Bad Carriage Accident Injuring Occupants

Hon. W. H. Owen and Daughter Olive Thrown from Carriage Receiving Serious Injuries.—Mr. Owen's Condition Serious.

BRIDGEWATER, Aug. 8.—While the Hon. W. H. Owen, Mrs. Owen and two daughters, the Misses Hilda and Olive were driving down Maple Street this evening, a portion of the harness broke frightening the horse, which ran away. Mrs. Owen and Miss Hilda who were sitting behind, jumped from the carriage, but on turning into King Street the horse ran into a house on the opposite side, throwing Mr. Owen violently on the piazza, and Miss Olive beside the piazza and against a tree.

Mr. Owen sustained a deep and serious cut on the left temple, is badly bruised and shaken, and is considered in a serious condition. He is sixty-eight years of age, and a very heavy man. Miss Olive is cut about the face and much bruised. Doctors Rehuss and Freeman attended Mr. Owen, while Dr. Kelly looked after Miss Owen. The community is much excited over the accident, and widespread sympathy is heard on all sides for the injured ones and family.

Mount Allison Institutions

The question as to where to send your son or daughter for further education is answered by the Mount Allison advertisements in today's issue. There is no better preparatory school for boys than the Mount Allison Academy, one of the oldest of its kind in Canada. There is no better Commercial College in eastern Canada than the one in connection with the Academy. A residential school, instruction is given under conditions which the most thorough development of character.

The Mount Allison Ladies' College—which includes the College for Literature and Science, the Conservatory of Music, the Massey-Treble School of Household Science, the Oratory Department, the Owens Museum of Fine Arts—is the largest in Canada. All its teachers are specialists, the members of the Conservatory staff having been trained in Europe. Its equipment is extensive and thoroughly modern. The school aims to be, and is, a home-like institution where the development of the individual student along all lines is sought. In this fact is to be found the reason why the school has attained its leading position.

A calendar of the Academy and Commercial College will be sent free on application to Mr. J. M. Palmer, M. A., Sackville, N. B. The Ladies' College calendar will be sent free if application for it is made to Dr. B. C. Borden, Sackville, N. B.

Aged Farmer Robbed of Large Sum of Money

CONFIDENCE MEN FOUND MAN OF EIGHTY INTERESTED IN ELECTRIC BELTS

A Yarmouth correspondent sends a story of the loss of $1,250 through confidence men, already reported in the Herald. He says it was a Lunenburg man, aged eighty years, who parted with the snug sum of $1,250 when the circus was at Bridgewater. He met, on a road leading to Bridgewater, a man purporting to be interested in real estate, and with whom he entered into conversation. The old man's hobby appeared to be electric belts. They were soon joined by another, who was seeking an agent for electric belts, but before an appointment could be made it would be necessary for the applicant to put up standing.

$1,250 as an evidence of his financial standing. A fourth man, purporting to be a judge from Halifax, joined the trio and they adjourned to a tent connected with the circus. This was, however, before the Bridgewater man went to his bank and obtained the sum named. He was now looking for his money, but there is no evidence that the man connected with the robbery are attached to the circus, which was attended here by six thousand people.

The Web of the Wireless

St. John Times.—The pages of the sensational novel tell no more remarkable story than that of the murderer of Mrs. Crippen and the pursuit and his capture of Dr. Crippen and his paramour. The long quest is over, and justice will be done. The wireless telegraph enabled the author-critics to locate the murderer in mid-Atlantic, and escape was impossible. The pair had sailed for Canada, hopeful of escape. They were unconscious as the steamship sped toward the St. Lawrence that the web of fate had closed around them and that the wireless operator on the Montrose had told all the world the story. This is the first great criminal case in which the wireless telegraph has played a part. Henceforth there will be a new terror for the fugitive from justice.

Clarence.

Mrs. Alfred McPherson and daughter of Leominster, Mass., spent last week visiting Mrs. R. B. Flak and other relatives here.

Miss Merle Banks is spending a few weeks with friends at Lawrencetown. Mrs. Fulmer and daughter, Edna, of Bridgetown, spent last week at S. N. Jackson's.

Mrs. Louise Taylor, of Upper Granville, is visiting Mrs. N. B. Foster and other relatives here.

Grace Elliott spent last week at Wilmot.

Mrs. Willie Messenger, of Port Lorne, spent last week with Mrs. Fred G. Banks.

Miss Fannie Sutherland, of Truro, is spending a few weeks with her friend, Miss Flossie Chute.

Mrs. Hattie Marshall returned home last week after over a year's absence with friends in Ontario and Massachusetts and was accompanied home by her daughter, Mrs. VanTassel, of Digby.

Miss Hazel Robbins, of Bear River, who has been spending a month with her sister, Mrs. A. J. Wilson, has returned home.

Children's parties seem to be the order of the day and are greatly enjoyed by the little folk.

Mr. Guy Minard, of Queens Co., is visiting his brother, Tracey Minard.

Mrs. Jennie Holt is spending the week in Middleton.

Mrs. Edgar Betton is stopping a few weeks with Mrs. Annie Betton.

Port Wade

S. S. Catalone, Capt. Glover, sailed Saturday morning, 6th, for Scotland with a full load of hemite ore about 6,000 tons.

S. S. Patria, Capt. Lawson, came in to dock Saturday afternoon. This is another very nice boat which will carry 4,400 tons. She will finish loading in about eight or ten hours according to the working of the machinery.

A large barque for Annapolis has been anchored in the stream for the past week and while this shipping was in port a four-mast schooner passed along up to load lumber at Annapolis (forget her name). She was built at Granville Ferry.

Some of the optimistic ones begin to think that Port Wade has quite a brilliant future before her. Quite a number of men are employed here yet completing the works and perfecting the machinery.

Miss Winnie Litch came home from Beverly, Mass., Friday to stay indefinitely.

Quite a number of people went to Digby from here Saturday to see How's Circus and by special trip in the evening to see the moving pictures and to attend How's concert in the school grounds.

We are getting very poor haying weather. The crop is unusually large. Vegetables are looking fine.

James Sloumb with family moved over here from Digby last week. They are living with Mr. Sloumb's parents.

Mrs. Edw. Sloumb continues in a critical state of health.

Mr. Archibald of the firm of Reed & Archibald, was here last week settling their contract of business. Their former, Mr. D. C. Flemming, has gone up to Newcastle, N. B., where works of a similar character are being constructed by the Canadian Iron Co., and under contract of building by Messrs Reed & Archibald.

A large picnic was enjoyed here by Annapolis and Granville Ferry people on Friday, composed of the different denominations, Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterians. There was also a picnic from Digby Thursday afternoon.

In buying a cough medicine, don't be afraid to get Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it, and relief is sure to follow. Especially recommended for coughs, colds and whooping cough. Sold by all dealers.

Alliance For Trade and Commerce

Boston Herald Quotes an Interview with Harry J. Crowe, Regarding Commercial Union of English-Speaking Nations.— Would Strengthen Great Britain Against Ambitious Rivals of Both Countries

(Boston Herald)

Harry J. Crowe, the largest lumber operator in Newfoundland, at present residing in Toronto, who sold Lord Northcliffe that strip of Newfoundland measuring 3000 square miles, stopped in Boston yesterday on the way to Newfoundland and talked with a Herald reporter in favor of closer trade relations between the United States and Great Britain and her colonies.

He feared that there was very little sentiment in Canada for reciprocity with the United States. Instead, he suggested that the United States let in free of duty certain natural resources of Canada that are of particular value to this country. It was his idea that in return England include in the protective tariff, which he thinks there is some likelihood will be adopted, compensating tariff preferences for manufacturers of the United States and cancel her treaty with Japan, a country which he thinks is dangerous to the United States.

"While the sentiment is growing rapidly in Great Britain in favor of adopting protection, giving the colonies a preference, the objection raised by the extreme free-traders would be largely overcome," said Mr. Crowe. "If the sphere of preference were enlarged to include the United States, thus preventing the monopoly they fear the colonies would have by an exclusive preference."

"As for Canada and the other colonies a preference from the United States for the free admission of such articles as fish, wool and coal (which would be of equal advantage to the United States) would not only remove their objection to the United States) having an equal preference with them in the mother country, but would so cement the friendly relations now existing between the United States and the colonies that the United States would at least hold her present increasing trade relations with them, more particularly Canada, even without receiving further concessions in their tariff."

"The additional advantage of having a preference in the markets of Great Britain over such countries as Germany and Japan would be a fair and reasonable quid pro quo for the United States to give Great Britain some preference on the goods she now imports from foreign countries, thus not interfering with her own industries."

"A preference in the markets of Great Britain and friendly commercial relations with the colonies would be of such advantage to the manufacturing and laboring classes in the United States that even those of your foreign population who might not otherwise look with favor on closer relations with Great Britain would see such material advantages to themselves by the increased business resulting that they would not be inclined to oppose it, even though commercial interests of their own country should suffer."

"It is very evident that Germany is determined upon striking a blow at the British Empire, as shown by her extraordinary naval program, and I believe that the ambition of Japan is not only to control the trade routes of the Pacific ocean, but to have dominion over a portion of those countries whose shores are washed by those waters, which would include English as well as American possessions."

"Her victory over China and Russia removed two great obstacles. Her treaty with Great Britain was another step toward realizing this great dream, as it has given Japan time for preparation before making her final move. This last obstacle in her way is the United States. Having a strong, skillfully manned fleet, it might be possible, with her convenient naval bases, to get possession of the Philippines and the Hawaiian Islands in their present state of defence. With those additional naval bases and an army of over 1,000,000 trained soldiers, I venture to say that Japan would be a formidable foe to prevent landing and holding at least part of the Pacific coast between Alaska and California."

