

OUTLINES THE TERMS

C. F. J. Masterman States in the Daily Chronicle What Britain is Determined to Obtain in War

By Special Wire to the Courier. New York, Nov. 15.—A London cable to The New York Times this morning says: The Right Hon. C. F. J. Masterman in an article entitled "The only possible peace terms" published in The Daily Chronicle, quotes Premier Asquith's statement, "We shall never sheath the sword, which we have not lightly drawn, until Belgium recovers in full measure all, and more than all, that she sacrificed, until France is adequately secured against menace of aggression; until the rights of the smaller nationalities of Europe are placed upon an unassailable foundation, and until the military domination of Prussia is wholly and finally destroyed. That is a great task worthy of a great nation."

Belgium will be restored to complete independence, an indemnity paid by Germany adequate to the rebuilding of her ruined cities and villages and the revival of her destroyed industries, and compensation for her disabled and maimed and for the damage done in the present occupied provinces, but also a natural defensive boundary. The natural boundary which would render Germany's attack upon France, and the boundary of the Rhine, let Germany remain there for the Rhine is its natural boundary.

The Turkish Empire would be torn to fragments, and Armenia, Serbia, Palestine, Mesopotamia, and Thrace divided amongst those who would develop and revive these once fair places now desolated under alien rule. The Turkish generally be penned up in Central Anatolia, where they would be compelled to learn to work instead of massacre. Serbia will be restored with heavy indemnity from Austria-Hungary to repair the vast damage done. She will receive Bosnia and Herzegovina, full and adequate access to the Adriatic and all of Austria that is Serbia.

An Inquiry Opened. Paris, Nov. 15.—The minister of marine has opened an inquiry regarding the loss of the French steamer Calvados, which was sunk recently in the vicinity of the Straits of Gibraltar by a German submarine. Special investigation will be made concerning the fact that the wireless apparatus on this vessel did not work.

LORD KITCHENER IN EAST MEANS AN ALLIED VICTORY

The Fact That He is in the Balkans Stirs Germany to Send High Military Mission to Constantinople—Entente Distrust Now the Greek Ministry. New York, Nov. 15.—A cable to The Herald from London this morning says: "It is Kitchener against the Kaiser, and his bribe givers at Athens, where King Constantine and his puppet cabinet are trying to serve mammon, but all despatches from this main centre of Austro-German intrigue indicate that the mere presence of Lord Kitchener in the near east theatre of war foreshadows a victory for the quadruple entente that Germany thoroughly understands. "That an immense influence will be exerted by the trip of Lord Kitchener to the Balkans even if he does not meet Constantine, is proved by the sudden despatch of a high German military mission, one of the members of which is a royal prince, and of the expected arrival of Count Berchtold, Austria's foreign minister, to urge the king to cast his lot with the central powers. "The king, however, fears the Franco-British fleet which is reported to be ready with steam up near Malta to make a demonstration if the diplomatists of the quadruple entente discover tangible evidence that the Hellenic monarch contemplates following the treacherous example of King Fer-

COL. GENET HURT BY FALL FROM HORSE SATURDAY

Horse Stepped Into a Hole, Throwing the Officer—Not Seriously Hurt.

It was with great regret that word was received in the city of an unfortunate accident to Lieut.-Col. Genet. While drilling on Saturday afternoon his horse stepped suddenly into a hole, throwing the Colonel heavily.

His condition, happily, is not serious, but he may be laid up for some time. A special despatch to the Courier.

from Toronto as follows tells of the accident. Toronto, Nov. 15.—Lt.-Col. H. A. Genet of the 8th Battalion, C. F. R., formerly in command of the 38th Dufferin Rifles of Brantford, suffered injuries when he was thrown from his horse during drill at the exhibition camp, Toronto, on Saturday. The animal stepped suddenly into a hole, and the officer was thrown heavily with the result that his chest and side were injured. He is now confined in the camp hospital. His condition is not serious.

Freighter Burned. Menominee, Mich., Nov. 15.—The Freighter Starlight was destroyed by fire Sunday while fourteen miles from this port. Finding that the flames had beyond their control, the crew of three launched a life boat. When near Chambers Island, the lifeboat capsized throwing the men into the icy water. They swam to safety, but the flames had a good hold on the shelter. The value of the vessel and cargo was small.

An Inquiry Opened. Paris, Nov. 15.—The minister of marine has opened an inquiry regarding the loss of the French steamer Calvados, which was sunk recently in the vicinity of the Straits of Gibraltar by a German submarine. Special investigation will be made concerning the fact that the wireless apparatus on this vessel did not work.

PHOTOGRAPHS SHOWN SATURDAY CREATED IMMENSE ENTHUSIASM

Never before has such a furore been created among Brantford's younger citizens than that caused by the school children's photographs, now being published in the Courier. Saturday's paper was eagerly sought after, and long before the presses were started, pupils from Alexandra school besieged the office of the Courier, clamoring for the paper. That the movement is a popular one is beyond

TWO BAD FIRES WITHIN THE LAST FORTY EIGHT HOURS

First Alarm Saturday Night at Ten O'clock, and Early This Morning Gas Company Had Blaze on Northumberland Street.

The fire brigade has been called on to attend to two fires within the last 48 hours. The first alarm was turned in on Saturday night shortly after 10 o'clock from box 15. The blaze was in a barn at the rear of 282 Park avenue owned by G. H. Wilkes and rented by Mr. Costain. The structure which was of frame, was destroyed and a couple of sets of harness were destroyed and a buggy damaged. The horse had been sold about a week ago. The blaze was quite spectacular and the flames had a good hold on the structure. The loss will be quite heavy. Both brigades were at each conflagration.

Is Steamer Adriatic Which is Sunk, Boat of White Star Line?

New York, Nov. 15.—There was a report this morning in maritime circles that the Steamship Adriatic had been sunk, but the report did not state whether the steamship was the big passenger ship of the White Star Line or was the British Steamship Adriatic, which left Kymassi, Greece, on October 13 for Philadelphia, and passed Tarifa, Spain, on October 29. The White Star Line Adriatic arrived in Liverpool on November 11, and was not scheduled to leave for New York until November 24. Later a report became current to the maritime exchange that it was the Adriatic of the White Star Line that was in trouble. The other steamship Adriatic, bound for Philadelphia from Kymassi should be about in mid-Atlantic to-day.

