Ontario Hospital Inmate Found Unconscious On Track

A. MARION IS RUSHED TO SARNIA HOSPITAL

Ontario Hospital Inmate Found
On Track in a Dying Condition.

BOLTED YESTERDAY

Out On Walking Party—
Ready To Leave the Institution.

Special to The Advertiser
By a Staff Correspondent.

Sarnia, May 22.—Achille Marion, 36, an escaped inmate of the Ontario Hospital for the Insane, London, is now lying in the General Hospital here in an extremely critical condition and is expected to die as the result of injuries received early this morning on the C. N. R. right-of-way a half-mile east of Watford.

It is presumed he was either struck by a train while walking along the tracks or was injured while endeavoring to board a moving train. He suffered many severe scalp wounds, several ribs are broken and it is feared his lungs were punctured.

Marion's home is in Ford City, and a letter was found on his person from his wife in that city.

He was discovered near the track by workmen and brought to Sarnia on a freight train and immediately rushed to the hospital.

Dr. W. J. Robinson, superintendent of the Ontario Hospital, stated this morning that Marion escaped yesterday morning while out with a walking party in the vicinity of the hospital. Without warning he bolted from the attendants and made off over the overhead bridge on the side-road.

The attendants in charge followed him on foot, but Marion outdistanced them, and soon was out of sight. They then searched for him in autos and followed, but were unsuccessful in locating him.

Dr. Robinson said Marion was almost completely recovered and that he (Dr. Robinson) had only yesterday prepared a letter to the man's wife, telling her she might come to London and take him home any time she was in our opinion, perfectly recovered.

"We considered him capable of looking after himself now. I cannot understand his action at all."

It is the theory that Marion wishing to return to Ford City boarded a westbound C. N. R. train somewhere in the East London yards, but that the train was bound for Sarnia and not Windsor. It is conjectured that Marion perceived he was not going in the direction of his home and either jumped from the train while moving and was hurt in this way or that he was struck while walking along the right-of-way. It is possible that owing to the intense cold early this morning, he became benumbed from riding and was forced to get out and walk to restore his circulation.

MOTOR THEFT DECREASE ATTRIBUTED TO LEAGUE

The decrease in the number of automobiles stolen in Ontario during the past couple of years, in proportion to the growing number of cars in operation, is attributed by C. E. Bernard, secretary of the London Motor Club, to the vigorous campaign waged by the O. M. L. to have the penalties made more severe.

The secretary draws attention to the fact that the league, through representation to the Dominion government, was instrumental in obtaining the provision of severe penalties (a minimum of one year's imprisonment) in cases of auto thefts. The new law has greatly dampened the aspirations of would-be motorists.

TRUCK DRIVER'S BAIL IS RENEWED

Expected Crown Will Take
No Further Action On Matter.

That there will be no further proceedings on the part of the crown in connection with the manslaughter charge against George Hammond was intimated today in police court by Crown Attorney Albert M. Judd.

"I would like it possible to have the case adjourned a week," said Mr. Judd. "I don't propose to proceed on the criminal charge. I have written the attorney-general notifying him of the finding of the coroner's jury Monday night in which Mr. Hammond was absolved from negligence in the matter."

"Very well," replied Mr. Graydon. "I will adjourn it a week and have bail renewed."

Hammond was the driver of a motor truck which fatally injured little Tommy Carew of the Hamilton road on Rectory street last Thursday afternoon. The child died early Saturday morning. A coroner's jury absolved Mr. Hammond from blame at the inquest held in the police station Monday night.

Crusoe's Musket Sold At Auction

Associated Press Despatch.

London, May 22.—Robinson Crusoe's old flintlock musket, believed to be the authentic weapon carried by Alexander Selkirk during his four-year exile on Juan Fernandez Island, which inspired Deane's celebrated story, was sold at auction yesterday for £250.

The gun bears in rough carving the inscription: "Alexander Selkirk, Largo, 1701." Largo, Mifshire, was Selkirk's birthplace.

DANISH IMMIGRANT IS FOUND IN MOTOR

Authorities Will Endeavor To Get in Touch With Countrymen.

Valdemar Jensen, a recently-arrived immigrant from Denmark, has apparently fallen on hard times. He was picked up by the police last night sleeping in a motor car and charged with vagrancy when he appeared before Magistrate Graydon this morning.

"Danish man," submitted Jensen when the charge was read to him by the court.

"He has no place to stay," said Chief Birrell. "He was found sleeping in a motor car. I would ask for a remand for a few days until I can get in touch with some Danish people."

"It's a respectable boy," remarked Mr. Graydon. "I don't want to send him to jail. If you can get in touch with him, I will have him brought here any time and he could be let go."

London Barrister Believes Toronto Marriage Illegal

Major G. N. Weekes States
Any Form of Intimidation
Would Destroy Ceremony.

INVOLVED CASE

According to Major G. N. Weekes, local lawyer, who was interviewed this morning on the O'Neill-Miller wedding, which set Toronto agog on Monday, the ceremony of marriage procured through force or intimidation is not legal. The striking feature of the Toronto case is that the groom declares that he was lured into the hands of the two brothers of the bride, and from that time forced to go through with the marriage.

According to the clergyman, Rev. W. G. Dreyer, who performed the ceremony, no intimidation or force was indicated at any time during the service. But this fact, Major Weekes declared, would not be sufficient to make the marriage legal.

"If at any point, intimidation had been used, and if the man's life had been threatened if he made a move against the prospective groom's ribs, threatening him with shooting, if he did not continue to the home of the clergyman, and go through with the ceremony."

The case is made all the more striking, because at the threat that if he made one movement or sign of protest, his life would be taken on the spot, and under a circumstance that it is not generally proven, I am quite convinced that the ceremony would be illegal."

CRIME WAVE AGAIN STRIKES NEW YORK

Bandits Create Reign of Terror in Many Parts of the Metropolis.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, May 22.—More crime was experienced here the past 24 hours than in any other similar period in several months, according to the police records.

The first occurrence was a hold-up yesterday morning, in which one of two bandits was shot and killed by a policeman. The last was early today when four ticket offices of the elevated and subway transportation lines, and an East Side store were robbed almost simultaneously. Five armed men took part in one of these holdups. Two other robberies occurred during the day. Axel Johnson and Albert Lake, two payroll guards, were shot and $2,000 taken from them in Brooklyn.

Another holdup, a half hour later, was by a young woman, who entered the store of a dealer in picture frames, stayed with him over some work, and suddenly took two runs from her handbag to clutch her argument. She robbed him of $50, but returned $5 when he told her it was all the money he had, and that he had a family in Russia to support.

Yegmen entered a retail paint store on the Bowery, opposite one of the elevated stations which had been robbed early this morning, and broke open two safes, escaping with $600.

"He has no place to stay," said Chief Birrell. "He was found sleeping in a motor car. I would ask for a remand for a few days until I can get in touch with some Danish people."

"It's a respectable boy," remarked Mr. Graydon. "I don't want to send him to jail. If you can get in touch with him, I will have him brought here any time and he could be let go."

NEW CHARGES LAID TODAY IN CASES OF 3 BROKERS

Aemilius Jarvis Senior and Junior and Harry Pepall Bailed
Until Tomorrow.

PETER SMITH CALLED

Former Provincial Treasurer Is Placed on Trial at Toronto
Today.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, May 22.—Two additional charges of conspiracy, making three in all, have been laid against Aemilius Jarvis, Sen. and Jun., and Harry Pepall in connection with the sale of provincial succession duty free bonds.

When the Jarvisses and Pepall, along with Peter Smith, former treasurer in the U. F. O. government, appeared in the police court this afternoon for their preliminary hearing the two new charges were read to them.

To date there are eleven charges facing Peter Smith and three against the Jarvisses and Pepall.

When Aemilius Jarvis and his son and Harry G. Pepall appeared in police court this afternoon bail was renewed until tomorrow morning.

Magistrate Edmund Jones decided that it would be impossible to re-hear the case this afternoon as the preliminary hearing of Peter Smith, former provincial treasurer, on May 22, would be proceeded with first.

The Smith hearing was held up for a short time, as H. H. Dewar, K.C., defence counsel, was arguing a motion in another court at the hour the case was scheduled to commence.

Guilty.

A young girl who was allowed to go on suspended sentence a few weeks ago, after being found guilty of disorderly conduct, was brought before Magistrate Graydon on a charge of vagrancy this morning.

"Are you working?" asked the court. "I'm not able to work," was the reply; "but I'll plead guilty."

"You haven't responded to the kind treatment of people who took an interest in you," said the magistrate. "I'll commit you to the Mercer reformatory for an indeterminate period."

Decision of Supreme Court Establishes Ontario Right To Prevent Liquor Imports

Appeal of John T. Smith Is Dismissed After Two-Year Fight
Inaugurated To Establish the Right To Import
Into Province.

NATIVE WINES QUESTION IS SETTLED

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, May 22.—The supreme court this morning dismissed the appeal in the case of Smith vs. the Ontario attorney-general. The Ontario temperance act is therefore upheld by the court.

The basis of the action taken by the appellant, John T. Smith, was that the O. T. A. before the provisions of the Canada temperance act were applied to prohibit the importation of liquor into Ontario, was not an act prohibiting the sale of liquor for beverage purposes as it allowed the general sale of native wines and the importation and exportation of all liquors. The attorney-general for Ontario argued that the act need not be an absolute prohibition, but one prohibiting sale generally would suffice.

SMOUGHT LEGAL DECLARATION.

Smith is a resident of Toronto. He ordered a case of whiskey, some beer and lager from a dealer in Montreal and the dealer declined to fill the order on the ground that he could not do so under the terms of the O. T. A.

Smith brought action asking for a judicial declaration whether part IV. of the Canada temperance act had the force of law in Ontario. The attorney-general for Ontario had no interest enabling him to bring a declaratory action but that he should be liable to prosecution.

Orde Dismissed Case.

The trial judge, Mr. Justice Orde, dismissed the action on the ground that the attorney-general of Ontario was not the proper defendant as it should have been against the attorney-general of Canada. The appellate division affirmed the judgment as to parties, but gave no opinion on the merits.

Smith then appealed to the supreme court of Canada.

Mr. Justice Duff this morning gave the opinion of the court in an extended judgment. Referring to the question of native wines, he said that the intention of the section of the O. T. A. referring thereto was to exempt from the prohibition that the law is the native industry and to that extent to encourage development of the manufacture and sale of wines made from grapes in Canada.

"The evidence shows that this industry has grown since the enactment of the O. T. A. and it may be assumed that if the law is not changed this growth will be much greater still; and on behalf of the appellant it is argued and by no means without force, that a law protecting and encouraging such an industry and traffic cannot be properly regarded as a law prohibiting the sale of alcoholic liquor for beverage purposes."

"We have," Mr. Justice Duff continued, "come to the conclusion that counsel for the attorney-general has made good his contention."

Falls Within Act.

1. That notwithstanding this provision of the O. T. A. when viewed as a whole falls within the description in section 132 of the Canada temperance act rightly understood and.

2. That part IV. of the Canada temperance act does not prohibit the sale of alcoholic liquor for beverage purposes.

Mr. Justice Duff continued that the term prohibition as applied to legislation in Canada had but a law protecting and encouraging such an industry and traffic cannot be properly regarded as a law prohibiting the sale of alcoholic liquor for beverage purposes."

BISHOP ADVOCATES UKRAINIAN CHURCH

NIAGARA BISHOP AIDS UKRAINIANS

Would Combat Bolshevism by Erecting Church Near Thorold.

POLICE CHIEF AGREES

Canadian Press Despatch.

St. Catharines, May 22.—A strong appeal by His Lordship Bishop W. R. Clark on behalf of the effort to raise $4,000 to build a church for Ukrainians on the outskirts of Thorold, a movement which he felt would do much to combat the spread of bolshevism in Canada, featured the sessions of the Anglican Synod of the Diocese of Niagara in St. George's Parish Hall this morning.

