Plot That Failed;

Love That Would Not Be Denied.

CHAPTER XXIV.

By some strange course of reasoning or feeling, he had grown to connect the captain with every mishap of his life.

What were he and his friend doing thus early at Lackland house? Casting from him the dim foreboding which had fallen upon him at the sight of Howard Murpoint and Mr. Smythe, Bertie hurried to the park.

It was the unfashionable hour—at eleven the Upper Ten are either in bed or fast thinking of breakfast—and the Row was nearly empty.

Bertie did not meet with much difficulty in finding his quarry, for they were galloping up and down the tan in the height of enjoyment.

Ethel saw Bertie first, and exclaimed:

"Fitz, there is Bert—Mr. Fairfax!"

"What, Bert out of his den as early as this! Hello, old fellow," he exclaimed, as Bert came up, "what's the matter? Temple burned down?"

"No," said Bert, "not that I am aware of."

Then he took off his hat as Ethel rode up.

"I've come out for a run," he said, the happiness and delight within him showing itself in his eyes, "and I thought perhaps I should find you here."

"Do you want me?" said Fitz, rather puzzled, for there was something in Bertie's face that looked momentous.

"No, I don't want you," said Bertie; "I wanted a word with your sister."

Fitz looked puzzled still, but nodded to Ethel.

"Do you hear that, Eth? He wants to speak to you."

Ethel steered her horse near the rails, and Bertie went up and patted it.

Now that he had the opportunity he did not know what to say, or rather he was loath to say it before Fitz; he would rather have had Ethel alone, and, besides, his news was so precious that he clung to it and hugged it.

"Fitz," he said, "do you mind lending me your nag? It isn't far to walk home."

"Eth?" said Fitz, "what do you mean? I say, what's up? Something between you and Eth, I'll bet a pound. Yes, here you are, old fellow, here's the nag. Don't you two get up to mischief."

He got off in a moment, like the good-natured fellow that he was, and Bertie sprang into the saddle.

"You're a good fellow, Fitz," he said, gratefully.

"Just so," said Fitz, "that's what every man says; but, I say, I don't know whether it's the right thing. What will the earl and countess say? They're mighty particular, you know."

"I'll be responsible," said Bertie, laughing. "Good-by, old fellow; you are a good fellow, too."

Fitz nodded smilingly, and trotted off.

The two lovers, left thus, sat still, Ethel blushing and trembling, Bertie flushed and excited.

Marvelous Balsamic Essences Cure Catarrh

No Drugs To Take—A Direct Breathing Cure

Statistics Prove Ninety-Seven Per Cent of Canada's Population is Infested With the Germs of Catarrh.

This disease is most dangerous owing to its tendency to extend to the Bronchial tubes and lungs, where it causes Consumption. Unfortunately the people have had faith in sprays, ointments and snuffs, which can't possibly cure, and in consequence catarrhal disease has become a national cure. Science is advancing every day, and fortunately a remedy has been discovered that not only cures but prevents Catarrh. This new treatment "Catarrhose" has sufficient power to kill the germs of Bronchitis, Catarrh and Asthma. It contains pure pine essences and healing balsams that go to the remotest part of

15 YEARS SUFFERING FROM PILES

Mr. J. McEwen of Dundas, Ont., writes:—"For fifteen years I suffered with Piles and could get no permanent cure until I tried Zam-Buk. Perseverance with this herbal balm resulted in a complete cure, and I have not been troubled with the painful ailment since."

Mr. Henry Fougere of Poulmond, N.S., says:—"I suffered terribly with Piles and could find nothing to give me relief until I tried Zam-Buk. This cured me. I consider Zam-Buk the finest ointment on the market."

The above are specimens of the many letters we are constantly receiving from men and women who have cured their suffering by using Zam-Buk. Why not do likewise?

Zam-Buk is best for eczema, blood poisoning, ulcers, sores, cuts, bruises, and all skin injuries and diseases. 50c. box, all druggists and stores, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Send this advertisement with name of paper and one cent stamp for free trial box.

"Shall we have a gallop?" he said, and accordingly Ethel, without a word, put her horse into a run.

They rode to the end of the Row, then Bertie said:

"Don't you think it is very impudent of me to borrow your brother's horse and capture you?"

"Oh, my darling!" he burst out triumphantly, delightedly, "you are mine! I have seen the earl this morning and he has given you to me."

They rode side by side, Bertie speaking of his hopes and plans, she listening and drinking in the music of his voice.

Somehow or other they found themselves out of the Row and away to a secluded road, where there were no spectators.

Then Bertie took possession of the hand, and while he murmured soft, sweet words, as lovers can and will, he performed a feat of equestrianism which would have made him a worthy candidate for a circus, for with reckless daring he bent forward and actually snatched a kiss from the blushing but forgiving Ethel.

Then they rode home, happy, glowing, at peace with all the world, and as madly in love as any young couple in England.

"We shall meet to-night," said Bertie, "at Mrs. Mildmay's?"

"Yes," said Ethel, "to-night," and though it was then one o'clock, "to-night" seemed as far off to her as the week after next.

Bertie left the horse at the Lackland's stables and walked home to his chambers.

As he sat down at his table, his man entered with a letter.

Bertie glanced at the envelope and tore it open.

It was stamped with the Lackland crest.

It contained a short note, which Bertie had no sooner read than he turned as pale as the paper and staggered back into his chair like a man mortally wounded.

Before we glance over his shoulder, and ascertain the contents of the letter which had so affected him let us return to Mr. Howard Murpoint and Mr. Wilhelm Smythe as they stand on the doorstep of Lackland House.

When the servant opened the door Mr. Murpoint inquired for Lord Lackland, and was soon, accompanied by his friend, Mr. Wilhelm Smythe, ushered into the earl's presence.

When they entered the room Howard Murpoint introduced Mr. Smythe to the earl and then proceeded to business.

He said that Mr. Smythe had been anxious to see the earl, as one of the directors of a certain mining company, to ask a few questions.

The earl admitted that he was on the board of directors and answered the questions, or rather the captain answered them for him.

Then Mr. Smythe announced his intention of becoming a director, an incidentally mentioned that he would if there was any occasion for it, purchase the mine.

This made the earl stare, as the captain had intended that it should and when Mr. Smythe rose to take his leave, Lackland's adieu was a great deal more cordial than his greeting.

When the rich Mr. Smythe had gone the captain eyed his dupe warily.

"A nice young fellow," he said.

"Very," said the earl. "A good business man, I have no doubt."

"Immensely rich," said the captain.

"Immensely. I wonder if the countess would oblige me by sending him a card for her next ball? I should take it as a personal favor."

The earl stroked his mustache.

"I am sure the countess would only be too delighted," he said. "But are you sure that Mr. Smythe would care to come?"

"I am certain that he would," said the captain. "Indeed, he was speaking of it only this morning. Poor fellow, he has become infatuated with the beauty of Lady Boisdale!"

The earl was almost guilty of a start.

"Indeed!" he said. "I am sure we are very much flattered by Mr. Smythe's preference. It is a pity you did not know him. Unfortunately there is no chance of his wishes being fulfilled. I have this morning promised the hand of Ethel to Mr. Fairfax."

"To Mr. Fairfax!" echoed the captain, with as much polite astonishment and disgust in his voice as if the earl had said "His Satanic Majesty."

"To Mr. Fairfax!"

"Yes," said the earl. "Mr. Fairfax called here this morning, just before you came, and pressed his suit as earnestly that I yielded and gave my consent—a very reluctant consent I must confess."

"Write a letter to him recalling your consent."

"Impossible," said the earl.

