SHIPPEGAN CHARGES NOT PROVEN

Evidence Shows No Dishonesty But Some Slight Irregularities In Road Account.

Hon. P. J. Veniot, minister of Public Works, has submitted to the government a lengthy report on the Shippegan road charges.

The chief parts of the report were as follows:
1. It had been alleged that Alphonse G. Robichaud, whose name appeared on the pay sheets as "Alphonse," "Alphonse G." and "Alphonse J.," was the same person and had wrongfully drawn money under the above several names.

Alphonse G. Robichaud was sworn and testified that the names "Alphonse," "Alphonse G.," "Alphonse J.," were intended for him. He had personally worked as a laborer on the Barren road for which he received payment. He was the owner of two horses, both of which were employed on this road in charge of two drivers. The payment for the hire of those two horses and drivers was made to him by check. Letters which accompanied the pay sheets, as well as the entries in the time book kept by the supervisor, showed that Robichaud was credited with the hire of his horses and drivers.

I find that Robichaud was properly entitled to the pay for his horses and hired drivers, and that the checks were properly issued, and that as the owner of the horses driven by hired help was properly entitled to the checks so issued.

2. In regard to the motor truck hauling supplies for the men during the noon hour, it was shown that but for this accommodation the men would have to walk six miles for their supplies.

3. The charges that the pay rolls had been stuffed was disproven by sworn evidence to show that while men who drew checks did not actually work on the roads, the checks were for the hire of their teams.

The Supervisors Herbert and McNally had allowed some carelessness in the entering of names, but the province had got full value for every dollar expended.

One workman, Agassit Mallet swore that Supervisor McNally put him at work for two days on a private field and this was charged to the government. This was denied by McNally and two other workmen, one of whom saw McNally pay Mallet out of his own pocket.

Awarded Decoration in Recognition of His Gallantry and Devotion to Duty.

Dalhousie, July 10.—Private F. Symmons, No. 44612, who enlisted in Dalhousie, N. B. in the 55th Battalion, when the late Major Maltby of Newcastle, N. B. was recruiting in Restigouche Co., was presented sometime ago with the Military Medal in appreciation of his gallantry and devotion to duty. He has been three years in the war and was twice wounded. He is now with the 42nd, known as the Black Watch Highlanders of Canada. Private F. Symmons belongs to Bathurst. His parents died when he was quite young. He came to Dalhousie and found a kind and hospital home here. He was protected by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Blanchard. The latter declined to have a public presentation of the Medal, and received it by mail last week with the following letter.

The Duke of Devonshire, Governor General of Canada, and a keen angler, spent fifteen days on the Restigouche River fishing salmon. He returned to Ottawa Monday evening.

TO HAVE SAY IN PEACE TERMS

Dominions Will Be Consulted When Final Peace Terms Are Adjusted.

London, July 14.—The government of the British dominions will have a voice in determining the terms of peace, according to Mr. Lloyd George. The prime minister made this statement in a speech at a dinner given in honor of the Canadian editors who are visiting England, at which Lord Beaverbrook was the host.

"This is a war in which we engaged the empire," said the premier, "when we had no time to consult the dominions as to policy and it is perfectly true that the policy which we adopted to protect small nations in Europe was a policy which we embarked upon without any consultation with the dominions. But you approved of it. Henceforth you have the right to be consulted as to the policy before-hand, and this is the change which has been effected as a result of the war."

"Canada and Australia and New Zealand, yes—and Newfoundland—have all contributed their share of service and they are entitled to an equal voice with the representatives of these islands—will determine the condition under which we are prepared to make peace. Unless I am mistaken, we are pretty well in agreement upon them."

"There must be no hugger-mugger peace. It must be a real peace. We are not waging war for the sake of killing or of being killed, but for the sake of establishing a just and durable peace for the world. You cannot make peace unless it is both just and likely to endure."

GERMANS MAKING LITTLE PROGRESS

To-Day's Bulletins Say Enemy is Firmly Held All Along Front.

(Special to The Graphic.)

London, July 18.—The French War Office reports say the battle continued throughout yesterday with great stubbornness along the whole front west of Rheims. Despite desperate efforts the enemy was unable to make further advance south of the Marne. Fighting proceeded on the wooded slopes north of St. Agnan. Very spirited actions north of Comblizy and Festigny enabled the French to hold the enemy at the southern outskirts of Bouquigny, east of Cully. The Germans regained footing in Motrosin between the Marne and Rheims. Germans penetrated south of Rouilly into Bois du Roy Pouilly. The objective of powerful attacks could not be reached by the Germans south-west of Rheims. The situation is unchanged. French positions remain intact along the whole Champagne front. German gains during the day limited to yards.

A TORONTO CADET IS ROUGHLY HANDLED

Comrades Resist His Conduct Towards a Young Lady

Toronto, July 16.—Following what his comrades considered unseemly conduct towards one of the young lady stenographers at Hayden House Barracks, E. A. F. a young cadet was seized and stripped of his clothing, his hands tied behind his back and carried into the yard. The culprit appealed in vain for quarter. "We'll teach you to insult our girls," shouted one of the airmen, and despite his struggles he was covered with what the men call "dope" and feathered, and then the fire hose was turned on him. He was told that a repetition of the offence would lead to more serious punishment.

IMPROVEMENT MADE ON THE HIGHWAYS

Large Number of Men and Teams at Work Between Dalhousie and Campbellton

Although the weather has been anything but favorable the work on the roads is progressing. Many of the worst spots are receiving attention. The swamp road below McLeod's has been raised about two feet and widened, while a stretch this side of the Junction has been raised and widened. Also a short piece at Richardsville is receiving attention. On the section between the Junction to Dalhousie town line much repair work has been done and this road is acknowledged as the best in the province.

The road approaching Dalhousie and in the Dalhousie town limits is very bad and need a lot of work to put it in shape.

Beyond Dalhousie the roads are also receiving attention, and with the exception of a few places are in fine condition.

A demonstration of what dragging will do may be seen on the road from the Eel River Bar to Charlo Station. This section is under charge of Mr. John Clare of Upper Charlo. It was bad this spring, but has been dragged faithfully at every opportunity and is now in excellent condition, despite the heavy rain and much traffic.

There are still a number of very rough places between Campbellton and Dalhousie Junction, but Supervisor Henry McIntyre is endeavoring to get them repaired.

The road drag should be used more frequently and a very marked improvement would be noticed.

CROWN LANDS SALE AT FREDERICTON

400 Square Miles of Crown Lands To be Sold About Sept. 5th.

One of the biggest sales of crown lands in some time will take place at the Crown Lands Office about Sept. 5th. Some four hundred square miles of crown lands, on which the timber licenses, which were issued 25 years ago, expire Aug. 21, will be put up. The licenses of these lands did not take advantage of the new regulation, which went into effect in 1913, whereby the licenses could be renewed on the payment of a bonus. It is expected that there will be lively bidding for the limits, as there has been a decidedly upward trend in the values of lumber lands.

Vinona, July 17.—Repulse of strong Italian attacks on the Italian mountain front is reported in the official statement yesterday from Austro-Hungarian headquarters. The statement reads:—

"In the region of Monte Pertica and Monte Solarolo the Italians, after strong bursts of artillery preparation, launched four powerful attacks. They were repulsed partly by our fire and partly in hand-to-hand combats. The enemy losses in killed were extremely heavy."

"From Albania there is nothing of importance to report."

Athens, Greece, July 17.—It is announced from a Spanish source that a Spanish steamship on which Minister Lopez was returning to Spain, has been torpedoed by a German submarine. The ship flew the minister's flag. The diplomat and his family have been rescued. The German government had been notified of the minister's departure a week in advance.

SENTENCED TO DIE ON 24TH SEPT.

Judge Barry Fixes Day for Kierstead's Execution.

Kierstead was sentenced at 11.30 this morning at Gagetown by Justice Barry to be hanged on Sept. 24th, some time between the hours of 11 a. m. and noon, within the walls of Gagetown jail.

Judge Barry reviewed the evidence given once more, and stated that he heartily agreed with the verdict reached by the jury. When the judge pronounced the sentence Kierstead turned pale and cringed as if he had been struck. As he sat down he said, "I am not guilty." He was calm, but on reaching his cell asked Sheriff Reid, "Is it true what they said up stairs?" "It is only too true," replied the sheriff. At this Kierstead broke down completely. Kierstead will be the first man ever hanged at Gagetown. The Akerley case was postponed until Sept. 28th.

GREAT WORK OF BRITISH AIRMEN.

