WINDSOR M.C.R. YARDS TIED UP BY SWITCHMEN'S STRIKE

NOT A FREIGHT CAR LEAVING M.C.R. YARDS IN WINDSOR AS RESULT OF SWITCHMEN'S STRIKE

One Hundred Yardmen Were Laid Off On Sunday — An Immense Quantity of Merchandise Stored in Hundreds of Cars Standing On Side Tracks—More Are Coming From East.

Windsor, April 12.—The local Michigan Central freight yards are completely tied up, not a freight car is moving out, and two lonely yard engines, attempting vainly to cope with the situation, are sitting idly through a maze of rolling stock shutting the incoming cars from the east on to side switches.

The crisis came Sunday when over 100 switchmen were laid off, partly foot lock-out, partly because they were merely acting as railroad constables, guarding the immense quantity of merchandise presently stored in the yard.

Should the strike not be settled immediately it is almost certain that all the men who have been laid off will be absorbed in the local factories, and will not be available for yard duty when the trouble is ended.

HAMILTON INDUSTRIES LIKELY TO CLOSE AS RESULT OF STRIKE

Hamilton, April 12.—Some Hamilton industries are hard hit by the coal shortage as a result of the switchmen's strike, and the Steel Company of Canada will shortly be forced to curtail operations or close down altogether.

five local lodges of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen being held this afternoon at which President W. G. Lee of the trainmen and Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, were present.

Mr. Gompers issued a statement yesterday that all the influence of the American Federation of Labor would be thrown into the support of the brotherhood in its struggle with the revolting strikers.

SWITCHMEN'S UNION IN WINNIPEG DECIDES NOT TO JOIN STRIKE

Chicago, April 12.—Developments west of Pittsburgh in the switchmen's unauthorized strike today were regarded by railroad brotherhoods pointing toward a gradual dissolution of the insurgent forces, but in the east, where the walkout was joined in several districts by trainmen, the situation assumed a more serious aspect.

BRITISH REPLY IS HANDED TO MILLERAND BY LORD DERBY

French Premier Refuses To Discuss Contents With Correspondents.

Paris, April 12.—The Earl of Derby, British ambassador to France, delivered to Premier Millerand at 1 o'clock this afternoon the British reply to the French premier's note of last evening.

Immediately after receipt of the note M. Millerand left to call upon President Deschanel.

M. Millerand held a few minutes' conversation with the various chiefs of the foreign office before leaving for the palace, and it is probable that the contents of the note were immediately made the subject of discussion by the foreign affairs personnel.

It was stated, however, that no information would be given out for publication before the premier's return from his visit to the president.

Premier Millerand's reply, which probably will go forward this evening, will be the sixth note transmitted by the Government in three days.

BRITISH AND FRENCH REALIZE NECESSITY OF REMAINING ON FRIENDLY TERMS, STATES LAW

Government Leader in British Parliament Intimates That the Differences That Have Arisen Between Two Nations Will Soon Disappear.

London, April 12.—Both France and Great Britain are increasingly convinced of the necessity of keeping in agreement for the settlement of the questions regarding Germany and those affecting other parts of the world, Andrew Bonar Law, the Government leader, told the House of Commons today.

Answering questions with regard to the Anglo-French situation, Mr. Bonar Law said: "As the House is aware, a difference, which His Majesty's Government greatly deprecates, has arisen between the British and French governments, but the exchange of notes which has taken place between London and Paris justifies the belief that both governments recognize more than ever the necessity of maintaining an intimate, cordial agreement in the settlement of the great questions now confronting them in Germany and elsewhere."

HELENE'S MARRIED LIFE

Copyright, 1920, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate L.—"I Think He's Dying."

The departure of Jim's mother gave me no chance at explanation. It almost seemed as though Alice had guessed my anxiety for a tele-gram with Mrs. St. Aubyns, and had deliberately prevented it. Maybe the whole thing had been a put-up job between Tony and Alice. I could perfectly believe them capable of it. And yet—what could the motive be? Unless—unless it were really true that my Jim had had an affair with Alice. And Alice wanted to end my hopes regarding Jim. I'd go away at once, I decided. I wouldn't stay here to be made miserable. "Alice," I said, giving back her cool, keen look with interest. "I really think that I shall return today to my apartment in town. I'm not helping you down here. You don't need me. Alice thawed a little, though she wasn't cordial. "Just as you like, Helene. Though, personally, I rather like to have you." I could have laughed aloud. "Rather liked," indeed!

him better than you do. B. damn your vanity, Alice—otherwise your common sense would never run away with you to the extent of believing in a man of Tony's calibre. This was plain speaking, with a vengeance. Alice didn't like it. But I could see she was really relieved that I did not care for her. "It was very wrong of him to tell Mrs. St. Aubyns that you and he were engaged," she said always. "It can't think what his motive was. Can you?" "Yes," I could think! But it might not be expedient to tell Alice the result of my conclusions. That would involve the tale of Tony's bringing-up by the St. Aubyns family, and the forging of the check would naturally come in. Alice herself might throw a strong light on the matter. But it seemed to me the time was not yet sufficiently ripe for any probing. I prevaricated. "Tony's just naturally a cad," I said. "Ask him yourself why he told such a falsehood." But I know Alice wouldn't. For Tony would merely deny having done anything of the sort. "Knowing Tony's little ways as she is, Alice would surely have been a mystery to me why Alice tolerates him. Of course he is presentable. He plays bridge and has a good seat in the saddle. He can drive a car, and shoot, and hunt, and fish. He is a good golfer and a good tennis-player. And he's decorative. There's a good deal of the pool-dog in Master Tony. Tagging around some woman always. Knows where the best meals are to be found. But I notice that his men friends aren't interested in the fact that he is good at sport. They guess he's shady. Women's don't, however. Alice suddenly patted me on the arm. And she was smiling, with some show of amiability. "Don't let's talk of Tony, Helene. Let's be cheerful, dear. And—listen—I particularly want you to stay on down here for a while. I was your company. I may be a little short-tempered sometimes—but I like you, Helene. So don't run away. Please don't." I hesitated. "For Mrs. St. Aubyns" went on her son that I'm sure she didn't take in a single word of what you told her. Besides, the next time you come, you can tell her that I'm all untrue, Helene. She'll be down here in a day or two." That settled it. I stayed. I didn't see Jim all that day. I was to see my turn with him immediately after dinner, Alice said, so that the nurse might have a nap. "Towards 11 o'clock," said the nurse, "Alice and I were sitting in the drawing-room enjoying a quiet cup of tea. The door opened hurriedly and Mrs. St. Aubyns appeared. She looked very agitated. "Phone for the doctor at once," she cried. "The patient's worse. I think he's dying!"

