New York Expert Doctor Thinks It Poisoned

the President. New York, Sept. 18 .- Physicians in this city are still much interested in the report of the postmortem examination made by the doctors wno attended President McKinley: Several experts on gunshot wounds are quoted in the Times. Dr. Robert H. M. Daw-barn thinks Czolgosz shot the president with a dirty revolver, and that the bullets fired from such close quarters carried a considerable quantity of filth into the wound, poisoning the missile's entire track. He thinks ordinary microbes were introduced into the wound and that practically a culture cabinet for such microbes was supplied by the injured tissues. The result, he thinks was the poisoning of the president's flesh through ptomaines and toxines. He doubts that the assassin intentionally poisoned the bullets as has been suggested in some quarters.

Guelph, Ont., Sept. 17.—This is pre-paration day at the Guelph Central Exhibition. Exhibits have been arriving all day, and many hands are at work placing them in position. All the departments, with one exception, are in advance of previous years. That exception is the fruit. Apples are a general failure this season, and there is a falling off in other kinds. Though small in quantity, the quality of the fruit exhibit is good. The formal opening took place at 6 o'clock this evening, and at 8 o'clock a torchlight procession was formed from the city

TORTOISE 400 YEARS OLD. New York, Sept. 18 .- The folks at the Zoological Park in The Bronx find that in estimating the age of their largest giant tortoise received from the Galapagos Islands, they have been entirely too conservative. Its age had been estimated, with some hesitation, at 200 years. It seems, however, that Walter Rothschild, of London, the world's leading expert on tortoises, is of opinion that a specimen apparently younger than the largest one in the Zoological Park is at least 400 years old, so that the age of this one is at Terrific Sea Running-Steamer Gone Down -Two Barges Abandoned.

Houghton, Mich., Sept. 17 .- Shipping disasters are following one another in rapid succession at Eagle River reef. An unknown two-stack steamer is believed to have foundered there with all hands yesterday. This morning a whaleback barge was discovered resting on the reef. The life-saving crew started from the canal at 9 o'clock to the rescue. There was a terrific sea running, and up to noon it was not known whether the lifeboat had reached the stranded craft. Owen Sound, Ont., Sept. 17.—Word comes from Tobermoray this evening that the barge Jupiter and probably part of her crew have been lost on Lake Huron during Sunday's fierce gale. The crew abandoned the barge, and her captain, together with her crew and the captain's wife, reached Tobermoray Monday in a small boat. The remainder of the crew took to a raft and expected to make land or be picked up by a passing vessel, but nothing has been seen of either boat or crew on the Bruce peninsula.

THE MURDERER BEFORE THE BAR

Still Preserves Sullen Silence-Refuses to Plead-To Be Tried on Monday.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 17. - Leon T. Zolgosz, the assassin of President McKinley, was arraigned before Judge Edward K. Emery in the county court at 3 o'clock this afternoon on the indictment for murder in the first degree in fatally shooting President McKinley in the Temple of Music at the Pan-American exposition on Sept. 6. Again the stubborn prisoner refused to plead or to even utter a word or sound, and the Hon. Loran L. Lewis, ex-supreme court justice, entered a plea of not guilty. The accused will be tried in the supreme court next Monday morning.

The most notable incident of the day was the hissing of the prisoner by the crowds who serged around him as he was being escorted down the stairs. As a result of the urging of President Adelbert Moot, of the Eric County Bar Association, Judge Lewis, one of the attorneys assigned as counsel by Judge Emery yesterday, called at the Erie county jail at 2 o'clock this afternoon to see the prisoner. Czolgosz rewhether or not he wanted any counsel. Judge Lewis said that nevertheless he would appear for the prisoner upon arraignment. When the prisoner refused to plead, the district attorney asked him if he understood what had been read, and receiving no reply, told him that he had been indicted for murder in the first degree, and that he could answer "yes"

For an instance Czolgosz glanced at Mr. Penny, and it was thought that he intended to speak, but he did not. Judge Lewis then addressed the court saying that he had been unable to asmurderer is brought up for trial, says certain of any wish on the defendant's part as to the employment of counsel Lynch law, as applied to this wretch, was never so nearly popular in England, all classes agreeing that short shrift is the only fitting justice.

Judge Lewis said that he might also like an order of the court for alienists to examine the prisoner as the district attorney had informed him that eminent alienists had examined the prisoner on behalf of the people. This gave rise to the belief that a special plea of insanity may be entered by the counsel for the defense.

"Remove the prisoner," said Judge Emery, and Czolgosz was taken back to the jail by the underground route.

the policy outlined by President Mc-Kinley in his Buffalo speech. The president desired to learn if there were any matters of moment requiring his attention before his departure for Canton. He was assured that there was nothing of pressing importance.

The president then addressed his advisers, collectively, as he had previously done individually, resquesting them all to retain their respective positions in his cabinet. Mr. Roosevelt expressed the hope and expectation that every member would serve through-out his term; for, he said, he tendered appointments as if he had just been elected to the presidency and was forming an original cabinet. The president said, however, there was one difference between the present tender and that of an original offr. Naturally, under the present circumstances, they yere not at liberty to decline. Upon being asked if resignations should be made in the usual manner, the president answered that his action at this meeting had precluded the necessity of presenting resignations. The discussion turned upon the policy of the administration and Mr. Roosevelt announced that he regarded the speech of the late president at the Buffalo Pan-American Exposition, the day previous to the tragic shooting, as outlining the policies to be followed by the administration.

It cannot be learned at this time wheher or not all the members will be willing to serve the full term. PLACE FOR DR. RIXEY.

In the island of Luzon, which is much the larger of the entire group, it is entirely safe to travel anywhere without an armed escort. The number of troops on the island now is about 45.000. Nation went on a smashing expedition in Ottawa yesterday and did a little damage in two saloons, interviewed the chief of police and the mayor, lectured in Orme's Hall and caused quite a furore in the city. The saloon smash- to the Russell. er from Kansas came rather unexpectedly, although some weeks ago it was announced that she would visit the capital. When it was announced that she was coming to the city few people believed it, but yesterday afternoon Mrs. Nation, smiling, arrived in the city, and was welcomed by the reporters and her local managers. She put up at the Russell, and about 5 o'clock started down Sparks street. Mrs. Nation wore a long linen cloak over a black dress, and also wore a poke bonnet. She carried a brown leather bag of large size, hanging by a strap from her shoulder, and carried a hatchet. Escorted by several newspaper men and followed by scores of people, Mrs. Nation went down to the Globe Hotel, at the corner of Bank and Sparks streets, and walked into the bar. . A big crowd followed her and the bar was filled in an instant. "You should be in a better busi-ness," she said to the silent bartender, kept looking at the hatchet. "Don't you know you are a home-masher?" asked Mrs. Nation. "I don't want to hurt you, but I am going to show you that I don't approve of your business. I am going to smash that looking glass," said Mrs. Nation, pointing at a large mirror behind the bar. 'Don't you do it," said the barkeep

'Yes, I will," said Mrs. Nation. "You'll go to tail if you do."
"No, I won't." So there and then she threw the hatchet, and the glass scattered in a hundred pieces. The crowd cheered, and when the noise subsided Mrs. Nation said: "Give me back my hatchet." The barkeeper refused, but Mrs. Nation said she would make him, and to get rid of the lady the drink-mixer handed over the hatchet. "A good-looking man like you should be in a better business" said the old 'Aren't you ashamed of yourself? Just think how many homes tel, on Sussex street, and lectured the bartenter about selling liquor, and then smashed a number of bottles with her hatchet. Two policemen put her out of the hotel and took her up town At night Mrs. Nation gave a lecture and denounced the liquor traffic and told about her troubles in Kansas. Afterwards she walked to the hotel, followed by a cheering mob, and Mrs. Nation only escaped to her room with difficulty. The crowd wanted an openair speech. When Mrs. Nation was on the street in the afternoon she accosted many people who were smoking and told them that they might be better employed. A reporter was introduced to Mrs. Nation, and a clergyman, and he told the lady that the chief of police was a temperance man and a member of the minister's congregation.

When Mrs. Nation met the smooth chief she praised him for his sobriety, and afterwards went to the police station and addressed the policemen, telling them to always do their duty. Mrs. Nation says people are divided into two classes—home defenders and home offenders. She may stay in Ottawa another day, and will probably go to Toronto to lecture in Massey Hall. WHISKARD'S THE MESSAGE OF THE DUKE!

To the Loyal and Loving People of Canada---Their Rayal Highnesses Warmly Greeted in Quebec---Exchange of Gracious Sentiments.