"The fact of the United States violating her treaty with Japan is not extending to her citizens the same privileges that are granted to other foreigners would be sufficient cause to justify her to precipitate a war, which she will probably do as soon as properly prepared—unless checked in the meantime by the union of the English-speaking nations. This of course would necessitate Great Britain cancelling her Anglo-Japanese treaty, which I do not think is at all popular, either in Great Britain or her colonies."

"COMMERCIAL UNION FIRST. "I think, however, that an offensive and defensive alliance between the English-speaking nations would have to be preceded by a commercial alliance. No doubt England and the United States will hesitate taking this step, fearing that the other nations will look with disfavor upon this English alliance. I think France and possibly Italy and Russia would not raise any objection to such an alliance, as it would strengthen Great Britain, their natural ally, against the nations they have most cause to fear."

"Germany and Japan are practically the only countries that are showing an ambition for expansion that will require a war to satisfy, and who would consider that their political and commercial interests would be interfered with by an alliance of the English-speaking nations. The natural products of France, Russia, Italy, Norway and Sweden would suffer little, if any, by the United States having preference in the markets of Great Britain. Therefore such an alliance should have the support of the majority of foreign nations."

Police Boarded Steamer Disguised as Pilots

Father Point, Que., July 31--All doubts as to whether "Doc" Mr. Robinson and son, on board the steamer Montrose, were Dr. Crippen and Miss LeNeve, the notorious London slayer of his wife, and his paramour, were set at rest this morning, when Inspector Dew, of Scotland Yard, boarded the steamer Montrose and immediately recognized the pair as the people he had been sent after.

They were immediately arrested and kept on the boat as prisoners, continuing on to Quebec. The Montrose arrived at Father Point this morning at 8.30, and was met by a pilot tug, on board of which were Inspector Dew, with Chief McCarthy and ex-Chief Denis, of the provincial police, all disguised in oilskins as pilots.

When they boarded the Montrose, Dr. Crippen was walking the deck with Dr. Stuart of the Montrose. SURGEON'S EXPLANATIONS TO CRIPPEN.

Crippen appeared nervous and enquired why so many pilots boarded the vessel. Dr. Stuart replied that possibly they were returning home after a trip.

The three officers walked the deck until they had a good look at Crippen and Miss LeNeve. As soon as Inspector Dew saw them he recognized the two, and gave a pre-arranged signal to his companions.

Immediately Chief McCarthy and Denis moved over and arrested Crippen and Miss LeNeve, and took them down to their cabin, where they were held in charge of Inspector Dew.

Crippen was completely taken by surprise and became deadly pale when the officers apprehended him, his agitation being such that he was wholly unable to speak.

Miss LeNeve was seized with hysterics and could not say a word as she was assisted below.

THE DRAMA OVER IN A FEW MINUTES. The whole drama was enacted within a few minutes and as soon as it was over a whistle was blown from the Montrose to a steam tender lying by, which enabled the thirty or more press representatives from Great Britain, Canada and the United States to board the Montrose with the regular pilot. The vessel at once proceeded with the prisoners and pressmen to Quebec, where she was expected to arrive after midnight, and where Crippen and Miss LeNeve were landed for the necessary formalities for their return to face their trial in London.

COMPULSORY ARBITRATION

Woodstock Sentinel Review--One outcome of the "I. T. P." strike is the growing demand for the compulsory arbitration disputes with public service corporations. The desire for compulsory arbitration is quite natural. When a railway system is tied up or seriously hampered in its operations the public is directly and sincerely interested in preventing such disputes reaching the points of open warfare. But the question is not merely what is desirable, but what is possible. How would it be possible to make compulsory arbitration effective? The law might compel the disputants to abide by the results of the arbitration? 10,000 men, say insisted on quitting work, how could the law compel them to resume work? Compulsory arbitration has given more or less satisfaction in New Zealand, but the conditions there are, vastly different from what they are here. And yet every serious interruption to public business caused by the tying up of a public service corporation will serve to hasten the day when a remedy of some kind will be attempted.

Alcoholism Lays Out the Bed of Tuberculosis

Dr. Dube, of Montreal, Makes Strong Denunciation of Drink Habit at Temperance Convention.

Knowlton, Que., July 28--Much greater interest and larger attendance than last year at the Temperance Convention are to be recorded this year. Many visitors arrived yesterday, among them being Mrs. Sanderson, President of the Quebec Provincial Women's Christian Temperance Union, Dr. J. E. Dube, of Montreal; and Rev. W. H. Stevens, of Chathamville, Ont., all of whom are scheduled to address the convention.

Dr. Dube received a great reception as representative of the French race, the medical profession and the Roman Catholic Church. The subject was "Alcoholism the Scourge," and placing an imaginary youth before the audience he told the latter just what as a doctor he would have told such a young man in real life. ALCOHOL CHARACTER AND PHYSIQUE.

Beginning with the brain, Dr. Dube traced the effect of alcohol on every organ of the body, the cumulative effect of his argument being exceedingly powerful. Some of his striking phrases were "Forty-five per cent. of the patients in Longue Pointe Asylum are there through alcoholism, and the same is true in other lunatic asylums." "Large numbers of men of forty-five fifty have impaired eyesight because of drink." "Alcoholism lays out the bed for tuberculosis."

"The big, strong, powerful man who drinks alcohol liquor is a worse case, for doctors to treat when attacked with consumption than the pale-faced, flat-chested, anaemic girl in like case, because the latter does not drink." "The drinker gets old quickly, and with hardened arteries and fatty degeneration of the heart, dies suddenly." Here and there an old man who drinks may live to ninety, but drink is not the sure way to ninety.

"Alcohol burns the stomach and interferes with the liver's power to destroy the microbes of disease. A drinker of sixty cannot have pneumonia and live. With rare exceptions the young men who die of pneumonia, typhoid, and other diseases of the kind are drinkers. The kidneys fail to do their cleansing work when one drinks, and Bright's Disease is far more prevalent among drinkers than abstainers." "Drink destroys will power, prevents creative work, and stifles ambition." The father who drinks is not the right kind of father physiologically; he cannot be.

"Go out and teach," concluded Dr. Dube, "that alcoholism is brutalizing and sinful, that our national future depends upon sober homes and strong children and that alcoholism is the nation's greatest charge."

The man who laughs at a joke when it is at some other man's expense must expect his turn some day. No man who has tasted the cup of bitterness, won success from failure, felt the inspiring hope of a smile, carried his burden in the world, struggled against hope, rubbed elbows with sorrow, and lived to see other men die; in other words no man who has done the things worth while in this world has the time to make light of other people's suffering, laugh at other people's efforts.

NEATLY HIT OFF. Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox hit off in a neat epigram a notorious difference in the world's treatment of the sexes. "To say," she observed, "that everybody is talking about a young man is a eulogy; but to say that everybody is talking about a young woman is an elegy."--New York Tribune.

THE KITCHEN ENTRANCE

A kitchen entrance should be as logical a part of the house as a front entrance. To have a kitchen entrance that juts out from the rest of the building like a loosely attached wood shed shows carelessness in planning. In the country, and the suburbs especially, the back of the house is as important as the front in establishing the right tone to the place. One of the best signs of sincerity in our houses is the growing use of the term "garden side" for the rear of the house.

The June bank statement shows that the financial condition of Canada is most satisfactory. During that month bank deposits increased nearly $7,000,000 and savings deposits almost $10,000,000. For the same month the trade of Canada shows an increase of $11,000,000 over last year, and a total of over $30,000,000 for the first quarter of the fiscal year.

Joker's Corner

REWARD OF SUSPICION.

Some time ago John Burns, who is nothing if not precise in his methods, had an amusing experience with a policeman whom he suspected of breaking the law. While out walking one day, "Honest John" observed a constable in deep conversation with a man in civilian dress. Just as Mr. Burns was nearing the two the civilian suddenly drew something out of his pocket and handed it to the policeman. Scouting a disregard of law against tipping in the force, Mr. Burns was quickly at the policeman's side.

"Open your hand!" he demanded in tentative accent. For a moment the constable hesitated and looked very confused. "Open your hand!" repeated the now furious Mr. Burns. Slowly the policeman obeyed, revealing to the M. P.'s puzzled gaze neither a piece of silver nor even a penny, but a large enough drop! The next moment "Honest John" had disappeared.--Ideas.

WOODEN.

Certain members of the house party were describing the accidents that had happened to them during their various careers. Adventures by flood, fire and field, had all been well received, and de Sappely, eager for fame, thought it was his turn.

"I've known," he said, "I had a very painful experience once. I ran a confounded splinter quite half an inch long right under my finger nail, don't you know?"

"Really, Mr. de Sappely," said a maiden of the party. "How did you do it?"

"Well," he said, "it happened like this." As he spoke he unconsciously raised his hand and scratched his forehead.

"Oh, I see," she interrupted sweetly. "How very careless of you!" Ideas.

ADVICE TO A COUNTRY WOMAN.

Mme. Qui Vive, writing to "Country Woman" in the Chicago Herald says: Do you want to know why the country woman's dress looks so dowdy on the streets of a big city? Because, as a rule, the country woman overdresses. She has not learned that elegance is plainness, simplicity and soft, dark or subdued colors. On the counters of shops are many worthless and meaningless things--like gilt belt buckles, stickpins, bangles bracelets, chains, fussy neck affairs and general tralalas of dress.

