

SIR MACKENZIE BOWELL MAKES A STATEMENT.

"Nest of Traitors" an Appropriate Expression--The Whole Seven Were Conspirators--Sorry He Took Them Back.

OTTAWA, March 1.—In the senate today Sir Mackenzie Bowell asked the privilege of making reply to accusations affecting his honor as a public man. A letter appeared in the St. John Sun of February 12, commenting on a debate in parliament concerning the resignation of ministers in 1896-7. He read this letter asserting that there was an agreement that Sir Mackenzie should resign in 1896 in favor of Sir Charles Tupper. It should have replied to these accusations before but for the absence of Hon. Mr. Ferguson. Sir Mackenzie drew attention to the debate in the house of commons on February 10th, when the resignations of ministers were discussed by Sir Wm. Mulock, Hon. John Haggart and Hon. G. B. Foster. The statements made by the two latter, he would show were untrue and he could not understand why they were made after this length of time. Mr. Foster knew when he made certain statements reported by the Globe, the News, and the Mail, during the last dominion election that he was making statements which he knew were untrue. Mr. Foster had to be asked to explain why he resigned on that occasion and had avoided the question by falling back on the sacredness of his oath of office, but as a matter of fact the matter leading to the resignations were not discussed in council. Sir Mackenzie referred to the absence of the reasons given in parliament nine years ago, showing that the question leading to the differences were not of policy, but of character. During the last election he had been asked to write a letter in favor of Mr. Foster's candidature, and read a letter dated October 2nd, in which Sir Mackenzie declined, showing that the return of Mr. Foster and his co-conspirators to office showed that there was no question of policy between them. Sir Mackenzie had taken them back to office reluctantly in the interests of the party and had regretted it ever since. Referring to Mr. Foster's charge that he resigned as a matter of policy and that the governor general returned them to office without stain or blemish, Sir Mackenzie read a carefully prepared statement by Mr. Foster in which he declared on behalf of himself and his colleagues that matters of policy had nothing to do with their resignations in 1896, and stating that he and his colleagues resigned because they had no confidence in his power to lead. The reasons given by the seven ministers who resigned for their resignations, were not correct. He said he would read the reason in their own words, and read the declaration made by Mr. Foster in the commons in January, 1896, in which they implied that they deemed stronger government necessary to the best interests of the party. He compared these documents with speeches made by Mr. Foster and Mr. Montague at Perth in 1896, and concluded in which Mr. Foster declared that the government was united in policy without a shade of disruption. The Mail stated that Mr. Foster's statement was a warm eulogy on Sir Mackenzie. Mr. Montague said that during seventeen years of public life not one premier, he had always marked, could be placed against Sir Mackenzie for honesty, while as premier he had always favored broad lines of policy and closer connection with the old country. Turning to bestow a few minutes on that eminent statesman, John Haggart, Sir Mackenzie said no true history of the events of 1896 would come from men of the Munchausen type of John Haggart. Having read Mr. Haggart's speech in the commons on February 10th, Sir Mackenzie stated the causes of Clarke Wallace's resignation, which was within his rights. Regarding the resignation of Mr. Outimet, Mr. Angers and Sir Alphonse Caron, Sir Mackenzie said he was inclined to exhaust every possible means to induce Manitoba to take action, whilst they were in favor of immediate action. The feeling against remedial legislation in Ontario was as strong as that in favor of it was in Quebec. Upon the promise of remedial legislation failing negotiations, Sir Adolph Caron and Mr. Outimet returned to office. Mr. Angers refused, and had his reward from those whom he had sacrificed himself. Sir Adolph Caron was left out of the Tupper cabinet by the machinations of the Foster-Haggart crew. Referring to the professed ignorance of Mr. Haggart as to Sir Charles Tupper's return at that time, Sir Mackenzie said they were not consulted, but were opposed to his return at that time on account of the fast Atlantic service, and Sir Mackenzie thought that perhaps some day the true history would be told. He felt a certain gratitude on reading Mr. Haggart's statement that he felt no animosity to Sir Mackenzie. It reminded him of Aesop's fable of the man who warmed a viper in his bosom. As to Mr. Haggart's statement that there was an agreement that Sir Mackenzie would resign in favor of Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Mackenzie said it was absolutely untrue. When Sir Mackenzie resigned to Lord Aberdeen he entirely refused to give any advice as to who should be sent for. He had interviews with Sir Charles, it was true, but those interviews were with regard to the returns to office of the conspirators. This was made without any stipulation or agreement as to the return of Sir Mackenzie to office. Sir Mackenzie said in his speech in the senate in January, 1896, when he stated that he had tendered his resignation to his excellency, who had passed on the speech from the throne. The action of these gentlemen has left a stain on the escutcheon of the conservative party which can never be removed whilst they are accepted as leaders of the party. Mr. Haggart said he felt no sorrow for his actions at that time, but Sir Mackenzie said he did not think Mr. Haggart capable of that. Sir Mackenzie would never regret that he called these gentlemen back to the cabinet. Sir Mackenzie did not remember applying the words "nest of traitors" to the bolters, but he would have been justified in doing so, and should have done so. In order that there would be no doubt, he would after full consideration use them now. In proof of the fact that the "bolt" was the result of a long conspiracy, Sir Mackenzie stated that two months before the bolt Mr. Foster asked him if he did not think younger blood was wanted at the head of the party, as the premier was too "old." The young blood possibly was Sir Charles Tupper. On January 1st, 1896, Mr. Costigan called at Mr. Foster's and was told that Mr. Foster wanted to see him. Immediately on his entry Mr. Foster met him and asked him to join a movement for forming a new government under Sir Charles Tupper and going to the country with the promise that a remedial bill would be introduced immediately on the assembling of the new parliament, and also forcing Sir Mackenzie to resign. Mr. Costigan refused, but a comparison of notes showed that at that very moment Sir Mackenzie was in the drawing room of Mr. Foster's house whilst the bolt was going on in the library. The first intimation Sir Mackenzie received of the plot was from Hon. J. H. Wood, who told him that something serious was on foot, but that he would remain true to him. Mr. Wood joined the traitors, and Sir Mackenzie refused to allow him to make an explanation. About the same time Mr. Costigan walked into the minister of justice's office, where several of the ministers were, and the conversation turned on the difficulties of the session, but they believed that if Sir Mackenzie and Sir Charles would meet they could arrange matters. Mr. Dickey informed Mr. Costigan that Sir Charles feared calling on Sir Mackenzie and obtaining a promise for the desired interview. He found that Mr. Dickey had gone to Mr. Foster's room and followed him, then when he was told that it was too late and that they had signed and sent their resignations to his excellency, Mr. Dickey added that Sir Mackenzie would resign the next day. This Mr. Costigan denied, when consternation prevailed. Sir Mackenzie alluded to the picketing signed by W. D. Paster for shipment to Houlton, Me., while under charge of Pilot W. Cline, who attempted to enter the western end of the harbor, ran into the ice between the western block and the bar, where she grounded at half ebb. She will have either to be towed off by steamer or wait a change of wind. Had the pilot sailed the schooner into the harbor by the eastern passage the way was clear to the C. P. R. wharf, where her cargo is to be discharged.

