Appeal Against Fifteen Years' Imprisonment Fails.

Has Settled $5,600,000 Debts Since His Imprisonment

His Rise From Disaster Furnishes Extraordinary Story.

New York, Oct. 11 .- The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals to-day affirmed the de cision of the Lower Federal Court sen tencing Charles W. Morse to 15 years ment in the Federal prison a

The decision of the Circuit Court o Appeals is final so far as direct appeal is concerned, but it was said to-day that counsel for Morse may apply to the Supreme Court of the United States for

Mr. Morse was convicted of violating the National Banking laws in misapply-ing the funds of the National Bank of North America of which had Bank of North America, of which he was president at the time of the last financia panic. He was charged with making false entries on the bank's books. He was sen on Nov. 8, 1908, after a long entries on the bank's books. He was sentenced on Nov. 8, 1908, after a long jury trial.

At the office of Mr. Morse's commsel to-day it was stated that the case would be taken to the Supreme Court of the United States, and an aplication for half would be made. Meantime Mr. Morse would be sent to the Tombs prison, or might be sent to Atlanta to begin his sentence, unless the Circuit Court of Appeals in New York granted a stay in the execution of his sentence.

Mr. Morse appeared at the office of the United States marshal soon after the decision was handed down, and surrendered himself. He remained in the Marshal's office while his counsel, Martin W. Littleton, asked the Circuit Court of Appeals for a stay in the execution of the sentence, pending further proceedings.

A WONDERFUL STORY.

New York, Oct. 10.—"It requires more brains to make a second fortune than it does a first," Charles W. Morse war quoted as saying a few months ago, when the doors of the Tombs prison, quoted as saying a few months ago, when the doors of the Tombs prison, where he had been confined for many months, swung open under an order from the federal court and he was allowed to the confined from the federal court and he was allowed to the confined from the federal court and he was allowed to the court and he was allowed to the confined from the federal court and he was allowed to the court and he was a months, swung open under an order from the federal court and he was allowed to take his way once more back to Wall street to tackle the job of getting back the fortune he had lost.

Over his head there hung then and still hangs the sentence of fifteen years imprisonment in the federal penitentiary in connection with his conviction of misapplying the funds of the National Bank of North America. Mr. Morse now seems fairly on his way to financial power and affluence. This was shown the other day when he was elected president of the Hudson Navigation Company, which controls the lines on the Hudson River, and with some of his friends quietly acquired the Metropolitan Steamship Line.

The rise of Morse from defeat and disaster to a position of power in the market places where he was laid low furnishes one of the most extraordinary stories that Wall street has known. How great has been the task confronting the former ice king in building up a soecond fortune may be gathered from the fact that the financial storm which broke over his head in the panic of 1907 stripped him of a fortune conservatively estimated at $22,000,000 and left him with $7,000,000 of debts to face.

Mr. Morse, just before the panic, ped him of a Jortune conservatively estimated at $22,000,000 and left him with $7,000,000 of debts to face.

Mr. Morse, just before the panic, while not a financial potentate of the first magnitude, belonged to a group of men whose fortunes and connections entitle them to be called financial powers. He controlled with his friends a chain of banks with deposits amounting to $200,000,000 or more; a steamship trust which he had formed some years prior. After the storm had wiped out his fortune and left him with those $7,000,000 of debts, the courts came along and said that Mr. Morse must serve fifteen years in prison to wipe out a little debt he owed to the community for doing the things he had done in his bank.

When they put Morse in a cell after his conviction just a year ago, his brain began to be busy devising ways of pay-

When they put Morse in a cell after his conviction just a year ago, his brain began to be busy devising ways of paying his debts and getting a second fortune. He left to his lawyers the job of getting him out.

The plans for recouping his fortune which Mr. Morse conceived while he looked through the bars of a cell soon began to materialize. First there was incorporated in Maine. Morse's old State, the Morse Security Company, with a capital of $10,000,000. That was Morse's little plan for paying off the creditors of his bank, whose claims amounted to $1,300,000. This has practically been consummated.

ed to $1,300,000. This has practically been consummated.

The next thing that Wall street knew, Morse and some of his friends who had remained by him in the days of his trouble had formed the Assets Realization Company. This was to pay off other debts Mr. Morse's personal direction since he got out of the Tombs, has taken over a lot of the od Morse securities which had been hypothecated and has issued its own obligations against them. Meanwhile, Mr. Morse has been working on these old securities, helped out by a rising market. In fact, Wall street has been kind to him since he began this rebuilding so that some securities have more than doubled their value.

It was announced only yesterday by Mr. Morse that he had paid off about $5,600,000 of his $7,000,000 indebtedness.

TO SAVE MRS. ROBINSON.

Wentworth and Halton County W. C. T. U., at its annual convention in Oakville last week, took a stand on the case of Mrs. Robinson, convicted of murder at the Sudbury Assizes and sentenced to be hanged on November 24th. The convention by petition and the individual unions represented, will do all they can to save the unfortunate woman.

MARRIAGE IS A SIN.

Cause of Trouble Between Mrs. Eddy and Mrs. Stetson—Practitioners Lose Licenses.

MRS. AUGUSTA E. STETSON, ROUTED BY MRS. EDDY

observers as one cause of the downfall of Mrs. Augusta, E. Stetson in the councils of the Christian Science Church.

Mrs. Stetson has been denosed by Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy as leader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in this city. She has taught more Christian Science pupils than any other member of the faith outside Mrs. Eddy herself.

Where will the lightning next strike?" is the paramount question to-day among the nineteen practitioners of the First Church of Christ (Scientist), following an order from the Mother Church in Boston revoking the licenses of seven of the practitioners.
The revocation of the licenses of fourteen of the remaining nineteen practitioners is believed to be imminent today, indicating th complete reorganization of the church, which is the second largest in the country, and its complete New York.

At the height of the dispute between the two women leaders, a third woman, Mrs. Della M. Gilbert, now head of a reformed church, announced that Mrs. Stetson taught that marriage was a sin. This, according to Mrs. Gilbert, caused her undoing.

"She thought it was a sin to marry or to have children," announced Mrs. Gilbert, who has been a conspicuous figure at religious meetings at Hotel Plaza. "Many young folks who wanted to be married were forced to hang their heads in shame at the thought. "When some of them have the backbone to marry she puts the "thought of sin" upon them."

The "thought of sin," discussed by Mrs. Gilbert, is one of the things unexplained by Mrs. Stetson's friends. Whether a woman, by her will power, can make others sinful or good is a problem yet to be worked out, skeptics believe.

One of the followers of the woman who reached for Mrs. Eddy's crown, but failed to grasp it, is John C. Thompson,

ERIC WILSON COMMITTED.

Three Charges of False Pretence Already Against Him

In Connection With the Carpet Cleaning Machine.

Talk of Factory Being Moved From Winnipeg.

Eric Wilson, 161 Oak avenue, was committed for trial in Police Court this morning on no less than three charges of obtaining large sums of money by false pretence. He pleaded not guilty.

"Call Fred Wilson," said the Crown Attorney. Wilson was complainant in the first charge. He said that he paid $750 for an interest in a patent carpet cleaning machine, which defendant rephe had bought from the pat entee. A Mr. Conover, of Toronto, to whom he (defendant) said he had agreed to pay $3,500, had paid $2,000, and was to pay the balance of $1,500 in 90 days.

to pay $3,500, had paid $2,000, and was to pay the balance of $1,500 in 90 days. Prisoner also said a Mr. Munsen and a Mr. Bowerhead had paid $1,250, the former $750, the latter $500, and the four of them would get a patent for themselves. Complainant said he relied absolutely on the representation of the prisoner, though he did not see the power of attorney or power of agreement that prisoner said he held.

Mr. Conover, 39 Elgin avenue, Toronto, said the agreement between him and Erie Wilson expired on June 9, 1908.

"Did prisoner pay you $3,500?"

"No, $600 only."

James E. Day, K. C., 34 Victoria street, Toronto, who is Conover's solicitor, said prisoner paid his client $600. Both parties seemed vague as to what their interests were when Conover called on him, explained the lawyer. Mr. Day said Wilson had power of attorney to sell the patent rights in Hamilton, and wanted to arrange a settlement. There was a third party in the transaction with Wilson and Conover, whose name was Dickson, but he was bought out. "There is another charge," said the Crown representative.

Guy Munsen, 22 Ray street north, was complainant. He said his wife paid $750 on June 26th, 1908, to Eric Wilson for an interest in the patent carpet cleaning machine in question. Prisoner, he said, told him there were other Hamiltonians in the deal, and represented himself as buying from Conover for $4,000 in eight shares of $500 a share, the price of one share being to pay his expenses to England. Since then he had received no returns for his money.

Prisoner was committed for trial on that charge.

In the third charge George C. Biggs, $904 James street north, was the complainant. He said on the 16th March he paid $1,500 for shares in a company plainant. He said on the 16th March he paid $1,500 for shares in a company called the Sanitary Carpet Cleaner Company. Prisoner told him that an order for 2,000 machines had been placed with the company, and they intended moving their factory from Winnipeg to Hamilton, and he, complainant, was promised a job. That was the last he heard about the factory.

Prisoner was sent up for trial on that charge also.

The street was crowded with people at the time, and the crash caused some excitement. Be-sides Mr. Frick, four women were in the rig.

POWER QUESTION LAID OVER AGAIN.

over. It was generally believed that the matter would be disposed of to-night by the council endorsing the application for a supply of a thousand horse power from the Hydro Commission, but word reached the City Hall this morn ing that it would be impossible to get the form of contract here before to-morrow night. In view of this the meeting of the Power Committee called for 11 o'clock this morning was cancelled. The committee will likely meet on Wednes-day, and the council later in the week reason for the delay is the desire of Hon. Adam Beck to have the commis sion approve of the form of contract before the council deals with it. MP Lobb notified City Solicitor Waddel this morning that the commission would meet to-morrow to take the matter up meet to-morrow to take the matter up.

The principal business for the council to-night is the Finance Committee's recommendation to divide the city into five wards with three aldermen from each. From the way the aldermen are talking this will be voted down and a by-law submitted to the people in January for the division of the city into cight wards with two aldermen from each. The latter plan is favored by the Board of Education and the politicians, who say that cutting the city up into five wards would upset their organizations for Parliamentary elections. A majority of the aldermen are said to favor the eight ward division, which means that next year's council will be composed of twenty-four aldermen, four controllers and the Mayor.

The fact that the council before the end of the week will close a contract with the Hydro-Electric Commission promises to dispose of the power question as an issue in the next municipal elections, and even the Hydro-Electric supporters who promised two or three weeks ago that Mayor McLaren was sure to be opposed for a second term admitted to-day that his Worship would have no serious opposition now. Their main hope was in getting ex-Mayor Stewart to line up against McLaren. It is said that Mr. Stewart informed those who were urging him to oppose the Mayor that the only condition on which he

There is no reason why the Council should have a long session to-night. The aldermen have already aired their views on the re-division of the city into wards, and that is practically the only business of importance to be dealt with. The intention is to adjourn for a month.

Chairman Peregrine, of the Finance Committee, said to-day that the finance committee of a friendly society with which he is identified authorized him to purchase the $80,000 school debentures at 98, which would have netted the city $104 more than the bid of the Dominion Securities Company. Naturally I was astounded, and asked what it meant; and then she informed me—ves, with her own lips, calmly, deliberately—that she was leaving my house forever, and was going away with Mr. Gordon Smythe. I—I really feel quite ashamed to speak of such things to you, Lord Otway; but you are a clergyman and it relieves me to tell you all my trouble. I went down on my knees to her "—Barbara here had clutched her hands together with a gesture significant of despair—"bht all to no good; her mind was made up. She declared if I knelt there till doomsday she would never give way. Gordon Smythe was her lover, he needed her, and she no good; her mind was made up. She de-clared if I knelt there till doomsday she would never give way. Gordon Smythe was her lover, he needed her, and she should go. I spoke of his wife— you know he told me had a wife, Lord Ot-way—I tried to awaken a spark of con-science, of principle; but I failed. All I got in return for my trouble was inso-lence and a shocking amount of depray-ed bravado. Oh, I have been terribly dis-appointed. Aunt Ellen seemed to think so highly of Miss Brereton, and, of course, she would not have been allowed to come had there been any doubts as to her respectability; and now—Barbara had turned up the whites of her eyes— "now I have been harboring a snake in the grass, and all my sympathy and af-fection—for, do you know, Lord Otway, I was getting quite foad of Miss Brere-ton—have been wasted on one who has proved herself utterly unworthy and immoral."

or hear anything of that unfortunate girl, would he kindly let Miss Mostyn know at once?