These you must shun, for they signify neither taste nor necessity. Never buy a white hat. A white hat is a horror, and usually a soiled horror, at that. Don't wear silks. Get plain cloth, and have it made up plainly. A plain sailor hat is better than a topknot trimmed with a cheap and draggy plume.

If your liver is sluggish and out of tune, and you feel dull, bilious, constipated, take a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets tonight before retiring and you will feel all right in the morning. Sold by all dealers.

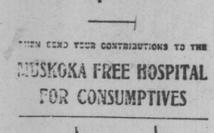

CABBAGE WORM

This is the green worm which works on cabbage and cauliflower, and which is produced from the eggs of the white butterfly. Use Paris green and arsenate of lead in water curing the season as frequently as occasion demands on cabbage. Cauliflower cannot be sprayed after the heads begin to form. Dry hellebore, which is harmless to man, can be used on cauliflower heads if they are eaten by insects. Some growers use Paris green on cabbage as strong as three pounds in fifty gallons of water, since they seem to be resistant to injury. A quart of soft soap, or eight quarts of very strong soapens should be used in every fifty gallons to insure the liquid spreading over the leaf. Any liquid which contains Paris green should be kept constantly stirred during the spraying to prevent the Paris green from settling to the bottom. Maritime Farmer.

Calmness of manner comes only from a controlled relaxation of the muscular forces. Note the word "controlled"--not flabbiness, but mentally governed ease. There is danger to the nervous system in hurry--there is power in quietly controlled action. "Slow and sure" is a good every-day working motto.

THE MUSKOKA FREE HOSPITAL FOR CONSUMPTIVES. THE BUILDING FOR PATIENTS.

Since the hospital was opened in April, 1902, one thousand five hundred and twenty-four patients have been treated in this one institution, representing people from every province in the Dominion. For the week ending November 23rd, 1909, one hundred and twenty-five patients were in residence. Ninety-six of these are not paying a cent for their maintenance--absolutely free. The other twenty-nine paid from $2.00 to $3.00 a week. No one pays more than $4.00.

Suitable cases are admitted promptly in completion of application papers.

A CAREFUL PATIENT. Nora P. Canham: Enclosed you will find receipt for my ticket from Grandview, hoping that you will be able to oblige me with the fare. I was at your Sanatorium ten months, and I was sent away from there as an apparent cure. I am now working in the city, and I am feeling fine. I was most thankful for the care I got from the doctors and staff, and I must say that I spent the time of my life while I was there.

TWO BARNs DESTROYED BY FIRE AT AMHERST.

Amherst, Aug. 3. -- Two large barns belonging to Netis Chappell, together with their contents were completely destroyed by fire yesterday. This is the second time Mr. Chappell has suffered in a similar manner within the last few years, and the loss which it is understood is only partially covered by insurance, is a serious one.

BATHURST LAD IN MILL FURNACE.

Bathurst, N. B., July 25. -- (Special) --Francis Roy, a young lad seventeen years of age, died here Saturday night, as a result of a dreadful accident which took place that afternoon. He was employed at the Neptune Company's shingle mill, tending the feeding of the furnace with sawdust, and other refuse material, when in some unaccountable way, he fell into the flames. When rescued he was horribly burned, and only lived a few hours.

"I FEEL IT MY DUTY

To Give You a Statement In Regard To 'Fruit-a-tives'

HARDWICK, MIRAMICHI, N.B., Jan. 17th, 1910.
"I feel it my duty to give to you and the world an unsolicited statement in respect to the wonderful cure I received by taking 'Fruit-a-tives.' Chronic Constipation was the complaint I suffered with for years. My general health was miserable as a result of this disease, and I became depressed and alarmed. It was treated by physicians without the slightest permanent benefit, and I tried all kinds of pills and tablets but nothing did me any good.

I saw the strong testimonial in favor of 'Fruit-a-tives' by New Brunswick's 'Grand Old Man', the Hon. John Costigan, and I knew that anything he stated was honest and true and given only to help his fellow-men. I tried 'Fruit-a-tives' and the effects were most marvelous, and now I am entirely well from all my Chronic Constipation that I suffered from for so many years. My general health is once more excellent and I cannot say too much to express my thanks for the great benefits derived from taking 'Fruit-a-tives.'"

A. G. WILLISTON
'Fruit-a-tives' is not gotten up by druggists or expert chemists—who know nothing about disease and the needs of the human body—but is the scientific discovery of a well known physician, and is sold in the world made of fruit juices. See a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At all dealers, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

West Paradise.

(Aug. 3rd.)
The fine weather of last week was a great boon to haymakers, and a lot of choice hay was stored away.

Miss Viola Saunders, who has been visiting friends and relatives in this vicinity, has returned to her home in Windsor, Hants Co.

Mrs. Herbert Daniels, of Lexington, Mass., is visiting at the home of her brother, Mr. J. Wallace Saunders. She was accompanied by her niece, Miss Lottie Saunders.

Mrs. Frank J. Poole and daughter, Lella B. Poole, have gone to Windsor to visit friends and relatives.

Sunday seems to be "Automobile Day" judging from the number that passed through here. We counted sixteen, and some of them were travelling at rather a high rate of speed for a country road. Very few horse teams were seen and we suppose this was the reason.

The heavy south wind and rain storm of last Thursday did considerable damage to the grain crop, beating it down to the ground. The grain crop will be very heavy. Some oats in this vicinity stand four to five feet in height and the heads are very heavy.

This time last year the grasshoppers were so numerous that everything was destroyed by them, but this year there is scarcely one to be seen.

Praching service at Evergreen Hall next Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock, by the Rev. Lewis Wallace.

Imaginary fears are more real than actual dangers. No terrors are so dreadful as those conjured up in the imagination, mere bugaboos with no foundation in fact. We are always conjuring up such terrors to frighten ourselves.

After La Grippe

"I had suffered several weeks with LaGrippe. Had pains in my head and eyes. It felt as though there was a heavy weight on the top of my head, until it seemed that my brain would burst. I was so nervous that I dozed off I would awake with a sudden jerking of my whole body. Dr. Miles' Nerve, Heart Remedy and Nerve and Liver Pills cured me. A number of friends have since realized the same benefits."

MRS. ALVIN H. LOCKS, Seabrook, N. H.
The after effects of LaGrippe are often more serious than the disease, as it leaves the system in a weakened condition that invites more serious troubles, such as pneumonia, etc.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve should be taken for some time to thoroughly restore nerve strength.

Driver of Auto Was Arrested

Mrs. Brine Passed Away at the Hospital Without Having Regained Consciousness.

Mrs. Johanna Brine, aged fifty-three years, wife of John T. Brine, the unfortunate victim of Friday's automobile accident, died at the Victoria General Hospital at midnight, without regaining consciousness, says the Halifax Chronicle. It was not until noon on Saturday that the identity of the woman was established. Saturday morning Mr. Brine was at the Police Station and when he heard that the victim of the accident had not been identified, he at once went to the Hospital and was able to identify her as his wife. Mrs. Brine's condition remained the same all day Saturday and she passed away at midnight.

DRIVER OF AUTO ARRESTED.

On Saturday afternoon, Stipendiary Filing issued a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Pride, charging her with causing grievous bodily harm to Mrs. Brine, by not driving her auto in a reasonable manner. The warrant was executed by Detective Hanrahan and Mrs. Pride was later released on bail, herself in $1,000, and her husband in $1,000. As Mrs. Brine died since the warrant was issued, the charge will likely be amended.

MRS. BRINE'S DEATH.

Medical Examiner Finn has filed his report in the automobile accident matter with Stipendiary Filing. Dr. Finn performed an autopsy and found the abdominal organs and heart was diseased. In his report the Medical Examiner says, regarding his inquiry:

"A trolley car bound north on Granville street, was standing just north of Duke street. A crowd of passengers were getting into the car. The deceased person was standing still near car on roadway, on western side of car, apparently looking for a seat, and partially looking to the north. At about this time an automobile approached coming north on same side of roadway (western) as deceased was on. The automobile struck the deceased, knocking her down and dragging her, inflicting severe and fatal injuries from which she died in about thirty hours after being removed to the V. G. Hospital. The automobile, I am informed was being driven by Mrs. H. M. Pride, of Halifax."

"The autopsy shows that the deceased came to her death from a compound fracture of the base of the skull, with laceration of the bone due to her being struck by an automobile as above specified."

"I deem an inquiry before the Stipendiary Magistrate of the City of Halifax necessary in this case, and I order the same to be held."

An English Chemist Has Discovered How to Grow Hair

In England the ladies have entirely abandoned wearing hair, which is due entirely to this new discovery. It has been proved that Henna leaves contain the ingredients that will positively restore the hair. They contain this long-looked-for article in proven every day.

The Americans are now placing on the market a preparation containing the extract from Henna leaves, which is having a phenomenal sale. This preparation is called SALVIA, and is being sold with a guarantee to cure baldness and to grow hair in abundance. Being daintily perfumed, SALVIA makes a most pleasant hair dressing. Warren, your druggist, is the first to import this preparation into Bridgetown and a large, generous bottle can be purchased for fifty cents.

KEEP YOUR BRUSH CLEAN

There are few scapls that are not benefited by daily brushing for five minutes. Occasionally, however, when the hair is fine and delicate, or is falling badly, brushing should be omitted as too severe.

