The Catholic Record

LONDON, SATURDAY, OCT. 27, 1917

FAMILY PRAYER

family prayer invigorates and safe- ies in the grave, is a resurrection. Montenegro, East Prussia, Turkey, guards the home. Our fathers Even the electric light which glows for the survivors of the Armenian with Germany. believed in it. They realized its in the filaments in our lamps is the massacres, to Holland, devastated by value and necessity. In the dark result of energy which was boarded floods, he has sent financial aid. days it was their well-spring of con- in coal-or energy which raised the solation and of strength. Family water from earth and sea into the tion and defamation of his own perprayer is as a fragrant rain-fall high fastnesses. All our night lights son as all in the day's work, and he every evening upon the aridity of are from the past; although the sun continues his unceasing activity on the day. It is a sovereign balm that sends us the day in seven minutes, behalf of the human family. heals the little wounds and refreshes | the stars' light is brought from quite souls touched by the hot winds of old lamps. Indeed, some of these our fathers on this point. We have into blackness centuries ago, and yet our doubts. Doubtless it is still in they are still shining for us, and fashion in some sections, but we fear decorating our winter nights with that in many homes there is so the cheery traveller's tale of a ray much to do and so many things to which has been wandering in space claim attention that family prayer at more than express speed for cenis a lost art, and consequently we turies. with ample content.

and the mother is gadding around not their morals ruined by movingpictures, and God is to be supplicated only when we are in danger, the home will never be the nursery of strong men and women.

OUR WAY

There is what our penny-a-line writers call a revolution as to houselighting in our days. Perhaps that is why the various authorities talk about our own times as an "enlightened age." But certainly, even in our times, the change is remarkable from the period when-in imitation of the Creation, when the moon was set to rule the night—in houses at least the it grows. The longer it burns the facts, and far removed from the candle ruled the night with its fickle more it illuminates. So much for truth, but the reason. sceptre of light. The public rooms light. of great houses and assembly halls were bright with constellations of the best wax candles, but even these when the flame came near the socket tificate Benedict XV. has earnestly would drop hot wax. But in the besought Powers and Rulers that they private, penurious houses-not that delay not to bring back to their we throw at the houses the reproach | peoples the blessings of peace. of poverty, for we think the economy He ordered public prayers to be Pan German plan and how it would of these old days was better than the offered up in all the churches affect the British Empire. reckless bankruptcy of our own days, throughout the world. which is a modern trick by which | 2. He has employed his activity many don't pay their debts - we on behalf of all whom the War has and boasted of in 1911. It aimed to remember some quite genteel house- involved in misery and suffering; unite three things-Central Europe, holds when the sitting-room was especially the military civilian lighted by two poor "composites" in prisoners. silver candlesticks, and with silver snuffers in a tray beside them. It is Benedict XV., writing to Cardinal true that in such a room you were Mercier, expresses his grief at the surrounded with darkness, and if you sight of the Belgian nation so dear to played cards or read a book you had him reduced to its present lamentable to sit in friendly intercourse with condition by a most dire and calamthese two composites. But after all itous war. Again, at the Consistory, the little island of light and the 22nd Jan., 1915, he records his affecgreat surrounding ocean of darkness tion for the Belgian people. He sent left far more room for imagination help in money and gave his blessing than the lighting of today, which to the Belgian Relief Committees. banishes darkness just as the sun 4. The new Belgian minister, M. himself does. Then the passages van den Hensel, in presenting his crewere dark, the lights poor, and in dentials to the Pope, said: "In the midst every shadow there was a sugges. of its misfortunes Belgium has been could be no resistance from the rest tion. Even in the "gloaming" in deeply touched by the testimonials those days you had to take a holiday, of lively solicitude and paternal affecfor it became too dark to read, and tion which Your Holiness has been you had to wait until the lights came, pleased to give it." and that gave one a useful time for 5. For the Allocution of the 22nd quiet thought. It was in these half. Jan., 1915, His Holiness received the lights that those shy flowers, rever- warm thanks of the Belgian Governies, bloomed-much to the benefit of ment and King Albert himself. those who entertained those sort of A group of French journalists sent in the dark. But now all that is May, 1916, an address in which "they changed. There are no dark pas- thank His Holiness Benedict XV. for sages, and ghosts have retreated to having alone among the (neutral) the churchyards from their pleasant | Powers publicly condemned the violaold haunts. As for the rooms, there tion of Belgian neutrality."

the sun a thousand centuries ago, country, he has given plenteously We are told by our pastors that and this light, after all these centure of his means and influence. To We wonder if we are as one with of the sky-they may have passed the War."

are in danger of getting a lesser | But is not the light that shines breed of men and women. True, upon the world of mind also an in- promote Pan Germanism, will depend they are more worldly wise than heritance? Is it not the light of their forebears, but they have lost memory which is thrown on to-day, in keenness of sight, in appreciation and enables us to see the present of the fine and noble, in grip of the objects and understand them in the realities that steady us and, however light of a former time? Without the winds blow, hedge us around memory we would be in a darkness that could be felt. Happily, we for-And yet everything that can get much. Much that passed through of Austria-Hungary as a 'ramshackle sanctify the family should be clasped the presence chamber of perception empire'; then for the sake of peace to our heart as a sacred possession. passes away through the sieve of The home is our stronghold. Father memory into the oblivion of unconand mother have their teacher's sciousness. These are the dark been greatly interested in a recent diplomas signed by God. They can corners of memory. In these there book by a Frenchman, "The Panbeautify souls or mar them. But is nothing but mystery, but with the when prayer is said but perfunctorily glow of remembrance we not only and the father is busy at his club recognize ourselves, but there is a world which was and a world which from show to café, and the boys and is. But occasionally out of the depths girls are having their eye-sight if of the unconscious there comes up some old forgotten memory, the peak of a submerged world, the ghost of a Barry. dead past.

> Now the memory at whose feet we sit, as at the feet of a Gamaliel, is our great teacher for this changing entity self, which is always educating or better still making itself. Every impression that a mind has, either and they recognized as the great from the outside—of to-day—or from obstacle, none of the European the inside from the mirror of memory, modifies and educates the mind. The mind is like the candle which the more it burns the more new candle it creates. It is not exhausting the oil in the vessel which feeds the lamp. The more it glows the more

FACTS

1. From the beginning of his Pon-

3. On the 8th of December, 1914, mushroom growths which come up to Cardinal Gasparri on the 6th of

is no gloaming-no dark, romantic His Holiness, and Sir Edward Grey corners. You touch a button and announced this in the House of Comthe day comes back with a leap. mons, was trying to persuade Ger-You turn a tap and apply a match | many to abandon its war with suband the eyes are blinded with the marines. He condemned, 16th Oct.,

But all the lights we now enjoy Lusitania in his famous sentence: are, after all, inheritances from the "I can imagine no more horrible

The Holy Father looks upon opposi-

We are indebted for these facts to Rev. Anthony Bremnan, C. S. F. C., fixed stars may be extinct volcanoes in his pamphlet "Pope Benedict and

PAN-GERMAN PLOT UNMASKED

London Advertiser October 17

That world peace, after a victorious conclusion of the present war, and frustration of further attempts to solely upon the destruction of German rule in Austria-Hungary, and the breaking up of that empire into its compotent parts, was the statement made by Bishop M. F. Fallon in an address at the opening meeting of the London Historical Society in the Normal School last evening.

"We have been accustomed to think let it fall into its compotent parts, Opening his address, he said he had German Plot Unmasked," because it put on paper a thesis with which he contact twenty-five years ago while a student in a place not far from Aix la-Chapelle, where German students were numerous. Also by an article in the current Nineteenth Century by the distinguished English priest, Dr. William He desired not only to acknowledge his indebtedness to this book and this article but to call attention to them as worthy of study.

LOOKED FOR FIGHT

Often he heard them assert that the day would come when Germany would start to conquer the world, nations, but Great Britain, and were certain that the day must come when the German Empire and the British Empire would be in the throes of war. Frankly, he admitted, that the plans were openly discussed with him, because he was Irish, and therefore supposed to be anti-English and anti-British, quite removed from the

"The nations of Britain are at war. Canada is one of those nations, and they must fix clearly in their minds the nature of the peace they desire, asserted.

CAIRO IS CENTRE

Claiming that Cairo, and not old the British Empire, he outlined the

It looks like a dream, but we know it is a reality," he said, German plan made public in 1907 the Ralkan States and Turkey. other words, to stretch a line from Hamburg to the Persian Gulf. It is no dream. You can find these facts laid down in the German librar-

'That part of Europe, not counting Asia, contained 204,000,000 people, of whom but 77,000,000 were Germans, the central idea being the domination of a vast majority by a small majority. From the population according to standards then in vogue, 13,000,000 soldiers could be raised. With the efforts some of the powers have exerted in the present struggle, 21,000,000 could have been raised and the fact is clear that if this Pan-German plan had been put into execuof the world against that great number of trained soldiers directed by one mind.

WANT SOUTH AFRICA

"This was not all. The Pan-German plan constantly discussed by the leading papers of Germany included so much of South Africa that there would actually be little left worth while. Germany had a of territory there already, and she aimed at all the British possessions, "Wh the French Congo and other territories on both coasts. All this plan is on maps in the German foreign office. What hope would that leave for the and referred to the sinking of the Uruguay, Paraguay; that 800,000 Germans were residents of those countries, and by a law introduced in past. Coal gas is made from deposits crime." To our Beloved Italy, the Germany in 1913, still citizens of of the ferns and coniferæ fostered by title given by the Pope to his own their fatherland, with all its rights and privileges. They were still exert-ing a sufficient influence to greatly curtail the war plans of the South American countries who had broken

BUSY IN PORTUGAL

Pan-Germanism aimed also at Portugal and the remnant of her colonial empire; at Holland and Switzerland, which was to come freely or be forced. The United States, Canada and Australia were to e settled at a later date.

The plan had received certain great shocks, the first one being the defeat of the Turks by Italy in Africa; next the second Balkan war, followed by the treaty of Bucharest, the first great blow at pan-Germanism.

The Bishop asserted that the blundering of British statesmen and those of the Allies in regard to the war led him to believe that it was more by accident than design. The treaty drove a wedge into middle Europe by which Montenegro, Europe by which M Greece and Rumania against the Bulgarians and Turkey. Practically 800,000 soldiers were available from the countries antagonized. Although it left the central European powers still strongly allied, it cut them off from Turkey and broke the continuity of the pan-German plan through Europe.

The final shock was the unrest that developed in the oppressed elements of Austria-Hungary, as a result of the treatment of the people in the Balkans.

KAISER TO BLAME

a result of these three shocks and dread for the future of the German empire," continued the Bishop, "the German emperor, and he alone decided to find some cause for war. It was not safe to defer longer the putting into effect of the pan-German Ferdinand was merely an occasion, not a cause. Using it, the German emperor forced his vassal, the Austrian emperor, for such he was rather than an ally, to send Servia an ultimatum that no nation could accept without surrendering the last vestige of national honor.'

The result of the plan after three years of war he termed appalling. Pan-Germanism has been realized in nine tenths of its entirety," he as-"From Berlin almost to Bagserted. dad the kaiser's trains run and his These lines that soldiers march. looked so fanciful five years ago to European statesmen are almost the German lines of battle today, and are in almost undisputed sway. is quite useless to close our eyes to the fact. We can best solve our difficulties by meeting them. The pan-German plan of 1911 is this very day practically realized. The territory controlled by Germany to day stretches from the mouth of the Somme to the extreme end of Greece, and from the Gulf of Rigy to the mouth of the Danube. The pan-Germanism or they will not get that peace," he must be dealt with as an accomplished fact for the time being.'

FOLLY TO TALK

It was folly to talk of the dismem-London, was the strategic centre of berment of the German nation, he asserted. It would continue as a power of the highest type. Britain's entry into the War and her control of the seas has saved the situation in "the its essence, although the pan German plan had succeeded.

"There was only one thing to be done now-fight through to victory,'

Whatever else Germany might yield, she would cling to Austria-Hungary and Turkey. There she must be forced, the Bishop asserted. Austria Hungary was the key stone of the pan-German arch and must be destroyed. India would thus be saved and forty million people, who, had they a voice, would not be Austrians for twenty-four hours, would be set free and would be a wedge of safety between German and Turkey. "Let Germany be a world power of the first rank, but let her mind her own affairs and not attempt to reign in the Balkan states or hold a high hand over Turkey." he said.

Of the 55 to 60 millions of people tion, can be put into execution, there in the Austria Hungarian empire, he asserted, only twelve million were Germans. The other peoples were at one time independent and should be

MIGHT BE STRANGE

This view, he said, would perhaps be considered a strange one to be held by a Roman Catholic bishop, but, he asked, Austria - Hungary being a Catholic now, would it be any less Catholic in nine or ten

"When is the old superstition to disappear that Austria-Hungary dictates the papal policy?" he A man of ordinary sense could see what a disaster to the Pope a German rest of the world; what hope would victory would be, he said. It would that leave for the British Empire, mean the Prussianization of Austriamean the Prussianization of Austriaremembering that Cairo is the strategical centre?"

The campaign in South America he fifty million Catholics in Austriamany to abandon its war with submarines. He condemned, 16th Oct., 1914, the bombardment of Rheims, claimed that she had actually par-

NOT TOUCH MOSLEMS

"Such a plan as pan-Germanism would not touch the Moslem Church, or the national church of Bulgaria. It would strike against the only international church, the Roman Catholic That is the reason why first of all the Pope is intensely opposed to the very thought of Germany victory would set the Roman Catholi Church face to face with one of the gravest crises in its history, and in a condition only slightly stronger than in 1870 it would have to face the greatest power the world has ever known in a new Kulturkampf.

"Therefore, as a Canadian, British subject, and as a Roman Catholic, I say that the pan German plan must be defeated at whatever cost. In a short digression the Bishop referred to his statements made last March about Lloyd George. I made that reference I was thinking more of the British Empire than of Ireland," he said. "Those who know me the best realize that. I was thinking of the British Empire and the lost chance to solidify that great fabric. I think that subsequent facts will bear out my diagnosis of the situation. No sensible man would claim independence for Ireland, but freedom.

THE CARDINAL AND THE PRESIDENT

Washington, Oct. 12.- Cardinal Gibbons wrote President Wilson, in a letter made public here today, that he was trying to "persuade all Americans that they can do the greatest good to themselves and their country by a cheerful and generous performance of their duty as it is pointed out to them by lawconstituted authority.' The letter was written on the occasion of putting into effect of the pan German the recent formation of the League plan. The assassination of Archduke for National Unity, of which Cardinal Gibbons is honorary Chairman. President Wilson, in reply, thanked the Cardinal for accepting the Chairmanship of the League. The letter to the President follows Cardinal's Residence Baltimore, Oct. 6, 1917. The President,

The White House, Washington, D.C. My Dear Mr. President : In these days of the gravest problems which have ever weighed upon our American Government, our thoughts go out to the Chief Executive, warned by a heartfelt sympathy for the heavy burdens of office which he must bear, and freighted with the unwavering determination of loyal citizens to stand by him in his every effort to bring success to our aims and to achieve those ideals of justice entrance into the War. Guided as we are by the sublime teachings of Christianity, we have for the future, then we shall have an of obedience and devotion to our our people. In the meantime, at country. Our Divine Lord tells us, least, we must resent the combinapowers, for there is no authority but tions would be quite impossible. from God, and those that are, are our brothers keepers and are man of the Irish Parliamentary party, bound to prevent as far as possible has been awarded the Distinguished resisteth the power, resisteth the or-dinance of God, and they who resist purchase to themselves condemna-

We wish our people to see, and we are striving to help them to realize, James J. Walsh, M. D. Ph. D., Sc. D., that they owe unswerving loyalty to the rulers whom they have elected to office, and that in doing so they are not acting in a slavish manner, for obedience is not an act of servility we pay to man, but an act of homage we pay to God. We are working to the end that our countrymen may see the folly and grave disobedience of unjust and ill-tempered criticism of national policies. We are bending our efforts to point out to our fellow men that they in all probability see the present situation from only one angle, where as the Government sees it from every viewpoint, and is therefore slone in the position to judge of the expediency of national affairs.

In a word, we have been exerting our every effort, and will continue to they can do the greatest good to and only exhibit a want of interest themselves and their country by a in the spiritual welfare of their men, cheerful and generous performance of their duty as it is pointed out to them by lawfully constituted authority.
With sentiments of highest esteem,

I am. Very faithfully yours, J. CARDINAL GIBBON Archbishop of Baltimore.

The President replied as follows: Oct. 9, 1917. My Dear Cardinal Gibbons:

May I not express my very deep 'Can you tell me when cheer and reassurance, and I want your own action in consenting to celled Bolivia, Brazil, Argentina, man victory is impossible without efforts to make the whole character and purpose of this War and of the Government of the United States in the prosecution of it clear to the whole people.

warmest appreciation and With cordial regards.

WOODROW WILSON.

SUPERSTITIONS OLD AND NEW

Everyone is familiar with Munyon

of the pompadour and uplifted finger with remedies for nearly everything under the sun and a few other things The Bureau of Chemistry of the United States Government, in accordance with the Pure Food and Drug Act, recently analzed some of these remedies with really wonderful results. As a consequence judgment was entered in the United State Courts, which I quote briefly According to the advertisements Munyon's Asthma Cure would "permanently cure asthma." The Gov ernment chemists analyzed the 'cure" and found it to consist of sugar and alcohol. That, however, Knights of Columbus. was at least one ingredient better than the next of his remedies to be analyzed. This was Munyon's Blood every Englishman should want her Cure. The claims for it were 'Munyon's Blood Cure will positively cure all forms of scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum, eczema, pimples, syphili tic affections, mercurial taints, blotches, liver spots, tetter and skin diseases.' When analyzed by the Government chemists this prom ising remedy guaranteed to cure nearly all skin affections, and therefore presumedly a veritable godsend, was found to consist simply of sugar.

A favorite device has been to use saints' names or in some way to connect their remedies with the legends of the healing powers of the saints. Priests' names have been used to give medicines vogue, and as a consequence not long since we had the spectacle of a dear old dead priest's name, Father John of Lowell, being dragged through the Federal Courts done by hand. because a remedy said to have been recommended by him was declared to be sold under claims that were false and fraudulent. Over four thousand bottles of Father John's medicine were seized by the Federal authorities on the charge that the give $10.00 a month as long as the product was misbranded. Themanufacturers withdrew their answers to $1,000. the charge, and the court entered a judgment of condemnation and for-feiture with payment of all the cost of the proceedings and the execution of a bond in the sum of five thousand dollars.

How long will the press of this country continue to be partners of the proprietary medicine people? When journalism is ready to admit that it knows how much of fraud it and humanity which compelled our has countenanced and encouraged and fostered and really made possi-ble in the past, and refuses to do so no other course open to us but that end of this flagrant imposition on "Render to Casar the things that are tion of religious elements that en-Cæsar's, and to God the things that courages such a fraud on the public. are God's," and St. Paul, following None can afford to take money for the steps of his Master, says: "Let helping in the carrying on of a fraud. every soul be subject to the higher Without advertising these imposimore so than now when the War the front on the nights of September makes the prevention of wastes of all kinds absolutely incumbent upon all the members of the community in the Catholic World.

> A CHAPLAIN IN THE TRENCHES ANOINTED 100 WOUNDED IN THE DARK

> Here is one consoling evidence'of now well the work of the Catholic chaplains at the front is done, ardu ous as it is. It is from some jottings by a chaplain given in the London

'The Catholic chaplain's work is always arduous, and often requires a good deal of tact. I heard of one colonel telling a chaplain that he could not have the men on Sunday, as they were out to fight and not to at Niles, Ill., and the money, collected Many in high places are oftdo so, to persuade all Americans that times unbelievers, or agnostics, and only exhibit a want of interest caring for the Catholic dependent without actually putting obstacles in the way of Sunday Mass and the Sacraments. Times and places have to be arranged for Mass, men have to be ferreted out and given all particulars, and many disappointents often precede ultimate success. This is not the experience of an individual chaplain. It is the common story; but the work How well you may judge from this. Among a batch of wounded men some 100 were Catholics of Irish regiments. I went round them, and as it was too and sincere appreciation of your dark to distinguish serious wounds letter of Oct. 6? It has brought me from light, I anointed all. I asked cheer and reassurance, and I want each how long it was since he had you to know how much I appreciate been to the Sacraments, and every single man save one of those I asked

CATHOLIC NOTES

The Rev. Thomas à Kempis Reilly, of the Dominican Order, Columbus, O., has been appointed professor of Sacred Scripture at the Dominican International College, Rome.

It is announced in a cablegram from Rome that the Very Rev. John J. Cantwell, Vicar General of the archdiocese of San Francisco, Cal., has been appointed Bishop of Los

The underground passages in the Roman catacombs have been recent-ly determined to be 580 miles in extent, and to contain 15,000,000 bodies.

The new electric clock of Boston's new custom house is one of the largest electric installations in the coun try. The dial is twenty-one feet in diameter and the longest hand is thirteen feet six inches long. A shelter home for boys will be opened at West Randolph and North Desplaines street, Chicago, month, under the patronage of Arch bishop Mandelein and the auspices of La Salle Assembly, Fourth Degree,

The President has selected Mr. William Gwyn Gardiner, a known lawyer, as one of the three commissioners who manage the affairs of the District of Columbia. He is a graduate of Georgetown University and a Knight of Columbus.

He is forty-two years of age. It was proposed to sell the 213-yearold Cathedral of Columbus in Havana, Cuba, and in which were the relics of Columbus, but the proposal aroused such protest that in all probability the government will take it over and convert it into a museum. The Historical Academy of Cuba saved it. The Jesuits built it in 1704.

A stone inkstand at least 100 years old is the latest curio to be added to the Memorial Building at Hardwick, Vt. It is about two inches square and two inches deep. The boring of the stone appears to have all been

Amongst the prominent non-Catholics who have contributed to the K. of C. Camp Fund, may be menioned Mr. Bryan and Mr. J. D. Rockefeller, Jr. The former promised to War lasts, and the latter gave

Austin. Texas, bas a plant which runs full capacity each day, turning out oakoal, which is made from the city garbage, waste paper, old shoes, rags, etc. The new fuel sells at $6.50 a ton and is said to burn as long and to give off as much heat as the best bituminous lump coal, relieving the city of all waste material.

At the opening of the Italian War with Germany 120 seminarists were summoned to bear arms from the seminary of Bergamo, North Italy, mostly mountaineers. Ninety these have fallen in battle. As the Freemasons of Italy are airing their importance, the question is asked: Is there any Masonic institute in Italy that has lost 75% of its mem bers ? Captain William Archer Redmond, son of John Redmond, M. P., Chairman of the Irish Parliamentary party, impositions of this kind, and never Service Order for gallant conduct at Capt. Redmond is M. P. for East Tyrone.

When he applied for passports into Mexico at El Paso, Texas, recently, Rev. Gabriel Zepenni was informed by the Mexican consul, G. M. Seguin, that no Catholic clergyman is permitted to enterthat country from the United States or from any other country. Seguin said he has instructions from the Carranza Government to refuse passports to priests.

Ten thousand five hundred dollars was the contents of a purse which recently was presented to Archbishop Mundelein, D. D., of Chicago, by the Polish Courts' Representatives' Asso ciation of the Catholic Order of Foresters. The purse was presented on the grounds of the Polish Manual Training School for Boys and St Hedwig's Industrial School for Girls by the Polish Foresters, was their gift to these institutions which are children of Polish descent of Chicago.

A small silver crucifix which he wore suspended from his neck probably saved the life of Robert McGuire a railroad watchman in St. Louis a few days ago. Noticing two strange men prowling in the railroad yards, McGuire commanded them to throw up their hands. Instead of obeying, they opened fire at McGuire, one of the shots striking the crucifix, the bullet falling to the ground.

Back to the good old fashioned and reverential way of praying-on bended knees—is now being advocated by many of the Methodists of New Jersey. At a camp meeting at Pittman, that State, recently, the Rev. E. A. Robin son, former pastor of the Pittman Methodist Church, delivered a sermon in which he urged his hearers to pray on bended knees instead of in a sitting position.

AMBITION'S CONTEST

BY CHRISTINE FABER

CHAPTER XXXIV THE FULFILMENT OF "LOVE'S YOUNG

DREAM" Two years had passed since the return of the brother and sister, and Ellen Courtney, no longer very youthful, but as lovely as ever both in character and person, was still an inmate of her parent's home. Gossip found a very prolific theme in the indifference which she manifested to all suitors, and made itself exceeding. ly anxious to know if she intended to adopt a conventual life; but, caring little for the comments which her conduct might occasion, she pursued her course, God and her own heart alone being aware of the secret sorrow which she still endured. metimes Malverton Grosvenor's image rose before her in a manner that required minutes to put it away and recover her wonted calm resignation, and at such times wild thoughts would flash into her mind that something must occur to cause Malverton to know the true circumstances in the case; but even such thoughts were destined to receive their death blow, for Howard came in one day with the news of Lord Grosvenor's Ellen grew pale and faintfor with the nobleman's decease died all her hopes of Malverton ever knowing.

