Experience of the Steamer Roddam at St. Pierre.

SUBJECTED TO RED-HOT RAIN

Ship on Fire as She Headed for Sea-18 of Her Crew Burned to Death-Bravery of Her Captain,

New York, May 19.-The Norton Line steamer Etonia (Capt. Cantell) arrived here yesterday from the River Platte, via St. Lucia, where she called for bunker coal on May 10.

"At St. Lucia, on May 11." said Capt. Cantell, "I went on board of the British steamer Roddam, which had escaped from the terrible volcanic eruption at Martinique three days before. The ship was covered with a mass of fine bluish gray dust or ashes of cementlike appearance. In some parts it lay two feet deep on the decks. This matter had fallen in a red-hot state all over the steamer, setting fire to everything it struck that was burnable, and when t fell on the men on board burned off limbs and large pieces of flesh. This was shown by finding portions of human remains when the decks were cleared of the debris. The rigging, ropes, tarpaulins, sails and awnings were charred or burned, and most of the upper stanchions and spars had been swept overboard or destroyed by the fire. Skylights were smashed and cabins were filled with volcanic dust.

THE CAPTAIN'S STORY. "I visited the captain of the Roddam in the hospital at St. Lucia, where he gave me an account of his terrible experience. He had just arrived, and anchored at St. Pierre, Martinique, on the morning of Thursday, May 8th. The captain was standing near the ac-commodation ladder, talking to the vessel's agent, who had come board, when he saw what appeared to be an enormous black cloud, like a wal with patches of fire in it, approaching sea from the land. With it came an immense tidal WAVE OF BOILING WATER, accompanied by a loud rumbling noise He shouted, 'Take shelter.' crew. Immediately the steamer was caught and tossed on her side. almost capsizing. Darkness fell like a pall, and volumes c.ed-hot matter showered down, while the air was thick with sulphurous fumes and dust. The sea was a confused mass of boiling mud. Fire soon broke out in dif ferent parts of the ships. Screams, groans and shouts of agony from the injured people, mingled with the terrible noise of boiling water and rushing air, together with the falling fire, caused a most horrible confusion and frightful din. This shock lasted for a few minutes. SWEPT BY A TIDAL WAVE. "The captain of the Roddam, knowing that his vessel had steam up, and instantly realizing the necessity of escape, rushed to the annunciator, and signaled below to start the engines at full speed. The terrific tidal wave which had swept over the Roddam and nearly capsized her had parted the cable, and the vessel was adrift. When the engine started it was found that the stearing gear had become disabled in some manner, and could not be worked. "For more than an hour the Roddam engines were worked, backing and going ahead with the hope of keeping her head toward the sea and away from the land. Once she got dangerously near the steamer Roraima. Both vessels were in flames. Some of those aboard jumped into the boiling water; some fell dying on the deck. time the red-hot matter was failing, and the water was hissing and steaming dense masses of vapor. Smoke and dust filled the air, and poisonous fumes spread about. "After some time the Roddam's stearing gear moved a little and enabled the captain to head her out to sea, and with considerable difficulty he managed to steer her a little distance from the land. GHASTLY SCENE. "As the air cleared the scene on board the ill-fated Roddam became all the more ghastly. The ship steamed on through thick, hot dust. The screams from the injured became more audible. Some rushed frantically about with their clothes on fire and large pieces of flesh burned from their arms; others, in their agony, lay writhing in the red-hot dust. 'In about two hours the air became gradually clear. An investigation of the casualties on board showed that heside the captain, who was frightfully injured, only two engineers, two sailors and the boatswain were able to do duty. "Fire was still burning about the ship, and the rigging was in flames. The captain decided to make St. Lucia, 45 miles distant. This he succeeded in doing by 6 o'clock in the evening of May 8. The steamer was difficult to handle, owing to the partially disabled steering gear, which could not be made to work properly. EXPERIENCE OF THE SURVIV-

"In the time occupied on this terrible voyage the experience of the survivors was worse than that already gone through. The brave captain and his few men, exhausted and scalded. worked trying to do something to assist their dying shipmates. Those working below strived to keep up the steam. The captain, suffering the greatest agony, succeeded in navigating his vessel safely to the port of Costries. St. Lucia, with aighten door

"I left him in good spirits. The sight of his face would frighten anyone not prepared to see it. We sailed from St. Lucia on the morning of May 11, and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon passed the Island of Martinique The weather was perfectly clear, and we had a good view of the island which had suffered by the volcanic eruption a few days before. The for-mation of the island is quite altered, and the whole northern part where the town of St. Pierre once stood is covered with a mass of ashes and "At about 2:30 o'clock, as the Etona was passing the island, a tremendous upshoot of smoke and dust took place, and in a few moments the ship was covered with a fine dust-like cement. We were about three miles distant from the island at the time. The ship's engines were put under full speed, and for a time considerable anxiety was felt on board. For an hour or two the ship was covered with dust and enveloped in a thick cloud, and the air was filled with sulphur fumes. It must have been another eruption, and the dust had been sent a great distance in the air, because it traveled against the wind, and at a tremendous rapid

There Were No Casualties on the British Side-500 of the Enemy Got Away.

Vryburg, Bechuanaland, May 20 .-The immunity which Lord Kitchener granted to the delegates to the Vereeniging conference of Boer leaders and their immediate followers from molestation by the British columns has not prevented the consummation of one of the biggest drives of the war, which has just wound up against the Bechuanaland blockhouse line. Gen. Ian Hamilton and other commanders have gathered in 400 prisoners, including 100 rebels and calcitrant Boers who have caused much trouble in the past.

Among the prisoners are a brother of Gen. Delarey and several other commandants. The movement was remarkable for the lack of resistance by the Boers, most of whom surrendered after aimless dodging, without fighting.

