Flays Dance As Spasmodic Worship of St. Vitus

ELLIOTT RAPS ACROBATICS OF 'DIRTY WORLD'

Methodist Conference Speaker Declares Woodrow Wilson Greatest Man in States.

LAUDS VALUE OF PRAYER

"There Is Nothing As Cheap and Ethical As Society," He States.

Modern dancing was vigorously assailed by Dr. George Elliott of New York, who addressed the London Conference of the Methodist Church Saturday morning.

"The old quadrille was dignified," he declared, "but the present day dance is a spasmodic worship of St. Vitus. They have gone from the aesthetic to the athletic and acrobatic."

Live in Dirty World.

"We live in a world that is a dirty world," said Dr. Elliott. "I saw in your paper where your mayor says this is a clean city. I hope it is. Yet there is lots of dirt in it. It doesn't do to boost your town too much. I do not believe in knocking, but I do believe in kicking. Knocking throws them down, kicking throws them up."

"In every city some people read dirty books, see dirty plays, sing dirty songs and dance dirty dances. I am one of those Americans who still believe Woodrow Wilson was our greatest man. Little by little we are finding it out, and some day we will have a senate that knows something. You can get my politics."

Referring to conditions in India, Ireland and Russia, the speaker declared that it was a case of political democracy lined up against spiritual democracy, with a great need for spiritual control.

"There is nothing as cheap and ethical as society," he continued. "Religion is not based on ethics and powers, but has a motive by which it accomplishes its purposes, and prayer makes it available. Prayer releases the energy that is sleeping. If we had had enough prayer 50 years ago, we would have no war or whickeys."

"Do we not live in a chaotic unrest filled with ferment? Do we not pray for smooth waters. Prayer shall unite all God's church into new power for righteousness and peace."

"Come Back Clean."

Discussing the effect of the war on young men, Rev. W. E. Millson, social service and evangelistic secretary, declared that every one of the Methodist probationers who went over "came back clean."

"That is a living rebuke to the people who believed the young men could not come through the stress of the war and come back clean," he said.

"Does that mean free from cigarette smoking?" shouted a conference delegate.

"That's exactly what I mean," replied Mr. Millson.

BRITAIN SENDS MORE TROOPS INTO IRELAND

Believe Military Plan Capture of Belek Salient From Republicans.

CRAIG AGAIN IN BELFAST

Griffith Gives Satisfactory Answers to Questions of British Cabinet.

Belfast, June 3.—The British forces in Northern Ireland were reinforced this morning by the arrival of twelve officers and ninety-seven men of other ranks of the Royal Air Force. They are being followed by twelve Bristol fighting planes, which will be flown over from England this afternoon and will be quartered 12 miles from this city, where there is a big airfield started during the world war, but not completed.

The crown forces are gradually regaining the Ulster special constabulary men who have been on duty along the border, and the latter are returning to police work.

A battery of howitzers was also landed. Their destination is believed to be Enniskillen, near the southern border of County Fermanagh, where an advance party arrived yesterday, and where there is much military activity.

Several troopships bringing English and Scottish regiments also entered the harbor this morning. The military in Fermanagh are commanding automobiles and boats, and it is believed that the capture of the Belek salient recently seized by Irish republican army forces is contemplated.

The arrival of two British destroyers at Belfast is reported, in a dispatch.

Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, on his arrival from London, told the newspapermen that his visit had been very profitable, and that he was quite pleased with the results so far as Northern Ireland was concerned. The British cabinet, he said, was now fully advised of the situation from Ulster's viewpoint.

RUPTURE AVERTED.

Irish negotiations have again been averted, but there is little disposition here to take a very optimistic view of the situation, and it is widely feared that a satisfactory arrangement will prove extremely difficult of attainment.

The answers of Arthur Griffith, president of the Dail Eireann, to six questions put to him by the British cabinet yesterday, the nature of which was not given out, were declared "satisfactory," and Mr. Griffith left last night for Dublin and Prime Minister Lloyd George for his Whitsuntide holiday at Criccieth, Wales.

The gloomy feeling here was increased by Mr. Griffith's statement before his departure that the position appeared the same as it was in December. He would not venture an assertion that yesterday's developments had brightened the prospects for settlement.

Denies Outlook Better.

The Westminster Gazette, whose liberal views and goodwill toward Ireland are well known, gives conspicuous publicity to a special article which, referring to yesterday's doings, says: "It was stated after the second meeting of the cabinet that the outlook was better. This is not the case. Improvement of the situation does not lie with anything the ministers can do. It depends upon the willingness of the Irish delegates to submit a new draft of the constitution. Unless amendments to this are made, the treaty will not be ratified."

"It has been plainly intimated to Griffith and Collins that the next and only possible move lies with them. There is hope that they will accept the situation and produce acceptable proposals, but if they do not the British Government will not ask for ratification of the treaty (by the imperial parliament)."

Mr. Collins carried with him on his return to Dublin, says the newspaper, Turn to Page 3, Column 6.

PLEASED AT CARE HEROES' GRAVES

London, June 3.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Noel Marshall of Toronto, president of the Canadian Red Cross Society, upon returning to London from visiting the battlefields in France and Belgium, expressed himself as gratified at the extreme care of the war graves. Mr. Marshall suggests that Canadians going to France call first at the Red Cross headquarters, 9 Waterloo Place, London, where they will receive every assistance in connection with their proposed tour.

LEAVES ESTATE OF $400,000

T. A. McMahon Bequeaths $50,000 To Be Devoted To London Charities.

Provides For Residue of Legacy To Go To Daughter.

According to his will which has not yet been entered at the court house for probate, the late T. A. McMahon left $50,000 to public institutions. His estate totalled $400,000, the bulk of it consisting of his interest in the firm of McMahon, Granger & Co., all of which is to be sold and converted into cash.

To the Ronald-Roy Gray Memorial Home, to the Children's Aid Society for the maintenance of its children's shelter, and to the London Health Association in trust for Byron Sanatorium, he left the sum of $10,000 each. For the purchase and equipment of city playgrounds, the late Mr. McMahon bequeathed $20,000.

Leaves Personal Effects.

To his widow he left all his household goods and furniture, pictures, silver, china, personal effects, automobiles and automobile accessories and supplies.

To each of his sisters he left $5,000; to John Grierson of London, $3,000, when the terms of the partnership agreement constituting the firm of McMahon, Granger & Co. shall have been fulfilled.

The will directs a sum sufficient to yield $1,000 a year shall be set aside and invested in securities, the fund to be known as the Agnes McMahon trust fund, and that this sum of $1,000 a year shall be paid to his mother in quarterly installments. This cancels her annuity of $600 from her husband's estate.

Upon the death of his mother, the document states, the trust fund is to be divided equally between his two sisters, or their children; should they predecease the mother. If one should die before the mother, without leaving children, then the total amount shall go to the other sister.

Another trust fund to yield $1,000 a year to be paid to his sister, Eva Sproat, and to be known as the Eva Sproat trust fund will be created. This cancels her annuity of $600, from her father's estate.

A similar fund is ordered created for the benefit of the other sister, Turn to Page 3, Column 3.

SOILED AND MUSSY DRESSES HIDE HAPPY HEARTS OF CITY KIDDIES AT "ONE BEST DAY"

Raspberry Jam and Orangeade May Have Marred Spotless Beauty of Many a White Stocking, But What London Mother Would Scold For Tears or Stains After Spring-bank's Gala Day.

BY OLIVIA HOGG.

Where were all the fresh gingham and clean blouses and neatly-shod feet, that started out for the school picnic at Spring-bank Park on Friday?

Soiled and mussed and crumpled, with aching limbs, dusty black shoes and dirty white ones, albeit glowing faces, the kiddies came back to their homes from the one best day of the year, their school picnic.

There might be raspberry jam on one white stocking and a huge stain of orangeade on the other, there perhaps was a tear in the blouse or dress, and maybe heaps of other mishaps, but there were featherticklers in hands, and whistles in mouths, and jaunty school caps askew on the sides of their heads, and where was the mother who would scold for tears and stains after the school picnic?

So the youngsters yelled their school yells and sang their school songs as they returned home, happy and tired, and many of them laden with the spoils of the day, in the form of kewpies and dolls, and all the numerous other things which accompany picnic festivals.

About 4 o'clock occurred a big event of the day, when a gay-painted wagon hoisted the signal: "Free ice cream for the kiddies," and the kiddies needed no second invitation, and hundreds rushed up to enjoy the treat, rushing up so fast, in fact, that the jovial Ed. Smith, chairman of the benevolent school board, assisted by Bill Moore, were forced to organize themselves into a marshaling squad to keep them in single file, so that nobody missed the treat.

A SAD misadventure befell little Donald Campbell of 125 Horton street, who imagined that the glorious day had come too suddenly to an ending and returned home about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, only to Turn to Page 2, Column 5.

Conference Sidelights.

IN AN arm chair placed specially for him at the front of the conference church sits Rev. Lewis Wickett, who is in his 85th year, one of the oldest men in the London Conference. "Thirty-five years ago," Mr. Wickett said, "I attended conference, and my brethren said: 'There's poor Wickett said, "I attended conference. You see I am still coming." Mr. Wickett has been in the ministry over 60 years, and according to one delegate present, his life work has earned him the title of one of the best-loved men in the London Conference. He is a member of Centennial Church.

AT the Monday session of the conference Rev. Walter Fansher, of Aymer, will deliver to the members present his Diamond Jubilee address, signifying the completion of 60 years' work in the ministry. Mr. Fansher, who is 84 years old, was supernumerary Turn to Page 2, Column 2.

RETURN TRUE BILL AGAINST CAMERON

Montreal, June 3.—The grand jury in the court of king's bench here yesterday returned a true bill against Colin Ogilvie Cameron, accused of theft as partner from the firm of Thornton, Davidson & Co., Limited, formerly stock brokers of this city, whose bankruptcy impaired the rest account of the Merchants Bank of Canada by an amount close on $5,000,000. This loss was among the principal causes forcing that institution to consent to absorption by the Bank of Montreal. A further charge accuses Cameron of having destroyed books belonging to the firm. The case will come up next week.

THREATENS CITY GIRL IN LETTER

Irene Xine Receives What Is Thought To Be "Black Hand" Epistle.

Family Afraid of Probable Result of Italian's Actions.

What is believed to be a "black hand" letter, threatening the lives of her friends and relatives as well as her own, has been submitted to the provincial police by Irene Xine, 273 Talbot street.

Three weeks ago, the latter reported to Provincial Officer Arthur Palmer that she was being continually bothered by a Border City Italian, whom she named as Tony Martella, who had followed her home to this city, she said, from Detroit, where she had been working for several months past.

As she declined to accompany him to Pittsburgh, as he desired, she relates that he made several threats against her friends who had interested themselves on her behalf. When the police were subsequently notified, he left the city apparently, and nothing was heard from him until the communication was found on the doorstep Saturday morning early.

Once again thrown into a state of fear and constant dread that something may happen at any moment, the occupants of the little Talbot street home have again consulted Provincial Officer Palmer.

During his investigations several days ago, Deputy Officer George Tustin reported that the family was so alarmed by the Italian's words that they became reluctant to use the milk left on the doorstep each morning, for fear that it had been poisoned by a member of the gang with whom, it is alleged, the absent Italian is associated.

William Coote, D.L., M. P. for Tyrone. The resolution is to be forwarded to Premier Lloyd George and to Sir James Craig, premier of the Ulster Parliament.

REGRETS BOY BROTHER OF VICTIM LIVES

Youthful Murderer Offered Home at 1315 Dundas Street For Sale Before Tragedy.

INTENDED TO GO WEST

Prisoner Rapidly Losing Sight of Eye Stung Years Ago by Bumble Bee.

BY RUSSELL F. BOYD.

Through seemingly endless days and sleepless nights, grim regret rankles in the breast of Gordon Dibsdale, 384 Oakland avenue, as he tosses about in his prison cot, awaiting the dawn of Friday, June 9, when he will answer to the charge of slaying Christina Near, 886 Adelaide street, his 16-year-old sweetheart, whom he had implored to share with him a little cottage on Dundas street.

It is not, however, regret that he aimed and fired the fatal shot, that stilled forever the voice of his sweetheart, as she, wounded and terrified, fled from their trysting place at the corner of St. James and Adelaide streets, in a futile attempt to save her life, but regret that sheer physical exhaustion prevented him from also killing William Near, the 20-year-old brother of the victim, and then successfully using a knife he carried on himself.

Had he but the strength, he would have slain the brother who bent over him while he lay on the sidewalk numb with pain.

Shortly after police brought him to St. Joseph's Hospital he moaned: "Maybe I shouldn't have done it. But I should have got the brother, too."

"If the gun had only been sawed off," Dibsdale was repeating, "he inquired, 'At what cemetery?'"

On being told, his only comment was: "If the gun had been sawed off, my funeral would have been then, too."

"What was the real reason for it all?" Dibsdale was asked.

"Love affair," he replied. And the youthful slayer smiled, almost bashfully.

"What was at the bottom of it?" Simply a Quarrel.

"A quarrel," he responded, simply, then turned away as if to hide some momentary impression of a thought or emotion which he feared had been reflected on his face.

"You own property in the city, don't you?" the boy was asked.

"Yes, I own a house out east—1315 Dundas street," he replied.

And then the slayer turned his attention to his inquisitor, remarking that the wound which had proved only slight was causing him pain.

This, he said, was his only affliction, except one of his eyes, the sight of which is rapidly growing dimmer.

"I was stung by a bumble bee in the eye about ten years ago," Dibsdale volunteered, "and since then it has been getting worse. I can hardly see with it at all now."

As he talked his tone was frank and boyish. At times, a smile crept over his face, vanished and then returned, as if undecided whether it was proper, so soon after the occurrence of the chain of events in which its possessor had been so prominent.

Are There Two?

But are there two Gordon Dibsdales?

Is there the outward one, who smiles and is cheery to prevent the domination of the inner tragic one? A close study of the boy who must answer for the death of his bride-to-be leads to that belief.

While Dibsdale dozes through the long, sultry days of confinement, or lays awake at night with the inkiness of his cell at the Middlesex county jail shielding him from the sight of things of a world which seems to him but a place from which to escape, the little home which he intended for his love nest, to be shared some day by "Christie," is advertised for sale, although the boy would like to his father.

Two years ago, the prisoner made his first payment of $200 on it. Then he worked thirteen days out of every fourteen to accumulate enough to pay off the balance.

He had the home, but there was something lacking in his life.

"What good is a home without a mate to share it?" he asked himself.

Other boys had steady girls. Why shouldn't he?

"I'm going to get a steady girl and get married," he confided to a chum, Charlie Haselwood, whose family is living in Dibsdale's house.

No more! (Is later Dibsdale becoming a steady girl?)

ADOPTS 4-YEAR PASTORAL TERM AT CONFERENCE

Methodist Gathering Defeats Proposal To Increase Term by One Year.

ENGAGE IN LIVELY DEBATE

Will Amalgamate Departments in Interests of Economy.

Delegates to the London Conference of the Methodist Church, in session Saturday morning, defeated a resolution to make the pastoral term five years instead of four years as at present. Discussion of this important question was most spirited, and the debate lasted for over an hour.

Those champions of a lengthened term pointed out that in many cases it was to the detriment of the individual church to transfer a pastor who is in the midst of completing plans for its betterment.

Rev. John Garbutt urged that the resolution be passed, and referred to general conference stressing the fact that many pastors were desirous of carrying out certain plans with the co-operation of their respective congregations, but were prevented from doing so by the transfer to another charge.

Rev. A. E. Moorhouse pointed out that five-year terms were better for larger churches, because the work with the rural circuit is the most difficult.

Rev. D. N. McCamus then protested against "class legislation," declaring that the resolution, if passed, should apply to all circuits regardless of their size or importance. Delegate Heil asserted that some pastors desired to remain in one church twenty years, when "if they did they would have no church."

Rev. Byron Shull stressed the fact that a referendum of the conference showed the majority in opposition to a five-year term, and questioned if the session could go on in the face of such opposition. One delegate opined that increased pastoral terms are "bad for the congregations."

Voted and Defeated.
Shortly before noon adjournment the recommendation to increase the pastoral term by one year was put to a vote and defeated.

Overlapping of departments "top heavy with organization" was mentioned Saturday morning when a resolution to amalgamate the educational and religious education departments, the finance and superannuation fund departments was passed in the interest of economy.

Rev. J. Quinn of Bayfield was superannuated for one year by the conference.

In Stirring Plea.
A stirring plea for better educational facilities and proper recognition of the Indian people was voiced to the conference Friday afternoon by William K. Cornelius, chief of the Oneida Indians.

One of the greatest ideas we should hold is to educate the Indian people, he began. Nothing elevates a community more than the instruction given by schools and similar institutions. On such education is founded the hope of the Indian, for who needs it more than they?

It is up to the Indian to give him the best. I do not think they have increased your possessions, but the natives of this country have ceded wide prairies and an inexhaustible store of treasures.

Once we were in the majority; now we are in the minority. You came to us and we befriended you. Now we come to you and ask recognition of friendship. Christian brotherhood you must be the equal of the Indian and on the same level with him.

Would Better Race.
It is up to you intelligent men to exert your influence for the betterment of the race who have stood by you; whose young men laid down their lives with your young men, and whose fathers bled with your fathers in the past.

The chief interest in my mind is my people, continued the speaker. I want to see the day when they will take their stand in every walk of life, and I hope that many of them will become ministers of the Gospel. Distrust has often been bred among my people of the white man, but you will find that the Indian is always loyal to his friends, and never seeks to impose himself upon others in making friendships. We do not want to be robbed of our reserves, for they are small enough.

Lost confidence is the barrier that stands in the way of complete harmony between the white man and the red man. In order to draw us closer together no line of distinction should be made. Too much of that has been done.

Lead Indians Astray.
I have heard it said that the white men are in danger of being led astray on the reserves. It is not so, my friends. It is the white men who are leading my people astray. Untrustworthy men are visiting the reserves instead of the highly-cultured men of noble character that we want.

