He has received new Stock WE regret to announce to our subscribers and friends the total destruction of our Printing Office, in New York, on Christmas Eve. This event will necessarily cause a postpone ment in the delivery of our January Reference Book. We have, however, duplicated Manuscripts of the entire work, in our numerous branches, so that although the fire is a very great calamity to us, the delay in issuing the book is the chief feature involved in it. We shall immediately commence the work again, and respectfully ask the indulgence of subscribers under these calamitous circumstances. The preparation of new type, the press-work, composition and binding, will, with every exertion we can make, occupy time, but we think that we may safely promise that the delay will not exceed two months at the utmost, and in the meantime the detailed information on our Office Records (the foundation of all the ratings) is freely at the services of subscribers.

SANTA CLAUS.

He comes in the night! He comes in the night He softly, sitently comes: little brown heads, on their pillows white, reaming of bugles and drums; through the snow, like a ship through the foam.
While the white flakes around him whirl:
Who tells him? I know not; he findeth Of ach good little boy and girl.

His sleigh it is long, and deep, and wide;
It will carry a host of things.
While dozens of drums hang around, on the side.
With the sticks sticking under the strings;
And yet fiot the sound of a drum is heard—
Not a bugle blast is thown.
As he mounts to the chicancy-tops like a bird.
And pops down in like a stone.

The little red stockings he silently fills,
I'll the stockings will hold no more:
The bright little sieds for the great snow hills
Are quickly let down to the floor.
Then Santa Claus mounts to 'be roof like a bird
And glides to his seat in the sleigh:
Not the sound of a bugle or drum is heard,
As he noiselessly moves away.

He rides to the west; he rides to the east:
Of his goodies he touches not one;
He eateth the crumbs of the Christmas feast,
When the dear little folks are done.
Old Santa Claus doeth what good he can—
This beautiful mission is hls—
Then, children, be good to the little old man
When you find who the little man is.