"Why so?" inquired Mr. Murpoint.

"My word has been given and if I were to break it I should be cut by every man in London. I dared not show my face in a single club."

"It is very unfortunate," said the captain, coolly, "more unfortunate than you can imagine, for I have not told you all."

"All?" inquired the earl. "What else is there to tell?"

"Mr. Smythe is a determined man," said the captain, quietly, "and he assured me this morning that if he did not get your consent to his suit he should go to extremities."

"Extremities! what do you mean?"

"Simply this: that he will buy up the mortgages and the numerous bills which you have given, and come down on you like a hawk. He is a most determined young man. He will sell Lackland Hall and everything you possess, as sure as you stand there."

"He cannot," said the earl, with a smile. "I can make arrangements with my creditors. I can purchase the bills, raise the money, pay off the debts."

"I am afraid not," said the captain. "Because, you see, the bills are in my hands."

"Your hands?" exclaimed Lord Lackland.

"Yes, mine," answered the captain, softly, and with the sweetest smile.

WOMEN FROM 45 TO 55 TESTIFY

To the Merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during Change of Life.

Westbrook, Me.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and had pains in my back and side and was so weak I could hardly do my housework. I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has done me a lot of good. I will recommend your medicine to my friends and give you permission to publish my testimonial."

Manston, Wis.—"At the Change of Life I suffered with pains in my back and loins until I could not stand. I also had night-sweats so that the sheets would be wet. I tried other medicine but got no relief. After taking one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began to improve and I continued its use for six months. The pains left me, the night-sweats and hot flashes grew less, and in one year I was a different woman. I know I have to thank you for my continued good health ever since."

Mrs. M. J. BROWNELL, Manston, Wis.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled in paper cases.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

"It is very unfortunate! I promised this worthy young man that I would use my influence with your lordship to gain your consent. I gave my word of honor, and if I were to break it I should be cut by every man in London and should not be able to enter a single club."

As he used the earl's own words, and smiled his soft, deadly smile, the earl sank into a chair and gasped for breath.

"Are you a man or a fiend?" he breathed.

"I am simply a man of business," said Mr. Murpoint, "and a man of my word."

"What am I to do? I am in your power!"

"Write a letter to this Mr. Fairfax and tell him that you cannot consent, that you rescind the promise you gave this morning."

The captain stood over him, quite the master of the situation, and dictated.

"Dear Sir,—I regret that circumstances have occurred which compel me, on consideration, to recall the consent which I reluctantly gave you this morning. I must beg of you to believe that I am obliged by the force of circumstances to rescind that promise, and that I am strengthened in my resolution to refuse you the hand of my daughter by the countess, who is strongly opposed to any engagement taking place between you. If you have already seen Lady Boisdale, and acquainted her with your hopes and wishes, I must beg that you will, by writing, inform her that all engagements between you must cease, and that you are compelled in honor to refrain from prosecuting your suit. With regret I have arrived at this decision, and sign myself most sincerely your well-wisher."

LACKLAND.

"P.S.—It would be as well, perhaps, if you could make arrangements to leave London for a time. If it should be inconvenient to you to do so, I will remove Lady Boisdale to one of my places in the country."

This letter was written and signed by the earl.

It was carried by a servant to the Temple, and it was read by our friend Bertie, as we have seen.

Its effect upon him was beyond all description.

Ours

The Classy Picture Theatre.

Well yesterday broke all records of this cosy, delightful and classy little house, since Mr. Rossley has got some of the best pictures ever filmed, and Aneta, the child vocalist, his West End Theatre went half hold the crowds. The West End people are proud of their own little theatre and they certainly show their appreciation by packing it up. Mr. Rossley intends enlarging it soon. The pictures now shown are certainly splendid; the little singer, a St. John's child, who has delighted every one by her sweet singing of beautiful songs, always dressed in character, is a real little artist; and the time Mrs. Rossley spent in training her is reaping a good reward. The great Elliott pictures will be the next sensation at "Ours."

I sit beside the fire and watch
Within the ruddy glow,
Full many a scene before me fit—
And faces come and go.

I watch the serried ranks advance
The bursting shell beneath;
I watch the banners rise and fall;
The charge and the retreat.

'E'er as the embers flash or fade
Strange warlike scenes I view,
And ever as the pictures change
I'm thinking dear of you.

Last night you came to me in dreams
A medal on your breast
At which you pointed and in pride
This unto me addressed:—

"The war is haply ended, Nell,
The days of blood are o'er;
The nights that belched the breath of
Hell
Alarm the World no more.

"There's peace, a British peace prevails,
Britannia rules the sea—
And o'er the land of Belgia rests
Glory and Victory!

"Great ships—the ships of England,
ride
Majesticly the foam.
To every land of Britain's realm
Bearing their soldiers home.

"And many a maid a bride shall be
Ere next St. Valentine,
And now the hope that fill me is,
That sweetheart, ou'll be mine!"

Oh Peace, Oh blessed Peace! once more
To warring earth return,
Whose daughters at thy broken shrine
Atoning incense burn.

A Valentie Reverie.

I sit beside the fire and watch
Within the ruddy glow,
Full many a scene before me fit—
And faces come and go.

I watch the serried ranks advance
The bursting shell beneath;
I watch the banners rise and fall;
The charge and the retreat.

'E'er as the embers flash or fade
Strange warlike scenes I view,
And ever as the pictures change
I'm thinking dear of you.

Last night you came to me in dreams
A medal on your breast
At which you pointed and in pride
This unto me addressed:—

"The war is haply ended, Nell,
The days of blood are o'er;
The nights that belched the breath of
Hell
Alarm the World no more.

"There's peace, a British peace prevails,
Britannia rules the sea—
And o'er the land of Belgia rests
Glory and Victory!

"Great ships—the ships of England,
ride
Majesticly the foam.
To every land of Britain's realm
Bearing their soldiers home.

"And many a maid a bride shall be
Ere next St. Valentine,
And now the hope that fill me is,
That sweetheart, ou'll be mine!"

Oh Peace, Oh blessed Peace! once more
To warring earth return,
Whose daughters at thy broken shrine
Atoning incense burn.

Terra Nova's Defeat

St. Bon's

IN A HARD FOUGHT GAME LAST NIGHT.

The Terra Novas won over the St. Bon's last evening by five goals to three. The game was lively and enthusiastic throughout, though at intervals, there was a fondness for roughing it. The St. Bon's scored the first goal for the evening, after three minutes of play. Then their opponents got three in succession. The second period opened in favor of the St. Bon's again, and Quinn scored early. The Bon's worked hard to equalize matters and Higgins recorded the third goal for his side. The Terra Novas increased the pace a bit. The forward line made some desperate rushes. Their opponents were unable to stand the bombardment for long with the result that the Terra Novas added a goal to their tally after the prettiest bit of play for the evening.

The players were:—
St. Bon's.—Power, goal; Crawford, point; Higgins, cover; Callahan, rover; Barnes, centre; Quinn, right; McKay, left.

Terra Novas.—Duley, goal; Tobin, point; M. Stick, cover; Mews, rover; Trappell, centre; Gear, right; R. Stick, left.

Referee—Mr. G. Herder.
Timekeepers—Messrs. P. F. Moore, F. Jerrett and J. Carmichael.

SUMMARY OF GOALS.

First Half.
1, Callahan (S.B.), 3 minutes; 2, Trappell, Terra Novas, 7 minutes; 3, R. Stick (T.N.), 9 minutes; 4, Trappell (T.N.), 20 minutes.

Second Half.
6, Quinn (S.B.), 2 minutes; 7, Higgins (S.B.), 20 minutes; 8, Gear (T.N.), 25 minutes.