Courtney was full of inquiries, but Howard was unable to satisfy them. He had not heard from Malverton. His news was only a report gleaned from the press; so the matter rested, and Ellen stifled her anguish in secret and silence. day, three months after Howard had communicated that news, he suddenly entered his sister's room.

She started up in some alarm. "I did not know you were in the house," she hastened to say by way of apology.

"I have something for you," he said, holding up what appeared to be a letter, and then she noticed that he was strangely excited.

She extended her hand for it; he still withheld it, and at length, as if he imagined he had tired her patience sufficiently, he caught her to him, and said, with an expression in his face which made her heart beat wildly

'My faithful, faithful sister!" He released her, leaving the missive in her grasp, and turned away as if to conceal some emotion. But in a moment a cry made him turn back -a wild, glad cry, and Ellen flew to his extended arms, sobbing from the very plenitude of joy.

Well might she be happy! That letter was from Lord Grosvenor himself, one of the last penned by that nobleman prior to his death, and contained an entire release of Ellen from her promise!

Then Howard gently acquainted her with further good news-Malverton himself was below! The tidings rendered her so weak that she was obliged to cling to her brother, to lean on his arm while she descended-she wanted to fly, but her trembling limbs had scarcely power At last she stood in the doorway of the parlor—some one rose from converse with her parents ome one advanced to meet her. her blurred vision could not rightly see who, but in another moment her hands lay in the passionate grasp of Father, mother and brother, deeming that meeting too sacred for their presence, withdrew, and Malverton only waited the subsiding of Ellen's emotion when he repeated to her what he had already told Howard and Mr. and Mrs. Courtney.

When Howard had been arrested in Ireland, Malverton, pleading for him to Lord Grosvenor, discovered fully the latter's implacable hatred to the Goaded by his father's stern denials to interest himself in Howard's behalf, Malverton, in the heat of passion and despair, avowed his attachment for, and his inten-tions towards Miss Courtney. That alarmed the peer-he could endure his son's death rather than permit him to marry a Catholic, and he immediately devised the scheme by which he might thwart Malverton's resolution. He knew, from his pre vious conception of Ellen Courtney's character, that she would suffer death rather than break her word, and acting upon that knowledge, he exacted the promise which had so cruelly wrung her heart. He was careful afterwards to speak of the Courtneys in such a manner that Malverton could have no suspicion of what had happened, and not till the nobleman was on his death-bed, did his son know the cause of Ellen Courtney's inexplicable conduct Then the peer, touched by the filial affection which had forced its way to his dying bedside to beg a last bless ing, though debarred from a father' heart and a father's home for over two years, received Malverton and imparted the confidence which told the latter how his happiness had been wrecked. But Lord Grosvenor was anxious to effect reparation, and for that purpose he gave into his son's hand the letter which released Ellen Courtney from her promise. But though Lord Grosvenor became thus conciled to all which he had so bitterly opposed, no influence could alter his own religious convictionshe died as he had lived, and Malverton, preferring to be himself the bearer of his good news, had restrained his impatience till the settlement of affairs after his father's death permitted him to hasten to her whose image had never left his mind.

So everything was explained, and once more "Love's Young Dream" shed its golden beauty on those two tried and faithful hearts.

Gotham had an unusual sensation. Select and elegant circles had a sub ject with which the ears of American aristocracy love to be tingled-the marriage of an American lady with a gentleman of title—and little was heard, at least among the feminine portion of the élite, but that which concerned the approaching nuptials of Miss Courtney and Lord Malverton Grosvenor. He had spent the year of mourning for his father in New York, the great of the Court in New York, the guest of the Courtneys, and as each day unfolded more and more to him the lovely character of her he was about to espouse, his impatience increased for the arrival of the happy time. Pure-minded Ellen! With her ustomary piety she was thinking of the responsibilities which her new state would impose, as well as of the happiness it would bring her, and when, on the evening preceding the day appointed for the ceremony, mother and daughter held a long, sweet converse, the former felt how little necessity there was to counsel this Heaven-inspired girl.

You will not," she said, clasping Ellen to her, " give to your husband the idolatrous love I gave to mine. In my heart the creature was firstfirst. The very prayers I uttered, in my time of suffering, were wrung from me by the love of the creature, and yet, Almighty God granted my wish. Oh! wonderful love that gratifies us even when we are not seeking Him."

Mother and daughter bowed their heads in a mental tribute to Him Who had so strangely guided and

The wedding ceremony was all for which the most fastidious could wish. The bride was superbly beautiful, the bridegroom so handsome, and, especially, so distingué, that, alas! envy! sadly disturbed the hearts of some of the fair ones present.

The couple were to depart immediately for the old world, where Malverton's presence had been for some time required, and when father and mother had been lingeringly and tenderly embraced, the newly-made wife turned to Howard. The brother tenderly loved, so wonderfully, and, as it were, miraculously reclaimed, the object of so many prayers, and tears, and sacrifices, it seemed almost harder to leave him than to part from her parents. Evidently the same thoughts were actuating his mind, for he folded his arms about her, and while the tears, of which he was not ashamed, streamed down his cheeks, he murmured softly:

Oh Ellen! my precious, precious Years have passed. Lady Grosvenor divides her useful time be-tween London and New York, but she does not forget Ireland-there her benevolence finds its freest scope. Once, when on the continent with her husband, she met in a French convent a face which she strove in vain to recall, till the owner of the countenance said in French : You do not recognize me-I am Vinnette! It was indeed Vinnette-but Vinnette with so sweet, so pure, so peace ful a countenance, that she reminded one of some of those seraphic repreentations of a martyred saint. A few days after, in one of the emeteries of Paris, Lady Grosvenor beheld a tombstone, which, from the inscription upon it, she had little doubt marked the last resting place of her old friend, Mrs. Boland, and it was with tears in her eyes she knelt to murmur a prayer for the departed soul. stopped by an accident which had just occurred. With her customar benevolence, seeking to know if the poor victim was an object of charity, she encountered a strangely familiar face, but this time a moment's look was sufficient to tell her that the wretched man who lay before her was Taggart—Taggart of the old and painful club days. Her purse opened more freely, and the poor wretch lived long enough to know that he was supported by the bounty of her on whom at one time he sought to inflict dire injury. The husband and wife, so long and so cruelly separated, are models of conjugal affection; and the reverend Howard Courtney has lost none of the fervid piety with which he first entered upon the duties of his sacred vocation-his zeal for souls, his tender charity for the erring, increase with every day of his priestly experience; and, as his early youth had been devoted to Ambition's Contest and the delusive charms of Intellect without Faith, so now is the prime of his manhood given to the promulga tion of that Faith which alone can insure a right use of God's gifts.

THE END

REWARDED HUNDREDFOLD

" Holy Scripture gives a beautiful structors unto justice.

Visitor.

ALL ON THE BROWN KNOWE

By Seumas MacManu

Michael Connolly was now warm and well-to-do-trig and snug, as we say, with a faithful little wife and five rosy-cheeked children, twenty acres of prime land lying along the bottom of Cronaraid Moun Though, indeed, one strip of this land, the Stony Park, tore away from the remainder, and sprang up the side of a hill for the length of long gunshot, enclosing within its upper limit the one little green upper patch of the whole hillside, the choice dancing-ground of the fairies of Cronaraid, with its little well whose waters were sweet, and which was called though in Gaelic-The Fairy Bowl. With his dear little wife Mary, and his five chubby children, and his snug farm, Michael should have been, and was, a happy man, as well as a prosperous. To be happy and prosperous he well deserved, for he was a model to the parish, a com fort to the sorely tried heart of Father Luke, and preeminently a religious man, whose fervent prayer in trial ever was, "Thy will, O Lord,

'Twas had else had I no story. under the Fairy Bowl that the cause of his trouble lay. At the bottom of this little basin of water—as all the world knows, and as anyone can find for himself by testing with his umbrella, and as anyone may often-times see laid bare, when in the summer the well goes dry—is a great broad flag-an unusual well-bottom, but be it remembered that this was a fairy well-a great, broad flag that as all the world again, and particularly the parish of Kilachtee, knows) covers a crock of gold that was hidden there about two thousand years ago by an old pagan, who at the same time left an ugly big serpent to guard it. This fellow had done his work well and faithfully, having now for two thousand years, day and night, embraced the crock with many coils, quitting his charge only for five minutes on the morning every Sunday and holiday—the five minutes of the Elevation during Mass in the chapel of Kilachtee, which stands in full view, and lies only half a mile away from the well. During these sacred minutes, the monster, free to quit his charge, uncoils himself, and by way of an underground brooklet makes rapid journey down the hillside to the stream below, returning larger immediately-a weekly walk for exercise merely. It was this crock of gold that at one period of his life weighted for years Michael Connolly's soul, threatening the happiness that had always een his, and certainly undermining it, had not his good angel suddenly and surprisingly saved him in the manner which this story concerneth. That the crock of gold, with its demon guardian, lay securely under the flag beneath the Fairy Bowl was beyond a doubt; for any aged man in the parish could tell you that the fact was an admitted one in his barefoot days four score years before, and had been, too, in the like days of his father, and of his father's father; and on account of the demon that dwelt in serpent shape beneath the pleasantly set Fairy Bowl, the Fairy Bowl was dreaded and shunned then as now. All his days, of course, Michael had known well of the existence of this treasure upon his land; yet it had not given him Again, in the streets of London, much concern. It was there, and it was not meant for human hands; Again, in the streets of was not meant to the toiled and that was sufficient. He toiled and moiled, gathering gold in the way in which it brings most benefit and least bane in its train. But at length, when, through his own persever ance and the kindliness of his soil, he attained that height of enviable affluence where a man may sport an unpatched broadcloth coat, Sunday holiday, fair day and market, and look with pardonable pity upon less fortunate, more bepatched neighbors, whom, cheerily saluting, crock of gold. It was pity to have so much good wealth going to waste, of no benefit whatsoever to the old pent which guarded it, any more of yellow gold lay on his land only a few spades deep beneath the surface. What good might not Michael do if he had in his possession this hoard? Good to all his poor neighbors around him; to the chapel that sorely needed a new roof; to Father Luke whose black coat was very green; and to the world-wide-not to mention of course, the direct benefit resulting from it to Michael Conassured, weighed least with himthough to be sure, there was a neat commendation to teachers of religion when it says. They who instruct many unto justice shall shine as stars for all eternity. They who perform faithfully and conscientious the world was going ill with him, ly the office of teaching Catechism and it would be mighty pleasant if to the little ones of the flock of Christ are certainly to be included ing this, of doubling his landed posin the Scriptural category of in sessions; and there was a field of They are working for eternity of a field, of course, but still a fieldand whatever sacrifice may be entailed in giving up an hour or two each week to the performance of a any man had the pluck to dar' him duty voluntarily assumed for the with a neat price; and there was—shot of the chapel—since there was uable addition to any man's little farm. It would delight Michael's heart also, to see little Patrick (his O'Gallagher's goat, which was taking eldest) made into a priest-but it a delicious lunch off a heather bush would take money to do that. And till, coming near the top of it, he little Johneen, too, was destined for threw himself down full length in paths of jurisprudence; for Michael had often noticed with stealthy his eyes that he might properly laze admiration that, no matter what without any discomfort, and pursue little gifts in the way of either the absorbing train of thought on sweets or toys or else came into the possession of the other children of an evening, little Johneen owned sor of that crock of gold, how happy them all in the morning; and money he would be, as well as beneficent would certainly be most useful in But, alas, sure he had looked at it in developing Johneen's marvelous every light, and tried every contriv-legal talent. Altogether, money was ance, and was now forced to the coning it up to be. It was at the time that Manis Mac-Laughlin of Magheramore, who astonished his neighbors by building impossible—or nearly impossible-

a house with a dozen windows and purchasing farm after farm of land, that Michael, who never gave the matter a thought before, began to brood upon the great wealth which was so temptingly within his reach -so temptingly within it, and yet so tantalizingly beyond it. During the one little space of time each week when an enterprising man might with impunity lift the crock of religious man, such as Michael, dare very outcasts of the parish who des-Christian house would harbor them,) missing Mass-missing, too, that most sacred part of it which was the time chosen by the wily serpent for taking his weekly saunter. Farrel McKeown, the ne'er-do well, it is true, purposely remained away from order that when the coast was clear, he might steal the loan of Mick Meehan's game rooster for the Cock-Tuesday fights in Killymard. But if he did, Father Luke gave him Carrigna-Mlaguard for it three successive Sundays, making him journey hatless and shoeless to Carrig na. Mlguard, or the Blackguard's Rock, and kneel there, telling his sin to an unsympathetic congregation filing past, and in plaintive voice beseeching their prayers. This price was too dear, even to an outcast, for the luxury of missing Mass. Michael's case, the pious principles of the man were deterrent enough, not to speak of his moral prestige in the parish.

He sought for long to find a way of compassing the crock without incurring the contingent sin. He tried attending the Mass which in the neighboring chapel was cele-brated an hour earlier than that appointed for the Mass in Killachtee. This scheme failed him; for though he quitted the Ballagh chapel the moment the priest had reached the whose cow is in a hole, and though, likewise, Father Luke never stickled on the point of punctuality, but During the tedious age-mortals had past Patrick, who, delayed Mass until even the laggards | reckoned it by minutes — that then and perspiring, coatless and breath-less, always perceived — for the Kilhim, and a goodly portion of the firm as a vise, holding fast his descongregation ever knelt, for fresh air and for freedom's sake, outside time with Father Luke, and the The instant their falling serpent had again encoiled the prize indicated the arrival of the sacred which he had striven for as strenuously as a runner at Olympia. Yet him, Michael was furiously tearing it is highly creditable to Michael's at the ground with pick and spade Lord, not mine be done !"

He thought and planned, contrived and recontrived, ever unsuccessfuly, till at last, from being one of the most cheery and companionable of men, even an unsuspicious parish was beginning to ask had anything come over Michael Connolly, or was he passes on the way. Michael's he going to become a brooder—for mind, mysteriously enough, began to surely the world wasn't again' him, mind, mysteriously enough, began to surely the world wasn't again' him, run more and more upon the hidden and trouble coming down on him. Michael knew well he was a changed man himself. But he meant, with God's help, that he would soon be his pagan who owned it, or to the ser- old self again-and something better -as soon, in short, as he got that than to the world at large. It was wonderful to think that such a pile But until that was accomplished he But until that was accomplished he could not keep the thought of it from his mind, strive as he would. Not even (God forgive him! and contritely Michael uttered it), during his prayers-what time his head was sure to be running on the crock.

So matters were coursing when Michael found himself sauntering to Mass on Easter Sunday-of all days -turning over again in his head for the ten thousandth time a new con-This latter, Michael felt trivance for securing the crock of gold and happiness evermore. It was a warm, bright, lovely Sunday morning, with blackbirds whistling in the hedges, and the brook running in the glen, and the young people airily and merrily tripping past him, decked out in their gayest. But to these gay sounds and sights Michael's heart did not thrill as once it used to do. The merry voices of der, let his great armful of the passersby jarred on his ear, and riches drop back to its bed again, Jimminy Hegarty's-no great things | the genial heat of the day oppressed his frame; so that, when he sake of the Church and its religion and for the sake of souls, must bring the reward of a hundredfold of which the reward of a hundredfold of the reward of a h yet plenty of time and to spare be-fore Mass began, rather than mingle raise a mortal grand crop of potatoes and which would make a very valcheerily for him around the chapelmonster, fastened to his flying coatwood wonder was supplanted by subdued the Saviour spoke." — Providence raise a mortal grand crop of potatoes bors who would be chatting too gate, he toiled up the Knowe, past its tails and streaming behind, heavily one solitary occupant (to wit, Manis face of the sun, pulling his hat over which he had been engaged.

Oh, if only he could become posses far from being the ill thing that those who needed it were for the delectation of these who had it means of obtaining it-not any possible means, that is, short of missing Mass-which, of course, was utterly or very hard, at least. When, however, one permitted one self the hazardous pleasure of dwelling upon that impossible possibility, what a gorgeous castle one could raise—a crimeful castle, of course—bad as Blue Beard's - still undoubtedly a gorgeous one. Ay, if only this great too profound to admit of their acting crime were not a crime! If a man could once-only once-remain away As Michael was blessed, his trials were few. But one great trouble he gold from under the Fairy Bowl, a never missed Mass in all his the head with their sticks as life before, since he came to years of not be there to do it. Even the discretion! If only a man who had never missed Mass before, and who ecrated the Lord's day by playing had resolved never to miss it again, the sluggish wheels of these people's cards for horny buttons at the back could for once—only one single little minds. He cursed them — Michael of a windy ditch, (for, of course, no time-remain away, thereby enriching himself, and securing his happidare not be guilty of the crime of ness for all time — in this world, of missipg Mass—missing, too, that course that is! When one came to think of it, if a man, even at cost of one little sin, acquired enormous Farrel wealth, could he not redeem his debt ten times over-ay, a hundred times over-with the wealth he Mass one day, five years before, in should become possessed of, giving, say, as much as a quarter of the money to God's poor, and another quarter of it scattering chapels to the sarpint, Michael!" Michael His honor all over the face of the wished in his heart that he only country, and living a rich, happy, contented, virtuous, religious man upon the other half himself! Put defeat upon the devil by flight, fervent curse at his following, while is a wise maxim surely. It is ill to he strenuously strove for increase play with forbidden thoughts. Sudof speed; but the tug behind redenly crying out, "I'll do it-this strained his career, he thought, ever once!' science should overtake him ere he jure, committed - which lachtee chapel was just over against the rocks above, and with teeth set perate resolve leant forward over the door-that 'twas after Elevation eyes on the Killachtee congregation. forward amid the clouds of debris which again, however, and filled the air around. But at length he had unbound the great flag at the well-bottom, and, for the min utes were too rapidly passing, throwing himself hurriedly on his knees, the while big beads of sweat came rolling from his brow, hurried glance, he was wrestled with it. It came with him. golden pieces, every one of them the have been imposed, now size of a silver crown, and the rich butter, calmly sitting there, unguarded, awaiting the human hand there, Michael Connolly!" to lift it!

I said he was dazzled, I might rise him from his knees; he had not yet power to move one muscle-but it was delicious paralysis, during which he could feel the tears of joy crushing at his eyelids. Like a lightning flash struck him the thought of time and the serpent! And instantly he was himself again. He bent over the crock and laid his arms lovingly around it, enteringoh. Heaven !- into joyful possession! His ecstasy was interrupted by a terrific tug at his tail. He threw a hasty glance over his shouland lifted up his voice in frightful scream! For the serpent had come up unawares from behind, and laid hold upon his coat-tail!

He had delayed a minute too long. The joy of his possession had proved his undoing. He was on his feet in the fraction of a second, and flying afar over the country, but with the weighting him. He could see its dire, sinuous form each time he cast over his shoulder a fearful glance Halt, stop, or delay meant death, chance of safety lay in speed, which would keep it at a safe distance once he allowed his coat-tails to leaning still further forward to bal ance the pull behind, but with head thrown back and eyes starting forth anticipating his tardy feet-to impatient soul they seemed tardy that were truly fleet—he flew, as flies the hare, straight ahead, down the hillside, across the valley, up the opposite slope, unto the highway led past Killachtee

Michael,

when they were in good time senseless amadans who so shouted.

He turned his head and flung

As he neared the chapel and the kneeling congregation, he cried out with all his might that they might be ready to relieve Disturbed in their devotions, they turned heads over shoulder, and were seized with wondrous amaze sight of wild-eyed, speeding, and shouting, as he sped, from the serpent sailing behind. But their amazement was with the promptitude that the cir cumstances demanded. They should have knocked the cursed animal on passed-a thing which, unluckily, no man had presence of mind to and, alas, Michael could not wait on minds. He cursed them — Michael Connolly, who had never breathed banned word before !- and swept on. They got again their presence mind, when they were in good t to be late; for, immediately he had passed, Michael heard their wild cries in pursuit, and he could know in bitterness of heart that they were now brandishing sticks and doing doughty deeds against harmless air. And when they cried after Stop, stop, till we get a crack at sarpint, Michael!' gould stop to get a crack at

Michael sprang to his feet, more and more. Away up the road, his face toward Cronaraid and he beheld Patrick McGloan hacking the Fairy Bowl, tore down the Brown at the hedge with a bill-hook, even Knowe, and literally flew in that though it was the Sabbath day; and direction—flew—for fear his con Michael rejoiced for that Patrick's sin might now be his salvation. had reaped the benefit from the sin He yelled upon Patrick as he came near; the congregation still more would be pitiable mismanagement. loudly yelled upon Patrick. One He went by his own house, well directed blow of Patrick's billhook would give to Michael the life gripped a pick and spade there, and shouldering them, sped onward bounding up the Stony Park, and stopped not till he stood beside the Michael, to his mortification, beheld Fairy Bowl, which, today, after a Patrick bound into the middle of the fortnight's drouth, was dry as his own hearthstone. He gasped, trying to recover his breath; he looked Patrick must think him gone mad, trimmings, and ran like a man away toward the chapel and saw and the people pursuing to put him that the congregation were dropping into the strait waistcoat. Michael to their knees after the first gospel. strait waistcoat. Michael seeing bounded to that side getting directly (to whom he gave a reception with intervened before he observed the in his course again. There was only his stick) lumbered in, when he arrived at the Fairy Bowl, panting and perspiring, coatless and breath-these always never index of the Kill best always never index of the Kil he thought it waked echoes among rick, ramming him in the stomach. Clearing his curled up body at a bound, he continued his fleet career. Manis O'Gallagher, who was clean the spade handle, his protruding ing out his byre when the shouting reached and roused him, got before Michael with a graip; and Eamon O'Beirne stationed himself in the moments - moments pregnant for way, somewhat farther on, armed with a scythe. Good Mrs. Bridget Boyle, still farther on his course, religious principles that under such trying circumstances he could (as he and troublesome, but he found he the tailor, came forth with lapboard the tailor, came forth with lapboard the tailor, came forth with lapboard to the tailor, came to the t came out with a pot-stick; Terry, ten men's strength. So made —all bent upon deeds of derring do. But all of them ingloriously bit the brow, and say aloud as best he could he stone and clay fly that an on- breathlessness. Thy will, O looker might not discern his figure dust—in each case quickly arising throwing them into the pursuit. Behind him now was babel. But suddenly rising over 'it, sharp and clear, he heard a "Hi! hi! hi! there!" that was from none other than Father Luke. · Casting back a surprised to find that Father Luke, And, at the sight disclosed his eyes on whose start a handicap in favor were dazzled—dazzled! A crock of of his congregation must necessarily was waving his stick and calling in color of his wife Mary's yellow the imperative tones of a pastor butter, calmly sitting there, now accustomed to obedience, "Hi!hi! accustomed to obedience, pastor or no pastor, Michael could not halt. The weight at his tail have said he was dazed. Because for the space of several minutes he Instead of obeying, he bent him for could only gloat over the elbow deep renewed exertion. Yet Father Luke crock of yellow pieces, which were to make Michael Connolly a prince foot) had in another minute overon earth. He could not yet reach hauled him. A powerful whack of out to lift the crock; he could not the priest's stick apprised Michael of the fact; and, at the same time, the priest's voice, in his ear, saying to him angrily: "It's to Carrig na Mlaguard you'll march for this, my lad! Slumber-ing like a sloth, and bellowing like a calf, on the Brown Knowe, while the holy sacrifice of the Mass is sup-posed to be celebratin. And the remnants of the tails ate out of your new broadcloth coat, too, by Manis O'Gallagher's goat—who'd have got a taste of yourself likewise (and the divil's cure to you !) if I hadn't hap pened along just in the nick of time Up with ye!" and he gave Michael who, in sitting posture, was rubbing his eyes and trying to collect his senses, a sounding whack in the ribs that lifted him to his feet, and sent him down the Brown Knowe in quick time, and scurring along the road to the chapel. The congregation wondered why Michael Connolly looked so dazed as

Phone Main 6249. After Hours: Hillcrest 3813 Society of St. Vincent de Paul Bureau of Information

Special Attention Cast off Clother Given to Employment Always in Demand 25 Shuter St. TORONTO

St. Ierome's College Founded 1864 KITCHENER, ONT.

