THIS YEAR'S BANK RETURNS

Show a Steady Increase in Circulation Deposits Rising $40,000,000.

No Diminution of the Business Prosperity of Canada—Interesting Statements of President Clouston.

Montreal, Nov. 14.—The annual meeting of the Canadian Bankers' Association was convened at the Windsor Hotel this morning, E. S. Clouston, the president, in the chair. Mr. Clouston, in the course of his annual address, referred to the banking legislation, which went into operation not long ago, but stated that it has not yet been long enough in force to get into proper working order. The bank returns since the last annual meeting, he said, showed a steady increase in circulation, having expanded $5,000,000, while deposits have risen $40,000,000, and there is $14,000,000 more on loan available for the business requirements of the country. Referring to the general conditions of the country, Mr. Clouston said that the business prosperity, which commenced in 1897, was as yet undiminished. It was a striking sign that in five years the money value of imports and exports had been enhanced 60 per cent. The association concluded its meeting to-day by electing the following officers for the ensuing year: Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal and George Hays, Honorary Presidents; D. R. White, W. G. Brown, M. J. Webb, T. Blenven, G. P. Reid, C. McGill, Executive Council; J. H. Plummer, J. Henderson, E. Hay, Editing Committee; F. Hague, C. S. Hoare, W. Goldrey, W. B. Torrance, Corresponding Members; T. Blenven and J. H. Muir, Auditors; Z. A. Lash, Counsel; J. T. Knight, Secretary-Treasurer.

The next general meeting of the association will take place in Toronto on Nov. 14, 1902.

HITS HOME

Ex-Ald. Marx Declines to Parry Barrister Martin's Attack but Leads With Another Parol.

"No, I have really nothing to say to this man, Martin," said ex-Ald. Marx in reference to the recent argument on the word "fiasco." "I must really decline to lower myself by entering into a discussion with him."

"But I have another tale that may interest him."

"Some years ago the Crown Prince Frederick William attended the annual masquerade ball in Germany, which is a national event and to which the people are all made welcome. At midnight a sanitary man came and demanded the removal of all masks preparatory to luncheon."

"The Prince and his aide were adjourning when they met their tailor. It may be explained that in Germany the tailors are most pompous and egotistic tradesmen and hold themselves much superior to their compatriots in other trades or professions."

"Ah," said the Prince, graciously bowing to the merchant, "and how are you enjoying yourself?"

"Only fairly well, your highness," was the response. "You see this is such a miserably mixed social affair."

"True," replied the Prince. "It's too bad that we all can't be tailors."

"And so I would only say," concluded ex-Ald. Marx. "It's too bad we all can't be Martins."

LOST AN ARM.

Glencoe, Ont., Nov. 14.—About four o'clock, to-day, Charles, the 10-year-old son of John Clarke, lost his right arm while amusing himself by jumping on and off of a shunting train. The boy caught a slowly moving car which started with a jerk, throwing him under the wheels and badly crushing his arm above the elbow. He was carried home, and there the arm was amputated near the shoulder. The child endured the pain very manfully, and is getting on nicely, although very weak from loss of blood. It is a peculiar coincidence that the boy's father, when young, lost his arm by being thrown under a moving train.

WORSE THAN REPORTED.

London, Nov. 15.—The condition of Queen Wilhelmina, according to a despatch to the Standard from Brussels, is worse than has been officially represented. Three physicians are in attendance upon Her Majesty, and the Queen mother has been summoned. The royal patient will be obliged to keep her couch for six weeks.

A TERRIBLE LOSS OF LIFE

Over 160 Persons Drowned During the Storm on the British Coast.

Further Reports of Shipping Disasters—A Lifeboat Crew Perishes Going to Rescue Distressed Vessel.

London, Nov. 14.—The loss of a lifeboat and eleven lives, near Yarmouth heads the list of to-day's wrecks by the continued gale. The lifeboat was on its way to the rescue of a distressed vessel when it was struck by a great wave and capsized. The crew were imprisoned, and only three of them succeeded in making their escape.

Innumerable minor casualties continue to be reported on all the coasts of the United Kingdom, marking the storm as the most disastrous that has occurred in many years. Snow is falling in many parts of the country.

An incomplete list of the persons who have lost their lives by drowning during the storm, already aggregated over 160.

The Norwegian bark Erratic, of Christiansand, has been wrecked in the vicinity of Saltburn, and eight members of her crew have been drowned.

A Belfast despatch says:—From wreckage seen in Belfast Lough to-day, it is supposed that the collier White Abbey has been lost and the crew of nine drowned.

London, Nov. 15.—It is still impossible to estimate the loss of life and property resulting from the protracted gale, and probably the full extent of the damage will never be known.

Tons of wreckage of unidentified vessels are still being thrown up. Altogether it is known that some 50 vessels have been wrecked along the British coasts. Thirty-four of these have been absolute wrecks, involving, it is said, a loss of more than 180 drowned. The Yarmouth lifeboat disaster leaves 44 fatherless children.

AFTER OFFICE

Many Want to be Deputy Collector of Inland Revenue at Windsor.

Windsor, Nov. 15.—There is a strong probability that a dark horse will be appointed to the position of deputy collector inland revenue at Windsor. The gentleman's name is Israel Marion, of Tilbury township. There has been a greater number of candidates for the office than for any other in the gift of the Government at Windsor.

The applicants are not alone confined to the officers now in the service, but to a small army of political workers from both North and South Essex. Each man has had his case stated, both to R. F. Sutherland, the member for North Essex, and to the Government at Ottawa.

Some time ago the executive committee of the North Essex Liberals held a meeting in Windsor and, although there was but one Windsor man present, it was decided to recommend Marion for the position. Acting on the advice of the committee, R. F. Sutherland immediately sent Mr. Marion's name to the Government, but so far no action has been taken by the powers at Ottawa.

Some of the other candidates for the position, learning of the action of the executive committee, have made a vigorous kick, both to the Government and to Sutherland, and this is given as one of the reasons why the appointment is still in the air. It is understood that the heads of the department at Ottawa object to placing a man in such a position without any previous training for the office. The Windsor politicians object to Marion's appointment on the ground that very few city men are selected for city jobs.

GOOD NEWS

War Office Said to have Received in From Kitchener.

New York, Nov. 14.—A London cable says:—There are rumors of favorable advices received by the War Office from South Africa, but nothing definite.