JAPANESE RIVING BACK THE RUSSIAN OUTPOSTS.

Heavy Bombardment Along the Entire Line West of Railway in Progress Day and Night--The Losses are Heavy--A Dangerous and Cheerless Retreat--Eager to Renew the Fight

---Shells Playing Havoc.

GENERAL OKU'S HEADQUARTERS, Feb. 23, 2 p. m., via Fusan, March 1.—The Japanese left wing is driving back the Russian outposts. The Japanese have occupied a line from Shatzemun, two miles west of the Hun River, in the northwest direction of Kalita on the east bank of the Liao River. A heavy bombardment along the entire line west of the railway is in progress night and day. The Russians are firing blindly with field and heavy guns. The Japanese remain in their position and make no serious response to the Russian fire. A CHEERLESS RETREAT. OUBENEPTSA, Feb. 23, via Mukden, March 1.—One of the coldest and most cheerless operations of the winter's warfare in Manchuria was the thirteen mile retreat of the Tsinkhetchen division from Solun to Oubeneptsa. All day General Rensenkamp's soldiers, wearied by a week of continual fighting and disheartened by the abandonment of Tsinkhetchen, had hung off attack after attack by overwhelming numbers of Japanese, in order to cover the withdrawal of supplies which had been accumulated in large warehouses at Solun. This village is five miles north of the village of Oubeneptsa, where the road from Gao Pass to the eastward joins the main Tsinkhetchen-Funchun highway. At 4 o'clock on the evening of February 26 the commander of the battalion on the Gao Pass road sent word that he was unable longer to hold out against the Japanese advance in that direction, but the commander of the division was determined to hold on until the last wagon should have left Solun. Word was received at 9 o'clock that the withdrawal had been safely effected, and the division's retreat began. The wind was high and the cold bitter, and snow was falling heavily. Weary and suppers the soldiers scarcely could see their

