Famous Fiction!

Two of the Best Sellers. Have You Read Them?

THE COMMON LAW.

(By Robert W. Chambers.)

A great love story of society and studio life in New York. It has all the interest and fascination of the best society novels and there is the added charm of the gay artist's life with its frank camaraderie, its witty small talk, its undisguised disregard of convention. Love triumphant over tradition is the concluding note of the story.

THE HAUNTED PAJAMAS.

(By Francis Perry Elliott.)

A pair of red silk pajamas created all the mystery in this fascinating story. They were sent to a New York clubman by a friend in China, and they proved the means of making a dignified young society man the wildest, maddest kind of a rascal, while a beautiful young lady was forced into pranks that were quite inexplicable to her friends. And so these bits of Chinese Silk went on—leading to adventures that make up a story of continuous fun, sparkle and mystery.

Bound in cloth and illustrated, 50c. each; 2c. extra per volume if mailed.

The Curve that Makes the Difference

Looks like just a casual, unimportant bend in the holder, eh?

In reality it is one of the most important things in razordom—the subject of basic Gillette Patents—and the cause of the wonderful adjustability which is an exclusive Gillette feature.

Gripping the blade close to its shaving edges, the curved outer plate bends it down close to the toothed guard, and holds it ABSOLUTELY RIGID. This prevents the vibration which makes other razors pull and cut unevenly, and is one of the chief reasons for the velvet smoothness of the Gillette shave.

Quite as important is the adjustability. Screw the outer plate up tight and it holds the razor edge right against the guard, giving a very light shave. As you loosen it you give the blade more and more "hold", so that it shaves closer and closer. Thus every man can get an adjustment which exactly suits his beard and skin—a thing he cannot do with any other razor in the world.

Why not get an adjustable Gillette and say good-bye to your shaving troubles? Your Hardware Dealer, Jeweler or Druggist can show you an assortment—Standard Sets at $5.00—Pocket Editions at $5.00 to $6.00—Combination Sets at $6.50 up.

Westleigh to Newton Petrock, and is going to drive himself three days a week. It's all in the Morning Post.

"I haven't seen or heard anything of him for some time," said Vane. "He was always fond of driving, and I suppose, thinks that tooling a four-hand is better than doing nothing."

"Well, there's no accounting for tastes," commented Lord Warlock. "I should have thought that he could have got something better to do than playing at omnibus driver. It was all very well before he came into the title, but he ought to settle down now. By the way, Vane," he broke off, eyeing the ruby-colored wine in his glass with reflective satisfaction, "isn't it time you settled down? Don't think I want to be impertinent; but it seems to me that you ought to have had your fling by this time and be ready to harvest that crop of wild oats you've been sowing so plentifully."

Vane remained silent, and the earl went on in the quiet, and most affectionate manner which was, perhaps, reserved for Vane Tempest alone of all his friends:

"I know you are not old, that you could very easily sow another crop or two. But is it worth while? That's the question. You are the sort of man who ought to have a stake in the country and do your best to keep the good old Constitution moving."

Vane smiled rather grimly. "You speak as if I had only to throw the handkerchief, sir," he said. The earl looked at him thoughtfully.

"I don't know that," he said. "But I've always found that a man can't and a wife if he sets about looking or her seriously. I should have thought you would be rather popular with the women. You used to be, I fancy. Perhaps you've lost ground lately. A man can't afford to drop the world for months at a time. At my rate he can't expect to pick it up again when he chooses. You look jaded and bored. You'd better marry my dear fellow. I don't say you won't cease to be bored, but at least you will have home comforts and some one to look after beside yourself, and that's better than having some one to look after you."

In speaking thus, Lord Warlock scarcely needed to be said, was not thinking of his daughter, Florence. He had thought of her and grieved for her passion for Vane, he would not have spoken. Nor did Vane connect her with the earl's advice. Every word the worldly-wise old man said recalled Nora to Vane's mind. There was his wife—the wife of his heart—if he could but find her and induce her to return his love.

They finished the bottle and went into the drawing room. There the earl made straight for his chair, and settled himself for slumber without the least attempt at concealment. Lady Florence was seated in a low chair by the fire, and another was drawn up close beside her. She welcomed Vane with a smile, and pointed to the vacant chair.

"Come and rest."

"Oh, I'm warm enough now," he said; but he sunk into the chair and drew the breath of comfort.

The wind could be heard as it swept the rain-deluged streets, and the sound made the warm, soft-lighted room all the more comfortable by contrast. He sat nursing his leg in his favorite attitude, and gazing at the fire while she talked. She laid herself out to amuse him; recounted all the gossip which had prevailed during his absence; told him little anecdotes about the people they both knew—who had married whom, and who were likely to be divorced.

The Greatest Invention For The Fishermen.

We can justly claim to have been the pioneers in introducing Motor Engines for fishing boats in Newfoundland, with the result that to-day, they are an absolute necessity to the fishermen.

Every fisherman knows the benefit it would be to have an engine in his boat, but he also knows, by the experience of others, that on account of the present high price of Gasoline, it takes nearly all the profit of an average voyage to pay for the Gasoline.

We have recognized this for some time, and have investigated all the best known Kerosene Engines on the market, but none of them came up to our requirements until the Mianus Motor Co. invented the

"MIANUS KEROSENE ENGINE." 3 to 40 H. P.

We immediately accepted the Agency for the "Mianus" convinced by our past experience of Marine Engines that it possessed all the good qualities so long sought for in a Fisherman's Engine.

The cost of operating a Mianus Kerosene Engine is CONSIDERABLY LESS THAN HALF THE COST OF OPERATING A GASOLINE ENGINE OF EQUAL POWER, AND IS MORE EFFICIENT.

Kerosene can be obtained at every Harbour in Newfoundland and Labrador. Gasoline cannot.

The Mianus is a working man's engine and is so substantially constructed, that there is nothing to wear out for years.

