Large Double Dwelling and Shop.
I will offer for sale by Public Auction (if not previously disposed of by private sale) on Tuesday next, September 16th, at 12 o'clock noon, that Large Double Dwelling and Shop situated at the foot of Pleasant Street, Nos. 15 and 17. Ground rent $23.90 per annum, unexpired term of 22 years. This would make an admirable stand for any kind of business, being only a few yards from New Gower Street; or with a small expenditure could be converted into a small hotel or boarding house or residence for a large family. At present occupied by monthly tenants. For further particulars apply to REGAL FREE RUNNING Table Salt. Snow and Slush—dampness again! It makes no difference to you.

For Love of a Woman; New Romeo and Juliet.

CHAPTER XXXIV. "I, TOO, AM FREE." "No!" he exclaimed, and the blood rushed to his face.

"Why, Doris? You must answer me! Is it because—oh, no! you can't have remembered—and yet—You are still Doris Marlowe!"

"Tell me, Doris; tell me again!" he exclaimed, passionately.

"My name is Neville," he said, haughtily.

"Percy Levant slowly and gently drew Doris's arm within his.

"So I imagined, my lord," he said, not sternly or haughtily, but with a calm, almost judicial gravity.

"I caught up the wine bottle and a glass and strode back to the carriage, filled with that weariness and despair which renders every moment of existence almost unendurable to the galley-slave and convict."

"Unknown to the valet, the Pesca doctor had telegraphed to him a few days ago, and he had told Lady Grace that he must start for Italy and at once."

"The fact must be stated, alas! that Lady Grace could not endure her lover's absence from her side, even for a few days."

"No!" said Percy Levant, meeting the half-fierce gaze of the dark, steady eyes.

"Yes, I am Cecil Neville," said Lord Cecil. "I am an old friend of Miss Marlowe's."

"Cecil! Cecil!" she called. "Where are you? Ce—Cecil—Cecil!"

"I thought I heard English voices." "You don't know them," he said, almost curtly.

"Let me out and let me see," she said, querulously.

"Come out by all means, if you like, Grace," he responded.

"We shall find the marquis dead," she said, callously.

"I trust not," he responded, grimly.

"Oh, very well," she said, petulant.

Lord Cecil got on the box, and the carriage rolled onwards to Pesca and the fate awaiting them.

CHAPTER XXXV. THE APPROACH OF THE SHADOW.

Heaven only knows what complexion Cecil's thoughts took during the journey, but he was graver and grimmer than ever when he got down at the door of the villa to help his affianced bride to alight.

"The marquis's wife received them with surprise, tempered by satisfaction."

"I am glad you have come, my lord, though I did not like to take the responsibility of wiring for you."

"I will see him at once," said Lord Cecil.

"And I, too," said Lady Grace, slipping her arm within his.

"The valet led the way upstairs. The old man was lying apparently asleep; but as Lord Cecil bent over him he opened his eyes, and after a few seconds said, in a feeble voice and with the old, cynical smile:

"Oh, it's you, Cecil, is it? And is that you, my dear?" turning his eyes in the direction of Lady Grace.

"Yes, it is I, dear marquis," she murmured.

"Oh, Grace, is it?" he murmured. "I thought it was she."

"She? Who, dear marquis?" she demanded.

"No matter. And so they have sent for you, have they? They think I am in danger. You have come on a fool's errand, both of you. I—grin—I don't mean to die yet, Grace."

"Oh, I hope not! Pray, don't talk of anything so dreadful!" she responded, with a false smile.

"Horses, I don't call them horses," she said, contemptuously.

"Horses, I don't call them horses," she said, contemptuously.

"All right," he said, and went into the inn. "Give me a bottle of the best wine you got, and a glass of brandy," he said to the landlord, and he drank the latter almost at a draught, his hand shaking as he carried the glass to his lips. If he had seen a ghost instead of sweet Doris Marlowe, he could not have been more completely unmanned and upset. Indeed, he had seen a ghost; the ghost of his lost happiness and wrecked life; and she was to marry this stranger, this Percy Levant; what had become of the Mr. Garland, with whom she had sailed to Australia, then? He was so lost in troubled reverie that he had quite forgotten Lady Grace, until the familiar—too familiar—"Ce—Cecil!" issuing from the carriage, recalled his wandering mind.

He caught up the wine bottle and a glass and strode back to the carriage, filled with that weariness and despair which renders every moment of existence almost unendurable to the galley-slave and convict. At that moment he would have given half a continent, would he possessed, to be alone and free to indulge in his sad and bitter reflections.

Unknown to the valet, the Pesca doctor had telegraphed to him a few days ago, and he had told Lady Grace that he must start for Italy and at once. Much to his surprise—to his embarrassment, also—she had declared her intention of accompanying him.

The fact must be stated, alas! that Lady Grace could not endure her lover's absence from her side, even for a few days. Her love for him—her passion, as it must be called—had become the absorbing sentiment of her life, and like all absorbing emotions, it tortured her. She knew, knew for a certainty, that he did not love her, and all her days and nights were filled by a devouring jealousy and discontent. She was rendered wretched if he spoke to or danced with a young and pretty girl. She was jealous of his past as a whole, but madly, fiercely jealous of the girl Doris Marlowe, from whom she had, by the assistance of Spenser Churchill, succeeded in separating him.

She knew he did not love her; that she had enticed him into the engagement; and she dreaded with an agony of apprehension lest anything should occur to separate them. It is not to much to say that she hated the marquis for being ill and causing the postponement of her marriage. A woman, when she knows that love is returned, is full of trust and confidence; but Lady Grace, knowing that Cecil bore her no love, was full of distrust and suspicion, doubt and fear. She was never happy nor at ease unless he was in her sight, and she found it simply impossible to allow him to go to Italy without her. Sometimes, in the dead of night, she would awake with a start and a cry of terror from a nightmare in which she had dreamed that he had discovered her share in the plot which had robbed him of Doris and bound him to herself, and by day she lived in a constant dread that some accident would reveal the conspiracy and deprive her of him.

So intense an anxiety began to tell upon her, and already there were lines and wrinkles on the face which artists had painted and of which poets had sung.

To put it briefly, Lady Grace's punishment had commenced even in the first hour of her triumph! Black care sits behind every sorrow, but he is never more safely seated than when he rides behind the man or woman whose success depends upon a lie.

She knew that the world would talk and shrug its shoulders if she accompanied Lord Cecil to Italy, although she took the elderly lady as a chaperone; but she set the world's opinion at naught, just as she had done when, in obedience to Spenser Churchill's prompting, she went down to Lord Cecil's chambers. She could not let him out of her sight, and that was the long and short of it.

Lord Cecil took the wine to the carriage, and poured some out for her, but she only put her lips to it.

"It is too awful!" she said, irritably. "Pray hurry them on, Cecil. I am sure those horses must be rested by now. It is sheer laziness. Who was that you were talking to when I called you?" she asked, abruptly, her keen eyes fixed on his face.

He felt himself growing white. "Nobody you know," he said, abruptly. "Try and drink some wine; it is not so bad."

"Are you sure I don't know them?" I thought I heard English voices.

"You don't know them," he said, almost curtly.

"Let me out and let me see," she said, querulously.

"Come out by all means, if you like, Grace," he responded.

"We shall find the marquis dead," she said, callously.

"I trust not," he responded, grimly.

"Oh, very well," she said, petulant.

Lord Cecil got on the box, and the carriage rolled onwards to Pesca and the fate awaiting them.

An Appeal to the Prime Minister.

JOE BATTIS ARM WANTS REGULAR SERVICE.

Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir.—Very recently I took passage by the S.S. Clyde from Fogo to Lewisport and for reasons best known to myself I became deeply interested in the route taken by her.
I would like through the medium of your paper Mr. Editor to call the attention of the present Government to the deplorable and most despicable state of affairs which exists in this place so far as public service is concerned. "We are in this place," as a prominent passenger by the Susu remarked a little while ago, "away back in Moses' time"
By Public Service I mean the conveyance of Mails, Freight and Passengers. This public claim by right but treated as we are we receive it only occasionally by accident, haphazard and chance.
I write as a loyal citizen of Joe Battis Arm and as one interested in the welfare of its people. Understand me gentle readers when I say Joe Battis Arm I mean Barr'd Islands as well.
As you will understand Joe Battis Arm and Barr'd Island are separated by a narrow neck of land and when we speak of Joe Battis Arm we mean Barr'd Island as well.
Imagine — Premier Cashin — Joe
Battis Arm only 5 miles from Fogo almost within shouting distance and Fogo receiving four boats weekly and Joe Battis Arm and Barr'd Islands two densely populated progressive fishing settlements—receiving at its best one mail weekly and when the words "too stormy" can be used as an excuse, those in command are only too willing to take the advantage and pass by.
Such treatment we cannot any longer tolerate.
Wake up Premier Cashin and the Government. Give Joe Battis Arm a fair show. We do not ask for favours.
Give us British fair play that for which the boys of this place in the late war have fought and died. Make Joe Battis Arm a port of call by the S. S. Clyde when making her Monday trip to Fogo and we shall be very grateful indeed to you for bring-

For Your Comfort
COLGATE'S
TALC POWDER

Made on the Formula of an Eminent Physician for Years in Charge of A Baby Hospital

Faced with the necessity of preparing a Talc for his own little patients, a Talc that would be as soft as thistledown on the tender folds of baby's skin, an eminent physician evolved the formula on which Colgate's Talc has achieved world-wide preference. It combines delicacy of texture with just the right amount of that mild yet efficient antiseptic, Boric Acid, together with two other healing and soothing ingredients not found in other talcs, examined by A. A. Breneman, M.S. C.