Officials of the White Star Line said this morning that they had no information regarding the Adriatic other than that she had arrived safely last Thursday in Liverpool. They did not credit the report. David Lindsay, assistant manager of the White Star Line, said that he was positive that the Adriatic was still at Liverpool. "The Adriatic was heavily laden when she left New York," said Mr. Lindsay, "and it would take at least three days to unload her, and as many more to load the steamship for her return voyage to this port. She was not scheduled to sail for New York until November 24."

CORPORAL DRAKE WRITES HOME FROM TRENCHES

Is Doing Staff Work at Base Because Foot is Not Yet Better.

Mrs. J. Drake, 80 Spring street, has received word from her husband, Corporal Drake of the Second Division. The Corporal was wounded in the foot some time ago, and although almost better is at the base camp doing staff work. He states that there may be another stripe in it shortly for him. Extracts are given from the letters. One is written October 25 and the other Oct. 31st.

October 25th. "Just a few lines to let you know I'm on the same job and am likely to be for quite a while yet. It is an awful night—the wind is blowing a gale. It is cold in the trench, but must be to the boys up the line? Makes you think of the fireside here. I hope we will soon see it. The news just now is favorable, Greece and Roumania will affect the Kaiser as Austria-Hungary affected Napoleon. In my mind that is where the Kaiser's key will be broken, because in spite of appearances just now, those two Balkan states will eventually side with the Allies. There will be happenings in a few days, you see. According to some of the German prisoners' yarns they are already fighting blindly on a hopelessly lost cause, and even the Kaiser, War Lord with his wonderful personality cannot keep a backbone in an army, once that creeps in. I sure am sorry to be away from the company as a fighting unit. I hold them second to none, but I have ceased my regrets and will go back up when they choose to send me. I'm not much use except for a mark, and they don't need them up there. They need men with two good feet sort of no good. The heart being willing if the flesh is weak. Somebody has to do this job that I have got, because men are coming and going every week, and they have to keep a staff up here. On this work they can't keep on changing, it takes time to learn."

KITCHENER STARTED ANTWERP EXPEDITION

LONDON, Nov. 15, 3.40 p. m. — Winston Spencer Churchill, who resigned last week as Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, said in the House of Commons today that the project for sending an army to the relief of Antwerp originated with Field Marshal Kitchener and the French Government. Mr. Churchill made this statement in outlining the reasons for his resignation from the Cabinet and explaining his administration of the Admiralty, of which he formerly was First Lord.

BODY OF SIR CHARLES TUPPER IS LYING IN STATE AT HALIFAX

Remains Brought There This Morning by Special Train—Thousands Look at Body, Many of Them Old Friends.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 15.—The body of Sir Charles Tupper, one time premier of Canada, is lying in state today in the Nova Scotia provincial parliament building, in the chambers where, as premier of the province, he first won his place as a legislator, and before he stepped out in the ranks of Dominion statesmen. The remains were brought here this morning on a special train from Quebec, where the body was disembarked from the steamer Metagama, which had brought it from England, where Sir Charles died. To-day's ceremony, despite the fact that the casket containing the body was draped in a Union Jack and surrounded by wreaths sent from all parts of the Dominion and from Great Britain, thus emphasizing the wider field through which the statesman was known and respected, took on the aspect of an intimate family farewell. Among the thousands who filed past the body and looked into the face of the dead statesman, were many old men and women who knew Sir Charles well in his days here as a provincial premier, had shaken his

BRILLIANT STRATEGY

Colonel Vassio in Command of 6000 Serbs Saved Monastir by Some Very Clever Fighting.

Milan, Italy, Nov. 15, via Paris.—An account of the recent fighting before Babuna Pass, in southern Serbia is forwarded by a war correspondent of The Courier. Della Sera. The Bulgarians, he says, were 20,000 strong the Serbians 6,000. No serious resistance being possible for the Serbians on open ground they fell back from Velez and Isvar and set up a defence where the road narrows near Abdi Pasa, an elevation of 2,000 feet. The 20,000 Bulgarians were grouped between Velez and Babuna Pass, supported by powerful artillery. The Serbs were hard pressed and for a time it seemed as though they must give way, which would have meant the loss not only of the army, but of Monastir. The situation was changed, however, by the tactics adopted by the Serbian commander, Col. Vassio. He permitted the Bulgarians to advance as far as the Perlepe road, and then fell upon them with all his forces, smashing through their first and second lines with the bayonet and driving the Bulgarians beyond Kotziak.

On the following days the Bulgarians attempted to recapture the lost positions, but the Serbians, though poorly supplied with food and munitions were able to hold them back. GERMANS CLAIM HAUL. Berlin, Nov. 15.—Announcement was made by the War Office to-day of the capture of 8,500 Serbians, with 12 canon. Of these 7,000 prisoners, and six canon were taken by the Bulgarians. Pursuit of the Serbians is being continued all along the front. A defeat of the Russians in Galicia is announced to-day by the War Office, which says that the troops of Gen. Von Linsingen across the Russians from the west bank of the Sty river. The entire west bank has now been cleared. Russian attacks near Smorgon, east of Vilna, were repulsed. On the western front, the Germans stormed a French trench 300 yards long, northeast of Ecurie.

The Earl of Seaford, who was born in 1876 and was the seventh of his line, was a captain of the Third Cameron Highlanders, special reserve, when the war began. He was married in 1898 to Miss Nina Townsend, daughter of Dr. J. E. Townsend, justice of the peace of the Colony of New Zealand, who survives him with a son and a daughter. The heir to the title is his brother, Hon. Trevor Ogilvie Grant. His daughter succeeds to the Scottish peerage.

Saturday morning a cable was received by Mrs. Eli Mercer, 18 Rose avenue, stating her husband, Eli Mercer, of the 4th Battalion, had been wounded on the 24th of October, and that a report would come through later. Up until this morning no further word had been received and some anxiety is felt about Mercer's welfare. A cable will be sent through, if possible to find out what is the matter with him. Eli Mercer enlisted with Col. Ashton's 36th, but when in England transferred to the 4th Battalion, in answer to a call for volunteers. He has been in France for about ten weeks. His wife and two children live at 18 Rose avenue. A brother, Mr. Jack Mercer, works at the Gas Company. It is estimated that France's war bill up to December 31, 1915, will be $4,287,712,200.