"For," Barbara had finished, with a sigh, "I am not so prejudiced as most women are, dear Lord Otway, and I will even go to her and again entreat her to leave her life of sin, and become penitent. Should she need any help, I will always give it to her—always, no matter what the world may be inclined to say, If we women do not put out a hand to our sinful sisters, it is a sorry thing, is it not, Lord Otway?"

Ormande had shuddered and flinched, as he shuddered and flinched now whenever Barbara's shrill, clear voice rang in his ears.

And it was of Katharine she spoke, Ratharine, his angel, his pure, lovely faced saint! Katharine, the one and only being whom he had allowed to creep into his heart and he enthroned there. Katharine, whose image had been blended in those sweet, lost dreams of a future, when his saint and his angel should also be his wife. Was not the cup of sorrow too bitter?

No wonder a blight and a shadow had fallen on the handsome, frank young face. The prospect had been very hard to bear when she had told him his love was hopeless, but its weight was as nothing compared to now. Then, although hope was debarred him, he had had tue glorious, the ever-sweet knowledge that he loved and was beloved.

A week had gone since that day—only a week, to Ormande it seemed one long, weary year. He had prayed so hard for comfort, for light in his darkness, for peace of mind and resignation. He had prayed for forgiveness, too, for in his humility he said. "I put her before Hesven, and I have sinned most terribly!" but though his prayers soothed they could not bring forgetfulness, and as he walked away from his aunt's carriage through the dusty, het, August-scorched streets, his heart was crying out for his love—not for the Katharine as he knew her sow, but for his pure, lovely faced Katharine, who had seemed to him to be the earthly embodiment of one of these weet, grave, good spirits ent es by a beneficient Proven and purify man

sometimes by a beneficient Providence to strengthen and purify man for this earthly existence.

And then, suddenly, his thoughts changed, and with a shiver he remembered her in her lone estate, and a great flood of emotion broke loose in his heart. He had not permitted himself hitherto to dwell very much on Katharine, where she was, what she was doing, or aught appertaining to her, and if seemed to him all at once as if he had been too selfish.

"I should have trodden down my own feelings, crushed my own pain. What is my broken heart to her soul's danger! Yes, yes; I have been wrong; I see it all plainly now. I must seek her out, I must find them, and by every means in my power I must try to awaken the dormant good that lies hidden in her heart. I have neglected my Master's duty; henceforth I will forget my own sorrow, forget myself to think of her and of her salvation! I will commence my task this very day, this very hour!"

And such is the strange destiny that hangs about we dwellers on this globe. While Ormande was determining this—having no clue to 'the whereabouts of the woman he meant to succor, imagining her to be, perhaps by now, miles away on the broad ocan—he was even then going toward her. In a few more moments they would meet!

CHAPTER XXIV.

Lord Otway was bound, as he had told

CHAPTER XXIV.

"Lord Otway was bound, as he had told his aunt, on a few hours' hard work in some of the dingiest slums in this rich, bustling, prosperous London. It was not, as he had said, exactly a neighborhood in which to take Lady Blanche, to, indeed, any refined, highly cultured woman, but he did not shrink from it. He knew every place so well, and the welcome he received, if expressed in blunt and somewhat uncouth language, was none the less pleasant to him for that.

Here, situated in the very heart of poverty and wretchedness, was a home CHAPTER XXIV.

Here, situated in the very heart of poverty and wretchedness, was a home for nursing sisters; a quiet, unpretentious place, with no pomp or outward fuss connected with it, but which, for all that, was one of the busiest and best conducted establishments it was possible to find. Lord Otway knew it well. He had had much help and sympathy from these good women in his work; he knew their value, and he set a high store upon it. Their charity was worth more than fifty such model villages and patronesses as Brexley and Barbara Mostyn any day, he said to himself.

on this atternoon, when he had con-quered the excitement and emotion that followed on his sudden determination, Ormande plunged into his work. There was a great deal of sickness—fever and other ailments—and it was not long before he found he must have a coadwould never give way. Gordon Smythe was her lover, he needed her, and she should go. I spoke of his wife you know he told me had a wife, Lord war—I tried to awaken a spark of conscience, of principle; but I failed. All I got in return for my treuble was insolence and a shocking amount of depraved bravado. Oh, I have been terribly disappointed. Aunt Ellen seemed to think so highly of Miss Brereton, and, of course, she would not have been allowed to come had there been any doubts as to her respectability; and now—Barbara had turned up the whites of her eyes—"now I have been harboring a snake in the grass, and all my sympathy and affection—for, do you know, Lord Otway. I was getting quite foad of Miss Brereton—have been wasted on one who has proved herself utterly unworthy and immoral."

Lord Otway had been compelled histen to this long speech, though each word strack deep into his wounded heart, and gave him exquisite pain, with an air of outward composure. Commiser ation was not possible to him, neither in difference. Barbara was savagely delighted at sight of his white, wan facethough she was somposed to love him, and though she meant to be his wife, was not in her nature not to rejoice at such a triumph for her jealous revenge.

She utteered many soft disappoint ments at losing him so soon. She was, quite depressed; she had so hoped he was comfortable, that Brealey air would do him good; that they could have had long chats over parochial administrations in which she required advice like his so much, etc.; and she would only let him go on the distinct understanding that he reality and honestly would return if it were in the lesst degree possible. Oh! and if—if Lord Otway were to see the ear anything of that unfortunate girl, would he kindly let Niss Mostyn know at once?

"For." Barbara had finished, with a sigh." I am not so prejudiced as most women are, dear Lord Otways, and I will even go to her and again entreations in which she required advice like his so much, etc.; and she would only let him go on the dis Smythe, who—"

Ormande sprung suddenly from his chair.

"Mrs. Smy—Smythe!" he repeated; then very quickly, and with a fierceness the matron had never seen in him before, he asked: "Tell—me, when did this happen? The date—give me the date!"

Amazed and a little alarmed, the matron obeyed, and a great sighing sobbroke from his lips. If—and something seemed to tell him that this Mrs. Smythe was the one he sought—if twere so, then Katharine might yet be saved, for the date of the accident was the date of the day on which Katharine had eloped with Gordon Smythe.

He stood for one moment with his face grown white with agitation. If this were only so! He had no words deepenough to offer to heaven in his gratitude for the merey that had shadowed this girl; but he must be sour—he must be convinced.

"You say this—this lady is here now?" he said, feverishly, ignoring the matron's eager offer of brandy and wine. "I should like to see her."

"Nothing easier," the matron answered, soothingly. She feit a wave of pity steal over her at sight of his troubled face. "I will ask her to come in here. Shall I tell her you wish it, Lord Otway?"

He stretched out a hand.
"No; do not mention my name. Only od on the boarded floor, a slight, only a slight, shiver went through him, then his face grew cold and stern once more. "The matron tells me you wish to speak to me," Katharine said, hurright, and then, with a low ery, she shrunk back with outstretched arms against the wall, while an agonized murmur broke from her lips of "You! You-"

There was a world of unconquerable misery in those two small words, misery that was greater than she could bear. Ormande shivered again at what he thought was her attitude of shame and disgrace. He was silent a moment, and then he spoke.

Remorse has followed. She can not be wholly lost while conscience still lives," was his hurried thought. He came a step nearer, and brought a chair forward; but Katharine shook her head.

"I prefer to hear what you have to say to me standing," was her answer, in a voice that was weary and full of bit-

The next convention will be held in St. Joseph, Missouri, which beat out Detroit by a narrow margin.

The Committee on Laws suggested a slight change in the arbitration clause in the agreements made between the employees and the employers, but the convention thought the existing clause offered the men every protection, zo no change was made.

CHEAP DIVORCES.

Movement Under Way in England to Give Them to Poor.

London Oct 10 - A movement is inder way in England for a system of easier and cheaper divorces for the poor. As the English law stands only wealthy persons can afford the luxury of a divorce. Solicitors agree that the only change necessary would involve no alteration in the law, but would be purely administrative.

Last April a committee appointed by the Lord Chancellor, and presided over by Lord Gorell, lately President of the by Lord Gorell, lately President of the Divorce Court, suggested reforms with the same object in view, the most strik-ing being the establishment of provincial courts of divorce. In July Lord Gorell moved a resolution in the House of Lords to confer limited jurisdiction in divorce and matrimonial cases on divorce and matrimonial cases oil County Courts, but after the Archbishop of Canterbury and Lord Halifax, Pres-ident of the English Church Union, had strenuously opposed the motion, it was withdrawn.

MANSLAUGHTER.

Capt. Ralph Pringle Faces Imprisonment in Michigan.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 10 .- The jury has returned a verdict of manslaughter against Capt. Ralph Pringle, well known as a navigator of the great lakes, who was tried for the killing of George Bir-rell McKinnon in the "Hole in the Wall" saloon in St. Clair last winter. The ver-diet carries a penalty of from 5 to 20 years in prison.

Pringle's plea was that Birrell had invaded the sanctity of his home.

EARL GREY CRITICISED.

Rev. R. C. Dickie, of Montreal, Finds Governor-General Too Militant.

Montreal, Oct. 10.—Earl Grey was criticised to-day by Rev. R. C. Dickir, pastor of Crescent Street Church, for being a militarist in his speech at Calgary. The Governor-General was accused of sowing the seeds of militarism in Canada, with Kipling, Beresford and North-cliffe, and Rev. Mr. Dickie added that if Earl Grey was the representative of King Edward in urbanity on that occasiou he was not of diplomacy.

MR. CARNEGIE'S GIFT ...

One Hundred Thousand Dollars McGill University, Montreal.

McGill University, Montreal.

Montreal, Oct. 10.—It is announced that Mr. Andrew Carnegie has made a donation of $100,000 to McGill, following a promise that if $500,000 were raised form other sources he would cap it by giving $100,000. The $500,000 came from Lord Stratheona in July, and now Mr. Carnegie fulfills his promise. The whole is part of the $2,000,000 fund for which McGill has made an appeal.

Man Convicted of Murder.

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—Judge Cross' report on the trial of John Dillon, alias Smith, who is under sentence of death for the murder of Constable Shea, at Montreal, has been received by the Justice Department. After summing up the evidence Judge Cross says:

"The defence of insanity or irresponsibility was not made out; it amounted to only a weak attempt. A verdict of guilty was the only proper verdict in the circumstances.

guity was the only proper versict in the circumstances.

"The jurors have recommended the prisoner to clemency. While I do not feel called upon to treat of that recommendation, I may say that, in making it, the jurors were doubtless influenced by the consideration that the prisoner is now a decayed dandy, about 67 years of age, broken in health and spirit."

COBALT STOCKS.

La Rose, although firmer than on Friday, continued somewhat weak, it being actively traded in on the Standard Exchange on Saturday. It opened around 6.15 and sold steadily up to 6.55, receding a little toward the close, the last sale being at 6.30. It is held that intrinsically La Rose, as a mine, is just as valuable as ever. The break is put down in well-informed circles to market manipulation, and the failure on the mart of the company to increase the dividend, which, from the returns from the mine, was confidently expected in many quarters. The decline, in the stock from $8 to about $6.30 a share reduces the market value of La Rose from $12,000,000 to $9,375,000. Nipissing sold at 11. It is 3-4 and 11.10.

Transactions for the week ending today on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange amounted to 1,075,022 shares and on the Toronto curb to 166, 183, in all 1,241,205 shares, having a value of $510,383.17.

A WANT AD IN THE TIMES IS A WANT AD IN THE HON

THE BUDGET OR FIGHT.

