The Canadian Day programme provided something for every minute. It included a reception to the Canadian visitors at the Iroquois Hotel at 1 o'clock, and a big military parade this afternoon, when the Canadian regiments, escorted by the 12th United States Infantry and the officers of the 65th and 74th Regiments of the New York National Guard, marphed through the city. With the sweet chimes of St. Paul's Episcopal and St. Joseph's Catholic Church pealing out a welcome the visiting troops detrained.

The Canadian soldiers were cheered to the echo as they marched briskly along in perfect line, with heads erect and presenting a magnificent appearance.

At the reception to the Canucks at the Iroquois Hotel at 1 o'clock, Mayor Stewart, of Hamilton, was one of the chief speakers. His friendly expressions on behalf of the people of the Dominion for their neighbors to the south were loudly and the south were loudly as the continued on page 7.)

CHAPTER XVIII

One morning, after a night spent in struggles between her pride, her teminine timidity, and the yearning for a reconciliation with her husband, which grew stronger every day, Doris came downstairs with a high color lurning in her cheeks and her eyes flashing with the excitement of a bold resolution. After breakfast, she wrote a note to her grandmother, went unstairs again, sumndmother, went upstairs again, sum-grandmother, went upstairs again, summoned her maid, and superintended the packing of a small portnanteau.

Then she got a time table, found an early train to Brighton, and ordered the brougham for half-pust twelve. She spent the time before starting in fluttering about from book to newspaper, from window to clock, like a restless child, afraid lest Mrs. Edgeombe would call, as she sometimes did in the morning, and try to hinder her in her great purpose. David would not come back to her of his own accord; she had resolved to humble herself and try to bring him back; it might be shame that kept him from her. Perhaps the yearning engerness she felt to see him again might have more power over him than her quiet submission had had.

Always the same old arguments, the same trembling hopes and chilling fears that had kept her on the rack for the last three weeks! What reason had she for thinking that the charms which had had no attraction for him a month ago would be irrisistible to him now that he was more completely than ever under the same completely than ever under the save completely than ever under the save of an entirely different type of

Mrs. If he should be with that woman!
Now that she was in the vicinity of her rival, Doris feeling toward her had suddenly become more bitter. She pictured to herself the triumph with which Mrs. Hodson would look at her, if she should come suddenly face to face with the young wife whom she had robbed of her young wife whom she had rooped of he husband. And Doris wished, with a sharp revulsion of feeling, that she had not Having come, however, she must make the best of the situation; and, having schooled herself into such outward eximals as a would allow her to pass for a reasonably contented person, she left the hotel alone, just as the evening mist was beginning to spread over the sea, for a walk along the cliff. When she was opposite to the old chain pier, she took a fancy into her head to go on it; she would have it almost to herself, she would have it almost to herself, she knew, and could think better. As if, noor creature, she wanted to think, or as if the only thought she was capable of reasonable to the sea, to make the susceptible excursionist, she hard to make the metal to make the susceptible excursionist, she hard the tones of my soft voice; which now had unspeckable iteclasm for her. "What are you going to do, dears? It will bring a terrible change for you, I am afraid, this unhappy business."

Nellie looked at her curiously: but face and voice were both so kind, so sympathetic, that from curiosity concerning the lady's state of mind she fell into anxiety about her own.

"Yes, it has brought a change, of course, and I don't know what will become of us. Manma never did care much about us. Just now we are a convenience;

Nelle looked of the rearrously; but face and voice were both so kind, so yuppathetic, that from curiosity concerning the lady's state of mind she fell into anxiety about her even.

"Yes, it has brought a change, or churse, and I dan't know what will be some of us. Mamma never did care much about us. Just now we are a convenience but—"

She was stopped by a sharp elbow—Ethel's. The next moment, however, ehe "What is the use of hing what every-body knows—when Mrs. Glyn knows too! It into as if it was only we, or only she; it is all of us. Mrs. Glyn, woods too! It into the site of brought up to the stop of the sto

Ethel gave forth a short ejaculation which was too short, too bitter, for a laugh; and Nellie said:
"You think, I see, Mrs. Glyn, that, because we have gone to apartments on the Parade, just as we used to, we have money to pay for them with; but we haven't. You don't understand mamma. She has been used to do everything with as much thought of money as a queen; and, now that she finds that there is no body to write out checks, or to buy her anything she fancies, she is a great deal more like a helpless child than we are."
Doris was appalled, as much by the fact that so young a girl should be able to make such a coldly shrewd valuation of her mother's character as by the inahappy position in which she saw her own husband to be placed.
Ethel, who underneath her shrewdness had plenty of warmth of feeling for those who wanted it, put her arm round the pale lady's neck, and, as her appealing look was met by a smile, kissed the handsome face very gently...
"I expect you care more for Mr. Glyn than mamma does for papa," she said, in

'I expect you care more for Mr. Glyn than mamma does for papa," she said, in a low voice; "and, if so,! think it will all come right for you. He is so affectionate that, when he finds out how cold mamma is, he will be very glad to—be good again."

So affectionate! Deris' heart leaped up with a pang of mingled anger and as-tonishment and remorse. Had she then at the outset coldly misunderstood him, an tonishment and remorse. Had she then at the outset coldly missuaderstood him, and mistaken the hard shelt of him and mistaken the hard shelt of him had been the sway of an entirely different type of woman? Poor Doria! She was too in nocent to understand these things; and so she traveled down to Brighton, with a feverish longing to be at the end of a journey which must, she felt confident in the excitement, bring her to the crown of her passionate hopes.

With the arrival in Brighton, however, and the solitary installment of herself and the lymphatic, small-minded Whitaker at the Queen's Hotel, came a scene of isolation and discouragement. After a short and lonely luncheon, she watched from the window the gray sea and the passers-by, not daring to go out, being laudenly oppressed by a vivid fear of meeting the very person she had come to goe.

If he should be with that woman! Rev. R. Bridgeman has occupied the pulpit of the Methodist Church very acceptably during the absence of the pastor, Rev. J. Awde.

The Labor Day celebrations opened very appropriately by a public religious service being held on Sunday evening in the large pavilion on the grounds. Rev. Wm. Robertson, B. A., Dundas, who is always a welcome visitor in town, had charge of the service and preached an excellent sermon, the subject being "Our Relationship to Christ." The choir of the Methodist Church kindly assisted in an able manner at this service. Days. McKinnon and Bridgeman also assisted in the religious service.

Kinnon and Bridgeman also assisted in the religious service.

