Another French Scandal.

PARIS, April 22.-An extraordinary scandal is on the point of becoming public. It is about forged drafts amounting to several millions of francs. Some names very high in the French aristocracy are compromised in the affair, in which may perhaps be also found the explanation of he documents said to have been forged by the negro N rton, which led to the prosecution of the editor of the Libre Parole. Mrs. Maybrick Again.

LONDON, April 22 .- Another attempt has been made to obtain the release of Mrs. Maybrick, who is undergoing a life term in Woking prison for the murder of her husband, A petition has been presented to Mr. Asquith. Home Secretary, praying for her discharge from prison and a number of affidavits are also submitted. These affidavits are to the effect that for many years Mr. Maybrick was a confirmed opium eater and was also addicted to the use of arsenic.

Austria's Big Fair. VIENNA, April 22 .- The International Exposition for the display of all kinds of articles in the departments of economic food, army and navy supplies, protection of life, security of transport, etc., was formally opened in the Rotunda on Saturday by Emperor Francis Joseph. The exhibition, which is held in the extensive grounds of the Prater and in the Rotunda, was organized by the Vienna Society for Propagating Agricultural Science, and is under the special patronage of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand, the Austro-Hungarian heir apparent. Among the exhibits is a special display of articles connected with sport. Shocking Loss of Life.

ATHENS, April 22.-Reports from the towns which have suffered most from the earthquakes of the last two days show the loss of life and property to be much greater than at first supposed. In the Locris district 129 persons are known to have been killed by falling walls, and many others are missing.

A parish church collapsed during vespers and 30 men and women were killed, while several who were dug out alive from the ruins are likely to die.

Ninety persons were buried in the ruins in Malesenia and 60 of them killed. In Martino 39 persons were killed by fall ing timbers. Most of them died within the walls of a church. Although there has been small loss of life in Athens and its environs, the damage to property has been

Tory Opposition to Reform Measures. London, April 22 .- The most bitter fight of the Parliamentary session will undoubtedly be made on the Registration Bill. The Opposition have already given intimation of their intention to contest to the last gassp the clauses providing for the abolition of plural voting, the holding of simultaneous elections and the three months' residence qualifications. Lord Salisbury in his speech to the Primrose League announced the fate c the bill in the event of its reaching the House of Lords, when he said that the Lords would reject the measure unless the plural voting and three months' residence c. ... we were withdrawn. With the clauses withdrawn there would be little left of the bill but the enacting clause. The bill providing for the disestablishment of the church in Wales will be introduced in the House of Commons by Mr. Asquith on Thursday. Like the Evicted Tenants' Bill, the Registration Bill and the budget proposals this measure will be fought to the death by the Conservatives. At a meeting of Conservative members held last evening it was decided to precipitate a division on the first reading of the bill, so that the fate of the measure may be decided before the end of the week. Out of No Respect for the Duke.

LONDON, April 22.-The big majority in the House of Commons in favor of continuing the grant of £10,000 to the Duke of Edinburgh is by no means to be regarded as testifying to the Duke's popularity or as evidence of Parliament's obsequiousness to royalty. It is a matter of fact that the Liberals voted to continue the grant very largely out of respect for Mr. Gladstone, who made she arrangement whereby the grant was conferred upon the Duke. Underlying the debate was a strong feeling of contempt for the Duke of Edinburgh, which was only half concealed. It is an open secret that both the Queen and the Prince of Wales intervened with the Duke and urged him to surrender the whole annuity after succession to the Coburg duchy, and it is also well known that both Lord Salisbury and Mr. Gladstone, with whom the Duke consulted, gave him advice similar to that given by the Queen and Prince of Wales. It was with the greatest difficulty that they persuaded him to surrender the £15,. 000, but nothing that could be said would induce him to give up that remaining £10,000. As the Radicals will annually renew their protests against the payment of the grant, royalty generally will have abundant reason to regret the Duke's meanness. His select English circle are circulating the report that the Duke intends to expend the entire sum of the grant in a month's junketing at Clarence House, his London residence. Public money continues to maintain Clarence House for him, but he will have to alter his character mightily if he becomes as lavish in his hospitality as his friends intimate, even at the expense of somebody

"Randy's" Rant.

London, April 22. - Lord Randolph Churchill, once the pet and rising hope of the Conservative party, whose speeches, even after he had wrecked his chances of the highest political distinction, were always listened to with the deepest attention, was the principal in a regrettable spectacle in the House in the course of the debate on the ducal annuity. During the speeches of Messrs. Labouchere and Storey Lord Randolph made numerous irrelevant and incoherent interruptions, which were greeted with shouts of derisive laughter from all parts of the House. His own speech was a savage and vehement attack upon the Radicals in general and upon Henry Labou-chere in particular. Churchill's speech called forth a running fire of laughter from the Radical benches. He looked ill and was decidedly excited, and he appeared to forget his misrepresentation of the previous speeches. On the other hand, he strewed his own with such phrases as 'revolting sentiment" and "vomiting Radical trash." Lord Randolph Churchill also eulogized Mr. Gladstone's "unfailing patriotism," the suppression of which he claimed was a serious loss to the House. The speaker then described the welting which he claimed that Mr. Gladstone would have administered to Henry Labouchere had the veteran Liberal leader been present upon that occasion. The description which Lord Randolph then gave of Mr. Labouchere as "feasting and intoxicating himself on royal grants" was received with a roar of significant laughter. During his remarkable speech Lord Randolph Churchill accused the Radicals of wanting to make the Duke of Edinburgh a crossing sweeper, whereupon Charles A. Convbeare (Radical) cried out: "His mother has plenty of

The Chronicle, commenting upon Lord Randolph's speech, says: "It would be merciful to draw a veil over the scene. Much to Mr. Balfour's relief, toward the end of his speech Lord Randolph quieted and quoted an effective passage from a speech made by O'Connell.

The Westminster Gazette also comments upon this extraordinary episode.

A Harbinger of Peace. BERLIN, April 22 .- The important event which Emperor William was the first to announce at Coburg, namely, the betrothal of the Grand Duke Nicholas, Czarewitch of Russia, to the Princess Alix of Hesse, is looked upon as a cementing of the new entente between Russia and Germany and as securing a prolonged period of European peace. Although the rumor of the betrothal has frequently been circulated, only to be as frequently denied, the announcement that it was an actual fact was a com- A few days ago a firm of fine art dealers plete surprise to every member of the Hesse family. The betrothal has been spoken of as impossible of realization. and there is no doubt that it is almost directly traceable to the influence of Emperor William. The Czarewitch is known to have entertained a feeling of affection for several years for the Princess Alix. But it is said that she would not be persuaded into an early marriage, and it is also asserted that Queen Victoria could not be prevailed upon to give her assent to the union. It is added that the Queen's refusal was purely sentimental and non-political, being based upon the notorious ill-treatment of the sister of the Princess Alix, Princess Elizabeth, the wife of Grand Duke Sergius of Russia, by her husband. More-over, political and religious hindrances existed in both countries, and it was believed that such a marriage was impossible. This was particularly true while Prince Bismarck was at the head of affairs; for he feared that England would reap the edvantage of it, and, in addition, the pan-Slavist party in Russia, headed by the all powerful procurator of the holy synod, Pobiedonoszuff, insisted that the heir to the throne of Russia must marry a Slavonic princess. During the fetes at Coburg the young people almost ostentatiously kept apart. But they will arrive at Darmstadt to-morrow with the Grand Duke Sergius and the grand duchess, his wife. The Battenburgs will also accompany the party of the Grand Duke Sergius to Darmstadt.