The Lords may declare a revolution ut it is the people who will direct it."
That was the significant statement ade by Mr. Lloyd-George at Newcastle Saturday afternoon in dealing with oken with regard to the Government's termination to pass the budget as it tands. He declared for the .whole said that if the Lords forced a fight ssues would be raised that they little

Thus far the efforts of the Unionists use King Edward's influence to make easier for them to recede from their sition, giving the impression that the unavailing. The House of Commons has for a week. In that time the eader of the House of Lords may have an opportunity to impress upon ore irresponsible members of the aris-cratic House the danger which menaces their privileges in precipitating a war of Lords against people; the classes

DRILL AND PATRIOTISM.

In an article on "The Territorial nightly Review for September discusses at considerable length the various plans suggested for British military defence. In the course of his article he has some thing to say on patriotism and how it is est encouraged, and he says it so well, nd the subject is one frequently talked out here, that we are sure our readers will enjoy a perusal of his remarks: And now a word as to how a spirit of patriotism and self-sacrifice may be the encouraged. The National Service League is not afflicted with any doubts on this subject. In the opinion of the League the way to make a man wish to serve his country is to keep on making him drill, whether he likes it or not. Facts, however, are against this theory. In practice it is found that the more you drill a man when he doesn't want to be drilled, the less inclined he is to undergo any sort of military service he we are compelled to do, and no more.

No amount of patriotic preaching will ever get the better of this primary instinct. Compulsion, as Colonel Seely puts it, kills volunteering. Another statement made by Colonel Seely is well statement made by Colonel Seely is well worth the attention of the League. He says that there is the greatest difficulty in France and Germány to get volunteers for foreign service. We in England, he asserts, ean get 50,000 volunteers for service abroad with more case than the Germans or French can obtain 5,000. This is an all-important consideration, for if universal training is to interfere with recruiting for the regulars, it will indeed cost the country dear. The telegraph boys have compulsory drill, and the result is that they refuse to enlist. For any part, I am so deeply impressed with the danger of recruiting from compulsory drill that I would take especial pains to, eliminate from the school gymnastic exercises anything that savored of military training, but I would have plenty of gymnastics, which would do more for the healthy growth of our young people than any amount of military drill, which, in excess, is not only do more for the healthy growth of our young people than any amount of military drill, which, in excess, is not only extremely distasteful to the young, but positively injurious to healthy physical development. I find myself, then, in atrong opposition to the views of the National Service League, not on sentimental but on purely practical grounds. Experience, I am continued, has shown that compulsory service would deaden. Fxperience, I am continced, has shown that compulsory service would deaden, and not quicken, the spirit of patriotism and self-sacrifice; that it would check and not promote, recruiting for the regular army; and that the physical development of the young would be better served by a course of non-military exercises.

very many persons in this country stomed to speak of as "military become utterly useless for mi itary training or efficiency, and might well give place to more useful work. It is as helpful to defence or offence against other origin than the following of task tions.

worship. Respect for the flag has an other origin than the following of task routine. He says:

Some persons pin their faith on spectacular patriotism. They believe the spirit of patriotism can be evoked by popular displays of the greatness and extent of the British Empire. They believe in a plentiful show of bunting, in respectful salutation of the flag, as the cutward and visible sign of Britain's greatness, and in those other evolutions that take place on Empire Day. These displays are. I should say, rather the effect than the cause of patriotism. If the patriotism is not there, it will not be evoked by even the most libral display of bunting. It is, however, useful to disseminate knowledge of the vastness of our Empire, in order that we may completely realize the extent of the responsibility resting upon us, as the rulers of the greatest Empire the world has ever known. In this respect Lord Meath's catechism for use on Empire Day will, I hope, have an excellent educational effect. Patriotism is a condition of mind which may be developed by suitable education, but there is no infalible specific for its manufacture, and some of the specifies most in favor either turn out a spurious, and deplorable substitute for the real article, or else smother those noble sentiments which give it birth. You cannot drill a nation into patriotism, but, if you are not care ful, you may succeed in drilling a good deal of patriotism out of a nation.

There is much food for thought in what Lord Monkhouse says. Patriotism does not consist in spread-eagle boasts, in scheduled flag worship, in display of eclors, or in depreciation of the national sentiment of others. It lies much deeper than anything of that kind. MARKET SPACE. HIGHLANDERS ter in Friday's Spectator, 8th inst., preferred personal reflections rather tha general good; however, his letter is cer general good; however, his letter is certainly very characteristic of the man, for the city he would try to get "something for nothing," i. e., he would get something in market fees for nothing in market accommodation; he would continue the carters' stand ornament in front of the Court House square, and he would reserve the Park square itself, beauty spot with farmers' produce wagnons on the ill-kept Hughson street, and John as well until quite recently, charging the farmers fees for same, and he would reserve the Park square itself, which the county owns as a free beauty spot, with flowers, seats, etc., for the citizens, maintained by the county and city jointly.

Now, when in 1896 it was suggested that the Court House square, owned by the county, be properly sidewalked and converted into a free market, there was a general outery by the citizens against the loss of those beautiful trees and lovely park that the county owned and main. a general outery by the citizens against the loss of those beautiful trees and lovely park that the county owned and maintained jointly with the city for the free use, pleasure and comfort of the citizens of Hamilton, and the suggestion further held up to ridicule as being a discredit for the county to have their Court House door yard dagraced in that way, but the city could quite easily swallow any discredit of having their City Hail door yard converted into a farmers' market when they could collect fees to the extent of six or seven thousand dollars annually from the farmers without giving them very much comfortable accommodation in return, but without making special complaint it would seem that the county were treating the city the most graciously and generously in the matter of door yard accommodation, the county as beautiful free park and the city a feel collective description.

county were treating the city the most graciously and generously in the matter of door yard accommodation, the county a beautiful free park and the city a fee collecting, desolate space.

Yes, what about the promised exchange of a free market by the city, for free roads by the county? But increased market accommodation is more important and necessary at the present time, than a discussion of fees.

If Mr. Dunlop can accomplish his object he will perhaps have succeeded in getting the farmer market patrons to pay a share of the city taxes anyway, but I don't believe the citizens generally share his views. I would much prefer climbing an easy grade stair for melons to wading through the mud around the wood market or on Hughson street either for them. Patrons of the present market know it is overcrowded a large portion of the year, and is annually growing more so.

The income of six or seven thousand dollars paid by the farmers for the present market space would pay interest en an expenditure of, say, $150,000 to $200,000, and I trust the discussion will not develop into a personal one, but rather the best means of improving the present-conditions and providing the absolute necessary requirements for the city's best inserest.

If the Hamilton grain market has be-necessary requirements for the city's best increst.

If the Hamilton grain market has become a monopoly in the hands of the few city mills and suits Mr. Dunlop, I trust, he will not be able to drift the truit, vegetable and poultry market into the same conditions, or it will probably be adding that line of business to the present combine monopoly in grain.

Now, as to an east end market, or a market on the Court House square, I have consulted a good many patrons of the market, both buyers and sellers, and the concensus of opinion seems to be that one large market would be by far the most advantageous to both.

The daily market in rush seasons experimented with in a small way a few years ago, did not seem to be at all successful, and it is very doubtful if it could be made successful now. Yours truly,

Mr. Smith was "Unitarianism and Standard Orthodoxy." He said that there is no official creed of Unitarianism, although there are individual creeds, for each member holds beliefs. Turnout of 373 at MacNab Street Presbyterian.

Army Service Corps Also Made a Good Appearance.

Rev. H. Beverley Ketchen Preach ed a Fine Sermon.

The 91st Regiment of Highlanders and the Army Service Corps paraded to MacNab Street Presbyterian Church yesterday morning. The turnout of the former regiment was 373 all told and former regiment was 373 all told, and the latter 50.

Long before 10.45, the time set for the parade to leave the armories, crowds lined the streets, and the sidewalks near the armories became literally congested. Punctually at the scheduled time the regiment marched out to the music of the bagpines, and then, further up the street, the hand struck up a march to a good swinging time. The music was irresistible, for the crowd marched, all in step, too. Following in the rear, behind the gorgeously uniformed Highland-ers, marched a tall, handsome man in sombre black, carrying no sword, nor rifle. He was Rev. D. R. Drummond, the regimental chaplain and ambassador for the King of kings.

Arriving at the church, the soldiers occupied the centre seats in the body of the building. Rev. Beverly Ketchen, M. A., the pastor, preached a sermon abounding in truths applicable to all. The battle is not to the strong. He said there has always been a tendency to glorify bigness and bank on the outward show. Many men of fine physique are as vain as any society woman, but a big man, whose brain is empty and soul shallow, is a pathetic sight. The popular deity seems to be athletics, but it is being overdone. Nowadays a sprinter is more talked of than a prime minister. The moment the development of the body has more attention than the soul it is barbaric. The average Canadian measures richness in terms of arithmetic, and boasts of the vast wealth of the country, but forgets that the very abundance of wealth might be the most detrimental factor to the nation, and can easily spell ruin. Wealth cannot make a great nation.

Never in any age has the need been greater than to-day for soldierly noblement to devek the evils that confront us.

Never in any age has the need been greater than to-day for soldierly noblemen to check the evils that confront us. Even the church is not free from constituting her success by figures. Figures may be an indication of real progress and they may not, for figures may be the falsest things in the world.

At the Cricket grounds on Saturday Highfield Rugby team defeated St. Andrew's College, II. by a score of 5—0. The school lacked the services of Captain R. A. Higgins, who was missed. Every man in the local team distinguished himself during the game, and it was only, the final whistle that kept Highfield from going over for a try. The Highfield line up was as follows:

Back, G. K. Holland, halves, J. A. Grant, A. L. Carpenter, D. H. Storms; quarter, M. A. Vallance; scrimmage, H. A. Colquhoun, W. F. Hay, S. H. Grasett; wings, G. K. Fraser, A. L. Young, E. S. Reynolds, C. B. Tinling, G. M. Matheson, G. H. Hav.

On Saturday the Highfield II. team played the St. Andrew's College II. team at the cricket field. St. Andrew's won by the score of 13—1. Highfield was handicupped by the loss of two of their best players, who were playing for the first team. In the first half the score was very even, each team gaining a point. In the second half St. Andrew's had much the better of the play, scoring twelve points. For Highfield, Washington and Evel were the stars. The Highfield line up was:

at the 4.15 meeting in the Association Hall yesterday.

D. M. Barton was the speaker, and his subject was "Ideal Manhood." He spoke on the physical, intellectual and spiritual side of a man's life. To have a healthy physique a man must obey God's laws that rule the body. There was no excuse for a young man not having a good education. Schools, colleges and books were in the reach of every one. Some of the world's greatest men did their studying in the tew minutes they could snatch as they went about their daily toil. He arged the the men to develop themselves spiritually. No man could arrive at ideal manhood until he had obtained a right relationship to his maker. And Mr. Barton concluded by saying that to develop the body and allow the soul to go untrained was like taking care of the casket and throwing away the jewels.

Toronto, Oct. 11.—The "Big Four" Rugby season opened in Toronto on Sat-urday afternoon with a game at Roscwhich Ritchie converted. In the fourth which Ritchie converted. In the fourth quarter Queen's made Varsity rouge. Williams kicked over the line and Queen's followed up so fast that Dixon had to rouge. The score was 7 to 1 in Varsity's favor. The game was fairly rough, and the ball was up and down the field a hundred times in scrimmage and by kicks. The teams lined up: dale between Montreal and the Argo nauts, the Easterners winning by 13 to a There were two thousand fans present The day was an ideal one, neither to warm nor too cold. The sun was a triflstrong in the early stages of the game but during the second half the weather conditions were most favorable.

The game itself was not of the boss ariety. At times there was good work one on both sides, but for the most done on both sides, but for the most part it was too ragged and uninteresting to suit the spectators. Both sides fumbled the ball constantly, the Argos, per haps, being the greatest offenders along this line. In fact, if it had not beet for their numberless muffs of the Mont real back's kicks, the game might have for their numberless muffs of the M real back's kicks, the game might had a different ending. The whole t seemed to have bad moments in w it was impossible to hang on to ball. Time and again Argos got witen or fifteen yards of their oppontouch line, and would spoil their chafor a score by a bad muff. So fa accurate passing was concerned, for a score by a bad muff. So far as accurate passing was concerned, the teams were about equal, although the Montreal halves had less chance to make mistakes, as they kicked whenever they got the ball. The Argos, on the other hand, except for an occasional buck or punt, played the running game, and especially in the first part of the match. Towards the end of the second half, however, they gave up the end runs and took to the punting game, with the statt that the last fitteen minutes were a vast improvement over the rest of vast improvement over the rest of game. Neither team displayed much the game. Nesther team displayed much skill in tackling. For the Argos, Coryell and Norcross were about the only ones who brought down their man when they went after him.