QUEBEC WOMAN HAD SUFFERED 18 YEARS

Tanlac Gave Me Health and Strength and Joy, Says Mrs. Maddison.

"I was so rundown that I was thinking of quitting work," said Mrs. Maddison, who is superintendent of the Rock City Tobacco Company's factory in Quebec, when seen by the Tanco representative at her home, 31 Smith street, Quebec, recently. "For eighteen years I have suffered from nervous indigestion with all its distressing accompaniments of excessive gas, dizziness and bad headaches, but lately I had got very much worse. I was eating scarcely enough to keep body and soul together and got very thin. Neuralgia pains drove me almost to distraction and the rheumatism in my arms was so severe that I could hardly use them. My sleep was very disturbed and broken, and in the mornings I felt tired and weary. I began to see that if I did not soon find a remedy for my condition I would collapse. I must have tried nearly every medicine that the druggists sell, but they never helped me one particle. "I had read in the papers about how people had derived great benefit from Tanlac, so I thought I would put it to the test. I do indeed congratulate myself on doing so because it has helped me wonderfully. I have now taken four boxes of the medicine and this is what it has done for me: My appetite is splendid, and I not only enjoy my food, but find that I can digest it without difficulty. I feel no longer weary, dizzy and in pain. I give you these facts gladly, for Tanlac has given me health and strength and joy at a time when I was a much distressed woman by my bad state of health. Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by an established agency in every town.

ULDERTON ULDERTON, April 10.—The regular meeting of the Coldstream U. F. O. Club was held on Tuesday evening with Arch McGugan in the chair. After routine business William Chapman, president of the Fern Hill Club, spoke briefly of the newly-organized club at Fern Hill, which is steadily growing in membership. Herb Tomlinson of Amiens Club, Adelaide, also spoke in regard to the club. The debate on "Married Life vs. Single Life," which was scheduled to come, failed to materialize. A box social and musical program by the young people at the close of the regular business was much enjoyed. McIntosh Brothers furnished good violin selections, also the Fern Hill orchestra for the short dance at the close of the evening. Farmers have been busy since the winter weather set in finishing the wood cutting, which could not be done during the severe winter. Some plowing was done last week. A large amount of fencing is to be done this spring, as many of the rail fences are leveled to the ground. Some roads were repaired last week, but there are still many burns and also some houses that still show the effects of the early winter wind storm. The Ulderton Farmers' Co-Operative Company are negotiating with the L. R. for a suitable site for their proposed elevator, and another meeting of the shareholders will be held as a definite site is secured. Fall wheat fields are looking fine all through the district, in fact some farmers say that the snowstorm was the very best thing that could have come after the drying winds of last week. Fruit growers also say that it is much better that the warm weather has ended for a time, as there is always the danger of frost when the bloom comes before May 20 or thereabouts. Some farmers expect another run of sap after the cold spell, but many took home their buckets etc., last week.

---and the Clarion Call Was Answered! From progressive London, Ontario, the "city that does things," went forth the call for mobilization and assault upon the forces responsible for the depreciation in the value of Canadian money, and accordingly Canadian labor and Canadian prestige. And, like the famous call to arms that swept over this fair Dominion in September, 1914, the answer was spontaneous. Merchants, Manufacturers, Housewives and All immediately put their shoulders to the wheel, as did the Canadian troops in France and Flanders, with the result that during the week of April 19 to 24 there will be held in this city a Display of "Made-in-Canada" Goods That Will Set the Pace in Canada Watch for it. Every store window will exhibit goods made somewhere in Canada; goods that you can and should buy in preference to those of foreign make, and help right the trade balance and make the Canadian dollar as valuable as that of any other country in the world. Each merchant connected with this patriotic movement will have a questionnaire blank. Ask for one. There are two hundred prizes for the best answers to the questions. This movement is under the auspices of the London Advertising Club and the Chamber of Commerce. Help make it a big success. Every man, woman and child in this city can help with this progressive movement. Tell your dealers about it; tell your neighbors about it, and, above all, insist upon having "Made in Canada" goods always. LONDON ADVERTISING CLUB

PICK BURNABY TO RUN AGAINST MACKENZIE KING

Farmers Choose President of U. F. O. To Oppose Liberal Chief.

CLARK DISCORDANT NOTE

Cameron Curry Charges Nomination Is Cut-and-Dried Affair.

NEWMARKET, Ont., April 11.—R. W. E. Burnaby of Jefferson, Ont., president of the United Farmers of Ontario, and president of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, was nominated at a convention of the United Farmers here on Saturday afternoon to oppose Hon. Wm. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader of the Dominion and Liberal candidate for the riding of North York, at the next Dominion general election. Mr. Burnaby's nomination was practically unanimous, though there was a discordant note struck in the convention by Cameron Curry, a prominent U. F. O. farmer here.

Curry Was Aspirant.
Mr. Curry was an aspirant for the U. F. O. nomination, and he charged that the nomination of Mr. Burnaby was a "cut and dried" matter with the convention. He also intimated that a "trap" had been set for him here on Saturday, and in this connection he mentioned that a delegate to the convention had given him a "cut and dried" cigar. Just where the 5-cent cigar had figured in the alleged "trap" Mr. Curry did not make very clear.