The members of the royal families who are still at Coburg were yesterday photographed in their various family groups, and the photographs will be exchanged between the different members of these families, as mementoes of the wedding.

Emperor William, before leaving Coburg, conferred the Order of the Red Eagle upon Prince Henry of Battenberg. In addition, Emperor William presented a valuable gold snuff box, having on its cover an enamel miniature of himself set in diamonds, to Grand Marshal Ratibor, who superintended the wedding ceremonies. The Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha (the Duke of Edinburgh) gave a state concert last night before Queen Victoria and the rest of the wedding guests. Mme. Albani sang and Nachez played the violin. Several distinguished artists from the Berlin Opera House also appeared.

Randolph Churchill's Extraordinary Conduct Explained.

Disappointment Over the Queen's Drawing-Room Edict.

Scenes in Parliament.

London, April 23 .- Each House of Parliament last Friday night was startled by a scene quite unparalleled in their respective histories. The House of Lords was suddenly amazed by the spectacle of a noble peer standing with a pistol leveled at the head of Lord Salisbury. The dramatic situation was the climax to the queer speech by Lord Stanley, who was advocating a bill to restrict the sale of firearms. No dealer was to sell a pistol except to the holder of a game license, and married women were to be debarred from having a license under any conditions, husbands being outside the definition of fair game within the meaning of the bill. As Lord Stanley gravely explained this provision the House roared with laughter, and there was not a dry eye on either the Ministerial or the Opposition side. The beauty of the situation was that the noble lord was in dead earnest throughout. He produced two small boys as dreadful examples of the present laxity. One of the boys had recently shot the other seriously. Then Lord Stanley produced deadly weapons from various pockets. Finally a murmur of surprise caused Lord Salisbury to look up from the letter he was reading. He found himself confronting the barrel of a pistol with a finger on the trigger. The leader of the Opposition shrank back and exclaimed hurriedly to the excited speaker: 'Keep the point downward."

Lord Stanley obligingly lowered the weapon and handed it to the Prime Minis-

The other scene was one about which the London newspapers have been charitably silent. It was the pitiful spectacle made by Lord Randolph Churchill in attempting to speak on the Coburg grant in the House of Commons. The once brilliant leader acted the part of a buffoon. He was inco. herent, maudlin, and much which he said was upreportable. The House was at first inclined to laugh at his clownish antics, but soon grew disgusted, and the members drew away from him. Balfour, overcome with shame for his friend, covered his face with his hands until the painful exhibition

It would have been said of any other man that he was disgracefully drunk. It should be explained in charity that Lord Randolph Churchill is suffering from an incurable disease, which sometimes renders him irresponsible, and which must soon force his retirement. The least indulgence is fatal to his self-possession.

Picture Sensorship Rebuked. Glasgow's police censorship of modern art has at length raised a genuine storm. exhibited in a window six mezzotints of well-known pictures of the best English artists. On the second day the chief constable called and requested that they be removed, on the ground that they were not fit for public inspection. The pictures were Sir Frederick Leighton's "Bath of Psyche," Watt's "Diana and Endymion," Poynter's "Visit to Æsculapius," Arthur Hacker's "Syrinx," and Solomon's "Orpheus" and "The Judgment of Paris." The artists concerned have been writing indignant letters to their friends on the subject. That of Sir Frederick Leighton is the best. He says:

"I learn with surprise and regret that Glasgow, alone, I think, among the large cities of Great Britain still lags in the stage in which works inspired solely by a desire to express the dignity and beauty of the noblest work of creation, the human form, awaken only suggestions of the obscene. This, however, is a matter which cannot be dealt with from without, certainly not by action on the part of the artists who produced these works. Time only and the increasing influence of the more enlightened of your citizens, who, I believe, are many, can be looked to to bring about a more whole some, and, let me add, cleaner frame of Men Out of Fashion.

The picture dealers insist that men are entirely out of fashion in the art world. Sir William Harcourt mentioned a case in point recently. Some time ago he went to Christie's, where he saw a good picture of Lord Rockingham, the last Whig Prime Minister, by Sir Joshua Reynolds. He asked the expert what the value was. He replied that if it had been the picture of an unknown lady it would fetch about £5,000, but as it was only the portrait of a Prime

The Queen's Drawing-Rooms.

Aristocratic and fashionable people are said to be in a state of hysterical indignation over the official announcement that only 200 presentations will be made at each of the two drawing-rooms held by the Queen next month. Such an arbitrary limitation is declared to be without precedent, ungenerous, despotic, unjust, and what not, and it is suggested that Lord Carrington, Liberal Lord Chamberlain, in enforcing such an arbitrary rule is acting in the interests of his party in the hope of "stirring up strife against the court as well as against the House of Lords." It is needless to say that his lordship is quite innocent of any such dark design, and is in no way responsible for the obnoxiou regulation, which is due to the Queen's own orders. A drawing-room is certainly a very fatiguing ceremony for the aged sovereign, and one can understand and sympathize with her anxiety to limit the number of presentations; but the change has been made so suddenly that, according to the aristocratic grumblers, it will entail heavy losses upon families who had already prepared to present their daughters by taking town houses, ordering dresses, etc. Now they learn that the Lord Chamberlain's lists are full and that they will have to wait for months and possibly a whole year.

Other Cable Gossip. The weather during the week has been seasonable; rainy, but no colder. The crop prospects have improved. The wheat market has been quieter, owing to the change of weather. TO TRADE WITH CANADA.

Senator Washburn Pleads for a Commercial Arrangement With the Dominion.

And Reciprocity Provisions in the Tariff -Canada's Trade Naturally With the States.

Washington, April 23.-W. D. Washburn (Republican, Pennsylvania), took the floor by agreement when the House at 1 p.m. resumed consideration of the tariff bill. In a speech directed principally to the effect of the proposed repeal of the reciprocity provisions of the McKinley Bill upon the farmers of the Northwest, he gave notice that at the proper time he would offer an amendment that the removal and reduction of duties provided for in the bill should apply only to articles imported from countries that shall have made reciprocal and equivalent concessions in their tariff laws. He was not only opposed, he said, to the termination of existing reciprocity arrangement, but he was in favor of applying the same principle to all foreign trade with the United States. On the question of trade relations with Canada, Mr. Washburn said: "The laws of nature and the laws of trade require Canada to come to the markets of the United States to purchase what she requires and to sell what she has to dispose of, and in spite of the tremendous influences exercised by the officials and commercial organ of England, in spite of the enormous amount of English capital invested in the Dominion, in spite of restraint that is placed upon the people by the Government, and in spite of the heavy duties they levy upon our products, nearly half of their trade is with us. Their exports usually reach the sum of $100,000. 000. Of this Great Britain takes about one-half, the United States about 40 per cent, the West Indies 3 per cent and the balance is divided between other countries in Europe. There is no question, he said, that England will consent to any commercial arrangement that may be negotiated by the United States and Canada, although she will do it reluctantly, as she did in the case of her colonies in the West Indies. He closed by strongly recommending a commercial arrangement with Canada.

Store - A Chimney

Fire.

The firemen were kept busy on Saturday from early morning to late at night. They had four runs, the first at T. B. Escott's store in the morning. At 6:55 a.m. a burning chimney took them to John street and again at 9:20 they were called to Miss Wheaton's millinery establishment on Richmond street, near Dundas. A lamp had exploded and spoiled some of the stock, but the damage was not extensive. One of the lady assistants was carried out in a fainting condition.