His lordship, whose voice was troubling him, asked Archdeacon N. L. Perry of Welland, to present a statement of the work being done among Ukrainians in this district, who paid high tribute to the efforts of Rev. Canon Piper of St. John's Church, Thorold, in this respect, and the Presbyterian Church of the district, which started the work, and then, in a very broad-minded way, practically handed over the whole result of their efforts to the Church of England. Last week the bishop had ordained as a deacon to the mission, Maxim Chivink.

Chief of Police Crabbe of Welland declared that every effort of law and reformative effort might be applied and still fail, yet a minister's influence among these people might have a wide effect. "You can try to reform people all you like by means of law, but it requires a great religious emotion to effect real results," he stated.

The St. Catharines branch of the Protestant Federation of Patriotic Women of Canada was organized May 18, 1922. Archdeacon Perry stated, a committee of women chosen from the Protestant churches of the city was placed in charge of the work during the summer months. Rev. Paul Grath, Ukrainian minister of Toronto, was engaged to make a survey of the foreign population of the Niagara district. He reported approximately 4,000 Ukrainians resident in the district.

Work will commence next week at cleaning out the city sewers, which have become clogged, chiefly in the north end, owing to the juxtafactive growth of tree roots and the sandy soil in that district. These tree roots enter the sewers at the joints and once in the sewer grow so rapidly that they soon completely fill the pipes. In some cases they grow so strangly that they chip small pieces out of the joints. The new cutting machine, which is a water-driven turbine machine, will clear these roots out of the sewers, and save half the time that is now occupied in that work by the department.

FROSTS CAUSES $500,000 LOSS TO TOMATO GROWERS

ESSEX AND KENT GROWERS SUFFER

Loss of Half a Million Will Be Sustained in Early Tomato Districts.

FROSTS WERE HEAVY

Canadian Press Despatch.
Chatham, May 22.—The heavy frosts of the last few nights have caused a loss of more than $500,000 to the tomato growers of Kent County and the Leamington district, according to estimates of agricultural men here today. The early potatoes are not thought to be seriously damaged except that their growth will be retarded, and the growers will be several days late in getting them on the market. Fruit growers fear that the peach crop, which promised to be very light this year, will be seriously affected, especially the early varieties.

DEMANDS ARE GOOD FOR SPACE AT FAIR

Secretary Jackson States the Inquiries To Date Are Encouraging.

The demand for space in the Crystal Palace and the new Manufacturers' Building for the 1924 Western Fair has been most encouraging to date, Secretary Jackson said this morning. He does not anticipate the slightest difficulty in having every section in both buildings sold by late summer.

Most of the exhibitors in the Crystal Palace have maintained booths from year to year, and nearly all the space was sold for 1924 before the last year's fair was over. On the other hand, the Manufacturers' Building is a new proposition, with quarters for more commodious than those in the palace. For this reason, higher rentals must be obtained, but the great number of inquiries received has convinced Mr. Jackson that the "S. R. O." sign will have to be hung out before the actual work of putting the building in shape for the exhibition begins.

'RALPH CONNOR' DREW $17,640 FOR SERVICES

Ottawa Announces Amount Paid Doctor Gordon During War Years.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, May 21.—Rev. C. W. Gordon, D.D., who writes under the name of "Ralph Connor," was paid $17,640 for his services as chaplain and chaplain in the Canadian expeditionary forces. The amount paid to his "dependent" was $2,942 during this period, making a total payment of $17,640.

Dr. Gordon served for a period of four years, three months and eight days. A part of the time he was engaged in delivering addresses at patriotic meetings throughout Canada and the United States.

The information regarding his service was given in the House of Commons in answer to a question by William Duff, Liberal member for Lunenburg.

Good Health in Happy Old Age

THE chief concern of elderly people is their health, and that is best assured by regular daily bowel movement. There is no truth, however, in the notion that because you are old you need a "strong physic." In fact, just because you are old a mild laxative is better for you. The trouble with purges and cathartics and physics is that they shock the system and weaken it and make the muscles of digestion flabby. Mr. John Mues, 128 Prince Edward St., St. John, N. B., says Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is the best medicine on earth and Mrs. George Luth, Pope, Man., who is in her 79th year, has found it easy to take, gentle in action and entirely satisfactory.

Does Not Gripe

You can be sure of satisfactory evacuations every day if you will take a spoonful of Laxative Syrup Pepsin at night when you retire. You will not need to take it very long as a few doses will soon encourage the bowels to act for themselves. The popularity of this wonderful family remedy has become so great that it is now the largest selling

Blocked City Hall Autoist Forces Owner of Steeds To 'Park' for a While Also Wrought Up Official Takes Sweet Revenge On Teamster.

BLOCKS UP LANE

Driver Is Held Up For Half Hour as Lesson in Politeness.

A certain well-known city official is the much admired hero today as the result of a lesson in politeness, which he administered lately to a teamster of the rough-and-ready type, who obstructed the coming and goings of the city hall fraternity for some months.

When this official was coming into the city hall in his car, and arriving at the rear entrance, he found his path blocked by the teamster and his horses. He appealed to the Jehu for a little more respect, as it was only a matter of turning the horses slightly to allow the car to pass.

The teamster, being a surly tapster of the baser sort, refused to budge and said so, continuing on his business of delivering goods to a warehouse at the back of the city hall.

So the official, being a man of resource and ingenuity, locked his car, left it in the lane where it was, and walked the rest of the way into the office. There is no way out of this back garden of the city hall except through this lane, and he had delicious thoughts of what the next ten minutes would bring forth.

Teamster Enters.

Soon the heavy tread of the teamster's feet sounded through the sacred precincts. He knocked at the door of the man who owns the car and asked for him, only to be met with the story that he was too busy to see anyone just now.

While the official enjoyed one of his most flavorful cheeroots, the lover of horses cooled his head on the bare boards of the hall, and the staff who were enjoying his predicament considered it the longest half hour they remembered.

At last the door opened and the extremely busy official appeared.

"Say, is that your car out there in the lane?" boomed the knicker of the spring seat.

"It is."

"Well, I can't get out of the lane and I've been here half an hour. Come out and move it."

Lesson in Politeness.

"Are you the chap who refused to turn his horses heads round to let me by?" asked the calm and collected executive. "Because if you are, then it will do you good to get a lesson in politeness, and I hope you are benefiting by it. I am very busy just now, and can't get round to unlock it. You'll have to wait, and he retired once more to his dungeon.

The son of the stable almost had a fit. He was overdue now, and there was no way of getting out of that lane except by the pleasure of the owner of that key. Murder and mayhem of all things official flamed in his brain. He could be heard muttering by the staff behind the closed doors. He was waiting his lesson with difficulty.

Finally the owner of the car relented and sent a satellite to unlock the car and make way for the gentleman with the steeds. It is said he has abolished angle parking.

WESTERN FAIR PRIZE LISTS WILL BE READY IN JUNE

Prize lists for this year's Western Fair will be ready for distribution within the next month, Secretary Jackson announced this morning. Only minor changes have been made in the 1923 awards, as the efficiency of the present system has proved itself in the past few seasons. Officials think a rearrangement of the present method of distribution, as suggested in some quarters, would be inadvisable.

CENTRAL PUPILS PROGRAM PLANNED

Graduation Exercises Will Be Held at the Collegiate Tomorrow.

WILL GIVE PRIZES

The Central Collegiate Institute graduation exercises will be held tomorrow afternoon in the auditorium of the school, when medals, scholarships and prizes won by the pupils during the year ending 1923 will be presented. This event, which usually takes place in the autumn, was postponed on account of the illness of Principal E. A. Miller.

An address by Principal Dobson of Alina Ladies' College, an address by Principal Miller on behalf of the school staff, selections from the Collegiate Glee Club and orchestra, and special solo numbers will be included in the afternoon's program. The students will occupy the main floor, while the gallery of the auditorium is being reserved for their parents and friends.

Graduates' night follows the afternoon exercises, beginning with a request for the members of the Collegiate staff, their wives, and the members of the graduating classes only. A splendid program of toasts is being prepared, after which the students will occupy the auditorium for dancing. As the program for graduates' night is being arranged for the graduates particularly, no outside friends are to be invited. The hope of the principal and staff is that these classes will have pleasant memories always of their special night, even though it has been delayed.

The injured man was picked up by a passenger train from Stratford and brought to his home in London, where he was attended by Dr. C. E. Clegg, who stated he believed one of the bones in Mr. Bugg's shoulder is broken. An X-ray will be taken this afternoon to determine the exact nature of the injury.

POLICE TO PHOTOGRAPH SPEEDERS ON HIGHWAY

Law Adopts a New Method of Bringing Culprits to Justice.

Speeders on the provincial highway will be up against a new form of identification from now on, in the shape of a handle bar camera fitted on the motorcycles of the highway policemen, and with which photos are taken by the officer of all cases of which he is in possession.

With this photo added to the number of the car there can be no denying the identity of the car or of the driver, and with this device the police are taking the first step in capturing their penalty by providing a kind of alibi when brought into court.

KEEPER OF HOUSE FINED AND GIRL REMANDED

Pleads Not Guilty to More Serious Charge—Case Held Over.

"A most degrading case," declared Magistrate Graydon in fining James Rae $50 and costs or 21 days in jail. Rae was found guilty a week ago of being the keeper of a disorderly house on Oxford street.

Rae explained that a woman found in the house had been taken in by him because she had no place else to go. "That's no excuse," replied the magistrate. "There were most outrageous proceedings going on. That thing is not tolerated in this country. I am imposing the extreme penalty in your case."

The woman, who last week was charged with being an inmate of the place, pleaded not guilty to the more serious charge of keeping a disorderly house. She was remanded to jail for a week, when Crown Attorney Judd will be ready to proceed with the case.

COL. BIRKS LAUDS M.C.A. WORK

Addresses Directors at Luncheon, Telling of Activities in Foreign Field.

ASKS FOR $1,500

India, Ceylon, China and Japan were the countries referred to in an inspiring address given at a luncheon at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday by Colonel Gerald Birks, businessman and "Y" leader, of Montreal.

While on a trip to the Orient a few years ago, Col. Birks noticed the work that was being done by the Y. M. C. A. in foreign fields. The endeavors so impressed him that he took up the work.

Two meetings were held yesterday and the speaker pointed out the unlimited opportunities for "Y" work in the far east. He showed that the association is doing remarkable work overseas, and added that the "Y" never enters a field unless through the direct invitation of the local missionaries. The task of the association is very different from that of the missionaries, stated the speaker, who showed that the "Y" men deal with the leaders of the nation, the moneyed classes and the students.

Col. Birks stated that some of the finest men he had met in his world-wide trips had been men clothed in a brown and yellow skin, and mentioned K. T. Paul, head of the "Y" in India, and David Yul of China, as well as others.

Continuing, the speaker said that the "Y" adapted itself to any country and had proven a great blessing to all with whom it came in contact. Canada's share in the work this year would be $50,000, and London was being asked for $1,500.

Frank Y. Slack, one of the secretaries of the international commission of the Y. M. C. A., who has spent some years in India, was the next speaker. He said that the work was one of genuine deep fellowship, and was a challenge to those who were engaged in it.

"I know no boundaries, continued the speaker, and knows no caste or creed or color. It tries to meet the needs of all. Mr. Slack impressed upon the audience the great importance of the work, saying that it was the finest investment in the world.

Mr. A. E. Silverwood occupied the chair at the speaker's meeting. J. D. Omond, returned "Y" secretary from India, presided at the evening meeting.

Col. Birks and Frank Y. Slack, who came to London after delivering addresses before the "Y" members at Owen Sound, left this morning for other Canadian points, where similar talks will be given.

W. MARSH LAYS CLAIM FOR $393.35 IN WAGES

A. A. Hawthorn, Defendant, Claims Marsh Worked But 93½ Days.

The second non-jury case to be tried before Judge Macbeth at the county court today, June 2, has been set down for trial at the court house.

William Marsh, the plaintiff, claims $393.35 in wages after a four-day debate on the subject, during which the emigration and immigration countries lined up almost solidly in favor of opposing views.

The defendant, as finally accepted, embodies the one submitted jointly by the French and Italian delegations, but it also includes an amendment presented by an Argentine delegate.