Quebec, Sept. 17.-The scene at the past, have secured and vindicated for landing of the Duke and Duchess of themselves. The blood of your gal-Cornwall and York was brilliant in the lant sons has not been shed in vain, extreme. Tickets of admission to the wharf were most jealously guarded, but the terraces and the glacis gave a splendid vantage point to the general public. As thy saw it, there were 209 feet below two regular lines of bluejackets on one side and red and bluecoated marines on the other, with a strip of red carpet down the middle and groups of brightly uniformed military and naval officers. Major-General O'Grady-Haly and staff were the first to arrive, and soon the ministers began to arrive. They were Hon. Senator Scott, Paterson, Borden, Mills, Sutherland, Tarte, Fisher, Sir Louis Davies, Dobell, Martin, Bernier, Blair and

Sir Wilfrid Laurier arrived with Lord Minto, who was attended by Capt.Graham, A. D. C., and Capt. Bell, A. D. C.
The first of the royal party to arrive were the ladies-in-waiting and aides. As their royal highnesses left the ship, and in a steam launch crossed the intervening strip of water, once more a salute of 21 guns boomed out from the ships and the citadel. As they reached the wharf, the troops came to the royal salute, and everyone stood at attention as the National Anthem

The procession and review have already been described in these columns.

3,000 SCHOOL CHILDREN SANG. At the parliament buildings a most striking scene was presented. The pile has a fineness of its own, and the view from the brow of its hill, over the St. Charles Valley to Montmorency, on the one side, to the citadel, on the other, and overlooking the old city walls, in front, is one of the most beautiful in the whole of this beautiful place. Yesterday it was more interesting than ever. In front was erected a semi-cir-cular stand, from which 3,000 school children sang the National Anthem.

The 8th Royal Rifles of Quebec formed the guard of honor at the door of the parliament buildings, and received the royal couple with a salute and "God

INSIDE THE CHAMBER. Inside the chamber of the legislative ecclesiastical, political and commercial world, and the whole floor of the house vas taxed to its utmost capacity The galleries, too, were filled, there was not a vacant seat to be had.

MADE WAY FOR ROYALTY. The governor-general and Sir Wilfrid Laurier had preceded the royal party from the wharf, escorted by the Duke of York's Hussars, and, after meeting them at the parliament buildings, his excellency went on to receive them at the citadel.

The royal procession having entered the council chamber, their royal highnesses ascended the steps of the dais, slightly bowed to the gathering, and took up their station. Hon. S. N. Parent, in the black robes, and carrying quaint three-cornered hat of the mayor of the city, then stood forward and read the civic address in French and English. As he finished, Miss Jette, daughter of the lieutenant-governer, stepped forward and presented beautiful bouquet of flowers to her royal highness.

DUKE'S REPLY. His royal highness the duke then read his reply. He spoke in a clear, pleasant voice, which could be heard all over the house. His manner was easy and natural, and he gave a most pleasant impression of sincerity and straightforwardness.

PRESENTED TO DUKE. With his royal highness' reply, the formal part of the proceedings came to a close. Sir Wilfrid Laurier presented the four bishops, Hon. R. Tur-ner, Mayor Guay of Chicoutimi, Lady Laurier, Miss Jette, and a few others to the duke.

Addresses were also accepted from the Society for Prevention of Cruelty

UNITY OF THE EMPIRE.

The Duke of York read the following city of Quebec:

speech in reply to the address of the "Gentlemen,-The Duchess and I desire to express to you our heartfelt thanks for the loyal and kindly sentiments contained in your address. At beloved and forgotten past, all these the same time, we wish to acknowledge, with gratitude, the hearty welcome accorded to us by the vast know with what marvelous effect she crowds which today throng your beautifully-decorated streets. I shall hasten to communicate to my dear father, the King, your assurance of attachment to his throne and person, and your sympathetic allusions to the grievous and irreparable losses which his majesty and our family have recently sustained. The affectionate tribute to the memory of our late beloved Queen and to that of the lamented Empress Frederic of Germany have deeply touched me. It is a great pleasure to find myself here again for a third time, and that, on this occasion, the duchess is with me and that we together will enjoy the memorable associations and natural beauties of this ancient city and its picturesque surroundings. And it is my proud mission here in the ancient historical capital of Canada, hallowed, as you say, by the struggles of nations, and enriched by the blood of heroes such as Wolfe and Montcalm, to come among you as a token of that feeling of admiration and pride with which the King and the whole empire have seen the sons of the Dominion rallying round the flag of their common allegiance. They fought to secure for their fellow-subjects the same freedom and liberty which they in the | toral care. That faith inspires us, and for posterity will never forget that of the Canadians was recorded "their magnificent tenacity in attacking," and that to their credit was immediately due that white flag which, on the anniversary of Majuba Day, fluttered over the Boer lines of Paardeberg. May we not take heart in the belief that the blood shed on that battlefield in South Africa may, like that shed by your fathers in 1775 and 1812, weave fresh strands in the cord of brotherhood that binds together our glorious empire. I rejoice to hear that the depression from which your city and port has so long suffered has now passed, away, and I earnestly trust that future prosperity may crown the enterprise and industry of its citizens. I take this, the first opportunity, to express in common with the whole civilized world, my horror at the detestable crime which has plunged into mourning the great friendly nation on your border, and has robbed the United States of the precious life of their first magistrate, in the midst of the fulfillment of the high and honorable duties of his proud position. duchess and I share with you to the fullest extent the feelings of symwhich you have manifested towards a people with whom we are connected by ties of kinship and national esteem, and our hearts go out to the widow and bereaved family of the late distinguished and beloved

At 4 o'clock a visit was paid to Laval University, and their royal highnesses drove there under the escort of the Queen's Own Canadian Hussars. Archbishop Begin and the rector of the university advanced in turn and read the addresses of the clergy and of Laval respectively in French and English. The diploma of a doctor of Laval University was then handed by the rector to the duke, who was graciously pleased to accept it, and a splendid bouquet of York roses was presented to her royal highness by one of the pupils of the seminary. Your Royal Highness, you bring us in your person with the memory of a gracious sovereign we mourn, the living image of the illustrious prince who has just received her immense heritage. It is not therefore astonishing that our people joyfully greet you and prepare for you a triumphal place on the banks of our mighty river. Force of arms had concould sever. Force of arms had conquered the land, the body was subdued, to master the soul, to make mind and heart obey respectfully and faithfully, to cause a vigorous plant of unswerving loyalty to a new dominion to spring forth from the memories of a needed nothing less than the gentle and powerful authority of the church, and all who have read our history devoted herself to the work of pacification, of order and loyal submission. It would be difficult at the present time to contest the loyalty French-Canadian people. Recent events have offered our fellow-countrymen on opportunity of proving it. But dangers that have been faced, the blood that has been shed and the lives that have been sacrificed are proofs more eloquent than words and their sincerity cannot be questioned. The Catholic Church rightfully claims the honor of having brought forth and of fostering such sentiments of loyalty. In the eyes of her children religion and country are inseparable, and they demand that both be inviolate and respected. The tenets and practices of the faith constitute the very foundation of their patriotism, and when they are on the battlefield for their own, it may be taken for granted that they would not hesitate to shed their blood for the integrity of their faith. These two sentiments harmonize and complete one another. Both inspire to

To our homages and wishes we add the prayer that God may bless your royal highness; may grant you a long and happy life, and realizing our hope, may in your per-son give one day to the throne of England a sovereign such as the people need for its happiness and such as a church desires for her children. THE DUKE'S REPLY.

We have listened with much gratification to the words of welcome with which you have greeted us today on behalf of the bishops and clergy of your diocese and of the Laval Univer-The kind and sympathetic tone in which your addresses refer to our late deeply-loved Queen has touched my heart, and I rejoice to think that her memory will be so closely and gratefully associated with the history of the distinguished institution. I am glad to acknowledge the noble part which the Catholic Church has played throughout its history.

The hallowed memories of the martyred missionaries are a priceless heritage, and, in the great and benificent work of education, and in implanting and fostering a spirit of patriotism and loyalty, it has rendered signal service to Canada and the empire.

Abundant proof of the success of your efforts has been afforded by the readiness with which the French-Canadians have sprung to arms and shed their blood, not only in the long gone by, but also in the present day, in behalf of their King and his empire. If the crown has faithfully and honorably fulfilled its engagements protect and respect your faith, the Catholic Church has amply fulfilled its obligation, not only to teach reverence for law and order, but to instil a sentiment of loyalty and devotion into the hearts of those to whom it ministers.

Of your work in the cause of education, the beautiful building and splendid equipment of the university, and the many eminent men who have been trained within its walls are sufficient testimony and proof that the spirit of self-sacrifice which inspired the noble bishop whose name it bears, survives in those who today guide its destinies. I am deeply sensible of the honor which I have now received at your hands, and I shall value it all the more that it is one which I shall share with my father. You may rest assured that I shall ever watch with the keenest interest and sympathy the work of Laval University.

I shall have great pleasure in conveying to my dear father your assurances of loyalty and devotion, and the kindly terms in which you refer to his visit and his association with your university for over 20 years. IN THE EVENING.

William J. Bryan's Tribute to William McKinley.

wertiser, London, Ont.

