"I Was a Fright!"

"Nothing I Could Take Made Me Any Fatter."

"Up to the time I was seventeen years old, I believe that I was the most miserable and unhappy girl that ever lived. Honestly, I was a fright. I was the most ungainly looking creature you ever saw. I was thin and scrawny—straight up and down. My height was five feet nine inches and I weighed exactly ninety-one and three quarter pounds. No matter what kind of clothes I put on I looked like a fright. I was clumsy and awkward. I used to stand before the glass and study my features. I found I had a good nose, good eyes and a good mouth, but my cheeks were sunken and my face looked like a skull with a piece of parchment stretched over it. But nothing I could do or take made me any fatter. Men rarely even glanced at me. When they did, they merely gave me a casual, amused or pitying look—an expression which I am sure meant, 'why is a being like that allowed to live?' I used to lie awake at night for hours at a time wondering why there were so many beautiful girls in the world and I was so hideous. I met a friend of mine one day, Elsie W. and I hardly knew her. While she had never been as thin as I was, a year or more ago she ran me a close second, but when I met her she had taken on flesh and had developed into a fine handsome girl with one of the prettiest figures I had ever seen. I asked her what had caused the big change. She said Carnot. She told me she had begun to put on flesh. I was so encouraged by what she said that I couldn't get to the druggist fast enough. I bought a bottle and since then I have been taking it regularly. It has made the greatest change in me you ever saw. I now weigh 165 pounds and all my friends tell me what a wonderful figure I have and I know that I am admired."

Carnot is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund you money.

"you," she said. "I have hungered and thirsted for one look at your face, for one word from your lips. My heart craved for you, so that I could not die. I am breaking my oath, but it was a cruel one; besides, I must know what answer to give when I stand before the great white throne. God gave me a precious jewel and I left it with another. He will ask what I did with it. What shall I say?"

Lady Hilda thought the poor woman was raving, and she laid her cool hand upon the hot brow. Still those sad eyes seemed to drink in every change on her face.

"When I gave my jewel away," she continued, "I swore that I would never reclaim it; but I cannot die until it is mine again. She will know perhaps in the other world that I have broken my oath; it must be so. Hilda, look at me. Have you no memory of me? Have you never seen me before?"

"Your face is familiar to me," replied Hilda, wondering at the strange address; "I have seen something like it in my dreams."

"Nothing more?" cried the woman, a wild sob bursting from the pale lips. "Is there no memory of the long days when I nursed you in my arms; of the hot tears I have shed over you—is there nothing that tells you of my love, my sorrow, and despair? Ah, how many years is it since I clasped my little child in my arms and took what I believed to be my last look at her! Hilda, I should rise, I should kneel there at your feet and ask you to pardon me, but I did all for the best."

Lady Hilda's face had grown very pale, her lips quivered, and her eyes grew dim.

"I do not quite understand you yet," she whispered; "tell me more plainly who you are."

The white face turned to her, the lips trembling, the large, sad eyes filled with tears.

"I have hungered and thirsted for you," she continued; "my heart burned within me, parched and withered for one glance at that face. Oh, darling, bend over me, lower still; look at me, pardon me. I am your own unhappy mother—you are my only child."

"My mother!" said Lady Hilda gently; "is it possible? Can it be true?"

"It is true," said the dying woman; "eighteen years ago my heart broke when I gave you, my only child, my love, my comfort, to another. I could not die until I heard you call me mother once again. Oh, darling—my own, my only child—do not turn from me. Say you forgive me, then I can die in peace."

Lady Hilda bent over the drooping face, so full of wild sorrow.

"Tell me about it," she said gently; "I do not understand."

Then by the gray light of the winter morning Magdalen Hurst told her story—told of her simple, beautiful girlhood spent in the bonny woods of Brymar; of the fate that came to her there when she met handsome, reckless, unprincipled Stephen Hurst. She told the sad story of her married life, with its wretched ending, when the gay, handsome lover of her youth stood in the dock and the fatal sentence was pronounced against him—how he wanted her to join him in that far-off land; and in order to do so she had parted with her only child.

"It was not that I did not love you, darling," pleaded the sweet, faint voice. "I died in that hour; life has only been a burden to me since. I had nothing to give you but shame, misery, and reproach, the burden of a tainted name, poverty and toil. She gave you wealth, honor, and all that the world esteems. I knew you would be happy with her, for she loved you. Still, I could not face my Maker until I knew from my child's own lips that she was happy and well cared-for. I am dying fast; call me mother once again."

Lady Hilda laid her face upon her mother's, she touched the pale brow with her warm, loving lips.

"Mother," she whispered, "I begin to remember you. I love you, and have nothing to forgive."

There was a strange likeness between the two faces—one wearing the pallor of death, the other rich in youth's best beauty.

"Mother," whispered Lady Hilda, "let me send for my husband to see you."

"No, my dear child," said her mother starting, "that cannot be. I have not come to drag you down to my level, Hilda—to bring shame and disgrace upon you—to humble the pride of those who claim you now. Keep my secret as I have kept it. I only came to see you once more—to hear you call me mother, to kiss your face, and touch with my hand the golden curls I remembered and loved so well. I shall be buried where you can come at times to see my grave, but the story of my life must not be told. Hilda, swear to me that you will never reveal what you now know."

Standing by her mother's deathbed, Lady Hilda Bayneham made a vow to keep her secret faithfully and truly, and never to reveal one word of what had passed.

"You are very beautiful," said Magdalen Hurst fondly, as her hand fingered on the golden curls; "tell me, are you very happy, darling?—does Lord Bayneham love you very much?"

Hilda told the simple story of her love—told it with sweet, shy blushes that gladdened the weary woman who gazed upon them.

"Has he never asked who your parents were?" she said.

"His mother did," replied Hilda; "but all that seems to be forgotten now."

Uncovers Copper Deposits.

STOCKHOLM.—A discovery of new mineral wealth in Sweden is announced by Director Axel Gavelin, head of the Government Geological Research Department, who has asked the Riksdag for an appropriation to cover the investigation of the newly-found ore deposits. These lie in central Sweden, and consist of iron, zinc and copper ore. Mr. Gavelin does not give exact details as to the total size of these deposits, but he considers them extremely promising, and says that if further research fulfills his expectations, the copper find especially is valuable and will form a national asset of great importance. The total iron ore deposits of Sweden already known are calculated to contain nearly 1,400,000,000 tons, running an average of 60 per cent. iron, which is said to be over 25 per cent. more than the average for all iron ore mined in the rest of Europe, and 16 per cent. more than the average for the world as a whole. Although much of Sweden's iron ore is used for the domestic manufacture of iron and steel, the export is considerable. In 1913 the total export was six and one half million tons, while last year the figures were four and a half million. Copper mines and export, which is hundreds of years old in Sweden, has declined of recent years, and the familiar copper ware seen in every Swedish home was in a fair way of becoming valuable antiques. Now, however, a revival of the Swedish copper industry may result from the newly-discovered deposits.

The Heir of Bayneham

—AND—
Lady Hutton's Ward.

CHAPTER XVII.

White and worn, with a deep shade upon it, lay the same beautiful face she had seen in the summer. The woman before her was the one who had asked her so long ago for a flower at the lodge gates. The sad, large eyes seemed to burn as they looked at her, the lips trembled and quivered, but could not utter a word.

"You wished to see me," said Lady Hilda, bending over her. "I came as soon as I could. I have disturbed you wait a few minutes and then you will be better able to speak to me."

The burning eyes closed as she spoke, and Lady Hilda stood silently gazing at the beautiful face, wondering what was the story it told. Deep lines of sorrow were on the broad, white brow and round lips. As she gazed upon the face it seemed in some strange way to become familiar to her, as though years ago she had seen and loved it in her dreams; then the faint, sweet voice was heard again.

"Are you Lady Hilda Bayneham?"

"Yes," she replied, "I am Lord Bayneham's wife."

"You were Lady Hutton's ward?"

"Yes," said Lady Hilda quietly, "she was my adopted mother; I knew no other."

She stopped abruptly, for the dying lips uttered a wild cry and the white face was turned to her with a look of deadly anguish that was almost despair.

"Hush!" said Lady Hilda gently; "what is it? You will make yourself worse. What can I do for you?"

The woman held out a thin, white hand and clasped the soft fingers of the young girl; she held them up to the light, looking at the costly rings that glittered there.