Brushing with an insensatory brush is worse than nothing. It should be washed twice a week. Do not let the back get wet, but dip only the brush portion with bristles downward.

This cleanly precaution takes but a few minutes if a little ammonia is put in a basin of very warm water and the brush dipped into it several times then into fresh water. Dry quickly in the air.

Do not economize when buying a brush. Cheap bristles tear the hair and may injure the scalp. When the hair is not heavy a narrow brush, such as is used for shampooing, is a good choice for daily brushing, for it is more likely to get in to the scalp.

FIGHTING SAM IN COMMAND.

Col. Hughes, M.P., Has Developed Into a "Regular" Soldier.

Col. Sam Hughes has of late years practically become a professional soldier, though nominally but a colonel of the 43rd Provisional Battalion of Militia. This year he is commandant of Barrieffield camp, where the raw troops of Central Ontario have been receiving their annual locking into condition. Under appointment from the Minister of Militia, he has been attached to the staff of Major-General Sir John French during his recent visit to Canada, and at the Quebec centenary two years ago he was similarly attached to the Canadian general staff which was associated with the present King, Lord Roberts and Sir Reginald Pole Carew in the great military review. His military fame has arisen chiefly since the South African war of ten years ago, when, despite a sensational controversy with Major-General Hutton which defied all British military conventions, he did very useful work for Lord Kitchener in the latter's cleaning up operations which were in some degree performed by irregular forces.

A native of Durham county, he was a military officer since 1873, when he was gazetted a lieutenant of the 45th Provisional Battalion of Militia. He has been lieutenant-colonel in 1897. He has been many other things. Like his brother, James L. Hughes, he stands out as a pedagogue, and many are unaware that for ten years from 1877 to 1887 he was teaching the modern literature at Jarvis Street Collegiate Institute, then the only High School in the city of Toronto. His Toronto boyhood now in his last thirties or early forties recalls with pleasure and amusement the days of his "Sam," as they all called him, conveyed instruction in the beauties of our British speech.

In 1887 he branched into journalism as editor of the Lindsay Warder, but he has made this calling subordinate to a political career, and some years ago launched newspaper work altogether. In Victoria many a scheme has been framed up to defeat Sam Hughes, but the counting out of the ballots has always left him at the top of the heap. Besides being a soldier, he is a politician, and has a great athletic record. Middle-aged lovers of the national game of lacrosse remember the prowess of the "Sam," and big Rose Mackenzie used to show to it. In 1872 Col. Hughes won the one-mile amateur championship of America, and he has since followed up his career as an oarsman. Altogether, "Fighting Sam" is a man after Roosevelt's own heart.

The Power of Conscience.

The power of a guilty conscience was the subject of a lecture given the other day. A customer entered, somewhat the worse of liquor, and celebrated the occasion by the offer of a dollar. Being an optimist, the clerk complied with the request. Some days later the same customer returned, put in an appearance, the clerk began to feel that his money was gone, never to return.

One day a strangely familiar face appeared before the counter; it was the same man, and he turned to the clerk and said, "Wait, I am not going to pay me the dollar you borrowed when you were slightly under the influence?" The visitor looked at him fixedly, hesitated, then drew the money and handed it over to the clerk. The next day another man entered the store with a very depressed air and said, "Here is that dollar I borrowed from you the other day when I was a little under the influence," he said with an insinuating smile.

The clerk put his hand to his forehead and said, "The man I must be mustered at length, scanning the visitor's features."

"Yes," admitted the guilty one, unconscious of the plight of the clerk. After he departed the clerk had some qualms about the unfortunate who had been accused of being intoxicated and had been obliged to pay a dollar for his admission. He was ultimately found, but he failed to explain what he had been doing on that memorable day when he paid it over.

South Africa's First Peer.

The first peer to be created since the declaration of the federation of South Africa is Sir John Henry de Villiers, who now becomes Baron de Villiers. He, as Chief Justice of Cape Colony, had the historic task of administering the oath of office to the first Governor-General of South Africa. Previously he had been Attorney-General of Cape Colony for thirty-seven years with satisfaction to Boer and Briton alike. "So you see the man" he mustered as well as editor of General Louis Botha, that South African federation was achieved. He is of Huguenot-Boer descent, and was born at the Cape in 1842. At the age of twenty-three he was called to the Bar, and he became Attorney-General of the colony in 1874. He held the post continuously until his recent elevation to the bench as Chief Justice of the new federation. He has twice visited Canada. In 1894 he took part in the first Intercolonial Conference, which was held in Toronto, as representative of Cape Colony. In 1908 he was present at the Quebec Tercentenary Celebration as representative of South Africa.

A Dangerous Job.

What is the most hazardous job in Canada? A rather interesting question. Mining has its dangers, railroad accidents are numerous every year, but neither of these occupations are attended with so much peril as lumbering, according to the view of the British Columbia newspaper.

The investigating says that more lumberjacks are killed every year in the province than men in any of the so-called "extra-hazardous trades." The fact is not generally known because obituaries of these victims appear but seldom in the newspapers. News from the logging camps buried in the bush does not filter out regularly. When a big tree is felled, many of them are no reporter on the scene; sometimes it is weeks before word of the accident is received.

IS RUW IN HUIUS.

B.C.'s First Government House is First Disappearing.

Scarcely twenty miles from Victoria, British Columbia, is the centennial site, but almost as far removed as the Pole itself, or with the circumstances which attend its erection and occupancy, one of the truly historic buildings of British Columbia is fast crumbling with decay. Unless action is soon directed toward the preservation of this landmark of pioneering days and of the infancy of popular Government on Vancouver Island, the obliteration of the first Government House erected and occupied as such in this westernmost colony of the British Empire must within a few short succeeding years be made complete.

At present the strong, rough-hewn, low walls still stand staunchly, though many gaping wounds bear testimony to the severity of Time's assaults. Doorways and windows yawn vacantly; the roof and the main chimney, of country-rock, have fallen in; and moss and creeping vines weave with a pitiful bravery to veil and even beautify the hideousness of the ruin and forgetfulness into which the abiding place in time long past of gubernatorial dignity and splendor, a couple of alien, worn-out, with a patchwork of coal-oil tins, evolved a nondescript and grotesque habitation; while what was once the governor's garden humbly bears tribute to the productivity of the soil in the thrift of the Chinese squatters in yearly dividends of onions, beans, and potatoes. Two or three times a season, perhaps, a bold hunter, ranging far afield, pauses for a moment either to look at the crumbling threshold or to take toll from the two neglected apple trees, which sentinel the portals, planted by the governor's winsome daughters in the long ago.

PURIFIED HIS BLOOD

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Healed Mr. Wilson's Sores

When the sewers of the body—bowels, kidneys and skin ducts—get clogged up, the blood quickly becomes impure and frequently sores break out over the body. The way to heal them, as Mr. Richard Wilson, who lives near London, Ont., found, is to purify the blood. He writes:

"For some time I had been in a low, depressed condition. My appetite left me and I soon began to suffer from indigestion. Quite a number of small sores and blotches formed all over my skin. I tried medicine for the blood and used many kinds of ointments, but without satisfactory results. What was wanted was a thorough cleansing of the blood, and I looked about in vain for some medicine that would accomplish this.

At last Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills were brought to my notice, and they are one of the most wonderful medicines I have ever known. My blood was purified in a very short time, sores healed up, my indigestion vanished. They always have a place in my home and are looked upon as the family remedy."

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cleanse the system thoroughly. Sold by all dealers at 25c a box.

M. K. PIPER PROPRIETOR AND PUBLISHER. WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 10, 1910.

Considerable interest having been aroused on the subject of commercial union of the English-speaking races, as advanced by Mr. Harry J. Crowe in a letter written for the London press during his recent extended stay in England and republished in a recent issue of the Monitor-Sentinel, we are giving space in this issue to the report of a recent interview with Mr. Crowe by the Boston Herald in which the same theories and suggestions are advanced. Mr. Crowe, who conversed with the editor of the Monitor-Sentinel upon the subject, while in town a few days since en route from Toronto to Newfoundland, is quite enthusiastic regarding the theory he advances and the possibility of its ultimate consummation in fact.

He has had the privilege of meeting and discussing the subject with prominent public men of England, the United States and Canada, and has received much encouragement from their interest in the sentiments and arguments he advances. During his late visits to the United States he has been particularly impressed with the growth and advancement of the sentiment favoring reciprocity with Canada, and the desire to see Canada assuming a responsive attitude. Undoubtedly this is a forerunner of present. The United States realizes her mistake in not accepting Canada's overtures towards reciprocity in the past and in event of Great Britain adopting preference, she should and undoubtedly would, welcome the opportunity to enter a commercial union which would give her a preference over her rivals Germany and Japan in the markets of Great Britain, even without any tariff concession on the part of Canada. The United States would also benefit by the opportunity to secure the natural resources of Canada, which are becoming so rapidly depleted in their own country, as the products of the forests the mines and the fisheries.

Mr. Crowe expressed the opinion that Canada and the other Colonies would suffer little, if any, from the competition of the United States in the market of the Mother Country. The United States will soon consume all the wheat she can raise which is the principal export of Canada. The same condition applies to the principal products of Australia and New Zealand and South Africa, such as wool, mutton and the products of the mines. He believes it a matter of paramount importance that the component parts of the British Empire should be more closely united.

L. C. JORDAN, OF BOSTON, DEAD. Private dispatches from San Francisco announce the death of James Clarke Jordan, son of the late Eben D. Jordan, of Jordan Marsh & Co. He had been ill three years.

