DISTRICT AND GENERAL

Thursday, Nov. 30, will be Thanksgiving Day in the United States.

The population of London, England, is now 7,460,000, the highest on record.

St. Thomas Horticultural Society has planted 13,000 bulbs for the coming year.

A Terre Haute, Ind., woman left $6,000 to the postman in her neighborhood for his many courtesies.

Right Honorable Andrew Bonar Law, the new Prime Minister of Great Britain, is a native born Canadian.

It is estimated that about 650 tons of sugar beets will be shipped from Dutton this season to the Dominion Refinery at Chatham.

The death occurred at the residence of Daniel Gray, con. 14, Aldborough, on Monday, Nov. 13, of Miss Mary Campbell, aged 91 years.

Manuel Hernandez, a laborer, fell ten storeys down an elevator shaft at Dallas, Tex., landed in a wheelbarrow of mortar, stepped out unhurt and resumed work.

E. V. Thornicroft, of Appin, has sold the old Baskerville home on Dominion street, Strathroy, to L. Thomas, of Adelaide. Consideration in neighborhood of $4,000.

The telephone rates of the Alisa Craig, Parkhill and Arkona rural lines are to be increased to $18 per year, when it is expected that a continual service will be established.

Two men, who gave their names as Charles Fisher and B. L. Hornick, were arrested at Thamesville charged with stealing thirty-three geese from farmers in the neighborhood. They pleaded guilty and were remanded for a week.

Two years ago Pete Pellos, railroad section foreman at Toledo, O., withdrew his life's savings from the bank and buried it in an earthen jar. Last week he dug it up and found nothing but a worthless mass of bill fragments, chewed by worms.

The cost of conducting a newspaper is somewhat staggering, as the U.F.O. is finding out. In a recent statement we read that $7,000 net was paid for support of the newspaper and $10,000 more will be required for the same purpose before the end of the year.

Four prominent citizens of Tillsonburg and Brownsville were fined $20 and costs each for participating in a raffle for turkeys. When the house in which the raffle was held was raided by the police the ringleaders escaped, but nine turkeys were seized.

Realizing the value of music in the general scheme of education, the school board of Milwaukee has set aside $5,400 to try out a plan recommended by the city's supervisor of music. The plan involves the instruction of pupils in the instruments of the orchestra.

Fire early Wednesday morning of last week completely destroyed the home of Ex-Chief Albert Tobias on the Moravian reserve. Tobias and family escaped and saved most of their furniture but were left with only the clothing they were clothed in at the time.

Fire completely destroyed Archie McLachlan's fine large barn north of Alvinston about 9 o'clock one morning recently. The barn was full of hay and grain. There was an insurance of about $750 on the building and contents. The fire originated in the hay mow from some unknown cause.

Amherstburg municipal nominations are to be held on Monday, Nov. 27th, with election a week later. This is a month earlier than usual, and means that, taking advantage of an amendment to the Municipal Act, the turmoil incident to a municipal election has been moved away from the Christmas holidays.

While in the office of Dr. A. D. Graham, at Bothwell, waiting to be examined Monday afternoon, Thomas Johnston of Shetland, died of heart failure. He had been feeling ill, and after loading a number of hogs he had brought in to ship, went to the doctor's office, but expired before the latter had seen him.

Manufacturers of illicit booze in the St. Thomas district are reported to have developed their trade to the point where they are using cleverly faked labels and seals and are sending out imitations of the finest imported liquors which have fooled even the old timers. A former St. Thomas hotel proprietor reported seeing samples that are declared to be perfect reproductions of the genuine stuff.

MELBOURNE SCHOOL OPENED

Splendid New Building Replaces One Destroyed by Fire

Melbourne, Nov. 21.—The event which has been looked forward to with much interest by the pupils of this community for months took place Friday evening, when the new school was opened by a grand concert.

The school is a beautiful four-room structure, with two cloak rooms, teachers' room, etc., and with a large basement, one large room fitted up for concert hall, gymnasium and recreation room with stage, and two furnace rooms in which running water is installed. It was built at a cost of $20,000. Special mention might be made of one of the school rooms to be used for chemistry. The enclosures fill the entire space between the two doors opening into the hall and consist of drawers and cupboards, with glass doors arranged in various compartments. The workmanship, done by the village carpenter, John Kain, is beyond criticism and was admired by the many visitors who came to visit and view the new school. The large windows, supplying the rooms with ample light, are arranged for ventilation also. The entire building is lighted with hydro and makes a brilliant display owing to the many large windows which reach to the roof of the building.

The architect for this splendid building, of which any town larger than Melbourne might be proud, was Mr. Murray, of London. The trustees, upon whom the weight of the responsibility rested, are Dr. Dewar, Thomas Carruthers, Mac. McGowan, and William Laing, secretary. Mr. McEachern, of Alvinston, was the contractor. The principal of the school is Mr. Mark, of Parkhill; Miss Waters, of Mount Brydges, assistant, and Miss McNabb, public school teacher.

Friday was a happy day for the students, many of them assisting during the afternoon to arrange the concert hall and move into the new building. A Heintzman piano purchased by the literary society was installed and is a splendid instrument, much superior in quality to the majority of pianos used in schools.

The concert hall was decorated in red, white and blue, the color making a grand display under the brilliant lighting. Addresses were given by V. K. Greer, senior school inspector, of London; Mr. McEachern, of London Normal School, and Rev. Dr. Brown, pastor of the Methodist church here. The Laughton orchestra furnished music for the occasion, while the Galt Maple Leaf Quartette delighted the audience with their various numbers. Andrew McLaughlin, of London, the well-known violinist, and a former Melbourne young man, kept up his reputation by the splendid selections given. The pupils of the school did their part by giving the opening numbers. The proceeds amounted to $180, which will be used for school purposes.

Monday morning the electric bell called the students to the new edifice of learning.

ORATORICAL CONTEST

J. G. Lethbridge, M. P. P. for West Middlesex, is offering a silver medal for the best debating society in each township in the riding. The contest is to be worked out in each township separately. The following persons have been appointed directors for the organization work, etc., in each township:—Lobo, John McGowan, Denfield, Delaware, Duncan Gordon, Southwold Station, Caradoc, Allan McDougald, Strathroy, Ekfrid, Arthur Ash, Appin; Moss, Miss Margaret Webster, Glencoe.

This contest can take the form of public speaking or debating, as thought best by each township.

The Department of Agriculture has issued a very helpful bulletin, No. 290, on the Rural Literary and Debating Society, which can be had by writing the department. This bulletin will be found of great assistance in organizing and conducting a society.

TUXIS BOYS' MOVEMENT

Rev. Mr. Whitehall, Don H. Love, Leslie Reeves and Delbert Hicks attended the co-operative leaders and older boys' conference for the counties of Elgin and Middlesex, held in the Central Methodist church, St. Thomas, on Nov. 18, under the auspices of the Boys' Movement and Tuxis Boys of the various churches of Canada, which is a four-fold program under the Canada Standard Efficiency Training. At the Saturday conference Leslie Reeves was elected member for Middlesex county to the Boys' Provincial Parliament which assemblies at Toronto in December. Glencoe has one large Tuxis Square so far in connection with the Methodist church, the officers of which are: Hon. pretor, Will Gardiner; pretor, Leslie Reeves; deputy, Art. Trestant; scriptor, Delbert Hicks; comptor, Blake Tomlinson; mentor, Don H. Love. The hearty co-operation of the men of Glencoe is asked for in boosting the boys' movement in Glencoe's three churches.

COULTHARD—URQUHART

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Urquhart was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, Nov. 15, at 3 o'clock, when their daughter, Edith, became the bride of Alex. Coulthard, son of Mrs. Robert Coulthard. Their pastor, Rev. C. H. Cooke, performed the ceremony and Miss Elizabeth Hosson, of Alisa Craig, cousin of the groom, played the wedding march. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a gown of white silk crepe de chene trimmed with pink crepe de chene and radium lace. She also wore the customary bridal veil and orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and carnations. After the ceremony the guests, numbering about thirty, partook of a bounteous wedding dinner.

The happy couple left amid good wishes and showers of confetti for Grimsby, Niagara Falls and Toronto, the bride travelling in a suit of navy blue broadcloth with hat to match. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm in South Ekfrid.

JUDGING TEAMS VISIT EKFRID

The junior farmers' stock judging teams of West Middlesex and Elgin visited Ekfrid township last week and called to see different herds and flocks and judge classes, in preparation for the Royal Fair in Toronto this week. The West Middlesex team was led by District Representative R. A. Finn, and C. W. Buchanan, district representative of Elgin, led the Elgin team.

They first visited and judged the fine herd of Hereford cattle owned by A. E. Perry & Son. They next stopped at Duncan Johnson's, where classes of Oxford Down sheep were judged, and from there to D. A. Campbell's farm, where his flock of Lincoln sheep were looked over and judged.

The above mentioned district representatives, with their team of five boys in each, left on Monday for the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto, where the teams will compete in the inter-county stock judging competition.

BOTHWELL HOTEL BURNED

The old Brunswick Hotel at Bothwell, owned by Chas. McDonald was destroyed by fire early Tuesday morning. There was no insurance. The building was used for storage purposes by several parties who lost merchandise and furniture totalling about $8,000, with some insurance.

HIGH SCHOOLS ORGANIZE

Will Arrange Competitions in Oratory, Debating, Athletics, Etc.

About two years ago the idea was conceived of forming a Western Ontario Secondary Schools Association, comprising all secondary schools as far east as Guelph, west as Windsor and north as Georgian Bay. The purpose of the organization is to foster and encourage clean competition in oratory, debating, basketball, football and field track events. As this territory included a large number of schools it was necessary that they be re-grouped in districts, of which there are at present ten. It has been felt by those interested that in the system adopted by our local high school and others of this district athletics have not been conducted along lines best suited to the interests of the pupils. Accordingly on Saturday morning, Nov. 18, representatives from Wardsville, Rodney and West Lorne secondary schools met at the local high school for the purpose of organizing this district. The meeting was addressed by Principal E. A. Miller, of the South London Collegiate, president of the W. O. S. S. A., and Dr. George A. Smith, secretary, who is also physical director of Western University.

The following officers were elected for this district:—President, C. G. Yorke, Glencoe; vice-president, J. Milner, West Lorne; secretary-treasurer, Miss M. C. Farrington, Wardsville. Executive committee to consist of a teacher and pupil from each school.

This executive will arrange for all competitions among schools of this district. It is expected that one real result of this organization will be the abolition of so many field days and the establishing of one central meet. Dutton and Alvinston have also been invited to become members of this organization.