The civilized world has had during the past few months splendid examples to go to show that death is the great eraser of friction among mankind. It seems as though all malice and hatred are buried in the grave with the departed, and only the good qualities live. The saying, "The evil that men do lives after them: the good is oft interred with their bones"-though emanating from no less an authority than Shakespeare, is true in most cases if reversed. Experience has proven that good is more lasting than evil. Only a few months ago the world, bowed in sorrow at the grave of Queen Victoria, the sovereign of an aggressive empire, which, from its very position among the world powers, must to a certain extent excite envy. Today, the erstwhile friend and foe offer tribute to the memory of the late president, William McKinley. We give below the generous words of William Jennings Bryan, the late Pres- mirrors and cutlery, is in its own deident's political opponent in the two gree simply anarchy, and nothing else. last presidential campaigns. Mr. Bryan says:

"The terrible deed at Buffalo rudely breaking the ties of family and friend- run by some lecture agent, or whether ship, and horrifying every patriotic she is simply a half-demented woman. citizen, crowns a most extraordinary life with a halo that cannot but exalt its victim's place in history, while his she has friends they should endeavor bravery during the trying ordeal, his forgiving spirit and his fortitude in be again and again compelled to star the final hours, give glimpses of his inner life which nothing less tragic could have revealed. No one can of a century, but not by such methods estimate the far-reaching effect of such as those pursued by Mrs. Nation. an act as that which now casts a gloom over our land. It shames America in the eyes of the world. It impairs her moral prestige and gives enemies of free government a chance to mock at her, and it excites an indignation which, while righteous in itself, may lead to acts which will partake of the spirit of lawlessness. As the President's death overwhelms all in a common sorrow, so it imposes a common responsibility, namely, so to avenge the wrong done to the President, his family and the country as make the executive life secure without the abridgment of freedom of speech or freedom of the press."

In Old Quebec.

In and about Quebec city live a vast number of Canadian citizens, whose racial derivation is from France; yet nothing could exceed the spontaneity and sincerity of the reception tendered to the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, the future King and Queen per cent was fatal. of the British Empire. Canada is a strength as well as picturesqueness vaccinated? from its fusion of nationalities. In The authorities give reassuring rewhich shines the sun.

The Crime of Criticism.

There seems to be considerable sensitiveness abroad as to the state of ster, of Toronto, in a recent number article with the title, it pears that we are in a very bad way. The author evidently feels strongly, since he is under the painful necessity of using the word "crime" ten times in a short contribution. This have in our temerity committed the unpardonable "crime." The atmosphere of Toronto must be very oppressive, for we are told, on this high authority, "all about us are collegebred people who have lost their souls. starved them on the stones of criticism, and they do not know their loss. They are not able to read a poem with a great passion, they can only analyze it; and these people and people like them are set to teach another generation the same sure method of soul murder. This is the crime of literary criticism."

According to this critic, "modern literary criticism" has a place; he will not condemn it altogether, although it does murder souls and commit crimes. We are attempting in our schools, colleges, and by our journals and books, to stimulate interest in and quicken appreciation for literature, all in vain. "What is really happening to them, for the most part, is the gradual. steady and inevitable killing of all power, alike of appreciation and of creation, either in literature or any the patients were unvaccinated, or other of the great arts. This is the neglected. crime of literary criticism."

This is really very sad. There seems to be nothing left but to blow the the spread of this loathsome disease is whole educational machinery to pieces to isolated those who are afflicted by it. if this is what it comes to after all and keep them in quarantine until all our earnest striving. But stay. If we chances of spreading the disease are are to use language loosely, there are over; while as to personal prevention, other crimes as well as cold analysis, the only method is vaccination, and one is the want of discrimination which mistakes violent language for strong speech. A strong statement cannot be made by piling up a heap of adjectives and making the most sweeping assertions possible. As we have said before, criticism is a fine art, and this slashing style leaves much to be desired from the standpoint of a wholesome literature. Let our young men learn that "the passion that throbs and burns" must grow out of honest, thoughtful investigation of the subject in hand, or the shallow "passion" will resolve itself into noise; and instead of "criticism," one may get rant which is quite as harren and more hurtful

Mrs. Carrie Nation Now at Ottawa.

The telegraphic dispatches state that Mrs. Carrie A. Nation, whose smashing of saloon windows and decanters in Kansas gave her a considerable notoriety, has arrived in Ottawa, ostensibly to lecture on the evils of the traffic in intoxicating liquors. Quite recently she was in New York, where in several instances she went into places where liquor was sold, and, with her hatchet, which she always carries with her. smashed a number of windows, mirrors, decanters, etc. She then proceeded to her boarding-house, followed by a jeering mob: and in the evening, advertised by the notoriety of her lawless proceedings, delivered what she has been pleased to term a lecture. Yesterday she arrived in Ottawa, carrying out almost identically the same programme of smashing and subsequent lecturing; and she intimates that it is her intention to visit Toronto and other Ontario cities, there also to smash and "lec ture.

Intelligent persons do not need to be told that Mrs. Nation's theory and practice of taking the moral law into her own hands, and smashing windows. We observe that the newspapers are speculating as to whether Mrs. Nation is a mere notoriety hunter and fakir, We incline to the latter opinion. If in to do so. The best friends of the temperance cause are deeply humiliated by her insensate proceedings, which small degree to a cause which has made

The health authorities at Washington report that since the beginning of the year no fewer than 9,149 cases have been reported, against 3,780 for the same period in 1900. In Cayuhoga county, Ohio, where the city of Cleveland is situated, there were 1.310 cases and 18 deaths reported between Jan. 1 and Aug. 24 of this year. Many of the reports from Ohio are from Jan. to June 1, and their total exceeds 3,400 cases, as against 1,361 last year. In Minnesota, where the disease has lingered for more than two years, the cases reported between June 7 and Aug. 12 of the current year numbered 1,272, but the attacks were very mild the number of deaths occurring being only eleven. Pennsylvania and Wisconsin have also had a great deal of smallpox, and in New York city, between June 23 and August 24 there were 466 cases and 129 deaths. This is a very high mortality. If it had been caused by cholera, what a scare there 'would have been. Either the cases were very much more severe than in other parts of the country, or

Manitoba's Object Lesson.

The great future of our western territories is exemplified by the yield of this year's harvest. Manitoba has but 35,000 farmers, yet their farms will yield this year from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 cash for the labor bestowed on them. Yet but 3.500.000 of 40.000,000 acres in Manitoba are under cultivation. There is a great opportunity here for farmers and their sons from other parts of the world who desire to grow up with this prosperous and progressive country. Instead of 35,000 farmers there could very easily be 100,000 or 150,000 farmers in Manitoba, and that province is but a comparatively small section of the unoccupied farm land of the Dominion. We may not find it all settled with great speed, but if we continue to progress as we have undoubtedly been doing in the last four or five years, we shall be making satisfactory advancement. It is necessary to pay some regard to the quality of the settlers, and to see that they are of a description to become good Canadians, imbued with the ideas of right, justice and liberty. If we do not grow as rapidly, in point of population as some countries have done, which have been careless of the antecedents of their newcomers, it will injure no one, and be of benefit to the country as a whole. This land of promise will not be overlooked. We need not

United States Policy.

The Advertiser a day or two ago mentioned the fact that President Roosevelt had asked the members of Mr. McKinley's Cabinet to continue their services for at least a short period. The President has now gone beyond this first request, and asked the members of the late President's Cabinet to retain their official positions respectively throughout the term of the new Chief Magistrate.

President Roosevelt also once more reiterates his pledge to continue absolutely the policy of his predecessor. That policy is so well outlined in President McKinley's last speech, delivered at Buffalo on the 5th of September, that our readers will be glad to have us reproduce a few of the most significant paragraphs. President McKinley said:

"The period of exclusiveness is past. The expansion of our trade and commerce is the pressing problem. Commercial wars are unprofitable. A policy roots of the matter. of goodwill and friendly trade relations will prevent reprisals. Reciprocity treaties are in harmony with the spirit of the times; measures of retaliation are not. If, perchance, some of our tariffs are no longer needed for revenue or to encourage and protect our industries at home, why should they terest is in concord, not conflict, and that our real eminence rests in the victories of peace, not those of war. We hope that all who are represented here may be moved to a higher and nobler effort for their own and the world's good, and that out of this city may come, not only greater commerce and trade for us all, but, more essential than these, relations of mutual respect, confidence and friendship which will deepen and endure.

"Our earnest prayer is that God will graciously vouchsafe prosperity, happiness, and peace to all our neighbors, and like blessings to all the peoples and powers of earth."