At midnight the outlook at No. 2 station saw a glare in the south, and thinking that a fire existed among some of the old disused oil buildings in the southeastern portion of the city the company sent in an alarm and started out. They followed Rectory street to the river bank and were soon joined by the city companies. The fire was away across the river in Westminster township, and from their point of vantage the firemen could see the bare brick walls of Thos. Belcher's dwelling house still standing, while the barn and a stable were also destroyed. The house was not used during the winter months, and must have been fired by tramps. About fifteen of these gentry were noticed loitering around the Port Stanley track during the day. The premises were situated on concession B. The damage is estimated to be in the neighborhood of $2,500. The insurance is unknown. The house was one that had been burglarized early in the winter, and the young men who did the work are now in the Central Prison. There is much complaint of tramps, who hang around outside the city limits and beg, borrow or steal as occasion or necessity demands. The city police keep them out of town, but they have no fear of the county officials. Mr. Belcher is a commercial traveler and is living in South London. The South London brigade made an effort to reach the scene of the fire, but turned back on reaching the city limits on the Wellington road.

Will the "Old Miller" Reply?

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER. Would you kindly inform me who the writer is of a piece of poetry in the issue of paper of April 18 by the "Old Miller," suggested by reading F. H. Wilkinson's poem, "The Old Mill Wheel," at the Medway mills, London, Ont.? By so doing you will greatly oblige. Yours respectfully.

That old mill wheel at the "Medway"

I was too young to remember when it was built, but remember well when it was taken out for modern wheels. I think the wheel spoken of was built in 1847 and was taken out in 1862 or 1863. Publication of Assessment Rolls. To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

At the instance of No. 1 committee, assisted by Ald. Pritchard, the City Council on April 2 voted down Ald. Parnell's motion to publish the assessment roll. For two years past the aldermen have as well as small property owners and tenants, have greatly desired the publication of these rolls that the assessment might be equalized. There are many facts affecting the value of a piece of property which it is to the owner's interest to say nothing about, and which the assessors have no opportunity of discovering. The publication of the rolls would prove many assessments to be wretchedly unfair, especially to small property holders. It would show that there are in this city residential properties costing up in the thousands not assessed at over a third of their value, on the ground that their owners are doing good to the city by investing in business and employing labor, while near by there are workingmen's cottages assessed to the full value of the land they stand on, of every board in them and of every hour's labor expended on them. The case of business properties is known to be even worse than this, and the present method of leaving the written rolls in the city offices shuts them off from the inspection of the daily workers as effectually as if they were locked in a bank vault. On the ground that it was prying into private business, Alderman Pritchard claimed it an impertinence to inquire into any man's assessment. It is time the aldermen discovered that nothing is the private business of one man in which others are concerned with him. Every man whose taxes are going with Alderman Pritchard's to make up the expenses of the city is concerned in Alderman Pritchard's assessment exactly in the same way that the alderman's business partner is concerned in the quantity of capital that he may put into or take out of the business; and just as there is nothing fair between business partners but a well-kept set of books open to the inspection of either of them at any time, so there is nothing fair between the citizens of London but full knowledge of the share each is contributing to the city expenses. This is not "private business" at all, it is public business, and the impertinence and stupidity rest all with Alderman Pritchard and No. 1 committee. The wage-earners of this city, from whose labors the taxes come-whoever may hand the money to the collector-intend to have these rolls published, even, if necessary, at the expense of the municipal heads of Alderman Pritchard and the members of the committee that recommended "no action."

The sermon was preached by Rev. Dean Innes and Rev. Mr. Crisp assisted in the service. The text was taken from First St. Peter, 2nd chapter and 17th verse:

"Honor all, love the brotherhood, fear God and honor the king." They had assembled, the preacher said, as British subjects on British soil to strengthen each other's hearts and to encourage each other in action; not only to bind them more closely together as brethren, but to show reverence to the King of Kings. In the proper interpretation of the text must rest the secret of all national greatness. It was their duty to observe those rules, to strive heart and soul to obey them. They would then be better men, more loyal and more loving. It was very fitting that their thoughts on such a day should dwell mostly on their motherland. But Canada was the fairest gem in England's crown. The mighty circuit of the earth's extremes would soon be united by electricity, and England, Australia, India and Canada would soon be knit together with England's other colonies, forming the mightiest empire the earth had ever seen. St. George's Society, though widely scattered, owned the same principles all the world over, and those principles tended to unification and to encourage those virtues so strongly presented in the text. National power was not necessarily national greatness. National greatness could only come to the hearts of people who were true to their God. As Englishmen they loved their national honor, observed their national day, and were delighted to hear their nation praised; but nevertheless these demonstrations had been known to be manifested by the most degraded people. Standing alone, national love was no evidence of national greatness. A nation to be anything more than a mere empty show must possess the elements of rightourness and truth. The preacher referred to England's progress and greatness, and to the substitution of arbitration for war. He urged Canadians to remain attached to England's principles, and let their motto ever be "For God and For Our Country."

Oddfellows Celebrate Their 75th Anniversary.

A Large Number of the Brethren March to St. James', South London.

The St. George's Society and Sons of England Attend Divine Service at St. Paul's Cathedral.

Yesterday was a notable day in the annals of Oldfellowship in London, owing to the fact that the 75th anniversary of the order was celebrated by a church parade which has never before been surpassed. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the members of the city lodges assembled in their respective rooms and donned their regalia. Chorazin, No. 190, of East London, joined Dominion, No. 48, Eureka, No. 30, and Forest City, No. 38, at the Oddfellows' Hall, and sharp at 3 o'clock fell into line. Headed by the full band of the Seventh and the Canton, they marched to St. James' Church, South London, where a suitable sermon was preached by the rector, Rev. Canon Davis. Besides the London brethren in line were several from Howard Lodge, Strathroy, who looked very attractive with silk hats, white kid gloves and canes. Glanworth and Dorchester also helped to swell the number to between 300 and 400.

The efficient choir at St. James' Church, assisted by several members of the order, furnished music in a very creditable manner. The collection was large and will be devoted to the Oddfellows' cot in the City Hospital.

