DOMINION TRADE SHOWS A GREAT IMPROVEMENT

Last Government Report Considered Encouraging—Exports Show Large Increase—Auditor General's Report

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—The trade of Canada for the month of December shows an increase of $6,900,332 in domestic exports and a decrease of $1,417,839 in imports. The betterment in exports exceeds the continued falling off in imports by over three and one-half millions and the comparative statement is on the whole the most satisfactory one issued since the general depression in the country's business which came in the fall of 1910. The total exports for last month were $28,502,700 and the total imports $23,190,872, leaving a balance of trade in favor of the Dominion of $5,311,828.

For the first three-quarters of the present fiscal year imports have totalled $317,566,135, a decrease of $66,068,110 compared with first nine months of 1913. Exports of domestic products have totalled $194,583,183, an increase of $69,842. Last year during the nine months Canada exported coin and bullion to the amount of $18,114,343. This year the amount was only $1,338,390.

Among those who arrived to attend the three-day session are Chairman Isaac N. Seligman, of New York, and Everett W. Lord, Boston, secretary of the New England States.

MONCTON MAN DISAPPEARS AND MANY CREDITORS MOURN

Deverd Clark is Missing Owing $2,000—C. L. Jones' Jewelry Store Was Robbed Again—Liquor Dealer Goes to Jail

MONCTON, N. B., Jan. 22.—C. V. Jones' store on the Lewisville Road, near the city, has once again been visited by burglars. Jewellery to the value of a hundred dollars was found to be missing yesterday morning and it is believed that the thief secreted himself in the store the previous evening, ransacking the establishment after the staff left.

Amos Bourque this morning was sentenced to one month in jail for violation of the Scott Act. Fire broke out this morning in the clothes pressing store of Archibald McDonald and about fifty dollars worth of damage was done. The fire was caused by a defective chimney and had been burning a long time before discovered. A still alarm was sent in and the chemical engine summoned which extinguished the blaze without assistance.

Rather than pay debts amounting, it is believed, to two thousand dollars, Deverd Clark, proprietor of a lively stable and cafe, has disappeared, and his whereabouts is causing great anxiety among many creditors. The restaurant is closed up waiting the return of the owner of the building to whom Clark owes eighty dollars, while property in connection with the stable is being seized. There are a large number of creditors for amounts ranging from ten to the vicinity of a hundred dollars. Clark and family disappeared Wednesday night.

FEMALE DEAD-HEAD ARRESTED AT PORT HURON

PORT HURON, Mich., Jan. 22.—After a woman giving her name as Florence Jennie Woods, of Wallace, Idaho, had hung about the Grand Trunk tunnel depot for thirty-six hours demanding transportation to Ottawa, Ontario, the railroad officials caused her arrest. She insisted she had purchased a ticket from Wallace and had lost it at St. Paul, enroute. She declared she was penniless and alternately begged and demanded a ticket.

SHOT THE OFFICERS WHO TRIED TO ARREST HIM

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 22.—As a result of an attempt to arrest Richard Robert Phillip Patch is dead, Deputy Wm. McCarren is wounded, and the negro is in jail with three pistol balls in his body, his wounds however not being considered fatal. Deputies Patch and McCarren attempted to arrest Robertson on a warrant charging assault and battery the negro opening fire upon the officers as soon as he discerned their purpose and all three men then emptied their pistols. Although wounded the officers pursued Robertson, fighting as they ran and finally captured him. Patch died at 11:10 last night.

MR. BORDEN AGAIN.

Conservative members of Parliament have asked Mr. R. I. Borden to continue the leadership. That is, they have declined to accept the resignation which he tendered at the gathering on Wednesday evening. This business of resigning is becoming quite a fixed habit with Mr. Borden, but one of these days he will be surprised to find his resignation accepted. He would have been deposed long ago, only the members of his party fear the influence of the one who is now the real leader, Mr. George E. Foster, and realize that under the guidance of the latter they would seriously suffer. It was to be expected that at Wednesday's caucus some few enthusiasts would throw bouquets at Mr. Borden. This indeed happened. They hailed him as the saviour of the party, as the one man above all others who could direct the policy of the Conservative opposition, and they blame fate, almost as much as public sentiment, for their overwhelming defeat in October. Mr. Borden was referred to as able, honorable, experienced, enjoying the particular confidence of his countrymen, and, more than anyone else, the ideal man in Canada for the premiership. If all this is true, it seems strange that Mr. Borden does not exercise some of those brilliant abilities of which he is possessed in actually leading his party, instead of delegating to Mr. Foster those duties which should fall to the leader. Mr. Borden was first elected to Parliament in 1896, and three or four years afterwards began to be looked upon as a coming man. He has been so regarded ever since, but he is coming so slowly that even his most faithful friends are getting a little tired of the pace.