Burnaby Prepared.
Mr. Burnaby said he had not sought nomination, but was prepared to do what he conceived to be his duty, and run against Hon. Mr. King. He fully concurred, he said, that Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King should be opposed by the U. F. O. "I think that in the interests of the whole movement someone should be put against him. With the president of the U. F. O. and the president of the Canadian Council of Agriculture living in this riding it would look to the people of the Dominion as if a bargain had been made if we failed to oppose him."

Touching on the tariff, Mr. Burnaby said he did not think the tariff should be cut completely off, but he was prepared to "rip it right through the middle and have a good look at it. He asserted that the tariff was responsible for more dirt in politics than anything else under the sun.

BOY FATALLY SHOT BY YOUNGER BROTHER SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Sons of James Bryden, Erin Township, Were Shooting Sparrows.

ERIN, April 11.—A fatal shooting occurred on the farm of James Bryden, first line, Erin Township, Saturday afternoon, when Mr. Bryden's eldest son, Mac-Kirwood, was shot through the head by his brother, James. Just how the shooting occurred could not be learned, but a report says it was purely accidental. The boys were shooting sparrows on their father's farm at the time, using a small rifle. The victim only lived an hour after the accident. Coroner Dr. MacKinnon of Guelph was notified, and visited the scene of the shooting, but it is understood there will be no inquest. The dead boy was fourteen years of age, and besides his parents is survived by one brother.

LONDON MAN AND WOMAN ELOPED TO ST. THOMAS, ARRESTED

Donald McCallum and Mrs. Eva Andrews Held On Vagrancy Charge.

ST. THOMAS, April 10.—Arrested under the technical charge of vagrancy, Donald McCallum and Mrs. Eva Andrews, both of London, were removed from a bedroom of a local hotel last night, and the pair will be heard by the police magistrate tomorrow morning. Mrs. Andrews and McCallum were taken on a warrant sworn out by her husband, an employee of the garbage department, London, who followed them over from there and traced them to the hotel, where the elopers had secured lodging for the night. The woman, who is the mother of six children, scolded her husband for placing her in the cells.

CLANDEBOYE

CLANDEBOYE, April 10.—Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kilmer were pleasantly surprised one evening last week, when a number of their neighbors and friends called to bid them farewell. After spending the early part of the evening socially, Lloyd Lynn read an address, after which Rev. Cunningham presided, them with an oak rocker. Mr. and Mrs. Kilmer made a suitable reply, after which lunch was served. Mr. Kilmer has moved to the farm he recently purchased from Leopold Hodgins.

Clarence O'Neil, who is a medical student at Toronto University, has been visiting his parents here. Miss Iva Elice leaves on Monday to take a position as supervisor in the new department at Victoria Hospital. The sugar-making season is over, and farmers are working on the land. The farm survey men have completed their work and left on Monday. Messrs. Clark and Fairweather attended the Farmers' Club meeting on Saturday evening.

The Bice Bros., who have been successful young farmers here for some time, are preparing to leave within the next few weeks to take up business elsewhere.

DIED SUDDENLY

ALISA CRAIG, April 10.—The very sudden death of James L. McFarlane took place at his home on the fourth concession of McMillan, Thursday, April 8. Although the deceased had been in poor health during the winter he was able to be around, and was only taken seriously ill the day before his death. He is survived by his wife (nee Bell McClure), two daughters and three brothers, Thomas and John in the west and Edward of London. The funeral will be held at Carleton Cemetery with services conducted by Rev. W. H. Geddes.

Alisa Craig has at last an up-to-date picture show after considerable waiting. Cameron McLean of Chesley, who has been time keeper for the Hyde Company, has started up here and at Theford, and this week his big first showing was under the auspices of the northern fair board when a splendid crowd attended.

From the Lithe, Little Bicycle Tire to the Giant, Gripping Truck Tire

A PUZZLED HEAD.

The local Union organ tortures itself in an endeavor to discriminate protectionism, free trade and "near free trade." Mr. Pardee, it says, called himself a "protectionist," but subscribes to the Liberal platform, of which the local Union instrument says that "here we have the principle of free trade enunciated" (sic), whatever that may mean. Surely it is fairly obvious that a man may call himself a protectionist in certain particulars, a free trader in others. The very fact that the Liberal platform "enumerates" certain articles for a free list implies that there are also articles to be protected. The trade platform of the party is a matter of give and take among the different sections and interests of a widespread country for the general welfare of all.

FRANCE'S GESTURE OF WARNING.

The French advance into Germany seems intended mainly as a quiet demonstration to Berlin that the treaty must be kept. France expresses also her belief that the operations of German forces in the Ruhr region are not so much a necessary suppression of anarchy as a militarist revenge for the general strike that overthrew von Kapp.

The Ebert-Noske combination beat van Kapp and the monarchists by encouraging a general strike and the Independent Socialists or Communists. It might seem that Noske, having exploited the Spartacists against the monarchists, turns round and with the enthusiastic and frightened support of the latter, hammers the turbulent workmen of the Ruhr Valley, i. e., of Essen, Bochum and Duisburg. The French are perhaps not yet persuaded of any great difference between a Noske and a Ludendorff.

It is not at all probable that France still meditates a buffer state between herself and Germany. That was a scheme of Napoleon, who established in the Rhineland the Rhenish Confederation, afterwards the Kingdom of Westphalia, dependent upon France. It is just as improbable that French policy should try to resume the project outlined in those secret treaties of the Entente disclosed by the Bolsheviks at Petrograd a couple of years ago. France was to have practically possession of Germany west of the Rhine, reviving the policy of the 17th century to reach France's "natural frontier." That scheme was probably put down and out by President Wilson as much as any one in the late peace conference.

But France distrusts quite naturally, from sad experience, the promises and assurances of Prussia. The war-guiltily have not been handed over, the coal is not being delivered, reparations "cannot" be paid. "France is in the thrall of militarism," says Vorwaerts, the so-called socialist organ of Berlin. Is not the Ruhr district, then, in the thrall of militarism? France occupies Frankfurt as a warning gesture that there is a limit to treaty violations and that military measures had better be reduced in Germany.