BIBLE SOCIETY MEETING

The annual meeting of the Glencoe branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society was held in the lecture room of the Presbyterian church on Friday evening, Rev. D. G. Paton, president, occupied the chair and opened the meeting with devotional exercises, after which Rev. Mr. Whitehall led in prayer. Mrs. J. N. Currie and Mrs. A. E. Sutherland favored the audience with a vocal duet which was much appreciated. The secretary, Miss Mollie I. Tait, read the minutes of the last annual meeting, and Dr. J. Y. McLachlan gave the treasurer's report.

Last year the contribution was $113.80, but this year canvassers were appointed and it was very gratifying to learn that this was the society's banner year, $148.75 having been collected, with some of the list yet to be handed in.

Rev. R. J. Bowen, F.R.G.S., gave a talk on the work of the Bible Society. The Bible is now printed in hundreds of tongues and there is a request for it in forty new languages. Out of every $1,000 expended for missionary purposes, $100 had to be spent in Bibles. In answer to the query as to why the society was called British and Foreign, Mr. Bowen stated that it was British in assets and Foreign in expenditure. He then proceeded with an illustrated lecture, showing slides he had received from the Royal Geographical Society at London. The majority of the pictures shown were of Northern British Columbia and the Yukon, where he had toiled for years in the Master's service along with Dr. Grant.

The following officers were elected for 1923:—President, A. B. McDonald; vice-presidents—Revs. Paton, Whitehall and Williams; treasurer, Dr. J. Y. McLachlan; secretary, Miss M. I. Tait; committee—Mrs. Paton, Mrs. Whitehall, Mrs. Williams, W. D. Moss, W. A. Hagerty, J. N. Currie, Dr. R. J. Mumford, J. G. Lethbridge, Alex. McAlpine and James Poole.

ERIN DENUDED OF HER WEALTH

BY THE LAWLESSNESS OF OPPOSING FACTIONS.

Estates Which Were Model Farms Sink Into Decay or Are Broken Up.

A leading Dublin auctioneer said the other day that all the furniture vans in London were booked up for the next nine months for the removal of furniture and property belonging to people of wealth and culture who are clearing out of Ireland. The phrase was perhaps intended to be more arresting than literally true, but it hits off an aspect of the present state of Ireland which is a source of grief and anxiety to all thinking people.

"Ireland will be the finest country in the world to live in," said Lord Granard last December, when, on reaching New York, he was told that a peace treaty had been signed. Within twelve months of the time Lord Granard was in the world to get out of, Lord Granard, himself, has so far escaped the fate of so many other owners of property, whose mansions have been burned down or whose lives have been made miserable by the war conditions of the last four months. Both he and Lady Granard are greatly attached to their Irish home, which, in its way, rivals their beautiful mansions in London and Paris. They have spent enormous sums in beautifying it, bringing over French and Italian artists and workmen to carry out special schemes of decoration.

Disappointed Highest Hopes.
Lord Laeselles and Princess Mary were the guests of Lord and Lady Granard in Paris on their way back from their honeymoon in Italy, and the Ireland which he visualized in his statement in New York was a land in which there would be work and plenty for all and in which the amenities of life could be enjoyed to the fullest. Lord Laeselles also is known to have cherished similar hopes and to have looked forward to spending many pleasant days in his Irish home in Portlanna, in County Galway. The present state of Ireland affords little encouragement that these hopes will be realized.

The country is devastated by a war the intensity of which is not understood outside the shores of Ireland and the full significance of which is not understood in Ireland itself. During the closing stages of the Anglo-Irish war a few castles and mansions were destroyed in retaliation for the destruction of shops or dwelling houses of republicans and as a means of checking attacks on the property of non-combatants. The castles and mansions belonged to those who in other days described themselves as "England's faithful garrison in Ireland," and the burning of them had an influence in moderating the attacks on the property of republicans. The present Irish government is a government of Sinn Féiners, with no associations, direct or indirect, with the owners of the castles or mansions, and they do not feel in the same way as former rulers did about the burning of fine buildings and antique furniture heirlooms and works of art which cannot be replaced.

Life Reduced to Dead Level.
In any case, they are powerless to prevent such destruction, and if the war goes on much longer on its present lines the Ireland of the immediate future will be a drab country, with all the fine residences gone and nothing left but farmsteads, laborers' cottages and public houses and towns and villages in a state of decay.

It is one of the paradoxes of Irish life that among republicans there are many who dislike this prospect. There are very few Red Republicans in Ireland, very few who would deny the advantage to the country of a cultured leisure class who would add to the variety of life and bring independent judgment to bear on local and national affairs. But that class is disappearing at the rate of a hunt, as they say in Ireland. Those whose property has not been destroyed are selling out and going to live in England. Their estates and gardens, which were model farms for neighboring farmers, where experiments with the latest machinery and with seeds and breeds of cattle were carried out and which employment given, will become derelict or be broken up into small holdings making for dead-level uniformity throughout agricultural Ireland, like the industrial uniformity of Lurgan or Portadown.

Safety Valves for Faucets of Gasoline-Tank Trucks.

Now that the tank truck is the general mode of transporting gasoline, and other volatile fluids, it is of importance to have safeguarding appliances in case of accident. One of such appliances is for preventing the discharge of the gasoline from a tank in case of damage by collision, or otherwise, to its faucet. Besides the ordinary poppet valve in the faucet, there is an auxiliary safety valve which is operated normally by an extension of the plunger rod on which the faucet valve is mounted. Should the faucet be broken this safety valve automatically closes.

RICH, RED BLOOD NECESSARY TO HEALTH

Weak, Watery Blood Needs a
Tonic to Build it Anew.

Why are we continually told that health-giving blood must be bright red? What has color to do with quality? Just this—the oxygen. In the air is the great supporter of all organic life. One function of the blood is to take the oxygen from the air—which it meets in the lungs and delivers to the tissues of the body. When the blood, filled with life-sustaining oxygen, is sent out by the heart, it is bright red. When it returns, impure and deprived of oxygen it is dark.

You will see, therefore, that there are two prime requisites of health, pure air and bright red blood—the pure air to furnish the oxygen, the rich red blood to carry it where it is needed.

Pale, anaemic people, whose nerves are on edge, who tire out easily, and who suffer from frequent headaches, do so because their blood is thin and watery. All such people can improve their condition through a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which enrich the blood, thus enabling it to carry oxygen to the system. Among those who have benefited from the use of this medicine is Mr. Charles A. Stayer, Glenholme, N. S., who says: "Some four years ago I found myself badly run down. I tired very easily, and found it difficult to do my work. My appetite failed and I slept badly at night. I was taking medicine, but it was not helping me, and I was growing weaker and weaker. A friend who called to see me advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I got six boxes and before these were done I felt better. Then I got six more boxes, and after taking them felt as well and strong as ever. Four years have passed since that time, and I have continued in good health and working all the time. I have recommended these pills to others and shall continue to do so."

These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Butcher's Boy Reads History.

The subject in English history was the reign of Richard I. One of the pupils, says a Canadian correspondent, writing of his boyhood days in England, had begun to read: "The king set sail with five thousand knights and a thousand squires together with several thousand archers and footmen."

He had got as far as that when the master interrupted him sharply. "Spell those words, 'knives' and 'squires'!"

"Knights" and "squires" was the reply.

Then with a swish the cane descended on the boy's shoulders as the master gave him the correct pronunciation. Had the master's bump of humor been more fully grown, the fact that the boy was the son of a village butcher might have saved him from a caning.

The same boy, who appeared to have an unhappy faculty for misreading words, was responsible for a whole page in his copy book that read: "Hop on; hop over." Instead of "Hop on; hope over," which was at the top of the pages. And again the cane descended.

In Russia it costs more than twice as much to subscribe for a magazine for two months as it does for one month. The publishers have to make allowance for the expected depreciation of the ruble.

The Sunday Law—What? Why?

Dr. J. G. Shearer, Secretary Social Service Council of Canada.

The official title of our Sunday law is The Lord's Day Act. It is not an ancient statute. It is very modern, both in time and nature. It came into force March 1st, 1907. It was passed in 1906 by the Parliament of Canada after months of careful and thorough discussion by both Houses, and after dealing with every conceivable objection from the viewpoints of industry, business, pleasure, as well as from non-Christian and seventh-day Sabatarian religion. The work was well done. Not a single amendment has been made to it since.

Its object was to conserve as a national heritage the weekly day of rest from toil, of industrial liberty and of opportunity for self-culture and worship.

It does not aim to regulate the observance of the day in a religious objection which must be voluntary—but simply to preserve the day as the inalienable right to every person. The law of nature imperatively requires one day's rest in every seven in the interests of health, efficiency, and life to a normal age. It is not therefore imposed on human nature. It is written in our members. It is an inward law which we violate at our personal peril and at the sacrifice of national welfare.

It is a social law. It seeks to protect all toilers in their liberty. It calls for the observance of the Golden Rule, "Do unto others as ye would that they should do unto you." It calls for the exercise of self-denial therefore wherever this is necessary in order not to take away or menace our neighbor's right to his rest day.

It recognizes also that "the liberty of rest for each demands the law of rest for all." Rest for all must be compulsory in order that rest for each may be possible. There is no other way. Excepting only works of "necessity and mercy," all business, all buying and selling is forbidden. The same applies to all labor in one's own calling, or in any other line for gain. If men may work, greed will compel them to work. Even foods may not be sold on that day excepting only for consumption on the premises. Otherwise the baker and the grocer and their employees would be compelled to forego their rest day that others might be saved from having to think ahead and to purchase in advance what they will need on Sunday. So with the sale of news, tobacco, cigars, etc.

But what of pleasure? Why should we not be able to take such pleasure as we think wise on Sunday? The Sunday law of Canada does not forbid pleasure in itself in any form but only such pleasure as becomes a business and involves labor on the part of others, and therefore robbing these others of their rest-day, rights that we ourselves prize so highly. Golf is lawful, but not employing clerks. Ball for the mere fun of it is allowed, but not professional ball where an admission fee is charged and it is made a business. This is the Sunday law of Canada. In some of the Eastern Provinces the old Provincial laws forbid all "noisy games," but not the Lord's Day Act of Canada.

It is lawful to toboggan or sleigh ride down any hillside on Sunday, but not to operate municipal slides that involve the employment of labor for their operation. It is lawful to skate but not to run a commercial skating rink; to bathe but not to run bathing pavilions involving employment or service. Thus the principle of not robbing others of their rest day in order to permit our indulgence in pleasures or mere luxuries or conveniences runs throughout the law. Is it not reasonable? Is it not right? Is it not essential to the largest measure of rest-day liberty to the greatest number of people? Is it not fair and just thus to limit the liberty of some for the sake of the larger liberty of all.

