VERY HEAVY LOSS BY FIRE AT PETTICODIAC YESTERDAY

Eighteen Buildings Totally Destroyed Within Few Hours—Eight Families Made Homeless—Forteen Business Establishments Devoured by Flame—Total Loss Estimated at $133,000—Insurance Only About Fifty Per Cent.

The village of Petticodiac met with a very severe loss early yesterday morning, when no less than eighteen buildings were totally destroyed by fire along with their contents. The damage is estimated at $133,000, and of this amount, as far as can be learned, only about fifty per cent of the loss is covered by insurance. Eight families were made homeless and practically only saved what clothing they could secure before rushing from their homes into the winter air of the early morning. Of the eighteen buildings destroyed, fourteen were places of business. In fact the entire business block which was situated on a triangle opposite the C. N. B. station was wiped out, and inside of three hours, after the first dwelling house was discovered on fire, all that remained of the homes, stores and warehouses were piles of charred debris. The only stores that were left standing in the village was a paint store, a shoe store and a millinery shop. Every grocery was destroyed; and while the families who were made homeless were given food by their more fortunate neighbors yesterday, matters looked rather serious for a time.

Dr. O. B. Price, a former legislator representing that section of the province, hastened to the scene from his home in Moncton early yesterday morning, and before he returned to the railway town on the eastbound express leaving Petticodiac at ten o'clock, he had made arrangements to send relief for the needy just as soon as he reached Moncton.

Table with columns: Buildings and Contents, Loss, Insurance. Lists various buildings like Andrew Moore, Thomas Crawford, etc., with their respective losses and insurance amounts.

The insurance on about eleven buildings and contents are yet to be received and these will no doubt bring the total insurance to about fifty per cent of the estimated total loss. It was about 1:30 o'clock in the morning when Mrs. Andrew Moore, who is an invalid, and who resided with her husband in their home on the old Post Road, smelled smoke and informed her husband to that effect. Mr. Moore immediately found his dwelling was a mass of flames in the rear, apparently from the kitchen. He lost no time in providing himself and wife with clothing and with very little time to spare they quickly made their way to the street and into the bitter cold as the thermometer was then registering below the zero mark.

The rear of the dwelling faced on the bank of the Petticodiac River, it was a beautiful night, but a very strong wind was blowing from the direction of the river and fanned the flames with all fury. After leaving his wife in safety Mr. Moore attempted to enter the house to procure some articles left behind, but so rapidly was his home being destroyed that he was struck on the forehead by a falling burning beam and received a severe injury and the wound was dressed later by the village doctor.

It only took a few minutes for the Moore residence to become a mass of flames and about the same time J. H. Yeoman, a Petticodiac lawyer, who resided next door with his wife in a house owned by Thomas Crawford who with his wife, also resided in the same building, discovered the fire. The flames leaped from the Moore house to that of Mr. Crawford's and these two families quickly made their escape with hardly more than such clothing as they could conveniently pick up. However, both Messrs. Crawford and Yeoman were enabled to save a small portion of their furniture. With the Crawford home now in flames, the strong wind carried the blaze across the Post Road to the rear of the business houses that faced on the Main, or Front streets, and in a remarkably short space of time no less than three of these business houses caught fire and were soon doomed to destruction. The fire from the Moore house next caught the woodworking establishment next door

MANY HEROES COME ON STMR. GRAMPAN

Some of Soldiers to Arrive Yesterday Are Originals—Ambulance Driver Jessie K. Hislop, Wife of a Trooper—Medal Men in Party.

The sailing of the S.S. Grampian was not marked by a large number of war veterans among the passengers, but those who were on board were veterans in every sense of the word, quite a number of the small contingent being members of the original 23,000 who sailed from Canada in September, 1914.

Among the New Brunswick returned men were Lieut. Herbert Kirk, son of J. T. Kirk of the Customs office, Sussex, N. B. Lieut. Kirk went overseas with a draft of officers from Valcartier in September, 1916. He served in France for seven months, then went to Egypt with the flying corps in the latter part of 1917. While in Egypt Lieut. Kirk was on scout duty around Cairo and the Suez. He said he went to Egypt with Lieut. Cronin of this city, who is now at Salsolka, Calgary. Mrs. Hislop has served over four years as a member of the Army Service Corps, in London, starting with a "tin Lizzie" and ending her experience with an eight-cylinder Cadillac ambulance. Her work took her through most of the air raids and her experiences have been quite thrilling, but she has escaped through all the Hun "stratagems" without an injury.

Mr. Goggin will be located in the public hall, and the total amount of the post office will be located in the Methodist aid rooms; Mr. Blakeley will start his business again in the shoe store. Messrs. Brodie, Brodie, while Messrs. Stockton and Son will locate with Guy Parkins and Son. The men who reached the village to fight the fire, to the long the appreciation of the kindness shown by Mrs. Gross at the railway station, and others who supplied numerous cups of steaming hot coffee during the cold morning.

TWO COUPLES MADE HAPPY YESTERDAY

Rev. J. A. MacKeigan Officiated at Wedding of Two Scotch Couples—Brides Arrived on Grampian.

Two weddings were solemnized by Rev. J. A. MacKeigan yesterday at his home, 72 Leinster street. The contracting parties were all Scotch and would have been married before but for the war, the respective grooms having come to America some years ago. One settled at Newark, N. J., and the other at Hamilton, Ont., and both had the home about ready for the coming mistress when the war broke out. Instead of getting married the men joined the army and the brides to be engaged in war work, but yesterday the long delayed weddings took place and the happy couples left for their future homes.

Early yesterday afternoon Miss Dalila Annie Wylie Copland of Falkirk, Scotland and Dorothy Campbell of Newark, N. J., who served through the war with the Canadian Engineers, were made man and wife. They will make their home, at Newark. The last evening Miss Elizabeth Russell Watson of Coatbridge, Scotland, and Graeme Snodden Leitch of Hamilton, Ont., called on Rev. J. A. MacKeigan and were made happy. They will make their home in Hamilton. The brides arrived yesterday on the Grampian.

KINMEL CAMP.

Evidence adduced from day to day touching the causes leading to recent riots at Kinmel Camp in Wales, leads to the conclusion that delay in demobilization has been the underlying cause of the trouble. Statements have appeared of scarcity of food, lack of comforts, objectionable conduct on the part of officers, and the usual run of complaints such as soldiers always enjoy voicing. But at the bottom of the whole affair is the one outstanding fact that these men who had served at the front for years were possessed of an overwhelming desire to get home. And they very generally brought home according to programme or according to promises made to them. Previous to their arrival in England it was necessary that the reserve battalions should be cleared out, so that accommodation might be provided. This was done, and the fact that these reserves who, for the most part, had not seen service in France, were the first to be brought back to Canada, created in the minds of some of the fighting men an unjustifiable impression of unfair treatment. They did not stop to realize the benefit of such a policy to themselves. All they knew, all they could think of, was that the war was over and that they should be brought back to their people.

Ever since hostilities ended the press of Canada has very generally urged upon the Government the speediest possible demobilization. Objection taken last November to the announced plan resulted in a speeding up of the programme, not sufficient to meet the wishes of the people at home or of those overseas, but an improvement on that originally announced. And if this speeding up had been carried out as promised, perhaps there would be less cause for complaint than there is today. It was not carried out. It is not now being carried out, and unless steps are taken to facilitate the earlier return of our war-sick soldiers, a very bitter feeling will be created among them toward the authorities in this country and in England who, whether responsible or not, are being blamed for what appears an unnecessary delay. Not only have our soldiers seen the reverse brought home first—which, of course, was the best plan all round—but they realize perfectly well that during the period of the war have been diverted from their accustomed routes to accommodate the men of another country who have not been overseas long enough to get over their sea-sickness. Our boys know that ports in Canada which were eminently satisfactory from August 1914 to November 1918 are now declared inferior. They understand that the railways of Canada, which, without much difficulty handled great bodies of troops proceeding overseas, now complain of their inability—and this at the slackest season of the year—to properly handle the returning divisions in any greater numbers than are now being brought back. The men do not believe these excuses to be good excuses, and, as a matter of fact, we in Canada know that they are not good excuses. And there will be a great deal of sympathy with soldiers at Kinmel Camp or those in other camps who are chafing under the delay, and whose feelings in this particular case went beyond reasonable bounds and found expression in unfortunate violence. It is a rather strange thing that Canada, with as many representatives as the country now has in England, cannot enjoy a closer co-operation than appears to exist between our Federal Government and the military and marine authorities on the other side.

SCHOOL DISCIPLINE.