Canon Davis chose as his text Gal. vi., 2, and in his introductory remarks said: "I desire this afternoon to bid you welcome to St. James' Church, the place you have selected to observe this 75th anniversary of your order, and if I may say it, I think the grand sire of this noble society has acted with becoming prudence in calling upon the thousands of members throughout the world to celebrate the occasion. You will find few societies having a prouder history, reaching over three-quarters of a century-a history so long and so grand as regards the noble work and deeds of brotherly love and charity. You can boast of an influence for good, and I may say it is no small honor to London to have among us as a citizen the grand sire of the marry William Mathews, who pleaded in order, who is present at this service. Your growth has been marked and you have secured the good will of all reasonable $690,740. men wherever you have planted your order.' Canon Davis then dwelt on the duties of all in reference to burden bearing, and with Messrs. Hiram Walker & Sons' imagain speaking of the work of the order he said: "As a fraternal society the Odd-fellows stand among the first who teach the brotherhood of man. As brothers we can say 'Our Father.' Therefore as a benevolent institution you recognize and teach the brotherhood of man. I gather from the reports that your total membership has now reached over 900,000, and just to appropriate the words used by the grand sire at the grand lodge of 1893, I would see an portions that the annual revenue reaches $8,000,000. But what has it to do with this sum? It has a work of charity to carry on - the relief of human suffering and the alleviation of mankind, Last year this society spent $3,500,000 for the help of the needy, but a still greater work remains untabulated through the operations of your 1,500 or more branches, where every week are taught those lessons of fraternity and of morality. These words express something of the extent of the work that is being done. It is very hard to thoroughly realize what $8,500,000 will really accomplish. I candidly tell you I cannot give a clear estimate of it. It is also impossible to state what good has been done by the order at large-an order which I am told is carrying on this good work in fifteen nations of the civilized world. Among the many northerly portions of Lambton and Middleinstitutions which are constantly diffusing sex and the southern portions of the G. T.R. comfort, Oddfellowship holds a most and C. P. R. railroads, as well as more prominent position, and you, it may be said, belong to a society which is strong, useful and influential, and one of which you may well be proud. In this Province of Ontario aione you claim to have a membership in 1893, of 20,572, and in that same year were initiated 2,126. In the same year, too, the order as large has added 50,000 to its membership. But it is not the members that I desire to speak of. It is the good which is done. In the year just past you gave sick benefits in the Province to 3,173 of your brethren, and aid to 146 widows and 54 fatherless children. The widows received the handsome sum of nearly $11,000, while the orphans, with no person to guide them, were remembered to the extent of $1,003. Besides this again, the sick benefits to brethren totaled $44,607 28, showing very plainly that they were not forgotten. In addition to this I notice the sum of $5,215 has been paid to doctors for medical attendance on the poorer brethren, and perhaps better still you have paid to nurses the sum of $2,228 39, and fer burying those whom God in his providence has called from your midst, $5,853 50, showing that the departed dead have the respect of the brethren who survive them. Who can estimate the blessings that such good works of charity are sure to result in? No mortal tongue can describe the thankfulness for help of that kind in the hour of need and trial. It is truly burden bearing-taking care of the destitute, the widows and the orphans. May God continue to bless and prosper your order in every good work which you

They recognize that the Patron order was not formed to aid in the defeat of a statesman like Sir Oliver Mowat.

-T. V. Powderly, the distinguished labor and temperance advocate, has distinctly scored in replying to the attack made upon him by the Toronto Empire. On the unsupported allegation of Le Caron. the notorious professional spy, who figured with Piggot in the attempt to bring the Irish members of Parliament into disgrace, the chief Conservative newspaper denounced the labor and temperance organizations of Toronto for bringing Powderly to that city, seeing, as it alleged, he had been guilty of counseling the destruction of life as a means of premoting his views. Mr. Powderly now points out that in 1889, Sir John Macdonald characterized Le Caron as a liar when he said that the Government of Canada had paid him money to do detective work for them. Sir John further said that he knew nothing of Le Caron or his work. "I don't think," says Powderly, "the Empire could very consistently give Le Caron a character for truthfulness as against me and accuse him of slander in the case of the late Premier." Mr. Powderly also prints a letter that Le Caron sent him, counseling the blowing up and destruction of railway property during a great strike, to which the labor leader never replied, but which he very properly sent to London at the time of the Parnell inquiry to show what kind of a man the spy was. After this Le Caron published his book, maligning Powderly. On this unstable foundation did the chief Conservative organ in Canada found its bitter attack on Powderly and those who brought him to Canada. It certainly owes both Powderly and his legion of friends an apology. The testimony on which it relies is absolutely unreliable.

CLOSE OF THE LEGISLATURE. In order to facilitate the transaction of the business of the Legislature, Sir Oliver Mowat proposed that the Legislature should hold a half-day sitting on Saturday. as a peculiarly appropriate tint, and in Mr. Meredith objected, and the House did not sit. It will puzzle many people to find a legitimate objection to the legislators working six days a week like the rest of us, especially towards the end of the session, when all are anxious to have the Legislature prorogued. Since Mr. Meredith became the city solicitor for Toronto, however, his time has been much occupied, and it was probably a consciousness of this fact that moved the Premier to respect the plea of the Toronto advocate that no session should be held on Saturday.

The probability now is that the Legisla. ture will finish its business on Thursday next, and be prorogued on Friday. When it will be dissolved is as yet a State secret. but as June has always been a lucky month, we would not be at all surprised if the decree should go forth that on some day of the rosy 30 the contest should take

EAST MIDDLESEX.

On Saturday afternoon, the Conservative convention for East Middlesex nominated Mr. James Gilmour, of Dorchester, as candidate for the Legislature. Mr. Tooley dirt: was very anxious to run, but was shunted aside. The same fate met Mr. Shore, the Patron candidate, who, four weeks ago, was so strongly indorsed in the Conservative convention that an adjournment had to be made to prevent his adoption as candidate of that party also. In the adjourned convention many of the Shore men were absent, and Mr. Elson and Mr. Gil-names were voted on. The situation is such as to call for early action by the Liberal party in the riding. A meeting of the East Middlesex Liberal Association should be convened at once, with the object of making the necessary preparations for holding a convention to arrange for the coming general election. The day of election cannot be a long way off, and the Liberals should put their candidate in the field as speedily as possible.

THE STICKIT MINISTER.* speaking literary world is Mr. S. R. Crockett's new book, "The Stickit Minister and Some Common Men." In this work Mr. Crockett writes somewhat after the fashion of J. M. Barrie, just as in his book "The Raiders" he appears to lean towards the style and manner of Stevenson. "The Sticket Minister" is a charming work. It is a wonderful collection of stories illustrative of Scottish life and character, leaning somewhat more to the tragic than Barrie's sketches; but affording many picturesque glimpses of the humors of everyday existence in the northland. In the first tale, from which the book takes its title, there is a perfect word-picture, lovely in its simplicity and inspiriting in its nobility. Robert Fraser had only a little time to live-the seeds of consumption had been sown in his constitution-so he employed his ebbing life in self-sacrificing devotion. He was "the stickit minister." which means that he had "stickit" or broken down in his studies. Of course, all the countryside blamed Robert Fraser for perseverance. He could have explained all satisfactorily, but he kept his own counsel, seeing that his brother, who was both ungrateful and rapacious, profited by his cessation. Robert | trar !' had been told that he might live five years at most, so he told the girl he loved and released her; then he broke up his own course of study for the university and sent his brother to be a doctor instead. Pathetically tragic was the end of this young preacher-a victim to the slander of a strange woman, who "met with the fate

The story of "The Heather Lintie" is of poor maiden lady, Janet Balchrystie, of Babrax. She had a longing to be a poet, and after much writing in the poet's corner of the local paper at New Dalry, gathered together her verses, and arranged for their publication in book form. Janet's only way of correcting proof was to write out again the whole poem in a neat print hand on the edge of the proof and underscoring the words which were to be altered. The book was out at last in a binding of a deadly blue shade, chosen by Janet herself paper "sufficiently grey," which had "suffered from want of thorough washing in the original paper mill." Janet published her whole name and style, since she felt, after due consideration, that she was not justified in bringing about such a controversy as divided Scotland concerning the "great unknown" who wrote the Waverly novels. Poor Janet, little did she think what a tragic end that awaited her endeavor to attain fame. The reviewer of the Night Hawk, a noted journal published in a great city of the north, waited his opportunity. He was the junior reporter as well, and he deemed it his duty to write two columns of criticism of the efforts of this poor poetess. He turned on her poems his best epithets, sarcasm and Parthian shafts. " Miss Bal-and so forth (he pretended he

She was almost beside herself with joy, and she prayed God not to let her be puffed up with this praise of the world. Tears of thankfulness rained on the much-prized paper as she held it close to her breast. "I can wait till the morning to read it," she said. Through the spaces The sensation of the day in the English of the Long Wood of Barbrax came the Angel of the Presence in the night, and they found her in the morning, the Night Hawk clasped close to her breast in a clasp they could not loosen.