Duckett, who played centre half, was another good man. Score Was 3 to 0 Favor the Windmillers in Telephone City.

Brantford, Oct. 11 .- (Special.) -Th from all chances of winning the Inter City League championship here on Saturday, when the Goold, Shapley & Muir team, with Simpson pitching in grand form, scored its third successive victory over the West Enders. The score was 3-0, the game being the second of the home and home series to settle the tie between the two teams. The Windmillers came out on top in bot hgames by the margin of 7 runs to 2, and in Saturday's game the visitors from Hamilton conceded that they played better ball and deserved to win. Manager Bradley throughout the entire series showed good sportmanship, and with the players took defeat gracefully.

Simpson let the West Enders down with three scattered hits. He issued two base on balls, and throughout the entire series of the series of City League championship here on Sat

DETROIT TOOK THE SECOND GAME IN WORLD'S SERIES.

Tigers Put Up a Much Better Game Than That Played in the Previous Day-Cobb's Steal to Home Was a Feature.

Pittsburg, Oct. 11.—Pittsburg Saturday went down to defeat before the Detroits in one of the fastest games that was ever played in Pittsburg. The speed of the American League champions was bewildering not only to the Pittsburg players, but to the 31,000 spectators as well. The final score was 7 to 2. So favorably impressed are the Pittsburg sports with the showing of Detroit that the odds have been shifted to Detroit's side of the case, since the next two games are to be played in Detroit outfielder, stole home from third while Willis held the ball. It was one of the most daring and most cleanly executed steals of the home base ever seen in either league, perhaps, and came at a time when it was particularly distressing, since Camnitz had just been knocked out of the box by Detroit and Willis was taking his place. Willis had not pitched a ball when Cobb made his dash for the plate and was safe, though the throw of Willis was true and quick. Detroit failed to score in the first inning, and Pittsburg took a hand. Byrne got a pass to first, and scored on Leach's two-base hit. Clarke sacrificed Leach to third, and Miller hit a ball which went into the right field bleachers, and he was allowed but two bases on it, Leach scoring. In the second Detroit evened matters up. With two out, Moriarity lined a ball to left, which Clarke could not hold, and it went for a single. T. Jones hit safe, and Moriarity took third. Schmidt now hammered out a beautiful double to middle, Moriarity scoring and Jones also coming all the way round. In the third Detroit took the lead. Abstein dropped Byrne's good throw, and D. Bush singled to left and Cobb was sent down, filling the bases. Crawford sent up a fly, which Clarke got, and held all runners safe. Delehanty now hit safe, scoring Jones and Bush, Cobb taking third. Camnitz was now taken out and Willis put in. Before Willis had pitched a ball Cobb made his spectacular home steal. In the fifth, Detroit placed the game clear out of Pittsburg's reach by scoring two more runs. With one out, Crawford doubled along the left foul line, and Delehanty walked. Moriarity was out, and T. Jones got a base on balls, filling the corners. Schmidt was once more on hand with his wonderful bat, and he made a nice single, which scored Crawford and Delehanty, making seven runs to the same old two for Pittsburg.

Hugh Jennings, in an interview, said: "The game played was Detroit's regular game. Friday we were bad, but we got into shape, and I think we will be able to pull the world's championship away from Pittsburg. There was one bright spot connected with our bad defeat of Friday, and that was that thousands of our rooter friends from Detroit came to us last night and, patting us on the us last night and, patting us on back, told us not to worry, that were sure to win the rest of the games. It's pretty nice when they do this, and a team naturally feels that it has to win for a town like that. Neither the Detroit people nor the players of the Detroit team know how to quit. I feel ertain that we will beat Pittsburg

New York, Oct. 10 .- The Sun has re ceived the following cable despatch from London: The past week has been a week of great political excitement, culminat in Prime Minister Asquith's sudde visit to the King and the announcement that the House of Commons would ad

There is no longer any seriousness in the efforts to keep up the pretense that the visits of Lord Rosebery, the Earl of Cawdor and Mr. Asquith to Balmoral were not connected with the political crisis. The official and reasonable enough crisis. The official and reasonable enough explanation of the week's adjournment is that fully a week is required for drafting alterations to the budget, but there is no doubt that these visits to the King and the week's adjournment have one object, namely, that of affording an opportunity to ascertain whether the constitutional crisis involved in the the constitutional crisis involved in the rejection of the budget by the House of Lords cannot be averted.

It is not suggested that the King is giving the weight of his personal aid to either side; the idea is rather that he is acting in home politics as he has so consistently done in international matters in his favorite role of peacemaker.

UNIONISTS TRUMP CARD.

UNIONISTS TRUMP CARD.

Mr. Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, declares to-day that the Lords must pass the budget as it stands, but despite assurances such as this from responsible Ministers there is a strong tendency to revert to the first idea that a general election will come in Novem-rulation on these points and inter Speculation on these points and interest in the "constitutional crisis" have put the budget itself, free trade, tariff reform, and other planks in both political platforms into the background. But the Unionists evidently intend to play unemployment, which is expected to be greater than ever during the coming nemployment, which is expected to be reater than ever during the coming inter, as their chief card against the

DUKES AND DREADNOUGHTS.

Mr. Lloyd-George at Newcastle yester-day afternoon made a vigorous defence of the budget and a bitter attack on the House of Lords. He declared that the bill was now practically in the form in which it was going to become an act of Parliament.

He said that instead of the measure and proper being an attack on industry and proper-ty it was a fact that since its introduc-tion in the House of Commons trade and industry had improved.

The only stock which had gone down

The only stock which had gold down since the introduction of bill, said the Chancellor, was that in Dukes, in which there had been a great slump. A fully equipped Duke cost as much to keep up as a couple of Dreadmoughts.

as a couple of Dreadnoughts.
So long as Dukes were content to be mere idols and preserved that kind of stately silence which became their rank and intelligence, said the Chancellor, all went well. When the budget came, however, they stepped down from their perches because the measure knocked a little gilt off their stage coaches.

WHOLE BUDGET OR NONE.

What the Lords would do with the budget, declared the Chancellor, concerned themselves more than it did the Government. The more irresponsible and featherheaded among them wanted it thrown out. What the others would do depended in the first place on reports depended in the first place on reports from the country. The Chancellor went on dramatically:

What our fathers obtained through "What our fathers obtained through centuries of struggle, strife and bloodshed we will not lightly give up. We are not going to be traitors. (Loud cheers.) The constitution is to be torn o. pieces. Let them realize what they are doing. They are forcing a revolution

ATTACKED BY SUFFRAGETTES. When Mr. Lloyd-George was leaving the theatre a crowd of suffragettes made a dash toward his car. Lady Constance Lytton, who was armed with a hatchet; Mrs. H. N. Brailsford and Miss Davison Mrs. H. N. Srallstord and Miss Davison were arrested. Earlier in the day four other sympathizers with the suffragettes were sentenced to fourteen days at hard labor for indulging in a window-smashing campaign at the local Liberal Club this morning.

THE "WILD' PEERS."

Mr. W.T. Stead, in a despatch to The American on the political situation in Britain, says: The difficulty of the situation does not lie with the leaders of the Opposition, who would be responsible to the Ministers in case a general election resulted in a Concentration ponsible to the Ministers in case a general election resulted in a Conservative victory. Lord Lansdowne and Mr. Balfour and those others upon whose should-ers would be laid the task of collecting taxes and meeting the expenditures of ers would be laid the task of collecting taxes and meeting the expenditures of the State are keenly alive to the impolicy, not to say madness, of rejecting the budget, but unfortunately the House of Lords contains an irresponsible majority of Peers who have never attended their Legislative duties at any ordinary time, but who, when their passion or prejudice is excited, troop up in hundreds to vote down some Liberal measure.

An eminent civic authority is reported to have said last week that 150 of those wild Peers are combined together in a secret league to reject the budget at any cost. They intend together in a secret league to reject the budget at any cost. They intend together in a secret league to reject the budget, even if, in so doing, they wreck the British constitution and precipitate a revolutionary settlement. If this be so, as the Liberal Peers do not number more than sixty, the budget will be rejected by more than two to one, unless Lord Lansdowne can bring his An eminent civic authority is own followers into the lobby. NO COMPRISE.

NO COMPRISE.

It is believed the King has been led to think that the only way the wild Peers of the confederacy can be induced to let the budget through is by promising them that, after the budget is passed, Parliament should be speedily dissolved; but there is no disposition on the part of the Ministry to accept this compromise. They say they have many useful bills of a non-contentious character which they intend to pass next session and the House of Lords could only compel dissolution by declaring that they would reject every measure sent up from the lower House in order to force an appeal to the country. To this the Ministers reply that while the Lords could safely reject any measure of a party nature, they dare not for their lives reject bills providing remedies for unemployment, for sick insurance and the like, to which the Conservative party is deeply committed.

FIGHT WITH BURGLARS

Attempt to Arrest Safe-Blowers a Amprior Fails.

Men Reply to Challenge With Revolver Shots.

Can Get Into Avy Kind af a Safe in Twenty Minutes.

Arnprior, Oct. 10.-On Saturday night at Galetta, 34 miles from Ottawa on the G. T. R., the Wright Post Office safe blowers, for the second time, indulged in revolver play and escaped from their pursuers. It is thought that they are now in hiding not far from the village, saw them say the three as those who appeared to be fagged out and footsore.

The men worked their way from Wakefield, where they were last seen early on Thursday, past Wolf Lake to Quyon, a distance of about thirty miles, principally through the bush. At Quyon they crossed to the Ontario

At Quyon they crossed to the Ontario side of the Ottawa kiver, and then proceeded down a road leading off from the river. Galetta had been notified of their approach and the village constable with three assistants were waiting for them. When the trio arrived the constable called on them to hait and hold up their hands. As at North Wakefield last Wednesday evening, the reply was prompt, and was in the shape of revolver shots from at least two of the desperadoes, who, at the same time, separated and ran. The constables returned the fire with rifles and revolvers, but no one was injured. In the dark all three of the men got away, one, who was pursued men got away, one, who was pursued by a constable, running right past a store in front of which about fifteen men were standing. These men had heard the firing, and, though neither table nor persued was firing at the time, the men did not venture to stop the burglar. They deemed discretion the better part of valor and backed into the store when they saw the running criminal. While the three were separated here, it is thought that they are again together. About 1 o'clock a shot was heard some distance from the village, and just after two answering shots. These are thought to have been pre-arranged signals.

POLICE ON THE TRAIL. POLICE ON THE TRAIL.

Ottawa was immediately notified, and a number of city detectives, Dominion police and Wright county officials were hurried up on the Soo train, which left Ottawa shortly after midnight. All day Sunday the officers worked from Arnprior, Almonte and Pakenham, without getting any trace. Barns and outbuildings were searched all along the roadway, but without success. To night the officers have divided into several parties, and it is hoped that the burglars may run into one of the many traps before morning.

MANY HEARD DR. GILMOUR.

Former Pastor of James Street Baptist In City.

Anniversaries In St. Peter's and Charlton Avenue Methodist.

Harvest Home Services and Other Special Events Yesterday.

In James Street Baptist Church yesyesterday Rev. Dr. Gilmour, former pastor, who now occupies the chair of church history in McMaster University, preached inspiring sermons Many of the friends of other denominations made by him during his stay in Hamilton welcomed the opportunity of hearing him again, and the church was filled at both services.

hearing him again, and the church was filled at both services.