London, Nov. 14.—An interview with an Austrian merchant who has just returned from South Africa is reported by the Vienna correspondent of the Times. The merchant believes the war will last another six months, but does not think the Boers will hold out beyond next June. He believes they would be glad to make peace if they obtained substantial autonomy. He says the British should not allow the burghers to retain gold mine regions, which should be permanently under British rule. This observer also declares that Kruger kept up the Afrikaner Bund by wealth derived from the gold industry. He says if Kruger loses his money he will soon lose his friends.

THE INCOMPETENT ONTARIO GOVERNMENT.

Time after time the fact has been proved that the Toronto government consists of an aggregation of bunglers.

Public recollection is still fresh with regard to the fact that it took a letter written to the papers by Mr. J. J. Foy to check the bunglers and muddlers with regard to one unconstitutional move.

Just recently we have had an illustration of the same incompetence with regard to a measure introduced by Ross, which was to check the scrap iron industry, but which the judges have found was not worth the paper it was written on and now it is announced that these befuddled legislators will go to the courts to ascertain just what they did when they passed trading stamp legislation. In connection with this matter the London News, Independent, says—

"The Ontario government has decided to refer to the courts the question of the trading stamps, or in other words to have the judges translate for them the meaning of legislation passed by them at the last session of parliament, and to ask if the legislature were acting within its powers."

The courts seem to be the leading factors, not only in translating laws, but in making laws in this Province. Why does the Ontario Government delegate the most important part of its work to the courts? It is said that the courts are now congested with business unperformed, yet the Ontario Government shirks its own work to pile it upon a body which is irresponsible.

The government, apparently, cannot express its own mind, nor can it decide upon the meaning of its own enactments.

When it reaches the flow of activity, the present government, if in power, will require an entire court of special judges to let us know where we are at.

The only remedy for this state of affairs is to turn out the incompetents bag and baggage.

HAVE NO USE FOR THE PRESS.

A Montreal Witness reporter, who attempted to interview Sir Wilfrid Laurier the other day on a public matter, was informed by the Premier that he never allowed himself to be interviewed, and that he does not believe in newspapers, comments the London Free Press. Sir Wilfrid does not like newspapers because of his habit of chiding his opinions. He does not want to be held very closely to his public utterances. If charged with expressing a principle or policy one may find it radically different from the principle or policy laid down by him on a former occasion, he gets over it by saying that he is not responsible for newspaper reports. Thus he feels at liberty to twist and turn as it may suit the occasion. And indeed, a public man who plays a protean part must find it horribly inconvenient to have thrust upon his attention some former conflicting utterances just at the time when he desires to make a contrary impression.

It is rather significant that this ministerial habit of smothering the representatives of public journals has grown in the various departments at Ottawa under Liberal rule, and that the first to note it are two Liberal newspapers, the Montreal Witness and the Ottawa Free Press. The Free Press, in its issue of last Saturday, says: "The department (of militia) don't like newspaper men," said an officer of the local brigade. The reporter was obliged to admit that "there was a cool reception waiting the reporter in most of the offices of the militia department." The Press writer goes on to argue the case, and concludes by saying "The adjutant-general is one of the few in the militia department who treat the newspaper men, as they should be treated, and the result is surprising. There is not one amongst the Ottawa correspondents in Ottawa but have a good word for Col. the Hon. Matthew Aylmer.

Every man who knows Col. Aylmer will understand and endorse this sentiment. But the question must arise regarding the Premier downwards, upon what most do these our Caesars feed that they have grown so insolent in office? Not only the newspapers, but the vast public which looks to the press for information will have to teach those gentlemen that they are but the people's servants after all, and such airs are incompatible with their position.

IN GOOD TIME.

The British will teach singing to the Boer children in the concentration camps. Do they hope to make "Rule, Britannia!" a popular hymn in South Africa?

COMPARATIVELY POSITIVE.

President Tving, of Western Reserve University, says "football illustrates the value of the positive." We must insist that the grade crossing does it more forcibly, though.

HE LECTURES THE LADIES.

The editor of the Burlington Gazette is a very modest young fellow, and to see a lady lift her skirts high out of the dirt of the street is not to his liking. He has been advising his lady readers that such a practice is not fashionable and clinches his point by telling them that the Duchess of York and her ladies in waiting did not do such an act.

THE RIGHTS OF HYPOCRITES.

Ottawa Journal.
"That large class of people, the hypocrites, have a right to drink," said Lawyer Haveron in Judge MacTavish's court yesterday, in arguing the appeal of the licensed victuallers against the regulation which forbids blinds on bar-room windows. This seems an unkind cut in a way at some of the fellows who drink in that particular style, as they are inclined to apply the term hypocrites entirely to some of the people who do not drink firewater at all.

RECOGNITION OF ECCLESIASTICAL RANK.

Bystander in Weekly Sun.
The question about the precedence of the churches in invitations to state banquets and on other state occasions still agitates ecclesiastical minds. The New Testament is defective in omitting to regulate this matter, and at the same time to make definite provision for bishops with the proper title. As a neat and simple solution, it is proposed to be guided by the religious census, the head of the church which is most numerous in the province taking precedence of the rest. The right solution of this, as of all similar questions, is complete separation, real and practical as well as legal, of the church from the state. The state in this country ought to take no more cognizance of the church than of the national societies, the Orange lodges, or the Freemasons. Let a church give its dignitaries the title of lord or any other title which it likes, and which they desire. We shall not object any more than we object to the fancy titles which the fraternities give their officers. But we cannot help objecting to any recognition of ecclesiastical rank or title by a government which has no state church.

Theatrical

The Fadettes again filled the boards at the Grand last night. The audience was not as large as the program deserved, for the ladies once more established themselves as artists of the first order. The Fadettes will always be welcome to Chatham.

To-morrow Night at the Grand—A Laughing Play. Of it to-day's London Free Press says:—

The House that Jack Built, as shown last night at the New Grand, is a broad farce full of mistaken identities, resulting in the most improbable of situations. The occurrences in the house of Dr. Jack are so odd and comical, that the audience is indulged to the full with laughter—the most hilarious, which is all that the farce is made for. It is a caricature upon the hobby of the rights and dignity of labor as philosophized upon by people who know nothing about the subject. But it is as a laugh-maker that the piece is most successful, and it depends more upon the ability of the actors than the sanity and consistency of the argument. George H. Summers, a Torontoian, as Willie Slob, the paperhanger, who is a plumber at heart, did clever work. His fan is of the broad sort and highly colored, and it went well. Miss St. George Hussey, as Mrs. Dooley, a rich and loud-spoken widow, caught the audience with her rollicking representation of the part. The other members of the company gave excellent support. Specialties were added by Mr. Summers, Miss Hussey and Miss May Ethel Courtney. There was a large audience, despite the inclement weather, and all present enjoyed the work of these excellent fun-makers.

