fe was kind of Sir John Macdonald and Sir Charles Tupper to leave their perfumed and satined palace car long enough to assure the citizens of London who pay for all this luxury how exceedingly comfortable and well-off the workingman, the farmer and the ordinary consumer are at the present time-how high the wages! how large the prices of what they have to sell! how booming real estate! how flush of money the average business man, so flush that he never needs to ask the renewal of a note!!

The meeting Friday night in the drill shed men on the platform without a single exception were good looking. The attendance, as a junior reporter might remark, was "all that could be desired." The hall, though not well adapted for public speaking, was made fairly comfortable. Little details, such as the bouquets and the playing of "Rule Britannia" once or twice at a acerted signal during Sir Charles Tupper's eech, had been attended to in a way to the managers with glory.

And then the speeches! No dry drivel calculated to tell the workingman how he stant employment! or the farmer upon how to show a busier shop and a bigger the most convenient cry against the Loyalty to Canada and good will to Great Britain are the property of no one class or creed or party in this country, and no such false and misleading cry will ever be used except by politicians bankrupt in argument and no longer capable of government. The pages of history show but too bloodily what crimes have been committed for the benefit of the Governmental Combines of past ages for the purpose of preserving, for the corrupt and tyrannical few, those rights and liberties and privileges intended for mankind. As a well-known historical writer says, no men were ever louder in their professions of loyalty than were Scroggs and Jeffreys at the time when they were judicially murdering Russell and Sidney or going on the Bloody Assize.

You have a particular interest in the struggle between reciprocity and restriction because you have the best practical illustration of the benefits of reciprocity. What business would the Grand Trunk, Canada Pacific or Michigan Central do if the railways had not reciprocity with the United States. They are the only institutions in Canada that have free intercourse (through the bonding system) with the United States. You, know that it is American business that gives them their employment. The London Free Press is, so far, afraid to publish the reply of the Doherty Stove and Furnace Manufacturing Company, of Sagnia, the Manu telebrated suit of Bardell vs. Stove and Furnace Rammacturing Company, of Sarnia, to Mr. John McClary's letter. Why? The ADVERTISER has printed both letters side by side.

From every quarter of the Dominion omes the most gratifying intelligence reservative party, disgusted with the state of affairs, are ranging themselves on the side of genuine reciprocity, and the solid mass is moving on to victory. Ten days' hard work in arranging for the polling of the full anti-Combine vote will result in a clean sweep Unrestricted Reciprocity cannot be stayed by the circulation of falsehoods.

For tall stories, Tupper could give points to Munchausen. He sticks at nothing to deceive his hearers. But he carried his forced loan upon the credulty of the people of London too far when, in the face of shut-down factories, short time, and gen-eral depression, he joined with the self-con-fessed garrulous old man who accompanied him in asserting that everybody was pros-perous, and that the policy of high taxation had made them so.

The proof cannot be challenged. It is from the official record. The N. P. was asked for as a policy of retaliation to secure Unrestricted Reciprocity. All parties agreed to that, manufacturers and Con-servative leaders included.

As the Liberals and many Conservatives have come to the conclusion that the high ax policy and retaliation is a failure, they have nailed to their banners Conciliation and Unrestricted Reciprocity.

How can that be done? By giving our manufacturers the market of the continent. Capital is ever seeking its best opportunities. Sir Leonard Tilley in 1878 said Canada had the advantage over any other part of the continent for manufacturing. We agree with him. You can't get large capital or large manufactories unless you have a large market.

Just now a specimen illustration of Toronto cheek is to the fore. Two writers for the press get into a row, in the course of which one tries to blow the other up by an alleged exposure which he has worked up.

This little squabble between writers for the press has been magnified—even the Dominion Premier in his distress clutching at it as a something with which to divert attention—and apparently Toronto conceit expects the rest of Ontario and the rest of the Dominion to leave the great question of Reciprocity vs. Restriction to look on at the little Toronto contest in the little Toronto

SIR CHARLES TUPPER SUED.

[New York World.]

