MANY ATTEND THE SERVICE IN ST. PAUL'S

Mayor, Aldermen, and Officers of National Societies Present A PRIZED SOUVENIR

Eloquent Address By Rev. Mr. Hooper on the Coronation—Influence of Monarch Upon the Nation—Service supplication for God's Blessing

The special coronation day service in St. Paul's (Valley) Church this morning was attended by many. The building was profusely decorated with bunting and the standards of England, Ireland and Scotland were displayed near the chancel. The altar was beautiful with cut flowers.

St. George's Society and the officers of the Sons of England formed up at the Court House. The officials of the St. George's Society in the parade were E. E. Church, vice-president; F. A. Kinnean, marshal; H. Kinnean, standard bearer; John Hargreaves and H. Noakes, aids. They were followed by officers of the Sons of England under the supervision of R. T. Carlos.

Mayor Frank and members of the city council occupied seats reserved for them as did members of the St. George's Society, St. Andrew's Society, Sons of England and church officials. The service was conducted by Rev. E. Bertram Hooper, rector of the church, assisted by Ven. Archdeacon Raymond, rector of St. Mary's church, and Rev. G. A. Kuhlring, rector of St. John (Stone) church, and Rev. J. W. Millidge, the congregations of the three churches uniting in the service. A hand some "form" of the order of service was distributed as a souvenir of the day. On the cover is a border of gold, inside of which is the crown, also in gold, with a red background and the following inscription: "Coronation of His Majesty King George V., G. R., June 22, 1911."

The following was the order of service: Processional Hymn, "O God, Who, in the Days of Old," Short prayer for the King. The Latin, sung by the rector, Rev. E. Bertram Hooper. Anthem, "To Thee, our God, We fly for Mercy and for Grace." Holy communion, Rev. E. B. Hooper, celebrant, assisted by Ven. Archdeacon Raymond; the epistle read by Rev. G. A. Kuhlring; gospel read by Rev. J. W. Millidge.

Previous to the sermon the rector read the form prescribed for the coronation in Westminster Abbey. National anthem. The offertory. Collects and prayer by Rev. G. A. Kuhlring. Te Deum. Benediction by the rector.

Rev. Mr. Hooper's Sermon The sermon by Rev. E. B. Hooper was as follows: My Brethren: There are a few things which I desire to say on this day of such import to the king and peoples of the British Empire. First, I would express to Your Worship and to you, gentlemen of the common council of our city, and also to you officers representing the military forces of our country, and to you who represent the patriotic.

SERVICE IN CENTENARY IMPRESSIVE

Was Held Under The Auspices of the Evangelical Alliance SPECIAL MUSIC

Sermon By Rev. Dr. Hutchinson of Main Street Church Breathing Loyalty to Crown—Our Great Empire and Canada's Part in it

With a capacity congregation a Coronation service under the auspices of the Evangelical Alliance was held at 9 o'clock this morning in Centenary church. Rev. H. R. Read, president of the alliance, presided. The devotional was followed by the invocation by Rev. Mr. Read. Rev. Dr. C. R. Flanders, pastor of the church of St. George, read a portion of the scriptures. The musical programme appropriate to the occasion was rendered by a choir of forty or fifty voices selected from the choir of the church, and trained by Joshua Clawson. The Centenary troop of the Boy Scouts attended and made a splendid impression by their soldierly appearance. Owing to the repair work in progress on the church the decorations were dispensed with.

An eloquent address appropriate to the occasion on the subject of the coronation was delivered by Rev. Dr. David Hutchinson of Main street church as follows: The Sermon by Rev. Dr. Hutchinson

The occasion which brings us together this morning is one in which the whole British Empire is interested. Indeed may I not say it is one in which the whole civilized world is interested? For is it not a fact that the attention of the world is fixed upon what is taking place today in the old historic Abbey of Westminster? Either in the person of the reigning monarch himself or by some chosen representative, the courts and governments of other countries and empires will be present. But while this is so, I repeat that the occasion which brings us together at this time is one of special and peculiar interest to all who are subjects of the British Empire.

General Kitchener, in command of the troops, and 12,000 police, hurried here and there and was everywhere, sixty thousand of the empire's picked men lined the processional route and as they swung along to their assigned places, with a cool-

How many religions is there under the old Union Jack? Aint it the most amazing thing in the world that so many people of all colors an' beliefs is under one flag?

SUN BURSTS FORTH FROM CLOUDED SKY AS HAPPY AUGURY

Rainfall Ceases as Carriage of King and Queen Joins Imperial Procession to Westminster—A Graphic Account of the Wonderful Day in London

London, June 22—12.32 p. m.—King George is crowned. (Canadian Press) London, June 22—A drab sky and smart showers early this morning, though they dimmed the freshness of the lavish decorations, could not dull the enthusiasm of the multitude who for months had been planning to make June 22 a red letter day in their lives.

After the early morning rush of enthusiasts, mainly of the humbler classes, and great numbers of ticket holders eager to secure places of vantage from which to witness the royal procession before the expected crowds arrived on the scene, there was some falling off observed, and as late as 5 o'clock, when the front gates at Buckingham Palace were closed, there was little difficulty in moving freely at any point between the palace and Westminster Abbey.

There afterward the crowds rapidly increased and by the time the troops began to take up their positions along the line of the processional route at 7.15 o'clock, there were dense masses of spectators at every point.

The pressure became so intense at Charing Cross and at Whitehall that the police cordon was broken by the surging people. With the aid of the troops, however, the authorities soon regained control.

The military bands were now playing in the Mall, Waterloo Place, Trafalgar Square, Whitehall, Hyde Park, Coronation Square and other central places. Only attired people taking their places on the stands formed a brilliant and lively scene somewhat marred to be sure by showers which were just beginning to fall.

Immediately followed the second procession with members of the British Royal family including the Prince of Wales and the Princess Mary and their younger brothers. The appearance was the signal for the heartiest demonstration up to that time. The cheering began as the royal children came from the palace and was carried along from row upon row of seats and taken up by the crowds behind. Four carriages were occupied by others of the royal family and their suites.

Hardly had these passed when the signs in the palace yard told of the assembling of the great procession of the day, that which was to escort the king and queen to the abbey and back to the palace. There was a brilliant scene in the quadrangle but this was reserved for friends of the royal family officials and their families and court servants who had seats at the windows and on the roofs of the palace itself.

THE GREAT PROCESSION

Exactly at 10.30 o'clock booming guns announced that the king and queen were leaving the palace and by a happy coincidence which, however, has become almost traditional in British royal functions, the sun suddenly broke through the clouds and the sun shined brightly.

THE GREAT MOMENT

As the first division of the sovereign's escort of the Royal Horse Guards trotted slowly through the gates the booming of cannon announced that the royal coach with the king and queen approached. The long awaited moment when Their Majesties were to look into the faces of their subjects and their subjects upon their knees and their hands joined in prayer.

THREE PROCESSIONS

There were three processions, one for the royal guests, another for the Prince of Wales and that the royal family other than the king and queen, and the imperial procession.

ROYAL CHILDREN CHEER

THE MILITARY PROCESSION GREAT CREDIT

Local Troops Never Made Finer Showing Than This Morning MORE THAN 1,200 IN LINE

New Brunswick Dragoons Make Fine Appearance and Create Decided Impression—Salute and Feu-de-Joie Fired in King Street East

Probably not in the recollection of the oldest citizen has there been a military spectacle in the city to equal the parade of this morning. With more than 1,200 in line and four bands, the militia units that marched from the Barrack Square were cheered repeatedly along the route of march. A large crowd commenced to gather at the starting point, more than an hour beforehand, and as one after another of the corps formed on the green there were expressions of admiration on all sides.

DRAGONS LOOKED FINE

The new regiment, the 28th Dragoons, attracted much attention. There were twenty of them under command of Major Herbert McLean, who had Lieut. J. S. Tall, acting captain, and Lieut. Taylor acting troop leader. The men looked splendid with their red tunics with yellow facings and trousers of khaki color and leather leggings. There was some little excitement caused as the horses were being saddled. Among the number was a restive animal, which was taken in hand by Trooper Pettus, a former northwest mounted policeman. The animal reared and plunged but could not shake the rider, but finally the horse was replaced by one more docile.

The boy scouts, also a new feature in military processions here, turned out about 200 strong, headed by Scout Messenger Clarence, mounted on a white pony. The lads came in for most hearty commendation. The Scots cadets also looked well. The St. Stephen's church boys carried the new colors presented to them by Loyalist Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire.

