were almost bewildered by the number shown them and that selection was only made after due deliberation. Then they toddled out again with their treasure clasped close to the little girl's arms. For the benefit of those who have not yet secured one of these books we may say that the pictures in them are by the celebrated artist R. F. Outcault, the creator of Buster. These pictures are copyrighted by the New York Herald and present Buster and his merry allies under new conditions. Each book contains 35 pictures in color and they will be given only to subscribers to the Times.

There are eight books in the set and they are easy to obtain. All that is necessary is to bring or send to the Dewdrops office 50 cents for subscription to the Times and one of the books is yours for the asking. Every time you bring fifty cents to the office you carry away with you one of these screamingly funny books. If you send your money by The Times collector ask him for an order for a book. Country subscribers who want to continue reading St. John's best reading paper and also introduce the funniest known boy into their family can send their money by mail and send to the Dewdrops office for the book. The object is to take over and carry on the business of George McKean, timber and lumber merchant. John Kilburn, W. H. Irvine, W. T. Chestnut, T. B. Kidner and J. H. Barry as the Monitor Manufacturing Company, with a capital of $25,000. The object is to manufacture and sell acetylene gas generators, etc.

At any rate the girl was gone. David felt as if he had lost all things. He had promised the certificates, and Violet had said: "I shall owe much gratitude to the person who hands them to me."

Now Van Hupfeldt had, or would have, them. While he had been talking and bandying words in Porchester Gardens, Van Hupfeldt had been acting, and he groined to himself in a pain of self-reproach: "Too much Violet! David!"

And then he was angry afresh with her, thinking: "He can't be much good, this man—she must be really very good. He could not guess that Van Hupfeldt had promised to clear her sister's name six months after the marriage, and that this was her motive for marrying the man."

At once a host of speculations crowded upon David's mind. Now, for the first time, it occurred to him that Neil may have shadowed him and the girl to the flat, that Van Hupfeldt might have the daring to be on the way to the flat to win Jenny from him.

MR. SPURR IS ACTIVE J. DeWolf Spurr, 87 Years Old, Climbs to Top of a Forty Foot Staging.

For a man of eighty-seven years of age to climb to the top of a staging fully forty feet from the ground, is by no means an ordinary feat, yet this was done recently by De Wolf Spurr. At the top of the staging he was about to be made to Mr. Spurr's house and to accomplish the work it was necessary to erect a staging. This done, Mr. Spurr thought he would like to make a personal inspection, and in company with the contractor, ascended the ladders to the very top of the staging, which, as already stated brought him about forty feet from the ground. "I thought that for a man of this age it was quite a thing!" remarked the contractor to a Times man.

LATE AT HIS BRIDAL Just a day later than arranged for but none the less happily the marriage of Frederick Basley, of Boston, to Miss Maud Flower, of Newcastle, took place last evening at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Walter McEly, 67 High street. The delay was caused by Tuesday's storm, as the groom was a passenger on the Governor Cobb from Boston. During the terrific storm the bride anxiously awaited the arrival of the steamer, and the wedding which was fixed for eight o'clock, was postponed until 9:30 o'clock and then the license had to be procured and the minister engaged. The ceremony was performed last evening by Rev. Wellington Camp the happy couple being unattended. After the ceremony, supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Basley left today for a visit to the bride's former home before going to Boston where the happy couple will reside in future. Among the guests was C. E. Mann, of Boston.

TUESDAY'S STORM

Its Effects Are Still Being Seen in Amount of Damage Done.

The effects of Tuesday's big storm are being seen on every hand, with fallen trees, damaged buildings, etc. The long distance telephone system was still in a partially crippled state Wednesday, though a gang of men have left to make repairs. Twenty men started to Fredericton yesterday and opened communications as far as Hampton. They are paying attention to fallen trees of which there were a number. The city service was improved yesterday. The street department has been moving fallen trees and rigging fences. Shipping is only now recovering. Upriver reports show great havoc. The crew of the Champlain report making a record trip.

Tapley Bros. will have to stand quite a heavy loss on account of the havoc played with their logs at Millidgeville in Tuesday's gale. About 200 points were torn from the booms by the force of the gale and swept up the Kennebecasis. Between 5,000 and 6,000 logs are now scattered in all directions from Millidgeville to Moss Glen and the Tapley tugs with a crew of men are engaged in trying to gather them together.

The millions of logs in South Bay are reported to have come through the gale in fine class shape, very few having been lost.

LETTER FROM MR. DEFOREST St. John, N. B., Oct. 9, 1907. The Evening Times, St. John, N. B.: Gentlemen,—In connection with my distributing Nova Scotia literature at the Food Fair at Boston, I notice that you comment on a quotation from the Halifax Chronicle, "Why not New Brunswick?" and in justice to New Brunswick and myself, I beg to point out that New Brunswick was not by any means neglected in this respect, as I wrote to every tourist association known to me in this province, but up to the present only two, St. John and St. Martins have responded. A large quantity of books from these places have already gone forward and been distributed at the Food Fair at Boston.

I consider this an excellent method of advertising our country, and when I say our country, I include Nova Scotia and P. E. Island, as I believe the prosperity of the individual provinces depend largely in maintaining unity and pulling together. Although no doubt a certain amount of competition and rivalry is good for development, and in my individual opinion, I think also a friendly spirit should be cultivated and maintained, which, with our united facilities and resources would consolidate a basis for present and future prosperity.