"Let me see your other hand," she said.

Lady Hilda gave it to her and she glanced eagerly at it. On the third finger shone a plain gold ring. When the sick woman saw it she pressed it eagerly to her lips.

"Who gave you that ring?" she asked.

"Lady Hutton," was the reply. "She placed it on my finger on my sixteenth birthday. Why do you ask me these questions? What do you know of me?"

For all answer the sad, sweet eyes looked into her face, as though trying to read every thought of her heart.

Conciliatory Discussion at Lausanne Conference

United States Urge Complete Freedom of Straits -- Bolshevik Propaganda Taking Root In India -- School Professor Elected President of Poland.

LAUSANNE CONFERENCE IN CALMER MOOD.

LAUSANNE, Dec. 20. Both the Turkish and Allied delegations relaxed in their attitude today as discussed the control of the Straits in such conciliatory spirit that there is every indication some sort of a Straits convention may be signed a very few days. The note of the United States that it does not regard an international commission as necessary undoubtedly bore fruit, as Lord Curzon gave careful consideration to the Turkish plea that the Straits would consider international interference with Turkey's affairs a worse than death. An agreement will likely be reached expediting the demilitarized zone along the Straits from control by the proposed international commission, that will have jurisdiction only over the navigation of the Straits, leaving even the passage to the Turks. Ismet Pasha pleaded for further guarantees in the safety of Constantinople than those which would be afforded by the League of Nations, and proposed additional guarantees similar to those given to Aland Island. He insisted Turkey must have further assurances from the important powers, individually and collectively, that her territory will not be violated. He accepted the principle of the fundamental provision of the control of the Straits outlined by the Allies, but pleaded Turkey must have her sovereign rights safeguarded. Lord Curzon, M. Barrois, Baron Sushli, M. Spalnikovitch, and other speakers expressed great satisfaction over Turkey's conciliatory attitude.

Baron Hayashi said he was especially gratified to see the conference, which had almost reached the stage of ultimatum, settle to such a calm and reasonable consideration of the Straits problem. Lord Curzon expressed sympathy with Ismet's anxiety lest Turkey's sovereignty be affected by the proposed Treaty but pointed out that in a measure every power surrendered some of its sovereign rights when it negotiated treaties. He mentioned the Great Lakes Treaty between Canada and the United States.

THE UNITED STATES PLAN.

LAUSANNE, Dec. 20. The meeting of the Near-East Conference this afternoon for the consideration of the disposition of the Turkish Straits adjourned at 5:45 after a conciliatory speech by Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation. While no arrangements were made for a further meeting, delegates said progress had been made and there was no danger of a break in negotiations. The United States opposition to the proposal of the Allied Powers for a Commission of control for the Turkish Straits, to-day took concrete form in a memorandum presented by Ambassador Child to the Secretary General of the Conference which said that "The representatives of the United States, on behalf of their Government take the position that the full freedom of the Straits for all nations, without discrimination, will best be served by reliance on Treaty rights and agreements rather than on a joint or international Commission of the Straits."

BOLSHEVIKS WORK FOR SEPARATION OF INDIA.

LONDON, Dec. 20. A full program for the separation of India from the British Empire, and the establishment of the "Federation of India," will be submitted to the Indian National Congress at the annual session of that organization at Gaya, British India, next week, according to information in British official circles. Great interest is evinced in official quarters, where it is said to be the direct work of the Bolsheviks.

POLAND'S NEW PRESIDENT.

WARSAW, Dec. 20. The new President of Poland, Stanislaw Wojcieszowski, took the oath of office tonight. He was elected with 298 ballots of the 519 cast by the National Assembly. While supported by the Radicals, he is highly respected by the Nationals. He worked unremotely with his old friend, General Pilsudski, for Poland's independence, and was strongly pro-Ally during the war and took a large part in the post-war work. He was recently professor in the Warsaw high school of commerce.

ANOTHER IRISH MURDER.

DUBLIN, Dec. 20. James Dwyer, who was Secretary of the Peace Committee appointed by the second Dail Eireann to arrange a truce between the Free State and the party of Eamon De Valera, was shot dead today at his shop at Rathmin's. Dwyer was defeated for reelection to Dail last June when he ran as a pro-Treatyite on the panel agreed to by the opposing factions.

ADRIPT AGAIN.

HALIFAX, Dec. 20. The United States Shipping Board steamer West Hardaway, for more than a week fuelless, is again adrift in the Atlantic, about five hundred and forty miles east of Halifax and south of Cape Race, after being in tow by the Shipping Board steamer Argus for two days. The tow line between the vessels parted to-day, and the Argus, apparently unable to render further assistance proceeded to New York. The Argus was attempting to tow the Hardaway to Halifax. This information was contained in a message received here from the captain of the Argus.

A MILLION DOLLAR CONSPIRACY.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20. The details of an alleged million dollar conspiracy to loot the Brooklyn navy base of clothes, oil and other material, were revealed to-day with the arrest of 22 civilian employees.

OLYMPIC MEETS STORM.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20. The Olympic arrived here ten hours late to-day, and the captain reported battling with one of the worst storms off the coast in many years. Port holes were smashed and a small portion of the pilot bridge washed away. She brought three million two hundred and fifteen thousand dollars in gold.

A Tasty Morsel.

Given to everybody in all its refinement and so often abused and its delicate perceptions blunted is the gift of Taste. The taste of GADEN'S preparations is the golden key that unlocks all the pleasant avenues of memory. In GADEN'S drinks there is something creamy yet not cloying, something velvety yet not filling, something rich yet not obtrusive, something crisp yet not crude. Skating Season Opens on Christmas Day.

PRICE'S RINK NOW IN READINESS.

All lovers of skating will be delighted to hear that an excellent sheet of ice is now available at the Prince's Rink, and should the frost continue the rink will be opened for the season on Monday next (Christmas Day). The rink management is leaving nothing undone to satisfy the wishes of the patrons this year, and anything that might have been overlooked in the past will be remedied. The management predict that the largest attendance of skaters since the rink's inception will patronize the ice this year. This has come about owing to the Parade Rink being closed down, which will be regretted by many skaters who always enjoyed pleasant recreation there. To offset any little difficulty that might occur while the skaters are using the surface when large crowds are in attendance, patrons will be pleased to hear that the directorate has appointed a floor manager to handle the situation. The rink contemplates the holding of a big sports night on the 14th of February, as held last year, while the usual children and adult carnivals will feature in the winter programme. The report that the general admission to the rink will be 50 cents this year is unfounded. Patrons are given to understand that the usual admission fee of 25 cents will be charged as formerly.

The Badger's Home Life

Though he is not often seen taking his walks abroad, since he sleeps by day and hunts mainly by night, the badger is one of our most interesting four-footed wild creatures.

In olden times he was much more common than he is now, and he has given his name to quite a number of towns and villages. The old English word for him is "brock," which is seen in Brockburn (badger wood), Broxholme (badger colony), Broxburn and Broxbourne (badger stream), and quite a number of other place-names.

He is the oldest of all our existing wild mammals. Fossil remains of the badger have been found dating back to the times when the giant cave-bear the sabre-toothed tiger, and other fearsome beasts, dead and gone for many thousands of years, roamed these islands long before man had made his appearance. He is a first cousin of the bear, and a more distant relation of the dog.

Unlike nearly all other animals, badgers do not seem to run in pairs. The male is hardly ever found with the female, preferring, save during the brief season of courtship, to lead a life of gay bachelor freedom.

In the spring of the year the mother badger is very busily engaged in preparing her old burrow to make it suitable as a nursery. She deepens it so that her babies shall be safe from the attacks of marauders, and at the far end she scoops out a big chamber, in which she makes a soft bed of leaves and down.

When the babies—queer helpless woolly things—arrive she is the best of mothers to them, hardly leaving them for an instant until their growing appetites make it necessary for her to sally out in search of solid dainties for them.

A little later she leads them to the mouth of the earth as evening falls, and lets them play around her whilst she keeps watchful guard. Then one night she takes the family out on its first foraging expedition.

You might imagine that such a large and strong animal as the badger, armed with the most formidable array of teeth, would be one of the worst poachers in the woodland. As a matter of fact, his appearance betrays him entirely, for he does very little damage.