The law also generously interprets "works of necessity and mercy." Conveying travellers and mails is permitted but not public excursions for pleasure, run for gain. The restaurant may operate but not the saloon or theatre or picture show, for these "unnecessarily" involve the labor of others. The druggist may sell medicines and appliances "for the relief of sickness and suffering," but only for this purpose, and he may not sell cigars, tobacco and other sundries that it is customary for druggists to handle.

When the object and underlying principles of this law are understood, no good citizen, no one who respects his neighbor's rights and society's welfare will either violate its provisions or complain of its restrictions. It is wholesome. It is liberty-conserving. It is worth while. It is essential to the general good.

GUARD THE BABY AGAINST COLDS

To guard the baby against colds nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are a mild laxative that will keep the little one's stomach and bowels working regularly. It is a recognized fact that where the stomach and bowels are in good order that colds will not exist; that the health of the little one will be good and that he will thrive and be happy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Spool of Thread Paid Rent.
A poor seamstress in Celie, near Hanover, received the bill for her quarterly rent, 250 marks, says a Berlin despatch. She had no money with which to meet the bill, and walked home in despair. Suddenly she saw a spool of thread in a window. The price per spool had just been moved up to meet the new drop of the mark.

She returned home and took from the little stock, bought long ago, a spool of sewing cotton. Timidly she tendered it to the landlord in lieu of her rent. He accepted it gladly and gave her ten marks change.

The King's Perquisites.

King George would soon have a strange collection of rather useless odds and ends if he insisted upon claiming what is his by law.

During the Norman period, it was decreed that every whale or sturgeon caught off the coast of the British Isles should become the property of the Sovereign.

The whale's head was given to his consort so that a sufficient supply of corset-bones was assured.

This strange law is still in force, although, of course, it is now merely an interesting relic of early days.

Thirty Years Of Trouble Is Now Ended

"For the past thirty years," said Mrs. Malvina O'Dess, of 1089 Ethel St., Verdun, P.Q., "I have hardly seen a well day. I seemed to suffer from almost everything, indigestion, headaches, nervousness, loss of appetite and even the little I managed to eat bloated me all up with gas until I could hardly breathe. I was so restless I could scarcely sleep, and I would get up mornings so tired and dizzy it was all I could do to get around. I was simply in a miserable condition, and nothing I took seemed to do me any good."

"I heard so much good about Tanlac that I made up my mind to try it, and I'm pleased to say that it has only taken five bottles to make me feel like an entirely different person. My appetite is so good now that I can hardly get enough to eat and my troubles have all disappeared so that I'm feeling just fine all the time. Younger, I feel every bit of twenty years whither and can never praise Tanlac enough for the good health it has given me."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. Advt.

The Wood Road.

If I were to walk this way
Hand in hand with Grief,
I should mark that maple-spray
Coming into leaf.
I should note how the old burrs
Rot upon the ground.
Yes, though Grief should know me here
While the world goes round.
It could not in truth be said
This was lost on me:
A rock-maple showing red;
Bursts beneath a tree.

Aunt Jane Was Her Daddy.

It was the first day of school and the teacher was taking the names of the children, those of their fathers and the business of each one. Small Lucy gave her name and that of her father, but hesitated and became silent when it came to his business. Urged by the teacher, she blushing said: "He is Aunt Jane that does the woman's page and the beauty column of the Daily News."

Minard's Liniment Co., Ltd., Halifax, N. S.
Gentlemen—I have used Minard's Liniment and have found it a good remedy. After the explosion I was pretty well shaken up, having quite a number of bruises and cuts, but thanks to Minard's Liniment I am my old self again. It healed the sores and bruises and gave me much relief. It is true to its name as the King of Pain, for it stopped the pain almost at once. I first noticed the effect in the Montreal Standard and decided to invest in a bottle, for which I am not sorry, but can say with truth that I am positively cured. That is my view of it, and I think you will agree with me too. Yours very truly,

Influencing Children in Music Appreciation.

What is the effort of the public school music teacher to-day? Is it to teach the children to sing, even though they do not appreciate what they are singing? No. Then what is it? It is to develop music appreciation, for without that there is no interest, and the music they are taught goes no further than the school room.

It is music appreciation that makes a musical nation, and how are we getting this musical appreciation? This is just what the school music supervisors have been devoting their time to. They have found that the child needs to hear good music, so they give lots of good music in the schools by means of the phonograph.

Every child in Canada should be brought into very close touch with the finest kind of music, and this can only be done through the influence of the parents and the school board authorities.

No Cheating.

A pedestrian was travelling in the North of Ireland.

He had been tramping all day, and about one hour previously had been told it was only one mile to the next village. He must have walked at least three miles since then, and still there was no sign of the village.

Of the next son of old Erin of whom he inquired, he was told that the village was only a quarter of a mile down the road.

He explained how an hour ago he was told that he had one mile to traverse, and asked how it was that the Irish miles were so much longer than the English ones.

"Why, you see, your honor," replied the Irishman, "that our roads are not in very good condition just now, so we give people very good measure."

MOTHER!

Open Child's Bowels with
"California Fig Syrup"

Hurry mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful to-day may prevent a sick child to-morrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

BUILD UP THE SMALL TOWNS

It is high time that all of us paid more attention to the building up of the little town and less to making the overgrown city larger. The little town is home—or should be. It needs our support and we are the people who must give it life and power if it is to have either. The big city cares nothing for us. It will if it can pull our dollars away and lure our boys and girls into its whirlpool, but that is the only use it has for us. The little town needs us and we need it. Hall's Corners may not make as large a dent on the map as New York, but it really means more to us, and we ought to help make it something to be proud of. Why not get over the idea that the bright future of America lies in the great cities? It does not. The future which lies in the cities is shopworn, smoked, dirty and unclean. The true future lies in the country and in the little towns. Back them up and make them grow.—Rural New Yorker.

FARMERS BANK WAS FIFTY FEET FROM SUCCESS

Fifty feet from where the Farmers Bank operations on the Keeley Silver Mine stopped, a silver vein a foot wide and returning 2,000 ounces has been found. Thus the property that was one of the main causes of the wrecking of the bank came that near to being a success. Two weeks' work would have opened up this silver, according to information given the Northern Miner.

The Farmers Bank scandal is one of the black spots in Canada's banking history. The fall of the institution was a great scandal. One man, Travers, drew a prison term. A large amount of the bank's funds were lost in the effort to make the Keeley mine. Then came the crash. Today the West Australian Mining Co., an English concern, is taking bonanza silver out of the property. The bank people were certainly on the right track in their gamble with the bank's funds and a very short period of continued operations would, the results being achieved now show, have saved the bank and saved hundreds of thousands, saying nothing of the profits that would have been made and are being made today.—Financial Post.

J. J. Morrison, secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario, repeated his conviction to an Orillia audience last week that the day of the two-party system is over. He referred to Hon. Mr. Crerar's resignation of the Progressive leadership as only an incident, and said that movement would proceed on its course. "If Mr. Crerar returns to private life and the United Grain Growers' business, that is his business. We are sorry but can't complain. If he returns to the Liberal party his future is easily written, and the cause he is trying to serve, honestly I believe, will not be benefited," declared Mr. Morrison.

While Laverne Boemer was threshing near Drumbo, a large barley fork went through the machine. It loosened and broke nearly every tooth in the cylinder and broke the concaves and shakers.

It is not often a newspaper editor has testimonials showered on him. He doesn't ask for them. He is generally satisfied if a few of his readers drop in once a year and pay in advance. The editor of a Western paper felt so good recently over a short eulogy he couldn't keep it from his readers. Here it is: "After reading your paper for two years, we've had twins at our home last night. Please do not send the paper any more, as I am a poor man and can't afford to raise a large family."

DISTRIBUTION OF GRAIN

A free distribution of superior sorts of grain will be made during the coming winter to Canadian farmers by the Cereal division of the Experimental Farms Branch, Ottawa. The samples will consist of spring wheat (about 5 lbs.), white oats (about 4 lbs.), barley (about 5 lbs.), field peas (not garden peas—about 5 lbs.), field beans (about 2 lbs.), flax for seed and flax for fibre (about 2 lbs.).

The cereal division of the Experimental Farms Branch has improved many of the old varieties of grain and introduced many new varieties. The best of them have been multiplied and propagated under direct supervision of responsible officers on the experimental farms both east and west. This seed will form the bulk stock from which the various samples will be taken. The seed is therefore the purest and best that is obtainable. Of some of the more recent introductions there is only a limited supply, so it would be advisable to apply as soon as possible for these.

Among the grains for distribution will be found the Liberty hullless oat, an oat that is excellent for human use, and to a limited extent for young livestock. Among the wheats the most outstanding for distribution will be the Ruby wheat, a wheat that ripens from eight to ten days earlier than Marquis and is suitable for districts where Marquis is not early enough. This year among the barleys will be found the Charlottetown No. 80. This is a two-rowed barley that has a tendency to drop its awns. The supply of this variety is very limited. We hope also to distribute Himalayan barley, a hullless variety which is a good yielder and suitable for young livestock. There will be only one variety of peas for distribution, namely Mackay Ottawa 25, which is a main crop pea and not suited to districts where early frosts occur.

The object of the distribution is two-fold. First, that the farmer may get a small sample of good seed to start his seed plot; second, that the cereal division may find out how their improved grains will behave under various conditions of soil and climate. Therefore it is necessary that all the information asked for on the application form should be fully given. This also holds true with the report forms which each man is asked to fill out after he has grown the sample.

Application must be made on a printed form which will be supplied by the Cereal Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. (No postage is required on letters so addressed.) No application forms will be supplied after Feb. 15, 1923. Farmers are advised to send at once for forms in order not to be disappointed, as in some cases the stock is limited. The allotment of samples will be made in order of application. Only one sample will be sent to a farm.

Alaska's University.

When a man who is a "born leader" goes into a new country he must develop versatility or get out. For example, John Straehan came to Upper Canada to open a school, but found no opportunity to do so until forty years later, when he did found Upper Canada College. Adapting himself to the circumstances, young Straehan passed the intervening generation very busily in creating a church. From schoolmaster he became priest and bishop. Similarly, Charles E. Bunnell went to Alaska to serve as circuit judge. That was in 1915. For seven years that was his field, but the need for a university up there became more clamant and now the judge has raked up his ancient degree of master of arts and with that handle to his name as sufficient academic title is organizing the "farthest north university in the world," situated at Fairbanks, Alaska, northern terminus of the newly-constructed Alaskan Railway. The new president held his first commencement recently and it was a real commencement, not an annual closing misnamed "commencement day."

Having traveled by canoe and dog train and any other odd way up and down the vast territory for seven years, President Bunnell is not starting off with any fads and frills. He knows the needs and so the Alaska School of Mines will be the nucleus of the greater university, its campus located under the aurora borealis and the midnight sun, its buildings rising crudely but hopefully in the bush and rock, its students few but sturdy and its president young and hopeful.