O. of the Division."

Canteen and Barber Shop.—The men's canteen in the Dalhousie St. building and the Barber Shop in the Armouries are open for business as follows:—

Days Training, Nov. 15th—A. M., 9.00 to 10.15 physical drill; 10.15 to 10.30 rest; 10.30 to 12.00 squad drill with arms. P. M.—3.30 to 4.30 military drill and theory and faults in aiming.

Transfers—With the cancellation of the reinforcement draft which this Battalion was instructed to provide on arrival in winter Quarters, 55 men from the strength of the left half battalion stationed here are being returned to Oshawa and also 43 men from the recruiting depots at Toronto will be picked up by Lieut. H. L. Brodie who is in charge of the detail leaving Brantford this a. m. Capt. McNaught in charge of about 50 men will leave Toronto to-day for Brantford.

Medical Officer's Department.—Only two sick men reported yesterday, suffering from a gripe. There are a number of minor cases of throat trouble and colds under the doctor's care but the men are able to attend drill. The effects of the long rest from Niagara have now entirely disappeared with the one exception of a man whose foot became swollen and poisoned on account of foreign matter working into the blister, but this man will be ready for duty in another day or so.

The cleanliness of the armories is given careful consideration, they are swept out and disinfected every day and twice a week are to be thoroughly scrubbed, the windows are thrown wide open during the day to air the building and an upper window at night, no smoking is allowed of the men in their sleeping quarters.

Paymaster's Dept.—Paymaster Sgt. J. R. R. Miller returned from Oshawa last evening, and arrangements are being made under way to pay the left half Battalion at Brantford their semi-monthly advance of pay to-morrow, and the right half Battalion at Oshawa on Wednesday, payments to be made by cheque.

Captain Devonshire, in command of B Company, stationed at Oshawa, met with a rather serious accident yesterday which happily did not develop into more than a very bad shaking up and badly cut about the head. His horse took fright, half throwing him and dragging him in the stirrups about a block. He was conveyed to the local general hospital where he was reported as resting well last night.

A further addition to the general trend of hospitality tendered to the men of the 84th by the citizens of Brantford, is the generous offer of the officers and members of the Conservative Club, who have thrown open the doors of their institution, with its billiard and pool tables, card tables, etc., to the free use of the soldiers, and everything but intoxicating drinks are at their disposal.

Orderly Room.—There was a regrettably large number of prisoners paraded at the Orderly Room this morning, most of them old offenders who cannot restrain their passions for over indulgence in intoxicating liquors, and after serving their term of imprisonment, will, in all probability, be discharged from the Battalion as undesirables.

"THE WHITE FEATHER" HERE

"The White Feather," dealing with the present European conflict and described as the greatest secret service war play ever written, will be seen here at the Grand Opera House, Saturday, November 20th, matinee and night. The play contains all the ingredients and thrills necessary to satisfy the most blasé theatre goers, including German submarines and English warships; four German spies and two English secret service agents; a new recruit; an irascible M. P. and his daughter, who, of course, is in love with the secret service hero; a basket full of white feathers for cowards who do not enlist; a wireless outfit concealed in the drawing room where the scene of the play is laid, a wonderful diatograph; an always-to-be-forgotten pipe; a code book of signals which falls into the wrong hands; carrier pigeons; a cane shaped gun which works wonders at the proper time; a couple of revolvers and a powerful modern searchlight, all add to the tremendous success and countervailing thrills of this big secret service war drama, making it the sensation of three continents—England, America and Australia.

GERMAN FLEET LOCKED IN NOW BY MINE FIELD

Can Come Out, But Must Fight in Place of British Navy's Choosing.

London, Nov. 15.—The Daily Express in the course of a dispassionate article on the navy asserts that it is allowed to reveal a "secret" long known in Germany, that the British mine fields in the German mine fields protecting their channels and harbors and that unless their ships are scrapped or made "prisoners" they will stay in the Kiel Canal until the end of the war.

The writer declares, nevertheless, that plenty of space is left to enable them to emerge and fight in a place the British navy's choosing. The British armada of patrol boats is equipped with wireless to ensure against surprise, and the German He declares, coincidentally that there will be no Trafalgar in the present war. The great final engagement of the war he says, was that of the Dogger Banks in January. He adds that a map showing the German submarines captured recently was shown to newspapermen visiting Admiral Jellicoe's fleet. The map covered only the waters up to June. The operations since then, the writer says, have been far more successful.

At the expiration of the sentence, the name of the officer will be stricken from the army list, while the orderly will be sent to the front as soon as possible.

General Gallieni furthermore sent a circular to the generals in various regions of France condemning as criminal abuses of all kinds at a time when the country is at stake and stating that he wished to stigmatize such acts by the foregoing example.

WASHINGTON LISTS SURVIVORS

Washington, Nov. 15.—The most connected official narrative of the rescue of survivors from the torpedoed Italian liner Ancona yet to reach the State Department arrived to-day by cable from Ambassador Shap, at Paris who transmitted telegrams to the French Minister of Marine from the prefect at Bizerta. They follow:—

"November 7.—100 shipwrecked persons of which six wounded from Ancona torpedoed Sunday noon brought to Bizerta."

"November 8.—Two torpedo boats this evening brought 21 survivors and four bodies to Bizerta. Survivors are 163 out of 480, and are being cared for at Sidi Abdallah hospital. The submarine which sank the Ancona, according to Concordant information received by me was from 80 to 100 metres long, and armed with fairly large guns forward and two smaller ones aft."

"November 9.—A boat from the Ancona arrived this afternoon at Cape Bon with 28 persons, bringing total survivors to 187. Of the 161, cared for at Sidi Abdallah, one is an American woman, one is a Russian, sixteen are Greeks and the balance are Italians."

"November 10.—Two of Ancona boats have just arrived, one at Sembra with 28 survivors and the other at Tunis with 37 others. Total survivors 224."

This was all the official information in the hands of the French Government.