SUMMARY OF PENALTIES.

First Half.
Callahan (S.B.), 3 minutes.

Second Half.
Callahan (S.B.), 4 minutes; Callahan (S.B.), 5 minutes; Mews (T.N.), 3 minutes; Callahan (S.B.), 5 minutes.

NOTES.
The Feildians and St. Bon's will meet to-morrow night, and the championship will depend on the outcome. If the Feildians win they are the cup holders for 1915. But should the St. Bon's win, it will place the Feildians and Terra Novas on equal footing, provided the latter defeat the Victorias on Friday night next.

Municipal Report.

We have before us the report of the Municipal Board for the six months ending Dec. 31st, last. This last date is the end of the financial year, and the report covers a financial statement for the year. The estimated expenditure for the year was $226,579.00 and the actual expenditure, $231,568.37. The main savings were on Fire Department, open spaces, roads, salaries of mayor and councillors. Customs drawbacks, snow shovelling, Mullins Bridge, street crossing, oiling streets, retaining walls and election expenses. But sprinkling streets, sewerages, legal expenses, contingencies, road making machinery, water works, rent Flavin Street property, and a number of other items eat up the savings and increased the actual expenditure some $5,000 above the estimated expenditure. The revenue of the year, however, shows an excess of actual income of nearly $10,000 above that estimated. The chief item responsible for this increase is Customs Coal Duties.

The Report states:—"It does not appear that it has been the practice to reserve loans strictly for the purposes for which they were obtained. For instance, it was found that out of two loans of $30,000.00 and $8,000 respectively, obtained for the purpose of carrying out the 'Small Homes Sewerage Act,' only $7,113.47 was spent for that purpose, the balance being expended on the extension of water and sewerage mains. According to the Act, the Sinking Fund should have been provided to liquidate this loan in 30 years by charging 6 per cent on the amount advanced, but as the money has not all been spent as intended, the Sinking Fund cannot now be fully provided. The amount to the credit of the Sinking Fund is $491.78.

The Board is of opinion that on no account should loans be used for any other purpose than that for which they were obtained, except with the consent of the Legislature. We endorse most emphatically the opinion expressed in this connection by the Commissioners. Such a diversion of money is an infringement of the Statute.

The total arrears at the end of Dec. was $100,946.34, an increase of $2,240.06 over that existing twelve months before. This is the least increase for 10 years. In spite of the war, the collection for the last six months of the year was good. The story of Engineer Longley's visit is told and a list is given of the increased pressures, which have resulted from the cleaning of the mains, the suppression of waste and the replacing of old pipes by larger sized new ones. When the frost comes out of the ground, this work will be continued. It will immediately give labor, improve water supply and pressure and should have the effect of reducing rates of fire insurance.

Supreme Court.

The Court met at 11 a.m. to-day pursuant to adjournment. Present the Full Bench.

The King vs. Stephen Ballard.—The prisoner is arraigned and pleads "Not Guilty." Gibba, for the Crown, moves for a day and a special jury with an extra panel. J. Higgins, for the prisoner, consents. It is ordered that the trial be set for Friday next, the 19th inst. At 11.15 a special jury and an extra panel.

In the Election Act, 1913, Election for the District of Carbonear. George Penney vs. John R. Goodison.—On motion of Furlong, K.C., and by consent of F. A. Mews, the matter is further adjourned until March 10th, at 11 a.m.

The Court adjourns until 11 a.m. on Friday next.

Police Assaulted.

To-day in court it looked as if Constable Pitcher had figured in a recent army engagement because of his face being so badly bruised and cut as a result of the onslaughts made on him last evening by two offenders in police circles. One of the defendants was being handcuffed and arrested for disorderly conduct when his pal interfered and attempted to rescue him. A free fight followed and a posse of policemen had to be requisitioned. One of them, Pitcher, fared badly. The defendants appeared before Judge Knight today and were remanded while the police are arranging for the arrest of a third party who figured in the row.

Morwenna Returns.

The S.S. Morwenna, Capt. Holmes, reached port to-day from Halifax, after a 52 hours passage, bringing a general cargo, and one passenger, Dr. Shankel.

WAS IN COLLISION.

The Morwenna was in collision since she was here last. While coming out of Halifax Harbor she was in collision with a Dartmouth Ferry steamer and as a result had her bows stove in. The ship put back for repairs, after which she left again here. The Morwenna was chartered by the Red Cross Line, but it is not known yet if she will make another trip or so.

McMurdo's Store News.

TUESDAY, Feb. 16, '15. We sometimes hear of a corn which seems "too sore to touch," and in these cases ordinary corn cures are of very little value. It is here that the "Absorbo-Corn Pad" comes in. This is manufactured by the Scholl Mfg. Company, who are foot specialists and whose business is entirely devoted to preparing appliances for that part of the body. The device is a very simple one, consisting of a pad of rubber soap shaped that it does not touch the corn while covering it entirely. It thus acts as a perfect "fender," and tends to cure the corn by retaining the natural warmth and moisture underneath the pad, favoring absorption. We have heard of excellent results from this treatment, and the pads may be had in three different sizes, according to the part on which it is to be used and the size of the corn. Price 20c., 25c. and 30c.

Wedding Bells.

At Torbay, on Sunday last, the 14th inst., a very pretty wedding was solemnized, when Miss Maggie Foley was married to Mr. Daniel McGuire, at his residence by the Very Rev. Fr. St. John, Chancellor of the Archdiocese. The bride was very neatly attired in a rose costume. The groom's present to the bride was a very handsome gold bracelet, and to the bridesmaid, Miss Kent, a set of gold hat pins. Many useful presents were sent to the bride and groom, which clearly testified for their numerous friends both in the City and Torbay.

FRENCH PRESS PLEASSED WITH AMERICA'S REPLY.

PARIS, To-Day.

America's reply to Germany's blockade notification has now brought forth a chorus of praise from the principal writers in the French Press. Even George St. Clemente, who hitherto has been disposed to criticize President Wilson, says the paper has spoken words that American people expected in such a way that Germany has no alternative but to back down. The Figaro says the American note to Germany is an act high in historic initiative and the first step toward inevitable participation of neutrals in the great events which are dividing the world. President Wilson was obliged to pass from discussion to action. What do the measures mentioned in the note mean but that American warships will fall upon German submarines attacking merchant ships in total disregard of America's sovereign rights. Either Germany can give in or she can disregard Washington's note and go on with her plan to force England to capitulate, then President Wilson could not recede from his position.

A SATANIC SUGGESTION.

BERLIN, To-day.

An official statement reading as follows, was issued in Berlin to-day: "In so much as it is to the interests of Great Britain that conflicts should arise between Germany and neutral powers, it is thought in German shipping circles that an English submarine in order to bring about this end may purposely sink one or more neutral ships. It is known also in shipping circles that Great Britain has laid large quantities of mines against German submarines."

KITCHENER'S ARMY IN FRANCE.

PARIS, To-day.

In confirmation of a recent message, stating that about 500,000 British troops were to be landed on French soil within a few days, visitors returning from Etaples near Boulogne, report regular cities of British soldiers with a population of 200,000 to 600,000. This vast army of ten to twelve army corps is the big army Kitchener has been training for the past half year, and is expected to complete the task of hurling Germans out of France and Belgium. The rest of Kitchener's army of 100,000 are expected to be landed in France within the next few weeks.

same states as the Great Northern, but the two systems live in considerable peace and do not fight each other in a rude and scandalous way. This is because they are owned by the same man. Some years ago the two systems bought the Burlington, but when Mr. Hill attempted to weld them into a homogeneous water-tight, bomb-proof and lap-welded holding company, the cruel government stepped in and forbade the unions.