It is powerful, reliable and simple to operate.

As proof of its great power, a 3 H. P. MIANUS turns a 15 inch 2 blade propeller at 550 R. P. M.; 5 H. P. turns an 18 inch 3 blade; 7½ H. P. turns a 22 inch 3 blade; and 10 H. P. a 24 inch 3 blade, etc.

COMPARE THESE WITH OTHER ENGINES BEFORE BUYING.

Nearly all the Marine Engines are guaranteed for one year only. Mianus is GUARANTEED BY THE MAKERS FOR THE LIFE OF THE ENGINE.

It will benefit every fisherman to write us for further particulars about Mianus Kerosene Engines, because it is the Engine you will eventually buy. Write us to-day for CATALOGUES AND PRICES.

Minimise The Loss.

Practically farmers can easily minimise the loss, due to a backward and cold season, by the judicious use of Sulphate of Ammonia as a fertilizer.

Sulphate of Ammonia contains over 20 per cent of nitrogen, as against 15 per cent in Nitrate of Soda, and is therefore more than 25 per cent better than nitrate of soda as a means of quickening and increasing the growth of crops.

The use of Sulphate of Ammonia has increased enormously of late years and it is recognized to be the most valuable fertilizer obtainable. By its judicious use the production of root crops per acre may be doubled, and the growth of late crops stimulated.

We invite the attention of Farmers to our special pamphlet on the best methods of using Sulphate, copies of which will be forwarded free to any address on application.

The price of Sulphate is moderate, and our terms are accommodating.

A Millionaire;

Countess Westerleigh

CHAPTER XXXI.

"How wonderful!" she asked, with a cold stare tinged with a shade of anxiety.

"Well, he seems to make himself necessary to everybody with whom he comes in contact, or at any rate to any one to whom he takes a fancy. For those persons he doesn't care about, I imagine Bentley Tyers would not wag a finger to save them from drowning. Then you see a great deal of him?" he asked, half absent-ly.

"He is here very often—yes," she said, with an air of indifference.

The old earl entered and saved her from Vane's further questioning, and she drew a breath of relief.

"Ah, Tempest!" said the earl, hobbling toward him and extending a gouty hand. "What beastly weather! Very good of you to take pity on me and come out in such a devil of a night, and—halloo!" he broke off, and stared at the still haggard face of the man he, perhaps, liked best in the world. "What on earth have you been doing with yourself? You look as if you'd been on a twelve-month's racket, or half starved in a coal mine," and he knitted his shaggy brows.

White Oak, Ont.—"At Change of Life when doctors could do no more and I was given up by my friends, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound came to the front and did wonders for me. I had been having female troubles for years, my head troubled me severely at times, I had bearing down pains and back-ache and I was very anemic from excessive flowing. I recommend your Compound highly and do all I can to advertise it as a genuine woman's medicine."—Mrs. SYLVESTER MANNING, White Oak, Ontario.

The Case of Mrs. Kirlin. Circleville, Ohio.—"I can truthfully say that I never had anything do me so much good during Change of Life as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I had taken one half a bottle of it I began to feel better, and I have continued taking it. My health is better than it has been for several years. If all women would take it they would escape untold pain and misery at this time of life."—Mrs. ALICE KIRLIN, 333 W. Mill St., Circleville, Ohio.

The Change of Life is one of the most critical periods of a woman's existence. At such times women may rely on Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

She lingered long after the butler had brought the special yellow-sealed port, and then, as Vane opened the door for her, said, in a soft, inviting voice:

"Don't let papa keep you too long! I will have the most splendid fire you ever saw made in the drawing-room."

Vane went back to the table, and

Vane laughed, and the old man frowned still more darkly as he noticed the absence of the wanted careless ring in the laugh.

"Do I look as if I had not washed myself?" he said.

"You look as if you ought to be in bed or—or a fever hospital," returned the earl, grimly. "I suppose she wanted you to come here to-night. Women have no consciences. Well, now you are here, I hope you'll get a good dinner. You look to me as if a couple of bottles of port would be of some service." Barks—he turned to the butler—"better give Mr. Tempest some of that yellow seal. And see that he gets plenty of it."

Vane laughed as he gave his arm to Lady Florence.

"I wonder why people with the gout always want all the rest of the world, and their friends in particular, to have it. I suppose it's the old story of the fox who lost his tail."

But though he laughed carelessly, he was not insensible of the old man's kindly interest.

There were only the three, and they dined in a small room, as warm as toast, with the subdued light of wax candles shining through crimson silk. The dinner was perfect, and he managed to talk in something like his old manner. Lady Florence watched him without seeming to do so, and her own eyes grew brighter.

What had happened to him during his long absence, and where had that absence been spent? She had suffered agonies of jealousy during the last weeks while he had been away, but as the dinner made its stately yet cozy and luxurious progress she forgot her doubts and fears and basked in the happiness his presence —his nearness—caused in her.

She lingered long after the butler had brought the special yellow-sealed port, and then, as Vane opened the door for her, said, in a soft, inviting voice:

"Don't let papa keep you too long! I will have the most splendid fire you ever saw made in the drawing-room."

Vane went back to the table, and the butler set a fresh bottle beside him, after filling his glass, and the earl exhorted him to drink.

"It will do you more good than claret, and as for the gout, why you'd better have that than the beastly cold you seem struggling with. Pass me the bottle. I'll change it and take half a glass myself—half a glass, mind—now Florence has gone."

Drinking for 24 Years. A PHYSICAL WRECK CURED By the Gatlin Treatment.

A man who had been drinking steadily for 24 years, came to the Gatlin Institute for Treatment. He was a physical wreck and was so extremely nervous that his hands were always shaking. The habit was broken, the nervousness disappeared, his health improved, and he was even able to shave himself.