Whatever may be its issue, says the correspondent of the London Times at Pretoria, the Boer conference Vereeniging will be a notable feature in the history of this war. It is a unique experience for every burgher delegate. Some 160 delegates are present, and nearly all of them are prominent Boers. # GREAT WORK IN NEW ONTARIO

Algoma Central Railway Is Forging Ahead.

OPEN "UP" BIG ENTERPRISES

Fifty Miles Already Graded-Its Nature and Progress Described by an Eye-Witness.

The following instructive letter appears in the News-Argus of Stirling, Hasting county: Ögidaki Station, April 28, 1902.

To the Editor of the News-Argus: Will you kindly give the following a space in your columns? Perhaps it may be interesting and beneficial to your readers at this important juncture of Ontario's interests, politicially and otherwise. A great deal is being said at present in the journals of this province for and against New Ontario, especially the district of Algoma, the town of Sault Ste. Marie, and the Clergue enterprise. Having had a year and a half of practical knowledge of the question in vogue, situated in the very midst of the great progress development and success which has been taking place, I think I am in a position to throw a little light on the subject in question. In the first place I will state my position in connection with one of the Clergue industries. On the 9th of November, 1900, I engaged with the Algoma Central and Hudson Bay Railway as agent, and was stationed at the end of track which was at that time at Bellvue, 19 miles north of the Soo. At this point there is a trestle work 1,300 feet in length, and 105 feet high, and I had the very great pleasure of witnessing the erection of every bent in it, which was completed early in the month of February, 1901. I was on the first engine that crossed this trestle, and must say I was somewhat nervous before we reached the other side and were safe on the road bed again. The building of this trestle impeded track laying considerable, but as soon as trains were able to cross eight miles of steel were laid to a point called Silver Creek, where another halt was necessary to await the erection of Silver Creek trestle. As soon as the steel was laid to that point, the company opened an office there and I was asked to move ahead and another man dropped in my place at Bellvue.

HUNDREDS EMPLOYED. On the 27th of June we moved to Goulais River, four miles north. Here the scenery is beautiful, and the tribbutaries to this river are full of speckled trout. Soon after opening the station a large boarding house was built and run by the company. Next we witnessed the erection of a saw mill with a capacity of a 50,000 feet a day, and finished in elegant style, bright, a farmer, lost four children. which would be a credit to any city. Since then the place has been laid out in town lots and twenty cottages erected, and are now being equipped with electric light and waterworks. On the 2nd of December last we again moved ahead to my present abode, Ogidaki, 50 miles from the Soo. The company are now making their their rails from new steel plant at the Soo, and next week hundreds of men will be employed laying steel. Fifty miles of grading is about completed, and by December next I expect to be agent at the end of the track at Montreal River, 100 miles from the Soo. This is undoubtedly destined to be one of the best equipped roads in Canada or any country. It is only one of the other great industries that Mr. Clergue had in view when he approached the wise Col. Gaynor, complained to the judge asked for a charter to build a line of railway from Sault Ste. Marie to Hudson Bay, a line from Sudbury to the Manitoulin Islands, thence onward, connecting with this, the main line, at Goulais River, and also the Michipicoten branch, eighteen miles of which are in constant use hauling ore from the Helen mine to Michipicoten harbor, thence loaded onto the company's boats and taken to the Soo, and today is being made into steel rails, which as I have already stated, will in a few days be laid on the grade of the railway owned by the same comdeliberation until the afternoon, when pany. I omitted to mention the fact that an iron mine owned and operated by the Brietung Company, situated 23 miles from the Soo, produces the highest quality of ore, and the supply is Rumors that efforts were to be made unlimited. Again, farther north, and forcibly to take Col. Gaynor and Capt. 43 miles from the Soo, we have the Greene back to Quebec created some Superior Copper Company's mine. Great developments are taking place ing, and as the result a force of police at this mine, which promises much in and detectives which had been sum- the near future. Again, we have the moned cleared the corridor of the Algoma Commercial Company, of which Mr. Clergue is president, operwas supposed to contain a number of ating a dozen or more lumber camps, giving work to hundreds of men, many from older Ontario, and the same is to be seen in every branch of the works here. During the past winter I issued money orders aggregating thousands of dollars to men from older Ontario, which was sent home to their wives, parents and to the banks for deposit. This, I think, clearly demontrates that by aiding New Ontario the Ross Government has likewise aided or benefited older Ontario very materiexpected that all hard coal wessels WHAT MIGHT HAVE HAPPENED I have given you only a partial idea of the great developments that have taken place by the granting of certain concessions to Mr. Clergue. We will now suppose that the Conservative party had been successful in their attempt to defeat the government measures leading up to the actual successful results, terminating through the wise policy of the Ontario Government in opening up New Ontario, and had told Mr. Clergue they would not or could not entertain his propositions at all. What would be the deplorable state of affairs in the district of Algoma be today? Why, Mr. Editor, instead of there being erected and in full operation at the Soo today the following principal industries, viz., the pulp mill, sulphide mill, iron works, steel plant, carbide works, smelters, coke ovens, car shops, power canals, and many more works which I could mention; the A. C. and H. B. Railway, the Sudbury, Manitoulin, and North Shore Railway, the Michipicoten Shore Railway, the Michipicoten branch, the Helen and Brietung iron mines, the Superior Copper Company's mine, etc., these various industries having a pay roll monthly of thousands of dollars, I ask your readers what would the results be here today had Mr. Whitney and his followers had their sway at Toronto at that very important time and had displayed their wonderful ability and policy and had stamped out every vestige of development and prosperity that had taken place, what would we find exist-