The Great Northern has $250,000,000 capital stock, and has managed to wriggle along on $245,000,000 bonds, of which it spent $107,000,000 buying the Burlington system. It owns enough iron lands in Minnesota to supply the country for many years earning $75,000,000 a year, pays seven per cent dividends, and limits its branch lines to one passenger train a day with inflexible resolution.

The most imposing feature of the Great Northern visible to the traveler is Mr. Hill's residence in St. Paul.

BATTERED GERMAN CRUISERS ON THE STOCKS.

Rotterdam, Feb. 8.—The Derfflinger and the Seydlitz, two of the German battle cruisers engaged in the recent North Sea fight, are now on the stocks at Hamburg. The Kaiser, who went there specially to see the damage done to the vessels, gave orders that the Derfflinger must be got ready for sea again in six weeks. For this purpose 1,500 men are now working on her day and night. The damage to the Seydlitz is so extensive that it will take ten weeks to repair her.

Apparently to keep up the enthusiasm in the Fatherland in the meantime, a German illustrated paper publishes a drawing of the suppositious torpedoing of the Lion by a German destroyer.

Florizel Here Again.

CAPTAIN MARTIN REPORTS NO EXCITEMENT IN ENGLAND OVER THE WAR.

The Red Cross Liner Florizel, Capt. William Martin, which was under charter to the British Admiralty, dropped her anchor in the harbor this morning, having come from North Shields, England, which port she left fourteen days ago. "There is not the slightest bit of excitement over the war in England," said Capt. Martin, "and a visit to the principal cities would convince one that war was not acting on at all."

SHIPPING CONGESTED.

Continuing, he mentioned that shipping was much congested in England and that at the various ports there were a number of merchantmen, deeply laden with freight, awaiting to be discharged, being held up owing to the scarcity of laborers, as nearly all the workmen in the Old Country have enlisted with His Majesty's forces.

PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES.

The British people are taking every precaution with their shipping against the enemy's mines, etc. Capt. Martin informs us that as soon as a ship reaches the English side of the water, his ship is taken charge of by a pilot as was the case with the Florizel, and escorted safely to port. At no time is a ship allowed to pass Flamboro Head, Scarborough Head or vicinity, unaccompanied, and besides every evening ships passing those places have to drop their anchors and remain there all night, fearing to be attacked by German torpedoes.

SAW CRUISER TIGER.

While on the other side Capt. Martin and crew saw the British cruiser Tiger coming up the Thames after figuring in a recent engagement in the North Sea. The Tiger had some dead men on board who were killed in the battle and besides the hull of the ship was cannon-bored. The Tiger is one of the latest and most powerful British cruisers, being only built shortly after the outbreak of hostilities. She is 28,000 tons, 100,000 h.p. and armed with 13.5 inch and 12 inch guns. Her rate of speed is 28 knots, though she made 30 knots on her trial trip. The Florizel left New York on New Year's Eve with a cargo of merchandise for the British Army. From London she went to North Shields and after taking 2,300 tons of coal on board left for St. John's. For the first four days at sea very little headway was made on account of having to lay to every night. Nine days ago the ship passed Landend, after which heavy storms and ice were encountered, though the ship made good progress. A succession of gales from the N.W. and N.N.W. were experienced and an occasional blizzard was felt. About two hundred miles east of Cape Spear heavy field ice was run into and prevailed almost up to the time port was reached.

AWAITING ORDERS.

The Florizel will unload part of her coal cargo at the premises of the Nfld. Produce Co., though her later movements are not definitely known yet. It was reported that she would go to the icefields with Capt. Abram Kean in command.

We sold a number of pairs of these Boots to the boys of the 1st Nfld. Regiment.

F. SMALLWOOD,

Machine Guns for Nfld. Regiment.

Sgt. Major Lavaye, who is attached to the Department of the Canadian Militia arrived in the city by this morning's express to instruct the members of the Second Contingent in the use of the maxim guns presented to the Newfoundland Regiment by Mr. W. D. Reid, President of the Royal Newfoundland Co. The guns have arrived and will be taken to the Army camp this afternoon when the first lessons in firing will be given. Later the men will be taken to the South Side range in squads and instructed in the adjustment of range and general firing. These guns we understand are of the very latest type and may be fired from a range of one hundred to four thousand yards, and will fire from four hundred to four hundred and fifty rounds a minute. The gun rests on a tripod and is easily manipulated, the total weight being only about thirty pounds.

Nfld. Boys in N.S. Machine Gun Section.

In the Halifax Evening Mail of the 11th instant there is a picture of the machine gun sections of the 25th Battalion raised in Nova Scotia. In it there are three Newfoundlanders, all of whom were engineers on the ship. Two are Lance Corporals Duff and Private Ledingham and Private Neworthy. The Captain is a Halifaxian and so are five others. There are also two other Nova Scotians. Three men hail from England, three from Scotland and one from Ireland.

This German a Cheerful Liar.

He Writes a Fairly Tale About the United States and Canada.

London, Feb. 6.—The latest number to hand of the "Koenigsche Zeitung" devotes two columns of its front page to an article from its American correspondent descriptive of the experience of a German-American. The correspondent is convinced that if the enemies of Germany in the United States were with the land of his birth he would be in the greatest danger. As a matter of fact, he says, German-Americans are not sure of their lives against the bigotry and fanaticism of friends of the Allies.

He alleges that it is "the entire scum of Europe which has collected together in the city from which I write"—Rochester, N. Y.—that these people have no moral worth and are incapable of appreciating moral values.

"Among these people one notices a foaming anger against our noble Fatherland," he declares. He asserts that the struggle to maintain the German cause is the struggle of light against darkness. He is simply astonished that the wrath against Germany has not broken out long ago. So terrible, he says, is the hatred of Americans against persons sympathizing with Germany that Germans have been driven in despair to commit suicide.

"The hypocrisy of the people is found "most repulsive" by this correspondent. On Sundays, he remarks, they pray for peace and on Monday they begin manufacturing dum-dum bullets by the million and send them to England and France. Night and day their factories are at work making guns, rifles, knives and barbed wire, all "with the object of bringing about a speedy peace," by which, of course, is understood a speedy defeat of the Germans.

The position of the German or the Austrian in Canada is, of course, even worse than in the United States. The Canadian mob, he says, has slaughtered Germans in the streets for no other reason than that they are Germans. The article is followed by an editorial note, as follows:

"The picture given in this letter is certainly true and teaches us that we cannot rely very much on any revolution of opinion in our favor."

American Debt To British Fleet.

Discussing the American government's note to Great Britain, the Chicago Post remarks:—"That we should speak out to England in behalf of the international law which she and our selves have upheld in the past—yes. But that we should 'twist the lion's tail' or unfairly embarrass a combatant in this great war—no, a hundred times no. This should be America's position: let us get in clear in our minds before American public opinion forms definitely upon President Wilson's protest in behalf of the rights of our shipping. We have a feeling of momentary resentment against England's fleet because it has sternly enforced practices which we fairly consider deviations from our mutual ideas of international law.

"Yet, after all, what is England's fleet? Without it, where would the United States be to-day? Ninety per cent. of the sea-carrying trade of the world is done in English bottoms. Thanks to the English fleet these "common carriers" are free to sail the seas. Restricted they may be by stringent or even unfair rules, but the fact remains that they are busy at the world task of carrying goods to and from neutral ports or English ports. . . . Should that fleet be put out of action, the world's fabric of sea commerce would fall utterly.