It is just such tale-bearers that make the life of some preachers almost unbearable. TOOK COURAGE AT LAST.

James Gilmour Nominated by East Middlesex Conservatives.

Mr. Tooley, M.P.P., the Party's Old War Horse, Turned Out to Pasture-Mr. Elson Was Not In It and Mr. Whetter, Following Mr. Tooley's Example, Withdrew.

After several month's delay and much nesitation and juggling between the Patron nominee and the P. P. A. dark horse, the Conservative party of East Middlesex on Saturday took courage, and standing right up on its own hind legs nominated a man of its own free will and party persuasion. Mr. James Gilmour, of Dorchester, was the choice of the convention, and the old party war horse, Richard Tooley, M.P.P., was gently but firmly turned out to pasture. For three months past the delegates have been trying through storm and shine to bring out a candidate. From the very first it could easily be seen that Mr. Tooley "was not in it." At one meeting the majority appeared to favor supporting the Patron candidate, Mr. Shore, but the pillars and "heelers" of the party, by dint of "Old Glory" speeches and recrimination, staved it off and carried a motion to adjourn for a month. It was the adjourned meeting that was held on Saturday, and the delegates in attendance made up their minds to nominate or lose themselves in the effort. The number present of delegates proper was not large as the roll call showed. That the attendance of those who were not delegates was large, was easily seen from the scores that were turned out of doors at the critical stage of the nomination. In the speeches reference was made to the lack of delegates, and it was suggested that another delay of a month be made, as the farmers were probably busy seeding. But fearing, perhaps, that the seedtime would pass and the harvest be upon them at the rate they were moving, the majority decided to settle it that day one way or another. Mr. Tooley gracefully withdrew his name from the convention and was received with applause.

Mr. Richard Whetter also declined to stand. Then Mr. James Gilmour and Mr. Peter Elson were left in the field. Both made speechesof the orthodox stamp. About this time Major Thomas Beattie and several others applied for admission to the hall. "Are you delegates?" asked the inner keeper. "Well, no one but delegates are al-

"Surely you are not ashamed of what you are doing," replied one of the party.

They went in only to return in a moment with about 50 others who were not delegates. They stood in groups around the hall for about fifteen minutes, until a burst of applause told them that a selection had been made. Mr. Elson was one of the first to get back to the hall, but he was received with a silence that explained plainly that | States. So determined are the people to he had not been chosen. If elected he would not draw his pay and do nothing, but would earn his money

Mr. Elson assured the convention that they had made the best choice, and urged all to go to work with a will for Mr. Gilmour's election.

Richard Tooley was then tendered a vote of thanks-written in lead pencil and on the flyleaf of a notebook-as a reward for | dom, and surely the Divine hand does not his twenty years' work in the House. It was moved by Mr. S. F. Glass and seconded by Mr. Martin.

Mr. Tooley, in reply, hoped that many | fluential than years would elapse before East Middlesex was represented by other than a Conservative. He prophesied defeat for the Patron candidate, Mr. Shore, and felt sure that that gentleman had been promised votes by many who would not support him.

The convention then closed. An ADVERTISER representative had a talk with one of the delegates afterwards. He did not know what to think about the nomination, but rather thought it a bad job, because between Mr. Shore and Mr. Gilmour a Liberal candidate would stand a good chance to be elected. He thought the convention would have been wise to indorse Mr. Shore, the Patron candidate. "We all know how Mr. Shore stands," said he. "We know that he is with us, and he will get enough Conservative votes to weaken Mr. Gilmour."

A Man Made Happy .- GENTLEMEN, -For five years I have been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only seemed a drag to me. When I would go to sleep I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest either day or night. But with the use of only two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the wonderful curative qualities possessed by this medicine, that are specially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything, and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGE-TABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim for it.

THE NECRO RACE.

Emancipation in the South Only a that unpretentious structure which was Myth.

Slavery Exists To-Day as of Yore, Only in Another Form.

George Wrigley, in Canada Farmers' Sun, The colored people in the South are still in a condition of slavery.

The emancipation of the negro has been effected in name only. The children of the slaves of 30 years ago are in serfdom as truly to-day as were their parents then. A trip through the Southern States is a revelation to a resident of the North. To me it has been more than a surprise. The condition of the people, white and colored, is a study that is interesting in the ex-

In this letter, although my trip has been completed, I will not attempt to give my impressions of the South as an objective point for immigration. I will be satisfied if I am able to present a few ideas from the standpoint of humanity.

That slavery existed before the sixties is a fact that will not be disputed. People are not agreed, however, as to the extent the colored people were in bondage. There can be no doubt about the cruelty and inhumanity of capturing the natives of Africa and bearing them far away from their native shore. Family ties were broken, and there was an utter disregard for the comfort of the captives on the part of those who, to acquire wealth, carried on this nefarious business.

While, however, the manner of bringing the negro to the South was inexcusably wrong, and while there were many Legrees who, in the days of slavery, unmercifully applied the lash for the most trivial offienses, and masters who heeded not the ties of relationship in the purchase and sale of slaves, the faithful historian will record the fact that many of the planters were not unkind to those whose lot it was to serve in slavery under them. It is questionable whether the colored people as a class were not happier in the olden days than they are now.

EMANCIPATION MEANS FREEDOM, but negroes are not free. They never can be free until the same privileges are extended to them by law as are given to white people. They are not free when the law requires that the railroads shall provide a separate compartment on trains and separate waiting rooms at railway stations for the use of colored people and prohibits their admission into a compartment or room occupied by white people. On my return trip through Kentucky, the day coach was over-crowded and I was seated in an 8x10 smoking compartment in one end of the car with some other passengers, when the conductor entered at a way station and said he must request us to remove into another car in order that two negroes who had come on board might occupy our compartment. I asked the conductor if I might not be permitted to remain seated with the colored men if 1 chose to do so, and was informed that if he allowed me to do so he would be subject to a fine of $500 under a State law similar to that which exists in all the Southern perpetuate race distinctions that even the freedom of the white people to do as they might choose to do in a way that certainly

The negroes are not free when municipalities will place at the entrance of parks when they are not permitted to enjoy the same privileges as white people as guests at hotels and places of public entertainment. They are not free when the line of demarcation is drawn in churches, as in hotels, and when white and colored people may not worship God in the same pew and become members of the same church. The law of the land does not prevent this freeprevent that communion of souls that brings a blessing to all who love and serve the King of all nations. No power less in-

By many people in the South the colored people are spoken of as animals, and one veritable Legree told me that it was impossible to induce them to perform faithful service without occasionally taking them into the bush and strapping them. Slavery abolished, forsooth! Let every colored person in the South be removed, and in their places let white people of average intelligence who now are deemed worthy of exercising and enjoying the full privileges of citizenship be placed bearing upon their foreheads the same damnable marks of ostracism and prohibition, and how long do soldiers who died that freedom might be these men of intelligence and superiority believe the white men would continue to be more intelligent and thrifty and less in- | I saw the well-cared-for graves of 13,000 different and careless than are the Southern negroes to-day? When the people understand that the faults and failings of the negroes are the result of a condition, a change may be effected that will improve the position of white and colored people see no reason why they should be other-

On a Sunday afternoon in Louisiana we on a log with the hot sun beaming on his uncovered head sat a negro reading. Asked what he was reading, he replied, "History, sir." An hour later when we were returning the negro sat there still intently engaged with his book, and when asked what history he was reading he said it was a HISTORY OF THE BIBLE. A member of our party thereupon vouchsafed the statement that an eastern professor had recently ascertained that where lending libraries exist the negro readers use fewer books of fiction and a greater number of works on history than do the white people. Under proper influences the colored people are more easily influenced and instructed than are many of those who assume to belong to a superior race of people.