Baby is not the only one to enjoy Colgate's Talc. The range of eleven perfumes meets every preference for use before and after exercise; to prevent sunburn and chafing; and for use after bathing. Fine after shaving,
too. On Display Today,

ing us into the light of the present age.

Remember the day of reckoning is near at hand. Give us that which by right we deserve and it will surely merit its reward. At the most the change will not delay the Clyde over 3 hours to make Joe Battis Arm a port of call, and surely this can be spared from the 60 hours she is lying at the dock in Lewisport between her Monday and Friday's trip.

As a people, Premier Cashin, we place the issue before you. Take advantage of the situation do the right and meet your reward. Neglect and you will surely repent.
Assuring your readers I am voicing the sentiments of the people of these places and a large body of floating fishermen which flock here looking for their means of livelihood. Come now gentlemen of the Government:
the hour is opportune. We will await the issue.

Yours truly,
JUSTICE.

Personal.

Mr. J. A. Strong of Little Bay Islands is on a visit to the city and is registered at the Crosbie.

Among the guests at the Crosbie is Mr. T. P. Kemp of Placentia who arrived in the city yesterday.

Mr. C. C. Harris is at present in the city on a visit from Grand Bank.

Sir Thomas Esmond will arrive by to-day's express and will remain here until Thursday next. Miss Esmond did not accompany her father, but is remaining with friends in Canada until he rejoins her there for their return to Ireland. While in the city Sir Thomas will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Reid.

Mr. and Mrs. McKay of Bay Roberts is on a visit to the city, and are registered at the Balsam.

At the Majestic.

To-night's show at the Majestic
Theatre is one well worth seeing.
Right up to the middle of the last show last evening, there were many who could not secure seats, and the crush to-night is likely to be as great.
Therefore, to avoid disappointment, patrons should turn up early. Probably the drawing card of the show was the British official picture, "Our Boys in Germany," which demonstrates clearly the life of our soldier lads in the occupied territory in the land of our late enemy. Cheering and applause greeted this picture when shown last night. The feature and the comedy were also excellent ones and were followed throughout with un-flagging interest.

Inter - Denominational Education.

SOME NOTABLE OPINIONS.

The Telegram is in a position to state that fully eighty per cent. of those who are competent to judge are strongly in favor of Interdenominational Education for Newfoundland. The Telegram reporter has interviewed many men around the town and has had the opportunity of seeing that the great majority of them do favor the proposed system. When it is thoroughly understood that Interdenominational Education means, simply, that the schools, now under the denominational system, would be pooled, and the money grants also pooled, there cannot remain any legitimate argument against the change. The proposed system would be more economical, conducive of greater results, and altogether a vast improvement over what Newfoundland is suffering under to-day—a miserably inadequate, disgracefully wasteful and totally disjointed "system" of education.

Mr. R. B. Job says:—"Speaking broadly, I am strongly in favor of an attempt to establish interdenominational or undenominational and compulsory education, and firmly believe that a free and general discussion of the subject will show that there are no real obstacles to its establishment. I have yet to hear any argument that appeals to me as sound in favor of the present system of denominational education, as opposed to the undenominational system. There may be some good reasons for delaying the change, and if so the public should be advised of them. The slogan "Union is Strength" surely applies to this question as well as to others. The change may have to be gradual but it seems to me that it must come, and I believe that public sentiment is ripe for it now. I believe that the present system is seriously impeding the educational progress of Newfoundland, and that the interdenominational or undenominational system would bring tremendous advantages with it, if properly organized."

Hon. John Anderson says:—"Next to housing the most important question in this country to-day requiring solution is that of education. From an economical standpoint, I feel positive Interdenominational Education is the only sane and sensible one. As we Newfoundlanders awaken to our responsibilities as citizens, and appreciate the great importance of education, and Interdenominational Education is seen to be the most economical, adequate and sensible system, Interdenominational Education must come. And the quicker the better."

Mr. George Langmead says:—"The percentage of illiterates in Newfoundland is disgracefully high. The present Educational "system" is expensive—and inadequate. Interdenominational Education would be more economical and serviceable. Then why not have it?"

Mr. Harry Cowan says:—"I strongly favor the interdenominational system of Education as I believe that it will give greater and better educational facilities for the growing generation. The interesting of the citizens in a great, common cause, such as this, should and will be a stimulus to greater realization of the claims of better citizenship. The proposed system should give continuous educational facilities such as do not now exist. And in larger towns and cities the school facilities should be placed within easy access of the pupils. The interdenominational system of education should result in better graded schools and the greater interest that the public would probably take in education would result in greater appreciation of the services of the teacher. And until that comes it is impossible to have good teachers. And until those come it is impossible to have real education in this or any other country."

Mr. J. C. Pratt says:—"The economic reasons why an interdenominational system of Education should be adopted in this Dominion are so clear, that the presentation of this phase of the subject appeals most strongly to me. The waste of money and material, together with the lack of concentration of talent, is, to my mind, deplorable. Here, in many cases, we are operating three or four small schools in settlements where public interests could be better served by having only one or two buildings with better paid teachers and modern equipment. No business organization under the sun would tolerate for one moment such principles in the conduct of their affairs as obtain in the education of our children, one of the most important departments of civic and national life. The idea of children passing the doors of a school-house in order to attend another, perhaps inferior, school, two or three miles away, simply because their parents do not happen to belong to the denomination controlling the school near at home, seems to me absurd. We have, however, many such cases in this country. There can, I think, be no question that not only would the economic results from a system of Interdenominational Education justify the change, but I really believe that such a system would appeal very strongly to the pockets of our people."

Those whose opinions, favoring the idea, we have previously given, are:

REV. DR. GEORGE BOND,
President Methodist Conference.

REV. DR. CURTIS,
Pres. Meth. Board of Education.

REV. DR. JONES,
Rector St. Thomas's.

HON. SIR EDGAR BOWRING,
HON. W. B. GRIEVE,
MR. W. R. WARREN,
MR. W. S. MONROE,
REV. J. A. W. N. NICHOLSON,
MR. CHARLES P. AYRE,
REV. D. B. ASHFORD,
MR. DUGALD MUNN.

These are representative men whose opinions may be taken as symbolizing the sentiment of a large number of people. The Telegram will add to the list from time to time until it has shown that Interdenominational Education is the system favored by the majority of people in Newfoundland to-day.

WARNER'S RUST

Side by Ruth

THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS LUCK.

How often one hears that statement made in one form or another! And how untrue it is! Here's the latest form to attract my attention. "Luck is the most overworked word in the English language in spite of the fact that there isn't any such thing."

Now that sounds well, but when you stop and analyze it, that—like many of those short, arresting statements which the thoughtless person "accepts as true because they are easy to remember"—is nonsense. There is such a thing as luck.

Not Everything Which Passes for Luck is Luck.

In the face of all the professional optimists who make it part of their creed to deny it, I affirm it.

To be sure, not everything which passes as luck is luck. But that doesn't prove that some things aren't good or bad luck, pure and simple.

For instance, you leave your glasses in a dangerous place and they get broken. That's not bad luck—it's carelessness.

But if you have your glasses on your nose where they belong and someone bumps into you and knocks them off, it certainly is bad luck, as far as you are concerned.

What Was This Bad Luck?

Here's another example. A man I know was to go on to New York to make a business contract. He was ready to go when he received a telegram, that on account of the serious prevalence of the influenza in New York the other party did not think best to meet him at that time. A month later when the influenza had waned and the other party was ready to see him, business conditions had so changed that the contract had to be abandoned.

Now it was no fault whatever of the part of this man—nor of anyone—that he did not meet his customer.

I SHOULD MUTT MORE TO ROUGH THE HARD

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

THERE IS LUCK.

"There is no such thing as luck." How often one hears that statement made in one form or another! And how untrue it is! Here's the latest form to attract my attention: "Luck is the most overworked word in the English language in spite of the fact that there isn't any such thing." Now that sounds well, but when you stop and analyze it, that—like many of those short, arresting statements which the thoughtless person accepts as true because they are easy to remember—is nonsense. There is such a thing as luck. Not Everything Which Passes for Luck Is Luck. In the face of all the professional optimists who make it part of their creed to deny it, I affirm it. To be sure, not everything which passes as luck is luck. But that doesn't prove that some things aren't good or bad luck, pure and simple. For instance, you leave your glasses in a dangerous place and they get broken. That's not bad luck—its carelessness. But if you have your glasses on your nose where they belong and someone bumps into you and knocks them off, it certainly is bad luck, as far as you are concerned.