"Think, too, of what England's fleet means to that difficult yet vital American tenet—the Munroe Doctrine. What man can doubt that were Germany to sweep the seas of British warships her strong commercial grasp upon South America would be turned into an actual government, great? Then we would be faced with the choice of throwing the Munroe Doctrine overboard or fighting for it. In this sense the English fleet to-day is really the American fleet.

"Our protest to England on her treatment of our ships is justified. Our protest to Germany, against the violation of Belgian neutrality, the greatest national crime of our century, would also have been justified. We made the protest in one case, we did not make it in the other. Let us not let this fact swerve us from the straight line of neutrality in which we have tried to guide our course. Let us not turn a reasonable note to a friendly nation into an occasion for jingoistic onslaughts upon her in her hour of need."

No Copper-- No War.

Why Germany Must Secure Plentiful Supplies of the Precious Red Metal.

This has been called a gold war; and so it is in a sense. But it is even more emphatically a copper war. War can be waged on credit for a while, or on a silver basis, as did Japan. But cut off the supply of copper, and sooner or later nowadays a war comes automatically to an end.

This is because the red metal enters into the composition, in a greater or less degree, of nearly all the munitions for war. Take, for instance, projectiles for big guns. Round the base of each one of these is a band of copper, which, when the gun is fired, expands, and grips the interior rifling of the weapon, causing the projectile to rotate.

It also serves another, and a very important purpose. By its expansion at the very moment the charge ignites, the explosive gases are held in check, as it were, and forced to expand all but a tiny fraction of their energy in driving the projectile through the bore of the piece.

25,000 Tons a Year.

If, however, Germany merely wanted enough copper to enable her to make these bands for her big gun projectiles, she could probably supply the demand within her own borders—she produces about 25,000 tons per annum—or, at all events, she would be able to smuggle in enough from professedly neutral neighbors. But there are other demands for the metal which are far more insistent, and notably that in connection with small-arm ammunition, that is to say, rifle cartridges.

These are made of solid drawn brass; no other substance will do, because all others are liable to jam in the barrel. Now ordinary brass contains three parts of copper to two of zinc, but the fine brass from which cartridges are made consists of three parts of copper to only one of zinc.

Experts state that thirteen tons of copper are required for a million rounds of small-arm ammunition. Consequently every cartridge contains rather less than half an ounce of copper. One has only to bear these facts in mind, and to remember also that it has been computed that on an average about thirty millions of cartridges are being fired away daily in the various theatres of the war, to realise how absolutely vital it is to Germany that her imports of copper should not be materially interfered with.

But this is exactly what's happening. Our fleets command the seas, and copper has been declared by us to be contraband of war. One result of this is that the German Government is now offering £100 a ton for the metal, the price over here being somewhere about £57 a ton, while in America, whence comes more than half the world's copper supply, the price is even lower.

Naturally the high value that is set upon the metal by Germany is a great temptation to blockade-runners, and there have certainly been some successful coups made in this direction, notably that accomplished by one of the big Hamburg-Sud-America liners—said to have been either the Rio Grande or the Rio Negro—which reached Kiel some few weeks back with a full cargo of the precious contraband, after successfully running the gauntlet of our cruisers. The bulk of the copper smuggled into Germany however, comes, as has been said, from professedly neutral countries, whither it is carried by skippers armed with false bills of lading and faked manifests. There are even stories, no doubt true in the main, of big stores of the contraband metal having been revealed by the X-rays hidden inside cotton bales.

It is our object to put a stop to this sort of thing; and if we can succeed in doing so the war is bound to be materially shortened. For it is not only for her small-arm ammunition factories and her big gun works at Essen, that Germany must have copper. She needs it for other warlike purposes as well.

Copper, too, enters largely into the construction of aeroplanes and motor cars both pure, and in the form of brass; and everybody knows what an important part is being played in the war by these two appliances.

That Frown.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"Oh heart of mine we shouldn't worry so. What we've missed of calm, we couldn't have, you know. What we've met of stormy pain, and of sorrow's driving rain, we can better meet again if it blow."

RUTH CAMERON

The other day as I was passing through the railroad station my attention was attracted by a woman with two children. They were energetic, obstreperous little life mites, and one of them was tugging at her hand and trying to get away. A whistle baggage truck rattled by them, they had to pass close to the engine which at that moment was belching forth steam, in the alarming, just-about-to-explode way engines have. The little girl was frightened and wanted to shrink away. The little boy was fascinated and wanted to get nearer. And will you believe it, through all that tumult and excitement that mother was as calm and serene and sweet as a June morning. When she spoke to the children it was never in a shrill voice, and not once did I see her brow wrinkle up. The Shril Voice and the Nervous Frown.

Now I know another mother who seldom appears on a city street with her two children without a frown of anxious concentration on her brow. They make her so nervous, she says. You never can tell when Louise is going to try to pat a cross dog, or Benny is going to elude her and get under an automobile. And in her voice, as she speaks to you or to them, is a shrill note which is the echo of that nervous frown. When I see her I feel I must say, "Oh heart of mine we shouldn't worry so." Of course there was as much for the first woman to frown about as the second, nay more, but she wasn't the frowning kind. Some of us are born the frowning kind, and some of us aren't, and the people who aren't, should bless the fates that made them serene hearted, and the people who should make up their minds that they will attain serenity of heart and pass it on to their descendants in spite of the fates that made them otherwise.

How to Smooth Away That Frown
I often see that frown on one face or another, and whenever I do I want to say "Oh heart of mine, we shouldn't worry so." For to me there is something in the rhythm and suggestion of that sentence that smooths out frowns.

You see I have reason to know, for sometimes I don't see the frown I feel it. I'm trying to type something just right; I'm fussing over a sauce that won't thicken; I'm searching for a word that eludes me; I'm in a hurry and the car doesn't move fast enough; and all at once I feel those wrinkles on my brow and that tight sensation in my brain. And then I say to myself, "Oh heart of mine, we shouldn't worry so," and gradually the wrinkles smooth out and the tightness relaxes. Do you ever feel that frown as well as see it? Next time try my specific.

GOOD SHOOTING.

What Makes British Marksmen The Best in the War.

War is a sport, and to fit ourselves to take part in it we must train ourselves as sportsmen. A quick eye, a clear brain, and hands to act at once are essential for a modern soldier to an extent undreamt of in the days before the South African war. Correct action must be instinctive and habitual, and as a sportsman can never pick up a shot-gun without instinctively looking around for an object and by habit at once aligning his gun upon it, so must a soldier be trained never to take up his rifle without selecting a target, no matter what, and never to bring it to his shoulder without endeavoring to align it on the target he has chosen. Then in this manner the habit will become so strong in the course of a few weeks' constant training that under all circumstances his hand and eye will work together and automatically; whenever he fires, the rifle will be aiming in the direction of the target and when the brain is numbed and no longer consciously working, there can be no doubt that the good shooting of the British troops is largely due to the fact that correct handling of the rifle, as a shooting weapon, has become second nature to them, and that, given a target, the rifle will at all times be aimed in its direction and will be fired in a correct position.

A good big-game shot and a good military shot are one and the same in so far as quickness of hand, eye, brain and ear are concerned, and all that is needed for the former to equal the latter for military purposes is for him to learn to shoot collectively under the orders of a commander and never to question the order he receives. Another most important factor in our good shooting is the fact that all elementary musketry training has been standardized so clearly and shortly that officers and men know perfectly well what to insist on and what is expected. Many of these standards admit of the element of competition to enter into them, and consequently the old time drudgery of drill is almost entirely lacking from modern musketry methods.