A STUPID MOVE.

Expulsion of the Socialist members from the New York State Legislature in the minds of many people who take a broad and liberal view of social and economic conditions and movements today is an entirely unwarranted free advertisement for socialism. Only the crassest stupidity on the part of over-zealous patriots could have actuated such an unwise move on the part of the remaining members of the House. It has attracted far more attention to socialism than socialism probably deserves, and while hundreds may agree with the New York State champions of democracy that socialism is a dangerous and seditious movement that must be stamped out, thousands of new converts will be made for the socialist cause.

The socialist bogey is perhaps altogether too much over-rated. Orthodox socialism is by its very nature confined to groups of hard-headed economists who revel in bare facts and figures and abstract principles. Marxism is the pure philosophy of social science and its very pedantry is a sufficient guarantee that it will never be popular enough to overturn the world. Moderate types of socialism, so-called "Christian socialism," and Fabian movements generally, have done and are doing a great work to force the doctrine of altruism into the political arena. But socialists of these schools are humanitarians, who temperamentally sway from one political affiliation to another and back again, according as one movement appears to be a little more brotherly or humanitarian than the other. The great masses of electors who from time to time return socialists to public office are just plain reformers, who do not necessarily believe in socialism, but vote for it because it stands for something a little more definite than either the Republican or Democrat parties. Socialist locals with a few hundred members frequently nominate candidates that carry the polls with thousands of majority votes. Only a very small fraction of socialist voters are socialists.

If New York were in a democratic country, monarchial England for instance, instead of the Socialist members being expelled, one would see them following the example of the Sinn Fein members of Parliament and refusing to take their seats. No doubt there is a good deal of genuine martyrdom on the part of some of the prosecuted "Reds" in the United States.

(Eugene Debs, for instance, is probably sincere as far as anyone can be sincere over the mystic economics of Karl Marx), but for the most part the United States by its raids and federal prosecutions is footing the bill for a big advertising campaign for radicalism.

The United States in its loudly trumpeted democracy presents an interesting paradox of liberty and progressiveness, having made a complete orbit of the universe, passing again through a period of autocratic repression of free speech and free thought. Socialists frequently refer to socialism as their religion. Did the framers of the American constitution intend to restrict the religious or ethical ideals of anyone?

Critics of the Christian Church have often charged that if Jesus of Nazareth were on earth today, he would be expelled from most churches as a heretic. One wonders just what the United States would do with George Washington or Thomas Jefferson, if they were to arrive in the United States just now. Jefferson would at least be detained at Ellis Island long enough for the immigration authorities to decide whether he was a philosophical anarchist. Leavenworth prison would await Tom Paine historically credited with having had much to do with drawing up the Declaration of Independence, were he to declare today "My country is the world."

There is a great danger that democracy and patriotism may degenerate into a kind of fetish worship. Is the flag that Washington raised at Valley Forge, not able to stand alone, or why must the absent-minded pedestrian who forgets to bare his head when the flag passes in a street procession, be mobbed and maltreated? Bolshevists, according to Tom Moore, of the Dominion Trades Congress, openly advocate their deities from Hyde Park rostra. Free speech, the Canadian labor leader returned from England declares, is the natural safety valve for radicalism. Strange that the ultra-democratic United States should believe so strenuously in sitting on the safety valve that it must unseat its state legislators who at some time or other have belonged to little groups of men interested in studying economic theories that not ten men in a hundred understand or will ever take the trouble to investigate. Hasn't a New York legislator got the same right to his hobbies as anyone else? Socialism is a harmless hobby with most socialists, but a national advertising campaign paid for with American taxpayers' money may make it as popular as "Thirteen Soap" in the famous comedy, "It Pays to Advertise."

LABOR WOMEN.

Now that the heated controversy of the suffrage question has disappeared into an unhappy past, it has become clear that women voters and women in parliament will not stand for anything less than a woman's party. The Labor party shows its recognition of this fact in the effort it is making to capture the support of women for its own platform, and the national conference of Labor women to be held this month, two months in advance of the annual Labor party conference, has for its end the enrollment of women in the political Labor movement.

BEFORE THE BATTLE OF THE MARNE.

[Eugene F. Marcellon in "Records of an Interview."] For days General French had manoeuvred his retreat, fighting a rear-guard action against tremendous odds. No one knew what the morrow might bring to the already exhausted army.

Accompanied by three staff officers, one of whom was with us that evening at dinner, French had reached an old inn not many miles from Paris. He had not slept for thirty hours. To his chief of staff he said:

"I am going to take a little sleep. Under no circumstances must I be disturbed."

After what seemed to him a few moments there was a loud rapping on the door. Opening it with a vigorous protest at being aroused, he found one of his officers, who said:

"I am extremely sorry to have disturbed you, sir, but the matter is most urgent. The Kaiser has just demanded French."

"What is it?" demanded French.

"General Joffre is below, sir, and desires to see you."

The British commander-in-chief descended to the dingy main room of the cafe. Wrapped in his cape stood "Papa" Joffre with only one aide.

"I have decided to make a stand. Here is the plan," said the Frenchman.

On a wine-spattered table, and by the light of a guttering candle, Joffre unfolded the plan of the engagement that ended the Kaiser's dream of conquest forever. He then showed his colleague that immortal "order of the day" which included the phrase: "The hour has come to advance at any cost, and to die where you stand, rather than give way," and which was read to the French army at dawn.

I doubt if the whole drama of the war presented a scene more striking than the spectacle of these two chieftains seated in that shabby room of an obscure country tavern on the eve of one of the world's epic events.

THE GREAT COMPANY.

