From the London Wesleyan Methodist Magazine. Moses on Mount Pisgah. And the Lord showed him all the land of Gilead unto Dan. And all Naphtali, and the land of Epbrases, and Manasseh, and all the land of Judah, unto the utmost s a. And the South, and the valley of the plain of Jericho, the city of paim trees, unto Zoar." With bold and fearless footsteps, By precipice and scar, He climbed the steeps of Abarim And Nebo's range afar. Till the gray crest of Pisgah

The grand old prophet bore, His heart as warm, as strong his arm,

As a hundred years before.

His eagle-eye as piercing As when, in youthful days, O'er the strange old lore of Egypt It burned with ardent blaze. And to that eye of lightning God showed the "Promised Land," In all its worth, from South te North, From East to Western strand.

Lebanon's goodly mountain The old man loved to view, And Bashan too, with its oak-wreath'd

And Carmel's fading blue And Gilead, and Tabor, And Olivet in green, And Zion's Hill, with raptures thrill, And Calvary were seen.

O'er which his vision roll'd; Achor with all its lowing herds, And Sharon's verdant fold. Jezreel showed its vineyards, Jehoshaphat its stream, And Eshcol's vale, and Shaveh's dale, Look'd like a prophet's dream.

The land of brooks and fountains Lay under the seer's glance; He saw the Arnon gambol, He saw the Jabbok dance. The ancient river Kishon Swept on in wrathful force, And the Kidron mild, like a playful child, Laugh'd in its flowery course.

The Dead Sea and Gennesaret, Like gems on a stately king, Were joined to Canaan's royal robe By Jordan's pearly string. And the mantle green of the

With many a jewel beam'd, For the distant rills among the bills, Like threads of silver seem'd.

That fired the prophet's breast! As afar he saw where the oath was swe To his forefathers blest . Old Mamre's plain, and Sichem. Bethel by angels trod. And Gerar too, where the promise true

But alas! the princely quarry Which death pursued so long. Upon the brow of Nebo Is struck by the archer strong. The eagle-eye grows strangely dim, The heauteous landscape's fled. And a funeral band of angels stand Around the sleeping dead.

He must not cross the Jordan, Nor dwell in the goodly land, But a better country welcomes him, To the glorious prophet band. Not cedar trees, but trees of life Forever flourish here; Not Jordan's rush, but river's gush With living waters clear.

Thus oft the God of Moses With sorrow bows his head, For which he gems a crown of life To crown the faithful dead. Thus oft refuses earthly bliss. While higher bliss is given; Denies us wealth, denies us health. But hids us enter heaven.

The Bishop of Adelaide on Christian Union.

The Reverend Thomas Binney, an eminent high in authority whose hereditary predilections cornect them with the Church of England. So far indeed did the sentiments of good will towards Mr. Binney prevail, that his Excellency Sir Richard McDonnell, the Governor-in-Chief, with many of the high officials and prominent individuals in the Colony addressed to the Bishop of Adelaide a memorial requesting his lordship one of the pulpits of their Church. This his Lordship, regarding " the tradition of eighteen do; yet that he largely participates in the feeling of respect for other denominations which animates an influential portion of the laity in his diocese, and sincerely longs for the advent of a period when all shall be one, is pleasingly exemplified in a letter addressed by his lordship to Mr. Binney. After explaining the reasons which had induced the conviction in his mind that it was not compatible with duty to invite one not But while adhering to this conclusion, I am judgment; and I am compelled to ask myself is this 'standing apart' to continue for ever? Is division to pass from functional disease into the structural type of Church organisation? Are the Lutheran and Reformed, the Presbyterian and Congregational, the Baptist and Wesleyan bodies, to continue separate from the Episcopal communion so long as the world endureth? Is there no possibility of accommodation, no hope of sympathy, no yearning for union? Will no one even ask the question? None make the first move? Must we be content with that poor substitute for anostolic fellowship in the Gospel, Let us agree to differ; or an evangelical alliance which, transient and incomplete, betrays a sense of want without satisfying the craving? or are we reduced to the sad conclusion that as there can be no peace with Rome so long as she obscures the truth in Jesus, and lords it over God's beritage, so there are no common terms on which the Evangelical Protestant Churches can agree after eliminating errors and evils against which each has felt itself constrained to protest? The present government is said to be in nickle, and likely to have to turn out its Lord Chancellor. A short time since a mastership in Lunacy fell vacant. The birth is very snug and profitable, and the appointment is in the gift of the Chancellor for the time being. Even Chancellors have their little weaknesses,-and Lord Chelmsford is but a man. Looking round him he bethought bimself of a son-in-law of his, Higgins by name,—and to Mr. Higgins he gave the appointment. It was gazetted accordingly; when uprose the cry, " Who is Hig gins? The Mayor called upon William Cunard, Esq., who had been most active and successful in collecting subscriptions, to state the object of the meeting.