The mother takes the family out in search not of game, but of insects, roots, and fallen nuts. If a fat frog comes along he is snapped up at once, and occasionally a young rabbit will be taken, but this is as far as the badger's appetite for meat goes. He vastly prefers wasp grubs, and if he comes across a nest he sets to work at once, digging at lightning speed with his powerful sharp-toed fore-feet.

The badger is a weird creature, for though his teeth show that he was originally a fighter and a beast of prey, he has taken to simple fare and the quietest of lives. He has a wonderful fighting jaw, and it cannot be dislocated. Once he grabs an adversary in self-defence, nothing can make him let go until he has a mind to do so.

At this time of the year the young badgers are nearly full grown. They are separating from the family and digging for themselves the deep, cunningly-engineered earths in which they will spend the long winter.

By some uncanny sense the badger seems able to locate large stones underground; he will divert his tunnel if any are near, and make it pass through a narrow opening between them, so that human or animal foes who try to dig him out may be baffled by the obstacle.

FURS.

My Aunt Samantha sits and patters, and swells with misty pride; for many gorgeous robes are her's, and fur-belowes beside; she has all kinds of costly furs—for each some creature died. My aunt Samantha has the price to buy just what she wants, so seals are traced through northern ice, and butchered in their haunts, the mink must perish once or twice to give the mink she flaunts. Full soon the creatures of the wild will be extinct, men say; for woman's sake their pelts are piled in bundles on a drey; and Aunt Samantha beamed and smiled o'er her new coat-of-day. My aunt has not a calloused heart, no venom in her lies; she would not rend a stout apart to get the fur she'd prize; she'd cause no beast a pain or smart—were it before her eyes. But sables, ermine, things like these, suggest no death or pain, no cruel traps or snickersnees, no harmless creatures slain; she doubtless thinks they grow on trees on some far tropic plain. She doubtless thinks the skins are brought from orchards in the fall; but what's the use of tressome thought? She's dressing for a ball, and she is hurried and distraught—the taxi soon will call. If Aunt Samantha could behold the little furry things which perish in the snow and cold, in traps with rusty springs, she'd order all her ermine sold to freaks like queens and kings.

Moscow Enjoying Boom in Building.

MOSCOW.—Moscow to-day is passing through a building boom more than anything of the kind the several generations. Real estate investment has been virtually at a standstill since early in the world war, and after the revolution which practically brought the seat of government back to the ancient capital, Moscow became one of the most crowded cities on the face of the earth. This fall, however, under the private enterprise, including the new economic policy, which is based on property and buildings for years, the rush to gain concessions by local investors began, with German, French and other foreigners also clamoring for privileges. The government itself has also improved many buildings. Hundreds of business houses, as well as fine old homes, were so badly damaged during the revolution that it was necessary to rebuild them. Walls of scores of other buildings, ruined by fire, are still standing in various parts of the city, but provision has been made for remodeling most of these next spring.

RESUMPTION OF FREE TRADE.

Store space is in great demand, due to the stimulus given by the resumption of free trade, and numerous one-story affairs have been put up in the shopping districts. They resemble the stores erected in a boom town in the United States. Small wooden shacks for the retail selling of books, fruit, clothing and various necessities, have been built temporarily here and there throughout the city, but these will be pushed aside with the resumption of trade through the ordinary channels. Entire blocks have been cleared for apartment houses, with shop space on the ground floor, and thousands of men and women—usually more women than men—have been employed in this work, carried on with great speed to set as much done as possible before the cold weather begins, when all outdoor tasks of this kind must cease until spring. There is scarcely a block in Moscow these days upon which some repair work has not been done, or a new building of some sort erected.

The Office Cat Will Get You.

Oh, Junius, the Office Cat, has come to town to stay.
An' talk about the good folks, and all the things they say,
An' look into the scandals and help to spread them too,
An' make folks feel quite awful, just like all old cats do.
So, if you have a skeleton within your closet hid,
Just take it out and bury it beneath a castron lid.
For Junius is sneakin' and a pokin' all about,
And the Office Cat will get you if you
Don't Watch Out.

An' if you are a married man, a slyin' you "step on her" and skoot,
An' tryin' to make a chicken think you have no wife at home;
An' if you have some moonshine brewin' in your shed;
An' if you use Sage Tonic on a very bald old head,
An' if you take your sweatheart out and hug her in the park,
An' if you have a birthday and then keep it in the dark,
You'd better be real careful, for I know without a doubt,
That the Office Cat will get you if you
Don't Watch Out.

An' if you are a gunman and just shut your eyes and shoot,
An' if you car knocks someone down you "step on her" and skoot,
An' if you go out fishing and come home without a one,
An' if you tell an awful whooper and make folks think you caught a ton,
An' if the city fathers have a sassy, breezy scrap,
An' if for humor columns you do not give a rap,
I hope you'll watch your step, and it will do no good to pout,
For the Office Cat will get you if you
Don't Watch Out.

Italy to Grow Flowers For The Perfume Trade.

Italy is developing a new industry, the growing of flowers for the distillation of perfumes and essential oils. Flower production for these purposes is encouraged in the Southern provinces, and it is represented that the profits to be expected are large, compared to standard returns from other crops. Experts have studied the situation and report hopefully. They say Italy is favored climatically, and that she has a monopoly already in the production of bergamotte, a basic essence used in virtually all perfumery. Bergamotte, on the Italian Riviera, promises to be a center of the new industry. The perfumes manufactured in Italy already have been favorably received both at home and abroad, especially in South America and the Near East.

Fads and Fashions.

Among blouses, various shades of blue are reported to predominate. Studded velvet dresses in both black and colors are smart for theatre wear. Hem lines are not as extremely uneven as they were earlier in the season. Heavy silks in tan and gray tones are being shown for sports models. Long white glove gloves make their reappearance at both opera and theatre. Red velvet is extremely good for evening wear. It is usually self-trimmed.

Silencing tiers of pearl-tipped fringes are used on a frock of flesh Georgette. A recent bright fad is the wearing of red shoes with dark stockings and gowns. Hand-knitted costumes in jacquard and lace patterns are for sports wear. The black felt hat with peacock head placed at side back is one frequently seen. Wraps of chinchilla and ermine trimmed with chinchilla are favored for opera wear.

An automobile recently drove up and stopped in front of the court house. And from a casual inspection by a spectator one hundred feet away it was impossible to tell whether or not three men, two women, two men and a woman, two women and a man, a woman, a man and a girl, a woman, a man and a boy, two men and a girl, or two women and a girl got out. All three looked just alike. One 20c. bottle of STAFFORD'S Ginger Wine Essence

Obituary. MR. JOHN FALLON.

(H. F. SHORTIS.)

By yesterday's mail I received the sad tidings of the death of Mr. John Fallon, after a long illness, which occurred on Saturday 'morning' last, fortified by the rites of Holy Church, John Fallon was born in Harbor Grace 52 years ago, and was the second eldest son of Mr. Head Constable Luke Fallon, for many years Chief of Police in that town. John served his apprenticeship with the late Mr. Wm. Grubert, shoemaker, but, like so many of our youth of that day, he wished to see the world and seek adventure. He emigrated to the United States, and entered as a private in Co. T of the 18th Regiment of the Infantry, United States Army. After some years, fighting was going on in the South American Republics, and John Fallon determined to take a hand in the fray. He joined the Chilean Army, and during one of the battles, after the army was in retreat, he seized the Chilean flag, and notwithstanding the enemy were pouring in an incessant fire of musketry, he planted the flag on the hill-top, rallied the retreating forces, and gained a complete victory. He held on to the flag although he was severely wounded, and some years afterwards the Chilean Government advertised as to his whereabouts. Subsequently the advertisement was brought under his notice, he answered it, and was notified that the Government of Chile had granted him a pension in recognition of his heroic services during the war. Mr. Fallon was a man of splendid physique, of a somewhat retiring disposition, and it was with difficulty he was induced to speak of his adventures, but when he did, it was a real interesting romance, and in keeping with many others of our heroic countrymen who have upheld the honor of Newfoundland in many a hard-fought battle, both on land and sea. And now the heroic "soldier of fortune" has answered the last roll call from the Great Commander, leaving a widow, four sons, Luke, David and John in Harbor Grace, Christopher in Sydney, and one daughter Mary in Boston; also one brother in Kansas City, U.S.A., who holds one of the most important and remunerative positions in the Telegraph Service in the United States, and one sister, Mrs. Mary Collins, in Boston. One son, Stephen, was killed at Beaumont Hamel on July 1st, 1916, and Luke also served with distinction in the Royal Nfld. Regiment during the Great War. The deceased had considerable experience as a sailor, was a favorite with all classes, and his demise will be heard with regret, not alone by his friends in Newfoundland, but in the United States and elsewhere. Requiescat in pace.