FROM SCOTLAND YARD.

The detective drama is one of the popular classes of entertainment, so that a deal of delectable delight is attached to the announcement that From Scotland Yard is to be seen at the Grand Monday night, for the press of London was a unit in declaring this new melo-drama the acme of this class of drama. The play teems with sensational episodes and an added charm is there when it is appreciated that each of these thrilling incidents is an actual happening and is to be found recorded in the annals of Scotland Yard. The play is produced with a wealth of scenic environment and proper detail, and a finely balanced cast is employed for the several roles.

No play ever produced has a record of success equal to that of "Mistress Nell," the merry play that comes to the Chatham Grand next Thursday night. It was originally produced in New York, and Henrietta Greenman in the title role and its success was so instantaneous that the limited engagement of three weeks was extended to an entire season. "Mistress Nell" occupying, during last year, the Bijou, Savoy, and Wallack's theatres in succession.

HELPLESS.

The man trussed up so that he can neither move hand nor foot is in his helplessness a fair type of many a man affected by rheumatism. Often the disease only partially disables, and with crutch and cane the sufferer hobbles painfully about.

Rheumatism can be cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This great blood purifying medicine eliminates the poisons which cause the disease. It increases the activity of the blood-making glands, and so increases the purity and abundance of the blood supply, thus giving vigor and vitality to all organs of the body which depend for their health on plenty of pure blood. It builds up the body with firm flesh instead of flabby fat. The "Discovery" contains neither alcohol nor narcotics.

"I had been troubled with rheumatism for twelve years, so bad at times I could not leave my bed," writes Mr. E. J. McKnight, of Canby, Williamsburg Co., S. C. "I was badly crippled. Tried many doctors, and two of them gave me up to die. None of them did me much good. The pains in my back, hips and legs and at times in my head, would nearly kill me. My appetite was very bad. Everybody who saw me said I must die. I took five bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and four vials of the 'Pellitory' and today my health is good after suffering twelve years with rheumatism."

Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets assist the action of the "Discovery."

IN NEW YORK

Chathamite Meets Many of his Townsmen There—All Doing Well.

Percy Kemp, formerly of the S. Hadley Lumber Company's office, is now employed in the offices of the Alleghany Iron and Steel Co., New York City.

Writing to a friend in this city, he has many a tale to tell of the American village built around the Bowery. One of the odd restaurants of the many odd restaurants in New York is that of Childs.

Booths are arranged on either side of an aisle and the diner as he walks in steps at say, the booth labelled "Pork and Beans." He goes what he wants and does likewise at the other booths, and, at the end of the aisle he is stopped by a lady, who examines his dinner and gives him a check. He then sets down at one of the tables provided and, after eating, what he has secured, he leaves, paying at the door.

While Percy Kemp was walking along, selecting his dinner recently, he met Archie Ireland doing likewise, and they dined together, that day and have done so occasionally since.

Mr. Kemp says that New York isn't such a large village after all. He has met several Chatham people including Henry Garrett, Tecumseh Pegley, Miss Flossie Atkinson, and Miss Mamie Northwood.

That Was Different
"Papa," asked the little boy, "do you remember the first money you ever earned?"

"Yes," said papa. "It was a nice, new shiny five-cent piece that old Mr. Gregg, the grocer gave me for doing about a quarter's worth of work in carrying a load of potatoes into his cellar. I worked all Saturday afternoon to earn that nickel, and when he paid me I ran three blocks home, tired as I was, to show it."

"And did you put it in your little bank?"
"No, I got father's permission to spend it just as I pleased. However, I kept it for three or four days, just to have 'the satisfaction of having money in my pocket earned by my own exertions. And if I could have bought all the things I thought of buying with that nickel I would have had about $10 worth of books, toys, marbles and what not. Finally I made up my mind. What do you think I bought?"

"I am sure I can't guess," said the little boy. "What did you buy, papa?"

"I went to the bakery and bought a custard pie."
"Why, papa! And you said grandma always had custard pie at home and let you have a slice of it as soon as you got home from school!"

"Yes, I used to get a slice, but not a whole pie, and she never let me eat it the way I wanted to. So I went to the bakery and bought my pie and borrowed a spoon from the baker and ate all the custard and left the crust. I never had anything taste so good in all my life."

"You never allow me to eat custard pie that way, papa," said the little boy.

"Oh, that's different!" said papa.

A Maple City man with some legal pretensions recently took a trip from Chatham city through Dover township. He indulged so frequently in "Dunne's" Gagner's bitters, and looked so many times into the bowl that flows a zigzag jag, that he saw more than he was entitled to. Why he reached the jag in the road beyond "Dunne's" where the White House stands, he saw five houses where there only ought to have been one. His Chatham friends now wonder what he could have been indulging in to see a whole village where there is only one small house. There are one or two left within the precincts of this city who would like to sample that brand.

BABY BORN IN MOTHER'S COFFIN

Woman Was Buried Alive in French Cemetery and Father Sued the Doctor.

Jury Has Just Awarded Him a Verdict of Forty Thousand Dollars Damages.

Paris, Nov. 14.—A newspaper here reports a remarkable story from Pauillac. Mme. Bobin, a passenger on the steamer La Plata, from Senegal, was landed at that port suffering with what was supposed to have been yellow fever. She was placed in the Lazaretto, where her condition became worse, and finally the doctors certified that she was dead, and she was buried. One of the nurses, however, doubted that the woman was dead, and communicated with Mme. Bobin's father, who caused the body of his daughter to be exhumed, when it was found that the supposed dead woman had given birth to a child in the coffin. An autopsy showed that Mme. Bobin did not have yellow fever and that she had died from suffocation after she was buried. Her father sued the prefect and health officer, and the court to-day awarded him 200,000 francs damages.

WILL HE RUN?

Campbell's Course in West York Depends on Ottawa Magistrate.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—The Executive of the West York Liberal Association will meet to-morrow to arrange the date for a convention to select a Federal candidate. There is no doubt that the nomination will be offered to Mr. Archibald Campbell, ex-M. P. of Toronto Junction, who faced the late N. Clarke Wallace a year ago, and the acceptance of Mr. Campbell depends on the Government. He is in political life to stay, but it rests with the Premier to say whether he is to receive a Senatorship or to remain a fighting man in the larger field of the House of Commons.

CAME BACK

Was Cast Upon the Waters and Returned after Many Days.