Excellent Business College Department, Excellent High School or Academic Department Excellent College and Philosophical Department Address: REV. A. L. ZINGER, C.R., PH.D., PRESIDENT

AUTOMOBILES, LIVERY, GARAGE R. HUESTON & SONS Livery and Garage. Open Day and Night.
479 to 483 Richmond St. 580 Wellington Phone 423 Phone 441

FINANCIAL

THE ONTARIO LOAN & DEBENTURE CO'S Capital Paid Up, $1,750,000. Reserve $1,450,000
Deposits received, Debentures issued, Reside Loans made. John McClary, Pres.; A. M. Smart, Mgr. Offices: Dundas St., Corner Market Lane, London

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

FOY. KNOX & MONAHAN Hon. J. J. Poy, K.C., A.E.Knox, T. Louis Monahas E. L. Middleton George Keough Cable Address: "Foy" Telephones (Main 794 Main 798 Offices: Continental Life Buildin CORNER BAY AND RICHMOND STREETS
TORONTO

> H. L. O'ROURKE, B.A. (Also of Ontario Bar)
> BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, NOTARY Suite 5, Board of Trade Building
> 231 Eighth Avenue West
> CALGARY, ALBERT

OHN T. LOFTUS Barrister, Solicitor, Notary, Etc. 712 TEMPLE BUILDING TORONTO Telephone Main 632

REILLY, LUNNEY & LANNAN Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Money to Loan Clifford B. Reilly, B.A., LL.B., Harry W. Lunney, B.A., B.C.L., Alphonsus Lannan, LL.B.

Burns Block, Phone M - 3433 CALGARY, ALBERTA. P. O. Drawer 1365 Special facilities for correspondence in French

DENTISTS

DR. BRUCE E. EAID Room 5, Dominion Bank Chambers
Cor. Richmond and Dundas Sts. Phone $889

Hotel St. Charles

On the beach front, entire block, St. Charles Place to New Jersey Avenue, Capacity 500, with 12 story fire-proof addition.

Sun parlors and enclosed porches, Hot and cold sea water in all baths. Orchestra of soloists, Special fall and winter rates, Golf privileges, Automobile bus meets all trains. Booklet upon request.

NEWLIN-HAINES CO.

Atlantic City, N. J.

Funeral Directors

John Ferguson & Sons 180 KING ST. The Leading Undertakers & Embala Open Night and Day

Telephone - House 373 Factory 868

E. C. Killingsworth FUNERAL DIRECTOR Open Day and Night

583 Richmond St. Phone 3970

Of Every Description Martin Nealon

rs Lights Bells A Telephones, Speaking Tubes PHONE COLL. 1650 342 HURON ST. TORONTO

known of the conflicting emotions that held him both then and through. out all the Mass—the anguished under the action of their judicial horror of all he had come through in power: and He promised, in a most the five minutes that he had slum-bered on the Brown Knowe, and the all-as painful joy for that it was not But as minute after minute lapsed, the joy of escape outweighed more and more the horror-so much so, indeed, that had Father Luke put threat into execution, and sent him hatless, shoeless, to kneel at Carrig na Mlaguard, beseeching the sympathy of a jeering congregation, he felt he could have done so with delight swelling at his heart. As he walked home, breathing air that was as wine, the beautiful sense of relief that pervaded every nerve in his body made him utterly oblivious of the discourse directed at him by passing neighbors, and the smiles and sneers alike-even the hilarious laughter of rude youths, who elbowed their fellows, directing attention to Michael Connolly's chewed-off coattails. He said to himself a hundred times, "It was a warning, Michael, it was a warning. Thauk God for it! You have done once and for all, now, with that crock of cursed gold in under the Fairy Bowl, and you're goin' to be happy again."

It is true that his good wife, Mary, raged, questioning him, when he entered home in his curtailed coat. But even Mary's rage was almost a joy to him now. He drew his arms from out the coat, leaving it with her, strode up to the room which was the kitchen, closed the door behind him, and then knelt down, bowing his head above clasped hands, and in angelic resignation praying : Lord, Thy will, not mine, be done!"— his eye inadvertently glanced through the window, up the Stony Park, and rested on the pleasant green spot which encircled the Fairy Bowl; and thereupon shaking his head sorrowfully, as he dropped back to human plane, he added, in undertone, to himself-not the Lord -"though it is mortal shame it should be so."

CONFESSION

The inclination to sin is universal. Man is a sinful creature. Ever since the fall of man, in the Garden of Eden, the wickedness of men has been great. The inclination to sin exists in the just man, after his regeneration through baptism, as well as in the unregenerated pagan; and through passion and temptation it leads the greater portion of mankind to rebel against their Maker, and to transgress His law.

Did Christ, the Founder of Christianity, leave us any visible, palpable remedy against sin, against all sin? Did Christ leave to His ministering Church the power of pardoning sin committed after baptism? And, if He left such power, is it not a logical sequence that those whose sins are be forgiven should confess them to the priests of His Church?

Most Christians, non Catholics as well as Catholics, admit that Christ's mission to the world was chiefly two-He came, first, to destroy error and to teach all truth. Secondly, to do away with sin, and to establish the empire of virtue in its stead. These may be called the fundamental objects of Christ's coming and, therefore, the fundamental objects of Christianity, of the Church, as a divine institution. Both these objects He came to realize in a visible, palpable manner. These objects were to be the objects of Christianity long as it would exist on the earth. And according to Christ's promises Christianity was to exist till the end of time; therefore those objects remain to be realized by Christianity till this day and till the end of time. And if there is no evidence of a change in the original plan of their realization they continue to be realized in a sensible, visible form—the very same as He established it from the beginning of Christianity. Christ did not leave the knowledge of truth to the decision of the individual intellect. He established a living, an authoritative, an infallible tribunal, which was to guide men into all truth, and free them from all error opposed to the doctrines of Is it natural to suppose salvation. that He left the manner of atoning for sin, the manner of getting rid of it, to the arbitrary will of every individual sinner? Did He leave to the will of every individual sinner to judge the dispositions and conditions efficacious repentance? Or, did He appoint a ministry with power to take cognizance of the sins committed, of the conditions and dispositions of true repentance, and invest them with the power to apply or to retain the pardon for those sins? Christ gave to His Apostles the full and exclusive power of forgiving and retaining whatsoever sins might be committed by men after baptism. This He did when He laid down as a last resource, to convert an offending brother, that they should tell the Church, and enjoined that if such offender would not hear the Church, they should let him be to them as the heathen and the publican. (St. Matthew xviii. 17). And He added: Amen, I say to you, whatsoever you shall bind upon earth shall be bound also in heaven; and whatsoever you shall loose upon earth shall be loosed also in heaven." (St. Matthew xviii.,

The power of binding and loosing supposes bonds. What bonds? Not physical bonds. Spiritual bonds.

amazement when they got a glimpse of his rear. They would not have wondered at Michael's look had they of His Church, on His Apostles, the two-fold power of binding and loosing whatsoever sins might be brought

He died on the Cross. By His sufferings and death He paid the ransom for all sin; not however, so that man might then, as long as the world lasted, go on and sin, and never repent, and know himself saved beforehand. That is the most unreasonable view which forms the basis of most non Catholic religions. Man still had free-will; he still has it; he will have it always. He can throw back the merits of Christ in the face of God; and he does, only too frequently; Christ reconciled God and man; He alone could pay the debt; for He is God and man; and man alone could never satisfy God's justice for sin.

The price was paid; and God accepted; but the acceptance was on conditions; and it remained for man to keep these conditions with God's help; and that help was to be given according to God's plan. The merits of Christ's Blood were to be applied to the souls of those for whom He shed it; applied according to a method ordained by God.

What is that method? Is it that every sinner, by faith and hope, by repentance and sorrow, shall apply Christ's Blood himself and be the judge of the conditions and personal dispositions required in the applica-By no means. The Redeemer willed that these merits of His re-deeming Blood should come to sinful man through the visible, external channel of the Sacrament of Penance, which He instituted for that purpose, and that His Apostles and their successors should be the dispensers of this wholesome remedy, the judges of the dispositions with which it was to be received by the applicants.

Non-Catholics usually dispose of the question of confession in a very simple manner, which begs the whole question, without even a pretence of arguing it. They say: "Oh, no man has power to forgive another man's sins," That begs the whole ques-tion; which is: Is there a Sacrament; and if so, who are the ministers of that Sacrament? If there is Sacrament of Penance, men the ministers of it, just as surely as men are ministers of the Sacrament of Baptism, in which non-Catholics believe. So it is of no use whatever to say that no man can forgive sins, without proving that there is no Sacrament for the forgiveness of

All the Christian world believed in the Sacrament of Penance for 1,517 years; when a body of Secessionists from the Church in Germany began to assert, without proofs of any sort, that it was their business to reform the Church. The Sacrament of Penance was not at once rejected; far from it. We showed that recently, quoting from leading "Reformers." The Church of England, as is shown "Book of Common Prayer," never wholly rejected the idea of confession; and to day confessions are heard in many Anglican Churches in England. But, eventually, most non-Catholics gave up the idea of a in England. But, eventually, most once calls up in our mind the non-Catholics gave up the idea of a thought of men of a definite type as Sacrament of Penance. They now take it for a settled fact that there is no such Sacrament, and so they ask, "How can a man forgive sins."
This is the usual begging of the question that is met with in the criticisms of the Catholic religion. It amounts to this: We are right be
"How can a man forgive sins."
English Episcopate; Calvinism, the Duke of Argyll; Channing's, Boston society; but Catholicism suggests— what shall I say?—all the pell-mell of the men and women of Church and Democracy will advance of the pell-mell of the men and women of Church and Democracy will advance of the pell-mell of the men and women of Church and Democracy will advance of the pell-mell of the men and women of Church and Democracy will advance of the pell-mell of the men and women of Church and Democracy will advance of the pell-mell of the men and women of the pell-mell How can a man forgive sins." nvincing sort of statement that it is possible to imagine.

In the Gospel of St. John, Chapter xx., verses 19, 21, 22 and 23, we Now, when it was late that same day, being the first day of the week, and the doors were shut, where the disciples were gathered together for fear of the Jews, Jesus came and stood in the midst, and said to them: Peace be with you. . . As the Father hath sent Me, I also send you. When He had said this, He breathed on them and He said to them: Receive ye the Holy Ghost. Whose sins ye shall forgive, they are forgiven them; and whose sins ye shall retain they are retained."

The Protestant version of the Gospel reads:

"Whosever sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them; and whosoever sins ye retain, they are re-

To remit is the same thing as to forgive.—The Casket.

ADOPTED SYSTEM OF THE NUNS

In 1880, the English government adopted a system for the training of pupil teachers, known as the "centre system," which had been originated by the Notre Dame nuns. This fact was acknowledged by Mr. Mundella, then vice president of the Education victions, as well as the victim of her Department, at a public meeting held in 1882, in these words: "The origin confessor had been taken from her of this system belongs to the Roman Catholics of this town. When I was called upon to make a change in the 1880—a change that would admit of the concentrated instruction of pupil teachers—the arguments that were advanced to me in favor of it were the great success that had and most of them are his subjects; attended the Catholic college in the and she says: "The Catholic religion town, then by the Liverpool School Board, and finally by the Liverpool Council of Education." This shows a recognition accorded to excellence unobserved by religious bigotry.-The Guardian.

PROTESTANTISM AND CATHOLICISM

VIEWED BY MATTHEW ARNOLD

At the moment when the attention of the world is centered, though somewhat vaguely, upon the Witten-berg monk and his work, a passage from Matthew Arnold's essay on "Pagan and Medieval Sentiment" will prove illuminating in spite of its innuendo and Anglican bias. invites the reader to visit with him the reading room of the British Museum, and there calls attention to "the collection of the Abbé Migne, lording it over the whole region, reducing to insignificance the feeble Protestant forces which hang upon its skirts." Yet Protestantism is fully represented here in all its varieties, Mr. Panizzi knows his business too well to permit it to be otherwise." He then continues:

"There is the library of Anglo-Catholic theology, learned, decorous, exemplary, but a little uninteresting; there are the works of Calvin, rigid. militant, menacing; there are the works of Dr. Chalmers, the Scotch philosophy in a land where everyone has some culture and where superiorties are discountenanced,—the very flower of moral and intelligent ediocrity. But how are all these divided one against another; and how, though they were all united, are they dwarfed by the Catholic eviathan, their neighbor! Majestic in its blue and gold unity, this fills shelf after shelf and compartment after compartment, its right mounting up into heaven among the white folios of the "Acta Sanctorum," its left plunging down into hell in that "Encyclopédie Théologique," that "Nouvelle Encyclopédie," that Troisième Théologique," religion, philosophy, history, biography, arts, science, bibliography, gossip. The work embraces the whole range of human interests; like one of the great Middle Age cathedrals, it is in itself a study for a life. Like the net in Scripture, it drags everything to hand, bad and good, lay and ecclesias. tical, sacred and profane, so that it be but matter for human concern. Wide embracing as the power product it is,-a power for history, at any rate, eminently the Church; not, I think, the Church of the future, but indisputably the Church of the past, the Church of the multitude.

"This is why the man of imagination,—nay, and the philosopher, too, in spite of her propensity to burn him—will always have a weakness for the Catholic Church; because of the rich treasures of human life their adherents; the mention of Catholicism suggests no such special following. Anglicanism suggests the dance the Abbé Migne's collection faithfully reflects. People talk about this or that work which they would choose, if they were to pass their life with only one; for my part, I would choose the Abbé Migne's collection. Quidquid agunt homines. Every-thing, as I have said, is there,"

Such is the true Catholicity of the Catholic Church. Matthew Arnold's statement, of course, that he does not think she is the Church of the future can only provoke a smile from him who firmly believes in the promise of Christ that He will be with His Church to the end of time. She future. The poet's little fling at her propensity to burn philosophers apparently overlooks the fact that she is the Church of St. Thomas Aquinas, the greatest of all philosophers.-America.

A TOUCHING LETTER OF MARY, QUEEN OF SCOTS

The last letter of Mary, Queen of Scots, which will be placed on sale soon, proves of surprising interest. Written to her brother in-law, Henri III., a few hours before her death, it is a declaration of faith which convictions, as well as the victim of her so that she cannot prepare as she of their heretic clergy. She commends her attendants to the charity of the king since she is bereft of all,

THE FUTURE OF THE CHURCH

This is a critical moment in the history of civilization and the Church cannot remain passive while society is passing through an epoch making historical transformation. It is conceded even in unfriendly quarters that Catholics are right in attributing the great disaster that has come upon the world through the present war to State irresponsibility and irreligion. The modern State has secularized marriage, education and everything, and set itself up as an omnipotent and irresponsible power. The arrogant political State authority as personified in Kaiserism has cast the moral law and religion to the winds and made its own selfish interests the norm of right and wrong. In fact, the State could do no wrong and its absolutism made might the criterion of right. The secular State has threatened the moral progress of mankind and has become a Moloch, demanding the blood of its children. In its arrogance it has not hesitated to persecute the Church of God, and in modern Europe has reduced it to the condition of a trembling slavey Cinderella, and a mere servant in the

The all-powerful secular State has been weighed in the balance and found wanting. The note of the Holy Father beseeching peace before thistle valiantly doing duty as the rose of Sharon, but keeping something very Scotch about it all the while; there are the works of Dr.

Holy Father beseeching peace before the suicide of Europe is consumated, and the mutterings from the abyss in many countries which portend a social revolution, are warnings tend a social revolution, are warnings Channing, the last word of religious to the rulers that a day of reckoning is at hand if the voice of the people is not listened to.

The voice of the oldest and most potent spiritual authority on earth is raised in behalf of the people and God. The Head of the Church speaks as one having authority from on High, and he exercises his divinely given prerogatives in behalf of God and the brotherhood of man; he brings men's minds back to the fundamentals of religion that lie at the foundation of all moral and social

Against the ferocious lawlessness among the yellow octavos of the "Law Digest." Everything is there, ment he interposes God's moral law ment he interposes God's moral law of good faith, peace and love. From that family, city, state, nation and the gion, world, humanity must rise up and acknowledge the right and power of God and His Divine law if it would be saved from utter destruction and have security for the future.

Hence there must be an access of humility on the part of the State in acknowledging the law of God in the rule of the government. It must retrieve its blunders of the past in trying to get along without God and religion and strike its breast in con trition while it confesses, I have sinned.

In the new democracy the Church will have a leavening influence, and she has in the divine deposit of faith the system of popular moral and religious education that is necessary to save the world. The enfranchisement of women and of the poor and lowly ones of the earth will tend to curb the political and moral anarchy that the modern lawless State has engendered. Already the reaction has set in against the old idol of an absolute secular State. The great work of the Church in the future will be to Christianize the masses and bring religion into the new socialized individual personality. Thus the Church and Democracy will advance hand in hand even as in the days hand in hand even as in the days when she won the Magna Charta of human rights in the Middle, Ages .-The Monitor.

FRENCH PRIESTS AT THE FRONT

France has mobilized between 25,000 and 30,000 priests. Nearly three-fourths of them are facing death in the trenches or as stretcher-bearers at the front, and 3,000 have actually been killed in the These figures are quoted by the Loncould, therefore, neither have failed in the past nor can she fail in the Flynn, curé of Menilmont, to a repre don Tablet as given by Father Henry sentative of the Dublin Freeman's Journal. No fewer than 6,000 expelled priests, according to the same authority, have voluntarily returned to France in answer to their country's call. Father Flynn added : "I hope that after the War they won't be expelled a second time after rendering a great service to their country. I hope that the gratitude of the French Government will not be expressed in such a way. Called by their vocation to be the salt of the earth, they have become the salt of the army, where everybody has greeted them cordially. Providence uses an infinite variety of means to defeat men's designs. It was certainly not out of respect for canonical laws, nor to help the clergy to recruit, nor to honor priests, that the law Les curés sac au dos was made. Yet God brought good out of evil. so that she cannot prepare as she would wish for her last moment and how her enemies ceased not to force the rites to their dying comrades!

A blessing came in the disguise of a in the Church was due to conversions. This, moreover, is only the simple the rites to their dying comrades! upon her the ministrations of one It happens now that the presence of these curés among the soldiers, in other elements of the population. the same shower of bullets and shells Ten per cent. may be the direct contrenches and ambulances, has created between them a respectful and attended the Catholic college in the teaching of the female pupil teachers and the amount of the percentage of honors these teachers had carried off . . . The London School Roard have adopted in imitation what was first begun by the Catholics of this between them a respectful and to trace the results through several And what are spiritual bonds, if not first begun by the Catholics of this religion that I die."—The Guardian. been so careful to say their prayers, greater, is blended from selected hill-grown teas, famed for their fine flavoury qualities. Imitated yet never equalled.

Rich Yet Delicate-Clean and Full of Aroma.

St. Thomas College

Chatham, N. B.

Boarding and Day School Conducted by the Basilian Fathers

college, high school, commercial SCHOOL, PREPARATORY SCHOOL

The College is beautifully situated near the Miramichi River. Fine Athletic Field. Magnificent Skating Rink.

WRITE FOR OUR CATALOGUE

to attend Mass, to go to confession

and Holy Communion."
Every month 600,000 Masses are said by these soldier priests on the lurid edge of the great world war. "It (the spiritual awakening) is in the midst of the most tragic events, like a spiritual retreat preparatory to death, and it is followed in the fraternity of arms by the whole youth of France."-America.

ROSARY LIKE ONE'S LIFE

ITS MYSTERIES LIKENED TO YOUTH, MATURITY AND OLD AGE

Have you ever - on your way home from work-stepped into the church to say your Rosary? How quiet it is. How easy it is to pray, to pour out one's heart in supplication or thanksgiving, says The Catholic Bulletin. How much, alas! in supplication and how little in thanksgiving!

Has it ever occurred to you that the Rosary is very much like life? The mysteries, Joyful, Sorrowful and Glorious, may be likened to youth, maturity and old age. In youth all things are bright and full of promise. There is the Annunciation, the Visitation and the Nativity. The first hint of sorrow is found in the presentation; the prophecy of Simeon and the loss of the Child Jesus. Yet, as in youth, the sorrow was soon forgotten in the awe of the Redemption and in the joy of restor-

In maturity we realize that the world is a battlefield and the cares of life press heavily upon us. Each heart has its own Gethsemane, and it prays that the "Chalice may pass away" but how few of us say our dear Lord : "Nevertheless, not as I will, but as Thou wilt."

Are we not scourged by passions Accept these Autumn wreaths-our and the frailties of our poor human nature; with the sting of everyday

Each one carries a daily cross beneath which we fall many times. And have we not some small share in Mary's anguish on Calvary when we kneel at the deathbed of our

In our old age we find our recom pense. We rise above worldly shrub, having from two to three things. We have borne the heat and burden of the day, but now evening has come we put aside the garments priest was preaching to the Peruhas come we put aside the garments priest was preaching to the of folly and ascend to the state vians, or aboriginal inhabitants, where we are worthy to receive the amidst the wild scenery of their where we are worthy to receive the gifts of the Holy Ghost. Purified and sanctified, our souls, like Our Lady's body, will be assumed in heaven; and-our crown.

The days and years slip by. We pass through joy and sorrow; sorrow with the shamrock, he saw with the and joy, telling each bead in the Rosary of life until the weary soul is realized and goes to its account.

GROWTH BY CONVERSIONS

A Protestant writer quoted recently in the Literary Digest said: "It is noticeable that Catholicism grows up almost entirely by absorbing its own children rather than by proselytism." lics as well, remarks the Catholic Convert. The convert figures, however, do not warrant such a conclusion. The Catholic population in the United States gained last year 458,000, and the minimum convert estimate is 45,000. Therefore nearly one tenth of the numerical increase ratio between the two. Converts coming in multiply the same as the

Accountancy Matriculation Stenography Civil Service

of these courses is of interest to you? ach individually, and give excellent is in all subjects mentioned above, both

Dominion Business College 357 College St., Toronto Limited J. V. MITCHELL, B.A., PRINCIPAL

GUINNESS COLOGO
YONGE AND CHARLES STS., TORONTO
Ias lately been asked to 61 registrory to W. J. ELLIOTT, Principal

MONTH OF THE ROSARY

Say, dearest Mother Mary, can it be That, having May, thou claim'st October too?

The flowers of Spring we plucked and gave to thee, And these sad leaves of Autumn wilt thou sue?

When evenings first were lengthening calm and warm, We lit thy altars gay with lily-

Now falls the night full swift, with lowering storm, And still thy tapers stay the advancing gloom.

Tis thine, and ten times welcome, Mother dear! This ripe and crisp October month is thine. What though our flowers and leaves be scant and sere? The Calendar of Love knows no decline.

didst bless their rise -Rev. ABRAM J. RYAN

THE PASSION FLOWER

When the Spaniards discovered South America they saw other plants new to them a climbing fruit bearing flowers, unlike any they had ever seen. One day a native forests. His subject was the Passion of our Lord. His eyes suddenly glanced at this curious flower, which hung in festoons from the trees overhead, and, like St. Patrick eye of a saint a vivid picture of the sad story of Calvary.

The rings of thread which surround the cup of the flower, and which are mottled with blue, crimson, and white, suggested to his mind tutored by meditation, the Crown of Thorns, stained with blood, the five antlers, on the stamens, represented the Five Wounds the three styles, the nails which fixed our Blessed Lord to the Cross; and the singular column which rises in the center of the flower, were made to bring before the minds of these wild savages the harrowing scene of the Second Sorrowful Mystery of the Most Holy Rosary. So, without Bible or books, did this holy man instruct his converts on the Passion; and to this day our beautiful creeping garden flower is called "the Passion flower is called Flower." In all languages it bears the same name.

There is no part of the history of Jesus but Mary has her part in it. There are those who profess to be Hisservants, who think that her work was ended when she bore Him, and after that she had nothing to do but disappear and be forgotten. O Lord, Thy children of the Catholic Church, do not so think of Thy Mother. -Cardinal Newman.

STANDARD LIBRARY

60c. Each Postpaid 50 Copies, $22.50

Aunt Honor's Keepsake, by Mrs. James Sadlier. An interesting story with a strong moral purpose. The characters are met with in every walk of American s-ciety, in every trade and calling, in every noos and corner. They are real, Alvira, or The Heroine of Vesuvius. by Rev. A. J. ("Reilly. A thrilling story of the seventeenth century."

African Fabiola. The; translated by Right Rev. African Fabiola. The; translated by Right Rev. Migr. Joseph O Connell. D. D. The story of the Life of St. Perpetua, who suffered martyrdom tog ther with her slave. Felicitas, at Carthage in the year 203. One of the most moving in the sanals of the Church.