THE CATHOLIC SOCIETIES IN FINE PARADE

Large Body of Men in Procession to Service in Cathedral MANY OUT TO SEE THEM

Rev. A. W. Meahan this morning in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception preached a grand, forceful and eloquent sermon appropriate to the great national event of today, addressing himself to one of the largest congregations of Catholics men and women, as well as many Protestants, ever crowded into the large cathedral. As he closed, involuntarily there was a murmur of hearty approval, for his well chosen words had struck a true note of patriotism, and an appeal to the Catholic subjects of His Majesty King George V., in the Loyalist city of St. John to respect, obey, and venerate their royal sovereign.

THE PARADE

Every Catholic society in the city was represented in the congregation and the numbers occupied the pews in the central portion of the church. They made an excellent showing both in numbers and appearance, as headed by the City Cornet Band they paraded to the church where solemn high mass was sung by Rev. Wm. Duke, assisted by Rev. D. S. O'Keefe, and Rev. M. O'Brien. With Major Thomas Kichikan as grand marshal, the societies formed their line of march in King street east, and proceeded to the cathedral via Sydney, south side of King Square, Chastelote street, north side of King Square, back to Sydney to Waterloo and thence to the cathedral. Up the stone steps of the church they marched through the open ranks of the Hibernian Knights and Cadets who stood at attention as they passed along.

As the stately procession started on its way the cathedral chimed pealed forth "God Save the King" and other patriotic airs, played by Organist Arthur Godosek, while the City Cornet and Carleton band caused the pulses of paraders and spectators to quiver with their playing of stirring marching tunes.

THE ORDER

The societies were drawn up in the following marching order with their respective marshals: Hibernian Knights, under Capt. McCarthy; Hibernian Cadets, Capt. McQuade; A. O. H. Divisions, Nos. 1 and 5 under Wm. O'Neil, Knights of Columbus, M. T. Morris; C. M. B. A. Branches, 132, Charles Russell, 134, James O'Brien, 182, M. Butler, and 482; B. J. Keeland; Carleton Cornet Band, L. L. & B. Society, J. Callahan; Father Mathew Association, J. J. Lannan; St. Peter's Y. M. A., A. L. Dever; and Y. M. S. of St. Joseph, D. J. McCarthy.

The societies made a fine impression, and presented a neat and pleasing appearance. They wore a uniform badge of appropriate design. The leaders of the parade expressed themselves as grateful to the police detailed along the route for keeping the way clear of horses and preventing the crowding of the people.

Fined English Rancher in Texas—Five Frenchmen Take Name of Noted Grandfather, Marshal Soult—Some French History Recalled.

(Copyright, 1911, by the Brentwood Company.)

Lord Lichfield's brother, the Hon. William Anson, whose presence in New York in connection with a recent international polo tournament has been recorded as that of a distinguished foreigner, is really more of an American than an Englishman, having made his home for many years in Texas, where he has a large ranch, and where he has repeatedly entertained members of his family, including his brother Francis, who is married to a Texas girl, a daughter of George Cleveland, of Austin.

Another brother, the Hon. Alfred Anson, who earns his living in London as a stock-broker, won a few years ago a wager of 100 guineas by performing a feat of walking from the Houses of Parliament at Westminster to the Aquarium at Brighton, on the sea coast, a distance of fifty-two and a half miles, over a succession of steep hills and valleys, in less than fourteen hours of continual tramping, and that, too, without any previous training whatever.

Yet another brother, Claud, married to Lady Clodagh Beresford, sister of the Marquis of Waterford, also spends much time in the States; while his nephew, Lord Anson, A. D. C. to the Viceroy of Ireland, is a familiar figure in New York society.

The Ansons have been settled at Shugborough Hall, the principal country place in Leicestershire, in Staffordshire, ever since the reign of James I. One of the best known of the Ansons was that famous Admiral Sir George Anson, so celebrated for his voyage round the world, and who died as Lord Anson, and as first lord of the admiralty. His estates, in details of male issue, were inherited by his sister's son, George Adams, who with the permission of the crown, and in compliance with his uncle's will, assumed the name and arms of Anson. His son Thomas was created Viscount Anson in 1746, and his eldest son in turn was advanced to the Earl of Lichfield by William IV., on the occasion of his coronation in 1819.

He married from the school-room a great Welsh heiress, Miss Louisa Phillips, of Sibleigh Hall, in county Pembroke, and she became one of the most generous of London society, ruling it with despotic sway for forty years. When she died in 1879, she disappeared with her the last of the famous lady patronesses of Almack's, those lady patronesses who admitted to Almack's to the great Duke of Wellington, because he happened to come in to dine there, and at another time closed the doors to the prime minister of the day because he was not a member of the club.

The present Lord Lichfield is the third earl of his line, owns about 40,000 acres of land, principally in Staffordshire, and is married to a daughter of the late Earl of Leicester.

the president of the republic, and no such permits have been granted since the presidency of Marshal Macmahon, more than thirty years ago. Between the downfall of the empire in 1870 and Macmahon's retirement nine years later, only about six permits were granted for the assumption of foreign titles by Frenchmen.

While it is just possible that the young duke, now Soult, might obtain patents as duke and counts of Dalmatia from the Pope, which would have no legal value in France and which they would not be able to use without danger of fine and even of imprisonment, it is improbable that he would do anything towards the revival of their great grandfather's honors in their favor; for if there is one name more than any other that is execrated in Spain, it is precisely that of the French Marshal Soult, whose troops, during the Peninsula war, at the beginning of the nineteenth century, won for themselves as bitter a hatred as Cromwell's troops did in Ireland by the ruin which they spread on every side and especially by their looting.

Soult himself took a lead in the plundering, and after the restoration, his mansion in Paris, and his two country seats were crowded from cellar to garret with paintings and art treasures of which he had plundered national galleries, royal palaces, churches, cathedrals, religious establishments, and private collections, during the foreign campaigns.

Captured by Wellington

Some of his baggage trains, however, were captured before they reached the northern frontier of Spain by the Duke of Wellington and Soult's treasures, or rather his plunder, were conveyed just as they were to England, to Apsley House, to await the Duke of Wellington's return.

It was some time after the restoration of peace that the duke bequeathed himself of having the unopened cases and bundles examined and was made aware of what they contained. He then prepared to make restitution to King Ferdinand of Spain. But the latter, realizing the debt of gratitude that he owed to the Duke of Wellington, who had contributed more than anybody else to the recovery of his throne, and to the expulsion of the French from Spain, begged him to keep all the pictures as a token of his appreciation and that of his people, of all that the duke had done for them. These paintings now adorn the walls of Apsley House, the London home of the present Duke of Wellington.

Just why the Duke de Reille should wish to take the name of Soult, in lieu of his own, it is difficult to understand, unless they propose to assume the name of Soult, a fashion that I have described above that famous Napoleonic marshal's title and dignities, for the name of de Reille is an honorable one. His paternal grandfather was also a marshal of France and the late Baron Andre de Reille, now general in the Crimean and Italian wars, was confirmed by the Bourbons on their restoration, in 1814.

The marshal's granddaughter and sole heiress, Mile. Genevieve Soult, married Col. Baron Rene de Reille, who was under secretary of state in the conservative administration of De Fouston, during the presidency of Marshal Macmahon. This couple had a son, the late Baron Andre de Reille, and it is his five sons who have now received and never yet repudiated, it is true, the name of Soult, but they are still specially stipulated in the male line, in existence, and never yet repudiated. It is that the two emperors of the French and likewise some of the Kings of France have sometimes revived in men the nobility honors of their maternal grandfather, or maternal uncle. But this has always been by means of patent, and as an act infrequent grace and favor. The government of the republic has naturally never ventured to do anything of the kind.

Some French people have got round the impossibility of getting the government of the republic to meet their wishes in this respect, by applying either to the Vatican, or else to the King of Spain, as the only Bourbon now occupying a throne, to revive in their favor by means of patent the titles borne by maternal forebears. But these titles cannot be borne legally in France without authorization granted by the keeper of the great seal of France, that is to say, by the minister of justice and by

JUNE WEDDINGS

Drury-Mills.
Victor Montague Drury, eldest son of Brigadier General and Mrs. Drury, of Halifax, was married to Miss Fanny Mills, youngest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Mills, in Ottawa, yesterday, by Rev. Dr. Anderson. Chipman Drury, brother of the groom, was groomsman.