What Was This Bad Luck? Here's another example. A man I know was to go on to New York to make a business contract. He was ready to go when he received a telegram, that on account of the serious prevalence of the influenza in New York the other party did not think best to meet him at that time. A month later when the influenza had waned and the other party was ready to see him, business conditions had so changed that the contract had to be abandoned. Now it was no fault whatever on the part of this man—nor of anyone—that he did not meet his customer at the time appointed. He had his goods ready and was ready himself. It was just the fault of unavoidable circumstances. Isn't Bad Weather Bad Luck for the Farmer? What is a season of drouth or a flood or a hurricane but bad luck for the farmer? Of course, there is such a thing as inviting disaster by carelessness and other faults (as in the case of the glasses) and there is such a thing as driving away good fortune by not being prepared for it. "Preparation is the basis of power," says Disraeli, "and the whole secret of success in life is for a man to be ready for the opportunity when it comes." That's good philosophy, but I don't like such flamboyant, half-baked assertions, as that there is no such thing as luck. There is and I've had it, both good and bad, but especially the former.

Killed by Elocution.

"Germany," remarked the studious youth, "is the only country which still uses the axe to inflict capital punishment." "Indeed!" said the bored listener. "And I suppose soon England and America will be the only countries to use the rope?" "But, my dear sir!" the one who had studied long and deeply held up his hands in horror at the other's ignorance, "they don't hang prisoners in America!" "Oh, no, of course not," agreed the bored one, stifling a yawn. "There they kill them by elocution, don't they?"

A New Sun.

It is a mistake to suppose that the face of the sky never develops a new feature quite apart from the occasional visit of a comet. New suns actually come into form, stars which were never there before. The latest and most remarkable was Nova Dersel, a new sun, ten thousand times as brilliant as Old Sol, which makes the earth so cheerful when he designs to shine. It is thought that a phenomenon like this is caused by a celestial collision between two dead suns which have been rushing together and gathering speed for hundreds of years. When the crash comes the sparks fly. A speed of millions of miles per hour, and a bulk equal to tens of thousands of our worried little earth is suddenly converted into heat, and a new sun blazes out in the sky; yet oftener not so infinitely distant that it makes no impression on the midnight sky as seen by the naked eye. But it is well to be distant, as if such heat were generated in our own sun, although it is ninety-two millions of miles away, this world, and all that it contains, would shivel up like a wisp of wool in a candle-flame.

Sun-Strikes!

The summer sun is distant 95,000,000 miles from you as you lie on the beach or bank, or gasp, in its rays, but the sun you see is only a part of the real sun. Do you know that the sun is composed of sodium, iron, magnesium, cobalt, hydrogen, nickel, titanium, chromium, and a few other things? There are movements in the sun, but no signs of its being burnt out or exhausted. It is not the heat that gives you sunstroke, but the invisible violet rays of the sun, and the base of your skull is the vulnerable spot. Sunburn is really the rupture and inflammation of the tiny veins of the skin. And you wear white in the sun time not because it looks cool, but because that color resists the heat rays of the sun better than colours. The violet tinge over everything after you have looked at the sun is there because violet is the accidental colour of yellow—the sun's colour. You can't really look at the sun, but birds can, because they have an extra eye-lid which can be drawn down to act as a screen or shield. The sun is hottest between 3 and 4, summer time. And the sun seems much larger at sunrise and sunset—although it never sets nor rises—because it is then nearer the terrestrial objects, and so gains by comparison.

A red sunset portends fine weather; a red sunrise indicates wet—the vapor in the air being already condensed to clouds. Finally, the hottest summer sun will never, by itself, ignite natural substances, and for all the germs it kills with its light it brings as many more into existence with its warmth.

Tips.

German restaurants are said to have abolished the tipping system. It has always been regarded as a nuisance by many people, but it is doubtful whether its abolition could be beneficial even to customers, says Tie-Bits.
The word "tip" is said to be derived from the initial letters of the phrase, "To Insure Promptness." If this is so, with the tip promptness of the one tipped might go, too.
Protests against tipping are by no means of modern growth. George I. complained about it when he first came to the throne. "This is a strange country," he declared. "The first morning after my arrival at St. James' I looked out of the window, and saw a park with walks and a canal, which I was told were mine. The next day Lord Chetwynd, the ranger of my park, sent me a fine brace of carp out of my canal, and I was told I must give five guineas to Lord Chetwynd's servant for bringing me my own carp, out of my own canal in my own park."

Fall Styles The First Showing.

A limited quantity of very smart frocks for Fall and Winter were opened by us on Friday last, and are to-day on view in our Showrooms. These are exclusive French and American models, no two alike. Among the selection may be seen:—
1. Black Satin Sonple, heavily piped on sleeves and overdress.
2. Black Plain Silk Jersey, round neck, self buttons, side fastening, loose girdle. (An ideal model, giving long slender lines.)
3. Navy Ribbed Silk Jersey, round neck, and Russian Blouse effect.
4. Navy Serge, trimmed Military braid, Sand Jersey Vest and Cuffs.
This showing includes some beautiful models in Serge and Satin, Serge and Fur and Serge and Military Braid.

Evening Telegram

W. J. HERDER, Proprietor
C. T. JAMES, Editor
Saturday, September 13, 1919.

TIME FOR AN EXPLANATION.

The Telegram has not hitherto discussed in this column the charge made against Hon. R. A. Squires, by Mr. W. F. Coaker in the House of Assembly, on the 16th day of May, 1913, that the said Hon. R. A. Squires, when Colonial Secretary of this Colony and Chairman of a Committee of the Executive Council, examining into certain claims of the Reid Newfoundland Company against the Colony, at the time, received the sum of FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS in Bank Notes for the alleged use of the Daily Star newspaper, of which Hon. R. A. Squires is the virtual controller and owner.

At the time this startling accusation was made, people were under the impression that it would be but the period of a day ere Mr. Squires would make a strong denial that any such financial transaction had taken place, but though nearly eighteen months have elapsed since Mr. Coaker made the exposure on the floors of the House of Assembly, no explanation whatever has been forthcoming from the man who has now self-constituted himself the leader of a political party, which has usurped the good old name Liberal and poses as an organization whose object is the reformation of politics and methods of Government in this Dominion. Quite a big undertaking is it not? But before any public confidence can be inspired in this new political birth, it is up to the Honorable parent thereof to offer some explanation of this payment, received by him in Bank Notes.

The old adage "Silence gives Consent" appears to be quite apropos in this case. Mr. Squires either cannot or will not deny that he received this money. And yet Mr. Squires' newspapers are daily hurling the epithets "Graft" and "Black-mail" against Government members, forgetting conveniently that no better evidence of political turpitude could be produced than that receipt of monies when a Minister of the Crown upon which the straight charge of Mr. Coaker was based. The man who poses as a paragon of all the virtues, political and otherwise, is surely not going to underlie such a serious allegation. Telling what others have done is no answer to the present question which Mr.

Squires has been repeatedly asked, and what happened in 1898 or 1908 has no bearing on 1918 occurrences.

Here is what Mr. Coaker said on the occasion referred to, being copied verbatim from the official reports of the House of Assembly for 1918:

"This man (Hon. R. A. Squires) opened up negotiations with the Reid Newfoundland Company in reference to the supposed failure of one of the Reids to live up to promises made respecting financial aid to the Star, which negotiations ended by the payment in Bank of Montreal Notes of $5,000 by Mr. R. G. Reid to the then Colonial Secretary, Mr. R. A. Squires. The public will be solely concerned with that aspect of the matter which led the Chairman of such a responsible Committee, trusting and dealing on behalf of the Dominion with claims of vast proportions, accepting at such a time $5,000 paid him by a Company whose claims were under consideration and adjustment. I leave the public to decide as to how clean the hands of such a man are."

Thus stands the record. It is up to Hon. R. A. Squires to disprove it. The time for explanation has arrived.

Qualified Queries.

What about that $5,000?
And again, what about that bill for $1,500?
How many times has Bonavista District elected Morine since 1898?
What price is being offered and what promises held out to candidates for the Squires Party to-day?

Who was it that while Minister of Justice for the Dominion, received legal fees from the Reid Newfoundland Company?

Did Sir Robert Bond ever refuse to meet or even talk over the telephone with the present leader of the Liberal (?) Reform Party?

Isn't it the same Morine whom Coaker and the Advocate praised so highly only a short while ago, that they are now condemning so vigorously? Then why the change of front? Is Coaker afraid of Morine's popularity in Bonavista?

Fatal Accident at Bell Island.

Special to Evening Telegram.
EAST WABANA, Yesterday.
Richard Lahey, aged 16, of Lance Cove, Bell Island, was killed this morning by a runaway car at Dominion No. 4 slope. Lahey was employed as gate boy in the main slope, when the coupling pin of the last car coming from the slope broke and the car went back by the run, striking the gate, and fragments of ore from the car struck Lahey causing his death.—COR.