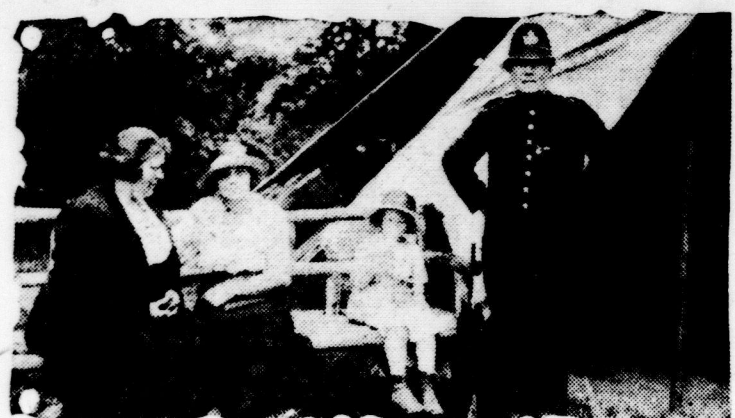

Many of our girls are working as domestics among you, and some of the young white men ought to be in prison for their conduct. They disrespect our women and call them squaws. I repeat that word, for I think they ought to be called ladies.

We need the best men and the strongest the conference can supply. We do not want men that drive. We cannot be driven. The Indians were never enslaved to any nations, concluded the chief.

In moving a vote of thanks to Chief Cornelius, Rev. J. W. Hibbert of Kingsville declared that for 39 years there has been very little progress in church work among the Indians of the conference, because they were looked upon as not demanding the best thought and men the conference could produce.

It is time that the Indian status be placed upon a level with the other

Lost But Happy On Big Day

IT wouldn't be a school picnic unless there were some children lost! The Red Cross Society, realizing the need for looking after such cases, provided a tent on the grounds just north of the pavilion, where children who had strayed from the guardianship of their parents could be re-united.

charges in the conference," asserted the former president.

Wants Backing.
Principal S. R. McVittie of Muncie Institute then charged that the London conference has not "backed up" the institution as it should. On resolution a committee consisting of Rev. J. W. Hibbert, Charles Sustin and Principal McVittie was empowered to act as a commission to investigate the relations of the London conference and the reserves, and report at a later session.

Applications of seven ministers to transfer into London Conference were received and four were allowed, subject to the will of the stationing committee. Those considered with favor were: Rev. Joseph Wilkins of Manitoba, Harry E. Smith, James Didden, M. Calow and J. A. Sherlock. They will be admitted to London Conference at the next session.

Decision on the applications of Rev. Robert Davies a Baptist minister and Rev. George A. Beacock was postponed. Rev. J. Franklin Ryecraft objected to permitting ministers with lower academic standing than the prescribed qualifications to enter London Conference.

Resignation Received.
The resignation of Rev. J. W. Hisey of Dorpeth was received and accepted. Rev. W. J. Graham, superintendent of education, and Rev. W. C. Graham of Wesleyan College, Montreal, addressed the meeting. They informed the conference that 7,000 people have been trained in Methodist colleges for religious leadership at home and foreign fields.

Rev. W. J. Graham emphasized the need of the schools personalizing education. During the afternoon impressive memorial services were conducted for those members of London Conference who have been called by death during the past year.

Rev. D. N. McCamus who delivered the memorial address scored his brethren who left the church during this impressive ceremony.

Mentioning his deep feeling in performing such a solemn duty, Mr. McCamus said, "It is certainly not alleviated by the removal of so many of us at this juncture. Some day our names will stand on record at such a service."

Reading the names of the deceased brethren the speaker said, in part: "Where He is not dark and it is not alleviated by the removal of so many of us at this juncture. Some day our names will stand on record at such a service."

161 Have Passed Away.
Mr. McCamus referred feelingly to the fact that 161 members of London Conference had passed away in 38 years. Rev. Heber W. Crews of Windsor was called upon for the blessing.

The obituaries read included the names of Dr. William Sparling, pastor of the First Methodist Church, London, at the time of his death, last November; Rev. C. W. Baker of Thamesford, who died May 12, 1922; Rev. Walter Risley, a former conference president, who died in London Thursday night; Rev. W. J. Ford, a superannuated pastor, who was called by death at his home in Gloucester, July 17, 1921; and Rev. William John Ashton, former pastor of Wellington Street Methodist Church, who died at St. Thomas, February 19 last.

The sterling attributes of each of the deceased members were acclaimed by the brethren, the conference uniting in mourning their deaths.

Banquet at Church.
The conference, the laymen's annual banquet was held at Dundas Center Church Friday night. Approximately 500 people sat down to the meal served by the ladies in the Sunday school.

In the absence of Premier E. C. Drury, Dr. George Elliott of New York, editor of the Methodist Review, addressed the gathering. Dr. Elliott, who has been in charge of conference devotional exercises each day, delivered after-dinner speeches which scintillated with wit and kept his audience in merry uproar.

William Heaman, president of the Laymen's Association, acted as chairman at the banquet.

GIVES SIDELIGHTS ON CONFERENCE

ated 24 years ago, but still continues to take an active part in the ministry. Amongst his last stations were Springfield, Thamesville, Bothwell and Rodney.

SUPERANNUATED but still an active member of Ridout street church is Rev. John Holmes, who is present at the conference, keenly interested in all the work of the organization.

Mr. Holmes was at one time in charge of the old King Street Methodist Church, which has long since, however, been closed up. His associates in the ministry speak of him as an exceptionally well read man and one of the most thorough preachers in the conference. It is nine years since Mr. Holmes was superannuated and he was engaged in the active work of the ministry for over forty years. At times he was stationed at Blythe, Bothwell, Dorchester, Blenheim and Dresden.

REV. A. L. RUSSELL of Canfield, is another of the ministers present who has an exceptionally long and fine record to his credit. Mr. Russell has been fifty-six years in the ministry, and is now superannuated. He is known to Londoners, having at one time been stationed at Wellington Street Methodist Church here. He has been in charge of circuits at Seaforth, Petrolia and Highgate.

INDUCT EIGHT INTO MINISTRY

Rev. J. E. J. Millyard, President of Conference, Addresses Meeting.

Candidates Narrate Story of Decision To Enter Service of Church.

Eight young men, two of whom will complete their entrance into the Methodist ministry by ordination at Centennial Methodist Church next Sunday morning, were inducted into the service of the church at a public reception at Centennial Church Friday night. They were charged to go into the world bearing the Cross of Christ, as the cure of the world's disease today, the disease of sin, by the Rev. J. E. J. Millyard, the president of the conference.

In charging the young men President Millyard said to them: "Tonight you are called to the Methodist Church for the cure of souls. What is the disease you are trying to cure? There are many voices trying to tell what is the matter with the world. I think there is but one disease in this world, and that is sin, therefore, I charge you that you go out into the world from this platform into the ministry, determined to cure this disease of the world with the Cross of Jesus Christ. If you will only do that your ministry will be a glorious success."

Each of the candidates narrated, after being "presented into full connection with the conference" the story of his conversion and decision to enter the ministry.

The inducted young men are: John W. Burton, B.A.; Robert R. Cummings, B.A.; Thomas W. Hazelwood, B.A.; Richard R. Hoskins, B.A.; Gerald Lawson, B.A.; Arthur J. Love, Wallace Hanley Moss, B.A., and Stanley M. Sweetman.

Thomas W. Hazelwood and Arthur J. Love are the two of the number who are to be ordained at the morning service at the Centennial Church, 11 o'clock service next Sunday.

Pays Tribute to Mothers.
Each of the testimonials of the candidates concerning his religious experience, paid tribute to the influence of home, mother and the church. All of them attributed to, in the major degree, his mother, the actual beginning of his spiritual path that led eventually, often through many vicissitudes, to the threshold of the ministry, upon which they stood.

Most of the young men related that they had been in the active ranks of churchworkers for some time, or in the words of the president of the conference, "tested in the field and college." They were on the threshold of a new life, he said, and in each instance, one of the factors of their entrance to the ministry had been the quarterly boards of the Methodist Church. "In the Methodist Church," the laity take upon them responsibility of recommending the men before they are accepted by the conference.

George Daniel, M.A., Ph.D., delivered the sermon at the reception. Mr. Daniel is leaving the ministry after 51 years of active service in the Christian Church, work which was, he declared, the consuming passion of his life.

In his message to the eight young men he stressed the belief in the divine call to the ministry. A call is specific to an individual, a calling was merely a profession. If it were true that man could make the greatest successes in his profession, whether it be doctor, lawyer, or anything else, if he loved so much more was achieved in the Christian ministry by love of the work, therefore, he urged the eight to bend to their tasks with all their might.

France To Be At Hague If Russia Cancels Note

PARIS, June 3. — Premier Poincare in a memorandum forwarded yesterday to all the powers which have received invitations to attend the Hague conference on Russian affairs, demands that the soviet government withdraw its memorandum, presented at the Geneva conference on May 11, as a condition for French participation at the Hague meeting with the Russians.

ring, a golden setting for the true minister," he said.

St. Paul had said when he was called to the Lord's work: "I heard a voice, I saw a light." Especially at the present time, in this age of materialism, when all the elements being reduced by skeptics and scientists to material values, was it necessary to believe in the divine call.

They should all be able to say with St. Paul "I saw a voice, I heard a call," and, "If the young man can't say that," declared Rev. Daniel, "I can't vote for him, though he have the mind of Demosthenes and his eloquence."

Finally, he called upon the young men not to be disheartened, though the work was hard. They would meet differences that would have to be smoothed over, and have many burdens, because the work was of the hardest kind in the world.

It was announced at the reception that the proposed picnic of the conference to Springbank Saturday afternoon had been changed to a 25-mile auto drive, of all who wished, at 2:30 Saturday, around the city.

Saturday morning a devotional exercise will be held at 8:45, after which Dr. George Elliott of New York will speak. A special service will be held Sunday morning at the Centennial Methodist, under the direction of J. E. Ford, and Sunday night at the same church the Rev. Mr. Elliott will speak again.

find that he had cheated himself at least three hours of fun.

Donald made haste to return on the very next car, brimming with happiness that his mistake had not proved fatal.

ONE of the daintiest little figures at the picnic was tiny Rose Walters of Tecumseh Avenue School, whose ivory skin and raven hair show her to be a pretty little Japanese girl, but whose smart, simple little frock and winsome manner show her to be a very typical little Canadian school girl. And with her little Canadian playmates, Rose was having the merriest sort of a time.

STRETCHED out under a tree, lazily partaking of supper, were two happy urchins who had run the gamut of the day's pleasure from the races, through the excitement of the roller coaster and ferris wheel, to the more satisfying joys of supper. "Music while you eat," remarked Stanley Barton of 432 Eglinton street, a pupil at Boyle Memorial School, who, with his companion, Earl Ingram of 67 Duchess avenue, was munching away while listening to the roar of the Springbank flyer.

SOMETHING more tangible than memories was carried away from the picnic by Edwin Leeson of 70 Becher street, a pupil at Riverview, who, at true to his sport, was the proud possessor of three keepies, five brooches, and innumerable whistles and ticklers. Harry Jones of 62 Beaconsfield, was also gleefully exhibiting the day's winnings, that is with the exception of 40 cents, which he had won but which had gone the way of all savings so recklessly spent on the great day of all days.

A HAPPY trio were Gordon Gregory of 182 Langarth street, and his brothers, Fred and Tom, who, with Dennis Chapman of 199 Langarth street, all pupils at Wortley Road School, were finishing the last remnants of supper, confident that supper by no means ended the day.

TWO joyous wanderers, who had spent nearly all their money, but who still trusted in fate that more sport would be theirs, were Clarence Robinson of 455 Dundas street and Sing Shin of 469 Dundas street, both pupils at Alexandra.

OVER on the teeter-totters, shouting in frolicsome abandon, there was a jolly bunch—Jean Petrie, 421 Simcoe street, of Alexandra School; Iva Crowell, 371 Glebe street, and Shirley Jackson of 844 Elias street, who were balancing one end, and on the other end, riding the royal bumps, were Margaret Darrach, 216 Dundas street; Jean Campbell, 413 Salisbury street, and Mary Wilson, 434 Salisbury street.

A MOST exciting incident, although not mentioned on the day's official list of sports, was a baseball game over on a grassy stretch by the swings, with a middy-clad girl, wearing a jaunty cap of the yellow and gold Tecumseh school colors, just up to bat.

The eager players were Leonard Watts, of 113 Bruce street, and Lloyd Griffith, of 111 Bruce street, who were aiding to uphold the honors of Victoria School; George Slater, of 25 Front street, of Tecumseh School, and his sister Ivy, Violet Andrews, a very excited fan from Riverview School, whose home is at 12 Alexander street, and her brother Bernard, the capable captain, Adele Roach of 17 Clarke street and David Monteith, of 111 Wharfedale road, who was alone in his glory to defend the prestige of Empress Avenue School.

A LITTLE further on was a group of girls sporting the black, red and yellow of Aberdeen School, who were contenting themselves with a game of catch, meanwhile, lustily singing praises of Aberdeen School's record in the day's sports. They were May Bartlett and her sister Irene of 521 Philip street; Jean Topping of 152 Adelaide street, and Mary Gnatuk of 70 William street.

STRETCHED out upon the grass, watching the numerous crowds enjoying supper, were George Gash of 13 Kensington street and John Daniels of 18 Wilson avenue, who confessed that the afternoon's continued feast of ice cream and orangeade had been too much for them, and the more substantial sandwiches and cake of tea-time were joys which they were forced to deny themselves.

ONE group from Wortley Road School were very eager to place themselves on record as having had the finest time of their young lives and "never missed a thing all day," one young one shouted, and was away in an instant to join a ball game.

"Oh, it's grand, if it doesn't rain," another young pessimist was heard to say.

LITTLE Lorraine Gleed, of 5 Dean street, gathered a group of youngsters and said: "Let's put all our names in the paper and say that we say it couldn't have been better and we've got loads to eat, and it isn't going to rain, and every single thing is just right about this picnic." Eagerly agreeing with her were Leon Hamilton of 149 Tecumseh avenue, and Glen Tomlinson of 132 Tecumseh avenue, and Marie Graham of 162 Tecumseh avenue, and a host of other youngsters who agreed just as enthusiastically, but showed an early adversity to newspaper publicity as decided as that of any great celebrity who ever became an expert at dodging reporters.

Our Money Matters.

CLAIMING that federal finances should be subject in some measure to the same restrictions that are placed on municipal financing, J. D. DRUMMOND, Progressive member for West Middlesex, dealt with the question of the national debt in the Commons. He points out that "the finance minister in his budget speech does not give us very much encouragement as to what is going to happen in the near future in connection with paying any part of our national debt. He says we must soon begin to consider the question of reduction of our public debt, rather than the increase of it. According to the last report that I have been able to obtain from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the national wealth of the Dominion of Canada is estimated at $19,002,778,000. The national debt of the country is about two billion and a half, that is the federal debt; if we take into consideration the provincial, the municipal and private debts in the Dominion of Canada in addition, I think I am safe in saying that the total debt of the Dominion of Canada will reach four and a half or five billion dollars, or, in other words, the total debt of the Dominion of Canada will reach about one-quarter of our national wealth. I ask honorable members of this house if they consider that is a good position financially for the Dominion of Canada to be in, or, without even looking to the near future, if the time has not already arrived when we should provide some means to retire at least a portion of our national debt. There are those of us who have been identified with municipal work for many years, and we have found it impossible for a municipality to increase its debt without a certain amount of restriction, unless by consent of some higher authority than its own. If a municipality increases its debt without such a certain amount of restriction, it is put upon it by the province or some other authority, which restrictions will immediately bring it to a halt. If it is right that a municipality should have to make provision for retiring its debt, either by a sinking fund or by making provision in those debentures that, at the end of a certain number of years, the debentures should be retired with an added amount of interest and principal, is it not equally true that in the Dominion some means should be taken before the time comes when we are upon the verge of financial disaster to provide for the payment of at least a part of our national debt?"

Mr. DRUMMOND's point has considerable merit, but it would be hard to apply it to much of the present debt, as it came from the war, and will have to be retired gradually, but, nevertheless, certainly, His position that we cannot go on indefinitely adding to the debt of the country is sound. In London, for instance, the policy was laid down that the debt should not be greater than the debenture retirement in any one year. It may be that it cannot be worked out that way all the time, but it is something definite to shoot at and keep in mind. If there are no standards of any kind to work to there is a splendid opportunity of running wild financially.

Mr. DRUMMOND is not particularly enamored of the system of financing that shows a balance on paper and in addition to the debt at one and the same time. In this connection he stated: "I wish to ask honorable members if they consider that we are carrying out the provisions of the heritage that has been given to us by our pioneer fathers, when we are drifting continually year after year into eighty or ninety million dollars more of debt. I am well aware that, according to the manner in which the finances of the Dominion of Canada are—I was going to say, juggled, if, sir, you will permit the word without calling me to order—an apparent surplus is shown in some way of $73,000,000, in one year, and in other years of a somewhat larger amount. I feel that I cannot for one moment take that into consideration when the ultimate end of the year's work is an addition to our nation's debt of eighty or ninety million dollars. That is the only standpoint from which it is proper to judge, if it is right to judge at all."

There can be no doubt that there is a move on at Ottawa for greater severity in financing. Hon. Mr. FIELDING is not a juggler in finance—he is admitted on all sides to be one of the soundest financiers in the country, and he is moving toward a place where the people will feel that their national money matters are not running away with the available as well as the natural wealth of the Dominion.

The straight talk on this question, introduced by the finance minister himself at the time of his budget speech, is having a good effect on the country's appreciation of its financial obligations. We have too long listened to spell-binders telling of our great national heritage. The fact that the finance minister is bold enough to give sanction to the use of the word "serious" in a calm, deliberate statement of the country's finances, and that other members are willing to discuss the issue on the same basis, is about the best news the people of Canada have had for some days.

Foster and the Weather.