NEGLECTING THEIR DUTY.

"We are going to New York, if my friend is well enough. No! she has not been feeling very strong lately. Oh! it's consumption, but her mother doesn't know. She thinks her daughter is only run down. Yes, they have had two doctors."

"This is a nutshell is one explanation why no progress is made in the fight against tuberculosis. A lady made the above remark to me two days ago. Can the doctors of St. John deny that the course pursued in this case by two of their number is the course pursued by most of them in the majority of cases? How many physicians recognizing consumption on the first diagnosis, tell their friends of the sufferer from the disease? How many take the earliest opportunity of insulating on modern methods of treatment? Is it not a fact that in a great many instances the contagious quality of this disease is disregarded and the patients permitted to scatter death among all who surround them? There have been in St. John entire families wiped out by consumption, one contracting it during attendance on another; men and women have died without their friends ever being informed as to the nature of the disease.

MR. HAZEN'S WEAKNESS.

Mr. Hazen yesterday had the opportunity of his life. He failed to make use of it, and by this failure has shown to the electors of the province not only that he is opposed to reform but that he has not sufficient backbone to give a straightforward answer one way or the other. He squirmed and wriggled when faced by a petition from ten thousand electors, demanding prohibition. He talked on many subjects other than the one under consideration and displayed a great anxiety to get away from the main issue. He made vague promises of minor amendments to the license law, over-exerted himself in praise of the Scott Act, and endeavored by a very weak bluff to divide the earnest workers who had gone to him with a definite purpose expecting a definite answer. The Hazen government, including in its ranks a number of men who by their public professions captured the temperance vote, will turn down the request made by yesterday's petitioners. This is the only inference, from the stand taken by the premier, and certainly from past promises something better was to have been expected. In New Brunswick the tide is setting strongly in favor of prohibition, and the law now asked will have to be passed before very long. The Hazen government has been given a chance to meet the wishes of the people and has failed. For this refusal it must suffer, and another government will do what it has declined to do.

BUSY TIMES UP COUNTRY.

(Victoria Co. News.) Having not seen any items from this place for a long time I thought I would pen a few lines to let the people know that we are still living. It has rained here two days and a blizzard has about taken all the snow off. Some of the men are waiting for the mill to start and are laying back sucking their paw. H. Good is lumbering also James C. Weyman Shaw, they are hauling to Frevelling's mill. Geo. Kennedy passed through here today. Blanchard Giberson has purchased a horse also. S. T. is still around selling rum he passes through here once a week with lots of hot stuff for cold mornings. Our constable is dead, I guess, or so scared that he don't care to kick on.

SPALDING'S GUIDE.

The most up-to-date and complete sporting annual ever published is the Official Athletic Almanac just issued by the American Sports Publishing Company. The book is edited by James E. Sullivan, President of the Amateur Athletic Union and United States Commissioner to the Olympic Games. It covers in the minutest detail records from all parts of the world in an endless amount of statistical matter in regard to championships in various countries as well as lists of the champions. It contains also a college department which covers in nice shape the dual meets between the important colleges and universities in the United States. It contains many fine half-toned illustrations showing the different events at the Olympic Games in London, also illustrations of various home athletic events of importance. The Olympic Games are especially covered there being no less than five pictures of Dorand's attempt to win the Marathon Race as well as a photograph of the much discussed 400 Meter Race in which J. C. Carpenter won but was disqualified on an alleged foul. All athletes and everyone interested in any branch of sport should have a copy of this book. It is the most interesting of its kind ever published.

ADOPTED MORE THAN FIFTY AMENDMENTS

York County Council Striving Hard to Make the Highway Act Less Offensive.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Jan. 22.—The York County Council spent the entire afternoon discussing the Highway Act, and while some good amendments were adopted some better ones were rejected.

The special committee had spent two days going over the act and recommending fifty-two changes, all of which were adopted. Coun. Goodspeed moved a resolution to have the appointment of highway boards vested in the council, but only five voted for it. Coun. Grant, Conservative, councillor of Canterbury, thought that highway boards would entail too much expense, and moved to have them abolished, which motion was lost by vote of six to twenty. A motion by Councillor Goodspeed to have members of highway board serve without remuneration only found three supporters. An amendment favoring reduction of poll tax to $1.50 and property tax from twenty to fifteen cents was unanimously adopted.