His evening discourse was an earnest and eloquent exposition of the saving grace of Jesus, based on this text: II. Cor. iii. 14—"The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ be with you alway." First, he called attention to the bestower of this grace, the Lord Jesus Christ. First there was Jesus, then Jesus the Christ and lastly Jesus Christ the Lord. This made Him clearly one of God. It acknowledged His right to be Master. He is the Lord. In the strain and stress of the idolatry of the day, the disposition was not to doubt the goodness of Jesus, but to deny his mastership. There were many people to-day who would declare that they believed in Christ and Jesus, and even in His mastership and ownership, but their lives were a practical denial of it. If we would be honest with ourselves, how many were there who denial of it. If we would be honest with ourselves, how many were there who could say they believed implictly in Jesus Christ as the Lord, to do with their talents, their mind and their freedom as He would.

Mr. Gilmour drew many impressive lessons from his text, dealing with the grace of Jesus as emphasizing the presence of the Master; the forgiveness of sins; the development of Christian character, and the comforter in times of distress. Into every heart there came as acter, and the comforter in times of distress. Into every heart there came a sorrow at some time, when the only thing that would bring the healing balm was the grace of Jesus Christ.

"When we scatter from this service," said Dr. Gilmour, in conclusion, "let us take with us the sweetness of this prayer, "The grace of Jesus be with you always."

held the attention of his listeners from start to finish.

In the morning he selected his text from John xiv. 12: "Verily, verily I say unto you, he that believeth on Me, the works that I do, shall do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father." He said that the next, in his opinion, meant that the great works Christ spoke of were moral works, which were of far greater importance than the greatest material things, as they had larger results. Every true Christian believes in the atonement and its applicability to every person and such faith should prove a support, to every worker. The disciples had no prayer meetings until after Christ's resurrection, but after that time they met together to pray. In the evening Mr. Redditt selected as his text, "Christ the door to every grood." and to illustrate his meaning read.

ST. PETER'S ANNIVERSARY.

ST. PETER'S ANNIVERSARY.

A large number of the members and adherents of St. Peter's Church attended the services yesterday, it being the 17th anniversary, and the harvest home was also held. Those who attended heard sermons which were very interesting and instructive by Rev. T. G. Wallace, of Woodstock. His morning text was "How many loaves have ye, for the feeding of the four thousand." He said the church had any problems to dispose of as they were continually coming up, but under the guidance of the Master it still goes on as strong as ever. Even to-day there are many little things which need the attention of the church, and the people and their pastor spend that the people and their pastor spend and the people and their pastor spend their time in taking things right. He compared the troubles of the church with those of the cities.

compared the troubles of the church with those of the cities.

In the evening he preached a harvest sermon in which he said that the people did not fully realize the blessings which had been bestowed upon them, living in such a land where everything was plentiful. Canada is the grain poducing country of the world, and it was only befitting that a harvest home service should be had each year at the time of the harvest, or after it is over. If the country is being made great by its reputatiin for grains the time of its people should not be taken up so that the spiritual side of life is neglected and so that they care little about the religious happenings. They should reso show their gratefulness for being in such a land by advancing Christianity as much as possible.

The church was decorated for the occ.

The church was decorated for the oc-casion with wheat and other grains. At each side of every window a shock of corn was fastened and the other grains and flowers were placed over the zaches and other places which gave the church a regular harvest home appearance. Spe-cial music was rendered at both ser-vices.

HARVEST HOME SERVICE.

HARVEST HOME SERVICE.
Successful and interesting harvest home services were held in First Congregational Church yesterday morning and evening. The interior of the church was heautifully decorated with grain, fruits and flowers, and large audiences were present at each service. The special music provided by the choir was a pleasing feature. The pastor, Rev. E. H. Tippett. was the speaker, and spoke from the words: "Say not ye, there are yet four months, and then cometh harvest? Behold, I say unto you, Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields, for they are white already to harvest? (John iv., 35). He opened his sermon by saying that just as the leaves and fruits of trees drop in autumn, so that there may be a more plentiful crop in the ensuing year, so it is with men. Generation after generation passed away, and each one contributed to the life of the next. We liv: and enjoy the result of what our ancestors have done for us. The life of a man continues in his son, and one generation in another. All great thoughts and acts live on, and life is not simply fading away as a leaf, for we are all contributing to future generations. Just as old age brings maturity and beauty in a leaf, so it does in man and woman whose lives are a benediction. They have not arrived there without having their share of sorrows and strife, as well as of sunshine. We should be careful of the seed we sow, as the harvest will be the same as the seed. If we sow seeds of kindness we will reap harvest will be the same as the seed. If we sow seeds of kindness we will reap that kind. Are we blighting the lives of others with whom we come in contact with by vile words or deeds? No unclean story can be told without injuring some person. It is not only on Sunday or on special occasions that we should sow, but every hour and moment should drop into life's furrow the seeds of kindness and love.

Endeavor Society, who had charge of the work.

In the morning Rev. Dr. Williamson occupied the pulpit, and preached a very stirring sermon. His text was, "Be ready to every good work." He pointed out that sometimes in commercial life failure to improve the opportunity meant that one never was given another chance, but in spiritual or church work opportunity to improve ourselves or to help some one else came every hour. Had the average citizen known 30 years ago of the growth of the city he might have become wealthy by buying the lands in the east end. The man only who takes opportunities will succeed. People who have never done work that tells in the church are those who have not been have never done work that tells in the church are those who have not been ready for the small duties. President Taft, when asked to take the position of Governor of the Philippine Islands, had to give up his cherished ambition to be a judge of the Supreme Court, but when the opportunity for usefulness was pointed out he gladly acceded, and probably as a consequence became the honored president of the great republic. In the church some are never ready to give of their means, but are always ready to shout or sing. They have a grip on the almighty dollar and will never let go. Some whose hands are always open are never ready to do the spiritual work. Some in the church who are ready to Some in the church who are ready to work are not prepared to suffer. Paul was ready to work, to suffer and to die if Christ's kingdom should be advanced. How satisfied we are to put on part of the armor of Christ, but until we are ready to put on the whole armor and await for the Master's commands we await for the Master's commands we cannot hope to gain victories that will tell for eternity.

Rev. W. H. Sedgewick. M. A., of Central Presbyterian Church, occupied the pulpit in the evening, and preached a very thoughtful sermon, taking for his text Paul's words to Timothy, "Remember Jesus Christ.

The choir, under the leadership of Mr. Geo. Siddall, sang appropriate music, and at the evening service Mr. Kempsang a solo that gave great pleasure to his hearers.

The services will be continued this evening, when the national tea will be

"THE WITCHING HOUR."

"The Witching Hour" will be the of-fering at the Grand to-morrow and Wed-nesday evenings. There seems to be no question as to the public's fondness for he drama with a mystic element, which is fully proven by the record of Augustus Thomas' psychological play. The sci-entific discussion of telepathy in "The Witching Hour' witching from is not presented in the usual proxy, cut-and-dried manner one is accustomed to. On the contrary, the lines of the celebrated Thomas play teem with the brightest bits of sparkling dialogue, and it is pronounced not only one of the most instructive dramas of a dialogue, and the most instructive dramas of a decade, but also one of the richest in comedy. "The Witching Hour" is in four acts, and the scenes depict spirited periods in Louisville, Ky., and Washington, D. C.

THIS WEEK AT BENNETT'S.

THIS WEEK AT BENNETT'S.

The Bennett will this week will include two attractive novelties, entirely different from anything seen here this season. The principal one will be the spectacular swimming exhibition of the English Mermaids, two girls, who do some remarkable swimming and diving feats in huge glass tanks. It is a somewhat similar act to that of the celebrated Finneys, who were featured at the opening of the Bennett Theatre three years ago. The reports prove it to be one of the best drawing cards on the big circuits this season. Lugi Marbini, ice sculptor, has a novelty, too, and it is genuine. He is said to be the only performer in vaudevile appearing in an offering of this kind. Marbini, from solid blocks of ice, chisels out figures of birds and beasts with amazing rapidity. The act has a very pretty Polar setting, and should attract much ures of birds and beasts with amazing rapidity. The act has a very pretty Polar setting, and should attract much interest. Henry Briscoe and Olive Keene will be featured as the principal comedy attraction, in their bright little satire, entitled, "A Trial Marriage." The Dixie Serenaders, six in number, are clever and versatile entertainers, with a minstrel offering that should please. They are said to be one of the best colored troupes in vandeville. HONORS WERE EASY.

At the regular meeting of Hamilton Lodge, No. 49, A. O. U. W., on Friday evening, after the business was finished, a friendly game of carpet ball was played between a team from the lodge and a team from Regina Council, Royal Arcanum. After a very keenly contested game the honors were declared equal. This is the first of a series of games to be played between the fraternal societies during the fall and winter. Light refreshments were served after the game.

DUNDAS HAD A GOOD FAIR,

Although Time Was Short Promoters Made Success of It.

Hamilton Alerts Won the Football by 14-1.

Ladies' Work and Fine Arts Were Features of Exhibits.

Although the number of people who visited Dundas fair, which was held on Saturday, was not a record breaker, the directors were much pleased considering the short notice on which the event was prepared. Possibly the idea of holding it on a Saturday had something to do with the attendance, but the management was not discouraged. Every feature was carried out in an excellent manner. Although some of the exhibits were not very large, all who visited the fair was astonished at the good quality, and the judges stated that in some instances it was hard to know to whom to award the prizes.

The poultry exhibit was the largest in years, and every pen shown was good. J. E. Peart, who had a very fine display, was a large prize winner. There was a unanimous feeling that the leading feature was the ladies' fancy work. The large number of beautiful quilts and hand-painted cushion tops were fine specimens of home work and were a great credit to the owners. Next in quality came the fine arts, which included an excellent lot of oil paintings.

Race lovers were doomed to disappointment when it was found necessary to cancel the speeding events. However, the saddle horses gave a good exhibition, which was the chief attraction in the ring. The performance of W. Dwyer, the sporting farmer from Strabane, won so much applause that the judges decided to award him a special prize.

The chief interest of the day was centred in the football match between the Hamilton Alerts and Dundas Juniors, which resulted in the Alerts winning by a score of 14 to 1.

The Dundas team had just been formed for this year and at the start it was easily seen that the visitors were the better and heavier team. They outpunted their opponents and their wings were always on the ball. In the first quarter the ball was in the Alerts' territory most of the time. A try by Blakely, which was not converted, resulted in the score of 5—0. The captain of the Hamilton team, Arland, who had been doing great work, was hurt and had to retire during the second quarter, and was replaced by Moody. The visitors forced Dundas to rouge twice, making the score 7—0 at half time.

In the third quarter Burton, of the Juniors, pulled off many nice runs but Dundas was forced to rouge twice. Dundas had the kick-off in the last quarter and some good punting was exchanged. A rouge by the Hamilton boys gave one point to the Dundas Juniors. A touch down for the Alerts, which was not converted, finished the game, making the score 14 to 1.

The teams lined up as follows:

Alerts—G.

f: Chas. Jarvis. President. S. George, First Vice-President. G. H. Green, Second Vice-President. N. H. Boden, Secretary-Treasurer. B. D. Maynard, Pavillion Supt.

CAXTON.

October Literary Meeting of the Daughters of Empire.

The literary club, in connection with Caxton Chapter, T. O. D. E., met for the first time this season, on Saturday afternoon, at the residence of the Regent, Mrs. R. G. Sutherland. There was very large attendance.

Mrs. Sutherland and Miss Nisbet gave interesting readings from Thackery's "Vanity Fair." Miss Emily Dempsey ready "Hiawatha's Wooing," by Long-fellow. Mrs. Hugh Constable, who has recently come to Hamilton from England, played two piano solos; "Marche Grotesque," by Sinding, and selections from Elgar, showing she is a great acquisition to musical circles here. Miss Clowes, a clever young violinist, played Raff's Cavatina, and Traumeri, being skillfully accompanied on the piano by Miss Green. Misses Morris played an enjoyable piano duet from the Bargra Opera.

The corresponding secretary Miss.

COMPANY A CAME FIRST.

Logie Shelter Trench Competition On Saturday.

All Companies of the Highlanders Had Teams.

Shooting of A and H Was Very Good.