Mr. Cunard accordingly stated that the Orphans' Home having been in successful operation in a quiet way for more than a year past, it was thought tadvisable to place it upon a more permanent basis. The building in which they were now assumbled, having come into the market for the sum of £1500, Mr. and Miss Cogswell and himself had agreed to purchase it, and deliver it over rent free for the use of the Institution. Johnnie and His Verse.

The day was dark, the whistling wind Went wandering to and fro; And all along the icy road Piled up the falling snew. I met (a basket on his arm With chips and shavings full)

Young Johnnie, who is often seen Within the Sunday school. He thought not of the storm or cold.

Though poor and thinly clad, But, seeing me, a cheerful smile Shone o'er his features glad. "I've learned my verse to say at school,"

He cried, " I'll say it now:"-" The Lord's my Shepherd, I'll not want," Then gently whispered low.

He took his ragged mitten off, A new bright cent displayed, high inis is to give to help them teach The heathen boy," he said. "I sarned it yesterday myself .--I had so much to do.

That after buying all the bread, Was left this cent so new." "But you may need it," answered I ;-He Whispered, gently, low, " The Lord's my Shepherd, I'll not want,"

That is my verse, you know." He tradged along-his verse and cent Made his a happy lot; All weary toil, and jacket torn, And worn-out shoes forgot: A child of poverty from birth,

To want and hardship used,

Surely, if any, he might be From generous deeds excused ! But, grateful for his Christian name. His mite be gave, and said, " The Lord's my Shepherd, I'll not want." Though scanty clothed and fed.

Each day his father sought employ,-In vain .- " No work !" his cry ; His mother sick, so Johnnie strove Each day's needs to supply. From morn till night his busy feet On errands straightway went,

Nor loitered on the way, nor once His little earnings spent; But in his father's hand he laid The humble coins with joy, Contented new and then to claim One for the heathen boy.

If tempted to refuse your mite,

"The Lord's my Shepherd, I'll not want, And make his cause your own. -Christian Witness.

Lorenzo Dow.

Lorenzo Dow was very exact in the appointments he made, and sometimes arranged them a long way ahead. He once preached near one of the small towns in upper Georgis, and told his congregation, on that day a year he would preach to them again " The next season, on Saturday afternoon, preceding the Sunday of the appointed time, the old man was jugging along the main road in the direction of his con-

He noticed before him a stout little negro boy, of peculiarly active step and manner, who carried in his hand a small tin, horn, such as are used to call the people to their meals.

The custom among many in the South is to allow married men to go to their wives' houses, and children to visit their parents, on Saturday evening, to stay with them on Sundays, and as the negroes are musically inclined, they carry a fife or a horn, or a banjo, to give notice of their spproach, and to beguile the way. In other cases they whistle, sing or shout. A healthy, cheerful whistle, sing or shout. A healthy, cheerful negro, of honest intentions, uses generally some means of association, even if he is obliged to talk to himself.

Down eggoding to his usual manner encountering the sons or property at Ruin depot, as in no Christian Perfection.

Dow, according to his usual manner, encase shall the directors hold themselves liatered into conversation with the boy, and ble for accidents to passengersfound he was about to visit the congregation he had appointed to meet. "Well, let me hear you" So the negro inflated his velvet cheeks, and made the woods resound.

"Do you know a tall pine tree near stand at Sharon ?" said Dow. Yes, that I does very well, master." Lorenzo then put his hand into his

This is the true policy. The best seeds, plants and animals should always be sought for planting and breeding. Though the first cost may be greater, it is far more profitable to cultivate the best vegetables, grains, etc., than the ordinary kinds. The marketable value of the product, if well cultivated and preserved, is always more.

THE GREAT WONDER Of the Nineteenth Century Professor Wood's HAIR RESTORATIVE

SAYS the St. Louis (Mo) Democrat: Below we publish a letter to Dr. Wood, of this city, from a gentleman in Maine, which speaks glowingly of the superior merits of his hair tonic. uscless puffery from the press:

BATH, MAINE, Jan 20, 1358,

Professor O. J. Wood & Co.:

Gentlemen: Having my attention called a few months since to the highly beneficial effects of your hair restorative, I was indued to make application of it upon my own heir, which had become quite gray, probably one-third white; my whiskers were of same character. Some three months since I procured a bottle of your heir restorative, and used it. I soon found it was proving what I had wished. I used it about twice a week. I have since procured another bottle, of which I have used some. I can now certify to the world that the gray or which hair has totally disappeared, both on my head and face, and my hair has resumed its natural colour, and I believe more soft and glossy than it has been before for twenty-five years. I am now sixty years old; my good wife at the age of fifty-two, has used it with same effect.

The above notice I deem due to you for your valuable discovery. I am assured that whoever will rightly use, us per directions, will not have occasion to contradict my statements. I am a cifizen of this city and a resident nere for the last fifteen years, and am known to nearly every one here and adjoining towns. Any use you may make of the above, with my name attached, is at your service, as I wish to preserve the beauties of nature in others as well as myself. I am, truly yours,