DOWN IN Washington they have a man by the name of W. F. FOSTER, who makes a living by telling what the weather is going to be for some months ahead. He has just sent out what he terms to be an "unusual publication," which he asks the papers to use in their columns.

His predictions are not happy reading, but we pass his statement and his grounds on for what they are worth:

"A more destructive drought in Europe than has occurred in 100 years is now on, will reach its greatest in June, July and August, and will be so destructive that not more than one-third of the usual average crops will survive in that vast country covering all Europe from Portugal to Constantinople and all south of the British Channel and the Baltic Sea.

"Six months ago I sent the above forecasts of the great coming catastrophe to 100 prominent citizens of America and Canada, charging them to tell no one. My purpose was that they might be witnesses to the forecast, and I advise release them from privacy, and ask them to inform all their neighbors, friends and the newspapers about the facts of that forecast. That drought will end during the fifteen days centering on October 8, 1922.

"Another most disastrous drought will begin in all of Australia during the fifteen days centering on October 30, 1922, and at least two-thirds of the crop of Australia will be destroyed during December, January and February, 1922-3. Their crop season is during our winter. From one-third to one-half of the crops in the East Indies and all of the Oceania west of meridian 180 will be destroyed by this great drought.

"My purpose in all this is to give notice to the friends of my work an opportunity. I advise that wheat will go above $2 a bushel, and other grain in proportion by end of September; that North America must feed Europe. That country, including Southern Russia, will need double the amount of help that Russia has needed on account of its recent drought.

"Now let the critics howl. They can find me in Washington at any time, ready to defend my weather forecasts before the public, and this is the time for them to put me out of business. Many years ago they were loud in their denunciations, but of recent years I have only heard an occasional mouse sneeze from them.

"I correctly predicted every drought that has occurred in any part of the world during the past five years long in advance. The recent disastrous Russian drought forecast was published six months in advance. America will come next. A succession of continental droughts lies before us, and there is no reason why the people should not be better informed than ever before on this subject."

So there you are. If you want to find out what Foster knows about the weather cut this out and see what happens.

Facing Facts.

IN THE Sunday school lesson that is being studied this week there is a human touch in the action of Jehoiakim, who tried to destroy the word that Jeremiah had dictated. Here's the story:

"And it came to pass that when Jehoiakim had read three or four leaves he (Jehoiakim) cut it with the pen-knife, and cast it into the fire that was on the hearth, until all the role was consumed in the fire that was on the hearth."

Simple, wasn't it? The truth hurt and cut, so destroy the truth. That king was afraid to face facts, and there are a lot of people in the same class today.

The ostrich sticks his head in the sand in the face of danger, but he doesn't lessen the danger—he increases it.

NO. 231 IMITATIVE GESTURES

Among the most valuable of character indications to the salesman are the gestures of his prospects. They often give him the clue to character which he has failed to get by casual observation of more or less contradictory indications of head shapes, coloring and the like. Several gesture indications have been explained in previous articles.

But have you ever run across the person who, in his gestures, tends to imitate your own? When you think that a person has this tendency, test it. As you talk make a gesture or two which you have not observed him making as yet. Then note if he follows suit.

If he does you have a cue which ought to enable you to close the sale. If your proposition is right and other things are equal. For you then know that you are talking to a person who is more than usually influenced by the views of others. Imitative instincts, you know, influence thoughts as well as actions.

Take the thought leadership at once with a person of this type. He is the kind of person who mentally is always putting himself in the other fellow's boots, always trying for the other fellow's viewpoint. Adopt the viewpoint you want him to take and concentrate your mind on it. Imagine yourself in his position and taking the action you want him to take. Talk along these lines and

THE BOOKSHELF

THROUGH THE SHADOWS. By Cyril Alington. The Macmillan Company, Publishers, New York. FARCE has its place in novels as well as on the stage, and good farce is about as rare in the one form as in the other.

Mr. Alington's farcical tale, "Through the Shadows," is light, amusing, and often clever in its handling of the mistakes and cross-purposes of the various characters; its dialogue is natural, and over many of the incidents the author has managed to cast a veil of plausibility. But it dwindles away to a termination instead of rising to a climax, and there are rather too many people pretending to be what they are not.

Sir Richard Atherton's successful persuading of his friend Captain England to help him out by assuming the role of Professor Lapski, famous spiritualist and thought-reader, is neatly managed, and the way Peter Lord Ranby yields to impulse and avows himself to be his twin brother, the Hon. Rev. Paul Ranby, comes and prohibitionist, only to find himself obliged by circumstances to keep the name and station he has assumed, is another deft bit of manipulation.

But that Lady Mary Summers should pose as Mrs. George Howard, and Mr. Robert Walton, the successful brewer, as a retired Indian civilian, does seem rather like piling it on, although it must be admitted that some of the most amusing scenes in the book result from the endeavors of these two to keep up their assumed characters.

Yet, far-fetched as the tale is, it rarely descends to burlesque, and much of its humor results from the individualities of the various persons concerned, their preferences and prejudices.

There is Mrs. Branson, the rich widow from Chicago, who talks that variety of English assigned to Americans in so many English novels.

Mrs. Branson was intensely interested in prohibition and spiritualism; in fact, it was her strong feeling on both these subjects which more than anything else brought about the much-complicated situation at Sir Richard Atherton's house party.

The Archdeacon, too, is well done, and the plight of good-natured Uncle Bob Walton whose complete ignorance of India, where he was supposed to have spent the greater part of his life, made it so difficult for him to respond satisfactorily to the Archdeacon's questions is cleverly maintained.

The book is apparently a first novel, and one which promises well for its author's future.

"When will I be going to College?"

"WHAT decided me to take additional insurance policies was the artless question of my little son," said a business man over the luncheon table.

"My little boy said, 'Daddy, when will I be going to college?'"

"Well, I didn't feel sure I could answer that question for the simple reason I didn't know whether I'd be able to send him at all or not. I have two other boys and a girl to educate. The little fellow's question set me thinking. I figured that the safest and most direct way would be to consult a friend of mine who is an agent for the Mutual Life of Canada, and he advised me to take the 'Child's Endowment Policies' issued by that company.

"Under these policies the amount is payable to the child upon reaching a specified age. Should the child die in the interval the premiums are returned. Should the parent die the premiums cease but the policy is paid to the child just the same at maturity: should both the child and father die before maturity the amount will be paid to the assured's estate.

"I took his advice and now carry policies guaranteeing absolutely the cost of an education to each of the four children as soon as they reach the age where a college course would naturally begin."

"These policies are issued by the Mutual Life?" asked his friend.

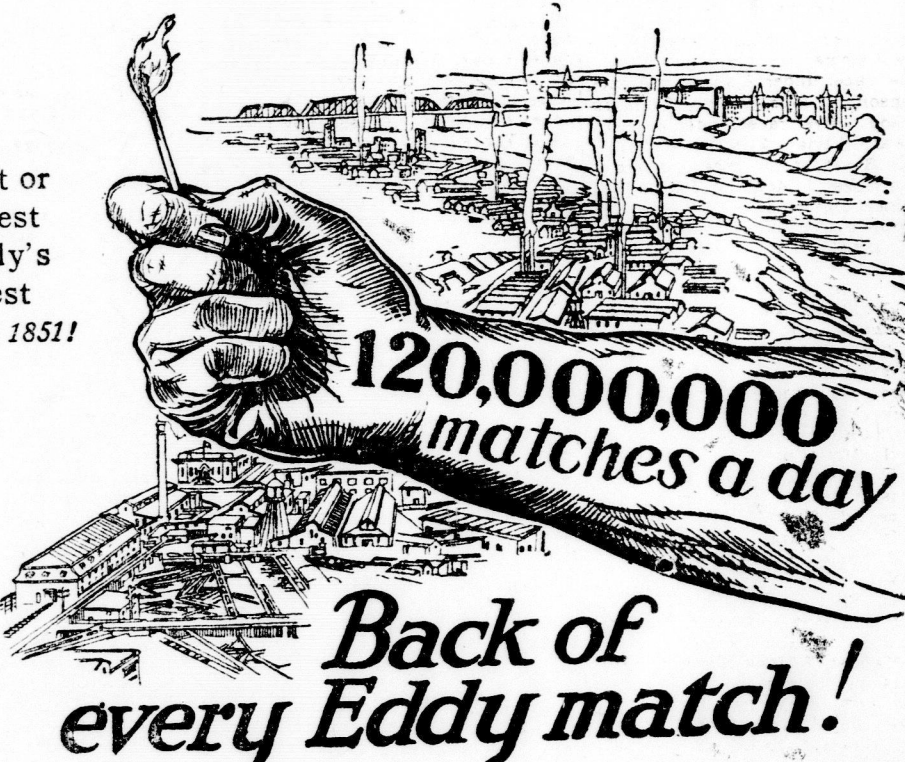

"Yes, and being participating policies they become very inexpensive. The Mutual you know is the one Canadian Company that returns its entire profits to its policyholders."

East or West Eddy's Best

--since 1851!

On Canada's first birthday, Eddy's were already 16 years old. When the last spike was driven on the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1886, Eddy's had passed their 35th milestone. When Ottawa was still Bytown—seven years before it became Canada's capital—Eddy's were making matches for Canada's total population of 1,850,000 people.

EDDY FACTS

- Eddy matches are packed and counted under Government supervision.
- in 35 styles of various lengths to suit every individual requirement.
- with various colored heads.
- in washed air.
- from selected, clean, straight grained Canadian white pines, kiln-dried.
- to stand every strain of striking on any surface.
- carefully inspected before being packed.
- every process for making boxes, packing board and printing is done by Eddy's.
- Eddy's was the first word for matches in 1851.
- Eddy's is the last word in 1922!

Deep-rooted in Canadian soil before Confederation, Eddy's are more Canadian than the Dominion. The business romance of this great pioneer industry is the history of Upper and Lower Canada for three-quarters of a century—since 1851!

Eddy's have seen the number of match consumers grow from less than 1,850,000 to 9,000,000.

In the great Eddy family of 2,500 loyal Canadian workers are found many who have seen service for over 40 years—from father to son and daughter.

And never a strike since 1851!

With a payroll of over $2,500,000 a year, the gigantic Eddy plant spreading over 75 acres is now producing 120,000,000 matches a day of superlative quality—equal to 5,143 miles of matches end to end.

This long-continued supremacy is the result of unflinching adherence to the Eddy ideal—the most for the money.

"Eddy's" is the Canadian word for matches!

CATTLE TUBERCULOSIS

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

SCIENCE is practically agreed that cattle tuberculosis is caused by a germ essentially the same as that causing human tuberculosis and that the cattle disease can be transferred to people by the use of cattle products containing the germ.

There is some controversy as yet, however, on the point of actual frequency of the cattle type in human beings.

It is found almost exclusively in children, mostly under five, and rarely in those above 15 years.

Bovine tuberculosis affects chiefly the digestive tract, glands and bones. In the abdomen, it causes great enlargement of the glands related to the intestine. Often the neck glands are affected and the bones and joints throughout the body may become involved.

Cattle tuberculosis is a menace to children, and should be eradicated as far as possible.

1,500 Children Win Prizes At Springbank Picnic

Cash Awards Acceptable

More than 1,500 children from 25 public schools in the city won prizes in the contests which were conducted by each school in various parts of Springbank Park Friday.

The children were given cash prizes this year as the officials thought that money would be more acceptable to the kiddies in a place where such marvellous contrivances to the child's mind, as the roller coaster, ferris wheel, merry-go-round and fun house were operating "full blast."

A few of the schools that did not arrive at the park until late in the morning held their sports at the school grounds so as to give the children all the time possible to wander around and see the sights.

The majority of the schools held their races in the morning, so that the holding of the sports might not interfere with the afternoon crowds. The Talbot street girls baseball team defeated the Chesley girls, and by so doing won the city public school championship. The score 13-0 does not indicate the class of ball played, as both teams fought hard the whole six innings. The Chesley girls seemed off form and were even stage struck at times.

By winning the game the Talbot street girls have the proud distinction of possessing both the baseball and the basketball cups, emblematic of the public school championships in these two sports.

The line-ups were:

In a hard fought game that went an extra inning the public school teachers, under Captain Dr. F. Bryant, defeated the officers and trustees of the board of education, under Captain Edwin Smith. The final score was 4-3.

The line-ups were:

A picked team of boys from the north defeated a team from the south by the score of 2-1.

Ottawa, June 3.—P. M. Draper, secretary of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, in speaking last evening at a meeting of the Trades and Labor Council on the present coal situation, not only charged that the price paid for coal was excessive, but strongly urged that the government should set up a board of experts to evolve some system whereby

With "Tooth Brushes Handy" Ontario Junior Red Cross Branches, Including Seven in Middlesex, Keep Step With Children in Twenty-Eight Countries Around Globe—Aid Less Fortunate Children—Sir Philip Gibbs Pays Tribute.

BY ISABEL C. ARMSTRONG.

"Handy Spandy, Jack-a-Dandy. Always have your toothbrush handy. For if you let your teeth get bad, you will be a foolish lady."

This, and ever so many more equally catchy and educational verses, have tickled the funnybones and appealed to the commonsense of hundreds of school boys and girls up and down the length and breadth of Ontario who are enrolled in the 116 Junior Red Cross branches which have been organized in the past year.

"How is the Junior Red Cross getting along?" the Women's Department of The Advertiser asked the provincial organizer, S. B. McCready, of Toronto, formerly of London, when he paid a brief visit to the city this week.

"It works!" he exclaimed, a ring of triumph in his voice.

And isn't that the supreme test for any machine or organization?

The Junior Red Cross, as a good many people know, has been organized to educate children along the lines of good health and good citizenship.

What, try to cram in more subjects to an already bulging curriculum, and wedge in more learning to packed-to-cracking youthful brains?

Not a bit of it. The Red Cross is much too sane an organization to think of inflicting such torture on the innocents.

Want To Play the Game.

The whole idea of the Junior Red Cross is to get the boys and girls thinking about keeping themselves healthy and strong in order that they may take their places proudly in their classes, measure up with others in growth and weight, and qualify for all kinds of sports. It has a more subtle purpose as well, to develop a "health conscience," and to lead to others. And isn't that the basis of good citizenship, to consider the welfare of others?

The objection has been raised to organizing the Junior Red Cross in schools that hygiene is already taught.

Isn't the rhyme which heads this much more gripping to the imagination than wodge out of textbooks?

Included in the "Service" of the Junior Red Cross headquarters is a poster series sent out to be hung on school walls. One of these, which has been extensively borrowed and used in the United States, has been printed in black, white and red, and from information furnished by eminent specialists in children's diseases, presents a table which shows exactly how much girls and boys should weigh and measure at certain ages from infancy up, year by year. In the upper left-hand corner a boy is being measured by a chum, by a handy, home-made method of standing against the wall, a ruler over his head. Measurement will be taken.

Is There a Baby In Your Home?

Is there a baby or young children in your home? If there is you should not be without a box of Baby's Own Tablets. Childhood ailments, come quickly and means should always be at hand to promptly fight them. Baby's Own Tablets are the ideal home remedy. They regulate the bowels, soothe the stomach, banish constipation and indigestion, break up colds and simple fevers—in fact, they relieve all the minor ills of little ones. Concerning them Mrs. Mavis Cadotte, Mukami, Que., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets are the best remedy in the world for little ones. My baby suffered terribly from indigestion and vomiting, but the Tablets soon set her right and now she is in perfect health." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.—Adv.

Radio Radiations

BY THE RADIO EDITOR.

IN a receiving antenna it is height that counts.

Of course there are other considerations too, but for the man who wants to get signals from great distances (and what radio fan doesn't?) height is the thing for which to strive.

The higher the antenna the greater the electrical potentials which will be produced in it by the electric waves.

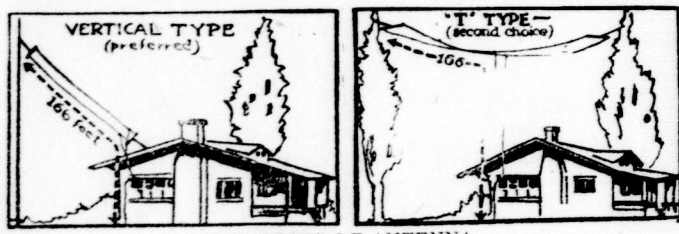

The major of the "other considerations" is one having to do with resonance. When an electrical circuit is resonant with another electrical circuit, it is of such dimension as to be capable of having set up in it electrical oscillations. In order that this may be accomplished by the methods available for sections are only 30 or 40 feet in length. But the average radio fan will not have available supports as high as this.

Vertical Preferred.

Some may take sufficient interest in the radiophone to erect a special non-conductive mast, or insulated mast, of approximately this height. To such it can be said that the results obtained will warrant the effort.

To those who must place dependence upon what natural supports are available, it may be pointed out that the higher the wire the better, provided that the total length of the antenna from its extreme end to the earth connections, does not exceed the figure derived from using the formula given tuning the radio receivers, some thought must be given to the total length of the antenna as well as its height.

Most radio fans wish to listen to wave lengths as short as 200 meters. It is much easier to "load" a small antenna for the reception of long waves than to operate upon a long antenna for receiving short waves. It is well to keep this in mind when constructing the antenna.

If the antenna is of too great length, no success is to be had in tuning it to the shorter wave lengths. Gains that might result from increased lengths are more than offset by loss of advantage due to tuning.

RADIO PRIMER

Rules for Aerials.

A good rule, although one which gives only approximations, is:

"The total over-all length of the antenna system in feet from its extreme end to the ground connection, should not be greater than the wave length in meters, divided by 1.2."

Following out this rule, and assuming that it is desired to receive from stations transmitting at a wave length of 200 meters, the result will be 166 feet.

Neither the number of wires in the antenna nor the height will affect this approximation to any great degree.