Marie just as they stood twenty years ago, a wild forest and insignificant little village. The Conservative press and public speakers would make you believe if they could that the land grant to the A. C. and H. B. Railway was a gigantic fraud, a big steal, and so on. Now, as I understand it the A. C. and H. B. Railway Company are building this line of railway through a wild mountainous country. Not a dollar of cash do they get. Now it is an indisputable fact, railway was being built the land and timber would certainly have remained in its uncultivated form, and would never have been any use or worth a cent to any one. And I venture to say that had the Clergue syndicate failed in their efforts to secure from the Ross Government this charter and land grant, no other company or body men would have undertaken what Mr. Clergue proposed to the government to do, and has since fulfilled, and a great deal more than was proposed. And I think, Mr. Editor, the benefits resulting from the so-called steal have benefited both Old and New Ontario a hundred fold greater than it could otherwise have done. And I ask the young men especially, of North Hastings and the province throughout, to hold a deaf ear to the Conservative utterances, and to take the actual facts as a guidance on election day, and vote for the uplifting, solid, business-like Ross Government, and elect the Liberal candidate in the field. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your kindness in allowing me to take up so much of your valuable time and space, I remain, yours very truly, A. CHARD. jun.

CURED.

If you have transgressed against the laws of nature, you must suffer. Self abuse, later excesses and private diseases have wrecked thousands of promising lives. Treat with scientific physicians and be cured. Avoid quacks. E. A. Bidney, of Toledo, says: "At the age of it, I learned a bad promised to cure me. They got my money and I still had the disease. I had given up hope when a friend advised me to consult Drs. K. & K., who had cured him. Without any confidence I called on them, and Dr. Kennedy agreed to cure me or no pay. After taking the New Method Treatment for six weeks I felt like a new man. The drains ceased, wormy veins disappeared, nerves grew stronger, hair stopped falling out, urine became clear and my sexual organs vitalized. I was entirely cured by Dr. Kennedy and recommend him from the bottom of my heart."

COINCIDE WITH SIR WILFRID

Japan Proposes to Build 75 New Warships-Alleged Attempt on Emperor Joseph's Life Failed.

London, May 20 .- Australia agrees with Sir Wilfrid Laurier as to the inability of a hard and fast military agreement between Great Britain and the colonies. The announcement of this fact causes neither surprise nor disappointment here. The speech of Lord Salisbury to the Pimrose League emphasized most strongly the importance of doing nothing to force the various portions of the British Empire into a closer union than at present obtains. Mr. Chamberlain has also repeatedly warned his countrymen that the desire for closer union must come m the colonies, not from Great Britain. There is undoubtedly a growing desire on the part of Englishmen to strengthen the links that unite the mother country and the daughter states, but, after all, it is admitted that the colonies are the best judges of what they can do and how they can best do it. The Evening News says it is probable they are right in thinking that voluntary and spontaneous effort, such as has been made in the present war, is better than any fixed arrangement would be.

In the final inspection of the imperial train in the terminus of the state railway at Vienna, made ten minutes before his majesty's arrival there, a bomb covered with paper was found in the emperor's compartment. It was evidently calculated that this bomb would explode the moment his majesty entered the car. An investigation of the matter led to the dismissal of several railway employes.

The greatest secrecy concerning this plot has been observed, concludes the correspondent, and the emperor forbade the newspapers of Vienna to mention the affair.

$40,000 RAPHAEL STOLEN. A sensation has been created in Paris by the news that robbers broke into the country house of the Humberts, who are mixed up in the Humbert-Crawford scandal, and who have fled, and stolen two paintings by Corot, and one by Raphael. The latter which is said to be worth $40,000, was cut from its frame. It is reported that compromising papers in connection with the Crawford case have disappeared. After the flight of the Humberts the magistrates sealed the doors of their country home, which is at Hundreds, aye thousands of cures have been put on the market for Rheumatism during the past few years, but remedy with power to cure Chronic Rheumatism, Ferrozone excepted, in the estimation of Mr. Cullen, of Sturgeon Bay, does not exist.

The Government and Temperance.

There has been considerable crititism of the Government by some pro-Tessed friends of temperance because It does not keep pace with their de-Bires, and advance as rapidly as they little effect who so glibly express dis-Batisfaction. The record of the Liberal party for many years shows that It has ever supported all movements very temperance men who favored its conditions improve and prosperity in aid of moral and social reforms. Without specifying other leaders and other events, take the present premier of Ontario and his policy. Mr. Ross was a courageous advocate of temperance when many of its present supporters were babies in arms. He fought for it on the platform and in the Legislature when weak-kneed men kept in the background. It is to the efforts of such men as he that public sentiment has been educated to such a degree that drunkenness is no longer common, that temperance, and prohibitory law passed, and in the even total abstinence, has become popular. When in power, such men as right, we could not see that it would he have always initiated and carried have been easy to find a better way of whatever laws for the restriction of

And they have tried to enforce these laws. Complaints of negligence have Generally, they have been unfounded. The complainants too often fail to realize that while infractions of law may be suspected and believed, it is not always easy to prove them in a court friends of prohibition for years; it has of law. They forget also that officials passed the law in the only form in are not appointed to advance prohibi- which it has been approved by the tion, but to enforce the laws fairly, and guard the interests of those citi- mits it for the approval of the people. zens engaged in a legalized business and it only asks that the vote given as well as of those who are opposed to that business. There has been no proof that the Government has ever winked as far as many friends of temperance at infractions of law, or that it has go; it only asks for 38 per cent of ever done anything but act with the electorate-only three out of eight

Possibly for this reason the majoravowedly have no politics, but tempit does not follow their behests.