Mr. Jordan was born in Boston, sixty years ago, and graduated from Harvard in 1879. In 1882 Mr. Jordan built an elaborate summer home at River Glade, near Pettaucoddas, N.B., the estate costing thousands of dollars.

Mrs. Jordan was a native of New Brunswick and had relatives of Bridgetown, who learn with regret of Mr. Jordan's death. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan were guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Fay about four years ago, before going to San Francisco.

IN OLD ANNAPOLIS.

Things Were Primitive But Happy In the First Settlement.

Annapolis, formerly Port Royal, was a "garrison town" from the time of its founding by De Monts in 1604, until, in 1683, it ceased to be the capital of the Province of Nova Scotia, and the troops were withdrawn and stationed at Halifax, and is therefore the oldest settlement in Canada.

Just how comfortably the early residents of Annapolis lived, and with how much affluence, is seen in the description given in the writings of M. Devierville, who was in Port Royal about 1689. The town had then been settled over ninety years, and so had arrived to very fair pretensions as a pioneer in the wilderness, although no more progress had been made than was the necessary outcome of an increased immigration.

Of the residents, Devierville says:—"They feed themselves and sell, plus to sell. Hemp and fax prosper. Some use no other cloth but homespun. The wool is of excellent quality and the inhabitants are dressed in their own woolen homespun. Fruits, pulse and garden stuffs are abundant. Provisions are cheap; wheat 40 sous per bushel, the bushel weighs forty-one and one-half pounds; rye is two sous a pound; a pair of chickens, 10 sous; eggs, five sous per dozen; and hares, four sous apiece. (A sous, it may be mentioned, about equals a cent in our currency.) Game plenty. The founders of Port Royal knew the country well before they undertook to build a fortress. They had forts at Port La Tour, at Le Have and at Muscouadabout. These all belonged to individuals, and when a good understanding existed amongst them, which was rarely, they used to assemble at Port Royal for refreshments. But it is to be remarked that except Port Royal and Le Have, where they cultivated lands and carried on the fisheries, the other posts were only kept up for trading with the savages. Port Royal is, then, the general store-house, and fortifying it protects Minas also, where corn is now raised, and cattle."

The first Town Council of Annapolis after its final occupation by the English was organized in the spring of 1720 by Governor Phillips. The members of that board were ten in number. The first work of this council was evidently in the line of superintending of public repairs. The town was in a bad condition according to report of Governor Phillips. It was landed in April he found the place in as bad a state as was possible to describe, both within and without.

The criminal courts of these early councils were the occasions of decidedly amusing proceedings. The Jean Picot affair and her sentence to "ducking at high water" have become familiar in history, and other sentences to the early offenders of justice were equally strange and ridiculous. In September, 1716, one Robert Nicols was charged with assaulting one of the officers of the garrison, and a court of four councillors found him guilty and passed the following sentence:—"You being found guilty by H. M. Council for this Province of the crime wherewith thou art charged, the punishment, therefore, inflicted on thee is to sit upon days, with a rope, half an hour each day, with a rope about thy neck, and a paper upon thy breast whereon shall be written, in capital letters, 'ADULTERER' and 'LAIN,' and afterwards thou art to be whipt at a cart's tail from the prison house up to the uppermost house on the Cape, and from thence back again to prison house, receiving each hundred paces five strokes upon your bare back with a cat-o-nine-tails, and then thou are to be turned over for a soldier."

Evenly to be a soldier was not so high an honor as it once had been. Another sentence given in 1720 was that the prisoner should be publicly whipped "at the cart's tail" at four places in the town, and at each place to receive five stripes on his bare back with a cat-o-nine tails.

Piracy was rampant in Annapolis during the early years of the eighteenth century, and not only was serious damage done to the property by these attacks, but the casualties were usually accompanied with loss of life. There was thus a large element of precariness towards the prosperity with malcontents on every hand spreading dissatisfaction and alarm.

In August, 1721, the town was attacked by two rebel schooners carrying twelve guns each. The ships came up the harbor under cover of night and landed their men unobserved. It was a genuine freebooters' excursion, with plans well laid and skillfully executed. The garrison was attacked, the sentries silenced and the fort taken, while the soldiers slept. As soon as the day broke they turned their attention to the town, surrounded the houses, and capturing every man and boy, locked them in the fort. Two of the inhabitants more daring than the rest, attempted to escape. They were discovered and promptly hung from the yard-arm of one of the schooners. Their fate served as a warning to any others who might be disposed to make a dash for freedom. After the whole town had been plundered, the guns in the fort spiked, the houses fired off, carrying with them the spoils of a most successful expedition.

A Different Sort of Doctor. Dr. Charles Harris, the well-known Canadian musician and composer, who has arranged and will conduct the Empire Concert at the forthcoming pageant to be held at the Crystal Palace, told an amusing story about himself the other day, says M.A.P.

Whilst Dr. Harris was on his way to South Africa, he desired to keep his identity a secret.

During the voyage a gentleman managed to get into conversation with the musician, and asked him if he would medically examine his little girl who was with him on the boat.

"My dear sir," replied Dr. Harris, "I have never examined a child in my life."

Ten minutes later he overheard the gentleman say, in the smoking-room:—"There you are! Didn't I say that man was a fraud?"

CAPTAIN SCOTT'S EXPEDITION.

It is a Matter of Personal Interest to Rear-Admiral Kingsmill.

Rear-Admiral Kingsmill, the Canadian officer of the Royal Navy Staff, interested in the accounts of the expedition, and is naturally much attracted to the accounts of the expedition. Admiral Kingsmill is surprised to see that Capt. Scott chose the "Terra Nova" for the expedition in preference to his old ship the "Discovery," to which he was greatly attached. The first time Capt. Scott ever saw the "Terra Nova" he resented her appearance. He was out in the lonely Antarctic then, cut off from the world, indeed that of the whole expedition, was a little resented. The Government had guessed this, and had bought the old but carefully chosen whaling vessel in low through the Mediterranean and about the Cape, until we had another relief ship, the "Morning," she came up to the edge of the Antarctic ice pack. Captain Scott and some of his companions were discussing after breakfast, their plans for the day, when suddenly they saw a imaginary one of them explained, suddenly, "Why, there's another!" and there was the "Terra Nova." The sight meant safety and home again, but there were considerations which made the relief not completely delightful. Before he turned in that night, Capt. Scott wrote in his diary: "In spite of the good home news, and in spite of the pleasure of seeing old friends again, I was happier last night than I am to-night."

The "Discovery" was accorded the rank of a regular unit of the Royal Navy and flew the naval ensign. The "Terra Nova" does not fly that, but by a special grant of privilege, which is very useful as well as ornamental, she hoists a measure of the Royal Yacht Squadron and flies its white ensign. She has officers and men aboard her who are in the regular pay, so that they may wear their uniforms abroad. They could not be gazetted to the "Terra Nova," which has no place on the Admiralty list, but use in measure of the imaginary H.M.S. "President," to the service of which they are told off while they are in the Antarctic. Admiral Kingsmill expects the expedition, equipped and led as it is, to accomplish complete success.—Chesherfield in The Family Herald.

Resigned Portfolio as Protest. Mr. Ernest Housfield Riley, the member of the Alberta Legislative Assembly for Gleichen, whose resignation as a protest against the composition of the new Sifton Cabinet has been reported in some papers as "the act of an enthusiastic crank," has the reputation in Calgary, where he resides, of being not merely a level-headed man but a cultured Christian gentleman. He is one of the most enthusiastic and devoted churchmen in the diocese of Calgary, a delegate to the Synod and a member of the Bishop's Council, a sort of private executive committee for the diocese. In his business he is a rancher, one of the few who have made a complete financial success of that industry. He is a Liberal and has been in the Alberta Legislature ever since the creation of Ontario. His particular grievance, it appears, is that Mr. Cushing, the former Minister of Public Works, who resigned his portfolio as a protest against the Alberta and Great Waterways Bill, was not taken into the new Government by Premier Sifton. It seems that Mr. Cushing is a low status of the Methodist Church, is an Anglican, and their work, together in church and benevolent work, particularly in connection with the Laymen's Missionary Movement, has established a strong bond of friendship between them.—Family Herald and Weekly Star.

A Generous Turf Patron. The Earl Lathborough, military secretary to His Excellency the Governor-General, and for a long time before coming to Canada a member of the staff of H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, is one of the most skillful horsemen and authorities on horse racing in Ireland. He has, of course, many times met Richard Croker, the former "Tammany Boss," and describes him as a most generous patron of the turf, whose going to Ireland has done much to encourage horse breeding and horse racing. His lordship, the other day, was shown at the Rideau Club, in Ottawa, a characteristic article from an American paper dilating upon the supposed high place Mr. Croker has attained in fashionable society in Ireland and describing his pending disreputable from that eminence. His lordship read the article through and remarked: "I am not surprised that Mr. Croker was anxious to leave his own country if they publish such a lot of stuff as that. He does not even aspire to what is really the highest Irish society, but no doubt enjoys himself with his mounted friends who have similar tastes to his own, and who can blame him?"

A Consul for Regina. Even the city states in German Europe have diplomatic corps—gentlemen with Van Dyke beards and monocles, whose main function is to dance and dine and, on the side, keep the ice to the heated brows of rambunctious nationalists. Regina has gone in for a consulate—quite a new sign of progressiveness indeed. Dr. Jones, American Consul-General for Canada, has told Washington to dispatch a diplomat instantly to Saskatchewan's capital. As yet, the name of this diplomat of the plains has not been announced. He will have at least one distinction—he will be first in the business west of Winnipeg.