A Hearty Old Man.

Although he is now in his 101st year, Anthony Marsell, who lives with his son, James, in the second concession of Matilda township, Dundas county, Ontario, is hoeing corn and doing other work about the farm daily, and last winter he insisted upon splitting wood and performing other chores. None of his faculties are impaired, save his hearing, which is slightly defective.

Preached to Royalty.

King George, Queen Mary and Princes Henry and George were present at the service in the private chapel of Buckingham Palace on Sunday morning, August 6th, when Rev. Dr. Cody, of St. Paul's Church, Toronto, preached. This honor is a unique one for a Canadian clergyman. Dr. Cody recently preached at St. Paul's Cathedral.

Mortgage Sale

Under and by virtue of the powers contained in a mortgage made by Frank Smith to George Precious, which mortgage will be produced at the time of sale, there will be offered for sale by Public Auction at the McKellar House in the Village of Glencoe on Saturday, December 16, 1922, at 3 o'clock p.m., the following Real Estate, namely:

ALL AND SINGULAR that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate, lying and being in the Village of Glencoe, in the County of Middlesex and Province of Ontario, and being composed of village lots numbers Six and Seven in Block "B" in McDonald & Ross's survey of part of the south half of lot number one in the second concession of the Township of Moss, in the County of Middlesex, according to Registered Plan Number 159, save and except that part of said lot number six conveyed by John Donald McKellar to one Neil McKellar by deed dated the Twenty-second day of May, A.D. 1920, and registered as Number 3535, subject, however, to the reservations contained in a certain deed made by Thomas G. Johnston to Donald D. Graham, dated the Thirteenth day of July, A.D. 1917, and registered as Number 3296.

This property is situated on McRae Street in the Village of Glencoe, convenient to the Grand Trunk Railway Station. It has on it a large frame barn in a good state of repair, suitable for a livery and feed stable.

Terms of Sale:—Twenty-five per cent. of the purchase price to be paid down at the time of sale and the balance within two weeks thereafter.

For further particulars and conditions of sale apply to Elliott & Moss, Vendor's Solicitors, L. L. McTaggart, Auctioneer.

Dated at Glencoe, Ontario, this 22nd day of November, 1922.

Mortgage Sale

Under and by virtue of the powers contained in a mortgage made by Ray Orval Border to William Walker, which mortgage will be produced at the time of sale, there will be offered for sale by Public Auction on the undermentioned premises on Monday, December 18, 1922, at 3 o'clock p.m., the following Real Estate, namely:

ALL AND SINGULAR that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate, lying and being in the Township of Ekfrid, in the County of Middlesex and Province of Ontario, being composed of the West Half of the North Half of Lot Number Four in the First Concession of the said Township of Ekfrid, containing Fifty acres more or less.

This property is situated three miles east of Appin and about two miles from Longwood Station. It consists of fifty acres of good farm land with good drainage and has on it a frame dwelling house, a frame barn and other improvements.

Terms of Sale:—Ten per cent. of the purchase price to be paid down at the time of sale and the balance within three weeks thereafter.

For further particulars and conditions of sale apply to Elliott & Moss, Vendor's Solicitors, or to William E. Walker, R. R. No. 3, Appin, Ont. L. L. McTaggart, Auctioneer.

Dated at Glencoe, Ontario, this 22nd day of November, 1922.

You can now buy 5,517 German marks for a dollar, but there is no rush to invest in the waste-paper industry.

Mortgage Sale

VALUABLE CREAMERY PLANT AND PREMISES, AT GLENCOE, COUNTY OF MIDDLESEX

Under and by virtue of the powers contained in a certain mortgage made by William Gordon, which will be produced at the time of sale, there will be offered for sale by public auction by L. L. McTaggart, Auctioneer, at the premises in the Town of Glencoe, on Wednesday, November 29th, 1922, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the following property, viz:—

Lot number three in Michael Dean's survey of part of the south half of lot number twenty-four in the first concession of the Township of Ekfrid, in the County of Middlesex and Province of Ontario, formerly and now in the Town of Glencoe in the said County of Middlesex; together with all the plant, engine, boiler, churn, pasteurizer, machinery, shafting, belting, utensils and effects in, about and used in connection with the creamery situated on said premises.

On the property there is a substantial brick building with cement floors and fully equipped for the manufacture of butter. It is centrally located in the town of Glencoe and surrounded by a good dairy country.

Terms and conditions of sale:—Ten per cent. of the purchase money to be paid at the time of sale and the balance within thirty days thereafter.

For further particulars and conditions of sale apply to R. G. R. McKenzie, Petrolia, Ont., Vendor's Solicitor.

Dated at Petrolia, Ont., the 6th day of November, 1922.

IN THE MATTER OF ROBERT A. EDDIE, VENDOR, AND THOMAS F. ROBINSON, PURCHASER, AND IN THE MATTER OF THE BULK SALES ACT, 1917.

Notice is hereby given that Robert A. Eddie, carrying on business as a Farmer in the Township of Moss, in the County of Middlesex, made a sale of his farm stock, implements and farm produce to Thomas F. Robinson of the Village of Rodney, in the County of Elgin, Merchant, and that the said purchaser has delivered the promissory notes given by him favor of the said Vendor for the whole of the purchase money to Matthew H. Penhale of St. Thomas, as Trustee, for distribution, pro rata, among the creditors of the said vendor, Robert A. Eddie, under The Bulk Sales Act, 1917.

And further take notice that all persons having any claims or demands against the said Robert A. Eddie are required to send by registered post, prepaid, or to deliver to the undersigned trustee, or his solicitor, their names and addresses and full particulars in writing of their claims, duly verified, and the nature of the securities, if any, held by them.

And further take notice that after the second day of December, 1922, next, the said trustee will proceed to distribute the proceeds of the said promissory notes, when paid, among the persons entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which he shall then have had notice, and that he will not be liable for the said proceeds, or any part thereof, to any person of whose claim he shall not then have received notice.

Dated at St. Thomas this 22nd day of November, A.D. 1922.
J. D. SHAW, 384 Talbot Street, St. Thomas, Solicitor for the said Trustee, Matthew H. Penhale.

"Built-in-Canada"

Studebaker

The pride which a former generation found in Studebaker equipage is modernized in the Special-Six Sedan.

This Sedan is built in Studebaker plants, under highest standards of manufacture—the use of the finest materials and most skillful workmanship.

Its fascinating lines are enhanced by artistic paneling, coach lamps and massive headlights. The interior is finished in exquisite taste. There is inviting depth to the nine-inch cushions and a fine harmonizing of upholstery and carpeting.

The thorough dependability of the Special-Six with its flexibility, quick acceleration and ample power, carries the endorsement of many thousands of owners.

The four-bearing crankshaft, seven-inch frame with five cross-members, sub-frame supporting the motor and separate unit transmission, rear axle shaft of special alloy steel—these and other Special-Six improvements add greatly to motoring satisfaction.

The Special-Six Sedan well upholds the Studebaker 70-year reputation for business integrity and genuine value.

How Flour, Feed and Grain sales are increased by Long Distance

Some quotations from recent reports

"I use Long Distance entirely in my business (Hay and Grain). Sales are made quicker and with less expense than by travelling. Since yesterday I sold 2 cars of grain."

"I sold 10,000 jute sacks on which my commission was $100.00 at an expense of $2.50 for L.D. calls."

"I sold 3 customers in between $10,000 and $11,000 at a cost of 45 cents for Long Distance—a little over the price of two cigars."

"We regularly make Long Distance sales to customers from carload lots before placing orders for same."

"We accept reverse Long Distance calls on orders from customers."

TOWN AND VICINITY

L. D. Galbraith is collector of taxes in Ekfrid township this year.

The Royal Bank of Canada has decided to close its branch at Wardsville at the end of this month.

The ladies of St. John's church will hold their ANNUAL BAZAAR AND OLD ENGLISH DINNER on Tuesday, Dec. 12th.

The Caradoc-Ekfrid telephone lines suffered damage to the extent of about $3,000 in the sheet storm at the end of last March.

Diarmid McTaggart, of Appin, is one of the Middlesex team competing in judging at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto this week.

Chicken and turkey thieves are active in the vicinity of Campbellton. Quite a number have lost large flocks during the past two weeks.

Alex. McNeil has bought the house of Cleve Watterworth on Victoria street, north—not the house of Melvin Watterworth as was stated.

The Presbyterian W. M. S. are holding a homemade baking sale in the lecture room of the church on Saturday at 3 p.m. Afternoon tea, 15c.

You will not only get a good supper but you will hear a splendid program by local talent, assisted by Will Hollingshead, Friday night in the Methodist church.

Yesterday morning the ground was covered with snow for the first time this season. It is not thought that winter is here to stay, as the weather is mild again in the West.

Rev. Mr. McKillop, of West London, will occupy the Presbyterian pulpit here next Sunday. Mr. Paton, the Glencoe minister, will conduct anniversary services for Mr. McKillop at West London.

A large congregation was present at the song service in the Methodist church on Sunday evening. Several anthems were given by the choir, and Miss Lovell delighted all with a well-rendered solo.

It is suggested that Glencoe be divided into four numbered fire wards, and the ward in which a fire is situated be sounded on the alarm in order that the fire may be more readily located by the firemen and citizens.

A social evening under the auspices of the Golden Links class will be held in Tait's Corners church on Friday evening, Dec. 1st. A special feature of the evening will be an address by Rev. D. G. Paton on his trip to Europe.

Be sure and hear Will Hollingshead at the chicken supper and entertainment, Methodist church, Friday, 24th. If you have heard him you will be anxious to hear him again, and if you haven't there's a treat in store for you.

Jack Miner will lecture and show motion pictures in the town hall, Wardsville, on Monday, Dec. 4, under the auspices of the Wardsville Women's Institute—in the afternoon for school children and in the evening for adults.

The marriage took place at the First Presbyterian manse, Detroit, on November 5th, of Perry Black, M.D., eldest son of the late Dr. Black and Mrs. Black, of Pasadena, Cal., and Miss Auhena Jean, only daughter of Rev. and Mrs. D. Robertson, of Kilmartin.

A special feature of the Guild on Monday evening was a missionary pageant given by eight members of the Gordon Mission Band. Miss Steele and Miss Morrison gave interesting talks on the first chapter of Dr. Murray's mission book, "World Friendship." A solo by Miss King was much enjoyed.

A meeting of the directors of the Ekfrid Mutual Fire Insurance Company was held in Glencoe on Saturday, when a number of fire losses were adjusted. A donation of $420 was made to the Temiskaming Mutual Fire Insurance Company to assist the latter in making up losses of some $57,000 arising out of the recent Northern Ontario fire.