Police Court.

A youth was charged with the larceny of a nine-dollar pair of boots. As he has a cousin coming from Canada to take him away, the Court merely remanded him until the cousin arrives. Another youth was charged with vagrancy. This is a young fellow who has appeared several times before, and for whom the Court has made special efforts at providing him with a comfortable home in the outports. It seems, however, that he will not voluntarily remain in any such, and there remained nothing to-day but to sentence him to thirty days' imprisonment in the Penitentiary. This young fellow is rather intelligent and certainly has the making of a man in him. What there is of that, unfortunately, it seems, is to be removed by continual stays in the common criminal prison. This case is still another proof that a reformatory is highly necessary in this country.

A motorist was charged with not having a tail-light on his car. He was let off.
A countryman was charged with fast and furious driving. He was fined $2.

Schooner Rebuilt.

Two-Master Nearly Completed.
After some months of work, a good looking two-masted schooner now lies at the Commercial wharf, Halifax N. S., which has been practically rebuilt. No name has yet been chosen for her, but she is soon expected to go into commission.
Early in the spring, Captain I. A. Hopkins, who had purchased the coastal schooner Louis Luby, took her to Jeddore and decided to rebuild her. Subsequently the work was commenced and she was built and enlarged from the keel. This work was done by Robert Carter. Out of the 40 odd tons of the Louis Luby they built this 62 ton vessel.
At present part of her rigging is done and when she is ready for sea, she will probably make a trip or two to Prince Edward Island, and then probably to Newfoundland, where she will likely be sold.

The price of hides for the manufacture of boots and shoes is rapidly falling in Canada since the government placed an embargo on the export of hides, skins and leather, at the advice of the Cost of Living Commission. The embargo was announced on Aug. 4th, by August 9th, country hides had fallen five cents a pound and advices received, state that the price on the hides dropped ten cents, and on calf skins twenty cents on the Montreal Market yesterday. As a result in recent advance in the price of hides and leather the boot and shoe manufacturers had given warning that the price of footwear would soon rise to extremely high levels, although it was admitted that the increased cost of leather did not amount to more than two dollars per pair on shoes. being the largest Armoury owned by the C.L.B. in the world. Well done, Newfoundland. "Better than best" once more! And it only goes to make prominent the fact that officers and lads must lose no time or waste idle moments, but do all they can to maintain their reputation. The Educational class under Lieut. Emerson, was "going strong" again, having some new members, whilst the Old Comrades are having new members every meeting, and are arranging a "big dance" shortly to celebrate the "Peace" of 1919, so gloriously won, and in which many of the C.L.B. Old Comrades did their part. Sunday week the Battalion will march in full strength, Old Comrades included, to St. Thomas's Church for Divine Service.

Reporter Leaves "Telegram."

Mr. Garland B. Rogers, for several months on the reporter staff of this paper, resigned his position to-day. He will proceed to Boston within a few days, where he intends to remain in future. Mr. Rogers, who is a returned soldier of the Royal Newfoundland, has proven himself to be a hard and clever worker during his connection with the Telegram, and the other members of the staff will be sorry to see him go. However, the call from the land of the stars and stripes has proved irresistible to him, and he must needs obey. The Telegram extends the wish that he will be just as successful in his new life as in the one he is now vacating.

Wedding Bells.

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place Wednesday evening at Cochrane Street Parsonage, the contracting parties being Miss Maria Kennedy and Mr. W. J. Reid (ex-Reservist). The officiating minister was Rev. Mr. Wilson. The couple were ably supported by Miss Ella Nicholl and B. H. Butler (ex-Reservist). The bride was handsomely gowned in pink silk with georgette and hat to match. After the ceremony the wedding party drove to the home of the bride's brother, Scott Street, where a very enjoyable evening was spent. The bride was the recipient of many valuable presents. The happy couple are to leave by s.s. Prospero for Catalina their future home.

The Market.

Cod Liver Oil—There has been some conflicting prices quoted on local market but $2.00 per gallon is the regular price paid by the largest buyers.

Codfish—No. 1 Merchantable Shore Fish has sold on local market for $12 per qtl., but many of the principal buyers indicate a considerable reduction as soon as sufficient quantity is received to complete a few small orders.

Pork—There is not much change in the high pork market. Ham Butt is scarce and is still quoted at top figures. Fatback shows some weakness in quotations to arrive but the general strength in the market suggests a continuation of high prices during the fall months.

Molasses—The importations are over one thousand puncheons short of last year and with the great shortage of sugar we are certain to see lively times before long. Forced sales were made at 95c., but the best quality of Honest Molasses 95c. is easily obtained. We predict a move up in this article before very long.

Beef—The better grades of Beef such as Special Family, Special Plate, etc. are holding firm. There has been a considerable decline, however, in the lower grades. The latter grade is largely influenced in its price movements by the fact that the principal outlet is the Newfoundland market and fluctuations in price may be said to be caused by the dullness or briskness of the Newfoundland demand. Recent wholesale quotations on Boned Beef are $48.50 per barrel. The high grades are $48.00 to $49.00.

Sugar—The temporary shortage of granulated sugar will be relieved by a total of 4,100 barrels for which contracts have been made and confirmed, with a safe assurance of another 2,500 barrels to follow, all of which will be available for September and October distribution here. Some importers who "missed the market" are accentuating the shortage, and such propaganda always tends to encourage hoarding, thereby creating a situation which eventually brings about an acute position where none should exist. The next direct Montreal boat leaving there about the 20th inst. brings about 1,500 bbls. granulated sugar. The wholesale price on next lots is with $18.00 to $16.00 per 100 lbs.

Cod Oil—Receipts of oil on local market have been quite liberal. It is plain to all that unless prices advance very soon in New York that we must have a reaction in St. John's as present prices show a loss instead of a legitimate profit to those exporting this oil. We quote $250 per ton as the regular market value although we know of sales made at higher prices. Flour—The Manitoba wheat crop was nearly all cut by the first of September. The mills have already started grinding the new wheat and shipments will be more liberal after this as the stocks of old wheat were very limited. The Canadian Wheat Board have fixed prices. The Ontario winter wheat flour will be 30 cents per barrel cheaper than the Manitoba hard wheat flours. Prices to the trade are unchanged for highest grade flour but it is reported that some mills are quoting a little less which competitors say must be a cut on the quality. Everything points to present prices being continued for another year. Highest grade Manitoba flour $14.50 to $15.00, but war grade flours are offered considerably cheaper.

FREIGHT RATES. The high rates of freight asked by sailing vessels still continues. It makes the c.i.f. price to foreign markets very expensive. There is a great scarcity of Danish and other foreign vessels seeking freight on this market, and they are dying out fast. The day of the sailing vessel or the old "wind jammer" is approaching an end. The high freights asked will develop steam tonnage very quickly now that the war is over.—Trade Review.

Cleopatra's Needle Finally Erected.

On Thursday, September 12, 1878, Cleopatra's Needle, as it is called, an object of attention to strangers passing it in London, was successfully raised upon its pedestal, on the Thames Embankment, between Charing Cross and Waterloo Bridges. This was done in the presence of a great crowd, as it required much engineering skill, for it weighed more than 186 tons, and is in height, from base to point, nearly 68½ feet. Next day it was completely freed and was handed over to the care of the Metropolitan Board of Works (since succeeded by the London County Council, by an Act of Parliament passed on July 22 that year. It was at the sole expense of Sir William James Erasmus Wilson, a surgeon distinguished as to skin diseases that the "Needle" had been brought from Egypt to England, and he was therefore knighted in 1881. He died in 1884, at seventy-four years of age. It had been brought to England with great difficulty, having long remained embedded in the shore of Alexandria, the Egyptian capital—even when that city had been acquired in 1801 by General Abercromby, to which it had been removed by Augustus, the first Roman Emperor, about B.C. 33. When on the way to England, the vessel containing it was abandoned in a violent gale, but was subsequently towed to Ferrol, a seaport on the north-west corner of Spain, and arrived at London on January 20, 1878. Julius Caesar, Dictator of Rome, the first Roman invader of England, entered Egypt in search for Pompey, his rival, and was so struck by the youthful charms of Cleopatra, joint-heir to its crown, when she was about seventeen, that he proclaimed her his queen, and brought her to Rome, where she had one son by him, and after his assassination, several children by his comrade in government, Mark Antony. But she determined not to be a prisoner of Augustus, their rival, and therefore applied to her art as a sorceress, or horned snake, which abounds in Egypt, by the bite of which she died immediately, in B.C. 50, aged 39.

To-day's Messages.

UNION OF WORKERS A DELUSION.

LONDON, Sept. 12. (Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—At the Trade Union Congress, J. H. Thomas, the railway mens leader, presented a motion that the Government repeal the conscription act, and asking that British troops be immediately withdrawn from Russia, falling which a special trade union congress will be called to decide what action should be taken. J. R. Clynes, in a striking speech against direct action, declared it would result in more breaking of the workmen's heads and the women's hearts. Mr. Clynes declared that the belief that the working class was united was a delusion. Terrorism was not Government, and labor was just beginning to learn how to govern. He begged them not to challenge the existence of the State, and claim the right to class dictatorship. "Others won't be driven any more than you," he declared, amid cheers.