PETERSBURG, March 3, 12.45 a. m.—Black clouds are again lowering over the industrial situation of Russia. The strike at Moscow has been resumed on a large scale. Anarchy reigns in the Caucasus and at St. Petersburg the measures which the government advanced to quiet discontent and restore good relations between masters and men appear to have failed, with the probability of causing the storm to break anew. FIGHT IN THE DARKNESS. Then a stubborn fight in the darkness began, the gloom being slightly alleviated by the pale light of the stars and the reflection from fires kindled by the explosion of shells. The Japanese brought up their quick fire guns and forced the Russians to abandon the thicket, from which position the Japanese proceeded to bombard the regiments holding the head of the bridge. The fight was desperate and at close quarters. The Japanese rushed up heavy columns of reinforcements and charged repeatedly across the river, steering the ice with the bodies of their dead. At dawn the Russians retired across the river, carrying their wounded, but leaving 100 dead behind. The Russians are exultant over the losses inflicted upon the Japanese in this rally and are eager to renew the fight. A TERRIFIC BOMBARDMENT. MUKDEN, March 1.—For three days Putloff and Novgorod Hills have been subjected to a terrific bombardment with eleven-inch shells charged with shrapnel powder. From a distance the hills look like volcanoes, spouting flames and great clouds of smoke, a hail of earth and stones falling far beyond their bases. The Russian siege batteries are answering energetically, but their fire is comparatively ineffectual. All is quiet on the right bank at this time, it being reported that General Nogri is operating against the left bank.

PRINCE SVIATOPOLK-MIRSKY, Former Minister of the Interior.

The labor delegates representing the whole of the industrial population of St. Petersburg and who were elected to choose fifty members of the Schildovski reconciliation commission, met again yesterday and reaffirmed the resolutions adopted the previous day. A practical ultimatum was delivered, calling for an answer today. There is little expectation that the government will grant the conditions demanded. The strike already has assumed large proportions here, about 50,000 men being out. Among those who struck yesterday are the employees of the St. Petersburg shops of the Warsaw railway. The strike has not yet extended to the trammen, but the leaders may decide to order them out in order to paralyze one of the most important railways in Russia. BOMB THEROWN AT SOLDIERS. WARSAW, March 2, 11.45 p. m.—A bomb was thrown from a window overlooking the courtyard of the Miranowski district police station at 3 o'clock this afternoon. It fell in the midst of a group of soldiers, but did not explode. Two Jews have been arrested for supposed connection with the affair. No details are available, as the authorities are very reticent. Disturbances are reported to have taken place in several parts of the city during the afternoon. At the leather enamel works two workmen fired several shots at two of the directors as the latter were leaving the factory. The shots did not take effect and the assailants escaped. A military patrol attempted to arrest some striking Jewish shop assistants in Krucze street, who were engaged in forcing shopkeepers to close their premises. The strikers fired on the patrol repeatedly, but without injuring any of them, and then escaped. During the day the police arrested 30 striking Jewish shopkeepers' assistants.

ALL DAY CONFERENCE Between Brotherhoods of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen.

NEW YORK, March 2.—After an all-day conference between representatives of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen in this city, it was announced that another meeting would be held tomorrow and that it was hoped to reach a final settlement at that time on the differences between the two organizations which have nearly resulted in trouble on the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railway. At the conclusion of the meeting both Grand Chief Warren S. Stone of the engineers and Grand Master J. J. Hannabahr of the firemen left for their homes in the west, expressing the opinion that whatever danger of a strike on the road had existed, had been removed. Beyond this they declined to make a statement of any kind. Second Vice-Grand Master Shea of the firemen's organization, however, said that all the questions at issue had been very fully discussed, and that he had every hope that at a meeting to be held tomorrow at New Haven final and satisfactory adjustment of the entire matter would be effected.

PROVINGETOWN, Mass., March 1.—The British bark Belmont put in here today after a fifty-three days' passage from Buenos Ayres, the latter part of which was unusually tempestuous. The Belmont made a good run as far as Cape Hatteras. Twice she was abreast of the famous cape only to be blown far out to sea by heavy westerly gales. She finally worked by, but last Sunday when north of Nantucket Shoal lightship another off shore gale was encountered, and once more the Belmont was sent back. She was sixty miles south of the lightship when she steered north once more, and at length worked round the end of Cape Cod today. She just escaped another northerly gale which set in tonight. She will be towed to Boston.

The defendant was found by the town marshal after night in the store of P. McKenna. McKenna refused to prosecute, but the justice's court did not appear here today. The case was adjourned until McKenna was driven from St. Stephen. Grand Jurors found a true bill. The prosecution was conducted by the recently appointed solicitor general, W. P. MR. SIFTON'S RESIGNATION.

The resignation of Mr. Sifton on the school question in the west was the only course possible to that minister. It would have been political suicide for him to remain in the government and support a policy diametrically opposed to all that he has represented and stood for during his political career.

It has been recently suggested that Mr. Sifton was losing the position of great influence which he has held hitherto in the Laurier ministry. Rumors have been circulated that the conduct of his department in the Yukon and elsewhere has been criticized by his colleagues, and that his despotism has been somewhat mitigated.