Mullins-McKenney.
In Chatham yesterday Rev. F. Dixon officiated in marriage Miss Margaret Gertrude McKenney, daughter of the late Dennis McKenney, of Donnington, and Benedict C. Hilton Mullins, of Bathurst. Mr. and Mrs. Mullins will reside in Bathurst.

Potts-Mitchell.
Alderman and Mrs. Potts, accompanied by their son Roy, and nephew Harry Flemming, left by boat yesterday morning for Eastport to attend the marriage of Roy Potts to Miss Mabel Laura Mitchell. The happy couple will visit Boston, New York and other American cities and on their return will take up summer residence at Lingley.

Horsman-Jones.
Last evening at 8 o'clock Miss Margaret M. Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jones, Otter Lake, St. John Co., was united in marriage to Albert E. Horsman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Horsman, High street, by Rev. Duncan Gowers, pastor of the Mission church, Paradise Row. The bride was handsomely gowned in white silk with picture hat to match and carried a bridal bouquet. She was given away by her father. The couple were unattended. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served at the home of the groom. The happy couple will reside on High street. The bride is the recipient of many very beautiful presents.

Kane-Harkins.
The Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception was the scene of an interesting event at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, when John F. Kane, of the St. John police force, was united in marriage to Miss Theresa Harkins. Rev. A. W. Meahan was the officiating clergyman. The bride was attended by Miss Mary Brown, and Thomas Harkins, brother of the bride, supported the groom. Many handsome presents were received from the friends of the popular pair.

Thomson-Slipp.
After a trip all the way across the continent to claim his bride, Abram C. Thomson, of Vancouver, was married last evening to Miss Addie L. Slipp, daughter of Duncan Slipp, of Hampden (N. B.). The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by Rev. E. H. Noble at the Victoria street parsonage. Mr. Thomson was a former New Brunswick man and has been engaged as an engineer at Vancouver. He arrived in the city of Sunday morning and after a short trip around the province will leave in about a week with his bride for the return trip to the Pacific coast.

Paterson-Turner.
A pretty wedding took place last evening at the house of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Thorne, corner of Victoria and Dunham streets, when Miss Sibyl Thorne became the bride of Isaac Paterson, also of St. John. The witnesses to the event were Walter C. Stevens, of Grand Lake, and Miss Hattie Watson, a niece of the bride. The bride is well known in the city and received many valuable presents.

Dunham-Welsh—Rankine-Parsons.
A double wedding took place at the residence of Rev. David Hutchinson, 41 Douglas avenue, yesterday afternoon, when Judson E. Dunham, of St. John, was married to Miss Annie A. Welsh, also of St. John, and Archibald Rankine, of Colby Island, to Miss Elizabeth L. Parsons, of this city. Both couples were unattended and will make their homes in St. John.

Farnham-Pinney.
A quiet wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Pinney, East St. John, last evening, Rev. Dr. Raymond, of St. Mary's church, officiating, when Miss Jennie Pinney became the bride of Charles Farnham, also of St. John. The bride is a member of St. Mary's church choir and the esteem in which she is held was shown by many beautiful and valuable presents. Only the immediate friends and relatives of the principals were in attendance.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

THE desire to be first, always and everywhere, often destroys the worthiest intentions.

How many people lose interest in useful research because they cannot occupy the first place! And what rancour is evinced against those who, doing good for God's sake alone, acquire wealth in the community.—Dora Melegari.

I wonder if that may not be one reason why the sex succeeds an intolerable thorn in the side? And yet how many such people there are!

"It really isn't safe to praise any other girl's looks to Elaine," I heard a girl say the other day. "It makes her so cross that it's uncomfortable to be with her."

Only most of us dissemble our ugly feeling rather better than that.

I really believe every stand behind more enmities and kills more friendships than any other cause.

We can forgive quick temper, injustice, selfishness in gratitude—indeed, almost anything in a friend—sooner than we can a demonstration of superiority, especially in the particular line in which ourselves aim to excel.

I wonder if that may not be one reason why the sex friendship—love, I mean—is so much more enduring than the other kind—because the two participants are not doing sufficiently similar things to make envy possible?

If the day ever comes when married women commonly have a vocation outside of the home, and to the couple who do the same kind of work, a little resentment that is not you whom people are praising; an uncomfortable suspicion people are wondering why you don't do something like that?

Not the least bit, you say?

Well, I'm heartily glad, if it is not you whom people are praising; an uncomfortable suspicion people are wondering why you don't do something like that?

Perhaps you think I am painting too black a picture and that envy is not half so common as I imply.

Well, would you dare to say that you yourself are entirely immune?

Before you answer, let me just suggest a few things.

Say that you hear of another man's very brilliant success in your own particular line of work—a man sufficiently similar in age, situation and opportunity, to suggest comparison between you.

Now, what are your immediate feelings?

Are you at once wholeheartedly, entirely, unreservedly glad of his success?

Are you just long to shake his hand and congratulate him, and to tell every one else about his wonderful success?

Or along with your joy for him is there a taint of discontent with your own lot, a little resentment that it is not you whom people are praising; an uncomfortable suspicion people are wondering why you don't do something like that?

Not the least bit, you say?

Well, I'm heartily glad, if it is not you whom people are praising; an uncomfortable suspicion people are wondering why you don't do something like that?

Perhaps you think I am painting too black a picture and that envy is not half so common as I imply.

NEW FIELD GUNS AT CAMP SUSSEX

Sussex, N. B. June 21—Excellent order prevails throughout the camp. So far as the men behaving, in fact, that up to date not one soldier has had to be disciplined. However, on the camp grounds and in the town, proper military police and pickets are kept constantly on duty. The excellent order which prevails is partly due to the fact that the order forbidding the sale of intoxicating drinks on the grounds is being most stringently carried out.

Visitors to the camp grounds this afternoon had an opportunity of seeing the new 18 pound, quick-firing guns. These four guns which are the only ones of their kind owned by any regiment east of Montreal, have been almost the one centre of attraction since they were brought here.

With its mechanism resembling somewhat that of a sporting gun and handled just as easily, equipped with panoramic sights and a defence shield, the gun is recognized as one of the best in existence, and is considered even more durable than the renowned French gun. Once in action the gun remains absolutely stationary and it can be sighted at nearly 2,000 yards.

It is capable of containing 372 bullets, and can fire ten rounds on the one recoil, which extends something like forty inches.

Another advantage to this gun is the fact that it extracts the shell itself.

Beware of Quinine for Catarrh of the Colon

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surface. Such articles should therefore be used except on rare occasions from reputable pharmacists. It is especially dangerous to buy cheaply made quinine, which is often adulterated with mercury and arsenic, and which, when taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces, causes the disease. LIKELY TO REACH AGREEMENT SOON Washington, June 22.—The International Sea Conference has been called to meet again next Monday. The delegates are awaiting instructions from their home governments on several points, mostly connected with the amount of compensation to be paid by America and Russia to Japan and Canada for the relinquishment of the right of pelagic sealing. The negotiations have finally resolved themselves into rather small bargaining, the general principle of the necessity for international protection of the seal herds being unanimously admitted. It is now expected that an agreement can be reached within a few days.

THERE'S MONEY FOR WALTER GROSSKILL, CARPENTER John J. Dever, attorney at law of 2 State street, Hartford, Conn., writes to The Times as follows: "We would like to learn the name and address of any relative of Walter Grosskill, a carpenter, who resided in some part of Canada many years ago. About twenty-five years ago his wife was killed in a railway accident, and their daughter is supposed to have gone to France a short time later. The heirs of this man are entitled to several thousand dollars."