FREEDOM AND PROTECTION.

LONDON, Sept. 12. (Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—Lord French, speaking at Belfast and referring to recent murders of policemen and soldiers in Ireland, denounced them as "Unspeakable Villains" and "Dastardly Murderers." He declared that the Irish Government's only policy was to secure to all law abiding subjects freedom and protection. In fulfillment of this, the Government would not shrink from adopting drastic measures, if necessary.

PARLIAMENT OF LABOR.

LONDON, Sept. 12. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—The Trades Union Congress has adopted a resolution favoring direct taxation of land values, nationalization of banking, and a determined effort to force all non-unionists to join unions. It has also adopted a resolution in favor of the formation of "a real Industrial Parliament of Labor, whereby the Trades Unions would adopt a common policy on all questions of national or international importance." The resolution advocating the amalgamation of all trades into one big union was voted down.

GOLD MOVING.

LONDON, Sept. 12. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—It is understood that four and one half million pounds, in German gold, have reached the Bank of England, some of which, it is believed, is already enroute to Canada in payment for foodstuffs sent to Germany. Much interest has been created in the city by the arrival of South African gold, which will be offered for sale next week.

RAIDING SINN FEIN RESORTS.

LONDON, Sept. 12. (Reuter's).—Military and police to-day raided the Sinn Fein headquarters in Dublin, and detained two Sinn Fein members of the House of Commons. All the Sinn Fein members who were in the city were similarly visited. Armed police, this morning, raided the offices of the newspapers and many homes in the city. The police and military also raided several Sinn Fein clubs in Cork to-day. The police, who were armed with carbines and revolvers, made an exhaustive search, while soldiers with fixed bayonets stood on guard outside.

The Country's Appreciation.

We naturally love our native land, whether we have done much in the way of promoting her interest or not. The very fact that it is the land of our birth goes far to stimulate in us a desire to love our country. But to those of us who saw our country's need when the dark clouds of war gathered around her, threatening to molest her honor and impede her progress along the road of righteousness and freedom, and who answered to the same, alone can fully understand what a true patriot really is. He has proved that it is something more than merely upholding the ideals of a country when it is easy to do so. To place one self at the disposal of one's country, to endure untold hardship, to spend day and night in weariness and pain, to suffer hunger and thirst and all for the love of one's country is a noble thing, and one which, I believe, that those who fail to recognize will some day live to regret that they did not show their gratitude, as they should, to those who counted nothing too dear to sacrifice for the land that gave them birth. Only those that passed through the awful turmoil of war can fully appreciate the blessings that have come to the country by the return of peace. We come back to our homes expecting to find our country ready to receive us in the spirit of gratitude, and willing to help us in every possible way; but, alas, we find that our hopes have not found our country so openhearted as we thought we would and consequently many of us are taking advantage of the chance given us in other lands, though it seems hardly fair on the part of those responsible that we should have to do so. Such is the case, however. But there is a day of reckoning coming and Newfoundland will find that she can ill afford to lose the men that upheld her honor in the hour of her need.

Do you know why it is that eight out of every ten smokers buying pipes at our store insist on having the C.P.F. brand? Let us tell you—C.P.F. pipes have a world-wide reputation, the manufacturers are proud of this fact, which has been gained by constant attention to the many details connected with pipe making. Every C.P.F. pipe is carefully inspected and no imperfection, however small, is allowed to pass in any of the C.P.F. regular pipes. Particular attention is given to the polishing and finishing—then again the guarantee that stands behind every C.P.F. pipe is proof that the manufacturers want to give the pipe user the best it's possible to obtain in the different grades made. If you are needing a new pipe, come in and see us, we shall be pleased to show you a full range of C.P.F. pipes. Price from 60c. up.

New Relief For Constipation, "LES FRUITS"

Physicians agree that with the modern habits of living, constipation is likely to be always with us. They also agree that the constant use of any drug for the relief of constipation is exceedingly unwise—unwise for two reasons. First, a drug constantly used loses its effect and requires a constantly increased dose. Second, because the constant use of any drug is bad anyway.

So the cry is constantly going up from the constipated, "What can we do?" It will be interesting to a great many to know that an answer has been found in the re-discovery of a method which was used with great success by our Forefathers, and in Arabia far back in the twelfth century. The food is called "Les Fruits" because it is composed entirely of figs, dates, prunes, raisins and the leaves of each with the substitution of the Alexandra leaf for the raisin leaf. The taste is pleasant, if not to say delicious, and the effect is exceedingly satisfactory. Try it and be convinced.

Cockle-Shell Ship and Incompetent Crew.

For some time past I have been perusing the laudatory remarks of the Opposition Press with regard to the self-constituted leader, Mr. Squires, and I fall to see where this ambitious and precocious young man has attained that experience or ability that would qualify him as one to whom we should trust to guide the destiny of our country. It is true he is possessed of a certain amount of verbosity, and would shine forth in a masterly manner during a tea-party or some other social gathering, where the viands could be praised, and the efforts of the promoters receive due honors. But when it comes to managing the public affairs of our country I am sure this brilliant young man is entirely out of place. Mr. Squires and his press would have us believe that he was actuated by purely patriotic and philanthropic motives when he rushed to the rescue of our country, which he asserts is in a terrible state of financial disorder and chaos through the incompetency and pilfering propensities of the members of the present Government. And yet never before in the history of Newfoundland have our people been in such a state of prosperity, as is clearly proven from the results of the many calls that have been made upon them both by Church and State. When our churches require loans to build or repair, the clergy have only to ask and they receive, and when the State required loans our people responded quickly and they will do so again when the next loan is asked for. This goes to show conclusively that our people are in prosperous circumstances. Our surplus is increasing year after year, and in the name of humanity why should we give up a certainty for an uncertainty? I do not know of any act performed by Mr. Squires that would warrant the people in believing that his movements are actuated by pure and disinterested patriotism.

The Opposition started out on their political voyage in the little cockle-shell ship which was planned, built and launched by Mr. Squires himself, assisted by a few hatched-and-saw politicians, who had been discarded by all parties for the past quarter of a century. They proved Jonahs in every political ship on which they formed part of the crew. Their movements at the present moment are actuated by jealousy, avarice, and I almost think, revenge. Is it in the nature of Mr. Squires and those associated with him to serve their country, or adopted country, without pay or position? Will Dr. Campbell do so, or will the few who surround him? Are they not at the present moment itching to have not alone their hand in the chest, but their arm, both arms; in fact, body and all. Here they are launching their cockle-shell craft, without compass or a course to steer by, with an incompetent crew and badly found in spars, sails, running gear, anchors and chains and all the other necessaries to prosecute the voyage upon the stormy sea of politics. Already the rats have deserted the frail little craft, and the crew will soon scuttle before she reaches the three mile limit. They are not going to trust their political lives and fortunes in such a floating coffin and under such inexperienced officers as Mr. Squires, Dr. Campbell and a few more land-lubbers.

The Opposition Press are guilty of a great wrong and have much to answer for in inducing Mr. Squires to believe that he is qualified to lead a party, and stifling the young man with the fulsome laudation which emanates from their columns from day to day. Some one has said that when we are praised with skill and decency it is the most agreeable perfume; but if too strongly imparted and admitted into a brain of less vigorous and happy texture, it will, like too strong an odor, overcome the senses and prove pernicious to those nerves it was intended to refresh. Mr. Squires was never cut out for a leader of men, physically, intellectually or any other way. He is ambitious, it is true, without the ability to carry out his ambition successfully, and like Cassius, he has a lean and hungry look and can't be trusted.

Only a GOOD White Lead can hold World Supremacy for 200 Years

Brandram's Genuine B.B. White Lead

The reason is not far to see. Most white leads are produced by one process of corrosion—such as the so-called "Old-Dutch" process, "Chamber" process, or some more or less mechanical process. But Brandram's Genuine B.B. White Lead is a combination of different processes. Thus, particles of different shapes and sizes are merged so as to form a product of wonderful smoothness, capacity and covering power.

Measured in terms of cost per hundred pounds, Brandram's Genuine B.B. White Lead is the most expensive lead on the Canadian market. But, considered from the standpoint of covering capacity and length of service, it easily outclasses all other white leads, and proves the most economical in the end.

Temple INTEREST

The late Bishop Binney, of Scotland, told me at one time, when he went to a parish for the first time he based his first opinion of the parishioners upon the condition of the church fence and the yard. If he found those neglected, he was quite prepared to find many other things, temporal and spiritual, in an unsatisfactory condition, and vice versa.

Well, the old church-yard in St. John's is decently fenced and in condition, and if the stones were put upright, it would all measure up to the good Bishop's standard, not only give him a good opinion of the good Bishop's congregation, but also influence other strangers to think well of them too, for we are largely governed by appearance.