Account for 3,228 Foo Airplanes in One Year.

London, July 13.—In one year of the British western front the Royal Air Force has accounted for 3,228 enemy aeroplanes. In the same period the naval airmen shot down 623, a total of 3,851.

An official statement dealing with these operations says:

"The Royal Air Force during the year beginning July 1, 1917, on the western front destroyed 2,160 hostile machines and drove down out of control 1,083. In the same period the air force units working in conjunction with the Navy, shot down 623 hostile machines.

"During this period 1,094 of our machines were missing, 98 of these were working with the Navy.

"On the Italian front from April to June, 1918, the British destroyed 16 hostile machines and drove down out of control six. Thirteen of ours were missing.

"On the Saloniki front between January and June 21 hostile machines were destroyed and 13 were driven down out of control. Four of ours were lost.

"From March to June in Egypt and Palestine 25 hostile aeroplanes were destroyed and 15 were driven down out of control. Ten of ours were missing.

"In all theatres of the war the British air superiority and strength progressed rapidly and continuously. From this it is safe to assume that when the new factor of America's output, both aircraft and personnel enters the situation in the fighting zones, the aerial supremacy of the Entente Allies should give them very great advantages."

OCCUPY ALL OF MURMAN COAST

British and American Troops in Northern Russia.

London, July 11.—American and British troops have occupied the whole of the Murman coast in Northern Russia, says a despatch from Moscow to the Central News Agency by way of Amsterdam.

After capturing Kem, a railroad station on the White Sea coast, the despatch adds, the American and British forces advanced toward Torok, the Russian Bolshevik forces having withdrawn to Norovik. The commanders of the Entente Allied forces have issued an appeal to the population on the Murman coast requesting help against Germany and Finland. It reported that the Murman is Russian territory under the protection of the Entente Powers.

Scaler Murchie's Evidence Makes Interesting Reading

Report of Evidence as Given Under Oath Before Commissioner Friel—Murchie Contradicts Himself in Important Points.

The inquiry into charges preferred against Mr. Speaker Currie by Hon. J. B. M. Baxter in the legislature was begun here last Tuesday under royal commission.

Archibald Murchie, former government scaler, on whose affidavit the charges were based, was the chief witness.

The court opened at ten o'clock with James Friel, K. C. of Moncton, presiding. A. B. Copp, K. C. of Sackville, appeared for the government; A. T. LeBlanc of Campbellton for Hon. Mr. Currie. Hon. Mr. Currie was also present. G. P. Leonard of St. John acted as official stenographer.

The session was held in the court room in the town hall, which was well filled with witnesses and spectators. Mr. Friel read the commission authorizing the inquiry and Mr. Baxter opened the case. He called Charles Purvis, accountant for the Continental Lumber Co., but the latter was not present. Mr. Baxter said he wanted Purvis to produce the books and added that he wanted it understood that the books must be produced.

"The books must be produced," said the commissioner. Joseph LaPointe, farmer of Nash's Creek, was sworn. He told of going with Archibald Murchie, the government scaler, to the office of the Continental Lumber Company. After several jokes about the election he said, Murchie told Mr. Currie that he had called to make some settlement about the stumpage. Mr. Currie took the witness into his private office and closed the door and they remained there for twenty minutes or half an hour. The witness did not hear what went on.

Cross examined by Mr. LeBlanc the witness said he did not give the exact words that Murchie used to Mr. Currie. He might be mistaken about the exact words, but not as to the meaning.

Archibald Murchie of River Louis, a former government scaler, on whose affidavit the inquiry is based, was next called. He told of his appointment in 1908 for district No. 5, including all lands on rivers draining into the Bay Chaleur from the Restigouche River south. He had no instructions or regulations regarding his duties. The scaler, he explained, has sufficient men under him to count the logs cut in the yards and skidways, and sometimes on the river. The scaler follows and estimates the content of logs, destroying percentage for those unfit for merchantable lumber. In scaling he took a certain number of logs, measured them and averaged the rest, taking off a certain percentage for culls and cedar. He submitted a statement to the crown land office and that office would send a copy to the operator. The witness identified a document as a copy of the statement of the Continental Lumber Company's cut which he said he sent to the department.

At Mr. Baxter's request Mr. LeBlanc produced a copy secured from the department by the company. So far as he knew the company had not received an original copy at the time the statement was filed by Murchie.

Murchie, continuing, said that his statement did not show all the lumber counted and scaled. Sheet "B" next produce did contain the full account. His counter was J. A. McKay, from whom he received his returns. The witness visited some of the yards and made up his returns in the usual way. He testified that he had had conversation with Mr. Currie on February 16th on the train from Charlo to Campbellton.

They were on their way to attend a political meeting prior to the nominations for the provincial elections. The witness said the conversation was about the lumber cut. Mr. Currie told him he thought the cut would be about four and a half million. Mr. Currie had asked how the witness was getting along with the scale. The witness told Mr. Currie he did not think the latter had used him quite right in the previous winter by having men on the drive finding more lumber than the witness did. The witness said he intended to be more exact that year. After that conversation, the witness testified, he saw Daniel Richards and the latter told him he did not know anything about the Continental cut, as all the scale bills were at Charlo, and any arrangements the witness made with Mr. Currie would be satisfactory. They did not discuss figures or the estimates of the cut.

Proceeding to relate the incident on which his affidavit was founded the witness said he went to the company's office with Mr. LaPointe late in March or early in April. When he entered he had a general conversation. The witness told Mr. Currie he expected to make up his final returns pretty soon and wanted to compare his figures with Mr. Currie's so that there would be no mistake. Mr. Currie invited the witness into his private room. Mr. Currie started by remarking that he (Currie) should have nothing to do with the scale, that Dan Richards should settle it. The witness had told him that he thought about four and a half millions would be the cut. The witness replied that his estimates were higher and it would be hard to reduce the scale much below the estimates. He also remarked that likely it would be his last year as scaler as there had been a change of government. He said that Mr. Currie said if the witness treated them right they did not intend to use the axe and by next election they would be voting for him. The witness had not told Mr. Currie what his own total estimate was.

Q.—Did you tell Mr. Currie what you would have to do to reduce the scale?

A.—I told him that I would have to leave out the names of some of the operators. He told me I could please myself.

Q.—Did you omit any names?

A.—Yes; six of them. Comparison of statements showed an apparent reduction of 2,165,420 feet. The original total was 6,730,852 and the amended statement showed 4,565,432.

In March, 1918, the witness said, he met Mr. Currie on the train. Mr. Currie said he heard that they were planning to raise the deuce with him down in Fredericton.

Cross-examined by Mr. LeBlanc, Murchie said when he was appointed in 1908 he gave credit for his appointment to Albert Mott. He made no efforts to get the job. He was selected by the party, the government party. He never had done any scaling before.

Q.—You are not qualified to be a scaler now?

A.—I can scale logs.

Q.—Are you a competent scaler?

A.—I would not consider myself a first class scaler; there are a lot better.

Q.—Do you remember being examined?

A.—Yes, in the office at Fredericton.

Q.—Don't you remember that when you took your examinations some one passed you a slip with the answers so you could answer the questions?

A.—That is not correct.

Witness remembered conversation with James Woods of the Continental Lumber Company in the winter of 1917. He did not remember talking with him about his job as scaler. The witness did not remember taking an oath of office. If he told Mr. Currie he had it was because he remembered filling some papers.

He remembered signing the affidavit before Dan McAllister. He did not remember anyone else being there. He did not remember who went with him to the office. He would not swear that D. A. Stewart was or was not with him.

Q.—Where did you get this affidavit?

A.—From the post office.

Q.—Who sent it?

A.—I don't know; there was no letter with it.

Q.—Did you ask anyone to prepare the affidavit?

A.—No.

Q.—You do not know who prepared it?

A.—No.

Mr. Baxter interjected—"I was consulted about the affidavit."

Mr. LeBlanc—"Don't come to his rescue."

Continuing the witness said he took the affidavit to McAllister. Before doing so he read it at his own house; that was the first time that he had read it. Could not say it was the first time he saw it. When he went to McAllister's office he could not swear whether D. A. Stewart or Charles Fenderson were there or not. Mr. Stewart might have spoken to him about the matter since the charges were laid, but he did not remember him doing so before.

He would not swear that he had never shown the affidavit to D. A. Stewart but could swear that he never had shown it to Arthur Calligan. If

FRIENDS THOUGHT HE WOULD DIE

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Conquered Dyspepsia and Restored His Health.

MR. ROBERT NEWTON.