- To quote a few of these standards:
1. Ability to adjust the back sight to any distance ordered in 3 seconds; territorial force 5 seconds.
 2. Ability to fire an accurately aimed snap shot in 4 seconds.
 3. Ability to load and fire ten well-aimed shots in 1 minute.
 4. Ability to load and unload, without firing, thirty cartridges in 1 minute. This should be carried out in the prone position, and cartridges should be in the pouches.
 5. Ability on 25 yards miniature range to place five shots in a circle 1 inch in diameter—marksman; 2 inches diameter—first-class shot; 3 inches diameter—second-class shot.
 6. Similar to above, but with service rifle at 100 yards, 4 inches diameter—marksman; 8 inches diameter, first-class shot; 12 inches diameter equals second-class shot.
 7. Ability to recognize within 30 seconds any object in the landscape, if clearly described, and to judge its distance.
 8. Ability to so clearly describe any object in the landscape that 80 per cent. of a squad will recognize it. (For leaders only.)

In addition to those quoted above, a man must be able to see and report quickly on any targets, etc., on certain areas of ground. He must also be able to take up a position on any ground or behind any cover so as to obtain the maximum of fire effect and the minimum of exposure. A soldier's watch-word should be, "Watch your front and keep your magazine charged," and all men should be taught to look upon every target as a potential enemy. It is then, by constant insistence on correct positions, quick action, and correct use of ground, that our men have been trained to handle their rifles like sportsmen and to recognize quickly the best target and the best way of engaging it.

Tramp Steamer

AGAIN PUTS BACK TO PORT—ACID CARGO THE TROUBLE.

The tramp steamer Desola, which left here the previous night for New York, returned to this port again early yesterday afternoon, owing to more trouble with her acid cargo. It is not yet known exactly what will be done with the ship until instructions are received from the owners, to whom Mr. Tasker Cook, the agent, has wired. The Desola is nearly forty years old and is making local marine history. A little more than six weeks ago she left New York for Antrossan, Scotland, with a cargo of sulphate ammonia and sulphuric acid. As a result of being storm-swept crossing the Atlantic the cargo, though in iron bound packages, broke adrift and the ship put into this port to have matters remedied. Most of the dangerous cargo was landed at Bowring's South-side premises and re-stowed on board again, though a couple of hundred packages were too badly damaged to be put on board. After leaving here for New York, having been ordered to cancel her former destination, the ship reached as far as Cape Pine when it was discovered that the acid was seeping from the packages, and the fumes reaching the stoke-hold, and in consequence the firemen were unable to work there. The captain decided not to continue the voyage and headed his ship for St. John's. It was said that the ship was on fire at sea, but such is not the case.

Enormous roses are promised for decoration of some of the new toque-like hats.

Taft Refused to Write Letter to Suit German.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 9.—William Howard Taft made public to-day a letter he wrote on January 26 to Professor Edmund Von Mach, of Harvard University, in which the former President of the United States opposes the enactment of a law forbidding the supply of munitions of war from this country to the belligerent nations. The letter was in answer to a request from Professor Von Mach, asking Mr. Taft to write a letter to be read at a "neutrality meeting," favoring passage of the bill introduced by Senator Hitchcock providing for such interdiction. The letter, which was not read at the meeting, Mr. Taft says, follows: "My dear Professor Von Mach: "I have yours of Jan. 24th. I cannot write to a neutrality meeting such a letter as you would wish. I think that to interdict the supply of ammunition and arms from this country to the belligerents in the war would be to adopt a policy that would seriously interfere with our own welfare, should we ever be drawn into a war, against our will, by the unjust invasion of some power who was fully prepared, and who would always find us unprepared. "Such a policy as that you indicate would mean that the power who is armed cap-a-pie would always have at a disadvantage those countries that were not in such a state of preparation. It would, therefore, lead to even greater pressure upon all the countries of the world than that we have seen in the last two decades to increase their armaments, a result which we would all deplore. For this reason I cannot think that it would be wise to pass a law changing all the rules of international law heretofore prevailing with respect to the sale of ammunition and arms to belligerents in neutral countries. Nor do I think that in the present exigency it would be an act of neutrality to do so, because it would inure only to the benefit of one of the belligerents. Sincerely yours, William H. Taft."

Household Notes

To make gelatine pudding more nourishing, mix with milk instead of water, but be careful not to have the milk too hot or it will curdle.

A file bit of emery board, such as comes for manicuring, makes a good substitute for an eraser when you make an inkspot on paper.

If boiled frosting has been cooked too long, it may be rendered smooth again by adding a piece of butter the size of a walnut, before beating it.

If you have to pack bottles in a trunk, tie in the corks and wrap them in soft towels, garments, etc., and place in the middle of the trunk.

Discolored copper articles can be made to look like new. Rub them with lemon dipped in salt. Rinse in clear, hot water and rub with a soft cloth.

A large safety pin put inside of your shopping bag will be found a great convenience to hang things on, from the house keys to railroad tickets.

spoiled in the laundry can be renovated by giving them a bath in olive oil and then rubbing with flannel.

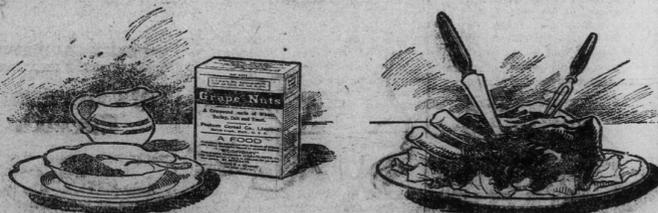

Always cut out the scallops of a piece of embroidery before washing. The edge will never have to be trimmed but once after the first washings.

Apples pared, cored and set into a dish with sugar and water to bake until tender, but not broken, are delicious served with custard poured over them.

When one buys a child's dress, otherwise good but with poor machine scallops on it, one can regard the scallops as padding and work over them with excellent effect.

Make a batter with 6 ounces of flour, 1 egg, and 3/4 pint of milk, or milk and water. Pour over the meat and bake for one hour. For serving cut in squares and pile on a hot dish.

To make a cement which will be found handy in the kitchen, add a teaspoonful of glycerine to a gill of glue. This is particularly good for fastening paper, leather or wood to metal.

More Nourishment Weight for Weight

—in a package of Grape-Nuts than in a roast of beef.

Grape-Nuts is meat—the meat of wheat and barley—a rich, sweet, appetizing food, ready to eat direct from the package with cream or milk.

All the bone-making, blood-making, muscle-making values of choicest wheat combined with malted barley are afforded in this famous pure food.

Grape-Nuts being partially pre-digested by long baking, gives quickly a wonderful power to "do," in return for the small energy required to digest it. Better and more complete nourishment than Grape-Nuts and cream is difficult to find; and with the price of meat way up there's true economy, too.

This sturdy food is sold by Grocers everywhere, in wax-sealed packages. Thousands make it a part of their daily breakfast.

THE NAVAL SITUATION.

LONDON, Feb. 15. Winston Churchill gave an interesting review of the naval situation, in introducing the estimates. He said efficiency was the keynote of the Admiralty's programme, and at the outbreak of the war the supplies of men, ammunition and oil were complete. Every ship in the Navy, which was fit for service, as well as new ships which were built for foreign governments and armed merchantmen, had been fully manned; in fact the German army was no more fit for an attempted war on a gigantic scale, than was the British fleet for the national defence. After six months of war, with new dangers and difficulties coming into view, we have every right to be content with the results of our labors in making provision for the Navy.