Squads from the different companies of the 91st Regiment, which competed in the Logie shelter trench competition on Saturday afternoon, lined up at the armories and marched out to the rifle ranges, where the competition took place. The weather was good for the competition, but rather warm for march-ing, and by the time the men had reach-ed the ranges, gone through the man-oeuvres required, and marched back again they were pretty well tired out. The march was made in one hour. A

The march was made in one hour. A large number of onlookers were present. The squad from A Company was the successful one, winning with a score of 306 points, B Company secured second place with 296 points, and C squad was third with 276 points.

Upon the arrival at the rifle ranges twenty rounds of ammunition were served out to each of the men; serge tunics were taken off, and rear rank men were given a shovel each. After lots had been drawn for position, each squad was marched to the 800 yards and extended. A few yards in front of the 500 yard firing point a line of shelter trenches had been marked out. The attack then began, and the C. O's in charge of the squads took charge of shelter trenches had been marked out. The attack then began, and the C. O.'s in charge of the squads took charge of the front ranks as a firing line, which fired ten rounds between the 800 point and the 500 point, at targets which were exposed for fifteen seconds at each halt. The adjutants had charge of the rear ranks, which followed about fifty yards in the rear. On arriving at the 500-yard line a halt was made, and the rear ranks closed up, each rear rank man immediately handing his shovel to the front rank man. The C. O. then took charge of the rear rank and proceeded to a position about the 400-yard line, where a halt was made, and firing commenced under the direction of the squad commanders, fifteen minutes being allowed in which to fire ten rounds at targets exposed ten times, ten seconds each time, while the men of the front rank were digging the trenches for themselves and the firing line. When for themselves and the firing line. When the time was up the front rank men ceased working at the trenches, and the rear rank men returned to the trenches at the double. Both ranks then under the orders of the sergeants of their squads fired ten rounds at targets exposed for ten seconds. MEN'S P. S. A.

W. H. Wardrope, K. C. Addressed Brotherhood Yesterday.

Yesterday afternoon the Men's Pleasant Sunday Afternoon Brotherhood, which was organized a week ago in the First Congregational Church, held its second meeting, and was attended by an enthusiastic and interested audience, Rev. E. H. Tippett occupied the chair, and opened the meeting by expressing the sincere delight it gave him to see such a large attendance, which spoke well for the success of the Brotherhood. He was sure that if everybody would do his part there would be no doubt of the outcome. He then introduced W. H. Wardrope, K. C., who was to give the opening address of the Brotherhood. The chairman said that while it was a great honor to have him to speak to them, he felt it was also an honor to Mr. Wardrope be the first speaker to the Hamilton P. S. A. First Congregational Church, held its

Mr. Wardrope took for his topic a question of the Presbyterian catechism, "What is the chief end of man?" and its answer, "Man's chief end is to glorify God and enjoy Him forever." He ex-God and enjoy Him forever." He ex-plained how some people's idea of glorifying God consisted in going to church and Sunday school. It does not matter where or how a person may worship God. We should all acknowledge that each is trying to worship God in their own way. No matter what denomination one may belong to, it does not help unless he trying to worship God in their own way. No matter what denomination one may belong to, it does not help unless he comes humbly to Christ and recognizes Him as Saviour. People cannot fully enjoy life until they partake of Christ, who impressed His followers with the fact that life is not worth living unless it is for the benefit of others. The speaker was glad he was not a wealthy man. He did not enry the great sons of money, whose greatest sufferings are caused by their selfish desire to become wealthy. Their greed after riches left them little time for intellectual pursuit. There is no true or permanent happiness outside of Jesus Christ, and we should not strive to east off the burdens of this life, but should pray for strength to bear the cross. We should show by our daily words and acts that we belong to Christ, and should strive to live such a life that those with whom we come in contact will acknowledge and receive Christ in their lives.

At the conclusion of the meeting the will acknowledge and receive their lives.

At the conclusion of the meeting the chairman spoke a few words on the progress of the P. S. A., there being 148 members on the roll as the result of the two meetings. He thought this was very good indeed. He impressed his hearers with the necessity of working for the Bortherhood, and he hoped that the movement would spread all over the city, as it was too good a thing to confine to one church or creed.

A business meeting of the society will be held on Friday evening at 8 o'clock, which all men are invited.

Rough Riders won the game on their merits but the Tigers will win the Grey Cup and the Dominion cham-pionship.—Sporting Editor.

The war of the hungry Tigers of Hamilton were out for blood and goreand has bustile as ever, and some team will be sung as lustily as ever, and some team will be sung as lustily as ever, and some team will be sung as lustily as ever, and some team will be sung as lustily as ever, and some team will know that the hungry Tigers did not take to the jungle. They are not that sort. Their roar will be heard again, and the old familiar refrain will be sung as lustily as ever, and some team will know that the hungry Tigers of Hamilton were out for blood and goreand maybe it will be the selfsame of tawa bunch of huntsmen, who went out gunning on Saturday and captured a great bag of the genuine big game. The score table tells at a glance the story of the game the story of the Tigers' defeat in their initial game of the season. It was Ottawa's great finish that did it, for King Clancy's men played the Tigers to a standstill in the last quarter and were strong at the end. Hamilton played a great game all through the first half, but weekened badly in the last quarter.

OTTAWA LINE GOOD.

He played a dirty game, deliberately charging Simpson on one occasion after he had delivered the ball, and otherwise emulating the famous Percy Roberts, with the exception that he did not use his fists. Stronach's actions in this game were a big surprise to the Tigers. He never did anything of the sort before, but it is possible and very probable that he was acting under instructions. Nothing would please a certain man in Ottawa more than to see Hamilton's crack centre half out-of the game.

TIGERS HAD FIRST HALF.

In the first half of the game the Tigers had a little the best of it, and the play was mostly in Ottawa territory. Both back divisions were working well and there was but little to choose between the wing lines. The Tigers were handicapped by taking two crippled men into the game, and both had to retire before half time. Jack Gray, who is considered about the best line bucker in Canada, went into the game with adhesive plaster covering his back from his aboulder to his waist. He sprained it in practice last week and, considering his condition, it was rather foolish to put him in the game. His back was so weak that when he leaned over it was only with the greatest difficulty that he could regain the perpendicular, and as he said after the game, he couldn't lift ten pounds. Bethune took his place and played a good game. Kid Smith was always on the job until his leg gave out, and George Smith, who went on in his place, played a stellar game, recovering what looked like dangerous fumbles on a couple of occasions. Towards the end of the first half the Tigers had what looked like a greet chance for a try, but TIGERS HAD FIRST HALF. Both back divisions were working well and there was but little to choose between the wing lines. The Tigers were handicapped by taking two crippled men into the game, and both had to retire before half time. Jack Gray, who is considered about the best line bucker in Canada, went into the game with adhesive plaster covering his back from his shoulder to his waist. He sprained it in practice last week and, considering his condition, it was rather foolish to put him in the game. His back was so owak that when he leaned over it was only with the greatest difficulty that he could regain the perpendicular, and as he said after the game, he couldn't lift ten pounds. Bethune took his place and played a good game. Kid Smith was always on the job until his leg gave out, and George Smith, who went on in his place, played a stellar game, recovering what looked like dangerous fumbles on a couple of occasions. Towards the end of the first half the Tigers had what looked like a great chanee for a try, but falled to go over. They got possession about two yards out from the Ottawa goal, and after the first scrimmage Wigle and Isbister bucked for a gain of about six inches. The ball was given to Gray and Isbister for the second buck, but Gray was too weak on account of his back to do anything, and the Tiger line was shoved back about a yard. Simpson did not try another buck, but kicked to the dead line. The Ottawa crowd was vastly pleased with the Tigers' failure to go over and raised a hubbut that lasted for about five minutes. Isbister missed a good chance for a try in the last quarter when he blocked Williams' kick just in front of the Ottawa line, dribbled across the line and was just going to drop on it for a try when his foot struck it and it rolled to one side. Issy tried to get it, but an Ottawa man got there first and smothered it for a rouge, beating the yellow and black out of four points—more than enough to win the game for them. Isbister was travelling so fast that he could not stoop down, and it was only an accident that kept him from winning the game for the Tigers.

END WHOG'S POOR GAME. about two yards out from the Ottawa

END WING'S POOR GAME.

Play in the first quarter of the secon Play in the first quarter of the second half was pretty even, with Tigers slightly the best. It was in the last quarter that the damage was done, and the loss of the game may in a great measure be laid to the failure of the Hamilton outside wings to play anything like senior football. Art. Turner was one of the biggest disappointments of the day. He followed up slowly, tackled poorly and blocked not at all. In fact, the playing of both outside wings was poorly and the playing of both outside wings was positively painful. Either intercollegiate football is about one hundred per cent. below that of the interprovincial, or men played the Tigers to a standstill at the last quarter and were strong at the end. Hamilton played a great game all through the first half, but weakened badly in the last quarter.

OTTAWA LINE GOOD.

The Tigers did not have the easy thing that was expected on the wing line, and when it came to blocking the Rough Riders were right there to protect their backs. On the other hand the Ottawa outside wings broke freely, followed up fast and were right on top of the Hamilton backs as soon as they received the ball. The officials did not observe the yards rule any too closely, and Bert Stronach did not so much as give Simpson a yard on a couple of occasions. The great Ottawa outside wing has always enjoyed a reputation of being a gentleman at the game in Hamilton as well as other cities, but by his playing on Saturday he forfeited all claim to being called gentleman footballist. He played a dirty game, deliberately charging Simpson on one occasion, after he had delivered the ball, and until the last ten minutes of the game. Vickley and Glassford, two of last year's intermediates, watched the game from the touch lines as spares, and had they been put one at each end of the line the result would have been different. The full force of what a loss the Tigers would suffer if Don Lyon were out of the game was never realized before. The crack outside wing was sadly missed on Saturday, and there were a dozen times during the game when his missed on Saturday, and there were a dozen times during the game when his speed, blocking and sure tackling would have meant as many points for the yellow and black. There is, indeed, great happiness in the thought that he will soon be in the game again, at any rate before the Rough Riders come to this city, and then—well, those Ottawa backs will get jarred up a little more than they did on Saturday.

TEAMS EVENLY MATCHED.

against Hamilton away from home, two | against Hamitton away from nome, two crippled players, and two outside wings who should have been playing junior on their form of Saturday, it is a most remarkable thing that the Rough Riders did not win by a much larger margin than two points. When these little weak spots are fixed up, what think you will be the result when these teams clash on local or neutral grounds? From here local or neutral grounds? From here there doesn't seem to be anything to it but Tigers for the championship of Canada, and the honor of being the first holders of the Grey trophy.

LITTLE MONEY PUT UP.

Betting on the game was not brisk, for the reason that there were three or four new men on both teams, and they were in a sense unknown qualities. The au-tumn meeting of the Humilton Jockey Club interfered with the game as a bet-ting proposition, as all the big bettors stayed at home for the races, and only about three thousand dollars was taken to Ottawa. It was quite sufficient, howto Ottawa. It was quite sufficient, how-ever, as only about a third of it was covered. The Ottawa sports wanted even money, but the local boys held out for 10 to 7. A few hundred dollars were covered. The Ottawa sports wanted even money, but the local boys held out for 10 to 7. A few hundred dollars were put up at these odds, and then the betting stopped, the Ottawa men refusing to give better than 10 to 9, and in some instances 8. The Rough Riders' backers grumbled because they could not get even money, but when the Tigers play here the yellow and black supporters will give them 3 to 1 and it is a safe bet that you won't see a hundred Ottawa dollars at that price. The Ottawa sports are game bettors at Ottawa, but outside of their own town? No.

Before the game started King Clancy expressed himself as satisfied with the team, and was sure they would trim the Tigers by a big margin. He was chuck full of confidence, and strutted up and down the line with an air that plainly said: "It's all over but the shouting." Before the game was half over he had occasion to change his mind a couple of times, and he was certainly lucky to see his expectations materialize.

Captain Ben Simpson was also pretty sure of a victory, although the condition of Gray and Smith worried him considerably, but he is satisfied that Hamilton has the better team and anticipates no great difficulty in defeating Ottawa on either neutral or local grounds. He expressed himself as satisfied with the work of most of the players, but refused to say anything either for or against the outside men.