Little Bras d'Or, C.B. "I was a terrible sufferer from Dyspepsia and Constipation for years. I had pain after eating, belching gas, constant headaches, and did not sleep well at night. I lost so much weight—going from 185 pounds to 146 pounds—that I became alarmed and saw several doctors who, however, did me no good. Finally, a friend told me to try 'Fruit-a-tives'.

In a week, there was improvement. The constipation was corrected; and soon I was free of pain, headaches and that miserable feeling that accompanies Dyspepsia. I continued to take this splendid fruit medicine and now I am well, strong and vigorous". ROBERT NEWTON. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. did not think he showed it to either. He did not remember speaking about the charges to Mr. S. Montgomery. The witness again said he could not say if anyone else was in the office when he signed the affidavit.

Q.—If your memory is so hazy about something that happened four months ago how could you remember so clearly something that happened a year ago.

A.—I had reason to remember.

Q.—Why did you go to see Mr. Currie?

A.—To find out about the cut so there would be no trouble.

Q.—Before this had you ever settled the stumpage with Mr. Currie?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Every year?

A.—I don't know what you mean by settling the stumpage. Mr. LeBlanc explained and repeated the question.

A.—I settled it with Mr. Currie. In other years when Mr. Richards was manager I settled with him.

Q.—Did you settle with Mr. Richards for the cut of 1916-17?

A.—I did not.

Q.—If he swore that you did would your answer be the same?

A.—It would.

The witness said he did not go to Mr. Richards' office in 1917 to settle the stumpage for the Continental Lumber Company. It was for another purpose, to settle the Tobique Lumber Company cut, that was in the month of March. He remembered one occasion on which Mr. Richards spoke to him about the Continental cut and only once. Mr. Richards told him he had no survey bills and the witness had better see Mr. Currie.

Q.—Did he tell you what the total cut was?

A.—He did not tell me.

At this point the inquiry adjourned until two o'clock.

Afternoon Session.

When the court resumed after the noon recess, Mr. Murchie continued his evidence. Under cross-examination by Mr. LeBlanc, witness could not give any idea of how many times he was over the scene of the Continental Lumber Company's operations. He went to some places as many as five times; to some places he might not have gone at all. He did not keep copies of his memoranda from which he prepared his monthly reports and so had no record.

He did not know how many monthly statements he had sent in; he had sent in one, but he would not swear that he had sent more than one.

He had sent in statements at different times, but perhaps not more than one for the same area. They were supposed to be sent in an estimate in January; it might have been in February when he sent his. He must have sent in more than one monthly statement.

Q.—Were those statements correct?

A.—Correct to the work I had done.

Q.—Were they correct as to date?

A.—I could not tell about the places I had not visited.

Q.—Would you swear that you were in the woods before Christmas?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Would you give me a list of the jobs who were cutting then?

A.—I might have some papers that would show.

Q.—Can you produce papers that will give a full record of your work?

A.—No, they were all destroyed.

Q.—Then how were you able to swear that your returns were correct?

D. GOLDENBERG & Co.

Opera House Block.

A—I had a copy of the final returns.

Q.—Is this (a document produced by the witness) a copy of the correct or the false report?

A.—The correct report.

Q.—Has this been out of your possession?

A.—It has been around quite a bit since I prepared it.

Q.—Who had it?

A.—I could not swear who had it.

Q.—Where did you prepare this?

A.—I do not know.

Q.—Did you prepare it yourself?

A.—I cannot swear I did.

Q.—How did you prepare it?

A.—From the counter's book. The counter had two books; I had them to look at.

Regarding the statement alleged to be correct, the witness said he did not remember showing them to Stewart, Calligan, Montgomery or Richard. Different people might have seen them. He did not remember showing them to anyone. He did not prepare the affidavit from the statement in question.

He sent away a copy of it to have the affidavit prepared.

Mr. Baxter objected to a question as to whom the statement had been sent.

Commissioner's Query.

The commissioner: One minute the witness says he copied the affidavit from the statement and the next minute he says he copied the statement from the affidavit.

I would like to know where he got the figures for what he calls the correct statement.

Mr. LeBlanc—Is that a correct list of the names of the jobs?

Witness—There might have been some more that I never found.

Q.—Would you swear that these men all worked for the Continental Lumber Company?

A.—To the best of my knowledge from cruising the woods and the counter's reports.

Q.—Would you remember being in the woods more than once?

A.—I don't know how many times.

Q.—Where you ever at Pelkey's Camp?

A.—I don't remember.

YES! MAGICALLY! CORNS LIFT OUT WITH FINGERS

You simply say to the drug store man, "Give me a quarter of an ounce of Freese's." This will cost very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or call corn from one's feet.

A few drops of this new ether compound applied directly upon a tender, itching corn should relieve the soreness instantly, and soon the entire corn will fall out, and the skin will be left smooth and soft.

This new way to rid one's feet of corns was introduced by a Cincinnati man, who says that while Freese's is sticky, it dries in a moment, and simply shrivels up the corn without irritating the surrounding tissue.

Don't let Father die of infection or lockjaw from whitening at his corns, but clip this out and make him try it.

CANADIAN EDITORS MEET LLOYD GEORGE

Premier Kept Gathering Keenly Interested
by Half-Comic, Half-Serious Reminiscences of Canadian Visit.

London, July 15.—"What a merry-looking, little great man," said an American officer, as he watched Lloyd George, wearing a grey suit and the biggest of his big smiles, drive gaily away from Downing street for a week-end rest. The Premier certainly earned these epithets. At the Savoy Hotel, dinner given in honor of the Canadian newspaper men, all through the modest yet ample meal he kept R. L. Richardson, of Winnipeg; F. D. L. Smith, of Toronto, and other editors, including French-Canadians, who sat around him, entranced with his half-comic, half-serious memories of his visit to Canada ten years or so back, when he was a simple, though most volatile Welsh M. P., with all his career to make.

Tribute to Canadian Troops. Having only just left a conference with Sir Douglas Haig, he brought the latest and most inspiring news from the front and when he came to speak he pleased every Canadian by the declaration that deep as Britain's collection and with marked feeling of the heroic part the British troops took in helping the Canadians hold the line during those fateful days in April, 1915.

Other noteworthy tributes came from J. H. Woods, of Calgary, and R. L. Richardson, of Winnipeg. They referred to the quiet and unassuming services of the British navy.

In dramatic fashion Mr. Woods described how, as their convoy, laden with American troops, approached Ireland, seven British destroyers raced like express trains across the ocean to form a protecting arm against the seas' worst perils.

"Under that protecting arm Canada has been left free to grow to man's estate," he said. "Under it, millions of Americans whose forefathers were lost to England 160 years ago, are now hurrying to fight by England's side for the highest ideals of all, the English-speaking world."

A pleasant and personal incident of the gathering was the presence of Sir Gilbert Parker, who, now retired from Parliament, is taking a year's rest preparatory to a resumption of his literary labors.

CAPLIN.

DOCTOR URGED AN OPERATION

Instead I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Was Cured.

Baltimore, Md.—"Nearly four years I suffered from organic troubles, nervousness and headaches and every month would have to pay a doctor's bill of $10.00. I tried many ways but nothing helped me. I was urged to have an operation. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before consenting to an operation. I took five bottles of it and it has completely cured me and my husband has been able to do his work as a pleasure. I tell all my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—NELLIE B. BRITTINGHAM, 608 Calverton Rd., Baltimore, Md.

It is only natural for any woman to dread the thought of an operation. So many women have been restored to health by this famous remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after an operation has been advised that it will pay any woman who suffers from such ailments to consider trying it before submitting to such a trying ordeal.

Lloyd George's Assurance. The Premier's confident expectation of complete accord between the nations of the Empire regarding peace terms seems to give new value to the vigorous public demand Premier Hughes and Massey have been making the past few days for the entire ridance to German influence in Pacific spheres.

Premier Borden was most happily emphatic in correcting the notion that most Germans, and even some Englishmen, still seem to hold that Canada entered the war at England's bidding. He made clear amid Canadian cheers, that Canada did not wait for invitations, as Mr. Lloyd George admits, there was no need to say to Canada to come and help. Three days before war was declared, said Premier Borden, Canada was pressing her armed help upon the British Ministers. Also most emphatic was Premier Borden's tribute to the Canadian Journalists generally. "Despite the many, and often fierce differences due to political faiths and to localities he begged Mr. Lloyd George to understand that the press of Canada, re-acting the spirit of the Canadian people, had given invaluable and unhesitating support to the Allied cause, and that under great national stress, for perhaps no democracy in the world ever underwent a sharper and sterner test than the democracy of Canada Smith, of Toronto, and other editors, including French-Canadians, who sat around him, entranced with his half-comic, half-serious memories of his visit to Canada ten years or so back, when he was a simple, though most volatile Welsh M. P., with all his career to make.

