Sir Hilton's Sin.

BY GEORGE MANVILLE FENN. Author of "Black Blood," "A Woman Worth Winning," "Master of Ceremonies," "The New Mistress," "The Meeting of Greeks," "Drawn Swords," Etc.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Lady Lisle and her nephew Sydney, home from college, are discovered at breakfast. Lady Lisle married Sir Hilton when his finances had come to a tragic pass, and paid his debts. Sir Hilton had been forced to sell racers and hunters, and her husband, who holds strict views, saw that he "turned over" a new leaf, and prevailed on him to stand for Parliament. When the local races are due, the agent Trimmer asks for a day off, as he wants to see his aunt. Before he goes he mentions that the publican's daughter, Mary Ann Simpkins, has made a great success on the London music-hall stage as La Sylphide, the same name as the wonderful racer Sir Hilton sold to Lady Tilborough. As Miss Simpkins's name is mentioned, an ornament which Syd is bringing upon the mantelpiece falls over with a crash. As Lady Lisle goes out the parlor maid enters.

"Hah! You quite frightened me. Now then, Hetty, old lady, what's the matter?" "That's our old friend Hilt talking like himself again," said the visitor, with a sigh of relief. "There, I'm myself again, ready to take every obstacle that comes in my way. Hilt, old man, a horrible disaster." "Yes? Yes?" cried Sir Hilton, turning white, as if he already saw the shadow of what was to come. "Your dear old man." "Not dead?" cried Sir Hilton wildly. "No, no, no; but it's as bad. She was to run for the cup today." "Yes, yes, I know." "Thought you had done thinking of such things." "I have—I haven't—oh, for goodness sake, woman, go on. She hasn't been got at?" "Not directly, Hilt, but indirectly." "But how—how? Go on. I'm in torture." "Hah!" cried Lady Tilborough, with a sigh of satisfaction. "I know you would be, Hilt, for your old friend's sake." "Will you go on, Hetty?" "Yes, yes, I can't prove it. I don't say it, but I do know it has been a deal at Sam Simpkins's last week or two." "Yes?" "She'd divorce me." "And I'm as good as lost work on him." "No, you're wrong. Joe is as honest as the day. I always trusted him to ride square, and he always did." "And so he has for me, Hilt." "Of course, I tell you I always trusted him." "But not with a bottle, Hilt." "Hah! No, drink was his only weakness." "That's right, and I believe Sam Simpkins—the old villain—has been a deal at him that way to get him so that he can't ride." "What?" "The miserable wretch is down with D. T.'s in an awful state, and the local demon can't ally the spirit. To make matters worse, Jack Granton, who might have helped him, can't be found." "Jack was here just now. Gone on to the course." "What! Oh joy! No, no; it's no use. Foo late. Nobody could make poor Joe hit to ride today." "But this is diabolical." "Oh, it's ten times worse than that. Hilt, old man, I had such trust in the mare that I'm on her for nearly every race I possess. If she doesn't win I'm a ruined woman." "Oh!" cried Sir Hilton, getting up and stamping about the room, tearing at his hair, already getting thin on the crown. "Thank you, Hilt dear, thank you. I always knew you for a sympathetic soul. Can you imagine anything worse?"

ALL BLACK DINNER GOWN OF COLEEN POPPIN.

All black dinner gowns are at their best when made of materials soft and semi-transparent, soft silks, poplins, lawn and such fabrics, which naturally adapt themselves to the modes for evening wear. Coleen Poppin, a soft, clinging, lustrous weave, popular in the season's prices of materials, makes this gown of simple persuasion. It is really made in two pieces, skirt and bodice, but so effectively joined that it looks to be a one piece costume. The skirt is tucked over the hips between panels of black lace applique bands, and has two deep tucks, below clusters of tiny pin tucks, between the hem and several inches above the knee. The bodice, cut and controlled in back and pointed in front, is a simple baby waist with simple trimmings of the applique and short, very full puff sleeves, finished with a double frill of black chiffon. From the empire waistline in the back depends an empire slash of black chiffon. Long black glove gloves come well up under the short puff, so that none of the arm is visible between the sleeve and the top of the glove. An attractive accessory is the hand of black velvet ribbon about the throat finished with a bow at the back of the neck.

SCHMITZ DEFIES JUDGE BUT HE GETS FIVE YEARS

He Takes His Sentence But Objects to Judge Dunne's Scathing Lecture.

San Francisco, July 8.—Judge Dunne today sentenced Mayor Eugene Schmitz to five years in the penitentiary for extortion. During the judge's bitter arraignment of the prisoner, Schmitz repeatedly protested against the humiliation of a "lecture" that would be printed in full in the press. Judge Dunne said: "In pronouncing judgment in this case it can be said that the verdict of the jury in this case has a deeper significance than ordinarily attaches to the finding of guilty. It is a message to all the people in the city of San Francisco that law and order and justice are above the law. It is a message to the political, social and financial influences that surround him, it is above the law. Eugene E. Schmitz, you have heretofore occupied the highest office which the city of San Francisco can confer on one of its citizens. Now you are relegated to the position because of the confidence and trust reposed in you by the mass of the people." "I am here," interrupted Schmitz, in a voice, though quiet and controlled, that carried to the far corners of the room, "to receive sentence at your hands and not to be humiliated by a lecture which the newspapers can repeat in print."

"You were elevated to that position, I say, because of the confidence and trust reposed in you by the mass of the people," Judge Dunne interposed. "We are to take sentence; not to be lectured. We are," Mr. Schmitz said Judge Dunne warningly, "if you interrupt these proceedings again I will send you to jail. You would be in better business if you were bagging for a day in jail to answer the charges that you willfully and improperly attempted to tamper with a juror in this case." "To the judge Dunne made no reply. Judge Dunne said: "You were elected to the position because of the confidence and great trust reposed in you by the mass of the people. You have by your willful criminal act, as a juror of your fellow-citizens has declared, broken that confidence betrayed by the judge continued. "Therefore," the judge continued, "I may be said that the penalty which the law permits in this case is insufficient to meet the demands of justice. It may be suggested, however, that by your conviction you will lose the respect and esteem of all good citizens and men; those who will suffer the humiliation of knowing that your career of hypocrisy, duplicity and dishonesty to Schmitz be resumed. "I stand here as an American citizen to demand my rights," interrupted Schmitz. "It is not asking any leniency at the hands of this court. I am prepared to receive sentence. I ask that your honor do your duty and pronounce it immediately. I am not subjected to humiliation and degrading remarks which the papers are copying and will print. I say, if your honor has any self-respect, you will proceed with the sentence." "It is not unusual," was Judge Dunne's reply, "for courts to be brought into contempt by such brazen acts of effrontery as yours in the present instance. It is the duty of the court in such cases to view the conduct of a convicted felon with patience and toleration, not to say pity. By your conviction you will lose respect and esteem of all good men and women. I say, that your career of hypocrisy, duplicity and dishonesty has been exposed and that you stand, before those who believe in and honor you, morally naked, shamed and disgraced." "I deny that," cried Schmitz. "The people of San Francisco know how I was railroaded through."

Judge Dunne resumed: "Morally naked, shamed and disgraced. It is in the knowledge of these things rather than in any mere term of imprisonment in a state penitentiary that the full measure of your punishment may be found. "It is the judgment of this court that you be confined in the state prison at San Quentin for a term of five years. At a meeting of the directors of the Cornwall & York Cotton Mills yesterday the usual half yearly dividend of 3 per cent was declared. The directors are continuing their policy of adding improvements to the plant from time to time.

ADMINISTRATION ASKED FOR IN MR. BLAIR'S ESTATE

Will Cannot be Found—Net Value of Estate is $117,364—Carried But Small Amount of Life Insurance.

Ottawa, July 8.—Application has been made to the surrogate court by Andrew Geo. Blair, barrister, and Henry Allen Harvey, banker, of Ottawa, for letters of administration of the estate of the late Andrew G. Blair, former minister of railways and canals, and afterwards chairman of the railway commission. The formal grant of administration has not yet been made. Mr. Blair's will was never found. The inventory shows that Mr. Blair, who died suddenly on January 25th, of this year, at Exton, Ont., left a net estate of $117,364. The value of the whole estate was $187,632. Personally, $355,002; realty, $20,601; liabilities, $198,288.48; balance, $177,364. Schedule A, comprising freehold property, including Ottawa Golf Club, one share, par value, $500; Payne Consolidated Co., Ltd., 5,800 shares, par value, $1.

COBALT IN THROES OF SERIOUS STRIKE

Twenty-five Hundred Men Are Out and Only Four Diggings Working.

Toronto, July 8.—Cobalt has a strike on her hands. Upwards of 2,500 men are idle in town and work is at a standstill in all the mines save Foster, Green-Moehan, McKinley-Darragh and Queen, which have agreed to the demand of the miners. The other companies have agreed upon and posted a wage schedule and are said to be determined to stand by it. The Trethewey Company, however, which signed the schedule, is said to be anxious to come to terms with the men. The grievances of the miners are principally in regard to wages paid surface men and the length of shifts of underground employes. Because the former are not paid what is considered a fair wage by the Western Federation of Miners other laborers may go out through sympathy. The men demand that instead of two shifts a day for underground men there should be three of eight hours each, claiming that in this way use is made of the company's machinery all the time, thus benefiting the company financially and the miners physically. The strike news caused a heavy tone in the Toronto market for mining securities. Trethewey, Foster and Green-Moehan were among the issues to show a decline. One consolation is that mining stocks have fallen so far in the past six months that they cannot go much farther. At least that is the hope of many holders.

MAJOR WETMORE'S SPLENDID SCORE

Clifton Marksman Makes An Excellent Showing at Opening of Bisley Meet.

In the Gregory competition, which is open to all comers, Major O. W. Wetmore, of the 74th Regiment, Clifton (N. B.), made 34 out of a possible 35. Colonel Cross, secretary of the National Rifle Association, says sufficient funds to send a team to Canada and Australia have not yet been subscribed, but he fully expects to see the team in the fall.

THE ARTILLERY

Lieut. Col. Ogilvie Commenced His Inspection Last Night.

The annual inspection of the 3rd Regiment of Artillery was held in the drill shed last evening. The three companies, Nos. 1, 2 and 3, were on parade in command of Lieut.-Colonel W. W. White, and were drawn up in quarter column to receive the inspecting officer, Lieut.-Colonel Ogilvie, D. S. On account of the illness of Colonel G. Bolt White, D. O. C., his place was taken by Colonel E. T. Sturges, for muster parade. There was a good turnout. The inspecting officer was received with general salute and the band playing. Colonel Ogilvie then went through the companies, inspecting the clothing and arms of the men. He then took No. 1 company in infantry drill, forming in columns of sections of half companies and general infantry movements. The inspection was also carried out with the other companies. On muster parade Colonel Sturges took each company separately, checking over the names. The men were in drill order, with forage caps. It was found that but few were absent. During the proceedings the playing of the band was specially commented upon by Colonel Ogilvie, who expressed himself as pleased with the excellent music. The inspection will be resumed this evening, and concluded on Wednesday.

NONE NEED BE IDLE

It was stated in this paper yesterday that work on the west side wharves and on the rebuilding of Union street west is retarded by scarcity of men. Both contracting firms and the city itself need many more men than can be secured.

At the same time, a stroll about town impresses one with the fact that there are many idle men. A certain percentage of the men who are able to work are not willing to work, or at least are not anxious to engage in work that calls for muscular exertion.

IS IT NOT PITIFUL?

In a corner of one of the supervised playgrounds on Saturday a little girl was observed crying in a disconsolate way, and when approached by a sympathetic lady she said in answer to enquiry:

The father ill, the mother working in the factory to support the home, and the little girl repulsed by playmates because her dress was not as clean as theirs. Here is a little story of heart interest, the pathos of which should not be lost upon men and women whose children are denied nothing that love and care and ample means should provide for them.

NORWAY LIQUOR SYSTEM

The Chicago Tribune says that what is called the Sondag system of controlling the liquor traffic in Norway has proved a great improvement over the old system. There has been much dispute on this point. The aims and principles of the Sondag system are these: The elimination of private profit and securing the monopoly value for the public; insuring highest quality of liquors sold; the reduction of the number of licenses; the easy enforcement of the law; the destruction of the power of the spirit trade, and the furtherance of all progressive measures of reform. Such a system is of course uncomprehendingly opposed by those who hold that the state should accept no share of the revenue from the liquor traffic. It is interesting, however, to note what the Chicago Journal says of the system. We quote: "New Norwegian liquor laws are successful. The Sondag system gives power to municipalities to grant all the retail spirit licenses which they deem necessary to a company which would bind itself to carry on the traffic in the interests of the community, with a fixed annual return of not more than 5 per cent. on its paid up capital. In establishing the system the question of compensation does not appear to have presented much difficulty. The allotments of the profits are as follows: To the state, 65 per cent.; to the municipality, in lieu of larger license duties, now abolished, 15 per cent., and to objects of public utility operating as counter attractions to the public houses in towns, 10 per cent., and in the surrounding districts, 10 per cent. The profits of the trade under these restrictions have contributed $7,000,000 for objects of public interest since the founding of the system. During the last eight years the proportion accruing to the state has been increased and set apart till 1910 to form the nucleus of an old age pension fund, which now amounts to $2,200,000. The most remarkable fact is that the consumption of alcohol per inhabitant has decreased

SPECULATION AND PROSPERITY

On its commercial page today the Times quotes interesting comment from Toronto papers on the general financial situation in Canada. The view that stagnation and decline in the speculative markets is usually followed by a slowing down of general business is combated by the Mail and Empire, so far as it relates to present conditions in Canada. Its remarks are worth quoting, supplementary to the statements made on another page:

"So far from being a symptom of falling commercial health, the check in the flow of money to speculative uses of all kinds is altogether a consequence of prosperity. From year to year more of the country's money is needed for the actual operations of industry and commerce, and we have now reached the time when the demand on account of these operations is so great that the retirement of money from speculative and semi-speculative uses to supply this demand is showing marked effects in the form of lessening activity and lower prices on the stock exchanges. When we turn our eyes from the price quotations of bonds and shares to the quotations of Canada's industry and trade the contrast is striking. Never was business in this country more flourishing than it is today. Rightly, our bankers feel it to be their first duty to minister to the financial needs of every business that is adding to the wealth and commerce of the country and to the amount distributed in wages to consumers. If the directors of our monetary institutions adhere to this policy, the shrinkage in prices may be confined entirely to the classes of property in whose dealings speculation plays the greater part. Restraint of speculation is noted at all times when the solid prosperity of the country affords employment for the reproductive use of all our liquid capital."

The members of the fire department must necessarily depend upon the aid of merchants and citizens generally for much of the success of the tournament, which will be the event of the season in St. John. Their appeal should meet with a generous response. The tournament will crowd the city with visitors from all parts of the province, and doubtless attract many from Maine and Massachusetts. The firemen themselves may be relied on to do all in their power to make this event eclipse all former ones of a similar character in this city.

For pugilism as a profession few persons have any real respect, but there is something to be said in favor of the ability of a man to know when and where to plant an effective blow. An illustration of that ability was given at McAdam yesterday, when Mr. Power, of St. John, landed on the chin of a would-be wife murderer. It was a fine exhibition of applied science.

The opera house should be crowded to-morrow evening at the benefit performance for the playground fund. The opportunity is given all to contribute something, and at the same time to enjoy an exceptionally fine performance by local amateur talent, thus devoted to a worthy cause.

The temperance federation will invite political candidates to declare themselves. Rev. Mr. Marshall declared last evening that from an exhaustive correspondence and interviews he believed the temperance people were never more hopeful than now of the early accomplishment of prohibition in this province.

Major Barker of the 3rd Regt. Canadian Artillery is to be congratulated on the offer made him of command of the Canadian team of Petawawa. It is a tribute to efficiency that speaks well for his ability and training.

Ex-Mayor Schmitz, the San Francisco grafter, has been sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. His effort to brow beat the judge was a complete failure. There is a judge of whom the United States should be proud.

There are few acts of charity more moving than the spectacle of a wife for-giving the husband who has left her and turned thief for the sake of another woman, coarse, vulgar and vicious. Mrs. Runyan of New York was far too good for the man she married.

A Japanese admiral is alleged to have said the American naval officers were more effective at tea parties than in war. He probably said nothing of the sort. Japanese officers, if they had no other merit, know how to hold their tongues. Japan has its yellow press.

Congratulations to Major Wetmore whose score at Bixby yesterday was deemed worthy of a special cable to Canada. Despite the war-talk, Japanese generals, princes, admirals and statesmen continue to pay fraternal visits to Uncle Sam.

THE REIGNING TERROR

I stop on the corner and glance up the street. Then, venture across with a fear in my feet. "Honk! Honk!" full upon me with vicious onslaught. Driven headlong the horrible new Juggernaut. I leap for my life with a hoarse, angry shout. Disappointed, on whizzes the automobile. It ranges the haunts of the poor sons of men. And dashes them into their diabolical death. A despot it is, and none living may dare dispute with the king of the broad thorough-fare. Get out of the street every humble cart—wheel—Make way for the swaggering automobile! O, humble pedestrian, stay close at home. Or get a balloon and go search for a moon. Unhoped, and where gasoline never was known—Else stay in your den and ne'er out of it. For the streets—they belong to the automobile!

"Do you favor any particular school of music?" asked the lady. "Yes, indeed," replied the young man who was in a flat. "I favor the pianissimo school."

THE DOCTOR DIDN'T KNOW

An old, white-haired dandy living on a plantation, not feeling well, had the doctor pay him a visit. The doctor told him, as he was getting old, he must eat plenty of chicken and stay out of damp night air.

WOES OF MATRIMONY

"Poor fellow!" said a benevolent lady, kindly, "what has brought you to this deplorable condition?" "My wife, mum."

TOO YOUNG FOR THAT

"Brace up! What ails you?" asked the old hound. "I just heard the master say he's have to put me through the mill," replied the pup.

MARIA SOLVES A MYSTERY

Maria Ann sat by the fire, and watched the blaze leap higher, higher! Then wide she opened her mouth and spoke: "It gues the blaze does chase the smoke Clean up the chimney, and I'm on high." Where it makes clouds to sail on high.

WHY MONCTON REJOICES

An examination of the assessment book shows that there are 1252 individual or corporate owners of real estate within the city at the present time. Of these 1151 are residents and 101 are classed as non-residents. Putting the population at twelve thousand and the average family at five persons, this means that practically one-half the heads of families in Moncton own their homes or other real estate. This is a very creditable showing and probably there are few towns in the country that can equal it.

FRICITION WITH JAPAN HAS NO BEARING ON IT

The Sending of an American Fleet to Pacific Waters is Part and Parcel of a Preconceived Plan Into Which Japan Does Not Enter, is the Explanation Given by Officials.

Tokio, July 8.—The Hochi this morning prints an interview with Admiral Sakuma, in which the admiral is quoted as follows: "Should hostilities break out between Japan and America, the result would be indecisive owing to a want of proper bases of operation. Such bases as they exist are too far distant for practical purposes. Even the nearest bases, namely, the Philippines and Manila, are 600 miles from one another. If the Washington government should decide on war, it is doubtful whether the Americans serving in the navy are sufficiently patriotic to fight."

THE NATION CALLS FOR MEN OF IDEALS

The feature of the Fourth of July celebration at the Students' Conference at Northfield, Mass., was a speech by Rev. J. A. Macdonald, of Toronto, delivered before an audience that crowded the auditorium to the doors. It was received with the greatest enthusiasm. The day at Northfield is a gala occasion, and this was no exception. The men of the various colleges marched to their places giving the yell of their alma mater, thus showing what a wide extent of territory they are drawn from. The cause of international peace is very dear to the thousands of young men who gather at Northfield, and today a message was sent to the Peace Conference at the Hague expressing the gratification of the students that the nations were discussing the promotion of peace.

GOOD-WILL FROM CANADA.

One word more and I have done. I speak to you as a citizen of another country, a subject of another nation. One hundred and thirty years ago a Highland regiment crossed the Atlantic and shared the adverse fortunes of the Revolution. They did their duty as brave men and soldiers, but the fortunes of war were not with them. When the smoke of battle cleared, the clansmen found new homes far from the heathery hills, in the forest wilds of Nova Scotia. The great grandson of "Macdonald Mohr," an officer in that 84th Highland regiment, speak to you, the coming leaders of the American Republic on this great day in your nation's calendar. My veins are the blood and in my soul the passion of that new-born nation of the North. On this day that speaks of victory, victory for us as well as for you, victory for those ideas of freedom and self-government and enduring and worthy of a democracy as free and as stable as your own on this Fourth of July a native-born Canadian speaks to you of peace and good-will.

THE UNGUARDED BOUNDARY.

Along our boundaries these hundred years there has been peace. The forts of barbicans other days are fallen into hopeless ruin. The waters of our great lakes are never ruffled by the ships of war. Let it be so forever. These two nations, sons of the same blood, shall stand together for those things which make for the world's freedom and righteousness and peace. You go your way, loyal to your flag, true to your country, obedient to your nation's call; I go mine. And some day, some not distant day, though wide circuits round be fetched, the nations we represent shall meet in the great ongoings of history, and shall strike an everlasting truth that, not for themselves alone, but for the world, shall mean freedom and truth and love. To make ready for that day the great voices of life are calling. It is the call of the nation. And it comes to you.

SOGGING MORAL TONE.

More than that. The call of the nation is the more urgent, because on all hands, in business, in society, in politics, there is a lowering of the standard and a sag in the moral tone. A long-continued era of the exploitation of great natural opportunities, together with unjust but legalized monopoly privileges, have done much to bedevil business and destroy commercial honor; the increase of wealth and the mad gratification of pleasure—just have honeycombed and poisoned social life; and the sacrifice of principle to personal greed and party advantage has drawn the nerve of politics. One is not required to cite instances or to give proof. With the year's records in finance and with the daily reports of dishonor and crime under our eyes, the ugly fact is undeniable that in great areas of our life there has been a loosening of the pins and a drawing of the bolts that hold society together.

DANGER FROM CYNICISM.

And worse than instances of commercial dishonesty and political competition, more disastrous to the nation, is the atmosphere of distrust and cynicism which is all around us. A nation can grow and come to honor and influence even though here and there evils exist and wrong is done; but if over its fair face the shadow of distrust passes, if in its places of authority and among its men of leading the notion prevails that goodness is but a make-believe and the honor of a gentleman but a figure of speech, then neither greatness nor honor

LIFE IN A HAREM
(P. T. O.)

At the present moment, when so much attention is being paid to the question of equal rights for men and women, a passing glimpse into the harem of his Serene Majesty Abdul-Hamid exposes conditions things hard to believe, and still harder to accept.

THE REAL RULER OF THE HAREM.
Curiously enough, however, it is not the Sultan who is the most powerful and most dreaded autocrat in his own harem, but the Sultan's mother, known by the name of "Valide." It is the Sultan's mother who not only regulates every incident of the harem, but possesses the right of life and death over the women in it, and there are almost no known instances in which a Sultan has dared to sack a favorite from a punishment ordered by "the Crown of veiled heads," as the Valide is called in the harem.

THE SULTAN NEVER MARRIES.
And next to the Sultan's mother comes, not the Sultan's favorite wife, as might be imagined, but the Grand Mistress of the Harem, or Grand Mistress of Finances. The Sultan's chief wife, or, more correctly speaking, mistress, ranks only third in the order of the harem, and seems to possess, moreover, no real power whatsoever. I use the word mistress because the Sultan, which will probably come as a surprise to the majority of English readers, is not allowed to marry. This extraordinary prohibition dates from the time when a Sultan, going upon some holy war, and taking his legitimate wife with him, found her suddenly seized by the enemy and led into captivity. Now, the Sultan, being considered the Almighty's descendant and representative on earth, his wife was, of course, sacred, and could not become the property of any lesser creature. Her seizure, therefore, created something like a panic in royal circles. A council was called, and it was decided that henceforward, to avoid repetitions of a similar abomination, no Sultan should ever marry.

OFFENDERS QUICKLY DISPATCHED.
The members of the harem are still young slaves bought in Circassia, Georgia, Armenia, and other places, and practically educated in the harem itself on the chance that the Sultan may one day notice them. It appears also that civilization has not made great strides in the management of the Royal Harem, and that corporal punishments are still frequent, enuchs, called "beating enuchs," still being kept for refractory persons. Poisoned coffee is also not entirely out of fashion, while, grimmer still, the terrible sack flung into the Bosphorus even now does its sinister work. It is pitiable to learn that, notwithstanding all this, many parents willingly sell children to supply the enormous colony which constitutes the harem.

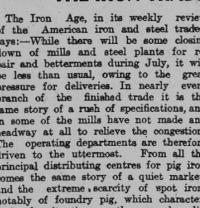

"UNRASY LIES THE HEAD."
But life for a Turkish potentate is at best a troubled circumstance. The fear of assassination is so great that the Sultan, it seems, has not for years slept two nights running in the same chamber. The only person aware each night of the room selected is his mother, who secretly gets it ready. Two female slaves also lie, like faithful dogs, extended across the doorway, ready to spring up at the slightest noise of the faintest call from the sovereign. But for fear of treachery even these are changed every night, and never until the last moment known to what part of the palace they are to be sent. The ordinary amusements of the harem are trivial enough, but it is pleasant to learn that some of the women have the deeper joy of motherhood, and that there are children to take care of and to teach over. So many pet animals are kept also, that the Royal Harem has been called a veritable menagerie.

CONDITIONS IN THE IRON TRADE

The Iron Age, in its weekly review of the American iron and steel trade, says: "While there will be some closing down of mills and steel plants for repair and betterments during July, it will be less than usual, owing to the high pressure for deliveries. In nearly every branch of the finished trade it is the same story of a rash of specifications, and in some of the mills have not made any headway at all to relieve the congestion. The operating departments are therefore driven to the utmost. In all the principal distributing centres for pig iron comes the same story of a quiet market, and the extreme scarcity of spot iron, notably of foundry pig, which characterized the situation months ago, has disappeared. The result is that the premium for spot iron is becoming very unusual. Still iron on old contracts is being taken right along, and there is some demand for participating shipments, which indicates that the consumption continues on a unprecedented scale. There has been a moderate amount of business closed in steel rails, and some important negotiations are on the point of being closed. Specifications for structural material are coming in liberally, and the mills are well booked ahead. There are some good contracts in sight."

ALL AMERICANS ARE MULTIMILLIONAIRES

English Newspapers Credit Visitors in London With Possessing Great Wealth.

LONDON, July 8.—The English newspapers are suffering from a severe attack of Americanitis. Scarcely a day passes without some journal chronicling the arrival of vast armies of multi-millionaires and their terrible vicissitudes in their endeavors to find places to rest their weary heads.

Every man from America who travels first-class is, immediately on landing, exalted to multi-millionairehood, with the result that he is constantly shadowed by importunate touts for London tradesmen.

Even the Americans who "did" Ascut were not exempt from the common nuisance of being accredited superlatively wealthy. All their movements were carefully watched by critical eyes of London society, and the one great theme of conversation was their hypothetical incomes.

The managers of various Atlantic steamship lines emphasize the fact that the stories of overcrowded cabins are doing them harm. The fact is the number of saloon passengers arriving in England is anything but unusually large, while multi-millionaires, in spite of the current picturesque statements, are comparatively unknown quantities.

Mrs. Mary Dawson, widow of James Dawson, died at her home in Fairville Saturday night. She had been ailing for two years, death being due to diabetes. Mrs. Dawson was born in Milford fifty-six years ago, and was one of the best and most favorably known residents of Fairville. Five children survive—Miss Rose Dawson at home; John Dawson, Mrs. Fred McGill, Mrs. Albert Greenlow, wife of First Officer Greenlow of the steamer Bay State; and James Dawson, of Fairville.

POISONED DAGGERS

There was profound silence in the court when Ferrer rose to give testimony. He said he founded the Modern School at Barcelona with the object of opposing religious by any instruction and preparing men for the future by inculcating revolutionary, but not Anarchistic, ideas.

CAPRICE TOMORROW

Big Advance Sale of Seats for Tomorrow Evening's Performance—Benefit of Playgrounds Fund.

Great interest has been aroused in the repeat production of Caprice which will be presented in the Opera House tomorrow evening. Already there is a large advance sale of seats and it is more than likely that Friday's success will be duplicated tomorrow evening. The production will be exactly the same as the previous one in every respect, and the proceeds will be devoted to the playgrounds fund. This in itself should be sufficient to draw a large patronage, but the producers of Caprice are not dependent upon the charity cry for patronage. They give an entertainment which has been generally pronounced the best amateur production ever seen here and which compares very favorably with the great majority of professional attractions. Seats are now on sale at the Opera House box office. A complete rehearsal of Caprice will be held in the Church of England Institute rooms this evening at 8 o'clock.

After the installation ceremony W. M. Sanborn, the retiring proctor, who is shortly to leave the city to enter the employ of Mahon Bros., Halifax, was presented with a handsome K. of P. watch charm by the members of St. John lodge as a slight token of the valuable services he has rendered the lodge during his term of office. Mr. Sanborn, who was completely taken by surprise, made a suitable reply.