What Is Patriotism? A contemporary speaks of cultivating patriotism. The term "patriotism" at times becomes degenerated into a sort of flag worship, or a spirit of superiority over other nationalities. But it is something deeper than this, and something entirely different. Carlyle, in referring to religious worship, enunciated the belief that it extended deeper than mere mouth confession. "To labor is to pray," and perhaps labor is the most genuine prayer, if carried on in the proper spirit. Free labor implies faith, which is the essence of prayer. Just so, patriotism extends more deeply than, and is quite different from the fanfare that enlivens celebrations on national holidays. In the schools, those institutions or workshops for the manufacture of citizens, patriotism should have a place, but perhaps not as a special subject. True love of country cannot be taught any more than love of a parent for the child, or vice versa. It is spontaneous, but can be fostered or blighted according to favorable or chilling circumstances. In a sentence, patriotism consists in doing one's work well, and the most effective way of "teaching patriotism" is to insist that all good, honest work is patriotic. Excellence in the execution of work would invest the everyday duties of life with dignity and interest. Honest workmanship in manufacturing and well-cultivated and well-kept farms, adding as they do to the wealth and credit of our Dominion, are patriotic. Let patriotism be, not a garb for certain holiday occasions, but a daily affair; let it be prompted by the desire to attain superior excellence; then will come a deepening in our national life that extends beyond the blare of trumpets and the flaunting of flags.

The Dominion Minister of Marine and Fisheries has received a letter from Staff-Captain Tooker of H. M. surveying vessel Gulnare, who writes from Notre Dame Bay, Newfoundland, referring to the fog signal:

"It is well known that, under certain atmospheric conditions, the area within the extreme limits of these horns is broken up into zones or belts, over which no sound is heard, though further off the signals is distinctly audible. This has been noted again and again on board this vessel during the several times she has been em-ployed in the vicinity of Cape Race." This is no new experience to steamship captains, and emphasizes the importance of cautious seamanship in sailing in these waters. Atlantic liner ship captains say that in sailing the Atlantic in a fog they often can hear distinctly the fog horn of a vessel in their vicinity yet so uncertain is the atmosphere that they are unable to tell whether the vessel is near or far. So much depends on the currents of air at work, the thickness of the fog and other disturbing agencies.

In the election now in progress in Cape Breton, N. S., the Sydney Conservative paper bemoans the fact that the supporters of the Government there are composed of hard-shell Grits and renegade Tories. That is the combination which has turned the once stronghold of the Tuppers into a Liberal constituency. There must always be "renegades," in other words, converts, to accomplish these changes.

Fear not each sudden sound and shock, 'Tis of the wave, and not the rock; 'Tis but the flapping of the sail. And not a rent made by the gale! Canada's Foundation.

[By Knoxonian, in The Westminster.] The Hon. David Mills. K.C., is of the opinion that we Canadians are laying the foundation of a young nation that will have all the best qualities of the British and American nations without the faults of either. Mr. Mills ought to be a good judge of such matters. He is, or was, a professor of constitutional law, and is well versed in the history of nations. When he and the late Sir John Thompson discussed any great question in parliament there was little more to be said on it that was worth saying. They went to the

The Slanderer.

[Chatham Banner-News.]

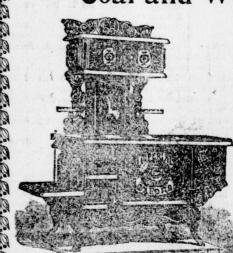

Keep your tongue off your neighbor's reputation as scrupulously as you would your hands out of his pocket. There are plenty of people who would be in penitentiary if reputation would be in penitentiary if reputation stealing were a penal offence. In the day of judgment the light-tongue scoundrel will be rounded up with the light-fingered thief at a tribunal where man cannot make his nice distinctions. It is not half so cowardly to creep up behind a man with a stiletto and do him to death as it is to put your tongue in your cheek and look knowing when his character is discussed. The dastard who deliberately injures a man's reputation is not worthy of the ordinary punishment of imprisonment. He should be set in the stocks and his tongue tied to his chin until everybody knows him for a moral assassin. "He that uttereth a slander is a fool." There are a great many people who do not see any harm in repeating what they hear about others, forgetting that every slander, like a snowball, gathers as it rolls. The most of the harm is done by the fools who push along an evil story and who never give a thought to the evil they are Many a good man has gone down under the weight of mere talk accumulated by the efforts of irresponsible fools who chatter every story that reaches their foolish ears. Give no place to slander and give no tongue to idle talk about your neighbor. Regard his name as sacredly as you would his till. Frown down the slander and you will soon cease to hear discussions of the shortcomings of your neighbors. "He that uttereth a slander is a fool." An evil tongue will unsheath the daggers of gossip against your own moral life. Your stiletto will get back to you.

This very caustic editorial is none the less worthy of consideration because of it. It is from the Furniture and Upholstery Journal, and it will be read by some people, while their ears are burning with consciousness that the writer might have had them in his mind's eye.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—There was a fair ordinary market at the cattle yards today. Business was not rushing, but the transactions were many, and prices were on the whole steady. Export cattle were not particularly in demand, owing to shipping space not being available for the next few days. Good butcher cattle were wanted, but were hard to find, the right kind apparently being very scarce. Lambs are steady, and prospects good for this week, but the export sheep trade is dull and is likely to be so for the next week or ten days, or until more vessel accommodation is in sight. Good veal calves are wanted. Hogs are steady, at $7.25 for best, and will likely remain at that figure this week. The total run was 70 loads, with 1,220 head of cattle, 1,417 sheep. 500 hogs and 20 calves. Conn Woods bought 16 fair butcher cattle, 850 to 1,600 lbs, at $3.25 to $4. Wesley Dunn bought 300 lambs at $4.25, 90 sheep at $3.40, 20 calves at $7 each. W. Levack bought 180 head of mixed butcher cattle and light exporters; they cost from $3.50 to $4.25 for medium, and $4.40 to $4.60 for picked lots; light export, $4.50 to $4.85. Corbett & Henderson bought 10 bulls, 1,500 to 1,700 lbs, at $3.75 to $4.25. Keswick Brethren. Interest in Series of Meetings Is Constantly Growing-Monday's Services.

The interest in the Keswick meetngs has grown each time that the reverend gentlemen from the old land have appeared before gatherings. They give their messages so simply and earnestly that those who hear them once invariably desire to hear them second time, and then, as a rule, bring a friend or two. At last night's meeting at the Auditorium it was filled completely, the crowd overflowing afternoon meeting, when a Bible reading was given by Rev. Mr. Moffatt His strong exposition was illustrated by the question from the Westminster catechism, "How did Christ execute the office of a king?" The right of Christ to the complete mastery in the Christian life was urged, and the joy of a life so surrendered was spoken of. On Monday afternoon Rev. John Brash spoke to quite a large gathering. His subject was from the message to the church at Ephesus-"Remember, therefore, from what thou art fallen and return to do the first It was an earnest appeal to Christians who have become worldly or careless to return to the warmth and joy of their first love. Mr. Brash is editor of "The King's Highway," one of the papers puplished in connection with the Wesleyan Methodist Church in England, and is the author of several tracts and booklets that have had a very wide distribution. He has been closely associated with Rev. Mark Guy Pearse and Rev. Price Hughes in their work in England.

The evening address was delivered by Rev. Mr. Moffatt, who chose as his text the 17th verse of the 13th chapter of the second book of Kings-'The arrow of the Lord's deliverance.' The reverend gentleman referred the opening of the window to the eastward, and questioned why the window was not opened to the north, or to the seuth, or to the west. Away out to the east, however, laid the lands that had been stolen from God's annointed king, the lands that had been stolen from God's people. They were in possession of the usurper. The king was filled with dismay, but understood that in the command to take the bow and shoot, there must have been some message of hope. The king was ready to obey, opened the window to the east and shot out the arrow. It sped on its flight and the very moment it went out it marked the hour of deliverance from Assyria. The arrow was a challenge of war, a claim made in the name of God, a claim that that territory was to be brought back again under his subjection. In the same way our intellect and heart, which belong to God, are usurped by many enemies. Looking into the latter many things might be found engrossing our affections. But God demands, seeks and desires a full and complete surrender. He appealed to his hearers to open the window of the east and shoot out the arrow upon the usurped lands and claim the territory in the name of the Lord. In connection with the deliverance that the king received the reverend gentleman went on to show that always lying behind the first blessing that comes to man is another test of faith. The young king had shot the arrow of the prophet and the latter had told him that the usurped ands should be brought back again

Then, however, God wished to see how far the king would go his faith. "One of the things," Moffatt said, "towards the deepening of the spiritual life is that God is seeking to get a people who will go with him all the way. There are a people who go a certain way, and ther comes the test. There they stand; and then comes limitations and de-The reverend gentleman pointed out that Elisha was the representative of God, and concluded his re-marks by a very deep appeal to his

Rev. F. S. Webster, of Birmingham then addressed the meeting. Mr. Webster will be remembered by many in London, as he was one of the former delegation which visited this city four years ago. At that time he was rector of St. Thomas Church, Birm-

Pretoria, Sept. 17.-Johannesburg was awakened yesterday by the tooting of many whistles and the banging of the guns of the forts and the ringing of the surprise alarm. It was not known whether the alarm was a genuine one or merely sent out to test the working or the alarm system. In consequence there were many wild rumors in the town. The mine guards rushed to their positions promptly, ready to receive any Boers that might make an attack. BOERS' FINAL PLAN.