Monday broke dull and cloudy, but sevidently old King Sol saw visions of the descendence of the same widewalk and changed his mind, for he smiled kindly throughout the day. At 12 o'clock the programme began with the kalithumpian parade, the prize prize being equally devided between two floats, one representing Young Canada, and the other the kalithumpian band. This was followed by some interesting games of football. Lynden and Trinity were the winning teams, defeating Rock ton and St. George. A keenly contested game of baseball was played between Carluke and the Stars of Brantford. The score was 0—0. Jerseyville Juniors and Trinity Juniors played an exhibition game. The result was 1—0 in favor of the home team. The real letter day closed with a concert in the pavilion. Daniel Reed, M. P. P., occupied the chair, James Fax, of Toronto, the old, but ever new comedian, sang several songs in his own inimitable way. The Citizens' Band, of Brantford, furnished music throughout the day. This first celebration has proven so successful that the committee has decided to make it an annual affair. The proceeds, which are for the sidewalk fund, amounted to nearly $700 may be a stacher in the Collegitate Institute at Ningara Falls, Ont.

Stocks and Bonds

Noon stock letter received by A. E.

New York, Sept. 4.—The market during the morning encountered very heavy profit taking sales, but displayed excellent absorption. The Union Iron & Steel Company failure is regarded as unimportant. Companies dealing in copper metal have been very much tied by the deadlock in the trade. It is estimated that the large producers have 150,000,000 pounds of the metal unsold, worth, at 18 cents, some $27,000,000. Assuming that all of this is in the hands of such concerns as the Union Metal Selling Co., which advances 70 per cent. on consignment, the capital involved in this manner would be $18,900,000. The recent adjustment of prices ought to be very gratifying to those in this line of business, as the influence of the matter is felt in all the ramification of the industry, including the smelting companies. New York, Sept. 4.-The market dur ness, as the influence of the matter is felt in all the ramification of the industry, including the smelting companies. A favorable item for large copper concerns is the closing of small mines unable to operate under current trade conditions. It is believed that the production of copper will be curtailed substantially this coming year. The reduction of time money rates to 6 per cent. for five or six months is a powerful bullish influence. Many stocks are cheap in view of this development. It is estimated that the farming interest will this year receive $1,000,000 more for their products than in 1906. The great wealth producing power of the country is one of the factors which induces optimism in certain very high banking quarters. Our exports of grain, cotton, stocks and bonds the next year promises to be very heavy. The trend of prices is upward, and on fair conditions we think purchases will prove profitable.—Ennis & Stoppani.

William Blood, York street, who was brought back from Toronto by Detective Campbell on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences, pleaded guilty to getting 50e from each of eight men as a fee for obtaining them employment with the Nipissing Lumber Co., while he had no connection with the company. The complainants were all present and answered the names of Thomas Beecroft, William Churchill, K. Watson, James Holdam K. Henderson, D. Dumbrille, E. Wyers and E. Greenhall.

Blood elected to be tried by the Magistrate and was remanded till to-morrow. Beecroft will charge Blood with stealing $\frac{1}{2}$ out of his pocket, in Toronto, on Monday.

William Bedell, 36 York street, was remanded eight days on $\frac{2}{2}$ charge of aggravated assault upon his wife. It is alleged that Mrs. Bedell was assaulted last night at her home by her husband, and that as a result of the injuries she will be laid up for some time at the City Hospital, where she was taken. It is perfected that her head and face are badly cut, but that her injuries are not serious. The wounds, according to the police, would warrant a charge of cutting and wounding, and this may possibly be what Bedell will be charged with.

Lena Borza, 2 Rosedale avenue, was charged by Nick Vulk with a scrious breach of the Canadian postal laws, namely, opening several letters addressed to Vulk, without his knowledge or consent. The Crown was not ready to go on with the case and it was laid over till to-morrow.

In the meantime George Selzer has taken out a writ for damages for slander against Vulk. Mr. O'Renly, who appeared for the defendant, stated that then Borza left Vulk's boarding house and went to work in Selzer's, and out of her action arose the slander suit and th

FIREMAN HURT. Gasolene Tank Exploded at a Fire in Brooklyn To-day.

New York, Sept. 4.—An exploding tank of gasolene in a cellar of a burning building in Havermeyer street, Brooklyn, to-day seriously injured four firemen. John Kennedy and James Smith will probably die of their injuries. The fire broke out in a tenement house cellar, where there was stored a quantity of paints and oils. The firemen, who had flooded the cellar with water, rolled out a tank of gasolene, when it exploded.

COL. J. S. HENDRIE, C. V. O.

Hats off to Col. Hendrie, C. V. O.! It ounds well, doesn't it? As President of the Canadian Artillery Association Col. Hendrie exerted himself to make the visit of the British Artillery team to Canada pleasant and successful, and what that means will be understood by all who know the colonel and his ability to dispense generous hospitality and make those for the time his guests feel that they are the darlings of a kind fate. The returning artillerymen evidently carried good reports, and the Canadian "War Office" seems to have appreciatively added its influence in the right quarter.
The result is that Col. Hendrie has been made a commander of the Royal Victorian Order. This order was establish 1896, and has five classes, G. C. V. O., K. C. V. O., C. V. O., M. V. O. 4th class, and M. V. O. 5th class respectively. Col. Hendrie's decoration is the C. V. O., or 3rd class. There is but one other mem ber of the Victorian Order in Canada, Col. B. This gives Col. Hendrie the distinction of being the only Commander of the Order in Canada at present. The Times extends its hearty congratula-

THE HENRY CASE.

The Henry matter has been dropped the Fire and Water Committee by the casting vote of Acting Chairman Baird, denying an inquiry. Without in the slightest degree wishing to reflect on Mr. Henry in the matter, we think this way of disposing of it is most unsatisfactory to all concerned. An organized body has made a damaging statement in reference to it, and a formal request for inquiry has been presented. But one course seemed to be indicated, and that was to hear all the facts and give them to the public. Instead of doing that the committee suppresses all inquiry, de-clines to hear the Building Trades Council's statement, and disposes of the entire matter by a tie vote broken by the casting vote of the presiding alder man. We are of opinion that Mr. Henry would have been better served by such a full and frank statement of the case as to dissipate the cloud of suspicion that had been raised by the charges made and the circumstances as but partly given to the public, and that the policy of suppression is not in his interest. We have no reason to think that the trans actions leading to the charges made were dishonest in intent, or that the city was robbed by them, although from the storjes told the method of payment of the n may have been irregular or unus ual. But the best way to settle such mat ters, so as to reassure the public and to do justice to those against whom asspicion may have been raised, to lay bare the entire trans-