[P. P. in Vancouver World.] The proposed "pact of progress" is making great headway, and there is little doubt that it will be an educational "eye-opener" to the masses. Few legends are more familiar throughout the length and breadth of Canada than the three letters which for 250 years have stood for the Company of Adventurers of England Trading into Hudson Bay. "Wherever we go in this country," declares one traveler, "we encounter 'H. B. C.': we have seen the legend sewn on the blankets of Indians; we have seen it flying from forts; we see it painted on canoes and inscribed on banners and boxes. It is the sign of the Company, an organization which, in a way unique in the story of the nations, held in trust this vast territory for the British Empire. It has seen the French dominion in North America rise and fall, and by reason of its good government stands today in the same old land, as the oldest company in the British Empire."

In the beginning it received its charter to trade, develop its natural resources, maintain law and order, and to declare war on other than Christian princes if needs compelled it. In all the 200 years of its sovereignty over this great territory and its peoples it never had any trouble with the native population; although it is a singular fact that 24 hours after the company relinquished the rights of its territory to the British Empire, the Riel rebellion occurred. No less singular is it that shortly after the Oregon Treaty, when the Americans obtained that parcel of land called the Columbia District, trouble broke out with the Indians, and would have had this, too, had not the governor of America asked aid from Sir James Douglas to quell the disturbance.

The company opened up and developed the natural resources of the country, brought in hundreds of people from England, and showed them the way to be good citizens and nation-builders; the company's policy was not to be mine operators, lumbermen or fishermen; they relinquished their rights of these things to the people as soon as they were able to take care of them and develop them. "The Company" remained traders.

From Here and There

EXPLAINING THE HERMIT.

[Kansas City Star.] A good many of the unknown "relatives" who always appear soon after the death of a rich hermit probably are genuine, and help explain why the hermit became a hermit.

FAVORS DEVELOPMENT.

[Natal Advertiser.] The want of recognition by the existing Imperial Parliament of the separate and distinct nationalities, each with its own local needs, difficulties, problems and aspirations demanding distinct legislative treatment, has been a fruitful source of the failure of the present parliamentary system. Each nationality, while rightly demanding a share in the control of imperial affairs, has been forced into the position of having to intervene in the matters of their neighbors, with little knowledge and less appreciation of their needs.

A BACKWARD MOVE.

[New York Commercial.] Any law or ruling which kills individual initiative kills two of the greatest incentives and the greatest motives which lie back of man's activity—the desire for fame and the desire for personal advancement. When original minds are pressed into the groove of conformity, they cease to be free. Freedom of thought and freedom of action and freedom of work, eight, ten or twelve hours, when genius burns or the spirit moves, must be given to the minds of men who require them. Any move to curtail individual effort and individual initiative is a step back into the Middle Ages, where men as individuals had no recognition.

DELAYS ARE DANGEROUS.

[London Daily News.] Kaiserism, which after the armistice appeared to be dead in Germany, is resurrected and alive again as exasperated nationalism. And yet the strength of the country has been brought so low that it would be far more possible for Bolshevism to flourish in Germany than at any earlier time. There are only two remedies for these opposed evils, which this farcical revolution has done nothing to cure. The first is to destroy at a stroke the main appeal of reaction to middle-class Germany—the fear of revolutionary Socialism. And the frank admission of Germany to the League of Nations, and the removal of all willow the grievances and the miseries which in Germany, as elsewhere, are the seed bed of Bolshevism.

EVERYBODY ORGANIZING.

[By Mrs. George Hamblton, M.A., Late Fellow of the Department of Political Economy, University of Toronto.]

The bank clerk, the teacher, the doctor, the accountant—the divers members of that multitudinous group, the salaried class—have hitherto saved themselves from being confounded with the manual workers. They have so far maintained their position by carrying on a struggle as stubborn, as haughty, as desperate as that which marked the fall of the inferior knights and lower gentry of the Middle Ages. The fear of the loss of their position often of wealthy town bourgeois, sometimes of lawyers and freemen who had acquired much land, was that they would lose their distinctive position as a class. They have, however, been gradually being drawn forward and with a sure touch deepened two of the cracks till they formed a long narrow V running diagonally half across the oval. That done he turned abruptly from his drawing, joined his comrades, turned his back on M'sungo and untopping a garrique case, proceeded to take snuff.

The Middle Class.

From the middle class of today, a class which, in its way, has succeeded as those of the chivalry of the Middle Ages, the mask is also being torn aside. During the nineteenth and the early part of the twentieth century, the conventions of the middle class were often held up to scorn and ridicule. But the tremendous rise in the cost of living, the slender increase in salaries as compared with wages and heavy taxes accompanying the war, have at last accompanied with the class hatred preached by extremists of the Labor movement, the fine sarcasm of such writers as George Bernard Shaw, had failed to do.

Masks aside, what is revealed? Many members of the salaried class—middle women who have practiced the art of being poor without ever having had to study it—who seemed to know it as past masters, naturally—now fretted beyond all pretence, are letting the light of publicity in on their hopeless struggle.

And what a contrast is revealed! We find the building trades councils in many Canadian cities have entered into agreements with the bricklayers to pay them a dollar an hour. The laborer receives 60 to 70 cents an hour. Organized plumbers and steamfitters receive, in many cases, a dollar an hour for a 44-hour week. The columns of daily papers show that the average salary paid to a public school teacher in Ontario is from $700 to $800 per annum, while several receive only $600. The manual workers to whom reference has been made do not work continuously throughout the year, but their annual income, in the majority of cases, would average from $1,500 to $2,000—fully twice the average salary of the school teacher. Indeed, one school board in Ontario is advertising this week for a teacher at $500 a year, while close by appears the advertisement of a manufacturing firm which requires an office boy at $10 a week—$520 a year. Besides, the office boy may get tips, but the poor school teacher could scarcely reduce her dignity so far.

Worse in Quebec.

Quebec is slightly worse in this regard than Ontario, and the Western Provinces show a slender increase in teachers' salaries for public schools. In the West they average between $1,000 and $1,200 a year. Farm laborers, however, are paid much better. For them, eight-months contracts at $80 to $90 a month with a bonus, are not infrequently offered.