GREAT CHALICE OF ANTIOCH

Portrait Heads Are Being Copied From Marvellous Work of Art Executed in the First Century.

There have been executed by Mrs. Margaret West Kinney a series of portrait heads, copied from those of the small figures which ornament the outer shell of the cup known as the Great Chalice of Antioch, which is owned by Kouchakji Freres of New York city.

It may be remembered that this cup was discovered in 1910 by Arabs excavating in the ruins of an early Christian church, where it had been buried since probably the fourth century. A. D. It consists of two distinct parts, an inner silver cup of crude workmanship, resembling the common drinking cups of the time of the Roman emperors Augustus and Tiberius, and an outer shell also of silver of exquisite design and workmanship of the first century. The most remarkable feature of the decoration of this outer cup is a series of twelve figures, which encircle the cup in two bands. After an exhaustive research the fact has been established that two of these figures represent Christ, the one at twelve years of age, the other at the time of the resurrection. The other ten figures are those of apostles, the identity of whom is now accurately ascertained.

The date assigned to this vessel seems to leave no doubt that the sculptor was a contemporary of these apostles, and the individuality displayed in their characterization points to the probability of these being actual portraits taken from life.

Because the figures are small—the heads are about three-eighths of an inch—and can only be properly seen with the aid of a magnifying glass, a replica of each one is to be etched by Mrs. Kinney. Six of these are now finished, and reveal not only wonderful skill in the characterization but also an accurate correspondence in type to all that is needed of the attributes of the apostles represented. Thus, in St. Peter are shown the fiery impetuosity of the short, stubby man of nervous, exuberant temperament, while Thaddeus shows the refined intelligence of a man of good education.

That the inner cup is the actual "Holy Grail" in which the wine of the last supper was blessed is not actually affirmed, though the known facts all point to that assumption. But these portraits are the work of a contemporary to whom the originals were familiar appears to be a fact established beyond a doubt. This makes the etching of Mrs. Kinney's executed with faithful adherence to the details of the sculpture of thrilling interest from a historical, religious and artistic point of view.

The other heads now finished, beside the two already mentioned, are St. Andrew, James, Luke and Matthew. That of St. Paul is to be finished shortly.—New York American.

Camouflage.

Cornelius Vanderbilt told a camouflage story at the Newport Casino. "At the Grand Central station," he said, "one young man was seeing another off, when three very pretty girls got in the Pullman."

"The departing young man was smitten by the three girls' charms, and so he muttered to his friend:

"Look here, to oblige me, you know, won't you put your head in at the door just as the train pulls out, and shoot me a loud voice. Then I'll close the fifth avenue house, sir, and store the silver on the yacht."

The other chap agreed to do this, and the one smitten with the girls sat and waited for the thing to come to pass, his eyes fixed on their pretty faces.

"Finally the whistle blew. The obliging chap uttered a cry and stepped on the back platform, stuck his head in at the door, and yelled:

"Hey, you, tell your boss if that suit of mine ain't home on Saturday night I won't have it at all!"

Kipling Poem Called Insult.

Canon Knox Little was an Irishman who had the reputation of always saying what he thought and of saying it in the most forcible manner possible. It is related that he once very unmistakably disagreed with Rudyard Kipling on the subject of the latter's "shouldered oak" and "chandeliers' foils." The canon happened to have three sons fighting against the Boers, and he told Mr. Kipling that his words were not poetry at all but just mere insult. Another line to which the canon objected, and as events since 1914 have proved, rightly objected, was: "Shoulders the sheltered city-made, unhandled, unmet." The sons of the sheltered cities have so thoroughly vindicated themselves as to show that what poets have said about them nor even to need that anyone should take up the cudgels on their behalf. It is evident that even poetry will have to submit to the general revision which marks the close of the war.

Utilizing Waste Heat of Gas Engine. For a long time the waste steam from steam engines has been turned to good account, but there have been difficulties in the way of using the exhaust gases from a gas engine as they readily attack the metal of the conduits. However, the difficulty is being overcome, for a New Jersey candy factory has an installation in connection with a 60 horse power engine which is used to heat the factory. The gases pass through an economizer made of cast-iron, with the passages to the different sections staggered so that all parts are heated for the whole length. War-time in jackets surrounding the gas passages.—Popular Science Monthly.

THE ASSESSMENT.

At a recent meeting of the Town Council the various appropriations for the several departments of the town and to provide money to pay interest on bonds and the sinking funds were fixed. The total amount supposed to be required to properly conduct town business is placed at $50,000 or an increase of $5,000 over and above last year.

The increase is a modest one in these times of increased cost of everything, and we sincerely trust that sufficient funds will be provided to run the town without falling back on an over draft.

Of this increase of $5,000 the School Board is responsible for $3,000 and Salaries and Contingencies for the other $2,000.

Last year Salaries and Contingencies required practically $6,500. There was an overdraft of $2,237.47 which must be charged against this account, leaving $4,262.53 to meet demands this year. In previous years a large amount was received in liquor licenses and police court fines, (last year's amount to $1448.00) which will be practically met this year, so it looks like a big deficit in this department when we take into consideration salary increases and the increased cost of all supplies.

With rigid economy the various departments may be able to come out square, but if the citizens wishes in regard to improved services in public utilities are not complied with, they will understand it is because the Council wishes to keep down expenses and make the tax burden as light as possible.

THE COUNTY JAIL.

Recently a new sheriff was appointed for Restigouche County. He is a kind hearted, generous, kindly disposed gentleman who would not stand for the abuse of any creature, yet as sheriff he is forced to see human beings locked up behind bars in a building in which he would not house his live stock. The county jail of the County of Restigouche is a disgrace to the community, and should be made fit at once.

The building in general is in fair condition and with a few alterations, and a thorough cleaning, at a cost of a few hundred dollars, would be made sweet and clean.

The Sheriff recently invited some of the County Councilors to look over the building, but no action other than the promise to supply a quantity of hose, was taken.

There is no occasion for the Graphic to specify the changes needed, they are apparent the moment one enters the prisoner's quarters.

BEHIND THE TIMES.

Why is Campbellton so far behind the times? For instance in regard to the early closing of the stores?

Many of our merchants are willing to close, but here comes the hitch, some other merchant next door refuses to close, therefore his neighbour will not close, which is no doubt fair, but by not all come to some agreement, and close their stores?

Some one makes the excuse "we must look after our country trade." I do not want to dictate or interfere with anybody's business, for each should know his own business, but I would like to know how much country trade we get in Campbellton, after the hour of six o'clock in the evening.

Do not nearly all of these people come to town during the day to do their shopping, and are usually on their way homeward by six or six thirty in the evening?

Now just one word with regard to the clerks, are there any other employees in town who have as long hours as the clerks? They work three days a week from eight in the morning until six in the evening, and the other three days from eight in the morning until any time in the evening. Is there not some way to arrange a systematic closing of the stores? Can anyone suggest a remedy? Why should Campbellton be so far behind, almost every other town of its size in the Maritime Provinces? Thanking you Mr. Editor for this space in your paper,

I remain,
"THE CLERK'S FRIEND."

Dear Mr. Editor:—

Will you allow me space in your paper to express myself on a matter which is of interest to all.

On September 1st, 1917, the Town Council passed a By-law to Regulate Street Traffic. Some time ago a Police Officer handed me a copy of the By-law with as much as to say here you, read this and if you don't follow the rules watch out. I made the remark that it was a good thing to have, and that I hoped the law would be enforced.

A few days ago I called the attention of the said police officer to the fact that a certain Councillor had a habit of driving up and down the wrong side of the street and when he stopped at the Post Office his car was parked nine times out of ten on the wrong side of the street.

The answer I got was, he did not like to say anything as all the Councillors were doing the same thing, and if I had any complaint to make, I would have to see the Town Solicitor. I know for a fact that most of our Councillors do abide by the rules as much as is practicable considering the state of the streets. What I want to know is why any police officer allows a certain councillor or others to do as they please in regard to the Traffic By-Law. If I have to go to the Town Solicitor to make our police officers act, believe me I shall keep him busy for some time to come. All I want is fair play and justice to all. Thanking you Mr. Editor, I remain,

Yours truly,
CHAUFFEUR.