SCENE OF THE BRITISH OCCUPATION ON THE AEGEAN ISLANDS

BRITISH MARINES KEEPING GUARD OVER TURKISH TOWN AND ITS OBSOLETE FORTRESS. At the foot of the hill is a small Turkish town with a bare looking stone fortress beyond. This fortress is surrounded by the sea on three sides and by a moat on the fourth. In the small harbor, formed by two projecting arms of the stone wall, two or three vessels are seen riding at anchor.

MOVEMENT OF GRAIN GREATEST EVER KNOWN

Philadelphia, Nov. 15.—What is probably the greatest movement of grain the world has ever witnessed is now in progress, seizing the opportunity presented by the war in Europe.

American and Canadian farmers have raised unprecedented crops, which are now being rushed to the Atlantic seaboard in all haste because of the impending close of navigation on the Great Lakes.

In Philadelphia, not only are the elevators filled to their utmost capacity, but there are more than a thousand cars of grain on the railroad tracks awaiting their turn to discharge as soon as the fleet of steamers arriving in ballast from Europe.

believe the elevators of the 3,000,000 bushels now stored in them.

In addition to the regular trans-Atlantic liners, known commercially as whole cargo-carriers, steamers are due at this port to load cargoes of grain.

In all the westward bound fleet headed for Philadelphia has a carrying capacity of more than 5,000,000 bushels.

Ocean freight rates continue to advance daily. Rumors are current that the Italian government will soon call many of her vessels home for war purposes.

This would intensify the lack of tonnage with a corresponding increase of rates.

NO STOMACH PAIN, GAS, INDIGESTION IN FIVE MINUTES

"Really does put bad stomachs in order—'really does' overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapiesin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world.

If you eat fat meats into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your stomach filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment "Pape's Diapiesin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes.

It's truly astonishing—almost miraculous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapiesin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back.

It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night, it's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach regulator in the world.

Bunts and Bones.

Seven players have been lucky enough to get slices of seven world's series melons. They are Connie Mack, Chief Bender, Eddie Plank, now a member of the Terriers, and Harry Davis a good many seasons captain of the Athletics.

During the past season only four players of the world's champion Red Sox connected for the homers on their home lot—Fenway Park. They were Dick Hoblitzell, Larry Gardner and George (Babe) Ruth and Joe Wood, pitchers, Babe Ruth, the hurler, topped the Sox in grabbing circuit drives last season with four.

Two of them came off Ray Caldwell, and the other off Bill James when the latter was with the Browns.

Ira Thomas, the veteran catcher, arranged the meeting between Connie Mack and Frank Baker, at which the pair declared a truce and Baker decided to join the Mackmen. Thomas has been the official "fixer" of the Athletics for the last three seasons.

While everyone was claiming a record for knocking two home runs in one world's series game, it is now found that Pat Dougherty did the same thing as a member of the White Sox in the "crookal" battles against the Cots in 1905.

Sucking Fish.

A curious looking object is the sucking fish, which has a peculiar disk fitted to the crown of its head. By means of this it attaches itself to any fish it chooses—a shark or whale, for instance, or turtles and even ships—and so it carried about without any trouble. When once attached they stick like glue, and they are occasionally used for purposes of fishing. A line is fixed to the fish's tail, which is then set free. As soon as it discovers a fish or a turtle it takes a firm hold in the simplest form of fishing the line is dragged in and the sucking fish hauled up, together with its captive.

In the case of a turtle the fisherman dives after the line and so secures the victim.

JAPAN GAVE GOOD HELP TO RUSSIA

Her Shells Helped to Defeat Von Hindenburg and Russians Are Confident.

London, Nov. 15.—A Petrograd despatch to Reuter's Telegram Company says:

Japan rendered opportune aid in the Baltic between General Ruzsky and Field Marshal Von Hindenburg in the matter of shells and, now that artillery conditions have been equalized, the Russians are confident of the result.

After long and arduous fighting in the marshes, the Russians have emerged from the lake defiles, and military authorities look for a speedy development in General Ruzsky's aggressive tactics. The Germans, driven back to within ten miles of Mitau, are evacuating munition depots.

PRIVATE STORES DISCOVERED London, Nov. 15.—A despatch to the Times from Petrograd says:

"In connection with the food and fuel problems, a census is proceeding in Petrograd in which 2,500 officials are engaged. Many huge private stores of sugar, flour and fire-wood have been discovered, which partly helps to explain the prevailing scarcity. The owners, in several cases, forcibly resisted the officials making an inventory of their supplies.

Big Move.

Petrograd Nov. 14 via London.—The Russian Government is opening five thousand new savings banks in connection with post offices.

Relics of a Lost Race.

When in 1494, on his second voyage, Columbus discovered the island of Jamaica, it was populated by the Arawak Indians, who, although at first hostile to him, became friendly on his giving them clothing and other articles before unknown to them.

When later the Spaniards settled the island they forced the Indians not only to do agricultural work in their own island, but to labor in the gold mines of Haiti. So hard were the Spanish taskmasters that by 1558 the whole Arawak nation was exterminated.

During recent years G. C. Longley of Pelham Manor has been seeking to recover all possible traces of the lost race. To that end he spent much time on the island in exploring the old kitchen middens or refuse heaps of the Arawaks, in which he has found, besides shells and pottery and fish, turtle and cony bones, many celts or rude chisels, grinding stones, stone pendants and axes—1,500 objects in all.

The whole collection he has given to the American Museum of Natural History in New York City.

The most interesting objects are the cylindrical stone pendants, which were fashioned with sand and stone by endless rubbing. Pendants of exactly the same sort are worn to-day as insignia of office by chiefs or head men of tribes in northern South America.—Youth's Companion.

The Situation.

Matters with regard to Greece, or more properly speaking, King Constantine, are still in a very doubtful state. There is the assertion that a German-Austro commission is at Athens to conclude a formal agreement, that Kitchener is also on the scene, and so on, but there is no news of a definite nature either one way or the other. Italy taking a hand in has given Constantine excellent cause to still further hesitate before he openly throws his lot in with the Kaiser, as he had without doubt hitherto intended to do. The Serbians still continue to fight with great tenacity and pluck and the Allied forces in this new theatre of the struggle are commencing to make themselves felt.