He left the Institute a new man with confidence in himself, and no more desire for alcoholic drinks. The Gatlin Institute has effected the cure of many men when their friends thought them incurable. No case is too difficult for this treatment, even the most confirmed drunkards. Every privacy is maintained with private room and nurse in attendance.

This is the original 3 Day Cure and absolutely reliable. Cure is guaranteed under Written Contract to be satisfactory in every particular, or we refund the fee paid, and the treatment costs nothing. For the Home Treatment a trained nurse can be sent to administer treatment, if desired, within a reasonable radius, free of charge. Write to-day for booklet and full particulars.

Giving the Public What It Wants

By RUTH CAMERON.

I sometimes feel that I must take the liberty of criticizing that fearful and wonderful institution, the American newspaper.

I want to protest to-day against the way many newspapers feature every act of our weather classes, especially every act which has the least atom of merit or value.

One would think they were a race quite apart from common people, and moreover a race with no obligation to be intelligent, or even decently kind-hearted, such loud acclaim is made whenever a rich man or woman does anything useful or wise or kind.

The wealthy mother who nurses her baby and actually supervises her children's bringing up, instead of leaving it entirely to hirelings, is played up as a paragon of domesticity; and a charming picture of her, probably in a magnificent decollete gown, with her family grouped about her knees in imitation of the royal family pictures, is used full page in the Sunday section.

The wealthy man who rushes across the continent to his sick child (just as any father who could scrape together the car fare by the bitterest sacrifice would do) is represented as a model of devotion.

In the paper a few days ago, a mother and daughter of a wealthy family were lauded to the skies because they had nobly given up a social season and accompanied the father of the family in his exile in the wilderness (a magnificently appointed camp) in quest of the health he had lost—probably in making money for them.

As I read it, I thought of a mother who goes out washing and a daughter who has given up her hope of an education and goes to work in a factory, in order that the sick father may go to a fresh air camp. There are no newspaper articles written about them, nor do they think they are doing anything more than anyone would do.

Shame on us—for after all, as the newspapers are written for the public, and contain only what the public want—the blame belongs with us. Shame on us for devouring such items; shame on us for servily wringing our necks to look away, way up to these bright beings as if they were the product of another and infinitely superior creation.

In spite of the fact that America is supposed to be the land of democracy and opportunity; in spite of the fact that we have no titles and fixed layers of society, they say there is no snob as bad as an American snob, and I believe it.

And do you know that the worst of these snobs are not the ones who look down, but those who look up. For it is those who look up who make possible those who look down.

Fashions and Fads.

Serge is ever practical and elegant. The flower-trimmed hat has returned.

Everything bags, and everything is loose.

Velvet muffs edged with fur are popular.

Scotch plaids are fashionable for children.

Muffs are quite large or of medium size.

The butterfly bow in millinery holds its own.

There is an absence of revers on the new coats.

There are many black moire hats trimmed with skunk.

Carduroy makes stylish gowns for dressy morning wear.

Scotch plaid silk is used to trim coats and frocks for little girls.

Jet is a favorite trimming for afternoon and evening costumes.

For the very little girl there are little hoods of Scotch plaid velvet.

Long, loose coats of plain or ribbed velvet are being much worn.

The flounced skirt is gradually gaining precedence over all others.

Godet pleats appear in the hips of many three-quarter straight coats.

Everything so long as it is soft and chifony is worn in the evening.

All fur coats and wraps carry big collars and cuffs and footbands of fur.

A fad of the moment is the porcelain flower garniture on the velvet hats.

Separate blouses of chiffon and mousseline are more elaborate than ever.

Striking silk linings are extensively featured in the new outer coats.

Cotton fabric gloves that have a chambray or doekin finish are worn this fall.

Some of the new tailored suits for young girls have the belt dropped to the hip line.

Plunges and half-pleated skirts display slight draped effects in front or at the back.

Turkish and bayader sashes have taken tremendous hold on fashion's fancy.

Both short and very long coats are

Was Never Able to Obtain Lasting Benefit Until Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Was Used.

Too many girls grow up with weak, anemic bodies and exhausted nervous systems. Indoor life and too much application in school are sometimes the cause.

The blood needs enriching and the nerves need strengthening by such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This food cure is doing wonders for many thousands of girls whose parents had almost despaired of their ever developing into strong, healthy women.

Mrs. J. Baggall, 295 Woodville avenue, Toronto, writes: "My daughter suffered from nervousness since childhood, and any medicine she tried did not do any lasting good. We read in the papers about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and my daughter used it with wonderful results. salesmen think if she'd die of apoplexy they'd be glad. I would hate to have to wait on that sort of lady skate while she pawed among the garments and the hose; when I heard her snarl and scold I would knock her bonnet off or reach out with eager hand and pull her nose.

Rest.

Rest is the process of recuperating after labor.

Rest is a very important duty of man. If he were to work continuously without rest, he would soon fade away and be deposited upon the junk pile of worn out humanity.

This is because labor tears down the muscle cells. Therefore, it is necessary that a man should occasionally sit down in a quiet spot and allow himself to be rebuilt.

Rest after labor is a great boon. But a large number of people make the grave mistake of resting at the wrong time. They insist on resting before work.

This leads to grave consequences. The system keeps on piling up muscle cells on top of the old ones, and presently the owner thereof is too strong to work.

This is a terrible condition, and leads to great woe. The earth is encumbered with men who cannot work until they get through resting, and who cannot get through resting until they have begun work. In the meantime their wives' clear-starching is much admired by our best families.

Various people require greatly varying amounts of rest. A man who works hard twelve hours a day with his hands can get enough rest in the evening in two pipefuls of tobacco to restore himself completely. But a banker who works from 10 to 2 has to go out on the golf links for three hours a day in order to keep from drooping like a weary flower.

Some men work all their lives without vacations, while others take a month of each year and rest with great fury at the seashore or in the mountains, or amid the taxibands of Europe.