And then Mr. Sifton is a remarkably astute politician. His career in politics and in the cabinet has not been righteous, but it has been shrewd. He knows the people with whom he has to deal. His personal and political purposes, some of them not very worthy, have been carried through with great adroitness. He has swept the west at the polls almost as clean as Sir Wilfrid has swept Quebec.

While a full share and rather more of the scandals connected with the present administration have occurred in Mr. Sifton's department, and while he seems to have found his period of office financially profitable, he has done more than most of his colleagues to rescue the ministry and the party from unpleasant situations. We do not say that the ministry loses in political reputation by his retirement, but the withdrawal on the western issue of so able and resourceful a man, representing the whole west, produces an awkward situation for the premier.

The only western government supporter of administrative experience, with anything resembling a following, is Mr. Greenway, former premier of Manitoba, now a member of the house of commons. But on the school question Mr. Greenway has exactly the same traditions as Mr. Sifton, and while he might for the sake of office abandon these convictions—if they were convictions—he might not find his constituents so ready to change.

Again it is not certain how many western members may join Mr. Sifton in his revolt. There are now twenty-eight members representing constituencies west of Lake Superior. Twenty of these were elected as supporters of the government, but not as supporters of coercion in the new provinces. It is hardly likely that Mr. Sifton will stand alone on that issue among western Liberals. But that will depend somewhat upon his own course. If he follows the example of Mr. Blair, making one speech against the bill, and then leaving others to fight it out, and rather encouraging liberal members from his district to vote with the premier, he may efface himself and give the government negative assistance in carrying out the policy which he professes to condemn.

SIR MACKENZIE BOWELL.

The speech of Sir Mackenzie Bowell in the senate yesterday goes far to confirm the course of those colleagues who nine years ago retired from his ministry. When Mr. Foster read in the house of commons the statement prepared by the seven ministers who had given up their portfolios he stated that no question of policy separated them from the premier. Nothing that he or his colleagues have said since is inconsistent with that statement.

It is altogether unlikely that Sir Mackenzie will ever understand that perfectly loyal and sincere friends of his, entertaining the highest respect for his character, appreciating the value of his services as a legislator, administrator and campaigner, could see that he could not lead a government in a serious emergency. He holds that this view of the limits of his gifts is in want of faith in all, and treason to his person.

Men of the type of Sir William Mulock will, of course do all that they can to keep this episode alive. They do not care in the least for the veteran ex-premier, but they like to repeat his language in the hope of stirring up strife on the other side. They succeeded the other day in provoking Mr. Haggart to place himself in the same category with Mr. Foster, who had been brutally attacked. Now Sir Mackenzie offers the postmaster general material for another attack. It should suggest itself to Sir Mackenzie that if he proposes to continue furnishing capital to the opponents of leading conservatives who are fighting the battles of the party in the house and the constituencies he should do so from some other position than that of conservative leader in the senate.

THE PREMIER AND HIS COLLEAGUES.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Senator Cox, Sir William Mulock, General Manager Hays and Mr. Fitzpatrick were the dominant government year before last for the purpose of the Grand Trunk Pacific bill. They did not even allow the minister of railways to know what they were doing until they had about completed the arrangements.

The education clauses of the Northwest autonomy bill bear their own testimony to the fact that they are not required by the act of union. As the Sun has said more than once, the parliament of Canada has no power to take away any privileges that the act of confederation confers on the minority. Neither is it necessary to legislate at Ottawa in order to confirm such privileges. If the act of union required the continuance of the school system now in force in the territories the system would continue though the act now before the house was silent on the subject.

But there is no such constitutional requirement, and that is the reason that the parliament at Ottawa is asked to create one. If the territories were provinces about to enter confederation, and if they had a separate school law of their own making already in existence, the constitution might have something to say in this case. But that is not the situation, and in order to have a basis to work upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier had to directly and explicitly legislate the difference out of the way.

This clause, which Sir Wilfrid proposes to enact reads: "The provisions of section 93 of the British North America Act, 1867, shall apply to the said provinces as if, at the date upon which this act comes into force, the territory comprised therein were already a province, the expression 'the union' in the said section being taken to mean the said date."

WHAT SULPHUR DOES.

For the Human Body in Health and Disease.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and a large quantity had to be taken to get any effect.

Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur.

In recent years, research and experiment have proved that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium.

THE GALLANT 600.

Two More Survivors Have Passed Away.

Sad Story of Two Old Men, Who Had Fought in Glory of Great Britain.

LONDON, March 1.—Two deaths of survivors of the charge of the "gallant six hundred" at Balaklava on the fatal 25th of October, fifty years ago, have just been recorded.

The first to pass was Edwin Hughes, a veteran of seventy-four. It was amid the depressing surroundings of the Lethal Green convalescent hospital that the pathetic circumstances of his expiring days were told.