The Standard learns that in the course of their investigations into school discipline the committee of the Finance Board are securing information of a somewhat disquieting nature. This is not in respect to the attitude of the teachers, but rather with regard to the conduct of pupils. Indeed some of this information which will not be made public—which indeed is not fit for publication—would, if generally known, cause much anxiety among parents. It is found among other things that there exists, even in the cases of mere children—eight, nine or ten years old—depraved tendencies which at such an age can be due only to parental neglect. The facts revealed in certain instances would indicate a regrettable lack of moral training at home, resulting in the development of a perverted sense which does not argue well for the future of those involved. There can be produced evidence indicating among boys of very tender years such a desire for tobacco that cigarette stubs picked out of the gutters are eagerly seized upon and made use of, not always in secret, but often with an utter disregard for publicity. Instances are recorded of childish, but none the less determined, defiance of school authority, of false stories told to parents concerning treatment in school, of parental support of the children in this defiance of the teachers due to acceptance of the untrue tales brought home, and so, in some cases, ness. Representations made to the State Legislature by delegates from all over the State have resulted in the preparation and passage of the act mentioned above, whereby Maine assumes liability for more than one million dollars for the construction of the proposed Portland pier.

Petitodac is not crushed. It has suffered a very severe loss, but the people of that village are not the kind to be disheartened, and from the ruins of the fire swept section new homes and stores will rise. The unfortunate feature is the loss sustained by those who failed to carry insurance and who now find themselves compelled to start all over again. It is a matter of gratitude that in the conflagration no lives were lost nor were any of the people injured.

Mr. Veniot and Mr. Foster reiterate their determination to get back that money about which we have heard so much. Just a word of advice. Don't waste time. The people who are accused might die or get themselves appointed to office where they will be beyond the reach of ordinary court proceedings. That has happened before.

The thanks of the Conservative Party of New Brunswick are due to Honorable Peter J. Veniot, for his able support of the Opposition in the Legislature on Thursday. A few more men in the war. The Russians fought with great bravery, often hand armed. Government may have had of ever being returned to power will be gone.

WHAT THEY SAY

An Everlasting Pity. Dallas News—"Russia lost 1,700,000 men in the war. The Russians fought with great bravery, often hand armed. It is an everlasting pity that they have been betrayed by every ruler they have had."

They Love It Still. Toronto Globe—"Several different Federal Governments allowed the Printing 500,000, and they were worse. Yet some politicians clamor for a return of the patronage system."

Just as Effective. Watertown Times—"The German government says it will not submit to coercion. Nobody asked you do, sir, we said, but you will quietly do exactly what we want you to do. Coercion by any other name is just as effective."

Brest Again. Hartford Courant—"It is gratifying to all friends of American soldiers in France, to be told officials in command grounds for complaint have been removed at Brest. A while ago we were told that there were no grounds for complaining. It can't have been very difficult to remove nothing and seem hardly worth announcing."

A New Mystery. Springfield Republican—"No civilian can be presumed to understand why the War Office should have ordered nine on 509,999 men as the temporary size of the army. General March says: 'We cannot get along without that number, 509,999, and they were held.' But why exactly 509,999? Why not 500,000, or just 509,900? It's that last nine that puzzles us."

Sir Robert Borden. Hamilton Herald—"Even political opponents of Sir Robert Borden, if they be good Canadians, will be pleased to read the high praise bestowed upon him by the Paris correspondent of the New York Herald. Sir Robert, it is said, is recognized overseas as a man of commanding ability even among the intellectual giants who are attending the peace conference."

The Australian Way. Christian Science Monitor—"It is difficult to conceive how any nation could improve upon the Australian system of dealing with the Bolsheviks as outlined in a recent despatch from Melbourne. It can't have been very simple, which is simplicity itself, undesirable are not permitted to land in the country. This obviates the necessity of later getting rid of them."

THE EDITOR'S MAIL

St. John, N. B., March 14th, 1919. In reply to the letter of Bishop Richardson, an regard to the jury's finding on my boy's death, allow me to say that it is not surprising, perhaps commendable that Bishop Richardson should have taken the attitude which he has taken in regard to Miss Spencer, the daughter of one of his clergy. To me, at any rate, his attitude was not surprising, as my solicitors were advised by an official of the school board, before the evidence was taken, that His Lordship was making it his business that the teacher would be protected. It is surprising, however, that the Bishop, resident in Fredericton, without the evidence before him, would be able to decide whether the jury were right or wrong in their finding, but it is more extraordinary still that His Lordship was able to come to the decision that on one part of their finding, namely that the death was due to spinal meningitis, was conclusive and final, while the second part of their finding, that Miss Spencer's conduct warranted her removal, was absurd. Yours truly, JAMES R. HIGGINS.

The Higgins case—that verdict of opinions expressed and the recommendations of the lovers of fair play will read with much satisfaction two letters which appear in your issue of the 13th inst. one by Mr. Bertie C. ter, in my judgment, it is most important. "One word more of a general character let me add. We are living, Sir, in an age when the question of discipline amongst the young is a very pressing one. No thoughtful person can regard with satisfaction the disregard for authority and law that is so common amongst boys and girls. It is becoming more and more difficult for parents to control their children and more and more we are drifting into laxity in this regard. Is it not worth while asking whether the sentimentality in respect to punishment, which is so increasingly common, has not, something to do with the evils which we deplore? Is it quite sure that the widespread departure from old-fashioned standards has been altogether wise? May it not be true that in some of our social evils we are reaping a harvest, the seeds of which we ourselves have sown by an undue softness in the matter of bringing up our children? I notice the father of this unfortunate boy appears before the Board of School Trustees and demands that the recommendation of the coroner's jury be carried out and Miss Spencer dismissed; everybody is truly sorry for Mr. Higgins but surely he is ill advised. There is one aspect of this case that appeals to me so important that I have been reviewing it in such a way that, for there are other homes, than Mr. Higgins' where children are, apparently unable to get that personal direction that they greatly need. In January the mother in this home died, leaving a large family of children all under fifteen years of age. It may be assumed that a Christian minister visited this home and attended at the funeral and burial, but did he, personally, or direct anyone, to inquire into the social conditions prevailing in this afflicted home, for the purpose of assisting Mr. Higgins and his children in their hour of trouble? If such an inquiry had been made would not the position of this poor boy in his relation to the public school have been reviewed in such a way that the responsibility of the teacher would not have been taxed as it certainly was? I think not. Yours truly, T. H. SOMMERSVILLE.

A BIT OF FUN. Sometimes. A teacher was telling her class little stories in a natural history, and she asked if anyone could tell her what a groundhog was. Up went a little hand, waving frantically. "Then why did you order oysters?" "Kind sir, I thought one of them might contain a valuable pearl."—Louisville Courier-Journal. Two of a Kind. SOLDIERS HAVE BEEN WELCOMED

Committee Have Faithfully Kept up This Work Since 1915—Gifts Presented and a Hearty Welcome Home Expressed. The Soldiers' Reception Committee of the many St. John organizations which keeps on steadily with its work. Since 1915 soldiers' boats and trains have been most faithfully met and words of welcome spoken, and gifts presented to the returning men. One of the first tasks of this committee was the providing of a room in the immigrant shed for returned wounded men. This room they furnished and decorated, provided lights, reading and amusement, and also engaged a piano. Folding tables, writing pads and other necessities were also provided by the committee at the discharge depot. No record has been kept of the troop ships or of the soldier trains that have been met, but Miss Helen R. Jack, the faithful treasurer, in a statement submitted to the committee, shows that from November, 1915, to March 11, 1919, the committee had distributed among the returned soldiers landing here about 30,000 apples, 5,000 oranges, 17,000 chocolate bars, 15,000 packages of cigarettes, 21,000 packages of matches and more than 2,000 flags. No record has been kept of sodas, kinks, handkerchiefs and other comforts distributed amongst the men. The treasurer's annual statement shows that the cash receipts from November, 1915 to the present time amounted to $4,438.38. The demands that have been made upon this little sum have been so great in the last few months that at present there is only the sum of $11.28 in the exchequer, with $49.29 of bills unpaid. Many of the patriotic associations have contributed amounts of money to help in this work, which has been so deeply appreciated by the soldiers. SOLDIERS HAVE BEEN WELCOMED

Committee Have Faithfully Kept up This Work Since 1915—Gifts Presented and a Hearty Welcome Home Expressed.

The Soldiers' Reception Committee of the many St. John organizations which keeps on steadily with its work. Since 1915 soldiers' boats and trains have been most faithfully met and words of welcome spoken, and gifts presented to the returning men.

One of the first tasks of this committee was the providing of a room in the immigrant shed for returned wounded men. This room they furnished and decorated, provided lights, reading and amusement, and also engaged a piano. Folding tables, writing pads and other necessities were also provided by the committee at the discharge depot.

No record has been kept of the troop ships or of the soldier trains that have been met, but Miss Helen R. Jack, the faithful treasurer, in a statement submitted to the committee, shows that from November, 1915, to March 11, 1919, the committee had distributed among the returned soldiers landing here about 30,000 apples, 7,000 oranges, 17,000 chocolate bars, 15,000 packages of cigarettes, 21,000 packages of matches and more than 2,000 flags. No record has been kept of sodas, khaki handkerchiefs and other comforts distributed amongst the men.