Last month during the freshet, Clifford Nagle, of this city, threw a bottle into the flood. In the bottle was a piece of paper. On one side was a sketch of Nagle and on the other side was the following: "Finder please notify me, where this is found. It was thrown in the freshet of the Thames River, March 27th, 1901, by Clifford Nagle, Chatham, Ont., Can." This morning, Clifford received back the dispatch he consigned to the flood. It came in an envelope from Belle River and had the following additional writing on it: "Belle River, Nov. 13, 1901, Clifford Nagle, Dear Sir, I found this near Belle River on the 13th of November, while shooting quail two miles west of Belle River, yours respectfully, William Chickner, Belle River."

BOARD OF TRADE

Organization to Take Place in Well-Being on Monday Evening Next.

The attendance at the meeting in the Robinson Hall on Monday evening last for the purpose of organizing a Board of Trade was not large, but still a representative one.

Mayor Chubb was voted to the chair, and T. B. Dundas appointed secretary pro tem. Mr. Chubb stated the object for which the meeting had been called, and that in his opinion the town had reached the stage when an energetic, live board of trade was a necessity. Considerable had been said in regard to the funds of the old and defunct board, but they had been legitimately spent, and there was no money for anyone to take away.

After some discussion it was decided to meet next Monday evening for final organization and that in the meantime a committee composed of Messrs. T. F. Hinegan, and M. McCarron canvass the business men for membership. The fee was placed at $1. and the following members enrolled: Messrs. J. S. Fraser, M. McCarron, Dr. Mitchell, C. Chubb, T. F. Hinegan, R. Pashby, E. B. Snively, James D. C. McDonald, A. O'Flynn, J. A. Quennell and Martin Martin.

Dr. Geo. Mitchell urged the organization of a board and expressed regret that in the old board had been lost, as to it directly was due the credit for securing our two leading industries, the flax factory and the glass works. There was plenty of work along similar lines for a new board to perform.

J. S. Fraser briefly referred to the benefits to be derived from a live, energetic board of trade, and mentioned as industries that could probably be secured a pork packing factory, a linen mill, and a brass foundry.

Suggestions regarding a pottery, saw mill, linseed oil mill, market and market buildings, etc., were made by others present.

The railroad service accorded to the town and the desirability of securing another line was also discussed, and the meeting then adjourned. Wallaceburg Herald-Record.

While at work in the Illinois zinc mill at Peru, Andrew Kosla, a youth, accidentally thrust his foot into a vessel of molten lead. When a few minutes later a fellow-workman dragged him from his perilous position, Kosla's foot and a part of his leg, hanging on by pieces of flesh, fell back into the lead. The flesh and bones had been almost consumed. Physicians are unable to account for this effect of the molten metal. Some believe that Kosla's condition physically is greatly out of the ordinary, and a consultation will be held to ascertain the correctness of this theory.

Martial law is expected to be enforced in Barcelona as the result of student riots during the past forty-eight hours. A detachment of cavalry occupied the university, and ejected the students and professors. The troops subsequently charged the students in the streets. Numbers of persons were injured. The stores are barricaded, and the tradespeople are panic-stricken.

FIELD TRIALS

The Annual Run Completed Yesterday—The Results Very Satisfactory.

The international field trials which were run off this year at St. Joachim, were finished yesterday. The dogs entered in yesterday's competition were Dan Windim, owned by L. H. Smith, of Strathroy, run with Petri's Count, owned by a dog fancier in Michigan.

Selkirk Hope, owned by W. B. Wells, of this city, ran with Kate Windim, owned by Montague Smith, of Forest. A dog owned by Frank Markens ran a bye with a dog owned by Mr. Armstrong, of Detroit.

All of the dogs were aged English setters. The competition was keen and interesting and the awards were given to the satisfaction of all of the competitors. Dan Windim won first place, Petri's Count won second and Kate Windim third.

Great difficulty was experienced in finding the birds, but every pair of dogs worked thoroughly and well and there was no question as to the correctness of the awards.

Petri's Count, the second dog, was evidently not in good form. He was troubled with an abscess under his jaw, thus working under difficulties. Dan Windim's work was good. He is a nice looking dog of a good setter character. He was under good control and pointed staunchly. Armstrong's dog made several active points in the heat with the bye.

There were a large number of spectators, including a number from Michigan. The people are shooting too much at the place of the trials. The birds acted badly and it was very difficult to make much progress. Messrs. Armstrong, of Detroit, and Harrington, of Leamington, were the judges.

Another explosion, attended with heavy loss of life, took place in the Baby mine at Peachontas, Va.

APPEARED AT LAST.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 14.—The November shower of Leonids is on, and will continue for the remainder of this week. If the sky is clear they will be visible from midnight on until near dawn in the direction of the constellation Leo in the northeast. Beginning with a few Leonids last night the rush of tiny stars will increase until Saturday and then gradually thin down and pass off on their long orbit.

Prof. Asaph Hall of the Michigan university observatory will watch them each night. Last night a few appeared. Clouds threaten to hide to-night's display.

Prof. Hall says the Leonids are supposed to be the remains of some vast planet that flew into atoms long ages ago and since have been flying about the track in which the planet used to travel.

CONDUCTOR WAS NOT HUNGRY.

A story was told the other day that will bear repeating. The gentleman who told it has just returned from a visit to Windsor, and it runs like this: "I had been up town to the theatre and took the street car to the hotel at which I was staying. The car was full of passengers, one of them a big fat negro woman, with a child in her arms, which was crying, and she was trying to console it, but it wouldn't be consoled. 'Stop dat cryin' chile! Doan yo' see yo' mammy gettin' out yo' supper?' With this remark she offered the breast to the child, but it wouldn't take it. Coaxingly she said 'Hush, yo' squallin', yo' little brack rascal, an' take yo' supper; if you don't I's a-gwine ter give it ter de conductor.' The poor that went up in the car was deafening. The conductor got off at the next stop."

IONE: A BROKEN LOVE DREAM

BY LAURA JEAN LIBBEY

Author of "A Broken Betrothal," "Parted by Fate," "Parted at the Altar," "Heiress of Cameron Hall," "Miss Middleton's Lover," Etc., Etc.

"Enough of this darning; it shall be paid," declared Lyons, angrily, "and if you must know, I will tell you how and when. I am expecting to marry an heiress, and as soon as the knot is tied and she comes into possession of her wealth—which is upon her marriage day—I'll settle your bill."

The words had been uttered in a low, cautious tone, but they seemed to the girl sitting opposite them to have been fairly shrieked through the car.