The Tory press is trying to build much on Mr. Borden's alleged spotless purity, and are devoting special attention to the planks of his platform dealing with honesty and high principle in the administration of public affairs and determined hostility to corruption in elections It may tend to enlightment to examine Mr. Borden's utterances in the light of bearing on his views on those subjects

On December 24, 1904, the L'Evene ment Company, of which Senator Landry was managing director, took action for certain services rendered to the Conservative party during the electoral perthe course of the suit Mr. Graham was examined at some length as to matters pertinent to the case. In his plea of deence Mr. Graham set forth:

In a letter date 26th of August, herewith filed, it was intimated by Mr. Pelletier that the party owed him nine hundred dollars. I called to see Mr. Pelletier, early, in September, I believe it was, and spoke to him about the work. He referred to his claim against the party. I assured him that in due time this would be righted and said: E believe it was nine hundred dollars. Oh, no, Mr. Pelletier said, drawing a imemorandum Pelletier said, drawing a memorandum book from his pocket, it has risen to one thousand three hundred and eight-one dollars and seventy cents. I understood these were for disbursements; cab hire and things of that kind. Well, I said, certainly, you will have it, Mr. Pelle-tier, and on the 8th of October I sent ther, and on the Sth of October 1 sent him one thousand three hundred and eighty-one dollars and twenty cents to cover the nine hundred dollars and the increase of four hundred and eighty-one dollars that had taken place in the fol-lowing five or six days.

A.—Yes, sir, as I understand it. I paid them. Anyway I paid them, and them and the money out of my pocket, personal means, but not party funds at all my own private means. That is why I know."

What does the reader think, of that Mr. Graham leaves no doubt us to Mr. Borden being privy to these goings on. A huge corruption fund seems to have been raised in 1904, to be used in each county of the district of Quebec." Did Mr. Borden, this new high priest of purity, know of it? Mr. Graham has sworn to it. Mr. Borden seems to have been very solicitous that the leading men of the party should not handle the boodle, ome sworn testimony by eminent Tories but there is no obvious solicitude to prevent the carrying out of the corruption planned. Mr. Graham says he received : etter from Mr. Borden on the subject warning him that these moneys must not be handled by men in the party "in against Mr. Hugh Graham of the Mont-public life"—that it was better to bere-real Star, to recover the sum of $2,389.33 in each Province, men appointed accept. able to the party," to distribute the boodle. Not a word of condemnation

But that is not all. On Aug. 26, 1904, we find Mr. Pelletier stating that "Mr. ensiderable sum was needed to Borden told me that somethi organize the struggle in the interest of the Conservative party in the district of Quebec, of which the said Mr. Pelletier trict, but I have received nothing so far." There had been delay, but better trict, but I have received nothing so far." There had been delay, but better times were coming. Mr. Hugh Graham was the organizer-in-chief and called himself such, the said Mr. Pelletier asked the defendant for the funds which he alleged to have needed to organize the election with any chances of success for his party in the district of Quebec.

The defendant was strongly attached to the Conservative party, whose success he wished to assure and after a number of pourparlers with the said Mr. Pelletier for pourparlers with the purparlers were coming. The Buffalo Courier says that "if the er capita foreign commerce of the United States were as large as that of Canada our foreign trade would be much more than double what it is to-day." Rev. J. Hirst Ross, of Chippewa, an old boy of St. Mark's was the speaker, and old boy of St. Mark's was the speaker, and his remarks were based on Psalm 145-7: 'They shall abundantly utter the memory of Thy great goodness, and shall sing of Thy righteousness.

It would be seen from this, Mr. Ross said, that David had a very strong desire to see his people worshipping God, greatly magnifying and gloritying His name. David was not content with thinking God worthy of this, but he had it carried out in song, to abundantly praise the Lord in words and actions.

Mr. Ross contended that this method should be applied to the present day, to bring good results that would be gratifying to God.

This evening Rev. M. G. Plummer, of Toronto, will give an address on church music.

FEET OUT

She Had Curious Habits.

When a person has to keep the feet out from under cover during the coldest nights in winter because of the heat and prickly sensation, it is time that coffee, which causes the trouble, be left off.

There is no end to the nervous conditions that coffee will produce. It shows in one way in one person and in another way in another. In this case the lady lived in South Dakota. She says:

"I have had to lie awake half the night with my feet and limbs out of the bed on the coldest nights, and felt afraid to sleep for fear of catching cold. ### Some Residents Object to Radial's Plans in East End.

On the casting vote of acting Chairman Baird, the Board of Works last night decided to wash its hands of the Henry case, over which there has been considerable gossip, resulting from the persistent fight to have the matter referred to the Fuel Committee, and to sak the officers of the Building Council to substantiate the charges.

When the matter came up Chairman Allen of the Fuel Committee, vigorously Allon, of the Fuel Committee, vigorous defended Mr. Henry. "I am prepared to show you that he has given you good value for your money," he said. "You have buildings there worth $1,500 that have only cost you $309.58."

Ald. Lewis and Evans declared they could see nothing to investigate, or for the sommittee to interest itself in.

"Then this matter is going to be hustled through without the men being bars to tell their story. Why not give the men who made the charges a chance to substantiate them? Be fair; that is all I ask," said Ald. Kennedy.

He paid his men what he thought they were worth, the same as they had always been paid, and no objections were made.

Ald. McLaren seconded Ald. Kennedy's motion to have the Fuel Committee make a report. Ald. Jutten voted with them. Ald. Evans and Lewis voted est it, and acting Chairman Baird the casting vote, declaring the mogave the casting vote, declaring the mo-tion lost.

He suggested a resolution saying that from the evidence at head there was no foundation for the charge, and inviting the parties concerned to make a specific charge. The discussion on this curious survival has drawn attention to the fact that the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland owes his continued existence to the Lord Mayor of Dublin. About 1850 the House of Commons passed a bill to abolish the Lord Lieutenancy, and it was about to be passed by the Lords when the Duke of Wellington pointed out that if the office were abolished the Lord Mayor of Dublin, who might be a man like Daniel O'Connell, would be the supreme power in the capital of Ireland. Toronto, Sept. 4 .- While the Ontario 'ostmasters' Association officially exressed itself as grateful to the Dominion postal authorities for the recent recognition of work in the shape of salary increases, yet it seemed to be the general opinion at a convention in the Temple building yesterday that the increase, as announced, was too small. Some very caustic remarks were made by certain members with reference to the Governmembers with reference to the Government's action. President G. H. Burgar, of Welland, had no hesitation in saying that the increase was not in accordance with the promises made by the Post master-General on the floor of the House, neither did it agree with the sen House, neither did it agree with the sentiment as unanimously expressed at a Liberal caucus. Postmasters at present were being starved, and the service, he said, was being starved for the sake of a surplus. However, he added that the salary question had better be left alone for a year, and then another agitation started for greater emoluments.