St. Thomas, Ontario, offers the amusing spectacle of school teachers receiving considerably less than street cleaners; and the municipal budget of New York repeats the same tale. It may be objected that the majority of the teachers are women and girls, whereas the members of the large organized unions are mostly men. The contrast still exists, however, for many of the larger factories requiring unskilled help start beginners at $10 to $12 per week. And even the most audacious would scarcely claim that the factory girl is over-paid and her work is of less value than that of the school teacher.

The United States shows much the same condition. A survey recently made in that country showed 50,000 vacancies in the teaching profession. It was shown also that blacksmiths in Cleveland and Chicago were receiving nearly $900 per annum, more than elementary school teachers in the same cities.

Teachers Organize. The result has been organization of the teaching profession along trade union lines. Canada, with the possible exception of France, is perhaps the foremost country in the movement. The Ontario Public School Teachers' Association numbers about 10,000 adherents. A movement on foot in the West to organize the teachers of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia is progressing rapidly. In Montreal the Teachers' Welfare Association—frowned upon by the ultra-clerical party as bolshevistic—is increasing in membership. In the United States, also, teachers are gradually joining unions. The assurance issued by the Commercial Federation of California that "teachers are the wards of the state," and the warning that they will certainly do serious injury to their own cause and that of education . . . and would certainly be dismissed if they joined unions, did not deter the teachers of California from following the lines of necessity a self-protection in forming unions.

Strange and surprising developments lead an almost quixotic character to the movement. When news comes that these intangible artists of the Boston Symphony Orchestra are on strike; that the priests of Paris (who, by the way, are paid by the state) threaten to strike unless the Spanish zarzuela increases their revenues; who the priests of Paris, that funeral attendants in Paris are striking for a new style of mourning—one is assured, at least, that the Labor movement is safe from mediocrity.

WHITE MAN

[By George Agnew Chamberlain.]

One of the wizened produced a thin wand, about twenty inches in length, freshly broken at one end. He passed it to his companions who stared at it as though they saw it for the first instead of the hundredth time, fingered it, gurgled over it and finally gravely handed it to M'sungo. He went through more or less the same process, and returned it to the man who had first produced it with what was apparently a slighting remark.

The man glanced up with a pained look on his face, arose, laid the wand on the ground as a measure, and with laborious fingers began to trace a mighty oval. M'sungo leaned across the table and gazed with fascinated eye; Andrea, watching him, could see the pulse throbbing at his temples. He was a new M'sungo, somebody young, approachable, lovable, an eager boy. She leaned close to his shoulder. "Please, White Man," she murmured, "please tell me."

Without turning he put one hand out and grasped her wrist as though to still her. "The little man," he explained, "is drawing the spoor of a mighty beast. Look at it and learn it by heart for it will be a photograph." Having completed the circumference of his oval, the native was making various tracings on his face, dividing it as with a maze of tracks. When he had apparently finished, he sank back on his heels and gazed critically at his handiwork.

"Watch," said M'sungo. "Before he gets up, he'll put in some mark, some sign, to do just exactly what I tell you, and no more and no less." Eyes wide and intent, cheeks flushed and lips parted, Andrea was too excited to speak. She threw out both hands toward him in a gesture of abandon, and with an imploring gravity that made her look as though she were giving herself into his keeping not for a day but for all time.

slapped breakfast on the table, and they seemed to choke him. He pushed back his plate, stuffed his pipe full and lit it. His eyes spoke over Andrea's face and fired hers with their own brilliance. When he spoke every word thrilled her as though this wonderful morning were surcharged with an emotional current sensitive to every sound and movement.

"Andrea, follow!" he said, with a happy twinkle of mock solemnity in his glance, "you are about to be initiated into the mysteries of the major guild of many centuries, the closest corporation of sport in the world; in three words, the society of elephant hunters. You will probably witness death, and I hope and pray it will be the death of the hunted, but for the comfort of your soft heart let me tell you that today we go forth not to slaughter but to battle."

He turned his eyes from her face and continued in a more serious strain. "The hunting of elephant is a science. It is a crescendo of delicately balanced factors that starts from two distant points and beginning on a cool foundation of mutual respect passes upward through stages of intelligence against intelligence, caution for caution, perseverance on the heels of endurance, until it meets on the high plane of naked courage and sweeps to its tragic climax of white-hot battle and death."

"His eyes came back to her frankly. "Like all the great sciences," he continued, "it has used the lives of valiant men for stepping-stones so that we who go out today are backed by the ages—looking back only to the days of black powder and the four-horse rifle we are mere pygmies, but pygmies carried high on the crest of an ancient tradition. It's because we have an accumulation of knowledge to lean upon that I'm willing to take you with me today if you'll promise to surrender yourself to me, to do just exactly what I tell you, and no more and no less."

Eyes wide and intent, cheeks flushed and lips parted, Andrea was too excited to speak. She threw out both hands toward him in a gesture of abandon, and with an imploring gravity that made her look as though she were giving herself into his keeping not for a day but for all time.

CHAPTER XII.

They started out, a skeleton cavalcade. The three wizened ones led the way and Andrea measured their importance by the fact that they carried M'sungo's battery of rifles, respectfully surrendered by the gun-bearers as a fitting tribute from onlookers to men who were hunters in their own right, but on every occasion his lips had set

DR. CARTER SPEAKS ON GREAT BRITAIN AND INDIAN EMPIRE

The Women's Canadian Club Passes Resolution Re Hearst Publications.

"Never in the history of the world has the British Empire stood so high in the estimation of the world as she stands today," declared Dr. Carter of the Zenana and Medical Mission, India, before the Women's Canadian Club, Saturday afternoon. "The great storm that was meant to wreck her has died away. Our Canada is one of the finest parts of this Empire, but I warn you the rest of the world will not be content to leave you in undisturbed possession of your wealth. Your enemies are neither dead nor sleeping. They hate you and would do all in their power to bring about your downfall. Britain's Debt.