Finlanders For Hudson Bay. The Canadian Associated Press says it is probable that at an early date an exodus of natives Finland to Canada will commence. The Canadian Government, it is understood, is prepared to afford them facilities to settle in the Hudson Bay region.

Weather permitting the St. James' Sunday School annual picnic will take place tomorrow (Thursday). Hampton is the rendezvous chosen for this year's outing, and the children are requested to be at the church ready for a start at 8.30 a. m. If Thursday be wet the picnic will be held on Friday.

An exchange says—Rev. A. F. Newcomb and Mrs. Newcomb have arrived home from Boston, and will leave on Saturday for Great Village, Mr. Newcomb not being quite strong enough as yet to resume his duties. News of his arrival and of his greatly improved health will interest and gratify his friends.

There is a splendid crop of hay in the Valley and all through the Province. Three acres to the ton is not an uncommon yield and there are record crops of five tons to the acre reported. Farmers will probably add to their heads of stock this fall. The big hay crop will go far to make up for the lack in the apple crop. Grain and root crops are also giving record yields.

Another of our boys has won a professorship at Yale. Mr. W. H. Longley, of Paradise, who received a Ph. D. degree at Yale in June, with his wife is visiting his mother, Mrs. I. M. Longley. The residential property of A. J. Weir on Court Street, which has been advertised for a few weeks past in the Monitor-Sentinel, has been purchased by Mrs. F. E. Miller, of Granville. The Monitor regrets to state that Mr. Weir and family will go west to take up their abode. Mr. Weir has been an employee of the MacKenzie and Crowe Larrigan factory for several years. Mr. Weir leaves immediately for the west and Mrs. Weir and children will go in about a month.

A pane of glass in the front of the D. A. R. station, Digby, was broken late Saturday night, or early Sunday morning, and the office entered by burglars who split the cash drawer open with a bar or chisel. They also opened the safe and secured a small amount of silver and other money belonging to the D. A. R., the Maritime Express and Station Agent Jones' private funds. A ticket for Boston was taken from the ticket cabinet, but was afterwards dropped on the floor. Chief Police Bowles has the matter in charge and thinks he will be able to capture the guilty parties in a short time. — Digby Courier.

When You are Sweet Sixteen

During the last week there have a number of letters in my mail from girls whose ages range from fourteen to sixteen, says Sylvia Gray.

Each girl has declared herself to be desperately in love. One even contemplated the possibility of eloping, should her parents forbid her seeing young man. It is utterly impossible for any girl, so young, to be desperately in love. She may be infatuated, but she is not in love.

Fathers and mothers know what is best for their little daughters, and their love and interest are purely their own.

Do you think that it is for his own personal gratification that your father forbids your friendship with a certain man?

YOUR PARENTS KNOW THE DANGERS.

It is not, it is simply because he knows that you are too young to receive attention from any man, and perhaps this particular man is not worthy of a friendship with any girl.

Your parents know more of the world than you do, my dear; they know its dangers and you do not.

What would you think if you saw your father running after a girl young enough to be his daughter? Wouldn't it strike you as silly and repulsive and an insult to your mother?

And yet many girls receive attention from men whom they know to be married, with wives and families to support.

I do not criticize friendships between girls and boys, but let them be healthy normal friendships with no foolish ideas regarding marriage.

When a boy of eighteen urges you to elope, what are his plans regarding your support?

TWO FAMILIES TO SUPPORT.

Does he intend to go to his father or yours and say, "We are married, but we are not independent. Will you kindly add to your responsibilities by supporting two families instead of one?"

He does not actually use these words, but that is what it amounts to.

Our grandmothers married at fifteen and they were old women at forty. Surely, you do not want to lose your youth, the very best time of life?

Wait until you realize the serious step you are taking before you rush into matrimony.

Marriage is not play; it is the most serious event of your whole life. On the wisdom of your choice depends your whole life's happiness.

At fifteen, your judgment is not matured. You place a higher value in good looks and good clothes than you do on good sense and a good heart.

When your father and mother oppose your going with some man, you may think that your heart is broken, but it is not even badly cracked, little girl. It will heal in an amazingly short time.

The man will get over it just as quickly, for he also is young and not quite ready to settle down.

WHEN BABY DIED.

How brief the stay, as beautiful as a fleeting.

The time that baby came with us to dwell;

Just long enough to give a happy greeting,

Just long enough to bid us all farewell.

Death travels down the thickly-settled highway,

At shining marks they say he loves to alight;

How did he find far down our lonely way,

Our little girl who died without a name?

She seemed so like a tender bird whose wings were broken by the stress of rain and storm,

With loving care we pressed the golden ringlets,

And wondered could there be so fair a form;

For death had chiselled without pause or falter

Each feature that the sunny tresses frame;

No change of scene nor length of time can alter

Our little girl who died without a name.

We do not know the fond endearment spoken

And so, beside a rumble that was broken,

To which she listened when she fell asleep,

We laid her to her slumber calm and deep.

We traced upon the stone with loving fingers

These simple words, affection's tear to claim;

"In dreams beyond all earthly sorrow, linger

Our little girl who died without a name."

Close folded there within the Bible hidden,

A flower fades that withered on her breast;

Upon a page where such as she are bidden

To seek the circle of His arms for rest

"Of such the kingdom," come to us so sweetly!

Those little ones without a touch of blame;

We know He shelters in His love completely,

Our little girl who died without a name."

She sleeps serene where fragrant mossy willows

In sweet and wordless tunes for ever wave,

And summer seas in long and grassy billows

Break into bloom around her lonely grave.

In memory's hall how many heroes slumber,

We gild their deeds upon the scroll of fame;

We treasure far above this mighty number

Our little girl who died without a name.

—Alonso Rice.

HER PARENTS MAKE A MISTAKE

Sometimes parents make the mistake of opposing such a friendship too violently; opposition is but oil on the flame.

Let your daughter see her friends, but in her home, where she is under her mother's watchful eye.

One last note to the little girls: Be little girls as long as you can; dears; it is the sweetest time of your lives and it can never come back.—Exchange.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CO., Ltd.

Gentlemen,—In June, 1898 I had my hand and wrist bitten and badly mangled by a vicious horse. I suffered greatly for several days and the tooth cuts refused to heal until your agent gave me a bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT, which I began using. The effect was magical; in five hours the pain had ceased and in two weeks the wounds had completely healed and my hand and arm were as well as ever.

Yours truly,
A. E. ROY,
Carriage Maker.

A BABY'S HOT WATER BAG AND COVER.

My daughter received one of the most useful gifts for her baby. It was a little hot water bag in a dainty flannel case. This cover is made of two pieces of the flannel, scalloped and button-holed around the edges with heavy blue silk, fastened together by a blue ribbon run through embroidered eyelets. A design of forget-me-nots is embroidered on one side. It is easily laundered. All she has to do is take out the ribbon and the two pieces of flannel are washed in no time. This little hot water bag is in continual use, in the baby carriage on cold days, and in her crib on chilly nights.

If one wishes to make a gift for a baby she can choose nothing more welcome. I am sure.—Exchange.

Canada to Build and Populate Two Hundred and Twenty Towns in Next Year.

Government and Railroads are Working in Harmony.

Winnipeg, Can., July 21.—Western Canada is building towns on a wholesale plan. The government and the big transcontinental railroads working in harmony intend to lay out and populate two hundred and twenty new towns in the next year and a half; an average of three new towns will be placed on the map of Canada every week during the next eighteen months.

Along the new Grand Trunk Pacific now building, will be placed over one hundred and fifty of these infant cities; the Canadian Pacific will build up new towns along its roadbed wherever there are more than sixteen miles between existing stations; the Canadian Northern has entered in the new town-building scheme, too, and will place thirty-five towns on the map as it drives its 3,000-mile extension through the unbroken wilderness of the great Northwest.

These will not be boom towns, plotted and sold to speculators, and then left to decay.

Every one of them will be built because there is a demand for them, and the Canadian Government immigration bureau has even now three hundred agents in the United States creating that demand among the farmers, business men and mechanics there. Agents are also busy in Europe, but the largest portion of the population of these new towns will be Americans.

Last year 59,832 Americans left their homes in the States and started life anew in Canada. They brought with them $60,000,000 in money and property, for it is not the poorest class that has come over; it is rather the farmer of moderate means, who, dissatisfied with the conditions in the States, finds a virgin country up here awaiting his plow, and few, very few, of them ever go back except upon temporary visits.

It is estimated that in the last ten years more than a half billion dollars has been brought over by the 500,000 immigrants from the States. Last year, for the first time since 1903, more Americans came over than British.

Of course the real reason that brings the most of them over is the cheap land, the homestead land and its fertility.

But other reasons enter into consideration, too, and they are cheap lumber, cheap clothing and the general feeling that laws are enforced in a much better fashion in the Dominion of Canada than in the United States. They have here also better postal regulations, so that the farmer can do much of his shopping by mail.

The government has mapped out a scheme whereby they will populate the new towns as fast as the new town sites are laid out.

First, the railroad will erect a station, then an elevator will be built—this so that the farmers will be assured of a local market for their crops; then a school building will be started, and while all these preparations are under way, the many immigration agents in the United States will be "hooking" Americans for these towns and the surrounding farm land for, with the exception of a few towns to be laid out in the mineral districts, all will be built in the middle of fertile farm land.