Such people look for a premier who is prohibitionist first, even if good government, efficient management of affairs, public prosperity and everything that the average citizen considers desirable has to go by the board. But Mr. Ross is not simply a politician-he is a statesman. He knows that in a self-governing community law reforms I want, I will take all I can must be the crystallization of public get. And it would have been the silfarce. His policy in regard to prohibition has been based on this principle. purpose of helping prohibition, but Personally, he might favor a prohibitory liquor law, but he knows that such | prohibition. a law is impossible unless the people want it. And when he secures the passage of such a law, he does it subject to the affirmative voice of the people.

But the extremists are not satisfied. They want the law made operative at once, without a reference to the people; though in almost the same breath they cry out that the people want the way of their saying so, and no harm done in giving them the opportunity

As a matter of fact, it is in evidence that the first call for a referendum came from religious journals, clergymen and friends of prohibition; that every respect, to have a tried and the principle has been advocated by efficient premier like Mr. Ross, with men like Sir Wm. Meredith, states- or without prohibition, than to have men of all parties, and friends of mor- inexperienced Mr. Whitney, without al reform in all the provinces. And prohibition. Those who really want not the referendum simply, but the prohibition, should save their energies substantial majority to be required for for the referendum vote, and not try been recognized by men who were same time by their clamor declare friends of temperance when it was not a popular idea, when it required courage to be a total abstainer.

Go back a few years. As a result of a prohibition convention held in Montreal in 1875, Mr. Flint introduced resolutions into the House of Commons in support of an optional prohibitory law, but providing that the law should not come into force in any province The Era of Industrial Expansion. "unless and until a majority of the qualified electors therein, voting at an election, shall have voted in favor of such act." There is the referendum. and a substantial majority asked for. Not a majority of those voting, but a "majority of the qualified electors." So that the policy of Mr. Ross was first outlined by the prohibitionists of

And ever since that date the same ideas have been advocated by the best temperance men. Sir Leonard Tilley was a warmer and firmer friend of generation. In a debate in the House in 1884 he said, referring to his views in 1875: "I stated that if they desired to submit the proposal to the popular vote, they should not suggest less than a three-fourths vote, because if carried by a bare majority, and without public sentiment behind it, the law THE LONDON ADVERTISER COM- would fail, and the cause of temperance be damaged instead of benefited." Discussing the present bill, last February, with its referendum and the vote required, it said: "Looking at the thing apart from our strong desire to see a character of a judge seeking abstract fixing what would be a substantial majority of the voters than the one chosen by Mr. Ross. We concluded, that, apart from predilections, the always been investigated carefully. sense of the community would be that it was fair, and we, therefore, resolved to accept it heartily."

Now, the Government has followed the policy supported by the ablest highest court in the Empire: it subshould show a satisfactory public sentiment in its favor. It does not go electors.

Then, we are told, he should have been willing to suffer defeat in a good cause. That sounds very well on paper. It is well to suffer defeat in a good cause when you can advance the cause by so doing. But the practical reformer says: If I cannot get all the sentiment, or else it is a fraud and a liest thing imaginable for the Government to march to defeat, not for the simply because they could not get

Now, what do these unwise friends of prohibition want? To defeat the Government because, while it has done everything possible in the interests of temperance, it does not go further. and attempt the impossible. What would a defeat of the Government next week mean? It would mean condemnation of its policy. Mr. Ross would resign, and Mr. Whitney take law. Surely if the people want the his place. Not only is Mr. Whitney law there would be no difficulty in the personally an anti-prohibitionist, but even if he were not, it would be his duty to reverse the policy of his preof speaking. And yet some clergymen, decessor, because the Province would and other people, who ought long since have condemned it. The country is prosperous: the future is most hopeful for its further advancement; it has an energetic and efficient Government. This is no time

The mercantile and manufacturing interests of London have a special interest in the return of the Ross Administration to power. The policy of expansion means the throwing open of this area to colonization as quickly as it can be done, the construction of railways and colonization roads to render it accessible, and the establishment of pulp and paper mills, smelters and other industries to afford employment and markets. All these features are parts of a wellto the operative and the laborer.

As the work is pushed forward, with all the energy which the Ross Government has displayed in the past, the trade of New Ontario will go up by leaps and bounds.

A change in this beneficent policy would seriously endanger our prosperity. Mr. Whitney and his followers have no settled policy as regards New Ontario. They do not agree among themselves as to what ought to be done. Their leader does not know his own mind on the subject. What he condemns one day he is ready to approve the next.

It would not be safe to intrust such vitally important interests as are involved in the continuance of the policy of New Ontario development in the hands of such a leader and such a party. A city like London, which is dependent so largely on its manufactures and commerce, has every reason to elect a representative who will strengthen the hands of the Liberal Government. Not only that, but Col. Leys has large commercial and financial interests at Sault. Ste. Marie, and therefore a stake in New Ontario. He knows the country and knows its re-

The Best Place for Him.

The friends of Mr. Beck have been lauding him to the skies as the brainlest man in town, who has kindly given the city his services in order to reform all evils in municipal affairs; who is going to turn everything upside down, and put the best side on top. One would really think to hear some of them that there has never been such a man in the mayor's chair, and never will be again. Well, if he is such a wonderful personage, is it not swear. just as well to give him a chance to do something for this poor, benighted London, in the office he now holds? If he were elected to the Provincial Legislature, we should certainly be deprived of those very valuable services of his to a great extent, as soon as the Legislature meets; for with all his ability he cannot be in London and Toronto at the same time. And what would the city do if he had no time left in which to work as mayor? It is bad enough now when he has to go off to a horse show: but to spend several months in Toronto would be dreadful for us. Even if he handed affairs over to Ald. Cooper or some other faithful alderman, and gave his instructions as to what he should do, there would be too great a risk of the machinery going wrong. Viewing him as the great man which some of his friends profess to consider him, would it not be the wisest course to keep him home, and thus introduce an era of prosperity for the city

On the other hand, suppose it possible that he should not be quite all that then we fear that he would not be as serviceable to the city in the Legislature as Col. Leys has been, and can be. We do not think he could persuade Mr. Ross and his associates as well as the Colonel can. We don't think the Government would pay a great deal of attention to him. At least, we know what Col. Leys is able to do; we have no hope that Mr. Beck could do as well. Whichever light we view him ineither as the great man or the man not quite so great-we think home is the best place for him. He has an obedient majority in the council this year; he has his opportunity now, if he is going to be a useful mayor. We can put up with him there, where he has been where, home will be his sufficiently extended sphere of operations. For legislative purposes we have a better man in Col. Leys; and we rather think Mr. Beck's services will not be nedeed at Toronto. Stay home. Mr. Beck!