A committee was appointed to present the amendments to the government and urge their adoption. The municipal council is overwhelmingly Tory, and the members no doubt felt it incumbent upon themselves to do something to help the Hazen government out of a bad hole. It is doubtful if the amendments suggested will satisfy public opinion in this country.

Warden Henchey entertained the councillors and a number of friends to supper at the Waverly Hotel last evening. The function passed off very pleasantly.

Three Children Dead, Another Burned and Two Mothers Badly Injured, is the Result.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 21.—Three children between three and four years old were killed, another aged five was severely burned and two women, mothers of the little ones, were painfully injured today at Johnstown, Somerset County, when the children were set to blaze. All the dead and injured are foreigners. Their home was almost demolished.

DEAD WILL NUMBER AT LEAST SEVENTY

Valiantly Sought Refuge in the Shaft— Bodies Probably Still in the Submarine Tunnel.

CHECAGO, Ill., Jan. 21.—That the list of fifty known dead probably will be increased to seventy or even more, was the chief fact developed today in the official investigation of the burning of the temporary wooden crib in the lake, one and one-half miles off the shore of South Chicago on Wednesday. It was discovered that most of the workmen died at the mouth of the shaft, and that surrounded by fire and with a wide stretch of icy water between them and the shore, they sought but failed to reach safety by going down into the submarine tunnel.

STILL MUCH SUFFERING IN SOUTHERN ITALY

Many Difficulties in Way of the Relief Work

ROME Jan. 21.—The storm weather in the earthquake region is adding greatly to the afflictions of the refugees. The work of hut construction has been retarded and all about Messina is like a lake of mud. In addition the paucity of funds is kept up by numerous stocks, which have been felt as far as Catania. At Palermo, from the rocks which tower high above the level of the sea, a column of sulphuric gas has been pouring, which destroyed the surrounding woods.

It has been found a difficult task to transport lumber for building purposes to Calabria. The railway is much congested, while the coast is almost impossible to approach, especially at this season of the year, for the lack of ports. It is probable that rafts will be constructed and the timber landed by this means. A report current that the Lord Mayor of London has instructed the British Ambassador not to hand over the Mansion House fund to the Italian National Committee, produced a painful impression in Rome as the greatest care has been taken by the American government that the committee should exercise the most scrupulous care in the distribution of relief funds.

Among the Americans remaining in the district between Messina and Catania for relief purposes, are Charles Kindwood and Harry Bowdoin, the latter of Boston and a relative of Robert M. Winthrop, second secretary of the American Embassy here. The latter has received a letter from Bowdoin giving an interesting description of the situation. In his letter Mr. Bowdoin says:

The American Red Cross gave a friend and myself money for purchase of supplies to be distributed in the district between Taormina and Messina. We have already procured our supplies and will go to Catania and buy more. The crying need is for wood for huts for shelter of many thousand people. There is no wood obtainable in the district and nearly all the houses are either down or badly damaged.

NO GUESS WORK about it, you take no chances when you buy a bottle of CUTILAVE.

GOVERNMENT PROMISES "EARNEST CONSIDERATION"

Temperance People Make Powerful Plea for Prohibition.

Requesting that a prohibitory liquor law be enacted at the next sitting of the local legislature a delegation appeared yesterday afternoon. It departed some few hours later rejoicing in nothing more definite than the expressed sympathy of the Hazen administration while it held tenaciously to certain old and very venerable assurances.

J. Willard Smith on behalf of the New Brunswick Temperance Federation first addressed the meeting. In a lengthy but lucid argument he presented the views of the temperance workers of the province, dwelling upon the evils of the liquor traffic and the benefits to be accrued in the event of prohibitory legislation being obtained.

Mr. Smith was followed by representatives of the various denominations of the city.

In replying the premier stated that the request, coming from the large and influential delegation it had, would receive the earnest consideration of his government. He believed, however, that the Scott Act could be made to fill the bill of provincial prohibition and save in its rigorous enforcement a solution to the problem confronting the temperance party.

RATHER SERIOUS ACCIDENT ON C. P. R. NEAR ANDOVER

Baggage and Postal Cars on North Bound Express Burned After Derailment.