If it is possible to secure a non-conductive support as high as 166 feet, to the top of which can be run a vertical, or nearly vertical, wire or small antenna, the results will be considerably superior to those obtained from the same length wire placed in the form of an "L" or "T" shaped antenna, whose vertical

ARC TRANSMISSION.—Transmission of radio frequency waves by means of an electric arc burning in an atmosphere of hydrogen and in a strong magnetic field. This method produces undamped, or CW, waves of rather long length, and is operated on 500 volts direct current.

Dancing frocks of this same style are made of moire, too, and of chiffon and georgette.

All evening gowns are much longer than they have been, many of them coming down to one's very ankles.

They make one look incredibly long—which, of course, is a step in the fashionable direction.

Comet-Legs, the Evil Fairy, Is Put To Flight

[By Olive Roberts Barton.]

What they saw was really shocking.

NANCY and Nick floated down from the sky like two little shadows.

By 'n by they came to Tommy Brown's house and lighted softly on the roof like two little birds. Their magical Green Shoes managed the whole affair.

What they saw was really shocking.

There was nice, kind, little Wink, the dream-fairy, fighting with Comet-Legs. Or rather, Comet-Legs was fighting with him, and so, of course, Wink had to double up his fists, too.

Wink had brought a kind dream for Tommy Brown from the moon. Comet-Legs had brought an unkind dream for Tommy from a star, where a magician made awful ones.

Wink's dream lay on the roof all done up in a neat poppy-leaf bag. Beside it lay Comet-Leg's bad dream, all done up in a horrid toad-skin.

Nick had a plan. He had some magical powder Mr. Pecrabout, the Man-in-the-Moon, had given him. He intended to shake a little on Comet-Leg's bow legs. That would have made his legs straight, and if his legs were straight he couldn't ride his shooting-star any more and he'd have to stay at home.

But Comet-Legs saw them, magic shaker 'n' all.

With a yell he picked up his toad-skin, hopped off the roof to the hill-top and straddled his star. Away he went.

Tommy got his nice dream. (To Be Continued.) (Copyright, 1922.)

Sister Mary's Method For Canning Beans

BEANS are an excellent vegetable for canning. They keep well and require a minimum amount of preparation.

When opening a can of beans, turn into a colander and rinse in cold, running water. Use as fresh beans are used in a cream sauce or chowder or as salad.

Beans for canning should be young and as freshly gathered as possible. Old beans require too long cooking to make them tender and are likely to become mushy and broken.

Choose some of the tiny green beans to can for salad. Pack these in pint cans instead of quarts. The time for processing pint cans is the same as for quarts. The amount of salt and sugar used is just one-half.

Cold Pack String Beans.

Wash and string beans. Cut in inch lengths. Put in cheesecloth, tie loosely and plunge into boiling water. Boil eight minutes.

Remove from boiling water and dip immediately into a large pan of very cold water. Leave in cold water 60 seconds. This checks the juices from escaping and preserves the color.

Drain beans and pack in sterilized jars to one-fourth inch from the top. Add one teaspoon salt and one teaspoon sugar to each quart jar.

Adjust rubber. Pour in boiling water to cover beans. Put on top of jar and half seal. Place jars on rack in boiler. Water must cover the jars by at least two inches. When the jars are put into the boiler they will chill the water slightly and boiling will stop. Count the time of processing from the time the bubbling begins again.

Let boil two and one-half hours. Add water as necessary to keep the jars covered.

Remove jars from water, finish sealing and turn upside down to cool. The cans should cool quickly, but care must be taken that a draught does not strike them.

Always test rubbers before using. Good rubbers will stretch and return immediately to their original size and shape. Dip in boiling water before adjusting.

The tiny green beans are canned the same way except that they are canned whole.

Yellow beans make a delicious pickle.

Pickled Beans.

Two quarts vinegar, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 quart beans.

Wash and snap beans, but do not cut in short lengths. Cook in boiling salted water till tender. They must not be too well done.

Drain. Heat vinegar and sugar to the boiling point. Do not let boil. Add beans and salt and let boil up once. Put into sterilized cans while boiling hot and seal.

The cans must be absolutely full with no air bubbles. The beans finish cooking in the hot vinegar. If cooked too much to begin they will break and be mushy when served.

WHAT ALBERTA MAN SAYS OF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

States he found sure relief for Neuralgia, Backache and Rheumatism in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Red Water, Alta.—(Special.)—"I cannot be without Dodd's Kidney Pills at home. I have found them a sure relief for neuralgia, backache and rheumatism."

That is the statement of Mr. M. Tkachuk, a well-known resident here. No stronger recommendation of a standard remedy was ever penned or spoken.

Recommendations of Dodd's Kidney Pills come from the heart. They are the voluntary statements of men and women who have suffered and found relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

That Mr. Tkachuk found relief for his neuralgia, backache and rheumatism in Dodd's Kidney Pills is only natural. All of them are caused by poison in the blood that defective kidneys have failed to strain out.

Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills do not make strong, healthy kidneys.—Adv.

Has Western Ontario Any Perfect Ladies?

WHAT IS ONE?

AS LONG ago as the days when world statesmen and soldiers journeyed up the ancient Nile to seek the love of Cleopatra, Egypt's "first lady of the land," men sought the perfect lady. Many, when their search was ended, were convinced that the perfect lady was in the same category as the gold at the end of the rainbow. But did they know exactly what type of perfect lady they sought?

Knights of medieval times rode into the lists to battle for the honor of a fair lady. Most of these ladies, whose names knights breathed as they joined battle, were fair to gaze upon, and were attired in all the finery wealth could command. Were any of them, however, what one would call a perfect lady?

In numerous instances men wooed a girl whom they adore as the only one, the perfect lady, and then after marriage quarrel and change their opinion of her.

Husbands want their wives to be perfect ladies, lovers want their sweethearts to be perfect ladies, and anxious parents want their daughters to be perfect ladies.

In Sabbath and day schools youth is taught to respect the maid, and the maid is constantly exhorted to be a perfect lady at all times, in order that she may be respected.

What are the qualifications of a perfect lady? What are her attributes? Must she wear good clothes? Must she be well educated? Is a flapper a perfect lady?

What is your idea of a perfect

PETROLEA FANS SEE TRIBE BLANKED 6--0

Buck Winters Allows But 3 Hits, and Hits Homer, Double and Single.

PETROLEA, June 2.—Port Huron and the Petrolea Indians today broke the London Indians, winning the first game of the series. Buck Winters allowed the Tecumseh's only three hits, and hammered out a single, double and home run. In five innings the side was retired in order, and only one man reached third base.

A big crowd from the town and surrounding country turned out to watch the two pro teams do an afternoon of barnstorming. Petrolea had a good diamond in comparison with most places, but it was bumpy going for the pros.

The fans were witnessed with the professional ball they suffered on the sandlots, and the manager of the local team probably concluded that if Buck Winters ever wanted a job he might be able to scrape up something for him to do.

INGERSOLL LACROSSE TEAM PLAYS HERE TODAY

Locals, Strengthened Up and in Condition, Confident of Opening With Win.

On paper, at least, London has a real lacrosse team this year, and today they get a chance to show what they can do on the field, when they open in the afternoon with Ingersoll at Tecumseh Park.

Ingersoll is a come-back to lacrosse, but comes strongly touted, though young players predominate on their line-up. However, there is enough seasoned and experienced material to make them dangerous, and if the locals dispose of them by a decent score this afternoon they will have gone some distance along the way to proving themselves.

Lacrosse has made a real comeback in the Dairy Town. With the formation of the intermediate O. A. L. A. C. the fever spread, and now there are several church leagues operating, and the schoolboys have also taken up the national pastime. All this, of course, won't beat London here today, but where there is enthusiasm there's bound to be some ability as well. A big bunch of Ingersoll fans will accompany their team here.

Coach Fremlin has been working the squad hard all this week. Something like the kind of spirit that goes to make up a lacrosse team has been evident of late, and the players are in a condition that will permit them setting a fast pace right from the starting whistle to the end.

It was a fast game with snappy fielding by both teams, this being the opening game of this group. Harry Schaefer, who has been playing for a while, had five hits and brought in four runs.

Walter Binkley pitched a splendid game for the winners, Molke using two balls for a minor league salary, is the case of the pitcher. He is a "stuffer," but his efforts were of no avail by the fourth.

Connie Mack, who is always there with the team, came back with this one. "If Konrad has been pitching major league ball since he joined the Athletics, he has kept the matter a secret." "I am through pitching major league ball for a minor league salary," is the case of the pitcher. He is a "stuffer," but his efforts were of no avail by the fourth.

TELLS WHY RACE HORSES' TONGUES ARE TIED DOWN

Murphy, Judge at Thorncliffe, Wins in Humane Society's Case

TORONTO, June 2.—Wm. A. Murphy, Judge of the course at the Thorncliffe race track, testified today in a case against A. J. Day, who is charged by Inspector Ballingall of the Royal Humane Society with cruelty to Cacamia, a race horse, at Thorncliffe by tying its tongue to its lower jaw.

After the horse suffered no serious consequences, he said, it was a usual custom to tie a horse's tongue down according to Murphy. "We have the track ourselves, and we don't think anybody else should try to do so," remarked Murphy.

"Perhaps that's where you made your mistake," returned Major Bruntton, "but I have seen men tie a horse's tongue down who reach high positions in the business must be men of intelligence."

"Supposing the horse's tongue were blue or bruised after the race, would you think?" asked the magistrate.

"Sports are not pink teas. In baseball, for instance, a catcher wears a mask, and a pad. They are very uncomfortable, but they must be worn for protection. It is on the same principle that the horse's tongue were tied down," answered Murphy.

"In some cases, if the horse got the tongue back in the throat, they would choke and fall down and be killed," he said.

Murphy, Judge at Thorncliffe, Wins in Humane Society's Case

TORONTO, June 2.—Wm. A. Murphy, Judge of the course at the Thorncliffe race track, testified today in a case against A. J. Day, who is charged by Inspector Ballingall of the Royal Humane Society with cruelty to Cacamia, a race horse, at Thorncliffe by tying its tongue to its lower jaw.

After the horse suffered no serious consequences, he said, it was a usual custom to tie a horse's tongue down according to Murphy. "We have the track ourselves, and we don't think anybody else should try to do so," remarked Murphy.

"Perhaps that's where you made your mistake," returned Major Bruntton, "but I have seen men tie a horse's tongue down who reach high positions in the business must be men of intelligence."

"Supposing the horse's tongue were blue or bruised after the race, would you think?" asked the magistrate.

"Sports are not pink teas. In baseball, for instance, a catcher wears a mask, and a pad. They are very uncomfortable, but they must be worn for protection. It is on the same principle that the horse's tongue were tied down," answered Murphy.

"In some cases, if the horse got the tongue back in the throat, they would choke and fall down and be killed," he said.

CLUBS REPORT ROAD MAPS IN GREAT DEMAND

Approaching Vacation Time Turns Thoughts of All To Motor Trails.

EAR SHORTAGE OF CARS

Dealers Anticipate New Purchasers Will Soon Empty Warehouses.

The London Motor Club and a large number of clubs throughout the southwestern part of the province in week report a big boom in road maps. Everyone, it seems, from the "liverite" who "cranks his own" to the affluent businessman who drives "twin six" is engaged in planning trips. Week-end trips, ten-day trips, fishing trips, camping trips, transcontinental trips—these are but a few of the many variations of the most popular summertime diversion—touring.

Planning Vacation Trip. Nearly everyone who is fortunate enough to own a car at this time is mainly interested, however, around the feature trip of the season—the vacation tour. Whether it is to last six days or a month's duration, it deserves mature consideration—and gets it. The difficulty is to find some place to go, but to decide which of the many allurements offers the greatest opportunity for one hundred per cent enjoyment.

Left to Pathfinders. This phase of the subject we are quite content at this writing to leave to the professional pathfinders, to the publicity agents for countless regions and resorts and, chiefly, to the personal preferences of the individual. But when it comes to giving advice to intending automobile purchasers or motorists who intend trading in the "old beater" for a new one—that's another story.

In these columns we repeatedly advised our readers for months past not to delay purchasing a new car, in account of a possible shortage of automobiles. Many acted on this advice and are now driving new cars, but a large number who were prone to procrastinate, find that our advice was timely and that there is a decided shortage of new cars.

Business Revival Marked. Automobile dealers in London and throughout Southwestern Ontario have experienced this year a revival of business that is little short of extraordinary. Ontario Garage and Motor Sales, Chevrolet distributors, though old in experience in sales of automobiles, report that sales this year have exceeded their most sanguine expectations. "We are doing a larger volume of business than ever in our history," they state. "Not only in unit volume, but also in dollars and cents. We are practically sold out, and are experiencing difficulty in filling orders. We are more optimistic about business than ever, and look for an even brighter future."

W. H. Burrows, local distributor for Hudson and Essex cars, also reports a shortage. Mr. Burrows has made several trips to the factory at Detroit to hasten deliveries, and advises intending purchasers to place their orders now to insure delivery within 30 days.

Fear Acute Shortage. Frank McLachlin, handling Packard and Studebaker automobiles, states his stock of used cars is practically nil, and that new automobiles are selling as fast as he can get them.

Universal Motor Sales, distributing the Maxwell, Chalmers and Franklin; Hodgins & Ferguson, Limited, handling the Jewett and Paige; W. J. Chisholm, selling Dodge automobiles, all have an acute shortage of the more popular makes of automobiles, and advise orders being placed for new "jobs" without delay.

One more we state: "Buy Your Car Now!" so that you will not be disappointed. The boom in business in London automobile circles and all over Canada has taken the dealers and most factories completely by surprise.

OVERLAND AGENT PROUD OF RECORD

J. W. McLaughlin and Staff Sell Twenty-Six Cars in Seventeen Days.

Twenty-six Overland Cars in seventeen selling days is a fact that makes J. W. McLaughlin proud of his staff. On May 15, Mr. McLaughlin took over the agency of the popular Overland and Willys-Knight Cars. Both he and his men feel they are selling the best car value obtainable, and being expert motor salesmen, this has brought results. Ten years in his present location, 291-299 Dundas street (east of the Federal Square), has brought Mr. McLaughlin in touch with practically all auto owners in London and district. His slogan: "See the Man with the White Hat," has become known to motorists who appreciate "service." "J. W." has organized a staff instilled with the idea that perfect satisfaction is a part of every sales transaction. The new Overland sales force is

Motor League Frames Rules to Add to Pleasures of Motoring

The Ontario Motor League's Standing Committee on Safety commands the following fifteen commandments to motorists:

- 1—Put yourself behind the other man's steering wheel.
- 2—Don't laugh at timid passengers. They're your guests. Make them comfortable.
- 3—Don't expect children to look out for themselves. The fact that it was the child's "fault" doesn't make death less terrible.
- 4—When a man in the wrong insists on the right-of-way, let him have it. You can't argue with a fool.
- 5—Get the hand-signal habit. It protects you as well as others.
- 6—When the man behind wants to pass, slow down and draw over. It's safer to have him speeding ahead of you than along-side you.
- 7—Don't dash by street cars as they are about to stop.
- 8—Don't try to pass the car ahead when another car is approaching from the opposite direction.
- 9—Slow down and keep to the right as you come to the crest of a hill.
- 10—Don't dispute the crossing with a railroad train. What's the hurry?
- 11—Think of the other road users when you have to splash through mud or water.
- 12—Remember that the pedestrian at the crossing has a right to cross.
- 13—Don't drive jerkily. It keeps the man behind you worried.
- 14—When your brakes aren't working the time to get them fixed is NOW.
- 15—If you forget the Rules of the Road you can safely fall back on the Golden Rule.

E. Brown, W. Hawshaw, R. Puicher, R. Duckworth and C. Lee, any one of whom will be proud to demonstrate the value of the Overland, the high-class, low-priced car. Motorists are reminded of this new connection.

There is a saying that business is there if you go after it, the truth of which is being proved by the success of the Pure Gasoline Company, Limited.

Mr. Factor, president of the company, states: "Although this company has been in business only a short time, its fleet of tank trucks which is delivering 'Energy' Gasoline direct to the farmers in Middlesex and Oxford Counties, is already earning a net of $100 a day, and the demand for this gasoline is increasing so rapidly that more tank trucks are being purchased immediately."

At present only Oxford and Middlesex Counties are being covered—but it is the intention of the company eventually to deliver "Energy" Gasoline on every rural mail route in Western Ontario, and to have modern and efficient service stations at all principal points.

With the erection of a new $33,000 service station by this company at 262 Dundas street, London is being advanced another step into being one of the best cities for motorists in Canada, and the beautiful new structure will be a delightful improvement on the old building that previously occupied this site.

EXPLAINS HOW MOTOR REPAIRS TAKE UP TIME

EXPLAINS OPERATIONS

Autoists Advised How To Guard Against Being Overcharged.

What would you do if you took your car to a repair shop, where a mechanic spent twelve hours overhauling the engine, and then you failed to receive a bill for the work at the end of the month? Suppose you never did get a bill. Would you call the repair man's attention to the oversight, and pay the amount, or would you let it slide?

This is an actual case, and the owner who was faced with this question finally did remind the repair man of the oversight and paid the amount. But he never went back there for further work.

When he first realized that the repair man had overlooked this item he was strongly tempted to say nothing about it, not because he wished to take an unfair advantage of the repair man, but because he felt that the repair man was careless, and that while this mistake was in his favor, the next mistake might be just as much in favor of the repair man. In the second case he probably would have no alternative but to pay him the bill.

He reasoned that in the course of time the errors one way probably would balance the errors in the other direction, and on this basis he would only be acting in fairness to himself to keep quiet about the repair man's oversight.

On second thought, however, he decided that it was not good business to deal with a repair man so careless. Therefore, he paid the bill, and took his trade elsewhere.

Too Large Or Small.

This is only one of the multitude of examples. Nearly every time a motorist takes his car to a repair shop he is faced with some problem. The charge for the work done is never what he expects. Either it is too high or too low. Mostly, it is the former, although occasionally he is surprised or shocked to get a bill that is less than he expected. What is the answer? Are all repair men careless, or are they all dishonest? Why is it that repair bills never meet our expectations? There are varied answers to these questions.