The Russian position in the Eastern theatre is now in a far more satisfactory condition than seemed at all possible a few weeks ago. General Brusilov, who has been fighting against von Hindenburg, in an interview, says:—

"We are now guaranteed against unpleasant surprises on the part of the Germans. The time for surprises is past. The Germans are still strong, but not so strong that we need fear them."

These are reassuring words and would appear to be thoroughly well supported by the facts of the case.

In South Africa it has been decided to attack German East Africa and the result may be counted upon as one more loss to the German colonial possessions.

The Death of Dr. Montague.

The tragic death of Dr. Montague removes a somewhat remarkable figure from the public arena. He first came into public notice in 1887-1890 when a bitter political duel between the Dominion House took place between himself and C. W. Colter, in the neighboring County of Haldimand. Montague won in 1887 by a small margin. The parties set aside the election, and he was again successful in the bye-election by a small margin. Once more he was unseated, and in 1889, Mr. Colter won after a very close finish. He, in turn, had his election voided, and Montague triumphed once more in 1890, and held the seat until 1895. He had not been long in Ottawa before he was made a member of the Cabinet, and he was always more or less a storm centre.

The Doctor had very few equals in Canada as a stump speaker. Older Brantfordites will recall the manner in which in 1896 he literally saved a Conservative meeting at the Brantford drill hall. Sir Charles Tupper, whose death has also just been announced, received some very disturbing news on his arrival in his special car at the Grand Trunk depot, and he was altogether not himself in the address which he delivered. There were a large number of Liberals in the gathering, and they had practically collared the meeting when Montague rose to speak, and in a very few minutes had captured the crowd, holding their breathless attention until the end. A more notable achievement under the circumstances was never recorded on the public platform. With his defeat and that of his party in 1896, he disappeared from Dominion politics, only latterly to be a member of the Roblin Cabinet in Manitoba, and to become the subject of charges still pending against members of that Administration.

The Churchills.

The first Churchill to reach prominence was John, afterwards Duke of Marlborough, who was born in 1650, and was the greatest general and one of the first statesmen of his time. The family affords one of those rare instances of genius descending through generation after generation. Lord Randolph Churchill, among the others to attain great prominence, was one of the most brilliant public men of his day, and without doubt did very much to revive the fortunes of the Conservative party. In 1886 he was made Chancellor of the Exchequer in the Salisbury Cabinet, and suddenly threw up the post, for the quite generally believed reason that he hoped by the step to create a party rumour, which would lead to his preferment as leader. Instead, Salisbury quietly accepted his resignation, put Goschen in as Chancellor, and matters went on as smoothly as if Lord Randolph had never existed. The blow was a very severe one to himself and his pride, and he never regained the eminence which he had previously occupied.

The career of his son, Winston has in many respects, been equally notable. Soldier, author and statesman, he has achieved fame in all three directions, while he still may be regarded, as such things go, as a young man. He has been no more dependable than the rest of them, and did not hesitate to abandon one party for another when he thought his self-interest rested in such a course. That the splendid preparedness of the British navy was, in quite a large measure, due to him as First Sea Lord, is generally admitted, but it seems to have been generally felt that he was mainly responsible for a couple of unfortunate moves since the commencement of hostilities. Now, true to the traditions of his race, he has offered his services at the front—he had previously had experience in the Boer war—and if he should safely emerge from the conflict, there is every reason to believe that he may again become a factor in the councils of the Empire.

vilage of ruling over them, even if liberated by other hands.

The German fleet should be surrendered and either sunk or divided up among the allies. All Zeppelin or zeppelin hangars should be burnt. German colonies worthless in themselves, must remain as trophies for the nations who conquered them—South Africa, India, Australia and New Zealand.

On some such basis European peace might be secured. The terms may seem unduly favorable to Germany, but no German would be left ruler by or subjected to another race, and no other race would be ruled by a German. Nationality would be vindicated and only by nationality being vindicated is there hope of peace."

The record population for Ohio penitentiary has now been obtained, it is 2,364.

ITALIAN OFFICIAL

Special Wire to the Courier. Rome, Nov. 14, via Paris Nov. 15.—The following official statement was issued to-day at the headquarters of the Italian general staff:—

"In the Ledro valley from the slopes of Nozzolo, from Montes Pari, Cimadoro and Rocchetta enemy artillery opened an intense fire against our positions, also throwing inflammable shells on Bezzecca and Pieve di Solido without, however, damaging our solid defences.

On the Tyrol-Trentino front and in Carnia there were no important developments.

On the Isonzo front our action continued yesterday. We progressed on Javoreck, in the Plezzo basin and on the heights northwest of Gorizia.

"On the Carso plateau we have taken strong entrenchments called Delle Frascie to the southwest of San Martino.

"Our aeroplanes on the 12th, notwithstanding bad weather, made successful raids over the Carso. They bombed the railroad stations at Reitzenberg, San Daniele, Sypoe, and Dotogliano and long lines of trains standing at the stations. Two enemy machines of the Albatross type and one of the Aviatik type, which were on the way were put to flight. Our machines returned undamaged."

SOLDIERS' BURDENS

Loads They Have to Carry on March and in Action.

While the rifle of the infantrymen of the world's armies has steadily lessened in weight during the last fifty years, and while constant attempts have been made in other ways the uniformed fighter of to-day carries very little if any less than he did a generation or two ago. His gun and bayonet and some other details of equipment that had an exact counterpart in the old armies may be lighter, but modern military necessities have added to his carrying requirements.

He must now face this marching load: Magazine, rifle, bayonet, scabbard, rifle cartridge belt and fasteners, first aid packet, canteen, canteen strap, set of blankets, roll straps, haversack, meat can (used as a frying pan), cup, knife, fork, spoon, one shelter tent, one rubber blanket, one pair shoes, one housewife (needle and thread), one overcoat, one trenching tool.

These marching loads have varied from 40 to 100 pounds in the past and weigh about the same now.

Of course, in going into action much of this load is discarded, some of it never to be possessed by the owner again, even if he escapes the battle. In the old days knapsacks were always cast off by seasoned troops, who grew calloused as to the hoarding up of little trinkets and mementoes, so appeal to the amateur soldier.