Since he was purchased out of the army the old man followed the trade of an iron moulder, until advanced age and infirmities made it impossible for him to get work.

His penury he kept a list of survivors of the famous charge, and used to tick off the name of an old comrade whose death he had just learned.

Mary Hughes, the widow, informed Dr. Wynn Westcott, the coroner, that she had had two soldier husbands. Her first husband, the deceased at 128 Guinness buildings, Columbia road, east, had served as a private in the Seventeenth Lancers, taking part in the famous charge of the Light Brigade.

PRINCESS VICTORIA. A Pretty Incident.

An invalid child named Violet Victoria Velden, the daughter of a Cambridge workman, wrote says the St. James' Gazette) a touching little letter of sympathy to Princess Victoria, and received in answer some beautiful flowers and a charmingly kind note from the Queen and the Princess. Hardly had the horses been pulled up when out stepped a gentleman carrying a beautiful basket of flowers, announcing that he was the Earl of St. Albans, who had also sent a letter. It came from Buckingham Palace, and was as follows:

"My dear Violet, I am delighted by Princess Victoria to thank her little namesake very much for her nice letter, and to say how much her Royal Highness hopes and prays that God will soon make her both well and glad."

The flowers and gracious letter have been acknowledged by Mr. Velden and by the little invalid herself.

MILNER RESIGNED.

LONDON, March 1.—Premier Balfour informed the house of commons today that Lord Milner, the British high commissioner in South Africa, had, to his regret, announced that he would not remain in the post.

The colonial office announcement says Lord Milner resigned "for reasons connected with the state of his health," and adds that he will leave South Africa at the end of March.

LONDON, March 1, 8 p. m.—It is reported that the resignation of Lord Milner, first lord of the admiralty, succeeds Lord Milner as British high commissioner in South Africa.

BIG STRIKE IN MASS.

QUINCY, Mass., March 1.—The 1,200 granite cutters of this city began a strike today for a re-adjustment of hours and wages, practically tying up the granite manufacturing industry of the city.

The new schedule demanded by the strikers is for eight hours work at the lowest rate. Unless a settlement is reached from 2,000 to 2,200 granite workers will be without employment.

The manufacturers anticipate that the contest will be a protracted one. The last strike occurred five years ago and was settled by an agreement which expired today.

SOMETHING EVERY WOMAN SHOULD KNOW.

Are You the One Woman Neglecting a Mother's or a Wife's Duty, or Are There Countless Thousands, who are?

Many women formerly full of robust vigor, with clear complexions and bright, vivacious eyes find themselves slowly losing their good looks and strength, fading under the influence of an unknown cause, ignorant of their real condition, but who are slowly and surely becoming depressed, frail, nervous, and why? You ask. She has been so long cleaning, washing, ironing, and her social duties, her work has been so continuous, that she scarcely allowed herself a moment's relaxation. She has neglected her health and, where her food formerly seemed to nourish, now she has but little appetite and even what she does eat does not seem to do any good. If you would ask her what the trouble is, she would say, "I am just tired out." But the real cause is constipation, and its resulting condition—bad blood. Just think what habitual neglect of the bowels means, sickness instead of vigor; cheerfulness replaced by depression, happiness by misery.

A week's use of Smith's Pile-remedy and Butternut Pills in these cases will work wonders. They will regulate the functions of the liver and bowels, immediately unload the congested system, ease the constipation and cleanse the blood. Impurities that are liable to be absorbed into the blood. Keep the bowels regular by using Smith's Pile-remedy and Butternut Pills. Never allow constipation or a torpid liver to develop. A stitch in time will save a month's misery, of bad feelings and depression. These little pills are wonderful health givers. They are Nature's true laxative and a positive cure for sick headache, constipation and biliousness in one night. 25 cents at all druggists.

All genuine signed W. F. Smith.

Think It Was Poison That Caused Death of Mrs. Jane L. Stanford, Sister of Treasurer of Stanford University.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 1.—The news of the death of Mrs. Jane L. Stanford at Honolulu last night was received here today with surprise and regret. Her death was added to the list of deaths which probably she had been poisoned. Her brother, Charles G. Lathrop, who is treasurer of the Stanford University, refused to believe that her death was due to other than natural causes, and her attorney, Mountford S. Wilson, positively declined to discuss the report that a previous attempt to poison her had been made in this city.

Mr. Wilson is awaiting advice from the Honolulu officials before taking any action regarding the business affairs of Mrs. Stanford, which are intimately connected with those of the great university which she and her husband founded at Palo Alto. This institution has already been endowed with $38,000,000 in property and money, to which may be added $10,000,000 from Mrs. Stanford's personal estate.

The university was closed today and not expected to reopen until after Mrs. Stanford's remains have been placed beside those of her husband and son in their mausoleum on the university campus.