A Tale of Progress. In another column appears a letter, published by the Stirling News-Argus, from a young man who has followed Railway. His plain unvarnished story of this enterprise is not only interesting in itself, as showing what is being done to develop New Ontario, but it is a triumphant vindication of the Government's policy. When he wrote, on April 28, fifty miles of the grading had been completed, and hundreds of laying steel rails. Eighteen miles of the road were in constant use hauling The railway, the writer says, is deswould give transportation facilities to several large iron mines and a dozen for hundreds of men. The writer during the winter had issued money considered, symmetrical policy intend- orders aggregating thousands of doled to benefit all classes, and no section lars to men from older Ontario, who of the community will reap greater or sent their earnings home to relatives more speedy advantages from them or to the banks for deposit. He points than the industrial and commercial to a number of great industries springpopulation of the cities. CHICAGO, May 19.—Speculation in grains was lacking in spirit today, and resolved itself into a dull weather market. Ideal conditions prevailed in most of the winter wheat country and in the of the winter wheat country and in the corn and oats region. Prices declined generally, but a late improvement on the export business brought a slight reaction and July wheat closed only ¼c down, July corn ¼c to ½c lower, and July oats ½c lower; provisions closed a shade to 10c down. Local receipts of wheat were ¼ cars, 2 of contract grade; Minneapolis and Duluth reported 258 cars, making a total for the three points of 282 cars, against 264 cars last week and 353 cars a year ago. Primary receipts were 405,000 bu, compared to 500,000 bu last year. Seaboard clearances in wheat equaled 626,000 bu. Breadstuffs on passage increased 656,000 bu. COVERED WITH CINDERS. The ground of La Precheur is covered with a thick layer of cinders, and the limbs of the trees are weighed down with them. After the cruiser passed Cape St. Marie the cinders on shore were seen to be less thick, and gradually decreased as the vessel approached Basse Pointe. Here the Suchet anchored, and a small boat came out from the shore bearing persons who asked for food. Thirty-eight barrels of biscuits and eight hogsheals of codfish were distributed. There were six hundred inhabitants at Basse Pointe, and a number of families have fled the village, leaving all their property behind them. The river at Basse Pointe is filled with mud, which appears to be congealing. The bridge Basse Pointe has been completely destroyed.

RIVER DRIED UP. The river water has ceased to flow, but cattle get water from the springs. There are several very fine sugar cane estates in the vicinity of Basse Pointe. Several women, with their children and baggage, embarked on the Suchet there, and the cruiser returned to St. The return trip was quite difficult, the coasts of the island were at

BIG MEETING IN PREMIER'S RIDING

Messrs. Davis and Calvert Address Liberals.

MR. ROSS' RETURN PROPHESIED

Commissioner of Crown Lands Fully Discusses Government's New Ontario Policy.

Strathroy, May 19 .- The terrific rain and hailstorm which visited this lolocality this afternoon interfered somewhat with the ettendance at to-night's Liberal meeting. The storm reached the height of its fury about 7:40, and some parts of the town it would be im- from that time until 9 o'clock it was a brave man who faced the elements for even the briefest space of time. Passengers on the evening train from and at times it was impossible to the east, on which the commissioner of crown lands reached town, were stormbound at the station, and when now more quiet. Towards 5 o'clock in Mr. Davis and Mr. W. S. Calvert, M.P., reached the Lyceum the sidewalk was under several inches of water, and each moment increased the volume. Mr. L. H. Smith, president of the Strathroy Reform Association, presided, and the Strathroy orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. Arthur McLellan, rendered acceptable music from time to time. The first speaker, Mr. Calvert, the Dominion representative of the riding, reminded his hearers that this was a similar experience to that once enjoyed by Sir John Macdonald, when he explained that Providence had sent the rain to moisten their dry speeches. Mr. Calvert passed to a eulogistic reference to Premier Ross, one of the best statesmen that this country has ever produced. No one could point the finger of scorn at any acts of the Government of Ontario since Mr. Ross assumed the leadership. Continuing, Mr. Calvert complimented the guest of the evening, Mr. Davis, on his administration of the important affairs of the crown lands department. He compared the careful husbanding of the present timber and mineral resources of the north with the prodigal manner in which the late Dominion government proposed to dispose of them when Sir Oliver Mowat finally wrested these lands from the Dominion, Mr. Calvert referred to the results of the exploration of new Ontario, comparing the timber policies of the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec to the advantage of the former. He drew attention to the marvelous development of the Sault Ste. Marie district, and said that what the province wanted, and was now getting, was population. In conclusion, Mr. Calvert prophesied, amid applause, the triumphant return of Premier Ross on the 29th.