A great many people criticize this country severely because there is no rest in it to speak of. In England man works from rest to rest, while in this country men rest from work to work and regard the resting time as a dead loss. Englishmen rest in the morning, at noon, in the afternoon for tea, and from Friday until Monday. Then they retire at 45 and rest the remainder of their lives—after which they die, leaving enough of money to enable their descendants to rest on forever. In America, man works until the electric light plant breaks down, takes his vacation with a secretary and two stenographers, and celebrates his seventieth birthday by organizing a trust.

This causes great scorn in England, and Englishmen spend a great deal of time expressing horror over our rude industrial ways. In fact, whenever an Englishman isn't busy discussing his favorite theme, "What is the Matter with England?" he is usually disapproving of America for working.

This is one of the things which leads to the general suspicion that the Englishman has no sense of humor.

Strenuous Life.

Oh, I'd hate to be a clerk, in the glad rags store and work, showing forty thousand samples to the wives, while those women pay around saying that they never found any goods so fierce and flimsy in their lives! There are women, scores, indeed, who can buy the things they need without driving all the salesmen to despair, without causing frantic gents, when they're spending several cents, to attempt to blow their brains out with a chair. But the limp and languid dame who adopts the shopping game as a sort of life profession or crusade, bodes the salesmen weary-eyed, till they think of suicide, and would like to cut their heads off with a spade. She examines miles of silk and remarks that Mr. Bilk, in the store around the corner sells the same at a kopeck less a yard, and she kicks around so hard that the salesman raises gooseflesh on his frame. And she says those eyes of hers never saw such doggone furs, and the satins and the muslins make her sad; everything is on the blink—and the soulstick

Bishopric Wall Board.

BEATS LATHS AND PLASTER.

MADE TO LAST.

Bishopric Wall Board is made by imbedding kiln-dried dressed lath in hot Asphalt-Mastic, under a pressure of 500 lbs. to the square inch. The other side of the Asphalt-Mastic is surfaced with smooth, heavy sized cardboard.

COSTS LESS.

Bishopric Wall Board saves 75 per cent. of the labor cost and about a month's time in finishing walls and ceilings. With it there is none of that expense for repairs and re-decorating that you incur so often when plaster cracks or falls.

DRYER AND WARMER.

The layer of Asphalt-Mastic in which the laths are embedded is absolutely air-tight and damp-proof. It blocks all drafts, and keeps the inside of the house dry, warm and cosy.

RAT AND VERMIN PROOF.

These pests find it impossible to gnaw or bore through the tough, gummy Asphalt-Mastic.

EASILY DECORATED.

Bishopric Wall Board is surfaced with heavy sized cardboard, which forms the ideal surface for Wall Paper or Burlap. Artistic panneling adds to its attractiveness.

THE ONLY WALL BOARD MADE WITH LATH. Laths are positively necessary to back up wall board and Bishopric is the only Wall Board that has them. They make it rigid and substantial and prevent it from working, cracking or pulling away at the joints.

LONDON, Oct. 31.
The work of designing the challenger Shamrock IV, which has been entrusted by Sir Thomas Lipton to Charles Nicholson, is now well advanced, and probably actual construction will be begun in a week or two. It is expected that the ship on which Shamrock IV will be built will be the Gosport yard of Camper and Nicholson, and will be vacant to-morrow. Nicholson has made the model of the challenger, and now engaged settling the preliminary details before making the actual start.

HAMBURG, Oct. 31.
Twenty-two out of twenty-five seamen, forming the crew of the French Barque Patrie, were yesterday rescued by the steamer Kronprinz Cecilie, from that vessel, which was found burning in mid-Atlantic. Wireless despatches from the German steamer, now on a voyage from Mexico to Hamburg, say that it sighted the flaming barque, flying signals of distress. The German captain launched boats and took off the crew, but three French sailors were washed overboard and drowned before the arrival of the steamer.

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Oct. 31.
Shortage of food and fuel with accompanying privations for the poorer classes, is beginning to be felt throughout New Zealand, as the result of the general strike of coal miners and dockers. Work has ceased in most trades in every part of New Zealand. In Wellington and Auckland, the two principal cities, riots occurred, and brought about the landing of blue-jackets from the British warships on the station to assist in preserving order; to protect the men engaged in loading fruit on the vessels in the dock; and to see that passengers are allowed to embark and land from steamers without molestation. The struggle which has led to this serious position is a trial of strength between employers and the federation of labour, which is not registered under the provision of the Compulsory Arbitration and Conciliation Act passed in 1902, by the terms of which any person inciting workmen to strike or any employers ordering lockouts without first going to arbitration, are liable to severe penalties. The labour trouble began with a strike of shipwrights, several weeks ago, when the men demanded better conditions, and the recognition of the Union. The dockers and miners shortly afterwards laid down their tools in sympathy. Other tradesmen followed, until a large proportion of organized labour in the Dominion had ceased work.

LONDON, Oct. 31.
Bernard Shaw, lecturing in the City Temple before the Church Literary Society of Christian Economics, said that all existing civilizations were elaborate organizations for the prevention of Christianity. Police and soldiers professed to suppress crime, but they do so suppress it. The Crucifixion was a political success, but it destroyed Christianity. If we attempt as Christians to perpetuate historic Christianity we will fail and be beaten by hostile forces. We will have to make a new beginning. He advocated communism and equality of income, and declared democracy impossible unless there was democracy of income.

Have we an immortal soul?
Can the dead hear our prayers and where are the dead?
Is spiritualism with its phenomena a truism or a deception?
Hell! Where is it? When is it? What is it?

May Be Tragedy.

The Hon. H. J. B. Woods, Postmaster General received a message from the operator at St. Anthony which ran as follows:

"A motor boat arrived here this afternoon, and reports picking up a small fishing boat, four miles off Goose Cove, with two bags of mail and two bottles of spirits on board. It is evidently believed that the boat belonged to the mail courier plying between St. Julien's and Fishoot Island, and that its occupants are drowned."