He was soon to be married, and to another! This man who, not forty-eight hours ago, had clasped her own hand, asking her to be his wife, breathing words so eloquent, so full of love and devotion, that they had fairly taken her heart by storm! Had she heard aright? or was this some horrible dream from which she should awaken presently?

By a violent effort she collected her scattered senses and listened again.

Headless of a third party's presence, his brain reeling with wine, Frank Lyons went on boisterously.

"The whole affair, as the novelists would say, has been rather romantic. You remember meeting me one afternoon with that pretty little mill-girl, as you called her, and how you chafed me about it the next time we met? Well, she's the heiress I'm referring to. Don't hat and interrupt me until you've heard all, for there's more back."

"You have heard about that accident at the Nottingham Mills, of course, and how Ions Lawrence, one of the girls, came near losing her life, for the papers were full of it, and the affair was copied far and wide."

"It appears that a copy fell into the hands of an iron merchant from the West, who had gone to Philadelphia on business. Well, to make a long story short, the name 'Ions Lawrence' riveted his attention. He called upon a lawyer at once to investigate whether or not this girl was the child of his only sister—Ions—who had married a man by the name of Lawrence, who had come north years before, and whom he had lost track of, though he had made several attempts to discover their whereabouts. Once he had heard of her through an old friend who chanced to meet her; that she had two children—lovely little girls—one named Barbara; the other named after herself—Ions."

"The merchant had written immediately to the address given, only to find they had recently moved away, and all trace was lost."

"Now he requested this Philadelphia lawyer to ascertain if this orphan mill-girl is one of his nieces, declaring that if it be proven so, he shall inherit the whole of his immense fortune, one-half to be paid down on her wedding day."

"The Philadelphia lawyer called upon me immediately, and he wrote on immediately to me, stating all the facts, asking me to find out beyond a doubt if this girl was the one sought for, and had had a sister named Barbara, knowing I could easily ascertain the required information, as I was acquainted with young Rochester, the mill-owner's son."

"Imagine my astonishment upon learning all this, for I had quite an acquaintance with the bewitching little mill-girl, with whom I had been flirting desperately to kill time. Why, it was as good as a novel, I say. You can depend upon it I lost no time in proposing to the charming nymph, saying never a word just yet of my wonderful discovery. You understand, I want her to think I loved and won her in all her poverty."

MAGICAL

is the effect produced on a big family wash by a single cake of SURPRISE soap.

The housewife's labor is reduced one half; the original snowy whiteness is restored to the linens without boiling or hard rubbing and the disagreeable odors so noticeable with other soaps is done away with entirely.

And yet it costs no more than ordinary soaps.

Read the directions on the wrapper.

Colonel Whitney, this wealthy old uncle, is stopping at the K—Hotel, in Philadelphia, awaiting patiently the result of the investigation. So there's the long and the short of the whole story. You may be sure I shall push the marriage forward as rapidly as possible," adding, with a laugh: "There'll be no time spent on wedding trousseau from Paris, and all that sort of nonsense."

"But the girl," responded his friend—"are you sure she will accept you? Proposing and being accepted are different matters."

"Beyond a doubt," returned Lyons, twisting his mustache about complacently with his white fingers. "Wish I was as sure of five millions of dollars."

"Well, under those circumstances, of course if it will oblige you, I'll wait on you for that little amount, Lyons."

"I knew you'd see the matter in the right light. If you had, in common parlance, blown on me, the whole affair would have ended for me, for although this charming Ions is only a mill-girl, as she believes herself just now, yet she would never marry me if she knew what a reckless fellow I am; that's the sort of a girl she is. It wouldn't do for her to hear that I have run through two fortunes already, at my age of life."

"And are waiting to run through a third," supplemented his companion, dryly. "Upon my word, I actually pity the girl so unfortunate as to get you. And that little girl I saw you with has a sweet face, tender and true."

The little veiled figure in the dark cloak rose quickly to her feet and with a swaying motion, like a leaf in the wind, left the car; and it rolled on leaving her standing there on the snowy pavement, her face white as it would ever be in death, her eyes heavy with unshed tears.

CHAPTER VIII.

Ions did not cry out, nor utter any moan, great as the shock had been. As she listened to the words that fell from Frank Lyons' lips, at the love in her heart turned instantly to loathing. The scales fell from her eyes which had been blinded so long by love. She saw him in his true character at last.

Her idol was shattered—her love-dream broken; but she thanked Heaven it had happened before instead of after marriage.

Mrs. Gregory was dismayed at Ions' white face when she returned. "You look ill yourself, my dear," she declared. "I would really advise you to see the doctor, too, when he calls."

All that night the dark, curly head tossed restlessly on her pillow, but Ions shed bitter tears of girlish disappointment over the loss of her handsome, fickle lover, the world never knew it.

Frank Lyons was at the house at the appointed hour the next day. Mrs. Gregory admitted him, and he could not fail to see the dislike on her honest face.

He was shown into the plain little parlor, and, to his surprise, it was some little time before Ions put in an appearance, which was quite unusual.

At length the door opened, and Ions, flushing and paling, hesitatingly entered the room.

"Tone! my darling!" he cried, springing eagerly forward, and attempting to clasp her hands with his own outstretched ones. "It seems to me I have been waiting here an age for you, dear."

Ions drew back from him in scorn, the delicate bloom deepening on her dimpled cheeks, her dark eyes blazing.

"You play the part of an anxious lover capital," Mr. Lyons, she said. "Allow me to compliment you on your perfect dissembling."

"Tone," he cried, "what can you mean? Last evening I left you with the light of love shining in your face for me, kind words on your lips. Now I find you suddenly changed toward me. I ask you again: What can it mean? Have you forgotten why I am here to-day? It is to gain the promise that you will be mine, dear. You were to give me your answer to-day."

She held up her little hand with a gesture of silence.

"I am here in accordance with that agreement," she said. "I have brought you your answer."

"And that answer, my darling," he cried, breathlessly, "is—"

"Not," she replied.

"Tone," he cried, hoarsely, "surely you are testing me. You cannot— you do not mean it."

"I can and do mean it," she retorted. "I will never be your wife, Mr. Lyons. Please consider the interview at an end."

"You shall not leave me like this, Ions," he cried, fairly beside himself with rage. "You have led me on to hope that my suit would meet with favor in your eyes, and now you would coolly throw me over. You would make me the laughing-stock of all my friends. It must not be, Ions. You must marry me."

The girl drew back and looked at him haughtily.

"Pardon me. The word 'must' was ill chosen," she said. "I am not used to coercion. I will not be forced into marriage. I told you all along I was not sure of my own heart whether I cared for you or not. Now I have analyzed my true feeling toward you. I—I would not marry you if you were the last man in the world."