The treasurer's annual statement shows that the cash receipts from November, 1915 to the present time amounted to $4,438.38. The demands that have been made upon this little sum have been so great in the last few months that at present there is only the sum of $11.28 in the exchequer, with $40.29 of bills unpaid.

Many of the patriotic associations have contributed amounts of money to help in this work, which has been so deeply appreciated by the soldiers.

BOARD OF TRADE COUNCIL MEETING

To Take up Matter of Abattoir for St. John—Housing Problem Discussed.

At the meeting of the Council of the Board of Trade held yesterday, several matters of importance were dealt with. The housing committee, composed of A. H. Wetmore, W. F. Burditt and M. E. Agar, reported that committees had been appointed by the Rotary Club and Trades and Labor Council, and it was expected one would soon be appointed by the G. W. V. A., and the combined committees would meet as soon as possible to discuss this very important subject and try and find a remedy for existing conditions.

The need for an up-to-date abattoir was canvassed and a committee composed of Mayor Hayes, A. H. Wetmore, E. A. Schofield and P. W. Thomson appointed to gather information in the matter. Communications were received from the Winnipeg and Toronto Boards of Trade, re the formation of a Dominion Board of Trade. No action was taken. Letters were read from the Sydney and Rimouski boards, each asking the St. John Board to endorse their port as a small port. These were referred to the shipping committee. The council reaffirmed its position in favor of the adoption of the turn to the right rule of the road and day-light saving.

FINANCIAL POLICY WAS AGREED UPON

Decide to Have All Board of Health Bills Paid by County Treasurer—Must be Certified by Secretary and Chairman of Board.

At a conference of the members of the local Board of Health, County Secretary Kelley and Mayor Hayes, held in the office of the latter yesterday morning, the financial arrangements for the Board of Health were discussed. It was decided to have all payments made by the county treasurer, the bills to be certified by T. M. Burns, secretary, and John Kelly, chairman of the board, and passed by the county auditor, I. Olive Thomas.

This is in line with the policy of the municipality which is to have one paymaster for the county and have a continuous audit of its accounts. The St. John County Hospital bills are now handled in this way and it is hoped soon to include the Municipal Home and the General Public Hospital. Arrangements were also made for caring for an overdraft in connection with the influenza epidemic until such times as the tax rate is paid in.

SHIP CARPENTERS AND CAULKERS MET

Many Topics on Labor Matters Were Discussed Last Evening—An Address by Commissioner Jones—The Union Charter Closed.

The Ship Carpenters and Caulkers' Union met last evening in the Longshoremen's Hall, Water Street. Isaac Patterson, President of the Union, presided.

Many questions arose for discussion among which were the various questions of the day as it affects labor in this city, the housing problem, amalgamation, and other labor topics. Commissioner Jones was present at the meeting and alluded to the Toronto Tramways Company, which granted a set of eight tickets for twenty-five cents to all workmen, who used the cars in getting to and from their work. He believed conditions could be bettered in the housing problem as it now affects the city, and in the other workmen's problems. Members of the Union spoke along the same line as did the Commissioner.

The charter for the Union was declared closed after March 15th inst. The date of the next regular meeting of the Union. After that date the initiation fee will be set at five dollars. At the present time, and previous, the rate of initiation was placed at two dollars.

St. Patrick, the Apostle of the Emerald Isle, was born in his native country, about the year 373 A. D., in the British Roman province of Valentia, probably at Nemthur on the Clyde River, where the City of Dumbarton, Scotland, now stands.

St. Patrick's father, of whom little is related, was a decurion in the Roman army, who later retired to a farm on the Solway, where, when sixteen years of age, St. Patrick was carried off by a band of marauders and sold as a slave to the Irish Celts of County Antrim. Six years later he made good his escape from his masters, who were none too kind to him, and, resolving to devote himself to the conversion of Ireland, prepared himself for the Holy Priesthood, said to be at a monastic institution at Whithorn, in County Galloway, Ireland. The monastery was founded by St. Ninian and was then located at Candida Casa, now Whithorn.

Later, on being ordained a bishop in 405, by His Holiness Celestine, the former Patrick, or Palladius; the latter Senn (old) Patrick. Their existence at or near the same time of the Saint of the Emerald Isle, has, at times, caused much confusion in the history of Ireland and of her Church in the early days.

Ireland's sons and daughters are to be found in all portions of the globe, but all in their wanderings have not forgotten their ancestry, of whom they may feel justly proud. Wars, famines, disease, pestilence, etc., have each in turn visited the Emerald Isle, but none served to dampen the ardor of her people or to forget her in their numerous trials. At a former time, history relates, where Ireland was the conquered nation of England, but happily today can be found the sons of the former Patrick, or Palladius; the latter Senn (old) Patrick. "WE BID YE TOP O' THE MORNING," ON MONDAY, ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Sons and Daughters of the "Auld Sod" Have Not Forgotten Their Patron Saint and the Happy Stories—The "Catholic Record" Prints An Excellent Account of the History of Saint Patrick.

On Monday "We Bid Ye Top o' the Morning,"—such will be the world slogan of Irish, and those of Irish lineage on that day. Much might be related of the day, but let us content ourselves with knowing that all the scattered sons and daughters of the "Auld Sod" have not forgotten their patron saint, and the happy stories as are wont to be told concerning him while on earth. The early life of Saint Patrick is a subject for discussion among learned men, and even the best books differ on the subject. However, enough is known and historians agree as to the time of his being on earth, and as to his good works while here.

St. Patrick loved Ireland, so much so that he returned when a minister of God to convert the natives who were at that time warlike and ruled by the fiercest of despots. He was taken to listen to his teachings. Of his work among them history relates the following: an early tradition, handed down through countless generations, and honors the name and work of Ireland's Patron Saint:

St. Patrick, the Apostle of the Emerald Isle, was born in his native country, about the year 373 A. D., in the British Roman province of Valentia, probably at Nemthur on the Clyde River, where the City of Dumbarton, Scotland, now stands.

THE CONCLUSION OF ARMISTICE WAS NOT EQUIVALENT TO PEACE

One Must Never Lose Sight of the Fact That the Germans Will Always Seek to Reconstruct Central Pan-Germany as Long as the Slightest Chance of Success Remains.

By Andre Cheradame.
(Special Cable to The N. Y. Tribune and The St. John Standard.)
(Copyright 1919, N. Y. Tribune, Inc.)

Paris, March 11.—The recent statements of Premier Clemenceau to The Associated Press in the best justification I could wish for the judgments I have been sending to The Tribune for several weeks. It remains now for the Allies to come down from the clouds of idealism to the realities of the world. The danger must be looked in the face if once again it is to be averted. Ways and means are not lacking, but the condition is that no time be lost.

After the signature of the armistice and showing its dangers, I recommended the immediate dispatch of allied troops to Central Europe. The presence alone of these troops would have prevented vexatious surprises. There is all the more reason during the armistice that the Allies should occupy chosen regions of Central Europe, since those they took in the West along the Rhine are quite insufficient to force the Germans to pay the indispensable reparations. Such a result is only possible if Germany is split into east and west, thus leaving the Allies masters of the roads where Germany might be fed from the East, and on the other hand if the Allies make Poland an insuperable obstacle to the junction of the German and Russian Bolshevik armies. This would have sufficed to forbid any resumption of German activity in Central Europe.

occupation will be greater. Yet the difficulty is still easily surmounted if the Allied governments supported by public opinion carry out the plan. To understand the aim of the so-called republican government at Berlin and of the Marshal Hindenburg, it is necessary to link by the similarity of their Pan-German aspirations—one must never lose sight of this, that the Germans will always seek to reconstruct Central Pan-Germany as long as the slightest chance of success remains. Remember, the Germans really desire the war in order to create Pan Germany, and now the objects of the conference give them a chance to win a trick. It is natural, having regard for their mentality, that they will seek to profit.

The objects of the chiefs of the German republic are now made manifest by incontrovertible facts. What better proof than at the same time that the Germans wish to annex German Austria they also wish to keep within German boundaries 6,000,000 Poles, despite the expressed wish of the latter? If the Germans sincerely adopted the principle of nationalism as the basis of the reconstruction of Europe one could understand the demand for a union with Germany of the 7,000,000 Germans of the Vistula region, provided the Austrian Germans really wish it, which has not yet been proved. But when at the same time with the incorporation of German Austria one sees them insisting upon the retention of 6,000,000 Poles who are asking no better than to escape from their yoke, it becomes clear that they are acting in bad faith and seeking the aggrandisement of Germany on the basis of the Pan-German conception. Further proof of this is seen in the fact that during the month past Hindenburg has concentrated on the Polish frontier forces powerful enough to crush the Poles rapidly and thus secure the results I show below.