We attended a Sunday evening service in a colored church in Delhi, La. Revival services had been conducted about a fortnight before. The church was crowded and many of the negroes were standing when we entered the building. Two clergymen occupied the pulpit, one of whom was preaching. Several pews were quietly vacated by their occupants to aford accommodation for about twenty white visitors. The sermon was not interrupted, the fervid address of the preacher being continued about fifteen minutes after our arrival. None but those who have attended such a service can understand how charming are the words uttered in an ever-varying tune, for the oratory of a native colored preacher is very unlike that of a clergyman in any of our Canadian churches. After the sermon a hymn was lined by the second preacher, and when it had been heartily sung an exhortation such as had never before been heard by any of the northern visitors was crack in his voice.

uttered. It was impassioned and eloquent, and elicited frequent exclamations of praise and prayer from the devout worshipers in

KNOWN AS THE "NIGGER CHURCH." The ringing appeals of the speaker were heard at all times above the murmur of voices that joined in melodies of indescribable sweetness, and the listeners could only imagine that angels hovered not far distant from the humble throng that so readily responded to the invitation to indicate their devotion to the cause of the Divine Master and Saviour of mankind. The influence of that service will be felt to their dying day by some at least who went out of curiosity to see and hear the services in a colored church. But the freedom of worship is no greater to-day than the freedom that was enjoyed by the colored reople in the days of their captivity.

The white people of the South are an unambitious class. They are careless and shiftless and few of them perform any labor. The better class, indeed, male and female, consider it demeaning to labor in any capacity. Work is performed largely by the colored people, nearly all of whom are kept about a year in arrears by merchants and others with whom they have accounts. It may readily be understood, therefore, that they are easily kept the dupes of the white people who carry on business and own the land. Merchants charge their own prices for goods, and landowners exact a heavy rental for the 25-acre plots that are usually leased to each colored tenant. A cheap cabin costing all the way from $25 to $100 is all the expenditure needed on each lot, and a rental of $3 per acre is charged. This sum is about half the amount for which the land can be purchased, a common price being from $5 to $10 per acre. A comparison of this rental with the amount paid in Canada for improved leased property will indicate how completely the colored people are made to serve the masters of the situation, the landholders in every locality in the South.

THE DUTY OF THE STATE. It should be the duty of the State to interpose on behalf of the negro and encourage him to become a land-holder himself. Here and there some negroes have raised themselves from the subservient condition in which most of them are found and have acquired wealth, position and honor in their localities. Under a proper system of government and instruction all might occupy positions of independence rather than of dependence upon others. The amount paid for rental should in a few years place the property worked in the possession of those who perform the labor upon it. The opportunity of the negro in the South is better than that of millions of white toilers in factories and on farms in the North, whose energy and perseverance cannot win for them a home in town or country under the conditions that exist to-day. The negro in the South is a slave because he has no ambition to lift himself out of his humble position; the white man in the North is a slave in spite of his effort to acquire independence among his fellows. It cannot be said that the negro has not the ability to provide for himself under favorable conditions, for last week in Grand Rapids, Mich., the fourth annual convention of the Michigan Equal Rights Association of Colored Citizens was held. The officers elected were: F. P. Wood, Tecumseh, president; W. L. Burton, Adrian, vice-president; J. H. Gray, Saginaw, secretary; H. G. Jackson, Lansing, treasurer, and Thos. presented by the officers showed that the association had a membership in the State of 10,500, and that in fifteen counties over $500,000 worth of property is owned by colored residents. The intelligence of the members of the association is indicated by a resolution passed favoring the enforcement of all good laws and the punishment of law breakers, but denouncing as barbarous and infamous the custom of lynching.

A BRIGHTER DAY SHOULD COME. There ought to be a brighter day for the colored people in the South as well as in the North, but that day is not yet here. The people of the North whose relatives fought and died to procure the abolition of slavery refuse to fraternize with their fellow beings who were liberated, and it is because they do this that separate accommodation is provided for the negroes at hotels and stations and on railway trains. A landlord who is largely patronized by travelers ronage a single day if he did not conform to their wishes and exclude those who are objected to as guests and fellow travelers.

By what right, then, do Northern men who refuse to recognize the freedom of the negro claim that the bodies of the Union soldiers should be cared for more tenderly than the bodies of soldiers who died in the Confederate army? If living citizens of the North recognized the principle of freedom for the negro in its entirety, there might be some reason why the Government should provide and care for national cemeteries in which are resting the remains of the purchased for those in slavery. In one of hese national cemeteries at Chattanooga Union soldiers, 5,000 of whom were unknown. A little distance away was an unpretentious cemetery maintained by citizens only, in which rested the bodies of Confederate soldiers, unwept, unhonored by Government and unsung. If the Naalike. If the negroes lack ambition now tional Government pensions the surviving and are ignorant, it surely is because they soldiers of the Union army and refuses to recognize the men who suffered and were wounded and disabled in the Confederate army, surely the people of the North should drove a few miles into the country. Seated | not cause the bones of the dead Union heroes to roll over in their graves because the freedom for which they fought has never been recognized.

CHAGRIN AND ANGER ARE PROVOKED. Apart from the injustice of any citizen of the United States refusing to recognize the entire freedom of all other citizens, black or white, there is another consideration affecting the welfare of the nation. The white Southerner never relished his defeat, but his disappointment and humiliation gave way long ago to chagrin and anger when the dead soldiers of one army were cared for and its survivors pensioned, while the dead and survivors of the other were ignored by the National Government. I have said, moreover, that the white people in the South are a shiftless class, and the lack of ambition on their part has brought further humiliation upon them. Pushing fellows from the North have recognized the advantages for trading, farming, mining, raising stock, fruits, etc., in the South, and by prospering, as many of them have done. they have still further aggravated the Southern white people. Only one man out of many to whom I spoke endeavored to persuade me that amity existed between the people of the North and South. All the others freely expressed the feelings they entertained. I must, however, defer my further remarks until a future occasion. I believe I have said enough to indicate that the emancipation of the negro has been effected only in name. It is a lamentable fact, but altogether too true.

Mr. Hoyt does not claim the innovating prestige of a plot for this skit, but asserts that it fills his entire purpose by proving a source of enjoyment to theater-goers. Since last season the play has been touched up so as to accentuate its striking features, and the scenes now form a panorama of rollicking fun. The story is not very elaborate or strong, the main idea of the author being to introduce a number of character sketches and "up to date" episodes which all theater-goers who are aware of Hoyt's ability can imagine, are done with a pen that is faithful to nature, caustic, witty and direct. The cast that will present the skit on this occasion will contain several of the company that appeared in New York during the great run of the piece in that city.

A FIENDISH CONFESSION.

London Anarchists Would Have Blown Up the Reyal Exchange-Murder Intended.

LONDON, April 23 .- Emile Carnote, alias Giuseppe Formara, the Anarchist who was arrested Saturday, was arraigned in the Bow Street Police Court this morning. Carnote admitted he was an accomplice of Anarchist Holti and made a full confession of the plots in which he aided Holti. Carnote said he and Holti intended to blow up the Royal Exchange, and it was for that purpose that he had designed the large bombs, one of which Holti was carrying when he was arrested. Carnote also said that it had been the intention of himself and Holti to murder Inspector Melville. He was remanded.