Remembrance Day. IMPRESSIVE SCENES—ROYAL FAMILY'S TRIBUTE.

Throughout the world, on land and sea, Armistice Day and the Great Silence were observed in fitting manner: reports from home and abroad indicate that no previous ceremonial of similar character has exceeded Saturday's in solemn fervour. In very many cases the opportunity was taken for the unveiling of memorials—in France on the spot where the Germans signed the Armistice four years ago a commemorative stone was unveiled; and in Brussels, Belgium's Unknown Warrior was buried at the base of the Colonne du Congrès, which commemorates the little country's national independence. Great Cenotaph Scene.

In London there were enormous pilgrimages to the Cenotaph Warrior's tomb, and many beautiful floral tributes were placed on both of these sacred spots, including one from the King and Queen. As the first stroke of eleven was sounded the maroons were fired, and the King and his sons stood bareheaded and with bowed heads at the Cenotaph. The soldiers, bluejackets, airmen, and marines stood stiffly at attention, and all the civilians in the great throng bowed their heads. For two minutes there was not a sound, except here and there a half-suppressed sob or an occasional cough. After the silence the band of the Brigade of Guards struck up "All People That on Earth Do Dwell," and all joined in, from Parliament square to Trafalgar Square. There was another slight pause, and then buglers sounded the "Last Post" and the "Reveille." The King, with the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York, with a final salute returned to the Home Office.

Immediately afterwards there was a long and imposing procession of people bearing wreaths, and within a very short time the whole base of the Cenotaph was buried beneath a wealth of blooms. The King's wreath bore the following inscription:—"In memory of the glorious dead.—GEORGE R. and L. MARY R." At half-past eleven Westminster Abbey was opened, and the great majority of those who had taken part in the Cenotaph ceremony visited the grave of the Unknown Warrior—English Paper.

Heavily Fined For Cruelty to Animals.

While riding over his estate with his foreman, Lord Howard of Glossop found a cow so painfully thin that it was barely able to move its own weight. According to the Glasgow Weekly Herald he informed the authorities, and when the farm was visited they found the animal lying dead in a deep ditch. It had suffered from a disease of long standing, and there was not a particle of fat on its body. The owners of the cow, Simon Humphreys and Mary Humphreys, of Bradshaw Farm, Mellor, were later summoned for cruelty to the animal before the Magistrates at New Mills, and Inspector Orpitt said the cow was in a terrible condition of emaciation. It was wished to turn it out to die. The Bench imposed on the defendants fines and costs amounting to £15 in the alternative of a month's imprisonment. Mrs. Humphreys remarked that it would pay her to "do the month." The Chairman rebuked her for "levity in such a disgusting case."

CUTICURA HEALS LARGE ERUPTIONS

On Face, Sores and Disfiguring. In Blisters and Burned.

"Small pimple-like eruptions came first on my face. They were sore and disfiguring, and were also large and red. They festered and came to a head, and they were in blisters and burned. I had those on my face for about a month before I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I could feel the pimples getting better after a few days' treatment, and I used one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment when I was healed." GET UP!

In the good old days of the long ago the home unbroken we used to know. When never a vacant chair we kept and never one tear of grief we'd wept. Then we were roused from our cozy beds by a father who shouted: "You sleepy heads! Get up!" as he passed each door. "Get up at once, for I'll call no more!" and answer him in a drowsy way. "Yes, in a minute," we'd wake to say. He was soon as he'd passed along, singing a snatch of his morning song. We'd all fall back where the bed was warm and snug, in the place which fitted each youth-ful form. "Get up!" till there came a shout "Get up!" "I'll come and pull you out!" he'd stand at the foot of the stairs and call. "You sleepy heads, one and all!" "Your mother's been down for an hour and a day is here and there's work to do." "I'll be the trouble up there if you don't jump out!" "I'll be the trouble promptly begin to stir about!" "I'll be the trouble he'd come with a smile and a sweep." "The covers away and ban'Za sleep." "Who knows when the last long sleep comes on and the mornings of earthly life have passed who were children so long ago?" "I'll be the trouble wrapped in slumber the ankles are cold." "Perhaps we shall open our drowsy eyes." "In a world of wonder and glad sur-prise." "I'll be the trouble and find at the foot of the golden stairs the Father, waiting and calling there.

Childers's Fate.

SHOT AT DAWN—WAS WHITE-HOT SINN FEINER.

Erskine Childers, staff captain, Irish Republican Army, was executed on Friday, Dec. 1. He is believed to have met his death by shooting. Childers' friends believe he faced the firing party like a brave man, and it was well he had the calmest man amongst the party assembled when he met his doom in the cold, grey November morning was Erskine Childers himself. The death of Erskine Childers puts out of action one who was fanatically opposed to the Free State and upon whose fertile mind De Valera has always seemed to lean. Erskine was the late H.C.C. Childers, who was Chancellor of the Exchequer under Gladstone, the executed leader was a clerk in the House of Commons before he attained literary fame as the author of the German spy story, "The Riddle of the Sands." He also wrote volume V. of "The Times' History of the war."

Whatever Childers did he did with all his might. He fought eagerly and unselfishly for England in the Boer War. He did first class work with the Army, Navy and Air Force, during the European War. He hung himself into the effort to settle the Irish question through the Irish Convention. Then, utterly disillusioned by the collapse of the convention, he drifted into Sinn Fein, first as an apologist, but as an inspirer, and finally as a leader and organizer of sabotage on the grand scale. Perhaps the most serious incident of his career was his association as Secretary with the Irish Delegation to the Treaty Conference in London. From the first his clash with the equally strong and silent personality of Arthur Griffith threatened disaster, and he was soon barred from all knowledge of what was really passing between the Big Four in Downing Street. Erskine Childers did not admit that he was an Englishman in the true sense of the word. He certainly had Irish blood in his veins. He was a woman of great charm and beauty, but an invalid, is an American, and has done almost as much as her husband did to keep revolutionary Republicanism alive.—English Paper.

The Near East.

Settlement of the Near East question does not seem to come any nearer a mutual agreement despite the daily discussions of the Lausanne Conference. It is either that the powers are afraid of Turkey or of each other that no arrangement can be effected. War again would be a crime against the world, and those statesmen responsible for such an atrocity would be pilloried in their respective countries. At this season, whose every word breathes of peace, surely it is possible to reach terms acceptable, without dishonor, to all parties. But at the same time there should be no giving way to the Turks. He should be shown his position in the European concert, or out of it as the case may be. Discussing the present critical situation which has developed, the Forum Magazine for December, editorially says: "Those who have studied, with any degree of care, the situation as it unfolds itself day by day in the Near East, have experienced and are still experiencing a great deal of uneasiness. Up to the present time actual war between Turkey and England has only been averted by the cool headedness and saneness of Lord Curzon and his colleagues in the British Cabinet. Twenty years ago the arrogance and intemperance shown by the Turkish leaders would not for a instant have been tolerated. But the growing demands of normal cannot always be accepted, and if continued there will undoubtedly come a time when one too many will have been made and the two countries will be at one another's throats. The seriousness of such an event cannot be overestimated. It is already certain that war would not be confined to the two countries. All the fanaticism of which the Mohammedan religion is capable of producing will be aroused and the flames will extend throughout the East. Russia will see her opportunity of attacking a moribund Poland and Germany and the in brief instant the unspeakable horrors of another world war will be unleashed upon mankind. But there is another side to the question about which little has been written, and concerning which there has been little discussion—the attitude to be taken in United States. It is already known that great pressure has been brought to bear upon the President and Mr. Hughes in the cause of the Armenians and other Christian minorities. The power of the Church, backed by no small following is insistent in the belief that Christianity must be defended against the horrors of Mohammedan extermination. Should, and it is quite within the grounds of probability that it may, a massacre of half a hundred thousand Christians suddenly occur in Constantinople, a fever pitch of excitement will arise throughout the land. Hasty decisions are frequently made under stress of such an event as this, that cannot easily be undone."

Customers are requested to have all copy for their advertisements in the hands of our business department by 6 o'clock Friday evening to ensure insertion in Saturday's issue.