Frank Lyons started back in amazement. He had been sure of her. For an instant he had been disappointed and rage got the best of his judgment.

A sneer fell from his lips—his eyes blazed wrathfully.

"One would think to hear you that you were an heiress instead of a poor factory-girl," he cried, "who should deem it a grand honor to be asked in marriage by me?"

The girl's lip curled. Without deigning him a reply, she turned like a young queen and walked away.

In vain he sought Mrs. Gregory, and pleaded with her to implore Ions to return to the parlor; he had so much to say to her, and that he could not leave her like this.

But Ions was inexorable. She would not return.

In utter despair, he seized his hat at last and hurried from the house, muttering that this was some enemy's work, and that he should win the girl in spite of all the fates that could intervene. Aye, in spite of herself; for she had loved him once, and love could not die in a woman's heart so easily.

Man-like, when he found he could not get Ions, he discovered how much he really cared for her aside from her fortune.

"She shall not know about that fortune until she is my wife," he said, grimly.

And that night he wired the following message to his friend in Philadelphia:

"To Walter Stanhope, No.— Chestnut street: Have made diligent inquiries concerning the girl you wrote me about, and have learned that she has left the city."

"(Signed) Frank B. Lyons."

The telegram was duly handed over to his patron, Colonel Whitney, by Mr. Stanhope, the lawyer.

Slowly the colonel read it through.

"Left the city?" he groaned—"whereabouts unknown? I am beginning to believe I shall never be able to trace Ions' child. To-morrow I will go on to New York and see for myself if all clue is hopelessly lost."

The next afternoon, just at the colonel stepped out upon the piazza, he was met by one of the bell-boys who had been searching for him, with the information that a young lady who was in the reception-room wished to see him.

"A lady!" ejaculated the colonel, surprised. "Now what in the name of all that is wonderful can a lady want with me?" he muttered, under his breath, adding: "The best plan obviously is to go and see. No doubt it's some book agent; and with a look of resignation on his ruddy face, he stepped into the reception-room."

A slim figure in a brown dress rose from the depths of a cushioned arm-chair, and fluttered down to meet him. A little brown hand was stretched out to him, and a pair of great, childish dark eyes were raised timidly to his face, and a voice, sweet as a silver bell, said:

"Please welcome me, Colonel Whitney. I am Ions Lawrence, your niece."

"Bless my soul," exclaimed the bewildered colonel, "can it really be true?"

But there was no need to ask that question, for the first swift glance into that lovely girlish face, so wonderfully like his sister's, was conclusively proof to him that this was his child. The letter she had brought, written by the colonel to her mother, and the locket she wore round her neck containing her father's and a silver bell, said:

"The colonel's delight at finding her knew no bounds, and he listened intently when she told him briefly and truthfully just how she had heard of him at the cost of finding out the falsity of her lover."

"You have escaped one of the worst rascals society ever tolerated, my dear," he exclaimed. "I have known this Frank Lyons for years, and never knew any good of him. You say you were in the Rochester Mill," he added, suddenly. "Then, of course, you saw young Arthur Rochester. If there was ever a man who ought to be called a king among men, he is the one. I hope, Ions," he continued, energetically, "if you ever fall in love with a young man, it will be some one like him."

He did not understand why the girl's face flushed so deeply, then turned so deadly pale.

Ions did not realize then, but she knew afterward, why it gave her such keen pleasure to hear her uncle speak so kindly of Arthur Rochester. She could not tell the colonel that he had asked her to be his wife, and that she had refused him—thrown away a golden heart for one of tin-steel.

A strange truth was dawning upon her. She was beginning to care for Arthur Rochester; she was learning to prize the love she had cast aside. Ah, how blind she had been to have even imagined she cared for Frank Lyons. She had not mourned his loss; she had imagined she would; his face was blotted all too quickly from her memory, and another filled her thoughts, waking or sleeping. But would she ever see Arthur Rochester again? she asked herself, and her heart beat more quickly at the thought. Ah, if he would but come to her and ask that momentous question again, she would not send him away, and she thought of those beautiful, pathetic lines:

"She told him 'No,' and he went away; But neither could she forget; And many a time in the long, still night, Her eyes with tears were wet— For she missed the love that she had cast aside."

"Why does he not ask me again?" she cried.

Colonel Whitney informed Ions that they should start for Pittsburgh, his home. His immense foundry interests required his constant presence there.

Make a Test of the Kidneys.

Decide For Yourself by a Simple Experiment If You Have Kidney Disease.

Scores and hundreds of people who are complaining almost daily of backache, pains in the limbs, not unlike rheumatism, and stinging, scalding sensations when urinating, do not know that they are in reality suffering from kidney derangements. Gradually they become thinner and weaker, experience more or less puffiness under the eyes and swelling of the limbs, and feel chronic disease fixing itself upon the system.

It is not necessary for you to undergo an expensive examination to find out if the kidneys are diseased. You can make the examination for yourself. Take a clean glass vessel and allow some urine to stand in it for twenty-four hours. If at the end of that time there are deposits in the bottom of the vessel you can be certain that the kidneys are not in healthy working order. This test, accompanied by the symptoms referred to above, are indisputable evidence of kidney disease.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

There is no longer any question about the efficiency of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as a prompt, thorough and lasting cure for every form of kidney disease. Their combined action on the kidneys and liver enables them to cure chronic and complicated diseases which cannot be touched by ordinary kidney medicines. You can depend on Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills every time. One pill a dose. 25 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

ENGLISH FIRM GOT CONTRACT.

London, Nov. 13.—There were 372 tenders for the construction of 20,000 horse-power plant for the South London electric tramways, half of them being from American and German bidders. The contract was awarded to an English firm. It is the largest contract of the kind ever secured by a British firm, all contracts of the kind having hitherto been awarded to foreign concerns.

AUSTRALIA WANTS TO EXPAND.

London, Nov. 13.—A despatch from Melbourne to the Times says that Mr. Barton, the Commonwealth Premier, in his speech at the banquet given by the Mayor of Melbourne, referred to the intention of the Government to assume control of New Guinea.

Mr. Barton said that if there were one thing more than another that captivated the imagination of Australians it was the prospect of acquiring dominion in the Southern Seas.

SUGAR BOUNTIES CONFERENCE.

London, Nov. 13.—The conference to discuss the abolition of the sugar bounties, says the Brussels correspondent of the Times, has been definitely fixed for December 15.

Fifteen invitations will be issued next week.