SUN BURSTS FORTH FROM CLOUDED SKY AS HAPPY AUGURY 7,000 people were congregated as closely together as they could be packed. Above the choir screen was an orchestral platform on which there was an orchestra of eighty players and several hundred male singers selected from the male choirs of the kingdom. The centre of all interest was the area between the choir and transepts which was called the theatre. Five broad steps led up to it. It was covered with a carpet of rich blue on which were embroidered the emblems of the Order of the Garter. Through the Mall to the Admiralty arch, Charing Cross, Whitehall, Parliament street and Broad Sanctuary the procession moved. The arrival of the sovereign at the abbey was proclaimed by the ringing of the bells of the abbey and St. Margaret's church, the firing of a gun and another outburst of cheering from the throng on the official stands in Parliament square. The queen's regalia, borne by various nobles and finally the queen herself, in her verdural coronation gown with the jewels of the Garter presented to her by the Marquis of the Empire, embowered in gold was borne by six young women, daughters of earls. The queen carried a charming bouquet of pink carnations presented to her by the Grenadier Company, one of the ancient garrisons of the city of London. The flower was a blue globe with fish scales, the badge of the Grenadier Company. After them the king's regalia was carried by the highest nobles of the kingdom attended by their pages. The chalice by the Bishop of Winchester, the sceptre by the Duke of Devonshire, the orb by the Duke of Somerset, the sceptre by the Duke of Richmond, the second sword by Earl Roberts, the third sword by Viscount Kitchener, the golden spurs by the Earl of Devon and Lord Grey de Ruthven, the sceptre with cross by the Duke of Argyll, and St. Edward's staff by the Duke of Roxburgh, attended by their pages and by a considerable retinue of high officials all in the most striking of their ceremonial robes. After them walked the king in his coronation robe of state, the train borne by eight noblemen of high rank, the collar of the Garter around his neck, and on his head the cap of state. Following him were court dignitaries and gentlemen in waiting completed the procession. Their Majesties passed on and proceeded to chairs of state on the south side of the altar, where they knelt the footstools. On the king's right stood the lord chancellor, the lord great chamberlain, the lord high constable, the earl marshal and the garter-at-arms, and the noblemen bearing the sword of state, and on either side of the altar. The Archbishop of Canterbury was on the north, and beyond the Archbishop of York and the Bishop of London, twenty-one other bishops, all in convocation robes. Rising, the King and Queen.

THE DAY AT THE R. K. Y. C. The joyous spirit of "Members' Day" was everywhere in evidence this morning at the R. K. Y. C. boat house and quarters at Millidgeville and the members entertained their guests right royally. The club-house was gaily bedecked, and various craft in the harbor were prettily trimmed. This afternoon there will be a concert by the City Cornet Band and at 2.30, 3.30 and 4 p. m. races will be held, and at 3 p. m. a regatta will be held. This evening between 7 and 9 p. m. the harbor and boats will be illuminated, and aquatic sports will take place.

EDWARD HARRIGAN. The chief mourners for Edward Harrigan were people fifty years old (more or less) who saw or heard the Mulligan Guards and all that tuncful series when they were still young and looked eagerly on the joyous side of life, and were thrilled all through by a good brass band playing rag-time. Those were merry entertainments that Harrigan and Hart provided, and as decent, and as independent of anatomy as an attraction, as the famous Gilbert and Sullivan entertainments that came along about the same time. Harrigan was a practical playwright of true ability, but limited scope. He had only very simple mental tools to work with, but with those he brought well. W. S. Gilbert, who died a week before him, had all the tools his art demanded. In so far as education and knowledge went, he had enough to give his talent its full opportunity—Harpers' Weekly. THE CORONATION

The world has seen many imperial pageants, but never one to surpass that which today centres at Westminster Abbey.

The coronation of King Edward was a great event, but it surpassed in magnificence by that of today. There has been a steady growth of imperial sentiment, and the world Empire means more than it did even a few years ago, both in Britain and the overseas states.

Lord Haldane remarked this week that the outstanding feature of the present Imperial Conference was the fact that the governments of the component parts of the empire had taken each other into mutual confidence to an extent never known before, and it remained only to develop this habit of confidence until it became a constitutional usage.

Thus King George is crowned ruler of an empire that is not only vast in extent, but whose various states are appreciating more and more the value and the significance of the imperial relationship.

No monarch has ever come to the throne with happier auguries for a peaceful and prosperous reign, or more heartfelt assurances of regard for his person and authority.

A king of democratic tendencies, with a wide personal knowledge of the empire, and a kingly conception of his duty to the people, he has since his accession confirmed the high estimate formed by the world of his ability and purpose.

A fact that is of much significance, and which next to the drawing together of the imperial states in closer sympathy is most appreciated by all British subjects, is the growing friendliness between Britain and the United States. It is recognized that Anglo-Saxon friendship throughout the world would make for world-peace. Canada is so fortunately situated as to be in a position to do much to cement this friendship, and she will not permit ancient prejudices or craven fears to stand in the way.

The crowning of King George comes at a time when the world is at peace. There are always those who take a gloomy view of international affairs, but there is no cloud in the sky at the present moment large enough to justify fears for the immediate future; while the principle of arbitration has gained favor in influential quarters to such an extent as to project a powerful element making for peace into the realm of international relations.

There are discordant voices, but the steady and intelligent propaganda of the International Peace Societies is creating a public sentiment which must influence the rulers of the nations.

King George is fortunate not only in that he cherishes high and noble ideals, but in that Queen Mary is one of the noblest of women. She is very decided in her views and tastes, but they are those of a woman who desires more than ought else to influence the people for good. If at times her views do not commend themselves to the smart set, the fact will lessen public appreciation of her motives or her judgment. Her example and her influence upon society will tend to discourage the frivolous. It will encourage the development of what is best in womanhood, and the exercise of those social virtues which make the home the bulwark of the nation.

Both King and Queen are interested in the solution of social problems, and their court will not be given over to the mere search for time-killing devices and entertainments.

Canadians today join with great heartiness in celebrating the coronation. Many of them have seen the King and Queen, and all of them are devoted to British institutions. There is no jarring note, so far as this Dominion is concerned. It is premier and other members of the federal government, and many of the provincial premiers and leading citizens are among those who today at the heart of the empire join in doing homage to the royal pair who occupy the highest position in the gift of any people in the world. Great empires there have been and will be, but the greatest of which history tells is that sisterhood of nations which today places its crown upon the brows of King George and Queen Mary. Long may they reign in honor and in peace.

The weather today is all that could be desired for the parades and general celebration.

The people of the west are giving Mr. Borden a hearty welcome, and then telling him they want reciprocity.

Secretary Root declares he is for reciprocity, with or without his amending clause. The measure will doubtless pass the senate.

When King Square is lighted up this evening it will seem like a section of fairy land. The city generally is very well decorated.

The religious services this morning show that all classes and all creeds unite in loyalty to the King and Queen. Reports of the sermons delivered are printed in today's Times.

It must have been worth while to be in London last night, in that sleepless through which crowded the streets from dusk to dawn, in anticipation of today's great pageant.

Senator Baird says that though a Conservative he is very strongly in favor of reciprocity, and he cannot understand the attitude of his party. There are doubtless many Conservatives like Senator Baird.

Hon. Dr. Pugsley spoke most hopefully at Amherst last evening of the prospects of the St. John Valley Railway. The minister and Mr. Carvell have done their part as representatives to ensure the construction of such a railway as the people desire.

That was a hearty and a splendid tribute paid to the veteran legislator Senator Costigan at St. Basil on Tuesday evening. After fifty years in public life he is still an active participant in affairs, keenly interested in the development of the Dominion whose birth he witnessed and whose course he helped to direct.

John H. Whittier, of Cornwall, Me., has never ridden on a train or been out of Somerset County, Maine. Kaulshoff has just arrived in Nijni Novgorod, Russia, safe and well, having ridden from Harbin, Manchuria, a distance of more than 3,000 miles, on horseback.

It has been estimated that a man capable of carrying a 200-pound load could carry about $200 in pennies, in nickels, $977 in silver dollars, $2,617 in gold coin, $4,000, and in $1,000 bills he could carry a load worth $711,100.

CORONATION HYMN

(To be sung to the tune of Luther's Chorus, "Eine feste Burg.") Of old, our London hath renown, Of God are her foundations; Wherein this day a King we crown Elate among the nations.

Acknowledge then, thou King, And you, ye People, sing: What God so blest'd your birth, Enlarging wide o'er Earth Your peaceful habitations.

So long, so far, Jehovah hath, By pastures green attending, For us prepared our fathers' path Toward His hill ascending; Whence we, beneath the stars, Behold their ancient wrongs removed: Yea, in one purpose proved Of Love all-comprehending.

His was that that Law to man which make From Sinai forth in thunder; His was that Love for man which broke The dreadful grave ascending, Lord over ev'ry Lord, His consecrating word: An earthly Prince awaits Lift then your heads, ye gates, Your God comes riding under!