The danger is so undeniable that despite the surprising resistance on the part of Poland arising in the Peace Conference, Poch finally received a mandate to begin the necessary operations. For the German offensive against Poland was suspended, but that can only be considered a real success in that it has allowed the Poles to gain time until a few weeks hence, when the demoralized Allies will have proceeded to a point where the Allies cannot assert themselves. Then the German plan will become possible, and relatively easy.

and received this amazing answer from Bonar Law: "I am surprised at the question. It seems to me altogether impossible that twenty parliaments can discuss the details of the treaty." This answer is inadmissible, for the Society of Nations is not a detail. Real benefit or veritable disaster depends upon whether it is well or ill made. It still seems clear that the interested parliaments will be unable to exercise their power, and the fact will have to bear possibly serious consequences in the decisions reached without their interventions. Moreover these decisions are made by a great number who are not elected by the people and whose competence in international questions is doubtful. Nevertheless it is the parliaments that gave the allied governments the men and money necessary to conduct the war and it is intolerable that they be treated as negligible quantities in a forced ratification involving them in serious responsibilities.

It seems to me indispensable that the allied parliaments shall exercise the right of control. I learn that the committee of foreign affairs of the French Chamber of Deputies has not received even a confidential communication regarding the Peace Conference. Yet this committee understands well the Polish question which has long been studied, and might have protested efficaciously against the errors of the Peace Conference. During the conference the parliaments must be kept informed which is a necessity particularly for the Americans since constitutionally United States Senate has the right and duty to participate in the making of the Treaty of Peace. Can the American people run the risk of the Senate receiving a Treaty which it does not desire to confirm, but which under the circumstance it is morally constrained to ratify?

The danger is so undeniable that despite the surprising resistance on the part of Poland arising in the Peace Conference, Poch finally received a mandate to begin the necessary operations. For the German offensive against Poland was suspended, but that can only be considered a real success in that it has allowed the Poles to gain time until a few weeks hence, when the demoralized Allies will have proceeded to a point where the Allies cannot assert themselves. AMERICAN CLAIMS FOR INDEMNITY

There Have Been Filed With State Department at Washington Claims Aggregating $750,000,000.

Washington, March 10.—Claims filed by American citizens and concerns with the state department against Germany and Austria-Hungary total about $750,000,000, the state department announced. Additional claims are expected.

The claims, which will run into the thousands, are divided into two classes those arising from submarine atrocities and those due to other acts of the Central empires. The state department for several months has had a large force engaged in compiling American losses.

Included in the claims growing out of submarine warfare are losses for death and injury of American vessels, losses suffered in connection with American cargoes, both in American and foreign bottoms, and the loss of much personal property other than cargoes.

Losses due to other acts of Germany and Austria-Hungary include destruction and requisition of American properties, both in enemy territory and territory occupied at various times by enemy forces.

The state department's statistics show that American citizens at the outbreak of the war had about $200,000,000 worth of property in enemy countries and in those which have been under enemy occupation. Heavy losses have resulted in connection with this property as a result of war measures taken by the Central powers.

Use this Famous Flour to get Best Bread—Guaranteed to give Full Satisfaction, or Money Back

Why is it that the famous Western Canada hard wheat is prized the world over for making good bread? Because it is rich in a highly nutritious substance called gluten. This gluten has such wonderful elasticity, or power of expansion, that it imprisons and holds the little bubbles of gas developed by the yeast, thus enabling bread to rise properly.

Cream of the West Flour is made from the best quality of this famous Western hard wheat—rich with gluten. That is why bread made from it rises splendidly and gives you the biggest kind of loaves. When using white flour for bread, why not have the big loaves of highly nourishing, light, flaky bread you can always get with

Cream of the West Flour

Milled according to Government Standard

Cream of the West "goes farther" than other flours. Not only does it make good bread but it is used with success by housewives for all kinds of baked products. All shipments of grain are tested in our laboratory; knowing exactly what the wheat contains, we can always keep the strength and quality of Cream of the West uniform. It certainly will pay you to give Cream of the West a right good trial.

Cream of the West A High Gluten Flour

The gluten that makes bread rise so well is also the reason for the high nourishing quality of bread made with Cream of the West. This substance is rich in body-building protein. No mother with growing children can afford to overlook this splendid advantage.

A protest against the frequent late arrival of the Sussex train was lodged with L. R. Ross yesterday by a number of business men who use it to bring them to the city. LIEUT. MCGINLEY HOME YESTERDAY

Arrived on Grampan—Is Attached to Conducting Staff—Enlisted With 140th—Was With 26th When War Ended.

Lieut. W. G. McGinley, a former member of the Standard staff, gave his friends quite a surprise yesterday when he stepped off the Grampan, as he had not given any person the slightest intimation of his coming, the last word from him being from France.

Lieut. McGinley enlisted with the 140th Battalion (St. John Tickers) and went to England with that unit. Twenty-nine days from the time he left Canada he was in France, and three weeks from the time he landed in France he was unlicked enough to be buried, when one of Fritz's big shells landed near him. For some months he was in hospital and convalescing, but after recovery from the effects of the wounds he spent some time as instructor at one of the reserve camps, but the life there proved too tame and he sent in repeated requests for a transfer to the firing line. About five months before the signing of the armistice his request was granted and he was sent to the 25th Battalion.

He took part in all the big engagements of last summer and did his share in bringing the Hun to his knees. He went with the battalion to Germany, and when it reached Belgium on the way back secured leave to visit London while there he was appointed on the conducting staff and sent over with the men on the Grampan.

He left last night for Quebec and Ottawa, and expects to return to the city about the middle of next week, and sail for England again in about ten days.

ST. JOHN HAD GERMAN SCARE YESTERDAY

Three Men Suspected of Trying to Get Out of Europe as Neutrals—Investigation Proved Them All Right.

St. John had a real live German scare yesterday, it being reported to the immigration authorities on the docking of the vessel that three of the male passengers were Germans trying to get out of the country as neutrals, but a careful investigation proved them to be above suspicion, and they were allowed to continue their journey to Japan and the other to the Canadian west, where he intends to take up farming.

William Hopkins, ex-mayor of Sackatoon, who had been in France trying to locate the grave of his son, who was killed in the war, was the first to suspect anything wrong with the three men in question, and during the voyage he was informed, through a number of the cabin passengers. On arrival in port Mr. Hopkins called the attention of the immigration officials to the men, and the immigration officials in turn, handed the matter over to the military authorities.

Two of the men had tickets for Japan and the third was bound for the Canadian west to engage in farming. All three had passports, one from Holland, one from Denmark and the third from Switzerland. These passports were all in order and had been properly used in England before the boat sailed. As a result of the investigation the men were cleared from the suspicion attached to them and proceeded to their destination in the regular train.

POLICE COURT CASES YESTERDAY

Violation of Building Law—William Devlin and Companion Charged With Breaking Into Summer Camp—Two Men Charged With Having Liquor.

At the afternoon session of the police court yesterday Robert J. Armstrong appeared on a charge laid against him by Building Inspector Carleton of maintaining and adding to a building in the rear of his premises on North Market street without having a permit to do so.

Mr. Carleton gave evidence telling that about three years ago there was an open yard where the building referred to now stands. On February 21st, 1919, a wooden structure had been erected on the site, and a former building nearby was partly roofed over. There was then no floor in the wooden structure.

On the third instant, when he visited the building, he found that flooring had been laid. The building had been erected without a permit.

The defendant asked Mr. Carleton relative to the erection and remodeling of some four or five buildings in the city, and if these had been erected with the necessary permission.

In reply Inspector Carleton believed they had been so erected.

Mr. Armstrong then informed the court that he was willing to utilize tin zinc for roofing and told Mr. Carleton the same while on his conversation with him. This part of the case he believed had been omitted by Mr. Carleton in his evidence.

Continuing Mr. Armstrong alluded to the propriety of making fish of one and flesh of another. His Honor remarked that he would set the case over until Monday afternoon at two o'clock, hoping that in the meantime Mr. Armstrong and the inspector might come to terms.

The case of William Devlin and entering into the summer cottages of Messrs. Boyer and Fred Kinsman was resumed. Mr. Kinsman testified that as the result of some information he left his home on Sunday afternoon, March 9th, and went to his summer cottage at Dark Lake, on the Sandy Point road, near Highland Park. He had visited the cottage the previous day and had found everything in first class condition. On this particular Sunday evening near seven o'clock he returned to the cottage and was admitted by William Devlin, the accused. Entering the camp, witness found everything in a state of confusion. A bed had been brought down stairs and was found in the living room. Tea had been made and a fire was in the stove, making the atmosphere very comfortable. The accused were asked what they were doing and both answered they had become lost in the woods and had come into the cottage to make a cup of tea for themselves. Witness identified several articles in the police court as belonging to him.

Inspector Detective Power Detective Biddiscombe, and Detective Donahue being called, told of the arrest of the two in the camp. The officers in consequence of information received were on the scene shortly after Mr. Kinsman's arrival. Witness saw the officers search the two in the camp and find a 22 calibre shot gun (cut down) in the possession of Devlin. Cartridges were also found on Devlin. The youth gave his name to the officers when asked, but Devlin gave a fictitious name, "Martin," but later his right name was found out by the officers. The two were then arrested.