Yesterday afternoon the north bound C. P. R. express was partly derailed at Indian Point, a mile from Andover, and as a result the baggage car and the postal and express car tumbled over an embankment. When the baggage car rolled over, baggage Master Cummings was injured in the wreck and could not get out of the car until train hands cut a hole in the side of the car. The baggage and postal cars caught fire and were totally destroyed. Although the mails and express were saved, some of the baggage was destroyed.

The second and first class cars also left the rails but were not damaged. The mails and passengers were transferred to the train for Presque Isle. The accident is said to have been due to a broken rail.

ROMANCE OF AN "AGONY"

The following "agency" advertisement appeared in an English newspaper recently: "Chasillon—I sang at concert with success 'Love Me and the World is Mine' He was to you my Sahib I sang, for I turned to the east and thought of Kipling's last line in 'Without the Aid of Clery' and wanted it to you. The encore I gave was 'When that one ship comes back to me.' Why did they cry? I did not, because I saw the Ship and U coming back to the Love of C."

FISHERY DISPUTE FOLLOWED FAILURE OF RECIPROcity

How the Trouble Between Newfoundland and the U. S. Originated--Canada's Role.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Jan. 11.—The fishery dispute between Newfoundland and the United States, which has called Hon. J. M. Kent, Minister of Justice in Washington, has now been acute for over three years. It began in 1906 on the failure of the Hague tribunal for reciprocity between the Ancient Colony and the American Republic. It was thought to be settled by the agreement to refer it to the Hague tribunal to which reference Canada is a party. It now transpires that new complications have arisen over the terms of that reference.

The origin of the dispute—like the origin of our own differences with the United States over fishery matters—goes back to the year 1878. The treaty signed that year between Great Britain and the United States gives the Americans the right to fish in Newfoundland waters. As a matter of fact, however, these rights have not been exercised for about eighteen years. During the negotiations on the Bond-Blaine treaty with the United States in 1890, American fishermen were conceded the privilege of shipping Newfoundland fish on their vessels and then bringing the fish from them. This they found more profitable than bringing their own crews to the fish, and therefore temporarily dropped the exercise of their treaty rights.

The first storm cloud arose when the British government, on Canada's protest, declined to ratify this treaty. Newfoundland, in retaliation, imposed a bait license fee upon Canadian fishermen, while exempting the Americans from this tax. The Canadians appealed to the Newfoundland courts and won, this Colony having to pay heavy damages.

Relations between Canada and the Ancient Colony were, however, soon resumed, and in 1902 Sir Wilfrid Laurier withdrew Canada's objection to Newfoundland's negotiating alone with the United States. Then was arranged the Bond-Hay treaty, which was designed to give Newfoundland free admission into the American market for her fish. This treaty was amended to destroy the Newfoundland market, and the fat was in the fire. The gravamen of the difficulty was that American fishermen could buy Newfoundland fish on the west coast, and import it into their own market free of duty, while the Newfoundland fishermen was refused the same privilege.

NEWFOUNDLAND RETALIATES.
Premier Bond at once retaliated with the withdrawal of all fishing privileges from the Americans. Up to that time they had been enjoying bait, ice, and other supplies in Newfoundland non-treaty waters under an agreement made in 1892. The Newfoundland fishermen could buy bait, ice, and other supplies in Newfoundland non-treaty waters under an agreement made in 1892. The Newfoundland fishermen could buy bait, ice, and other supplies in Newfoundland non-treaty waters under an agreement made in 1892.

Here is where the British Government was drawn into the dispute. The Americans claimed that this law was an infringement of their treaty rights. The British Foreign Office upheld the technical right of the Newfoundland Legislature to make the law, but arranged a modus vivendi with the United States in October, 1906, granting the Americans the right to hire men outside the territorial limit as before 1905. Premier Bond held that this modus vivendi left the Colonial statute still in force, but acting under the advice of a British naval officer, west coast fishermen went into the service of the Americans. To test the law, the Newfoundland Government prosecuted two of these fishermen, who were fined $500 each by the magistrate. The British Government appealed the case to the Newfoundland Supreme Court, where the conviction was upheld. This decision was accepted by the Imperial authorities after a little delay, and the Admiralty paid the fine of the two fishermen.

This order-in-council decreed that American fishing vessels and those employed thereon were exempt from such duties as customs duty and during the herring season, the warship commander on the station being given authority to issue or order.