There are over 200 stones in this church-yard, and so others—probably the oldest, fallen down years ago—are covered with earth. The oldest on these stones above ground is Placentia, Harbour Grace, Bon and probably other places can older stones, with, no doubt, interesting epitaphs.

One reason for so many epitaphs is—in many instances order for a stone would be sent to Pool, England, by a captain of the vessels going there to fall. The order would be something like this—"Captain, please get a headstone and bring it out on spring. It is for my wife: she on August 1st: her name was and she was 50 years old. The reverse of some kind put on it."

"This verse," so called, was supplied by the stone cutter, times from his stock in trade, sometimes by a poet (?) for a man who did the cutting, and was given a free hand at epitaphs.

The words "Sacred to the memory of" are found on nearly all the stones, and they are surrounded by various emblems of mortality, a skull and cross bones, a cornucopia, etc.

The serious sentiments embodied in some of the epitaphs are contrary to a belief in the resurrection, simple faith in the doctrine of stonement.

In the epitaphs as a whole

5. Thou shalt have no centerpiece or cornerpieces upon thy ceiling, but only a very nearly plain expanse of light color.
6. Thou shalt have thy fill of bright tints, and delicate designs for bedrooms and boudoirs, but for drawing-rooms, dining-rooms, libraries and halls, thou shalt be compelled to use less frivolous papers.
7. Thou shalt, when the ceiling is not too high, run the paper of the side wall up to the ceiling, putting the border just below the angle.
8. Thou shalt not panel the walls of a small room, except it be above a mantelpiece, a sideboard or a bookcase, where a bit of tapestry, a mirror or a picture may be held in place by strips of moulding.
9. Thou shalt use attention-compelling cut out borders, or conventionally designed strips for divisions between walls and ceiling.
10. Thou shalt remember at all times that thy wall paper is but a background against which to show thy pictures, thy furniture, and thy friends.

Templeton's

INTERESTING TRINITY.

The late Bishop Blinney, of Nova Scotia, told me at one time, that when he went to a parish for the first time he based his first opinions of the parishioners upon the condition of the church fence and church-yard. If he found those things neglected, he was quite prepared to find many other things, temporal and spiritual, in an unsatisfactory condition, and vice versa.

Well, the old church-yard in Trinity is decently fenced and in good condition, and if the stones were only put upright, it would all measure up to the good Bishop's standard, and not only give him a good opinion of St. Paul's congregation, but it would also influence other strangers to think well of them too, for we are all largely governed by appearances.

There are over 200 stones visible in this church-yard, and several others—probably the oldest, having fallen down years ago—are now covered with earth. The oldest date on these stones above ground is 1743. Placentia, Harbour Grace, Bonavista and probably other places can show older stones, with, no doubt, equally interesting epitaphs.

One reason for so many peculiar epitaphs is—In many instances the order for a stone would be sent to Poole, England, by a captain of one of the vessels going there in the fall. The order would be something like this—"Captain, please get me a headstone and bring it out in the spring. It is for my wife: she died on August 1st: her name was Mary and she was 50 years old. Have a verse of some kind put on it. Here is £25 to pay for it."

This "verse" so called would be supplied by the stone cutter, sometimes from his stock in trade, and sometimes by a poetic (?) journeyman who did the cutting, and who was given a free hand at epitaphs.

The words "Sacred to the Memory of" are found on nearly all those old stones, and they are surmounted by various emblems of mortality, such as a skull and cross bones, a coffin, an urn, etc.

The serious sentiments embodied in some of the epitaphs are confined to a belief in the resurrection, and simple faith in the doctrine of the statement.

In the epitaphs as a whole, there is a painful absence of any reference to the life and development of the soul in Paradise—not because it was actually unknown to the people: not because the Church did not teach it, but because many of the clergy of those years did not give it its true position in the soul's undying life.

The absence of the Cross, too, on these stones, as the symbol of our salvation, is also noticeable. This, however, (together with the absence of reference to the Intermediate Life) was only a transient omission, and both are now being restored and are becoming more and more evident in and on the stones that mark the resting places of the bodies in our church-yards to-day.

In addition to the 200 headstones in this old church-yard, there are several fine tombstones. One is that of Rev. John Clinch, missionary in Trinity for 38 years, and it calls for more than ordinary attention, as the lettering on it gives the date of his death as November 22nd, 1819.

The entry in the Burial Register of the parish: the mural tablet in the Mortuary, Chapel, and the brass plate on the Font cover, in church, remind us of the same fact, and probably the centennial will be marked by a special service in church, and also by having any necessary repairs done to his tomb, and the letters on the stone recut.

This tomb (which also contains the bodies of Rev. J. Clinch's wife and son) was repaired by the parish in 1881, and again, by a friend, in 1915.

Appropos of this reference to Rev. J. Clinch, an interesting event, (showing how strangely an overruling Providence often shapes our sands), comes to my mind.

Rev. Mr. Clinch, in his bachelor days, was making parochial visits in a distant part of his extensive mission.

He had the misfortune to tear one of his gloves. In the next house he found a young woman with whom he left the glove to be repaired, by the time he returned to the house on his way home.

When he returned he found the glove so neatly mended that it gave him a new train of thought, and there and then he asked her to become his wife. She agreed, and neither she nor he ever had cause to regret it.

One of their daughters became the wife of Rev. William Bullock and she was one of the most charming and devout personalities that ever graced a paragon.

The road, known to-day as the church road, for many years passed obliquely through the church-yard, coming out by the corner of what is now Mr. Hussey's shop, and continuing along the beach.

That portion of it that lay through the church-yard was seldom used after night; but the few who attempted it had ghost stories on tap for use during winter evenings at the public house, or at other times when they wished to pose as those who neither cared nor feared!

I shall close this article with a few of the epitaphs that could—after many efforts—be deciphered on the old stones:

"Snatched from this world when life was in its bloom,
Here rests a daughter in affliction's tomb;
Long to her aged sire the maiden clung,
And heart to heart their love responsive rung.
The message came, and with resistless sway,
Bore from her arms her succour and her stay.
Like the fond ivy from the oak departed,
She drooped, and died, bereaved and broken-hearted."

"Enough cold stone! suffice her long loved name,
Words are too weak to pay her virtues' claim.
Temples, and tombs, and towers shall waste away,
And powers vain pomp in mould'ring dust decay;
But ere mankind a wife more perfect see,
Eternity O Time shall bury thee."

"Death with his dart did pierce my heart,
My friends most dear, your grief forbear, 'Twas God's appointed time."

"Death's sudden stroke on me was very sore, Just as I turned the age of forty-four."

"Loving, beloved in all relations true,
Exposed to follies, but inclined to few;
Reader, reflect, and copy if you can,
The social virtues of this honest man."

"As I am now so you will be,
Prepare for death and follow me."

Some irreverent wag wrote under this one—"To follow you I'm not intent, until I know which way you went."

A stone at the extreme east of the church-yard indicates that the grave at its base, "contains (in one coffin) the bones of six children, who were burnt to death in a house at Robin Hood, on the eve of Easter."

This tragedy was a sequel to the fact, that the parents of those children had put them together in one house, and locked them in whilst the parents went to an adjoining hill "to see the sun dance on Easter morning."

There are many other points, and events and circumstances, of the deepest interest in and around historic, beautiful, and ecclesiastical Trinity, Trinity, which for the present, must remain unpublished by the present writer.

It was my high privilege to be born in Trinity. It was a delightful place to live in. It has always been an equally delightful place to visit, and when God calls me to Himself, may I be privileged to have my body laid to rest 'neath the shadow of the church-yard cross in God's Acre at Trinity.

W. J. LOCKYER.

BUYING THE BEST.

The best things are the cheapest, and a shoddy thing is a punk; that man's a chronic weeper who blows himself for junk. Some bargain he goes hunting, in hens or rubber tires, in celluloid or bunting, in hats or cast-off lyres. He doesn't ask the merit of calico he buys; he doesn't bite or tear it, or hold it to his eyes; if it's as cheap as blitzen, he thinks the deal will pay; and every game he sits in he plays this sort of way. His clothes are always seedy, his shoes are down at heels, he's looking poor and needy, though he earns many wheels. He blows in all his wages for things that do not wear, for birds in cheap tin cages, and wigs that have no hair. The chairs all go to pieces, he purchased at the store, depositing his pieces and scraps upon the floor. His car is always busting when he would take a ride, and accidents disgusting deface his snowy hide. His boat is always leaking when he would row a bit, and coroners are seeking his bones, on which to sit. His dog is always mangy, his cat was built to squall, his cow is lean and rangy, and kicks him through the wall. He always hunts the cheapest when he would shopping wares; cheap prices are the steepest, as we know, in the end. My large and shining dollars in good things I invest; in buying cows or collars, I always want the best.

PENNEY-SAINT.