It is said that previous to his departure for Canada Sir Charles Tupper was served with the complaint in a sait to be instituted in the Supreme Court. The plaintiff's name is given as Josephiue Bailey, but no other information can be obtained. Charles W. Brooke, who represents the young lady, has acknowledged that the case "is of a peculiar kind," but declines to say why it is peculiar. The lady is said to be young, stylish and pretty and very much in earnest. The friends of Sir Charles profess to believe the suit has no foundation. The papers will probably not be filed in course until an auswer is made to the complaint.

THE CHURCH IN WALES

A Resolution in Favor of Disestablishment Rejected.

London, Feb. 21.—In the House of Commons last evening Mr. Morgan's resolution is favor of disestablishment of the church in Males was rejected by a vote of 235 to 203. The announcement of the large vote in its favor was greeted vith loud Opposition cheers.

Mr. Gladstone appeared in the crowded House carefully dressed and wearing a flower in the buttoshole of his coat. He listened with attention to the opening speeches. Then himself rising, he said: "I could not have spoken on this question half a century ago as I am about to speak now. Then the administration of the Established Church in Wales was in many ways feeble and open to heavy censure. Now the case is different. It might be asked why interfere if the church were active and progressive and the Nonconformists contented. But the latter were not contented and the question was whether they were entitled to be discontented. They were making indistinct terms, with a voice very audible—indeed, a demand ne felt it to be his duty to listen to and which he was convinced before long the House would be compelled and disposed to listen to. (Cheers.) He did not think the Welsh people were disposed to make inconvenient claims on account of nationality, but he believed they had the right to insist upon the British Parliament paying due regard to such claims as they were warranted in making. He said on the question of the justice of the demand he had not said it was a repetition the case of the Church of Ireland, but it was so. The two vital determining points of the Church of the few and the church of the remaining points of the Church of wales were that it was the church of the few and the church of the right to have a demand and sheir distribution in respect to the various classes of society, it was not far from truth to say that the Nonconformists of Wales were the people of Wales. Nobody could doubt that they would again speak as decisively as in 1886, when out of 30 members 27 were pledged in favor of disestabli

Sir George Trevelyan supported the resolution. The feeling in favor of disestablishment was growing rapidly and kept alive by the only persecution now possible, namely, favor and partiality shown by the law to creed as against creed, a favor which he trusted would receive its death blow.

Solicitor General Clark having briefly replied, the House divided, with the result already announced.

1.000 Lives Lost.

AFAFITE, Egypt, via Suakim, Feb. 21.—
A severe engagement was fought at Tokar on Feb. 19 between the Egyptian troops, who recently left El-Teb, and Osman Digna's forces. Nearly 1,000 lives were lost. The Egyptians made their advance from Afafite during the early dawn of morning, and pushed forward through the brushwood surrounding Tokar and its neighborhood. The Dervishes saw the object of the Egyptian advance, and a compact mass of Arab riflemen poured a hot fire into the ranks of the advancing Egyptians. The latter, however, returned the Arab's fire, fixed bayonets when within easy distance of the enemy and bravely charged upon them. For over an hour a desperate hand-to-hand bayonet, spear and sword fight followed, during which the Egyptian troops fought with the most determined bravery. Finally, the Egyptian cavalry made a brilliant charge upon the Dervishes, who retired in disorder, suffering a crushing defeat. The Dervishes numbered at least 2,000 fighting men. About an equal force of Egyptians were engaged. After the retreat of the Dervishes hand around the position mentioned, while large numbers of dead were lying in the ditches around the buildings.

Serious Dispute Between Union and Non-Union Shearers.

Brisbare, Queensland, Feb. 21.—The disputes existing between union and non-union shearers in this colony have reached a most dangerous point. One hundred union shearers mounted on horseback and union shearers mounted on horseback and well armed have started for Barcaldine Downs to attack the non-union shearers employed on the sheep stations of that section. The authorities here have dis-patched troops in pursuit of the mounted shearers.

which imposes such unequal burdens upon them?—[Montreal Herald.