This concluded the evidence and the case was postponed until 11 a. m. Monday for the purpose of the evidence it was found out that Mr. Kinsman's camp had been broken into on a short time ago and another break occurred about a year ago in which the accused were arrested at the depot. The camp was cleaned out of all valuables in the shape of furnishings.

Fred Fisher and Joseph Dolan, the former of Prince Edward Island, the latter of Moncton, appeared to answer a charge of having liquor in their possession contrary to law. The accused were arrested at the depot by Sub-Inspector Garnett, about two o'clock yesterday afternoon. Each had a bottle of gin when arrested and in a small satchel was found an extra bottle. When asked where they procured the liquor they told frankly. They were then sent before the court as persons who so kindly supplied them will be brought into court.

SAFE HOME TREATMENT FOR THE CURE OF RHEUMATISM

CHANGEABLE SPRING WEATHER STARTS THE PAINS BUT THE TROUBLE IS ROOTED IN THE BLOOD.

Thousands Throughout Canada Who Are Suffering Can Be Cured Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The twinges and tortures of rheumatism are not due to cold, damp weather as so many people suppose. Bad weather may start the pains going, but the real cause is rooted in the blood. Liniments and rubbing may help deaden the pain, but it always returns and usually in a worse form, simply because this treatment cannot cure. To cure rheumatism to stay cured you must root the poison out of the blood. This is the only sure way—the only sensible way to get rid of the trouble. And the one medicine for doing this which has been pre-eminently successful is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills actually make new, rich blood that goes right to the root of the trouble, releasing the stiffened joints, cleaning away the torturing pains and giving the sufferer renewed health and ease. If you are suffering from rheumatism, or any trouble due to poor, weak blood, you should, in your own interest, at once give this always reliable medicine a fair trial.

ACTUALLY CRIPPLED. FREE FROM PAIN. COMPLETELY CURED. Mr. F. M. Simpson, R. R. No. 1, Blenheim, Ont., says: "For a long time I was confined to bed and actually crippled with rheumatism. The trouble first located in my ankle, then spread to my knees and then to my arms. The limbs were much swollen, and it moved caused me much pain. Doctors' treatment did not help me and then I began trying other remedies, but with no better results. Finally I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and although I had begun to lose faith in medicine, I decided to give the pills a trial. I am very grateful now that I did so, for after taking eight boxes of the pills the trouble completely disappeared. I was free from pain, the swelling in the joints disappeared, and could walk as well as ever I did in my life. I have since taken the pills occasionally as a preventive measure, and I cannot say too highly in their favor and thank them to all rheumatism sufferers." There has been no increase in the price of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They are still sold at 50 cents a box or 2 boxes for $2.50. If your home dealer cannot supply you they will be sent postpaid on receipt of price by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Mr. A. B. Hinton, Western Ave., Toronto, says: "Up to about a year ago my wife had suffered for nearly three years from rheumatism, suffer- ing greatly. She had been under the care of several doctors, besides spend- ing dollars on advertised cures, but did not get any relief. One day talk- ing to a fellow clerk, she said her sister had been cured of this trouble by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Although not feeling very hopeful, I took two boxes home that evening and urged my wife to try them. By the time they were used they had done her so much good that she required no prescrip- tion to continue the treatment, and after taking six or seven boxes she was completely cured. As I have said this was about a year ago, and she has had no return of the trouble since. TEETHING TROUBLES

Baby's teething time is a time of worry for most mothers. Baby's little gums become swollen and tender; his bowels get out of order and constipation, colic or even diarrhoea sets in. To make the teething period easy Baby's Own Tablets should be given the little one. They sweeten the stomach; regulate the bowels and keep baby good natured. Concerning Mrs. Marcel D. LeBlanc, Memramcook, West N. B., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for the past six years and have found them indispensable. To my mind nothing can equal them in allaying the fever accompanying teething. I would not be without them and can strongly recommend them to other mothers." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Proof of it. "Do you think a burned child at ways fears the fire?" "Not at all. If so, why should so many divorce decrees prohibit the contestants from remarrying?"

Island. Mrs. S. W. Hanton is spending a few days in St. John. Mount Allison University residence presented a brilliant scene, Friday evening, when the Senior Class held their "at home." This is one of the functions of the college life which has been dispensed with during the period of hostilities, the last one being held in 1914. There was a spirit of gaiety and merriment in the air such as has not been perceptible since the pre-war days. The sprinkling of khaki uniforms amongst the more formal dresses brought a new note of interest to the affair. The "at home" was presided over by the Mt. A. boys, in their special dress response to the call of duty. Their noble sacrifice on the field of battle proved that they had truly profited by the teachings of the Gamaliels of the garnet and gold. A delightful programme was provided, including orchestral music and a reading entitled, "Keep a Seat at the Benefit," by Miss Ida M. Leslie, which attracted the vast attendance of the audience and provoked much laughter by its imitable humor. A violin solo, "Liebesfreund" (Kreiser) was effectively rendered by Miss Minnie Miller. The promenades were perhaps the feature attraction of the festivity. Rhythmic music was rendered by the Sackville Citizens' Band as the merry young folks passed to and fro along the spacious aisle, which were brightly illumined by electricity and handsomely decorated. The whole affair presented a veritable fairyland, graced by the presence of "The Misses," who had left their favorite haunt in Mount Helicon to be present at this festive array. The main hall entrance was decorated in the Senior Class colors—red and white, and at the bottom of the stairway was a large electric sign, "We Welcome You." At the top of the stairs was another electric sign, "Mt. A. Seniors, '19." The reception room and Board room on the first floor were decorated with the Senior colors. The reading room, decorated by the Athletic Association, contained various athletic equipment, books, skates, hockey sticks, etc. On the second floor, all the rooms along the spacious hall were decorated by various classes of the Mt. A. institutions. The Parlorian Hall was decorated with the Mt. A. colors, garnet and gold, with an electric circle and triangle, containing the class motto, "A Poese Ad Esse." At the rear of the hall was a large 1919 in red and white. The Y. M. C. A. parlor was tastefully decorated with large yellow shades and contained attractive cosy lounges. The chief attraction in the Ladies' College Seniors' room, which was decorated in black and white, was a delightful window seat. The Alpha Beta room was decorated in purple and white. The Juniors' room represented "Winter's Evening," moon and stars overhead and trees covered with snow. An interesting feature of the Engineers' room, which gave practical demonstration of their skill, was an electric sign, the face of the electric light illuminating consecutively each letter of the word, "Engineers." There was also nice display of the blue prints and tripods. The Freshmen had a tastefully decorated suite of three rooms, and the fourth "Floor Gang" room contained a little of everything, hockey sticks, Bibles, etc. A very interesting feature of the Sophomores' room was the picture gallery, which was decorated with the Senior Class being represented by cartoons. The Sans Souci room contained the gruesome figure of a skeleton dressed in black gown, seated at a table playing cards. In the Y. M. C. A. room, the walls were decorated with yellow paper, and daffodils harmonized with the surroundings. The "Krooks" room was decorated chiefly in black. In the Tennis Club room were displayed tennis rackets and trophies. The Theologs' room contained a goodly display of "Theog" books. It seemed to possess a peculiar magnetic charm, despite the warning sign over the entrance, "Rev. I. M. Drysdale." Not the least pleasing part of the programme, after the eighth topic, "Say, Sweet Love, What Thou Desirest to Me," was the serving of refreshments, delicious ice cream and delectable chocolate cake. Much credit is due the Senior Class committee, Miss Beryl Moore, Miss Marion Machum, R. D. Mitter and R. A. Crossman, who had charge of the affair. The full list of Senior Class members is as follows: Eli Harriet Woods, Harriet Ada Barnes, Wilfred Arnold Burbridge, Carl Avar Burgess, Roy Arnold Crossman, Laurie Abram Cooke, Ellen Chapman, Bliss Harmon, William George Guy, Joseph D'Aubigne Jeffers, Frances Henderson Jordan, Lorne Fisher Lee, Marion Harrison, Morris Morris Osborne, Maxine Grace Gwendolyn McKay, Helga Janet McMillan, Rowland Dwight Mitten, Beryl Moore, Janice Orkney, Stuart Murray, Margaret Stockton Pickard, George Ferguson Skinner, Boyde Kitchener Snow, Gordon Murray Smith, Phyllis Harriet Woods. After the "at home," the members of the Senior Class were entertained by Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Bigelow. Many complimentary remarks were passed upon the excellent music discussed by the Citizens' Band, among the numbers receiving special notice being "The Fall of Jericho," "Glorious" (Waltz), and "Till We Meet Again" (Waltz). THE PROGRAMME. 1.—Promenade. 2.—Orchestra Overture. "Orpheus" Offenbach. 3.—Promenade. 4.—Violin Solo. "Liebesfreund" Kreiser, Miss Minnie Miller. 5.—Promenade. 6.—Reading. Captain Steeves told of his war experiences and especially of the time he spent in German prison camps. His story was one of intense interest and went to prove that all we have read about the Hun's treatment of prisoners was only too true. Gambin from the Narrows, was visiting friends and relatives in this place last week.