Bankrupt Aristocrats.

London, April 23. - The financial troubles of members of the aristocracy are coming into unwonted prominence. Lord Sudley, who was at one time enormously wealthy, has lost his fortune through unfortunate investments. Lord Thurlow has been declared a bankrupt. The Earl of Buchan, whose family is among the oldest of the Scotch peerage, has made a most disgraceful appearance in the bankruptcy court. In the course of his examination he told how, when he was young, he obtained a livelihood as a jockey. In his later years he had subsisted on loans obtained from insurance companies by giving mortgages on his estates and the proceeds of betting on horse races. We also admitted that he had been a co-respondent in a divorce case. His son is now assisting in his support. Another aristocrat, the Hon. W. G. Fitclarence, son of the earl of that name, testified in the Bankruptcy Court that his liabilities were £749 and his assets consisted only of a ring worth, perhaps, 30 shillings. His relatives made arangements to pay his debts.

Evangelists Read and Coembes Open-Dean Carmichael at St. Paul's-

Newsy Religious Notes. Messrs. Read and Coombs, the evangelsts who have labored so successfully in St. Thomas the last few weeks, opened a twelve-days series of meetings in the Talbot Street Baptist Church Sunday, addressing two very large congregations. Both are powerful pleaders and will doubtless aid in quickening the spiritual life of the community during their stay. The mission has already borne fruit and at the evening service a large number professed their faith. Bible readings will be conducted every afternoon at 3.

The series of special services to mark the reopening of St. Paul's Cathedral were continued Sunday, when the Very Reverend Dean Carmichael, of Montreal, one of the most talented divines of the Anglican Church, preached twice. The large edifice was filled on both occasions. His evening sermon was a powerful argument against unbelief. A universal unbelief in God, he said, would bring about the worst scenes of the French revolution.

Rev. J. P. McEwen, of Toronto, president of the Baptist Home Mission Board. occupied the pulpit of Adelaide Street Church on Sunday morning, and presented in a strong light the claims of the work in which he is specially engaged. The preacher gave a number of interesting statistics, showing the results of home missionary effort, and made a pointed appeal to his audience for their individual co-operation. The reports for 1893 show 276 churches and stations, 130 missionaries, 892 baptisms, 14 chapels dedicated, 6 churches organized, 7 new fields occupied, 7 churches declaring for self-support, $24,000 expended and $27,000 needed.

A Characteristic Letter from President Cleveland-Must Reform the Tariff.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 23.—In course of a letter to Hon. Chauncey F. Black, president of the National Association of Democratic Clubs, President Cleveland

"The National Association of Democratic Clubs and every other Democratic agency should labor unceasingly and earnestly to save our party in this time of its power and responsibility from the degradation and disgrace of a failure to redeem the pledges upon which our fellow-countrymen entrusted us with the control of the Govern-

"All who are charged on behalf of the Democratic party with the redemption of these pledges should now be impressively reminded that as we won our way to victory under the banner of tariff reform, so our insistence upon that principle is the condition of our retention of the people's trust; and the fealty to party organization demands the subordination of individual advantages and wishes, and the putting aside of petty and ignoble jealousness and bickerings, when party principles and party integrity and party existence are at stake.

Millionaire Mackay's Daughter Will Re turn to Her Titled Husband.

NEW YORK, April 23.-Princess Evelyne Gallatro di Colonna, whose flight to the United States with her three children in February, after an unsuccessful effort to obtain a separation from her husband in the French courts, attracted the attention of two continents, is booked to sail for Europe in June. Princess Colonna has reached an amicable understanding with her husband, and their domestic affairs bid fair to be settled. Prince Colonna made the first advances through mutual friends and appeared from all accounts to be thoroughly contrite. Mr. Mackay, the princess' father, con-vinced himself of Colonna's sincerity, and then set about to reconcile the other members of the family. John W. Mackay, jun., it is said, opposed the reunion, and Princess Colonna herself was not at first disposed to listen to her husband's plea for torgiveness. The advice of her stepfather, however, at last prevailed, and for the sake of her three children, the princess has, with motherly solicitude and self-sacrifice, consented to return to Paris and resume the conjugal relationship with her husband.

"Turn to the Right.

The king's advent, by affording me a brief respite, had enabled me to collect my thoughts, and, disregarding the ribald interruptions, which at first were frequent, I began as follows: "I am no Rabelais, sire," I said, "but droll things happen to the most unlikely. Once upon a time it was the fortune of a certain swain, whom I will company a nymph of great beauty, who had been intrusted to his care by her parents. He had not more than indicate the same time a savage oath.

The king cried out augrily, "Have a care, sir!" But Bruhl only heeded this so far as to thrust aside those who stood to the same time a savage oath. in his apartments, however, before she was decoyed away by a trick, and borne off against her will by a young gallant, who had seen her and been smitten by her charms. Dromio, returning, and finding his mistress gone, gave way to the most Or poignant grief. He ran up and down the city, seeking her in every place, and filling all places with his lamentations; but for a time in vain, until chance led him to a certain street, where, in an almost incredible manner, he found a clew to her by discovering underfoot a knot of velvet, bearing Phyllida's name wrought on it in delicate needlework, with the words, "A fish this is you have prepared for us, sir!"

"Sanctus!" cried the king, amid a general murmur of surprise, "that is well devised! Proceed, sir. Go on like that, and we will make your twenty men 25, "Dromio," I continued, "at sight of this trifle experienced the most diverse emotions, for white he possessed in it a clew to his mistress's fate, he had still to use it so as to discover the place whither she had been hurried. It occurred to him at last to begin his search with the house before which the knot had lain. Ascending accordingly to the second-floor, he found there a fair lady reclining on a couch, who started up in affright at his appearance. He hastened to reassure her, and to explain the purpose of his coming, and learned after a conversation with which I will not trouble your Majesty, though it was sufficiently diverting, that the lady had found the velvet knot in another part of the town, and had herself dropped it again in front of her own house. 'Pourquoi?" the king asked interrupting me. 'The swain, sire," I answered, "was too much taken up with his own troubles to bear that in mind, even if he learned it. But this delicacy did not save him from misconception, for as he descended from the lady's apartment he met her husband on the stairs."

"Good!" the king exclaimed, rubbing his hands in glee. "The husband!" And under cover of the gibe and the courtly laugh which followed it M. de Bruhl's start laugh which lau of surprise passed unnoticed save by me.
"The husband," I resumed, "seeing a stranger descending his staircase, was for stopping him and learning the reason of his presence; but Dromio, whose mind was with Phylida, refused to stop, and, evading his questions, hurried to the part of the town where the lady had told him she had found the velvet knot. Here, sire, at the corner of a lane running between gardenwalls, he found a great house, barred and gloomy, and well adapted to the abductor's purpose. Moreover, scanning it on every side, he presently discovered, tied about the bars of an upper window, a knot of white linen, the very counterpart of that velvet one which he bore in his breast. Thus he knew that the nymph was imprisoned in that room !"