Be ye lift up, ye deathless doors, Let wave your banners o'er Him! Exult, ye streets; be strewn, ye floors, With palm, with bay, before Him! Triumphant fetch Him in, Ye ransomed folk from sin— Your God rides through to bless! O kneeling King, confess— O subject men, adore Him!— Q. in the Spectator.

WRONGS OF THE POOR. Departures from the old way in things educational come in for hard raps, first and last, but not often are they assailed as in this letter which a glowing boy handed to his teacher the other day: "Madam you keep telling my son to breathe with his diaphragm I suppose rich boys and girls all has diaphragms but how about when their father only makes 2 dollars a day and there's 4 younger I tell you its enough to make everybody socialists first its one thing and then its another and now its diaphragms its too much." —P. R. Benson, in June Women's Home Companion.

In Scotland up to the middle of the 18th century the usual school hours, six days a week, were from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. with two recesses of an hour each. Even on Sunday some school work was done. Some schools opened at 5 a.m. and closed only with darkness. The holidays were restricted to a day at Candemas and at Whitson, and a fortnight in autumn.

GRAND TRUNK AND BOSTON AND MAINE ROADS AT ODDS Boston, June 21—(Canadian Press)—Officials of the Grand Trunk Railway came from Montreal today to try to adjust the differences with the Boston & Maine officials over the alleged refusal of the latter road to haul through sleepers and parlor cars from Montreal and other Canadian points to Maine shore resorts after June 28. The controversy, according to Boston & Maine officials, grows out of the recent consolidation of the lines into the union station at Portland under the Portland Under Terminal Railroad, and the fact that that capital and not the Boston & Maine, or the Maine Central, operates the four miles of track between Portland Junction, where the Grand Trunk crosses, and the union station. General Passenger Agent Burt, of the Boston & Maine, said that during the summer it has been the custom of the Boston & Maine to take a car from the Grand Trunk at Portland Junction and run it into the union station, where it was attached to a local train for Kennebec, by way of Old Orchard. He said the Boston & Maine was willing to continue the custom, but could not guarantee connections at Portland Junction. No other change is contemplated, he added, and Grand Trunk cars on other lines will be hauled as heretofore.

TIRE COMES OFF; AUTO RACE DRIVER HURLED TO DEATH Milwaukee, Wis., June 22—(Canadian Press)—Walter Donnelly of Cincinnati driving a "Cino" car in a 50 mile automobile race at State Fair Park, was killed yesterday when his car ran into a fence. Donnelly's skull was fractured against a post. He died in a hospital. Donnelly was making the turn at the three-quarter post on the fortieth mile when a tire came off the rear right wheel, causing the machine to skid.

After the mass the procession reformed in Richmond street, and proceeded via Brussels, Union, Dock, King, and Charlotte, to South Market street, where they disbanded.

Father Meahan's Sermon

The closest attention was accorded Rev. Father Meahan as from the pulpit of the cathedral he delivered himself of a masterly sermon, taking his text from the words of St. Paul to Timothy, "I desire therefore, first of all, that supplications, prayers and intercessions, be made for all men, for the king, and for all who are in high stations, that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life."

Father Meahan referred to the teaching of Christ that all His children should respect authority and said that in the words which he had repeated from the gospel, he found the keynote of the reason of the presence in the cathedral of the vast concourse of Catholic citizens of St. John.

"You are present here this morning," he said, "in order that from the depths of your hearts you may pour forth your earnest supplications for all men in authority that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life. By your presence here today you show your respect for your king and thus you make yourself pleasing in the sight of God, for you are acting in accordance with His divine commands."

Father Meahan said that this was a magnificent age. People had wandered from the things that were. But the Catholic church was the same as it had been in the early ages, and taught the same identical doctrines. There was an abundance of schemes for the furtherance of society, for the advancement of government and the uplifting of the people, but society needed three things and could not do without them—unity, power and authority.

The world was society, the human race society, and when it was said that all society needed unity, power and authority, it should be a unity of respect for authority, for in union there was strength. Through power the transient and happiness of society was preserved, and the people of a nation made secure and protected from danger. By authority only could society attempt to prosper.

"When you have gathered together millions of men you will find that authority is centered in a few and that it generally finds itself predominating in one man. That is God's idea of authority. God is one and in one man, the authority of God. You may gather it from the ends of the earth, from the most distant parts of the world, but by and by it divides to a unit. It needs two things, obedience and veneration, and these constitute the fundamental principles of authority."

2nd Add Fr. Meahan—

These principles are known to us from our teachings as children of our holy church, and are brought home to us this morning. You, by your presence here, ask God's blessing on your king.

"Every one must be subject to a higher power, for there is no power but from God, and to him that resisteth power and lawful authority is meted damnation. You cannot, however, obey a human being. No man will obey another, nor will any man venerate another. When a nation appoints an exponent of authority, Jesus Christ comes down and tells us that he enters into that authority, and we do not venerate and obey men, but we venerate and obey Me as a man." And He says that "authority has become like Me." Hence we give to society that authority which is necessary. All power comes from God, therefore back to God we must go in order to venerate that power.

"This is the teaching of the Catholic religion, and you have shown to the world that you respect it. You acknowledge that George V. is the lawfully constituted authority in this world of ours. You venerate him because you find in him Jesus Christ's rule. That is the law, and by obeying this law, you will never go astray. Christ once said "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God, the things that are God's."

The Coronation Oath

"Probably not for 200 years have we Catholics found more cause for this morning to venerate our king. There was an awful blight thrust upon us 300 years ago, because of the very truths expressed this morning here in this church. How could a church which teaches such a doctrine meet and put upon the books of a nation that we are idolaters, and we stood it for 200 years, and kings and queens took an oath in which they said that they believed this to be so.

"When George V. refused to take that oath, he showed himself a man worthy of respect, veneration, and obedience, if only on account of this, and he at once gained the love of his Catholic subjects. In order that we may lead a quiet and peaceful life let us pray through the holy sacrifice of this mass that our prayers, supplications, and intercessions may be for the good of our monarch, and let it be our earnest prayer, that 'God may Save the King.'"

The pearl, or rather, cluster, of pearls, known as the "Southern Cross" is probably the most remarkable example of its kind that nature has ever produced. So far as is known it occupies a unique position among pearls. It consists of nine pearls naturally grown together in so regular a manner as to form an almost perfect Latin cross. This pearl was discovered by a man named Clark while he was pearling at Roeburn, West Australia, in 1874.

HARVARD PROFESSOR BACKS COMMISSION GOVERNMENT

Cambridge is to Have Opportunity To Vote for it Next November

Cambridge, Massachusetts, the seat of Harvard University, will have an opportunity next November to adopt a commission government charter. State permission to submit the charter was secured by a group of progressive citizens, led by Professor Lewis J. Johnson, who, in an interview that appeared recently in The Boston Traveler, gave the following explanation of the reasons prompting the movement:

"There is a great deal of misconception about what the commission form of government is. Some people think Boston has it and others think it exists in Lynn. As a matter of fact, they have nothing of the kind. The ideal is the greatest possible amount of responsibility with the greatest possible amount of responsiveness to the will of the people. Our charter provides for this. It has the initiative, referendum and recall, but not tied up so that they are useless. They are in a practical form so that they can be readily made effective when they are needed. Then we have adopted the preferential form of voting. This is the best way that has yet been devised for ascertaining the real choice of the people. Under the old scheme it happens again and again that men are elected to office who have neither the respect nor confidence of the majority of the people. It is generally a choice between a lot of mediocrities and a lot of objectionables, with the result that some man is put into office through the manipulation of party machines and not at all according to the popular wish. One thing should be very clearly understood about the Cambridge charter. It is absolutely on the square. We have nothing to do with politicians, machines or any private interests. We have made it no room for bosses, caucuses or machines. We believe in the people, and we want them to have all power in directing their affairs. Under this charter the people will be in control as they are in no other city in Massachusetts. We do not care whether a man is a Democrat, a Republican, or what other party label he chooses to attach to himself as a private citizen. If he wants to serve the city there are only two questions to be asked: Is he honest and efficient, and do the people want him? We have made it as easy as possible for any man to have these questions answered. Anybody who can get 20 citizens to sign his petition can go before the people, and it is up to the voters then to decide on his merits.

23 THE PRINCIPAL

CHINA'S FAMINES AND ONE OF THE CHIEF CAUSES

Country Probably the Most Landlord-Ridden in the World—Efforts for Betterment

(American Economic League)

"More than half of the people are tenant farmers." This is what Dr. W. E. Macklin, an American who has made a study of the land question in China, says in writing of the cause of the great famines which periodically devastate whole provinces of the great slow-moving country of the Far East.