The mail courier between St. Julien's and Fishoot Island, is Patrick Bromley, who is a resident of Fishoot Island. A motor boat has been sent out from St. Anthony to make enquiries.

Mr. G. M. Barr,
St. John's.

Dear Sir—I want to tell you that the 4 H.P. engine I purchased from you the spring is a beauty in every respect. I have no trouble whatever it gives perfect satisfaction. For towing or speed she is equal to any 6 H.P. engine I have seen of any other make. To fishermen wanting an engine I can recommend the Fairbanks Morse as the best.

My engine has been exposed to all the weather that a fisherman's boat has to go through and I have been using kero oil and found it to give just as much satisfaction as all gasolene. This is what I have proved to be true of the Fairbanks Morse engine.

Yours truly,

Dear Sir—With regards the Fairbanks Morse engine that I bought from you last fall, I would say that she has given every satisfaction. I have run her all the summer without a miss. Last summer I had two schooners collecting in my fish but now I can do it in one with the aid of my motor boat.

At McCallum Hr., there are engines of other makes but they do not give the satisfaction that the Fairbanks Morse engines do.

Grabbing a Hemisphere

Special to The Evening Telegram.
LONDON, To-day.

In an editorial, the Nation sharply criticizes the policy of Britain in Mexico. After assenting to the propositions that Britain cannot intervene in the affairs of a half civilized nation because its morals are bad, its policies illiberal, that the first concern of British diplomacy is with British interests, the editorial says our complaint is not that British diplomacy declined to intervene against President Huerta, but rather that peculiarly cynical way it has given countenance at the moment when the States was using influence to restore some approach to constitutional rule. If all the world had recognized Huerta, as a matter of routine, our action would have had little significance, but it was taken at a dramatic moment when it could be interpreted as a rebuff and counterpoise to the efforts of President Wilson. The term British interests in this connection requires some definition. Cheap labor for one thing is not British interest. After stating that Lord Cowdray and other British capitalists are friendly to President Diaz, and expressing the belief that American oil interests are behind Mexican constitutionalists, the article declares even in the narrowest view British interests are in the success of the revolution which aims at turning serfs into free wage earners which in the end will do more to benefit British trade than all the favors a Dictator might shower on a few concessionaires. The editorial concludes with a denunciation of the policy of the British Foreign Office, as not being in accord with Liberal principles, and says it leaves Britain alone among Liberal Powers, and exposes the country to suspicion at a moment when the Government more than ever deserves their good will. The Outlook declares that President Wilson's Mobile speech means a policy of "idealistic evil," by which all other nations except the States will be shut out of the trade of the Western Hemisphere as Spain did from 1800 to 1898. The Outlook says Spain forbade all other nations to trade with South America which was strictly reserved to the commercial enterprises of the Spaniards alone. In 1913 President Wilson wants to impose practically an identical yoke of domination of the commercial relations of the great independent communities which have grown up between Rio Grande and the Antarctic extremity of the continent. The further assurance to the effect that the opening of the Panama Canal would be to abolish Foreign concessions to hunters in favor of investments of the States completes the exposition of this astounding scheme for barefaced appropriation of a hemisphere. It is barefaced indeed, but widely absurd. What everybody suspects is that behind the conscious or unconscious President there is one embattled array of New York trusts.

Four Men Lost Off Low Point

Little schooner Crashed Into by Collier Wabana and All But One of Entire Crew is Lost

Another marine tragedy was enacted in the waters at the entrance of the harbor at 6.30 Wednesday night last, when Captain Bobbitt, of the little 30-ton schooner Annie Roberts, together with John Macdonald, Arthur Tiffin, and John Francis were sent to a watery grave in the twinkling of an eye. One member of the crew, John Bennett, survived, and he was rescued after being twenty minutes in the water. The Annie Roberts, in company with the schr. Ferula, Capt. Henry Roswell, and several of the coal-laden vessels were wind-bound here for two or three days, and early Wednesday morning sailed for Hermitage Bay, Nfld. About thirteen miles off the Point, about east northeast, the schooners ran into a strong easterly gale and were headed back to this port. Half a mile inside the light the Ferula met the steamer Wabana outbound with 7,000 tons of coal for St. John, N.B. Both vessels passed very close to one another. About a mile, or less, in the rear, was the ill-fated Annie Roberts, sailing along about three knots. All her lights were burning. At the wheel, according to a statement made by Bennett, was Tiffin, while the captain, Bennett and Macdonald were standing on the forward part. Directly in front of them bore down the big collier, and before anything could be done the latter crashed into the little craft, and in three minutes it had gone to the bottom taking the four lives with it. Bennett found himself struggling in the water. He could not swim, but seized a piece of planking he held on until the box that contained the anchor chain of the Annie Roberts, came up from the wreckage, which served as a buoy until a boat from the steamer picked him up. Then the collier returned to port, when the news of the tragedy was made public.

According to Capt. Roswell, of the schooner Ferula, the night was not very dark, and one accustomed to the dark could see objects quite a distance away. According to him the lights of the ill-fated schooner were quite visible, and despite the reports to the contrary, the Annie Roberts was sailing a proper course when she was crushed into by the collier.