This order-in-council was at first denounced by the Bond Government, and a policy of resistance was considered. Sir Robert maintained that the order-in-council did not comply with the terms of the statute under which it was issued, and consequently it was null and void. In the end, however, counsels of peace prevailed, and the Newfoundland Government agreed to issue licenses, free of charge, to Newfoundland fishermen to allow them to sell herring to the Americans. Thus a return was made to almost the same conditions existing prior to the slaughter of the Hay-Bond treaty in the American Senate. The Newfoundland Government did not, however, repeal its law prohibiting the Colonial fishermen from selling fish to the Americans, but complied with its terms by granting, free of charge, the licenses which were necessary under it to legalize the sale of herring. The prohibition of the shipping of Colonial fishermen on American ships was also left intact. Following this temporary settlement of the difficulty, the Americans appear to have got just about what they wanted.

REFUSED TO ARBITRATE.
The negotiations for reference to the Hague failed. Sir Robert rejected Sir Charles Fitzpatrick's offer to act as joint arbitrator for both Canada and Newfoundland. Much criticism is passed upon Sir Robert Bond by his political opponents in connection with this case on the ground that he exhibited weakness in regard to the reference of the dispute to the Hague. At the Colonial Conference of 1907, Sir Robert at first refused to arbitrate.

Another point of discussion is whether the dispute should be referred to arbitration. His later acceptance of arbitration, in the light of the earlier attitude, is characteristic as a volte face and a serious tactical error. He had maintained his first attitude, it is objected, he would have been in a solid position from which the dispute had been referred to arbitration over his head and turned out ill for the Colony, to continue his protests to the Imperial authorities, and demand compensation for the sacrifice of Newfoundland interests. But by accepting arbitration, he has put his hands and must abide by the result.

A STORY OF SOME PETITIONS.
When the Newfoundland Government finally re-granted to the American fishermen the right to buy fish on the west coast a batch of petitions in favor of that course of action from the west coast fishermen were cited as justification by Sir Robert Bond. In connection with those petitions an amusing story is told by the political opponents of the premier. The petitions were given as a reason for the concession of the right to sell fish to the Americans. Some of the petitions, however, got wrongly distributed and were published residents of one settlement on the west coast were given Sir Wilfrid Laurier, speaking of the decision of the Newfoundland Supreme Court: "You will notice that the decision in no way involves an infringement of the treaty or of the modus vivendi but proceeds entirely on the lines of a violation of the Bait Act."

This story was told to a Star correspondent by Mr. P. T. McGrath, who has written articles for a number of English, American and Canadian publications of standing on Newfoundland problems, and especially on her fishery troubles. Mr. McGrath laughed in connection with those petitions and said: "This 'victory' he said, 'was on all fours with that scored in the Bait case in connection with the French shore dispute. A modus vivendi was struck between Great Britain and France prohibited the erection of new lobster canneries on the French shore. Hon. James Baird, a Newfoundland, built one and started to operate it, when he was prevented by the British commander on the station, Baird used the Admiralty and was awarded damages, his contention being upheld by the Privy Council. That was a 'victory' but it did not prevent the British Government from getting its way. An act was introduced into the British Parliament to carry out the modus vivendi, and was withdrawn only on the Newfoundland Government pleading itself to pass such a law in the Colonial Legislature.

TRIPLE TARIFF SYSTEM PROPOSED FOR BRITAIN

British Tariff Commission to Advise Maximum and Minimum Schedule.

"The fact is," went on Mr. McGrath, "the Yankees have been too smart for Bond all through. In the Bond-Blaine treaty of 1890, he neglected to secure entry for 'green' fish, that is, fish preserved in salt, and in the Bond-Hay treaty, of 1902, he failed to have local fish included in the free list. In 1902 he failed to allow for the claims they would make on the statute-book of their diplomacy or for the unwillingness of the British Government to quarrel with them."

A DIFFERENCE IN THE CABINET.
There is said to have been a difference of opinion over this very question, between Sir Robert Bond and Sir Edward Morris, when the latter was in the Cabinet. Sir Robert, it is said, he was anxious to go on with the prosecutions of the fishermen in 1906 for the violation of the bait act. This would have meant the prosecution of six to eight hundred men, and Sir Edward Morris declined to consent to such a policy unless the Government first provided an alternative market where the fishermen could get as good a price for their fish as they obtained from the Americans.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The London correspondent of the Tribune cables as follows: Walter Long has started for South Africa, his health as well as Arthur Balfour's, having broken down. This leaves Austen Chamberlain and George Wyndham on guard with Bonar Law behind them, while the Liberals are renewing their attack. While the Opposition is not well off, it is bringing forward a fresh stock of ammunition. The Tariff Commission has provided a strong report on the condition of the engineering trade, with practical evidence of the necessity for a change of fiscal policy. This closes an elaborate system of investigations relating to special industries. The commission will now sum up the results in a final report and recommend an all round tariff as the policy urgently required for revenue purposes, for defence and for the revival of commercial and productive interests.