Nash's Creek, N. B.

July 15th, 1918.
Hon. P. J. Veniot, has made a statement in the Graphic of July 11th that the roads are twenty-five per cent better than they have been at any time during the last ten years. Mr. Veniot wants to take a trip in the Haley by road to Lorne Settlement, and he will find this road in a disgraceful condition, the centre of the road is where the water runs after every heavy rain. Along the front of Councillor Murchie's place it looks more like a cow path than a road.

The amount of money spent on the Haley road for the last two years is hardly worth mentioning, only one day's work on a road that has such a man who puts up the money to corrupt elections is not fit to hold a job. It is reasonable that he will try and get it back in some way.

If this is the way we are going to be served we will be looking for a change at the next Local election.

Yours truly,
"K."

(In reply to the above, we may say that Hon. Mr. Veniot was referring to the main trunk roads of the province, not to the by-roads. No doubt repairs will be made to these when that more important work is done—Ed.)

SAW REAL TRAGEDY ALL SATISFACTORY IS LATEST NEWS

Movie Spectators Were Treated to Two Shows.

One Among the Audience Might Almost Be Called a Comedy, Unless One Had to Pay for Crushed Headgear.

My seat was directly behind those occupied by the trio who figured in a serio-comic accident that convulsed nearby spectators in a Broadway moving picture theater the other afternoon. I therefore am able to tell just what happened and give details that must have puzzled persons sitting a little farther away.

The two women were loaded down with parcels and small packages when, right in the middle of a thrilling drama, they slowly and cautiously fitted themselves into two orchestra chairs near the middle aisle.

It was a tight fit, for neither of the ladies could be described as sylphlike in form, and the armfuls of purchased bundles contributed in no way to facilitate adjustment of the generous cargo nature previously entrusted to each. Parcels of various sizes slid from their knees into recesses under the seats in front and slopped into the aisle from the lap of one who sat nearest to it.

The theater was in semidarkness, and it was only by the groping of many hands, in response to whispered appeals, that the troubles of diligent shoppers were returned to them. They then apparently for the first time discovered that the adjoining seat—third from the aisle—was unoccupied, and into it they dumped their bundles and their hats.

Quiet in the immediate vicinity had scarcely been restored when a stout, middle-aged man arrived with coupon calling for the seat they had just converted into a sort of family catchall. Regardless of their exclamations of despair he inched his way in, while they with frantic haste struggled to clear off the place upon which he was to sit.

Peace finally descended again upon the neighborhood, and we had given ourselves up to undisturbed wonder concerning the fate of the intruder, should the villain penetrate her disguise as a French artillery officer, when one of the package-laden women said to the other:

"Merry! I promised to be home by five o'clock. Lucy is going out, and I forgot all about it."

While the speaker, who sat nearest the aisle, arranged her hat and pierced it with a couple of pins, her companion struggled to convert the fruits of their shopping into two portable pyramids. Suddenly she uttered a little scream, and then whispered to her friend in awe-stricken tones, "I can't find my hat. I believe that man is sitting on it."

"Gracious goodness," said the other. "Ask him."

"I can't do it," said her friend. "You ask him."

Thus appealed to, the holder of the two turned to the man, who appeared to have heard nothing of their conversation, and said:

"I think you are sitting on this lady's hat."

"I am not doing anything of the sort; why should I?" was the amazing reply she received.

"Sit down," cried several voices to the baffled and hatless one, from whose arms bundles again began to leak.

"I am now sitting on your hat, ma'am," said the suspected male, "but if it will do you any good, I'll prove it."

Then he arose, and from under his ponderous body the hatless woman removed what had once been a towering military creation, with twin pinnacles soaring aloft, which she now only paraded of cloth and feathers.

A wave of mingled applause and protestation swept that part of the theater, as she absently departed, passing every few feet to recapture some meandering parcel.—Madge Arthur, in Buffalo Courier.

B. C. 55.

"The next morning, as treacherous and hypocritical as ever, a large company of Germans, which included all the principal and senior men, came to his quarters, with a double object—to clear themselves (so they alleged) for engaging in a battle the day before, contrary to the agreement and to their own request therein, and also by deceit to get what they could in respect of the 'truce.' This is not correct from an account of current happenings in Russia between that country and Germany. It is from Caesar's history of his dealings with certain German tribes in the year 55 B. C. Replying to the spokesman of these Germans (who had crossed the Rhine to invade Gaul) the narrative reads: 'To this Caesar replied as seemed good; but the conclusion of his speech was as follows: He could have no friendship with them if they remained in Gaul.' These extracts from a famous book are commended to the attention of powers that be.—From the Outlook.

Famous London Meeting Place.

Before the war Trafalgar square, London, was the favorite meeting place of the suffragettes. The lion at the column's foot were frequently the platform from which Mrs. Pankhurst and her daughters addressed the London crowd. The shops along the Strand were often given the attention of militant women, with the result that for a long while most of their windows were boarded and barred.

Artificial Pies.

"We are using artificial pies in all our comedies now," said the motion picture producer.

"That's a patriotic thing to do."

"Yes, and we get better results with imitations than we used to get with the real article. Our property man has invented a pie that answers magnificently."

Enemy Casualties Are Said to be 100,000, Allies Losses Small —Drive is Held.

London, July 17.—The position of the Allies at the present stage of the German offensive in France is said to be distinctly satisfactory, in advices received today. The French losses are said to have been very small. They have lost no guns.

Casualties sustained by the German troops in the offensive up to the present are estimated to number 100,000, according to news received in London today.

New Enemy Forces In.

Paris, July 17.—The Germans last night threw new forces into the battle on the front south of the Marne and attacked the Allied lines north of St. Agnan. The enemy succeeded in penetrating into Bourdonnerie. The battle is continuing in the woods immediately to the south of this point.

On the front farther to the east the French held the enemy in the southern outskirts of the Bouquigny Wood and at the village of Nesles.

A powerful attack likewise was made by the Germans in the direction of Moinsville, but they were driven from this locality by a French counter-attack. On the front between Marne and Rheims the fighting developed violently in the Courton Wood. The Germans attacked in the Vigney region, on this front, but their assault here broke down completely.

Along the line to the east of the Germans delivered local attacks notably in the Brunay region. These efforts by the enemy were fruitless. In renewed assaults upon Beaumont the enemy suffered a sanguinary pulse. The French positions throughout the region to the east of Rheims were maintained intact.

When the meek inherit the earth we hope that they won't make the rest of us get off.

Do You Buy At Home?

WHEN you require Printed Stationery or Printing of any kind, it is not necessary to send your order to a distant city. Your local printing offices can attend to All your needs.

Buying at home; trading with one another, so far as is possible, is the fundamental principle underlying the growth and trade expansion of every community. A dollar spent with your own merchant, manufacturer or printer may again come into your hands, but a dollar sent to a distant mail order house or print shop or factory is gone from your community forever.

A PROMISE.

Road Commissioner John McBeath promises that he will be busy. We hope so. It is time he gave evidence of having a little life, but still we will not bank too much on this promise as it takes very little to keep some men busy. Results will tell.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that any person found trespassing on Lot No. 10 or putting boat on shore at Matapedia, on the property known as the John Ryan property, will be dealt with according to law. (Signed) Mrs. BRUCE ANDREW Daughter of the late John Ryan.

OBITUARY.

Miss Margaret Gallant. The death of Miss Margaret Gallant, daughter of Mr. John Gallant, Jr., occurred Tuesday. She had been ailing for some time and was fifteen years of age. She leaves to mourn, her father, two sisters and two brothers. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved family. The funeral services were held this morning at eight o'clock, Rev. Father Wallace officiating.

AN ATTRACTIVE INVESTMENT. Elsewhere in this issue will be found an advertisement, issued by the Comptroller General of New Brunswick, offering 200,000, six per cent, twenty year bonds of the province of New Brunswick at par. They are exempt from taxation in New Brunswick except succession duties. These road debentures should be very inviting to local investors.

ROADS NEED ATTENTION. Mr. Max Mowat who travels the roads between Campbellton and Matapedia, very frequently says that the section of the road above Flatlands under the supervision of Supervisor Craswell needs attention. It is in very bad shape and practically no repairs have been made on it this season. Mr. Mowat also says that Supervisor McBeath has during the past week done some work on his section and that there is a marked improvement to the part which has been irrigated.

We are glad to know that our criticism of this Supervisor is having good results and are always willing to give credit where credit is due.