Alchemist's Secret, The; by sabel Cecilia Williams. This collection of short stories is not of the sort written smply for amusement; they have their simple, direct teaching, and they lead us to think of and to pity corrows and trials of others rather than our own.

Alias Kitty Cassey, by Marie Gertrude Williams. Kitty Cassey by Marie Gertrude Williams. Kitty Cassey is in radity Catherine Carew. a girl threatened with misfortune, when in an endeavor to seclude herself, and at the same ame enjoy the advantages of the country in summer enjoy the advantages of the country in summer enjoy the advantages of the country in summer accepts a menial position in a hotel, taking the position of wattees refused by her maid. Kitty of the South before the Civil War. Two other stories are contained in this volume: "Agnes," and "For Many Days."

Blakes and Flanagans, by Mrs. James Sadlier. This book is the misterpiece of the illustrious author whose writings have made her name a household word among the Catholics of America.

Borrowed From 'The Night, by Anna C. Minogue. Miss Minogue has a way of showing her readers the desightful Southern character in all its charm and gentility. No one will read "Borrowed from the Night, without being fascinated with Miss Martinez, whose early life is surrounded with so much interest.

Martinez, whose early life is surrounded with so much interest. Cardome, by Anna C. Minogue. A Romance of Kentucky Much has been written of the troublescome times from 1800 to 1805, but seldom has a Catholic author taken this historic half decade as material for a story. Miss Minogue is a resident of Kentucky, and in Cardome presents a clear picture or the confusion and uncertainty which existed in that state. The story is admirably presented and bristles with romance and adventure.

Carlotta, by Cardinai Newman. A tale of the Third Century; attempting to imagine and express the eelings and relations between Christlans and hear hens of that time.

Captain ose fi, by Raou' de Navery. A thrilling grovy of fearlessness and adventure.

Captain ose fi, by Raou' de Navery. A thrilling grovy of fearlessness and adventure.

Captain ose fi, by Raou' de Navery. A thrilling converge of fearlessness and adventure.

Anta-devintures of Cene Evans Esq. Surgeon a Mataderia shore with companions on a desolate Island the Carribean Sea.

Lineas, by J. M. Villefranche, A study of civilization and a comparison of Christianity, not only with Pegansan and purely human philosophy, but with Judaism also, towards the close of the reign of the Corribean of the Missand of the Roman duard around whose conversion of Christianity the plot of the story is woven.

Commander, The; by Chaelse D'Hericault. An habsterical parts of the Roman Captain Commander.

oven, mander, The: by Charles D'Horicault. An istorical novel of the French Revolution science. Tales, by Hendrick Conscience, horoughly interesting and well written tales of lemish life, including 'The Recruit,' "Minstost Gensendonck," "Blind Ross," and "The Gory Molleman." Host Gensendonck, "Blind Ross," and "The Foor Nobleman"
"Deer Jane," by Isabel Ce-tha Williams. A sweet, simple tale of a self-sacrificing elder sister whose ambition to keep the little household together is tol-l with a grace and interest that are irresistible. Paith, Hope and Chart, by Anonymous. An exceedingly interesting tale of love, war and actent use during the exciting times of the Fiench Revolution.

adventure during the exciting times of the Flench Revolution.

Fernciffe Ferncliffe is the name of a large estate in Devoushire, England, the home of Agrees Falkiand, who with her family and adopted sister, Francis Macdonald, furnish the interesting events and the secret influence of which Agnes Falkland is the innocent sufferer.

Fourifferat Evils of the Day, by Cardinal Manning Happy-Go-Lucky, by Mary C Crowley. A collection of Catholic stones for boys, including "A Little Heroine," "New's Baseball Club," "Terry at d His Friends," 'The Boys at Balton," and "A Christmas Stocking."

and His Friends," The Boys at Balton, and "A Christmas Stocking."

Hawthorndean, by Clara M Thompson. A story of American life founded on fact.

Heires of Kliorgan, by Mrs. J. Sadlier. History and faction combined; very inceesting.

In The Crucible, by Isabel Qecilia Williams. These is to be saurine of self for others' good, are keyed on the divine true story of Him Who gave up all for us and died on Calvary's cross (Sacred Heart Review.)

Kathleen's Motto, by Genevieve Walsh. An interesting and inspiring story of a young lady who, by her simplicity and honesty, succeeds in spire of clady and the story of the marries.

May Brooke, by Mrs. Anna H. Dossey. The story of two cousins who are left in the case of their very wealthy but eccentric uncle who professes no religion and is at odds with all the world. It follows them through their many trials and experiences, and contrasts the effect on the two distinct characters.

charactes, and contrasts the effect on the two distinct charactes; ferchant Of Antwerp, The; by Headrick Conscience, ferchant Of Intwerp, The; by Headrick Conscience, A novel of impelling interest from beginning to end concerning the romance of the daughter of a diamond merchant, and is aphael Banks who, through the uncertainties of fortune, earns the parental approval of their marriage, which had been withheld on account of difference in social position.

osstion oscillations account of difference in social position of stories for Catholic children, including "Little Beginnings," Bind Apple Woman, "Polly's Five Dollars," "Maries Trumpet," and A family's Frolic." A family's Frolic." A family a fronce for the social forms of the social fo Irish Borough.

Triphan Sisters, The; by Mary I Hoffman, This is an exceedingly in eresting stor, in which some of the doctrines of the Catholic Church are clearly defined.

an exceedingly in eresting story, in which some of the doctrines of the Catholic Church are clearly defined.
Pearl O Antioch by Abbe Bayle. A charming and powerfully written story of the early ages of the Church.
Rose Le Blanc, by Lady Georalanna Fullerton. A thoroughly entertaining story for young people by one of the beet k: own Catholic authors.
Rosemary, by J. Vincent Huntington. This novel, though written many years ago holds its place among the beat stories we have to-day.
Sister of Charty who, as a nurse, attends a non-tatholic family, a dafter a shipwreck and rescue from almost a hopeless situation brings the family into the Church of God. It is especially interesting in its descriptions.
Soltary island. The; by Kev. John Talbot Smith. As mysterious and fascinating in its plot as either of the sensational productions of Archibald Clavefring Gunther, and it contains portraits which would not shame the brush of a Thackeray or Dickens.
Strawcutter's Daughter, The; by ady Georgianna Fullerton. An interesting Catholic story for young people.
Tanged Paths, is admirable; as a "atholic novel Tangled Paths is admirable; as a "atholic novel Tangled Paths is admirable; as a "atholic novel Tangled Paths is admirable; as a "atholic novel tis most admirable and if the author will novel as the series at sisteactory production with her ear tea this very satisfactory production with her ear tea can be seen a limost sing the Nunc Vimitis, for hetimpers, and a most admirable and if the author will not the series and the seens in her work to have almost reached its climax."—Are Maria.

The Weters Of Centradiction, by Anna C. Minopue.

her work to have almost reached its ciniax. Ave Maria.

The Waters Of Centradiction, by Anna C. Minogue. A delightful romance of the South and Southern people, and so strong in its interest that the reader's attention increases to the very last chapter, Tears On The Diadem, by Anna H. Dorsey. A novel of the inner life of Queen Elizabeth. So interesting that the reader will be loathe to lay it down before finishing the entire story.

Thalia, by Abbe A. Bayle, An interesting and instructive tale of the Fourth Century.

Two Victories, The; by Rev. T.J. Potter. A story of the conflict of faith in a non Catholic family and their entrance into the Catholic church.

Tigranes, by Rev. John Joseph Franco, S. J. An absorbing story of the persecutions of catholics in the fourth century, and the attempt of Julian the Apostate to restore the gods of Homer and Virgil nciate Editors { Rev. F. J. O'Sullivan. H. F. Mackintosh.

The Catholic Record

The Catholic Record Price of Subscription—$1.50 per annum United States & Europe—$2.00 Rev. James T. Foley, B. A. Thomas Coffey, L.L. D.

and canvas for the CATHOLIC

omp:
meral agents: M. J. Hagarty, Vincent S. and Miss Jessie Doyle, Resident agents
re B. Hewestson, Minneapolis, Minn.; Mrs
K. Smith, Halifax; Miss Bride Saunders
ey; Miss L. Heringer, Winnipeg; E. R. slic, 2268-8th avs West, Vancouver, B. C.
Johnson, 211 Rochester st., Ottawa; Miss
McKeaney, 149 D'Aiguillon street, Quebec
George E. Smith, 2898 St. Urchaln street,
reni, M. J. Mervin, Montreal, B. F. O'Tool Montague St., Regins, Sask., and E. J hy, Box 125, Saskatoon.

Subscribers changing residence will please give id as well as new address.

In St. John N. B., single copies may be sprehased from Mrs. M. A. McGuire, 249 Main Bracet, John J. Dwyer and The O'Neill Co. Thurmany, 109 Brussels street. in Montreal single copies may be purchased from J. Millov. 241 St. Catherine street, west.

LONDON, SATURDAY, OCT. 27, 1917

HOW THE WAR MAY END

"The object of this War is to deliver the free peoples of the world from the menace and the actual power of a vast military establishment, controlled by an irresponsible Government which, having secretly planned to dominate the world, proceeded to carry the plan out without regard either to the sacred obligations of treaty or the long-established practices and long-cherished principles of international action and honor. . . .

"This power is not the German people. It is the ruthless master of the German people. . .

"The test, therefore, of any plan of faith of the peoples involved, or merely upon the word of an ambitious and intriguing Government on the one hand, and of a group of free peoples on the other? This is the test which goes to the root of the matter and it is the test which must be applied. . . .

"We cannot take the word of the present rulers of Germany as a guarantee of anything that is to endure, unless explicitly supported by such conclusive evidence of the will and purpose of the German people themselves as the other peoples of the world would be justified in accepting. Without such guarantees, treaties of settlement, agreements for disarmament, covenants to set up arbitration in the place of force, territorial adjustments, reconstitutions of small nations, if made with the German Government, no man, no nation could now depend on."

In our first comment on President | privilege and caste is today evil." Wilson's reply to the Pope we interpreted the foregoing passages not as | before the President's reply to the "a curt refusal," "a direct negative," | Pope Professor Meinecke's expression "no peace with the Hohenzollerns:" the Holy Father's proposals, but as a relevant. It is an evidence—and in peace negotiations may be initiated. conditional acceptance of them. We then said:

The momentous declaration, clearthat no covenanted peace can be concluded with the Government of Germany as at present constituted, is not intended as a bar to negotiations for peace with Germany : rather it clears the way. It is a distinct and definite step toward peace inasmuch asitis a distinct, definite and authoritative statement of minimum demand of the Entente Allies as a condition precedent to the conclusion of peace by agreement. That condition ful filled, the President opens wide the door to negotiations for a stable and enduring peace.

The basic principle of democracy profound faith in the people's sense of right and justice and equity, is splendidly asserted by the great democratic leader when he offers peace to the German people just as for that form of government under soon as they transform their government, now a ruthless master, into the responsible servant of the people governed. If the German people prefer to remain the willing slaves of their present ruthless master, War must go on until that menace to the peace of the world is words as unreservedly endorsing the people cannot treat with us because contention of those who hold that there can be no lasting peace other than that which follows crushing by military force the power of militaristic Prussianism. It is gratifying, however, to note that the real significance and bearing of President Wilson's declaration are now being understood.

The Manchester Guardian, unlike many of the English papers, grasped the essential meaning at once:

"President Wilson's policy comes very near to the formula 'No peace the Hohenzollerns,' but it would be unfair not to recognize the this clearcut declaration. very narrow but deep gulf that separates him from that formula. The way in which he prefers to put his policy is that no peace can durable without the guarantee of the German people. The guarantees given by the German Government. olding the views it does, cannot be durable. Mr. Wilson has no desire to dictate to the German people their forms of government, but as a good American he has faith in the honesty and sincerity of a democracy.'

The Westminster Gazette also goes straight to the point:

"The American word to Germany thus: We will fight to the ath against your Prussianism, but if an end is made to that, and if you will help us to end it, we shall not attempt to ruin you, to put you outside the pale, to destroy your Empire.'

That we believe is the right note for all the Allies, firm and defiant against the German system, but not hreatening ostracism and ruin, if that system can be disestablished.'

The Paris Temps likewise

'What inspires President Wilson's Note, as it inspires all French policy, is the conviction that one cannot treat with the present German Gov-

Nor is there wanting evidence that the Germans themselves, despite the exaggerated pan-German resentment of the "attempt to drive a wedge between the German people and their Government" are beginning to see that President Wilson's condition precedent to peace negotiations is not an insolent dictation as to their form of government, but the expression of profound faith and trust in the people-even the German people-In a public lecture Professor Friedrich Meinecke, the Freiburg historian, thus spoke of the present German Government:

"We do not want to become militarily weak, as our enemies would like us to be; we want to remain as strong as before. But we want to peace is this: Is it based upon the remain strong by new means, and to abandon those of the old means of strength which today do us more harm than good. So let us quite candidly about our Junker dom. It has rendered unforgettable services to our military strength, and it gave us a Bismarck. through its hard egoism and its ruthless lust of power it has caused us heavy, heavy troubles. "I want to avoid all agitation against Junkerdom, and to keep my eyes open to what is healthy, strong and even great in it. countless people have in their hearts must out. We desire no longer to be governed in Prussia by Junkers and corps students—and not, I must add, by those who have likened themselves to them, a class which, unfortunately, is more numerous than the born Junkers.

We are very grateful for a Ger man nobility which adds to its old civilisation and traditions an open understanding for the needs of people which wants to be free. A certain leadership would fall natur ally, and voluntarily be permitted, to this nobility. But absolutely every remnant of the old spirit of

Though delivered a month or two of "what countless people have in tend powerfully to develop. The great Socialist paper Vorwaerts puts the condition squarely before the people, precisely, we believe, as the President wished it to be understood :

" Take the world's map, and look at one country after another. Everywhere decision in political questions lies in the hands of persons chosen by the people. It is so everywhere. Why can it not be so with us? After more than three years of war a great power says to us that it must be so We cannot be persuaded that the German people - the most active and educated in the world-are not fit which other people have grown great."

"The authorised representatives a democratic franchise. What is lacking is a Government responsible to the people's representatives, as is in existence in all other countries. Many interpreted the President's Are we Germans to admit that other we are not in a position to make our own will effective?"

Some people more Catholic than the Pope are ready to condemn, regardless of its merits, anything advocated by the Socialists. However, the semi-official organ of the Vatican, the Osservatore Romano, on Oct. 2nd, published the following:

"The Vatican is in perfect accord with the Socialists throughout the world on the principle of the guardianship of democratic liberty and the protection of constitutional rights by legal methods."

There is no need to comment upon

Again we have the coalition of the Catholic Centre with the Socialists, the Poles, Alsatians and some others, in the famous Reichstag peace resolution, repudiating pan-German aims, sion precipitated by the Pops's Note, and also in the demand for electoral reform.

If conditions in Germany, are, as we are led to believe, becoming intolerable; if mutinies in the Navy and desertions from the Army are an evidence of any general or widespread spirit; then, as the people realize that that way lies the path to peace, is there not reason to believe that the movement toward responsible government will become irresistible? It goes without saying that the hope of peace is no reason for slackening, in the slightest degree, the efforts to prosecute the struggle to final military victory. Impending defeat, whether through superior Allied strength and resources, or because of intolerable internal conditions, is the only motive that will impel Prussianism to relax its rigid and absolute control of the government of the German people.

But as the outlook grows darker, and the burdens on the people grow heavier as they seem more useless, the majority coalition of Catholics, Reichstag backed by the force of irresistible public opinion may shorten the War by bringing about such radical changes that the Government of Germany will henceforth represent master."

SECRET DIPLOMACY

All sorts and conditions of men have, during the past three years, condemned secret diplomacy. It has not been without its defenders, of course. But it is difficult to see the force of any argument in its favor based on the assumption of the people's incompetence to control intelligently their foreign relations. It is the last citadel of autocratic or aristocratic paternalism and privilege in a democratic age. The democratic principle of government is fundamentally unsound if it must stop short of those tremendously vital questions whose issue is peace or war. Never, perhaps, in the world's history has that fact been so poignantly realized as at the present moment.

In this connection there is a fact ly noted, much less realized in all its vital bearings.

The Pope's Peace Note marks the greatest advance in history of the principle of democratic control of international relations. It goes far secret diplomacy. The first stage in reestablishing peace has always been, and necessarily unexpected circles - of democratic This step must of necessity precede diplomacy. The Papal Note proposed such bases. It was addressed to the rulers of the belligerent nations, but it is being discussed by the peoples themselves. Every pronouncement of statesmen in either of the groups of belligerent nations, every discussion in the press or on the platform is directed primarily to the common people whose power is the first time in history what has with us if we wish to reach peace. been the exclusive prerogative of secret diplomacy is openly discussed and will be finally decided in the great court of public opinion where the will of the people is the supreme judge. The decision is not left to the privileged governing class, and greatness, but considerations of the interest and welfare of the great mass of the people in each belligerent nation will in the end be the decisive factor in de-

Disillusionment of the Germanic in the vicinity. Here we were the strictures as there seemed to be some that would be to day entertained by peoples must be one inevitable guest of Mother Clement, whose call for him to do so from this side all those who see in the Church a result of their experience in this imperialistic War. There is encouraging evidence that the discuspowerfully reinforced by President Wilson's reply, will eventually wrack Prussian autocracy and liberate the Garman people from its galling yoke. miles away.

CLAIMS FOR EXEMPTION The Military Service Act has not inoculated the young men of Toronto with military enthusiasm judging from the number of eligibles who are claiming exemption. Of course the figures vary day by day. The latest before us at this writing show that out of 3,270 in class A 3,006 filed claims for exemption and 264 declared themselves ready to serve. In Galt 91 cut of 94 applied for exemption. In Brantford "the noble band of three willing to serve" has not been increased though the total reported is 150. Elsewhere in Ontario the proportion varies little. It looks as though our excitable French Canadian friends in Quebec. while they gave frank and truthful expression to their feelings on the matter, really differ little in their viows on compulsory military service

THE BEAUPRÉ OF ALBERTA people themselves," and not of that memory of the Oblate Missionaries. French, Slav and Cree. Several class which is now their "ruthless St. Paul de Cris and St. Paul de crutches left in the church would most celebrated of the Blackrobes. Pere Lacombe, who recently passed away at his hermitage at Midnapore. The former of these missions was the scene of an attempt on his part panorama that gave a picturesquetheir abode in northern Saskatchethe defeat of their ill-fated leader, Louis Riel, in the uprising of 1885. While these missions did not prove very successful, yet they manifested the apostolic spirit of the Man-ofthe Good Heart, who, like the great Saint under whose patronage they were established, strove to be all things to all man to win all to that in war, as in peace, an earnest Christ.

The most interesting of all these places is the old mission post at of stupendous import which is scarce. Lake St. Anne, fifty miles north of fessors for the Faith. Edmonton. Established by Father Thebault in 1842, it is the oldest parish centre in the district, and, up catalogue in the world is that of the Kennedy passed to his long home, to the time of the founding of St. Albert, was the headquarters of the which, in the year 1900, had reached Oblates in that country. The C. N. its 385th part, and has since gone O'Hearne, D. D., who will carry on in the direction of abolishing forever Railroad conveyed us to a point on well beyond the four hundredth. the best traditions of the institution. that. The Cabinet crisis in Italy is is known as Alberta Beach. The that the entire catalogue is worth place in the life of Rome, and that of name is much more euphonious than over four hundred dollars. It would the United States is not the least of not as an unconditional rejection of their hearts" is both interesting and must be, to reach bases upon which that of many a station in the West, take the best part of a lifetime to them. but there is no reason for envying analyze the contents of this great Edmontonians their bathing facilispirit and aspiration amongst the actual negotiation of the terms of ties. A friend had kindly arranged German people which President peace. Almost invariably this first to take us across to St. Anne's in a cut and definite, of the President Wilson's ringing declaration must step has been the work of secret motor boat. Beautifully situated on in regard to a man who had "got in rising ground is the mission, con- wrong" on anything, that "his name sisting of a commodious parish is mud." We recently saw in some house, well-equipped church, to old volumes published about 1850, a gether with outbuildings and a printed label bearing the name of quite extensive garden. The parish the original owner-in other words priest, Father Beaudry, extended to his book-plate-and his name was us a hearty welcome. He is of indeed "Mud." J. H. Clay Mudd, Indian and Scotch extraction, speaks Attorney-at-Law, San Francisco, was French, English and Cree, and has the distinguished cognomen of this the reputation of possessing more bookish limb of the law. Let us recognized, whose right to final than ordinary scholarship. His hope that in regard to the interests decision is conceded. So that for pleasing manner and his zeal of his clients his intellect belied his account for the popularity that he name. enjoys among the English-speaking visitors. The parish is wholly composed of Indians, with the exception of one white man who conducts the Henry Gray Graham, has since his mission store. When introduced to the latter he remarked: "I think I the cause of Catholic journalism. met you in,-" which recalled to our His contributions to polemical literamind the saying of a gentleman ture in the columns of the Glasgow of the German people are the Reichstag members, chosen on the basis of ambition, not dreams of imperial noted for his absurd dictums: "Go Observer and the Edinburgh Catholic Irishman."

it is true in an everincreasing degree of our visit. Close by it is Rosary to which he has been called. of the enemy peoples where the Hall camp conducted by the Proviruling classes believed that democ dence Sisters from Kingston, Ont.

Sisters gave a picnic to the little equanimity and fund of self-esteem Indian children of the district. It (which is said to have been anything required some scrubbing to get them | but diminutive) that he died without prepared for the ordeal, but they seeing this letter. seemed to enjoy it immensely-that is the picnic. Many among them presented a very bright and intelligent appearance, and were so neatly the "Colonies," will prove interestdressed that they would have passed ing news to his fellow-Catholics in muster in any of our Sunday schools. the British Dominions Overseas no church; and in the evening when the Imperial traderelations. His speeches | cow are the important developments northern lights are playing in the in Parliament have always been sky above them and the waters of the | characterised by profound knowledge lake are basking in the moonlight, all of the subject, and by a skill in dehomes of their childhood.

great day at St. Anne's, but we can regarded by Free Traders as a some-Socialists, and other groups in the from their fellow-citizens of Ontario, only speak of it from hearsay, what ominous circumstance, and to Thousands come in all manner of be additional evidence that the presconveyances and on foot from the ent Ministry is to all intents and prairies, the rivers and the mountains purposes a Protectionist Government. Leduc, Vegreville and other to take part in the great religious Be that as it may, independent observvillages in the environs of Edmon- festival. Processions are held and ers regard Mr. Hewins as one of the the will and purpose of the German ton will continue to recall the sermons are preached in English, coming men in Imperial politics. Metis speak of the devotion of that | indicate that Canada's great patron- | the Foreign Catholic colony in Rome ess was not unmindful of even the just now. Many old faces have disphysical infirmities of her Western appeared and new ones come upon children. It is indeed fitting that the scene, and other changes are this spot so suggestive of all that pending. News from the Eternal to domesticate the Crees, while at ness to frontier life, this spot of interest to Catholics everywhere. the Germans to spare men for a the latter place he strove to bring where the glad tidings of redemption Of changes of especial interest to great effort at other points or to together the wandering Metis, many were first preached to the primitive English speaking peoples is the transof whom had been driven west from children of the prairies, and the conference from the rectorship of the which is not, in the final analysis, the Red River in the Rebellion of solations of his boyhood's faith dis. English College, of Mgr. McIntyre, 1869, and who had later taken up pensed to the wandering adventurer, who returns to England as titular them in the northern area. It is also should become for the Catholics of Archbishop of Ossirinco, and Auxiliwan, only to be again set adrift after | the West a worthy counterpart of the | ary of the Archbishop of Birmingham. quaint old shrine on the banks of the An excellent ruler of a college, a man St. Lawrence.