Very few repair men are dishonest. The object of this article is to shed a little more light on the service question. It is impossible to cover the subject thoroughly, and it is particularly impossible to give definite directions as to how to detect overcharges. Solomon himself would find it difficult to decide whether some bills were really too high or not. Only the man who actually did the work is in a position to say, in some cases. On the contrary, there are other cases where the charges are obviously too high. Overcharges are once in a while made deliberately, but it is only fair to say that in most cases this is not so. If a repair bill is higher than the motorist expected, it is likely that the work took more time than he expected. The mechanics may have been slower than they should have been in doing the job. There are many automobile repair jobs that require more time than the owner realizes. In the first place, even the most competent mechanic cannot possibly be an expert on every make of car. He may be an expert on a few, especially the more popular makes, but there are many details about the other cars that he may not know.

For example, the mechanic is asked to adjust the clutch on a new model. There are several new features about the clutch adjustments on this model, and it takes him twenty minutes to find out just how the adjustments work, and another half hour to get the clutch into correct adjustment. To this time must be added twenty more minutes for removing and replacing floor boards and the clutch hand hole plate. The next time he has a clutch of this type to adjust it will not take him more than half an hour. The owner of this car has to pay for forty additional minutes because of this mechanic's ignorance, yet the ignorance was quite excusable. The mechanic cannot be blamed.

Regrinding of Valves.
There are a good many bills that are legitimately high, and the careful owner should learn as much as he can about repair work and repair methods in a casual way so that he will know when he is obtaining reasonably fair treatment, and when he is being stuck. Consider grinding valves and removing carbon.

On the average four or six-cylinder motor with a detachable head, this job should not take more than five hours; but there are exceptions. Ordinarily, this job means that before the head is removed, the spark plug wires must be disconnected, and the top hose connection to the radiator must be broken. On some cars this is about all that has to be done before the head nuts are loosened and the head pried off, but on other cars the carburetor must be disconnected and removed, the exhaust manifold must be removed, and to complicate matters, on some engines it is extremely difficult to reach the cylinder head nuts, and consequently the work of removing and replacing the head is greatly delayed.

To add still further to the expense, it may be that a new cylinder head gasket is required. The repair man may have one in stock, or if not, he may be able to get one around the corner or down the street. But it may be, through no fault of his, that he has to send to the far end of the town for a new gasket, or perhaps he has to search the town before he finds one. In any extreme case, he might spend two hours looking for a new gasket. The alternative would be to order a new gasket from the maker of this car, or the nearest distributor, and have it forwarded by mail. This would unquestionably be the most economical method if the gasket were not right at hand, but this course might delay the completion of the job.

The actual work of regrinding the valves varies greatly in the time it takes. Sometimes it requires only a very few minutes, and in other cases it is necessary to reface the valves and their seats. Likewise, the time required to remove carbon varies considerably. In some instances it may be scraped out quite readily, and in others the piston tops may not come within an inch of the top of the cylinder block, in which case the operation of scraping the piston heads is greatly lengthened. The spark plugs also must be removed and cleaned, and on some engines this is a very slow and tedious job, while on others it may be accomplished in a very few minutes. In doing any repair work around an automobile, unexpected difficulties arise. They cannot be classified, but they often delay the work considerably. In removing and replacing the cylinder head studs might be loose in the cylinder block. The remedy is to re-thread the stud hole, make a new stud to fit, and screw it in. Sometimes a stud breaks below the surface. It has to be drilled, tapped, screwed out and replaced—this consumes much time. Another mishap that frequently delays this process is leakage around the cylinder head gasket. Usually this occurs when an old gasket is used.

Truing Up Crankshaft.
Seventy-five dollars is too much to pay for putting in two new connecting rod bearings and adjusting the other bearings on a four-cylinder engine. Such a charge may correctly be described as too high—much too high. At the same time, adjusting the rod bearings is a rather difficult job. In the first place, the crank case must be removed. Then the connecting rod bearing caps are taken off, one at a time, and shims are removed from the cap, or the cap is filed off enough so that the play in the rod is removed. This holds true if the bearing surface is in reasonably good condition. However, if it is badly scored, it will require scraping. The scraping process is extremely slow. The crank pin journal is smeared with Prussian blue or lamp black, and then the bearing cap is bolted tight to the rod.

The crankshaft is rotated a few times by hand, and then the cap is removed and the high spots scraped off. This process is repeated until the spots on the bearing surface are small and very evenly distributed. It should be remembered that in removing or replacing the cap, the mechanic is lying on his back under the car in a cramped and uncomfortable

RADIO OUTFIT ON MONROE RACER.

RADIO aided the speed kings of the auto world at the annual Indianapolis 500-mile classic on May 30.

Two Ford racers and a Monroe team had sets attached to the right side of the cars, so that the mechanics could keep in close touch with the pits. All parts of these sets were suspended on springs, so as not to be damaged by vibration. The antenna stretches alongside the chassis from one end to the other. The car itself acts as ground.

The requirements of this set are similar to those of airplanes, except that the aerial is much smaller. A special airplane helmet, designed to muffle engine noises, was used and the ignition cables were run in metallic shielding to prevent noises from the ignition system.

The nuts which hold the bearing cap in place are usually a rather tight fit and screw onto long studs. Therefore it takes an appreciable amount of time to screw and unscrew the nuts which hold the cap each time the cap is put into place during the scraping operation. Each time the cap is removed, the mechanic must crawl out and place the cap in a vise for scraping. The scraping is done by hand, and is a very slow process.

Off hand, it would seem that it should not take two men five hours to remove a broken rear spring and put in a new one. But this has happened. The delay was largely due to the front spring bolt. It was in so tight that it was almost impossible to drive it out, and before it could be driven out all the way, it was necessary to drill a hole in the apron which closes the space between the body of the car and the running board.

GODERICH HAS IRRESISTIBLE VACATION APPEAL FOR ALL

FIND GODERICH IDEAL SUMMER VACATION SPOT

"Huron's Golden Gate" Possesses Many Alluring Features For Visitors.

HAS VARIETY OF SPORT

Hotels and Clubhouses Extend Hospitality To All Tourists.

Goderich, an ideal summer resort, overlooking Lake Huron, long ago acquired the title of "Huron's Golden Gate." That it has earned the title and the right to retain it, summer visitors will testify.

Every facility for enjoyment has been provided by hotel proprietors and municipal authorities. Boating, bathing, fishing, motoring, driving, riding, golf, lawn bowling, lawn tennis and baseball are among the many recreations available.

On the banks of the Maitland is a clubhouse, owned by the Menesetung Golf Club, an association of young men, who are noted for the versatility of their entertainment, which is given in the parlors of the summer hotel.

On moonlight evenings the numerous small craft can be seen on the lake and river. Arrangements can be made to hire either row or sail boats.

Anglers are in a fisherman's paradise when they arrive in Goderich. Already the season for pickerel has opened in Ontario, and on June 16, the season for the fighting black bass will start. Both these denizens of the lake and the river's mouth are of fair size and appreciated on the table.

Non-residents of Ontario can obtain permits to fish in provincial waters by applying to the chief game warden, Parliament Buildings, Toronto. The fee for a one fisherman for three months is $2, and for a family of five for a similar period, $5.

The holder of the permit is allowed to take two days lawful catch when leaving the province on condition that the permit is attached to the receptacle containing the fish. Otherwise the catch is liable to confiscation.

At few of the summer resorts is there a better bathing beach than at Goderich. Several bath houses have been provided for the accommodation of bathers.

In and around Goderich the roads are in the best of condition for motoring and cycling. The roads outside the town are well gravelled, and those in the town are 100 feet wide. All are thoroughly drained.

Members of the Maitland Golf Club have made special arrangements for summer visitors. Non-residents of the town can take out summer memberships, securing all privileges at a reasonable rate. This year a professional has been hired to supervise improvements and to give instruction to those wishing to take lessons in golf. Luncheons and refreshments will be served at all times at the clubhouse. The fees charged are less than half those charged at most summer resort golf courses.

There is a fine bowling green at Goderich. Guests of summer hotels can play on the green provided by the hotel or are welcome to use the city greens.

The hotels also have tennis courts. Their guests are also permitted to play on the courts owned by the town club.

Each week the baseball team will play two home games. The team is said to possess some of the best amateur players in Canada, and has good chances of winning the pennant this season.

One of the most commodious dancing pavilions in Ontario is in full swing at Goderich. A first-class orchestra is engaged throughout the season. The pavilion includes ladies' rest-room, gentlemen's smoking-room, and up-to-date restaurant and other conveniences.

So high is the altitude at Goderich, and such are the climatic conditions that the atmosphere is the best possible for persons afflicted with hay fever. Asthma, insomnia and malarial troubles are almost unknown. There are no black flies or mosquitoes.

From Goderich one can take a boat trip through the wonderful 30,000 Islands of Georgian Bay, and through the North Channel to Sault Ste. Marie.

In point of natural beauty there are few places in the world that can excel the Canadian shore of Lake Huron.

In summer Canada has one of the most pleasant climates on earth. And nothing more could be desired than the cool breezes that blow shoreward off blue Lake Huron.

Some parts of the district around Goderich are even as the Red Indian left them, untouched by the rude hand of the white man. The streams flow to the lake just as they did years ago; the fish still abound in the rivers, and forests still stand in all their majesty.

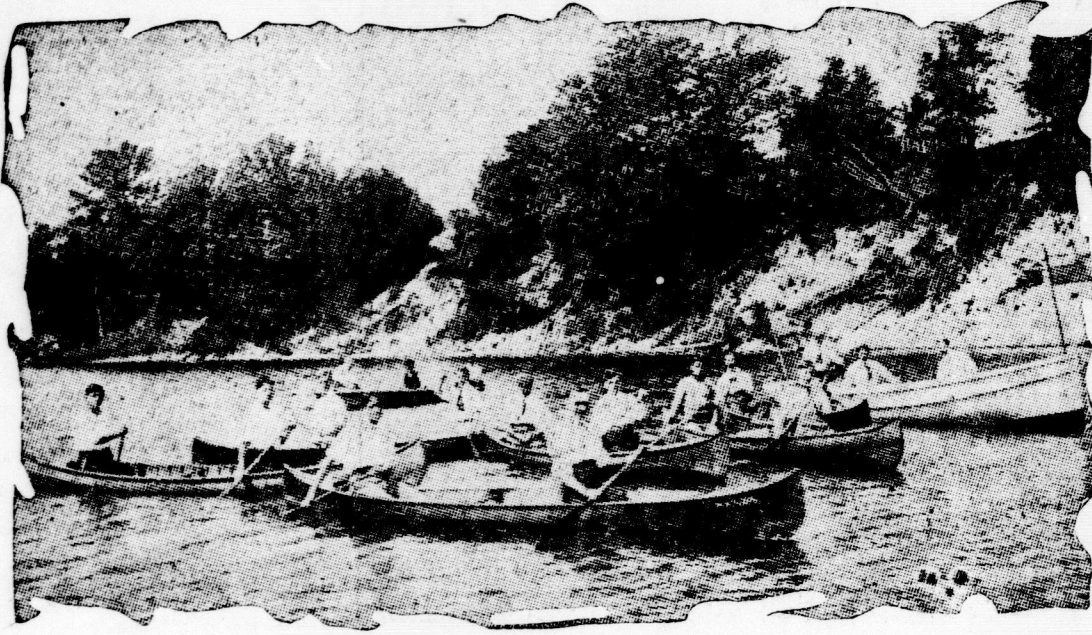

Truly, Goderich and its vicinity is man's summer playground. It is calling him. He will regret, if he does not heed.

Vacation Pastime In Goderich As Twilight Falls

CANOEING ON RIVER MAITLAND.

GODERICH TOWN PLACE OF RARE SCENIC BEAUTY

Possesses All Conveniences Necessary to Enjoyment of Vacation.

IS OLD INDIAN VILLAGE

Situated On Cliff High Above Shores of Lake Huron.

When summer breezes blow and all things take on a new lease of life, man seeks to get away from dull care and spend a few of the warm days in close communion with nature. He jogs his memory or acquires a host of railroad catalogues to find a suitable shady nook, rushing river or placid lake. If he investigates sufficiently he will find there is a resort on beautiful Lake Huron, a place noted for its scenic beauty, and possessing all the conveniences so necessary to the enjoyment of a vacation—Goderich by name.

Long before surveyors set foot on the town site it was a beautiful place. There at the mouth of Maitland River, then called the Menesetung, traders and Indians met to exchange skins for brightly-colored beads. There, too, the Hurons sat around ghostly camp fires and planned to escape the dreaded Mohawks, who were gradually exterminating the Hurons. Finally, under protection of French troops, the remnants of this weaker race moved to Quebec, and shortly afterwards the ambitious white man penetrated the wilderness and planned a settlement at the mouth of the Maitland.

Goderich lost little of the beauty nature gave it by the advent of the white man, and at the same time it gained much in artificial beauty.

Along the lake front there are many good places to fish. Sportsmen from the United States may bring guns and fishing tackle into Canada on depositing a sum equal to the duty with the customs authorities. If the articles are returned within six months the money is refunded.

Good hotels are the rule rather than the exception in Goderich. One of the summer hotels provides a bowling green for its guests, and all serve trout fresh from Lake Huron at every meal.

Canoe clubs, a golf club and other organizations of the kind will accept new members during the summer months.

Goderich is an ideal place to spend the summer holidays.

One hundred and twenty feet above the lake level it stands, with two sides falling abruptly toward the lake and the river. Such a location affords perfect drainage, and to such an extent have the municipal authorities taken advantage of it, that Goderich is comparatively free from stagnant water, even a few hours after a big storm. Mud is a minus quantity, because of natural and applied drainage. A system of pavement has been constructed.

Around a central park the town is built like a spider web, eight streets, crossed by others, radiating from it. In the center of the wooded park stands the court house, a beautiful stone structure. The principal places of business face the park. All the streets are extraordinarily wide.

One of the most beautiful sights in the town can be seen by looking down North street, through the dense foliage. There are numerous other beauty spots in Goderich, including Harbor Park, a wooded stretch of several acres, from which a good view of the harbor can be obtained. At the foot of the hill are two mineral springs, which flow winter and summer, and which have been declared to be health-giving by medical men. Confirmed dyspeptics have been cured by drinking the water. The taste of the water is pleasant, the iron and sulphur scarcely being discernible.

Hotel Bedford Makes Preparations For Big Summer Season in Goderich

When one mentions Goderich, one immediately thinks of one of the best summer resorts in Canada. And Goderich and the Hotel Bedford are almost synonymous, for the tourist can scarcely think of one without the other.

The Bedford is noted for the entertainment it provides for its guests during the summer months.

Special to London Advertiser. SARNIA, June 2.—Captain Peter J. Egbert, 68, of Point Edward, for many years owner and operator of the Point Edward-Fort Gratiot ferry, died unexpectedly late Wednesday night, within a few minutes after he had berthed his ferryboat following a trip. Death was due to apoplexy.

During the day Captain Egbert had suffered three heart-attacks, but had continued to operate the ferry after he felt better, although advised by a physician not to do so. He was one of the old school of mariners, and had sailed the seven seas and the Great Lakes in his days. He was personally known to hundreds of mariners along the Great Lakes. He lost a son in the terrific storm which swept the Great Lakes in November, 1913. He is survived by his widow, one son and one daughter.

His funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the residence of his wife, Mrs. Egbert, 68, of Point Edward. Burial will be in the Point Edward cemetery.

'Doug,' as he is popularly known at the medical school, is an interne at St. Joseph's Hospital, and vice-president of his class. Ideal Roads Prove Big Attraction For Motorists.

Far from the smoke of city factories, and yet convenient to those who work in that smoke, is Grand Bend, one of the most popular summer resorts on Lake Huron shores.

Rapidly Grand Bend's fame as a place to enjoy a holiday is spreading on both sides of the International boundary. To the stranger it is a place hard to find, but once found is in itself a reward for all the trouble of locating it. To residents of Western Ontario, Grand Bend's location is well known.

The Bend, in point of health for its visitors, is situated in one of the best spots on the Canadian shore of the great lake. There the breezes off blue Huron seem more invigorating than anywhere in Ontario.

Physicians have lauded Grand Bend as a place to regain lost health, for the village is surrounded by forests of pine.

Excellent Bathing Beach.
One can enjoy peace or indulge in any of the sports common to summer resorts there.

Among the features are an excellent bathing-beach, the best of hotel accommodation and spacious picnic grounds. Boating, fishing and dancing are a few of the more popular pastimes.

Right on the beach is a modern casino, with a dance floor measuring 4,000 square feet, and wide balconies.
One can spend an evening at the casino at a reasonable cost.

Popular Imperial Hotel At Grand Bend Delights Summer Visitors

For 26 years the Imperial Hotel, the lake, where there is good fishing operated by Bruce Bossenberry, has been one of the most popular abodes for summer visitors at Grand Bend. Eighteen new rooms have been provided in the new addition. The hotel is only two minutes' walk from the home of Mrs. B. Bowins, North Cayuga. Mrs. William McClung presided in place of the hostess, and after a short business meeting Mrs.

J. A. Toohy, chairman of the Cayuga branch, took the chair, and a good program was rendered by the visitors. Refreshments were served by the members of the Grand River branch.

The hotel is well located, being so situated that from it the tourist may behold some of the best scenery Lake Huron shores afford.

At present there are 150 cottages tion. There are no railroads or radials running into Grand Bend, but this does not decrease the popularity of the village.

Parkhill and Exeter are the ends of the rail as far as the Grand Bend is concerned. From these points goods have to be delivered by motor truck.
The roads leading to the resort are in good condition.

Many Londoners There.
Londoners going to Grand Bend by auto can choose one of two good routes.

One is via the Proof Line road,
north through Arva, Birt, Elginfield, Lucan, across to Clandeboy, Centralia and Exeter, then a short distance north of Exeter west through Ashwood to the Bend.

The other is via the Sarnia Gravel road through Hyde Park and Lobo, along the Nairn Gravel road through Ivan and Nairn, west to Parkhill, north to Moran, along the main road west, and then north to the Bend.