Further Prorogation.

Tuesday's Gazette contains a proclamation proroguing the General Assembly of Newfoundland from December 20th, 1922 to January 24th, 1923. There is no intimation in the Governor's proclamation that it will then meet for dispatch of business, and this omission may doubtless mean that the House will be again prorogued as from that date thereof.

Fish in Good Demand.

PORTUGUESE CURING LARGE QUANTITIES. The Board of Trade received a letter yesterday from Messrs. Lind & Couto, of Oporto, which says in part: "Demand has been good this month, and we trust that the present rate of consumption will be maintained. The weather lately has been very fine, and Portuguese codfish companies, have cured large quantities of fish." The latest report from the market gives the stocks on hand as 39,000 quintals with three vessels waiting to discharge.

An Opportunity for Child Welfarists.

If any officer or member of the Child Welfare Association, can make it convenient to call on the editor of the Telegram, he will produce a letter, written by one of the people, the contents of which will probably prove interesting and should, at least, induce the charitably disposed to investigate the particular case to which reference is made, in the communication. We have been requested by the writer—a woman—to publish the letter, but think that the conditions shown therein can be improved upon, by asking any member of the Child Welfare Committee to call and become acquainted with its contents. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these my children, ye have done it unto me."

Radio Concert Broadcasted To-Day.

Commencing at 2 o'clock this afternoon a radio concert was broadcasted by the Marconi Company and a receiving set with Power amplifier and Magnavox loudspeaker attachment has been installed at the Royal Stationery Store, Water Street, where the public can listen to the concert. This is the first time that a Power amplifier and Magnavox loudspeaker of this type has been used in Newfoundland. It has given such satisfaction in tests that the Aerial Survey Company have closed with the Marconi Company for several machines to be used in connection with their work throughout the country. The radio concerts will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons, and will close Saturday night with a special programme.

Portia to Go North.

AWAITING FLOUR SHIPMENT. S.S. Portia is at present lying at Bowling's Southside premises in readiness to proceed North when suitable freight is received. It is probable the ship will get away on Saturday morning. A large quantity of flour has to be forwarded and the ship must await the arrival and discharge of S.S. Rosalind, which is bringing the needed freight. The Rosalind left Halifax at 5 p.m. yesterday and is due here to-morrow afternoon.

Centaurus Tragedy.

NO DEFINITE PARTICULARS—CREW TO BE ARRESTED—VESSEL WILL BE TOWED TO ST. JOHN'S. Particulars to hand of the shooting array on board the Danish schooner Centaurus at Harbor Buffett is a very scanty, and no further information has been received since yesterday. According to the Customs report the crew consists of K. Rasmussen, master; Erik Knudsen, mate; K. Lovinsson, A.B.; G. Herroin, A.B.; and A. B. Hansen, cook. The latter is the captain's nephew and is a lad of about 14 years. He is said that both the captain and mate were injured. This report, however, could not be confirmed by the Minister of Justice. Evidently from the crew's list there was a mistake in the message stating that Christian Sorrensen was killed. It probably should have been K. Lovinsson. The Justice Department has moved in the matter, and the arrest of the whole crew has been ordered. Detective Constable Peter Lee and Constable Bennett left here by this morning's train for Argentinia. Here they were joined by Detective Whelan of the mounted police. In the meantime S. S. Sebastopol has sailed for Argentinia and was due there at 2 p.m. The ship will take magistrate O'Leary and the police officers to Harbor Buffett so that the arrests will probably take place late this evening. It is understood the arrangements are being made to have S. S. Cabot tow the Centaurus to this port as it would be difficult to hold a complete enquiry at Harbor Buffett. The vessel is heavily loaded for market, needing but a couple of hundred quintals to complete.

Christmas Music at St. Patrick's.

During the procession before the Midnight Mass, the Choir will sing Danby's "Mistletoe." The following will be sung during Mass:— Kyrie—Korman. Gloria—Korman. Creed—Korman. Adesste Fides—Novello. Sanctus—Gounod. Magnificat—Korman. Mr. Bowes, Violinist, and F. English, Double Bass, will play, with the organ; special parts having been written for them by the organist, Prof. McCarthy. After Mass the three instrumentalists will render Millard's fine Gloria.

Bulk Heads Leaking.

PUMPING OPERATIONS COMMENCED. A message was received from Engineer McGettigan to Mr. J. T. Foley of the Government Coastal Office, this morning stating that S. S. Diney had arrived at Valleyfield at 2 p.m. yesterday. An examination of S. S. Diney was made upon arrival and it was found that No. 1 hold was full of water. No. 2 hold was dry, while there was a leak inside the bulk head. The work of fitting up pumps and other apparatus was immediately begun and it is expected that all the water will be pumped out of No. 1 hold during to-day. Mr. McGettigan stated that the weather was very frosty, and as soon as a full examination is made of the ship a complete report will be wired.

Firemen Called Out.

KITCHEN RANGE EXPLODED. At 8.35 this morning the Central and West End fire companies were called to the residence of Miss Kennedy, 198 Gower Street, where a slight blaze was in progress. The fire originated in the kitchen and was caused by the explosion of a hot water back in the range. The fire was put out before it had gained any headway.

Not Arrived at Bonne Bay.

SABLE I. AND STELLA MARIS HAVE FLOUR CARGOES. No word has yet been received of the S. S. Sable I. reaching Bonne Bay, although the ship was due there early to-day. It is understood that both S. S. Sable I. and S. S. Stella Maris have cargoes of flour for ports on the North West Coast. In the event of the steamers reaching Bonne Bay the difficulty of getting the provisions to the stretch of coast from which the shortage is reported still remains.

"Edmund Donald" Jammed.

HAS SUPPLIES FOR HAWKE'S BAY. Messages received in the city from Hawke's Bay yesterday state that S. S. Edmund Donald, which is bound there with a full cargo of supplies for the Hawke's Bay Trading Company, has been caught in the ice and is unable to reach her destination. The report says the ship is jammed in heavy slob ice, large quantities of which has been reported by S. S. Sagona. The latter ship reported that the Donald was landing freight at Port Saunders on Tuesday, and it was while the ship was proceeding from there to Hawke's Bay that she was caught. Both steamers are now in the heavy ice, and unable to make progress. The Donald has supplies for the Company's winter operations and in case these cannot be landed it will be a serious matter for all concerned, as unless provisions can be sent to the place, all operations will have to cease, and several hundred men will be out of employment for the winter, not to speak of being short of food.

Heavy Snow Fall.

PUSH FLOW CLEARING RAILWAY LINE. Train hands spent a very busy period all yesterday fighting the snow drifts along the eastern division of the railway line. The push plow was used for the first time this season along the section between Clarendville and Whitbourne, where the snow in places fell to a depth of five feet. At a late hour last night the line was opened, and operations were resumed.

Christmas Time.

Greetings of this happy Yuletide season can be beautifully extended through the medium of flowers. If you have a sick or invalid friend, what will be more welcome at his bedside than a beautiful, fragrant bunch of Christmas flowers from a loving and thoughtful friend. Remember the "Shut-ins" with flowers and have flowers in your home at Christmas. They will enhance the happiness of all call or phone.

Coastal Boats.

REIDS. Argyle left Flat Islands 11.20 a.m. yesterday, going West. Clyde due at Lewisporte. Glencoe arrived at Burgeo 1.30 p.m. yesterday. Remained there all night on account of storm. Home left Piley's Island 8.30 a.m. yesterday, outward. Kyo at North Sydney. Sagona jammed north of Port Saunders. Malakoff arrived at Port Union 10.30 a.m. yesterday, sailing to-day.

S.S. SEAL SAILED.—The sailing of S.S. Seal for the Northward was delayed somewhat yesterday owing to the ship having boiler trouble. Repairs were quickly effected, however, and the ship got away late last night.

CORRECTION.—In acknowledging receipt of a copy of Yuletide Bells in yesterday's issue of the Telegram, we referred to the publisher and editor as being Mr. Arthur English, instead of Miss A. English, and we beg to tender regret for the inaccuracy.

"BASTIEN" AT SELDOM.—Yesterday, Mr. Leonard Earls, of Earle & Sons, Fogo, received a message stating that the schooner Bastien, which left here some 15 days ago with a coal cargo for Fogo had arrived at Seldom.

McMurdo's Store News.