The Toronto correspondent of the Montreal Witness says: "Sir John Macdonald's cry of treason at Toronto last night, over the private meetings of the then editor of the Toronto Mail, Mr. Farrer, only provokes laughter here. The Premier himself employed Mr. Farrer, in 1882, to write campaign literature under the immediate instructions of Sir Charles Tupper. Perhaps the Liberal party is responsible for what he wrote them, and for the declaration that if the National Policy injured British connection?" The electors must perceive that the Liberal party is only responsible for its own policy and not for what its opponents assert to be its policy. It is interesting to note that Sir John Macdonold has prepared another inscription for his tombstone. In Toronto, last night, he said he wanted no better than that he had given the National Policy in light, he said he wanted no better than that he had given the National Policy to this country. In 1872 the Premier said at Peterboro that if he wished to have any record on his tombstone, it was this: "That he had a part in provided in the wished to have any record on his tomb-stone, it was this: "That he had a part in the making of the treaty of Washington." Two statements worth remembering. Two strong points were made by speakers at Saturday night's meeting in the town hall. One was the statement of Mr. W.

EXTORTION BY "PROFECTION."

"Do you want to know how protection is worked in order to rob the farmer?" said a member of the Corn Exchange to the Montreal Witness representative on Thursday;

"I will show you."

"The cordage companies of Canada, in order to keep down production and prevent competition from reducing prices, pay, and have for the past ten years paid, 10 per cent. on the value of the Lachute Rope Works to remain idle. Of course the workingmen of Canada will see how this policy provides amployment for them, and how careful the manufacturers are of their interests. The farmers' interests are also carefully looked after in this arrangement, for, of course, he is compelled to pay higher prices for his binding twine because of this practice of buying off competition." The same is and has been long true of the wire fencing companies.

GENESIS OF RECIPROCITY

Unrestricted Trade Demanded by the United States?—We should be very pleased Manufacturers.

The "National Policy" Adopted as a Means

The One-Time Declarations of The Conservative

clamorers for restriction and a continuance of the policy that has made some Combine members millionaires, while it has ruined hundreds of formerly prosperous manufacturers, urged the adoption of the N. P. as an aid to procure unrestricted trade with the States. It will be shown from the speeches of the chief political agent of the Combines that he, too, in-.troduced the N. P. as a policy of retaliation to force the United States people to concede "reciprocity in trade." Time and space need not be wasted in preliminary discussion; let us to the proof.

In 1876, while the worldwide depression was at its height, while hundreds of thousands of men were out of work in Great Litain and the United States and the best customers of the Dominion were crippled through a financial panic that destroyed conthrough a financial panie that destroyed confidence and paralyzed commerce, Canada also felt the shock. The Liberal Government of the day were blamed because they did not try to find a remedy for the trouble by adding to the tax burdens of the people, and though for over two years the late Josiah Black burn, of the London Free Press, good free trader that he was, stuck out against that heresy, even he finally capitulated, and the Conservative policy became a retaliatory tariff against the States, in order to force the concession of reciprocity.

tariff against the States, in order to force the concession of reciprocity.

To ascertain the feeling of the manufacturers, however, the Dominion Government set on foot a special committee on the depression. That committee met in the winter of 1887, and took the evidence, on oath, of leading manufacturers and merchants from every portion of the Dominion, and it is on their testimony that we purpose thoroughly reconciling the Liberal policy of the day with the confessed demands of the manufacturers.

THE STOVE MEN.

Mr. Edward Gurney, of Hamilton and Toronto, gave evidence before the committee for the manufacturers of stoves, furnaces and castings. He said his firm tegan "business in 1843. In 1876 they employed "business in 1843. In 1876 they employed 400 hands. United States makers have no better facilities for manufacturing stoves cheaper than my firm can. The firm paid higher wages than those paid in Buffalo. Molders, he said, then were paid by the piece, varying from $2 to $3 50. The wages for skilled labor and unskilled was higher than in the United States. Mr. Gurney further stated that stove men in Canada as well as in the United States were in the habit of selling their goods at less than cost when they get out of style. After goods get out of style," he said, "they are sacrificed, and we send them to Buffalo and sell them at 50 per cent. of what they cost to the Germans in the poorer parts of the city."

duced by the business itself, and it increased four fold, according to Mr. Gurney's testimony, between 1861 and 1877. Was not that a substantial increase, obtained, too, at a time when, if we are to believe the restrictionist organs of to-day, the stove business and every other manufacturing industry in the country was languishing though lack of ability to charge customers a higher price than their market value?