The Franco-Italian definition characterized an emigrant as a person who left his country to obtain work in another or to accompany or rejoin a relative who has previously emigrated for the stated purpose, returning emigrants were also covered. An emigrant was defined as an emigrant who had taken up his first employment in the country of his adoption in which he was to be treated on the same footing with other workers, and was to be subject to the laws and regulations governing resident foreigners.

The amendment included in the final definition stipulated that the emigrant should be subject to all laws affecting aliens in his adopted country from the moment of his arrival, and that the term immigrant should be applied only to persons coming with the intention either expressed or implied of remaining permanently.

WESTERN PRESENTED WITH OIL PAINTING

Valuable Contribution Has Been Received by Dean Sherwood Fox.

A valuable oil painting, by David Roberts, R. A., has just been received by Dean W. Sherwood Fox of the Faculty of Arts, Western. The picture is the gift of a Toronto friend who is interested in the university, and in giving the picture to Dr. Fox, expressed his interest in the University of Western Ontario, and asked the picture be hung in the dean's office in the new buildings.

The painting, signed in Sept. 29, 1850, shows the interior of Bruges Cathedral with prostrate forms before the altar. Mellow lights from the high windows flood the nave and chancel. The painting is similar to others by David Roberts that are to be seen in the National Gallery.

In the Senate, Senator George Foster will make a special address on the activities of the League of Nations during the past year.

DUBLIN'S MAYOR TO HOLD OFFICE

Claims He Will Not Regard Orders Issued by Free State.

Associated Press Despatch.
Dublin, May 22.—Lord Mayor O'Neill declares he intends to hold on to his office despite the deposition of the Dublin corporation by the Free State government. He was elected by the people of Dublin, he says, and will only resign his trust to them.

The lord mayor in discussing the matter yesterday admitted that President Cosgrave had offered him the chairmanship of the commission of three named to take over the duties of the corporation, but even if they were a reason the citizens that as his colleagues had been superseded he could not accept.

He saw no reason for the appointment of the commission, but even if there was a reason the citizens had been treated very badly. It was a gross insult not to allow them the opportunity of declaring who was to represent them.

Mr. O'Neill has called a meeting of his colleagues to decide what course to take.

COMPROMISE REACHED ON EMIGRANT ISSUE

International Conference At Rome Takes Up All Phases of Question.

Associated Press Despatch.
Rome, May 22.—The international emigration conference yesterday finally agreed on a compromise definition of an emigrant after a four-day debate on the subject, during which the emigration and immigration countries lined up almost solidly in favor of opposing views.

The definition as finally accepted embodies the one submitted jointly by the French and Italian delegations, but it also includes an amendment presented by an Argentine delegate.

The Franco-Italian definition characterized an emigrant as a person who left his country to obtain work in another or to accompany or rejoin a relative who has previously emigrated for the stated purpose, returning emigrants were also covered. WOULD INSIST VEHICLES CARRY LIGHTS AT NIGHT

Ontario Motor League Working Toward Legislating Reforms.

London Motor Club officials have been notified by Ontario Motor Club headquarters in Toronto that the efforts of the league in having several greatly needed reforms inaugurated without delay.

Among the more important reforms advocated by the league are, the carrying of lights at night by all classes of vehicles, the abolition of the fee system of paying constables and magistrates in automobile cases, the regulation of pedestrian traffic in cities, the fixing of quality standards for gasoline and oil, the improvement of hotel accommodation, and better values in automobile insurance policies.

The league is constantly on guard to protect the rights of motorists by securing the enactment of reasonable legislation governing the operation of motor vehicles and deferring schemes brought forward from time to time, which are prejudicial to the interests of automobile owners.

EMPIRE DAY WILL BE NOT SO JOISY

Children Cannot Work Up the Same Enthusiasm On a Friday.

HOLIDAY SATURDAY

The traditional joy that surrounds Empire Day festivities in the various institutions of learning is due for its periodical slump tomorrow. Tomorrow is Empire Day, and the next day is the 24th of May, which from time immemorial it seems, has occasioned in youthful brains an unusual facility for planning mischief.

But the most optimistic of children have never been able to combine successfully a 24th of May and a Saturday. Saturday has always been a period when relaxation and mild forms of amusement have been the rule, and the idea of inaugurating a stirring Queen's birthday program on a Saturday has never appealed strongly to the hopes of the nation.

The traits of the philosopher, apparent quite often in children between the ages of 10 and 15, have been successful in combating the havoc wrought by the never-failing calendar on childish joy. But the fact remains that the hilarity of a 24th of May Saturday is lacking in wholeness.

Mothers' Clubs To Discuss Children's Allowances

Mrs. W. A. Tanner, Union Club President, Will Offer Subject For Study.

MUST BE EARNED

Businessman Declares He Has Too Little Time To Instruct Children.

The subject of children's allowances is to be one of the suggested subjects for discussion in Mothers' Clubs of the city next season. Discussion on "Shoulding children" is one of the most vital factors in child development, has been precipitated by an article written recently for The Advertiser by Julia Hoyt, in which she states emphatically that every child should be made to realize the value of money. Allowances, Julia Hoyt says, come to children in the main far too easily. The young mind should be first made to realize that the privilege of having money means first the obligation of earning money, and this in itself means the performing of a service for someone else.

Mrs. W. A. Tanner, president of the Union Mothers' Club, is to suggest this subject to mothers of the city next season for discussion. It is a matter which has not yet been formally considered by Mothers' Clubs of this city, although many mothers have found it one of the most contentious problems of their own household. Modern children have a pronounced tendency, according to Mrs. Tanner, to think that "money grows on trees."

Agrees With Julia Hoyt. "I can quite agree with the opinion expressed in the article by Julia Hoyt," Mrs. Tanner states. "I hear a great many boys asking how they can 'make' money. They are anxious to accumulate, but they should be first taught how to earn money, and that can best be done by making each child responsible for the earning of an allowance. The amount must naturally vary with the circumstances of the parents, but the principle ought to be the same in all homes. Children should be made to realize, as early in life as possible, that money represents labor on the part of someone."

Mrs. Tanner's opinion will find support in that of Fred Higgins, retired president of St. George's Mothers' Club. "Children today," she says, "are given altogether too much money. To count up the end of the year, the amount of money the average child has had to spend, would be staggering. They learn to have money about with no responsibility whatever. If it were first obliged to earn their spending money they would quickly realize its value."

Modern life, says a businessman, is keeping a man tied down so fast to his desk that he has less and less time to devote to his children. Just as it is, he has made for his own success.

Money comes easily to him now, and he is ready to hand it out as easily in response to the numerous demands of his children. They get a nickel here when the ice cream wagon passes, and they get a quarter to go to the movies, they have their spending money for school, and extra funds for parties, and circuses, and special outings. It is ways around. The older the child, the worse becomes the situation. And there is this point involved, too, that in depriving their children of the privilege of earning money parents are depriving them of one of their greatest joys.

"When I was a youngster," one man said, "I could make half a dollar on a day when there was a bull game. I couldn't get any more, because he is too used to having money. We hear it said that children should be made to feel the responsibility of life, earlier in life as possible. But that is no argument for giving them spending money with a free hand. Half the pleasure in life is in making your own way, and the boy who earns his Saturday spending money gets a thrill that the boy who gets it merely with a 'please, father,' can never know. Children need not be forced to earn, but they can be trained in the principle that to work means to have, and they will be better fitted for the real responsibility of life. Life is mostly work, we all find that out, and to learn to like work is to learn to like life."

STORK IS ACCORDED WARMER WELCOME

Victorian Order and Salvation Army Aid Distressed Family.

When the stork arrived at a London home on Tuesday night to present the family with a new member, he found a house that should have been filled with rejoicing for the event just filled with sadness because dire poverty had stepped in to rob the family of the pleasure of welcoming the little newcomer.

The doctor found a wretched family, without food or clothing, without money or blankets for their bed, and without wood to keep a fire going. The Victorian Order of Nurses was at once notified and they have rendered valuable service. The Salvation Army was also called upon and sent medical supplies, wood, groceries and a mattress and blankets.

SUPREME COURT BACKS O. T. A. IN SMITH CASE

that the proceedings were an attempt to elicit an opinion from the courts which, under the facts, they had no right to give. So strongly did he hold this view that he declined to express any view on the questions sought to be raised. To declare upon such a question the interpretation or consideration of such acts in question under such circumstances, Mr. Justice Ildington submitted to be "beyond our province." He concurred in dismissal of the appeal.

Mr. Justice Mignault said that section 44 of the O. T. A. allowing, under certain conditions, the sale of native wines, furnished the only serious difficulty.

It must be observed that, under the Canada Temperance Act, the sale of native wines was not considered inconsistent with the prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes.

It was on the 18th of May, 1923, that Mr. Smith filed a writ and statement of claim at Osgoode against the attorney-general. He urged that the O. T. A. was illegal and that it was legal to import intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes in Ontario.

The first round went to the attorney-general, the master-in-chambers declaring that it was not possible to proceed against the crown. Smith was ordered to obtain a writ of order authorizing him to proceed.

It Starts Again. Round No. 2—Smith appealed to Mr. Justice Onda on June 10, 1923, aside the Osgoode decision and granted permission for Smith to proceed.

The attorney-general took the next step and appealed to Mr. Justice Lennox on June 23, 1923. Lennox refused the right of appeal. The matter rested until January 10, 1924, when the hearing of Smith's action opened before Mr. Justice Onda. N. W. Rowell, K.C., for the attorney-general, claimed that if the validity of federal law against importation of liquor was in question, it was to be broken the law and get a stated case.

It Went To Ottawa. In April of 1923 Mr. Justice Onda gave his decision that Ontario was a dry province, and that Smith should have taken action against the attorney-general of Canada. Smith next tried the appellate division, but on November 5 of 1923 it was ruled that he was suing the wrong party.

Not to be stopped, Smith's next move took the form of an application to the divisional court for leave to appeal to the supreme court of Canada. Here again the attorney-general advanced the claim that it was not a matter of 5,000, so could not go to the supreme court. Smith met this on the plea that it was a matter of public interest. On February 25 leave to appeal was granted, and the action, opened on March 8, and there the matter rests now, with Ontario waiting for the answer.

WILL AGAIN APPEAL.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, May 22.—"I am naturally disappointed that the court is over, it is my intention to carry the matter to the steps of the throne. There will be an appeal to the privy council," said John T. Smith, when advised that the supreme court had dismissed his appeal, and held that Ontario was a province in which prohibition is in force.

"What I conceive to be some delay in the delivery of judgment led me to believe that the result would be favorable to my appeal. I was convinced that from a legal point of view I could not fail, and ultimately I am satisfied I will not fail."

Mr. Smith, who is a convalescent solicitor, said that he had started the proceedings from a sense of public service, and that they would be carried on in the same spirit.

"I hope they have given it to us good as hard, and then we will see about getting it reversed," said Charles Miller, who was one of counsel for the plaintiff in the appeal.

Before reading the judgment, for which he said he had wired Ottawa, Mr. Miller refused to say whether or not a further appeal would be entered. H. J. Scott, K.C., counsel associated with the appeal, had no comment to make until he had read the judgments.

MAN AND WOMAN AGAIN REMANDED

Counsel Asks For Leniency—Magistrate Points Out Seriousness of Charge.

WOMAN CALLED

Characterizing the case as "one of the worst ever brought to my notice," Magistrate Graydon today remanded Mrs. Lillian Heaman, and Walter Bloomfield of McGillivray Township, to jail for one week after finding them guilty on charges of immorality laid by High Constable Wharton.

Referring to Bloomfield, the magistrate stated his conduct was a disgrace to the community and a canker in the neighborhood. Mrs. Heaman, a widow, told of her conduct with Bloomfield, a married man, who lives on a farm half a mile from her house, but insisted that the charges were wrong in her conduct since the birth of a child 7 months ago, of whom she claimed Bloomfield was the father. It was offered by Premier Poincaré and President Millerand the same share in government responsibilities as was offered Premier MacDonald between the last French elections and the opening of parliament.

M. Herriot's reply was: "It is needless to say that, for the period to come before the meeting of the next session of the Chamber, the government will only involve its own responsibility."