The story of an attempt to poison Mrs. Stanford in this city was first made public on the 18th of last month, when it was declared that strychnine had been found in a bottle of mineral water, of which she had taken several drinks. She became ill, and the analysis showed the presence of the deadly drug in the water.

The alleged attempt to poison her was investigated by a detective agency, but no results were obtained, and the matter apparently was dropped.

In her California street residence there were ten persons at the time of her illness, which began with drinking the water on Jan. 14.

SUCCESS IN LIFE DEPENDS ON BRAIN AND NERVE ENERGY

Nothing Assists a Man to "Win Out" Like Keeping Up the Vigor of Mind and Body With Ferrozone.

The brain and nerves as much as any other tissues of the body require daily re-creating. The hurry and worry of modern life means a tremendous expenditure of nerve force, which is not made good. Hasty meals, no period of rest for digestion, society engagements or renewed business activity at night soon drain away that reserve of nerve force that distinguishes between health and debility.

What are you doing to preserve your nerve vitality? A little assistance with Ferrozone will prove an enormous benefit, because the component parts of this great tonic supply just what the exhausted nerve cells lack. Ferrozone not only stimulates the nerves, but builds them up by furnishing the material of which they are made. The ideal medicine for nervous, overstrained, hard-working people is Ferrozone. By its use hosts of well-known people have been restored to health. Write to: N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., or Kingston, Ont.

THE MONCTON RIVER

Is Exceptionally Clear From Ice—Believed Navigation Will Open Early—Butter at 32 Cents.

MONCTON, March 1.—Rev. D. Hutchison of the First Baptist church, Moncton, and Rev. Mr. Camp of Sussex will exchange pulpits on Sunday next. Mr. Hutchison has been especially requested to deliver one of his series of sermons to men, which have been listened to with so much interest here.

Owing to the blockade of the Albert railway a scarcity of flour is reported in Albert county.

Creamery butter has gone up in price here to 30 and 32 cents. The ordinary kind sells at 25, an advance of 4 cents in the last few days.

Though the winter has been a severe one and the snow fall unusually heavy it is remarked that there has seldom been so much open water in the river at this season. When the tide is up the channel extends almost half way across the river, and there is very little drifting ice, while as a usual thing the channel is not more than 10 or 20 feet wide and filled with drifting ice. Apparently there would be no obstacle to a vessel coming up the river though of course the ice about the quays would make it impossible to moor. There should be an early opening of navigation if soft weather sets in.

HOUSE OF COMMONS

Did Much Talking and Little Business Yesterday—New Brunswick Historical Documents.

OTTAWA, Feb. 25.—The commons this afternoon did much talking and little business. A flood of petitions against the separate schools in the new provinces began today and promises to be a huge torrent for many weeks. There was a long debate over Fisher's bill respecting the inspection and sale of seeds, which will be further considered in his third reading.

Lennox of South Simcoe held up Fitzpatrick's bill to give Judge Killam, the new chairman of the railway commission, full benefit of all the supreme court superannuation remuneration, but the house by a vote of 33 to 47 passed the measure. During the balance of the afternoon Peter White, Col. Sam Hughes, Henderson, Lennox, Taylor, Sproule and others made Sir William Mulock's life miserable by exposing the abuse of the franking privilege by the Ottawa departments prior to the last general election. Mulock disclaimed all persons, knowledge of any wrong doing and promised to investigate any case brought to his notice.

Tonight in supply on the estimates for the archivist branch of the department of agriculture Stockton of St. John complimented Fisher on the manner in which the historic documents relating to New Brunswick were available for the use of students, and elicited the information that much progress was being made in copying original records from New Brunswick that had in some way been sent to London at the time of confederation.

At 10.30 the house arose after passing a number of items in supply for the agricultural department and holding others over.

GUARDS SUSPENDED

For Trafficking With Prisoners at Kingston Penitentiary.

Kingston, Ont., March 1.—As a result of the recent investigations in regard to guards of the penitentiary trafficking with prisoners, Inspector Dawson, who was here yesterday, ordered the suspension of three guards for violation of prison rules. It was found that guards had been receiving money from friends of prisoners, to whom they carried letters, papers and tobacco. Two years ago two other penitentiary guards were dismissed for the same offence and heavily fined in the police court. The three guards suspended will have to stand trial.

STOESSEL'S WELCOME

Was Very Cold at St. Petersburg--Military Officers Conspicuously Absent.

ST. PETERSBURG, Mar. 1.—Lieut. Gen. Stoessel arrived in St. Petersburg this morning from Moscow. A quarter of an hour before his train was due it looked as if not more than a hundred persons would be present to welcome the defender of Port Arthur.

Behind the general came Mrs. Stoessel leaning on the arm of a military officer. She looked to be even more bronzed than her husband and smiled happily at the warm welcome accorded him.