THE GLEANER

NOTES AND COMMENTS

years has demonstrated once more trenches have produced many con-

THE LARGEST and most expensive printed books in the British Museum,

IT USED TO BE a common saying

THE NEW Bishop Auxiliary of St. Andrews and Edinburgh, the Rev. conversion done veoman service in where the hand of man has never | Herald, over the pen-name Alfonsus, set foot and there you will find an have made his name a household word in Scotland and given him a The Faithful Companions of reputation that may be said to be Jesus, a community of ladies that world-wide. His is, we think, the termining the bases on which have charge of schools in several first instance on record of a convert peace will be restored. And this is places in Alberta, have a summer Presbyterian minister becoming a true not only of the democratic house at the mission which was Bishop. May be long spared to nations who are fighting with us, but closed for the season on the occasion exercise his talents in the high office

SOME TWENTY-FIVE YFARS ago the racy was rigidly circumscribed by These good Religious have an institu- late Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone contriconstitutional enactment. In this tion in Edmonton engaged in work buted to the North American Review age no Government no matter what similar to that of the well known an article dealing with certain reflecautocratic powers may be constitu- Rosary Hall of Toronto. This year tions which Col. "Bob" Ingersoll had, tionally guaranteed to it, can long they have undertaken a new venture in the same periodical, made upon resist the will of the people. And it in the form of a summer camp for Mr. Gladstone's book, "The Impregremains forever true that you can't Catholic girls. They also supply nable Rock of Holy Scripture." He general survey makes the opposite name is a household word in the of the water, but his personal feeling at supper included many former expressed in a private letter, since unbiased lines. acquaintances, and, as all were from published in an out-of-the-way Ontario, it was hard to realize that periodical, in which he says: "There we were not on one of the Karwartha is something of the same objection to lakes, but more than two thousand literary conflict with Col. Ingersoll as to a scuffle with a chimney sweep. The day we visited the camp the It is perhaps as well for Ingersoll's

THE APPOINTMENT of Mr. W. A.

Every morning the majority of the less than in England. Mr. Hewins campers assist at Mass at the mission is one of the greatest authorities on Government will be moved to Mosassemble at the shore for the recita- ductive argument which have made tion of the Rosary. Thus, do the him the admiration of tariff reformfaithful children from the East per- ers and free traders alike. That he, petuate the traditional piety of the however, a pronounced Tariff Reformer, should be included in the The twenty-sixth of July is the Ministry at this time is said to be

CHANGE IS the order of the day in City is always, (or at least should be) and fully imbued with the Catholic spirit of Rome and the majesty of its traditions, Dr. McIntyre will be much missed in the Eternal City, and THE HISTORY OF the past three equally welcomed in Birmingham.

A REMOVAL of another kind was and devout Catholic life is worth a that by death of the venerable head men declared that they desired to whole library of apologetics. The of the American College, Archbishop Kennedy. Borne down by a complica tion of maladies, all of them serious, coming after a long life of strenuous labor for the good of the Church, Mgr. and the duty of the Allies to assist leaving the College in the hands of a worthy successor, Mgr. Charles the opposite shore of the lake which These parts are sold at £1 each, so The foreign colleges occupy a large

> A THIRD removal, though not in the English-speaking colony, is that of Mgr. Bianchi, private secretary to Pope Pius X. and to Benedict XV., who has resigned his high post to hagen, and are asking that Germany enter the monastery of Camaldoli, near Frascati, of whom it is well said that with him enters the retreat her German troops from Macedonia, of the Camaldolisi matter for half a and this is said to be responsible for dozen volumes of modern Church history. To have been so closely associated with the saintly Pius X. and to have with him passed through | Oct. 20. a most memorable period in the history of the Church is surely to be imbued with knowledge and with traditions worth preserving.

> CHANGES SAID to be pending are Mgr. O'Riordan, Rector of the Irish takes place in men's attitude to College, who, it is believed, is destined to succeed Bishop O'Dwyer at Limerick, and Mgr. Mackintosh, Rector of the Scots College, whom in connection with the return of the ecclesiastical rumor assigns to epis. Sisters of Mercy to England. The copal dignity in Scotland. These changes all are or will be memorable, but in the great life of Rome, men come and men go, but the undying Church goes on forever.

A CONVERT'S TESTIMONY

Cecil Chesterton, one time Socialist, now a Catholic, says of the ladies who had stood so faithful Church: "I had perceived her to their dying comrades in arms. be right on ninety-nine questions out of a hundred. On the hundredth alone I fancied her wrong. When after all she turned out to be right and the people, and in a few words on that the thing looked liked a miracle. If you look at history in women in black had undergone for small sections it is easy to make out the men at the front. The hooting a case for the view that the Church then turned to cheering, and as the is an obstruction to reform. But a regiment continued its march the fool all the people all the time. board to families that occupy tents took this notice of the Colonel's truth clear." This is the conviction Catholic News.

obstacle to progress were their minds open to historical truth and their city of Brockville. As the company as to the wisdom of this course is researches conducted along fair and is to embrace her as the mother of civilization and source and inspira tion of the world's advancement, -Catholic Transcript.

ON THE BATTLE LINE

MOON ISLAND has been cantured by the Germans following the fall of Oesel Island, and the enemy has thus practically closed the Gulf of Riga. It also appears that some of the Russian warships have been cut Hewins, M. P., as Under Secretary for off from their bases.

THE CAPTURE of Moon Island by the Germans, the decision to aban-don Reval, a fortified port at the entrance to the Gulf of Finland, and the official announcement that the of the day's news from Russia German naval and military forces continue to advance methodically in their work of securing complete control of the Gulf of Finland with the idea of later taking Petrograd. lin says 5,000 Russians were taken on Moon Island. The outlook for our Allies is a poor one, and the other members of the Entente must steel themselves for probably much worse news soon to come as a re sult of the operations now proceed ing. For the moment there is some comfort in the fact that units of the Russian fleet have shown fight, that the larger ships are still battle-line and may give a fairly good account of themselves. seems certain that several German torpedo boats have been sunk in the various engagements. It may be expected that the Germans will risk something in an attempt to clean up the Russian fleet before the winter gives it protection and endangers their own warships. So far the successes of the Germans in this region have not reacted unfavorably where on the long Russian line This may be due to the inability of their deliberate intention to devote their energies on the Eastern front to the great possibilities that Russian weaknesses have opened up for to be remembered that big successes on the northern end of the line cannot but have serious consequences eventually on the Russian positions intensely proud of his Celtic origin, to the south. There is no news of a resumption of fighting on the Russo Roumanian front, but Washington states that a cable received there records the desertion from the Austrians of an entire Austrian regiment composed almost wholly of Mohammedan Serbs from Bosnio. With its officers leading, the regiment surrendered to the Roumanians. The enlist with other Serbians fighting on this front for the Allies.

A LONDON TIMES despatch to the Globe from Rome emphasizes the shortage of the grain crop in Italy in making this good. The Italian Government itself shares the blame for its neglect to give proper attention to the question of production, but it is too late now to cry about in a very large measure due to the food question. It is to this continent that the Allies must look to make good their food shortages, and it cannot be too often repeated that food is a vital issue—the vital issue in the campaign. BULGARIA AND TURKEY are anxious regarding the situation on the Macedonian front, according to special despatches from Athens and Copensend reinforcements there. Berlin, however, owing to the situation on the Western front, would rather withdraw Turko · Bulgarian threats to make separate peace. brought about the visit of the Kaiser to Sofia and Constantinople.-Globe,

SOLDIERS RESENT INSULT TO NUNS

The Rev. Gerald C. Treacy, S. J., gives, in a recent article, an incident which illustrates the change which things Catholic when they become enlightened as to the truth. The Jesuit Father says:

There is an interesting incident Guards on their return were accompanied by some of the Sisters, and when they disembarked the com-manding officer of the regiment asked the Sisters to share the triumph by walking at the head of the column from the wharf to the barracks. Along the line of march the crowds showed their disapproval by hooting. It proved too much for the troops, one soldier broke ranks and called upon his fellows to defend the ladies who had stood so faithfully by regiment to a man brought their guns to the old 'fire' position. The colonel stepped between the troops women in black had undergone for Sisters shared in the ovation."-

LORD SHAUGHNESSY

GIVES SYMPATHETIC AND WISE ADVICE ON THE MILITARY SERVICE ACT

A statement counselling French Canadians to accept the military service act now that it is law, urging the extension of the measure, if necessary, to all branches of industry furnishing war material, and suggesting punishment for all frothy jingoes, whose only contribution to the war is language, was issued today by Lord Shaughnessy, head of the Canadian Pacific Railway System, to the His French press of this Province. Lordship was urged to define his attitude on conscription by a number of French-Canadian gentlemen. He has frequently been referred to by a part of the French papers in Quebec as opposed to conscription. The statement follows:

AGAINST UNNECESSARY RESTRICTION

"There is a germ in my system that renders obnoxious every form of legislation calculated to invade the personal liberty of the subject, save such as may be necessary for the safety of the nation and for the peace, health and general welfare of the people.

"Enforced military service in time peace, as it existed in some foreign countries, would come within my category of objectionable measures, because it has the effect of taking a man from his ordinary vocation, and for given periods making him subject to military regulations under the control of military officials, not because of any danger immediately impending, but because that within his lifetime something may occur to involve the nation in war, making trained military forces necessary. The encouragement of the military spirit in normal times is not best for the people, whose aim should be the promotion of a policy making for peace, prosperity and happiness.

THE ARGUMENT FOR MILITARISM

"But it may be said if one nation neglects its military establishment, aggressive and covetous neighbor, with its trained army and ever-ready implements of war, will one day seek a cause of quarrel and overthrow it. The gravity of this contingency admitted, it becomes apparent that good citizen of Canada loyally and the effort of nations must be not only to create and maintain military forces sufficient for defence if there be attack, but strong enough to assume the offensive, if that of policy and practice until the war is appears to be the best strategy. Should it be conceded that the safety of the nation demands an unremitting condition of military pre paredness, it may be properly asked where the limit is to be placed, because there must be a limit, or a military autocracy will ensue, such which the Allies are now determined to destroy in Germany at very serious cost.

THE ALTERNATIVE PREPAREDNESS

"If the people are to be free from this menace of militarism, there must be a pride of country and a public utterances on the subject. national spirit of patriotism that will provide all the necessary men, money and material with the least possible delay, whenever they may be needed to defend the rights and liberties of the nation, all citizens bearing their nearly as possible in like proportion.

n of the service, saving as they did a situation fraught with most serious danger, will always be a source of gratification and pride, but the regular land forces consisted of a mere handful of men, barely sufficient for the maintenance of order at home, and it became a matter of momentous importance that a large army of citizen soldiers should be organized, equipped, trained and forwarded to the fighting front with the overseas Dominions of the Empire expressed their willingness and indeed determination to supplement and assist the army of the King by sending troops and meeting other war requirements to the limit of their respective resources.

CANADA'S ATTITUDE

"Canada was among the first to declare that the War in which Britain and France were engaged for the defence of human liberty was Canada's war, too, a declaration that sounded throughout the Dominion from coast to coast by an overwhelming majority of her people. Her men of Canada responded nobly to the call for volunteers, and the overseas army went to the firing line, where their prowess and bravery won for them universal admiration. Thousands of them made the supreme sacrifice, and are buried on the battle-Other thousands period in the trenches, require rest and recuperation.

"THEY CALL TO US"

"They call to us for a further their depleted ranks, and failure to respond to that call would not only a lasting disgrace to Canada, but moment in determining the outcome of the struggle.

of direct touch with its horrors, it Easter night, the consoling Christ is absurd to assume that our interest in the outcome is different in any degree from that of any of the other people of the Entente allies. you. . . . Receive ye the Holy If by any chance the Central Powers Ghost; whose sins you shall forgive If by any chance the Central Powers thumb of an arrogant and relentless foe, and we would be reduced to a species of vassalage. All our independence, all our hopes and aspirations, and those of our children for generations to come, are bound up indissolubly in the defeat of our enemies.

CONSCRIPTION TO PRESERVE LIBERTY . "To the accomplishment of this purpose let us continue to bend all energies. Notwithstanding the apparent margin provided by the number of men sent overseas, our military authorities, having the most accurate information, declare that further reinforcements are essential. and that they cannot be secured by voluntary enlistment. In these circumstances, conscription, pronounced may be our antipathy to legislation of that description, should be accepted, not as an invasion of the personal liberty of the subject, but as a measure designed to preserve it. We must continue to equip, arm and support our own troops, and to give such material assistance to the Allies as is possible by most strenu-ous effort. Indeed, if it be necessary, the scope of the conscription bill should be so enlarged as to compel service in all branches of industry furnishing war material and supplies. SHOULD SUPPRESS FROTHY JINGOISM

"Frothy jingoism and incendiary speeches, emanating as a rule from those whose only contribution to the war is in the form of language, and which may tend to encourage domestic strife, should be supressed, and every utterance that savors of disloyalty should bring prompt punish. ment to the offender. SACRED DUTY OF EVERY GOOD CITIZEN

"Conscription is now the law of the country, and no matter what his views about the policy of the Government or the motives and methods alleged to have attended our recruiting and other war activities during the first two years of the war, now the sacred duty of every willingly to assist the authorities in putting the selective conscription law into effect with smoothness and impartiality, reserving his criticism over.

HOW TO SPEAK OF OTHERS

"The man with a substantial income feels the effect of an income tax, while one with little or no income, having nothing to pay, can cept it with equanimity, and for mewhat similar reasons the man with one or more sons is apt to have different from that of the man who has neither son or grandson to contribute. The latter class should be public utterances on the subject. Those of us who, like myself, have seen all our relatives of military age go over-seas, and who have experienced the sadness of loss and separation, cannot help feeling compassion for the parents whose affection for respective shares of the burden, as their sons makes them exaggerate the terrors of military service, but duties of the diocese will not for the young men themselves there THE SITUATION WITH BRITISH EMPIRE is no such feeling, because, if, being "At the outbreak of the present fit for service and having none of the War Britain's navy was ready, and the splendid achievements of that mand immunity, they are unwilling adopted children, and we beg of signed to them in this hour of dan. our fatherly care. If you should ger, they are neglecting their duty as judge that we are able to offer you citizens and selfishly evading their some service, ask it from us, or ask of Philadelphia. share of the burden that the country has to bear.'

CONFESSION'S SOCIAL VALUE

If the whole world were suddenly utmost promptness. This work was undertaken by the late Lord Kitchener, and immediately all of the guilty of mortal sin were to go at once to confession, and continued thereafter to do so whenever they were unfortunate enough to offend are attached to the sad conditions of your present lot. Would to God, permanent would be the moral regeneration of the human race. inclinations would be weakened, had habits would be broken, and good resolutions would be carried out with singular success. Strengthened in will by the worthy reception of the Sacrament of Penance, and guided by the confessor's prudent counsel, most penitents would shun, as a rule, the occasions of sin and would walk the narrow way with joyful steadfastness. The advantages to the State of the general practice of confession would be quite incalculable. Drunkenness with its train of evils would all but disappear, political corruption and com- years that begins at the cradle and nercial dishonesty would no longer be the dreary commonplaces they are, continency would be the fragrant wounded or taken prisoners, thus virtue of young and old, justice and sacrifices, must ultimately come out putting them out of service, and a equity would rule the relations of great many others, after a long capital and labor, and wars would among us to whom Our Lord does serving as noncombatants in hospiduration.

Those who doubt that such a wonderful moral revolution could take place simply through the universal use of and to live. There is not a single twenty one to sixty five. of men to fill the gaps in Confession, need only be reminded station of life we may find ourselves that Our Divine Lord instituted the in, in which, if we consider it well, Sacrament of Penance on purpose to God is not our light and an attractive restore the fallen to His grace. might be a matter of no small was the Risen Saviour's Paschal greeting to the world. For, as St. John the Evangelist tells us, when 'Although we are remote from the the fear-stricken, wavering Apostles succeeded in defeating Britain and they are forgiven them, and whose her Allies, our freedom would be sins you shall retain, they are regone. We would be under the tained." He thus instituted a Sacrament that was meant to be as a second plank after shipwreck," on of the most civilizing, salutary and uplifting institutions the world contains .- America.

CARDINAL MERCIER WELCOMES EXILES

The following translation of an address by Cardinal Mercier to Belgian and French refugees is so much the true expression of the devoted pastor's feeling for his flock as to be worth reading. The trans-lation is from Die Stem vit Belge:

My dearly beloved brethren, there lies on my tongue a word that I am afraid to utter. I am afraid you will take it as a joke. I would like to say to all of you: Welcome! However, where can the exile enjoy any rest? How could he bring to silence his lamentations over his fatherland or the country from which he has been banished?

We were, in the gloomy days August, 1914, the witnesses of the flight of our terrorized population at the approach of the German intruders; dreadful scenes of confusion, heartrending and distressing. military ordinance has subjected to the same sad lot. Coming from the northern districts of France or from the borders of our own Flanders, where you had been terrified by the continuous thundering of the cannon, now, children, girls, women and mothers, old men, you have been forced to flee, because your lives were in imminent danger. You have said good bye to your possessions, to your homes, to all that you hold in dearest memory; you have left them the prey of the flames; you will find them no more; you will never see them again!

Ah, how I feel your distress and how I take part in it! After you have, like so many others, offered a father, a husband, sons, brothers upon the altar of your country, you have been brought now to offer your homes, too, your villages and towns, all-your belongings; and loaded with heavy burdens, poorly fed and having little or no rest, you take with great hardship the road to the unknown future. Please do not take it in bad part, my dearest refugees, that I thank Divine Providence that has so willed it that the place of refuge for you happens to be our diocese. in this way, you will not be offended, I hope, if I say to all of you: Welcome to our midst! Our family circle has grown larger, our hearts have broadened; the homes of our diocesans are wide open the municipalities, Sisters' institutions and the clergy have put themselves heartily at your disposal, and we ourselves, like all them, we come to give you our episcopal blessing. It would be for us the sweetest consolation to pay you all a personal visit, to converse with you, to become acquainted with your wishes and receive here and there the expression of some hitherto repressed complaint. The pressing us to enjoy that sweet satisfaction. But, my priests know it and it is my ardent wish that you should know it, adopted children, and we beg of you to trust yourselves firmly to your priests, who are your most faithful guardians and your most devoted pastors, to obtain from us that favor in their name. We exhort our beloved diocesans to surround you with brotherly attentions and to edify you. On your side I beg you to help in your conduct the good name of your country; you will; I beg, bear up nationally with the human frailties of those you will come in contact with and the unavoidable privations which your present lot. Would to God, dearly beloved refugees, that the solitary and quiet life and the hard trials that are yours now may be for all of you the means of getting nearer to our Lord and of increasing your love for Him!

Divine Providence has thought of everything and has foreseen everything. Divine Providence has fore this scattering of families all over Europe and the circumstances that led to it. Our Lord Jesus Christ called Himself "the way, the truth and the life," "the way" that leads to "the truth" without our destiny, shade, "the life" not of the body but of the soul: not this life of a few life which, beginning in tears and well as through His doctrine, the way believe, the life he has to embrace

It power. He was scarcely born before He arm and under the guardianship of Mass in the open or underground. believers and acted in their lives. St. Joseph, takes the road of the desert, towards an unknown country. them has been high and ennobling Egypt. anxieties, the sufferings, the privations, the distress of Mary and Joseph during the long journey from Nazareth to the bank of the Nile River; think of their loneliness in this foreign pagan country, which had no of life, connection, either civil or religious, with Judea or Galilee; think of the long duration of their exile, which, according to the most common tradition, lasted seven years. Think of uncertainty on their return to Palestine; and then, wonder at the serenity of their souls. at their quiet submission to the of God, at the magnanimity in their

As for yourselves, my dear refuto the liberty of your homes and have your dwellings rebuilt under the sky of your country, ask Him also to give you the grace to carry the hardships of your exile with faith, patience and courage in union with the Holy with Jesus, Mary, Joseph, and under their most powerful protection.-The Monitor.

THREE GREAT CANADIAN ACHIEVEMENTS

It is not the fashion for the British to brag. They prefer to let their substantial accomplishments speak for themselves. But there are occasions when Canadians may frankly express a little justifiable pride in their peaceful triumphs as well as in their war record. Let us refer to three great achievements of recent date which appear to have received more attention and greater eulogy elsewhere than in Canada. These are; (1) The great Canadian telescope of the Dominion Observatory at Victoria, B. C. A recent issue of The Scientific American contains an illus trated article in which it is stated that this new instrument is than any telescope now in use, and will be for a time at least the largest in the world." The Scientific American adds that this 72 inch reflecting telescope "represents the very latest advances in astronomical and engineering science, and is not only the largest but the most complete and convenient in operation of any ever built.'

(2) The new Quebec bridge, with passenger roads, and its vast single span of 1,800 feet, the Forth bridge coming next with a span of 1,710

(3) The new Government railway terminal docks at Halifax, N. S., which The Scientific American declares are the greatest in the world largest of the modern sea leviathans. merit. When the War is over the value of these docks will be more apparent.

HEROIC PRIESTS OF FRANCE

MSGR. BAUDRILLART'S VIEW Paris, Oct. 1.-Monseigneur Alfred Baudrillart, orator and author, Vicar-General of Paris, honorary canon of Notre Dame, rector of the Catholic Institute and second highest dignitary of the Catholic Church in the French capital, received me to day in his study in the ancient building of been a Catholic institution writes the celebrated French novelist

'I am very proud," he said, " of the part played by the Roman Catholic clergy of France in this terrible War. Nearly 25,000 priests have been mobilized since the early August days of 1914. More than 18,000 are now serving the country and the army in one of three capacities, and about 7,000 have given their lives for France.

FRANCE A CATHOLIC NATION

"In all, our clergy have been cited in more than 7,000 orders of the day, and many have received the Croix de Guerre, the military medal, and the Legion of Honor, with more than 900 receiving the entire three. I have a fund of personal records, each a story in itself, that, when time permits, shall be combined into a boo ing the heroic, the simple, the beautithe Christian deeds of these ordained men, either under fire or in circumstances of exceptional char-

"Educated for the practice of pacific profession, many very humble and unknown save to their bishops and in their own communities they have each and all risen to a height of sublimity and Christian heroism risen in countless ways during the ends at the grave, but the "life" that once started, can end no more; that servants of Christ and servants, too of France, are divided into three of rare occurrence and of short not show through His example as tals or some essential administrative capacity, yet under military jurisdiche has to follow, the truth he has to | tion, and the fighting priests in uniform. They are of all ages, from

> "The chaplains, or aumoniers have been constantly under fire, aiding in bringing in wounded men from a field of blood to a poste de secours He was scarcely born before He was threatened with death, and thus became the Divine model of the refugees; persecuted by Herod, the Divine Infent carried on His Mother's and performing their religious duties under circumstances without pre-

Think, my brethren, of the from every point of view. The fight ing priest is in the ranks, a simple poilu, a non-commissioned officer or graded. Some exercise a genuine moral influence also, and as soldiers are the equal of any in other walks

France has always been a Christian and a Catholic nation. I make this statement flat, and since it would involve too much detail of statistics to demonstrate it, to show concluof their voyage sively that during the twelve years preceding 1914, despite the separation of 1905, she remained so, I you to permit me to lay statistics aside and let the evidence rest pure ly upon the events of the last thirty-As for yourselves, my dear refugees, while you pray to God that you thousands of priests serving in the might be restored as soon as possible army and their countless deeds of sacrifice, Catholic devotion and They have witnessed the heroism. attitude of hundreds of thousands of him. French soldiers attending Christian services, serving at the Mass in the They have witnessed the true Catholic devotion of the very great majority of the inhabitants of France.

And then, look without rancor, without passion, upon Germany; see the sacrilege of which she has been guilty: the conduct of her armies in desecrating the houses of God.

Both these things are sufficient. They prove which nation is Christian' which has close to its heart the greater glory of God. Ad perpetuam rei memoriam

The classic doctrine of the Church is based upon, in its application to just war, four ideas that combine all theology — justice, right, pity and charity. The first is the deep essential that a war should be just in its motive and consequently always a war of defence at the beginning as e would defend his hearthstone fro the thief that comes in the night and after a struggle, overpowers him. Such we are waging, such our priests are helping to wage, and for such more than 7,000 among the alumni and student body of this institute are offering their lives. And all these men of whom I speak are Catholic Christians, as are hundreds and hundreds of thousands of others wearing the uniform of France. Truly, then, France is a Christian country, and in the great majority of its population a Catholic Christian country as of old, 'the eldest daughter of the Church.'

Monseigneur Baudrillart is a protwo railway tracks and two liftc and able writer. His books senger roads, and its vast single number more than 200 upon many subjects, among which moral philos ophy, moral science, the Church and the history of the Bourbons from many perspectives predominate. His literary work has been thrice laureled by the Academic Francaise, has been honored and capable of accommodating the Kings of Italy and Spain for literary

TWO "CREDOS"

A writer in one of our popular magazines, assuming for the moment, the character and tone of a lay preacher, formulates a religious creed and advises American fathers to teach it to their children. It is as follows: "I believe in work and the joy of work. I believe in the service and FOUR the joy of service. I believe in the and ONE ORPHANAGE. care of the body, abstemiousness, exercise, for without health I can do arrangement by which a steady, nothing. I believe in the power of though insufficient, supply of priests growth by training, in the power of love and its growth by training; not love for personal salvation, but love the priesthood and were willing to for humanity that must abolish come to Canada. There they prefor humanity that must abolish poverty and war. I believe in unieducation and equal opportunity for men and women alike. I believe in the Christ spirit, I bow before the Supreme Creator and this arrangement, AND THERE IS draw comfort and strength from the ocean of son! force that surrounds TIME TO SAVE THE FAITH OF It cannot be said that this new creed imposes any very heavy dog-matic or moral burdens upon its adherents. Commonplace in its was in possession of the Austrians, principles and indefinite in expression, it has the power neither to again of the Germans and Austrians. satisfy the mind nor control the lts young men have been killed or heart. It is of the earth, earthly. It scattered or deprived of the means explains nothing. It leads nowhere.

