SIR WILFRID'S VISIT

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has ever been accorded a welcome when he has found it possible to Western Canada, and he may rest assured that ention that will everywhere be given him on casion of the visit which he proposes to make fall of this year will, if possible, be more than any he has received in the past.

It was with some anxiety that the Liberals of anada heard the rumor circulated shortly after st general election that it was the intention great Liberal chieftain to retire from active life. The announcement, which came that the force and charm of his personality and his rare intellectual gifts would remain at the ce of Canadian Liberalism was received with meral rejoicing by all who cherished a regard the best interests of the party.

r Wilfrid will this year be doubly welcome Western Canada because in September last ent down to defeat as the leader in a great tin a cause that is dear to the hearts of West-The dominant influence exercised by the ian Manufacturers' association in the East aplished his defeat. The prairie provinces, ever, gave him overwhelming support, and if idence were needed to show that the vote ese provinces is still behind him and the which he represents, it will be found in the unmistakable declaration of the people of askatchewan. The grand old man of Canadian ralism will therefore be thrice welcome to Visitors from the East are frequently moved to ark upon the general neglect in Western cities he many opportunities afforded for civic beaumication. The charge is made, not without good much accustomed to think of vacant ground as h accustomed to think of vacant ground as saleable lots that it seldom occurs to them to think of them as potential gardens. Calgary is not able to flatter herself that in this respect she appears to any advantage in a comparison with her cities of similar age and size. There is need efore for all the missionary work the horticulbral society is able to do. It is a factor in the dization of the ideal of a City Beautiful, and deserves the heartiest support of every public

NEWSPAPERS AND THE PUBLIC

There are few doctrines more open to attack than that implied in the common notion, encouragby some newspapermen, that the daily news-Paper is primarily not a business institution, but him that that organization is non-political.

a sort of church, and the editor a man with duties and responsibilities differing but little from those of a minister of the gospel. The prevalence of this belief is indicated by a recently published editorial in The Vancouver Sun, in which exception is taken to the statement, made in an address on the mission of the newspaper delivered in Yelson by W. Buchanan, member of parliament and editor, that newspapermen are in the business to make money. The Sun seems to be under the impression that it has disposed of this statement when it has declared that "those who conduct the real business of journalism are among the least mercenary of mortals." For all that, we know a similiar statement might be made with equal truth of booksellers, but it would remain no less indisputable that booksellers are engaged in that business primarily for the purpose of making money.

The newspaper exists, like the bookstore or, for that matter, like the corner grocery, primarily for the purpose of making profit by supplying the public with what the public wants. Like any other business concern it exists only so long as it supplies the needs of the public; it lives or dies by the operation of the laws governing the relation of supply and demand. The cost of its production is paid, not by the man who pays a nickel for a copy on the street, but by the advertisers, who comprise the proprietor of the department store, the grocery store, the hardware store, the real estate business, the travelling circus and even the patent medicine. They will pay for its production by their advertisements only so long as it is read by the people whom they desire to reach. The people whom they desire to reach are not merely the refined and cultured people who are interested only in religion, art, literature and the higher politics and abhor reports of murders and prize fights, but also the great mass of the people, who are more interested in the details of the world's championship prize fight than in the progress of negotiations for an arbitration treaty between two great nations.

We refuse to believe that the editor of The Sun gives prominence in its news columns to a big prize fight because he personally believes it to be the most important item of news that has come over the wires, or that he prints a pulpit utterance on the hobble skirt or the smoking habit because he believes it to be more elevating than the good sermon for which he could find no space. He does these things from precisely the same motives that govern the cultured bookseller who displays in his window the rubbish written by the latest writer of popular ephemeral novels, namely, because he is in business and must supply his customers, not with what he likes but with what they want.

The newspaper is not so much an index to the minds of the makers of newspapers as a mirror which reflects the tastes and opinions of the man

With these facts made clear as illustrating the fundamental laws that govern the existence of the newspaper, it may be admitted that there remains a certain limited sphere within which the newspaperman may become active in moulding and elevating public opinion. As the bookseller may place a folder advertising classic works between the leaves of a novel by Marie Corelli, so even in the stimulus which it gives to the interest in the news columns of a daily paper an effort may orticultural pursuits of those people who visit it, be made to elevate the taste of the public. While, however, the public is good-natured it is also obstinate, and he who would lead it must be content to travel but a short distance ahead and go slowly lest he find himself travelling alone. Finally it must be admitted that the newspaperman who would teach has some scope for his activities in the editorial page-which will not be read by the great majority of those who buy the newspaper. While there he may be said, in a sense, to occupy a pulpit, it is not one in which he enjoys the security of the man who occupies the church pulpit. It might be better likened to a street corner rostrum, where people can more readily follow their inclination to listen, heckle, throw over-ripe eggs at the speaker, or leave him without an audience.