At the annual banquet in the evening Mr. George Ross, Chief Superintendent of the Lostoffice Department, in the course of an interesting address, cited an instance or two relative to postal regulations, from which it may be fairly inferred that many Americans are not so alert and sharp-witted as some of them would like Canadians to believe. By other speakers further expression was given to the dissatisfaction voiced at the afternoon meeting of the association with the increases in salary for rural possmasters amounced in the morning despatches from Ottawa. President Burgar, for instance, was anxious for an expanation of the apparent discrepancy between the ammouncement that the minimum salary was to be $35, and a speech made, he said, on the floor of the House of Commons by the Postmaster-General, in which that gentleman was quoted as saying that the minimum salary for rural postmasters should be $50. He still beheved, however, that if they put their shoulders to the wheel they would soon get all they had asked for. Mr. Thomas Farrow, Brussels, declared that postmasters had more work for less pay than any other class of people he knew of.

Air George Ross, Chief Superintendent of the Postoffice Department, who with other officials, was present as representing historical survey of the growth and development of the Postoffice in Canada since the days when French control of the country passed to that of Britain incidentally he haid stress on the assertion that every reduction in postal rates increased the revenue, and he had a good word to say for the pictorial post card. In the latter connection he stated that in Canada 30,000 Such cards were sent to the dead letter office every week, mainly because American visitors would insist on sticking United States stamps on cards addressed to he had a good word to say for the pictorial post card. In the latter connection he stated that in Canada 30,000 such cards were sent to the dead letter office every week, mainly because American visitors would insist on sticking United States stamps on cards addressed to places across the border. He also pointed out in discussing questions relative to the work of the postmasters that there were 469 postoffices collecting revenue under $10 per year and 2,150 collecting from $10 to $25. In dealing with the matter of efficiency he suggested that standard equipment shound be utilized wherever possible.

Among other speakers were Messrs, A. B. Foran, Winona; Ira Stratton, of Stonewall, Manitoba, who was spoken of as the father of the association, and Inspector Campbell, of the London district, and Inspector Henderson, of the Toronto district.

The people had anticipations of a pleas ing parade, but instead the firemen came to the front with a pageant which for its spectacular features, handsome apparatus and finely uniformed men, could not and cannot be excelled.

It was a parade of the regulars and the volunteers—7,000 of them. Buffalo looked on and applauded, and had reason to. It had reason to applaud its own department, with its doughty body of men which is ever ready to raspond to the call of duty, no matter how hazardous. It has also especial reasons to be proud of the visiting firemen, who canie many miles to participate in Buffalo's celebration, and who came pearing gifts in the shape of fine organization, fine marching and equally fine uniforms and apparatus to add to the week's attractions.

The parade was reviewed at City Hall by Mayor Adam, the fire commissioners and the heads of the various gitt departments and other city officials. At the grand stand were the judges, unknown to any, save the Firemen's Day Clommittee, who were to decide upon the awards.

CANADIANS ARE IT.

r day is dawning for the northern half this great continent, May I venture say that the 20th century promises to can for us what the 19th meant for u. To convince you, of this, may I, on its Canadian Day occasion, present to to us a few facts about your neighbors ross the line to show you what a fine untry it would be to become annexed.

In area, Canada covers 1-3 the British Empire, or 1-12 the entire earth, and only ¼ of it is as yet occupied. The size is 1,400 by 3,500 miles, and is 18 times as large as France and 20 times as large as Spain, and has three districts that are larger than Chins, and were I not addressing an American andience, I would tell you it is larger than the United States.

But besides your tens of millions, our population of only 6% millions as small. But this is what you had at the beginning of the 19th century. To this we are adding 1-3 of a million every year, while only 5 per cent: of our people are foreign born. Jim Hill predicts that 50 years hence Canada will have as many millions of propulation. To this you are years hence Canada will have as many millions of population. To this you are contributing 50 per cent. of the inpouring population, as well a a large proportion of the ingoing capital.

In agriculture our, western wheat fields are the largest in the world (900 x 300 miles), and only 5 per cent. of it is under cultivation.

We have the largest elevator in the world at Port Arthur, with a capacity of 7.000,000 bushels. Last year-the exports of our anipual products increased 45 per cent. of the previous year, while our wheat yield has practically doubled in cent. of the previous year, while our wheat yield has practically doubled in the last ten years. Our western capacity for wheat growing is one billion bushels,—enough to supply the British Isles 12 times over, besides our own needs.

In manufactories, I say, without hesitation, that Canada bids fair to become one of the first industrial hives of the world.

Dominion's Vast Resources.

Our invested capital in menotoctories, of nearly a billion dollars is three-times greater than interpretary ago. It is interesting for you to know that 130 American manufacturing establishments have branches in Canada, and employ over 40,000 hands, and that 100 millions Canada, orel-6 of our entire capital incanada, orel-6 of our entire capital invested in manufacturing flow becoming that we Canadians should bring to you kind greetings from across the line. Specanda, or 1-6 of our entire capital invested in manufacturing throw becoming that we Canadians should bring to you kind greetings from across the line. Specially does it become my exemple, for I don't hesitate to any attitude is more American capital invested in Hamilton for its population than in any other Canadian city. Canada's export of manufactures is increasing from 13 to 20 per cent. each year, while our annual production from manufacturers has increased about one half during the last five years. We are using annually over 300 millions of raw material with a net profit of no less than a quarter of a billion. In the last ten years our iron and steel trade has increased, 300 per cent. To-day we have a million wage carners, earning nearly 400 million dallors, having doubled in the last five years. The Canadian and cotton industries that had their beginning in Hamilton only a little over half a century ago represents to-day 27,000 hands and 40 millions of capital. So you see we are rapidly growing in manufacturies. And in this we gratefully acknowledge the large part you are taking. We acknowledge your 130 factores, your 100 millions of capital. So you see we are rapidly growing in manufacturies and in this we gratefully acknowledge the large part you are taking. We acknowledge your 130 factores, your 100 millions of capital and your annual gift of 60,000 immigrants. And yet there is room and to spare and we are ever seady to receive you and yours with open arms. And it is about time the tide was turing. For during the last balf century 34 millions or ½ our present entire population have come under the Stars and Stripes, and according to your census you have at least two million of our Canadian sons and daughters. Indeed, I may add, you have my entire family under the Stars and Stripes in your beautiful sister city of Cleveland.