The next question and answer is of much importance at the present time. We have affirmed that in those days of agitation for special privileges, the advocates of "protection" invariably asked to be "protected" from the "old world pauper labor" and to be put on a level with their neighbors in the United States. When Mr. Gurney was examined by the Parliamentary Committee in 1876 he was asked by Mr. Platt, M.P.:

"If WE HAD RECIPROCITY WITH THE UNITED STATES IN YOUR BUSINESS WOULD YOU BE IN FAVOR OF IT?"

His ready reply was:

His ready reply was:

To procure Unrestricted Reciprocity the N. P. was set on foot in Canada. This may be regarded by some as a bold statement, but we purpose showing that it is in every respect true.

We will give undeniable proof that the representative manufacturers and millers so asserted, and we will show out of their own mouths that some of the loudest own mouths the some of the loudest own mouths that some of the loudest own mouths the some of the loudest own mouths that some loudes

By the way, though the Gurneys were so anxious to see "protection" established, because, as they represented, they could not make a living, it is an undeniable fact that they started with $800 capital in 1843, and before 1876 were worth nearly AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.

The Massey Company, of Newcastle protested against an increase in tariff for their benefit. Perhaps even a little less protested against an increase in tariff for their benefit. Perhaps even a little less would be better, said the company, in a letter to the Parliamentary Committee. "A still further advance would certainly prove adverse to our interests." This company favors Unrestricted Reciprocity at the present time.

G. M. Cossitt & Bro., Brockville, said: 'If allowed an equal chance in honorable competition we can successfully sell our machines anywhere against American manufacturers."

That was spunk for you.

No less pronounced was that grand old Canadian manufacturer, John Watson, of Ayr, who appeared before the committee and said he employed from 60 to 75 men on a capital from $75,000 to $100,000. He had worked up his business from two men and himself, his trade increasing each year.

The chairman asked—The capital invested is capital provided by the business?

Mr. Watson—Yes; every dollar of it. How does the cost of production here compare with the United States!—I think we can produce as cheap as they do.

What would be the effect if we had reciprocity with the United States in your line of head were the control of the

we can produce as cheap as they do.

What would be the effect if we had reciprocity with the United States in your line of business?—We would hold up both hands for that. There would not then be so many manufacturers conflicting with each other here, for we would strike out with particular branches of the trade, say in one or two articles, and after we had supplied Canada we would send the balance into the States.

Mr. Watson further protested against increasing the tariff for his alleged benefit. He manufacturers of course it must be disadvantageous to the farmers. I have noticed that in a season when the farmers were prosperous I was prosperous; the better position they were in the better I was in."

habit of selling their goods at less than cost when they get out of style. After goods get out of style," he said, "they are sacrificed, and we send them to Buffalo and sell them at 50 per cent. of what they cost to the Germans in the poorer parts of the city."

So that in those days there was slaughtering on both sides of the line, when it was deemed expedient by the dealers. Still, the business of this representative firm grew. All the capital invested was produced by the business itself, and it increased four fold, according to Mr. Gur-the same cost as it is supplied to the New England makers.

There is no reason why you should not manufacture as cheaply as in the United States !—Yes, sir. I will state one reason against us. In the United States there are 875 cotton mills. Some of these mills from the commencement have been running on one style of goods. I know one particular mill that started in 1845 on one style of goods and it has heen running ever since on the same style. The consequence is that they are able to produce a larger quantity for less money. Here we have run on different styles, and therefore cannot manufacture so cheaply.

different styles, and therefore cannot manufacture so cheaply.

If we had free trade could you compete with the American manufacturers?—I should go for free trade very quickly.

How can you feel confident you can hold your own if they can really produce cheaper than you can?—I say that in their mills they run specialties, whereas I am running different styles, and have to do it at the loss entailed by different styles.