WALTHAM THE WORLD'S WATCH OVER TIME

Accuracy with Appearance. ACCURACY is the dominant idea behind the Waltham Watch. In the factory at Waltham, and in the Montreal branch, the working staff from general manager down to the newest apprentice, is imbued with the spirit of "accuracy first." This is the motive that led to the invention of many wonderful automatic machines which perform intricate operations in the shaping, drilling, polishing and finishing of watch mechanism, with an accuracy and speed that no human hand could equal. At the same time, appearance is important, and the Waltham is as pleasing in form as it is perfect in workmanship. For the man who desires to carry a watch of a quality which adequately meets modern business demands, both as to accuracy and appearance, the Colonial "A" and the Riverside models are great favorites. Ask your jeweler to show you these Waltham models.

RANN-D... SKA... Ice skating is an old-fashioned winter pastime which used to be more popular than a giddy bachelor at a 27th league social, but is now going harder to find than corn mush without an assortment of luncheon as big as a lawn tennis ball. Forty years ago the young people of town and country were obliged to manufacture their own pleasures out of any material that came to hand. They did not have a roller skating rink to go to in the dead of winter where they could inhale chalk dust and cut the figure eight on their leather. They did not have the moving picture show or the K. P. dance, and if any body had suggested a game of Fifty Hundred he would have been kicked out of the church without a dissenting voice. If it had not been for the river with its coat of ice, life in the winter would have been as dull for the average boy and girl as a safety razor blade on the second trip out of the box. There was something about skating on the ice which made a boy invulnerable to cold. He would go out in a super-suit in his tracks. It was a boy's sight to see a country boy come in from the ice wearing goggles in their cheeks and carrying a fresh air in their lungs than the ever saw after they got off the farm. Ice skating prolonged everybody's life except that of the anxious mother.

GOD SAVE THE KING.

WHEN I HAVE TIME.

When I have time so many things I'll do To make life happier and more fair. For those whose lives are crowded now with care, I'll help to lift them from their low despair. When I have time, I'll lead their feet in pleasant paths always And cheer their hearts with sweetest words of praise. When I have time, I'll lead their hearts with sweet content. When you have time the friends you hold so dear May be beyond the reach of all your sweet intent. May never know that you so kindly meant To fill their hearts with sweet content. When you had time, Now is the time, Ah, friend, no longer wait To scatter loving smiles and words of cheer To those around whose lives are now so dear. That may not meet you in the coming year, Now is the time.

HAD WEAK and FAINTING SPELLS

Those feelings of faintness, those weak, "all gone" sinking sensations, which come over some people from time to time, are warnings that must not go unheeded. They mean an extremely weakened condition of the heart and a disordered nervous system.

When the system is in this condition there is no time for delay. One fainting spell may be recovered from—will the next? One dizzy spell may pass off, but the next may be more serious.

Those who are wise will start taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, before their case becomes deep rooted and perhaps hopeless.

They will act directly on the disordered heart and weakened nervous system and restore them to full strength and vigor.

Miss Mary McVoy, Algoma Mills, Ont., writes:—"I was awfully troubled with fainting and weak spells, and I could never get any doctor's medicine to help me. One day a friend of mine was at the house when I took one of these pills, and she got me a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. That was six years ago, and from that day to this I have never had any of those spells. I would not be without your pills for any money, and can highly recommend them to any one."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

ALL TRIMMINGS ARE USED IRREGULARLY SAYS PARIS; SKIRTS AND TUNICS UNEVEN

The Present Skippy Dresses Are Vastly Improved by Embroidery or Rows of Buttons—A String of Pearls Remains the Favorite Ornament—Overblouses Are Worn by the French.

Styles are a little alarming if one may judge by the evening dresses, which are short, skippy, decollete, and becoming only to the young and pretty. Long dresses are also being made and many that are short in front show trains behind. The love of glitter is still apparent; some of the newest frocks are all in gold or silver tresses and are worn with turbans to match and a boating mist of black, brown or grey tulle over them; but they are hardly in accordance with good French taste. Nor is the very short untrimmied tulle sleeve which is being worn in afternoon dresses entirely nappy; it will probably not last long.

Black and white are still popular and are seen in some of the best dresses. They are in many shades and distinctions. White net may be introduced in black beads to form stripes or straight and crosswise bands; or such a dress may have a draping note of color in a sash of tulle. Dresses are also made in ivory satin embroidered in black, and the other way round; and the simple form of the present skippy dress is sometimes improved by embroidery. All trimmings, embroidery, or fringe are used irregularly, just as the skirts and trunks are never even.

For the afternoon there may be a little dress in black satin with short sleeves and open neck, and over it a long black tulle cape. The hat may be one of the new ones with a brim much wider in one part than another, and encased by a bunch of feathers, or more regrettably aggregates. Dresses ornamented with a string of pearls is still the favorite ornament; bangles and chains are rare, and one good ring is accounted better than a mass of mixed jewels.

It is predicted that organdies will be worn more than any other summer fabric next season. Heavy silks used for sport skirts are worn with blouses of sheer material, with the collars and cuffs of the skirt material. Blouses of the palest pastel yellow are shown in Georgetown. Flowered and figured georgettes are very much liked for the early spring dresses. Very small scarfs of fur will be worn with the early spring suits. Fisher and sable will be the furs preferred. Linings will continue to be the brightest note in relation to the new suits. Golden yellow is used for the vests on navy blue suits. A dark blue silk umbrella has a rough gray wood handle. Most of the new spring shades are light and rather dull. The new "calico hat" is made of silk printed in calico design. The high plain black toque is popular for afternoon wear. Ribbons will be much used on the spring millinery and dresses. The Paris overblouse is shorter than that of domestic origin and is also slightly fitted and unbelled. Surf satin will be one of the well thought of materials for the spring dress. Fine embroideries are combined with georgette for some of the newer blouses.

and coats are straight-waisted and some dresses have becoming draped neckbands. Tunics are popular, as they allow of economical arrangements. Gloves are almost all gauntlets, and boots have cloth tops or are in suede.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

Bread dough in the pans is ready to bake when it has risen to nearly double its original size? A layer cake can be spread with jelly and sprinkled with purified rice and prepared cocoanut?

Ventilators covered with cheesecloth solve the question of fresh air for a great many homes? The six absolute necessities for health are cereals, fresh vegetables, fruits, sugar, fats and milk?

You can save rice water to make pudding with, and cook the pudding all day in the tireless cooker? When paraffin is taken off the top of jelly, etc., it should be melted at once to free it from the fruit?

You must heat raisins before staining them? They can then be easily split and the stones removed. A white stocking drawn over a sleeve board makes an excellent cover, which requires no tacks to keep in place?

If sugar is to be added to cooked dried fruit add it after the fruit has cooled a half-hour, else it will cause the fruit to become hard? Chocolate butter icing is made of one-half cup butter beaten to a cream, one-half cup of honey beaten into one cup of sifted confectioner's sugar and two ounces of chocolate melted over hot water?

A chop water dressing is made of equal quantities of dices, figs, raisins, nut meats and almonds chopped; then blended with maple syrup and marshmallow paste and allowed to stand to ripen? REST FOR CENTRAL, ANYWAY. A cruel hoax was perpetrated on the women of St. Louis the other day. Some practical joker called scores of them up on the phone and in an official manner notified them that the board of health had decided to blow out all the telephones in town, and ordering them to place damp towels over the receivers to prevent the germs from spreading. The cause of the strange silence that prevailed for hours was finally discovered and freedom of speech restored to indignant subscribers.

ANNA CASE TO BE HEARD IN CITY

I. O. D. E. and Other Patriotic Organizations Assisting With Sale of Tickets—Plans Made at Meeting Yesterday.

St. John is to have the privilege of hearing a singer of note, Anna Case, a member of the Metropolitan Opera Company. This is to be made possible through the efforts of the G. W. V. A., who are arranging for a concert at which Miss Case will give a recital. Yesterday afternoon representatives of the nine chapters of the I. O. D. E., St. Monica's Society, the Y. W. P. A., and the Soldiers' Wives' League were called by Kenneth Christie of the G. W. V. A., to attend a meeting held in the veterans' rooms, and each representative took tickets to sell for this musical treat. Mr. Christie provided and told of the arrangements made for the concert.

The warmest of colors are predicted for spring. All the shades of red are included and most of those of brown and yellow. Tomato red, rose color and flame are mentioned, as are also tobacco brown and toasted bread shade. These are the colors from Paris. The shades actually selected for frocks and other togs will include grays and many shades of blue.

WEEKLY CHAT.