After a battle these discarded knapsacks might be recovered, but it was not likely. At any rate, while another knapsack might be issued, it would not be the one possessed by the soldier before the battle.

Whenever a new levy of troops was mustered in and arrived in a camp where veterans were stationed the new comers were greeted with mock praise for their spick and span soldier appearance, with special emphasis on "How nice those knapsacks look." This time honored receptacle of everything a soldier desired or hoped to keep ever near him is no longer reckoned in the latter day, universal fighting equipment. While troops on going into battle discard everything not absolutely necessary to them for the fight and are thus lightened up some, they have to take on some weight in the place of that relinquished in the shape of an extra number of cartridges.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Gossip of Notables.

If E. S. Willard, whose death is reported from London, fell a little short of the greatest heights in acting, he was among the most remarkable performers of modern times, says the New York Evening Post. He excelled in many departments of the drama. His life work was completed some time ago, and his passing, therefore, does not inflict any new loss upon the tattered stage, but it will cause profound regret in the hearts of thousands of his admirers. He was still in the later prime of life, having been born at Brighton, in England, in 1853. It was as the second officer in "The Lady of Lyons," as lowly a beginning as could be wished, that he made his first appearance before the footlights at Weymouth. Then followed a long course of hard labor in the provincial stock companies, which have produced so many able players, until he reached London in 1875.

After attracting some attention by a performance of Antonio in "The Merchant of Venice," in which his noble voice and fine delivery must have been of great service to him, he established his brilliant versatility, as Edgar in "Lea," Eugene Aram, Robert Folliott in "The Shaughraun," and other characters. Soon he advanced to more ambitious efforts, acting as Dubosc and Lesurques in "The Lyons Mail," Macheath, Claude Melnotte, Sir Peter Teazle, Sir Harcourt Courly, Benedict, Charles Surface, Ham and Peggotty, and other parts establishing his brilliant versatility. For some years he labored incessantly without great public reward—although his abilities were soon recognized in his profession—until Wilson Barrett's play Clifford Armitage in "The Lights of London." In this excellent melodrama, he made a great hit, which he followed with another in "The Roman Rye." Then came his triumph in "The Spider," "The Silver King," which delighted public and critics alike, and was hailed as something absolutely new and fascinating in the way of stage villains. So popular did he become in this line of business, that he labored incessantly being confined to it for ever. But he broke his chains at last, playing among other things, the King in "Hamlet," Rawdon Scummore in "Hunted Down," and Master Walter in "The Hunchback," and finally in Tom Pinch a character which marked for him a new departure, and was instantly recognized as a work of great beauty and distinction. It was, indeed, a masterpiece, so true to the spirit of the author that it might be called an absolute realization. He might almost be said to have improved upon his model for the most grotesque touches with which Dickens disfigured some of his most inspired creations and made it utterly and delightfully human. It was an embodiment that has rarely been surpassed in sweetness, humor and simple pathos.

It was in the great tragic characters that his limitations as an actor were most manifest. He could not rise to the supreme heights of emotion or imagination. But to all the passions of daily life and to all the common joys and griefs of ordinary humanity he was among the very ablest of modern interpreters, and the measure by which he expressed them were infinite. Few actors of his day were more free from the bondage of mannerism. His individuality, of course, would assert itself occasionally through any disguise. His eyes and his voice betrayed him. But his methods varied with each new assumption. His execution was informed, sure and delicate artistry. He was, in truth, a well-graced actor. It will be long ere we look upon a better one.

Is Evers to Quit?

It is a very interesting little story, the tale that is leaping from lip to lip among baseball fans in California, and which had its origin two days after Bert Whitting, former Braves catcher, who, with Henry Moran, ex-Red, was traded to a Pacific coast league club by Stallings for an outer-gardener. Whitting very confidently took a sporting writer aside, and told him that Johnnie Evers would not be with the Boston next season. He whispered that Johnnie had told him that very thing just before the Braves disbanded for the season.

"Oh, he was serious," said Whitting. "He gave no reason, but Evers was serious, all right, all right." As Johnnie is serious when he is smiling, he may have been having his little joke with the big catcher. It's a certainty that Evers is not going to quit the game. He likes it too well. It is equally as certain that Stallings is not going to take the main prop from under his infield.

Evers may be a "crab," when playing, but he is some ball player and he would be missed. However, it is a pretty safe bet that, when the band plays on opening day in 1916, Johnnie will be at the old familiar keystone sack as of yore."

HIDDEN HOSPITAL LIKE CATHEDRAL

Describing an underground receiving station for wounded behind the firing line, a corporal in the R.A.M.C. writes:

The place looks like the vaults of a cathedral, roofed brick arches, all whitewashed. In the entrance is a huge hole, caused by a shell, filled right up to the roof with sandbags, at the foot of which piled all round is a row of sitting down the portable stretcher for the sitting-down cases. The cases come in down a barrel slide, well greased, and after treatment are carried up a slope over rubble and rubbish to the cars. Each stretcher case is laid on two trestles under our one strong acetylene lamp. The rest of the places are either lighted by a single candle or a hurricane lamp, so you can imagine the weird scene. A small store is kept always going, and cases are always given meat extract or water, according to nature of injury.

"The other night, I, with all the others were called out to do bearer work up the trenches again. We marched at intervals for safety. It was indescribably weird and dream-like to see us quickly chasing each other round numerous corners in the moonlight, sometimes going very low as we passed gaps."

Rev. S. A. Selwyn, the new vicar of the Church of the Messiah, preached at both services in his new parish at Toronto.

Murder Suspect Caught in Chatham

Chatham, Nov. 15.—Anthony Legato an Italian, wanted in Guelph on a charge of murder, was caught in this city Saturday afternoon. Chief Randall, of Guelph, will arrive in this city to-day at noon to take the suspect into custody. Legato was arrested by Privates H. E. Matthews and Frederick Mason, of D. Company, of the 71st Overseas Battalion, wintering in this city, identified Legato as the man he was attempting to purchase a railway ticket to Welland. Both Matthews and Mason are Guelph soldiers and they knew of the charge against Legato. They noted the local police and Legato was later arrested in the waiting room of the Algonquin. At first he denied that he had ever lived in Guelph, but he carried his person a savings bank book giving his address as 49 Devenish, Guelph. His appearance also tallied with the photograph of the suspected man. Legato stated that he had been in the city only a short time, having just arrived from Wallaceburg, where he had been spending the past 14 days. When confronted by a picture of Antonio Legato, the prisoner answered, "That me."