It was remarked that the general's hair had turned quite white. When the reception ceremonies were over the general and his wife entered an open carriage and drove through the Nevsky Prospect to the residence of Lt. Gen. Prince Viazemsky.

KUROPAKIN DEFEATED.

Russians Retreating—May Have to Abandon Mukden—Russia Discouraged.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 28, 1.15 p. m.—The fragmentary official press reports of the fresh reverse sustained by General Kuropatkin are inadequate to draw a conclusion of the magnitude of the Russian loss, but the success against Kuropatkin is withdrawing from his strong position on the Shkhe river. That such reports are exaggerated is beyond question, but although retreating and seeking to minimize the operations of the last day, the official statements of the war office are plainly discouraging.

GENERAL KUROPAKIN.

couraged at the fashion in which Kuroki is able to drive in and turn the Russian extreme left, his advance columns actually crossing the Shkhe river. It is admitted that the fighting was desperate at several passes Sunday and Monday, while the front was being invaded, the purpose of Field Marshal Oyama evidently being to keep the centre and right engaged and prevent Kuropatkin from sending reinforcements to head of Kuroki. Should Kuroki cross the Hun river, the high road to Tie Pass (forty miles north of Mukden) would be open and Kuropatkin's retreat threatened. Furthermore, he is awaited with great anxiety. Anything like a decisive Japanese victory now would probably end the war.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 28.—It is semi-officially announced that in view of the appearance of Japanese troops in the rear of the Russian army west of the railway, Russia will address a circular to the powers protesting against the persistent violation of Chinese neutrality.

RUSSIA SHORT OF MONEY. ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 28.—The Russian naval programme still waits owing to the failure of the minister of finance to allow the appropriation which might be made until a new loan is floated. In the meantime representatives of foreign shipbuilding firms are here after contracts.

SERMON.

The Bible as Literature and How Much More—By Rev. A. C. Dixon, D. D., Pastor Ruggles Street Baptist Church, Boston, Massachusetts.

"Search the Scriptures."—John v:39. Every learned Jew to whom Jesus spoke knew what He meant by "the Scriptures." There were other writings in Hebrew, Greek and Latin, but the Testaments as we have it now were a body of writings marked off from all others by their sacredness and authority as the word of God.

In Deuteronomy xxxiii:9, we have the historic record of the fact that Moses obeyed the command of God: "And Moses wrote this law and delivered it unto the priests the sons of Levi, which bare the ark of the covenant of the Lord." And in verse 24: "It came to pass when Moses had made an end of writing the words of the ark of the covenant of the Lord, that he gave the book of the law to the priests the sons of Levi, which bore the ark of the covenant of the Lord, saying, take this book of the law and put it in the side of the ark of the covenant of the Lord your God."

In Joshua i:8 we read: "This book of the law shall not depart out of your mouth, but thou shalt meditate therein day and night, that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein; for then thou shalt make thy way prosperous and thou shalt have good success." Now that the pillar of fire by night and of cloud by day have departed, the Book is to be the guide of Israel and their religion is to be to a large extent a book religion.

It is probable that the book which Joshua read was the identical manuscript which Moses wrote in the wilderness. There may have been copies made of it, but we have no record of the fact. Frequent mention of it is made through the books of the Bible. The same book, a copy of it, appeared again a thousand years afterwards under the reign of Manasse, as we learn from II Kings xxiii:2: "And Hilkiah the high priest said unto Shaphan the scribe, I have found the book of the law in the house of the Lord."

In Ezra we find it again in the hands of the prophet on the pulpit of wood in the open air, reading it and making its meaning plain to the people. These references may be fairly drawn:

(1) The Bible is literature written by the command of God. He certainly commanded Moses to write the book of the law. To John on the Isle of Patmos a great voice as of a trumpet said, "What thou seest write in a book and send it unto the seven churches." And before the vision vanishes he is told to write the things which he has seen, and the things which shall be hereafter. He is to write history, current events and predictions.

(2) The Bible is literature written by the command of God and under the guidance of God. In II Peter i:21 we read: "No prophecy ever came by the will of man, but man spake from God, being moved by the Holy Spirit." Prophecy here means more than prediction; indeed, everything spoken or written with the aid of the Holy Spirit is prophecy. "The word of the Lord came expressly unto Ezekiel." The word of the Lord came unto Jonah. The prophecy of Amos begins, "The words of Amos, who was among the herdmen of Tekoa," and in the third verse he says, "Thus saith the Lord, which indicates that in the words of Amos God was speaking."

(3) The Bible is literature written by the command of God, under the guidance of God, and preserved by the providential care of God. Moses commanded that the book of the law should be placed by the side of the ark. No safer place could have been found, and the more I study the history of the Bible the more profoundly am I convinced that God has kept His book by the side of some ark all through the ages. As the church has been under His care and protection, so has the Book.