Questioned on the subject of the socialist's collaboration, he said: "Don't confuse political collaboration and governmental participation. I am absolutely convinced that the first is assured. As to the second, it is entirely dependent upon the decision of the Socialist party, which enjoys full liberty for the action of the first of June. Personally I will do my utmost to induce the Socialist party to share in the responsibilities of government."

HERRIOT'S LETTER.

Paris, May 22.—The campaign against a franc and an undisciplined manoeuvre of domestic politics," declared Edouard Herriot, potential premier of France under the new coalition of the Left, in a signed article published in L'Information this morning. The Radical leader severely criticizes the Temps in this connection, and declares a note of alarm concerning the policies of the incoming government. He fears giving details as to what his policy will be, but declares the Temps and the reactionary elements are trying to stampede the people with alarmist reports.

"Remember, foreigners," M. Herriot's article continues, "we certain desire to defend the rights of France and assure reparations to her, but we also desire that each people shall live. We want peace. Do not listen to the reactionaries, whose policies are leading us straight into war. Help us in our struggle against calumny. Help us in our efforts to give to France her natural aspect of benevolence and civility. The real France, we swear, is not in the articles that inspire hate."

"Friends of Republican France, friends of democracy and peace wherever you are, help us. Do not lend help to the manoeuvre against our France, which is suggested by the pessimistic articles in the press. It is due to our vanquished adversaries, who are endeavoring to avenge themselves for their defeat at the cost of our admirable industrial country."

Messenger Boy Trained Bandit

Robert Holmes of Winnipeg Is Warmly Commended by Police.

Canadian Press Despatch. Winnipeg, May 22.—Despite many threats of "I'll shoot! Get to hell out of here," Robert Holmes, messenger boy, did not flinch. He was the bank bandit, who was killed here Tuesday, until the police cars took up the chase, and last night he was highly praised by a jury at the coronor's inquest.

The young messenger boy, standing near the bank when the robber burst out, immediately took up the chase, and at times was only ten to fifteen feet away from the fleeing man. The bandit, turned on him, threatening to shoot. The boy stood for a second, dodged in behind a building, and then started out again. He watched Martin try to start, and then he started out again. He was close, and young Holmes ran back and told them where to find their man.

SPANISH GOVERNMENT PROPOSAL REJECTED

Associated Press Despatch. Brussels, May 22.—The sub-committee on inter-university relations of the International League of Nations, under the chairmanship of Prof. Gilbert Murray of Great Britain, has rejected the proposal of the Spanish government to establish an international university in Spain, with special provision for the Jewish students of Eastern Europe who are affected by the persecution of the Jews in Spain.

The feeling was expressed that it would be impossible at present to establish an international university, although steps should be taken immediately to encourage co-operation between the universities of the different countries by a frequent exchange of professors and students.

RADICAL LEADER IS AFTER FACTS

Edouard Herriot Will Hold a Conference With Poincaré On Political Situation.

DECLINES INTERVIEW

Associated Press Despatch. Paris, May 22.—Fully posted on the financial situation in consequence of the conference at the Elysee yesterday, Edouard Herriot, radical leader, has made an appointment with Premier Poincaré for tomorrow with the object of seeking enlightenment on every aspect of the diplomatic situation.

It is expected he will also see former Premier Briand, who is arriving in Paris today. Afterward he will return to Lyons to remain until the end of the month. The radical chief is resisting all the attempts of the interviewers to extract from him information regarding his plans toward the premiership. A representative of Excelsior asked if he had been offered by Premier Poincaré and President Millerand the same share in government responsibilities as was offered Premier MacDonald between the last French elections and the opening of parliament.

M. Herriot's reply was: "It is needless to say that, for the period to come before the meeting of the next session of the Chamber, the government will only involve its own responsibility."

LONDON TO HAVE LABOR ORGANIZER

Trades and Labor Council Considers Appointment of New Official.

FOR CO-OPERATION

Within a short time a labor organizer whose work will be to co-ordinate the activities of all locals in this city, and thus give the London organizations a more concerted front, will be secured, if plans now under consideration, and which were discussed at the regular weekly meeting of the Trades and Labor Council last night, attain fruition.

The question evoked considerable discussion, and it was decided to send a circular to all London local unions in order to secure the general attitude toward taking such a step.

Concerning the work of the plumbers' union, Delegate Lyons reported that considerable progress had been made during the past few months and that the union had been successful in having all shops, with one exception, adopt the closed shop rule. He reported that the local now has 52 members, which fact he contrasted with the 14 on the roll before any effort was made to unionize all the plumbers in the city.

The case of Benjamin Franklin, city machinist and a member of the council, was brought before the delegates. Franklin has been fighting for compensation and the council decided to submit particulars of the case to the Dominion Trades Congress executive.

Several letters were read, including a reply to the one sent by the local Trades and Labor Council to Tom Moore, protesting against the C. N. R. hiring men at 25 cents an hour. A communication from the unemployed officers office at Toronto, asking information on the unemployment situation in this city, was read.

Don't Spoil Your Child's Hair By Washing It.

When you wash children's hair, be careful what you use. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle. The best thing to use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo, which is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces.
Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at any drug store, at a few ounces will last for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.—Advt.

CANADIANS PRESENTED IN SECOND ROYAL COURT

Large Crowds Witness Function Favored With Beautiful Summer Weather.

Associated Press Despatch.
London, May 21.—King George and Queen Mary tonight held their second court of the season. Generally, it followed the line of Tuesday night's first court. The function was favored with beautiful summer weather and again large crowds gathered in the vicinity of Buckingham Palace to see the guests arrive.
Tuesday night's presentations to the king and queen were mainly from the diplomats and official circle. Tonight they were mainly from the general circle, and included a number of Canadians and Americans.
King George wore the uniform of the Scots' Guards. Queen Mary was attired in a shimmering gown of wedgewood blue and silver brocade, which, in the brilliant light, gave the illusion of moonlight on moving waters. The train of the gown was of short silver tissue, draped with old point de dandres lace, and embroidered with fleur-de-lys in diamonds.

The queen wore a pearl and diamond coronet, and diamond ornaments, including the famous Kohinoor and the Order of the Garter.

Calgary, Alta., May 21.—Another step in the negotiations which may lead to the investment of between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000 in Western Canada by the Spillers Overseas Industries, Limited, was taken here this morning when Winfield B. Seon, representing the subsidiary company of the Great British Milling Consolidated, made the directors of the Alberta Flour Mills, Limited, an offer for the control of the local company. This offer, if accepted, will mean the reorganization of the company, Spillers to find money to complete the plant, and operation of the mills as soon as completed.

Optimism was uppermost in the minds of all in making preparation for the annual picnic, and arrangements were made to hold a meeting in the middle of next month to set the date for the event.

The following chairmen of the various committees of management were elected: Sports, Harry Kanabhan; baby show, Chief Atkins; membership, Harry Bennett; printing, Ed. Curry; financial, J. SENATORS' RIGHTS TESTED IN COURT

Girroir Claiming Remuneration For Negotiating Sales To Government.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, May 21.—For the whole of this afternoon's sitting the supreme court of Canada had under consideration the unique case of Senator Girroir of Antigonish, and when the court rose till tomorrow argument had not been concluded. The case is of special interest as raising the question of how far, under the independence of parliament acts, a member of the professional services rendered in negotiating sales to a government department.

The case began with two claims by Senator Girroir against the estate of A. R. McDonald, formerly of Antigonish, and a partner in the firm of Kennedy and McDonald. The two claims were: 1.—For services rendered to A. R. McDonald in respect to efforts made in 1917-1918 to have a nephew of McDonald transferred to home service as an instructor.

2.—For commission on sale in 1918 of railway equipment owned by the firm of Kennedy and McDonald to the department of railways.

The first claim was for $1,250, based on legal services at Halifax and Ottawa. The second claim was for $3,270 being 10 per cent commission on the selling price. From the claims are deducted $1,228 due on a note owing by Senator Girroir and $1,000 received, leaving a net claim of $2,292.

The judge of probate in Antigonish disallowed both claims, but the supreme court, Nova Scotia, Judge Melish dissenting, allowed the first claim. The second claim was unanimously disallowed by the Nova Scotia court.

It is against the judgment of the Nova Scotia court on the second claim that Senator Girroir is now appealing to the supreme court of Canada.
Eugene Lafleur, K.C., of Montreal, representing Senator Girroir, argued that the authority of a Senator was entirely legislative. L. P. Sherwood for the respondent, but not concluding his argument when the court rose.

LADY ASTOR QUIETS COMMUNIST HECKLERS

Has Lively Experiences While Speaking in Favor of Unionist Candidate, Kelvengrove.

Associated Press Despatch.
Glasgow, May 21.—Lady Astor had lively experiences electioneering to-day, when she spoke in support of the Unionist candidate, Captain Elliott, in the by-election for the Kelvengrove division, made necessary by the recent death of William Hutchison. She addressed a big Unionist gathering and three other meetings with the same result. Fully 10,000 persons gathered outside Berkeley Hall, which accommodates only 1,000, hours before she was timed to speak. Communists persistently interrupted the meeting, and, after much disorder, Lady Astor finally turned the scales in her favor, and obtained a peaceful hearing by standing erect with folded arms and singing "Keep the Home Fires Burning."
Some sharp allusions which she made to "the wild men from Clyde in the House of Commons" at the first meeting greatly pleased her audience.

Appeals to Primary Chapters For Further Donations at Regular Meeting.

"THE CAMEO GIRL"

Committee Is Appointed To Arrange For Production of Musical Comedy.

The Municipal Chapter, I.O.D.E., voted $150 toward the Canadian Institute For the Blind at the regular meeting held this afternoon in Cronyn Hall. The chapter decided to work in the interests of the blind under the convener of Mrs. E. B. Smith, and a request will be made to the primary chapters to send in donations immediately to augment the Municipal Chapter donation. Mrs. Smith's committee includes: Mrs. Allan McLean, Mrs. E. H. Nelles, Mrs. P. J. Greenaway, Miss Eula White, Mrs. E. H. Johnston, Mrs. Gordon Hunt and Mrs. J. A. Hunt. Mrs. Allan McLean, the regent, was in the chair.

Mrs. E. H. Johnston was appointed general convener of the committee under whose direction a musical comedy, "The Cameo Girl," will be given on October 6 and 7. This musical comedy will be one of the most pretentious amateur productions of its kind ever staged in London, and will include a large cast of local talent.

Others on the committee are Mrs. W. H. Lane, Mrs. E. H. Nelles, Mrs. Ross Thomas, Miss Carrie Fitchett, Mrs. Allan McLean, Mrs. John Gemmell, Mrs. George MacDonald, Mrs. Ralph Millar, Mrs. Logan, Mrs. Frank Butler, Mrs. H. J. Sutherland and Mrs. Gordon Hunt. The meeting voted to ask the provincial chapter to hold its next meeting in London. Mrs. George L. MacDonald was appointed delegate to represent the London Municipal Chapter at the meetings of the National Chapter in Toronto in June. Mrs. Frank H. Butler was named convener of a committee to secure books for Victoria Hospital patients, and Mrs. W. H. Lane is convener of a committee to arrange for band concerts during the summer months, the first to be given in aid of the work among the blind.

An interesting feature of the meeting was the report of the recent provincial chapter meeting in Hamilton, given by Mrs. E. J. Greenaway. Mrs. John Gemmell reported for the War Memorial Hospital committee. The chapter accepted an invitation from the C. E. F. Returned Soldiers' Chapter to take part in the decoration of the soldiers' graves on Sunday, June 15.

MRS. E. H. JOHNSTON, who has been made general convener of the committee for the production of a musical comedy, "The Cameo Girl," early in October.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

Should the Girl Who Has Regretted a Past Folly Start Afresh and Try to Make a Success of Marriage?—The Girl Whose Fiance Is Too Attentive—The Deserted Young Wife With No Home or Money.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have a girl friend who, when she was hardly more than a child, was betrayed by a man she trusted. She was far more sinned against than sinning. Realizing that she had taken the wrong step, she faced about and has lived an almost austere good life ever since. She determined never to marry, and has made a fine business woman of herself. Now she is preparing to study law at the university this fall. However, about eight months ago the inevitable happened. She met a fine man, who fell desperately in love with her, as she did with him, but she tried in every way to discourage this man. She has told him all about the error of her youth and why she thinks it best not to marry, but the man refuses to give her up and says that her attitude is evidence enough that she will remain on the straight and narrow path.