In mining we possess practically all the valuable minerals to be found anywhere.

and Stripes in your beautiful sister city of Cleveland.

The attraction at the Grand conight will be "My Wife's Family." It is a farce comedy in three acts, and is a succession of ian and music. The company is said to be a first-class one, and those who saw the play last year will remember it as one of the brightest and most bear theretaining that could be desired. Attogether there are two dozen musical numbers in the piece.

The control the production has increased 100 per cent, in the last ten years, now reaching the billion mark. And, further, our bank deposits have stand first among the nations, products of the world's output. And with all due respect to your boundless coal deposits, I am informed we have 100,000 square miles of coal, emough to last 7,000 years, if mined at the rate of four million tons a year. In Cobalt, and Northern Ontario, Canada may be able to control the world's market for silver. In all this, there is at work perints one of which the putbic seems never to tire. Like a fairy tale of childhood days, the faust fascinates and entertains, and interests again and again. The presenting in the condition of Canadas mineral regions have been the control the world. In timber we have the largest supply in raw pulps wood material in the world. We supply three quarters of the wood for 1,000 pulp mills in United States, while we receive from you annually 23 out of our tofal 38 millions for our forest products. And besides all this Canada has over 20 million acres of forest reserves, while at the same time we have the largest white pine belts on the continent.

* Educational Advantages.

Educational Advantages.

Time does not permit me to dwell on the educational progress we are making. On our public schools alone we are spending over twelve millions annually, resulting in the fact that 80 per cent. of our adults can read and write. In higher education we have grown so that our colleges and universities compare well with those of any other land.

I am pleased to tell you we are indebted to our wealthy Scotch-American friend, Mr. Carnegie, to the extent of one and one-half millions for public libraries. In morals we are not ashamed to compare records. Last year only 1,439 went to prison, and, by the way, 137 of these were from across the line. In religion and good works we have been keeping step with the material progress. And in this regard are ever indicated to our American friends. For thile we have learned a lot of bad habits from you, many of our important advances in religion and morals have come almost directly from you.

Thus I might continue. We are growing fast, and throughout the ever-indicated work of the various rice.

Doings at a Glance.
Besides the many sporting, fraternal and musical events of the day and evening, there will be a reception at 9 o'clock this evening for the Mayors of Toronto and Hamilton and the officers of the Canadian regiments, United States and New York National Guard at the Saturn Club.

Canadian Day, in other respects, will be full of entertainments. There will be a lacrosse game between the Tecumseh Club of Toronto and the Buffalo Club; motor boat races and other sports, closing this evening with a grotesque parade made up of maskers and burlesquers. The Canadian soldiers will remote beauto enter contribute to the delice. main here to participate in the dedication of the McKinley monument to-morrow.

The Thirteenth Off.

The 13th Regiment got away this morning bright and early, and the boys looked pretty smart. About 375 men turned out, which is a very good showing, considering that the middle of the week is a hard time to get off. A few of the officers were unable to go with the regiment, but will take the evening train to-night for Buffalo. The bands, brass and bugle, turned out in goodly numbers, the brass having nearly 30 men, while the buglers numbered 45. The regiment marched up James street, and were at the station before the train pulled in: The men quickly entrained, and the train pulled out for Buffalo about 9.30. The regiment will be in the Bison City until Thursday night, and will participate in all the big functions while there.

The Seventh Fuisiliers of London passed through on the Grand Trunk for Buffalo.

In six cases, however, their aid could be of no avail, but they had fourteen serious ambulance cases to deal with and a whole host of minor injuries to attend to. Their work was accomplished with celerity, and at half-past I both trains were able to pull out with their freight of crippled and maimed.

Scene of the Accident. Scene of the Accident.

Scene of the Accident.

A railway man said that there was only one other like it in Canada—, the Rocky Mountain loop. Originally this piece of road was built by the old Toronto, Grey & Bruce Railway Company, and it is many years since the old narraw-gauge track was taken over by the C. P. R. About a mile in length, the curve is almost exactly the shape of a horseshoe, the extreme ends being about lifteen or sixteen rods apart, while one end of the section is fully one hundred feet lower than the other. It was at the centre of the shoe that the wreck occurred, and after hearing the stories of passengers as to the rate at which the train was travelling, and seeing the mass of splintered wood and twisted ironwork that once composed five coaches and an engine, the first thought must be that nothing short of a miracle prevented the death roll reaching proportions which no words could adequately describe. The train when it pulled out of Orangeville was full, but not excessively crowded. Every passenger had a seat, so that it will be apparent that there were about 400 persons on board. The train had been late in pulling out of Markdale, and was still an hour behind the scheduled time when Orangeville was reached.

Saved His Life.

How strenuous had been the efforts of Saved His Life.

How strenuous had been the efforts of Engineer George Hodge to make up time is best told by the words of one of the passengers. David McCallum, of Shelburne, who left the train at Orangeville. He was travelling in the fifth car with the unfortunate-Robert Carr, and speaking of the occurrence he said: "She was the unfortunate-Hobert Carr, and speaking of the occurrence, he said: "She was going too swift for me. Once before we got to Orangeville I was flung across the car into a man's lap. I left the train at Orangeville and took the ordinary. I tried to persuada Carr to come as well, but he wouldn't." Yet another passenger, William Shepherd, who was sitting with another of the killed, A. Thurston, in the smoker at the time the wreck occurred, heard Conductor Walt. Grimes say, on having lost time, that twenty-five minutes had been made up since leaving Markdale. five minutes had leaving Markdale.

Eye-witnesses.
Two spectators, George Baxter and 'Allan McLeask, whose homes are situated within a stone-throw of the scene, witnesed the disaster. Both speak of the high rate of speed at which the train was running, and the appalling suddenness with which disaster overtook it. McLeask was standing in front of his house when he saw the engine shoot from the track, plough its way a few yards into his neighbor's field, and then the five following cars come pitching and are pitching at an epitching at the core it finally settled on its side saved the lives of Engineer Hodge and Fireman Herbert Martin, both of whom reside at Toronto Junction, for they were flurements.

and car turned turtle also and The second car turned turtle also and hay at right angles to the track. The third lay partly upside down, and partly on its side, looking as if its two ends had been gripped by giant hands and twisted in opposite directions. The fourth car, partially telescoped, was still on the tracks. The fifth was ditched. The sixth was slightly damaged, while the seventh escaped entirely, and was returned to Orangeville.