It is understood, the correspondent says, that Germany and Austria-Hungary would abolish the export bounties provided that France would do the same, and would further consent to reduce by one-third the bounties on home consumed sugar.

THE SACKVILLE-WEST CASE.

Madrid, Nov. 13.—The Liberal says that Senor Lastres declines to continue to represent Mr. Sackville-West, who is seeking to establish his claim that he is the legal son and heir of Lord Sackville-West, on the ground that he does not agree with the judge regarding the turn the judicial investigations are taking. Lawyers and the newspapers are of the opinion that nothing will prevail against the official documents, which apparently show that Antonio de la Oliva and Pepita Duran were married in 1831, which makes it impossible that the latter could have legally been the mother of Lord Sackville-West's children.

PARIS PUBLISHERS UP IN ARMS.

Paris, Nov. 3.—The publishers of Paris are up in arms against a proposition introduced into the municipal council yesterday afternoon for the increasing of the city's income by the means of a tax of 20 centimes (five cents) a volume on all new books put on sale after January 1, 1902, no matter where originally printed or published.

The famous house of Hachette and Co. is ready for any amount of lobbying to prevent the passage of the bill. Foreign dealers, such as Brentano and Gallmann, who sell hundreds of thousands of American and English books annually, will be forced to close their doors should this extraordinary measure be adopted.

According to one of the best-known publishers here:—"The book-buying public in Paris has already been fleeced to the skin. Any attempt to get more from it will be the means of stopping the printing presses. Books are now higher in Paris than anywhere else in the world."

BURIED IN A CAVE-IN.

Toplin, Mo., Nov. 13.—In a cave-in at Oranago, near here, to-day, the entire plant of the Aurora Mining Company, one of the great zinc producers in the district was swallowed up. No lives were lost. The plant comprised a hundred-ton mill, an office building and engine house, all of which were engulfed, together with six gravel cars and an immense tailing pile. On entering the ground, a short time before the cave-in occurred, workmen heard the timbers cracking, and signalled to be drawn up. The last man had reached the surface only a few minutes before the timbers collapsed, the earth yielded, and with a crash, the whole plant sank into the abyss. Further caving is feared and work in that vicinity has been suspended. It is impossible to estimate the damages.

GERMANS ERECT MONUMENT TO DE WET.

Berlin, Nov. 13.—Germany will indulge in a fervent demonstration of sympathy for the Boers next Sunday, when a commemorative statue to Gen. De Wet will be unveiled in the Village of Schierstein, in the Rhine province. The money for the memorial has been raised by subscriptions of one mark each, contributed by Germans who bear the guerrilla chief's given name of Christian. It takes the form of a heroic bronze bust mounted on a massive pedestal, approaching which is the figure of a stalwart young German, cap in hand, who is about to decorate the bust with the Dutch cavalier's laurel wreath. At the base of the pedestal reclines a monster typifying the horrors of war.

The monument, which was designed by Prof. Pretzschner, of Berlin, is inscribed:—"In Pride and Honor, to Our Valiant Brother in Blood, Captain in the East Prussian Army." Accompanying this inscription is the following sentiment:—"May the intrepid De Wet, the Blucher of the Boers, achieve what every man whose heart is in the right spot hopes for—a free and eternal Boer Empire."

Enthusiastic Converts

There are Thousands of them who Believe as This Woman Does

Mrs. Ira Knowlton, of Butte, Montana, is a most enthusiastic convert to the virtues of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets as a cure for obstinate stomach trouble. She says: "I had poor digestion nearly all my life. It now seems to me that for years I never knew what it was to be hungry, to have a good appetite."

"I was troubled, with gas in the stomach, causing pressure on the heart, with palpitation and short breath. Nearly everything I ate soured on my stomach, sometimes I had cramps in the stomach which almost resembled spasms."

"Doctors told me I had catarrh of the stomach, but their medicines would not reach it, and I would still be a sufferer had I not, in sheer desperation, decided to try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets."

"I knew they were an advertised remedy and I didn't believe anything I read about them, as I had no confidence in advertised remedies, but my sister, living in Pittsburgh, wrote me last spring telling me how Stuart's Tablets had cured her little daughter of indigestion and loss of flesh and appetite and I hesitated no longer."

"I bought a fifty-cent box at my drug store and took two of the large tablets after each meal and found them delightful to take, being as pleasant to the taste as if I had never known what stomach trouble was."

"I keep Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in the house, and every member of my family uses them occasionally after a hearty meal or when any of us have a pain or ache in the digestive organs."

Mr. E. H. Davis, of Hampton, Va., says: "I doctored five years for dyspepsia, but in two months I got more benefit from Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets than in five years of the doctor's treatment."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, bloating after meals, sympathetic heart trouble.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is not a cheap cathartic, but an active digestive remedy containing the pepsin and diastase which every weak stomach lacks, and they cure stomach troubles because they digest the food eaten and give the weak, abused, overworked stomach a chance to rest and recuperate.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold in every drug store in the United States, Canada and Great Britain.

Passion is an unruly horse, and prejudice is its blind driver, and the vehicle it runs away with is the human heart. Reward and punishment are bribe and spur.

Nature has just one pigment on her palette with which she presides over the marvellous tints of beauty, and that one pigment is the blood. The skin-like pink beneath the finger nails, the delicate rose of the cheek, the cherry ripeness of the lips, the iridescent brilliancy of the eyes are all produced by the blood. Just as fine permanence of a beautiful painting will depend upon the purity of the colors with which it is painted, so the permanence of beauty depends on the purity of the blood. Paint, powder and cosmetics won't avail to preserve beauty. Beauty begins in the blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a true beautifier, because it provides for nature that pure blood with which alone she can paint. The use of this medicine will cleanse the skin, brighten the complexion, brighten the eyes, and give to face and form that radiance of health which is the greatest charm of beauty. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are very effective in ridding the system of clogging residuum, which accumulates with constipated habit.

Nobody, in however obscure a station, can be uniformly sincere, patient, gentle and conscientious without exerting a positive influence on friends and neighbors.

FAIRLY DONE MADE

is a modest way of telling of the torture thousands of people have suffered from Skin Diseases—before they learned of that wonderful healer Dr. Agnew's Ointment.

But "gone wild with joy" only faintly expresses the deep meaning in the thankful hearts that have been relieved from skin troubles by this greatest of skin healers. Have you Piles? Salt Rheum? Eczema? Ringworm? Pimples? Has baby got Scald Head? Have you any eruption of the skin? One application of Dr. Agnew's Ointment will help—a few will cure—it never fails. 35c.

HARWICH POLITICAL POINTERS.