One of the biggest crowd that ever witnessed a gridiron battle in Ottawa was at Varsity Oval to see the game, and a half an hour before it started every seat in the grand stand was filled, while all the available points of vantage, such as telegraph poles and roofs of houses, all had their load of spectators. The weather was warm, much too warm for Rugby, and most of the crowd in the sun bleachers sat in their shirt sleeves.

As a curtain raiser to the big game the Ottawa II. team, and the Grand Trunks, of Montreal, lined up against each other, the former winning by a score of 16 to 2. The Rough Riders were unpardonably slow in getting on the field, and Referee Kent was compelled to go to the dressing room and order them out. King Claney was giving final instructions to his men and it was nearly 3.30 o'clock before the red, white and black bunch walked on the field. Claney black bunch walked on the field. Clancy black bunch walked on the field. Clancy is a most aggravating person, and he was wholly to blame for the delay.

The Tiger team, with the exception of Isbester, Wigle and Bethune, left for the scene of the battle via the Grand Trunk on Friday morning, and arriving at the capital in good time, got to bed early for a good night's rest. It was intended that the officers and supporters would leave on the C. P. R. in the evening, but some disagreement arose about ing, but some disagreement arose about the rate at the last moment and the crowd went on the G. T. R.

AWREY MADE GOOD.

The sensation of the afternoon was George Awrey at quarter back. It was his debut in senior company, and he certainly did himself proud. He put up as good a game as anyone on the field, and was just as frisky when the final whistle blew as when the game started. If the game did nothing else it uncovered another star in the football firmament, and George put up a brand of Rugby that marks him as one of the season's genuine finds. He never made a mistake and bucked the line as well as any of his famous predecessors. He also pulltake and bucked the line as well as any of his famous predecessors. He also pulled off a couple of end runs that brought the Ottawa crowd up gasping, and with all their scragging and inside football, the Ottawa bunch could not put him out. What tackling he did was perfect, always getting his man low and bringing him down hard. George is only out of his teens, and we make bold to say that after this season is over his name will go down in the football annals of this country as a shining star.

BRAMER A FIND.

BRAMER A FIND. BRAMER A FIND.

Another man who covered himself with glory was Norman Bramer, the athletic policeman, who, with practically no football experience behind him, went into his first game determined to do something, and played the game in a manner that drew encomiums of praise from both Tiger and Rough Rider supporters. The brand of ball put up by him was really wonderful, considering the circumstances. He was like an iron pillar when the opposing line tried to tion as well as another. For a big man he has wonderful speed, and before the season is over he is going to create a lot of trouble for the opposing teams. He played a clean game, as did every man on the yellow and black team, and only hit Kilt, gooded to it by sundry and divers sly kicks and punches in the face and other convenient portions of his anatomy. Kilt was the dirtiest man on the field, and unless he changes his tactics mighty soon he will be due for an extended visit to the hospital. Big men won't stand for viciousness in a little fellow like him, and if he has any sense he will behave when he comes to Hamilton. During a scrimmage he deliberately kicked Bob Ishister in the mouth, and almost knocked six of Issy's beautiful pearls down his throat. Kilt pulled off several of these dirty plays, and as a result nearly every player on the Tiger line has dedicated a large corner of his memory to a certain little quarter-back up Ottawa way. Football players are only human, and if Kilt tries any of those tricks again and finds his spinal column pushed down into his boots or tucked up under his ear, he will have no one to blame but himself.

The most sensational run of the day was made by the big fellow when he broke through the Jeft half of the red, white and black line and plunged down the field for a gain of twenty-five yards, bowling over about six Ottawa men in the process. It was a grand sight for the Hamilton fans to see Wag Marathoning down the field with a couple of Ottawa men hanging around his neek, unable to bring him down, and the Hamilton contingent howled with delight, while the Ottawa crowd thought audibly when the d—I they didn't get that man.

Bob Isbister played his usual star game and pulled off some stunts that game nally entering the circumstances. He was like an iron pillar when the opposing line tried to buck through, and even the redoubtable Kennedy could do nothing with him. He bucked like a veteran, and took to the inside part of the game like a duck to water. He showed that he was some class with his dukes when Kilt and another Ottawa man jumped into him, and he had the pair of them well in hand when the trio were separated. He made a couple of good tackles, and brought his man down with a resounding thud each time that was sweet music to the Tiger supporters. OTHER PLAYERS GOOD.

Preiffer made good in the scrim, and heeled out in fine style. He fills McCarthy's shoes to a nicety and the Tiger scrimmage is as strong this year as it ever was. Pfeif. is one of the strongest men in the country, and holds his ground every time, no matter how severe the inside playing.

Wally Barron is always on the job, and the big fellow came up smiling after every serimmage. He was a tower of strength to the Tiger line in blocking and bucked the line as of yore. He played good, straight, hard football, and was very effective when the Tiger line was threatened. The "big four" was kind of broken up without Gray, but with Bramer in his place their reputation lost nothing in the contest.

"Dutch" Burton, out at right half, got away with a couple of end runs that made the hearts of the Ottawa gang almost chock full, and only missed one catch during the game. "Dutch" is playing even better than last year, and his position on the half line is assured.

A good game was put up by "Kid" Smith until his leg gave out, and when it gets in shape again the new Tiger full back will show the people what a long punt really is. George Smith, who went on in his place, is good enough to play on any senior team in the country. He recovered nicely on a couple of fumbles made by Ben Simpson and never made a mistake while he was in the game. He returned Williams' long punts to just about where they came from and got away with a couple of beautiful runs. He was a sure catch and passed well.

Williams was the star player on the Ottawa back division, and showed himself a good general by taking advantage of the punting propensities of the red, white and black backs.

Despite the injury to his knees, Stronach is as dangerous a man as ever. He followed up wonderfully fast, and when he went for a man he generally got him, and got him hard. One of his knees went bad towards the end of the half, but he secured a leather pad and continued the game. He did more to win the game for Ottawa than any other man on the team.

The Ottawas only tried one buck, but, seeing that the Tiger line was like a stone wall, Williams started a kicking game. Moore returned the ball from the second down to Gerard, who missed, and the Tigers came into possession at Ottawa's 30-yard line.

At this stage Phillips started mixing it up, and was sent off for five minutes.

Tigers scrimmaged, and Pfeiffer shot through for eight yards. The Tigers worked the ball to within a few feet of the Ottawa line, and with three downs ahead of them it looked like pretty good betting that they would go over. Isbister and Wigle bucked for a short gain, and then Grey and Isbister tried, but were shoved back a yard. On the third down Simpson kicked high behind the line and Johnston was forced to rouge. Phillips' time was up, and he helped Church buck for a short gain.

Williams kicked to Burton, who made a grand run and carried the ball out 20 yards. Tigers started bucking, but did not make great headway, and Simpson and the Ottawa backs began a cannonade of punts slightly to the advantage of the Tigers. McCann fumbled, and Loftus got possession.

On the first scrimmage Burton got around the left end for 10 yards, but lost the ball. It was a lucky thing for Ottawa, as Tigers would have had a scrimmage ten yards from the line.

Saturday was unquestionably the best day of the meet as regards weather, racing, and the large attendance. There were fully 4:000 present, and the large aggregation of ladies present, many of them gowned in the latest fall fashions, presented a brilliant spectacle, and the splendid music furnished by the 91st Regimental Band kept everybody in good spirits.

It was not the favorites' day by any means, and many of those who plunged on the "sure things" got badly stung, for the "rank outsiders" were out to do a little cleaning-up and surprise the wiseacres. The bookies must have felt very gratified for the way things turned out, for their rake-off must have compensated them largely for some of the heavy losses they had sustained through.

How to Play the Game, by W. C.

Knott, in Buffale Hammer.

In playing football it is always well to remember to hire a surgeon. One is a necessity. Two or more are always welcome and mostly always needed. This matter settled let the game begin. All well regulated football teams dash out into the field goose fashion, or, to te more explicit, in single file, captain leading, carrying the pigakin. The team runs jauntily to the center of the field, forms a circle and then waits for the audience to cheer. Always wait for the cheer. It'll come because the captain has instructed someone in the grand stand to start it. After the applause, blankets are thrown in a pile and then the ball is passed. Drop the ball occasionally and then fall gracefully, do it as gracefully as to it as gracefully as you can. This little sideplay appeals to his left hand is his write hand."

Saturday was a big day for the juvenile football enthusiasts, and from now on everything promises to be running smoothly. Alt the teams have been strengthened considerable by the acquisition of some good players, with the result that the teams are evenly matched. The season is only young yet, and the fans will not doubt be treated to some real classy football before long. The most interesting game of the day took place at Norton's field, between the St. Andrew's Church team and the Y. M. C. A., when the Sainte, after being so badly defeated last Saturday by Knox Church Mission, came back unexpectedly and defeated the Y. team by a score 9—5. In the Senior Church League there was nothing to it but just Methodist Church all the way.

9—5. In the Senior Church League there was nothing to it but just Methodist Church all the way.

At the Victoria Park the First Methodist simply out-classed the St. Patrick's, winning by a score of 21—3. The Saints were never in with the winners, and from the start it looked as though the Saints were going to meet their Waterloo. The St. Patrick's have got a very poor back-division, and it did not take the First Church long to get wise. They simply had kicked the ball and follow up, and that was all there was to it. The halves would generally drop the ball, or just recover it in time to save a try. With this kind of work it did not take the First long to work it did not take the First long to work it did not take the First long to work it did not take the First long to work it did not take the First long to work it did not take the strain to work it did not take to work it did not take than their opponents, both at punting and running, and greatly helped them. Their halves would kick for long gains, and their wings following up would generally have the backs nailed before they got very far. On the back division of the Erskines Becker and Wait was by far the best men. Their kicking and running was a deciding feature. On the wing line Young Vic Lawery was the best man. His following up and task-ling greatly pleased the large crowdoof people. Midwinter was the best man on the Knox Church Mission, and his work met with favorable comment. Spring-stead and Painton did fine work also. The teams lined up as follows: Erskines (13—Full back, Wait, halzes, Stone, Thornton, Becker; quarter, Viekley; scrimmage, Hewitt, Mitchell. INDEPENDENT LABOR PARTY TIED THE WESTINGHOUSE

In a Hot Game of Soccer on Saturday Afternoon-Score Was 2-2---Lancashires Defeated the Scots.

The majority of the soccer fans on Saturday were given a disappointment, when the Westinghouse team were unable to win from the Independent Labor Party. The Labor Party are beginning to show better form, and will no doubt give the favorites a hard run for the pennant. They have been bringing out a number of new players, who play well, and, in Saturday's game with the favorites, they demonstrated that they are out in carnest to gain the lead.

At the start the Westinghouse took the lead, but they had to work hard before securing a goal. Everything looked good for Westinghouse, and they were playing up well, while the Labor Party were slow to get going. When the ball was started rolling the play for a time was on Westinghouse ground, but they soon forced it back, and were gradually edging up to the Labor Party goal, when on a poor pass the Labor Party gained possession, and managed to kick it back to about the centre of the field, and for a time the play remained about even, sometimes on Labor Party ground and at others on the Westinghouse, but the Westinghouse steadied down, and, gaining possession, managed to get within easy reach of the Labor Party goal, when a good, swift kick by Hughson carried easy reach of the Labor Party goal, when a good, swift kick by Hughson carried the ball between the posts, making the opening goal for Westinghouse. After the first goal had been scored the Labor Party brushed up a little and played better combination, and by so doing were able to make more headway. The Westinghouse, howevere, worked hard to hold them down, and it looked as though they would be successful, and appeared to be trying for an other goal. The best the Labor Party out before trying for an other goal. The best the Labor Party could do was to keep the play on Westinghouse ground, but could not get a good position from which to kick for a goal. After considerable play on Westinghouse ground the Westinghouse again started in in earnest, but left an opening which the Labor Party was not slow to Wilkins and Eccles.