Referring to the naval battles off the Falkland Islands and in the North Sea, he said one or two small cruers and two armed merchantmen remain of all the German preparations to attack our trade routes, and these are in hiding. During six months of the war, the total losses at sea, including all ships, except travelers, amounted to only sixty-three. It was necessary to be on the lookout for another German attempt to harass British trade routes. All the ocean is a blank as to German cruisers, he said, and we should be able to meet any new attempt with resources incomparably superior to what we had at the beginning of the war.

COPPER WORKS CAPTURED BY RUSSIANS.

LONDON, Feb. 15. A despatch to the Times from Petrograd, says that the Bourse Gazette Tiffis correspondent declares that the capture by the Russians of Borcha village beyond the River Sherokh, in Asia Minor, which the enemy had converted into an almost impregnable fortress, opens the road to the Zanzil copper smelting works, which the Turks seized at the beginning of the war, and were holding for German engineers and workmen to take possession of. It is a valuable property upon which the Germans had cast longing eyes before the war.

THE AMERICAN NOTES AND THE 'TIMES'

LONDON, Feb. 15. Commenting on the American notes regarding shipping, sent to the Governments at Berlin and London, the Times says the tone of both is most courteous and friendly. Not the most captious of German critics can detect the slightest want of consideration or good breeding in the remarks addressed to Berlin, but if the protest against German threats is measured and amicable, it is also very explicit, very grave and very firm. In regard to the note to England, we shall certainly do all that is judged, consistent with our military safety, to meet American wishes and assuage their uneasiness for American ships and lives. We would point out, however, that the danger which Washington apprehends from British use of the American flag could only arise from neglect of German warships to observe the elementary rules that visit and search must precede an attack, except where an effective blockade is enforced. The Times declines to believe that the Germans will be able to interfere with British shipping to any very serious extent, and is confident that the German blockade will prove futile even if the measures which the British Admiralty have in hand, do not immediately and finally bring it to an immediate and humiliating end.

ANTIVARI BOMBARDED.

CETTINJE, Montenegro, Feb. 15. The Austrian fleet on Sunday morning, sortied from the Gulf of Cattaro, and commenced bombardment of the port of Antivari in Montenegro. Members of the royal family of Montenegro were subjected, yesterday, in their residence at Tieke, to a machine gun fire from two Austrian aeroplanes. King Nicholas, the Queen and Princess watched the aerial raiders from the Palace windows. Several bullets fired from aeroplanes fell near them.

LINE'S NARROW ESCAPE.

BOSTON, Feb. 15. Hemmed in by field drift ice close to the spot where the Titanic went down, the officers of the Bucknall liner Kasonga prepared, last Tuesday, to abandon the vessel and lowered provisions and lifeboats over her side. Until Wednesday morning the Kasonga, with a million dollar cargo of merchandise from the Orient, slowly made her way through heavy ice which threatened constantly to penetrate her steel sides. Toward noon she succeeded in gaining open water.

THE PREMIER AT NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15. Rt. Hon. Sir E. P. Morris, Premier of Newfoundland, announced here today that he would confer with representatives of the State Department with a view to settling amicably the disputes arising out of the fisheries award at the Hague in 1910. He said the expected claims, which aggregate about $100,000, may be so handled between the governments that no recourse to courts or arbitration will be necessary. Explaining his mission, he said that about fifty fishing firms of Gloucester have filed claims as a result of the Hague fisheries award.

WILL ACT THE GHOUL.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15. Germany's intention of sowing mines in waters around British Isles as part of her submarine warfare against belligerent merchant ships, was announced in a note delivered to the State Department today by Count Von Bernstoff.

WHY RUSSIANS RETREATED.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 15. Forced retirement of the Russian army from East Prussia is expected to result in reversion by Russians to their original plan of conducting a defensive campaign on their own territory. It is pointed out here that this should result in advantage to the Russians in that Germany will be deprived of transportation facilities which she was able to use with great effectiveness during the fighting within her own borders.

Headachy, Costive, Bilious, "Cascarets."

Sick Headache, Bad Breath, Sour Stomach, mean Liver and Bowels are clogged—Cheer up!

Get a 10-cent box. Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver; delayed fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months.

A GAMBLE FOR MILLIONS.

The present war has been a huge gamble on the part of its financial originators to secure money easily; the loss of Europe was the prize. Innumerable millions were the stake played for. Germany has been the burglar breaking into the safe of Europe—the safe in which was the gold gained by the sacrifice of Europe's labour. When the reckoning comes it is to be hoped that not merely the Kaiser and his war party will be the only sufferers. Amongst the most severely handled should be the financial gang that provided them with the means of war, and who used the legions of Germany merely as the tools that were to gain them a thousand per cent profit on the cash they advanced, and without which the Kaiser and his legions would have been as lifeless as the puppets in a Punch and Judy show without the man who pulled the strings.—Canada's Magazine.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The Industrial Society distributed some 2,000 lbs. of twine, to be knit up, on Saturday. So great was the demand for this work that the distribution commenced at 8 o'clock, and by 10 it was all gone, a large number of people being unable to secure the allotted amount of 20 lbs. to be knitted.

Mrs. D. Baird of St. John's is in town on a visit to her mother, Mrs. Geo. Makinson.

The sad intelligence of the death of Rev. G. R. Godden was received here with great regret on Saturday forenoon. Mr. Godden was very highly thought of by all classes, and the bereaved family has the sympathy of the whole community.

A very fine thermometer owned by Mr. James Gorman of the telephone office had been placed by the office door on Water Street during the cold snap, and was watched by many people who appreciated Mr. Gorman's kindness in giving them the chance of seeing for themselves the extent of the frost. It was also watched, by some malicious person, for on Saturday night last it was left out as usual and on Sunday morning it was found out in the middle of the street, completely smashed up. It is a pity the police on night duty did not see the perpetrator of this mean, contemptible act and have him punished.

Mr. James Garland, of C. D. Garland & Son, coopers, met with an accident at his business place a couple of weeks ago by falling and dislocating his ankle. His friends are pleased to see him out again to-day, and hope soon to see him getting along as formerly without the aid of a stick.

The last dance for the season is to be held to-night at the C. C. C. Armoury.

In the last two decades to their armaments, a result which all deplore. For this reason I think that it would be wise to change all the rules of international law heretofore predicated upon the sale of arms and arms to belligerents by countries. Nor do I think the present exigency it would be of neutrality to do so, because it would inure only to the benefit of the belligerents.

Deer Lake and Humber River.

CHAPTER III.

Amongst the more important centres of industry which the train passes, in the vicinity of which we have written, such places as Bishop's Falls, Grand Falls, Millertown Junction, the Topsalls and Grand Lake are prominent. These places are somewhat in the distance from the line but their commercial value to Newfoundland is very important, and in the course of years their benefits to the country will be even greater than at the present time.

The Exploits Valley had its prophet in the person of the late Rev. Dr. Harvey; and Grand Falls and the interior of this country generally, has its prophet in the person of the Rev. John Reay, now of Whitbourne, who nearly fifty years ago made such a forecast of the interior developments in Newfoundland, as seemed Utopian in the extreme; but which was literally fulfilled some few years ago, when, at Grand Falls, the great celebration was held in connection with the Harmsworth works of that place.

These gentlemen which I have quoted possessed a wide vision, and we only wish that we had more men at the present day who possess some of the same optimism, and who would open their eyes and behold their heritage which God has given them, and which their fathers colonized in the days of Britain's early expansion. We have not vision enough of our country. Some of our views of Newfoundland are as narrow as the four walls of the House of Assembly, and as cramped as the smallest soul of the smallest partisan of our different political parties, and it seems that our ideas of Newfoundland are limited by our party politics. There is surely a bigger public life before us than that which we have at the present time, but if we are to create this bigger view we must learn to lift our eyes beyond the horizon of local politics which have so long bound us, and when we have done this we shall begin to see in what a limited circle some of our public men have lived.