Pretoria, Sept. 17.—Some of the officials of the late Boer Government who Col. Scobell, who has been operating are here are hopeful that something will result from General Kitchener's proclamation in regard to the burghers who did not surrender by Sept. 15. The correspondent of the Mail and Empire learns from another source that the final plan of the Boers is to dropped, and then abandon him. Van Reenen, however, subsequently yielded to the request of Malherbe, and released him. The commando then went to Karee Kloof, where they caught two native scouts from Prieska, whom it is stated they intended to shoot. Mr. Wright, a farmer, asked Van Reenen to spare their lives, and merely to give them a beating. Van Reenen, however, made no reply, and departed, taking the scouts with him.

COMPULSORY ARBITRATION

Labor Congress of Canada in Session at Brantford.

President Ralph Smith Favors Compulsory Arbitration—Steel Strikers Returning to Work.

Brantford, Sept. 17.-The seventeenth annual meeting of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada opened here this morning at 10:30 o'clock in Union Hall, President Ralph Smith in the chair. There was a good attendance of delegates. Mayor Wood, on behalf of the citizens, welcomed the visitors. Addresses were made by some of the visiting delegates, when the usual committee work was taken

The address of the president, delivered this afternoon, seemed to meet with the approval of the congress. In speaking of the processes of reform, he said that they had no right to expect that their objects should be brought about by revolutionary measures, but they should not play into the hands of their opponents by manifesting a disposition of mistrust in those elected leaders of the movement all over the country. Referring to the alleged importation of aliens by the C. P. R. to take the place of striking trackmen, the address said that it had been considered too costly a proposal to put the law in motion against the company. The president said that when he was convinced that the best and cheapest way to settle the matter was to have the department of labor assume the deportation of aliens rather than recovery of fines, without expense to the unions, but at the expense of persons violating the act. What organized labor wanted was an anti-contract law of general application-a law prohibiting as well as voiding the importation under contract from any country of laborers of any kind. Speaking of compulsory arbitration, Mr. Smith said that, considering the condition of affairs in Canada, he was convinced that the principle was worth a trial, impartial arbitrators to be appointed by the government. He recommended the organization of a Canadian federation of labor, and though he believed that unionism should be international, such could be assured only by the strength of national unions. At the conclusion of the address resolution was moved and referred to a committee that "in view of the recent disastrous trackmen's strike, the time has arrived when the Dominion Trades Congress should formulate some practical scheme of compulsory arbitration and press the government for its adoption.'

RETURNING TO WORK.

Pittsburg, Sept. 17.—After a night's rest the steel strikers were more disposed to accept the terms made at the New York conference, and reports from the hoop, sheet and tube mills indicated that the men were returning in large numbers. The tin workers, however, are still rebellious, and inclined to stay out regardless of the agree-ment made by the Amalgamated of-ficials. Much will depend as to the future conduct of the strikers on the ing of the former employes of the different tin plate plants, to be held this senting "The Girl from Paris is headed by Olive Ulrich, a clever little common Many especially those ed by Olive Ulrich, a clever little common whose superb voice is said to action to be taken at the joint meet-

LABOR NOTES.

The miners' union of Rossland, B.C. has secured convictions against a company which employed alien laborers. The painters' and decorators' union of Ottawa, has withdrawn from the Allied Trades and Labor Association, because of trouble arising from decision of the judges as to the union which made the best turn-out on Labor Day. The painters lose the prize by half a point, and feel very indignant, as they fully expected to win.

Amusements.

A MAGNIFICENT PRODUCTION. "Quo Vadis," as dramatized from Sinkiewicz's great novel by Stanislaus Strange, was given a sumptuous production at the Grand Opera House last night before an audience which, while not as large as the excellence of the playwarranted testified its appreciation in no uncertain manner. The story of the play is one known to all those who keet in touch with the modern drama and current literature. As presented Messrs. Whitney & Knowles, by Messrs. Whitney & Knowles, "Quo Vadis" was one of the successes of the year in both the United States and England. There is nothing in it to offend or jar upon the most sensitive. The corruption and debauchery of Nero's court is made apparent only by inferwhile the religious element is handled in a reverent manner.

The company which appeared last night was a large, capable and eveny-balanced one, and any small defects where. The company is one of the larten in the excellence of the ensemble The finest character work was that done by Thomas M. Hunter, who portrayed perfectly the overweening and almost incredible vanity and heartlessness and remorseless crueity of the Emperor Nero. He had an able coadjutor in Miss Carline Rohr, an of burlesquers, Floradore. The advance actress whose talents and physical attri- sale indicates a large audience. butes were alike suited to the roles of the beautiful but wicked Empress Poppaea. The important characters of Petronius, the arbiter elegantiae. Marcus Vinicius, the lover of Lygia, and Tigellinus, the scheming general, were ably filled by Adolph Jackson, Charles Sut-ton and Richard Thornton. Montgomery Irving's magnificent proportions accorded well with the part of Ursus, the Christian giant. Clever work was done by Master Jack Ryan in the childpart of little Aulus. Miss Grace Hanson invested the role of Eunice with all the sweetness it demands, while Miss Mary Emerson was acceptable as Lygia. The numerous minor parts were well taken. The scenic settings of the eight scenes presented were a succession of magnificent pictures, and the only thing to mar their effect was the lack of stage management which permitted coatless attendants to rush onto the stage and remove articles of furniture before the lights went down. Little better could have been expected of a stage manager who committed the solecism of appearing at the side of the stage several minutes before each fall of the curtain, in full view of one-third of the audience

Aside from this, "Quo Vadis" as a whole was a beautiful one, and that no admirer of the drama should allow to depart without witnessing Large audiences should greet the production at both the matinee today and the closing performance tonight.

"THE GIRL FROM PARIS." The font of unalloyed fun, "The Girl from Faris," is booked to appear at the New Grand next Friday night, Sept. 20. This laughter-provoker comes with even a better recommendation than before, for it has been redressed afternoon. Many, especially those ed by Olive Ulrich, a clever little comfrom the Star plant, are in favor of radical measures, and of carrying on the strike at the individual plants, graceful figure permits her to give an rather than accept the terms made by

"OLD JED PROUTY."

It is not wonderful that Richard Golden's "Old Jed Prouty" retains its hold upon the Canadian public, and that every year it is as cordially greeted as One cannot help loving homely "Old Jed Prouty," the big-hearted New England tavern-keeper. The New Grand will no doubt be comfortably filled next Tuesday night, Sept. 24, when "Old Jed Prouty" and his friends and neighbors will be introduced once more, If a brief epitome of the views of plan goers were asked as to the play for which they had the kindliest feelings, and which they would soonest see over again, doubtless a large majority would say, "Old Jed Prouty." This will be Mr. Golden's last appearance in this play in this city.

CITY SHOULD TAKE THE INITIATIVE.

Ministerial Association Decides Not to Arrange Memorial Service.

A meeting of the Ministerial Association was held this forenoon in the Y. M. C. A. parlor, for the purpose of discussing the matter of holding services in memory of the late President Mc-Kinley. About eight of the city pastors were in attendance. The Rev. Dr. Johnston, of St. Andrew's Church, occupied the chair.

Rev. Dr. Sowerby, in speaking, did not favor the idea of holding memorial services. He thought it would have been a graceful act had opportunity permitted it, if the Duke of Cornwall and York had been sent to attend the funeral, as representing Great Britain. Although special services in London might in one way be desirable as impressing upon the people important truths to be derived from the late president's life and the manner of his taking off, yet as nearly all the city preachers had referred to the sad incident in a sympathetic and appro-priate way, Dr. Sowerby thought any further special reference was uncalled for. Other speakers spoke in the same strain, and the concensus of opinion was that, owing to the brevity of time, to the fact that mention had already been made in the various pulpits of London, and also to the fact that the initiative in such a matter should come from the civic authorities, as in the case of the memorial services held in commemoration of the late Queen, it was decided not to hold special ser-

WOOL MARKET.

Toronte, Sept. 17.—There is not much map to the market here, though some improvement is to be noted in the general one of the situation owing to an adance in certain grades in England. This mprovement, however, has not materially affected the values of Canada wools, which would be affected after seme time by the general improvement in the situation, provided it is maintained. There are been a couple of lots worked for xport to the United States this week, but at prices altegether unprofitable to ill parties on this side. Pulled wools are low. Fleece—The offerings are large, but olders in the country are mostly asking olders in the country are mostly asking ic to 15c, and exporters declare it is al-sether impossible to do business for at those prices; a couple of lots, the first of the season's clip, were sold for the United States market this week, one of 50,600 lbs here at 13%c, and another of 40,000 lbs at Hamilton for less meney; local dealers quote washed at 13c and unwashed at 8c. Pulled wools—The demand is not active and the market is steady, at 15c to 18c for supers and 17c to 18c for extras.