ROSS HAS BEEN REMEMBERED. Hon. Mr. Davis, who was cordially received, said that the present was the first occasion upon which he had had the pleasure of addressing a public meeting in the constituency which had for so many years past remembered Ross, and, if he were any judge of the feeling of the electors of West Middlesex, he would say they were proud of the fact that they had so faithfully and persistently remembered Ross. (Applause.) They remembered him when they first returned him to the Dominion house, and again when hosen by Sir Oliver Mowat to take charge of the important departof education. They were not likely to forget to remember Ross on the 29th. Mr. Davis remarked the attendance of the ladies despite the storm, and referred to the responsible part which the gentler sex played in Gladstone and Lady Macdonald had so nobly assisted their distinguished husbands in their respective spheres. They had a notable example also in the life and conduct of Lady Laurier. Particuforget the intense and sympathetic interest taken by the late lamented wife of the premier in his public career, and in this connection Mr. Davis paid warm tribute to the many lovable features of that gentle lady's nature.

Continuing, Mr. Davis referred to the ante-election boasts and prophecies of Mr. Whitney and his press previous to the last general election, pointing to their absolute failure and to their recurrence in the present contest. Four years ago the Liberals had rightly foretold victory, and Mr. Davis declared that the indications pointing to victory on the 29th were brighter than ever before in the history of the prov-ince. He spoke of the marvelous campaign being waged by their distinguished leader, a campaign which, for vigor and satisfactory results, had never been paralleled. (Applause.) The commissioner went on to contrast the vigorous prosecution by Mr. Ross legislation proposed the him when he became premier, and to Mr. Whitney's factious opposition. He spoke more particularly of the results apparent from the gov ernment's development of New Ontario and the stimulus afforded trade and ndustry in older Ontario. Mr. Whitnev's attitude with reference to railway aid was criticised, and stress was laid upon the importance of railways as colonizers. Incidentally Mr. Davis mantioned the new departure of the government in the proposed building of the Temiskaming and Northern as a state-owned road. He explained in detail the features of the government's pulp policy, and the points of advantage distinguishing it from the policy pursued by the Province of Quebec. Each week found the efforts of the government to colonize the newer districts of the provinces more successful. Inquiries were daily received from parts of Canada and the United States and from Great Britain. So far-reaching, indeed, had been the department's efforts to attract settlers to Ontario, that they had lately received an inquiry from a party in Patagonia, via the Straits of Magellan, and one from the operator of a cable station on a lonely island in the Pacific. (Applause.) THE OPPOSITION'S WILD

CHARGES.

Mr. Davis referred to Mr. Whitney's aspersion of the character of Mr. Ross, when he charged the boy premier with managing to have thousands of ballots stolen, asking what they could expect f him when he grew to political manhood. This Mr. Davis characterized as a most extraordinary statement, and on a par with Mr. Whitney's charge that Michigan lumbermen had contributed largely to a corruption fund at the last election, which charge was dropped in the trial of the Kingston petition against Hon. Mr. Harty when the judges caustically commented on the ethics of those who made such charges Drink Grano Cereal Coffee Drink Grano Cereal Coffee and then offered no proof. Such wholesale charges came with bad grace from a party which honored Wm. Smith, ex-M.P., of South Ontario, with banquets, nominations and continued support. After a further contrast of the progressive policy of Mr. Ross with the obstructive course pursued by Mr. Whitney, Mr. Davis paid a tribute to the sterling worth of the premier, referring to the honor which would accrue to Ontario to be represented at the coronation proceedings by a prenier of Mr. Ross' eloquence and ability. (Applause.) In conclusion Mr. Davis enumerated a number of reasons for which West Middlesex would remem ber Ross, and the audience applauded vigorously.

The chairman (Mr. Smith) warned his hearers not to be deceived by the apparent lack of interest in the campaign into failure to get out the full vote. If the friends of Mr. Ross turned out as he believed premier would have at least 300 of a

CHATHAM CHEERS

Mr. J. G. Kerr, president of the West Kent Liberal Association, presided. After timely remarks by the chairman, Mr. George Stephens, M.P.; Mr. John Lee, candidate for East Kent, and others, the premier was introduced.

HON. GEORGE W. ROSS. When Premier Ross arose he was presented with a lovely bouquet of roses by little Gladys Gardiner, and an address from Mr. Wm. Needham, on behalf of the colored people. When Mr. Ross commenced to speak he was greeted with loud and prolonged cheering. He thanked the citizens of Chatham and the residents of Kent county for the cordial reception, and remarked that the reception, together with the presence of several clergymen as celebrationists, hardly harmonized with the idea of himself which certain persons and newspapers industriously circulated. THE CANDIDATES FOR KENT. Mr. Ross paid tribute to the merits of the two Liberal candidates, saying of Mr. Lee that he was the baby of the house, and remarked that if they produced babies of such magnificent proportions, and with such a large capacity for business, what like must be their men? Of Mr. Pardo, he said there was no one in the house to whom he would rather go to ask for his opinion in regard to any matter. He was level-headed, fair to his opponents, fair to the government he supports. The province was entering upon a campaign of great interest. The corner-stone of his confidence in the result of the elections was the fact that the people were carefully studying the policy of the government, and putting it in contrast, if he might be permitted to say so, with the want of policy of the opposition.

RECORD AND POLICY. Mr. Ross then went on to discuss the record and policy of the government. He explained the policy for developing New Ontario. He referred to the enlarging market for Canadian produce and manufactures, and pointed with satisfaction to the recent vote of $20,000 for a Dominion trade commissioner in England. There was a great opening in the old country for our manufacturers' goods, and to large the market would lessen the danger of over-production here, and would make the humblest workingman more secure and comfortable than ever before. The bonus for beet sugar was referred to, and mention made of the fact that Kent county within a few weeks would have at Wallaceburg and Dresden respectively beet-sugar factories in which would be manufactured beets owned by farmers who formerly shipped their crops to Michigan.