And in most countries there is a pretty close connection between tenant farming and poverty, simply because a big proportion of the tenant farmers' earnings go to pay the landlords' rent.

China is probably one of the worst, if not the worst, landlord ridden country in the world. Of the tenant farmers' gross crops, Dr. Macklin says that the landlords take from one-third to three-fifths in rent, and the small farmer is left with a bare subsistence. A farm of seven or eight acres is a good size holding in China—is constantly kept on the verge of starvation. A little more flood, or an unfavorable season for the crops, and there is a famine. Anyone who has ever worked in or seen a famine refugee camp will tell you that most of the refugees are tenant farmers.

But even in China where time counts for so little and the great mass of the people struggle continually without asking the question, why? the land question is being brought to the attention of the leaders of the people.

pamphlets in Chinese language describing the English budget and the taxation systems adopted in many parts of Australia and New Zealand and the Canadian northwest are in preparation.

Henry George's "Progress and Poverty," under the title "A Plan to Enrich the People," is already in circulation, and copies of it are to be sent to all members of the provincial and general assemblies.

In Dingtao they have already adopted a tax on land values, and the indications are that all over the country the movement for a just system of taxation will go hand in hand with the other reforms for emancipation of the Chinese workers from the influences and circumstances that keep them so dangerously near the famine point.

SILVER WEDDING OF PRESIDENT

MRS. JOHN N. HERRON, MOTHER OF MRS. TAFT

MRS. TAFT ABOUT THE TIME OF HER MARRIAGE

MR. JOHN A. HERRON, FATHER OF MRS. TAFT

That all the United States was interested in the silver wedding celebration of President and Mrs. Taft on Monday was demonstrated by the correspondence of the president. Congratulations from all over the country poured in. The pictures show the president's wife about the time her marriage and Mrs. Taft's parents, who were among the White House guests.

FOREIGN MUSICIANS PLAN U. S. INVASION TO GATHER DOLLARS

Many New Singers, Pianists and Violinists to Rush Across The Seas for Desired Shekels

(By Pierre V. R. Key, special correspondent.)

New York, June 21.—The glens are getting ready for their annual harvest of good American dollars. The foreign invasion of Europe's musical colony is at hand. How much, cash will they carry home with them when the approaching season, soon to open, is over? Judging by past experiences it will be several millions.

The golden glitter of coin stamped with Uncle Sam's and Canada's mark will flash in many a country, that is sure. And singers, pianists, violinists and others with long hair and the dreamy-eyed expression will smile after the harvest and plan for the next picking.

Musicians of St. John, whose favorable opinion is valued by managers to the same extent as by the artists themselves, will be given abundant opportunity during the coming season to pass upon the qualifications of many of these musical newcomers and to renew their acquaintance with musicians who have been heard at various times in America during the last half dozen years.

Ernan Zumbal, a violinist credited with having caused fine impressions in England and on the continent, will make his first appearance in this country here fore long. He is described as a player of the Fritz Kreisler type, with a fine if not large tone, a fluent technique and a straightforward manner. His work will be wholly different from that of Mischa Elman, who is not to return here until the autumn after a four-year's absence. He is reported to have gained in artistic breadth which if true should give us some music distinctly worth while.

Kathleen Parlow, the young Canadian violinist whose triumphs of the season have been closed, were little short of spectacular, likewise will make a wide tour.

Among the singers to cross the Atlantic to make debuts in 1911-12 will be Heinrich Weil, the German operatic baritone; Margarete Matzenauer, a European contralto of whom excellent reports are heard; the American baritone, Putnam Grosvenor, who won his opera spurs in various parts of Europe, and Heinrich Hensel, a German tenor whose musical achievements in his own land have brought him fame. All these singers join the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Maggie Teyte, an English soprano who has sung Mary Garden's roles abroad with conspicuous success, will be a member of the Philadelphia-Chicago Opera Company, and like the four Metropolitan recruits she will devote much of her time to concertizing. Miss Teyte, it is stated, will be a fledgling rival to Miss Garden. If this should transpire General Manager Andrew D'Amico will have his troubles in keeping the operatic waters surrounding his organization in a state of tranquility.

Frieda Hempel, the coloratura star of the Berlin Royal Opera, may be given a leave of absence by Emperor William to sing a few performances in New York at the Metropolitan Opera. In this event she will be begged to consent to a short concert tour because she is admittedly one of the great lyric and florid sopranos of the day.

Two great tenors who thrill Metropolitan audiences, Leo Slezak, the Czech, and Riccardo Martin, greatest of all American high-voiced singers, will pour forth their tones in concert; the former on 16 occasions, the latter before 20 assemblies. Casuso, too, will again try to keep concert engagements that are being made for him. Casuso's friend and colleague, Pasquale Amato, first of living baritones, will begin his initial recital appearances in the United States in early October.

Mme. Emma Eames, the classic beauty, and Emilio de Gogorza, the baritone, whose mutual heart-throbbings are reported to be in sympathetic accord, will appear in joint recitals for the first time in two seasons. Mme. Nordica Schumann-Herz, Frances Alda, (wife of the Metropolitan manager, Giulio Gatti-Casazza), Alice Neilson, Alma Gluck, Mario Sammarco and Charles Dalmores have all contracted to appear on the concert platform.

So too have other operatic luminaries, among them the distinguished Spanish tenor heading the Boston Opera Company, Florentino Constantino, Luigi Hess, a tenor from the other side, makes his debut shortly in Milwaukee, and Ellison Van Hoes, a native of this land, will sound his tenor voice here for the first time in many a year. Charles W. Clark, whose recent emphatic successes in the east and west following his long residence in Paris commanded the attention of all musical people, comes back for a long list of concerts in January. Clifford Cairns, a rising young basso, is to be more than ordinarily busy.

Only one pianist new to our audience will see first-time consideration. He is Wilhelm Becham, an Englishman, a German sounding name, and a skill fitting a pre-eminent virtuoso. Vladimir de Pachmann, the Chopin interpreter who loves to play "monkeyshines," has elected to make a "farewell" tour, while Josef Lhevinne, a sterling artist, is again scheduled after three-years' campaign in Europe. Josef Hofmann is not returning. There will be only three "colts" to contend for supremacy. Paulo Gruppe, the young Dutchman whose future is brilliant, Boris Hambourg and a youthful German named Bruch, proclaimed a marvel.

It is apparent that there will be no dearth of music of every description during the next twelve months, for there will be hosts of other musicians heard who regularly appear here every season—and many programmes by symphony orchestras, choral societies and smaller musical organizations. The outlook for 1911-12 promises much in a record-breaking direction, and if the quality equals the quantity we need fear no comparison when the annual summing-up ranges our effort with Europe—even if the monetary coat does run into seven figures.

THE HISTORY OF H. P. Every popular commodity has a history of paramount interest to somebody. Here is the history of H. P. Sauce—we think it will interest you.

At Birmingham, England, there is a very large malt vinegar brewery, in fact, the largest in the world, and as malt vinegar is the essential foundation of all high-class sauces, the proprietors of the H. P. vinegar brewery are constantly in touch with all kinds of sauces.

Now some time ago, it occurred to them that nearly all the sauces on the market were far too thin and pungent, and too imperfectly blended to be worthy of the name of relishes and that if a rich sauce, of super-excellent fruity flavor, and thick, creamy consistency were produced, and placed on the market at a very moderate price per bottle, its success would be assured.

WHY NOT TRY IT?

When you need a laxative, why not try Abbey's Salt?

It is pleasant to take—does not flake on top of the water—and effervesces slowly, without choking or blinding the nose like scidiltz powder.

Abbey's Salt is used all over the world and is regularly prescribed by the leading physicians.

Why don't you find out what it will do for you?

Noted Aviators Killed at Start of Big Flight for Fame

Map of Europe showing the flight route for the European circuit race. Key locations marked include London, Paris, Brussels, and various other European cities. Captions identify several aviators: Mons. Le Martin (killed), Mons. Landron (killed), Mons. Gaubert (seriously injured), and Oscar Morrison (injured). The map shows the flight path starting in Paris and heading eastward.