The Ontario Premier's Birthday.

The Hon. George William Ross, Premier and Treasurer of the Province of Ontario, is one of the eminently successful self-made men of Canada.

The Premier of Ontario was born in the township of East Williams, Middlesex county, Ontario, Sept. 18, 1841, his father being a native of Ross-shire, Scotland. When he was old enough to pitch hay and guide a plow, he began to work on his father's farm, spending his winter leisure in the little log schoolhouse, in which so many men now distinguished in the various walks of life received their primary education. So well did the young Canadian apply himself that by the time he was eighteen years of age he was himself bride, teaching school in East Williams. Woods, M.D., of Mount Brydges, who Eight years later, after a course in a normal school, he became an inspector by Rev. J. E. Holmes, of Granton, asof schools. During this period the sisted by Rev. J. Mahon, of Mount young school teacher had been a close Brydges, in the presence of 75 invited student, not alone of books, but of men guests from London, Hamilton, Toand events; and, during the first election following the confederation of the fully gowned in white organdie, with provinces, he captured the West Mid- valenciennes lace and chiffon trimdlesex seat. After thirteen years of ming, with bridal veil and carrying a shower bouquet of white roses. The continuous service in the House of Commons, he was made Minister of tem of free education.

Hon. George W. Ross is one of the few orators of Canada. He made his first public speech as a mere boy before the debating society at Melrose. in Lobo. Aided by a marvelous memory, a clear brain and a rich fund of Death of Dr. Andrew McKenzie, a Resident humor, he speedily became an effective speaker, and is today regarded as perhaps the most brilliant platform orator and the most delightful after dinner speaker in the Dominion. Premier of Ontario is a total abstainer, strong drink. The Premier of Ontario is still a young man, as ages of statesmen go, four years ago a familiar figure on the and to all appearance will be able to streets of the city, but an accident susrender yet many years of active service to the Canada of which he is proud and which is proud of him.

LATE LOCAL ITEMS

-John Aikenhead, who was hurt in an accident on civic holiday, and who has been in a very critical condition for some time, has recovered sufficiently to be taken to his home. -The members of Court Forest

Queen, A. O. F., were greatly disappointed last night at not being able to hold their regular quarterly meeting, some person having removed their charter from the walls of the lodgeroom. It is unlawful, by the laws of Forestry, to hold a meeting without their warrant.

-An extremely interesting lecture on the birds of Canada was delivered last evening in Talbot Street Baptist Sunday school by Mr. W. E. Saunders. The chair was occupied by Rev. Dr. Sowerby. Mr. Saunders' very entertaining talk was greatly enjoyed by the large audience present.

-Monday night's after-affair at the council chamber seems to have passed over quite nicely. The references the mayor made to Ald. Parnell were not intended seriously. The mayor intended to have some fun, but Ald. Parnell got angry. Then, of course, he didn't back down. The matter is now viewed in its proper light.

-Mr. Arthur Morey, a London "Old Boy," who has been living in Chicago for twenty years past, is visiting friends in this city. Mr. Morey and his father are graduates of The Advertiser establishment. The latter, best known to old-timers as "Joe," is a veteran typo, hale and hearty, and -Barefooted and clad only in a night robe, Mr. Wetherall, a patient at Vic-toria Hospital, was captured on Clar-ence street last evening and taken back to the institution in the ambulance. While suffering from delirium he made his escape and rushed up Clarence street at top speed. He was taken in charge by Mr. Wm. Northy, who took him to No. 1 fire station, where he was made comfortable until the arrival of the ambulance.

JUDGE MEREDITH NOT ILL. A paragraph in the Toronto press today states that Mr. Justice R. M. Meredith is ill at his home here. On inquiry from a member of the family here it was learned that Judge Meredith is holding assizes in Walkerton and nothing is known if his illness.

FUNERAL OF MISS HARDING.

The remains of the late Miss Eva E. Harding, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harding, of 3041/2 York street, were interred in Mount Pleasant Cemetery Tuesday morning. The many beautiful floral offerings showed the esteem in which she was held by all that had the pleasure of her acquaintance. She was a member of the First Methodist Church.

GRAND CONCERT PROPOSED. Another meeting regarding the rehabilitation of the Seventh Band was held in the mayor's office today. A plan has been suggested to have a grand concert in the Princess Rink within a week or two and devote the proceeds to this end. Other suggestions also have been made, and the whole matter will be gone into thoroughly at a meeting to be held in the mayor's office tomorrow night, which all citizens who are interested in the matter are invited.

HUNT CLUB LUNCHEON.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Hunt Club it was decided to give the annual luncheon and sports to the farmers whose property the hunt crosses, on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 25. The following special committee was appointed to arrange the sports and attend to all the other nesports and attend to all the other necessary arrangements: G. C. Gibbons, K.C., Adam Beck, Dr. J. S. Niven, Dr. H. R. Abbott, Col. A. M. Smith, J. B. Kilgour, Dr. D. H. Hogg, W. T. Strong, and C. Becher.

CHOPPELL-NASH. The home of Ephraim Nash, Esq., on the Longwood' road, near Mount Brydges, was the scene of a happy marriage festival at 4:30 o'clock yesterday. The occasion was the marriage of his eldest daughter, Miss Annie, to William Choppell, M.D., a successful practitioner of Cairo, Lambton county. Miss Lulu Nash, sister of the was bridesmaid, with H. During his long and useful life he made many friends, who will grieve to hear of his demise.

Dr. McKenzie came of good Highland stock. He was born at Quebec on Sept. 15, 1810, and was educated at Perth, and at Brockville Grammar School. He then went to Glasgow, and studied medicine. After graduating he returned to Canada about the time of the outbreak of the rebellion of 1837. He at once joined the Middlesex militia as surgeon, under Col. Ball, and saw service between St. Thomas and Amherstburg. At the close of the rebellion he settled in London, where he lived a valued and useful life until the

Fifty Thousand Spectators Line the Track as the Cars Pass Through Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Sept. 18. — Daylight was dawning as the train bearing the remains of President McKinley arrived at Altoona, at the foot of the eastern slope of the Alleghanies. Through the semi-darkness the forms of many people could be seen strung along the tracks. Outside the depot a throng of three or four thousand people surged up to the train. Many must have been there all night, and others had waited for hours, as the train had been originally scheduled to reach that point at Half the population of Johnstown, the first of the great steel manufacturing centers through which the train was now to pass on its way to the martyred president's home, was at the track, and a company of local militia stood drawn up at attention. Men, women and children were there. Miners, with lamps in their caps, had rushed forth from the tunnels at the train's approach, and the steel mills along the Connemaugh River had been emptied.

AT PITTSBURG. Entering Pittsburg a wonderfully impressive sight was presented. Along both sides of the track for miles were solid walls of humanity. In some places the people stood twenty deep, while the embankments were black with them. On the top of every freight car was a human hedge. The overhanging bridges bent beneath their burden. The roofs of houses were lined. Fully 50,000 people lined the tracks as the train passed through. The firing of minute guns and the tolling of bells was dispensed with, and the immense crowd stood bareheaded and silent as the train

Historical Essays.

[From Rev. W. W. Smith, St. Catharines.]