Sarnia residents can get to at the Bend, while many others are in various stages of construction.
Real estate men report a good demand for Grand Bend property, and predict that within a few years, the resort's summer population will be double or treble the present population. Grand Bend by taking the Lake Shore road north to the Bend. Residents of Bayfield and Goderich can get there by taking the Lake Shore road south.

Woodham to Centuria to Exeter, and then along the main road to the

BAYFIELD'S BLUFFS ARE COOL, REFRESHING AND RESTFUL

BAYFIELD'S COOL BREEZES PROVE BIG ATTRACTION

Nature Aids in Making Lake Huron Village Popular Summering Place.

RECREATION FOR ALL

Fame of Health-Giving Resort Spreads Far and Wide.

Far removed from the smoke of factories and yet close enough to be convenient to the man who dwells in that smoke ten or eleven months in the year, is Bayfield, one of the prettiest summer resorts on Huron shores.

At the present moment Bayfield enjoys the reputation of being a place where one may obtain health and pleasure at a reasonable expense. Until recent years its fame was not widely advertised. However, each year summer visitors increase in numbers, and cottages are being built in all parts of the village.

Coolness Excels.
For coolness one could not pick a better spot than Bayfield. Here the breezes off the lake are sufficient in strength to make one forget that not many miles inland the temperature is soaring almost to fever heat.

Bayfield came into being long before many of the larger summer resorts in Canada. Baron de Tolle years ago chose it as the site for a large and prosperous city.

Although the port was of considerable importance years ago, man did not destroy nature's grandeur one bit. And the clear bracing atmosphere still exists, unpolluted by grime and dust of industry.

Malaria and other fevers are unknown because of the altitude of the land, and consequent rarified atmosphere. Dampness soon disappears, owing to the porous nature of the soil and the excellent drainage system in the village.

Of Bayfield it has been said: "In the natural splendor of Bayfield's picturesque scenery. Beauty has adorned herself. Tree and grass, shrub and vine, dark foliaged ravine and sunlit slope, rugged, frowning precipice and verdure covered valley, sparkling stream and broad expanse of lake are the striking characteristics which, somewhere blended and somewhere contrasted, make Bayfield a very garden of entrancing beauty."

Sport For All.
Health and beauty are not the only gifts which Bayfield bestows on those who visit within her borders. There is sport for the motorist, the cyclist, the angler, the swimmer and the sailor.

Macadamized roads, smooth and well-rounded, radiate in every direction, leading through a country of cedar and maple groves. The natural archways are at all times objects for admiration.

Along the banks of the Bayfield river are paths carpeted with moss, which smaller paths lead to leafy resting places.

White-winged yachts and rowboats dot the lake. Sailors, with tanned faces, guide these craft for the tourist and charge but little for their efforts.

In both the lake and river there is excellent fishing, while in some of the small streams a few miles from the village speckled trout can be caught.

At this point on Lake Huron is perhaps one of the best bathing beaches in Ontario. A broad beach slopes gradually into the water, and so uniform is the bed of the lake that there is not the least danger even for a small child.

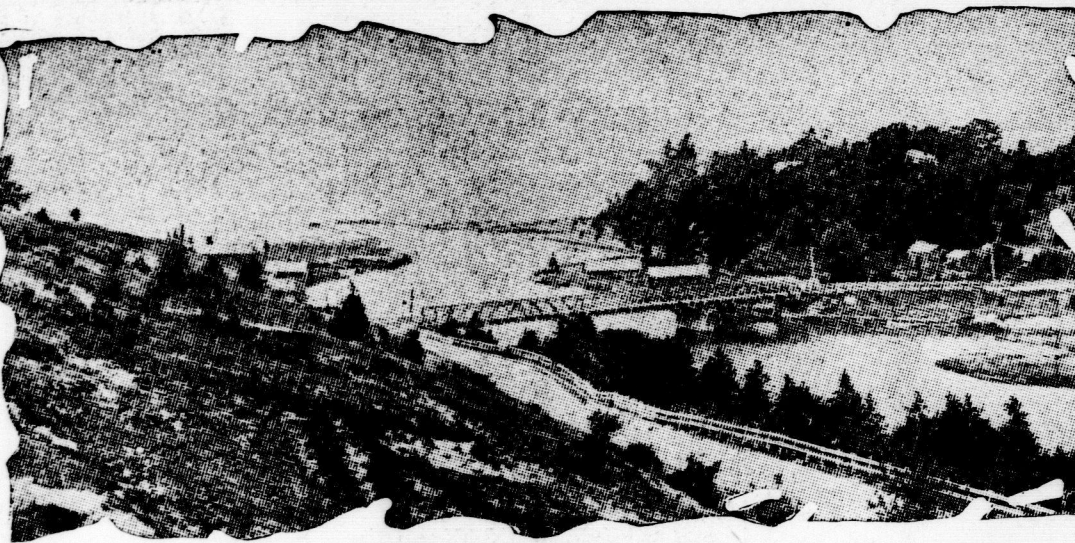

Tree Tops Tinted.
Early risers will rejoice when they see the tree tops on the eastern hills tinted by the first lights of dawn.

No sunsets anywhere could be more beautiful than those at Bayfield. They have often been likened to ones on the Mediterranean.

Few places have so many things to offer the summer tourist as Bayfield. That is why Bayfield is rapidly becoming one of the leading summer resorts in the country.

Not only Londoners—and there are many Londoners at Bayfield every year—but residents from every province and state on both sides of the international boundary line, have selected Bayfield as their summer Mecca.

HARBOR AND PROSPECT POINT.

Winter's Visualization of Summer Happiness Realized At Bayfield

When coal bills no longer come to the door, and the flowers bloom and trees begin to bud, man acquires the holiday spirit.

Dear thoughts of slush and biting cold leave him; only dreams of lake shore breezes, bathing and fishing are held.

The sunny California that he visualized last winter is with him this summer.

Bathing on Canada's summer beaches is just as enjoyable as bathing on American winter beaches.

The householder's final decision, after all his dreaming is done, will probably be to take two weeks or a month's vacation at one of Ontario's summer resorts.

No matter what beach he chooses, eventually he will spend a few holidays at Bayfield, for this beautiful spot on Lake Huron is becoming one of the most popular watering places.

KITCHENER SHOWS BUILDING ACTIVITY
Special to London Advertiser.

KITCHENER, June 2.—Building statistics for May bring Kitchener over the $1,000,000 for the year's building activity so far.

The May figures for permits was $384,300, as compared with $89,225 for the same period last year. The residences for May totalled 85. The total for the five months of 1922 is $1,070,255.

Old and young were there in great numbers. The balloon dance was an amusing feature, both for the partakers and the onlookers. Never before had the old town hall been the center of such a scene.

The club is to be congratulated and should be encouraged. The proceeds were $27.10.

SIMCOE, June 1.—A fatal accident occurred yesterday at Port Dover, when the 2½-year-old child of Mrs. Frank Hayes was drowned in a cistern at the residence of Mrs. Downs, where the mother had taken rooms for the summer.

REPORTS EARTH SHOCKS.

Spokane, Wash., June 2.—An earth shock lasting three minutes was felt by many persons here late yesterday. Some reported that the shocks were accompanied by a heavy rumbling.

HEART WOULD BEAT LIKE A TRIP HAMMER

Heart trouble has of late years become very prevalent. Sometimes a pain catches you in the region of the heart, now and then your heart skips beats, palpitations, throbs, or beats with such rapidity and violence you think it is going to burst.

You have weak and dizzy spells, sickening sensations, are nervous, irritable and depressed, and if you attempt to walk upstairs or any distance you get all out of breath.

We know of no remedy that will do so much to make the heart regain strength and vigor, regulate its beat and restore it to a healthy normal condition as will

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS.
Mrs. Chadwick, Delhi, Ont., writes:—

"I had palpitation of the heart, and the least exercise, such as going upstairs or up a hill, my heart would beat like a trip-hammer and at times I was dizzy-headed and had a sinking sensation as if my time were near."

"A friend suggested I try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, so I procured three boxes, and by the time the first one was used I began to improve. In all I took six boxes, and now although in my 66th year I feel like a young girl; no dizziness or heart-thumping, and can walk miles without fatigue. At time of sickness I weighed 120 lbs., now I weigh 150."

Huron Terrace Survey
BAYFIELD

Comprising 34 lots, situated right in the village of Bayfield, on the shore of Lake Huron, only five minutes' walk from the village square and business center, is admittedly the choicest situation and most desirable property within the boundaries of that popular summer resort. Facing Lake Huron on the west and Tuyl street (100 feet in width) on the east, the sunsets and sunrises, respectively, lend an irresistible attraction. The gentle slope to the lake shore over sodded banks makes the bathing beach easily accessible, and the beach facing this survey is the safest and best on the lake shore. These lots are for sale on easy terms, but the character and value of the property demands that those purchasing will be protected against the building of unsightly shacks, therefore limitations and control of the character of buildings and their use will be imposed. If you want to build a real summer home on the best site on Lake Huron's shore, in this most popular resort, where you will be protected against the encroachments of undesirable neighbors, buy a lot in Huron Terrace Survey. Values are rapidly advancing, and there are none to compare in beauty of situation or in value of any kind with these now offered.

SHOW ANIMALS NEED ATTENTION

Hogs Should Be Prepared Months Before Exhibition Time.

States Forcing at the Last Moment Won't Bring Results.

BY W. G. DINSMORE.

The fitting and showing of swine is an art in itself quite apart from that of breeding. The careful breeder who prides himself on the breeding and typiness of his hogs need not necessarily be unbeatable in the show ring. In large show classes where the competition is keen the winning individuals must possess other qualifications than true type alone, and probably one of the most important considerations other than type is what may be called the condition. The show condition is found in its greatest perfection at our larger shows where breeders with years of experience at their backs are in keen competition with one another. For those breeders who are less experienced and who may wish to take a hand in the game a few suggestions at this time may not be amiss. Animals which it is the intention of the owner to exhibit at this fall's shows should be selected at once. This is important if maximum size and development is to be obtained, and every day that is delayed means that much more of a handicap for the animal in the show ring.

Forcing Spoils Quality.

It is impossible to realize the desired results by forcing at the last moment. It is necessary, in order to obtain full development to bring the animal along gradually. Forced feeding results in excess fleshing, with retarded development of frame, or on the other hand it may result in grossness and lack of quality.

Pasture, supplied with shade from the sun, and also, if available, running water, provide ideal conditions for the hog during the summer. These, combined with a well-balanced meal ration fed in conjunction with green feed and skim milk, form a combination that is capable of giving the most favorable results.

The meal ration which is selected for this purpose should be one calculated to develop bone and muscle during the initial stages of the fitting period, and for the latter stages a somewhat higher percentage of fat-producing foods should be supplied.

Protect Hog's Skin.

In order to appear to the greatest advantage the skin of the hog must be free from blemishes or roughness of any kind, and present a clean, healthy appearance. One great source of trouble, more particularly with white-skinned hogs, is that of sunburn. This can largely be prevented if some protection from the sun, either natural or artificial, is available where the hog may take shelter throughout the hotter parts of the day. These precautions are not sufficient, however, if the skin of the hog is to appear to the best advantage, so washing must be resorted to. It is not sufficient to let the washing go until the day before showing. Some considerable time before the hog is to be shown, at intervals of a few days, a thorough scrubbing with a soft-bristled brush, linsed soap, and clean water are advised in order to clean the dirt out of the pores. Cleanse with clear water, and care-

BEEES REQUIRE CARE IN SPRING

Indoor Wintered Colonies Should Not Be Placed Outside Too Early.

Windbreak Desirable for Protection in Cold, Backward Seasons.

The main object of spring manipulation is to produce as large a force of bees as possible for the harvest. To secure this force it is essential that the colonies be strong, that the queen be young and prolific and that she have sufficient room for maximum egg production, also that the bees have an abundance of available stores properly placed within the hive. It is the work of the beekeeper to provide these conditions during the spring.

Bees that have wintered in a cellar should not be placed outside until the first nectar-secreting flowers are opened. Colonies showing signs of restlessness, colonies having less than ten or fifteen pounds of stores can be helped from those having a surplus or be given a thick sugar syrup, or better still, combs of honey saved from last year's crop. All weak and queenless colonies having failing queens should be united. Unite the weak to colonies of medium strength or weak queenright colonies to strong queenless colonies. If the hives are badly spotted with dysentery and contain many dead bees, they can be cleaned out somewhat, but it is advisable to make this first examination brief unless the weather is exceptionally warm.

Be sure there are plenty of stores in the hives at all times and that the queen has sufficient room for brood-rearing, and empty combs as rapidly as the colonies become strong enough to require them. Water is essential for brood rearing in the spring. If no water is near the apiary a watering place should be provided in some sheltered place where it is easily accessible to the bees.

Encourage Production. Do not attempt to equalize brood until the colonies are in such a condition to take care of it. Spreading brood should be avoided, as it may result in chilled brood which does more harm to the colony than if it were left alone.

Bees wintered outside should not be removed from the cases until they are working well in the first super. The extra protection during the early spring encourages maximum brood production.

As the spring advances the brood chamber should be enlarged to provide sufficient room for brood-rearing and stores. This can be done either by raising brood from the lower chamber into a super or by giving a second chamber without a queen excluder.

To reduce drifting, the bees should be brought out during the evening or on a dull day, when there is little chance of flight. The entrances should also be reduced to about one inch; this will help to conserve heat and help to prevent robbing.

Need Some Protection. Where the spring is likely to be cold and backward the bees should be given some protection when first placed outside. A windbreak should also be provided to protect them from the prevailing winds.

On the first warm day when the bees are flying freely, every colony should be examined for stores and queens. Colonies having less than ten or fifteen pounds of stores can be helped from those having a surplus or be given a thick sugar syrup, or better still, combs of honey saved from last year's crop. All weak and fully remove all soap. Such treatment results in the freshness and bloom that is so attractive and desirable in show hogs.

Frequent handling of the hogs is necessary, in order to have them accustomed to the presence and also submit to the will of their attendant without undue disturbance.

PLAN TO EXTEND HYDRO IN KENT

Farmers Residing On 10th Concession Make Application For Power.

May Erect Summer Amusement Park On Point Pelee.

Special to London Advertiser. CHATHAM, June 2.—Another rural hydro line will be erected in Kent County in the near future. Farmers residing on the 10th concession in Raleigh Township have made an application to the local hydro system for an extension along the above concession road. This will be done when the extensions to Fletcher and Merlin have been completed.

Rumors have reached this city to the effect that an American syndicate is in negotiation with the Canadian government for a long lease on a portion of land on Point Pelee, on which it is proposed to build a big summer amusement park.

For some time Americans have been using this Canadian pleasure ground for their outings, and scores of American tourists have been making the place a Mecca for week-end visits.

Local examiners and school inspectors are busy preparing for record classes for the mid-summer high school entrance examinations, as owing to the recent changes in the regulations governing the lower school examinations, the number of candidates writing will be nearly double that of former years. Seating accommodation will tax the resources of the officials in charge of the examinations.

There will be less building in the city this year than in previous years, according to the building report for May, which has just been issued by Five Chief. Permits issued last month only totalled $18,870, and the total so far this year is only $97,580.

The Hebrew Shabbath, known better as the feast of weeks, commences today and is being observed by the Jewish colony of the city following the ancient ceremonial as originally observed in the temple at Jerusalem.

Some Jews from Detroit and other places who have been visiting in the city are stated to have come here for the ceremonies. A rabbi from Detroit is to be in charge of the ceremonies.

SEVERELY HURT IN FALL FROM DRAY Special to London Advertiser. SARNIA, June 2.—Harry Bramley, 169 Samuel street, met with serious injuries this morning when he was thrown from a loaded dray of the McGibbon Lumber Company, which collided with the sidewalk on Christina street as the team took fright at a passing street car.

He was conveyed to the hospital in an ambulance, where it was necessary to put eight stitches in the scalp wounds.

FILE BANKRUPTCY PETITION. NEW YORK, June 2.—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in federal court today against Stillwell, Laffer and Lowe, stockbrokers and members of the New York Consolidated Stock Exchange. Liabilities were listed at $200,000 and assets at $50,000.

BUILD A CITY HOME THIS YEAR

A Chic House That Will Sell

You can't create a beautiful home with an ugly house as a starting point. That doesn't mean you must have a large or elaborate house. It means a well-designed house, the right size for your particular family's needs, be it three rooms or twelve. Too large a house is in as bad taste as too small a house, for it represents needless waste of space, labor, time, material, and cost of construction and upkeep.

The house pictured here is an admirable one in many ways. To begin with it is well designed. It will not go out of style and become unsalable in a few years.

It has only five rooms and they are arranged on two floors so that a minimum of ground space is taken up. The outlines of the house form a simple rectangle 31 feet 6 inches wide and 19 feet deep. The hip roof with its wide eaves and open cornice is a popular type. The use of shutters and small-paned windows shows excellent judgment in securing a good exterior, and the overhang of the second story with its small supporting brackets is another good touch.

Tradition has it, you know, that the original colonist planned their houses with an overhang so as to shoot directly down at Indians knocking at the front door with their tomahawks. In these less troublous times it is used for its decorative, rather than its defensive possibilities. Care in handling details of design is also evident in the attractive chimney, and the enticing porch with latticed posts, and exposed rafters in pergola effect.

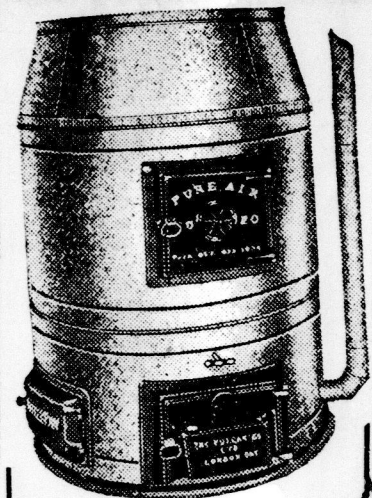

The living-room occupies the right half of the first floor, with the open stair along the rear wall, opposite the front entrance. There are two generous windows on the long outside wall, and the entrance door also furnishes light for this pleasant room. French doors separate it from the dining-room. Cheerfulness, so essential to the enjoyment of meals, is assured by windows on two other sides. A pair of corner china closets make good use of otherwise waste space, and give the dining-room a pleasing shape.