MR. WHITNEY'S CHANGES. One of the most remarkable features of the campaign, Mr. Ross went on to say, is the agility which Mr. Whitney displays in adopting the various opinions which he finds in party circles. At his meeting in Toronto last August he announced what he declared was his policy, and what the party newspapers paraded as the very thing the country needed in order that its political redemption might be accom-At Port Hope a few weeks ago he declared the Opposition had othing to offer except good intentions. (Laughter.) The Clergue grant of land he declared "a phenomenal steal," when he was in the house. Now he says Mr. Clergue deserved the grant, and also the credit for the marvelous development which Mr. Whitney saw. At Owen Sound he declared he was always in favor of developing New Ontario. At the "Soo" he admitted that survive. he was not able to see farther than his nose, with respect to the government's schemes of development. (Laughter.) At New Hamburg he was opposed to taxing corporations. At Uxbridge and other places he declared that the statement that he favored the repeal of the corporation tax was an absolute falsehood. (Applause.) After referring to other contradictory statements made by Mr. Whitney, the NEW G. T. R. TRAIN. premier asked: What can the country expect from a leader so hysterical in his utterances and so unsettled in regard to his convictions? He really proposes nothing except to take office. (Laughter and cheers.) For fourteen years he had held a seat in the house. and for six years he has been leader of a party, and he is still as empty-handed as when he entered parliament. Does Ontario want a change under these circumstances? (Loud cheers.) In concluding, Mr. Ross referred the great future before the Dominion of Canada, in which it would become the second, if not the first, nation on this continent, and the greatest colony of the empire. "That is the work which is upon us as a government," he said; 'we are your servants, we are your trustees; we are seeking honestly-I am speaking for myself and my colleagues -to discharge that duty. We are not afraid of criticism; we want fair play; we know we will get it, and, getting it, we know there will be a victory for the Liberal party in the election." (Loud and prolonged cheers.) the King, Mr. Ross, and Messrs, Pardo

"When Anna Pomeroy found herself deserted, and with a little child on her hands to support as well as himself," he continued, losing some of his color, for this wound of his youth had never healed, "she began to come to her senses and realize that she had made a terrible mistake. She wrote to me, asking me to forgive her for the shabby trick she had played me, telling me of her destitute condition, that she was ill and had a helpless babe to care for. Nothing could have tempted me to marry her after that neipless babe to care for. Nothing could have tempted me to marry her after that —she had destroyed my confidence in all women—but I couldn't forget that she was to have been my wife, and that no other ever would be. I could not let her suffer. I answered her letter, promising to provide for her as long as she needed suffer. I answered her letter, promising to provide for her as long as she needed it; but I told her never to thank me, hever to write to me again unless she changed her residence, when she was simply to send me her address. Every year after that, until she died, I sent her enough to provide against all fear of her enough to provide against all fear of

"Then you knew that she was dead," interposed Max, looking surprised. "Laura told us that she felt sure you had never received the letter she wrote to you, telling you of it, and she was very much troubled that she could never find you to inform you of the fact of her own necessities."

'How long since she appeared so distressed?" demand Mr. Archibald, with a peculiar twinkle in his eyes. "I'll warrant that she did not mention it for some weeks before she left you."

Max looked curious.
"No, I don't remember that she spoke of it for some time," he remarked, resaid his companion, "Miss "Well," said his companion, "Miss Laura and I had an interview one day last August, just after my meeting with you, and," with a comical chuckle, "the young lady was evidently not pleased with the cut of my coat, the style of my shoes, or of my living, and, since then, has given me the cut direct, as you fashionable people call it."

"So," he said, in conclusion, "she's the one who has robbed you of your fortune? You say she made out a clear case, proved herself to be the legitimate child of this Maxwell D. Remington. I must say I don't like it at all; it isn't right that any such trouble should come upon a fine woman like your mother, to say nothing about Laura getting all that fortune. She isn't fit to have the handling of money; there won't be anything left of all those thousands three years from now. "I brought him home with me," Max continued, "but I have told him nothing as yet about his daughter and the part she has been playing of late. I thought it unwise to do so, for various reasons."

"Thank you; but I am now going to ask you to help me to engineer this matter a little. You see, I must be a little matic, or I am afraid that this accomplished gentleman of aces, kings, queens and jacks will be too much for

"Yes, yes, yes; I'll help you—only give me a chance," returned Mr. Archibald, with an emphatic nod of his head, and evidently well pleased with the prospect of taking a hand in this grand skirmish. "I just want Mr. Remington to com-mit himself—in fact, to identify himself before witnesses," Max resumed, "and then I shall have something tangible to work with to re-establish my mother's claim to the Remington property. I thought if we could arrange for a little dinner, to be given here in your parlor, inviting your man of business and Mr. ld-Laura's lawyer-to meet my new-nd relative and myself, we might get Mr. Remington to relate some of his ex-periences—and I find that he can be very entertaining when he chooses, and will refrain from swearing-together with something of his personal history. Then there would be no trouble in proving that Laura's father and the Maxwell D. Remington who married my mother were Remington who married my mother were not one and the same person."
"We'll do it, youngster—we'll do it," said Mr. Archibald, eagerly, "this very afternoon—the quicker the better. But all this will be a bitter pill for Miss Laura, when she discovers the trap that is being prepared for her."

is being prepared for her."

"I cannot help being sorry for the unfortunate girl," Max said, gravely, "for unfortunate she surely is, in being the daughter of such parents. I felt it my duty, too, to tell you what I have learned, thinking perhaps you might wish to make some change in the disposal of your own property; I imagined it might make some difference in your plans regarding Miss Walton."

"Not a particle—not a cent's worth, young man," replied the old gentleman, drily, "I saw through Miss Laura the first time I set eyes on her, and it'll be a cold day, as the gamins say, when she gets as much as a dollar of my money; and don't you waste any of your sympathy on her, either, for, mark my words,

She was dressed in her pretty blue flannel wrapper, which was very becoming to her delicate complexion. She was still very thin, of course, but her eyes were bright with happiness and anticipation, for she knew that Max had arrived, and her cheeks were flushed with the loveliest pink imaginable.