What do you think of this love affair? Should the girl step out of her life, as she thinks she should, and give him an opportunity to find someone more worthy of him than she? Or should she do as he asks her: forget the past and live for the future? MRS. R. M.

Answer:

I think she should do as the man wants her to do. If he is big enough and wise enough to wash off the slate and start afresh, there is no reason why they should not be happy and make their marriage a success.

Because a woman has been guilty of an indiscretion in her youth is no indication that she is of an immoral nature and that she is not to be trusted. On the contrary, many a girl who has taken a step on the downward path is filled with such a horror of it, and repents it in such bitterness and tears as makes her a better woman than the so-called good women. And just because she has had such a terrible lesson, she walks warily among the pitfalls all the balance of her life.

Some of the noblest women in the world, women whose souls have been purified by suffering, some of the most generous, and pitying, and understanding women, are women who have a dark chapter in their past, who have stumbled, and fallen, and picked themselves up, and climbed out of the pit into righteousness.

Christ said to the Magdalene, "Neither do I condemn thee. Go and sin no more." So should we all say to the repentant woman who is leading a good life. We should give her a helping hand, not push her down, as we do if we refuse to let her come back.

There is no more reason why a woman's whole life should be spent in paying for the error of her youth than there is why a man's should. Why shouldn't a man forgive a woman just as women forgive him? The kind of lives they are going to live after marriage is much more important than the kind of life they lived before marriage. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—How can I get an evening off to myself? I am engaged to a young man who is too attentive to me. Every night he comes with his little ring at the door, and I never have an evening to myself when I can do just as I please. You know a girl has her stockings to darn, her clothes to mend, sewing to do, and lots of other things, and I should help my poor mother a little. But with my steady putting in full time, it is impossible. Also I think that he should stay at home sometimes and do something useful for his mother, say, cut wood and bring up the coal. Likewise, I think that he should buy his mother some chocolates instead of bringing so many to me.

How can I get about three nights off a week for myself? E. M.

Answer: Couldn't you go on a strike and demand Mondays and Wednesdays and Fridays off? Or, what's the matter with the convenient headache that has always been woman's standby in times of boredom? Can't you fall back upon that faithful ally?

But what a foolish man your sweetheart is not to sense that he is wearing his welcome out, and that you are getting fed up with his society? Some one should give him a tip to the effect that a wise lover should always keep a girl waiting in full time, it is impossible. Also I think that he should stay at home sometimes and do something useful for his mother, say, cut wood and bring up the coal. Likewise, I think that he should buy his mother some chocolates instead of bringing so many to me.

The slang phrase, "You make me tired," expresses the limit of human disillusionment, and this is a thing that lovers do well to bear in mind, for the people who make us weary, whose conversation has ceased to interest us, who have come to bore us, have lost a charm that there is no regaining. And, alas! this is the fate of all of whom we see too much. They talk out. We have heard all of their stories. We have listened to all of their adventures. We know what they are going to say before they say it and we yawn in their faces.

It is the occasional visitor who is always entertaining and interesting. It is the lovers who meet but seldom who bring ardor to the interview. Propinquity is the great matchmaker, but it is also the great match-breaker.

As for the young man's feeding you on chocolates instead of feeding mother on them, grieve not. Eat your candy while you have it. After marriage you will be in mother's class. Most men think that marriage pulls a woman's sweet tooth. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a girl of nineteen. My husband deserted me a very short time after we were married. I am to become a mother in a few months and I don't know what to do. I have no money, and no relatives, and although I work I cannot make enough money to more than barely support myself. I could not take care of a child. What can I do when my baby comes? Can I put it in an orphan's home? Should I try to keep it? Could I try to get somebody to adopt it? Please tell me what to do. A DISAPPOINTED WIFE.

Answer:

Oh pity you, poor, little, helpless girl. There are no other cases in the world sadder than those of girls like you, too young, too ignorant, and too helpless to face the great ordeal alone, without husband or friends.

Of course, you can put the child in an orphan asylum. And probably that is the best thing for you to do, because a mother with a baby finds it impossible to take care of it properly and earn a living for it, too. Nor does the mother encumbered with a child find it easy to get work. If you care more for the child than yourself, and your mother's love is great enough to make you willing to part with it for its own good, it might be best to let some couple who are able to care for it adopt the child. Legitimate babies are in demand, and the superintendent of the hospital can usually arrange the matter. DOROTHY DIX.

MRS. MORRIS HONORED BY ASKIN LADIES' AID

Wife of Pastor Presented With Purse of Gold and Silver Basket.

Mrs. Morris, wife of Rev. J. T. C. Morris, pastor of Askin Street Methodist Church, was signally honored yesterday afternoon by the Askin Street Ladies' Aid Society. Mrs. Morris is leaving next month for Burma, where Mr. Morris is to assume charge of the Central Church, and as a farewell gift the ladies of the church presented her yesterday with a purse of gold and a handsome silver basket filled with roses. Mrs. Pearson presented the purse, with an address of appreciation, and Mrs. West presented the basket of flowers. In her reply Mrs. Morris thanked the ladies for the beautiful gifts and for the pleasant associations of Askin Street Church, and her enjoyment of the years spent there.

"Thief, Thief," Screamed Sammy As: Chatterer Hides in the Wall

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Even the cleverest, the smartest, the quickest thinkers sometimes make mistakes. Chatterer the Red Squirrel prides himself on being smart. If you could get him to talk to you he probably would tell you that no one in the Green Forest is smarter than he. In fact, he would suspect, boast that he is the smartest of all the little people in the Green Forest, for Chatterer is a boaster. Of course he isn't the smartest, but he is smart.

Now, Chatterer had very carefully laid his plans for getting a supply of fresh eggs from the feathered folk of the Old Orchard. First, he had found out where the nests were. He had spied on his feathered neighbors until he knew where they hid their eggs. At the time he had taken the greatest care that no one should see him and so have suspicions awakened. At last the time had arrived when he would find down inside his hiding place a breakfast of eggs. From his hiding-place in the old stone wall he had seen Mrs. Flicker leave her nest in the trunk of the nearest apple tree. He knew she had gone to get her breakfast. He was sure there would be time for him to get all those eggs and get back to his hiding-place before she returned.

When Chatterer went up the trunk of that tree he went up in a hurry. People engaged in mischief usually are in a hurry. When he reached the round hole which was the doorway to the Flicker home he didn't pause. He was so greedy for those eggs he was several double duet numbers that he just darted right inside without pausing.

Such a surprise as Chatterer received. It wasn't a pleasant surprise. Oh, my, no! It was anything but a pleasant surprise. Something hard and sharp struck him, and made him squeal with pain. It struck him again as he frantically twisted about to get out of that doorway. It struck him a third and a fourth time before he was out. Each time it made him squeal.

He had gone in through that doorway in a hurry, but he came out in a much greater hurry. In fact, he came out in such a hurry that he didn't even try to run down the trunk of the tree. He jumped, and then made for the 5th stone wall as fast as his legs could take him. After him came Mrs. Flicker, Sammy Jay, who had been watching

Black Pussy had settled herself comfortably close to the hole.

Black Pussy from the top of a nearby tree, heard the noise and turned in time to see Chatterer running as hard as he could run, with Mrs. Flicker after him and clattering as there was then.

Sammy and Chatterer are not the best of friends. Sammy guessed right away what had happened. "Thief! Thief! Thief!" he screamed, flying over to a young tree growing close to the old stone wall. He was just in time to see Chatterer disappear between two stones. "Thief! Thief! Thief!" shrieked Sammy. All the other birds in the Old Orchard came hurrying over to see what the fuss was about. Mrs. Flicker told them what had happened. Such a scolding and clattering as there was then!

Down under the stones of the old wall Chatterer heard it all. His coat was torn, and he ached and smarted. And he was in a terrible rage. He felt that he had been cheated out of that breakfast of fresh eggs he had counted on, to say nothing of the fright and pain he had suffered. And he knew it was all because he had made a mistake. He had made the mistake of going headlong into Mrs. Flicker's home without first making sure that no one was in there. He, who thought himself smart, had done one of the stupidest and most foolish things that anyone could do, and he knew it.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at St. Andrew's manse, when Olive Pearl, eldest daughter of Mr. Mark Mann, was married to Daniel Campbell of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Campbell of Westminster. Rev. D. C. MacGregor performed the ceremony. The bride wore a smart suit of sand shade tulle with hat and shoes to match, and her corsage was of opelia roses and sweet peas. She also wore a mink choker, the gift of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell will be on a honeymoon which will be spent in Hamilton, Toronto and Buffalo. Upon their return they will reside in McKenzie and will be home after June 1.

The Meaning of Chevrolet "Economical Transportation"

IT is more economical to travel by Chevrolet than by any other means. That is what it means to say that Chevrolet is the most economical form of transportation.

This means, first of all, that Chevrolet costs the least per car-mile—that it is less expensive than any other make of car.

But, more than that, it means that Chevrolet is more economical than any other kind of transportation.

An investigation among Chevrolet owners of all sorts, shows that it is not only more convenient—but also more economical to travel by Chevrolet than by railway train or trolley car.

The information received gives an average of 30 miles per gallon of gasoline and over 1300 miles per gallon of oil.

You who have envied the comfort and convenience enjoyed by Chevrolet owners, figure out the cost of a Chevrolet on a mileage basis. You will find that it is cheaper to travel with a Chevrolet than without one.

Chevrolet is easy to own. The G.M.A.C. plan of deferred payments will enable you to finance the purchase. Investigate the new Superior Chevrolet today. Go to your local Chevrolet dealer for further information.

This picture of Bavarian Reichswehr troops going through battle maneuvers in Frottmaninger Heath, near Munich, would indicate that the dove of peace would be wise to continue watching its "wings" while in Germany.

The former crown prince of Germany, caught by the camera while casting his first vote in Reichstag elections, does not look much the worse for being deprived of his royal title. Adjutant Muldner of Muldheim does not appear quite so well satisfied.

A fair-sized human head would just make a nice-sized mouthful for the ferocious-looking black bruin shown trying to force his way through the iron bars. The warmer the weather, the worse his temper gets.

Best known as "The Angel of Broadway", Mrs. Harold Sommers, formerly Capt. Rheba Crawford of the Salvation Army, has returned to her girlhood home in Atlanta, Ga., to conduct a series of revival meetings.

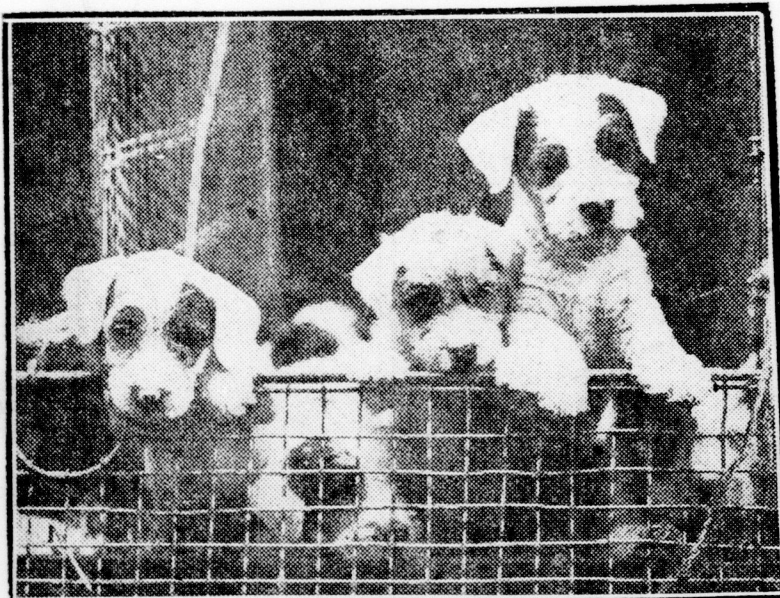

Mlle. Herma Prach is known as "the dancer with the mesmeric eyes." Her remarkable terpsichorean gyrations in Vienna are said to be netting her a weekly wage in the vicinity of $3,000, despite the reputed paucity of Austrian wealth.