It is not yet settled whether uniform percentages on all manufactured goods will be favored, but it is fairly certain that the commission will advise the introduction of a triple tariff system, with the lowest schedule for the Colonies and a maximum and minimum schedule for foreign imports. There is no lack of ammunition for tariff reform, but there is no general staff for conducting a vigorous campaign. The subalterns are doing effectively without generals in command to inspire enthusiasm.

The government will have a fresh supply of Blue Books when Parliament meets. A report from the Poor Law Commission is hoped for, and one from the Coast Erosion and Afforestation Commission, already out. has a practical bearing on the question of unemployment, since the commission is virtually united in favoring systematic measures for the reclamation of waste land and the restoration of the forests. It is a unique report, of far-reaching importance which must involve legislation.

The Prime Minister is brooding in silence over the risks of a general election. Sir Edward Grey is saluting fishing in Perthshire. Mr. Lloyd George is amusing himself at the Riviera. Mr. Balfour is exchanging acid jokes with Lord Dunsany over the Irish proposal to make Gaelic a compulsory subject for matriculation in the new Roman Catholic university and Mr. Churchill is spilling for a fight without being allowed to sound his war cry "Land taxing and not bread taxing."

While each party is challenging the other to bring on a general election, neither Liberals or Tories are prepared or anxious for an appeal to the country this year. Yet an election may come suddenly. Conditions in India seem to require the presence of Lord Kitchener for an indefinite period, since he has originated and carried out the system of massing the British forces instead of scattering them. Yet he is not likely to remain for more than six months in command of the army. The War Secretary Mr. Haldane, has a scheme for the formation of an Imperial general staff, and wants Lord Kitchener to organize it. The latter is entitled to a long holiday after his prolonged service in Egypt, South Africa and India, and has planned a leisurely journey to Australia, China, Canada and America. But he is reported to be willing to take up Mr. Haldane's new work and create an efficient staff for the Empire.

DO FAT FOLKS WORRY?
Most thin people would say, no. Most fat folks, yes. They have all the causes for worry thin people have, and one other—their fat. Fat mortifies women because it spoils their appearance, and it distresses men, for it affects their activity. A few are afraid of it. There are few fat members of either sex who would not gladly dispense with 20 to 50 pounds if they knew how.

The "how" is my excuse for taking up this newspaper space. Although very few fat folks know it (and those who do are no longer fat), there is a very simple method of reducing safely. All one has to do is take after meals and at bedtime one teaspoonful of the following simple receipt, which any druggist will fill for a few cents: One-half ounce Carmelina, ¼ ounce Fluid Extract Cascara, Aromatic, and ¼ ounce Peppermint Water, and the trick is turned.

This is certain cure for "fat folks worry," for it does away with all necessity for exercise or dieting. It never causes weakness or stomach disturbances, and 12 to 15 ounces, I am told, is by no means an unusual amount of fat for it to take off daily.

"John," she said, looking up from the paper, "what is a political boomerang?"
"Why, I'd define it," he answered, "as a boomerang on the return trip."

A. O. SKINNER BACK FROM OTTAWA

Get Assurance That Exhibition Will Not Have to Move—May Get Dominion Grant in 1910.