Miraculous Escapes.

With cars reduced to match wood and passengers pinned down by the wrekage, there was cause for thankfulness that fire did not add to the horror of the scene. Some of the escapes were miraculous. Sitting, as already stated, in the smoker was A. J. Shepherd, of Walker's Falls, with his hired man. Thurston just before the smash remarked, "We're going over-swift for me." to which Shepherd replied, "It's all right. John, you hang on; these men know the road better than we do." The next instant chaos reigned, and Thurston was instantly killed, while Shepherd found himself lying with his body all but under one of the wheels of the coach. The wheel had protested him from falling wreckage, but a difference of three inches and it would have crushed the life out of him. Miraculous Escapes.

es and it would have crussed the me out of him.

Still more marvellous was the escape of R. A. Jelly of Shebburne, who was travelling by the train, accompanied by his wife and daughter, a tiny tot of two years old. They were in the fifth ecach, and when it settled down bottom up there was not a single seat in the whole car that had not been smashed. Mr. Jelly found his wife and baby in the baggage rack, only a slender new chain which the hady was wearing being broken, while none of the three had the alightest scratch, and, opening a window, all three were able to slip out.

An Official Statement.

General Superintendent Osborne returned to the scene of the wreck at about 8.30 and was then accompanied by Mr. Fairbairn, the company's engineer, who had come from Toronto for the purpose of examining the track and rolling stock. Mr. Osborne said: "Mr. Fairbrain has examined the track and rolling stock. I have the reports of the heads of departments who have charge of these matters and I have made an examination myself. There is nothing wrong to be found, and from the look of the cars the only cause for the wreck was excessive speed." Searching the Wreck.

Earlier in the day District Superintendent Smith had wired to his chief, saying that he could see no apparent reason for the wreck. The work of clearing the treat was delayed by the fear that son for the wreck. The work of the track was delayed by the fear that among the wreckage there might be some more victims. Instead of the care being more holes below off the track they

Before the District Superintendent left, however, everyone of the ditched cars had been lifted and searched from end to end without any gruesome discovery being made to add to the line of poor, battered, white-eheeted figures that lay beneath the shadow of one of the wrecked coaches.

The Coroner's Jury. The inquest on the victims was formally opened by Coroner Dr. Samuel Ellison at Baxter farm, the jury being Alick McLeask (foreman), John. The wrock yesterder was the third which the horseshed cirre has claimed in three weeks. The first was that of a freight train, which was ditched, while the second was that of the auxiliary which went to its assistance.

VICTIMS IN TORONTO.

Richard Bell Passed Away in Western Hospital.

Toronto, Sept. 4.—Between 35 and 40 Toronto, Sept. 4.—Between 35 and 40 of the people injured in the wreck of the Canadian Pacific train from Markdale were brought into the city yesterday afternoon in a special train. They were all taken to the Western Hospital, where their injuries were attended to. In quite a number of cases these injuries were found to be slight, and the patients left after their wounds were dressed. One death, however, occurred at the hospital.

into his neighbor's field, and then the five following cars come pitching and twisting with terrible crashes afterwards. The pitching of the engine before it finally settled on its side saved the lives of Engineer Hodge and Fireman Herbert Martin, both of whom reside at Toronto Junction, for their cabwas torn clean from its boltings, and they were flung clear of the wreck. Momentarily expecting the boiler to explode, they darted away, but the anguished cries of the injured recalled them to duty, and they rendered what assistance they could, leaving subsequently, together with Conductor Grimes and the brakeman, both of whom escaped injuries, but Martin had to be taken to the hospital.

One Woman Was Paralyzed.

Whether or not more deaths may come to those in the hospital is yet to be seen. Mrs. James Ronson, a woman of sixty-four years, whose home is in Tillisonburg, is paralyzed from the waist down. The surgeons fear that her back is broken. Mrs. W. R. Hanley, of Ottawa, who was on her way from Markdale, where she was visiting, to Toronto, is suffering from internal injuries and shock as well as a very badly lacerated arm. The surgeous operated on the arm last night. Some of the patients are suffering merely from scalp wounds. Miss Sarah Patterson, of Badegrow, iay unconscious up to a late hour last night with a very severe wound on the head, while her sister. Margaret Patterson, wa sho unconscious, although her only apparent injury is a damaged knee.

Charles Bellamy and John Clayton, both of Flesherton, have injuries to their backs, and William Douglas, of Markdale, was suffering from a dislocated shoulder and a broken rib.

Several patients have broken noses, lacerated ears and bruised or broken wrists and ankles, and others again are the worse merely for the severe shaking up.

Took the Curves Recklessly.

Mr. S. G. Arnett, with his wife, got on the train at Proton station, just north of Orangeville. They were in the third coach from the engine. Mrs. Arnett was cut about the head, face and shoulders, while Mr. Arnett sustained only a scalp wound.

"I noticed," said the husband, 'some time before we came to the horseshoe how fast we were travelling, and that we seemed to take the curves recklessly. Just as we approached the seeme of the accident our car leaned so that I had to hold on to the seat. 'Aren't you afraid we may go over?' I asked my wife, and just as I spoke the car seemed to be turning over, and then everything was in ruins. I called for my wife, and, not receiving any answer, feared for a moment she might have been killed. Just then, however, I caught sight of her skirt, and found her pinned under some timbers. I was soon able to release her, and climbed with her through a car window."

Small Boy's Graphic Story.

Small Boy's Graphic Story. Small Boy's Graphic Story.

Patiently lying in a berth, in one of the cats, the reporter found a brown-eyed lad of fifteen years, Harry Halbert, who lives in Orangeville, but who recently came to Canada from England. The lad had planned a little trip to the Toronto Fair, and lying by his side was a parcel (a shoe box), from the burst-open corner of which ham sandwiches were showing, which the boy had brought for a lunch to eat on the grounds.

"No," was his reply, as he shook his head a little dazedly. "No, I didn't know the train was going faster than usual. The first thing I noticed was my grip sliding across the floor, and then everything went wrong side up. I got my leg broken," he added, impassively. "It feels like both of 'em."

They Were Going Too Fast.

They Were Going Too Fast.

They Were Going Too Fast.

Henry Holeman and Thomas Snell, of Flesherton, were found sitting side by side in the vestibule of one of the hospital coaches. They were farmers of about forty years of age, and had planned together a little "blow out" at the great exhibition. Their story was realistic."