Carbonear was the scene of an auspicious event when Ethel Grace, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Penney, was given in marriage to Rev. J. R. Saint, B.D., D.D., of Heart's Content. The ceremony took place on Tuesday evening, September 9th, at 8 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents, about forty guests being present. The room was tastefully arranged with floral decorations, and the setting was exceedingly pretty when the bride and groom were seated before Rev. A. A. Holmes, of Pouch Cove, who conducted the ceremony, assisted by Rev. A. V. Robb, Pastor of the Circuit. The bride was charmingly attired in a beautiful gown of Georgette crepe over white silk with an embroidered veil and orange blossoms. She carried a pink and white bouquet of asters and carnations. Her father, Mr. W. F. Penney, stood to give her away, and she was attended by her sister, Miss Lizzie Penney, who looked very becoming in a dress of pale blue silk crepe de chene, carrying a bouquet of sweet peas and fern. Rev. A. Johnson of Carbonear, acted as groomsmen, and Miss Florence Guy provided the musical accompaniment in her rendering of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

The knot well and truly tied, all present partook of a very dainty repast, the variety and quality of which reflected great credit upon those responsible for the culinary arrangements. The evening was served and the customary toasts enthusiastically honoured before the happy pair left for Bay Roberts in the car of Mr. A. E. Penney, the bride's uncle. Next morning they left by the express to pay a visit to some of the principal cities of Canada and the United States.

The good wishes of all will follow the newly married couple as they embark upon this new life which we trust will bring them many years of conjugal happiness. Both of them are well known in Methodist circles. Miss Penney played a very active part in the work of the Methodist Church in Carbonear. She was a prominent worker in the Women's Missionary Society and Superintendent of the Primary Department in the Sunday School, besides acting as organist at some of the public services. She will undoubtedly be missed, but all who have worked with her realize that she is eminently fitted to assist her husband in his multifarious duties. Dr. Saint, B.A. leader among Methodist ministers, and one whose studious habits coupled with his untiring energy have placed a high value upon his work and opinions. He was President of the Newfoundland Conference—1917-18.

The whole community will join with us in wishing Dr. and Mrs. Saint God-speed on their honeymoon journey, and in the hope that every happiness may attend them throughout their lives, in which we trust they may be long spared one to the other.—Com.

Triumph of the "Topper"

The silk hat was first seen in England about the year 1820, but being made of long-napped English silk on a felt body, it was very heavy and clumsy. Twenty years later the present style of high hat was introduced from France, with Lyons silk as now used.

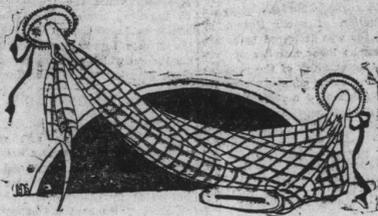

A drawback to the French hat was its fragility and liability to be dented at the slightest touch. But an English hatter hit upon the happy idea of stiffening the body with varnish, and the problem of a light, strong, durable silk hat was solved, and soon the hats made by London hatters were famous all over the world.

Quite within living memory the high hat reigned supreme, practically it was the only hat worn by every man, from Prince to ploughman. Cricketers played in it, boating men wore it on the river, sportsmen on the moors, and holiday-makers on the sands of Margate and Ramsgate.

An interesting and convincing proof of its universality is seen in the well-known print of the prizefight between Sayers and Heenan in 1860. Every one in the crowd wears a topper of Cricket's Parliament.

What the Jockey Club is to horse-racing, the Rugby Union to "Rugger," the Football Association to "Soccer," the M.C.C. is to cricket. This powerful body is not given its full name, the Marylebone Cricket Club, once in ten thousand times, and many people speak of the M.C.C. without knowing what the letters stand for. It is the first and foremost cricket club in the world, and the rules of cricket in their present form were drawn up by its members, and no change in them can take place in any part of the world without the M.C.C. legislating upon it, and giving consent.

Whether a game of cricket be played at Lord's, the headquarters of the M.C.C., at Melbourne or Sydney, at Philadelphia or Toronto, or in India, the M.C.C. rules hold good. The M.C.C. was originally called the Artillery Ground Club, and played at Finsbury. Then, about the middle of the eighteenth century it became known as the White Conduit C.C. This in 1787 became the Marylebone C.C., and moved to the Old Lord's Ground, where Dorset Square stands, then in 1824 to Middle Lord's, on the site of the Regent's Canal.

The final move took place three years later to the present Lord's, which in 1864 became the freehold property of the M.C.C.

Balkan Nations in Conflict -- Kolchak's Reported Surrender--Germans for Argentine--Arms Seized in Londonderry.

SERBIANS INVADING MONTENEGRO.

PARIS, Sept. 12. A Montenegrin official communication issued, says that fighting continues fiercely throughout Montenegro, against Serbian invaders, who have suffered severe losses.

HENDERSON ELECTED.

LONDON, Sept. 12. Arthur Henderson, Labor leader, who was defeated in re-election at the general elections last winter, was elected to the House of Commons today in the bye-election in Widnes, Lancashire.

STRIKE SITUATION CALMER.

BOSTON, Sept. 12. With the threat of a sympathetic general strike held off by action of the Central Labor Union last night in ordering all local Unions to act on the proposal at once, thus giving fuller expression of opinion, an atmosphere resulting from the strike of policemen assumed a calmer aspect today. Soldiers of the State Guard continued in charge of the streets, aided by a force of voluntary policemen and such members of the regular force as had refused to desert their posts. The death list as a direct result of the strike stood today at 7.

HOPELESS SITUATION.

BERNE, Sept. 12. The situation of the Bolsheviks in Russia is considered hopeless, according to communications reaching the Ukrainian mission at Berne.

SURRENDERED TO BOLSHEVIKI.

LONDON, Sept. 12. The remainder of Admiral Kolchak's southern army in the region of Akhtubinsk and Orsk has surrendered to the Bolsheviks, it is claimed in a Bolshevik despatch from Moscow today. This raises the total of Bolshevik captures from Kolchak forces within the week to 55,000 it is declared.

WINSTON UNDER FIRE.

GLASGOW, Sept. 12. A slashing indictment of Winston Spencer Churchill for his declaration of yesterday regarding the delay in the evacuation of north Russia by British forces was delivered by James Henry Thomas, labor member of Parliament at resumption of the sessions of the trades union congress here today. Thomas moved a resolution demanding that troops be withdrawn from Russia.

BIG FIRE IN MANITOBA.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 12. Word reached here today that half of the village of Moosehorn, Manitoba was destroyed by fire with estimated loss of one hundred thousand dollars. The cause of the conflagration is believed to have been the explosion of a gasoline lamp in a local creamery plant.

GERMAN IMMIGRANTS.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 12. Two steamers today brought four hundred and fifty German immigrants to this port. Men were all young, robust and educated. The majority of them had contracted for employment in Argentina before leaving Germany.

LORD FRENCH OPENS FETE.

LONDON, Sept. 12. Viscount French, opening a fete at Belfast for the comrades of the Great War Association which in the north of Ireland numbers 87 branches with 15,000 members, said they knew that evil influences were at work in their unfortunate country to put obstacles in the way of men who had served their country faithfully, from earning a livelihood in peace and contentment. It was for them to band themselves together in this great organization. If they do so well and faithfully, no evil influence could befall them. Speaking subsequently, Lord French said it is not for me to talk politics at this moment. The Government of Ireland has at the present moment only one policy to secure for law-abiding subjects: that freedom and protection from outrage which as citizens of the Empire they are justly entitled to. To the fulfillment of that policy we shall bring all our efforts. We shall not shrink from adopting the most drastic methods to secure it. This last statement was greeted with cheers.

ARMS SEIZED IN LONDONDERRY.

LONDONDERRY, Sept. 12. While the police were seizing arms in a house in Rossville Street here today a stone was thrown. The officer in command ordered the troops to fix bayonets. The crowd thereupon dispersed while the troops carrying to barracks arms which had been seized in Londonderry. A crowd on the streets threw stones at the soldiers upon which a baton charge took place clearing the thoroughfares.

MOVEMENT AGAINST SINN FEIN.

DUBLIN, Sept. 12. An extensive police and military movement against the Sinn Fein began this forenoon. The scope and object of the operations were not revealed but raids by Government forces are reported throughout the country.

SINN FEIN MEMBERS UNDER GUARD.

CORK, Sept. 12. Sinn Fein clubs in this city were raided this morning by armed police, who conducted searches while soldiers stood guard on outside. Two Sinn Fein members of the House of Commons were detained in Dublin after search here, while houses of other Sinn Fein members of Commons are under visitation.

THE DAILY DOPE BY THE CUB-EDITOR

AUTUMN PREPARATION.

More unfortunate than a flat, being, importunate, leading his hat.

Look him out scornfully if he should say it, helplessly, mournfully, "I cannot pay it."

Laugh at him, guver! Expose him to rally! Expose his higher exceeding his salary.

Wait for the charity under the sun! Under the sun! It was pitiful a whole city full, Home he had none.

Living is zero! Existence a fever! Sinned our hero, And he jumped in the river.

Not till I drowned him at the end of his pome, Would I have found him An ultimate home.