The great merit of the Universal Metal Hot Water Bottle is the fact that it is practically indestructible, and one of them will last for years. But this is by no means its only merit. It will hold hotter water—even boiling water—without injury to the bottle and owing to the fact that it has a fannel cover, the water will retain its heat longer than in a rubber bottle. Another point about the Universal Hot Water Bottle is that it is lighter in weight—an advantage in many cases. One of these bottles makes a beautiful as well as a very useful present, and one specially adapted for older persons. Price (with fannel cover) in box, $4 each.

Saguna Jammed Off Point Riche. HEAVY SLOB ICE REPORTED. A message from Capt. Tavener of S.S. Sagona to the Reid Newfoundland Company was received this morning, stating that the ship was jammed in heavy slob ice 7 miles SW. of Point Riche. The Sagona has a considerable cargo for points north of there and in case the various ports cannot be reached it will be a very serious matter. It was the intention of the Reid Newfoundland Co. to order S.S. Sagona to make another trip North, as a considerable freight is now offering at Sagona.

Port aux Basques, but whether order will be cancelled or not cannot be seen. Further reports from ship will be anxiously awaited.

TEAMS GETTING READY FOR YEAR

The cool tinge of winter air makes thoughts of the fans turn to hockey, the greatest of winter pastimes. From their victories of last season the Bellians hold the Boyle Challenge Cup for a third successive season. But this is another season and perhaps the "mug" will find a new resting place next spring. Nearly all of last year's players are available, and with the Guards hockey team making their usual appearance in the League, great enthusiasm is being created and the fans look good for another banner year in hockey.

The Bellians look as though they will be even stronger than last year. They have been undergoing a stiff training in the past few weeks. In the past, and as soon as they step out on the blades the players will be conditioned enough to enter the fray. The team is intact and they will be led by Mr. Jack Strang, while Tommy Payne, for a fourth successive season has been elected as Captain.

The St. Bon's runner-up last year, a team which played an exceptional hockey towards the close of the season, having defeated the champion Bellian team for the Tio Cup honors, are at present working out their little kinks behind closed doors. The team is very fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Charles Fox this year, as manager. The genial "Doc," as he will be remembered, played hockey with the "Alma Mater" before moving to Montreal, where he was manager of the University team for three seasons. Now that he is back with the Bellians, it would be the course of his studies at Montreal, he was manager of the University team for three seasons. Now that he is back with the Bellians, it would be the course of his studies at Montreal, he was manager of the University team for three seasons.

While it is regrettable that the old guard of the League for years, the Bellians, have dropped out, it will be gratifying news for hockey enthusiasts to learn that all the players of the former royal blue and white aggregation are available, each player having already signed a contract to play with the new Guard team, which, with the addition of two new players, a former Terra Nova player, and numerous other recruits of the Association to choose from, will rank equal as strong as any club that ever participated in the League fixtures. The Terra Novas will have some new material in their ranks this season. Bob Stick and "Chauteau" Baw have decided to toss aside their hectors to make room for the younger element. It is said they have unearthed a fund for the nets who hail from Upper Canada, while several recruits who will be given a chance are expected to make good. All the players are now eagerly looking forward to holding their first work-outs at the rink and with the opening of the arena on Monday next, the practices will be commenced with immediate effect, and it is hoped that the season's games will be rushed in as quickly as possible. The first practice will vary but be held on next Tuesday night. The Guards going on at 6.30, followed by the St. Bon's at 10 o'clock. It is understood that each team will participate in only three practices before the season's games commence. Many of the players feel that this is not sufficient practice to get into the more rigorous game, and should the rink management take kindly to granting the extra privilege of arranging for at least two extra practices, it would be greatly appreciated by the players and would no doubt tend to serve the best interests of all concerned.

Newfoundland Sporting Annual.

Our thanks to the publisher for an advance copy of the new Newfoundland Sporting Annual, the only publication of its kind issued in this country, and which is quite a volume. It consists of two parts, containing the doings of the year in connection with all various local sports. All properly illustrated. The book opens with the editor's foreword, which is followed by an article on the art activities in Newfoundland, and then the various items of sport are taken up in prominent articles. At the end of the book will be found the records of the year, for each and every sport of the January and followed in order of date in a ready reference. Amongst the writers are Messrs. C. E. Hunt, W. J. Carraway, B. T. Y. Hartnett, C. J. A. G. S. P. Cullen, A. A. P. Cullen, J. Hemming, J. M. Tobin and Lloyd Chacey. This journal also makes, in its predictions with regard to next year's athletics, which should be well worth noting. We also discover where to watch his race against Laurie Jack, and one of the writers, however, is of the opinion that the two strong reasons for favor of Bell. But it would be unwise to say too much. Get a copy of the book before all are sold out.

Convent Christmas Tree

TALENTED ARTISTES IN CLOSING EXERCISES

The Christmas Tree, at the Presentation Convent, closed last night with an enjoyable concert. The talented artistes who took part were Misses Goodland, O'Connell, Murphy, Gladney, McMurtrie, Lee, O'Connell and Power. The Dobbin department of the audience was a large one. Mother McCree, Masters, Coleman, Crowl, Gobbins, O'Connell and Hogan sang most charmingly the part song Blue Danube River. Tom Walsh created much amusement by his recitation. Master Meany sang in his own inimitable style two comic songs and was highly scored. The little Misses who took part in the Irish dances were charming. Misses O'Connell and O'Connell dancing was very pretty. Programme closed with a thanksgiving of the crib and the children singing the Christmas carols.

A Serious Situation.

BONNE BAY ISOLATED AND SHORT OF PROVISIONS.

That a serious situation faces the residents of Bonne Bay and that section of the Coast from Daniel's Harbor to Trout River may be learned from a message received yesterday afternoon from the Sub-Collector at Bonne Bay by Mr. H. W. LeMessurier, Deputy Minister of Customs. The Message reads:—"Wind northwest, strong breeze. Bay completely blocked with heavy slob ice. Unless we get strong southerly winds, navigation along this coast is closed. S.S. Sable I. is due here with 1,200 barrels flour and other provisions, and is unable to get in, consequently whole section of the coast from Daniel's Harbor to Trout River is still without any quantity of food-stuffs. People already borrowing from one another and outlook is not bright for renewal of navigation."

Virginia School.

ANNUAL PRIZE GIVING.

The annual prize giving was held at Virginia School last night. The room was filled to overflowing by the parents and friends of the pupils, also many visitors from the city. The school was very nicely decorated with evergreen and bells. Owing to the sudden illness of their son (Gordon) the Rector and Mrs. Earp were unable to attend and the duties of chairman fell upon Rev. G. O. Lightbourn. Mr. Cook in his report showed that the school was in a flourishing condition. Great praise is due Miss Kent and Miss Snow who spared no time in teaching the children. For the first time in the history of the school certificates for C.H.E. Exams were awarded to two of the scholars and these honors fell to Victor Dowden and Rebecca Dowden. Certificates and other prizes were presented by Miss M. Lightbourn. The programme was as follows:—
Welcome Song—Seven girls.
Recitation—Bessie Heale.
March—Boys.
Recitation—Edith Cook.
Good Night Song—Girls.
Recitation—R. Dowden.
Jack and Jill—Boys and Girls.
Recitation—V. Dowden.
Rainbow Drill—Girls.
Monologue—Edith Cook.
Xmas Controversy—Boys and Girls.
Recitation—Edna Heale.
Distribution of day school prizes.
Reports of school—H. R. Cook.
Distribution of Sunday school prizes.
Address—H. Y. Mott.
Address—Rev. G. O. Lightbourn.

Personal.

Major Jennings, who is connected with the Sir W. G. Armstrong Whitehead Company, arrived in the city last night by private car attached to a freight train.
Master Gordon Earp, son of the Rector of St. Thomas's, was taken ill yesterday and it was found necessary to remove him to the hospital for an operation for appendicitis. The operation was successfully performed last evening.
Ex-Servant Jack Robinson, who left here for Bermuda with the working party that left by the Sachem, has been appointed steward of the new golf club, erected by the Furness Withy Company. Mrs. Robinson and family are leaving here by the Rosalind to join her husband at Bermuda.