"I said to Tommy here, we were a going too fast," declared Mr. Holeman. "I knew it wouldn't do for that old horseshoe, and whilst I was gripping the seat hard to keep from falling over onto Tom, the side I was on raised 'way up in the air with a sort of sickening motion. "There she goes!" I yelled to Tommy, but she came down on both wheels again and then—ugh, she raised again and the whole car turned right over."

Police Magistrate's Story.

Mr. George Rutherford, police magistrate at Shelburne, had a dislocated shoulder, and was badly bruised.

"The train was going pretty fast," was his admission, "and I sajad to myself we were making up time. I heard people in my car remark on the reckless speed with which we seemed to take the curves. When the smash came the end of the car I was in telescoped.

"Yes, I heard a great many screams.

of the car I was in telescoped.
"Yes, I heard a great many screams.
The first three coaches and the tender of the engine were knocked into matchwood, but the others stayed on the track. Those who weren't hurt scrambled out and helped pick out the others."

Train Was Leaning Over.

Mr. George Watson, of Dundalk, had a scalp wound, a mutilated ear and an in-jury to his side. "I can't add much to what Mr. Rutherford told, but I was talking to a farmer who was appro-ing the tracks with his team as frain neared the curve. The farmer frain neared the curve. The farmer told me that the train was leaning so badly is it struck the horseshoe that he jumped as it struck the horseshoe that he jumped from the seat of his wagon and was tying his horses in expectation of a wreck when the crash came. I'm thank-ful to say that the wreckage dldn't eatch fire."

How Norman Tucker Died.

How Norman Tucker Died.

At the Western Hospital late last night the reporter had an interview with Mrs. George Sharpe, of Dundalk, who considers that her escape from death was nothing short of miraculous. She was riding in the third coach from the engine when the crash came. A few moments before she had been sitting facing the coach of the trip, but observed her. the rear of the train, but changed her seat for one nearer the front of the car. The seat she vacated was then taken by thirteen-year-old Norman Tucker, and in that seat he was killed. Mrs. Sharpe that seat he was killed. Mrs. Sharpe escaped unhurt, save for some slight bruises.

"I saw the oil beginning to spill from the lamps, and I was just thinking it would spoil a body's dress, when suddenly the car seemed to be full of dust so that I could not see, and we were turned over and over."

Engineer and Fireman Injured. Engineer and Fireman Injured.

The friends of the engineer and fireman of the ill-fated train were reassured last night by messages asking that the report of their death should be contradicted. Both are residents of Toronto Junction. Engineer George Hodge was not seriously hurt, his legs only having been bruised in his leap from the train. Herbert Martin, the fireman, was more seriously hurt. He was injured internally, and was scalded by escaping steam from the engine. He will be in the hospital for some time.

At a Bad Curve.

At a Bad Curve.

The scene of the accident is at the worst curve on the Owen Sound branch. From Orangeville Junction into Orangeville is a very heavy up grade. From Orangeville to Alton it is easier, and then a few miles above Caledon, which is twelve miles from Orangeville, the railroad creats the hill and starts down the Lake Ontario alope. The Horse Shoe curve is three miles below Caledon. The line here curls around a steep little mountain. This curve is at a very steep grade. The line travels two miles around the mountain, yet the actual distance gained is only a few hundred yards. It is customary to throw on the brakes at this curve and bring the train almost to a standstill. If the brakes refused to work segious trouble would result. At a Bad Curve.

trip to New York, where he had gone on behalf of the creditors of Banco Giannetti. No money was found there by him, but the inquiries he made were fruitful as to Giannetti's life and business methods.

Mr. Eric Armour, partner with Mr. Bristol in the law firm of Bristol & Armour, stated last night that one of the results of the inquiry was to nake it dear that the various sums which were affown on American Express Company forms in the Toronto office, as if they had been transmitted to their destination by that company, had merely been made out on the Express Company's forms for convenience in the Giannetti office, and that the amoney was actually sent to New York My cheques drawn on the Merchant's Bank. When the money had arrived at New York, instead of being drafted to Italy it was drawn on by Giannetti, usually in very large sums.

What Giannett did with these sums is still a mystery, but it is supposed that he spent it in various forms of extravagance. He arrived in New York from Toronto in the early part of May and took an expensive flat at 343 Madison avenue, one room off which he used as an office, spending his mornings in dictating correspondence to his two clerks.

He was always fond of display and swagger, and lost no opportunity to give to people the impression that he was very rich. Many of the large cheques drawn on the Fort William branch are supposed to have been only drawn on to fiatter his vanity and to create in the minds of those to whom they were payable or saw them drawn the impression that he had large sums of money at his disposal in several different places, for in the early days of his career, when it is assumed the affairs of the bank were in a proper condition, he would repay the cheques to Fort William from his New York account.

a proper condition, he would repay the cheques to Fort William from his New York account.

Towards the last he grew very extravagant, and in the three weeks which he spent at Bay Shore immediately before leaving for Toronto, he wasted money like water, lost large sums in gambling, and got the reputation of being a millionaire. Significantly enough, he left his apartments there without paying the landlady, Mrs. Gray. his board bill.

His New York landlord, Mr. Bonn, thought very highly of the young man, and believed his story that he had been robbed of $14,000 in Toronto. Giannetti had arranged a five-year lease of the premises at Spring street, paying a small deposit down, but as a matter of fact the New York bank was never opened. Fittings of a cheap quality were ordered and arrangements made for opening the bank on the Saturday previous to his death, but the opening never took place. Even the safe was not paid for, and negotiations with the Italian-American Trust Company, through their Treasurer, Mr. Baur, with whom Giannetti was anxious to open an account, did not materialize.

It is thought that the fear and disgrace which Giannetti felt when he read in a paper which he bought on the train on his way back to Hamilton that a war-rant was out for his arrest was the rant was out for his arrest was the cause of his turning from his expressed purpose of making what reparation he could and of his committing suicide in-

SUICIDE BY FIRE.

STRANGE DEED OF DEMENTED WOMAN AT VAUDREUIL.

Thought She Had Divine Call to Die Like Joan of Aro-Built a Funeral Pyre and Wrote Her Last Letters.

Montreal, Sept. 3.-Word reached here to-day of a strange suicide of a woman living near Vaudreuil. Believing that she nad a divine calle to die like Joan she and a divine calle to die like Joan of Arc, Mrs. Joseph Ladonde, 46 years of age, residing at 5t. Lazare, a rew miles from Vaudreuil, went up on to a nearby hill, built a runeral pyre and burned herself to death. Mrs. Lalonde apent several hours gathering fence rails and logs on her own farm preparing for her immoltion. After she had a huge pile of wood assembled she sat down ann wrote several letters, in which she stated that she had decided to respond to the call to destroy herself.