A. O. Skinner returned today from Ottawa where he has been for the past few days in the interests of the Exhibition Association. The chief reason for the trip was to ascertain whether the erection of the new armory and the other changes on the Barrack green would make it necessary for the association to find new quarters. He was reassured on this by the Minister of Militia, and given to understand that the exhibition buildings will not be interfered with.
The proposed changes will include the appropriation of the south side of Sheffield street between Sydney and Wentworth streets, and the extension of the parade grounds to the face of the street. This will give ample room for the new armory without interfering with the exhibition buildings. While in Ottawa, Mr. Skinner learned that the order for the appropriation of this section has already been forwarded from the Public Works Department to the Department of Militia.
Mr. Skinner also took up the question of when the Dominion exhibition grant of $50,000 was to come to New Brunswick. The reason for cancelling the grant this year was the fact that owing to the decreased revenue economy is being practiced in all departments and it was felt that as St. John was already on the list for a half million dollars for harbor expenditure, etc., the citizens could hardly complain at not getting the grant's worth.
The fact that the New Brunswick representatives have not yet been able to decide among themselves to which town the grant should be given also made the government more willing to defer the matter. The proposal was made that Saskatchewan should get the grant in 1910 and that it should come to New Brunswick in 1911. Mr. Skinner got a promise from the Minister of Public Works that he would continue to have this arrangement reversed. It was felt that this might be done as the western provinces might be willing to have the extra time for preparation.
Mr. Skinner said that the association had attempted to get the regular grant from the Provincial government this year and if this was secured an exhibition would be held.

NAVAL OFFICERS ARE CRITICISED

Strictures Upon Their Efficiency Made in House of Representatives

PURCHASE OF POWDER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Strictures upon the efficiency of naval officers in the care of the machinery of war vessels were made in the house of representatives today during the consideration of the naval appropriation bill, with the result that an amendment was adopted requiring the secretary of the navy annually to report to congress the instances when more than $200,000 is expended for repairs.
After futile efforts to obtain legislation looking to the restoration of masts aboard ships, an amendment was agreed to, prohibiting the purchase of powder manufactured and sold in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. The debate disclosed that the amendment was directed at the Dupont Company. Amendments appropriating $250,000 to double the government's output of powder, and fixing the price for powder, other than for small arms, at 64 cents per pound were adopted.

CORPORATION JUDGES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—A debate on the propriety of increasing salaries of federal circuit and district judges consumed nearly the entire time of the senate today, with the result that the compensation of the 19 circuit judges was increased from $7,500 to $9,000 and that of the 84 district judges from $5,000 to $6,000.
Senator Borah, who offered amendments reducing increases of salary recommended by the committee on appropriations, declared that the action of the senate in increasing the salary of the president to $100,000 was in violation of the spirit of the constitution and would never have taken place before or during the recent political campaign.
Senator Tillman intimated that some federal judges were on the payroll of corporations which called for the denunciation of that such charges should not be made without specifying naming the judge referred to.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK., Jan. 22.—Tommy Gary of Chicago, and "Baby" Cullen of New York, battled through twenty rounds to a draw last night before the Vapor City Athletic Club. Cullen was the most clever but his blows lacked force sufficient for a knockout.

The Great West Life Assurance Co. in 1908 again wrote more business in Canada than any other Company and continues to give lower premiums and higher dividends to policyholders.

BANKS FIRST STRONG ROOM

In the Bank of England's museum may be seen the old oak chest which was the old Lady of Threadneedle Street's first strong room. It is a little larger than a common samarra's chest, and in this the bank stored its cash, notes and valuable papers. Today the strong room is a formidable-looking object, built of armor plate, bolts of huge doors that weigh many tons, and represents the latest skill and science of the engineer and locksmith.
SNUFF BOXES WORTH $15,000.
The Earl of Rosebery owns the costliest collection of snuff-boxes in the world. Many of them are solid gold, and some are set with brilliants. A curiously-inlaid enamel snuff box was at one time the property of Napoleon Bonaparte. A small black box studded with three diamonds belonged to the eminent statesman Pitt; while another, plain inlaid with fine gold, was used by Pye. Although the collection only comprises twenty-two boxes altogether, its estimated value is $175,000.

There has been a big boom in the milk supply during the past month. At one time in December it was almost impossible for the milk dealers in St. John to make any head. Now the trouble is to handle the quantities of milk that are offering. Many regular customers of the milk companies have had their milk refused and the extra supply is finding its way to the butter factories. The cause of the over supply is not so much in the increase of milk productions as the dullness of the market. Times are hard in St. John and the people are not buying in such large quantities as in recent years. Any talk of raising the price of milk during the winter will probably result in nothing so long as present conditions exist. —Sunset Record.

COUNCIL'S DISCUSSION PROMISES TO BE LIVELY

Reorganization Scheme is Occupying the Aldermen's Attention in Preparation for Monday's Meeting.

Owing to the absence from the city of Ald. Kelly, chairman of the reorganization committee, there will be no further meeting of the committee before the council meets on Monday. In the meantime the subject of reorganization by means of control or other methods is being vigorously discussed by the aldermen. Sufficient difference of opinion as to the way the scheme should be worked out is being shown to indicate that the meeting on Monday may be an interesting one. Some of those who are in favor of the plans already made feel that the public criticism is not justified, at least not until a more definite policy is outlined.