My Dear Kiddies— Judging by the number of specimens of Spring which have been sent I think the season must be very advanced. Really little tried and been deluged this week, and finally I must make some new rules in order that all will have a fair chance. As that rate we would very soon over the list and the honors would go to a very few. As I told you the first of the contest it was organized to give the youngest members an opportunity, so favor will be shown them throughout. Hereafter, boys' girls, please do not forward more than two specimens a week. So many have sent the same buds to me on the same day that I must just divide the honors up as fairly as possible to all. Another thing I must mention to you is that most of the buds sent in are in an early stage of growth that it is hard to distinguish their new growth from an old twig of two months or so for that reason some specimens may not be listed in today's list. It is very encouraging I can assure you to have such an interest taken in I am quite certain now that there many bright eyes among our Cornish kiddies.

How many of you have remembered that during the coming week we celebrate St. Patrick's day, and how many know something of his history, the good man whose name is still so revered by the people of Ireland. Patrick, according to history, was born in England, and when about ten years old was taken as a slave in a raid made by a group of marauders, so common in the early days, to show that St. Patrick was not a mere six years old of suffering escaped and made his way to France where he became a monk, and at a later date returned to Ireland. He evangelized the see of Amagh and by work transformed Ireland into a Christian land. Many stories are told of his work among the people, some which are almost beyond belief, whatever may be true, and whatever may be imaginary, enough is known to show that St. Patrick was a true and good man. He is believed to have died about A. D. 463. The supposed date of his birth has been enough for many years especially by people of Irish descent.

WEEKLY CHAT.

Merely Suggested. He was a suburban amateur gardener, whose pride in his tiny garden was apt to bore his friends.

The other day he had taken a nephew—a youth fresh from a public school, round his retreat, took forth at length in the four corners of pocket shrubbery, half-inch fountain jet, with its little basin and pair of goldfish, and the summer house which would almost admit two persons once.

The youth endured it all without a word. He was asked to admire "a variety" of about five feet in length. Then the worm turned.

"The grounds are certainly very handsome," he said, "but I think might improve them considerably. How so?" questioned the owner divided between gratification and wounded pride.

"Well, if I were you," suggested young critic blandly, "I should take strip off that flower-bed—say four inches wide—torn it over, and revert it into golf links."

LIFE IN WINTER UNDER THE LIFE, too, is going happily on with every pond and quiet stream, rove over with its glassy canopy like a ural hothouse. Peer down through clear ice, and you will see that plants are green, though small, fishes are gliding about, but the r on their scales show that they are very little new; there is enough to but the appetite is weak. The p snails move about as usual, yet b no new shell. The small aquatic creatures still creep lazily over the menting mud or ensconce themselves in its depths.

The water spider is wrapped in glistening bubble of the air he is down with him.

All these small creatures of nature under-world are at rest. There is call now for activity, little need hunting or feeding. Hunger is still no energy need be expended in ducting eggs or in distending the galls he still, recuperate from waste of one summer and get strength for the next.

A countryman who was showing a visitor an antique clock which had recently come into his possession, remarked:

"Isn't that a fine clock? I got bargain up B— way."

"Yes; but does it keep good time his visitor asked.

"Well," was the hesitating reply, "not good enough to catch a train that sort of thing, but good enough get up to breakfast with."

This very unusual winter which I have had, has caused all sorts of reports to appear out of their regular channels and consequently one is apt to wonder if the buds are really signs of spring growth or the result of autumn. I have found the judges specimens very dignified, however, in this fact and trust that those who see the contest hereafter will make that their specimens are really signs of spring. Kindly read the Chat fully and you will know why new rules governing our contest are necessary. Great interest has been taken and am sure it will continue so for that I am very grateful will try to be just and fair to all.

Really little friends I have been deluged this week, and find out I must make some new rules in order that all will have a fair chance. "Sign of Spring Contest" Name of Specimen Date found Sent in by Address Age and Birthday

This very unusual winter which we have had, has caused all sorts of signs to appear on that regular order and consequently you will see that the buds are really signs of new spring growth or the remains of last autumn. I have found the judging of specimens very difficult because of this fact and trust that those entering the contest hereafter will make sure that their specimens are really new buds. Kindly read the Chat carefully and you will know why some new rules governing our contest are necessary. Great thanks are taken and I am sure it will continue so for that I am very grateful and will try to be just and fair to all in awarding prizes. The results of this week's contributions are as follows: Frances Gesner, clover leaves. Arthur Cox, grass and alder. Jerry Curtis, cherry, cranberry. Gordon F. Water, maple. Harry O. Craft, apple buds. Arthur Rigby, poplar. Ruth Pierce, strawberry and daisy leaves. Nora Annet, raspberry and beech. Margaret Pierce, elder and elm buds. Hereafter members will kindly enclose not more than two specimens during each week.

ANSWERS TO LETTERS

FRANCES GESNER, Belle Isle, Anna, Co., N. S.—Yes, Frances, the parcel and letter both reached me safely and many thanks for the very excellent contributions to our puzzle-column. They are also splendid. I was so very sorry indeed to know that the fearful epidemic we call Flu had claimed one of our puzzle-members. They are also splendid. WILBERT and NINA CURTIS, Bristol—We are glad to have you both as new members in our Children's Corner, before you can be enrolled though. I need your ages and dates of birthdays which you forgot to send. BELMA MARKS, Fortage Vale—You are very welcome to join our puzzle-column. I am glad you are over your illness. You are pretty capable little girl to be able to write at your age.

FLORA GRANVILLE, Cumberland Bay—Glad you like our Children's page so much, and hope you will always have the interest in its contents. RUTH FIBROE, Bloomfield—It was quite correct for your sister to write for you and sign your name. It won't be long before you will be able to do all your own correspondence. Isn't it nice to have a big sister to do the little kind deeds for you and I am sure you find lots of little things to do for her. I am pleased to see you as a member and you make a good start by entering our contest.

LILLIAN KILGUP—I am sorry you did not break off a little twig of the pussy willow and send it in for several others have done so, and you might have been the first. It is indeed lovely weather everywhere. HENRY CURTIS, Bristol—I hope to see your writing and spelling improve Jerry. Perhaps the best way to get the members to write is for you to make the start and write the first letter.

NORAH ACOOTT, Deboe—Am glad to know of the features in our paper, which the members enjoy most. I hope you will walk through the woods, especially after a fall of snow. Your signs like so many others reached me alright. JENNIE MCGOWAN, Tweedside—I am sure your chances for sliding will be very few now, after the 20th sun of the last few days does its work, but how nice to enjoy it while it lasts. That trip to the lumber camp certainly sounded good to say nothing of the "cats" you had. That name had often seemed odd to me and I am glad you explained how it received its name.

BRMA PIERCE, Bloomfield Station—I am sorry that I cannot solve the mystery of the buds for you. That certainly was a record for May flowers. I think they usually appear in April, but I have found them among snow and ice.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS

To the following members, who celebrate their birthdays this coming week, we wish them many happy returns. Those having birthdays and not finding their names on the list will understand that their date has not been recorded: Harold Bowser, Sackville. Fugitives in Peril

(Continued from last week.) "Come forth," said Sir George. "We must escape from this place tonight. I think we shall have a little fighting before long, and pass through an adventure or two before we get safely aboard my ship."

CHAPTER III.

Suddenly Guy Romilly, who, in spite of his gallant bravado, had been suffering agony from a sword-wound in the shoulder, and who had lost much blood, staggered backward, and fell swooning.

Sir George and Ralph bent over him. The scorching, hot sun, had been beating down around the wound, had loosened, and the blood flowed apace. The white-haired servant was ordered to bring water and linen, and with skilful hands Sir George dressed the cut, and presently Guy's eyes opened.

"Go to your ship, sir," said Ralph to his host. "You are endangering your own life by staying here. Leave us. I will look after my friend; but at present, as you see, he is unable to stand, unless I keep his seat in the saddle."

"Nay," murmured Guy. "Tis but a faint. I shall be all right presently. Nevertheless, I beg you to look to yourself, Sir George."

"Have no fear for me," was the answer. "But I will ride down to the beach and hail the ship. Soon as you are able to stir, follow me with your comrade, and you will find a boat awaiting you. That, I think, will be the wisest and safest course for all of us."

So off went Sir George to the stables and ere five minutes had passed the boys heard him clattering down the rough, narrow track which led to the beach.

By this time Guy was able to rise, and when Ralph had given him some strengthening cordials which the servant had brought, he declared that he was as well able to ride as his comrade.

"Come," he said. "Let us be off, Ralph, at once." Giving the servant the few scanty coins they possessed, the two young comrades hurried towards the stables. It was now night, but the moon was rising, and the cool air, blowing in from the sea, was most refreshing.

The boys' spirits rose with a bound. "We are in luck's way, and no mistake," said Ralph. "Sir George will be a first-rate captain. He will believe, get us commissions in the army of the Prince of Orange; and one day, as he has said, we will find two of King's knights under the Prince's banner."

"Listen!" breathed Guy, and caught at his comrade's arm. "Ralph's heart seemed to stop dead, for a troop of cavalry was approaching. Swordsplay and the officers had not met Kirke's Lancers, but they had charged upon a company of the Tangier Horse, ruffians who, during the garrison duty at Tangier, had learned every cruelty under the sun. These were the scoundrels who were now let loose upon the west country to hunt down the rebels, and Swordsplay had bade them ride to Sir George's mansion and strive to find two of Monk's officers, who, he believed, were hiding there. They had stopped for a while at a tavern, and were now three parts drunk."