Materialistic views of life tinge its FROM THAT QUARTER FOR MANY articles. Earthly horizons bound and narrow its outlook. It satisfies none of the deeper and nobler yearnings and wants of our nature. Natural activities, humanitarian concepts of life are the highest levels to which it ascends. The true concept of God, of immortality, of personal in Canada. When there were no responsibility and of sanction for the priests to attend to their spiritual deeds done in the flesh is ignored. needs the second and third genera-welief in the "Christ spirit" has a tion lost the faith. Is this to be the pietistic ring that may deceive some, but it is vague, meaningless. It might be the creed of a Unitarian or a Buddhist. If the adherent of this | They must be Ruthenians, not only new creed bows before the Supreme Creator, he seems to turn to other sources for comfort and strength and expects "the ocean of soul force" around us to do that which the Creator alone is able to perform. It is the creed of the natural man, without stable foundation, without horizon, without a look to those higher regions and those nobler realms for which man was created. It is an unphilosophical creed, setting love of humanity above the love of personal salvation. It is an unwise and imprudent one, for it neglects the noblest ends and the highest responsibilities.

How different it is from the "Credo" which for so many centurscene of conflict, and therefore out were gathered together the first Divine Infant, carried on His Mother's cedent, in many cases celebrating ies has been repeated on the lips of How inferior the commonplaces, the naturalistic dogmas of this modern "Credo," to the solemn, yet simple and illuminating words of the Catholic 'Credo," I believe in God, the Father Almighty, Creator of Heaven and Earth." How superior the profession of Faith of the Catholic father teaching his child the story of the life, the death, the resurrection, and the dogma of the Divinity, of Christ, to that vapid profession of the modern father in "the Christ spirit" he would try to inculcate upon his child. Belief in self-control, in the growth of the will is far easier than belief in the mysteries of the resurrection of the dead, the forgiveness of sins. But it cannot do what belief in these solemn dogmas can accomplish for the soul-tame lawless passions and desires, lift the eyes of the child beyond th dark and gloomy horizons to which the modern "Credo" This modern "Credo" not satisfy. It looks down. is no buoyancy in it. It is dull, flat and unprofitable. It center of pravity of human life, According to this modern "Credo. man and man's faculties and man's activities are for man himself personally or for men in the aggregate The old "Credo," which the modern substitute and counterfeit would oust from the heart of the father and the child alike teaches with Divine authority that man and his faculties and his activities are for God. That creed is worthy of man and humanity, the only one which can make the individual and the race truly great and happy.—America.

THE CATHOLIC CHURCH EXTENSION SOCIETY OF CANADA

THE RUTHENIANS

The Catholic Directory for 1917 says that the number of Catholics in the Ruthenian diocese of Canada is about 250,000, while the number of priests is given as 29. At present the number of priests is 26, and one of them is engaged in the necessary work of editing a Catholic weekly paper in the Ruthenian language. In other words there is ONE priest for every TEN/THOUSAND SOULS.

Unless conditions are improved it is not possible to save those people from loss of Faith. One priest for every thousand souls is the normal condition of safety.

A century ago the French Canadians were about the same number as the Ruthenians are now in Can-A century hence the descend ants of the latter will be numbered Canada. WILL THEY BE CATHOLICS?

The two cases are not at all paral-The French were grouped in one Province. The Ruthenians are scattered over the Dominion. The French had been in the country over a century and a half in close connection with the Church in France, and had developed educational and charitable institutions. A Catholic College was founded in Quebec in 1635. The Ruthenians came to Canada in recent years, poor and unorganized, and their Catholic institutions, as given in the Directory, consist of FOUR ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS

Before the War there was an the capital of Galitia, received young men of that nation who aspired to pared to begin Theology. Then they came to this country and com pleted their course in a Canadian Seminary. The War put an end to NO HOPE OF ITS RENEWAL IN THE RUTHENIANS. Galitia has been devastated by the War. Contending armies surged back and forth over that country. First it then of the Russians, and THERE IS NO HOPE YEARS, even after peace is de clared.

Must the Catholic faith of so many people in Canada wither and die before our eyes? We know how isolated groups of Irish and Scotch Catholics fared here and there needs the second and third generafate of the Ruthenians?
The problem is this: how can we more Ruthenian priests? supply on account of the language, but also because their priests say Mass in the Greek Ruthenian Rite.

There is only one way. enable ishop Budkato select Ruthenian boys and educate them. have a college adapted to his needs. The Ruthenian people would themselves willingly finance an institu-tion of this kind if they could be reached. They will help as far as they can be reached, but a Diocese with only 26 priests cannot under take a new college. We must help them, as the Society for the Propa gation of the Faith helped us when we were also in need.

The Catholic Church Extension Society of Canada expects to be the medium through which this sorely needed work may be done. OUR HEAD OFFICE is at 67 BOND ST., TORONTO.

> T. O'DONNELL, P. P. PRESIDENT.

THREE CONVERTS CELEBRATE HIGH MASS

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 27.-A decidedly unusual feature at Mass on Sunday, in the Church of St. Paul, this city, was the sight of three priests at the altar, who were converts to the Faith. The celebrant of the Mass was Rev. William Atwater, who was ordained to the priesthood recently by Cardinal Farley. Father Atwater, who began, six years ago, to study for the Episcopal ministry, became a convert to the Catholic faith about a year later. liam Jurney, deacon of the Mass, was, before he became a Catholic, for some time a curate at the P. E. Church of St. Paul, Brooklyn. He was ordained about a year ago in Rome. The sub-deacon was Rev. Charles Danforth who also studied for the Episcopal ministry, and later became a Catholic.

ORIGIN OF THE ROSARY

As it was through Mary that God gave us His adorable Son, so it was through her that He gave the world the prayer so especially pleasing to God and His Virgin Mother. saint whom she selected for its introduction and propagation was the heroic Dominic Guzman. For seven weary years he had prayed labored for the conversion of the Albigenses, a powerful and irreligious sect that had spread desolation over a large portion of southern France; whose paths had been marked with rapine and blood, ruined provinces and burned churches, and who were possessed with a satanic hatred of Jesus in the Blessed Sacrament, and of His Immaculate Mother. his efforts bearing so little fruit, the saint appealed to the Mother of God to aid him in the conversion of that obdurate people. It was then that Mary appeared to him. Addressing her devout servant, she said: of good heart, Dominic; you know it was at the price of the blood of God's only begotten Son that the souls of men were ransomed; nor is it His will that these whom He redeemed should new perish. There shall be a remedy for these many evils. Make known to the people, then, the form of prayer I am about to give you; teach them that it is most agreeable to my Son and to me. great means for the overcoming of heresy, for exterminating vice and encouraging virtue, for imploring the mercy of God. I shall be ever ready to succor those who invoke my aid through this form of prayer, which I leave to you and your Order as a lasting inheritance. known to him the nature and form of his study in the ancient building of the Rue Vaugirard, which for upward of one hundred and fifty years has in the power of self control and its canada. The Seminary in Lemberg, will remain barren until watered by this heavenly dew."—The Guardian

FATHER FRASER'S CHINESE MISSION

Taichowfu, China, Nov. 26, 1916. Dear Readers of CATHOLIC RECORD That your charity towards my mission is approved by the highest ecclesiastical authorities of Canada let me quote from a letter from His Excellency, The Most Rev. Peregrina F. Stagni, O. S. M., D. D., Apostolic Delegate, Ottawa: "I have been Delegate, Ottawa: "I have watching with much interest contributions to the Fund opened on behalf of your missions by the CATH-OLIC RECORD. The success has been very gratifying and shows the deep interest which our Catholic people take in the work of the missionary in foreign lands. . . I bless you most cordially and all your labors, as a pledge my earnest wishes for your greatest success in all your undertakings." I entreat you to continue the support of my struggling mission, assuring you a remem brance in my prayers and Masses. Yours faithfully in Jesus and Mary J. M. FRASER

Previously acknowledged... $11.796 45 J. M. Scott, High River Thanksgiver, Paris 2 00 Mrs. Ed. Kavanagh, Camp-1 25

5 00

bell's Bay..... L. F., Strome

Merchants Bank of Canada ESTABLISHED 1864

Paid Up Capital, $7,000,000 | Total Deposits, $ 92,102,072 Reserve Funds, 7,421,292 Total Assets, 121,130,558 GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS 236 Branches and Agencies in Canada

Savings Department at All Branches Deposits Received and Interest Allowed at Best Current Rates
Bankers to the Grey Nuns, Montreal; St. Augustine's Seminary, St.
Joseph's Academy, and St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto.

REV. F. P. HICKEY, O. S. B, TWENTY-SECOND SUNDAY AFTER PENTECOST

THE CARE OF OUR SOULS "To God the things that are God's." (Matt'

The answer of Our Blessed Lord to the Pharisees, tempting Him to speak disloyally of Casar, is full of wisdom, which grows upon us as we think of it. He easily confutes think of it. He easily confutes their wiles, simply by saying: "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's," but He added, "And to God the things that are Which of us can say we are the faithful servant who has done

The things that are God's ?" What have we that is not from God? He has given us our living body with its faculties and senses, our will, memory, and understanding, our immortal soul made after His own image and likeness. And when we have defiled and ruined this soul, He has given us a plenteous Redemp tion, His Sacraments, His Church, the title-deeds of Heaven.

*nd we have to render service to God with all and for all these favours and graces. That is the work of our We have to know Him, love Him, serve Him. Our mind and heart and soul to be all His. Our whole being to be impregnated with this one thought, "All for God, and

God alone.' And when do we do all this. What a humiliation to own it! To Him, Who gives us our lives, we render short hour or half-hour on a Sunday, even if we are regular at that. We render Him two or three ly at intervals. Now and then, at an minutes at night; but perhaps in our hurry, only the sign of the cross in the morning! And our thoughts and affections? Alas! many a time, for a day together, not one thought of Heaven, or the cross, or the tabernacle. And even when we do pray, do we render homage to Him with heart and soul, though it is He, Who gave us our heart and soul where-many of us are like this? We do not of this peril that one finds the most mean to rebel as know our duty. Every child can know our duty. Every child can answer rightly, "Of which must you take most care, of your body or of your soul?" To see your soul? "Of my soul." To see Every child can life. for God contrast it with the waste of time, and the interest, love, and near the head of it. . . Once, labour squandered over things that are useless. Let Casar stand for the devil, the world, the flesh, our predominant passion, and what have they all given to you? Render to them what they have bestowed upon But do not steal and give to them God's time, that He has given you, and God's other gifts, your will and memory, your heart, your precious immortal soul itself!

Alas! that is what so many do. Half an hour's Mass a week begrudged to God; to our passions and pleasures and greed, six days a week, long and late hours are not enough? We steal most of the Sunday, the Lord's Day, from Him too. To pray, to raise up our minds and hearts to God, we find dry and monotonous and weary; but to gossip, to indulge in idle and often filthy long hours seem only minutes; closing time in the public house comes all to soon, but the shortest of sermons we find too long in the house of God.

And is it true that we, with our intelligence, our faith, our immortal souls, have so demeaned ourselves as excess as of rolling in the kennel like concerning these Arabian knights of led astray from Almighty God, and bodies, let us take a lesson from the care we bestow upon them. What he was in an alcoholic trance. When in French "the word Catholic is used he went out to kill, the real man in only in connection with the Church the minority in the Cabinet, mindful anxious we are about them. When we mention food we include drink, and to indulge in that and in high living, to gratify the appetite and lust of one man, how many a family has been ruined and how many children made destitute!

And clothing; it is right to be well clothed, but think of the hours spent | crime.—The Tablet. through vanity in devising, in heartburnings and jealousies, the debts and petty thefts, all incurred for fine

And medicine and care when sick ness comes upon us. What pain and operations will men undergo even for and let die and rot in sin, and the food above all, without cost or price, were held in the Cathedral at Alen Established; or The Church of Scot-

FIVE MINUTE SERMON heavenly Bread ready for the children, if they would only come.
Starved like the prodigal, yet no, they will not come where there is bread enough and to spare.

And our souls are naked too, and we care not. Good works and virtuous actions are the clothing of the soul, and God's grace a garment. And our souls are sick unto death. Here is the tribunal of Penance, and there we know we can be healed. The good Lord is waiting for us to come and be healed. And how many will not.

To God the things that are God's.' And are we keeping our poor soul back from God? Starving it, letting it go naked, watching it dying, and never seeking a remedy? The care that we have lavished on our body, will condemn us at the Judgment, contrasted with the want of care, the neglect of our souls. That soul is God's, created by Him, purchased by Him with His Blood; then cherish it and love it, and loyally render it back to Him, Who gave it to you.

TEMPERANCE

DRINK AND BE SOBER

Vance Thompson, who has written a stirring and impressive indictment of alcohol under the ironical title, "Drink and Be Sober," says:

Alcohol is a curious thing. It is often as erratic in its manifestations as electricity. Its ordinary way of work is to degenerate its man making for general organic degeneracy, with progressive waning of the intellectual faculties. Now and then it has another way. Instead of slowly murdering its man, it attacks him furiousunforseen moment, out of the blue a drink storm beats upon him and sweeps him away from his usual moorings. . . The best man who drinks is never sure that crime The best man may not get him; that when his moral discrimination is put to sleep by the drug a strange new criminality may not start up in him. chance is one in a hundred. If it be only one in a thousand it is a bad How can we account for it that so chance to take, and it is on the edge awful and the most sad tragedies of

> One such adventure in life haunts me. The youth I loved most was an undergraduate at one of the English universities. Destiny had given him remember we had wandered far afield debating the old Utopian idea, and a winter night shut down on us. We went into a little wayside inn for dinner and took what we could get. It was an alehouse and there was no wine to be had. And I remember his pathetic exclamation, "How can a gentleman dine without a half pint of claret? Now, in the horoscope of this grave witness it. I was not even in England, but what happened I know, and I know the end. He had been studying hard and late and in the afternoon he rode out for an hour or sothose were the days when youth took its pleasure on a horse and he came with some friends. There you have from an American contemporary him at a trifle before 8 o'clock. He 'There can be no possible misunder. had never been drunk in his life; he standing when people speak of "Cath-could say. How could he? Science would have made clear to day that

FLOWER"

An Irish lady, residing in France, stretch out the little span of life.

Contrast, then, the body, my dear brethren, cared for so anxiously, and our immortal soul, that we let starve and go naked before the eyes of God, and let die and rot in sin, and the stretch out the little span of life.

Contrast, then, the body, my dear brethren, cared for so anxiously, and our immortal soul, that we let starve same special soul, that we let starve some years since. He lived in the theory or other form of shurch soil. has written to a friend in Dublin as the same thing,' said the agent. house in which Sister Teresa was which is opposed to the words of the heavenly Physician only waiting to born. It is always crowded with be asked, and our soul would be priests, soldiers, and men and women all ecclesiastical history and tradihealed!

Yes, the food of our soul is holy prayer, that brings down the manna of grace to feed our soul. And the food above all without cost or role of th

Has Not Had An Hour's Sickness Since Taking "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MR. MARRIOTT 73 Lees Ave., Ottawa, Ont.,

August 9th, 1915. "I think it my duty to tell you what "Fruit-a-tives" has done for me. Three years ago, I began to feel rundown and tired, and suffered very much from Liver and Kidney Trouble. Having read of "Fruit-a-tives", I thought I would try them. The result was surprising. During the 31 years past, I have taken them regularly and would not change for anything. I have not had an hour's sickness since I commenced using "Fruit-a-tives", and I know now what I haven't known for a good many years—that is, the blessing of a healthy body and clear thinking

WALTER J. MARRIOTT.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, continues to live on in the Maison de Soeur Therese. She has just returned from the National Pilgrimage to Lourdes, which was an enormous affair." Readers of the life of the Little Flower are familiar with the story of Mr. Grant's remarkable conversion from Presbyterianism to the Church.

THE TERM CATHOLIC

word "Roman" Catholic in connection with the forthcoming census in New Zealand, the New Zealand Tablet remarks:

"Judging by the practice of standard writers—such as Macaulay, Edmund Burke, James Martineau, Lecky, Ruskin, Tennyson, etc.-literand gentle lad was the maddest night ever written by the stars. I did not term is the peculiar designation of the church or religious body which has for its visible head on earth the Pope or Bishop who sits upon the Chair of St. Peter in Rome. The The extent to which this age long term 'Catholic' is embodied and embedded in general literature is admirably back and dressed to dine in town illustrated in the following extract hesitated even then; but there was a was the half pint of claret sort of a olic Emancipation," or when Tennyman; the man who wets his pipe son in "Queen Mary" makes Elizawith a glass or two of whiskey and beth refer to Philip of Spain as "The a clean-mannered man who proud Catholic prince'; or when would as soon think of drinking to Ruskin, in "Fors Clavigera," writes God, I'm a Chicago Catholic.' "Tis for all the future of the world, or 'The Freewill Baptists'; and so on. In the ordinary and long-fixed usage watched American opinion, and wait-In the ordinary and long-fixed usage of the words, the overwhelming body of Christian people understand by designation 'Catholic Church' the Church of Rome and no other. The word 'Roman' is not used as an identifying prefix, and therefore, outside legal formalities its use is used. side legal formalities its use is unnecessary. When Catholics employ the superfluous word 'Roman' in reference to themselves, they do so either in accordance with official authority as the possible mediator requirements or merely to emphasize who in the end might bring back the Roman headship of the Church. People outside our fold sometimes use the term 'Roman' in this connec tion by way of denial that the Church in communion with the Pope is the one and only universal Church. Apart, therefore, from legal requirements, Catholics should ever call their Church by her unique and long-consecrated title, 'The Catholic Church'; and should avoid bestowing upon her a designation which is not of our creation, and which is nowhere recognized in her official formula."— The Advocate. THE ONE COMMON CAUSE

WHOLE ENGLISH-SPEAKING WORLD FIGHTING FOR THE SAME IDEALS AND THE SAME COMMON PURPOSE

(J. G. Snead-Cox in the Dublin Review)

For the first time in its history the whole English-speaking world is fighting in a common cause. Great Britain and the United States, and all the free Dominions ringed round the earth, are in arms for the same ideals, and have been brought into the battle under the same compulsion That is the greatest event in all history for speakers of English and for the "men who think as Shakespeare wrote." When Austria, nine years ago violating the Treaty of Berlin, sudden annexed Bosnia and Heregovina, the German Michael stood by her side "in shining armour" to threaten anyone who might wish to interfere with the wrongdoer. It was an open challenge to the Slav world, and there was none to take it up. Russia, still sick from her struggle with Japan, let the thing pass in sullen silence. But it begat the bitter agi-tation which bore fruit at length in the assassinations at Sarajevo. Then the secret quarrel between the Cen-In an article on the use of the tral Powers and the Slav peoples flamed out into the open. Austria made demands, and Serbia abased herself. Of the eleven things asked by Austria ten were conceded by the little kingdom for the sake of peace, and even in the case of the eleventh demand she offered to await mediation of the Powers or to abide by a reference to the Hague Tribunal. Her ways were the ways of peace. Every true pacifist was with her. But Austria wanted war, and was in a hurry, and would give no time. Then Russia, seeing that the Austrian cards were on the table, began to mobilize a portion of her widely scattered forces. Vienna might have greater Power behind her; and Ger-many rushed in and called upon the

Government of the Czar to disarm

and to give an answer within twelve hours. Russia's reply was a foregone conclusion; and Germany at once declared war. France was bound by treaty to side with Russia, and she kept her word. to be content with such a foolish, sinful life? Money, or drink, or pride, or envy, or unboly love—are the strick him. At 10 clearly he was a content with such a foolish, where we went that evening I do not know. The blue biggraphy that "Dante's heaven is the strick him. At 10 clearly he was a content with such a foolish, where we went that evening I do not know. The blue biggraphy that "Dante's heaven is the strick him. At 10 clearly he was a content with such a foolish, a dog.

Venice and the Catholic Church; or when Leigh Huntsays in his auto-biggraphy that "Dante's heaven is the country was utterly unprepared for truth in a paradox: "He that wishes pride, or envy, or unholy love—are these the idols that we have set up? Are we to render to them our life and our very souls?

Enough of this, my dear brethren, we are ashamed of having thus been were ashamed of having thus been hard, and five minutes later he shot interaction. The bolt from the blue biography that Dante's heaven is the sublimation of a Catholic church"; or when Carlyle says that "the ideas and feelings of a man's moral nature have never found in the country was utterly unprepared for sublimation of a Catholic church"; or when Carlyle says that "the ideas and feelings of a man's moral nature have never found in the pression in form as they found in the pression, the principal Government of the sublimation of a Catholic church"; or when Carlyle says that "the ideas and feelings of a man's moral nature have never found in the pression in form as they found in the pression, the principal Government or sublimation of a Catholic church"; or when Carlyle says that "the ideas and feelings of a man's moral nature have never found in the pression in form as they found in hand, and five minutes later he shot noble cathedrals of Catholicism;" or ment organ in the press used these wasting His precious gifts.

Let us be practical. Our soul is the centre of all God's gifts and bless.

The bland Arminghty God, and wasting His precious gifts.

and Armingh the centre of all God's gifts and blessing sto us. If we save our soul we do indeed "render to God the things that are God's." How, then, can we make sure of that? We must take care of it; it is precious and immortal.

We are clever enough about our bedies lat is take a lesson from the when Becherell's dictionary says that a Liberal Government was firmly in our bodies? Food, clothing, and medicine when we ail. And what thought we give to these things, how anxious we are about them. When the Catholics. In the word the world has fixed the use of the word "Cathon the Channel. So much at least more about this boy's life and death, only this: No man who plays with the lawless force of alcohol knows when or where the bolt from the blue will strike. No man knows. For inexorably as a triangle is important the Caenones. In the Caenones was due to France in view of the ward "Catholic" to suit itself; and, as that use happens to be in accord with the ball exists to the discussion of the Channel. So much at least was due to France in view of the ward "Catholic" to suit itself; and, as that use happens to be in accord with the ball exists to the discussion of the Channel. So much at least was due to France in view of the ward "Catholic" to suit itself; and, as that use happens to be in accord with the ball exists to the word "Catholic" to suit itself; and, as that use happens to be in accord with the ball exists to the word "Catholic" to suit itself; and, as that use happens to be in accord with the caenones. In the Caenones was due to France in view of the ward "Catholic" to suit itself; and, as that use happens to be in accord with the caenones was due to France in view of the ward the ward "Catholic" to suit itself; and, as that use happens to be in accord with the caenones was due to France in view of the ward "Catholic" to suit itself; and, as that use happens to be in accord with the ward "Catholic" to suit itself; and a catholic "Catholic" to suit itself; and a bedded in a circle there is hidden in alcohol the swift potentiality of literary English, the term 'Catholic' tion at the beginning of August, 1914, is used with the same exclusive and nothing but a great crime could application to the Church which is in have forced Great Britain at that PARSON CONVERTED BY "LITTLE Romanist?' asked the land agent of trained against Liege did for England Mr. Dooley. 'A which?' said he, 'Are you a Roman Catholic?' 'No, thank do for the United States. 'Happily lish-speaking people into the field is the Blessed Sacrament of the altar. con, where Sister Teresa was bapland; or The Free Church of Scot Mindful of their own hesitation and Here in our Father's house the table is always laid, the cloth spread, the Teresa lead me to God.' Mrs. Grant Church'; or 'The Methodist Church'; ways of peace, the British public has

world, raised a clear, clean issue

which all classes and ranks in Great Britain could understand. It was a of triumphant Kaiser. They under-stood also, and made allowance for the President's natural wish not to do anything which might impair his peace to the world. But still, though all this was well understood, the hope that America would come to see the issues involved in the great strife as we had seen them, persisted, and it grew. For there are times when the spectator of a wrong becomes its accomplice, and when it is better to be a champion than a judge. None could complain that President Wilson was over hasty when he called upon Congress for a Declaration of War, which was but another Declaration of Independence. A hundred and ten American citizens, many of them women and children, went to death in the Lusitania and to this hour their murderers have not been brought to account. Even when in February, 1917, an indiscriminate and ruthless sea war was declared against neutrals and belligerents alike, the President held his hand, unable to believe that Germany could be as bad as her word. It was only when the experience of many month had shown that the German sub marines were running amuck, sink ing traders, passenger ships, fishing boats, and even hospital vessels lade with wounded men and nurses, that America made up its mind treachery and murder on the seas must be withstood.