SUBSTITUTION. One of the North Shore lumbermen who was in the city yesterday got ahead of Premier Foster by taking the Premier's new felt hat and leaving behind a green lid, much inferior to the Premier's top piece. The lumbermen were attending the conference at the executive council chamber and left before the members of the executive. When the Premier started to leave he discovered that a lumber king from Newcastle had taken his nice brown hat and left him the green one to sport on the "Glorious Twelfth." The Premier had one on the Minister of Public Works, however as the latter, had a new raincoat, which he wore only half an hour stolen from his automobile at Edmundston last week.—F. W. Gleaner.

MAY EXAMINE HERE

It is probable that another session of the Board of Examiners for Forest Rangers will be held shortly at Campbellton, as it has been found that a large number of intending candidates did not write the papers at Fredericton or Newcastle, and it is desirable that as large a number as possible qualify. The advisory board of the Crown Land Department, which was to meet in Fredericton, this week, cancelled the meeting and probably will not meet until after the examinations at Campbellton. Over one hundred candidates have already written exams. Forty of these were submitted at Fredericton and fifty at Newcastle.

ON SUNDAY, AUGUST 4th

Some misunderstanding having apparently arisen as to whether the anniversary of the declaration of war would be observed on Sunday, August 4th, or on Monday, August 5th, Premier Foster telegraphed to the secretary of the state at Ottawa for a statement as to when the anniversary is to be observed and in reply it was stated distinctly that "the fourth anniversary of the war is to be observed Sunday, August 4th."

Sheep On Every Hill Side In New Brunswick

The New Brunswick Government through the Department of Agriculture has arranged with the Chartered Banks to help the Farmers—where assistance is needed—to buy Sheep.

The Department will not only arrange to buy Sheep FOR the Farmers, but will also buy good breeders FROM the Farmers—in other words, this branch of the Agricultural Department WILL SUPERVISE ALL PURCHASES AND SALES OF SHEEP.

IF A FARMER NEEDS CREDIT TO BUY SHEEP he should consult his local banker who has the necessary forms.

If you cannot buy sheep in your locality, inform the nearest banker who will notify the Agricultural Department, or, better still, notify the Department yourself and say how many Sheep you want.

KEEP YOUR EWE LAMBS

Every Ewe Lamb, weighing 80 pounds and over and of reasonable quality, should be retained by farmers for breeding purposes. Sell the males and the inferior females for butcher purposes. If you have more ewe lambs than required, induce your neighbor to purchase.

THE VALUE OF WOOL

Unwashed Wool of the best quality brought 80 cents a pound this spring, or about $5.00 a fleece.

SIXTY MILLION SHEEP

Have been lost in Europe since the war started. Wool in enormous quantities is now required to clothe the soldiers, it will take an immense quantity to reclothe the returned men in civilian dress. Prices will likely be high for ten years.

New Brunswick has the pasture, hay, root and a climate suited to Sheep. Every farmer should consider investing in a small flock as a foundation. The first year will give approximately $4.00 worth of wool per sheep, the sheep will cost about $15.00. Is it not a good business proposition?

If you cannot purchase locally, place your order with your banker. Orders will be filled, if possible, in the order filed at this office through the banks.

J. F. TWEEDDALE,
Minister of Agriculture.

MANY WORSE OFF

High Cost of Living Looked at From New Angle.

Uncle Peleg Gave the Citizens of Bloomfield Something to Think About When He Bought His Frugal Sunday Dinner.

"I suppose the folks back home still manage to get by," said the dweller in the city to his boyhood friend, Reuben Sparrow, who had driven in from Bloomfield that morning, "when all seem to live along in pretty much the same old way. Of course there is some scaling down. Extraneous ones are tightening up a bit, and the close ones are a little mite closer."

"Take the Longfords for example. You know how they always used to live. Then they got hit by Saturday night, and then they'd begin to live on the fat of the land. About Thursday, funds would give out, and then it would be pudding and milk or whatever they could pick up for the rest of the week. Well, they do just that same way now. First of the week there's nothing but good for them, and price is no object. Only difference is that now hard times begin with them 'tween about Tuesday and Thursday."

"Then there is Eben Tins. He goes on altogether a different principle. Eben says that it doesn't cost him so very much more to live than it did five years ago. He was always a great frugal, you know. He's set what calls a fair price on each of the commodities. Of course he can't control the price, but he can regulate the quantity. So when sugar, for example, takes a jump of ten per cent, he marks down the amount to be used in just the same proportion, and so keeps even with the game."

You might suppose that the family would be on scant rations by this time, but Eben says not. According to his list, not one of 'em has lost weight, and they never were healthier or happier. He says the generality of folks eat too much and too expensively, and that we never can know how little is enough until we have put the question to the test."

"But most of our Bloomfield people do their fighting the high cost of living simply by word of mouth. That was what I found a lot of 'em doing when I stepped into Elias Peleg's provision store the other night. They weren't giving the monster a leg to stand on. They all agreed that it was unjust and outrageous and heartrending the way prices were mounting up, and that flesh and blood couldn't stand it much longer. Elias himself joined right in with the rest. He said 'I don't seem to see any sense in these prices, but what could he do?'"

"Just then old Peleg Dawes came to buy his Sunday dinner. I suppose he was the only one there that night who didn't say was actually feeling the pinch of poverty. He's past work with not much to do with, and it was kind of difficult to see him sitting out there after another and then taking his head. Finally he settled on half a pound of tripe."

"A good piece of tripe, properly cooked," says he, "goes about as well as anything, this time of year. Some calls it a little tough, but I tell you it's tougher where there's no meat in it."

"Have to pay pretty high for anything we get nowadays, Uncle Peleg," I says, as he started to go.

"After the old man had gone out, conversation seemed to take a different turn. I guess we had all been reminded that there are some things in the world a little more heartrending than the high cost of living in Bloomfield—YOUTH'S Companion."

Motorcycles in War.
From the arrival of the British expeditionary force in Belgium in the late summer of 1914 down to the present time the motorcycle has steadily gained in importance in different branches of the military service. Its use has been restricted to the allied armies. The best authorities place the number of motorcycles employed by the armies of the central powers at the time of the Battle of the Marne at 18,000. The British had at least 40,000 in service in the spring of 1915, while the French had about 11,000. The Italian forces up to present have 10,000 according to recent estimates, says Popular Science Monthly.

It has been figured that more than 750,000 motorcycles have been in use for military purposes by the belligerent powers since July 1914. This does not include those at present in the United States army service, for prior to our entrance in the great war the American army did not have more than perhaps 150 machines in all.

Pleasant Prospect.
"I say, Briggs—dine with me at my house tonight, will you?"

"With pleasure, old chap—but will your wife expect me?"

"No, that's the beauty of it. We had a quarrel this morning and I want to make her mad."—Boston Transcript.

Doubtful Penitence.
"So you found out for yourself that it was wrong to fight?"

"Yes," replied the boy with a bruised eye and swollen lip. "It was wrong for me; but it was all right for the other fellow."

SCALER MURCHIE'S EVIDENCE MAKES INTERESTING READING

responsibility under the oath, the witness said he regarded it as binding only for the season of 1908 when he was appointed. To the question whether under the oath of office it was his duty to make correct returns, he said he did for that season. He did not consider himself bound after that. He was reappointed seven or eight times but took the oath only once.

In his first season he said he scaled for the Prescott Lumber Company. He did not remember setting the returns with the manager, Robert L. Miles. He sent in a correct return without deductions. He denied that Mr. Miles gave him $100 to deduct stumpage. He had business dealings with Mr. Miles for supplying stuff. He often got $100 but did not ever get one on which payment was stopped. He would swear he never got any money for stumpage from any person except the government. He would not swear that his monthly reports were correct. He identified documents dated Feb. 5, 1913, as his estimate of lumber cut submitted to the department. It was not in evidence.

Murchie testified that he had sent in at least three reports of the cut. On the final return he did not remember if he reported that the Continental Lumber Company had cut any lumber on granted lands. With his faulty memory, the witness said, he would not question any other testimony given under oath. He could not fix the date when he prepared his final estimates.

Mr. LeBlanc put in evidence a monthly report of September, 1913, saying it was the only one sent in by the witness to the department. The witness said that he had not willfully destroyed his records; he had used them for other purposes or mislaid them.

He had taken no steps to learn the quantity of lumber cut by the Continental Lumber Company on granted lands. He took it into consideration in making his estimates by what he imagined. Regarding the time at which the Continental Lumber Company's scalers made their returns, he said it was after they scaled the logs. He could not swear on what date they made their returns, whether in April or May last year.