Miss Grace McLachlan, a bride-elect, was guest of honor at the home of Mrs. Grant on Tuesday evening, when a number of girl friends presented her with a cut-glass water set and serving tray. The presentation was made by Miss Lorna Luckham and an address was read by Miss K. Steele. Games and music were other features of the evening.

An interesting history of the township of Ekfrid prepared by Chas. M. Macfie, of Appin, and published in the Transcript some months ago, has been printed in the form of an attractive booklet, copies of which may be had at the Transcript at 25c each. Residents of Ekfrid township in particular should not miss opportunity of preserving such valuable information in so handy a form.

Aren't we human beings funny? We spend money for gasoline, we take in picture shows, eat ice cream, drink soft drinks, smoke smokes, and indulge in hundreds of things that bring us nothing but the entertainment of the moment. No permanent benefit ever comes to us from any of it, but we never think of kicking. It is only when we come to pay taxes, the thing that gives us schools, roads, sidewalks, public buildings, government and permanent benefits, that we rise up on our hind legs and holler our heads off.—Aren't we humans funny?—Exchange.

M. Cameron.

KING OF FEATHERED TRIBE

The Eagle Has at All Times Been Recognized as the Undisputed Monarch of the Air.

Sometimes as you roam amidst the wild scenery of a mountain district your eye will catch sight of a tiny speck that floats high in the air above fell and crag. So distant is it that you can only just make out that it is a bird.

You wonder for a moment what it can be, and then the thought comes to you that you are watching the strong upward flight of the nobles of all feathered creatures, the stately golden eagle.

Not many years ago eagles were quite common in all the parts of England and Wales, but farmers, keepers, and collectors waged war upon them, and now they are rare. Driven from the cliffs south of the Tweed, they traveled northwards to join the comrades in the fastnesses of the Scottish mountains.

Even there they were failing until quite recently to hold their own; but it is now found that they are increasing in numbers. The eagle can never be a very common bird, for, like most creatures that are well able to defend themselves against natural foes, he rears but a small family. The hen bird lays only two eggs as a rule, though nests containing three are occasionally found.

But it is no light task even for the hardest of climbers to reach an eagle's eyrie. For their nesting place the parent birds choose a narrow ledge, jutting out only a few inches from the sheer face of a high cliff. Here in a rough home of sticks lined with coarse grass the female lays her bluish eggs mottled with brown and grey.

Here, too, the young are tended until they have learnt to use their wings.

The golden eagle is entirely a bird of prey. Only royal fowl will suffice for him. Hares and grouse are the chief items in his menu, but he loves young lambs, and sometimes he takes toll even of the fawns of the deer which share the wilds with him.

—London TH-Bits.

PHILOSOPHY OF JACK MINER

Wild geese are honking their way to the south before the winter, but at last reports a good many were using their stop-over ticket for a call at Jack Miner's bird sanctuary near Kingsville. There, as it were, they are welcome to food and lodgings as long as they care to stay.

This curious work carried on in the midst of a thickly settled farming community in Western Ontario has attracted notice far and wide, and Mr. Miner's whimsical temperament has become known to many an audience through his homely lectures. He is a sort of "David Harum" of the 20th century, having the same fondness for wild geese that the original type had for "hoses," and a somewhat similar original way of expressing himself.

Norman S. Rankin, writing a character sketch in the current Canada Magazine, gives the following as "the philosophy of Jack Miner":

"Tell the truth even if you have to lie to do it."

"I like birds, but boys better—if we only understood 'em."

"I'm so happy I'm going to live a hundred years or die in the attempt."

"Never a man so good but a 'good woman' I'll make him better."

"Is life in the country worth living? It depends on the liver."

"There isn't enough real money in the world to buy my home."

"I've done no work. Work consists of doing something you don't want to do—yet I'm always as busy as a cow's tail in fly time."

"Did you ever notice that when you begin to work for others you get all kinds of help an' encouragement—everybody works with you and for you?"

"I got nothin' to boast of. Back of old Jack Miner's been the powerful hand of the Unseen."

"He prayeth best who loveth best all things, both great and small."

THE ROARIN' GAME

For lang ma hand's been uncop fair to get a grip of the channel stane, And send it birling over the pond—Up over the hog, to the tee beyond.

And noo at last, when frost has come We're gaun to try and mak' things hum;

There's ne'er a pleasure I can name To touch the joy of the roarin' game.

FLOUR AND FEED

The C

Bovril helps you to "turn the corner"

Canning the Cocky Culls.

Let's can them this year. This expresses the views of many farmers and home canners who now see that money is made, not by selling the "cocky culls," but by converting them into canned food ready for the table on a moment's notice. Although the really interested poultryman will cull several times during the year, October and November are conceded to be the months when most farmers "pick out the loafers."

This house-cleaning process has met with such popular favor that we find the poultry market generally crowded in the fall, and prices much lower than earlier in the year. First, from the standpoint of economy, the poultryman who converts the culls into canned food is doing away with the extra labor and feed involved. When culls, these fowls are removed at the time the space is first needed for the younger birds, and by so doing the temptation to crowd is removed.

And what is more delicious than canned chicken? This can only be answered by folks who have enjoyed the canned meat. It doesn't take any longer to prepare six chickens at one time for cans than it does to prepare two fowls at separate times for immediate table use. No matter what method of canning is used, it is necessary to clean the chicken thoroughly, both outside and inside, using a brush and light soap. If necessary, rapid cooling after killing is considered essential to good flavor in canned meat.

Chicken or any fowl is ready for preparation for the canner as soon as the animal heat has disappeared. For home canning, chicken is best by partially cooking first—dried, roasted, stewed—just as would be done for immediate serving, to preserve not only the meat, but the home cooked flavor as well.

Fried Chicken (Spring Fried).—Clean in the usual manner, splitting lengthwise or cut into quarters. Sear in hot grease, sprinkle with salt and pepper; or, if preferred, dip into flour or cracker crumbs mixed with salt and pepper. Fry until nicely browned in the same way as preparing for the table. The canning may now be done in different ways as follows:

Canning Dry without Removing the Bones.—Pack in the thoroughly cleaned and sterilized cans or jars, add no liquid. With cover off heat or exhaust eight minutes and seal immediately. Process No. 2 cans or pint jars, one hour and thirty minutes at 250 degrees F., or fifteen pounds of steam pressure. Three and one-half hours in hot water bath.

Canning with Gravy without Removing Bones.—Pack in the sterilized cans or jars, fill with boiling hot gravy made from the pan grease with addition of water or soup stock. Seal at once. Process No. 2 cans or pint jars, one hour at 250 degrees F., or fifteen pounds of steam pressure. Three hours in hot water bath.

Canning After Removing Bones.—Prepare as stated above, cut meat from bones and pack into sterilized cans or jars, add hot gravy, exhaust or heat five minutes if meat and gravy have cooled. Seal at once. Process No. 2 cans or pint jars, forty-five minutes at 250 degrees F., or fifteen pounds of steam pressure.

So the talk drifted on, sometimes safely, sometimes through tortuous channels that threatened at any moment to overturn their little shell of convention. But no such catastrophe occurred, and when, at length, Mrs. Hardy began to show signs of weariness, Irene served coffee and cake, and the two men, taking that as an intimation that their welcome had run down, but would reward itself if not too continually drawn upon, left the house together. On their way they agreed that it was a very beautiful night.

Dave turned the situation over in his mind with some impatience. Irene had now been in the city for several weeks, and he had had opportunity for scarce a dozen personal words with her. Was he to be baulked by such an insufferable chaperonage as it seemed the purpose of Mrs. Hardy and Conward to establish over his love affair? No. In the act of underscoring he told himself No, suiting to the word such vigor of behavior that in the morning he found his shoes at opposite corners of the room. No! He who, as a boy had not hesitated to assert a sort of proprietorship over Irene, would not hesitate now—He was keyed to the hilt.

Several days passed without any word from Irene, and he had almost made up his mind to attempt another telephone appointment, when he met her, quite accidentally, in the street. It was a beautiful afternoon; warm, but not hot, with a fresh breeze from the mountains flowing through the unclouded heavens, and a radiant sun pouring down upon all. But Irene looked more radiant still. She had been shopping, she said. The duty of household purchase fell mainly upon her. Her mother rested in the afternoon.

"How about a cup of tea?" said Dave. "And a thin sandwich? And a delicate morsel of cake? One can always count on thin sandwiches and delicate morsels of cake. Their function is purely a social one, having no relation to the physical requirements." "I should be very glad," said Irene. They found a quiet tea-room. When they were seated Dave, without preliminary, plunged into the subject nearest his heart.

"I have been wanting an opportunity to talk to you—wanting it for weeks," he said. "But it always seemed—"

"Always seemed that you were thwarted," Irene completed his thought. "You didn't disguise your annoyance very well the other night."

"Do you blame me for being annoyed?" "No. But I rather blame you for showing it. You see, I was annoyed, too."

"Then you had nothing to do with—bringing about the situation that existed?" "Certainly not. Surely you do not think that I would—"

"I beg your pardon, Brenda," said Dave, contritely. "I should have known better. But it seemed such a strange coincidence."

She was toying with her cup, and for once her eyes avoided him. "You should hardly think, Dave," she said, "that you should hardly consider that—that what has been, you know, gives you the right, entitled you—"

"To a monopoly of your attentions. Perhaps not. But it gives me the right to a fair chance to win a monopoly of your attentions." He was speaking low and earnestly, and his voice had a deep, rich timbre in it that thrilled and almost frightened her. She could not resist his straightforwardness. She felt that he was already asserting his claims upon her, and there was something tender and delightful in the sense of being claimed by such a man. "I must have a fair chance to win that monopoly," he repeated. "How did it happen that Conward was present?"

"I don't know. It just happened. A little after you telephoned me he called up and asked for mother, and the next I knew she said he was coming up to spend the evening. And then I said you were coming."

"And what did she say?" Irene hesitated. "Please don't make me tell you," she whispered at length. "Don't hesitate from any fear of hurting me," he said, with a laugh. "I know I have failed to make a hit with your mother. On your account I could wish I had been more successful, but perhaps she will be fairer when she knows me better. What did she say?"

"She just said, 'That cow puncher.' And I just told her that you were the man who put the punch in the Conward & Elden firm—you see, I am learning your slang—and that everybody says so, and a few more things I told her, too."

But Dave had dropped into a sudden reverie. It was not so remarkable as it seemed that Conward should have telephoned Mrs. Hardy almost immediately after he had used the line. Conward's telephone and Dave's were on the same circuit; it was a simple matter for Conward, if he had happened to lift the receiver during Dave's conversation with Irene, to overhear all that was said. That might happen accidentally; at least, it might begin innocently enough. The fact that Conward had acted upon the information indicated two things—first, that he had no very troublesome sense of honor—which Dave had long suspected—and second, that he had deliberately planned a conflict with Dave's visit to the Hardy home. This indicated a policy of some kind—a scheme deeper than Dave was as yet able to fathom. He would at least guard against any further eavesdropping on his scheme.