"I will make it 25, as I am a good Churchman!" his Majesty exclaimed, dropping the little dog he was nursing into the duchess's lap, and taking out his comfit-box. "Rambouillet," he added languidly, "your friend

I bowed my acknowledgments and took occasion as I did so to step a pace aside, so as to command a view of Madame de Bruhl, as well as her husband, Hitherto madame, willing to be accounted a part in so pretty a romance, and ready enough also, unless was mistaken, to cause her husband a little mild jealousy, had listened to the story with a certain sly demureness. But this I foresaw would not last long; and I felt something like compunction at the moment for striking the blow approached. But I had now no choice. "The best is yet to come, sire," I went on, "as I think you will acknowledge in a moment. Dromio, though he had discovered his mistress, was still in the depths of despair. He wandered round and round the house, seeking ingress and finding none, until at length, sunset approaching, and darkness redoubling his fears for the nymph, fortune took pity on him. As he stood in front of the house he saw the abductor come out, lighted by two servants. Judge of his surprise, sire," I continued, looking round and speaking slowly, to give full effect to my words, when he recognized in him no other than the husband of the lady who, by picking up and again dropping the velvet knot, had contributed so much to the success of his search!"

"Ha! these husbands!" cried the king. And slapping his knee in an ecstasy at his own acuteness, he laughed in his seat till he rolled again. "These husbands! Did I not say so? The whole court gave way to like ap plause, and clapped their hands as well, so that few save those who stood nearest took notice of Madame de Bruhl's faint ery, and still fewer understood why she rose up suddenly from her stool and stood gazing at her husband with burning cheeks and clenched hands. She took no heed of me, much less of the laughing crowd round her, but looked only at him with her soul in her eyes. He, after uttering one hoarse curse, seemed to have no thought for any but me. To have the knowledge that his own wife had baulked him brought home to him in this mocking fashion, to find how little a thing had tripped him that day, to learn how blindly he had played into the hands of fate, above all to be exposed at once to his wife's resentment and the ridicule of the Court-for he could not be sure that I should not the next moment disclose his name-all so wrought on him that for a moment I thought he would strike me in the presence. His rage, sindeed, did what I had not meant to do. For the king, catching sight of his face, and remembering that Madame de Bruhl had elicited the story, screamed suddenly, "Haro!" and pointed cuthlessly at him with his finger. After that I had no need to speak, the story leaping from eye to eye, and every eye settling on Bruh!, who sought in vain to compose his features. Madame, who surpassed him, as women commonly do surpass men, in self-control, was the first to recover herself, and sitting down as quickly as she had risen, con-fronted alike her husband and her rivals

For a moment curiosity and excitement kept all breathless, the eye alone busy. Then the king laughed mischievously. "Come, M. de Bruhl," he cried. "perhaps you will finish the tale for us?" And he threw himself back in his chair, a sneer on

"Or why not Madame de Bruhl!" said the duchess, with her head on one side and her | United States.

eyes glittering over her fan. "Madame would, I am sure, tell it so well.' But madame only shook her head, smiling a ways that forced smi e. For Bruhl himself, glaring from face to face like a bull about to charge, I have never seen a man more out of countenance, or more completely brought to bay. His discomposure, exposed as he was to the ridicule of all present, was such that the presence in which he stood scarcely hindered him from some violent attack; and his eyes, which had wandered from me at the king's word, presently returning to me again, he so far forgot himself as to raise his hand furiously, uttering at the same time a savage oath.

"Arnidieu!" cried the king when he was gone. "This is fine conduct! I have half a mind to send after him and have him put where his hot blood would cool a little.

He stopped abruptly, his eyes resting on me. The relative positions of Bruhl and myself as the agents of Rosny and Turenne occurred to him for the first time, I think, and suggested the idea, perhaps, that I had laid a trap for him, and that he had fallen into it. At any rate his face grew darker he muttered gazing at me gloomily. (To be Continued.)

THE LINEMAN'S PERIL.

A Bell Telephone Employe Killed and Three Badly Hurt.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 22 .- Amos Waters, 40 years of age, was instantly killed and John Ricardo, aged 38 years, William Pike, of the same age, and William Hamaratta, aged 25, were badly injured Friday morning by being shocked by an electric light wire. The victims were Bell Telephone linemen, and were repairing a wire, when it became entangled with a live electric wire. Waters was at the top of a pole, and seeing Ricardo, Pike and Hamaratta, who were on the ground reeling under the effects of the deadly current, he reached out and caught hold of the wire. The shock killed him and he fell 23 feet to the street. All of the others were rendered unconscious. Pike was the first to recover. He cut the wire with a cobblestone and thus probably saved the lives of his companions. Ricardo is out of danger.

A Total Wreck With Kidney Disease-All the Symptoms of Bright's Disease Present-Dodd's Lidney Pills Make Him Perfectly Well Again.

LEAMINGTON, April 23 .- Sherman Buchanan, a farmer living near here, recently passed through a terrible ordeal. He was attacked by kidney disease, which made him a total wreck. He suffered agonizing pains and his digestive organs were seriously impaired. All the symptoms of Bright's disease were present. After several doctors had treated him ineffectually, Mr. Buchanan used several boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and they cured him. Dodd's was the first kidney remedy in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers, for their own safety, should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes; price, 50 cents, or six boxes for $2 50. To be had of all dealers.

To Avoid "Stranding."

NEW YORK, April 22.-The New York actors who play road engagements are organizing a new mutual protective association, the object of which is to insure its members against the possibility of being "strandard" while out of town. The actors pledge themselves to leave any road company whenever the manager is two weeks behind in payment of salaries.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children." DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves.'

Bought the Drug in London-Melancholia the Cause.

On Friday, Charles Little, a well-to-do farmer of Verschoyle, Oxford county, drove to this city and bought a quantity of laudanum at a drug store.

On returning he stopped off at Nilestown about 4 p.m., and slept over night at George Byer's hotel. His non-appearance Saturday morning caused an inquiry, and on going to his room about 9 o'clok an attendant found him sitting in a chair, groaning and apparently in the greatest agony. An empty bottle at his side told the story. Dr. Graham, of Dorchester, was at once sent for, but help was too late. The unfortunate man lingered until 2 o'clock Sunday morning, though every effort was made to save his life. The wife, father and other relatives were summoned and reached Nilestown in time to see him breathe his last. Deceased was about 35 years of age, and highly respected in his neighborhood. It is said the loss of a child of whom he was very fond had greatly affected him, and that he twice before attempted suicide. This time he swallowed three ounces of the drug, as if determined to accomplish his purpose. Dr. Graham, who is a coroner, decided that no inquest was necessary, and the body was taken home for burial.

—Samuel Korworsky, keeper of a junk shop, was fined $1 by Police Magistrate Parke this morning for buying scrap iron from the two Prosser boys, now in jail for stealing brass hub rings from Mr. George T. Hiscax. Granville Brooks, for allowing his horse to run at large, swelled the treasury to the extent of $1, and Thomas Roberts, for breach of the bylaw, paid a similar amount. Two youths living on Carling street started a bonfire in the middle of the road and were summoned for the offense. They were dismissed with a warning. One drunk was fined $2 or one week and another was discharged.

Mr. and Mrs. Chute, of Aylmer, desire that we should publish their testimonial and let other sufferers know what Williams' Royal Crown Remedy (Nature's Liquid) has done for Mr. Chute. He writes: "For ten years or more I have been a sufferer with dyspersia, and doctored with six of the most skilled doctors in this part of the country with but little relief and no benefit in return for the very large conceivable remedy, but all to no purpose, until April, 1893, when I took to myself a wife, and it so happened that three years previous to our marriage she had been in poor health, and used part of a bottle of Royal Crown Remedy, and by the time I had them used my general health was much improved, and by the time I had taken three bottles I was restored to good health, and my neighbors say that I am looking better than I have done for years. I believe Royal Crown Remedy to be the best value for the money on earth, and am thankfully yours.