Referring to Britain's war debt, the speaker told how an American asked him if Britain would repudiate her debts. "I could only say, 'Don't be silly,'" said Dr. Carter, "for it is impossible to conceive of a country that spent eight thousand million pounds in carrying on the war and which has since the signing of the armistice returned between five and six millions of men and a million and a half of women to civil life, denying an honest debt. England has raised two hundred and fifty millions of new capital in the last six months for industrial purposes. She is not played out yet, and the Canadian who would compare her to the motherland must be very wide awake. Canada is not a beggar, she has a million dollars where they have full value, and not in the United States, which has had some small advance in the rate of exchange and lost innumerable customers thereby.

Indian Situation. A large portion of the address dealt with India, however. "The word 'Briton' is a proverb in India. There are hillmen in India who think an opportunity for wholesale massacre a gift from heaven. It is the little man in a white suit and a pith helmet who smokes a cigarette and twirls a cane who subdues them. That little man represents the British Empire which rules India with a fatherly hand of guidance, not a grip of steel. And the result is a different India, where infantile and cruelty are giving way before a Christian civilization.

Ben Hearst's. During the course of the meeting on Saturday, a resolution was passed by the club to the effect that an appeal be made to the Government to place a ban on Hearst publications. This followed the reading of a communication from T. Kelly Dickson of the Association of Canadian Clubs, and the London Club's opinion on this matter.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

The teachers of the Collegiate staff and Miss Ethel Sullivan of St. Augustin's College have returned home after attending the Ontario Educational Association in Toronto this week.

Mrs. Wilfred Mara will receive informally on Tuesday afternoon at home, 466 1/2 Queen's avenue. Afterwards she will be at home on the first Tuesday of each month.

Capt. Barnard, a retired sea captain from Australia, and his wife and daughter, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. James MacDonald, Canada is but one country which they hope to visit on their trip around the world.

There is already evidence that several box parties will be given at the initial performance of "Liberty Hall" in the Majestic Theatre the end of this week. Among those who have ordered boxes are Mr. and Mrs. John Weld and Stanley J. Meredith.

The final "Tea Dance" given by the Princess Patricia Chapter, I. O. E. in the Winter garden on Saturday afternoon, was one of the prettiest and most enjoyable events of the season arranged in profusion upon the long tables from which tea was served amid the glow of many candles. Presiding at these tables were: Mrs. Nive, Mrs. David Williams, Mrs. E. B. Smith, Mrs. Janet, Mrs. A. E. Miller, Mrs. Arthur Smith, Mrs. G. A. White, regent of the chapter, with her associate members, saw to the comfort of the young guests, while the Winter Garden orchestra furnished delightful music.

The younger set spent an enjoyable afternoon at "The Kennels" on Friday, when Mrs. C. S. Hyman, center, in honor of her son Einar who is home from Appleby School for the Easter holidays. Pink roses and carnations amid the firelight formed a pretty setting for the fifty people, who danced away several delightful hours there.

FERGUSON-ARMSTRONG. A quiet wedding took place at Parkhill when Miss Mary Armstrong of McGillivray married the bride of Mr. Ferguson being performed at the home of the bride's parents on April 7. Miss Donna Armstrong acted as bridesmaid, and Mr. Jeff Ferguson as groomsmen.

JOHNSTON-TODD. A very quiet wedding was solemnized on April 7 at the South Kingsessingham manse, when Pearl, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Todd, was united in marriage to Donald MacJohnston, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Johnston. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. K. A. Gollan, in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. After which the bridal party motored to the home of the bride's parents, where a dainty wedding dinner was served. The young couple left for their honeymoon train for a short honeymoon. They will take up their residence in Lucknow.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

Now Somebody Please Help. Dear Cynthia.—Could you or any of the various readers give me the address of anyone who possesses plain white French, or Nippon, or Beisek China for decorating and hand-painting? My address is with Miss Grey. This china is not carried at present in any china store in London. Hoping someone may possess some articles or know of someone who will sell it. I am, JUST A SPRING MAID.

Stories For Sick Readers.

I'll just drop into your cosy corner for a chat, and then I will go away. Seeing my first letter in print gave me courage. I saw where Mahaska wanted a correspondent. I think you can be a correspondent, for I like reading, and do all the cooking and baking for I keep house for my father, and I love the country also. If she will write first I will be glad to answer. I am real glad there is peace in the Mail-Box once more. That wrangling between you and me about America and Canada re the war all seems so unnecessary and spiteful. I think every one should try to speak kind words and do kind deeds instead. With best wishes, ROSE LEA. P. S.—I am sending all the Puppy Stories for Sick Children's Hospital. I think it will help make them cheerful.

Ans.—That's a good idea re Puppy Stories Rose Lea.

From Snowball. Dear Miss Grey.—My uncle takes the paper, and I thought I would write a few lines for the first time. I am ten years old and go to school. I hope to see this in print. I am sending the recipe for butter scotch and it may be of some use to some of the readers.

Butter Scotch. 1 cup molasses, 1 cup sugar, 1/2 cup butter, 1/2 cup milk, 1/2 cup vanilla. Guess it will ring off. SNOWBALL. P. S.—I am sending you a hard time holding your own with the merry spring sunshine!

Troubled with Asthma. Cynthia Grey.—I enclose find my contribution to Children's Hospital. Saw a letter in The Advertiser from Mrs. Home-At-Times, who had a cure for asthma. I have not found a cure and have been troubled with it for years. Ans.—Will forward address as soon as I get it. Thanks.

Wants Help. Dear Miss Grey.—I am coming to you for help. I do not know how to paint a floor? I do not know anything about filling the cracks and what to fill them with, and want to make a good job of it. How many coats of paint will it take? I do not mind how much trouble it is, I want to do it right. Someone asked for a pork pie recipe. This is a good one.

One pound salt pork chopped fine, add one pint of boiling coffee, two cups brown sugar, two cups molasses, two pounds currants, two pounds raisins, one pound citron, two teaspoonsful baking powder, two teaspoonsful cinnamon, two teaspoonsful cloves, two teaspoonsful allspice, one pound nutmeg, glass of whiskey. Flour. PANSY.