He took a card from his pocket, and made some figures on it. "If you should have occasion to call me at the office at any time, please use that number, and ask for me," he said. "It is the accountant's number. There's reason."

It flattered his masculine authority that she put the card in her purse without comment. She did not ask him to explain. Dave knew that when a woman no longer asks for explanations she pays man her highest compliment.

The cups were empty; the sandwiches and cakes were gone, but they lingered on.

"I have been wondering," Dave ventured at length, "just where I stand—with you. You remember our agreement?"

She averted her eyes, but her voice was steady. "You have observed the terms," she said.

"Yes—in all essential matters. I come to you now in accordance with those terms. You said that we would know. Now I know; know as I have always known since those wonderful days in the foothills; those days from which I date my existence. Anything worth while that has ripened in my life was sown by your smile and your confidence and your strange pride in me, back in those sunny days. And I would repay it all—and at the same time realize my debt—by returning it to you, if I may."

"I realize that I owe you an answer, now, Dave," she said, frankly. "And I find it very hard to make that answer. Marriage means so much more to a woman than it does to a man. I know you don't think so, but it does. Man, after the honeymoon, returns to his first love—his day's work. But woman cannot go back. Don't misunderstand me, Dave. I would be glad to say I doubt myself, or that I don't know my mind, but you and I are no longer boys and girls. We are man and woman now. And I just want time—just want time to be sure that—that—"

"I suppose you are right," he answered. "I will not try to hurry your decision. I will only try to give you an opportunity to know—to be sure. She knew they were the words of a man who would not open the subject."

His words had something of the ring of an ultimatum, but no endearments that his lips might have uttered could have gripped her heart so surely. She knew they were the words of a man in deadly earnest, a man who had himself in hand, a man who made love with the same serious purpose as he had employed in the other projects of his successful life. She raised her eyes to his fine face. Decision was stamped on every line of his firm jaw to the steady eyes that met her own. Suddenly she began to tremble. It was not fear. Afterwards she knew it to have been pride—pride in his great, steady, unshakable will. A judgment so sure of itself that it defied not a moment in stating the terms upon which all future happiness might hang. For if Dave had misread Irene's heart he had deliberately cleared the way for his own defeat. He might hope to approach it. But Irene instinctively knew that he had not misread her heart; it seemed that this bold, daring manoeuvre had captured the citadel at a stroke. Had it not been for some strange sense of shame—some fear that too ready capitulation might be mistaken for weakness—she would have surrendered then.

"I think that is best," she managed to say. "We will let our acquaintance ship ripen."

He rose and helped her with her right hand. His fingers touched her hand, and it seemed to him the battle was won. . . . But he had promised not to reopen the subject.

In the street he said, "If you will wait a moment I will take you home in my car." Their eyes met, and each of them knew what it meant. It meant announcement to her mother that she had met Dave down town. It meant, perhaps, a suggestion on her mother's part that she had gone down town for that purpose. It was far-reaching. But she said simply, "I should enjoy driving home with you."

On the way they planned that the following Sunday they would drive into the foothills together. Of course they would ask Mrs. Hardy to accompany them. Of course. But it might happen that Mrs. Hardy would be indisposed. She was tired with the numerous duties incident to setting up a new home. Irene was of the opinion that what her mother needed now was rest.

As it happened, Mrs. Hardy was at the gate. She greeted Dave cordially enough; it was not possible for Mrs. Hardy to quite forget her conventional training, just as it was not possible for her to quite forget that Dave was a one-time cow puncher. Encouraged by her mood Irene determined to settle the Sunday program at once.

"Dave was good enough to bring me up in his car," she said. "And just think! He invites us to drive into the foothills with him next Sunday. Will you come? It will be delightful. Or are you feeling—"

"Mr. Elden is very kind," said Mrs. Hardy, with dignity. "I have no doubt Mr. Conward will accompany us. He is to call this evening, and I will ask him. . . . Yes, I think it very likely we will go."

Turbine and Dynamo Units for Train Illumination.

Small enough to be mounted almost anywhere on a locomotive is a compact unit consisting of a direct-connected dynamo and steam turbine. That has been produced in Switzerland to provide for train lighting. In the housing for the turbine, between it and the dynamo, is an air fan for cooling the shaft bearing at this point, and which acts also as a stuffing box for the turbine. The turbine is very simple, and the steam requires no control, for the air fan acts as a governor, preventing racing, and keeping the speed uniform at all loads. The lamps in the train remain remarkably steady, and there is a very small variation of voltage, no matter how many or how few lamps are in operation.

Automobile Tires Having Fixed Blow-out Points.

An inventor's idea of minimizing injuries to tires is to provide certain places on the sides of the shoe where the wall is weakened. A blow-out, due to any cause except direct puncture, is thus confined to one of these spots. Special arrangements are made to repair the rupture easily and effectively, with suitable plugs and patches.

THE KING'S RARE STAMPS

King George possesses the most complete collection of the stamps of the British Empire.

He was collecting stamps as a "middy," and although he does not get so much time for stamps nowadays, he is as keen as ever, and is always adding to and improving the collection.

There is a special room at Buckingham Palace for his philatelic collections, and here is to be found Mr. E. D. Bacon, M.V.O., who is entrusted with the custody of the royal album. Mr. Bacon is president of the Royal Philatelic Society, and among his previous great tasks was the arrangement of the Taping collection of stamps at the British Museum, a collection worth nearly $1,250,000.

Bought in Boyhood Days.

The King has the somewhat unusual record among philatelists of an unbroken association with philately from his boyhood. What his collection is worth no one can guess.

Stamps which the young Prince George secured for "a mere song" on his travels as a boy (1879-1882) are now among the rare specimens that hold pride of place in his collection. One rare item is an original rough sketch in water colors of the first postage-stamps which Rowland Hill sent to the Chancellor of the Exchequer in 1840, to show what the new stamps would be like.

His keen and scientific study of stamps led him to join the Philatelic Society, of which he became Vice-President in 1893. Later he became President.

One of his wedding presents in 1893 was a handsome album containing a number of rare stamps, sent as a combined gift from his fellow philatelists.

Some of the most valuable stamps in the royal collection are the Mauritius early issues. They are quaint looking stamps, engraved by a local watch-maker on an old visiting-card plate.

The likeness of Queen Victoria upon them is not very true to life—indeed, it is something of a caricature—but the stamps, the penny in orange and the two-penny in indigo-blue, are things of beauty to the philatelist. The first issue bore the inscription "Post Office," reading upwards at the left of the stamps, and this inscription was altered in the next issue to "Post Paid." This explains the difference between the rare first issue and the more accessible later issue.

A $20,000 Pair.

Of the "Post Office" stamps only 1,000 were printed, and of these only twenty-seven are known now. The King acquired his penny "Post Office" for $4,250, from the old Earl of Kinross's collection, and the twopence one was bought at auction in London in 1904, for $7,250, at that time a record price for any single stamp. To-day, however, the stamps are worth much more; such a pair would probably fetch about $20,000.

The King's Mafeking stamps are a very rare set, some of which were made in Mafeking during the siege by means of photographic negatives on ferro-prussiate paper. One rare specimen is a reversed print of the famous Baden-Powell stamp, of which only seven copies are known.

Another outstanding rarity is a four penny Western Australia stamp, in which the frame part of the design appears inverted in relation to the central device, a swan; this is known as the "inverted swan," and only eight copies are in existence. The last one sold, a few years ago, fetched nearly $4,000, but the present value is about $5,000.

An even rarer item is the same issue is the four penny stamp with the letters Australia only half their proper height, a variety that occurred only once on the sheet. Only one other copy is known.

The arrangement of such a collection is constantly in progress, and each year His Majesty honors the philatelic society now the "Royal Philatelic Society"—with a display at one of its meetings of some newly-arranged section of the vast treasure-store of Imperial stamps.

Electric Shocks for Hearts.

One of the most remarkable of recent medical inventions is the static wave device.

Its purpose is to regulate the beating of the heart, should it be too fast or too slow. The patient sits in an insulated chair connected with a machine which passes an electrical current through the body.

Outside the machine is a revolving ball, fixed to the end of a metal rod. Every time this ball passes another stationary ball electricity is discharged from the body, causing the muscles to relax.

If the heart should be beating seventy-four times a minute, but is six beats fast, the revolving ball is timed to go round at seventy-four revolutions a minute, and the heart is thus slowed down to its correct time. In the same way the heart can be quickened.

This wonderful machine was exhibited at a recent Medical Exhibition in London. The force of the current is such that a person putting his hand within six inches of the chair receives quite a powerful shock.

What is wisdom but having a great deal to say and keeping silent.

CONSERVATIVES LEAD IN BRITISH ELECTIONS WITH MAJORITY OF EIGHTY

A despatch from London says:—Following is the standing of the various political parties in the next British House of Commons. There are still ten seats, the results of which will be announced later, namely, some of the universities and distant scattered Scottish constituencies from which the results may not be available before Saturday:

Number of seats	615
Seats heard from	605
Conservatives	343
Labor	136
Liberals	62
Georgians	49
Other groups	15
To be announced later	10

A despatch from London says:—The long drawn out fight between former Premier Lloyd George and Sir George Younger has ended with victory for the chairman of the Unionist party. Younger and his adherents staked their political fortunes at the famous Carlton Club meeting which smashed the Coalition and sent Lloyd George into the wilderness on the conviction that the country was ripe for a return to straight party politics and in the firm belief that the nation would support their conviction by sending the Conservatives to the House of Commons with a good large majority.

Their confidence has been amply justified. Wednesday's elections have returned a Parliament with almost the same overwhelming predominance of Conservatives as the last Parliament, elected in 1918 on a wave of grateful enthusiasm to Lloyd George.

In the new Parliament Premier Bonar Law will command a majority over all parties combined of approximately 80.

The downfall of Lloyd Georgeism is the outstanding feature of the elections. The Coalition Liberals at the dissolution numbered 129; they are represented in the new Parliament by only 49 members. There will be many regrets among the former Premier's adherents that he failed to take the advice of some of his well-wishers and retire for a time entirely from the political stage.

The Asquithian Liberals improved their position, rising from thirty-four in the old Parliament to sixty-two in the new, but they did not do so well as they expected. On the other hand, Labor, although it failed to fulfill the high hopes the party entertained at the dissolution, has done exceedingly well, rising from 75 to 136 seats. It is generally believed that Labor would have done far better but for the tactical mistake in its advocacy of a capital levy.