As regards the selection of the members of the Board of Control, the Mayor, the claim is made that if the citizens want to be sure of having good men for this board they should elect a council of the kind of men they want.

WATERWORKS CLAIMS COME UP NEXT MONTH

TWO FOR TEN

Two drunks were the occupants of the police court bench this morning. Their general appearance was not at all pleasing. One claimed that he was only a little bit drunk, while the policeman swore he was so drunk that he was found lying down on the street car track on Union street. He was asked to pay four dollars, and in default went in to jail for ten days. The other drunk was a picture. His left eye was swollen and badly discolored, while his nose and cheeks were badly scratched. He certainly had the appearance of having got the worst of it. The prisoner was on the bench for drunkenness only last Monday, and this time went to jail for ten days.

HOW MRS. KILFOYLE RECOVERS HER RENT

Fort Howe Ejectment Suit Before Judge Forbes—Deal in Personal Estate Not Put Through.

In Chambers this morning Judge Forbes transformed the dull monotony which is characteristic of swearing out proceedings to a big hit comedy. A Mrs. Kilfoyle rented her house, which is situated somewhere in the vicinity of Fort Howe, to one Murray. This transaction took place over a year ago. Murray's only fault, according to Mrs. Kilfoyle, was his indifference as to the payment of rent.

Finally, driven to desperation, the landlady placed the matter with Mr. Smith, who, she said, was a "fine good man." An ejectment suit of course followed and Murray was escorted from the premises by the high sheriff.

There being a balance of rent amounting to twenty-one dollars, she sued. A judgment was recovered in the city court for that amount, plus the usual costs. Murray was arrested on an execution and took the limits.

This morning's proceedings was the hearing of his application for his discharge from the limits. He was represented by W. J. Mahoney and the respondent, Mrs. Kilfoyle, by Herbert J. Smith.

Murray swore he tendered the rent to Mrs. Kilfoyle and also to Mr. Smith, but they refused it unless he paid the costs. This he refused to do. Mrs. Kilfoyle's daughter then tendered the rent to her, but when she told him to take it to Mr. Smith he "went on something terrible in his speech," she said that Murray had household goods worth about four hundred dollars.

His Honor offered these in witness for amount, and upon her refusal offered her them at fifty per cent. off for cash. As she couldn't raise the money she was committed to jail for ten days.

His Honor then discharged Murray, on the condition that he would pay Mrs. Kilfoyle seven dollars a month. This amount for some protest from Murray, as he claimed to have paid enough costs already.

This morning's proceedings was the hearing of his application for his discharge from the limits. He was represented by W. J. Mahoney and the respondent, Mrs. Kilfoyle, by Herbert J. Smith.

HE WANTED TWO MONTHS; WILL PROBABLY GET IT

Hugh O'Connell Strolls Into Court, is Fired Out, But Manages to Come Back.

Hugh O'Connell, a 47 year old Irishman, was arrested on the morning of the 14th inst. on the charge of sleeping in the apartments and the excellent cuisine at the King Street East jail. He was recently arrested for drunkenness and was liberated after doing a short term.

About 10.45 o'clock this morning while everything in the police court was still and the magistrate was glancing over his morning paper, there was a sudden disturbance at the court room door. The peaceful atmosphere was rudely disturbed when O'Connell staggered over to the prisoner's bench and took a seat along side of two drunks who had been sentenced ten days each.

Court Sergeant Hastings enquired of O'Connell what he wanted and in reply O'Connell said: "What I want is two months." He was informed that he was not needed in the court room, and had to be forcibly ejected from the building.

While the ejection was taking place O'Connell kept shouting that he was ejected out and wished to go to jail. "After being put on the street, he staggered across to the old burying ground and lay down on the snow on a grave behind a tomb stone. A few minutes later Policeman Steves found the man and not knowing about the previous attempt to get into jail, assisted the prisoner to the central.

When the big iron door swung with a bang, and O'Connell was secure, he made a pillow of his coat and with a satisfied smile stretched out on the soft side of the wooden bench in the cell.

O'Connell will have his chance to tell his hard luck story to the magistrate in the morning, and after a few days breaking stone with the chain gang, he will probably change his mind and think the life of a prisoner is not so pleasant as it looks.