Poor Patches. Dear Miss Grey.—Oh! may I be first this time with my help? I have got a letter back from you, please send then would read the paper and find the person I wanted to help thinking someone else I saw where Elmer De Lee wanted the poem "The Letter Edged in Black," hope this will do. Am 15 years here and would like to correspond with someone my own age. I will write first if you are all so helpful. Well, will fade away for this time, hoping I may help again soon. Ans.—That's too bad when you wanted to help. Don't be discouraged Patches.

Couldn't Keep Her Nose Out. Dear Miss Grey.—I thought I would pop in for a moment to wish you and all the Boxites the top of the morning.

Advertiser Patterns

Owing to the pattern manufacturer's increase in price, all patterns advertised from this date will be 15 CENTS EACH.

The pattern includes all styles illustrated. It is cut in 6 sizes, 2, 4, 6, 8, 10, and 12 years. The drawers require 1 1/2 yards of 36-inch material, the petticoat requires 1 1/2 yards, and the underswaist 1 1/2 yards for a ten-year size.

A Pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c in silver or 1 and 2 cent stamps.

However slight a cold you have you should never neglect it; you do it can have but one result. It leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected. Bronchitis is one of the most common affections of a neglected cold, and neglected bronchitis the most general cause of consumption.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is just the remedy you require to cure the bronchitis. It does this by loosening the phlegm and mucous, and stimulates the weakened bronchial organs, allays irritation and subsides inflammation, soothes and heals the irritated parts and thus prevents it becoming chronic.

Mr. R. P. Sundblad, Francis, Sask. writes: "I had a very bad cold which left me with bronchitis. I tried several cough remedies and oils of all kinds, but they all failed. At last I got Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and after using two bottles I have never had a sign of bronchitis since. I therefore can honestly recommend it for coughs and colds."

Don't accept a substitute for Dr. Wood's. The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper; 3 pine trees the trade mark; price 25c and 50c. Manufactured by The Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

PUPPY STORIES

by Vincent G. Perry

WHO STOLE THE CLOTHESPEGS? Poor Peter, of course his mistress discovered the fact, she had gone up there and was sorely grieved. "We will have to get rid of this dog right away," she declared. "Why it hasn't been Peter at all!" she cried. "We won't have to send him away at all."

"I am afraid we must," agreed her husband. So preparations were made to send Peter to the farm. Lucky for Peter the farmer could not take him until after next washday. He was to go the very day after, which was Tuesday. On Monday, washday, Peter sat on the front lawn where he had been chained to a stake, and lamented over his misfortune. Of course he had not taken the clothespegs or pulled the clothes from Jake, the naughty pet crow.

DRURY LANE'S THRILLING MELODRAMA SHOW IN SPECIAL PICTURE AT ALLEN.

Of all the famous melodramas of English life which have given Drury Lane the name of the home of thrilling productions, none have been packed with more thrills than the famous play, "The Sportive Duchess," a delightful tale of English aristocratic sporting life, which has been made into a big special production to be shown at the Allen today, tomorrow and Wednesday.

Beautiful old castles, motor cars, and million-dollar yachts, picturesque situations and training quarters from a background for a thrill story which works the spectator up into a fever heat for the big racing scene. Beautiful interiors, exquisite locations, and gorgeous gowns give the picture an atmosphere of sumptuousness which has been seldom rivalled on the screen.

SOW WILD OATS AND REAP BLIND EMBLES.

The most inexorable, unchangeable law of nature is that whoever sows wild oats must reap the cause of their folly, or leave the stamp of their thoughtless indiscretions upon the generation which is to come.

There is not a man, woman or child in the world who should not be thoroughly impressed with the terrible ravages which the world's worst social enemy is causing amongst the civilized world. You, fathers, and you mothers, will you let your children remain in ignorance of the terrible fate they must anticipate if they do not stop and take heed. You, young men and young women who are thinking of matrimony, have you yet given thought to cause of health and happiness to the children which are to some day be the backbone of our country.

VIVIAN MARTIN AND HIGH-CLASS VAUDEVILLE AT THE GRAND TODAY.

Would you sign an agreement to become the fiancée of your cold-blooded millionaire employer for a few weeks for "business purposes only." That is the peculiar proposition that is put up to Vivian Martin in "His Official Fiancee," which will be shown at the Grand today, tomorrow and Wednesday. The feature of the excellent vaudeville bill will be Mlle. Theo and Her Dandies, who will present a miniature musical revue in three scenes. Other acts will be: The Spanish Goldfish, Europe's artistic novelty; "San Tuel, the wizard of the accordion; Lohmer and Carbury in a dancing offering; and Elton & Newton, who will offer some songs and talk.

"POLLYANNA" AT THE GRAND THURSDAY, FRIDAY, SATURDAY

"Pollyanna," one of the loveliest and most widely beloved characters in modern fiction, has been brought to the stage in all her flesh and blood charms, thanks to the deftness with which Mrs. Cushing has handled her comedy upon the enormously popular fluid-books of Mrs. Porter. Pollyanna, producing Company bring the original cast to the Grand Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:15, and Saturday matinee at 2:30.

The comedy is an even greater delight than the stories. It spreads good cheer and gives spirit, brood and is full of novel and fascinating surprises. The sent sale opens tomorrow.

TWO ARE INJURED

Automobile Strikes Buggy, Throwing Occupants Out.

Rose Patterson and Albert Wyatt, both of White's Bridge, were badly shaken up and slightly cut about the head when their horse and buggy was struck last night about 8 o'clock at the corner of Clarence and King streets by a local taxicab, driven by Cecil Tuckey.

The young people were proceeding to St. Joseph's Hospital to visit some sick friends at the time of the accident but unfortunately were forced to continue their trip in the conveyance which ran to them.

Dr. Hodgins, who was called to attend the injured people, stated that their injuries were slight, and that they would be able to proceed home.

The horse, which ran away immediately after the collision, was caught at the corner of Wellington and King streets, and taken to Hueston's livery stable.