THE CHRISTIAN CHARACTER

Professor Peabody of Harvard, in his excellent book—though written in a rationalistic spirit—"Jesus Christ and the Christian character, nentions three distinguishing marks of the Christian character: sacrifice, service, and idealism.

The popular idea of character is self-realization. Sacrifice, on the contrary, means self effacement, and yet there is no real contradiction between these two things. The genuine self of man is not on the surface, nor found in the primitive impulses of nature. To get down to the real self, man must excavate and work off many a layer of selfishness. This costs sacrifices, but the end is a realization of the true self.

Thus it appears how self-effacement and self-realization are not the contradictories which at first they seem to be. Christ expresses the paradox in the words: wishes to save his soul must lose it.

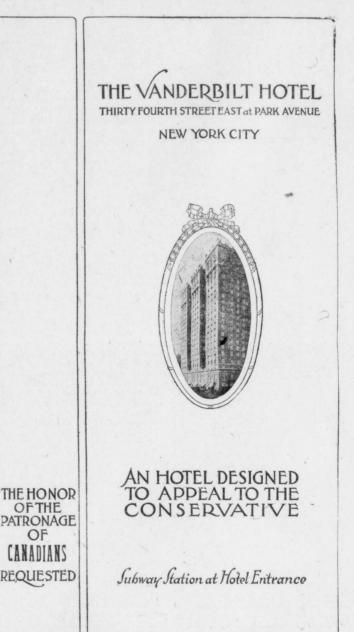

If sacrifice constitutes the depth of the Christian character, service marks its width. Society is an organism of which the several units are the members. Now as no member of the body can be isolated from the others without fatal consequences to itself, so no member of society is safe in selfish isolation. The rich are not safe as long as the poor are discontented; the healthy are not immune from contagion as long as unsanitary conditions are neglected in any part of the community. Hence the Christian law of love, whenever it has taken possession of an individual, will make him eager out ostentatiously or carelessly will not cement human brotherhood; it to be the greatest among you, let him be your servant."

And, finally, the height of the Christian character consists in its juealism. By this we mean that the horizon of the Christian extends beyond the tangible and visible objects of this terrestrial world. short, the Christian character attains from the eternal verities which are apprehended by faith. "The things that are seen are temporal, but the things that are not seen are eternal."

Warfare against one's every property and charitable service towards one's neighbors open the eye of the soul to the saving truths that are beyond the comprehension of the worldly

HALLAM'S 1917-18 BY MAIL TRAPPER to YOU FUR STYLE BOOK

Why We Can Sell at Such Low Prices

Because, in the first place, we buy our skins direct from the Trapper, and sell direct to you for cash, saving you a great share of the middlemen's profits—high store rent—bad accounts—ealesman's sale

when you buy by mail from Hall can examine them without inter

1506. Driving Coat of Fine Muskrat. 45 inch length, beautifully designed. Skins are of fine qualitys-even, dark colors, carefully matched, and work-manship is faultless. Lined with heavy 1508. Muff to ma $11.50

John Hallom

223 Hallam Building

TORONTO

Board of Directors PRESIDENT

M. J. O'Brien, Renfrew

VICE PRESIDENTS

Hon. S. N. Parent, Ottawa J. J. Lyons, Ottawa R. P. Gough, Toronto A. E. Corrigan, Ottawa

A. E. Povost, Ottawa
A. E. Provost, Ottawa
Hon. R. G. Beazley, Halifax
J. F. Brown, Toronto
E. Fabre Surveyor, K. C., Montreal
Hagh Doheny, Montreal
E. W. Tobin, M. P., Bromptonville
Arthur Ferland, Halleybury
J. B. Duford, Ottawa
Edward Cass, Winnipeg
T. P. Phelan, Toronto
W. H. McAuliffe, Toronto
Gordon Grant, C. E., Ottawa
Michael Connolly, Montreal
W. J. Poupore, ex-M. P., Montreal
Lieut-Col. D. R. Street, Ottawa
P. V. Byrnes, Hamilton
Managing, Director: B. G. Cosnollyd

Managing Director: B. G. Connolly

Assistant Manager: 1 E.T. B. Pennefather

CHATS WITH YOUNG

CUNNING

I'd rather lose than play the cheat. I'd rather fail than live a lie, I'd rather suffer in defeat Than fear to meet another's eye I'd rather never win a prize Than gain the topmost rung of glory And know I must myself despise Until death ends my sorry story.

What if another never knew That I had tricked my way to fame, And all unseen my hand could do The cunning little deeds of shame? The stolen prize would not be sweet, In pride I could not ever show it: might not know me for a cheat, But I should ever after know it.

There is no joy in tricky ways, Who does not justly earn his goal The price for such a victory pays, For shame shall torture long his soul. What if I could, by cunning, claim The victor's share of fame or pelf, And hide from all the world my shame! I could not hide it from myself.

I'd rather fail in every test Than win success by base deceit : I'd rather stand upon my best, Be what it may, than play the cheat, I'd rather never win men's praise Nor share the victor's sum of laugh-

Than trade my self-respect for bays, And hate myself forever after. -EDGAR A. GUEST

CONSCIENCE IN WORK

The habit of doing what we have to do as well, as thoroughly, and as speedily as possible, without immediate reference to its probable or possible effects upon ourselves, is one which would of itself secure at once the best success for ourselves and the greatest good of the community. It would settle many vexed questions and solve many knotty problems. Instead of this, the common course is to consider closely the comparative benefit which is likely to accrue to us in return. "Where do I come in ?" is the ever-recurring query in American life to-day.

There are degrees of this calculation, from the strictly just to the she was, and as badly as her head grossly selfish. One man tries to and performs it accordingly; another gives as little work and secures as large returns as possible; and between these there is every shade. again; then Helen shrieked. With But in all such reckonings there is a sigh Mrs. Cameron rose and went one important element left out. No down stairs. one can count up the value of the labor which is both generous and glared Ursula, as her mother conscientious. Even its money value appeared in the dining room door. conscientious. Even its money value can never be calculated.

The youth who enters business life determined to do all that comes to his hands as well and as quickly as he can, who is anxious to learn and eager to please, who never measures work by his wage, but freely gives all the work and the best work in his power, is vastly more valuable than he who is always bearing in mind the small pay he is receiving, and fearing that he may give too much in return.

So the mechanic or the clerk, who dress to iron. beyond even his obligations to his employer or the demands which public popinion could make upon him, exerts himself to make his work as perfect as he can, and delights in its perfect as he can, and delights in its thoroughness and excellence, apart the door had closed on Helen and from any benefit it can render him, has a value which can never be commit for me?" It matters not what the work may be, whether it is done with the spade of the laborer, the pen of the clerk, the brush of the painter, or the voice of the statesman. Conscientif mother has to stop for everything far and wide; there are always places you?"

far and wide; there are always places "Aw, who cares about a dress!

Talent and skill count for much, but conscience in work tells for far more. He whose integrity is unques-But it was "mother" who tionable, who can be trusted absoalone as when every eye is upon him, and will do his best at all times, is triumphant grin at Marcella. an invaluable member of society; and he cannot do all this merely from a her mother started back to the motive of self-interest. It result of something more : It is con- Can't Ursula put the living room in science, vitalizing every detail of order and swellabor, and raising it to its highest It's a disgrace! of excellence. - Fortnightly Review.

"PUTTING IT OVER"

boy to turn out as he did." Yes, it's too bad, but as to his cleverness, I don't agree with you," Ursula in search of the broom and said Mr. Smith. "He had a certain dust-pan, and Mrs. Cameron to the ability to get the best end of a bargain, and yet make it appear to be an honest transaction. He was ex-

You remember the days when we traded marbles? George would come to school with a pocketful of cheap, chipped off marbles, but be-fore noon he would have them all traded off for perfect ones. The boys | ful. could not tell how it was done, but George could make them think it was

There was something mysterious about his examination papers. The teacher knew they were not the result of study. She felt sure there was something dishonest about them, but she could not find out what. George the next thing Marcella knew she was never caught in any school scrapes; it was always the other a voice choked up with tears. fellow who got caught and punished. George certainly knew how to put it over the rest of us in school.

Later, when he became a clerk. in the grocery store, he was very successful in disposing of stale goods. He would fill orders with wilted celery and wormy raisins and mother take spirits of ammonia, flew the five pairs of eyes that watched the proprietors were delighted for down the hall to her mother's room.

anyone complained, George could always convince them that the 'other clerk' had filled the order. He grew more and more skilled the order. more and more skillful in putting it over every year.

"On account of his shrewdness, folks predicted that he had a great future before him, and he became rather conceited. So he went further, and began to practice little dishonesties with money, giving short change to customers who did not bother to count it. Of course there was another step just ahead—George tampered with the money drawer. He took just a little at first, but gained confidence when he was not found out, and kept at it. He must have better clothes; he must spend money more freely; he must keep a little of the other fellows. By that time he had full belief that he could keep on putting it over everyone.

He tried it once too often. We it was the 'last time' that put him in the penitentiary, but I am inclined to think it was the first time; that he started in that direction during the marble-trading days back in the school yard, when he gloried in his ability to put it over his playmates.

We sometimes like to jump the hard places, to cut across the fields, and we think that we are making headway swiftly; but the long cobble stone road of strict honesty will bring us, in the long run, to a safer landing place. The ability to put it over isn't the best qualification for real success. Boys like George, even if they escape punishment, do not become men to whom anyone in their community can point with pride.
—St. Paul Bulletin.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

THEIR MOTHER'S VACATION

The sun shone hot on the tin roof the sewing room window, sending into the room the heat and glare of a sultry August day. For hours Mrs. Cameron had been at the machine; a dress for Marcella was on the way and she had promised it the next afternoon. As tired as ached, she could not disappoint Marestimate the true worth of his labor cella. For another hour the machine ran on. Presently above its humming the voices of the children came. Thomas and Ursula were quarrelling

"Thomas said I hid his mit," haven't seen the old thing,

"It was under the sofa yesterday," retorted Thomas.

"Under the sofa isn't the place for your mit, Thomas," his mother answered, in her low, well modulated Then, "What is the matter with Helen ?'

Eugenia flushed guiltily.
"She wants me to swing her, mother. You know I can't with my

'But I want you to." wailed Helen "But I won't! So there!" 'Take Helen out, Eugenia, there is plenty of time for the dress.'

"No, mother," protested Marcella, "let him find it for himself." Then she turned on Thomas

When will my dress get finished

That's all you think about-gettin new dresses, an' paradin' down But it was "mother" who found the mit. A few minutes lutely, who will work equally well Thomas went whistling to the front porch, not, however, without a "Mother," complained Marcella, as is the sewing-room, "must I do everything? order and sweep the front porch?

'Who littered the front porch up?'

demanded Ursula. "I didn't."
"Children, whatever has gotten into you this morning! What would your father say if he were here? "I am sorry about George," said your father say if he were here? R. Allen. "He was too clever a Certainly, he would tell you that you have no love for me."

Marcella went to the kitchen sewing-room.

Marcella stood for a long time before the glass that afternoon for pert at 'putting it over,' as the boys say.

the final fitting of her dress; but, as dainty as she looked in it, her reflecting the way her mother liked it.

"I do hope the salad's all resh white dress and did her be salad's all resh white dress all resh whi tion in the mirror told her mother that she was not pleased. "You don't like it, Marcella?" she asked, an anxious note stealing into her tired voice. "I think it's beauti

"I don't," frowned Marcella. " explained and explained how wanted the skirt made; it seemed simple enough. "Take it off." her mother said. Scarcely had Marcella stepped out of the dress when everything grew dark before her mother's eyes, and was bending over her, and calling in 'Eugenia! Ursula! Come quick, mother's fainted !" It was Ursula who reached the sewing room first. The next moment she darted away for water, then Eugenia came in, and remem-bering she had sometimes seen her nothing to throw It was not long before Mrs. Cameron mother take this.' "Here, Eugenia managed a smile as she held the medicine to her mother's lips, but she could not keep the tears

"Why, darling, mother's all right." "No, mother," as Marcella saw her mother reach for the dress she had dropped, "let it wait, and come to your room where we can make you comfortable.

Mrs. Cameron allowed herself to be led away, for though her eyes smiled her face was white, and her voice trembled when she spoke.

The house was very still for a long time after that. The children went around on tip-toe, and when Thomas came in from an afternoon on the vacant lot across the street he listened with a sober face to all Eugenia told him.

'Where's mother?" he demanded when he thought she was through. "Asleep. And don't slam screen door, Thomas, when you go out on the porch."

away, a family council took place around the dining-room table. "Mother's to have a vacation," grip, "I said that announced Marcella, "and it starts grinned delightedly.

'A vacation ?" chorused the others. "Certainly. Haven't we had ours since June, when school closed? This is August. When has mother had a day? She's to go to Aunt Nan's tomorrow to stay until dark; it's all planned. And, Thomas, you're to go to bring her home." 'All right," agreed Thomas, his first surprise over. He could not remember when she had left them for a whole day before.

'I wish I hadn't asked her to find that mit for me today," as he twisted the fringe of the tablecloth around a stubby finger. 'That wasn't worse than asking her to iron my dress," answered Eugenia. "Did she get it ironed?" This from Ursula.

Eugenia nodded, but her eyes were on Marcella. "Marcella, did ironing that dress make mother faint ?" "Not any more than trying to finish mine, Eugenia. I'll never forgive myself for insisting on that dress, and the awful way I talked to her this afternoon! When I watched her with her eyes closed, and saw how white and thin she looked, I thought how awful it would be if anything happened to mother."

Her head went down on the table and she sobbed aloud. "Don't cry Marcella."

It was not Thomas' way to display the affection he had for his sisters only his mother was honored like that. But the real grief he saw in Marcella's face as she hid it in the table cloth caused a queer lump to rise up in his throat, and he not ashamed of the tear that stole down his round, freckled cheek as he went around to where she sat and tried to comfort her. "Don't cry !"

"I'll help with the dishes tomorrow Marcella,' volunteered Ursula, "and clean up the living-room and sweep the front porch.

Marcella dabbed at her eyes with the corner of the table-cloth, and smiled at all of them. Then Helen came in.

"I've been with mother," beamed the little girl of four; "she's all wight, and I isn't ever going to scream any more.' The next day great preparations went on in the kitchen. Eugenia had remembered it was their mother's hirthday What better ending for a happy day than to surprise her with a great, big frosted birthday cake—and even ice-cream?

'Look, Marcella!" she beamed holding up for Marcella's inspection the eggs that she had beaten to a stiff, white froth.

"Fine!" pronounced Marcella from the stove. "Now put it in the icebox.

The door shot open and Thomas came in.

'Say, Marcella, the cream's froze harder than a brick. Now, for a pic-ture show," he grinned, "an' after that for mother.

When the cake was iced and put away, Marcella surveyed the ice box in which was stored some tempting ripe tomatoes ready to be sliced and placed on lettuce leaves, while on the bottom shelf a well cooked ham reposed. Afterwards, she peeped into the dining room for a glance at the table, followed the rest of the children up-stairs, where she put on a fresh white dress and did her hair in

"I do hope the salad's all right and the ham's cooked through," when they started back down-stairs. Eugenia, just suppose that cake's a

"Course it ain't a failure," smiled Eugenia from the bottom step, "it's a Lady Baltimore. Helen slipped her hand into Ursula's and they went out to the front gate. There they stood for a 'Maybe they decided to walk," suggested Ursula. "Maybe they did," answered Helen, but I wish they hadn't."

"Here they come!" she suddenly "Let's run to meet them." "Moth er," smiled Helen as she led

On the threshold of the diningroom Mrs. Cameron stopped. And her were not brighter than her own. his intellectual gifts that he had the within.

dred years !'

daintily prepared supper; the roses in the centre of the table had brought edgment of his ability. with them the fragrance from white frosted birthday cake.

her voice. "How proud of you father will be when he learns about this!" Thomas pricked up his ears, for the front gate had clicked. "Bet that's father!" and darted back to the front porch. "Helle, son!" came the greeting of his jovial father.

Supper over, and the dishes cleared Thomas held up his face for a kiss. then took possession of his father's "I said that was you," he

"Mother," sang the others, crowding to the front door, "it is father!"
"What's mother been doing to herself since I've been gone?" questioned their father, as he held her off at arm's length. "She's fresh as a daisy and has roses in her cheeks !

Thomas.

"Yes," she smiled up at him, "a vacation that the children are responsible for. "Good! Your mother needs a vaca-

"And a birthday!" contributed elen. "Oh, fath-er," glowed the little girl, "come back to the dining-room-it's just like a party! "I should say it is a party!" when he stood in the dining room door. But he did not sit down to the table at once. He began a search it is," he smiled at last. There was nothing ostentatious about the pin that sparkled up at the children's mother as she opened the and rare gift of sifting chaff from box he slipped into her hand-only a grain, his charm of manner and buttercup of gold set with a little diamond. But she guessed at once the many little sacrifices that had facts and arranging them in order of made possible the purchase of the gift. With heart full to overflowing she lifted her face for her birthday And the children, looking on smiled happily.-Eleanor Lloyd in The Rosary Magazine.

POPE BENEDICT XV. A GREAT STATESMAN

HAS HAD WONDERFUL TRAINING IN INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

Pope Benedict XV., according to the news dispatches from Rome, is tired to the point of exhaustion from his hard striving to bring back peace to the nations at war. This human touch is apt to remind us that the voice that speaks from the Chair of Peter is that of living personality still, and not of a dead traditional force, call it the Vatican, or Rome, or the Holy See, or by any of the other impersonal terms one sees so often used to denote the spiritual head of the Catholic Church, writes Edward J. Galbally, managing editor of the Ecclesiastical Review. When we consider Pope Benedict's antecedents, and his training in the arena of world interests and political history, not to mention the superior considerations of his merits in churchmanship, we see the wisdom of the Cardinal's choice in calling him to the helm in such a stormy sea. It is of passing interest to note that genealogists find that in the veins of the Pope's family runs both Frankish and English blood; that he himself is Italian through a long line of forbears, and that he descends from a stock which has given both its Dukes to Brabant and its Emperors to Austria. In view of all this cosmopolitanism, and not forgetting his presidency of a vast international and supernational institution, one may fairly expect him to hold the scales of justice pretty evenly bal-anced between nation and nation.

He was born in Genoa, Nov. 1. 1854, and received his early education in the same city. He was originally intended for the bar, and in 1875 took his doctor's degree in both civil and canon law. His two brothers hold high rank in the Royal Italian Navy, the elder being Vice Admiral Giovanni Antonio, and the other Giulio, a retired captain. When the future Pope decided to dedicate himself to the service of the Church, he took up his ecclesiastical studies at the Collegio Pontificio Capranica.

Later he made a brilliant course of studies at the Academy of Noble Ecclesiastics, the world renowned training school for the clergy who conduct the international concerns of the universal Catholic Church. He was ordained priest on May 28, 1878, and in 1883, Leo XIII. named him Privy Chamberlain, with the title of Monsignor. In 1887 he was appointed Secretary to the Nuncio at Madrid, Cardinal Rampolla, who was well known as the right hand of Leo through the canvas and become XIII., when the Pontiff summoned manifest in the facial illumination. the way to the dining-room, "it seemed like you'd been gone a hun- him to Rome to be his Secretary of

At this time the young Monsignor took in every detail of the young man appointed Under Secretily prepared supper; the roses tary of State. It was a rare acknowle to 1907, Mgr. della Chiesa was also garden, and next to them was the big capon of the Basilica of the Vatican and member of many Roman con

"Children!" when she finally found gregations.

"How proud of you father Meantime, Pope Leo had gone to Meantime, Pope Leo h his reward, and Pope Pius X. had begun to call on the services of the distinguished prelate. proposed to send him as Nuncio, or Papal Ambassador, to Vienna, Mgr. della Chiesa begged the Pope to let him remain a simple prelate. however, could not lose thus valuable an agent, and when the bishopric of Bologna fell vacant, the Archbishop of Monsignor became that important and difficult see in Seven years later he was made Cardinal, and within the next three onths he was elected Pope.

Shortly after Pope Benedict's elec-tion his personal characteristics were described by a writer in the West minster Gazette, who signed his com-"Havin' a vacation," answered munication "One Who Knows Him. The writer first made the new Pope's acquaintance some twenty three years ago and afterward had many conversations with him when he was Secretary to Cardinal Rampolla. After pointing out that the College of Cardinals had made a "entirely in accordance with its best and most honorable traditions," the writer said that Cardinal Rampolla placed in him "implicit confidence and evidently regarded his judgment as absolutely sound and reliable. There is nothing slipshod about through every pocket of his coat, then through his vest-pocket. "Here first and foremost a thoughtful and highly gifted man of affairs, without prejudices, but a man who knows his own mind. His marvelous memory melodious voice, his powers of literary expression and of marshaling relative value have always impressed those who have had dealings with him in Madrid, Rome or Bologna. To these must be added a dislike of vulgar dispray or publicity, a love of art and music, a genuine simplicity of life, a devotion to the interests and work of the Church which is untiring. He is a keen student of human nature and a constructive states man of power. During his six years of work at Bologna he won the hearts of his clergy and people by his ready sympathy with the poor and suffering by his judicial fairness and by his constant and perpetual wish to im prove the social conditions of his

If these features are not generally known to us for his recommendation, it is because the regular channels of information have been blocked by the War and its compelling interests and travelers have not been going to and from Rome as in the piping times of peace.

Back of his own brilliant capacity for affairs and his scholarship and exceptional apprenticeship under Leo XIII. and Cardinal Rampolla, it is well to note how he is served by the picked intellect and trained dipatists of the world-wide society he rules. His agents are accredited to the courts and Government circles of the various nations, and with the exception of Italy, France and the United States, every nation has its official representative in the diplomatic corps connected with the Holy See. With such direct avenues of information it is to be expected that Pope Benedict is not in the dark about the inner mind of the rulers of the nations at war, that he is in somewhat intimate touch with the actual conditions in the various countries, and knows the temper of the peoples, their attitudes toward peace or toward the continuation of the War.

Some publicists believe that Benedict XV. is the greatest statesman who has occupied the See of Peter for generations. They have not hesitated to pronounce his peace terms as the most important diplomatic event of the War thus far. Be that as it may, it is proper to add that the critics who sagaciously pooh pooh and dismiss his message as untimely and impractical are assuming airs that make them very ridiculous. There are some others who see the dictation of the Central Powers in the Pope's letter, while still others profess to see the fine hand of the Entente Allies. It is pretty evidence that the Pope is swayed by neither side, but keeps the true middle course and will keep it throughout the peace negotiation.

It is said there is no thought that is good in the mind but soon looks good in the face. Heart qualities are artists that work, indeed, behind the screen, yet at last they strike Contrariwise, in men long inured to vice and crime sinful thoughts At this time the young Monsignor was also brought back to Rome by his own chief, who thought so highly of his intellectual gifts that he had the

Capital Trust Corporation Limited

Authorized Capital $2,000,000

'A SOUND MIND IN A SOUND BODY'

Is the best condition a man can be in when making his Will, but no condition of mind or body can excuse a man for delay in making a proper provision for those dependent on him. Name this Company your Executor and your wishes will be carefully fulfilled.

WRITE FOR OUR BOOKLET 'The Will That Really Provides'

OFFICES: 10 Metcalfe St. Ottawa, Ont.

Who is that, when years are gone by, weremember with the purest gratitude and pleasure? Not the learned or clever, but those who have had the force of character to prefer the future to the present, the good of others to their own pleasure.

117 Yonge St. Toronto Hennessey.

DRUGS PERFUMES CANDIES Order by Phone – we deliver
Watch our Ads. in Local Dailies Thursday

Found New HEALTH

of greater value than gold and silver is health restored. Up in the mining district of Larder Lake, Ont., Mr. Sid Castlemen discovered something—that the high words of praise given to Gin Pills are true. Here is his story, in part, GinPills FORTHE RIDNEYS and decided to give them a trial at once, as I had been suffering for some time with my kidneys and urine. I sent my chum out to get them sabout 60 miles) and I am pleased to inform you that in less than 6 hours I felt relief. In two days the pain had left me altogether. Today I feel as well as ever I did and my kidneys are acting quite naturally. (Full testimonial sent on request together with FREE SAMPLE of Gin*Fills.)

goc'a box, 6 boxes for $2. National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada Limited . Tore

THE ARNOTT INSTITUTE

HOTEL CUMBERLAND NEW YORK, Broadway at 54th Street

from Grand Central Depot 7th Avenue Pennia Station New and Fireproof Strictly First

Reasonable

$1.50 up Rooms with Private Bath $2.00 up Suites $4.00 up

10 Minutes Walk to 40 Theatres Send for Booklet HARRY P. STIMSON

Only New York Hotel Window-Scre
Throughout

TRADE MARK REG.U.S. PAT. OFF. Reduces any puff or swelling. Does not blister or remove the hair, and horse can be worked. $2abottle delivered. Book 6 K free WORRED. SZE DOUTHE GETIVETER.