Regarding his affidavit that the scalers had made their returns at a certain time he said he presumed they had done so.

On re-examination by Mr. Baxter, he said he had not received from the company any list of those logging for them. He knew the boundaries of their operations by a plan sent him by the department. After the Richards and Continental companies became connected he returned the Richards operations with the Continental figures. This was the fourth time he had done so. He got his information of the cut by visiting the camp and asking who was cutting whose logs were.

Mr. Baxter said that the figures submitted by Purvis on Tuesday had shown a total of 6,764,000, not including the Richards cut.

The commissioner said that Murchie's so-called correct count was supposed to include the Richards cut of 1,169,000 feet and it totalled only 6,780,000 feet. There was a difference of 800,000 feet between Murchie's and the Purvis count.

The witness explained differences in individual accounts by saying that at times when he was checking them the logs from different camps were mixed. The commissioner drew attention to the report dated Feb. 5, 1917, for logs cut to Jan. 30, 1917, submitted by witness to the department. This showed a total cut of 5,116,000. In his final estimate this quantity was reduced by the witness' statement that the company had cut 500,000 on farmers' land.

Examined by Mr. Copp, Murchie said the form of oath was sent to him from Fredericton in 1908 when he was notified of his appointment. He went to work then and did not remember getting any other appointments since. He did not remember getting any instructions except the information on the head of the printed forms. He made his returns sometimes to the department, sometimes to the chief scaler. In the early period of his appointment the chief scaler was Bill Berry. He had made returns to him. There were on his area on crown lands only two large operators, the Prescott and the Continental companies. Last year there was also the River Lousion Company. He was paid for his services according to the amount of lumber he scaled. He considered it his duty to report on all the logs he could find. He could not find all. In 1908 he had no counters nor authority to employ them. He had counters at least 1914. He did what he could to the best of his ability to report on all the logs from the time he was appointed until he retired in 1917. On the question being repeated he said he would not swear to it.

Q.—Did you do so in any one year?
A.—I would not swear to it.

Q.—Would you swear to your report for 1908?
A.—So far as all I got I would not swear that I got all the logs.

The witness said he reported on all the logs he found until 1917, when he reduced the scale. In that year to his job he reduced the figures by 2,165,000. He did so at Mr. Currie's request. That was his only reason. During all the other years he had done his work conscientiously. He still thought that his oath of office was not binding after the first year. He never had been asked to reduce his scale by any government official or member. He was told by others who had been scalers that the government had not collected all the stumpage and he supposed that was to continue. On this account he did not try so hard to find all the logs as he might. He did not remember getting any instructions on this point.

In the season of 1917 he had one counter employed steadily. He did not keep his record books on file, but he kept a copy of his final reports. He carried the books around in his pockets until they got worn out. He kept memo of private business in them, but nothing important enough to make the books worth keeping.

To Mr. Baxter the witness said he was paid at first five cents a thousand, later seven cents a thousand. He had never been asked to send his books back to the department, but he sometimes did send them in the spring. This concluded Mr. Murchie's evidence and the court took recess for lunch.

Afternoon Session.

When the court resumed after the noon recess, Charles Purvis resumed the start to continue his evidence regarding the company's record of the cut. He said that the deductions made by the company from the cut of the contractors for culls, fir, etc., was about 4 1/2 per cent of the total. He went through his records and gave the amount deducted from each. The deductions totalled about 300,000 feet.

To Mr. Baxter he said they did not recognize or pay for anything measuring less than eight inches. He understood that the government limit for cutting was eight inches and up. They might get an old log under eight inches but not many.

Of the total cut witnesses said the might be more than sixty per cent. Cedar would not be more than twenty per cent of the total. Witness said he had been unable to find a copy of Murchie's estimate in the office. He had searched for it and asked Mr. Currie and the latter had advised him to find it. He did not know if such a document had been received but he then accountant had left the province since then.

Cut Below Estimate.

Cross-examined by Mr. LeBlanc, witness said the actual cut of the mill was usually below the estimate in some cases as much as twenty per cent. He thought the 1917 cut fell short of the estimate.

To Mr. Baxter he said he based his calculation on his knowledge of the mill and its product. The shrinkage was accounted for partly by defective logs and partly because the New Brunswick scale did not produce one thousand feet of lumber from the estimated 3,075,000 feet. He did most of the work himself. He could not swear that the actual run of the mill averaged thirty feet to the log. He thought the actual run would fall ten per cent below the scale. This was after the deduction that he found to that date. He went into the woods and estimated it. He was the only government scaler on the Culligan cut in Fredericton.

Witness was not jobbing for Culligan in 1916-17 or any other year and had no interest in any contract for cutting for them. He had been interested in the logging contract in the spring of 1916. He did not take the same steps with regard to final estimate as he did with the Continental Company. He could not say if the Culligan final estimates showed a decrease as did the Continental Company's. Outside of scaling his business was that of a farmer. He sold corn produce to the camp foreman.

To Mr. Baxter he said that he had received no request from the Culligans to reduce their estimate. Mr. LeBlanc—"It was not necessary, that was low enough already."

The court then adjourned to resume in Fredericton on Wednesday morning July 17.

Another session will be necessary, either in Campbellton or Moncton.

bluffs, had never counted, nor scaled any of his logs.

Henry Bernard, also a jobber, knew Murchie but had not seen him at his camp or at the camp of Alex. Bernard in which he worked. He did not know of Murchie counting, surveying or scaling any logs.

Mr. Baxter asked if it was not the idea that logs cut in March would not be counted by the government scaler. Witness did not know. He cut about 11,000 feet in March.

Joseph Pelletier, sworn, deposed that he knew Murchie. He had worked for his father who was a jobber for the Continental Company. He was in the woods from July to February but did not see Murchie there nor knew of him counting or scaling logs. He had seen McKay, the counter, there only once.

William Savoy testified that he was in the woods two and a half months but saw nothing of either Murchie or McKay.

Joe Francoeur was jobbing in the woods from October to March. He had never seen Murchie until he saw him in court, neither had he seen McKay.

Henry Diot had carried on jobbing from September to March. He knew Murchie but never had seen him at his camp. He himself only was in the camp about three weeks but he never heard of Murchie being there. Murchie went to his home after the work was through and asked how much he had cut. That was the only scaling had been carried on for twenty years back.

To Mr. Baxter witness said he settled with Mr. Currie on his count. To Mr. LeBlanc witness said Mr. Allan, the accountant, was there and did some of the talking.

The Counter's Testimony.

James A. McKay was the next witness. He knew Murchie. He was his scaler for 1916-17 and had went into the woods that season twice. He visited sixteen or seventeen camps, some of them twice. From his records he told of visiting ten camps on his first trip in November, he was in again in December. He came out with Jim Woods. He could not remember if he said to Woods that he had no count and did not know what to do nor that Woods suggested that he should go to the women and ask how much their husbands had cut. He might have asked the women in Balmoral but he had no doubt he did. He did not think he told Tom. Haynes that he had no books and no entry of any logs. If he said so he was not on his oath. He told Haynes that he was not in long enough to complete the count.

Francis Drapeau, who worked for Alex. Drapeau, a jobber, was in the woods from September to February. He did not see Murchie in the woods, he saw McKay.

Donat Drapeau, also worked for Alex. Drapeau, he never saw Murchie nor McKay in the woods.

Louis Drapeau, jobber, did not see Murchie nor McKay in the woods.

Daniel McAllister, justice of the peace, deposed that he administered the oath of office to Murchie in 1908.

On the latter occasion no one was present but he and Murchie. He had not talked of the affidavit with David Stewart, Charles Fenserson nor Arthur Culligan before it was signed but he might have done so afterwards. He was not in Dalhousie when the affidavit was being prepared.

Archibald Murchie, recalled and examined by Mr. Copp with regard to his estimate to the crown land office of February 5, 1917, said it showed an estimate of 3,075,000 feet. He did most of the work himself. He could not swear who he had helping him. He could not say if McKay helped him. That total constituted all the Culligan cut that he found to that date. He went into the woods and estimated it. He was the only government scaler on the Culligan cut in Fredericton.

Witness was not jobbing for Culligan in 1916-17 or any other year and had no interest in any contract for cutting for them. He had been interested in the logging contract in the spring of 1916. He did not take the same steps with regard to final estimate as he did with the Continental Company. He could not say if the Culligan final estimates showed a decrease as did the Continental Company's. Outside of scaling his business was that of a farmer. He sold corn produce to the camp foreman.