There were several ludicrous reports of the accident appearing in the papers. One said that the steamer was stopped suddenly; that she had her engines reversed; that the little schooner was impelled by the wind with such velocity, that it was

Little schooner Crashed Into by Collier Wabana and All But One of Entire Crew is Lost

Another marine tragedy was enacted in the waters at the entrance of the harbor at 6.30 Wednesday night last, when Captain Bobbitt, of the little 30-ton schooner Annie Roberts, together with John Macdonald, Arthur Tiffin, and John Francis were sent to a watery grave in the twinkling of an eye. One member of the crew, John Bennett, survived, and he was rescued after being twenty minutes in the water. The Annie Roberts, in company with the schr. Ferula, Capt. Henry Roswell, and several of the coal-laden vessels were wind-bound here for two or three days, and early Wednesday morning sailed for Hermitage Bay, Nfld. About thirteen miles off the Point, about east northeast, the schooners ran into a strong easterly gale and were headed back to this port. Half a mile inside the light the Ferula met the steamer Wabana outbound with 7,000 tons of coal for St. John, N.B. Both vessels passed very close to one another. About a mile, or less, in the rear, was the ill-fated Annie Roberts, sailing along about three knots. All her lights were burning. At the wheel, according to a statement made by Bennett, was Tiffin, while the captain, Bennett and Macdonald were standing on the forward part. Directly in front of them bore down the big collier, and before anything could be done the latter crashed into the little craft, and in three minutes it had gone to the bottom taking the four lives with it. He could not swim, but seized a piece of planking he held on until the box that contained the anchor chain of the Annie Roberts, came up from the wreckage, which served as a buoy until a boat from the steamer picked him up. Then the collier returned to port, when the news of the tragedy was made public.

Romantic Arundel.

It is the Beautiful Home of "the Luckiest Child in England."

The luckiest child in England bears the sonorous names of Bernard Marquand Fitzalan Howard. This small 5-year-old boy already has the titles of Earl of Arundel and Surry. He is heir to the dukedom of Norfolk, and as Earl of Norfolk will hold the premier barony of England. His father, the Duke of Norfolk, is hereditary earl marshal and chief butler of England, premier duke and premier earl. In addition to his inheritance of noble titles the lad will come into one of the richest estates in England. The Duke of Norfolk is the owner of 68,900 acres of land in England, and is one of London's greatest landlords. Among his magnificent estates are Arundel castle Sussex; Derwent Hall, Derbyshire, near Sheffield, and beach Hill, Sheffield.

The little Earl of Arundel was the first of his line to be born at beautiful Arundel castle. The estate has the odd distinction of ennobling any person who may hold it. If it were sold, for instance, it would make whoever held it a nobleman. Even an aspiring American could enter the British peerage in this fashion. The late Earl of Arundel's child of the second wife of the Duke of Norfolk, who was the Hon. Gwendolen Mary Constable Maxwell, the daughter of Baron Helmsley.

"ORANGE LILY SAVED MY LIFE"

These words or expressions having the same meaning are contained in hundreds of the letters I have received during the past year. Many were from women who had suffered agonies from falling of womb; others from women who had escaped dangerous surgical operations, as the tumors and ulcers had been removed by the action of Orange Lily; and others who had suffered from suppressed menstruation, leucorrhoea, painful periods, etc. For all these and the other troubles known in general as Women's Disorders, Orange Lily furnishes a positive scientific, never-failing cure as it is applied direct to the suffering organs and its operation is certain and beneficial. For a trial order, I hereby offer to send absolutely free, a box worth 50c, sufficient for ten days' treatment, to every suffering woman who will write for it. Enclose 3 stamps, MRS. FRANCES E. CURRAN, Windsor, Ont.

hurled with awful force against the big vessel. There was no explanation given why the wind did not affect the steamer. Then there was the ancient story about the schooner "wobbling" before she was sunk, and various other such excuses printed.

It seems strange indeed that the man Bennett, the sole survivor of the tragedy, was allowed to leave for his home in Hermitage Bay, Nfld., on board the steamer Portia, that sailed from the Scotia pier the evening following the disaster, without the authorities first interviewing him. An investigation should be held. It is not so long ago that several human lives were snuffed out by a collision when two vessels of the Dominion Coal Company were sailing down the arm from Sydney to this harbor. That another such horror as happened Wednesday night, should be allowed to pass over without a full and careful investigation being held to fix the blame, if blame there is, seems almost beyond belief.—North Sydney Herald, Oct. 29.

Grabbing a Hemisphere

Special to The Evening Telegram.
LONDON, To-day.

In an editorial, the Nation sharply criticizes the policy of Britain in Mexico. After assenting to the propositions that Britain cannot intervene in the affairs of a half civilized nation because its morals are bad, its policies illiberal, that the first concern of British diplomacy is with British interests, the editorial says our complaint is not that British diplomacy declined to intervene against President Huerta, but rather that peculiarly cynical way it has given countenance at the moment when the States was using influence to restore some approach to constitutional rule. If all the world had recognized Huerta, as a matter of routine, our action would have had little significance, but it was taken at a dramatic moment when it could be interpreted as a rebuff and counterpoise to the efforts of President Wilson. The term British interests in this connection requires some definition. Cheap labor for one thing is not British interest. After stating that Lord Cowdray and other British capitalists are friendly to President Diaz, and expressing the belief that American oil interests are behind Mexican constitutionalists, the article declares even in the narrowest view British interests are in the success of the revolution which aims at turning serfs into free wage earners which in the end will do more to benefit British trade than all the favors a Dictator might shower on a few concessionaires. The editorial concludes with a denunciation of the policy of the British Foreign Office, as not being in accord with Liberal principles, and says it leaves Britain alone among Liberal Powers, and exposes the country to suspicion at a moment when the Government more than ever deserves their good will. The Outlook declares that President Wilson's Mobile speech means a policy of "idealistic evil," by which all other nations except the States will be shut out of the trade of the Western Hemisphere as Spain did from 1800 to 1898. The Outlook says Spain forbade all other nations to trade with South America which was strictly reserved to the commercial enterprises of the Spaniards alone. In 1913 President Wilson wants to impose practically an identical yoke of domination of the commercial relations of the great independent communities which have grown up between Rio Grande and the Antarctic extremity of the continent. The further assurance to the effect that the opening of the Panama Canal would be to abolish Foreign concessions to hunters in favor of investments of the States completes the exposition of this astounding scheme for barefaced appropriation of a hemisphere. It is barefaced indeed, but widely absurd. What everybody suspects is that behind the conscious or unconscious President there is one embattled array of New York trusts.