Three dead and five injured is the record of the first day of the great international cross country air race, which started in Paris on June 18. Seven of the fifty aviators who started reached Liege, 212 miles from Paris, the end of the first stage, within the prescribed time. Eight others saw at various points near Liege and were shot through in time. Two aviators met death almost immediately after the flight had started, and the third was killed at Chateau-Thierry, about thirty miles from the French capital.

AGRICULTURAL NEWS OF VALUE IN CONDENSED FORM

The latest number of the Canadian Bulletin reviewing the publications of the International Agricultural Institute is at hand. It contains seventy-five pages, made up almost entirely of interesting condensed articles selected from the current agricultural literature of the world, including British bulletins and reports issued by the more advanced countries. It also contains the latest available statistics regarding crops of many countries and the live stock of the world.

In view of the universal increase in the price of meats, the tables representing the live stock population of some thirty of the leading countries is of special interest. The tables published indicate the number of each of cattle, sheep and swine existing in the nearest years to 1900 and 1910 for which figures are available; also the number of live stock per 1,000 inhabitants at the same dates. The tables reveal the following conditions:

Cattle.—In the group of countries considered, the total number has increased, the number per 1,000 inhabitants has also increased; the population having increased by 13.1 per cent and the cattle by 17.6 per cent.

It is interesting to note that, though the total number of cattle in Europe has increased, the number per thousand has decreased; for while the population has increased by 12.2 per cent, the number of cattle has only increased by 4.4 per cent.

Sheep.—In the group of countries considered, the total number has increased, but the number per 1,000 inhabitants has decreased; the population having increased by 13.2 per cent and the number of sheep by 8.5 per cent. It should be noted that in America and in Australia the proportionate increase in cattle has been greater than that of the population.

Palpitation of The Heart.

When the heart begins to beat irregularly or intermittently, palpitate and throbs, skip beats, beats fast for a first time, then slow as to seem almost to stop, it causes great anxiety and alarm.

The least excitement or exertion seems to affect it.

Many people are afflicted in a severe or mild form of this disease, which is often and miserably, through this unnatural action of the heart.

To all such sufferers, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills can give prompt and permanent relief.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c per box or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or will be mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE DRUG CLERK

A Difference in His Work Now Compared to What It Was

The drug clerk sighed wearily and replaced the jar of lime drops on his shelf after having poured lower a dozen for a young woman and received a nickel therefor.

The lime drops had consolidated in the flat glass jar until it might have been worth while to investigate them as a direct heating material.

"You seem unhappy," ventured the calm-faced man leaning on the cigar counter, "What's the matter?" The drug clerk, who had just as though he represented the whole world in which he had to live.

"You've never been a pharmacist?" he snorted. "All those years of study—all those books—all those lectures—all that blamed work in the laboratory, and here I am handling out lime drops and chewing gum to the public. The smoker looked sympathetic.

Aquatic

The Henley Regatta.

The senior eight of the Ottawa Club, which is to compete at Henley, left Ottawa Thursday to embark for England. The oarsmen, accompanied by twenty-five supporters, were cheered by thousands.

The Henley course is one mile 500 yards in length, and is bounded on its whole distance between the Berks and Bucks shores on the River Thames. The course runs up stream. Between the booms the whole length averages but 100 feet, so that good steering is required by the coxswains.

At the starting point, near Temple Island, the Argonaut crew, 1906 ran on the piers just after they got the gun. One man lost his seat, but by some means won his seat. The course has one perceptible bend, that being opposite Fawley boat-house, near the half-way mark.

While a heat is on, signals are raised at the quarter mile, half, three-quarter mile and mile posts to give information to the spectators as to which boat is ahead on passing the points. It represents a boat that has the Berks station and that having the Bucks station. The signal boards are hoisted so as to show the relative positions of the boats when passing each point.

The Henley course is kept clear of all craft of the regatta. Only umpires' launches and patrol boats are allowed on the course.

Yale and Harvard. Practically all the time rowing of the Yale and Harvard crews on the Thames has been left for next week, the last of actual practice in preparation for the annual regatta. All of the crews have been held back and since then up has been more difficult than ever before for this season.

Yale's development in the varsity eight has been slow because the crew was reorganized completely two weeks ago, the day before it left New Haven. Harvard has been slow to make the transition from the two-mile stroke which was rowed in the Cornell race, to the four-mile pace, which will be used in the Yale event.

Neither of the big crews has shown its hand or its speed and an accurate forecast cannot be made till the next week. Coaches Wray and Kennedy are as much mystified as anyone else at the speed limit which may be developed next week when the first time, their eights will be rushed over their racing distance of four miles at a high stroke.

There is little doubt that Harvard will paddle to the starting mark June 30 in a victory. The eight has tremendous power, but the problem of getting satisfactory speed has not yet been solved. Yale's eight has come fast in two weeks and eight has proved a genuine find. He is capable of driving the crew faster and better than any peacemaker the Elis have had in five years, and the crew seems stronger physically than any Yale has had in the same length of time.

The makeup of both eights is settled, barring accidents and it is now certain that Yale will start its annual race with only a single veteran, Capt. Frost, in the boat. Buckingham and Van Ginderen have stopped training. Van Ginderen was not brought to New London and Buckingham quit the squad last week because of ill health. Lower, the new stroke, stroked the Yale varsity four last year.

THE GIRL GUIDES

Canadian Misses are Organizing on Lines Similar to Boy Scouts

In the Canadian Home Journal for June is announced the beginning of a new organization among Canadian girls, parallel to the boy scouts. The announcement reads in part: "Our own ideal ideas are the same, but the practical working out of the theme is different. We both want to be prepared and to do our duty in that state of life into which it shall please God to call us, and we guide them just as well—if not better. So we want to show our patriotism by learning now in time of peace, what will make us of use in a case of invasion. We want to be able to find the wounded and to learn signalling, transport of wounded, field hospitals, cooking and nursing. What we aim at being able to do is to furnish a hand of trained, disciplined women who have learned to obey orders and to act on their own initiative if there is no one to start the 'guides' in any new district a small committee must be formed.

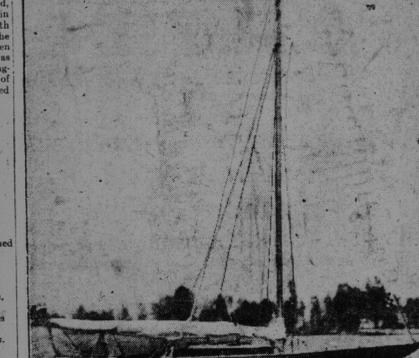

The 'guide' editor of Canadian Home Journal, Toronto, will gladly answer any request for information regarding the organization.

Then knowing that war is a possibility and that accidents are every day happenings, we give a lot of our time to ambulance work. Indeed, we might say that it is our specialty. If there is a war we do not want to keep men who might be fighting doing work that we can do just as well—if not better. So we want to show our patriotism by learning now in time of peace, what will make us of use in a case of invasion.

The largest crab in the world, a specimen of the giant spider crab from Japan, is now in the museum of natural history in New York. The spread of the two largest legs, or arms, having swivels teeth called 'pinners' is nearly 12 feet and the body portion is more than a foot in diameter and about the size of a dinner plate. The monster crab inhabits the sea and islands of Japan and lives at a depth of more than 2,000 feet.

Not a freight car in England could hold large enough to hold the 100-ton stern frame of the steamship Olympic. It was hauled to the coast at the rate of four miles an hour, while all traffic on the railroad was stopped, but even that did not give sufficient room, and several stations had to be altered to let it pass.

When You Think. Of the pain which many women experience with every month it makes the gentleness and kindness always associated with womanhood seem to be almost a miracle. While in general no woman rebels against what she regards as a natural necessity there is no woman who would not gladly be free from this recurring period of pain. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for Weak Women Strengthens and Alleviates Pain, and gives them freedom from pain. It establishes regularity, cures inflammation, heals ulcers, and cures female weakness. Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter. All correspondence strictly private and confidential. Write without fear and without fee to World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y. If you want a book that tells all about women's diseases, and how to cure them at home, send 31 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce to pay cost of mailing only, and he will send you a free copy of his great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser—revised, up-to-date edition, in paper covers, in handsome cloth-binding, 50 stamps.