Damon's Broken Heart.

motor power succeeded the horse-drawn apparatus of the fire department, bolted from the garbage wagon, dragging his mate with him, dashed head foremost into the brick wall, crumpled down in a heap and died. And the firemen declare that Jack Gallup, humiliated by the transfer from his former post of duty to that of hauling garbage, deliberately committed suicide rather than face the new condition. This calls to memory an incident of back in about the year 1913 in Miami when Henry Chace was chief of the fire department and motor-driven apparatus was installed to take the place of horses. Among the equine beauties of the station was "Damon," a coal black horse, who had been in the service eight years and possessed almost human intelligence. Damon was sent to the city barns and placed in a yard around which was a wooden fence. The first alarm of fire which sounded created a scene in the animal stockade, and out of the excitement Damon was seen crashing through the wooden fence and then speeding on lightning hoofs toward the fire station. Arriving there, the proud beauty went direct to the place where it had been his custom to be hitched to the engine, and whinnied because the engine was not there and the harness was not at hand to be adjusted. This act of fidelity brought tears to the eyes of the firemen who had remained on duty at the station, and reluctantly they led Damon back to the stockade.

Damon seemed to realize the transformation in fire department affairs, but his heart was broken. He refused food and water, and in two weeks he died in his stable, although not ill even a day. And reading the stories of these two fire horses one understands the meaning of the expression—"horse sense." May it not be the sense of unwillingness to do less than the possible best, preferring extermination to humiliation?

years later nothing of it remained above the surface of the sea. In charts of thirty years ago you will find a group of five red specks to the south of Australia, named the Royal Company Islands. Their exact position was lat. 50.20 S., long. 143.0E. In 1900 S.S. Matatua passed right over this spot and found no trace of them, so the Admiralty has expunged them from its charts.

TWO FACED GIRL, LUKE! It is all right for a girl to believe that the face should be left exposed. The trouble is that she imagines her face runs all the way down to the wishbone.—Luke McLuke.

Wisps of Wisdom.

The biggest fool is the man who fools himself. It matters not how long we live, but how. An optimist has dreams of the future and a pessimist has nightmares. Be warned against nursing revengeful thoughts; they are apt to develop sharp stings. Working yourself to death is hard. Loading yourself to death is easier and much quicker. When anything comes easy there is something the matter with it, for good things come hard. Do not be too ready to air your grievances. By publishing complaints you will frequently reveal your weaknesses.

Lost Islands.

Some currency has been given to a rumour from Santiago that Easter Island has disappeared. The most isolated island on the globe, Easter Island is 2,630 miles from the nearest mainland. It is a triangle in shape, with sides 9 by 9 by 13 miles, and its cliffs rise 2,000 feet from an almost tideless sea. A large mouthful, in truth, for old Ocean to swallow in sudden fashion! But there are various cases on record in which a whole island has dropped from sight. Falcon Island, near the Tongas, was first seen in 1885, but no sooner had the map makers settled its position than it bobbed out of sight beneath the waves. Yet its cliffs were at least 150 feet high. In 1898 it rose again; steaming hot, but since that date it has again disappeared. Then there was Bermeja, a good sized islet in the southern part of the Gulf of Mexico. It was no upstart like Falcon Island, but had been in existence for many years. In 1901 a cruiser engaged in charting could find no sign of the island. There was not even a reef left. In 1841 Captain Dougherty reported an island about half way between New Zealand and Cape Horn, a great rocky ridge 300 feet high and 7 miles long. Twenty years later the island was described for a second time by Captain Keates. In the present century the Discovery sailed right over the spot formerly occupied by this island. What is more, soundings revealed a depth of 2,000 fathoms, or nearly three miles. Melte is another Pacific island which vanished in similarly mysterious fashion. In 1880 it was a great mass of rock, at least 150 feet high, but 20

ANNUAL CLOSING EXERCISES.

The annual closing exercises were held by the young ladies of St. Bride's College, Litledale, on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Assembly Hall of the College. His Grace the Archbishop presided, and amongst the guests present were the city priests, Dr. W. W. Blackall, Superintendent of Education, Church of England, and President of the Council of Higher Education, A. W. Wilson, Esq., Secretary of the Council, and many of the parents and relatives of the pupils. An address of welcome to the guests of the evening happily worded, and beautifully delivered by Miss Pauline Howlett, of the senior Associate class, opened the entertainment. This was followed by an Operetta in three acts entitled the Royal Jester, which was perfectly staged and showed thorough preparation in histrionic training and the art of feeling in home before an audience. The Royal Jester at the Court of Primitania, interpreted by Miss Pauline Howlett, is in reality Prince Sylvanus, son of the exiled King, de-throned by his usurping brother, King Otentis and Queen Zitania, played by Misses Mary Power and Clara Snow, are finding the financial depression very depressing, and when in the third act a lone crow is reported perched on the pinnacle of the palace, the whole court shares in their melancholy. Puck, however, Prince of Feathers and Spirit of Mirth, ably portrayed by Miss Marjorie Barker, brings some of the happiness and laughter of her quips and cranks to the gloomy monarchs and their court. So successful is this good spirit that the King and Queen are lured from their thrones and join in the dance of the court attendants. This, to the courtier, unseemly conduct on the part of the monarch and his consort causes the members of the Court to declare the throne vacant. Puck in the second act, having met the rightful heir to the throne causes the announcement to be made that the real heir has been discovered. He arrives with his wife, the Princess of Hilaria, (Miss M. O'Brien), whom he met after his escape from the dungeon into which he had been thrown by the wicked Otentis. The characters sustaining the principals were the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Miss Mary Roche; The Prime Minister, Miss Mary Murray; the Lord Chancellor, Miss Florrie Raymond; the Lord Chamberlain; Miss Nellie Vetch; the Court Astrologer, Miss Blanche Edwards; the Lord High Executioner, Miss Mary A. Murray; the commander-in-chief, Miss Madge Hodges; the Admiral of the Fleet, Miss Belle Berry; the Cashier, Miss Marjorie Lester; Quips and Cracks, Pares and Ladies-in-waiting, Shepherds and Shepherdesses, Court Ladies, Gentlemen and Royal Guards.

SIDE TALKS.

(By RUTH CAMERON.)

Only Young Once.

This is the golden age for children. Never were their needs and wishes, their pleasures, their education made the subject of so much anxious consideration, so much sacrifice as they are to-day.

And much of this is good. It is right and natural and beautiful that each generation should want to give a little more to its children than it received, should want to make up to the child of to-day for the disappointments and deprivations that the child of long ago suffered.

But it is so easy to do harm when you want to do good!

And when we get sentimental over children, I think we are apt to do them harm.

Here is the sort of thing that I mean.

I have a friend who has two daughters to whom she is a wonderful mother in every way but one. She cannot bear to make those children shoulder a single responsibility of any sort.

A Wonderful Mother But—

She has no maid and her husband suggests that she have each of the children perform two or three duties each day both for her sake and for theirs. Sometimes she makes spasmodic attempts to have them do this and then they beg off. "If I stop to help with the dishes I don't get to school until the last minute and all the other girls go early and have lots of fun before school." "Oh, mother, I don't want to come home after school to-day because Mary wants us all to come up to her house. Can't I go after I get my work done? Oh, dear, that wouldn't be half so much fun. I want to go along with the rest."

To such pleas as these the mother gives in and when the father approaches her she says: "I want them to have as much happiness as they can. They can only be young once, you know."

Unhappiness Later On.

That mother has such an excessive sense of the child's love of pleasure and disappointment at being balked, that she loses sight of other considerations. She forgets that it is only by having responsibilities and living up to them that we form character, and that lack of character may mean unhappiness in later life.

One often hears that phrase "They can only be young once" used by the sentimentalists with reference to a child's pleasures. It is a true phrase (naturally) but it applies to other things besides pleasures.

The Hardest Job.

A woman told me the other day that she was brought up on that phrase "They can only be young once." She was an only child and her mother was determined she should have all the pleasure possible and no work or responsibilities. When she married she married a man who demanded self discipline and a sense of responsibility from his wife. To win through to happiness she had to make herself over. She accomplished it with signal success. "But it was the hardest job I ever did," she told me. "And when I have children," she added with fervor, "I am going to see that they have some small duties to perform from their babyhood and that they grow up into a sense of responsibility."

I wonder if she will go too far the other way. I fear that this is the tendency with all of us, to try to avoid the mistakes whether of leniency or severity our own parents made, and in trying to go too far the other way.

Obituary.