HOW TOWNS ARE BUILT IN A DAY

This is an extract from a letter L. B. Bergstrom, a Canadian farmer, wrote a friend across the line:

"A lot of building is being done in New Norway (one of the new towns), where a Grand Trunk station was erected one day and the next day the town site was ready and town lots being sold; the same day a bank was established in a nearby farm house, and every man who could handle a hammer got to work as a house builder. The same conditions prevailed at Bassano."

Women Votes are Prized

New Zealand's Experience in Seventeen Years Shows Almost Equal Proportion of Women Voters—A matter of Course.

The statute extending the franchise to New Zealand women was passed in 1893. Since then there have been six parliaments elected by the joint votes of the men and women of New Zealand. In all of these elections, says the North American Review, the women of the country have taken their full share.

The proportion of women who voted at each election compared with those whose names were on the rolls have been almost exactly the same as that of the male voters. There are not men as men, and the actual voting power of the women is nearly ten per cent less than that of men. Practically, however, all who can do so vote at each election.

The fears expressed at the time the franchise was given them that the result would be either that the women would vote just as their husbands and fathers told them to vote or that the new privilege would mean dissension in families and the practical degradation of the women have elections as a matter of course just not been justified by the experience.

The women of New Zealand vote at elections as a matter of course just as they partake of their meals, or do any other ordinary duty of everyday life. The principal changes produced by the order of things, as the family life of the people is concerned, would seem to be that what may be called political questions have become matters of general interest, instead of being as formerly matters which were tacitly presumed to be outside the sphere of one-half the family.

In the matter of the extended franchise, therefore, it was not theory but practical experience that won the day. It was not because women were human beings as much as men; it was not even because they were intelligent human beings to whom men were ready to entrust the care of their homes and families; it was because they believed on the evidence of experience that women if they could vote would take an intelligent interest in public questions and would by their votes forward the best interests of the country and its people.

DEATH OF MRS. VAIL

The demise occurred at Dover, Eng on Tuesday, of Charlotte Leslie, widow of Hon. W. B. Vail, in the 82nd year of her age. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. A. S. Mitchell, of Halifax, and Mrs. O'Brien, wife of Colonel O'Brien, with whom she was residing at Dover. Mrs. Vail was a Miss Jones, of Weymouth, cousin of the late Lieut.-Gov. Jones, and her many friends will regret to learn that she has passed away. Hon. W. B. Vail, who was provincial secretary of Nova Scotia for several years, and afterwards minister of militia in the Mackenzie cabinet, died in Dover about six years ago. Exc.

CENSUS OF FOREST PRODUCTS.

The census of the forest products of Canada, to be taken on June 1st, 1911, will embrace square, waxy or flat timber, logs for lumber and miscellaneous products.

In the first class are included ash, birch, elm, maple, oak, pine and all other timber cut as square, waxy or flat, and in the enumeration will be reported for cubic feet and value.

Logs for lumber, which are included in the second class, are in such woods as elm, hickory, hemlock, oak, pine and spruce. They will be enumerated in the census by quantities of 1,000 feet board measure, with value in the same unit.

Miscellaneous products of the forest include bark for tanning, fence posts, firewood, hoop and hoop poles, masts and spars, piling, pot and pearl ashes, railroad ties, staves, stavebolts and heading, telegraph poles (including telephone and other poles for electric wires), wood for pulp, and the furs and skins of forest animals undressed, and they will be enumerated by number or quantity and value.

The census of forest products will be taken chiefly from farmers and the lessees of timber limits.

Earl Grey Starts on Northern Trip To-day

Ottawa, July 26.—Earl Grey begins tomorrow his five thousand mile circle of the Canadian hinterland through the Labrador coast and Newfoundland back to Montreal. His Excellency, who is leaving a few days earlier than was originally intended will be accompanied by a party of eight, including Major Trotter, A. D. C., at Government House, Prof. Brock, acting director of the Geological Survey and also by a member of the McGill Medical Faculty.

LONG CANOE JOURNEY.

They will take the lake route to Winnipeg and will leave there about August 4th by steamer for Norway House, a Mounted Police and Hudson Bay Station at the foot of Lake Winnipeg. From there the party will go by canoe down the Hayes River five hundred miles to Port Nelson under the guidance of Major Moodie and four picked men of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police. It is expected that the trip down the river will be made in less than two weeks, although en route His Excellency may take a day or so off looking for some of the game of the northern wilds.

The original intention of making the trip in record time has been abandoned in view of the fact that Earl Grey is now to remain another year in Canada, and has more time at his disposal than he thought for when the trip was first planned for last May.

DOWN LABRADOR COAST

At Fort Nelson, the party will meet the Government steamer Earl Grey, which will sail for Pictou, N. S., on August 2nd. The steamer will take them first to Fort Churchill and then up through Hudson Bay, calling probably at Chesterfield Inlet, calling Northernmost Mounted Police post in through Hudson Strait and down the Eastern Canada, before going Labrador Coast.

His excellency intends to make a fairly leisurely journey with a view of becoming thoroughly familiar with the character of the country and the conditions of Hudson Bay with respect to the navigation potentialities of the proposed new route for grain export from the Canadian West to Great Britain.

GRAND ART GALLERY AT ST. JOHN FAIR.

Vigorous Committee Co-operating With Art Clubs all Over.

On a few isolated occasions the people of St. John and New Brunswick generally have been favored with quite extensive displays of art works, and numerous valuable canvases have been brought to these parts. During the ten days of Dominion Exhibition—September 5th to 15th—the St. John Art Club, supported by the Exhibition Executive, will hold an Art Loan Show of unusual excellence.

This gallery, to be situated in a large portion of the new building adjoining the main structure, and before the final arrangements were made a guarantee of over fifty magnificent paintings was secured from the Art Union of London, at well as a guarantee from commissioners in the large Canadian centres that over one hundred rare works would be forthcoming in addition. The Maritime Provinces will contribute many more pictures, plastic art works, bronzes, rare art fabrics, etc., as well as an exclusive collection of ceramics. A generous money allotment has been made to fit up the art gallery superintendent, and those who enjoy graphic and applied art works will be assured of some rare delight at the St. John Fair. Among those who will lend some of their choicest treatment will be St. William Van Horne, of Montreal.

Historical Celebration

Halifax will have a celebration in September next which will focus the attention of the members of the Church of England the world over upon Canada in general and upon that city in particular.

In 1710 there were no Anglicans in the regions now comprising Ontario and Quebec. But Acadia was ceded to Great Britain in that year.

Roman Catholic worship had been conducted at Port Royal for a century before that time. Thus it happens that two memorial festivals will take place in Eastern Canada almost simultaneously, one celebrating the completion of the second century of Anglican worship and one the completion of the third century since the first Catholic baptism.

More than seventy years passed after the beginning of Protestant worship before the first Diocese in what is now Canada was established and the first Bishop consecrated.

The Diocese of Nova Scotia is the oldest Colonial Diocese in the British Empire. The whole worship in that province was after the American revolution, and as far west as Lake Superior, appears to have been under the jurisdiction of Bishop Inglis.

A feature of the celebration will be the dedication of the new cathedral of All Saints at Halifax, while another interesting item on the programme will be an excursion to Annapolis Royal, the site of the first Anglican Church in America.

ANNETTE KELLERMAN ON LEARNING TO SWIM.

If you have to learn to swim alone choose if possible a place where the water is shallow, but not too shallow, say up to your chest. This, that you may be able to swim without your feet touching bottom, yet have the feeling of security that an assured footing gives you.

In learning alone in shallow water allow yourself to drop slowly from a standing to a swimming position and try to lie comfortably with feet a little below the surface and mouth submerged. The water line should come between the mouth and the nose.

The muscles should be relaxed and no part of the body rigid or strained. There is no need to crane the neck in order to keep the mouth above water it only tires without helping, and it destroys the balance of the body.

Thought for students is embodied in Dr. C.W. Elliot's answer to an interviewer's question, "To what do you attribute your success in life?" Dr. Elliot has been forty years president of Harvard.

Does Farming Pay?

(Victoria Colonist.)

Notwithstanding the fact that the country is being cleared up, that substantial dwellings are being erected on farms to replace the original humble structures, that the farmers come to town in carriages driving fine horses, that some of them own their motor cars, that nearly all of them have excellent farm machineries, that many of them carry comfortable bank accounts and they all have plenty to eat and sufficient to wear, it is the easiest thing in the world to find a man who will insist that farming does not pay.

The keeping of farm accounts is quite a complicated matter. A merchant buys goods, pays freight and assurance on them, knows exactly what his rent and "dick hire" amounts to, knows the price for which he sells them and how much interest he has to pay, and no very great amount of skill is needed to let him know from month to month whether he is making or losing.

Farm and Garden

AUTOMOBILE AS FARM HAND.

Many Uses For the Motorcar as an Adjunct to Farm Work.

The automobile is rapidly becoming the most useful and popular farm hand that can be employed by the enterprising agriculturist. Its variety of uses is great. A man who has a large farm to look after finds that he can get around much more swiftly and comfortably in an auto runabout than by horse, buggy or Shanks' mare.

FEEDING CHICKENS IN AUTO.

They are happy if "pop" or the hired man can crank up the auto and spread them on their way.

Charles P. Cushing, a writer in Leslie's Weekly, has some interesting things to say about the use of the automobile on farms—for instance: David Rankin, owner of a system of farms comprising 25,640 acres near Tarkio, Mo., has some philosophy on this subject.