A volume of "Canadian Essays, Critical and Historical," has just been issued in handsome style, from the reliable press of William Briggs, Toronattend President McKinley's funeral. Fully two hours before the time sched- to, by Thomas O'Hagan, Ph.D., well uled for the arrival of the funeral train | known for years as a poet, essayist and antiquarian. Dr. O'Hagan pays very particular attention to Canadian | Church. literature; and his two essays on "Canadian Poets and Poetry," and "Canadian Women Writers"-extending in all to about 100 pages-are exceedingly instructive and valuable. We are not aware of any existing volume of writing that gives at one view so writing that gives at one view so tific journals in Los Angeles and San comprehensive and exact an account Diego have discussed time and time of Canadian poetry as the essay on that subject before us. If there is a fault in it, it is in its exactness; so anything else. It is about an acre in visor to the Council of the Yukon Ter- long a list, and "honorable mention" ritory, vice Mr. Frederick Tennyson of so many writers of verse. Very discouraging, possibly, to the village explorer in these parts who is not poetaster, who imagines he is begin- looking out for this freak of nature ning to work in an almost untrodden field, where only Sangster and Heavysege, Frechette and MacColl had gone before him; but very instructive and informing to anyone patriotic enough to know and value the builders-up of pares the old and the new school of soaked with the strange on board the government yacht Fron- Canadian poetry; the former putting tenac last night was more serious than into their workmanship more of Scott, a stiffness that is somewhat like weak and Wordsworth, and Burns; the latter more of the style of Keats, and Tennyson, and Swinburne, and the nature-loving poets of Greece. Indeed, that part of Dr. O'Hagan's essays which deals with the newer school of Canadian poetry, as represented in Charles G. D. Roberts, William Wilfrid Campbell, Archibald Lampman, and Bliss Carman, will, we think, be the city without change, which no considered by the general reader as a most valuable contribution to the understanding and appreciation of our growing and promising Canadian gaged? poetry. "Is it true." Dr. O'Hagan asks, in his preface, "that one hears more of the Canadian poets, Carman and Roberts, and Campbell, in New York in a week, than in Canada in five years?" It is measurably true; we have never let our own poets know that we valued them; but it is not too late to do better. The representative poems, toofifteen in all-in this essay, give a good idea of this newer and younger school of poets; Roberts, Campbell, Lampman, Duncan Scott, Frederick Scott, Bliss Carman, Dr. Drummond (author of "The Habitant"), Dr. Rand (recently deceased), and several others, being thus represented. Among the women writers he specially notices Mrs. Leprohon, Mrs. Susan Moodie, Louisa, Murray and Mrs. Traill, as representing the older school; and Miss Machar, Mrs. Frances Harrison ("Seranus"), Mrs. Rogers, Janet Carnochan, Pauline Johnson, Jean Blewett and Lily Dougall, and others, as forming the more recent phalanx of our poetesses. "French-Canadian Life and Literature," "The True Story of the Arcadian Deportation," respecting which latter, the author shows, was much less defensible than current history has pictured it, "In the Land of the Jesuit Martyrs," the story, briefly told, of the five Catholic missionaries put to death in fiendish tortures by the Iroquois, about the middle of the 17th century; and a couple of essays dealing with the history and status of the Catholic Church in Ontario, complete the volume. These essays are a valuable contribution to the historical side of our literature and the literary aspect of our history. Whatever is historical, and whatever is literary, belonging to Canada, has been a labor of love to Dr. O'Hagan. 12 mo., handsomely bound, 222pp., $1: Wm. Briggs, Toronto, 1901.

ELSIE.

The party in the wagonette had reached Gower House by another avenue, and had come into the grounds by the great entrance gate, where there was a lodge covered with ivy, and inhabited by a respectable old couple. The old lady had come up to the house with the "gentle-folks," had unlocked the doors and showad them over the house.

Arrangements for Championship Sculling od them over the house.

Elsie had a fancy for looking all over the house without listening to any more of the wonderful tales that were told of the wonderful tales that were told respecting it.

"I daresay only half of them are true," she said to herself, "and I can fancy some prettier ones for myself."

She began then to walk around the hall, and soon lost herself in the contemplation of the dark old paintings, the suits of armor, the quaint, carven furniture, the painted windows. The winter daylight came through these last, subdued, faint and somewhat sad, Elsie thought. There was one picture which caught her fancy excessively. It was in a dark and gloomy recess of the hall; but yet there was a large window of stained glass in a line with it; saints and angels were all crowded together on this window, and crowded together on this window, and the light that streamed through it seemed to gather a solemn pathos in its pasage and to fall like a halo on the painting that attracted Elsie. ng that attracted Elsie.
It represented a fair little girl of some

It represented a fair little girl of some five summers, attired in white; her golden hair fell round her face like a curtain; the child stood in a long, dark, oakfloored, oak-paneled room; at one end was a great painted window. Standing with her back to this great window was a tall, pale woman in a nun's garb; she had a sad, stern face, with harsh features and a bitter smile. The child in white held roses in its hands—the woman in and a bitter smile. The child in white held roses in its hands—the woman in black held a cross in hers. What did the picture mean? Was it an allegory, or the real story of a real life-one of the daughters of the house of Hardcastle?

I fancy that she became a nun, never "I fancy that she became a nun, never married, and live the life of a recluse like yonder old personage in black. How sad it seems!" thought Elsle.

In reality the lovely child, whose likeness so much struck Elsle, grew up into a beautiful woman, and became one of the most celebrated court beauties in the reign of Queen Anne; but Elsle had fancied a gloomier fate for her. Near to this picture a great flight of polished oak stairs led up with a grand sweep to the first floor. The walls of this staircase were gay with landscapes from the hands of some of the best masters—modern for the most part. Elsie did not modern for the most part. Elsie did not know what she was going to see or whom she was about to meet. For her the old

Gower was like an enchanter's castle, but here in the broad daylight the thought of peril or fear was far from thought of peril or fear was lar looker.

The corridor at the top of this staircase was wide; here and there stood a bronze statue—Mercury, rushing forward with outspread wings: Apollo, with his lyre; Saturn, with his scythe; Ceres, crowned with corn. There was no grander corridor at Charteris House itself, and Elsie paused delighted in the center, and Elsie paused delighted in the center, and count of the fight on account of the death of President McKin-

Pauline was the best-dressed woman among the Charteris visitors. She wore a complete costume of black velvet, trimmed with costly dark fur. First slept one night, and dreamed that one day his head would be cut off. The old dame is in there; she will tell you; but you must make haste, because she says the daylight won't last long." Elsie was pleased that this disagreeable Pauline had spoken kindly to her. Very insolent people establish a sort of right to trample on and annoy their fellow-creatures, and when these same insolent persons condescend to be pleasant for an our or two we are all astonished and delighted, and we relate the fact of the tyrant's amiability in tones of triumph. Elsie felt as if she had won a victory now that Miss Bracegirdle had been civil She smiled and thanked her, and ran through the open doorway into the quaint suite of rooms where young feet had danced minuets a century and a half ago, where young men had made leve and young maidens had listened to them. Alas! young men, young maidens, gay footsteps, where were they all now! Elsie sighed and smiled as she glanced

Elsie saw fine, soft, white towels, and a washstand of black oak, and ware that seemed cut out of blue turquoise, edged with gold. There was a great shadowy looking-glass, in which Elsie could see herself from head to foot, and as she looked she felt almost were that she saw another figure reflected in the glass—a figure that must have stood behind her. She turned, but there was nothing—nobody. Then a sense of lone-liness and isolation came over her. Suppose that somehow she was to be forgotten, and all the other Charteris guests were to go away and the house were to were to go away and the house were to be locked up, and she were the only person left in it?

At that precise moment she heard the great front door shut with a bang; and she rushed to the window to look out and sign to the others that she was alone in the rembling house.

Elsie found that the window through which she looked only commanded a view of a wild part of the grounds that was too much neglected to be worth calling a garden. Instantly she began running through the wide oak-floored suite of chambers: these were show recovery suite of chambers; these were show-rooms of the old historic house. In every one was a great silk-curtained four-post bed. There were carven oak chests, any one of which might have served as the model for that one in which the horizon better of which might have served as the model for that one in which the hapless bride of the woung baron found a living tomb. according to the ghastly old story told

The windows of all these rooms were large in width and height, but composed of an enormous number of small panes. of an enormous number of small panes. Elsie went up close to each of them in succession as she passed through the suite, hoping to find herself looking at the front of the house, and thus to be able to sign to the retreating party that she was shut in. But every window through which her anxious eyes peered commanded simply a view of a desolate commanded simply a view of a desolate and neglected portion of the grounds—a wild tangle of shrubberies, a sweep of rough grass land. This was the left wing of the house evidently.

Elsie ran on now straight towards the grand corridor with the bronze statues, and then down the stairs and by the same way she had entered the hall.

same way she had entered the hall. Empty, silent, her own footsteps echoing on the polished wood floor, her own voice re-echoing as she raised it and called aloud, now on one acquaintance, now on another, in her sudden terror at being alone, quite alone in this great desolate house. Quite alone? Had they really all of them gone away It was an absurd thing to suppose that they would do so without calling the party together and giving her some notice of its being time to get away.

Elsie came to another corridor, upon which several rooms opened, but all the doors were locked fast. Now these were private living-rooms of the family, who had gone to Italy for the winter. At the end of this corridor was a conservatory, the door of which stood open.

Elsie ran into this place, and found herseif in a warm atmosphere, and flowering shrubs and exquisite blooms.

"The house is so immense." she said to herself. "Of course, they are all in another part of it, but where? It's like a little town, with all these corridors for streets, and these rooms for houses. Turn where I will, I can't find a single human soul or hear a single human voice. It's ridiculeus, but it's horrible. I would rather lose my way on the downs than in this house. It's the most unearthly house I ever ever dreamt about in my life!"

Elsie came to another corridor, upon which several rooms opened, but all the doors were locked fast. Now these were private living-rooms of the tamlity, who had gone to Italy for the winter. Am I to sleep in this great house alone?"