MRS. ROSE PENNEY.
We regret to have to record the passing of Mrs. Rose Penney, widow of the late Judge Alfred Penney, which took place at Carbonar yesterday morning. Only little more than a month ago Judge Penney passed to the eternal reward, and although Mrs. Penney was seriously ill at the time, it was not anticipated that she was so soon to follow her husband to the land of everlasting reunion. Deceased was the elder daughter of the late Richard Taylor, whose name is still a fragrant memory in Carbonar Methodism. One sister, Mrs. Pike, wife of Captain James Pike of the Beach, and four brothers, Captain Hayward Taylor of Montreal, Mr. Hedley Taylor of Ayre & Sons, Ltd., Mr. Arthur Taylor of Carbonar, and Mr. H. W. Taylor, General Freight Agent for the Reid Newfoundland Company, survive her. The funeral takes place at Carbonar to-morrow. To the bereaved relatives the Telegram extends sympathy.

"Infatuation of Youth" at The Nickel.

PRODUCTION MADE BY THE HOUSE OF GAUMONT.

In the "Infatuation of Youth" two young people sport gayly upon the edge of the cliff—led on to danger by a scheming woman and her unscrupulous confederate. As the schemers gloat over the success of their plot—the thoughtless young couple are saved from their mad folly by the unselfish love of a noble young girl. Most people wear masks to conceal their real personalities. It would be highly interesting if the masks were suddenly removed and the real natures revealed. In this picture we see the adventures masquerading as a charitable woman—her confederate in crime, as a genial gentleman—the poor boy pretending to be the son of wealthy parents—the young married woman posing as a single girl. Gradually their deceit reveals a net of intrigue and danger—then suddenly the masks are dropped and the characters stand revealed as they really are. Here is a plot that is hard to beat.

Arab Tribes Menace Palestine.

LONDON—Very serious trouble is brewing in Palestine, according to the "News of the World," which states that General Tudor and other officials on the spot regard the future with "grave apprehension." The Arabs on the border and in Palestine itself, the paper says, may at any time attack the Jewish immigrants whom they regard with "deep rooted hostility." The government's authority is being openly flouted by what is known as the "Moslem Christian Association." A manifesto has been issued calling upon the population to disobey the instructions issued for the taking of the census, and the Association has decided to invoke the aid of Kamal Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist leader. "Our position," continues the News of the World, "is amazing. In effect, without any advantage to ourselves, and under a mandate from the League of Nations, we are holding Palestine at a cost of many millions a year for the benefit of Jewish immigrants, and thus incurring the hostility of the Arabs.

TO FIGHT OR GIVE WAY. "We may shortly find ourselves faced in Palestine with a situation similar to that in Turkey. We shall either have to fight or give way. The question is, what would we be fighting for, and what would we gain by fighting? The problem is not an easy one," the paper adds. "Owing to the action of Great Britain, America and France, thousands of Jews have gone to settle in Palestine. It would be interesting to know how much per head per annum each Jewish immigrant is costing Great Britain. The scheme for the settlement of the East has broken down, in a great measure owing to the neglect of the United States to back up the treaties which she took so great care in preparing. But whatever may be the cause, now is the time for peaceful action and for the definition of a policy."

Women of Ashanti.

SEND GIFT TO PRINCESS MARY. LONDON—A silver stool has been presented to Princess Mary, Viscountess Lascelles, as the wedding gift of the Queen Mothers of Ashanti and the Gold Coast. The gift was presented by Lady Guggenbergs, wife of the governor of the Gold Coast. It has long been given her by Queen Mother Gewa Akoto, of Ashanti. The stool is an exact replica of the Queen Mother's own stool. Accompanying the gift was a letter from Queen Akoto, describing how the stool was made and consecrated. The letter reads as follows:—"I place this gift in your hands. It is a gift for the King's child on her wedding. Ashanti stool-makers have carved it. All queen-mothers who dwell here have contributed toward it. It may be that the King's child has heard of the Golden Stool of Ashanti. That is the stool which contains the souls of the Ashanti nation. All we women of Ashanti thank the Governor exceedingly, because he has declared that the English will never again ask us to hand over that stool. This stool we give gladly. It of our women. We in Ashanti have a law which declares that only the daughters of a Queen can transmit royal blood, and that the children of a King cannot be heirs of the stool. This law has given us women a saying in this land, so that we have a saying which runs, "It is the woman who bears the man." We hear that your law is not so. Nevertheless, we have great joy in sending you our congratulations, and we pray the great God Nyankopon, on whom men lean and do not fall; whose day of worship is a Saturday, and whom the Ashantis serve, just as you serve Him that he may give the King's child and her husband long life and happiness.

BILLY'S UNCLE

Chaplin's Choice.
Renowned Engagement— Couple "Quite Well Off."
That much-talked-of event—the engagement of Charlie Chaplin—is reported in the "Los Angeles Times." The lady is Miss Pola Negri, the Polish film star.
The same paper publishes an interview with Charlie, who, probably on account of his habitual shyness, refuses to confirm or deny the report. If the rumour is correct the romance is a sequel to what C.C. calls his "wonderful trip"—the visit to this country. For he met Pola in

That's How It Looks to Billy!

Europe, and then he "discovered" her, it is said, as a film genius.
Miss Negri made her screen debut before a British audience recently in a picture called "Passion" at the New Scala in London.
Her triumph in America is said to be to the extent of £1000 a week, but this is a mere pittance to Charlie's £1000 a day. It looks, if this happy romance comes true, as if Mr. and Mrs. Charlie should be quite "comfortably off."
Charlie Chaplin was divorced in November, 1920, on the ground of "mental cruelty" by Miss Mildred Harris, the United States cinema star

Early Morning Blaze.

THREE DWELLINGS AND BARN DESTROYED.

Three dwelling houses and one coach house situated on Pearce Avenue, off Mundy Pond Road, were razed to the ground in an early morning blaze. The fire, which originated in the residence of Mr. Alf King, was discovered at 2.30 o'clock, when the owner was awakened by the crackling of wood. Jumping out of bed he proceeded downstairs only to find the lower portion of the premises in a mass of flames. Hurrying back he succeeded in removing his wife and five children to a place of safety. All were dressed in their night attire, there being no time to put on other clothing. Mr. King then alarmed some of his neighbours and hurried to the Ropewalk, several hundred yards distant and telephoned to the Central Fire Hall for assistance. On his return, his home was a mass of flames while the adjoining house occupied by his father was also burning. When the neighbours assembled a bucket brigade was formed and water from a nearby well was applied, whilst some others threw snow on the flames. Although they worked with a will, the efforts of the volunteers were of little avail and both dwellings and a coach house were burned to the ground. The contents of all three buildings was also burned. The firemen, who had been summoned ten minutes after the outbreak, made valiant efforts to reach the scene, but owing to deep snow their apparatus became bogged, and only a hose reel reached the scene. About 2.15, the residence of John Fitzpatrick, which was situated about 10 or 15 yards west of King's houses, caught fire and despite the efforts of those assembled, this also was consumed by flames. The heat became so intense about this time that the volunteer workers could not go within yards of the burning buildings, and all that could be done was to stand by and watch the devouring flames. Only a few pieces of furniture could be saved. Residents further West became alarmed and started to move their belongings to the nearby fields. Fortunately the nearest house was separated by a break of fifty yards, otherwise the destruction would have been greater. At 4.30 all danger had passed, and only the ruins of what a couple of hours before were comfortable houses, remained. The loss is extensive and it is understood that Mr. King carried only $1,000 insurance and Mr. Fitzpatrick $1,500.

Curling Season Opens.

The St. John's Curling Rink opened for the season last night. A large number of members were present, while several games were played. The ice was in excellent condition, and many good shots were recorded. The opening of the rink so early in the season, almost constitutes a record, and the committee are to be heartily congratulated on their initiative. The opening game of the season resulted as follows:

L. Stick F. R. Clark
L. G. Chafe T. Hallett
P. M. Duff C. J. Fox
A. Reid (skip) J. Hanlin (skip)

Curling enthusiasts are looking forward to a successful season.

Fads and Fashions.

The suede gloves which generally match the costume are decidedly plainer this year.

Sprays of green paradise are used on each side of a large picture hat of black velvet.

Corded shirring was used on the collar and hip band of an evening wrap of white velvet.

A great deal of color is used in the new overblouses which are becoming more lallered.

Turban head-dresses of silver, gold, bright chiffons and velvets are replacing jeweled tiaras.