A front door to the kitchen—that's a happy thought, isn't it? The picture shows this door, in the ell made by the kitchen projecting beyond the rest of the house.

This feature makes this house a good one for the lot that is hard to reach from the rear. The long, narrow shape of the kitchen permits of unusual efficiency in the arrangement of the fixtures—sink and drain-board, range, dresser and refrigerator. There's space for a wall-cabinet breakfast or work table, too.

Many steps will be saved by a direct access from kitchen to living-room, near the stairs, which has the advantages of a rear stair, without its extra cost. The rear entry, which provides refrigerator space, delivery shelves, and handy access to the basement, is part of the rectangle of the floor plan.

Instead of being divided into several cramped rooms, the second story has only two large bedrooms, with excellent closets. There is more than the usual amount of wall space, so that the woman of the house may change the furniture about to suit her fancy. There will still be good light, and cross ventilation. In one of the bedrooms, a built-in dressing table with adjustable side mirrors is a delightful idea. A little bench of just the proper size is made to go with this bit of permanent furniture.

STREET RAILWAY DEFICIT REDUCED

Committee At St. Thomas Expresses Satisfaction With New Schedule.

ST. THOMAS, June 2.—Although the report tendered the street railway committee Friday night for the period from April 26 to May 25 shows a decrease of 5,353 in the number of passengers carried over the same dates last year, the deficit was reduced from $2,132.79 to $244.27, and great satisfaction was expressed by members at the success of the new schedule.

A committee consisting of Chairman Robert Middleton, City Engineer W. Miller, Alds. J. L. Burger and J. Jagoe was appointed to look into the operation of motor buses in nearby cities. It was thought that the buses provide the solution for the street railway problem.

Hereafter Manager Charles Johns will act as secretary for the committee, and have the minutes extended by his staff. Chairman Middleton said that the city engineer was overloaded with work, and should not be asked to look after the clerical work for the committee. He thought that the city clerk should take care of the minutes, but said that on account of acting as city solicitor as well, he could hardly be asked to accept added duties.

To prevent delay caused by the motormen throwing the semaphore at the L. and P. S. crossing at Elm street, a watchman will be employed on Sunday and other days when the traffic is heavy, it was decided.

Automobile Hikers From Stratford Receive Warm Welcome At Goderich

Special to London Advertiser. STRATFORD, June 2.—"Welcome to Goderich—the town is yours." These words were on the banner which welcomed the motor hikers from Stratford and intermediate centres, who made Goderich the objective today. The event was what is hoped to be an annual hike. It was staged by the chamber of commerce. Upwards of 25 cars formed the nucleus of what materialized into a healthy caravan with people from Listowel, Mitchell, Seaford and Clinton.

The party reached Goderich shortly after noon, and following lunch, served in the park, there were addresses by Hon. F. C. Biggs, Hon. F. W. Hay, Hon. Peter Smith and others. An official welcome was tendered the visitors by the Goderich authorities.

Hon. Mr. Biggs defended the government road policy. Some people considered it extravagant, he said, but reminded the people that the roads were well constructed and would give years of service. Permanency of construction was their motto. Hon. F. W. Hay, Liberal leader in the Legislature, and Hon. Peter Smith, provincial treasurer, also spoke.

The hikers returned home during the afternoon and evening. have not been determined, but arrangements will be completed before the army arrives. It is probable that the men will be returned to their homes by train.

"General" McDonald is still in the city, and will remain until "General" Riley and his marchers conclude their pilgrimage.

DEPOSED GENERAL PLEADS CAUSE OF RETURNED MEN E. C. McDonald Places Proposals Before Chairman of Civil Re-Establishment Committee.

OTTAWA, June 2.—(By Canadian Press).—E. C. McDonald, deposed "general" of the veteran "army" marching on the capital, had a long interview this afternoon with Herbert Marler, chairman of the special parliamentary committee of soldiers' civil re-establishment. While it is understood Mr. McDonald did not place concrete proposals for re-establishment before Mr. Marler he did make a general plea for the returned men.

Mr. Marler and members of the committee will probably interview the leading members of the army when it reaches here. Just what proposals the men will make have not yet been ascertained, but it is understood their grievances will be fully investigated. AUTO CLUB HOLDS MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

St. Thomas Organization Conducts Campaign To Secure Added Strength.

Special to London Advertiser. ST. THOMAS, June 2.—A vigorous membership drive is being waged by St. Thomas for a recently instituted branch of the Automobile Legal Association, the purpose of which is to provide legal assistance for members who become involved in lawsuits or face speeding charges. Local organization is in the hands of J. E. M. Colson of London, who will have charge of the St. Thomas branch, and will have associated with him E. Sherman Robinson of this city.

All legal expenses of members will be borne by the association. Barristers Cameron, Grant and Cameron have been appointed as local solicitors. Mr. Colson says that the association has been very successful in the defence of speeding cases, and claims that 18 out of 23 cases of this nature were dismissed in Toronto last week.

Although the association has no connection with the Ontario Motor League, there are 22,000 members in Canada, and in the United States association 70,000.

CAN MAKE BROKEN METAL
GOOD AS NEW BY WELDING

Fifteen years ago the oxy-acetylene method of welding and cutting metals was hardly more than a laboratory process, but in the course of these few years it has become one of the most important of the methods in the metal-working industries. It has made possible the repairs of broken machine parts that previously had to be replaced by entirely new castings or forgings. Not only has the process proved of the utmost importance in repair work, but its application has been found to be of the greatest value in the manufacture of many articles.

In this connection the Williams Welding Works, entrance to which is gained by driving in the lane at 85 King street, is engaged in a business which is rapidly proving of great benefit to those who appreciate just what modern welding methods can accomplish. Mr. Williams has a thoroughly modern plant, and his work, which is looked after by experts, covers fender welding, steam boiler welding, the manufacture of tanks without rivets. In addition the plant is capable of taking care of scored cylinders by an electric process. Carbon, which is often a nightmare of the motorist, can be removed at the Williams Welding Works by oxygen, "while you wait." In fact, by the methods employed, Williams Welding Works can satisfactorily weld and braze metals of every size and description.

The story of the development of the oxy-acetylene welding process is interesting. Autogenous welding is generally spoken of as a modern development, and this, of course, is true as regards its present commercial application. As a matter of fact, however, it is known that the Romans used a fusion welding method for the joining of lead pipes a century or two before Christ. As they had no knowledge of producing the high temperatures required for the autogenous welding of metals having a high melting temperature, the early application of the fusion welding process was limited to lead, the melting point of which is about 620 degrees F.

The process of autogenous welding by means of the oxy-acetylene torch, or blowpipe, dates back only to the year 1900. About that time the process had its inception in France. For some time, however, the process remained more or less of a laboratory method and the commercial development may be said to have taken place during a brief period beginning about 1905.

DENNIS WIRE AND IRON
REPORTS BETTER BUSINESS

A revival of activities in building, engineering and manufacturing lines is reported by the Dennis Wire and Iron Works of this city. The branches and agencies of this firm in all the principal cities of the Dominion are giving tangible evidence of the improving conditions through the volume of inquiries received and the contracts they are sending in to the head office at London.

The Dennis Company is one of the fortunate concerns in Canada which has been able to keep its plant running practically at normal throughout the past year. The management attributes their being able to do this, to a vigorous sales policy and to a wide-awake and persistent advertising campaign. The Dennis policy is this: there is always business to be had if it is gone after hard enough.

The products manufactured by this firm are used in the construction, decorating, and the furnishing of all classes of buildings. With the practical completion of the reconstruction period, and the noticeable return to normal prices in all lines of building specialties and supplies, a progressive improvement is looked for during the remainder of the current year in the volume of new building construction all over Canada.

London can now boast of having in the Dennis Wire and Iron Works the largest plant in Canada manufacturing iron and bronze work, and steel equipment.

The Dennis Wire and Iron Works has begun to export products abroad, and has sent Major B. M. Chisholm, a businessman of wide repute, to the Orient, to increase the export trade. Major Chisholm is also looking after the interests of seven other Canadian manufacturing concerns while in the eastern countries.

The department making bank metal is at present running to capacity. The company recently secured a contract from the Bank of Montreal to install all the metal work to be used in the bank's new head office in Montreal. When completed, the grill work and metal decorations in this building will include the finest pieces of metal construction work to be seen in the Dominion.

Other large contracts which have been given to the Dennis Company lately in preference to dozens of other firms are the metal decorating for the Banque Nationale in Quebec, and the ornamental iron work for the new head office building of the General Accident and Guarantee Company in Toronto.

The principal products manufactured are, metal wardrobe lockers, steel shelving, steel office cabinets, steel lavatory compartments, iron stairs, bank grills, fire escapes, steel sashes, and builders' wire and iron work.

SUPERIOR MACHINERY CO.

EXPERTS ON ELEVATORS

For the past thirty years the Superior Machinery Company of this city has been caring for the elevators in London, and in that long time has often repaired an elevator just in time to prevent an accident and perhaps loss of life.

This company is the oldest firm of its kind in the city, and has on its staff men who have spent years in studying and repairing elevators of all descriptions.

Recently the Superior Machinery Company began to manufacture elevators, and from present indications officials believe that within the next few years these elevators will be the most popular in this district.

Bert Frampton, who was with the Otis-Pensom Elevator Company for more than eighteen years, is in charge of the new department. Mr. Frampton was connected with the Toronto branch for some years, and has traveled all over the province installing freight and passenger elevators. Later he had charge of the construction and service departments of the Otis-Pensom Company in this city.

Mr. Frampton has installed some of the largest freight and passenger elevators in Ontario. The newest in elevators, the automatic type, which operates when a button is pressed, are being manufactured by the Superior Machinery Company as well as the older kind. A specialty is the manufacturing of dumb waiters of any size and for any purpose.

Cables, accessories, oils and greases can be supplied for any make of elevator. Bench and machine vices and air compressors are two other products for which the demand is increasing every day.

The products of this firm are shipped to every part of the Dominion, the greater part of their business coming from outside the city. An experimental department is also maintained, where new ideas may be developed and models made.

The majority of elevators in this city, both freight and passenger, are inspected monthly by the Superior Machinery Company, and expert advice is given at all times.

At present, on account of the great demand for the products of this London firm, it has been found necessary to operate two shifts, and the factory is in operation day and night.

CANADIAN IRON AND STEEL INDUSTRY REMAINS FIRM

The Canadian iron and steel market is firm, but no advance of importance has occurred. Seasonal improvement is taking place, but no more than has been expected. April business showed a slight increase over March, and from present indications, May will gain over April.

Bars and small shapes are principally in demand, although even these lines cannot be termed features for the call is not strong enough.

Small tools and supplies are moving at a fairly good rate, and if the present strength continues, and it is expected that it will, May should show an increase over April. Competition is very keen, prices being cut to the bone in many cases.

Machine tools are steady, but not brisk. The tone is better, prospects are showing more interest, and several good deals are under way. At present these look very rosy, but when they will break is another matter. This is a buyers' market, with the result that several good purchases have been closed, that is from the buyers' bargain viewpoint.

Montreal reports a good demand for building supplies and lines such as spikes, nails, bolts and heavy hardware. Merchant bars are also active in that locality.

Non-ferrous and scrap metals are quiet in Toronto district. Montreal shows some price advances in scrap metals, but as the demand is weak, these prices mean little or nothing.

Miscellaneous lines, such as waste, oils and steel pipe are all in fair demand, pipe being the most active of those mentioned. Bolts are rather strong in some quarters, one firm working overtime to supply the demand.

The motor industry is very lively, and textile trades are also busy. Business generally is improving gradually, and reports from various centers show that this improvement covers a wide field.

Finished steel prices in the United States are very firm. Shading has disappeared entirely, and some mills are even demanding advanced prices. On small tonnages they may get the premium price, but regular quotations apply to larger orders.

Pig production increased during April 5 per cent over March. A few districts showed a less, but the total production rate registered a gain. The coal strike was responsible for the lower rate in some localities.

The steel market still shows good signs of strength. Consumers in some cases are becoming anxious and importuning mills to accept their orders. The majority of steel ordered, however, seems to be going into stock. Based upon activities of the past three weeks, the rate is around 36,000,000 to 38,000,000 a year.

Connellsville coke offerings are very light, also the demand. Furnace coke is quoted at $6.25, and foundry coke $6.75. Connellsville coke has strengthened slightly during the past week, as eastern buyers came into the market, and the price is now $3.

WHEN MAKING BUNS.

Dear Miss Grey—I saw in the paper where Cinnamon Vine was sending in some buns, and would like very much if you would send some to me, as she said they would be three buns for a dime, so am enclosing same. Would like to say to any who care to try a change from making buns, when molding your bread into loaves take out enough for a pan of buns and mix with it half cup each of softened butter (or lard) and sweet milk and 1 cup or more of seeded and chopped raisins, and 2 well-beaten eggs. Let rise till light and fill round baking powder tins half full, let rise and bake like bread. You will have three nice loaves, which many prefer to buns. More fruit may be added if wished.

Best wishes to Miss Grey and all the busy housekeepers at present.

PERPLEXED.

The buns have been forwarded to you, Perplexed, and thanks for the hospital note. I am sure the housewives will be glad of your recipe, as a change is as good as a rest, isn't it? I think it would be a good recipe to try when one is tired of buns.

FOR SONNY'S TRUNDLE BED.

Dear Readers of Mail-Box—I wonder if any of the generous members have any quilt patches they could let me have? Would like to make some quilts for sonny's trundle bed. Any kind print, dress goods, gingham or even pieces of flannel would be very welcome. Surely some will come across some that can spare. Would like to get a couple of pieces of bedspread, size 3 1/2 by 5 feet. Will inclose envelope for anyone's address that responds to this.

X. Y. Z.

If any of the readers have patches to spare they may have X. Y. Z.'s address from the Mail-Box and send them to her direct.

OFFERS DAHLIA BULBS.

Dear Miss Grey—Isn't this lovely weather? I have been very busy out in the berry patch. Have sent out about two and a half acres this spring, so come on now all you lonely Boxites, I can keep you busy through July and August, so that you won't have time to be lonely. A friend of mine has given me dahlia bulbs for Mail-Box use, and I will send three bulbs to any one for fifteen cents, which may be sent to you for the hospital fund. When they send the fifteen cents you may give them my address and there is no postage. Inclosed find a note for the hospital.

BUSY HANDS

What a splendid way of raising more money for our fund! And so many are asking for dahlia bulbs, too. Thank you, Busy Hands, for the lovely box of violets and ferns. I was more than grateful for them. You have been very good to Cynthia with your little gifts. Thanks also for the hospital fund.

SENDS LARGE MITE.

Dear Miss Grey—Find inclosed a mite $2 for hospital fund. Will try and send more later. Am inclosing a note addressed to you. Will you kindly send me the following addresses: April Showers, Phillips, Thirty-Seven, Mother of Three, Sincerely yours, B. C. D.

What a generous mite for our hospital fund, and how good of you to offer to help the needy boxites. Won't you write us a longer letter next time?

BUTTERMILK CAKE.

My Dear Miss Grey—I am very sorry I put you to so much trouble and for this delay in answering your letter, but I hope I can still be of some help. Please send me Phyllis' address, also April Showers'. Wishing you good health to continue your work. Your sincerely, P. H. MOTHER.

Buttermilk Cake.

One cup white sugar, 1 teaspoon butter, 1 egg, 1 cup buttermilk, 1/2 teaspoon soda, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 1/2 cups flour with butter icing or whipped cream.

Thank you for the hospital mite and cake recipe and for offering to help Phyllis and April Showers. I am mailing you their addresses.

WANTS FERNS.

Dear Miss Grey—I wonder if one of the boxites, who lives near the woods, would be kind enough to get some fern roots. I would very much like to get some. I will gladly pay postage and also send something towards the hospital fund. Will inclose some tatted designs, which some of the boxites might care to have, also small mite.

KATE DALRYMPLE.

I hope you receive some ferns, Kate. Thanks for the tatted patterns, also for the hospital mite.

ASKS CINNAMON VINE.

Dear Miss Grey—I am inclosing two thin-planters for which will you please send me some cinnamon bulbs. If you have any pansy seed I wouldn't mind having some. Have you any of those morning glory seeds left which I sent last fall? I will try and save some again next year if they are asked for.

P.

I wonder if any of the readers have any lace about two or three inches wide with grapes in. I want to get one for a centerpiece and will return the favor in any way I can. I will close now, and get busy. Write soon.

P.S.—Do those bulbs grow in pots or do they grow in the garden?

Thank you for the hospital mite, and in return I am sending you the bulbs. There are no pansy seeds in the Mail-Box at present. I am not sure whether the bulbs should be started in pots or not, but I think cinnamon Vine said they could be planted in the garden immediately. If not, I wish she would give us the information. Your name is on file in case it is asked for the lace.

APRIL SHOWERS.

It was good of you to offer to help Thirty-Seven's husband and of course suffering from a cough, but of course medicine that helps one person might not have any effect on another, but if Thirty-Seven thinks she would like to get it for her husband she may have your address from the Mail-Box.

SENDS ONE DOLLAR.

Dear Miss Grey—Will you please send three cinnamon bulbs for which I am sending $1 for the War Memorial Hospital. I would like to know if the cinnamon vines need a string to climb up or do they cling to the wall. If you have any Oriental poppy seeds please send me some.

MRS. E. F. C.

Thank you, Mrs. E. F. C., for the generous donation for our hospital fund. I am mailing the bulbs and trust that Cinnamon Vine will write us immediately regarding the many questions asked about the vines.

A REQUEST FROM THE INDIANA.