She placed the letters in her hat and crail retters, in which she stated that she had decided to respond to the call to destroy herself.

She placed the letters in her hat and hung it on the limb of a tree. She had taken the precaution to bring plenty of matches with her. She removed all her elothing, and hung it also on the tree limbs which shadowed the fatal bonfire. This tragic affair took place just when ligh Mass was being said in the village church, and the discovery was not made until after the congregation had been dismissed. During the service, however, flames from the fire reflected through the windows of the little church, but it was not thought to be anything more than rubbish burning.

After the service an investigation was made, when the charred remains of Mrs. Lalonde were found lying a few yards from the burning timbers. She was apparently unable to stand the frightful ordeal and had jumped out of the fire after she had been fatally burned. She was found lying face downwards, with grass clutched in both hands. Her husband died about six months ago, and since that time the poor woman had been acting strangely but it was never thought by neighbors that she contemplated such an act.

The Oroner, after holding a thorough inquiry, decided that the woman killed herself while of unsound mind.

The extraordinary fight took place near Strasbourg where Wallman, who is a young Swede employed on a C. P. R. construction gang, was working.

On Thursday, after work was over, he sauntered out of the camp, a gun on his shoulder, with the intention of shooting some game for the morrow's breakfast. He had not proceeded far when a huge hawk flew past; Gustav fired and the bird fell, apparently dead. He picked it up, but seeing it was not quite lifeless, he threw it down again and intended to put it out of its misery by sending another charge of shot into its carcase. It apparently did not occur to him that he might have wrung the bird's neck and so have saved a cartridge.

While he was in the act of reloading the hawk, giving vent to a shrill cry, rose from the ground and dashed straight for his face, fastening its sharp claws into his flesh, and began to pack savagely. Unfor-

The poor fellow was so actounded and bewildered and suffered such agonizing pain, that he could not explain how he got rid of his violent asseilant; but somehow this was done and he was at once sent in to St. Beniface Hospital, where he is now lying, with both eyes bandaged and his face badly lacerated. He fears that the sight of his right eye is gone for ever, but he says he will eye is gone for ever, but he says he will consider himself fortunate under the circum stances if he retains the full use of the other

BLACKMAILERS CAPTURED.

Three Black Hand Leaders Taken in New York.

New York, Sept. 3.—Caught in the act of taking money from a victim whom they had threatened with death, three Italians, who the police believe are leaders of the Black Hand Society, were captured to-day by detectives after a wild flight on a trolley car in Second avenue, in which one of the Italians was shot while diving through the car window in a final effort to escape. Gre Annoni, a wealthy barber, has been receiving letters demanding 2500 for more than a year. He was told that his place would be blown up and his family annihilated unless he heeded the demands. Annoni informed the police, and to-day it was planned to lay a trap for the blackmailers.

The barber met his men in Second avenue, paid over the money and gave a signal to the police, who were concealed nearby. The three Italians sprang on a passing trolley car, and might have escaped, but the motorman stopped the car. Two of the Italians jumped from the car, and after a short sprint were captured. The third Italian made a long dive through the car window, and was shot while in mid-air. PARTICULAR CONTRACTOR CONTRACTOR

WOULD EXEMPT FROM TAXES

Workingmen's Houses to Certain Extent, Plan of Ald. Peebles.

Building Trades Council Will Not Let Henry Case Drop.

Sandsucker Is Doing Nobly at Basins, Officials Say.

Ald. Peebles has a scheme looking towards the solution of the problem of workingmen's homes. At the Finance Committee meeting to-morrow night he will suggest the idea of exempting workwho build their homes, from taxes up to a certain amount. He has been inquiring about the legal aspects of this, and finds it would be necessary to get a special act through the Legislature. Toronto had a funny experience along this line two or three years ago. The people endorsed the idea of the council asking the Legislature to pass such an act, but the aldermen refused

C. R. Reid, representing the Building Trades Council, informed the Times to-Trades Council, informed the Times to cay that the officers of that body kd no notice that the Henry case was to be qualt with at the Board of Works meeting last night, and therefore had no opportunity of presenting their case. It was distinctly understood when the matter was first before the committee, those who made the complaint say, that it was simply to be laid over in fairness to Mr. Henry until he returned and that they were then to be accorded an opportunity of presenting their case. They do not like the way the matter was disposed of and declared they had no intention of permitting it to be here at once, intention of permitting it to be Myles Hunting, who is superintending the job of clearing out the filtering basins in the absence of City Engineer Barrow, announced at noon that the said-sucker was making good progress. It is now scooping out the long weeds in what is considered the worst corner of the basin. The agitator is said to be cnopping the weeds up and shooting them, out in great shape. The sucker sucks until clean sand is reached. No complaint has been received yet from has been received yet from Grand Trunk over the dumping of the stuff in the creek, and it is not expected there will be any difficulty from this source. Mr. Hunting said he ex-pected the basins could be cleaned out in much quicker time than were first in much quicker time than was first cal-culated. The water has been stirred by the weeds, but when this corner of the basin is cleaned it is not thought there will be any further agitation.

The street watering rate for the year has been fixed at seven-tenths of a mill. The increase over last year is explained by officials of the department as resulting from the 33½ per cent. increase in wages; the fact that two flushers are being used this season; the dry season, and the engaging of four extra teams. They say, too, the work has been well done. Although Mayor Stewart said it cost $15,000 now as compared with done. Although Mayor Stewart said it cost $15,000 now as compared with $8,000 when the Board of Works took over the work, the officials say these figures are not correct, and, in any event, the watering is being done cheaper. On account of the low rate last year there was a $2,000 overdraft on this item alone.

If the by-law to return to the ward If the by-law to return to the ward system is voted on when the one for electric pumps is submitted, it is not thought it will be possible to divide the city into polling divisions as first proposed. Later brick buildings 60x100, for a bowling alley and moving picture areade will be erected, so that the job when completed will have cost about $20,000.

Klein & Binkley, jewellers, who occupy one of the city stores, north of the City Hall, have airanged for the use also of the premises next door, now occupied by a drug store. It will be remembered this firm offered to erect a fine new building if a twenty-five year leave could be secured but the Marketa Committee refused this.

The Sewers Committee meets this afternoon, one of the chief items of business being the application of Ald. Farrar for sewer connection in the east end. After the remarks made in Council by Chairman Diekson, Chairman Baird promised there would be an investigation into this.