She darted one glad look at her lover as he entered the room, then her white lids drooped and her color deepened as she tried to rise to greet him.

"Don't rise, please," Max said, as he hastened forward to prevent her, and clasping the hand which she held out to him; "we must be very careful of you for a long while yet."

Volumes could not have expressed more to him than those few words, for they told him that her heart was beating with fondest affection for him.

He drew her toward him, folding his strong arms about her, and laid her bright head upon his broad breast.

"My very own for as long as we both shall live!" he murmured, tremulously.

"Shall it be so, my darling?"

"For as long as we both live," she repeated, as she put up her hand, drew down his head, and laid her cheek against his, "and—Max, I do not believe that even death could divide our hearts." FATAL WHEEL ACCIDENTS. Archie McEachern's death last week makes the third fatal accident since mechanically propelled pacing machines have been used for pace-making purposes. The first fatality was at Boston a couple of years ago, when a motor-tandem, becoming uncontrollable, dashed over the bank and into a fence, killing the two men who were riding it. The accident in Madison Square Garden last fall that caused the death of Johnnie Nelson, of Chicago, middle-distance champion at the time, is still fresh in the minds of the cyclists. While the work was going on, the gas generated was exploded by a lighted lamp. The For the spring weddings we mill caught fire in several places, and as it was impossible to use water, which would generate more gas from the carbide, the situation looked seri-Aid was secured, however, and the fire was extinguished before much damage had been done. Two men were overcome by the gas, and had to be carried out.

CONTRACT TO BE SIGNED. The water commissioners met in regular session yesterday afternoon, all the members except the mayor being present. The chairman was authorized to sign the contract by which the London Machine Tool Company undertake to supply for $18,000 the new hydraulic pumps and turbine wheels needed at the pumping station. George White & Sons' application for remission of meter rent was refused. Knowles & Co.'s application to join their pipes to the city main was referred to the engineer. The report of the pumping engineer showed that during the half-month the hydraulic machinery pumped 35,539,200 gallons and the Blake-Yates pumps 52,430,800 gallons. There was an average of 12 feet of water in the reservoir.

The programme included a discussion of prohibition and temperance, in which Rev. C. T. Scott and Mr. F. W. Daly joined. Rev. Mr. Scott took the place of Rev. Dr. Johnston, who was expected to lead the meeting, but was unable to do so. Mr. Daly's address was in line with those which he has delivered during the campaign, and was listened to with close attention. The Y. M. C. A. Quartet and Mr. E. J. Forsyth supplied the musical portion of the programme. Mr. W. G. Young, the retiring president, presided, and Rev. A. K. Birks, Rev. George Jackson and Mr. Jos. Nicholson were with him on the platform.

ANTE-NUPTIAL PRESENTATION. The Montreal Witness of Saturday says: An interesting presentation took place this morning at the premises of Messrs. J. Eveleigh & Co., corner of Vitre and St. Elizabeth streets. The occasion was the approaching marriage of Mr. Fred J. Eveleigh, eldest son of the leading member of the firm, to Miss Jennie Reeve, daughter of Mr. Vivian Reeve, London, Ont. The wedding will take place at the Memorial Church, in that city, on May 21. The foremen and workmen all joined in the presentation. Mr. James Guest, as the senior foreman, was appointed spokesman, and he expressed the pleasure it gave the entire staff of all grades to make the presentation, and he offered their best wishes for his he offered their best wishes for his future happiness. Mr. Eveleigh, though taken by surprise, thanked them all heartily for their gifts, but more especially for the kindly words expressed. Sousa's Band at the Grand.

Another good musical attraction has come to London and received but a tithe of the patronage it should have been accorded. The Grand Opera House should have been crowded last night on the appearance of John Philip Sousa and his famous band, but instead there was only a sprinkling of people on the lower floor, with a slight-ly large audience above. Letters Written by Former Residents of the Now Extinct City.

Paris, May 20.-Martinique mails forwarded just prior to the disaster have arrived here. The newspapers print a number of private letters from St. Pierre, giving many details of events immediately preceding the catastrophe. The most interesting is a letter from a lady, who was among the victims, dated May 3. After describing the aspect of St. Pierre before dawn, the town being lit up with flames from the volcano, the earth covered with ashes and the people greatly excited, yet not panic-stricken, she said:

"My calmness astonishes me. I am waiting the event tranquilly. My only suffering is from the dust, which penetrates everywhere, even through closed windows and doors. We are all calm. Marma is not a bit apprious."

FIVE DAYS' WARNING. These and other letters seem to indicate that evidences of the impending disaster were numerous five days before it occurred. It is difficult to understand how it was that a general exodus of the population of St. Pierre did not take place before May 8."
Still another letter says: "St. Pierre presents an aspect unknown to the natives. It is a city sprinkled with gray snow, a winter scene without cold. The inhabitants of the neighborhood are abandoning their houses, villas, and cottages, and are flocking to the city. # NATURAL GAS FOUND NEAR TILSONBURG

Good Flow Struck on Hawkin Farm

North of Town. Tilsonburg, Ont., May 20.-A remarkable flow of natural gas was struck on the Hawkin farm, a short distance north of this town, by Mr. Cuthbertson, manager of several oil wells that have been operated in this vicinity during the past few months. In drilling in this last well an immense pressure of gas has been obtained about 100 feet from the surface. The pressure was sufficiently strong to lift the sinker bar, weighing 1,800 pounds, and threw portions of rock above the derrick, which is 53 feet The gas appears to be of excellent