Dear Miss Grey—I am inclosing 25 cents for the S. C. H. fund. Would it be possible for me to get the root of an English violet through your Mail-Box? I had so many in my old home in Canada, but have never seen any in this country. Would you please send me David H. Harkness's address, as I could send her a parcel.

MRS. T. S.

I am sending you Esme's address who offered violet roots, and I sincerely hope they reach you. I too love violets, and would miss them. I know I am also sending you David Harkness's address. Many thanks for remembering our fund, we have had mites from all parts of the country. Also thanks for the seeds.

Absolute Reliability and Good Service, Motto of Local Realtors.

WHATEVER the real estate calling has been in London in the past, it is today to be found on a much higher plane.

The London Real Estate Board, a real live, progressive organization, is the reason.

The realtor is the reincarnated real estate man, pledged to the principles of honest and fair dealing in all lines of his calling.

The real estate board has set up within itself certain standards of fair dealing in buying, selling, renting. For a member to disregard or break these rules means his ignominious banishment from the ranks.

Cheerful devotion to honest service, respect and consideration for others, and reliable and truthful service, then, is what is to be expected from a realtor.

Thus, in placing a real estate contract in the hands of members of this organization, Londoners may assume that their interests are in the hands of safe and scrupulous dealers.

But the real estate board means more than this. With its advent has come the new spirit of co-operation, and here again is a great benefit to those desiring the services of a realtor.

A property is listed for sale with a member of the board. Today, with the multiple system of listing in vogue among the members of the board, the member receiving the listing immediately passes it on to his fellow-members of the board. Thus, instead of one careful realtor handling the matter, there will be eight or ten or a dozen.

Good service, quick results, and absolute reliability would seem to be the benefits from dealings with the members of the board.

GOOD PREFERS BONUS PLAN TO TARIFF WALL

Brant Member Describes Protection As "Scramble For Privileges."

M'MASTER DEFENDS TAXES

Declares Proposals of Fielding Are Well Timed.

LONDON, June 2.—(By Canadian Press).—Comprising in King George's usual list of birthday honors are the following, made on the recommendation of Right Hon. Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary of state for the colonies:

Privy councillor, Premier W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada.
Knight Commander of St. Michael and St. George, Premier H. N. Barwell of South Australia.
Knight Commander of the Bath, Col.

vocacy of a higher tariff, said the member for Bromes, was that if we taxed ourselves a little more heavily all would be well. The warning regarding the German menace did not sit in very well with information by the (Otago) Evening New Zealand, from its American representative in Berlin, that German costs of production were increasing and that Germany did not have a large stock of goods for export. As to the United States owing its prosperity to protection, the house knew better; in spite of the tariff her natural resources had made that country prosperous.

The best minds in the United States today were more and more tending towards free trade.

Mr. McMaster asked what was the matter with the coal mines in Nova Scotia that they were unable to endure competition with the United States. Is it the water in the mine that keeps the water out? If this stock had remained in the hands of the high-principled men who some time ago controlled it, "I wonder if it would have been in the condition it is today," Mr. McMaster questioned.

Mr. Bristol objected that there was no water in the stock.

"I think the company has been very well sprinkled," Mr. McMaster retorted. He expressed the opinion that, if dollar for dollar went into the stock, the situation would have been different today.

It had been stated that Australia was a free trade country at one time. This, however, was not during the life of the present generation. Before the Australian states were federated, one of them was a free trade state, and industry in the protectionist states alongside it. Mr. McMaster quoted Mr. Findlay, late manager of the Massey-Harris Company, as saying: "Give us raw materials free, and we will beat the world."

A great deal of credit was due to the finance minister for wiping out the various amendments of the late government to the currency, dumping, and other regulations. Sir Henry Drayton had stated that the biggest success of the present government was that it had been able to bring in a free trade state, and industry in the protectionist states alongside it. Mr. McMaster quoted Mr. Findlay, late manager of the Massey-Harris Company, as saying: "Give us raw materials free, and we will beat the world."

WALTER M'RAYE SPEAKS AT GALT

Special to London Advertiser.

GALT, June 2.—Walter M'Raye, well-known publicist, today delivered a fine address to the local Kiwanis Club, when he drew a word picture of conditions in Canada in the days of the pioneers up to the present, and then pictured the prospects for the future if the men and women took their part and there was a greater development of national character. He claimed that what was needed most in Canada today was co-operation and more attention to the responsibility of citizenship. So delighted were the Kiwanians with the address that they immediately invited Mr. M'Raye to return in the near future to address a public meeting.

H. Jardine, a native of Hesperia, has been appointed assistant city engineer here. He held a similar position in Timmins. He is an over-zealous man, the possessor of the Military Cross.

HOLD CLOSING EXERCISES AT WOODSTOCK COLLEGE

Rev. W. A. Cameron of Bloor Street Baptist Church, Toronto, Addresses Gathering.

Special to London Advertiser.

WOODSTOCK, June 2.—Woodstock College concluded its work for the current school year with closing exercises this afternoon, which were largely attended by the parents and local citizens.

The address to the students was given by Rev. W. A. Cameron of Bloor Street Baptist Church, Toronto, who spoke on the law of service. The presentation of medals, prizes and scholarships were made by Dr. E. W. Sawyer and N. S. McGregor, members of the college faculty.

The winners of medals and scholarships in the fourth year were: J. Ostrum, W. Gibson, W. Bee and Arthur Smith. Third year, Geo. Dixon, O. Pratt and P. D. McArthur. Second year, E. Hayward, Norman Udy, Jos. Barton, Harold Kerr, Morton Best, Lloyd Wilcox. Commencement exercises were held in the evening, Roy Schank, W. Smyth, G. Adams, J. Adam.

The Ryrie gold medal for oratory was won by W. J. Riddford, and the Durden gold medal for impromptu speech by W. J. Wismer.

Principal Wearing, owing to continued illness, was unable to be present for the closing of the school year, which was one of the most successful in the history of the college, which dates back to 1857.

DENIES COAL FROM JAPAN

Mackenzie King States Rumor False That Commodity To Be Bought For Pacific Use.

OTTAWA, June 2.—(By Canadian Press).—Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, prime minister, told the House of Commons this afternoon that a false impression had got about that it was the intention of the government merchant marine to purchase Japanese coal for use in the Pacific. The coal which had already been brought from Japan had been shipped as ballast, it being cheaper to buy coal for that purpose than to secure other material as ballast. The government statement made recently on the matter was that so far as possible it was the policy to use only British Columbia coal on the ships of the government merchant marine on the Pacific.

Mr. King promised to inquire into the matter of coal being used by the merchant marine from mines in Cumberland, B. C., which was being mined by Chinese.

Premier King Included in List of Birthday Honors of King George

LONDON, June 2.—(By Canadian Press).—Comprising in King George's usual list of birthday honors are the following, made on the recommendation of Right Hon. Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary of state for the colonies:

Privy councillor, Premier W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada.
Knight Commander of St. Michael and St. George, Premier H. N. Barwell of South Australia.
Knight Commander of the Bath, Col.

ANALYZES EFFECT OF TAX.

Mr. McMaster referred to the speech made by W. G. Raymond, Liberal member for Brantford, Mr. Raymond had instigated Belgium, Switzerland and Holland, as countries which produced their wealth by turning raw material into manufactured articles and exporting the finished products. He had stated that all these countries were operating under protective tariffs.

"Mr. Raymond is a Liberal. I know he is a Liberal, his face shows it. But, alas, he has lived too long in Brantford," said Mr. McMaster, merrily while Progressive members applauded loudly.

The tariff of Belgium, Mr. McMaster added, was extremely low, averaging 1920 1.6 per cent. The tariff of Switzerland averaged 2 1/2 per cent the same year. As for Holland, it was the champion free trade nation of Europe. Its tariff in 1920 averaged 1.3 per cent, but that was much higher than it had been the previous year.

Mr. McMaster analyzed the effect of the sales tax and the manner in which the additions would be placed upon the consumers. He would have liked it better had it been purely an excise tax and not one which applied also to the imported goods. The sales tax encouraged the maintenance of middlemen, and really added to the customs duty of goods entering this country. If the customs tariff became too high it discouraged the entrance of goods, and thus reduced the revenue.

The reductions in tariff were smaller than he had hoped for, Mr. McMaster declared. If there had been a step in the right direction it had "been in the nature of shuffling forward gently."

Mr. McMaster doubted the advisability of waiting for the Americans to take the step toward tariff reduction. Mr. Fielding, however, might have had information which justified his action. In 1841 Peel had stated that the best way to overcome a hostile tariff was to encourage free trade importation.

Outlines His Policy.

Answering the question, why he proposed to accept the budget, Mr. McMaster said he did so because he believed the Liberal party would not be recreant to its history. In spite of back-sliding, he believed the Liberal party had not received full credit from his Western friends for what it had done in 1911. The Liberal party had gone down to defeat in 1878 because it had stood up for the people against the protectionist interests, and it had done the same in 1911. He declared that everything in the Liberal platform of 1893 was justified by the history of the tariff in Canada. He appealed to that platform in justification of his action today. He appealed to Mr. Fielding's acceptance of that platform in 1897; he appealed to the declaration of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in his latter years in favor of freedom

SIDE LIGHTS AT OTTAWA

BY RANDOLPH J. CHURCHILL, Staff Correspondent The London Advertiser.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, OTTAWA.

June 2.—W. R. Raymond of Brantford shares with R. A. Hoey of Springfield the distinction of delivering the most brilliant speech of the budget debate.

While Mr. Hoey was responsible for one of the best bits of oratory of the session, Mr. Raymond deserves even more credit for making a splendid speech while laboring under difficulties with which Mr. Hoey did not have to contend.

The member from Springfield being a Progressive was free to attack both opposition and government at will, and could say almost anything with the assurance that it would not act as a boomerang to his party.

It was not so with Mr. Raymond, however. Mr. Raymond, in the role of an Independent Liberal, believing in tariff for revenue and for industrial protection, was forced to criticize the government of which he was a member for cutting the tariff on agricultural implements, and then in the same speech to explain why he was a Liberal, why he always intended to be one, and why he would vote for the government despite his criticisms.

It was not an easy task. He was forced to answer countless questions, chiefly from the Progressive ranks, but also from fellow Liberals and members of the opposition. But despite all attempts to trip him up he never lost an argument, never lost his composure, and by a show of wit seldom equalled in the House turned back each tormentor in turn amid storms of laughter.

It is safe to say that he held the interest of the house and of the galleries, although his speech was almost a monotonous evening, as no other member before has except perhaps Mr. Hoey, speaking Wednesday night.

Mr. Raymond is an orator. As one critic put it, he and Mr. Hoey are the two real acquisitions of the house this session.

THAT the Conservative party is not following the course mapped out for it by Sir John A. Macdonald as far as the tariff is concerned is the claim of John Warwick King, Progressive member for North Huron.

Mr. King hurled the charge at the official opposition when he delivered his budget speech, and since that time no one from the floor of the house has contradicted the statement.

The member for North Huron asserted that he had attended a meeting of farmers which was addressed by Sir John when that great statesman was at the country's helm. The Conservative leader asked the farmers at that time to bear the burden of a protective tariff for a short time, in order that infant industries could rear their smokestacks throughout the land.

Sir John, however, assured the farmers, Mr. King said, that as soon as his industrial concerns became established well enough to control the home market, and the very minute they began to export, he would remove the high tariff. If Sir John had

DRIVER SAVED BY LEAP FROM TRUCK

Fred Stacey Narrowly Escapes Injury At St. Thomas Crossing.

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, June 2.—Fred Stacey, Talbot street west, narrowly escaped death Friday afternoon about 5 o'clock on William street, when his motor truck skidded into one of the coaches on Michigan Central train No. 30. He leaped from the truck just as it was struck and received no injuries other than a shaking up.

Proceeding along William street he misjudged the speed of the train, and was almost on the tracks when he jumped from the driver's seat. The rear wheels were caught, and the truck was badly damaged. Eyewitnesses claim that a matter of a few seconds saved him from being hit by the locomotive and being killed.

Residents in that part of the city have for years agitated for crossing gates along the tracks, and it is thought that the near-casualty Friday afternoon will lead to the matter being brought up again.

FEELS INSULTED, SO RESIGNS.

HAMILTON, June 2.—Major J. J. Hobson of Burlington verbally tendered his resignation to the town council last night, and stated that he would resign because some members of the council would not sanction some of his actions which he considered an insult to his office.

Come To Church Tomorrow

"YES, I know all the excuses. I know that one can worship the Creator in a grove of trees or by a running brook, or in a man's own house, just as well as in a church. But I also know as a matter of cold fact the average man does not thus worship."

Here are a few benefits to be derived from church attendance:

"You will listen to and take part in reading some beautiful passages from the Bible. And if you are not familiar with the Bible, you have suffered loss."

"You will take part in singing some good hymns."

"You will meet and nod or speak to good neighbors. You will come away feeling a little more charitably inclined toward all the world, even toward those excessively foolish young men who regard church-going as a soft performance."

"Join in church work for the sake of showing your faith in your works."

Make your start in church service tomorrow. A fair trial of church attendance will convince you it's well worth while.

SUDDENLY CURED BY $9,000 AWARD

In speaking of his experience in dealing with street railway accident cases and expert testimony given by physicians, Justice Middleton told the following story at the court house Friday-afternoon:

"I had a case once in which I gave a woman judgment for $9,000," said his lordship with a smile. "She was brought into court on a stretcher and her evidence was given in a voice barely above a whisper. She hadn't moved from her bed since the accident."

"Before a month was gone I noticed an advertisement in the paper where she had been fully cured by a patent medicine in less than a week. They still twist me about that case in Toronto."

COMMITTEE TO PASS ON LEGAL POINTS IN BILL

Separate School Issues Are Considered by Legislature Members.

MAGEAU MOVES CHANGE

Liberals Support Amendment Regarding Placing of Taxes.

TORONTO, June 2.—Separate school issues were once more brought before the Ontario Legislature today when Zouke Mageau, Liberal member for Sturgeon Falls, introduced his amendment to the separate school act. Mr. Mageau pointed out that the bill provided that Protestant ratepayers may become liable for separate school taxes through the purchase of separate school debentures.

In short, properties formerly owned by Roman Catholics and against which separate school debentures have been issued must carry the taxes until the debentures are paid up, regardless of any change of ownership from Catholic to Protestant.

After some discussion, by a vote of 21 to 13, the bill was given second reading and referred to the legal committee for a determination of the law and the principle involved in the measure. The minister of education voted against the bill, while Hon. W. E. Rancey voted for it. Practically a solid Liberal vote was cast in the affirmative.

Would Redraft Measure. Premier Drury said that the object of the bill was commendable so far as it would make easier the market of separate school debentures, but it involved a principle contradictory to the provisions of the public schools act, which provides that no Protestant shall be obliged to pay separate school taxes. He suggested that the bill be given a second reading, and referred to the legal committee in order that it might be redrafted and that the main object might be obtained without legal enactment.

Hon. Thomas Crawford stated that there was very serious opposition to the principle of the bill. "If this comes law, a very serious and outrageous principle will have been adopted," he said. He objected to Protestants being forced to pay separate school taxes.

"At the bottom of it the system is unjust and unfair," he added.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson pointed out that the bill would entirely change the characteristic and fundamental basis of financing the provincial school system. He claimed the bill was dangerous.

"It would be a very dangerous precedent," stated Major Alex. Lewis, "and great care should be taken not too readily to alter the present statutes."

Hon. R. H. Grant, minister of education, said: "In sending this bill to the legal committee we are not approving of the principle of it as it now stands."

Suggests Remedial Bill. Sam Clarke, Liberal, advocated having the whole issue sent to the courts with a view to securing equal rights for both factions. J. C. Tolmie, Windsor, said it appeared as though the Catholics were suffering an injustice in the sale of their debentures. He requested that the department of education bring in a remedial bill next session to take care of the difficulty.

In order to alter the session the university bill was left over for next session, after one clause which vests all authority for the control of university property in the hands of the board of governors had been passed. Owing to the fact that there was a slim attendance the Friday evening session was cancelled, the majority of the M.L.A.'s having left for home over the week-end.

The parliament buildings will remain closed on Saturday owing to the king's birthday.

A Complete Institution

The last few years have brought about a completeness in Funeral directing. The modern establishment not only has the necessary equipment for reverently and perfectly caring for the bodies of those just departed this life, but also every facility for making more precious the memory of those rites attending that period. This institution from personnel to equipment, merits your patronage.

After the arrest of several Chinese a general strike was called by the Chinese guilds, and the shops were closed. Demonstrations against the Portuguese then began, and it was in the attempts of the police to put down these disturbances that the casualties resulted. Advice from Macao indicate that more trouble is expected.

MOSCOW, June 2.—Lieut.-Gen. Bakaitch, a Serbian, and Gen. Smolin, an Estonian, with four other former officers in the Russian army, have been sentenced to death at Novo-Nikolaisk, Siberia, for their participation in the activities of the anti-Bolshevist forces under Gen. Baron Ungern-Sternberg. Nine others, including four general officers, were sentenced to long terms of imprisonment.

Gen. Bakaitch, who served as a volunteer in the Russo-Japanese War, was in command of the remnants of Gen. Dutoff's army after the late Admiral Koltchak's retreat before the Bolsheviks. Among the charges against him was that he ordered the massacre of 270 communists and soviet employees in one village in 1920.

BUENOS AYRES, June 2.—Claims of Bolivia for consideration in the settlement of differences between Paraguay and Argentina over boundary questions along the Pilcomayo River have been rejected by Argentina. It is disclosed by an exchange of notes published by the Argentine ministry of foreign relations.

The Pilcomayo River runs south from territory on the north, which is Argentine Chaco on the south and the Paraguayan Chaco on the north, and empties into the Parana River, which carries its waters to the Atlantic. There is, however, a northern and almost parallel branch of the Pilcomayo, and differences between Argentina and Paraguay arose over the question as to which of the streams was the boundary. There has also been a long-standing dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay over the title to the territory on the north, which is