EDITORIAL NOTES

J. W. Willison, editor of The Toronto News in his address before the Canadian club emphasis ed the need for some rules that would compel Eastern legislators to visit the West before undertaking legislation for the West. His discreet treatment of the tariff question in Calgary, as compared with the wild utterance of protectionist fallacies in Winnipeg and other places would appear to indicate either that he himself is learning wis dom on his westward tour, or else that the executive of the Canadian club were careful to advise

BILLY ALLEN AND JOE BAYLEY WILL MEET ON SEPTEMBER FOURTH AT CEPEEAR

* Bout Will be Held During Week of the Stampede; Big Arena Capable of Seating 15,000 Spectators is Being Constructed; Both Men Are Ready for Bout

Billy Allen will meet Joe Bayley, the present holder of the Canadian lightweight championship, on the morning of September 4. The bout will be held in a new arena which will accommodate fifteen thousand people, and is being built at Cepeear, in the very shadows of the new Ogden car shops, just outside of Calgary. Arrangements were completed yesterday with the owners of the property, and a syndicate, composed of Calgary men, will construct the arena, which will be a permanent affair, and in all probability will be the scene of a good many bouts. Tommy Burns is the official promoter of the club, and judging by the class of exhibitions which Tommy has always staged, this bout will be one of the best ever seen in the Dominion. Billy Allen has been training in Ottawa ever since the

Joe Bayley, too, has not let up in his training, and if he is successful in defending his newly acquired title, will be given a chance at some of the best lightweights in the world. It will be remembered that the day after the battle at Bassano, when Billy Allen lost the title, the two men were signed for a return match in September. Forfeits were posted at the time, but although nothing has been said for some time about the affair, the men at the back of it have been working steadily on the arrangements, which were culminated yesterday when the syndicate for building the arena was financed.

Great Wave of Enthusiastic Piano Buying Attends the Mason & Risch Forced Removal Sale

Old established warerooms at 710 Centre Street, scene of the greatest piano-buying event of the century. Being unable to complete firm's new premises on time cuts piano prices to an unbelievable extent

Everything Must Go——Customers to Make the Terms

There are the orders that have gone forth to our salesmen, and the eager crowds of delighted buyers that have already availed themselves of the wonderful piano values offered attest to the thorough way in which these orders are being carried out. Whatever the style of piano demanded, whatever the price, whatever the terms, our big stock seems ready to satisfy every want, every customer goes smiling away, satisfied with the piano bargains of a lifetime.

Surely never such a slaughter of piano prices has ever been seen. Savings of from $50 to $175 on the world's greatest makes is the rule at Mason & Risch's Great Forced Removal Sale. We urge even greater numbers of our friends, and our friends' friends to share in this splendid moneysaving opportunity. We say: "Come and see for yourself." Cold type cannot do justice to the money-saving merit of this notable event.

The reputation of the house of Mason & Risch for carrying out the highest grade of pianos is bearing welcome fruit in the shape of an unprecedented surge of shrewd piano buyers. Right and left the most tempting bargains are being picked up, but many still remain, for our stock of new and slightly used Pianos and Player-Pianos was one of the heaviest on the continent. We are determined to have none left on Sept. 1st, when our lease expires and we face the problem of having no place to take our instruments.

Choicest Uprights, in mahogany, oak and walnut, that you have always seen priced at $400, $525 and $600, are going at $312, $448 and $495. Good used Uprights from $65 up. Guaranteed Uprights from $227 up. On your own terms.

We prefer to see our splendid stock of guaranteed instruments in the homes of our friends rather than consigned to the damaging and expensive ordeal of storage. We will face any loss now, but we must not have a single instrument on our hands at the expiration of our lease, when the landlord says "Leave!" and our new warerooms contractor says "Wait "

Don't wait until this opportunity is past. Come in freely; you are under no obligation to buy. If you can't come at once, write or lelephone for our daily bargain list.