The tidea was appailing. The weird story of the wicked wailing and shricking through these dim rooms every night, came back to Elsie like the threat or the memory of a hideous nightmare. She shuddered when she came again out of the warm conservatory into the cold corridor; upon which several rooms opened, but all the doors were locked fast. Why do women continue to endure suffering caused by womanly diseases? There are many answers to that question. Sometimes because they have exhausted the skill and remain uncured. At other times it is because they shrink from submitting to obnoxious examinations which local physicians deem necessary. And to sum it all up, they endure suffering because they do not know that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. "Favorite Prescription" establishes regularity, dries disagreeable drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I enjoy good health; thanks to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' "writes Mrs. J. J. Schnetyer, of Pontiac, Livingston Co., Ill. "I was taken sick and the doctors here called it 'Grip.' I lay for four weeks in bed, then when I got up I found I had 'displacement.' Had such aches and pains in my back and limbs could not stand any length of time. I knew that our home doctor would insist the first thing on an examination and that of time. I knew that our home doctor would insist the first thing on an examination, and that I would not submit to, unless I was dangerously sick. My son had your book, 'Common Sense Medical Adviser,' and I thought from reading it that Dr. Pierce's medicine would do me more good than all the home doctors—and so it has. I can truly say I was surprised at the benefit I received. I can do all my washing and also tend my flower garden. In fact I am on my feet most all the time. An old friend of mine said to me, 'Why what is the matter with you? You are getting young again.' I told her I had You are getting young again.' I told her I had taken six bottles of Dr. Pierce's medicines, and that if she would do likewise she would feel ten years vounger, too." Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser paper covers is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay ex-pense of customs and mailing only. Ad-dress Dr. R. V. Pierce Buffalo N. Y. Hamilton, Sept. 18.—The heads of the police department are pretty well satisfied (says the Hamilton Times) that there are a number of plotting anarchists in this city. This belief has been strengthened within the past few days by reports made by detectives and uniformed men to their superior officers. Of course, the police are very reticent in the matter, but at least one case has leaked out.

It appears last Friday night fou men, strangers, were in a wineroor in the Flamboro Hotel, Merrick street and were seen talking very earnestly by the bartender, who notified the propri etor, Mr. John Robinson, Some atten tion was paid to their conversation, and tion was paid to their conversation, and it was learned that they were discussing the killing of the Duke of Cornwall who is to visit Hamilton next month. Their talk made it clear to the listeners that there is a plot to assassinate the duke. Mr. Robinson promptly ordered the men out of his house. The matter reached the ears of P. C. Campaign, who reported the case. The detectives are now trying to locate the tectives are now trying to locate the quartet. It is known that one of the

RUNAWAY BOY CAPTURED. Hamilton Times: Willie McDonald is the name of a little boy who used to live in London-in-the-Woods. Little Willie didn't like the place, and preferred farm life near Hamilton to living in the Forest City. So he ran away and went to live with Mr. A. Swazie, on the mountain, just beyond Cotter's hotel. The Children's Aid Society of London heard of his whereabouts and notified Officer Hunter, of the local so-clety. Yesterday Hunter and another officer went after McDonald, and caught him after a chase of a mile over fields. McDonald is at No. 3 police station awaiting the arrival of a Lon-

He said: "A most awful and ghastly tragedy has just occurred in the United States, of which the chief executive officer of that country was the victim. It has bowed the heart of the whole nation, of the whole community, and of the whole civilized world. It has moved like the shadow of a dark eclipse over the nations of the world, plunging every one of them, and especially we of the British people, into the most poignant grief. There is about this tragedy a darkness that the eye cannot penetrate, and a seriousness that wisdom cannot President McKinley was honored by his nation, not only be-

Maintenance of the Organization Biscussed at Public Meeting.

A meeting was held in the mayor's office last evening for the purpose of discussing ways and means for assisting the band of the 7th Regiment, to be placed in a more permanent condition of efficiency and, if necessary, to increase its number of instruments. The mayor was in the chair and explained the object of the meeting. Sir John Carling said that very great difficulties were encountered in keeping the members of a band together, and that unless the council and the citizens came forward to assist it would be a very difficult matter to maintain the band and keep it up to its present high standard.

He hoped that the council would make an annual grant of at least $500, and that this would be supplemented by annual subscriptions from citizens who take an interest and pride in the band. Great pleasure has been derived during the past season from the con-certs in Victoria Park, which were most liberally patronized by people of all classes. Mr. W. J. Reid said that only those who had experience in such a matter could know what great difficulties were encountered in keeping the bandsmen together. Unless suitable permanent employment is provided for them, they drift off to other places, where they are offered better inducements. A good musician can always be sure of constant employment in America.

The officers of the regiment devote all their pay to the band. The government only allow a grant for 24 men, and the cost of all in excess of that number must be borne by the officers, who have now done all they can. Four men have lately gone to Joliet, where they were offered employment, but they would gladly return could they obtain it in this city. No one had any idea of the cost of keeping up the band. It is necessary to expend from $500 to $600 per annum for new instruments and repairs, and the uniform of the drum major alone costs $150. The citizens should take an interest in the band, and he was glad to see how largely the conperfected Grape-Nuts Food, knowing certs in Victoria Park were patronized. He hoped that a substantial sum would be raised for the purpose, and that the council would make a liberal grant. Mr. James Egan said he was one of the oldest bandsmen in London, and he always took a pride in it, and believed it was to the interest of the citizens to assist in making this the best band in the Dominion, as it was some years ago. The council should appropriate at least $1,000, and a committee should be appointed to solicit subscriptions.

ciety should be organized and that we should encourage the young men in our schools and Collegiate Institute to become musicians, and thus recruit the band from them. People are proud of the regiment and of the band, and he hoped they will respond liberally when asked for subscriptions. Mr. B. McCann said that some citizens were under the impression that the bandsmen were well paid, but they do not know the facts.

Mr. J. Pocock said that a band so-skating rink. Mr. Adam Beck said that a good band is a splendid advertisement for the city. The officers of the battalion have done more than their share and citizens should have come forward to assist, as they derive great pleasure and benefit from the band concerts. He moved that the mayor, Sir John Carling and Mr. Egan be empowered to appoint a committee of citizens which was agreed to.

Mr. Joshua Garratt said he would certainly be in favor of a grant from the council of at least $500. Sir John Carling further stated that the proprietors of the Princess Rink had intimated that they would give the building free for a concert, and he had no doubt the lighting would be given free also. He had received a letter from Mr. C. S. Hyman, M.P., regretting his inability to attend the meeting owing to a previous engagement and stating that he is fully in ment and stating that he is fully in sympathy with the movement, and will do all in his power to assist. The meeting then adjourned.

SAD DROWNING NEAR DETROIT!

Former London Youth Lost His Life in the

A Detroit dispatch says: Early Sunday morning, while a gale was blowing, Herbert Broadbent and Vernen R. Galpin, two Detroit boys, got into a canoe at Belle Isle and put out in the shell with a sail into the raging sea. The excitement seemed to animate their spirits, and the strong wind drove them quickly out into the lake. Young Galpin had a sweet tenor voice, and was to sing "Rock of Ages" in St. Peter's Church choir, of which he was a member, that morning. So when the little boat rolled along with the waves, and the large boats passed, those aboard heard the the wind, the verses of the song he would never sing in the church, "Rock of Ages. cleft for me, let me hide my-self in thee." Almost abreast of Windmill Point, about 8:30 o'clock, the boys decided to return, and put about to bea back against the wind and sea. If the journey up had been difficult, it was infinitely more dangerous now, and the open shell shipped sea after sea. The sail was lowered, with the whitecaps breaking about them and hiding their boat from view. Suddenly a large wave swept aboard the canoe and filled her in an instant. Broadbent, who is about 23 years of age, and who has sailed in the canoe to Cleveland, was an expert swimmer, and familiar with danger. He shouted to Galpin, who was 18 years of age, to hold on to the boat, which was now being battered about at the will of the waves. Galpin said he could not swim, but he clung to the boat. He was swept away, but Broadbent caught him again. Galpin then tried to get into the boat, but he was again swept away, and, weak and frightened, he sank. Broadbent shouted for help, and was rescued by Robt. Dunn, who came to the assistance of the boy in a rowboat, and got Broadbent as he was almost exhaust-Galpin's mother had hoped her boy would not go sailing Sunday. When she heard the rain early in the morning, she was satisfied that he would remain behind, and she imagined she heard footsteps coming up the steps when he lay at the bottom of

The production of cheese at Hepburn's factory, con. 5, Yarmouth, will be 20 per cent higher this year than in 1900. Last year 50 tons were made, and this year th production will be at least 60 tons. The maker, J. T. Donnelly, has given the highest satisfaction, his cheese bringing the very best prices, and being sought after by buyers who want the best. St. Thomas city council adopted the recommendation of the industrial committee to grant Messrs. Thomas, of Norwich, $20,000, water at cost, and exemption from general taxation for ten years if they remove their brush, broom and woodenware factory to the city. The firm are to employ 100 hands, and the average wage is stated as $8 per week. Dart & Hamilton, of Ridgetcwn, are pushing the work of the construction on the branch of the Tilsonburg and Port Burwell Railway, for which they have the building contract. They expect to have the rails laid and everything ready for operation before the snow flies. Over 100 men are at work, and the road, which will join Ingersoll, is seventeen miles in length.