ABSORBINE, JR., the antispite liniment for mankind For Boils, Bruises, Old Sores, Swellings, Varicose Veins, Varicosities, Allays Pain. Price $1 and $2 a boute at drugeists of delivered. Will tell more if you write.

W.F. YOUNG, P.D.F. 2991, ymans Bidg., Montreal, Can.

NORTH ST., AT DELAWARE AVE BUFFALO, N.Y.

A modern, fireproof and distinctive hotel of 250 all outside rooms. Ideally located. Excels in equipment, cuisine and service. Operated on the European Plan TARIFF:

ge of Bath $1.50 per day with Private Bath $2.00 per day and upward Two Rooms with Private Bath $4.00 per day and upward C. A. MINER

If you cannot be happy in one way, be happy in another. disposition wants but little aid from philosophy, for health and good humor are almost the whole affair. Many run after felicity, like an absentminded manhunting for his hat while it is in his hand or on his head.

We Make a Specialty of Catholic Church Windows

INTERESTING NOTES

FROM OUR OLD CONVERT FRIEND PTE. HAMMOND

Dear Sir,-Having some little time to spare, I thought I could not be better employed than in writing a few lines to the CATHOLIC RECORD, and to thank its readers for the generosity displayed in sending me so many kind letters and an abundance of literature. I am very glad to say that my wound is now healed, and I have the full use of my arm, though somewhat sore and painful at times. The doctors and nurses at the Convalescent Hospital at Ramsgate could not make out why I am able to use my arm so freely as the muscles in my shoulder and the spinal scapular were shattered, and I can only put it down to the prayers, Communions, and Masses offered up on my behalf by my Catholic friends in Canada. After being discharged from the hospital I had my ten days sick leave, one of which was spent entirely in visiting places of Catholic interest in London. So I set out one Sunday for this intention. First of all I received Holy Communion and heard Mass in our own church of the Sacred Heart. Here I witnessed a sight that I had never seen before. The church was crowded and the Catholicity of the with the latest disease called trench mouth, and am unable to go to hear church was well represented, for not only were various countries of Europe represented, but Japan, the land of the rising sun, and more than a few Canadians. When the time give me every encouragement to live up to the commands of God and came to communicate, the whole congregation rose up as one man, under the most trying circumwith the exception of not more than twelve persons and seemed to rush to the Communion rail to receive. At first I was struck at what thought the irreverence of this crowd, but when the priest came down from the altar, with the Sacred Hosts, now the very Body and Blood of Christ, one could hear a pin drop, it was so quiet, as we all knelt there, rich and poor, young and old, from all corners of the earth, and the fancied irreverence gave place to reverential awe, as my neart overflowed with love and thanksgiving. Then I went home to breakfast, and afterwards caught a motor omnibus to South Kensington, where I heard High Mass sung at the Brompton Oratory, well known as one of the greatest seats of Catholic learning in England, and where so many famous converts have studied for the priesthood. The sacred edifice was simply crowded, and the aisles were filled with men and women standing. If any asked me if England was still Protestant, I would just have pointed to this mass of people here, or said, "Come and see." England may be Protestant in numerical strength. but where will you find the reverent crowds who seek Jesus, not once a week, but every day? Why, only in our Catholic churches. Here are the crowds who worship God in spirit and in truth. I intended having a walk round this magnificent building, but was unable as another Mass started immediately at 12 Then I walked to Westminster, and had my dinner at the Catholic Hut there for soldiers, one of the most enjoyable dinners I ever had. Then I went to meet a friend in the north west of London, who was going to show me round some of the churches. First we came down to Hyde Park corner, and visited the convent at Tyburn, where the Blessed Sacrament is perpetually ex posed, and where the Sisters dressed in spotless white pray night and day without ceasing for the conversion of England, on the site where so many Catholic martyrs were hanged, drawn and quartered, for the faith. I think I have said sufficient to show that the pious prayers of these Sisters and all the faithful are being answered, and might I also ask for the prayers of Catholics in Canada in this direction. From here we next went to Westminster Cathedral whose tower can be seen for miles, and yet when quite close, it is hidden from view Here we can only catch a faint glimpse of the future splendour and magnificence of this wonderful edifice. All the beautiful mosaic, marble and decorative work is now practically at a standstill, as the were recalled home to fight for their country. At present there is not even a chapel completed; work has themselves as large as many parish churches. The Cathedral is dedicated to the Precious Blood of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. A large relic of St. Edmund, Archbishop of Canterbury, reposes under the altar on the left. Then there is the tomb of Cardinal Wiseman near by, and on the right lies the body of the famous convert. Cardinal Man. the famous convert, Cardinal Man-ning. After coming out of here, we There are dangers for the soldier but had a war time tea, consisting of a he can console his mother with the pot of tea and a slice of cake each; thought, 'That where you are, bread and butter is not allowed with cake. We then proceeded to Farm Street Church, the London how at the Sacraments and ever in the Street Church, the London home of the Jesuit Fathers, and from here went on to the Carmelite Church, but unfortunately both these churches were closed. We then went to Benediction at Holy Mary of the Angels Church, Paddington. Monday I went to London on a business tour and discovered in a nice quiet corner the ancient church or chapel of St. Ethelreda. It was built about 1290 A. D., and is one of the very few, as well as one of the first to come back to the Faith, and where the Sacrifice of the Mass is again offered daily, after a lapse of four centuries. One of the peculiar things about this ancient building is that it is a church built upon church, for the crypt is as beautifully adorned as the main building above. The walls of the crypt are 8 feet thick and those of the church feet. It was bought of the Wesleyans some fifteen years ago, and I can scarcely refrain from laughing outright at the thought of a Methodist service here with so much Pop-ish evidence around. It is now restored to its former glory and magnificence as it was over six hundred years ago, and it might be interesting to Canadians to know that Canadian oak was used as no other timber of sufficient scantling was available. Beneath the altar is a gilded and jewelled reliquary conolic interest. A few days later I was behind the lines. visiting Winchester and Hampshire, the capital of England before London came into prominence, and therefore the most interesting city I have ever yet visited, but time and space forbids me to carry on my narrative. In closing once again I thank the readers of the CATHOLIC continue to pray for me, as I do Yours sincerely in our Lord, 829249 PTE. G. B. HAMMOND 44th Canadians Ethelbert Road, Wimbledon, Surrey, Eng.

YOUR MEATLESS MEALS

SOME, NUTRITIOUS SUBSTITUTE FOR MEAT AT MUCH LOWER COST

as well as in all other activities that tant now than it ever was." relate to our daily living. Eating been formed without regard to the real needs of the human body. It is ot based upon any accurate knowledge of the laws of nutrition. one person in a hundred ever asks himself, "Do I need to eat meat?

What food elements does it supply?" The popular notion that meat makes more blood than any other food is a fallacy. The blood in meat is not a blood forming food. There is more blood-making, flesh forming material in whole wheat grain, pound for nound, than in the juiciest beefsteak, and it isn't half so hard to digest when properly cooked.

But be sure you eat the whole wheat in a digestible form. In shredded wheat biscuit you have the whole wheat grain prepared in a digestible form. It is not only a healthful substitute for meat and eggs, but is a perfect food-something that cannot be said of meat. Beef contains no carbohydrates and the excessive eating of it imposes a heavy burden upon the liver and kidneys.

As a matter of fact two or three shredded wheat biscuits with milk make a complete, satisfying mealand then think how inexpensive it is passage compared with meat and how easy to serve. Such a meal costs but a few pennies and supplies all the strengthgiving nutriment a person needs to do a half-day's work. It also helps in the movement for the conservation of food through the use of the whole wheat grain. Such a diet, composed largely of shredded wheat biscuit, vegetables and fruits, will keep a person in health and in top-notch mental and physical vigor.

THE SOLDIER'S MOTHER

"A mother's love is not diminished but increased in war time," remarks the troops abroad. the Cleveland Catholic Bulletin. That the Cath Every mother who has a boy called France may be Italians who were brought from Italy to do this special form of work often these days. But Catholic wish—"A power commanding respect been commenced everywhere, but more for the immortal soul of that nowhere at present is it near fin-ished. The chapels of the Blessed Sacrament and Our Lady are in themselves as large as many parish There are dangers for the soldier but

WHY ARMY IS LIKE A CIRCUS

MEN BACK FROM THE FRONT POINT

OUT CERTAIN SIMILARITIES Ottawa, Oct.-An army in the field has been compared with a circus travelling about the country. The comparison is a rough and ready one but, according to military officers back from the front, it suffices to show certain essential features of the fighting force.

cook the meals and put up the tents, etc., while the number of actual performers is comparatively few. Many more work outside the ring than in it.

The army has many disadvantages, however, from which the circus does not suffer. It has to build its own railroads, as a rule, run them and keep them in repair, while it must also bring in with it nearly all the food and other supplies it needs. It must be braced also for a constantly increasing burden of casualties, requiring special care and comfort, and in modern war the big guns consume vast quantities of shells daily which must be replaced immediately.

Ever noticed the number of men taining many relics of saints, but especially a portion of the incorrupt hand of St. Ethelreda. This ends my tour in London of places of Cath-

PASTORS AND SOLDIER BOYS

Every day we see detachments of soldiers marching through the streets, and each evening the papers RECORD for their generosity, and while at present I am in quarantine tell of farewell exercises at the departure of new companies for the training camps. Those at home are praying that the need will Mass or to visit the Blessed Sacrament, their letters and literature never arise for our soldiers to cross the seas, but some have gone already, and more will follow if the call to Holy Catholic Church even comes. Rev. Alphonsus action Martel, O. S. A., in a letter to The American Ecclesiastical Review stances. May God bless you all, and writes an earnest word on the aid that pastors can render the young soldiers, away from home.

"Our soldier boys will be separated from Catholic associations," says Father Martel. "They will come in contact with companions who will scoff at them if they kneel to pray. Although we cannot presume to say that France has ever lost the faith, we must know that our soldiers are EASY TO SERVE A HEALTHFUL, WHOLE- going to a country where in great part God and His Church and His priests are scorned and all that is acred and religious is derided. Our We are creatures of habit in eating duty, therefore, is much more impor-

This good friend of the soldiers meat, like eating white flour bread, is a habit, and it is a habit that has keeping in touch with the young men as far as possible. The pastor knows the dangers awaiting the Catholic youth, a stranger in a strange land and he will encourage and cheer his boys by writing to them, keeping up the familiar fatherly advice that had helped to mould the pupils in the parish school into reliable young manhood.

Few can realize says Father Martel how keen is the interest the young soldier takes in the distribution of the mail in camp. Is there a letter for him from his parents or pastor? Even a postal card sends him away to his duties happy that he has been remembered. "Perhaps there will be one for me tomorrow," another lad, hiding his disappoint-

Reminding his brother priests of their seminary days, "when we were one big family," Father Martel says, "How cheerful is a letter from home to anyone who really loves his parents. It will not be hard on us to write a few pages to our heroes and defenders of our country."

It is a beautiful scene that Father Martel depicts in the following

"The American soldiers have been received with admiration and joy by the French people. What admira-tion, what wonder will there be in these true French hearts, when they shall see the American chaplain say ing Mass and giving Holy Communion to hundreds and thousands of Catholic soldiers!"

But also "what curses and blas phemies in the mouths of so-called men of the hour," will those American boys be obliged to listen to. Therefore the home and the home church must safeguard the lad, supplementing the work of the devoted chaplains who will accompany

That the Catholic soldiers in France may be a power and an

HOME BANK OF CANADA • Economy is half the battle of life."

One Dollar Opens a Savings Account Full compound interest paid at highest bank rate on Savings Deposits of One Dollar and upwards

Branches and Connections Throughout Canada LOCAL OFFICES: LONDON (Opposite Smallman & Ingram's) DELAWABE KOMOKA ILDERTON LAWRENCE STATION MELBOURNE THORNDALE

The desire of power in excess caused the angels to fall; the desire of knowledge in excess caused man charity there is no harity there is no HOME. HOME work.

HOME WORK

A particular of the power in excess caused man contained the power in excess excess, neither can angel or man come in danger by it.—Bacon.

DIED

DECOURCY-At St. Anthony's Hos one is that a large number of men are needed to look after the transportation and care of equipment, to cook the meals and put notice to the cook the cook the cook the meals and put notice to the cook the cook the meals and put notice to the cook th

HUGHES-At Ottawa, Ont., on Friday, October 5, 1917, Mr. James Hughes. May his soul rest in peace.

TEACHERS WANTED

TEACHER WA TED FOR SEPARATE School, to start Nov. 15th or January 1st, to suit applicant. Must have second class professional certificate. If experienced will pay $600. al certificate. If experienced will pay $600.

cant must state age and experience Apply

E. Chenier. Sec., 14 South Court 20, 2028-1

QUALIFIED TEACHER WANTED FOR S. S. No. 6. Stephens. Salary $50 per month. Duties to commence at once. Apply. stating experience to John Hayes. R. R. S. Parkhill, Ont.

TEACHER WANTED FOR CATHOLIC Separate school, No. 8, Morley. Must know both English and French as well. Salary offered $500 per annum. Address to E. Larocque, Sec. Treas., Pinewood, Ont. 2035-3

TEACHER WANTED, HOLDING FIRST OR

HOUSEKEEPER WANTED WANTED HOUSEKEEPER FOR A PRIEST in one of the cities of the Detroit, Mich, diocese. Must furnish references as to character. Address, The Catholic Pastor, Belding, Mich 2019-tf

HOUSEKEEPER FOR A PRIEST WANTED in a small town not far from Toronto. One that is a good plain cook and capable to make butter, as there is a cow kept. Apply stating wages and give references to Box S. CATHOLIO RECORD, London, Ont. 2005-2

HOUSEKEEPER WANTED FOR PRIEST IN

DOCTOR WANTED

THE CITIZENS OF BARRY'S BAY AND surrounding townships are in urgent need of a medical doctor who will reside in Barry's Bay. Nearest doctor is fifteen miles away. Address communications to S. E. Smith, Tp. Clerk, Barry Bay, Ont.

CATHOLIC CHILDREN FOR ADOPTION FOUR CHILDREN, TWO BOYS, AGE SIX and three years, and two girls, age seven and four years. These children are brothers and sisters, and it would be most desirable to have them placed in pairs if cossible. They are extraordinarily fine, healthy, nice looking children, blue eyes and fair complexion. Applications received by Wm. O'Comor, Children's Branch, 149 University ave., Toronto. 2036-4.

Hilliams Piano

405 YONGE ST. TORONTO

FREE

ALL STEEL FIRE PROOF

VESTRY CABINET, $25

To hold your Censers, Charcoal, etc.

MISSION SUPPLIES BEST ON THE MARKET

J. J. M. LANDY

To the mothers and fathers who desire to give their children the advantages of a musical education

'Where the Piano is, there is the Beethoven says: fully realize, yet, the actual value of a musical education to the Music is the food of the soul, and should be nourished during childhood. It will help them to grow up better, broader and more sympathetic men and women.

Music will beautify the character of the child and impart grace

Every parent should send for this "Art and the Critic" Album, giving the autobiography of the musical great. It is just as necessary to know the life of Great Artists as the history of politicians.

This book will interest every child and teach them to know the great musicians of to-day. Models of the famous Williams New Scale Piano are also shown with Gold Autograph of Artists which is placed on these "Artists' Choice Pianos

Send this Free Coupon To-night. Every Farm Home Needs Music.

Dept. A., Oshawa, Ont. send me your FREE Album of Great Musicians and Models of Williams Pianos.

Exemption Tribunals.

Exemption Boards have been chosen in such a way as to make them absolutely independent and removed from all influence. There are over 1,250 boards throughout the country, each composed of two men, one appointed by the county judge in the district concerned and one selected by a joint committee of Parliament. Being familiar with local conditions where they sit, the members are well-fitted to appreciate such reasons for exemption as are put before them by men called up.

Exemption will be granted to those who can establish that it is in the national interest that they remain in civilian life. This is for the Exemption Board to decide after having received full information in each case. The grounds on which exemption may be claimed (which are similar to the grounds recognized in Great Britain and the United States) are as follows:—

- (a) That it is expedient in the national interest that the man should, instead of being employed in Military Service, be engaged in other work in which he is habitually engaged.
- (b) That it is expedient in the national interest that the man should, instead of being employed in Military Service, be engaged in other work in which he wishes to be engaged and for which he has special qualifications.
- (e) That it is expedient in the national interest that, instead of being employed in Military Service, he should continue to be educated or trained for any work for which he is then being educated and trained.
- (d) That serious hardship would ensue if the man were placed on active service, owing to his exceptional financial or
- (f) That he conscientiously objects to the undertaking of combatant service and is prohibited from doing so by tenets and articles of faith, in effect on the sixth day of July, 1917, of any organized religious denomination existing and well recognized in Canada at such date, and to which he in good faith belongs. (g) That he should be exempt because disfranchised under the War Time Election Act.

No Claim for Exemption should be put forward unless one or other of these grounds in fact exists, and no loyal citizen should assist in, or allow himself to be made a party to, any Claim for Exemption unless thoroughly satisfied that it is made in good faith.

Exemption may be applied for by the men selected themselves or by their parents, near relatives or employers. Application for exemption must be made on printed forms to be found at every post office, which are to be filled in and left with the postmaster if exemption is desired. The postmaster will forward the form to a Registrar, who will send it to the appropriate Exemption Board. In due time, then Applicant will get notice as to when he must present his case before the Board.

Issued by The Military Service Council.

Children for Adoption

8 DAY OIL ORDER NOW

YOUR WINTER'S SUPPLY

W. E. BLAKE & SON, LTD. 123 CHURCH ST.

JUVENILES 35c. Each Postpaid 50 Copies, $15.00

28.00 100 As True as Gold. Mary E. Mannix. A Summer at Woodville. Anna T. Sadlier. An Every-Day Girl. Mary C. Crowley. An Heir of Dreams. S. M. O'Malley. A Hostage of War. Mary G. Bonesteel.

An Adventure With the Apacheo, Gabrie A Book about Real Live American Boys. By L. W. Reilly.

A Pilgrim From Ireland. Rev. M. Carnot Translated by M. E. Mannix. Bob O'Link, Mary T. Waggaman, Bunt and Bill, Clara Mulholland, By Branscome River, Marion A. Taggart,

Bistouri, A. Melandr

S. J. Translated by Mary Richards Gray.
Blue Lady's Knight, The. By Mary F. Nixon.
Chiquitan Festival of Corpus Christi Day. A Tale of the Old Missions of South AmericaBy Rev, Joseph Spillman, S. J. Translated from the German by Mary Richards Gray.
Crosses and Crowns, by Rev. Joseph Spillman.
S. J. Translated by Mary Richards Gray.
Children of Mary. A Tale of the Caucasus. By Rev. Joseph Spillmann, S. J.

Cupa Revisited. Mary E. Mannix. Daddy Dan. Mary T. Waggaman Dimpling's Success. Clara Mulholland. For the White Rose. Katharine Tynan Hinkson.

For the White Rose. Katharine Tynan Hinkson-Fred's Little Daughter Sara Trainer Smith. In Quest of Adventure. Mary E. Mannix In The Turkish Camps and other Stories. By Konrad Kuemmel. From the German, by Mary Richards Gray. Jack-O'Lantern. Mary T. Waggaman. Jack. Religious of the Society of the Holy Child. Lauchter and Tears, by Marion J. Brunowe. It should be added to all our libraries for the young.

Little Lady of the Hall. Nora Ryeman. Little Missy. Mary T. Waggaman Love Your Enemies. A Tale of the Maori Insurrections in New Zealand. By Rev. Joseph Spillman, S. J.

Maron. The Christian Youth of the Lebanon. By Mary Tracy's Fortune. Anna T. Sadlier. Nan Nobody. Mary T. Waggaman

Old Charlmont's Seed-Bed. Sara Trainer Smith. Pauline Archer. Anna T. Sadlier. Pancho and Panchita. Mary E. Mannix. Prince Arumugam, the Steadfast Indian Convert. By A. v B. A beautiful little story describing the obstacles which a Brahman Prince was forced to surmount in order to become a Christian.

Recruit Tommy Collins. Mary G. Bonesteel. Seven Little Marshalls. Mary F. Nixon-Roulet. The Bell Foundry. Otto von Schacking. The Berkleys. Emma Howard Wight The Blissylvania Post Office. Marion A. Taggart

The Cabia Boys. A Story for the Young. By Rev. Joseph Spillmann. S. J. Translated by Mary Richards Gray. The Children of Cupa. Mary E. Mannix. The Dollar Hunt. From the French by E. G. The Great Captain. Katharine Tynan Hinkson.

The Golden Lily. Katharine Tynan Hinkson. The Haldeman Children. Mary E. Mannix.
The Little Apostle on Crutches. Henriette E. Delamare. The Little Girl From Back East, Isabel J.

The Mad Knight, From the German of O. v. The Madcap Set at St. Anne's, Marion J. Brunowe.

The Mysterious Doorway. Anna T. Sadlier. The Peril of Dionysio. Mary E. Mannix.
The Queen's Page. Katharine Tynan Hinkson.

The Queen's Nephew, By Rev. Joseph Spillmann, S. J. "This good little work, an historical narration from the early Japanese missions, is another contribution to juvenile literature that deserves a welcome. We hope it will be read by many of our boys and girls."

The Sea-Gulls' Rock. J. Sandeau.

The Shaweek A. story for the Young Ry The Shipwreck. A story for the Young. By Rev. Joseph Spillman, S. J. Translated from the German by Mary Richards Gray.

The Trip to Nicaragua. A Tale of the Days of the Conquistadores. By Rev. Joseph Spillmann, S. J. Translated by Mary Richards Gray. The Ups and Downs of Marjorie, Mary T. Waggaman. The Violin Maker. Adapted by Sara Trainer The Young Color Guard. Mary G. Bonesteel ree Girls, and Especially One Marion A Taggart m's Luck-Pot. Mary T. Waggaman. Tooralladdy, Julia C. Walsh Toroniaday, Joina C. Waise, Water Mark.

Three Indian Tales. Namameha and Watemilka, by Alex. Baumgartner, S. J. Tahko, the Young Indian Missionary, By A.v.B. Father Rene's Last Journey, by Anton Hounder, S. J. Translated by Miss Helena Long.

40 c. Each Postpaid 50 Copies, $18.00 100 35.00

What the Fight Was About and Other Stories

Wrecked and Saved. A story for boys by Mrs

The Captain of the Club. Valentine Williams. The Countess of Glosswood. Translated. Drops of Honey, Rev. A. M. Grussi.
Father de Lisle. Cecilia M. Caddell.
The Feast of Flowers and Other Stories. Selected. The Lamp of the Sanctuary and Other Stories. Cardinal Wiseman. Cardinal Wiseman.

The Little Lace - Maker and Other Stories. Miss

Lost Genoveffa. Cecilia M. Caddell. The Little Follower of Jesus. Rev. A. M. Gruss The Miser's Daughter. Cecilia M. Caddell. Nanette's Marriage. Aimee Mazergue. Never Forgotten. Cecilia M. Caddell. One Hundred Tales for Children, Canon Christopher Von Schmid. Oramaka, An Indian Story. Translated

Our Dumb Pets, Tales of Birds and Animals, Selected. The Orphan of Moscow. Mrs. James Sadlier. The Prairie Boy. Rev. John Talbot Smith.
The Pearl in Dark Waters. Cecilia M. Caddell.
The Queen's Confession. Raoul de Navery. sario. Translated by Sister of Mercy. Rosario. Translated by Sister of Mercy.
The Rose of Venice. S. Christopher.
Seven of Us. Marion J. Brunowe.
Sophie's Troubles. Countess de Segur.
Stories for Catholic Children. Rev. A. M.
Grussi.

Tales of Adventure. Selected. The Two Cottages. Lady Georgiana Fullerton The Two Stowaways. Mary G. Bonesteel. Uriel. Sister M. Raphael. Virtues and Defects of a Young Girl at Home and at School. Ella M. McMahon.

The Catholic Record