To Mr. Baxter he said that he had received no request from the Culligans to reduce their estimate. Mr. LeBlanc—"It was not necessary, that was low enough already."

The court then adjourned to resume in Fredericton on Wednesday morning July 17.

Another session will be necessary, either in Campbellton or Moncton.

FIRST NEWSPAPER IN BERLIN

In the Year 1661 a Weekly Journal Was Published, Edited by the Elector's Physician.

The first Berlin newspaper was printed in 1661 in the reign of the Elector of Brandenburg. The paper was edited by Cornelius Bontekoe, a Hollander, posted to the Elector. Robert Voelker and Elias Locker, booksellers, were privileged to sell the paper. It was a weekly and appeared Sunday morning. The booksellers would sell the papers, in winter before, and in summer after church, which was held in the open from May to September. Those of the young men who could not get a seat were allowed to climb in the trees to listen to the sermon.

With his wife, Louise, and the children and the household, the elector went regularly to church. He would, as a rule, remain standing, while the electress and children would occupy seats under the trees. After the closing prayer the newspaper sale commenced at the entrance gate. Rupert Voelker, bookdealer, to the elector, was allowed to give the elector a copy.

After church the electress and children would return to the palace, while the elector would enter a palanquin and be carried to the Lustgarten. There he would read the paper, and then give audience to artists and other learned men.

One Sunday a man was introduced who entertained the elector (who believed in the appearance of the devil in some form or another) with a story which had happened to a farmer at the Berlin gate.

"At the Berlin gate," he said, "the farmer's horses stopped suddenly. He left his wagon to coax them to go, but coaxing and cursing would not take them a step farther. The farmer turned his head and saw an ugly woman on his horse, blaspheming God and promising the farmer wealth. Then the farmer said: 'All good spirits! The woman did not move. The farmer got angry and said: 'Will you ride in Jesus name,' and the woman, the devil, vanished from the wagon."

The elector was greatly interested in the story and ordered the printer to have the story published in the next issue of the paper as a lesson to others not to be tempted by riches. Current news was also allowed to be published. Court functions and fables would find more favor with the Berliners.

A bookseller from Leipzig came to Berlin to publish a paper, which was promptly forbidden by the elector, who considered one newspaper sufficient for Berlin.

Wells Doesn't See It Through. An edifying little wrangle between Messrs. Wells and Jerome has been adorning the correspondence columns of the London Daily News. Mr. Jerome wrote something about a "League of Reason." Mr. Wells then added "stobbering with love and forgiveness about the neck of the Kaiser, the crown prince, Reventlow and the Krupp family."

Mr. Jerome, very naturally, retorted that he had done nothing of the sort, whereupon Mr. Wells criticised Mr. Jerome for holding opinions which Mr. Jerome subsequently stated he did not hold. After a few more interchanges of compliments the editor of our contemporary has printed a further letter of Mr. Jerome's.

In this letter he further remarks by Mr. Wells, with the intimation, "This correspondence is now closed." This embargo placed Mr. Wells in the unusual position of being unable to have the last word.

Mix Wood and Coal in Making Gas. At various points in Switzerland and France wood and sawdust are being mixed with coal in making gas, because of the shortage of fuel. For example, 10 per cent of sawdust is added to the coal in the vertical-bath retorts in Geneva, which as an alternative for the sawdust, logs are sometimes used. In such cases the retorts contain about 200 pounds of coal instead of 1,240 pounds. The acid products from the wood have caused some trouble because of corrosion, but this has been largely overcome by alternating charges of wood with charges of coal. In another Swiss city, 375 pounds of sawdust is mixed with 60 pounds of coal in retorts that usually take 600 pounds of coal—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

British Geological Pictures. A committee of the British Association for the Advancement of Science has been engaged for some time in forming a national collection of photographs illustrating the geology of the British Isles. According to the last report the collection now includes upward of 5,000 pictures. More than a thousand of these were taken in Yorkshire. A collection of the same character has been made by the geological survey of Great Britain, which has recently published a list of its Scottish pictures. Both the B. A. committee and the geological survey offer prints and lantern slides for sale, and printed lists of them are available. The Tunbridge Wells Natural History society offers prizes for photographs of scenery illustrating geological features.—Scientific American.

SHIGAWAKE, P. Q.

Pte. Lewis Allan of Shigawake, P. Q. has written the following interesting letter to his mother at Shigawake, telling how he was wounded.

Netley, Hants, June 10th, 1918.

Dear Parents:— Just a few lines to let you know how I am getting along. I am still in bed, but hope to get up tomorrow, if nothing happens, my wounds are all healed but I am weak from the shock and loss of blood as I was three hours before my wounds were dressed and so lost a lot of blood. I was out on a night patrol, so had to crawl back with my leg dragging after me, but it is alright now, as you know I was not hit as badly as I, wanted to crawl with me on his back, but I had sense enough left to know he could not do it, so he kept on for help. I was found at five o'clock in the morning and he has not turned up yet. He was the finest fellow in the world and we were chums for two years. I hope he is not a prisoner for one is better dead.

What a slaughter of good men this is. There were 10 of us that night and only two came back, two killed and six wounded. I was lucky after 18 months? I have seen enough of that, and all I want now is my ticket to Canada. Guess I did my bit for the family, was over the top three times and saw some awful sights, but always came out on top for you know the Canadian never had a failure and I was always there to answer roll call.

Now Mother it seems long since I had a letter from home, but moving around so much I have missed my mail but I don't think I am getting some. I am good for three months in Blighty, and will be moved to a Canadian Hospital as soon as I am able, and then to Canada if I can make it at all.

In this Hospital they are all Imperials, except an Ontario boy and myself. You have my address as I wrote before and the Red Cross wrote for me. They are very good.

Your loving son, LEWIS ALLAN.

A CONVERTED AUTOMOBILE. No, I'm not a Ford. I'm a big red auto, and if I had my way, every car would be red. It's such an inviting color, and when I speed up, and go through the country like a streak, there is something sublime about me. An auto should suggest the power and joyous abandon of life, anyway. I'm a high-powered car, of classy model, and paid for without a mortgage, and what's more, I go to church regularly, as every decent, self-respecting car should.

I didn't always go, but I've reformed. When my owner first got me, he could hardly wait until Sunday came. He was up at six, tuning me up, and getting ready for a run in the country, for fishing, golf, or a picnic. He generally invited some other church members, so as to be social; yet the day's pleasure always ended with a question mark—was that really the best use to which I could be put on the best day of the week?

Coming home one Sunday from a fishing trip, I was caught in a rain-storm without chains. I skidded on the country road (I didn't mean to), and slipped over a bank, and pitched the whole party out. Fortunately, no one was hurt, but my owner was badly shaken. He was quite sober and his only remark on the way home was, "Thankful I didn't break my fool neck."

Next Sunday he surprised me by going to church. The service must have gripped him, for I heard him say to the Missus: "We've missed a whole lot recently, haven't we?"

Now, every Sunday I go to church loaded, picking up tired women and children taking old people home from service, and shut-ins out for a ride in the afternoon, if the weather is pleasant. I am having the time of my life, and have begun to believe that even an auto can have "a conscience void of offense toward God and man."

There may be no such word as fail, still it's a dead waste of time to look for compressed air in a busted tire.

Active Movement in Tartis. Young Tommy returned from school in tears and nursing a black eye. "I'll pay Billy Dabbs off for this in the morning!" he yelled to his mother.

"No, no," she said. "You must return good for evil. I'll make you a nice jam tart and you must take it to Billy and say: 'Mother says I must return good for evil, so here's a tart for you.'"

Tommy demurred, but finally consented. The next evening he returned in a worse plight and sobbed: "I gave Billy the tart and told him what you said, and then he blacked my other eye and says you're to send him another tart tomorrow."

VICTORY LOAN BOND COUPONS ARE PAYABLE SEMI-ANNUALLY. Ottawa, July 16.—It has been brought to the attention of the minister of finance that many of the holders of the victory loan bonds, particularly of small amounts, are not aware that coupons are payable semi-annually and consequently have not cashed them. The finance department points out that the first coupon was due and payable on June 1st. The coupon should be detached and presented at any chartered bank for payment.

DO NOT NEGLECT YOUR EYES

We hear much of people who sacrifice everything to sartorial splendor. They would go without dinner every day for a new pair of shoes.

Sacrificing health for appearance is not good policy—it does not make for health a real happiness.

Not only do you squint and frown when you neglect your eyes, but you seriously injure your health.

Better have a careful examination made.