Agitation Arising to Gather Them in There as They Were in North Sea.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Rome, Nov. 14.—Via Paris, Nov. 15.—The sinking of the Steamer Bosnia, following the destruction of the Ancona and the Frenze has resulted in a determined agitation for the adoption in the Mediterranean of measures similar to those which have checked submarine activities in the North Sea.

Careful search is being made for the missing boats of the Frenze and Bosnia, but there is no longer hope of finding additional survivors of the Ancona. Latest official reports give the number saved as 289 out of a total of 870 aboard the Ancona. Most of the victims were teenage passengers of whom only 57 were saved.

meanwhile a fair vision was on the threshold of Abraham Bloom's private "club." This fair vision was none other than the stunningly attired and vivacious woman of the world, Vivian Marston.

Abe's "club" was on a quiet side street. The supposed "New York society belle" ran little risk of being seen by any of Richmond's "best society people" at 4 in the afternoon as she hurriedly passed from her waiting cab into the double doorway of the "clubhouse."

Abraham Bloom received the supposed "New York society leader" with an astonishing air of friendly familiarity. Vivian Marston may not have been a society leader in New York, as the rest of Richmond supposed, but it was true enough that she was a gay New Yorker, and Mr. Bloom had met her there on more occasions than one when he had visited the gay metropolis.

"Surprised to see me in your town, Abe?" asked Vivian gayly. "Well, I met one of your society dames, Mrs. Randolph, at Palm Beach last winter. I made a hit with her, and I am here as her guest."

"She gives that big blowout you hear so much about tonight. I want to pick up some rich guy of Richmond and marry and settle down among the southern aristocracy. I have got plenty of fine clothes, but I had to hock my ice in New York to get them and get here."

"I want to beg, borrow or steal a fine outfit of jewelry, and I want you to help me get the loan of some, unless you get enlargement of the heart and present it to me."

"Six on that generosity stuff, Vi, old girl," replied Mr. Bloom. "Business is bum. There's no money in Richmond except the old Confederate bills they printed here by the ton during the war. But I got a brother who runs a hock shop."

"And you and your brother catch them coming and going," wittily interjected the New York society leader, so called. "After you break the booby your hock shop brother gets their jewelry."

"Never you mind about that, kiddo," replied Mr. Bloom affably. "I'll give you a note to brother Ike to lend you all the ice in the refrigerator. He'll fix you out with sparklers till you'll look like a chandelier."

The lady departed from Mr. Bloom's establishment with a compelling note to his brother, the pawnbroker. The best Mr. Ike Bloom had in the shop was the diamond from the sky. In a fatal moment he displayed it to the opulent looking lady friend of his brother, Miss Marston of New York, and that dazzling young person had eyes for nothing else.

"That for me," she cried, "and nothing else! It would be a sacrilege to wear anything else with that!"

"Be very careful of it," warned the cautious Bloom reluctantly. "I don't know where it came from, but when you wear that I know you are wearing one of the finest diamonds in the world!"

"They can't come too good for me, Mr. Bloom," said Vivian, as she gazed enraptured at the great jewel in its antique setting.

That night Vivian Marston, in all her luxuriant beauty, set off as it was by the diamond of the sky blazing on her fair bosom, was the cynosure of all eyes at Mrs. Randolph's ball as she stood with her hostess in the receiving line.

Arthur and Blair gazed at her beauty, but stared as if turned to stone to see the diamond from the sky gleaming on the bosom of this fair stranger in Richmond.

Hagar, admitted as soon as her application reached the hostess, happy to have the novel diversion of real gypsies to tell fortunes at her ball, gasped, too, to see the diamond flaunted boldly by this dark, luxurious stranger from the great city.

She thought Arthur had given this bold faced beauty the diamond from the sky, and her heart again hardened to him.

Esther, dazzled by the lights and the luxury, clung timidly to Hagar's arm. She had never seen the diamond from the sky before nor had she ever heard its history.

Outside Luke Lovell jolted idly, awaiting to guard Hagar and Esther back from the ball when the function should come to an end.

"Shall we have the fortunes first?" asked the hostess of her guest from New York. "It will be great fun and help to get things started."

Hagar had given no sign of recognition to Arthur, and he in turn was relieved that his gypsy mother did not seem intent on creating any scene. He stood aloof with Blair and silent, and both of them gazed from afar as though fascinated at the diamond from the sky blazing on the breast of Vivian Marston.

How came it here? was the thought of both of them, for in all their recollection they had sedulously avoided discussing the baleful gem of their ancestor.

"I have a wondrous fortune to tell this lady," said Hagar huskily as she indicated Vivian. "Will the lady go aside and wait for me?"

"What fun! You must tell me all your wondrous fortunes! Now, don't forget!" exclaimed Mrs. Randolph as Vivian Marston smiled and nodded assent to this and glided away to a seat by a low, heavily curtained window in the small tea room off the great Randolph parlors.

Vivian had just settled herself with the serene self-satisfaction that she

A Strong Hand Clutched at Her Throat. was the sensation of the evening, she and the great blazing gem upon her breast. Then she saw Hagar, leaving Esther to be gently patronized by Mrs. Randolph, coming toward her to tell her fortune.

She settled herself back in the low gilt chair against the parted velvet hangings of the window, and then she felt a strong hand clutch at her throat, throttling her through the curtains so she could not shriek aloud. Then a heavy forearm drew back her shapeless neck, and the strangling hand loosened its hold on her neck and snatched away boldly the diamond from the sky.

SEVERAL LIVES LOST

During the week-end seven steamers were reported sunk in European waters, presumably by Teuton submarines. The total tonnage was 22,217 and the total loss of life is unknown.

London, Nov. 12.—All on board were lost, it is believed, when the French steamship St. Malo, of 1,243 tons was sunk by a German submarine near the Island of Guernsey, in the English Channel Sunday. Twelve bodies have been washed up on the shores of Guernsey.