The United States would rather trust Germany to build her dirigibles than to build her own. The photo shows Ernest Lehmann, a German Zeppelin expert, and Capt. W. C. Doerr, leaving New York to bring back the big new Z.R.-3.

Killing Men Faster.

Grindell Matthews has been carrying on experiments in France with an invisible or diabolical ray that if turned on an army can wipe it out.

As outstanding as the invention itself is the callous manner in which its inventor discusses it. Here is an army of 100,000 men out here. Shall we fight it, Mr. Inventor?

No, not at all. We will just turn on the diabolical ray and wipe it out.

Over there is a city in which there are troops. Of course there are other people in it too, non-combatants, old men, women and children.

Well, all that will be necessary is to get in the air above the place, turn on the rays and it will be a city of the dead.

And all the time the old world, sick of war, bending its energies of production to pay the cost of war, is working to establish its League of Nations and make it a workable and an impartial world court.

These two forces are diametrically opposed. These inventors know that when they bring out some new device of hell itself that the war department of some nation will be ready to buy it at a tremendous price.

The selling argument in all these new devices seems to be that we can't kill men fast enough by present methods; our system of extermination is too slow.

These inventors talk of men as though they were shipments of cheese; they speak of cities as though they were rows of houses to be emptied and cursed with a deep sorrow. The human element does not exist. It is the climax or the anti-climax of a damnable, cold-blooded conception of life—one that glows over the gain of dollars for a contrivance that will speed up assassination.

The world has got to make up its mind on this point. It cannot build its League of Nations on one hand and at the same time carry on a flirtation with those who would put dynamite under the league's foundations and blow it to atoms.

Charles Matthews Not in Court.

Hon. Peter Smith again appears in court at Toronto today on the charge of conspiracy.

Charles Matthews, the deputy minister of finance in Peter Smith's time, and an employee of the Hearst government before that, will not appear on a charge of conspiracy or anything else.

The same law is there to be applied to one man as to the other.

There were just as many provincial police available to reach out for Charles Matthews as there were to apprehend Peter Smith.

The officers knew where Peter Smith was and they got him.

The same officers knew where Charles Matthews was, and they did not get him.

On the one hand the law operated—on the other it did not.

The question, "Where is Charles Matthews?" will not down. If the authorities really wanted him, why did they not get him?

Signs of U. S. Election.

It does not need any official document to announce that elections are not far distant in United States. The drift of legislation points plainly to it. The McNary bill, on which Congress will vote in a few days, is bigger than a straw in the wind; it is as big as a barn and as formidable as a millstone.

The agriculturists of United States are not prosperous; especially is this the case with the wheat growers of the west. The U. S. farmer is selling in a market that is protected to the point of a monopoly. In order to get such concessions as he obtained it was necessary to bargain with other interests who wanted protection. They would support protection for the farmer if he in turn would vote for protection on other lines of industry. It ended in a process of bargaining that resulted in plenty of protection all around, and of course made it certain that the U. S. farmer had to buy from the U. S. manufacturer.

The idea worked, but it did not work the right way. The farmer found that the price of the things he bought was very much influenced by the tariff, while the things he had to sell were largely placed up against the standard of world prices. Through his representatives at Washington he had bargained for something that was not being delivered.

One bad step generally calls for another to cover it up, and the McNary bill comes as the next bad step. It seeks to make a national marketing machine out of the United States government, the capital to be provided, $200,000,000, is the amount, and the losses to be absorbed by the same people.

By its provisions a commission declares that there is too much of any given commodity on the market—too much wheat, oats, corn, as the case may be. Then the government-owned export corporation starts to buy at a fixed price until it is in control of the situation. When it gets all the wheat, if it is wheat where the over-production lies, it decides how much is needed for domestic use, fixes the price, and in order to even up the market the balance is to be dumped at a loss on foreign markets, the grower bearing his proportion of the loss, but hoping to make up for that by the fixed price the home consumer will have to pay.

The chances are all against the scheme proving a success. It does not possess the virtue of a good co-operative marketing plan. United States is the largest wheat producer in the world, but not by any means the largest exporter. Canada is a greater exporter of wheat than United States, and it is better wheat. U. S. produced in 1923 781,737,000 bushels, against a world total of 3,377,159,000. Not by any manipulation can she affect world prices. Her excess which she now proposes to dump at a deliberate loss will be a deliberate loss and nothing else, and the greater the loss the more will be required of the price fixers at home, and the more the consumer at home will have to pay.

The fact that this measure was even considered necessary enough to occupy the serious attention of the U. S. Congress is a plain admission that the tariff to protect the farmer has been a failure. For every concession the farmer got he gave one in return, so his last position was no better than his starting point.

The idea of patching up now that the election is in the offing has all the earmarks of putting a new wheel on the old election band wagon. It must be a new and a shiny wheel so the people will look at it and forget the other high-tariff-for-farmer wheel that has half the spokes out and the tire loose.

Hard Luck For This Team.

The regular fire team in Goderich is in a bad way. It is the duty of that team to pull the fire engine and apparatus when the fire alarm rings. Well, the alarm did ring the other day when a fire was discovered at a summer cottage owned by a judge.

But those horses were not on hand. The stable was bare. They were almost two miles out in the country working for the board of works at a cemetery.

So the alarm came to them in vain, and the horse's worst enemy, the automobile, had to haul the fire equipment.

Could anything be worse, or would it be possible for a team of fire horses to face a more humiliating position? A cottage on fire, and a judge's cottage too, and two miles away from the light working with a wagon or a road scraper.

It will take those horses a long time to regain their standing in Goderich. The milk wagon horse, the baker's horse, the butcher's horse, the dray wagon horse, why they'll all laugh at that fire team every time they see them on the street. They're sure to be in for a sorry time now.

Let Germany Play the Game.

The new government of France, according to Premier-elect Herriot, is inclined to favor the recall of troops from the Ruhr district in Germany, providing the latter country shows a willingness to play the game under the Dawes report.

The invasion of the Ruhr was a mistake at the time it was inaugurated, and it has been a mistake ever since. Above all else it has proved an economic waste because France has not recovered reparations in as great volume under this plan as she was previous to the invasion.

The British have always looked with disfavor upon the Ruhr invasion idea; their leaders have said so plainly, and have pointed to the injustice that was being done to the recovery of British trade on the continent.

The opportunity is before Germany to give definite assurances, and to further back these up by actual performance, that she will play the game with all the nations interested in the terms of the Dawes report.

The world would heave a sigh of relief at the withdrawal of French troops from the Ruhr. Their continued presence there is piling up a debt that must be accounted for, and it is a sheer waste of effort and money because it is not producing results at all in keeping with the outlay.

Where the Widows Win.

The idea that a widow must make the rest of the trip alone is a fallacy. She has more prospects of getting married than her maiden sisters.

The pension bureau in Britain shows that of 150,000 war widows on their list, 90,000 have made the trip to the altar since the war was declared over. This is in spite of the fact that there are 1,000,000 more women than men in England.

It's hard to analyze the situation. Man seems to think that if some other chap found a woman worth working for and living for, she must be of the right sort.

The figures are a challenge to the young women who have never been married. They might even sit at the footstool of the widow and learn of her methods.

Note and Comment.

A motorist in St. Thomas lit a match to find out if there was any gas in the tank. The fire department found out that there was.

Harry Thaw is now free, but must face a charge of assaulting a man named Gump. To allay fears, we hasten to mention that it's not Andy Gump.

Canadian critics have started in to bombard the Canadian art exhibit at the British empire exhibition. The British critics have given unstinted approval, so why can't the Canadian critics keep quiet?

A photograph in the Toronto Star shows the mangled remains of an auto struck by a passenger engine. Three people were injured, but they came out alive. Looking at the mass of twisted, bent, smashed and splintered debris, the wonder grows that a human being could ever come through carrying the spark of life.

Fires in Northern Ontario have been put out by rain and snow. The forces of nature accomplished what all the fire-fighting and forest ranging equipment could not do. If men had only sense enough to link up with these natural laws there would be no trouble. The fault is that men start more fires than nature can extinguish.

Dr. Frank Crane

How Do We Know There Is a Soul?

Thomas Edison has said:

"My brain is incapable of conceiving such a thing as a soul. I may be in error and man may have a soul, but I simply do not believe it. What a soul may be is beyond my understanding. I should not wish to be understood, however, as denying the existence of a soul. My position is that I have never been convinced."

Thomas Edison is one of the greatest men of this time. He is not only a great doer, he is a great thinker also. Therefore, whatever he says about any subject is worth attention. I wish, however, to point out what seems to me to be an error in his statement as quoted above.

Mr. Edison uses the word "believe" loosely. What he means is that to his mind the balance of probabilities are not in favor of the existence of a soul.

Accurately speaking, belief means the acceptance of something that lies beyond the point of our knowledge. Strictly speaking, we believe only what, in the nature of the case, we cannot know. I believe there is a soul for the same reason that Mr. Edison believes there is such a thing as electricity. I do not know what a soul is, and Mr. Edison does not know what electricity is.

He believes in electricity, its functions and powers and laws, for the simple reason that when he acts as if these things were so he gets certain invariable results.

I believe in the soul, and in its functions, laws and reactions, for exactly the same reason. No kind of force can ever be known in the same way that we know that two and two are four. But you can measure it, use it, find out the way it acts and depend upon it. This is science. When you go to speculating about what the essential nature of a force may be you are not talking science; you are talking metaphysics.

My "belief" in the soul is not metaphysical; it is scientific.

That is, I assume that there is a soul, I take that as an hypothesis, then I observe how my theory works.

And, to my mind, it works better than any other theory in the explanation of human phenomena.

The hypothesis that man is merely an animal, as a horse or a dog, may explain many things; it accounts for hunger and pain and fear and sex desire and so on.

But the trouble with that theory is that it does not at all account for those phenomena which are most characteristic of man, which indeed occupy most of man's interest and attention. It does not account for poetry, patriotism, art, conscience, literature, nor any of that set of functionings which are the latest product of evolution.

Above all, any other theory than that of the soul fails to account for the most outstanding thing of all, which is Personality.

Of course, no one knows what Personality exactly is; but, by the same token, Mr. Edison does not know what electricity exactly is.

I know there are souls because I deal with souls. I know some of the laws of souls, I know the powers and reactions of souls, and, altogether assuming that there are souls, I get certain dependable results.

And that is just exactly the way Mr. Edison knows there is electricity.

Farewell, Tomato

I wandered to the grocer's store to buy some fodder out of date, I spied tomatoes pink and red a-settin' on a china plate.

Says I unto the grocer man, on stuff like this I'll grow and thrive, says he a-weightin' I'll charge you 30 cents for five.

All that took place a month ago, before I turned my feet toward home, I bought tomato plants half-grown I'd start right in to sprout my own.

'Twas then I grabbed my spade and rake and dyin' prices far too high, I'd grow my own tomatoes now or else I'd know the reason why.

They come along, a goodly sight, the buds was ready for to bust, no more I'd pay a fancy price nor part with chunks of my gold dust.

In evenin's I would walk around and view them plants with glee and pride, a-figurin' how the fruit would grow 'bout three feet high and two feet wide.

And every time the grocer man has tried to sell at prices fat, I'd laugh and tell him to his face I'm growin' better ones than that.

The other night when I reposed, as should all honest workin' men, the frost she came two inches through and knocked the daylight out of them.

I viewed the wreck again today, a tear came oozin' from my eye, to think that my tomato plants had had to quit the race and die.

I yanked 'em out—'tis stuff like this that rankles at the soul of man—I laid the lot with tender care down quietly in the garbage can.

I started out another patch, still workin' on the home-grown plan, but I ain't sayin' much these days when talkin' to the grocer man.—ARK.

Facts About Milk.

Dealer Points Out That It Is Not Compulsory To Make Use of Pasteurized Product.

Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir,—Will you kindly publish the following for the benefit of your many readers?

In some way many citizens have been led to believe that the use of pasteurized milk is compulsory. This impression is evidently wrong, and without foundation in fact. Class A1 milk, from government tested herds, and guaranteed free from tuberculosis, is the only milk used in all our hospitals, and your family physician will tell you that this tested milk is the only milk fit for children of any age and adults to drink. "A Good Provider" is a life insurance policy.

When it is known that life insurance exists, the Widow finds her credit is "satisfactory"; the home continues; the estate can be administered without loss; just debts are paid promptly, and the Will has a chance to do what was intended.

But a vastly different story is told where there is no life insurance; and far more tragic than "a home without a Mother" is the Mother without a home.

Life insurance may be so readily secured that the world thinks little of those who fail to protect their dependents in this way.

The Love that never Dies

THE FLORENTINE DAGGER

By BEN HECHT.

CHAPTER XIX.

Old Fears.

"My name is De Medici," he said. "And the reason I was interested in the candlestick you bought is that one of the pair was found at Mr. Ballau's head when he was murdered. I am engaged to marry Florence Ballau and I've been working with the police trying to find out who it was killed her father."

"I know about that," the old woman answered in a whisper.

"Did you know the woman he married in London?" De Medici interrupted.

"Yes, ah, yes, I knew her well enough. Mme. Bandoux," she nodded vigorously. The old eyes gleamed and the bony hands trembled with excitement. But words seemed slow and De Medici prompted her.

"She was Florence Ballau's mother, wasn't she?"

"Wait a minute!" the creature cried. "She was Florence Bandoux, whose first husband used to own the company at the Goldsmith. And she was Miss Florence's mother. Yes, I know all about that."

"Do you know what became of Florence Bandoux?" he asked.

"Yes," she whispered, "I know. And I ain't ever whispered a word of it to anybody. I know what became of Mme. Bandoux. Victor Ballau killed her."

"Come now, Fanny, tell me about it. It all happened long ago and there's nothing to be afraid of, now Mr. Ballau's dead."

"I'll tell you, young man," she answered. "We were to have finished the season, but Ballau took her away. He was stage manager then at the Goldsmith and there was a lot of talk. Mme. Bandoux was a great actress, but a bad woman. She broke poor Victor's heart. And after that he took her away and nobody ever heard of her again. Everybody thought she came to America with him. But I knew better. She died in England, and he killed her. She broke his heart, I tell you. And that's why he killed her. When she was young she ran away and married Bandoux, the Frenchman. And a year later she came back to London with the baby. Bandoux came back, too, but he refused to have anything more to do with her. And what's more, he said they weren't married. At the time this went on poor Victor Ballau was in love with her and she threw him over to run off with the Frenchman. But when she came back poor Victor took up with her again. But she hated him. She hated him all the time, and nothing he could do was any use. The girl was Bandoux's daughter, not Victor's."

"But how do you know he killed her?" De Medici persisted softly.

"How do I know I'm sitting here?" the old woman answered. "Because I know. I'll tell you. I used to hear them quarrelling."

He spent a few minutes thanking the old woman and finally closed the door of the littered basement room behind him. In the street he walked swiftly, intent on finding a cab. A few minutes later he was riding through the traffic. His eyes half-shut, he was again tracing the circles of the mystery.

"From what she said," he thought as the cab bounced slowly forward, "one thing is certain. Florence Bandoux is still alive. Her initials, I found in the library. Her initials. And the woman Hugo is bringing back from Rollo tonight is Florence Bandoux, alias the lady of the dagger. So far, so good. But this other thing, then. Hm, an offensive discrepancy. The attack on me. That wasn't by Flo, then. Yes, I was right before. A sickening idea. But it was Florence trying to imitate her mother."

The train was pulling in. Its headlight swinging down the track lit De Medici with violent emotion. In a few minutes Dr. Lytton would alight, leading at his side the long sought and mysterious Flo. Impatience had deprived him of thought. He stood shivering in the smoke-filled shed. Figures hurried by. Then some one called his name. Turning excitedly, De Medici found himself face to face with his friend Dr. Lytton. And at Dr. Lytton's side stood Florence Ballau.

De Medici's thought remained in suspension. He noticed that the doctor was holding her arm, and that she was pale and almost tottering, and that her eyes were half-closed.

"A cab," Dr. Lytton ordered tersely. "Hurry! She's in a bad state."

Puzzled, De Medici turned and walked out of the station toward the cab stand. He waited until the two arrivals caught up. His eyes stared miserably at the ground. Inside the machine he forced a question from his lips.

"Where did you find her, Hugo?" Dr. Lytton shook his head. A triumphant gleam was in his eyes. "All in due time," he replied. "Wait till we get home."

At the sight of her and the triumphant-eyed scientist De Medici became aware in an instant that his carefully-pieced-together theory of the thing lay in shreds.

He sat now with his carefully molded smile, the smile that had aggravated the suspicions of Norton.

"The thing comes back," he mused. "The creature in my bedroom, the creature that tried to murder me and that left a candle burning at my head, and a crucifix on my chest, was not Florence. No, this creature was Julien De Medici. A crafty and insatiable maniac engaged in fooling himself. God, what a notion!

The smile on De Medici's long face weakened. His thin fingers moved dreamily over his cheek. In the silence of the cab his musings resumed:

"Then she knows it was I. And what she has done has been for my sake . . . to protect me. There must be more to this than I have been able to remember. The night I called for her at the theatre, the night it happened. There must be innumerable things to remember. But I remember nothing. I can't begin to understand, and I want to laugh. Yes, my reasoning arouses laughter in me. If I laugh it would mean, of course, that I am mad. Or perhaps it would mean that I am sane. God knows!"

CHAPTER XX.

The Theory.

The cab stopped and Dr. Lytton helped her to the street. She appeared indifferent to the situation. De Medici, overcome with anguish at the sight of her pallor and listlessness, took her hand and pressed its cold fingers.

Her dark eyes opened full on his face an incredible intuition passed through him. She was acting! Her collapse, her manner, was entirely a pretense. Dr. Lytton returned from the chauffeur.

"Come, hurry. We'll have to take care of her first."

In the apartment the doctor became somewhat officious. He appeared to be treasuring denouement, his manner toward De Medici growing condescending.

Dr. Lytton turned to him. He had removed the girl's wraps.

"We will have to put her in bed," he remarked. "She's had a hard day."

De Medici nodded. His eyes avoided Florence now. The scientist spoke softly to the girl and, nodding her head listlessly, she arose. Dr. Lytton led her toward the bedroom. Left alone, De Medici stood contemplating the long folds of the curtain. He felt tired, and an inclination toward self-pity brought tears close to his eyes.

"It would be easy to drop the whole thing and announce myself as mad," he murmured.

"I've given her some powders," Dr. Lytton announced, reappearing. He seated himself and lighted a cigar.

"Well," he smiled, "I can tell you the story now. We have to deal, as I surmised from the first, with a most fascinating case of dissociation, commonly called dual personality."

Dr. Lytton, supremely satisfied with himself and oblivious to the changes of expression in his friend's manner, was proceeding in a professional manner he assumed when expounding indisputable truths and unalterable facts.

"I want to point out to you first," he announced, "the fact that the obvious, although frequently open to doubt, is nevertheless not to be dismissed. It is a common fallacy of people engaged in the solution of mysteries or more scientific problems to flout the obvious and to search for the secret in things hidden from the cursory eye. It was this fact which led us somewhat astray for a while."

"You went to Rollo," De Medici murmured.

"I arrived there around 3 in the morning," the doctor continued unperturbed. "An abominable place. One rustic hotel. And it was closed. While walking the streets with no place to go or to sit down I found her. I saw her at the end of the block hurrying toward me. Her face was pale, her hair was in disorder, and her eyes were wide and staring. It was Florence Ballau."

"After an hour, or what seemed an hour, I caught up with her and took her arm. Now there is one principle in pathology which is elemental. In talking to a dual personality it is waste of energy to address the 'wrong' person. Do you follow me?"

De Medici nodded.

"Well," continued Dr. Lytton, "knowing this, I took her arm. She looked at me. I said to her, 'Good morning, Flo.' The ruse worked instantly. Her eyes lighted and a look of complete recognition came to them. She stood regarding me excitedly for a moment and then collapsed in my arms. The village drug store was just opening and I carried her inside. After the druggist and I had revived her I led her to the hotel and got a room. We sat down and began to talk. I had the advantage. I knew exactly the pathologic state with which I was dealing. I said to her: 'It is useless to conceal anything. Miss Ballau, I don't know how you managed to escape from the police. It may be that they liberated you on their own account.'

"You see, the air-tight compartments in which each of her personalities had their separate being had broken. The result was this distracted, semi-maniacal young woman who had fled from the police station to Rollo to hide. I explained all this to her and she was able to follow me in part."

"Well, when I had finished she took up the story and cleared away several of the details which had bothered me. Her confession was extremely interesting from a scientific point of view."

"She confessed the murder?" De Medici murmured. "Saying she remembered it?"

"In due time," Julien. Before reaching the murder, and in order to understand it, we must establish the scientific motive."

"Now consider this. As a child she had always called her mother Flo. Her mother died when she was 4. Ballau carried the child off and brought her to America. As she grew older the shock experienced in her childhood began to show results. The hallucination that she was her mother began to grow in her, and this hallucination finally became so strong that it was able to overpower her normal self and she became Flo. Yes, Flo, the avenging mother whose life Ballau had ruined."

"As for the murder," Dr. Lytton smiled. "Ballau called her up that night with a very simple message. He wanted to tell her something in relation to the party he was giving. The sound of his voice over the phone stirred her subconscious mind and brought up the most terrible complex. Recall, she said: 'Yes—yes—immediately. Oh, God! She was merely talking as Flo. She left the theatre and hurried to the apartment, determined on the vengeance that the Flo who lived in her was continually demanding. 'Jane, the housekeeper, let her in. I'll return to this in a moment. She faced her stepfather in the library. He looked at her and knew what had happened. 'We know what happened then, Miss Ballau doesn't remember. Up to this point I have quoted her confession. From here on we reconstruct the scene of the murder. 'You see how simple it all grows. Julien? Flo, the lady of the dagger, killed Ballau. She remembers dimly, she says, of striking him with a dagger. She remembers nothing after that for several minutes. De Medici sighed again. Through his thought drifted the words: "One chance. One chance it wasn't I. All this convinces me. Yes, every thing he says points to me, inasmuch as it completely exonerates her. But there's still one chance. . . ."

LEFTY M'CALLUM HAS BAD INNINGS

Five Hits in Fourth Give the Vets Second Game.

WOLVES WIN 6-3

Special to The Advertiser.
Hamilton, May 21.—One bad inning for McCallum was responsible for the second win of the series for the Flint Vets here this afternoon. Five hits in the fourth frame gave the Vets four runs, more than enough to win, although they added another in the fifth. The final score was 6 to 3.

Feizert held the locals to six hits and was in danger of having the score tied only once, in the ninth, when the homesters put two men on the sacks with only one down, but the next two hitters couldn't deliver the needed base hit.

After McCallum was taken from the game in the fifth, to make way for a pinch hitter, Schelberg went in and held the visitors safe. Manager Wetzel used Neitzke and Reis, two pitchers, in the outfield, to face the left-handed pitching.

TECS NEED BREAKS OF GAME AND WEATHER FROM NOW ON

JOCKEY G. WALLS, who rode Maternal Pride, winner of the King's Plate Saturday, weighing in after the race.

Minors Are All Being Hard Hit Financially by Cold Wave.

DIRECTORS MEET

They'll have to rename President Halligan's ball league if this sort of weather keeps up.

Call it the Swiss or Alps League. Now that they've decided to economize in umpires, President Halligan could provide big St. Bernard dogs, with kind, soulful eyes and little barrels tied around their necks, to rescue the perishing customers who huddle in the grandstand igloos munching icicles.

Something will have to be done. Rains may be worth a million dollars each year to the farmers, but they are prussic acid to the minor league owners.

The owners haven't much to look forward to except the sport and the hope of good weather anyway.