It is difficult for me to believe that the manuscript which Hilkiah found in the temple was the identical book which Moses wrote in the wilderness, and that his very book was in the hands of Ezra on the pulpit of wood as he preached in the open air. It is only 1,000 years from Joshua to Josiah and only 175 years from Josiah to Ezra. There are now in our libraries scores of manuscripts which we know to be over 1,000 years old and several which have certainly been preserved more than 1500 years. With the kindly interest in the care of which the Jewish reverence for the book would naturally lead them to have, it is not at all impossible, scarcely improbable, that the manuscript of Moses should have been preserved from more than 4,000 years. And the history of the Appetite Was Poor. Dizzy Most of The Time. Could Not Sleep at Night.

Many people are unaware of having anything wrong with their heart or nerves till some little excitement or overwork makes them feel faint and dizzy, or perhaps simply going up or down stairs causes dizziness and specks to float before the eyes. People troubled in this way should heed the warning, and not fail to take treatment before something more serious occurs.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

We do not claim that they will cure chronic heart disease, but we do claim that they will strengthen the weak heart, and build up the shaky nerve system.

Here is what Mrs. Sidney Hoffman, Hillsdale, Ont., says:—"I was troubled greatly with my heart, and was so very nervous that the least little thing startled me. My appetite was very poor; I could not sleep at nights, and was dizzy most of the time. I took three boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and I am very pleased to say that they did me a wonderful lot of good."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25. All druggists, or mailed direct.

er Time" approaches the queen, accompanied by a white-robed maiden who is introduced as "Truth," the daughter of the king. The queen, who is a small respect to the divine right of kings. James, therefore, decided to have a translation and issue it without comment. As a result of that conference the best scholars of the language were selected to do the work. The translation of the Bible ever published was the result.

It is interesting to note that Martin Luther was born in Germany just a year after Tyndale, and by his providential care, and its preservation against the opposition of paganism, ecclesiasticism and infidelity is one of the miracles of the world. For instance, it is (4) in the Church. The Bible has been preserved in the hearts of the people and the institutions it has fostered. Friar Buckingham, in the time of the Reformation, was a man of letters and a scholar. He translated the Scriptures by the common people. He declared that as the New Testament said, "A little leaven leaveneth the whole loaf," if the baker should allow a little leaven to get into the dough, it would spread through the loaf and offend the rest, cut it off. If common people should read the Bible, they would have a race with only one eye and one hand. Latimer answered this foolishness by saying that only idiots and children failed to appreciate symbols.

The people have demanded the right to read God's word, and even ecclesiasticism is beginning to yield to their demand. The institutions which have fostered the circulation of the Bible have produced and fostered are almost without number. The revival of learning was due to the translation of the Bible into the vernacular. The first book translated by the printing press was a Latin Bible. The Bible has delivered the world from the tyranny of church and state and given us a big bonfire of Bibles. Still the Bible prints and copies of it carried into England, disguised in bales of cloth and many other ways. People tried to read it, and the earthquake of the Reformation was the result. The Bishop of London preaches a sermon against the book and flings it into a fire in front of St. Paul's cross, but the book circulates. Finally the bishop determines to buy up all the copies of it that he may burn them. He authorizes one, Pakington, a merchant, to make the purchase, and there is a big bonfire of Bibles. Still the Bible circulates, and the bishop calls Pakington before him to know the reason. He replied, "My lord, we failed to secure that from which they are printed. The printer, Pakington, is a friend of Tyndale and advised him to sell his Bibles that he might have money for printing more. And so the work went on until through the treachery of a pretended friend Tyndale was freed, delivered to the authorities, kept a long time in prison, tried and strangled. And just before the executioner strangled him he looked up to heaven and exclaimed, "Lord, open the king of England's eyes."

That prayer was answered. In less than four years the Bible was published with a picture for its frontispiece, designed by the artist, Holben, representing the Almighty in the clouds with two scrolls proceeding from his mouth, one of which was written, "The word which goeth forth from Me shall not return to Me empty; and on the other, 'I have found Me a man after My own heart.' The king is represented as saying, 'Thy word is a lantern unto my feet.'" In another part of the picture the king is pointing to the Bible to Cranmer and another bishop, saying, "Take this and teach," and underneath it are the words, "I make a man tremble and fear before the living God." This Bible, known as the "Great Bible," is chained to the pulpit of the cathedral and the people are allowed to read it. After this came many translations. There is also a mania for translating the word of God into the language of the people. We have the Miles Coverdale Bible, 1535; the Geneva Bible, 1560; the Bishop's Bible, 1568; and even versions translated by individuals at their own expense. About twenty years after this the formation of Queen Elizabeth, and as the process of translation the "Little Conduitt" an old man attired as "Fath-