AMUSEMENTS FOR OURSELVES AND OTHERS

OPERA HOUSE. That old story, so new to present day theatregoers, "slavery days" will be realistically interpreted this evening at the Opera House, it is promised, by Stetson's spectacular Uncle Tom's Cabin company. For this season, it is announced, the members of the Stetson company were selected especially for his or her adaptability to the roles essayed. The result, said to be a rare one, especially for this revival, has done much to add to the effectiveness of the production. The scenery, said to be a rare one, especially for this revival, has done much to add to the effectiveness of the production.

NICKEL. The holiday bill at the Nickel will be enjoyable to little 'tots' and grown-ups alike and this popular house should show to capacity at every performance. Those high-class entertainers the Dolce Sisters are expected to outdo past efforts and provide a sensation in elaborate staging and costuming which will be in harmony with the spirit of the occasion. Marie Hogan will offer a new illustrated number and the orchestra will dispense a continuous whirl of inspiring views of the processions and the principal events of the day about town will be shown on the curtain, together with many scenes incident to the holiday in the mother country. With special Coronation day music, appropriate songs, interesting photographs and an unusually sparkling offering of photoplays, the Nickel should be the ideal place in which to spend a happy and long to be remembered hour.

POLICE HELMETS. The police are very much pleased with the issue of white helmets. They were worn for the first time this morning.

WEDDING SEASON. Three buffets were extinguished by the police last evening in Barker, Cedar and Victoria streets.

DEAD IN THE WEST. A Montana paper reports the death of Wm. Johnson, Vis. of Stevensville, on June 14 aged 75 years. The paper says he was a "native of Odelltown, St. John, New Brunswick. He was from New Brunswick to Iowa in the fall of 1876 and came to Stevensville about eight or nine years ago."

LAST NIGHT BUSY ONE AT COLUMBIAN FAIR Large Attendance and Liberal Patronage in all Departments—Afternoon and Evening Today—Children's Time Saturday

There was a large attendance at the Knights of Columbus fair last evening and the pleasant weather made the naturally attractive and brilliantly lighted grounds a place where an hour or two passed all too quickly. With a fine programme by the 62nd Fusiliers Band, the busy Pike with its many games, the ice cream and refreshment booths, the chatting with friends and the general good time everybody enjoyed the evening greatly.

Within the grand old building, too, with the candy booth, tea room, flower booth, the children's booth, bride's booth and other attractions there was plenty to make the time speed. The bagatelle competition made lively interest and on all hands were jollity and pleasant intercourse. Everywhere were heard words of congratulations to the initiates on acquiring so desirable a home for the St. John council.

For today the fair will be open not only in the evening but was this afternoon. A light supper will be served and all will be in full swing. Continuing each evening this week, it has also been decided to conduct the fair on Saturday afternoon which will be the children's day with a five cent admission fee.

His worship Mayor Frink visited the fair last evening.

IS AT THE CORONATION (Hants Journal, Windsor, N. S.) John M. Hensley, patrol leader, Otter Patrol, of Yellow Grass troop, successfully passed in all subjects in the examinations which were open to the entire patrol, and made excellent marks. He joined the other members of the Western Scout Contingent in Regina, where on the 4th they paraded to St. Paul's church and on the 5th started for Montreal, where upon their arrival they were met by the Boy Scouts and entertained most hospitably. They sailed on the 10th from Montreal on the steamer "Meganitic," and previous to embarking were inspected by Earl Grey, who gave them a few words of advice.

The boys are in charge of Scout Master Dr. Saulton, of Zion Methodist church, Moosejaw. Previous to leaving home the scout master made a most complimentary speech and presented to John a set of ebony military hair brushes on behalf of the scout boys of the "Otter Patrol." John is only twelve years of age, a Windsor boy, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hensley, of Yellow Grass, Saskatchewan, who with Miss Nita Hensley, accompanied the youthful traveller to Regina, where they remained over Sunday.

Master Hensley is a grandson of Charles de Wolfe Smith of Windsor and grand nephew of Mrs. Thomas H. Adams of Charlott.

George Stubbs, and bride, returned this morning on the S. S. Governor Cobb after their honeymoon trip.

LOYALIST CITY ASTIR IN EARLY MORN

Eager Crowds Take Positions in Streets to See The Processions

SOME OF THE FEATURES

The Polymorphian Club's Floats in This Afternoon's Parade—The Torchlight March and The Fireworks Tonight

The weather man fulfilled his promise, the threatening clouds of yesterday were dispelled, Phoebus arose from his home in the east and shone brightly in honor of the king and queen. The loyalist city of St. John exults itself in doing honor to King George on his coronation day. The preparation was the work of weeks and no energy was spared either in the civic or military or society circles to make the celebration a complete one. Decorations in bunting of red, white and blue, and tablets showing a likeness of His Majesty or Queen Mary with appropriate words in English and Latin, are everywhere in evidence.

The suspension of business in the city for the celebration gave the people chance to gather in large numbers upon the streets. The early parades to the churches formed up after 8:30 in the assigned sections of the city. St. George's Society, officers of the Sons of England and St. Andrews Society met at King Square and marched to St. John's church.

The Evangelical churches united in a short service in Centenary church where a very impressive joint programme was presented.

The military parade starting from Barrack Square at 11 o'clock, included the New Brunswick Dragoons, the 2nd Regiment of Canadian Artillery, the 62nd Regiment, Boys Brigade and Boys Scouts, with the Artillery, 62nd and Caledonia Pipe Bands. Seldom has such a military spectacle been seen in the city more brilliant than that of today.

The hints and meagre information hitherto circulated concerning the societies and Polymorphian parade from King street east this afternoon have been justified by the brilliant display and lengthy procession under formation at time of writing. The floats of the Polymorphian club combine history and fiction, comedy and tragedy, realism and romanticism, arranged for the additional delight of the onlooker.

The Polymorphians will have some ten floats. A feature of their turnout will be the Darktown fire brigade. Besides participating in the parade, the brigade will give an exhibition of fire fighting on the market square. Other floats will be the Queen Mab and Court float, the Tambourine girls float, Protect the Flag float, Canadian Farmer float and others with bands of cowboys and Indians, Zulus and others. President R. J. Wilkins will appear at the head of the Polymorphian turnout.

The firemen will not be outdone in display of loyalty to the newly crowned king. At 8:30 they will form up at King street east and vicinity. The engines of the city corps will embellish the line of march. The Salvage Corps and the Carleton Brigade will assist in making the line a large one. With torches lighted and headed by the Artillery band, the procession will start off at 9 o'clock. The torchlight display will be most effective.

At 10 o'clock from King Square there will be a grand display of fireworks to end one of the most successful celebration days in the history of the city. The pyrotechnics will be set off from the roof of one of the buildings on the south side of the square.

In St. Peter's church this morning, solemn high mass was celebrated in the presence of a fairly large congregation.

The Holy Eucharist was celebrated at 9 a.m. in the Mission church, Paradise Row, and the service as put forth by the Archbishops of Canterbury and York was sung to Etre in E-flat.

Special services were also conducted this morning in Trinity church, and in the Church of the Good Shepherd in Fairville, where Rev. Mr. McKel officiated.

His Worship Mayor Frink, through Lord Strathcona, Canadian High Commissioner, has sent greetings to His Majesty George V., tendering homage from the loyalist city of St. John to his crown and person.

WHITE HEATHER FIRST Considerable interest was attached to the races of the St. John Power Boat Club to Oak Point this morning. Nearly 100 boats got away from Marble Cove about 9 o'clock. The "White Heather," so the Times was informed by long distance phone, was the first boat to reach the point. She is owned by G. H. V. Belyea. The "Silver Spray," owned by A. Cruikshank, and the Fleming boat, the "Easer," were next in order.

This afternoon a series of sports is to be held. On the return to their quarters in Marble Cove tonight the club members will have a display of fireworks.

MARATHONS WON The ball game on the Marathon grounds this morning was won by the Marathons who lowered the colors of the St. Johns 8 to 3. The game was a good one, and there were about 300 in attendance. The batteries were: Marathons—Neabit and Rootes; for St. Johns, Estey and McGowan. The score by innings was:— St. John 0 1 0 0 0 1 0 1 3 Marathons 2 0 1 0 0 3 0 x 6

Here's Something New No more ashes to lug, no clumsy ash pan to spill dust and dirt on the kitchen floor. The GLENWOOD ASH CHUTE solves the problem. It is situated just beneath the grate and connected by a sheet iron pipe straight down through the kitchen floor to the Ash Barrel in the cellar. No dust can escape, just slide the damper once each day and drop the ashes directly in to the ash barrel.