When the weather is like it has been, it lays a heavy, clammy hand on the money boxes of the minor leagues, and there's no sport to the thing at all, either to fans, players, owners or league officials.

Take the Mint League as an example. Including Monday, the league almost solely from the receipts sent in by Muskegon and one or two other clubs which have been fortunate in getting fair weather breaks.

The weather breaks, and is none too plentifully supplied with surplus. Weather reports become significant when pressed in figures.

The directors meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the chamber of commerce to discuss the situation down to this point on the thermometer. They may even start a chain prayer on its way to the weather headquarters.

Meantime, the Grand Rapids Homoners and Beatty's Tecs await impatiently the renewal of their feud this afternoon. After yesterday's games was called off the sun peeked derisively out for a few moments.

ST. MARTINS OPEN WITH SHUT-OUT

C. A. A. League Gets Away With Marconis First Victims.

HANLON HURLS WELL

St. Martins opened the C. A. C. League last night at Sunshine Park with a 5 to 0 win over the Martoni nine. Jerry Hanlon allowed the former slugging Marconi men but three hits, and his good support enabled him to hang up the first shut-out of the season. Six Marconi men strayed onto the runways through walks.

Mayor Wenige pitched the first ball. Rt. Rev. Mons. McKeown was at the bat and J. J. McHale, president of the C. A. A., stood behind the plate. Mayor Wenige addressed the two teams and wished the league every possible success.

These figures are from publishers' statements for the month of April, 1924.

There are in the City of Toronto 1827 Retail Grocers. A recent investigation shows that 82% read The Toronto Daily Star. We do not know of any stronger recommendation that we could use with manufacturers of food products than this bare statement.

Good advertising sells the dealer. Your advertising in The Toronto Star reaches 82% of your dealer list in the City of Toronto.

Now look at it from the standpoint of consumer interest. To the left of this is shown a graph of circulations of the Toronto Daily and Weekly newspapers.

Note the tremendous lead of The Daily Star—over 30,000 in excess of its nearest competitor. Note that The Star Weekly is more than double the circulation of the other Sunday paper. These are facts and successful manufacturers of food products recognize them, as indicated by the lineage they used in Toronto newspapers in 1923.

The Toronto Star is the Preferred Newspaper

We have told you in previous advertisements that The Daily Star and The Star Weekly carried nearly 40% of all Department Store advertising that ran in Toronto newspapers in 1923 and 55% of all Women's Specialty Shops Advertising.

Their principal appeal, as well as that of food products advertising, is to women. The judgment of these large retailers, manufacturers and jobbers should influence all advertisers who wish to interest the woman of the home. If you wish to build sales in the rich Toronto Market ask a Star man to call and discuss it with you.

Johnston of Winners Gets Three Hits.

The Hamilton Road Pirates were again beaten by the L. E. A. C. in a juvenile city league game last night at Queen's Park by the score of 10 to 1.

Both Cook and Livens pitched good ball, and had the latter had better support the score would not have been so one-sided. Cook had five strike outs and walked one man, while Livens struck out five and issued six free tickets.

Johnston, the second sacker of the East Enders, was the best hitter, with three hits in the same number of times at bat. Armstrong of the Pirates got two hits in twice at bat.

Good-bye to Jammed Car Rides

"THANK GOODNESS! I'm through with that," exclaimed Tom, as he wheeled past the crowd struggling to get on the street car.

"It's much pleasanter sitting on my comfortable saddle than hanging to a strap in a jammed, stuffy car."

Tom is right. It certainly is a pleasure to ride a sweet-running C.C.M. Bicycle to work these fine mornings.

There is health in every breath. And the gentle exercise of cycling is just enough to stir up the circulation and put pep into the system. You feel fit to tackle the day's work.

You can ride home at noon, too, to a hot lunch if you desire. And, after the day's work is done, what a comfort to spin home on your smooth-running C.C.M. while others are trudging along the hard pavements or waiting on the corner for a crowded street car.

It will not take long to pay for a C.C.M. Bicycle. You can do it with the car-fare you'll save, or with the shoe leather you'll save instead of walking on hard pavements. Your time is worth money, too, and a bicycle will save you lots of time.

See the handsome new C.C.M. models, all aspartic with their bright nickeling and lustrous enameling.

CHANGE IN O. T. A. OPPOSED BY DISTRICT METHODISTS

Pass Resolution in Appreciation of Act and of Peace Move.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Meeting in Favor of Outlawing Warfare in Settlement of Disputes.

The Methodists of London district added their protest to that of numerous other Methodist women against any repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act, through their ministers and lay delegates at the district meeting, which concluded yesterday afternoon in Hyatt Avenue Methodist Church. A unanimous resolution was passed in appreciation of the act, and the statement was included that it was the most advantageous and effective piece of legislation for the suppression of the liquor traffic that the province had ever enjoyed. In the main business of the afternoon consisted of the report of the resolutions committee and the election of the district officers. Rev. S. J. Thompson of Dorchester was elected to represent the district on the conference stationing committee. The three delegates now acting on the London Methodist Council were re-appointed. Messrs. Henry Pocock, J. G. Richter and Thomas Stevens. The district missionary committee is to include the following: Rev. J. McCormick (secretary), Rev. J. A. Agnew, Rev. J. Bruce Hunter, R. I. Watson, F. C. Deacon and Wm. H. Duller. Mr. R. I. Watson was appointed representative on the annual conference mission committee.

Honor Members.

Resolutions of appreciation and felicitation were passed in honor of two members of the district who have reached their diamond jubilee in the service of the church. Rev. Alexander G. Harris and Rev. L. W. Wickett. Both these men are celebrating their 60th anniversary this year. A resolution was passed in appreciation of the zealous and faithful work of the chairman, Rev. W. E. Millson.

In connection with the world peace movement, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

1.—"That we support the participation of Canada in the League of Nations as a practical effort to substitute justice and law for violence and anarchy in international affairs."

2.—"That we pledge to the government of our country, our unfailing support in all efforts to limit the creation of new means and materials for war beyond the actual needs of a police force."

3.—"That all agencies of education should contribute to improving international understanding and should teach history in terms of human achievement rather than in terms of war."

4.—"That the time has come for all organizations either religious or civil existing in the interest of human welfare to proclaim the outlawry of war as a method of settling international disputes."

Raise $233,012.

Financial affairs throughout London Methodist District have been in an exceptionally satisfactory condition during the past year, according to reports presented at the morning session.

The report of the statistical secretary, Rev. A. J. Love, showed that the sum of $233,012 had been raised for all purposes in the district during the past year, and the ministers present were instructed to carry back to their congregations a message of appreciation from the district for the effort put forth, as this sum has been raised in spite of times of general depression.

Complete statistical reports from every congregation in the district formed the entire business of the morning's session, with the chairman of the district, Rev. W. E. Millson, presiding. An increase in missionary giving of $40 was noted as were increases of $282 in the educational fund, $232 in the evangelist and social service department, and $302 in the giving of the Women's Missionary Societies.

The district meeting commenced last night with a gathering of the ministers. Nothing of a business nature was enacted at this meeting, the form being rather that of a conference on the needs and work of the district.

PENSION BILL IS GIVEN 1ST READING

New Measure Paves Way For Superannuation of Civil Servants.

ESTABLISHES FUND

Ottawa, May 21.—First reading of a bill providing for the superannuation of civil servants was given in the House of Commons today.

The resolution on which the bill is based states that it is a "measure to provide for the superannuation of civil servants, to provide for contributions by civil servants to the consolidated revenue fund, to civil servants and to the widows and children of deceased civil servants of superannuation allowances or gratuities."

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Opposition, asked what would be the average annual cost to the country for the first five years and the anticipated cost for the second five.

Hon. J. A. Robb, acting minister of finance, explained that the cost to new entrants would be a per cent of the pay roll. The civil servants would pay 5 per cent and the government 5 per cent, so it was impossible to determine exactly what the cost would be without knowing how many civil servants would transfer. He estimated that if all transferred, the cost to the government would be about $1,135,000 a year.

Mr. Robb understood that the other schemes will be merged with the proposed one. It would be a matter for the civil servants themselves to consider. He understood that civil servants were willing that all the funds should be merged.

The bill was about to be given a second reading when G. G. Coote (Progressive, Macleod) objected on the ground that the bill was not yet printed and the members were not in possession of copies. The objection was upheld and the bill will come up before the House for second reading tomorrow.

Moose Is Shot In Quebec City

Pursued by Constable Through Streets At Early Hour.

Quebec, May 21.—A cow moose appeared in the heart of the city about 4 o'clock this morning, and was first seen turning the corner on to St. John street from Palace Hill. A constable jumped to the running board of a passing automobile, and the car pursued the animal through several streets until St. Valer street was reached. The constable kept up a fire from the running board, and wounded the animal several times. The moose was able to shake the constable off when they caught up with her and tried to hold her down by the head. A final bullet, however, ceased her struggles.

LIKELY SETTLERS GET INSTRUCTION

Will Get Knowledge of Canadian Farming Before Leaving England.

London, May 21.—The colonization department of the Canadian National Railways here is formulating a new training school for intending British settlers in Canada, including preliminary instruction in England, to be followed in the Dominion by practical contact with farming conditions. It is hoped that the scheme will enable settlers who possess no agricultural experience to make some acquaintance with Canadian agricultural conditions before embarking. It will also enable the Canadian National Railways colonization department to make a more careful selection of those who profess themselves already experienced in farming.

The Canadian National department of colonization and settlement is trying to encourage the settlement in Canada of groups of families on specially selected lands adjacent to the railway.

HAMILTON WANTS PART OF MONEY TAKEN IN FINES

Hamilton, Ont., May 21.—Hon. W. H. Price, provincial treasurer, assured Mayor Jutten, City Clerk Kent and Controller Tope, who visited him in Toronto this afternoon, that something would be done shortly in regard to the city's application for a remission of part of the money collected here in police court fines.

MAN IS DROWNED AS CANOE UPSETS

Fourteen Others Have Miraculous Escape From Death At Toronto.

Toronto, May 21.—Overturned in the heavy sea outside the sea wall, opposite the Toronto Canoe Club quarters, foot of Dowling avenue, this evening a war canoe spilled its 15 occupants into the water, with the result that John Johnson, aged 24, was drowned. The other men managed to scramble to the sea wall, and they were taken from there by boats manned by members of the club. There was quite a roll on the water at the time, and it is understood that a wave caught the canoe broadside on, thus causing it to upset. Johnson's absence was not noticed by the men as they scrambled upon the wall, but the survivors were in such a chilled and exhausted condition that they could do little. He eventually never came to the surface.

For 15 Years Was Troubled With Eczema

There is no other remedy like Burdock Blood Bitters that can possibly give such relief to all sufferers from eczema, salt rheum and all other diseases of the blood for the reason that this old and well tried remedy goes right to the seat of the trouble and completely and permanently drives these diseases out of the system by cleansing the blood and making it pure and rich.

Mr. F. W. H. Schultz, Pembroke, Ont., writes: "Having been troubled with eczema for fifteen years, during which time I tried everything I could think of, including doctors, but without getting anything to do me much good, I finally decided to take Burdock Blood Bitters, and I was certainly surprised to find that two weeks after I had started to take it I was relieved of my trouble. That was nine months ago, and I have not had a sign of it since. I surely wish to thank you for this wonderful medicine and strongly recommend it to anyone suffering from the same trouble as I had."

LIVERPOOL BY-ELECTION IS BEING HELD TODAY

Canadian Press Despatch.

London, May 22.—Polling in the by-election in the West Toxteth division of Liverpool, necessitated by the death of William Hutchison, the Conservative member, is taking place today. The candidates are Capt. W. E. Elliott, Conservative; Sir J. W. Pratt, Liberal, and Aitken Ferguson, Labor.

The contest has been rather dull, but in the past few days there has been something of a recurrence of the old orange and green antagonism that once was notorious in Liverpool but has been almost absent in recent years.

West Toxteth has been a Tory division for 30 years, and if it goes Labor today, which is regarded as probable, the result will be a severe blow to the Conservatives of the country as a whole as they always have regarded the division as a Tory stronghold well nigh impregnable.