LIKE A GRAMAPHONE.

The policeman was going out on duty, and X0238 was trying to explain to the inspector what had become of his whistle.

"You see, sir, it was this way," he said. "When I got 'ome last night I placed that there whistle on the table, and presently, when I turas round, there it one of the kids wasn't chokin' at nearly black in the face. You see, sir, 'e'd swallowed the whistle." The inspector hid a sympathetic heart beneath his blue tunic. "Is the poor little one dead?" he asked, gently.

"Lor, no, sir!" was the reply. "E ain't exactly dead. You see, sir, little Bill, 'e's-'e's got the whoopin'-cough in every time 'e coughs the whistle goes, an' a policeman comes to the door!"

HED BEEN THERE.

"Father, I hope you won't blame me too much, but I very much want to marry Miss Footlight, the chorus girl."

"No, I can't blame you much, my boy, I was awfully keen on her myself when I was your age."

DID YOU KNOW THIS!—The inventor of cork legs was a Dr. Cork. Hence their name—not because of their composition, as you thought.

In trying to avoid worry many people worry more than the worry they are trying to avoid would ever amount to.

A man may get his foolish traits from his father, but names like J. St. Clair Jones are usually given by mamma.

HEARTLESS WAITER.

"Waiter," cried the diner, "there's a fly in this ice pudding."

"Serve him right, sir," replied the waiter; "let him stay there and freeze to death. He was in another gentleman's soup yesterday. I'll be downright glad to get rid of him."

WHAT WE'RE COMING TO.

A TOAST.

"Here's to the three powers of the world, The Press, the Pulpit, and the Petticoat; The Press spreads knowledge, The Pulpit spreads morals, And the Petticoat spreads—considerably!"

SWIFT TRAVELLING.—The Laplander can cover 150 miles a day on his skates.

GIVE 'EM TIME.—The problem of discharging passengers from airship lines may be solved by the parachute, but no device has yet been perfected for boarding a ship in full flight. Give the inventors time.

AN OMEN OF EVIL.—Two visitors in the country were disturbed one night by the hideous howls of a prowling dog. "Isn't that a sign of death, Tom?" asked one mournfully. "Yes," replied the other savagely—"It is if I can get hold of my gun!"

WE MUST TRY THIS.

A rather seedy-looking man rushed into the railway carriage at the station exclaiming:

"Has anyone any brandy? A lady in the next car has just fainted."

Half a dozen flasks were at once offered. Seizing one, the man removed the stopper, and, putting the flask up to his lips, took a long, lingering pull at the fluid.

"Ah," he exclaimed, with intense feeling, "I feel better now! Many thanks, sir! Seeing a woman faint always upsets me so."

WHAT BUN. ATE.—Bunyan was singularly abstemious. A piece of coarse wheat bread with a bowl of milk was his usual breakfast and supper.

Up Goes Sugar.

CANADIAN PROTECTOR BOOST PRICE.

SYDNEY, N.S., Sept. 3. Sugar refiners jumped the price of the sweet stuff another 50 cents per hundred on Monday.

Notification of the advance was received by a local wholesaler with whom The Record talked this afternoon, and the news didn't add a bit to the man's jaws.

The sugar kings are evidently out to gouge the profits from the people one way or another. They produced a sugar shortage in Canada by exporting sugar to Europe when they found they could make big profits that way.

When public protests at last led Ottawa to make a move, the export licenses were cancelled. But now the "big fellows" start to grab the money another way: If they can't make big profits abroad they'll make them at home—apparently that is their idea—and up go their prices to the Canadian trade.

Will Ottawa permit this sort of thing? Ottawa will unless the people create such a storm of protest that Ottawa fears longer to do the will of the profiteers.

Fish as Candles.

Everybody seems fed up with restriction, and the last straw seemed to have been reached when the flat went forth that our gas was to be rationed.

But such a degree would have few terrors for the inhabitants of British Columbia, who possess a prolific breed of fish, which not only supplies them generously with food, but saves them the cost of electric light, gas, and candles.

It is a species of smelt, and when dried you either eat him or light him. The fish is full of oil, and can easily be adapted to any form of candlestick. The dried fish is stuck tall up in the receptacle, and when a light is applied it burns with a power which puts an ordinary dip in the shade.

The oil, too, is spoken of as being as efficacious as cod-liver oil, while it is infinitely more palatable.

Romantic Marriage.

NFLD GIRL WEDS MILLIONAIRE.

"There was no secret about our wedding," said Mrs. Goff, wife of former United States Senator Nathan Goff of West Virginia, to a reporter for The World at the Hotel Commodore yesterday. "We were married last Thursday noon, after obtaining a license at Borough Hall, Brooklyn."

"The Senator's right age is seventy-six years, I'm thirty-six and not forty, as some of the newspapers have printed. I've known the Senator five years. We first met when I was engaged as a trained nurse to attend him. I was graduated from Howard Hospital in 1911."

"When my sister, Mrs. Catherine E. Briggs, now living in Flint, Mich., was married last January by the Rev. Dr. William Hamilton, at the First Place Methodist Episcopal Church, Brooklyn, we attended the wedding, and the Senator gave the bride in marriage. We left Clarksburg, W. Va., last Wednesday, having made up our minds to get married in Brooklyn and have Dr. Hamilton officiate. My mother, Mrs. George Penney, and Adam Baldwin, a relative, accompanied us and witnessed the marriage, which was performed in the parsonage. In a few days we expect to go to Boston on a honeymoon trip."

As printed in The World yesterday morning, news of the marriage came from Clarksburg, when telegrams announcing the marriage were received there.

Mr. Goff's first wife, who has been dead for some time, was Miss Laura Despard of Clarksburg, and they were married in 1865. He has two sons, one of whom, Dr. W. P. Goff, is a physician in Clarksburg, and the other, Guy D. Goff, a lawyer in Milwaukee.

In 1867 he was appointed United States District Attorney, in which office he served until 1881. He served in Congress and ran twice for Governor of West Virginia. He was Secretary of the Navy in the Cabinet of President Hayes. In 1913 he was elected Senator. Mr. Goff is wealthy, having inherited much and added to it by investment in West Virginia coal and oil lands.

His bride was Miss Catherine M. Penney of Carbonear, Newfoundland. She has resided with relatives in Rutherford, N. J., for several years.—New York World.

The Little Auk.

(From the Captain.)

The little auk is the so-called lamp-bird of the Eskimos. This gallant little diver, of dark-grey plumage, whitish breast, and small, gull-like head, lives far up North, and is seldom seen outside the waters of the Arctic Circle. When, however, there is a continuance of heavy gales from the north, northeast, and northwest, specimens of it make their appearance on the shore of Labrador and the coasts of Norway and Lapland, and Northern Scotland. When it does appear in fair weather in more southerly latitudes than it usually frequents, it is no doubt because of its preying on the shifting shoals of the small fry that form its chief food.

When these fish shoals are dispersed or driven down into deeper water by bad weather, the little auk soon weakens and becomes the sport of the boisterous gale. It is then this frail, storm-tossed bird makes its appearance on the coasts already mentioned, and sometimes in great numbers.

In its natural, well-nourished state the little auk is so fat and full of oil that the Eskimos are said to have the custom of utilizing its body as a lamp by inserting a wick under the skin of the bird, and setting light to it. Be that as it may—and even at this day travellers' tales are full of wonders, if not untruths and exaggerations—taxidermists who have handled the little auk can verify the statement as to the very oily condition of it when the bird is even in poor condition after having been buffed and weakened by the great stormy waters of the North for days together.

Along the north-east coast of Scotland some years ago hundreds of the little auk were picked up dead and dying consequent on a series of violent tempests out of the north and northeast. More were also reported from far inland, where they had been blown by the gales, against which they had been too weak to battle. And when in a weak state they soon fall victims to the fierce attacks made on them by the great black-backed and other gulls. So weak does the little diver become when torn from its customary food by inclement weather that it can but go before the wind, and at times has been borne across Scotland, and from a hundred to a hundred and fifty miles across Norway.

As can be easily understood, it is very difficult to keep a bird of this exclusively marine species in captivity, for to supply it with its natural food, i.e., of course, a Scottish herring, is, of course, impossible. Some years ago, however, a Scottish naturalist did succeed in saving a little auk found by him in an exhausted state on the shore after a prolonged and very severe gale, and he got the bird to live on bits of raw cut-up fish. In time it grew so tame and so fond of him as to waddle after him about the house and grounds.

Announcement

In the course of a few days we hope to announce the opening of an up-to-date Optical Department.

We have installed and will use the very latest instruments for the detection of eye errors, and among them is the finest Optalmometer that can be procured, which is unsurpassed in the locating of astigmatism, the low degrees of which are so difficult to detect by ordinary tests. We believe this is the only instrument of its kind in the country and our foremost object in installing this expensive equipment is to give our customers that satisfaction and service in our new department that has always been in evidence in the other branches of our business.

Watch for the date of the opening of this new department, and if you suffer from eyesight trouble, allow us to give expert assistance in removing it.