Wedding Bells.

BLANDFORD-BLACKMORE.
A very neat and pretty wedding took place at the C. of E. Cathedral on Wednesday, Oct. 29th. The contracting parties being Mr. Herbert Blandford, son of Capt. D. Blandford of the S. S. Dundee and Miss P. Blackmore, daughter of chief officer also of the Dundee. The ceremony was performed by Canon White. The bride was given away by Mr. Alex. Hamlyn of the Reid Mill. Co., the bridesmaids being Miss Daisy Blackmore sister of the bride and Miss Nellie Skiffington, of the Royal Stores, Ltd., also cousin of the groom. The flower girls were Miss Greta Blandford, daughter of the Hon. S. D. Blandford. The groom was supported by Mr. Job Blackmore, brother of the bride. The bride looked charming, dressed in cream silk with wreath and veil to match and carrying a bunch of carnations and maiden hair ferns. The bridesmaids were dressed in sage blue silk with hats to match. A reception was held at No. 6 King's Road, after which the party left by the 6 o'clock express for Port Blandford, their future home, where the wedding will be kept up in the good old style. The presents received were costly and numerous, showing the esteem in which both parties were held. We wish the newly married couple many years of happy wedded life.

WORK AND CONTEMPLATION.

The woman singeth at her spinning-wheel
A pleasant chant, ballad, or barcarole,
She thinketh of her song, upon the whole,
Far more than of her fax; and yet
The reel is full, and artfully her fingers feel
With quick adjustment, provident control,
The lines, too subtly twisted to unroll,
Out to a perfect thread. I hence
Appeal
To the dear Christian Church, that
We may do
Our Father's business in these temples
Thus swift and steadfast, thus intent
And strong,
While thus, apart from toil, our souls
Pursue
Some high, calm, spheric tune, and
Prove our work
The better for the sweetness of our song.
—Mrs. Browning.

LOVE.

We cannot live, except thus mutually
We alternate, aware or unaware,
The reflex act of life; and when we breathe
Our virtue outward most impulsively,
Most full of invocation, and to be Most instantly compellant, certes
there
We live most life, whoever breathes most air.

And counts his dying years by sun
and sea;
But when a soul by choice and conscience doth
Throw out her full force on another soul,
The conscience and the concentration both
Make mere life, Love. For Life in perfect whole
And aim consummated is Love in sooth.
As nature's magnet-head rounds pole with pole.
—Mrs. Browning.

TO MARY IN HEAVEN.

(Written on one of the anniversaries of Highland Mary's Death.)
The lingering star, with lessening
ray,
That lov'st to greet the early morn,
Again thou usher'st in the day,
My Mary from my soul was torn,
O Mary, dear departed shade!
Where is thy place of blissful rest?
Seest thou thy lover lowly laid?
Hear'st thou the groans that rend his breast?
That sacred hour can I forget?
Can I forget the hallow'd grave,
Where, by the winding Ayr we met,
To live one day of parting love?
Eternity will not efface
These records dear of transports past.
Thy image at our last embrace,
Ah! little thought we 'twas our last.
Ayr gurgling kiss'd his pebbled
shore,
O'erhung with wild woods, thick'ning
green;
The fragrant birch, and hawthorn
wee,
Twin'd am'rous round the raptur'd scene.
The flowers sprang wanton to be
prest,
The birds sang love on ev'ry spray,
Till too, too soon, the glowing west
Proclaim'd the speed of winged day.
Still o'er these scenes my mem'ry
wakes,
And fondly broods with miser care!
Time but the impression deeper makes,
As streams their channels deeper wear.
My Mary, dear departed shade!
Where is thy blissful place of rest?
Seest thou thy lover lowly laid?
Hear'st thou the groans that rend his breast?

Superstitions of the Months.

NOVEMBER.

November gains its name from the word "novem," signifying that it was the ninth month in the Roman calendar.

The Saxons styled it "Wint (or wind) Monath," by which, as an old calendar says, "We may see that our ancestors were in this season of the year made acquainted with blustering Boreas, and it was the ancient custom for shipmen then to shroud themselves at home, and to give over seafaring."

November was also called by the Saxons "Blot," or blood month, to denote that at this time it was usual to slaughter oxen, sheep, and pigs for the purpose of salting their flesh. It was necessary for our ancestors to prepare a large stock of meat at this season, for they had no knowledge of any means of preserving their cattle alive through the winter by means of dried or artificial fodder.

All authorities are unanimous in declaring the topaz to be the birthstone of November. There is a couplet which says:—

"Who first comes to this world below
With drear November's fog and snow
Should prize the topaz amber hue,
Emblem of friends and lovers true."

There are as many as six unlucky days in this month—the fifth, sixth, fifteenth, sixteenth, twenty-eighth and twenty-ninth.

One of the principal weather superstitions of November is embodied in the following rhyme:—
"If there's ice in November that will bear a duck, There'll be nothing at Christmas but sludge and muck."

The practices and superstition connected with All Saints' Day, the first of November, are mostly observed on the eve of the festival, and have been therefore described in the last article.
On the shores of the Baltic Sea fishermen will not use their net between the feasts of All Saints and St. Martin, because they believe this to do so will bring bad luck for the remainder of the year.

It used to be the custom on All Souls' Day, the second of November, to eat a particular kind of oat-cake in the North of England. These were baked on All Hallow E'en, on for each member of the family, and were also distributed to the poor children went from door to door singing:—
"A soul cake, a soul cake
Have mercy on all Christian souls
For a soul cake, a soul cake."
And by way of expressing gratitude for the alms when given the would add:

"God have your soul,
Bones and all."
In the county of Cheshire, and in some other districts, there was a practice connected with All Souls' Day which was known as "Hob Nob." Men, called "soulers" paraded the streets carrying a dead horse head covered with a sheet. The origin of this custom is very hard to trace.