Do not jump to the conclusion from this, however, that many farmers have bought blindly. The farmer's familiarity with tools and farm machinery and gasoline engines is a far better preparation for intelligent selection of a car and intelligent care of it afterward than the ordinary city man's superficial knowledge gained from catalogues and gossip or from watching a thousand "makes" whir past him on the streets.

At a motorcar show in Kansas City there was an example of this point. Isaac Page of Dickinson county, Kan., had just traded his runabout for a touring car. The deal was finished as quickly and as calmly as the purchase of a washing machine.

Testing Cream. The percentage of fat in milk will have some effect upon the percentage of fat in the cream delivered by the separator.

Distilleries Should Close. The secretary of agriculture is authoritatively quoted as saying that if every distillery and brewery in the United States was to close and never use another bushel of grain in the manufacture of intoxicating liquors the American farmers, as a class, would not know it as far as the effect would show itself on the markets for grain.

VALUE OF WATER IN BUTTER

There must be a certain amount of water in butter to make it a perfect article—not that the per cent of water must come with the certain limit or narrow limits, but the amount that is present in butter made under normal conditions where quality is the main object.

To the average consumer the water content is not greatly noticeable unless there is a small quantity of free water left in the package in which the butter was originally packed. However, this free water bears no direct relation to the amount present in butter, but it is an indication of the plan followed in its manufacture.

Butter mechanically perfect may contain between 10 and 15 per cent of water. As a rule, this extreme difference cannot be detected except by men who have made the subject a study.

The factors in composition that will affect its quality are the extremes in salt contents or whether the salt is all dissolved.

The limit which was placed upon the butter in the process of manufacturing was in part to do away with the growing tendency on the part of some to make an article that should contain the lowest possible amount of butter fat and yet bear the name of butter.

A buttermaker should have an overrun that checks fairly well with the fat in his butter, provided the loss of fat in the process of manufacturing has been kept at its minimum.

The greatest factor in overrun control is the determination of the total butter fat delivered to the creamery. If more butter fat was delivered than was actually paid for it cannot help but increase the overrun, and vice versa.

Naturally the question arises, "Can butter be made to always contain less than the legal 16 per cent limit for water?" The answer is positively "Yes," with a fair margin for safety.

Do not jump to the conclusion from this, however, that many farmers have bought blindly. The farmer's familiarity with tools and farm machinery and gasoline engines is a far better preparation for intelligent selection of a car and intelligent care of it afterward than the ordinary city man's superficial knowledge gained from catalogues and gossip or from watching a thousand "makes" whir past him on the streets.

The Mission Bands are in a prosperous condition. The Methodist being conducted by Mrs. (Rev.) Hart and Mrs. (Dr.) Young. A meeting was held in the vestry of the Methodist church on Friday afternoon. An interesting program was given. Miss Annie Young addressed the children in her usual pleasing manner. On Sunday afternoon the Willing Workers Band was held in the vestry of the Baptist church with Miss Young as the newly-elected president. The music was good especially a solo sung by Miss Leta Durling, organist Miss Hazel Balcom. Readings were given by Miss Pearl Balcom and Miss Mabel Morrison. The Mission Band lesson was taught by Mrs. C. S. Balcom. An object lesson was given by the president which was of much interest to all present. Mrs. Bancroft gave some helpful suggestions. The meeting closed with prayer by Mr. Bancroft.
Mr. and Mrs. Henry Foster left on Saturday for their home in Reading, Mass., after a very enjoyable visit of two weeks.
Wilbur Phinney, son of W. H. Phinney, was successful in obtaining his M. P. Q. certificate and will take charge of the school at Brickton for the ensuing year.
The home of Mr. and Mrs. Leverett Durling was the scene of a quiet but pretty wedding on Wednesday morning, Aug. 3rd, when their daughter, Lulu Winnifred, was united in marriage to Mr. Howard Corbitt, of Paradise. Promptly at nine o'clock the bride entered the room leaning on the arm of the groom. They were united in wedlock by Rev. H. C. Mellick, pastor of the Baptist church, the ring ceremony being used. The bride was becomingly attired in a gown of "Alice blue" with white lace waist over silk, and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. After congratulations and best wishes were offered a dainty repast was served. Mr. and Mrs. Corbitt drove to Bridgetown and took the train for a short wedding trip. Their future home will be at Paradise.

Smith Cove
A concert in aid of the Campbellton fire sufferers was given in Colonial Arms hotel last Thursday evening. An excellent programme was furnished, and every member was heartily enjoyed. The sum of forty dollars was realized. Host Spurr came in for much commendation for his kind attention in every detail. The imposing appearance of his hotel was also very favorably commented upon.
Dr. H. C. Vedder, instructor in church history in the Baptist theological seminary, Chester, Pa., is here with Mrs. Vedder for August and September. They are occupying their new cabin, recently built for them by Mr. Herbert Woodman.
Rev. Henry Carter, pastor of the Baptist church, has been granted a well-earned vacation of three weeks. During his absence he will attend the convention in Woodstock, N. B. Dr. Vedder will supply the pulpit part of the time and other good men, who are summering here, will fill in till Mr. Carter returns.
Miss Raymond, of Washington, D. C., who usually spends the summer at this city, started out in the direction of Boston this year. Arriving in the hub she heard Nova Scotia praised to the skies and decided to have a look in. At Yarmouth she read about Smiths Cove in the D. A. R. booklet and resolved to come here. She returned to Washington the other day, and as she said good-bye to Mrs. Herbert Woodman, at whose home she stayed, she said she had found the promised land and would tell all her friends about it when she went home. She thinks Smiths Cove is about the most attractive spot in the whole wide world.
Captain Spurr has a guest who has installed a wireless telegraph outfit in Colonial Arms, and he is in daily communication with the different wireless stations. Probably the next thing will be the publication of a small newspaper, giving the guests the latest telegraph news from all parts of the globe. We do things in style down this way.
Mrs. Joseph Weir was awakened by a knock at her front door at two o'clock the other morning. She arose, went to the door and opened it without asking who was there. Two tramps, one of them intoxicated, stood on the steps and asked for lodgings for the rest of the night. Mrs. Weir admitted them, prepared them a tempting lunch and then stowed them away in a snug bed. The tramps say they were never so treated in their lives. Mrs. Weir's kindness impressed them so much that they resolved to try and become useful citizens.
Mrs. Spurgeon Weir and family have been all down with the measles. Mrs. Weir's attack was complicated with a severe cold.
Mr. C. Armstrong has purchased a building site near Mrs. Poole's residence from the John W. O'Dell estate, and intends erecting a store and dwelling.
Miss Hattie Chisholm, who has been spending her vacation at her home here, will return to Regina on the 16th instant to resume her school duties.
The ministers in charge of the Digby and Bear River Methodist circuits are twin brothers, the Revs. Messrs. Daniel and they look so much alike and are so much alike that it is impossible to tell them apart. A lady met the Bear River incumbent here the other day, and taking him for his brother in Digby, asked him to make an announcement on the following Sunday. Explanations revealed her mistake, and the lady went away feeling glad that her best fellow was not a twin brother, because secrets of courtship might leak out.
Fishing in the weirs this summer is not a paying business. There seems to be very few fish running. Some are of the opinion that the presence of such a large number of motor boats in the Basin has had the effect of scaring the fish away.
Miss Bessie Weir visited Digby this

GOURLAY PIANOS are all of one quality
THE BEST

4,000 Gourlay Pianos are now in constant use, not only in Canada, but in Great Britain, United States, South Africa, China and Japan. How they have stood under the extreme test of climatic changes is shown in a letter from Japan as follows:
"You are to be congratulated on producing a piano, that will stand this climate. Ours is in fine order, while others brought here from America are terribly cracked and damaged."
Every dollar INVESTED in a Gourlay brings the LARGEST POSSIBLE DOLLAR'S WORTH in return.

week and reports that business there is not so good as it was with it. In all probability a few years will see Smiths Cove a thriving city and Digby one of the small suburbs.
Two new families have been connected with the Smiths Cove telephone exchange, viz. H. H. Woodman and Spurgeon Weir. They sound natural as life and are welcome in the happy circle.
Rev. Mr. Lockward, rector of Clementsport, holds services in the temperance hall here every Sunday for the benefit of the Episcopalian, who are visiting in our midst.
The Misses Cornwall have arrived from Boston to visit their brother, Mr. Arthur Cornwall.
Mr. James Winchester is not enjoying his usual robust health. His friends hope that he will soon be himself again.
Mr. William Durlavey, who has been a citizen of the Cove for upwards of a year, has gone to Montreal for the winter. Mrs. Durlavey family will follow later.
Rev. Mr. Butler, of Tennessee, is one of the visiting clergymen in the place. He is an impressive speaker as was evidenced by his remarks in the Baptist church last Sunday evening.
A very intelligent visitor to the place in conversation the other day expressed the opinion that there was going to be a great spiritual awakening during the next twenty-five years. There never was a time when so much activity was manifested in religious circles, and the rank and file of the people are beginning to realize that they are not mere machines but great beings in whose lives is an undecurrent that has been hidden for years by the rubbish of materialism, but which is forcing its way to the surface and will carry us in the face of all obstacles to the gates of happiness. When humanity was connected with the fountain of wisdom and love of its great Redeemer nineteen hundred years ago, the spirit began, and has continued silently and majestically ever since. The stupendous growth of Christianity which was established in the hearts of men stamps it as divine, because powerful kingdoms have waxed and waned nothing showing constancy, proving verily that the invisible is real and permanent.