The entire territory of Exploits Valley, Grand Lake and Deer Lake presents scope for much careful thought and impartial discussion, but it is to Deer Lake we devote this chapter. Exploits and Grand Falls have had their prophets with visions as Tennyson says: "Dipt into the future"; but Deer Lake had its pioneer,

NO JOINT LOAN.

LONDON, To-Day. In a statement explanatory of the arrangement at a recent conference between the Finance Ministers of France, Russia and himself at Paris, Lloyd George told the Commons this afternoon that the expenditures of the Allies in the war would be two billion pounds sterling ($10,000,000,000) during the current year, of which Britain was expending more money than were her two Allies. The present war, Lloyd George said, was the most expensive in material, men and money that had ever been waged. Britain, the Chancellor told the Commons, could finance the war for five years out of the proceeds of her industries abroad. France was able to do so for about two or three years with something to spare. Russia, he said, although rich in natural resources was in a different position. Lloyd George said it was decided at the conference of Finance Ministers at Paris not to issue a joint loan. The Chancellor said Russia had increased her productivity from 30 to 40 per cent. by suppressing the sale of vodka. Russia had had special difficulties in financing her purchases abroad, and the same thing applied to France. Each Ally must bring its resources into the common stock. Lloyd George continued: War cannot be made under a limited liability principle. The conference dismissed the idea of a joint international loan which would have frightened every bourse. It has been decided each country should raise the money it needed within its own territories so far as conditions allowed, but if help were needed for purchases abroad, those who had the means could help the best in their power. The only joint loan would be with respect to advances made or to be made to smaller allied States. With regard to Russian purchases, the Chancellor said, it had been decided that at first £50,000,000 for this purpose should be raised in equal amounts on the Paris and London markets.

THE ADMIRALTY GETTING READY FOR THE GERMAN MOVE.

LONDON, To-Day. Referring to Vice-Admiral Jellicoe's command of the sea, with his fleet as silent and unsleeping and as yet unchallenged, Churchill said the Admiralty had moved men and from abroad, including Belgian and French troops and wounded to the number of 1,000,000 without accident or loss of life. Mr. Churchill said the recent cruiser action in the North Sea, although incomplete, was of great importance, because of the light which it had thrown upon questions concerning armament, design and relative gunnery, which was both important and encouraging. Referring to the steaming qualities shown by the British cruisers, Churchill said the navy was as sound as a bell all through. The engagement showed there was no reason to assume, ship for ship, man for man, gun for gun, Britain would not give a very good account of herself. The Germans in the cruiser action thought only of flight while we thought only of battle. They were wise in their thought, otherwise they would have been destroyed. No falsehood about the action could obscure that cruel fact. When, if ever, the grand fleets draw out for battle, we shall hope to have a fleet superior in both quality and numbers. The task lying before us is both anxious and grave. We are now to be the object of a warfare never before practised by a civilized power. So far we have not attempted to stop the importation of food. We have not prevented neutrals ships from trading directly with German ports. We have allowed German exports to neutral ships to pass unchallenged, but the time is near when the enjoyment of these immunities by a State which as a matter of deliberate policy placed herself outside international obligations, must be reconsidered. A further declaration on the part of the Allied Governments will be made, which will have the effect of applying for the first time the full force of naval pressure on the enemy. It must not be supposed because of this attack an extraordinary good reply cannot be made. Losses no doubt will be incurred, but I believe no vital injury can be done. If merchant shippers act in the spirit of the captain of the Laertes and observe certain precautions the losses will be confined within manageable limits. Even at the outset, when the enemy naturally will make his maximum efforts, our reply will perhaps not be ineffective.

GERMAN BOAT MINED.

LONDON, To-day. A despatch from Antwerp says a report has been received there from Emden to the effect that at the end of last week the German special service boat, the duty of which was to precede torpedo boats in the mine fields struck three mines near Borkum Island off the coast of Hanover, and was blown up.

Wonderful Bilious Remedy

Actually Prevents Attacks

There are two great causes of biliousness—they are constipation and defective liver action.

When Dr. Hamilton's Pills are taken, they are not only correct constipated bowels, but act upon the liver as well.

Quite unlike ordinary medicines which purge and give temporary relief, Dr. Hamilton's Pills remove the conditions which cause biliousness, and thus permanent cures are effected. No person who occasionally uses Dr. Hamilton's Pills will ever suffer from the headache, bad stomach or bilious complaint. Get a 25c. box today.

Scotch Concert.

The Scotch concert held under the auspices of the Ladies' Committee of St. Andrew's at the Presbyterian Hall last night was largely attended and proved highly successful. The affair was under the patronage of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson, who attended, accompanied by Capt. Goodridge, A.D.C. Mr. J. C. Hepburn acted as chairman and after a brief address announced the programme, which was as follows:—"Charlie is ma darlin'" Miss J. Strang; "Bonnie Sweet Bessie," Mr. McIntosh; "Ye Banks and Braes," Miss Trappell; Quartet, "Row weel my boatie," Mixed Voice; Recitation, Miss Fennell; Trio; "Brewed a Peck O'Aunt," Male Voice; "We a hundred pipers," Mrs. Sheriff; Recitation, "Jessie's Dream," Mr. T. H. O'Neill; "Callie Herrin," Miss Herder; "O Wert thou in the Cauld Blast," Miss Anderson and Mr. King; "Mary," Mr. Seymour; "Mary of Argyle," Miss J. Anderson; Quartet, "Annie Laurie," Male Voices; "Angus MacDonald," Miss Strang; "A Wee deoch an' Doris," Mr. Young. The concert was under the direction of Mr. F. J. King, who acted as accompanist during the evening. The several items of the programme were admirably rendered, all of the performers having to respond to encores. To Mr. King, the director, Mrs. McKee and the other ladies of the committee who ably assisted in promoting the affair, and to the performers, much congratulation is due. The programme closed with the singing of Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem.

All First Class Druggists Sell Salvia Hair Tonic

SALVIA destroys dandruff in ten days. The roots of the hair are so nourished and fed that a new crop of hair springs up, to the amazement and delight of the user. The hair is made soft and fluffy. Like all American preparations SALVIA is daintily perfumed. It is hard to find an actress who does not use SALVIA continually.

Volunteers Granted Holiday.

The Recruiting Office at the C. L. B. Armoury was not open yesterday for enlistment. Owing to the day being observed as a public and Bank holiday commercially, the Volunteers of No. 2 Company of the 2nd Contingent were not deprived of the privilege of a holiday either, and after going through platoon drill were dismissed and given leave for the remainder of the day, though a squad were at musketry practice in the afternoon at the Southside Range.

HAIR COMING OUT?

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After a few applications the hair stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff.

How the Holiday Was Spent.

Yesterday's general holiday was well spent and thoroughly enjoyed by those who took advantage of it, especially as the weather was so clear and fine. In fact it was the finest mid-winter day we have had for the past decade or more. Though the rinks and theatres were well attended in the afternoon and night, crowds of folks visited such popular resorts as Quidi Vidi Lake, Burton's Pond and Mundy's Pond and passed the evening skating and playing hockey. Many persons who are ardent disciples of Isaac Walton spent the day on suburban lakes and ponds and some fine catches of speckled beauties were brought to the city last evening.

WILL MAKE ONE MORE TRIP.

The s.s. Adventure is due here tomorrow night from Louisburg with a car-week, was jammed in the ice off trip in the coal trade before preparing for the sealfishery.

BECAME JAMMED—The s.s. