AGRICULTURE

Notes and Suggestions of Practical Utility

FOR THE FARM, FIELD, GARDEN AND DAIRY.

Cleanings of Interest for Our Country

Harness should be sponged and oiled often.

Keep the pig pens occupied. Pork can be made in winter.

Tie the bundles up in bundles and put them in the shed.

Wipe the soil from hoes, spades, etc., when you cover them at night.

Remove everything that is in the way of plow or mowing machines.

The total wool product of the world for 1891 is estimated at 2,250,000 pounds.

Chaff from the beans and buckwheat will be relished by sheep in winter.

Good stock need good care and will pay for it. For scrub fare use scrub stock.

Wood is a better crop than weeds and will grow without plowing or manuring.

It is not the size of the cow but the amount of fodder she will make use of that tells.

Improvement of the stock and improvement of the soil should go hand in hand.

Meat can be grown profitably on high-priced land by saving all the manurial elements.

The army worm is said to have cost this country more than the revolutionary war.

From one acre of land three times as much ensilage can be grown as there can be of hay.

Remember that the roots must be kept moist when trees and plants are being moved.

It is said that Americans now consume more beef per head than the "English beef-eaters."

It is much easier to do things after you know how. See how the silo has been simplified!

The man who carries something to the fair will look at what others carry and be benefited.

Put tools and carriages under cover if you have to stack your straw outside to make room.

Take a potato hook and dig up that swamp muck around the meadow and dry it for bedding.

If you are running your farm alone, use what you handle properly and let the rest alone.

The United States supreme court has decided that the tomato is a vegetable and not a fruit.

Learn to make quick motions on light work. It will save hiring a man many days in a year.

We can grow stock food in summer and do something more than save life with it in winter.

If you are going to feed whole corn to hogs do not let them get hungry enough to swallow it whole.

In many cases a strand of woven wire will add materially to the availability of an old rail fence.

Gather all the leaves you can get. They are as good as straw for manure and better for bedding.

Recent developments in dairy science make it one of the most promising branches of our agriculture.

Generally at this time bran can be purchased cheap, and it will pay to lay in the winter supply.

Since 1840 the world's production of meat has increased 57 per cent, and that of grain 420 per cent.

Inferior stock will pay for good keeping, but not as well as good stock. Remember both these facts.

Now that the harvest is over, begin to study what advance you can make next year over this year's methods.

A quantity of nuts, rivets, bolts, screws and wrought iron nail will be found a great convenience on most farms.

Make a fence this fall to keep cattle out of the wood lot, and you can grow your supply of wood on less ground.

The man who sells when a thing is ready to sell and a fair price is offered will come out best in the long run.

In spite of the many theories advanced, no reliable rule for breeding for sex, with certainty, has been found.

Cows that eat dry grass along the fences are liable to have stoppage and need roots or succulent food of some kind.

If meadows must be pastured now, the limit should be a good deal short of what may be termed short grazing.

Do not crowd sheep in small pens. They can huddle if they want to, but give them room to move and eat.

Better sow five acres to wheat, with all conditions favorable, than ten lacking in the essentials necessary to a full crop.

Make your house comfortable for winter if you do have to use the old sleigh. Other people's eyes will not keep you warm.

The number of sheep in the United States is about 45,000,000, and the amount of wool produced about 2,888,000,000 pounds.

Delaware's peach crop this season, the biggest in its history is estimated at 9,000,000 baskets, worth to the growers $2,000,000.

When a man leaves the old track and makes a success of winter dairying, he sees that he was only half a farmer before.

When a man buys oats by the bushel, at forty cents, he does not realize that it is $20 a ton, yet he thinks cottonseed meal is high at $26.

Intensive cultivation means simply farming to make money. The man who does not believe in the method had better abandon the business.

Forestry should be taught in all schools, for it concerns farmers, mechanics, railroad men and all who use wood for fuel or any other purpose.

A safe rule to follow with all farm products intended for market is to sell whenever a price can be realized that will leave a fair per cent of profit.

"Quick returns and small profits" is an old motto which does not apply to farming. In feeding animals it should be quick growth for large profits.

We have been growing sheep for wool and cotton for fiber. The sheep men are learning better. Cotton seed is valuable. "A word to the wise," etc.

A man who has never been able to save anything has but little courage to begin, but it will pay to make an effort at the cost of present comfort.

Current, raspberry and such bushes should be supported enough to keep them from the ground when loaded. Set posts and stretch wires each side of the row.

If you want to test one of those "dog proof" runs, do not shut him up in a pen, but give him a chance to run, and see if he will fight a dog without getting cornered.

Farms are not made rich by selling off grain and hay. Keep these at home and return them to the soil and you will have better crops each succeeding year.

Exports of merchandise from the United States during July last were valued at $69,143,192 compared with $58,401,758 in July 1892, an increase of $10,741,434.

The machine that will do the most work in a day with the same number of attendants is most profitable. This applies to digestive machines which make milk and meat.

A delay of one or two weeks in sheltering, or a week or ten days' delay in having ready for market often make a considerable difference in the amount of possible profits.

One Honest Man.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE GLOBE:

Please inform your readers that I will mail free to all sufferers the means by which I was restored to health and manly vigor after years of suffering from Nervous Weakness. I was robbed and swindled by quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but thanks to heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong. I have nothing to sell and no scheme to extort money from anyone whomsoever, but being desirous to make this certain cure known to all, I will send free and confidential to anyone full particulars of just how I was cured. Address with stamp:

SINGLES OF HUMOR.

A Little Nonsense Gathered for Leisure Reading.

It is proposed in Indiana to alter the marriage service so that it will read: "Who dare take this woman?" And the bridegroom shall answer, "I dare."

As a regiment, headed by its band, marched by, a little boy remarked:—

I say, ma what is the use of all those soldiers who don't play?

Passer-by: Policeman; there's a fight round the corner.

Policeman: Thank ye, sir; I'll do as much for you some day. And he walked in the opposite direction.

Agitated Young Bridegroom (immediately after the ceremony): Serena, shall—shall—shall I—shall we—shall we kiss?

Self-possessed Bride (her third experience): It is my usual custom William.

Assistant (to employer): What shall I mark that new lot of black silk at?

Employer: Mark the selling price $8.6d. a yard.

Assistant: But it only cost $3 a yard!

Employer: I don't care what it cost. I am selling off regardless of cost.

A cautious girl told her young man that she was resolved never to marry until he was worth one thousand pounds. So he started out with a brave heart to make that sum.

How are you getting on, George? she asked at the end of a couple of months.

Well said George hopefully, I have saved four pounds fifteen.

The girl dropped her eyelashes and blushing remarked, I think perhaps, that's nearly enough, George.

How She Knew.

He: I'm growing a moustache.

She: So someone told me.

for my wife, which she has taken with the most satisfactory results.

This led me to try Skoda's German Soap, as I was troubled a great deal with a sensitive face which shaving would irritate.

Skoda's German Soap has entirely rid me of this trouble. For softening and clearing up the skin one has only to try it to appreciate its superiority over all others.

A LEAMINGTON MIRACLE.

The Terrible Effects Of Typhoid Fever.

Mr. Joseph Robson, a Well Known Farmer, is Restored to Health and Strength after Nine Years of Terrible Suffering—All Hopes of Recovery Had Been Abandoned and He Looked Upon Life as a Burden.

From the Leamington Post.

Mr. Joseph Robson, whose home is on the first concession of Mersea township, about a mile from Leamington is known to almost every resident of this section. For years past, Mr. Robson has been a victim of paralysis in its worst form, and his case was regarded as hopeless not only by himself and his friends but by the doctors who had attended him.

To one who knew Mr. Robson's pitiable condition as we did, it was with no small degree of surprise and pleasure that we recently saw him drive through town sitting quite erect on a cross board in a lumber wagon, and controlling a lively team of horses. Halting him we asked what miracle had brought about this changed condition, and asked if he had any objection to the publication of the facts connected with his case. Replying he said he would indeed be a mean man if he refused to let the public know how his wonderful recovery had been brought about. Mr. Robson then told the story of his illness and recovery about as follows:—

About ten years ago, while living in the state of Ohio, I was taken down with an attack of typhoid fever, and for three months hung between life and death in a perfectly unconscious condition. Recovering from this I ventured out to work too soon, the result being that I was taken down with a severe cold. During the first stages of my trouble I was able to move about with some difficulty, but the disease gradually fastened its hold on me and I found one cause after another becoming paralyzed. At this time my prospects in life were by no means discouraging. I owned a magnificent farm not far from Toledo, on which we had a comfortable home, and I owed not a dollar to any one. I continued to doctor with specialists and experts from all parts of the States, each of whom promised to cure me of the disease, which they said was paralysis, but in every case they left me as bad and sometimes worse than they found me physically, and certainly worse financially. After suffering in this manner for two years my family concluded that a change of climate might do me good, and so we removed to Canada, settling where we now reside. This hope, however, proved a delusion, and each year found me worse and if possible added to my misery. Life itself became a burden to me and I knew that I was worse than useless to my friends. I was unable to feed myself as my head and hands shook so that I frequently left stabs in my chin when trying to put my fork in my mouth. It was only occasionally that I could move around at all, and then only with the aid of crutches. I lost almost entire control of my power of speech and got so bad that members of my own family could not understand what I was saying. My whole nervous system seemed undermined, and I abandoned all hope of ever again being of any use to my family. Last fall I was induced to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and from that date my condition has steadily improved until today I am able to take my place with other men on the farm, and while my hand shakes a trifle, I am able to do a good day's work every day in the week. I am now able to walk a considerable distance, and my nervous system seems fully restored. There is not the slightest doubt that these results are entirely due to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I am confident that had I been able to procure this wonderful remedy when I was first taken with the disease I would

HORSE NOTES

Harold is dead.
 Style commands price.
 Viking has one in the 2.20 list.
 Miss Alice has a mark of 2.134.
 There are inquiries for Jingo Jima.
 Bellini, 2.134, is not so soft after all.
 Harrietta, 2.094, was foaled in 1888.
 Mystic wound up in a blaze of glory.
 Princess Clara is queen of yearlings.
 Outclassed trotters may be bought cheap.
 Directum, 2.064, or Arion, 2.074, which Fantasy (3) 2.084, has gone a half in 1.03.
 Alcantara has 15 new standard performers.
 Oro Wilkes cut a watermelon at Lexington.
 Nova Scotia has produced a crack in Gordon Sim.
 Harrietta, 2.114, is the best Aleyone ever foaled.
 Rockefeller, by Electioneer, has cut his record to 2.294.
 A mile in 2.104 was Belle Vara's best effort at Chillicothe.
 Colonel Galvia has made Budd Doble quite a race horse.
 The owner of Aliz offers to match her against Nancy Hanks.
 Brook Curry is the new owner of Bernal, 2.17, by Electioneer.
 Nelson and Nutwood have each added 14 to the list this year.
 Martha Wilkes has dropped down to a half mile track break.
 Oro Wilkes won the 2.17 class at Nashville, Oct. 16; best time 2.164.
 Electricity, 2.174, purchased by Graham & Conly, stands 16.2.
 The cards were dealt for Oro Wilkes victory at Lexington long ago.
 Nancy Hanks, 2.04, will probably be bred to Arion 2.074, next spring.
 William Penn, 2.13, is the fastest three-year-old race trotter yet paraded.
 Edgerdo, 2.134, was selected for the Todd farm by George W. Leavitt.
 Elmore by Axtell, won a race at Independence, taking a record of 2.214.
 Aliz, 2.074, Pixley 2.084, and Harrietta 2.094, are the wonderful race mares.
 A mile in 2.104 was the best Stamboul could do against the watch last week.
 Good ventilation is necessary to the maintenance of good health among horses.
 Ned, by Mambrino Wilkes, took a race record at Manchester last week of 2.084.
 Low-headed, homely horses sell low, however excellent their individual road qualities.
 Robert J. is a faster race horse than Hal Pointer. Both belong to the Hamlin stable.
 Vega, by Woodbrino, was third to Caprice in 2.144 at Mystic. He went the mile close to 2.15.
 Horace Willis has had phenomenal success at Mystic Park this season. And, best of all, he deserved it.
 John Goldsmith is reported to be worth a quarter of a million. General Turner is another rich reinisman.
 Trainer Patrick Curtin has a Woodbrino mare in his hands that he says he might have put into the list this year.
 Henry C. Jewett will breed Kitty Patchen to Chimes next year. Truly, the horses of Hamlin and Jewett will be united at last.
 Boreal's mile at Lexington is the best for the age of the year. Boreal is a yearling and is by Bow Bellis, son of Electioneer, dam by Alcantara.
 Country Girl, 2.164, by Highland Lad, and Thetis, 2.164, by Mambrino Wilkes, are, respectively, the fastest New Hampshire bred pacer and trotter.
 At Saugus Oct. 16, Corner Bell by Bell Boy, won the $1,000 three-year-old stake in 2.28, 2.284. The 2-year-old stake was won by Calincident; best time 2.324.
 Precious, 2.25, winner of the 2-year-old race at Lexington is owned by Jas. Donaldson of Boston. Her sire was Stamboul, and her dam, Choice, by Dictator.
 Track managers can start a public improvement next year by placing their big drawing cards first on the program of the day they are to be decided. Generally they are last and then oftentimes, unfinished and postponed.
 At Lexington David B by Young Jim, won the four-year-old race, beating Trevilian, William Penn and others, and distancing Belleflower. Five heats were trotted; Trevilian and Belleflower each winning one; best time 2.214.
 Tom Marsh has retired his campaign string to winter quarters at Riverside Stock Farm, Newmarket Junction. He has placed one Woodbrino in the 2.20 list and marked another in 2.214.
 Princess Clara broke the world's yearling trotting record at Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 16. She went the mile in 2.264. This is the same filly that performed at the New England Breeder's meeting.
 Little B. B. scored his greatest victory at Mystic when he defeated Paul, Gil Curry and other cracks. Paul and Curry each won two heats but B. B. outclassed them and won. The time was 2.124, 2.114, 2.134, 2.124, 2.144, 2.174, 2.21.
 The fastest Maine-bred stallion next to Nelson, 2.09 is Robinson D. 2.174 by Daniel Boone, the progenitor of the fastest Maine-bred gelding Stanley 2.17 and the fastest Maine-bred mare Gipsy M. 2.134.
 Bob Poole says that Dan Wilkes, 2.284 will beat 2.20 next year. The five-year-old son of Mambrino Wilkes has started in seventeen races this season, won five; second money in five; third in four; and has saved his entrance in all but one, Thetis, 2.164; the fastest New Hampshire bred trotter, has been retired to the farm of her owner, Capt. G. H. Perkins, at Webster, N. H. If she receives a prudent wintering she shall acquire a mark of 2.12 in 1894. She can race with the best of them.

 The free-for-all at Lexington, Ky., Oct. 11, was the fastest on record. Directum won the first, third and fourth heats in 2.094, 2.084, 2.08, and Pixley the second in 2.084. The average was the fastest ever made in a trotting race. Pamlico and Walter E. were the other money winners.
 Harrietta won the big Transylvania stake at Lexington. Oro Wilkes, another second generation trotter, won the big three-year-old event at the same meeting. The Wilkes family this year seems to be in a class of its own. What can touch them as money winners?
 Globe and Wardwell were started at St. Joseph, Mo., against the team record. When Geers scored down for the work they ran away with him. It was impossible to stop them and his arms gave out at the quarter. He let them loose and they flew to the half, where he again took hold of them and managed to stop them at the three-quarters. They were sent to the barn.
 Of Vermont's horse show at the World's Fair R. W. Goodrich who judged the Morgan exhibit says: Vermont has the stock to have won every premium save that of the yearling filly and could as easily have brought back $2,500 of the $2,000 offered as to bring what she did, a little over $1,000. Had the Western states possessed the Morgan horses that Vermont has they would have taken pride in showing them and at the same time made the welkin ring.
 Said an expert dealer in horses in New England to the writer: "Everybody is decrying the horse business. Now then, let me make a prediction: Horse—that is the common horse, so-called—will be worth more money two years hence than he has ever been. Why? Because people have got scared and are not breeding. The horse car companies have unloaded the bulk of their stock, and one of these days there will be a call for the common horse, and the man who has him will get a good price.
 Hambletonian is the sire of the greatest number of brood mares that have produced standard performers; Mambrino Patchen, next; after him George Wilkes, and closely following Wilkes, Almont. In absolute numbers, Hambletonian leads, in numbers for age, Almont leads. In the numbers of performers relatively to number of producing daughters. Pilot, Jr., stands first among the greatest broodmare sires, and in the extreme speed of their performers, Pilot, Jr. probably holds first rank.
 That very distinguished son of Hambletonian, Harold, the sire of Maud S, 2.084, and so many other good ones, died at Woodburn a few days ago. He had been in a very precarious condition for many months. He finally got down in his stall and was unable to rise, and it became necessary to administer chloroform to him in order to put an end to his sufferings. He was an inbred Abdallah being by a son and out of a daughter of the sire of Hambletonian. He left a goodly list of his own, but it is in the great producing quality of sons and daughters that his chief usefulness consists. Many of the very fastest performers trace their lineage to this splendid son of the great progenitor.

 Scene—Dining-room in fashionable boarding-house.—Lady Boarder (about to leave table): Will you excuse me, please?
 Gentleman Boarder: With pleasure! And still he doesn't know why she has snubbed him ever since.
 Back From the Seaside.
 Aunt: Were there many at the seaside, Florence?
 Florence: Oh swarms! They often flew in at our windows!
 Aunt: What!—the people?
 Florence: Dear me no!—the wasps.
 Mr. Thompson: Our neighbor, Borax, was shot at by a burglar, and the bullet lodged in his purse.
 Mrs. Thompson: What of it?
 Mr. Thompson: Nothing, only I was thinking his wife must be very economical. A bullet would go right through mine.
 Educational Item.
 Proud Father: Welcome back to the old farm my boy! So you got through college all right?
 Farmer's Son: Yes father.
 Proud Father: Ye know I told ye to study up on chemistry and things so you'd know best what to do with different kinds of land. What do ye think of that medler there for instance?
 Farmer's Son (joyfully): Crickey! What a place for cricket!

 never have been where I was. The absolute truthfulness of the facts as I have given them to you can be verified by hundreds of my friends and neighbors, or by any member of my own family.
 As to much of the evidence contained in Mr. Robson's statement the writer can himself bear evidence. His speech, which one year ago could scarcely be understood, is now perfectly distinct; his head then dropped on his chest, whereas now it is held quite firm and erect; then he could not walk across a room without holding to a chair or table, while now he can walk without difficulty.
 We called upon Mr. W. J. Smith, druggist, and interrogated him in reference to the case. Mr. Smith said that he knew of Mr. Robson's ailment and that he had suffered for years as stated, and he had no doubt that it was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that cured him. "Pink Pills," said Mr. Smith, have a remarkable sale, which seems due to their remarkable efficacy in curing diseases arising from an impoverished condition of the blood, or an impairment of the nervous system, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, St. Vitis dance nervous headache, nervous prostration, and the tired feeling arising therefrom, the after effects of lagrippe, influenza and severe colds, disease depending on humors in the blood, such as scrofula chronic erysipelas, etc. Pink Pills give a healthy glow to pale and sallow complexions, and are a specific for the troubles peculiar to the female system, and in the case of men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, over work or excesses of any nature.
 Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark and wrapper, (printed in red ink.) Bear in mind that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are never sold in bulk, or by the dozen or hundred, and any dealer who offers substitutes in this form is trying to defraud you and should be avoided. Ask your dealers for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and refuse all imitations and substitutes.
 Dr. Williams' Pink Pills may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N. Y., at 30 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50.
 The price at which these pills are sold makes a course of treatment comparatively inexpensive as compared with other remedies or medical treatment.

DANMORA, N. Y., Oct. 25.—Martin Foy was successfully electrocuted at Clinton Prison at 11.50 o'clock Monday morning, for the murder of his mistress, on May 13th, 1892.

QUEBEC, Oct. 25.—News has been received here that a man living on the Labrador coast murdered his wife, his mother-in-law, the wife of a neighbor and little boy. No arrest had taken place when the courier left the scene of the murder.

THREATEN TO LYONER HIM.
Horrible Crime of a Vermont Frenchman on His Daughter.

WATERBURY, N. Y., Oct. 25.—The report of the most horrible complication of crimes ever committed in this section has been received here from St. Lawrence County. The crimes were perpetrated on Wednesday last, at Alburtz, a small station on the Northern Adirondack Railroad. Zebedee Ducey, a Frenchman from Alburtz, Vt., has been living for some time with a Miss Thompson, and they are the parents of a little girl, three and one-half years old. On Wednesday night the girl was assaulted in a manner too horrible for publication, by her father, after which she was taken from the house and her skull crushed in with a large stone. He then took her into the house where she remained unconscious for two hours. After she regained consciousness the brute attacked her with a sharp instrument, and cut a large gash in her right cheek, after which he sewed it up. The girl's mother did not dare to report the matter. Ducey swore he would kill her. At last the mother mustered courage, and Friday told a part of the story to a Justice of the Peace, who issued a warrant, and Ducey was taken to Dickson Centre, five miles distant, and locked up. Doctors made an examination of the child, and found out the truth of the statements. The doctors state that blood poisoning would set in, and that recovery is impossible. Many citizens talk of lynching, and it is doubtful if the dead lives until the examination is completed.

DEHLEP SING DEAD.

Expiree from a Stroke of Paralysis in Paris
PARIS, Oct. 23.—The Maharajah Dhulep
Sing, died in this city yesterday from the effects of a paralytic stroke.

Dhulep Sing, G. C. S. I., was the son of the famous Ranyat Sing, the Rajah of Punjab, and was born in 1838. Dhulep was an infant when his father died, and the demoralized state of the regency and army induced the British ministry to annex the principality under certain conditions; one condition being that the young maharajah should receive four lacs of rupees, $40,000 per annum.

He afterwards became a Christian, took up his residence in England and was naturalized.

His mother, the notorious Rane, also resided in England up to the time of her death in 1863, but resisted steadfastly all persuasion to become a Christian. It was at one time supposed that the Maharajah would take for a wife the Princess Victoria of Coorg; but in 1864 he was married at the British Consulate at Alexandria to a young Protestant lady, a British subject. She died in 1887 and in 1890 he married in Paris Miss Ada Douglas Wetherill. In 1885 he presented to the British Government a claim for increase of pension, payment of personal debts and other things to which he considered himself en-itled. This claim being disallowed he left England for India but was not permitted to land. Having expressed deep regret for the course of hostility he had pursued against

England, Her Majesty, by the advice of her ministers, pardoned him.

the past season.

not obtain either—in this way.

RAILWAY DISASTER.

The Battle Creek Railway disaster is one of the worst ever recorded on this continent. The fact that the loss of life is largely Canadian as well as American, with a few British tourists included, naturally gives the event a direct interest in the three countries. At the coroner's inquest novel evidence was tendered the jury being an imitation of the collision. The scene showed the lights burning as they were on the night of the accident, with the semaphores and switches in exactly the same position, while coal cars and other portable properties appeared in the same condition as at that time. One engine crept up as did No. 6, and another rushed in as did No. 9. The jury were on the last engine to see what they could see. Engineer Cranshaw of No. 9 assisted in the sham wreck, and did the same things as he did on the night of the dreadful wreck. The object of this lesson was to enlighten the jury as to the practical details of the accident. A list of the dead can be found on another page.

Every Canadian should feel proud of Canada's successes at the World's Fair, and particularly of the result of the October cheese competition. The success achieved speaks more eloquently than volumes written, and all the comparisons that could be instituted, upon the excellence of the methods imparted by the government staff in the cheese industry. The fairness of the decisions cannot be gainsaid as two of the judges were Americans and only one a Canadian. It must surely be a revelation to our American cousins, some of whom imagine us to be such benighted, ice-bound people, and also cause them much annoyance to see our people go across and whip them in their own yard. Canadian cheese beats the world.

It is just possible that the men who made themselves so ridiculous by hauling down the British ensign at Chicago were Irishmen. How they expect to benefit the motherland or her cause by such conduct it is difficult to divine. The flag floated there in honor of Lord Aberdeen, and no one but an ignoramus would offer such an affront to so broad-minded a man, and one who has done so much for the people of Ireland. Perhaps the flag incident of Ireland's Day at the Fair may have prompted such a line of action, but then it was a very poor requital. We find it difficult to persuade ourselves that it was sons of Erin who acted with such bad taste. There are always some dastards on hand, eager with word and deed, to smirch the character of the generous hearted Gael.

Lady Aberdeen, referring to the telegraphic reports of the "flag" incident at the world's fair, said: "I saw it stated that several thousands of Irishmen aided in the pulling down of the British flag at the Irish village in the Chicago exhibition on Saturday. I was present, and I know that only a few roughs participated in the incident, and that there were the strongest of indications that the thousands of the great mass of the Irishmen present, had no sympathy whatever with the attempted outrage. Indeed, the president of the national federation made an offer to me to prosecute offenders to the utmost rigor of the law at his own expense, and I saw many other evidences of the fact that the trouble was confined to a very few roughs. These facts I would have published as widely as possible, for I feel that such needless harm may arise from a misrepresentation of the actual occurrence."

Home-Warming at Stanley.

Messrs. D. Shea and F. The boys expect to have a grand time as Mr. Humble is pronounced an excellent host. A few others were also invited from this city but were unable to go.

SECLUDED THE BRIDEGROOM OCT.

And Mr. Being Married Also, Spent the Night on the Back Matts.
(From the Chattanooga Daily Times, Oct. 21.)
Guests at the Kennedy House were in good humor all of yesterday over an occurrence which had transpired the night before. Wednesday there arrived from Florida a bridal couple who had come direct to Chattanooga immediately following the ceremony. Bride and groom gave every evidence of refinement and later developments proved their good breeding and modesty was most marked. The gentleman is a prosperous merchant in the land of flowers and his bride one of the brightest and most winsome buds in that garden of female loveliness.

The couple reached the hotel late in the evening, and were immediately ushered into the bridal room of the hostelry. Shortly following the disposition of the baggage the groom reappeared in the office of the hotel, where only the night clerk remained. That courteous official noting the nervousness of the stranger, made bold to inquire if he could provide further toward his comfort. The young man's blush was akin to scarlet when he thanked the clerk and confessed he merely sought the office while his wife retired, and would himself retire a little later. Some time elapsed, when the clerk suggested that the stranger appeared sleepy and possibly the bride was exercised over his long absence. Again the Floridian's modesty painted his face a bright red as he arose and said he believed he would turn in. In five minutes he was again back in the office.
"Mr. Clerk, he said, "I must ask your advice. The modesty of both my wife and myself is developed to an extent. While she was making her toilet for the night I withdrew. It seems she feared intrusion, and to guard against it locked the door. She has evidently fallen asleep for I cannot awaken her. What shall I do?" The clerk, who is a man advanced in years, is of blunt architecture, and readily responded: "Possibly your knock was of the timid character. Try it again, and with more demonstration."

The groom acted under instructions, but either the deep sleep of the bride or her extraordinary modesty decided the husband's admittance. The clerk retired from the hallway to conceal his mirth, and the groom, thinking he was not detected, lost heart and quietly tiptoed down the hall, took a seat upon the back stair landing, and remained there throughout the entire night.
Yesterday morning he made his toilet in the wash room, joined the bride at the breakfast table, and when hunger had been appeased, settled his bill, and the couple took the first train for out of town.

SPORTING NOTES.

The Turf.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 25—Harold, aged 29, the sire of Maud S., died at Woodburn farm, Ky., yesterday. He was owned by A. J. Alexander. Up to the close of 1892 Harold was the sire of 21 sons, who have produced 69 trotters and 13 pacers in the list. Among those sons is Lord Russell the sire of Kermela (2,071), who, at five years old, was the stallion king. He is the sire of 27 daughters, who have 38 trotters to their credit on the list.
Pascal, the black gelding by Pascarel, who distinguished himself by lowering the five mile record from 13 00 to 12 45 at the recent Fleetwood Park meeting, has already been bereaved of his honors. In a five mile dash race at Oakland, Cal., a few days ago, Bishop Hero, bay horse, by Bishop, won in 12 30, beating Pascal by 151 seconds. This is the same horse which a week before gained the three mile record, only to lose it within a fortnight to Nightingale, by Mambrino King. It is a great season for long distance performances. The three mile record has been lowered by 26 1/2 seconds and the five mile by 29 1/2 seconds.

Many consider it as asking too much of yearlings to trot a full mile, but the owner of Porial, one year old, by Scientist, gave him two trials at two mile heats last Saturday, at Bangs, Mass. The first was in 6 00 and the second in 5 26 1/2. The possession of the record for the age and distance—and it is an inaugural record, no other yearling having ever attempted the feat—scarcely compensates for the cruelty involved.

The Cycle.
SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 26—W. W. Windle lowered Johnson's third of a mile flying start bicycle record on Hamden park, this afternoon, making it in 37 seconds. He lowered his own half mile record flying start from 56 3-5 to 55 4-5. Tyler attempted to lower his own mile standing start record of 2 25, but on account of the slow pacing on the last quarter succeeded only in equalling it. He lowered his three quarters of a mile record from 1 30 1-5 to 1 30.

The new Cunard steamships have been doing quite a stroke of work in the way of record breaking of late. The last voyage of the big Campania occupied five days, thirteen hours and twenty three minutes, the shortest western run ever made. The Lucania's eastern run was also the shortest on record, being made in five days, thirteen hours and thirty minutes. These trips prove that the Cunard line possesses the fastest steamships now afloat for passenger service. It is predicted that in a few months the ocean record will be brought down to five days which will probably be the lowest point it will ever reach.	DIED. Hatt—In this city, Oct. 26th, George Hatt, sr., aged 81 years. Evans—At Cardigan, Oct. 26th, Benj. Evans, son of the late Benj. Evans, in his 25th year.
Death of Mrs. James Dever. The news of Mrs. James Dever's death yesterday afternoon gave the whole community a shock. She was a young woman, only thirty-five years of age, strong and healthy in appearance, and one of the last who would have been selected as the occupant of an early grave; but she was cut off almost before she had time to bid her loved ones good bye. A few days before her death nothing serious was looked for or expected. The end came almost without warning. Mrs. Dever was the daughter of the late Edward Seery, and sister of Dr. Seery, Wm. E. Seery, and Mrs. E. Dever of this city. She has also two sisters here unmarried. She leaves four children, one boy and three girls, the youngest an infant only a few hours old. The husband and relatives have the sympathy of the whole community in their sad bereavement.	Mr. John Brooks, agent for the Singer Sewing Machine Co. accidentally shot himself in the left arm while at Newcastle on Tuesday last. Orphan L. O. Lodge, No. 20, met last night. Twelve Royal Arch degrees being worked kept the members bustling until early this morning. Lieut. Governor Boyd, while eating his dinner at the Queen Hotel the other day, got a chicken bone in his throat. Medical aid had to be called in.	Senator Hill, of New York, is a member of the ways and means committee of Congress, which is charged with the preparation of the new tariff. Any alteration on the subject from his lips is eagerly accepted, therefore, with the assurance that it is made with authority. In an address in Brooklyn the other night he devoted some time to a discussion of the tariff, and his words bore out the prediction so frequently made of late that a very general reduction is contemplated. He stated that in the first instance the bill would be a revenue bill, that raw materials used in manufacturing would be placed on the free list, which would be largely extended, and that on manufactures a proper protection would be maintained. The bill will be ready for submission to congress about the first of December, and it should become law at a date considerably earlier than has been generally anticipated.	Coming and Going. Hon. A. G. Blair was in the city this week. Mr. F. B. Coleman and Mrs. Coleman went to Chicago this week. Mrs. Jas. S. Neill and Mrs. Wesley Vanwart are expected home from Boston to-day. Mr. George Howard has gone to Montreal to consult Dr. Buller, the celebrated eye specialist. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. McGibbon, who have been visiting their friends and relatives in Douglas, returned this week to their home in Neihart, Montana. Governor Boyd and Mrs. Boyd registered at the Queen this week. Mr. Bernard G. Baxter left Thursday for Bathurst, where he will commence his law practice. Dr. Harry Gregory was in the city this week. Mr. Baird registered at the Royal Hotel this week. Mr. Geo. L. Wilson went to St. John this morning on business connected with the Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Co.
Wedding at Oromocto. A very pretty wedding took place Wednesday morning at the residence of Mrs. Dr. Miles, Oromocto, when her only daughter Miss Ida was married to Mr. Wm. A. Gibson son of Mr. John Gibson, of Marysville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. B. Payson, assisted by Rev. A. C. Dennis. The bride who is a handsome and popular young lady with many friends in the city, was dressed in shot silk with chiffon trimmings and carried a white bouquet. She was attended by Miss Whelpley of this city, who looked extremely pretty in a grey costume and carried a pink bouquet. The bridegroom had the support of his brother Mr. Arthur M. Gibson. Mr. Gibson's gift to his bride was an elegant set of gold jewelry, set with diamonds, and her numerous friends kindly remembered her with an endless variety of beautiful presents. The bridal party left for St. John immediately after the wedding. They will visit Boston and on their return will commence housekeeping on St. John street, in the Limerick house, recently occupied by Mr. Gilpatrick. The Gosses extend their hearty congratulations.	At the sitting of Northumberland county court last week, the grand jury found no bill against Captain Russell, the commander of the Rustler in the late sad accident on the Miramichi a short time ago. Mr. Fred. Nicholson, for some years clerk in the Queen Hotel here, is fitting up the Albion Hotel, in 'Sharkey's block, Queen St., and will carry on the hotel business. Mr. Nicholson expects to be ready for business next week. An interesting ceremony was celebrated in the Catholic church, St. Mary's Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock by the Rev. Father Kiernan, when Miss Sadie Cox, daughter of the late Phillip Cox, of Mangerville, was united in marriage to James McCloskey of Lower St. Mary's. The bride was attended by Miss Ross McCloskey of Fredericton, while Will Cox, brother of the bride, supported the groom. After the ceremony the happy couple drove to the residence of the bride's mother, where the wedding breakfast was partaken of.	A $2,000,000 Suit. A suit involving $2,000,000 of real estate has been begun against the Equitable Insurance Society in behalf of many dissatisfied stockholders. Humphreys-Fossath A social event of a matrimonial nature took place Tuesday afternoon at the Methodist Parsonage, Sheffield, when Mr. Humphreys, one of King's county's enterprising young men, led Miss Fossath of Sussex to the altar, the Rev. Mr. McCalley, brother-in-law of the happy bride, performing the nuptial bands.	Four Chance. For trunks, valises, sabb bags, etc. call at Anderson & Walker's. Large stock, prices low, valises 50 cents and upwards. Trunk, $1.00 to $9.00.
DEATH OF GEO. HATT, SR. The funeral to take place this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mr. Geo. Hatt, Sr., one of Fredericton's oldest and most respected residents, died at the residence of his daughter Mrs. J. J. Weddall, Thursday morning. Mr. Hatt was stricken with paralysis a few weeks ago, and although he shortly afterwards recovered his mental faculties, he kept growing physically weaker each day until his death. The deceased, who was in his 81st year, was a native of the North of England and came to this country when quite young. Since he started business in this city, Mr. Hatt had always maintained a name above reproach. He was a member of the Methodist church and a consistent living Christian gentleman. He leaves three sons and five daughters. His sons are George Hatt, David Hatt of this city, and Charles H. Hatt of Marysville, and his surviving daughters Mrs. J. J. Weddall, Mrs. B. H. Torrens and Miss Hatt of this city, Mrs. F. S. Williams of Marysville and Mrs. Dr. Colter of Woodstock.	On Queen—Front of County Court House. The lights will be suspended over the middle of the streets. The erection of the necessary poles will be commenced at once. A Great Sufferer from Dyspepsia

Perfectly Cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla
The best stomach tonic known to medical science are so happily combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla that it cures Indigestion, and Dyspepsia in its severest forms, when other medicines fail. In many cases Hood's Sarsaparilla seems to possess a magical touch, so quick and so gratifying the relief. Read the following from an aged and respected citizen of St. Mary's, Ont.:
I am very glad to give this testimonial as to what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I suffered very much with dyspepsia. I have been taking medicine and I never had anything do me as much good as Hood's Sarsaparilla. Every symptom of the dyspepsia has entirely disappeared and I feel that I cannot praise the medicine too highly. I Eat Better, Sleep Better and feel stronger than I have for many years. I have taken six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla bought of Mr. Sanderson, the druggist. JOHN AIKENS.
For 25 Years
CORDIAL ENDORSEMENT.
From Mr. Sanderson, the Druggist.
"I know Mr. Aikens to be a strictly honest, straightforward man, and take much pleasure in testifying to the truth of the testimonial he gives above." F. G. SANDERSON, Druggist, Queen Street, St. Mary's, Ontario.

POOR DOCUMENT

QUEEN VICTORIA'S DAY.

The Programme of Events at Her Scotch Retreat.

Memories of John Brown—Her Business-Like Methods and Simple Recreations—Expansive and Easy Surroundings.

If Her Majesty were the wife of some middle-class gentleman in comfortable circumstances, her life could not be simpler. As 8 o'clock she is awakened by one of her four maids, who sleeps in an anteroom adjoining her royal mistress's bedchamber. The very heavy window curtains are pushed aside to admit the daylight, and on a little table drawn up to the bedside the Queen has all her letters which she opens with a plain ivory knife, which is a relic of her girlhood and a cup of tea or cocoa. Breakfast at 9.30 is, in pleasant weather, served in a small pavilion containing four rooms, all upholstered in very ugly tartans, designed by the Queen herself. This summerhouse is on the lawn at a little distance from the castle, but her Majesty goes to it in a loose dressing gown, belted with ribbons, and made of some old-fashioned material of which she is fond, and none but members of the royal family ever join her at this simple meal. During the repast the head piper plays various spirited tunes on the bagpipes about a quarter of a mile away, for, though the Queen is fond of the instrument, she believes that distance lends enchantment to the sound. At 11 the royal lady goes out, dressed in black, for her morning airing in a species of bath chair, drawn by a pony and led by Francis Clark, John Brown's successor and cousin, who, of course, displays his stalwart proportions in kilts.

Once a Week.

Once a week the chair is drawn down to the churchyard, and the Queen inspects the grave of the faithful and departed John Brown. The village, too, is often visited, and Her Majesty thinks no shame of herself purchasing oranges and flannels to distribute among the poor at the one little shop kept by Mrs. Symons.

At 12.30 she returns to the castle, refreshes herself with an egg beaten in milk and then reads to herself Henry Foxonby, her private secretary and the minister in attendance. Luncheon is the Queen's favorite meal, and she is then pleased to converse in a lively fashion, discussing the news of the day, and often showing a fund of amusing anecdote. In the afternoon she again drives out, and often stops for tea at some cottage on the estate, where a room is specially reserved for such emergencies. Humble friends of the Queen are visited, and sometimes she is pleased to use her sketching materials. After her return, an hour is devoted to the little grandchildren, and there is an interval of rest before the 9 o'clock dinner, after which Her Majesty, though she is such an early riser, usually spends two hours or more with her private secretary.

Francis Clark, by the way, is of the same type as his cousin, John Brown, but, although he is deservedly loved by his mistress, he would not venture upon the liberties his predecessor was privileged to take. Some funny and authentic anecdotes were told me by my friend of the faithful Brown. One day, during his time the Queen was preparing to sketch near Glassalt Shiel, where she had spent the previous night. Even the Queen sometimes "gets out of bed on the wrong side," and this happened to be such a morning.

Regarding Her Majesty.

One stable after another was brought from the Shiel, until the supply was exhausted, and the servants plunged in despair, but yet none of them suited her faithful Majesty. At last John Brown took one of the rejected articles and set it down rather hard and with much decision before his mistress. "They canna mak' one for ye," he said. The Queen could but laugh; the table was accepted and amiability restored. Sometimes her Majesty would appear ready for her drive in some comfortable old cloak of fur from prepossessing appearance, but of this descent from royal dignity the servant strongly disapproved. "And what kind of a thing is that ye've got on the day?" he would grumpy say, and the good-natured sovereign would usually dress to please her attendant on the next occasion of the kind.

The Indian empire is represented in the royal household by Her Majesty's Indian secretary, and her personal attendant, a very handsome Asiatic, who is always gorgeously apparelled in scarlet white and gold. And these men have their own servants and their own suite of apartments in the castle, where the fragrance of curry is said never to be absent. The Queen is very good to her servants and takes a great interest in their personal welfare. And of course the happiness of her humble subjects helps to make her happiness. But I wonder how many women would be contented with the dull and humdrum life led during the larger portion of the year by England's queen.

Strength of the British Army.

The annual War Office return shows that the effective strength of the regular army at the end of last year of 218,513. The officers numbered 7877; sergeants 13,420; rank and file, 193,146. The household cavalry comprised 1319 officers and men; cavalry of the line, 18,859; artillery 36,661; engineers 7520; foot guards 6125; infantry of the line 135,829; colonial corps 5032; at my service corps 9482; medical staff corps 2445. The forces stationed in England were 76,029; Ireland 27,261;

SHE WEDS A YOUNG LORD.

Marriage of a New Yorker to Lord Terence Blackwood.

The civil marriage of Miss Flora Davis of New York, and Lord Terence Blackwood was celebrated in Paris on Saturday; the religious marriage at the English Church in the same city, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. John H. Davis. Mr. D. formerly lived in Philadelphia. While in this city he was a member of the brokerage firm of Glendinning, Davis & Amory. A branch of the business was started in New York, of which Mr. Davis took charge. This partnership was finally dissolved. Mr. Glendinning taking the Philadelphia and Mr. Davis the New York business.

The bride is 26 years old, but appears considerably younger. Her face is oval, her eyes and hair are brown and she is below the medium height. She is extremely pretty. Her income is $10,000 a year.

KILLED A BURGALAR.

Robbers at Port Dalhousie Used Pistols and Were Re-paid in Kind.

PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont., October 23.—The canal toll office at this place was entered early yesterday morning by burglars. They awakened Mr. Clarke the collector and just as one of the burglars struck his head in the bedroom door Mr. Clarke fired and wounded him. His shot was returned by another of the gang and Mr. Clarke retreated to the window to call the lock-tenders to his assistance, when another shot whizzed by him. The wounded man's pals dragged him away. No further trace of them was found until two o'clock in the afternoon, when the body of a well-dressed young man was recovered about forty yards from the canal office. On examination a bullet wound was found in the man's breast, and he is supposed to be the man shot by Mr. Clarke. A heavy overcoat, with ammunition, fuse and a lot of small burglar's tools, was found about a quarter of a mile away. A railroad ticket from Toronto to Hamilton and a Russell House, St. Catharines, business card were also found on the dead man. The proprietor of the Russell House, identified the body as that of a man who, along with another, had dinner and supper at his hotel on Saturday. Deceased registered as James Miller and the other as William Thompson both of Detroit, Mich. A peculiar feature of the affair is that some of the people living in the neighborhood of the canal office say that they saw the deceased man walking around in the neighborhood of the lock shanty and canal office about noon yesterday. The body was not yet cold when the coroner arrived. An inquest will be held.

WANTED NO UNION JACKS.

An Attempt to Wreat it From Blarney Castle.

CHICAGO, October 22.—There was almost a riot in Lady Aberdeen's Village of Industries at the World's Fair on Saturday night. A second attempt was made by 150 Irishmen to pull down the Union Jack, which has been floating from the tower of Blarney castle in honor of Lady Aberdeen's husband, the Governor-General of Canada. The Irishmen gained access to the top of the tower and tore down the English emblem, because they did not consider it ought to be unfurled in an Irish village. They were detected in the act by some of the village employes, and the guards drove the offenders out into the Midway. The gang returned stealthily in a short time and climbed over one side of the fence. The guards were on the alert, however, suspecting that another attempt would be made as soon as the flag was strung up again and pounced upon the intruders. Then came the exciting part of the scene. The guards summoned the patrol wagon, and tried to arrest the whole number in the face of threats from a crowd of several thousand sympathizers who quickly gathered around the village. The wagon came on the double quick, and the force of guards tried to cope with the anti-English visitors. They no sooner had got one or two of their prisoners into the wagon than the men who pressed around it pulled them out. Three of the ringleaders were finally taken prisoners after a pitched battle of some minutes' duration. The Earl of Aberdeen arrived at the village with his secretary just after the battle and was very indignant at the insult.

EMIN PASHA'S DAUGHTER.

The Wild Little African Girl Rescued from Barbarians.

There is a nine-year-old girl at Neisse, Germany, whose life has been crowded with adventures worthy of the unhappy Emin Pasha whose daughter she is. The child was born in Abyssinia, her mother being a native of that country. When she was five years old her mother died and she was taken to Bagamoyo, on the African mainland, opposite Zanzibar, by her father, legally adopted and placed in the care of an Arabian nurse named Fatma. But the little girl was harshly treated by the Arab woman. She was tattooed from head to foot and was gradually sinking into barbarism when, through the intercession of one of the German Diakness sisters at Bagamoyo, she was transferred to the home of an interpreter named Mariano. There she remained until the first rumors came to Bagamoyo of Emin Pasha's death, when the Diakness Sister Lies (Franziska Bader) took her to Germany and placed her in the home of the dead explorer's sister, where she is now being educated.

Little Ferida is a most interesting little girl and is as devoted to her aunt as her aunt and all her relatives are devoted to her. She is described as being of a very happy disposition, but has still a wild will of her own, which, however, only serves to make her more attractive. She has been described as possessing unfathomable black eyes; her skin is of a very dark brown olive color and she has two rows of beautiful teeth. Her perfectly classical figure, says one German writer, long silken black eyelashes, boldly arched, deep black eyebrows, and above all, glowing glances, lend a peculiar charm to her small, regularly formed head—a charm which is hardly broken by her somewhat pendant lips. Feri, as the little one is called, is an affectionate child, but is playful as a kitten and never wearies of teasing her newly-found friends and relatives. When asked if she intends to return to Africa she looks frightened, shakes her little head energetically, tears start from her eyes and she exclaims, "Nie! Nie! (No! Never!)" The memory of the sad life to which she was condemned in Africa is still too fresh in her mind. Mentally she is quite gifted. Besides Arabic and her native Shushli, she speaks German, French and Italian.

The railroads are still a great mystery to her, and when she sees a train in motion she always looks to see if horses are not spanned in the front. She has not yet become accustomed to the German climate and loves best if she can be allowed to go to bed with her clothes on. She preserves with great reverence all the presents given to her by her father, of whom she loves to speak. He was always very devoted to her, unwearingly caring for her well being, and thought of her as the greatest treasure that he possessed.

A Never Ending Procession.

If all the babies born in one year were laid in a line, head to foot, they would stretch from New York to Hong Kong. If they could walk past a corner at the rate of 20 per minute, it would take them six years to pass.

NOTICE is hereby given that under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain indenture of mortgage bearing date the twenty-first day of May in the year of Our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight, made between Honora Kingston of Cork Settlement, aforesaid, relict and widow of John Kingston, deceased, and George Kingston of the same place, farmer, of the first part; and Edward Estabrook, of the parish of Prince William, farmer, of the second part; registered in Book I, 4, of the York County Records, pages 306, 307, 308, on the fourteenth day of May, A. D., 1889. There will for the purpose of satisfying the moneys secured by the said indenture of mortgage, default having been made in the payment thereof, be sold at public auction at the Court House in the city of Fredericton in the County of York, aforesaid, on Saturday the fourth day of November next, the lands and premises mentioned and described in the said indenture of mortgage as follows: All those two several lots of land situate, lying, and being in Cork Settlement, aforesaid, and formerly owned by John Kingston, late of Cork Settlement, deceased, being the same as to which the said John Kingston resided at the time of his death known respectively as lot number nine west, containing fifty acres, and lot number nine east containing fifty acres more or less, having been granted by the Crown to the said John Kingston and by him devised to the said George Kingston.

Together with all and singular the buildings and improvements thereon, and all the rights, members, privileges, hereditaments and appurtenances to the said lands and premises belonging or in any wise appertaining. Edward Estabrook, Mortgagee.

The Kitselman WOVEN WIRE :- FENCE :- The BEST and CHEAPEST Fence on the Market.

THE KITSELMAN FENCE IS SOMETHING ENTIRELY NEW in the line of woven wire fencing, having a straight wire running lengthwise through every mesh or diamond, the mesh wires being twisted round each other as well as around the straight or parallel wires, forming the Strongest Woven Wire network ever produced—in fact it is so far ahead of any other netting for heavy strength durability and general utility that a fair comparison can not be made. Every wire and every twist in this Fence is a brace to all other wires to all other twists the full height of the fence. The combined strength of the straight and mesh wires is more than treble that of a fence made without any straight wires. This fence obviates the very objectionable feature of sagging which is the fatal fault of all old style netting. OURS is the Only Machine that you can take to the field or any place and make a Woven Wire Fence.

Do You Want to Make Money?

If so, purchase a right for operating a machine in your parish or county. With one of these Machines you can get more fencing to do in your own neighborhood than you will be able to do with one machine. There is no fence on earth that will take like this one. You will therefore, see that there are few enterprises that you can invest many times the amount in and make as much out of, as EVERY MACHINE will earn easily $20.00 a day for its owner.

THERE'S MONEY IN TIMBER.

Some Sample Transactions in The Ottawa District.

But the Pine is Rapidly Disappearing and With it the Area of Commercial Value—Advance in Timber Value.

A late issue of the Montreal Star says:—The last of the "square timber" rafts of the season have passed down the Ottawa, and the last of the great "drivers" of logs in the Ottawa and Gatineau rivers have come down these streams and joined the already enormous accumulations in the booms within a few miles of this city. Most of the "cut" of timber in the woods last winter was, as usual, a big step further away than in previous years. Every year sees additional miles added to the now great distances which must be travelled by those in quest of the timber that is annually sawed here. Year by year the forests are falling further back and the available timber becomes less choice. A generation ago pine for the mills distant. An area of pine timber half as large as France has been cut down—not the area, but the timber—by the lumber firms of this city within the lifetime of their present members. Some of the rafts that have passed here this season came four hundred and fifty miles.

From their Native Wilds.

The pine forests of Maine, northern New York and Pennsylvania have been substantially swept away. Those of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, which are now the chief lumbering states, furnishing fully one-half the lumber of the Union, last year put out 9,000,000,000 feet. The industry in these three States employs in all its forms over one hundred thousand men. It can be imagined that these north-western forests are disappearing pretty rapidly, too. The case is similar in Ontario and Quebec, where the annual cut is probably as large.

Probably the very best way to give an idea of the rate at which the forests in the Ottawa Valley are disappearing, and the proportionate rate at which they are advancing in value, is to quote recent deals in timber limits. These appear to illustrate the rapid disappearance of the forests between here and Georgian Bay, the richest pine district in the world.

A local lumberman gave the following as facts regarding transfers of timber limits in recent years:

William Mackey, a prominent citizen of Ottawa, bought for $300 the Amable du Fond timber limit, 180 square miles, on the Mattawa River, a tributary of the Upper Ottawa, thirty-one years ago. He has held it since, occasionally cutting a little timber—enough, latterly, to bring him in a few thousand dollars a year. Eight or ten years ago, Mr. Mackey was offered and refused $75,000 for the limit. This was not a bad advance on the $300 paid for it some twenty years previously; but a couple of weeks ago a bid of three-quarters of a million dollars came to Mr. Mackey for the same limit. And gauged by the advance in value of other limits in the same period, this enormous appreciation in value is not exceptional.

Mr. Mackey Again Declined.

Mosson Boyd a Michigan lumberman, in 1886, paid $86,000 for 68 square miles of pine timber on the north side of Lake Nipissing, which affords an outlet for logs to Georgian Bay, whence the logs are rafted across Lake Huron to the Michigan saw mills. Boyd did not cut any timber on this limit. He held it until last year untouched, when he sold it for $45,000 to Davis & Hay, of Toronto. Six years brought him a profit of 400 per cent or over $380,000. Timber limits cost little to hold, as useless when timber is cut; the dues are infinitesimal and there are no taxes.

The Hon. Peter White of Pembroke, Speaker of the Dominion House of Commons, bought a limit of 153 square miles in the Magnesian river, near Mattawa, from David Ball fifteen years ago for $75,000. Until last year he cut steadily in it, taking out from first to last probably quarter of a million dollars worth of timber. Last year he sold this fairly well cropped territory to the Hurdman firm, of Ottawa, for another quarter of a million.

John R. Booth, President of the Canada Atlantic and the Parry Sound railways, is reputed to be worth six to eight million dollars in lumbering partly through the appreciation in value of timber limits.

Bought Cheap in Olden Days.

He has at Ottawa the largest lumber mill in the world, employing twelve hundred men. Take one specimen transaction of his in timber limits. Seven years ago he bought from Charles Smith, of Ottawa, for $67,000 a pine limit on the north shore of Lake Superior. That limit is now held at $400,000.

Mr. G. P. Brophy, Government Engineer of the Ottawa River Works, was standing it is said, in the rotunda of the Russel Hotel in Ottawa, one day, some eight years ago, when a business acquaintance stepped up and offered to sell him a small limit on the Upper Ottawa.

What's your price? said Mr. Brophy: Twelve thousand dollars.

I will give you eight thousand.

Make it ten, said the seller.

Mr. Brophy is a keen, sharp business man as well as competent engineer, and no man in Canada has better chances of sizing up speculative opportunities in timber. But he could not, any more than any one else did, calculate at the time the money in timber limits. He declined. Subsequently, the story goes, the limit was offered to him at his own figure. He again declined and had the pleasure within the last year or two of seeing the same limit change hands at $86,000.

J. K. Wary, a prominent merchant and Liberal, of Montreal, is stated to have bought, four or five years ago, from the Mercier Government of Quebec province a timber limit on Lake Expans, among the head waters of the Ottawa, paying it in said some $3 a mile.

Perley & Pattee, a big lumber firm of Ottawa, recently dissolved, last year sold to Arthur Hill & Pettee, of Saginaw, Mich., a large limit on the Madawaska for a sum in the neighborhood of half a million dollars. Sixteen or eighteen years before they bought it for $200,000, it is said. These instances might be multiplied by the dozen. They are sufficient to show the extraordinary.

Advance in Timber Values.

consequent upon the rapid felling of the pine forests. To an inexperienced eye there may be hardly an evidence at first glance of the disappearance of the pine. The hard woods which the pine is interspersed are usually left standing to a considerable extent, and so are the smaller pine, so that even a well cut country will still look splendidly wooded. No doubt the time will come when it will be carefully re-cropped. But the commercial value is largely gone, and with it the natural desirability, for the cutting of the pine greatly lessens the value of the woods as vast reservoirs, holding the snows in spring and the rains of summer so as to feed steadily the innumerable streams of the watersheds. Consequently spring floods and summer droughts for the cleared lands in the valleys follow close on the lumberman's axe. A certain amount of attention has been aroused by the rapid retirement of the pine. Some political action has been taken. Bad as the axe is, fire is worse. The Ontario Government has recently attempted to enforce strict precautions against fire and it has also appropriated as a provincial park, an enormous reserve near Lake Nipissing thirteen hundred square miles, of which nine hundred are pine timber situated on one of the chief natural watersheds of the province. But a great deal more than this is necessary if the Canadian pine forests are not soon to disappear like the tracts of Maine and New York. Enlightened men here are urging the establishment of regular systems of arboriculture, such as prevail in several of the chief countries of Europe, notably in France. It is hoped also that the Quebec Government will follow the lead of the Ontario Government in establishing a natural park on some of the main water sheds.

HOOPER IS HOPEFUL.

Considers the Coroner's Jury's Verdict Very Favorable.

JOLLETTE, Oct. 23.—The Hooper enquete re-opened here at half-past two this afternoon. The first witness called was Toussaint Malo, step-father of the deceased.

No stenographer has yet been secured and the hearing of evidence is being continued in the same slow way. One of the lawyers interested said this morning that if the case proceeded like this, the enquete will last at least three weeks. The fact that no poison was found by the analyst has not daunted Mr. Connell, the Crown Prosecutor, who declares that the suspicious circumstances alluded to by the coroner's jury in their verdict, must be investigated here.

But on the other hand, the counsel for the defence claim that this is a great point in their favor, as one of the first things to be established is that a crime had really been committed.

Hooper received the result of the inquest by telegraph and expresses himself as being satisfied with the verdict which was as he expected. He is confident that when his time comes he can explain away all those suspicious circumstances. Detective Carpenter has gone to Quebec to secure the witnesses there.

Mr. C. A. Connell, Q. C., the Counsel for the Crown in the Hooper case was born at St. Elizabeth, near Joliette in 1857 and is therefore quite a young man. A leading Conservative he has always taken an active part in political campaigns and was known as one of the best speakers in the party. He is the son of Hypolite Connell who was a great friend and admirer of Sir Geo. E. Cartier. He was educated at the College at Joliette and graduated in 1875. He studied law with Hon. F. G. Baby and then with Chief Justice Lacombe. His first political campaign was in 1877 against Hon. W. Laurier, and the party was successful in defeating the then Minister of Inland Revenue. He was admitted to the Bar, July 12, 1879. He went to St. John and edited the Echo d'Iberville for some time. In 1881, he came to Montreal and practised law with Mr. Charles Champagne. In 1883 he defended Milloy, charged with murder, and then became the partner of the Hon. J. A. Guimet until 1887. He attended sixteen criminal terms here and defended Jacobs, convicted of manslaughter, and led the Crown cases in the penitentiary revolt. Settling in Joliette he became shortly after Crown Counsel and led the leading cases, having in one term obtained conviction in every case tried. In 1889 he led the smuggling cases below Quebec.

CANADIAN CHEESE.

Considerable Increase in Value, Owing to the Success at the World's Fair.

From the following correspondence it will be seen that a considerable increase in value in Canadian cheese has resulted from the favorable reports given of it at the World's Fair.

Prof. J. W. Robertson, Chicago.

Dear Sir—Would you kindly favor me with replies to the following questions:

1st. What do you estimate as the advance in the price of Quebec cheese as a result of the success of the province of Quebec in the cheese competition during the month of June?

2. What, in your opinion, is the aggregate gain to the province of Quebec on the cheese output of the present season?

An early reply will oblige,

Yours truly,

(Signed) John McIntosh, Jr.

Chicago, 16th October, 1893.

Hon. John McIntosh, Commissioner for Quebec to the World's Columbian Exposition, Quebec.

Dear Sir,—In reply to your question, I would say that it is my opinion that the interest which has been awakened in the manufacture of fine cheese in the Province of Quebec, owing to and resulting from the success which attended the exhibition of Canadian cheese at Chicago in June, has resulted in an improvement in the quality of the output of the factories of that province.

A moderate estimate would put the increase in the intrinsic value of the cheese, from the stimulated attention devoted to this branch of the dairy industry in the province of Quebec, at from 1/2 to 1 cent per pound on the cheese manufactured in Quebec. The estimate would represent a sum of over $100,000 in money on the make of the present season, besides the gain in knowledge, prestige and experience.

Yours truly,

(Signed) Jas. W. Robertson,

Dairy Commissioner.

POOR DOCUMENT

AN OPEN LETTER.

Grand Lake Range, Queen's County, N. B.

March 10th, 1893.

THE GRODER DYSPEPSIA CURE CO., LTD.

GENTLEMEN:

I am 72 years of age and have had Dyspepsia for several years. I have employed numerous physicians and taken many patent medicines, but all were of no use in my case. I began to grow worse. There was severe distress in my stomach; everything I ate, even the lightest food caused me intense agony. My appetite was poor and I could not sleep. I was almost without hope when I saw a testimonial in the newspaper stating that Groder's Syrup had done for others. As a last effort to regain health, I thought that I would buy it. Just before Christmas last my son Fred went to St. John and brought me home a bottle of your remedy. I used with the following results:

I eat as I wish and have no distress from my food; my appetite is first-class, my food tastes good to me now, I sleep as sound as a child, I do all my own work without the aid of a servant and can do a day's washing without feeling much tired whereas I could not do it at all before taking Groder's. I do feel grateful to you, gentlemen, for placing so valuable a remedy upon the market. I give all the credit for present state of good health to your medicine.

I am willing to answer any questions concerning the above, for I firmly believe your remedy will cure other sufferers as it has cured me. I conscientiously make this statement without any inducement or reward knowing it to be one of the best medicines in the market for Dyspepsia.

Respectfully yours,

ELEANOR BURKE

CAROLINE'S LOVER.

OR Love Versus Wealth.

BY ARTHUR PENRHYN.

The orders were soon obeyed, and Cyril accompanied by Caroline, stood, at one side of the bed, and doctor and the magistrate on the other.

Some years ago, said the dying man, I was working in India. I was a poor man, without a penny in the world, until chance threw me in with Mr. Cuthbert Cavendish, who took me by the hand, so that I soon had made a little money.

About this time my health gave way, and I had to return to England; but just as I was starting, Mr. Cuthbert's wife died, leaving him with a little child. Mr. Cuthbert had married without his brother's leave—and you know what a man he was to believe in primogeniture—therefore he was ashamed to write to his brother, but, now that his wife was dead, he determined that he would tell his brother all.

For this purpose he entrusted the little girl to me, also a large sum of money and some papers of great value. With these I was to proceed at once to Monkswold, and to tell the whole truth to your father, Mr. Laurence Cavendish. I intended to behave honestly at first, but the gold was too much for me. I knew Mr. Laurence was perfectly ignorant of his brother's movements, so I adopted the child, came here, and started as a banker.

Then Caroline is my cousin? She is. You need not be ashamed of her family, for her mother was well born as your own. For years I kept up a correspondence with Cuthbert Cavendish, and in all my letters told him that his brother had sworn never to forgive him.

Time passed on, until one day I was sitting alone in the bank parlor, when a knock came at the door. The clerks had all gone home hours ago, so that I was forced to open the door myself. I did so, and, to my horror, Cuthbert Cavendish stood before me.

Cuthbert met me in the same friendly manner, and therefore I knew that as yet he had not discovered anything. So we sat down and talked over business matters. I found that Cuthbert had made an immense fortune by trading under a false name. You know, Mr. Cavendish, how proud he was, and that he would not let it be known that a Cavendish had ever been in business.

Well, when he had made this fortune, he had procured bills on London banks for the amount; but these were made out in his proper name whilst he traveled in the name he had used when in business.

I have placed the money you entrusted me with into this concern, and traded in my own name, Mr. Cuthbert, I faltered. I have made a deal by so doing, that I hope you will not be angry at my having done so.

On the contrary I am delighted. My little girl shall be as rich as a Princess. Perhaps Laurence will forgive her, as she may marry this lad Cyril whom you spoke about; if so, may God prosper them, Braghoff THE Spy.

BY LEO HARTMAN THE NIHILIST.

On the 13th of March, twelve years ago, the Czar Alexander the second was executed by a member of the associated Nihilists, named Grinevskiy, who was himself killed by the bomb with which he destroyed the autocrat and the son, Alexander the III, reigned in his stead.

In order to remove all doubt regarding his future course, Alexander followed with a manifesto in which he declared his unswerving determination to assert and perpetuate the autocratic principle of government.

Under the cloak of patriotism, every court partisan competed for imperial patronage, and hastened to respond to the Czar's suggestion about forming secret societies to combat the Nihilists.

Grand Duke Valimir (the uncle of Alexander III.) acted as chief of the oath bound organization, "Sviatiera Drougina" (the Holy Guard), which resolved to employ dynamite, and in fact, every available method of warfare against the Nihilist.

The end justifies the means, was their motto, and I had the pleasure of learning that the Holy Guard purposed to assassinate my humble self, together with two other noted Nihilists, Prince Kravtchin and Pierre Lavroff.

The circumstances that I resided beyond the jurisdiction of his Imperial Majesty, and that I had found an asylum under the British flag, appeared evidently of no consequence to these professional patriots and anti-Nihilist assassins.

The first intimation of their plot against my life I received during my stay in London, through a shrewdly-phrased letter from a person in Barcelona, Spain. He introduced himself as the inventor of an explosive substance possessing such power that a small quantity would blow up the largest building in the world.

Being in profound sympathy with the Nihilist movement, the alleged inventor offered me his secret gratuitously, if I would only come to Barcelona. At first I thought him a crank of some kind, and for it is the dearest wish of my heart, and shall be well rewarded. On second thoughts I must see my brother, and there is no need to go into accounts, I said for I had but a few hundreds to start with; therefore every penny I have is yours, Mr. Cuthbert.

You're an honest fellow, Bullion, he replied, and shall be well rewarded. On second thoughts I must see my brother, for I owe him some money for part of the estate which he sold to start me. In truth my fortune entirely belongs to him, and therefore he must take what he likes.

Those words decided his fate. Tomorrow he would see his brother; and all would be known, and I should be ruined. No; he must die. I could not lose the position I had gained at the expense of my honor.

You have some papers of mine I wish much to see, he continued; can I look at them tonight? "Certainly!" I cried, and led the way to a thick, dark safe, in which I kept the few valuable papers belonging to Mr. Cuthbert; for, of course, I had got rid of the rest. The safe was never used for anything else, for I feared that by some accident be discovered that I had stolen the money. I alone possessed the key and no one was allowed to go into it.

"I turned the key, and he entered the gloomy place. I watch him slowly unlock and open the door, and then I slammed the door upon him. Oh, God, the fearful shriek he gave! I hear it still ringing in my ears. For days and nights I heard no other sound but that long cry of agony. No peace has been mine from that hour. Gold has flowed into my coffers, but not all the wealth in the world could buy me peace of mind. Oh, heaven! mine has been a fearful life! His kindly voice seems to ring in my ears, and then comes that terrible scream. Oh, mercy—mercy!"

The dying man sank back exhausted on his pillow, and some cordial had to be administered to him before he could speak. At last he continued, "So, you see, I, the honorable and respected banker, am a thief, a liar, a forger and a murderer. The world has worshipped my gold, and knowing that my coffers were well filled, never cared to inquire how they became so. But mark me, I never robbed anyone but Cuthbert Cavendish, and his easy nature placed temptation in my way. My whole wealth belongs by right to Caroline, whom I have kept out of it for so many years. Mr. Cyril, she is your cousin. You love her and she both loves and is worthy of you. It was her father's wish that she should be your wife, and it is the only hope that I have on earth. Marry her."

Cyril drew Caroline to his side, and said in a firm voice "I will."

"Heaven bless you for that!" cried Bullion. "Why, look, there is Mr. Cuthbert. He shakes hands with me; he forgives me!"

For some time they stood listening to the ravings of the dying man. At last he became still, his face changed and he was dead.

Cyril married Caroline, and came into all the wealth, with which he repaired the old family place at Monkswold. That Bullion's story was true was proved by papers that were found in the bank safe paid no attention to the matter, but his solicitations grew more pressing with every mail, and when he even declared his willingness to defray all expenses of my journey to Spain, my suspicion was aroused. Inquiries, which I instituted among my friends in St. Petersburg, accompanied by specimens of the Spaniard's chirograph brought soon proofs that the obscure inventor was a spy employed by the "Holy Guard," for the purpose of enticing me to Spain—where my extradition would be more readily obtained.

This scheme having failed, another agent of the Czar's government tried to ingratiate himself with me. He was a Russian Hebrew, whom I will call Braghoff, a thickset man of forty-five years. He came to London from New York, and made my acquaintance by means of letters of introduction which he had managed to secure from unsuspecting Nihilist emigrants.

Braghoff posed as a man of large means, which he was only too anxious to devote to the revolutionary cause, and, as a beginning, he extended to me an offer of one thousand pounds to found a Nihilist periodical in Brussels, Belgium.

I at once discovered that this proposal was but a variation of bait in the Spaniard's plan, to induce me to leave British soil.

I pretended to take the option under consideration, intent on studying the wiles of a Russian spy. I came, however, near paying a dear penalty for my curiosity. One day Braghoff invited me to the Alexandra Palace.

At the Charing Cross underground railway station, we entered a first-class compartment of the train. Just as the door closed I noticed two young men with Russian features, sneak past and hurriedly take seats in the adjoining compartment.

I remembered having seen them once in secret conference with my companion, and the fear dawned upon me that I had been entrapped to be murdered. I changed my seat, and from the corner of the compartment, I watched Braghoff sharply with one hand on my revolver-pocket.

As the train went rattling through the dark tunnel, I saw by the misty light of a small gas jet how large beads of perspiration began to drop from his brow. He was trying to muster courage to attack me, but my watchfulness unnerved him.

It must have been a hard experience to him—so hard that from this time the idea of murdering me never entered his head again. A new device took his place.

Once, while visiting me, Braghoff volunteered the information that he had started a subscription amongst his friends with the object of obtaining sufficient funds to inaugurate a revolutionary paper.

Three thousand pounds have been subscribed already, said he, and if you are willing to take some counterfeit money you can get bank-notes amounting to over twenty pounds sterling.

In rosome hues he painted to me the prospects of becoming rich rapidly, and helping the Nihilist cause.

It was not a new scheme. A few years previous, Russian agent-provocateurs succeeding in entangling the Polish emigrants in Paris in a similar undertaking, and established a factory for manufacturing a spurious Russian paper currency.

They were caught, but eventually escaped to their country, where they received the protection of the Czar.

Enjoying immunity from punishment at the hands of his own country, what has a Russian spy fear? A criminal at home he is pardoned and sent abroad, where he may continue his nefarious practices with satisfaction to himself, and destruction to his victims.

Once, while visiting Braghoff, I found him in his rooms on Salisbury Lane in a state of unusual excitement. He could not talk quietly. He seemed embarrassed about something. Entering immediately upon the subject of the proposed publication, he denounced in strong terms, Linoff, a friend of mine, whom, he said, doubted his having the money he had promised to invest in the forthcoming newspaper.

He paced frantically about the room, declaring that he would prove to me whether he was an impostor or not.

I made out yesterday, he exclaimed, twenty thousand pounds, and I will show them to you.

And, disappearing for a moment he returned bearing four large bags.

Cutting the strings he scattered their contents, and hundreds of twenty-dollar pieces rolled from the centre table and over the carpet in all directions. Again he rushed out and brought back a big bundle of hundred dollar green-backs, which in seeming frenzy, he threw about the floor. Once more he disappeared and I was left alone, surrounded by wealth.

Impatiently I awaited him. Gladly would I have gone from the place, but departure meant danger. Inaction was equally hazardous.

His object was apparent. What could I do? Should he with shouts of "Thief, Thief" rush from his hiding place and grasp me, what English judge would believe it to be a conspiracy to defame the honor of a Russian Nihilist.

I shuddered at the thought, and near the window, gesticulated frantically in my efforts to attract the attention of some clerks in the office of the citizen on the opposite side of the street. I finally succeeded in making them understand that I was in trouble and wanted help.

They crossed over and entering, mounted the stairs. I stealthily approached the door and opened it suddenly.

The spy and two other men were watching me through apertures in the wall, but they were seen by the Citizen people and an explanation was in order.

I made light of the affair, and professed to understand it as a joke. Every new plan or device used to entrap me failed in its object, and in all their places I managed to turn the tables, and caused the spy to fall into the trap so carefully prepared for me.

I continued to visit Braghoff until, one day looking over a daily paper, I was startled by an account of a supposed attempt to destroy a train on the Grand Eastern Railway, in which a Russian Grand Duke was a passenger.

A dynamite bomb with fuse attached, was found on the track, and the Nihilists were of course suspected.

While reading there came a knock at the door, and a man responding to my invitation to enter, introduced himself as Mr. N. from Scotland yard.

I naturally expected to be subjected to unpleasant questioning, when he surprised me by asking whether I could give him any information regarding Russian government agents in London.

We are of the opinion, said I, that the bombs were placed on the track by the Czar's commissaries, and not by Nihilists. We base our suspicions on previous experience with this class of Russian residents in London, and we are confident that should we succeed in finding the Russian spies, we should thereby secure the perpetrators of the dastardly act.

I mentioned the name of Braghoff. Are you sure about him? inquired he. I am convinced, although I have no proofs, I answered.

We know all the Russian spies, said the detective, but still, there might be others who came over with the Grand Duke. Have you any means of finding out? Yes, I replied. I will write to my friends in Russia.

The Inspector left stating that he would call again soon, and I immediately hurried to Braghoff.

My object now was not to lose sight of him, to watch him as closely as possible. Still, it did not occur to me to ascribe to him the dynamite explosion on the Great Eastern Railway.

However, I had not forgotten the glass jar containing a suspicious-looking liquid, which I had once seen in his room, and that had struck me as a fluid very much resembling in color and small nitroglycerine; and now, as I recalled the stealthy manner in which he conveyed the jar out of the room, I saw what a splendid opportunity I had missed.

In the meantime, the letter to my friends in Russia had been sent, and I impatiently awaited an answer. At last it came.

With trembling hands, I held the innocent-looking epistle over a flame, and, little by little, there came out between the lines of writing new lines of cipher. It contained the fullest information. A list of over thirty-five secret agents of the Russian government, and the names of the cities of Europe and America wherein they were located, together with a brief description of each agent, his latest reports, and his pay.

The principal agent, Braghoff, is in London, number eleven, Salisbury Lane, receives his mail in the American Exchange, London. Was forwarded ten days ago ten thousand francs.

These were the last words of the cipher. I dressed quickly and calling upon a friend, Tschikofsky by name, we started out, he to intercept Braghoff, I to Scotland Yard.

To late, said the Inspector, with an expression of regret. Braghoff has disappeared.

How do you know? I asked, in amazement. I intended arresting him, but could not find him. He has left in great haste for Brussels.

To late exclaimed my friend Tschikofsky, returning from his unsuccessful search. Braghoff has flown. When? I inquired. Three hours ago.

Braghoff is now a wealthy property owner on Broadway, New York city.