They are now trying to run each mill on one line, and thus make them pay. But it is understood that in exchange for political support now given, the present high tax vernment has promised, if again returned to power, as now does not seem probable, to raise the tax on cottons, and give the Combine a chance to recruit its purse at the expense of the consumers. For the taxpayer it is a very expensive way to do BOOTS AND SHOES.

Mr. Mullarky, boot and shoe manufac-turer, said he had been in business since 1857. He had no money when he began; he was worth $108,000 in 1876 and employed from 300 to 400 hands. He wanted reciprocity in tariffs.

Then you come here to ask for protec-tion?—I come here to ask for reciprocity of tariffs with the United States. If they take their tariff away altogether I am perfectly willing that ours shall be taken away. If they ask for 35 per cent. duty I want a 35 per cent. duty.

Is it not a fact that at the present day these same parties have large capital?—That is a secret of the trade.

Are there any boots and shoes imported into this country similar to those made in this country?—There are a few. I believe the Americans are able to compete with us in the higher lines. When we speak of stogas, brogans and women's split backs, the common kinds of work, they are not able to compete with us, as we have the raw material here, and they can be made cheaper here than in the United States.

In what way would reciprocity prevent the competition from English goods of which you complain?—It would not prevent it; that has always been a difficulty, but so long as the country was prosperous, we did not feel very much inconvenience from it.

By Mr. Platt—You would have a larger field if you had reciprocity with the United States?—Yes.

TYPE-FOUNDING.

By Mr. Dymond-It is not the American producers you are competing with so much as the English and Scotch?—Yes, we have large American market we could send to la large American market we could send to if it were not for the high tariff. We have had offers to supply several of the border States with type.

You are not aware that anything could be done here that would obtain the American market for you except reciprocity?

No, nothing except reciprocity.

THE MILLING INDUSTRY.

Wm. Lukes, Newmarket, flour miller, was examined;

as examined:

Have you considered what duty you de sire to see imposed upon flour and wheat in order to carry out the policy of yourself and your friends? I am a member of the and your friends? I am a member of the Manufacturers' Association of Ontario, and a representative of the Board of Trade, by whom a resolution was passed stating that equal duties should be imposed on all foreign produce of the farm, the forest and the mine and manufactures thereof which the country where these articles are produced impose on similar articles when produced impose on similar articles when produced in Canada. Further, he was asked:
"What duty would you propose?" and the answer came promptly:
A reciprocal tariff.
"That is what you ask?" queried Mr. Dymond, M.P.
"Yes, I ask for that as a representative of the Manufacturers' and Millers' Association. If we had the United States market we would be pleased."
You have no market in the West Indies or South America?—None at all.
Your flour would require a particular mode of preparation for those markets?—The expense would be such that the operation would not pay; it was tried some ten years ago.

Have we not conclusively shown by the evidence of these representative manufac turers, sworn to before a Parliamentar Committee, that the demand made to for Unrestricted Reciprocity first; failing that, restriction in trade. The Conservative party, in opposition tions of its leader: Sir John Macdonald said on March 10, 1876, in the House of Commons:

The United States should be dealt with as they deal with us. If they do not grant us reciprocity in trade we should give them reciprocity in tariff.

At Montreal, July, 1877, he said:

There is only one way of securing prosperity, and that is by adopting the Conservative maxim that if we cannot get reciprocity of trade we will have reciprocity of tariffs.

The logical conclusion is that as the Conservative party has now proved that the N. P. has been a thorough failure, and the reciprocity in tariffs has resulted in crippling Canada's ever-growing trade with her neighbors, a change should take place. We have had reciprocity in tariffs too long. It has been a losing game. Let us now try reciprocity in trade on the basis laid down by the manufacturers themselves in 1876 and indorsed by all independent manufacturers now. The Combines have ruled this country

About 200 gentlemen, including a great many medical men, gathered at the Toronto Auditorium Friday afternoom to witness the private performance of C. A. Sampson, the strongest man on earth, whose feats at the Royal Aquarium, London, caused such a sensation. Sampson is about 32 years old, five feet seven or eight inches in height and weighs 172 pound. He first produced a pair of bracelets of steel chain and had them examined. They were then attached to a hook in the floor and ropes were fastened to the chains. Dr. Cassidy, Dr. Dame, Mr. J. F. Scholes and Mr. W. G. Mills took held of the ropes, but the chains resisted their united efferts. The medical men are bigger and heavier than the average man, and their companions are well-known athletes. Sampson then slipped the bracelets over his right arm and by the expansion of his muscles burst the chains into fragments. A broad leather band strapped around his chest was also broken by the expansion of the muscles. A marked quarter of a dollar supplied by Dr. Cuthbertson was broken in two by the fingers. His last feat was to break two steel chains with a blow of his fist, which was protected only by a handkerchief.

your lands in five years more? Can anyone answer?