A later despatch from London says:—The Conservative majority in Parliament is not yet definitely known, as there are still a half dozen constituencies to be heard from, but it will be nearer 80 than 70. At present the total figures show 343 Conservatives, 141 Laborites, and 122 seats divided among two kinds of Liberals and Independents in proportions varying according to the taste and fancy of the party sympathizers.

The meaning of this is that there are a number of Liberals who are being claimed by both Mr. Lloyd George and Herbert Asquith. It is certain that Mr. Lloyd George got the bigger following, for the Conservative managers allow his 59 seats and Mr. Asquith 51.

FOUR IRISH CIVILIANS PAY DEATH PENALTY

Government Defends Executions on Charge of Treason.

A despatch from Dublin says:—Four men were executed by the firing squad at Portobello barracks on Friday morning. They were convicted of carrying revolvers in violation of the military proclamation, which regards every gun-carrier as a potential ambusher, and were tried by a military court. The findings in each case were approved by General Headquarters.

"And we may do it again to-morrow," Muckey replied, in Parliament, to a critic on the Labor bench. "It is time for us to strike. There seems no alternative."

But the reason for resorting to the extreme penalty was more fully explained by Blyth of the local Government.

"We have reached the time when it is necessary to open a new chapter. From January to June we tried to avoid any fighting. From June to the present we have tried other means to show the futility of the attempt to prevent the majority from prevailing. Our campaign was conducted with the intent of causing a minimum loss of life. Now it is necessary to take steps to bring the situation to a close."

"Armed opposition to the Government is in such disorganization that it is not a Republican movement, but is a definite movement toward anarchy. And those involved are, for the most part, criminals who cannot settle into any ordered life."

"The Government takes the fullest responsibility for the executions to-day. The sentence was just. It was no defence that they had not succeeded in shooting someone, and it is strange that we should hear no indignation expressed when the irregulars kill, but is only expressed when the Government enforces its decrees. Ireland is suffering from cancer, and must use the knife to cut out the growth. We should not be worthy to govern if we had no courage to win through."

Congrave asserted that if the irregulars surrendered their arms to-morrow and acknowledged the Government they would not be punished. The trial of Childers has begun on the charge of treason.

Government officials have indicated their intention of holding Mary MacSwiney, and denied reports that they intended to release her.

Soundness of Canada's Finances

With United States funds at a slight discount in some communities in Canada, the surprising improvement in Canada's financial position that has taken place during the past twenty-two months is indicated. In December, 1920, the premium on N.Y. funds in Canada was 19.2 per cent. No country that was a belligerent during the Great War can show a better record than this. If anything is needed to demonstrate the soundness of Canada's position, it is surely to be found in the foregoing.

TURK NATIONALISTS ELECT NEW CALIPH

Mahammed VI. Fled from Constantinople Wifeless and Moneyless.

Constantinople, Nov. 19.—Crown Prince Abdul Medjid Efendi, cousin of Sultan Mohammed VI., was elected Caliph by the Great National Assembly of Turkey.

In a message to Rafet Pasha, Nationalist Governor of Constantinople, the Ankara Government expresses its inability to understand the reason for the Sultan's flight, inasmuch as the great National Assembly of Turkey, while voting for abolition of his temporal power, continued to recognize Mohammed VI. as Caliph until the election of a successor.

Blizzard Sweeps Lake Superior

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 19.—The steamer North Sea, bound down, hit an obstruction in the Canadian channel to-day, punching a hole in her starboard side. The drill boats and sweepers have been widening the channel, which has been marked with temporary buoys, and it is believed the North Sea lost her bearings during the thick snowstorm that prevailed all day, and got outside of the markers.

The Keearge, upbound, struck a rock with her wheel while trying to make the Detour coal dock. One flange of the propeller was broken off. She proceeded to Lime Island, where repairs will be made.

Practically all upbound steamers have come to anchor above Point aux Pins, in upper St. Mary's River, owing to the blizzard.

THE NEW BRITISH PRIME MINISTER

SIR HAMAR GREENWOOD ONLY CANADIAN DEFEATED AT ELECTIONS

A despatch from London says:—S. P. Howard, Lady Strathcona's son, defeated his namesake in Cumberland. Sir Thomas Fisher, of the Canadian Pacific Steamships, was, however, defeated in Portsmouth.

Canada was to the fore in the election in more ways than one. Col. W. F. Cockburn, of Brantford, was an effective speaker for Col. Page Croft, who was returned in Bournemouth.

Col. Grant Morden secured a large majority in Brentford and Chiswick. Col. Maurice Alexander's remarkable win in Southwark was an entire surprise, even to his own supporters, and a tribute to his energetic campaign. Dr. MacNamara, also Canadian born, held his seat in another London borough, and so did Major J. E. Molson, in Gainsborough. Capt. the Hon. D.

SULTAN FLEES ON BRITISH WARSHIP

In Fear of Impending Danger from Kemalists, Takes Refuge Under Union Jack.

A despatch from Constantinople says:—The Sultan of Turkey, Mohammed VI., has taken refuge on a British warship, and is now on his way to asylum in Malta. The Sultan made it clear to those in the secret of his flight that he was not abdicating the Throne, but merely removing himself from impending danger of assassination.

It is reported here that the Ankara Government will make formal representations to Britain for the return of the Sultan to the Kemalists, pointing out that only the Great National Assembly of Turkey has authority to direct the Sultan's movements, and declaring that he must face trial as ordered by the Government.

A despatch from London says:—Great Britain's reason for giving refuge to the Sultan, it is explained here, is that, since he formally asked, as Caliph of the Muslims, for protection from what he considered a personal danger, Great Britain could do nothing else than comply. "If a person in imminent danger of violence throws himself into your arms and asks for protection, what can you do but shield him?" was the way one authority stated the British position. "Great Britain," he added, "has traditionally been the refuge of deposed Sovereigns. Even Napoleon was removed to safety on a British ship, and the only reason the Kaiser did not offer himself up to General Haig was because he feared the danger of passing through the firing lines on the Western front."

Alberta-bred Scottish Shorthorn stock from the Prince of Wales ranch at High River, Alta., commanded top prices at the recent Shorthorn sale at Calgary. One bull sold for $610, another for $575, and the average for eight animals offered was $494. Though he has owned and operated his ranch for three years these constituted the first commercial sales. In the early winter Alberta-bred Shorthorn sheep will be offered for sale from the E. P. ranch. Next spring the Prince, who keeps in close touch with ranch affairs through his manager, is supplementing the ranch stock with more Shorthorns and Dartmoor ponies.

THE CONFLICTING CLAIMS IN MESOPOTAMIA

No. 1 shows the portion of Syria restored to Turkey by the Franco-Turkish agreement of October, 1921, and No. 2 shows the portions of oil lands still claimed by the Turks. British interests in that country are also shown. Bonar Law may call an imperial conference in the new year to discuss the Empire's policy toward Mesopotamia.

NEAR EAST CONFERENCE TO SETTLE QUESTIONS OF FAR-REACHING IMPORTANCE

Lausanne, Switzerland, Nov. 19.—An attempt to stabilize the peace of Europe will be undertaken here with the inauguration of the Near East Conference, attended by practically all the powers of Western and Southern Europe.

Primarily summoned to establish peace between victorious Turkey and defeated Greece, the Conference possesses vast importance to all Europe. It must settle the various problems that have grown out of the Turkish return to the Continent, from which they were expelled after the great war, as well as the all-important question of the freedom of the Dardanelles.

Must Prescribe Frontiers. The conference must lay down Turkey's new frontiers and take up the delicate question of Turkey's capitulations, or concessions whereby foreigners in Turkey, like those living in China, have been exempt from Turkish laws and free from taxation. Turkey demands freedom from these restrictions and clamors for national administrative liberty.

The prediction is freely made here that the Lausanne Conference will have a weighty bearing upon the future amity and harmonious co-operation between Britain and France in European affairs.

The Fascist of Italy, dedicated to a firmer foreign policy, will be here to demand equality of treatment and apparently strong in their determination to denounce the Italian-Greek treaty of 1920, whereby Italy agreed to cede to Greece the Dodecanese Islands in the Aegean.

Bolshevik Russia has been invited to attend the Dardanelles discussion, but not the main conference, whose business is the revision of the Sevres Treaty.

Bulgaria will insist upon an outlet in the Aegean at Dodegatch, on the border line between Eastern and Western Thrace, and Yugoslavia will undoubtedly demand assurances of commercial privileges at the Greek port of Saloniki.

Most of the neutral European States, perceiving the importance of the Lausanne negotiations, have asked permission to attend the meetings.

TURKISH SOLDIERS AT CONSTANTINOPLE

Allies Have Lost Authority Over Police but Shield Christian Lives.

A despatch from Constantinople says:—As the Allies have lost every vestige of authority over the Turkish police and even co-operation between the Allied and Turkish police has gone, it is no longer possible to exercise the slightest control over infiltration of Nationalist soldiers.

The Allied military naval forces are not numerous enough to watch all the neutral zone and the Bosphorus, which is over 20 miles long and only 700 yards wide at the narrowest part, so it is very easy for small parties of armed men to cross unobserved. The Turks thus are able to strengthen their position daily, while the Allies remain spectators.

The Inter-Allied control of Constantinople has been essentially a British control, because the French and Italians never wanted to go beyond the terms of the Mudros Armistice. They wanted nothing more than a purely military occupation.

It is a deplorable fact that this occupation has been mediocre and obstructive. Perhaps it was not easy to win the loyalty of the Turkish population, but certainly it wouldn't have been impossible. However, it was not attempted. Now, not only the masses, but even the liberal minded Turks have been estranged.

The Turks and the Allies face each other irreconcilably here. Nothing can bridge the gap between them. However, the occupation of the Allied armies is shielding several hundred thousand Christians from a Turkish terror that might even end in massacre. Allied rule at its worst is probably better than Turkish rule at its best, and there can be no question of abandoning it at this moment.

The Nationalists are, however, gradually encroaching on the Allied rule by taking steps to control the municipal administration and economic life of Constantinople. Step by step they are reducing the Allied rule to a mere military occupation. The encroachment of the Nationalists could be stopped by declaring martial law, but that might mean war. The thing that seems wisest to do would be to remove the question from the jurisdiction of the military representatives here and submit it to the attention of the assembled powers at Lausanne.

By disposing of timber limits which totalled 187 square miles in area, the Ontario Government made a record for this year in the matter of a single day's timber sales. The successful tenderers are the Continental Wood Products Company, of Elbas, Ont.; the Mageau Lumber Co., of Field, Ont.; the Pigeon Lumber Co., of Port Arthur; and the Hope Lumber Co., of Thessalon. For nine square miles in the township of Henry, in the district of Nipissing, the Mageau Lumber Co. will pay $11.50 per thousand for red and white pine.