Among the other victims of the submarine war were the Norwegian steamship Wascana of 4,969 tons, the crew of which was saved, and the Italian steamer Bosnia was sunk near Ghando Island, south of Crete, by an Austrian submarine. The passengers and crew got away safely. The fourth, containing 19 persons, is missing.

The Bosnia was 2,561 tons gross, and was built in 1898. She was 307 feet long, 39 feet beam and 25 feet deep. She was owned by the Societa Nazionale di Servizi Marittima of Rome.

Reports from Bordeaux state that the Spanish steamship Bernabe, of 2,328 tons, registered at Bilbao, has been lost. Ten of the crew of 24 are missing. The despatch does not state how the Bernabe met her fate.

TWO BRITISH SHIPS LOST
The British steamships Sir Richard Awdry, of 2,234 tons, and Den of Crombie, of 4,949 tons, have been saved. The crew of the latter was saved.

The former vessel was 275 feet long, 44 feet beam and 19 feet deep. She was built at Port Glasgow in 1912, and owned by the Pekin Syndicate Limited, of London.

The Den of Crombie presumably was on her way through the Mediterranean, as she left Bangkok, Siam, on October 10 for Havana, her probable route being by way of the Suez canal.

The Italian steamer Firenze, 3,973 tons gross, has been sunk by a submarine. Twenty-seven passengers and 96 members of the crew are missing. The Firenze was last reported to have sailed from Genoa on October 12 to Alexandria. The despatch fails to state whether she was sunk in the Mediterranean. The steamer was owned by the Societa Nazionale di Servizi and her port of registry was Genoa. She was 344 feet long, with a beam of 44 feet, and was built at Stesia in 1912.

Sir Allan Aylesworth made a powerful appeal for recruits, pointing out that Britain was at war and Canada was a part of Britain.

"HUMAN FREIGHT CAR" WAS GOOD-NATURED

Ed. Dunkhorst Told Many Funny Stories With Himself "the Goat."

There was genuine sorrow among old-time ring followers when the death of big Ed. Dunkhorst was announced. Dunkhorst was formerly Bob Fitzsimmons' sparring partner, and was known as the "Human Freight Car."

In fighting trim Dunk weighed about 500 pounds, and was the largest man that ever aspired for pugilistic honors. His death was due to kidney trouble. Several years ago a specialist told him his great weight would some day cause his death, as it interfered with his heart action.

For the last ten years Dunkhorst has made a good living playing the part of a country schoolboy in vaudeville. No one ever heard big Ed. knock a fellow man and his genial nature won him many lasting friends.

"GOAT" IN HIS OWN STORIES
As a story teller he had few equals, and the victim in most of his jokes was himself.

Dunk was a native of Oswego, N. Y. He started out in Syracuse, the home of Tommy Ryan and several brothers still reside there in comfortable circumstances. Although Dunk made $500 a week on the stage, he did not save anything for the proverbial rainy day, and died without a penny to his name. He was 71 for about three months.

BIG ED LIKED HIS FOOD.
Dunk was a big eater, and liked fancy trimmings with his food, but he refrained from indulging in intoxicating drinks. Dunkhorst was a warm friend to Fitzsimmons until one night at a theatre Fitz played a cruel joke on Ed, that caused hard feelings to spring up.

The split was caused by Fitz handing Dunk a red-hot horseshoe during the performance of a "Village Blacksmith."

While visiting his old manager, Matt Glaser, last spring, the pair walked into a cafe and ordered a couple of sandwiches. When the bill was presented to Glaser the cost of Ed's sandwich was 50 cents. "How's this?" asked Matt of the proprietor. The hotel man then explained that he did not think an ordinary sandwich would appease Ed's appetite, so he made him a three star special. "All right," said Matt, "the next time I drop in I will bring a jockey with me and perhaps get a cut price in sandwiches."

PIANO TRUCK HIS CAB.
While showing in New York Dunkhorst wanted to treat himself to a good night's sleep in the swellest hotel in town. He got a $10 room and went to bed. During his slumber the bed broke down. Ed. sent in a call for help and the clerk called him up on the phone.

"Send for a conveyance. I shall leave the hotel at once," shouted Ed. In a short time Dunk was dressed and down in the office. "There's your cab," said the clerk as a big piano truck drove up to the door. "Thanks," said Ed, as he dashed out and hopped on the truck. The driver took his load of human freight to a nearby hotel, much to the amusement of the fighter.

In a small Indiana town several years ago Ed got into a dispute about a contract with the manager. The house wanted to cancel his turn, but Ed would not be fluffed and went to his dressing room to prepare for the stage. While dressing the chief of police walked into the theatre and hunted up Dunk to serve the warrant.

He found Ed in the dressing room. The chief was a wee bit of a fellow and looked like a messenger boy in uniform. When he handed Ed the warrant the latter opened it as though it were a telegram. Then he tore it up, and turning to the chief, handed him a dime and shouted, "No answer, boy."

Ed. started to walk over a railway trestle one time when the night watchman halted him. "See yer," said the old tad, "kape off that bridge. It's no place for you. I ain't going to hurt your old bridge," said Ed with a growl. "I know yer not," responded the night watchman, "but I'm afraid the river will splash up and hit you in the face when the bridge starts to bend."

Don't scold your fretful peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, mother! A little given to-day saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a fifty cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

ANOTHER LAKE DISASTER IN NORTH WATERS?

Steamer Charles A. Luck Passed the Sault Wednesday and Not Heard Of.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 15.—A heavy snow storm Sunday compelled about fifty vessels to tie up in the river between here and Detour, but it abated considerably by noon and several of the freighters continued their trips. All down boats reported rough weather on Lake Superior.

The Berwind and the Baker arrived leaking through their seams. The Berwind was also coated with ice.

A large number of new steamers are said to have cleared from Whitefish Bay, where they have been in shelter during the day. Several however still are waiting for clearer weather.

Another Lake Disaster Duluth, Minn., Nov. 15.—Continued absence of definite information as to the fate of the missing steamer, Chas. A. Luck, and her crew of more than 20 men has strengthened the belief expressed by G. A. Tomlinson, her charterer, that she foundered in the recent storm on Lake Superior. The vessel owned by Cleveland, Ohio interests, passed Sault Ste Marie Wednesday, bound for Duluth, but since then has not been seen or heard from.