Is there no way out? Yes. Rise equal to the occasion; do as the American farmers have done, and vote against every man who announces himself a supporter of the present system and against reciprocity. Don't allow yourselves to be diverted from the main issue. Reciprocity is the all-important matter in the present election. Remember the words of the poet, "Who would be free, themselves must strike the blow," and strike a blow that will upset the corruptionists, combines and monopolies that have fattened on your labor for the last twelve years.

SPRINGHILL COAL MINES, N. S., Feb. SPRINGHILL COAL MINES, N. S., feb. 23.—A terribly disastrous explosion took place in the west side of the east slope on Saturday. The details at hand show that it was the most disastrous as regards loss of life that ever happened in the history of Canadian mines, or, in fact, on the continent of America, with the exception of the explosion at Scottsdale, Pa., recently.

THE WOUNDED.

Special trains conveyed a score of dectors from the outlying towns to look after the wounded, who number about 50, some of whom are fatally injured, but the majority will recover. The enormity of the deprivation at this time of the year of so many bread-winners can only be met by prompt and extensive aid, and an appeal has been issued to the generous public of the Canadian and American people. The position of about 50 of the dead men showed that they were not killed by the force of the explosion, but succumbed to the deadly fire-damp while trying to escape.

lanced back over his shoulder with Breat's symptoms were all indicative of concussion of the brain, and though the surgeon said there had been no fracture of the skull, he was fearful that fatal consequences might ensue. Among his comrades of the infantry battalion the young soldier was by long olds the most popular and beloved man in the ranks, and that he should have been "slugged," as they expressed it, in the discharge of his duty by some accoundrel of a cavalryman, was developing a very ugly feeling at the post. Murphy and Scanlan had been sent to Coventry among their other comrades for having lent a willing ear to the wiles of the tempter and so led on to the tragedy that followed. Colonel Morris had ordered that Goss should be confined to a cell apart from the ordinary prisoners; but when confronted with the array gof a dozen malefactors, neither Murphy nor Scanlan was able to fix on any one of them as the man who accosted them the night of the tragedy and gave them drink at the southwest gate. Goss was like him in size and beard, they said, but that was all they could assert. It was enough, however, to prompt some of the infantrymen on guard to scaring the prisoner's life almost out of him. He piteously implored the officer of the day at his next visit not to keep him there—the "dough-boys," he said, had sworn they would lynch him if Brent died—and again and again he declared himself innocent and the victim of some conspiracy. When Colonel Morris was informed of the threat, he decided to send the man to the neighboring town and the custody of the civil authorities, that he might be tried by their courts in the event of a fatal termination to the corporal's injuries, but waited until afternoon before issuing the orders in the exec.

The presentation of "The Red Hussar" by the Duff Opera Company at the Grand Friday evening was a leading event of the season. With over 60 well-trained voices, the choruses were really superb, while the costuming was novel and beautiful, the music sparkling and the stage setting excellent. The individual parts are exceedingly well taken. Vivacious Marie Tempest, with her winning ways, rare vocal gifts, and genuine dramatic ability captured the audience by storm. Twice was she called before the curtain to receive an ovation, the enthusiastic crowd refusing to leave after the last act until she bowed her acknowledgements. Miss Leonore Snyder came in for a good reception; she has a rich voice. Messrs. Chas. O. Eassett and Wm. McLaughlin also sang with spirit and correctness. The ballet maneuvers appropriate to the military character of the opera, were about the best ever seen in this city. "The Red Hussar" was presented Saturday afternoon, and "Dorothy" in the evening.