Dr. McCully, reeve of Harwich, for 1900-01, will retire at the end of the present term. The doctor leaves the arena of municipal politics with a splendid record.

Richard Young, who has served the township for nine years, is a candidate for the reeve for 1902. "Dick" Young is a man of great ability. He has a clean record and is a strong, stern exponent of strict justice, and if elected to preside over the affairs of the township, will do so with honor to his constituents.

Peter Morrison, who represents the fourth ward, has also announced himself as an aspirant to fill the chief position. The friends of the member for No. 4, are legion, and will make the race a fast one for the best of them.

Mr. Morrison has worked his way to success against hard knocks in all that he has aspired to.

Chas. Buchanan, who has sat for No. 3 the past two years, will again ask the confidence of the ratepayers. Buchanan is a representative of cool, clear, judgment and is the only candidate whose election is considered safe.

Byron Bentley, who aspired to win No. 4 last year, but failed, will seek to woo the favors of fickle fortune once more.

The names of W. Colby James Campbell, Sherman Langford, E. Arnold, Chas. Campbell and W. Saddington, are all mentioned as willing to take the guardianship of No. 2.

Jim McCormick, the radical reformer who has represented the first ward in 1900-01, is again in the field, in reform of the finances and commissaries work in his ward has created a commotion all over the township, and the

A GOVERNMENT OF BUSINESS MEN

Lord Rosebery Would Like to see the Experiment Tried for a Year.

A Plea for Harmony of the Contending Parties When Great Measures are at Stake.

London, Nov. 14. — Lord Rosebery, speaking to-night in Edinburgh, said he did not intend again to try to secure a reform of the House of Lords, as this was not a task for an individual, but one needing a national impulse. "I would like to see," he continued, "an experiment for a year of a Government formed entirely of business men, such for example as Mr. Carnegie and Sir Thomas Lipton, instead of politicians. I would ask you, are we getting our money's worth for the money spent? We are beginning to learn the lesson that great measures must in future be carried more by the harmony of contending parties or by the agreement of belligerent politicians than by the overpowering ascendancy of any one faction in the country."

Continuing, the speaker said he blamed no party and blamed no government, but saw around him questions demanding solution and a general apathy and impotence to deal with them. Political parties, he said, must on occasions be willing to sink their differences and forget who was to power and who would get credit for the carrying out of measures if they wish those measures to be carried out.

FRUIT SHIPMENTS.

Alex. McNeill, fruit inspector for Western Ontario, has just returned from a trip to Montreal, where he was investigating complaints regarding the poor condition in which fruit was shipped. He found that Keefer pears, which are good keepers, were so soft that water was running from the crates. This was owing to the fruit having been shipped in ordinary boxes here and being heated, ripened in four or five days as much as in two months in an ordinary temperature. He advises that fruit should be shipped in salt cars when refrigerator cars are unavailable.

SILPPERS FOR CINDERELLA

Partial Evidences of Local Adaptation of the Romantic Fairy Tale.

They are Guarded at the Police Station Awaiting the Call of their Fair Owner.

The story of Cinderella and the glass slipper is old but the revised version of the story as furnished by the Maple City police is quite new. Of course, the Cinderella in the case is missing. That is natural but persons are wanted to play the parts of the Fairy God-mother and the cruel sisters. P. C. Groves is the Prince. He found the slippers last evening on King street. There are two of them, dainty kid affairs with high French heels.

This morning the slippers reposed on the table in the waiting room of the police station. P. C. Henry Darr was sitting, enchanted, gazing at the fruit and fascinating evidences of some maiden's taste in foot-wear. Groggily as if committing sacrilege, the police patriarch pulled a piece of chamois from one of the slippers. It was just such a piece as nearly every lady uses for powdering her face. Mr. Darr, however, was in blissful ignorance of its usage and the had to be told. "For this face," so illogically the officer.

"Well, I didn't know what it was for," remarked the officer as he laid the piece of chamois down. Chief Young, too, was wondering what the perfumed piece of chamois was for. From the pleasant odor emanating from it, he sized it up as a scent bag. P. C. Groves wasn't so much mystified as to the ownership of the slippers as he was to what the powder rag was. He called it the mystery. Now it is up to P. C. Groves to play the part of the Prince, and fit the shoes on the maidens he meets till he finds the right one. At police headquarters many are the surmises as to the result of this quest. All are wondering whether officer Groves will find the Cinderella black or white, long and lean, or frail and forty, or dainty and sweet. The only thing that is known is that the maiden has small number two feet, and wears expensive and fashionable slippers.

It is believed that the slippers were lost by one of the Fadedette girls, on their way. Two of the machines are Maple City Prince as he tries them on each and every one. Who wouldn't trade places with him!

NEW MACHINERY

Dawley Steel and Axle Works Will soon be in Operation.

In conversation with a Planet reporter this morning, Mr. Dawley, of the local steel works, said: "We have received several cars of axle billet, and one car of spring steel, and we expect to have the axle part of the works running in about two weeks. Six cars of machinery have already been placed and several more are on their way. Two of the machines are upsetting machines, weighing fourteen tons, and the other a Yeakley hammer, weighs six tons. The axle works at Owen Sound have been shut down, and Mr. Dawley, Jr., leaves a Dowley, Sr., will move to the city in about two weeks."

A WATERLOGGED STEAMER.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 14.—A special from Port Hope, Mich., says: "The steamer Emerald, from Alpena to Detroit, loaded with lumber and cedar, sprung a leak and became waterlogged in the heavy gale last night, off Point Aux Barques. The life-saving crew rescued the crew of nine this morning in a freezing condition. The men could not have held out much longer. No effort was made to save the steamer, which is now drifting down Lake Huron in a waterlogged condition. The Emerald was of 348 gross tons, 140 feet over all, with 30 feet beam. She was owned by Thomas M. Ryan, of Buffalo."

DEAD IN A FIELD.

Tottenham, Ont., Nov. 14.—Patrick McGovern, a healthy, respected farmer of Adolph, left his home on Thursday morning, and not returning by evening his friends became alarmed, and after searching for him, he was found dead in a field on a neighboring farm. The night being very dark it is thought he must have lost his way, and accidentally fallen, stunned himself, and did not regain consciousness. Deceased, who was 35 years of age, leaves a wife and nine children. McGovern's brother, Thomas, was killed by a train in Toronto about two years ago.

NO OFFER FROM CANADA.

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—Mr. Brodriek, the British War Secretary, in speaking at a banquet in London last night, said that only that day a colony had offered help for the South African war. No new offer has been made by Canada, so it was not the Dominion to which he referred.