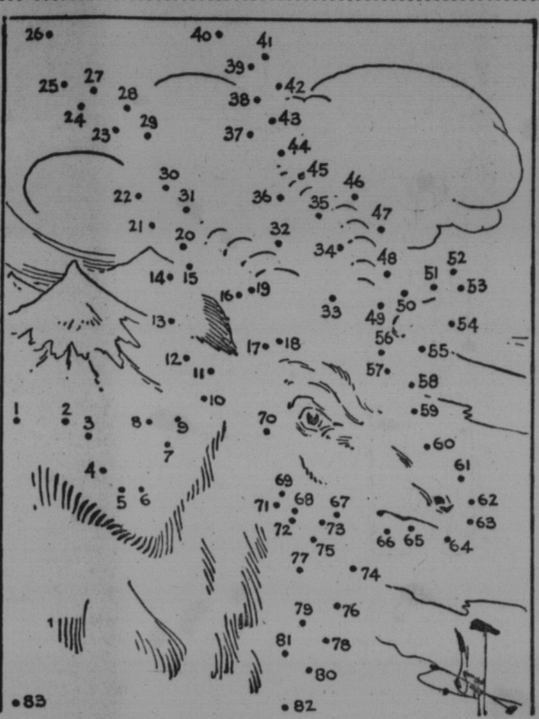

Their captain, a villain named Red-foot, was a fit leader of such a crew, and at the head of his men he came galloping into the stable-yard just as Guy and Ralph were about to fetch forth their horses.

Ralph, in the light of a little lantern crouching amid the shadows, and hoping the horsemen had not seen them, he clutched his friend's arm and dragged him to this hiding-place, pushing upon the door they found themselves in a place half-choked with hay. They stumbled against it, and were just about to give up, when a hand was laid on Ralph's shoulder, and his friend after him, just as the captain, whose quick eyes had seen the two boys, was rushing towards them with a shout of triumph and a hoarse shout to his men.

"We have trapped the rebels!" he roared. "Here's a bit of luck! Dismount, some of you, and go in and rag them out! Has anyone got flint and steel? If so, let him strike a light! There's sport before us, lads!"

No sooner was Guy safely beside him in the lot than Ralph, with a great heave, pulled up the ladder, then knelt by the square opening in the floor and peered down, a loaded pistol in his hand.

"If we must die, we'll die fighting!" he murmured, twixt set teeth. "Ay," said Guy. "They shall never take us alive!" A dozen soldiers were now tumbling about below, prodding the hay with their long swords, while their captain, standing by the square opening, then knelt by the square opening in the floor and peered down, a loaded pistol in his hand.

The is hard to trace. It won't keep still but moves if it's complete. Complete the picture by drawing a line through the dots beginning at Figure 1 and taking them numerically.

Crash! Taking his heavy horse-pistol by the muzzle, Ralph brought the butt down with all his might upon the dragon's pate; and with a dull groan he dropped into the hay.

A perfect howl of fury sounded, and a second soldier, very dark and altogether reckless, strove to reach the left horse.

This time Ralph did not use the butt for the fellow was guarding his head with his sword; but his pistol banded, and another of the Tangier Horse rolled heavily into the hay.

"Hack! Hack! All of you!" roared the captain. "Surround this place, give me flint and steel. We'll shake the rebels out, or they shall roast where they lie!"

"Listen!" he had set a light to the hay, and the granary was in flames. Guy glanced through a narrow slit in the wall of the left, and beheld a score of dragons dancing with glees as the smoke mounted higher and higher. "The hay was very dry, and was burning rapidly," asked Ralph.

"None, unless we leap down and make a dash for it," returned Guy. "The soldiers' horses are huddled together in a corner of the yard, with only one dragon to look after them. We cannot stay here longer unless we make up our minds to be suffocated."

"I'd rather die fighting," said Ralph. "So would I," muttered his comrade between his teeth. "Then follow me!" cried Ralph. "In an instant he had dropped into the burning hay and sprung towards the door. Guy close at his heels. Good Night Stories BETTY'S TRIP TO ITALY. One day as Betty sat out in the hammock trying to study her lesson, she was whisked out and sailed through the air at a terrible rate. Betty wasn't frightened.

"I was just wishing you'd come along, Gocomeback," she laughed gaily as the little travel elf took a firm grip on her hand. "For I've been struggling a long time with my lesson on Italy."

"Just where I'm taking you," laughed the elf, "so you'll be sure and remember your lesson." There, right before them, almost surrounded by the Mediterranean Sea lay Italy, noted for her beautiful clear blue sky and her wonderful vineyards.

"Italy is one of the warmest countries on the continent of Europe," said Gocomeback. "That's why you'll see most of the fields planted with rows of trees." He pointed to the rows of mulberry trees and olives, olms and poplars and pines that bordered the fields. Around these trees were grapevines which ran up the trunks and covered the branches with their sweet, juicy fruit, sending their shoots from one tree to another, making graceful festoons between the trees.

"They plant their corn and fine crops between the trees so the sun won't burn them up," whispered Gocomeback, as they wended their way down the wide road, on either side of which grew the grapevines, which met

With a Difference. "Good gracious!" exclaimed the nervous visitor, "what vulgar little fellows those boys are out in the street. I can't see them," said the hostess. "The rather near-sighted, you know. But surely you can hear how they're shouting and carrying on."

Too Much to Miss. The farmer's son was ploughing and a great black cloud of crows followed the plough, picking up the worms that wriggled in the rich, chocolate-colored furrows.

The farmer ran into the house, got his gun, fired at the crows, and popped his son's legs with shot. The young man fell down, and when his sister ran up to him, he groaned: "Didn't ye see me, father?"

"Yes," said the old man. "I saw ye well enough, but I didn't like to miss the chance at the crows."

"Ah," said the casual caller, seeing the youthful, would-be poet at work in the adjoining room, "the fire of genius is burning, eh?"

"No," said the poet's practical parent, "it is the lamp that smells so."

"Sammy," said his mean uncle, "how would you feel if I were to give you a penny?"

"No," replied Sammy, "that I should feel a little faint at first, but I'd try and get over it."

Youth—"I don't believe a word of your story."

Tramp—"One moment, then, young man, and I'll tell you a different one."

Neatly Reproved. The youth had made himself particularly conspicuous at the dinner table, and to eat the juicy grapes, for Gocomeback told her that they could eat all they wanted, but that no one was expected to carry them away.

Home is the most remarkable city in Italy," said Gocomeback, as they neared the great city filled with beautiful churches. "And St. Peter's is the finest church in the world. Yesterday is a very fine old palace in which the Pope lives."

Betty thought it the most beautiful place she had ever seen, surrounded by orange trees covered with great golden fruit waving against the bright blue sky.

Off across the water to the north-east, Betty could see beautiful towers and palaces sparkling in the sunlight, rising like a fairyland out of the very sea.

"Venice," said Gocomeback, as they sailed over the famous city built on small flat islands. Betty could see the waterways used for streets. In place of the rough path of horses' hoofs, the merry songs of the gondoliers and the soft swish of their oars reached Betty's ears, as the graceful little gondolas glided from place to place in the quiet waters between the islands.

"Yonder is Naples and on beyond that is the famous volcano of Vesuvius," said Gocomeback, pointing to the black clouds of vapor which he told Betty were always rising from its mouth. "Some day we'll visit all these places, but now—"

Suddenly Betty found herself alone in her hammock with her study book under her head.

Cleverly Trained. Japanese and Korean showmen, in addition to their skill as jugglers and acrobats, display a truly marvellous skill in teaching animals tricks. They not only exhibit educated bears, apes, monkeys, and goats, but also trained birds, and, what is the most astonishing of all, creek fish.

One of the most curious examples of patient training was an exhibit by an old Korean boatman, of a dozen drilled tortoises.

Directed by his songs and a small metal drum, they marched in lines, executed various evolutions, and concluded by climbing upon a low table, the larger ones forming of their own accord a bridge for the smaller, to which the feet would otherwise have been impossible.

When they had all mounted they disposed themselves in three or four piles, as though they were so many plates. Young Passimist. "Fishes"—When does the winter begin? Observing Boy—It generally begins about spring.

PUZZLES.

Word Square. My first is a useful piece of furniture. My second can never be put under. My third is thought to be in climbing the Alps. My fourth is often included with science.

I destroy your hopes; change my head and you are in a fix; change it again and birds and men use me; behind me and I am neither black nor heavy; change my head and I am never wrong; change my head once more and I see you and you see me; finally make an end of me by curtailing me and instead you will find that I am often heard. What are the seven words?

A box contained fifty ears of corn. A mouse gnawed a hole in it and every day went in and brought out three ears. How long would it take him to empty the box?