Formerly persons dressed in black went through the streets on this day, ringing a bell and calling upon all good Christians to join them in prayers for the dead suffering in purgatory.

The celebrations connected with "Guy Fawkes Day," the fifth of November, have very much fallen into disuse during the last half-century.

The old custom is still kept up in searching for Guy Fawkes and his gunpowder in the vaults of the Houses of Parliament, but the service of thanksgiving, once held yearly in all churches, has long been discontinued.

A few boys still make bonfires, but on these practices are dying out. The custom prevails in some parts of the North of England of giving the oatmeal gingerbread known as "parkin" on this day.

The next important anniversary of November is the eleventh of the month, St. Martin's Day, otherwise known as Martinmas and Martinmas. Many weather superstitions are connected with this feast. It is well known that the weather on this day which often occurs at this season is called "St. Martin's little summer," and there is an old rhyme which says:—

"If the wind is in the south-east at Martinmas,
It remains there till after Christmas." And again:—
"Tween Martinmas and Yule Water's wine in every pool."

A quaint old custom is still observed near Dunchurch, in Warwickshire, on St. Martin's Day. In the early morning the agent of the Duke of Buccleuch goes to Knightlow Hill, and there receives from the tenants what is known by the Duke's ancestors, "on pain of a forfeit for every penny of twenty shillings or a white bull with a red nose and red ears." Twenty-five places in all pay this "wroth money," but the whole sum amounts to only nine shillings and fourpence.

An ancient authority tells us that in Germany Martinmas was vulgarly called "The Feast of Sausages," and that there was a great deal of eating and drinking at this season amongst the common people.

According to his "Popular Antiquities" it was usual in the North of England especially, for poor families to join together at this festival to purchase a cow, a pig, or calf, which was called in Northumberland a "mart." The sausages, or "black puddings," which were made from part of this meat were sent as presents to their neighbors.

There are no more especial superstitions connected with the festivals of November until we come to the twenty-fifth day of the month, St. Catherine's Day.

This saint is one of those who are considered to be willing to take lovers' maidens under their particular protection, and many are the charms which may be practised upon this anniversary.
At the village of Abbotbury, in Dorsetshire, there is a well which is dedicated to St. Catherine, and here the girls of the place used to resort repeating the following invocation:
"A husband, St. Catherine,
A handsome one, St. Catherine,
A rich one, St. Catherine,
A nice one, St. Catherine,
And soon, St. Catherine."

Afterwards the maiden was supposed to go to bed with a piece of wedding cake, which had been passed through a wedding ring, under her pillow. It was then confidently asserted that she would dream of the man who was destined to be her husband.

Another similar love-charm was worked by means of sprigs of myrtle, which were worn by girls throughout the day and until eleven o'clock at night. At this hour each maiden burnt nine hairs from her own head and parings from her finger and toe-nails, in a brazier of charcoal, holding her sprig of myrtle in the smoke which arose.

She then went to bed, placing the myrtle spray immediately beneath her head. Always provided that the whole ceremony was performed in the most absolute silence, it was then believed to be certain that she would dream of her future husband.

If, at this season, a girl was doubtful as to which of two lovers she should accept, their respective names were to be written upon a piece of paper which was wrapped round a small portion of wedding cake.

The package was then placed for three consecutive nights under the maiden's pillow, and if she should chance to dream of the owner of either of the two names, he was infallibly destined to become her husband.

The last day of the month of November is St. Andrew's Day, the patron saint of Scotland, and this festival is accordingly the occasion for special celebrations with Scots all over the world.

The peculiar symbol of this saint is, of course, the X-shaped cross, and this sign used formerly to be affixed to the doors of rooms or houses when the inmates wished to signify that they desired to be undisturbed. The origin of this custom is obscure.

Stomach Troubles and Weakness of Kidneys Cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.
There is an enormous amount of suffering from liver and kidney derangements and stomach troubles that could easily be avoided by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. If you could only realize the scores of everyday ills that arise from a sluggish condition of the kidneys, liver and bowels you would not be long in giving this medicine a trial.
Richard West, Que., writes: "I want to tell you how thankful I am for using your Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for stomach troubles and backache caused by weak kidneys. I was unable to wash any clothes for over two years on account of my back being lame. I read the Almanac and began using these pills. Two boxes made a complete cure. HOW EYESTRAIN CAUSES EYE DISEASES.
Eyestrain is the first cause of most eye diseases. It produces irritation and congestion and a consequent general weakness of all the nerves and muscles of the eye. In this way any eye disease, such as Cataract, Optic Nerve Paralysis, Ulcers, Glaucoma, Granulated Lids, etc., may be produced. Any of these diseases, if neglected, may result in blindness. The best time to treat eye diseases is in the "eyestrain stage." If you are having any trouble whatever with your eyes, no matter how slight, consult us.

GOOD ADVICE.

It is necessary to always have a bottle of good Brandy at hand.
 What Brandy will you buy?
 The Medicinal Brandy "Sanator" is not a properly so-called medicine, but it has been selected from amongst the best known growths for their effective principles, and it is distilled so as to design its tonic and digestive qualities. It is really the FAMILY BRANDY, which name the public has, for a long time, bestowed on it.
 The celebrated French physician, DR. PHARZELLE, Inspector-in-Chief of the Great Medical Services, says: "The medicinal Brandy "Sanator" is eminently an easy digestive drink, remarkable for its tonifying and reinvigorating properties."
 Ask for Medicinal Brandy Sanator from your liquor dealer; he has it.
 DIRECTIONS.
 Against weakness and bad digestion: a liquor glass at each meal.
 Against Cold, Influenza: take as a hot drink, viz: one ounce and a half of Brandy, one ounce of hot water, with a little sugar.
 Against summer complaints: use with chopped ice, or cold water.