The second half was not completed, and before it can be decided as to which and before it can be decided as to which team wins the game they will have to play for eight minutes. Westinghouse started out fresh, but soon tired, and did not play as well as in the first half. The result was that the Labor Party were able to secure their second goal, making the score a tie, 2-2. Toronto World: Montreal sprung a surprise on the local footballers on Saturday, and, playing as they did, will be a hard team to keen from the top. Their work was of a much Migher order than their performance in Ottawa the previous week. The locals should not be discouraged. They were un against a strong team, and things did not break any too good for them, and any mistake made resulted disastrously to them. A little more practice and a few changes, and more speed on the wing line, will greatly improve the team.

By defeating the Shamrocks 5 to 1, Montreal are now N. L. U. champions, the total score of the two games played being 10 to 8, thus giving the M. A. A. team a two-goal margin. The absence of Jim Kavanagh from the Shamrock defence was the severest loss the Irish could possibly have suffered, particularly in a game of so much importance, and nust have materially weakened their team. The Montreals claim that in the first pame wet weather beat them, and now Shamrocks can plead Kavanagh's absence as sufficient cause.

TECHNICAL OBJECTIONS

Urged Against Incorporation a Police Village.

County Council Gives Solicitor Time to Consider Them.

Some of the Owners Also Raise Objections.

The meeting this morning of the ounty Council for the purpose of eciding as to whether it would be ivisable to incorporate S. S. No. 8. Sast Hamilton, as a village, lasted er of the ratepayers objected to in pration considerable discussion k place. The meeting was finally urned until next Thursday so that county solicitor might have more time to look the matter up, some complications having been discovered which might prevent the Council from taking action. W. M. McClemont appeared for the petitioners and L. F. Tephens, W. A. H. Duff and J. Harrison for the ratepayers who were opposed to it. Warden Gage briefly outlined the object for which the meeting had been called.

Mr. McClemont said the ratepayers in the section spoken of applied to be incorporated as a village, apart from the township, under section 11, which states that territory on which there are 750 contestants, living sufficiently near, may form a village. The petition must be signed by not less than 100 freeholders and tenants of the age of 21 years and over, of which 50 must be owners. He had the first petition, also an additional petition with 26 names on it, but as the necessary conditions had been complied with in the first one the second was unnecessary. All the conditions having been attended to the ratepayers were entitled to have the by-law passed.

Mr. Stephens, acting for some of the residents who objected to the petition, as some very large land holders had been left out and the certificate was waste paper, as it would be necessary that a census be taken under the direction of the Council, to show that there were 750 inhabitants. The Railway Hoard passed an order annexing that portion to the city of Hamilton and the Council, therefore, had no power to act.

Mr. Duff, also on behalf of some of the ratepayers, stated that as far as the heetitioners were concerned they were lither ahead of the time or Rip Van Winkles, for under the statute of 1903 the Council had no power to deal with the matter. Two things should have been shown—the taking of the census and that the inhabitants were close enough. East of Trolley street the property was nothing but farm land, and neither of the two conditions had been proved satisfactorily. The petition did not take into consideration the whole of the S. S. No. 8, but described the easterly boundary as a ditch, running behind the Children's

Mr. McClemont argued that as far as the description of the boundaries was concerned it was not necessary for him to give them. The petition referred to S. S. No. 8. If the census was necessary, then the Council should have it taken within the next few days, but that should not delay the Council from passing the by-law.

Mr. Harrison said that the section should not contain more than 500 acres to be incorporated as a vilage, and the School Section, No. 9, contained 560 acres, and, on that account, nothing could be done in the matter.

The County Solicitor, Mr. J. L. Coua could be done in the matter.

The County Solicitor, Mr. J. L. Counsell, in giving his opinion of the matter, said there was very serious objection on the part of some of the land-owners. On the face of the petition there were certain errors, which, however, did not go to the root, but he thought it would be advisable to call another meeting, as the Councillors would then have more time cillors would then have more time o consider the matter.

Mr. McClemont again asked to be alwed to speak, and said that the section e referred to said that if the conditions ere as required the Council shall pass a y-law to that effect, and he took it to y-law to that effect, and he took it to mean that they must pass the by-law, if the ratepayers then objected it would be possible for them to try to have it juashed. As to the order of the Rail-casy Board at Toronto, he was present at the meeting in question, and was unware of such an order being passed. The Warden said that in fairness to the petitioners he thought the meeting should be adjourned, so that more time might be had for the County Solicitor to sonsider the matter, and a motion to that effect was passed, the date set be-sed, the date set be-

The Times draws attention to the ad. Mr. Jas. Schutz, which appears in nother page of this issue. Mr. Schutz of Mr. Jas. Schutz, which appears in another page of this issue. Mr. Schutz is an original mechanic. He has some notions about the way business should be done that could be followed to very good advantage. He won't offer anything for sale unless he has confidence in it, and he is a one price man. This is rather an innovation in the carriage business, but Mr. Schutz has his own ideas about this and they are sound. He puts a price card on the goods he has to sell, and that is the lowest price he can sell them for, and it certainly inspires confidence on the part of the buyer. Mr. Schutz writes up his ads. in ather a novel fashion, and they are well worth reading. The ads. for future issues are of even more interest than the present one. Pastor Philpott Speaks of Growth of the Work.

Gospel Tabernacle celebrated a doubl anniversary yesterday, when special col-lections to reduce the church debt fund anniversary yesterday, when special collections to reduce the church debt fund realized $2,100., Seventeen years ago saw the opening of the work carried on by this organization. Thirteen years ago Rev. P. W. Philipott began his labous as pastor. In a reminiscent mood, in the course of his sermon yesterday morning, he reviewed the progress of the work—a really unique record in the history of churches in Hamilton, Mr. Philipott told of his own expériences in entering the work of Christ twenty-six years ago. He recalled the work of Gospel Tabernacle when it was carried on in an old saloon building on Hughson street, next to the Times office, which has since been demolished to make room for the addition to the Watkins building, and the time when it could not guarantee a pastor $2.50 a week. It had twenty members then. That was thirteen years ago. Now it has a membership of 600, an attendance of 1,000 every morning service and an average attendance of fully 1,500 at the evening services.

of 1,000 every morning service and an average attendance of fully 1,500 at the evening services.

The big edifice was filled to its utmost capacity last evening, and it was impossible to find seating accommodation for all those who crowded in. The pastor preached from Exodus 14-13, both morning and evening. Mr. Fred Syme, of Toronto, sang at both services. He has a beautiful baritone voice of splendid power and range, and his singing added much to the enjoyableness of the musical portion of the service.

The amount of the collections yesterday. $2,100, from a congregation composed almost entirely of working people, is an evidence of the interest of the members in the work. A week ago the pastor gave out envelopes and urged that a special effort be made to reduce the debt. Fully $1,600 was contributed in cash. The church mortgage is $15,000, but other small loans bring the total indebtedness up to $22,000.

Mr. Philpott announced that Mr. Arthur Nowood and his wife, who have been strong supporters of the work for a number of years, would leave for California to morrow to make their home there.

KUPITZ CASE.

Decision Will be Given on Wednesday Next.

Beamsville, Oct. 11.-The Kupitz case came off on Saturday afternoon and was long drawn out, lasting till after 5. Mr. Robinette was present again on behalt of Ed. Kupitz. Wm. House, W. S. Marlatt and Coon Wilcox. The charges laid against them was drunkenness and disorderly conduct and indecent behaviour. Mr. A. C. Kingstone acted for the prosecution. Edward Kupitz pleaded not guilty. Mr. Robinette got angry when Constable J. D. Book was alleged to have taken the oath with his thumb before his lips. The lawyer said he had never heard of such a thing in his life. Book gave evidence that Constable Swayzie and himself had seen indecent behaviour when they drove out on Sunday, August 29th. Scott Marlatt was lying by the side of the highway and Thos. Flood somewhere near him. There were children playing in the field near them. Wm. House and Jacob Book were also lying in the field. Mr. Robinette asked Book if he was the constable connected with A B. Tufford in the automobile hold-ups, and if so, the Attorney. General would soon be heard from. D. E. Swayzie, a county constable, corroborated Book's evidence.
William Sharpe, his wife and two children were on their way to Sunday school about 2 o'clock. They heard some swearing and loud talking. Scott Marlatt sollowed them down the road, calling on them to stop. They paid no heed to him. Marlatt was also amusing himself by chasing the children in the field and throwing clods at them. Witness said that every time he stooped to pick up a clod he fell to his knees.

Mr. Sharpe, in cross-examination, would not say that Kupitz was drunk. Ellen, May, Margaret and Sadie Sharpe testified to about the same as their father. The men were talking loudly, singing and laughing. These witnesses closed the case for the defence and Mr. Robinette called no witnesses.

The case of William House, charged with indecent conduct, was then gone into. Constables Book, Swayze and Robertson had all seen House living in the constable Book servison had all seen House living in the constable Book servison had all seen House living in the service and service and service and service and service and service and servi half of Ed. Kupitz, Wm. House, W. S. Marlatt and Coon Wilcox. The charges with indecent conduct, was then gone nto. Constables Book, Swayze and Robertson had all seen House lying in the field, in view of the road, partly un-dressed.

Mr. Kingstone asked that the charges Mr. Kingstone asked that the charges against Wilcox be dropped, as there was no evidence against him: also that against House, for being disordarly.

Mr. Robinette contended, that by witnesses, House was lying drunk in the ditch in the morning and was asleep in the field all afternoon.

It was a deplorable occurrence in a law-abiding community, was the sum and substance of Mr. Kingstone's contentions in regard to all the cases. Magistrate Riggins promised to give a decision on Wednesday.

Messrs Tyrrell & McKay, surveyors, of Hamilton, have been engaged by the lawyer for the village council to make the measurements of the property said to be owned by the corporation at the corper of King and Ontario streets.

William Steele, Motorman, Killed Near London Last Night.

(Special Despatch to the Times.) London, Ont., Oct. 11.- The man mar gled by the eastern flyer near Hyde Park last night has been identified as Park last night has been identified as William Steele, formerly a motorman on the Hamilton Street Railway. Steele was 40 years old, and had been on a visit to his aged mother, who lives in Komoka. He was walking back to London, and stepped out of the way of the freight, directly in front of the fast express. His vest was carried on the engine wheels into London, and in it was a bank book by means of which he was identified. Steele was married, but had been separated from his wife for some time. An inquest will be held to-night.

William Steele was a motorman on the Hamilton Street, Railway for only a short time—about six months. He came here from London, where he had been employed in a similar capacity, and went back again, after giving up his job here.

Retired Farmer Found Dead---Will be Tried by a Jury.

(Special Despatch to the Times.) St. Catharines, Ont., Oct. 11. -Miss ane Allison, a resident of Thorold

Jane Allison, a resident of Thorold Township, is lying in a serious condition as the result of an accident caused by her horse running away a few days ago. She was also injured about the shoulders.

John K. Crawford, of Thorold, a retired farmer, seventy-nine years of age, was found dead in his bed on Saturday morning. He was a native of Stamford Township and for years was a well-known stock raiser. He was unmarried.

Chas. Howard, the Smithville man charged with incest, appeared before Judge Carman this morning. He elected to be tried by a jury, and was remanded to jail.

NOT SCARECROW.

Washington, Pa., Girl Finds Her Murdered Father in Cornfield.

Washington, Pa., Oct. 11.- "Look, omebody has knocked down papa's scarecrow. Wait till I get over and set it up," said Miss Maude Heufnagle to a companion as the two girls were walking along a path through a comfield on their way to church near Paris, this county, this morning.

ing along a path through a cornfield on their way to church near Paris, this county, this morning.

A moment later scream after scream from the young woman drew her companion to the spot. She found Miss Heufnagle stretched in a dead faint beside the body of Charles Neufnagle, her father, which the daughter had at first mistaken for the scarecrow.

The finding of the corpse revealed one of the most shocking and mysterious murders in the history of this section. The body was literally hacked to pieces by his slayers. Decomposition had already set in, and it is the belief of the officers that the farmer had been dead for at least a week.

Heufnagle was one of the wealthiest residents of Northern Washington county, and so far as can be learned he had no enemies. He left his farm near Paris on the morning of Thursday, Sept. 20, to go to Pittsburg, where he expected to make a visit of a week or more with a sick daughter, and on his way to the train took a short cut along a path through a cornfield.

That was the last seen of him, and it is believed that he was waylaid and murdered while walking along this path.

A SUICIDE.