Public Spirit.

As men are found wanting in a sense of humor, they may lack the quality known as public spirit, so that if they cannot bring a project within the radius of selfish interest they will have none of it.

It takes a degree of education to understand that what is for the good of all is for the good of each. Men of a crude order of mentality are often extremely difficult to persuade into unified action, because they think they are surrendering something of their own without a measurable gain. Each asks, "What is there in it for me?" blind to the fact that "in union there is strength," not merely for the whole, but for every element fused therein.

Suppose that a man's strength were invested in a good cause without the remotest prospect of benefit accruing to himself directly. It still would be a good thing for him that he made the effort and the sacrifice. We do not think of "public spirit" as a proper name for the policy of one who, ere he acts, must calculate his individual returns.

The real thing must be differentiated from the sham. The bogus kind of public spirit is avid of personal notoriety. It has tasted the ephemeral fame of headlines, and printer's ink is a tippie that mounts to the head like wine. There are men much before the public who are there not for the sake of leading it, or giving something to it, or doing something for it, but for the purpose of being conspicuously seen and vociferously talked about. Men running for office are too much moved by the pride of place, the love of power, instead of the chance of service. Real public spirit is a matter of self-effacement, not self-love and vain glory.

Along with all the noisy self-advertising one beholds on every hand, it is reassuring to feel that most people have no part in such business and are amused only mildly at the efforts of some to lift themselves into prominence on a very slender apparatus of intellect, or personal force, or genuine attainment. The impostors are soon found out. Those who genuinely qualify once more will demonstrate the survival of the fittest and be seen in their places when the dust clears and the fracas of petty contention is over. Wisdom doth not need to strive or cry. The wise are they who in silence and peace of mind and a cheerful patience are willing to wait until the end.

The public in the heat of the day and the confusion of the market or the road may not know those who serve it best. But the name matters least of all; the deed, and not the doer, signifies.

Natural Resources Bulletin.

The output of Canada's fisheries in 1921 was valued at $34,931,935, compared with $49,241,339 the previous year. Sea fisheries contributed by far the greater portion of the decrease, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and British Columbia alone accounting for $12,023,721. With the exception of the Maritime Provinces and British Columbia, Ontario has the largest fishery production in Canada, and in 1921 it suffered comparatively little decrease, $3,065,042 in 1921 compared with $3,236,412 the year previous.

In Ontario whitefish represented the greatest value of the fish taken, being $9,913,324 for the 6,380,100 pounds. Herring exceeded whitefish in quantity taken, being 7,310,400 pounds valued at $429,960. Sturgeon is the most valuable fish now being taken in Ontario waters, 134,900 pounds being valued for market at $40,470 or 30 cents per pound. From the sturgeon was taken 10,935 pounds of caviar, valued at one dollar per pound. Large quantities of sturgeon were formerly taken in the inland waters of Ontario, but unrestricted fishing has so depleted the supply as to make sturgeon fishing almost a thing of the past.

Just north of Peace River, Alta., which is 550 miles north of the international boundary, a farmer, Pendell Bosh, ripened 1,000 pounds of tomatoes of the best quality this season. At Fort Vermilion, 100 miles farther north, tomatoes, cucumbers, pumpkins and musk melons were matured. Wheat is stated to be "No. 1 Hard, as usual," and the hay crop very abundant.

Every section of Canada engaged in fruit production was successful in securing awards at the Imperial Fruit Show at London, England, the Dominion in all securing 17 first prizes, 13 seconds, 9 thirds, and 7 specials. Ontario led with 11 firsts, 9 seconds and 1 third. British Columbia won 4 firsts, 2 thirds, and 2 specials. Nova Scotia secured 2 firsts, 3 seconds, 5 thirds, and 3 specials. Quebec took 1 second and 1 third prize.

A total of 1,007 newspapers were in operation in Canada in 1920, of which total Ontario accounted for 419, Saskatchewan 147, Alberta 96, Quebec 95, Manitoba 91, British Columbia 76, Nova Scotia 42, New Brunswick 34 and Prince Edward Island 7. The language of publication is stated as English for 912 newspapers, French 22, 66 papers, German 5, and 24 newspapers representing 12 foreign languages. The average circulation per issue of dailies with morning editions was 501,952, of dailies with evening editions 1,229,503. Newspapers with a weekly edition had a total average circulation of 1,924,223 each issue; those with semi-weekly edition of 119,671; and those with a tri-weekly edition of 14,998.

WARDSVILLE

Mrs. Callon, of Toronto, is visiting her brother, Henry Archer.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Parnall attended the induction services of Rev. Mr. Stevenson at Appin.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Archer and Mr. and Mrs. J. Sloan and Victor spent a few days with friends in St. Thomas.

The death occurred on Wednesday last of Thomas Heath, an old resident of Wardsville. Since coming from England Mr. Heath has made his home here. He has suffered for some time from heart disease and it was only after a prolonged illness that his death came. The funeral was held on Friday from his late home to Wardsville cemetery and the services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Murphy.

A regular meeting of the A.Y.P.A. was held in the basement of the church on Friday evening. In the absence of the president, Rev. Mr. Murphy took the chair and conducted the meeting. A short program was given, after which a social time was spent and lunch was served.

At the morning service in the Methodist church on Sunday the six boys who attended the boys' conference at Chatham last week spoke on the idea of the conference and also reproduced in their own words some of the speeches which they heard. The boys who spoke were Malcolm Elliott, Roy Blain, Lloyd Simpson, William Tomlin and Gordon Brooks, of Wardsville, and George Thompson, of Cashmere.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Minna spent a few days with their daughter in St. Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Purdy and children have moved into the house owned by Mrs. Jackson. Mr. Purdy has secured a position in Detroit.

Ed. Purcell has sold his home on the 3rd concession to Mr. McPhail. This is the old Purcell homestead. Mr. Purcell intends to retire.

Jack Miner will be in Wardsville on Dec. 4th. In the afternoon he will give a performance for the school children and in the evening for the adults.

Janet Elliott, Frances Murphy and Malcolm Elliott were the delegates sent from Wardsville to Glencoe on Saturday to aid in making plans for the Western Middlesex Athletic and Oratorical League.

A meeting of the literary society of the W. H. S. was held Friday afternoon. The president took the chair. After the routine business a program was given, consisting of an instrumental by Rose Price, a recitation by Susie Hillman and a mouth-organ solo by Alberta Armstrong. The entire school then took part in a spelling match. The Bulletin was read by the editor, Ava Weer.

Joe Creggan spent a few days last week in Detroit.

Don't forget the date of the play, "Kathleen Mavourneen."

Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator will drive worms from the system without injury to the child, because its action, while fully effective, is mild.

CULTURE OF GLADIOLI

Good Advice About Producing This Glorious Bloom.

A Deep, Rich Loamy Soil is Preferred—Get Good Varieties to Start With—About Asparagus—When to Cut Wheat—Poultry Increase Income.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Location.—An open, sunny position suits them best.

Soil.—They prefer a deep, well drained, fairly rich, loamy soil, but will do well in almost any good garden soil. Do not dig in fresh straw manure at planting time. If any manure is used, it should be well rotted, and should be dug in so as not to come in direct contact with the corns or bulbs.

Manure is best dug in the fall previous to planting. The ground should be dug over again just before planting the corns.

Planting.—The corns (bulbs) may be planted any time in May or early June. Flowering corns should not be less than one and a half inches in diameter. Plant the corns from three to four inches deep and about six inches apart. They may be set either in rows about two feet or three feet apart, or in groups convenient for staking and cultivating.

Small corns (small bulbs) should be planted about two inches deep with the old corns, or separately.

Cutting Blooms.—Cut those with fairly long stems when two or three of the bottom flowers have opened, and put in water as soon as cut. If about half an inch of the stem is cut off every day or two, the spikes will continue in flower for a long time after being cut. The old spikes of flowers not cut off should be cut when they are through flowering before the seed forms on them.

Storing for Winter.—Gladioli corns should be dug and stored over winter. Dig the corns before severe frosts, about the middle of October. Cut off the tops a few inches above the ground, dig the corns, and put them in a shed or room away from the frost for about two weeks to dry, then put them in a cool fairly dry room or cellar, where they will not freeze, temperature about 40 deg. F. In very damp cellars they may be hung up in baskets, or tied in bunches and hung up to the joists.

Before planting the large corns for the next season's bloom, remove the remains of tops and the old corn at the bottom.

The small corns (or cornels) should also be removed. The small plants from the corns should be dug and stored during winter much in the same way as for the large flowering corns. Save corns (small bulbs) from the best varieties. It will take three or four years to grow flowering corns from the small corns to flower well.

The following are a few of the many varieties grown that will make a good collection for an amateur's garden:—

Afterglow, America, Augusta, Blue Jay, Cardinal, Contrast, Dawn, Rochester White, Kunderd Glory, Princeps, Pesca, Panama, La Luna, Mrs. Frank Pendleton, Niagara, Sulphur King, Schreben, Scribo, Wm. Falcor.

Collections of hybrid Gladioli will often give good results and are cheaper than named varieties if a large number is required. This list does not include many of the quite new varieties. Fairly good collections can be bought for from one to two dollars per dozen, and even cheaper. It pays to buy good varieties for a start, as they can be increased rapidly from the small corns.

Note.—When cutting flower spikes for decorative purposes do not cut the stem too low down. Leave two or three leaves below where they are cut to assist the corn to grow and develop. Cutting off all the foliage prevents the corn from developing.

The late Wm. Hunt, O. A. College, Guelph.

About Asparagus.

At the beginning of July all cutting of asparagus should cease, the beds should be heavily top-dressed with manure, and the plants allowed to grow during the remainder of the season. Careful spraying of this crop with poison Bordeaux is necessary if the beetles are very active. Keep the wheel hoe going during the early morning, so that weeds will be killed during the heat of the sun. Apply water as often as necessary, so that the plants will make a constant growth. Never work among plants while they are wet, as this spreads diseases.

When to Cut Wheat.

Wheat may be cut with safety when the straw has lost nearly all its green color and the grains are not entirely hardened. If cut sooner than this, shriveled kernels will result. If left standing until fully ripe, a bleached appearance, due to the action of the elements, often results, and loss from shattering may ensue. Wheat that is fully ripe is also more difficult to handle. Where the area of wheat is large, cutting should begin as early as it can be done safely.

Poultry Increase Income.

Produce fertile eggs by removing the roosters from the flock in the summer time. Provide clean nests and keep eggs clean.

Gather the eggs twice daily during the summer, to prevent them from being heated by the hen. Keep them in a cool dry place away from the fire.

Market them at least twice each week. Insist that they be bought on a quality basis.

Producers are admonished not to wash eggs.
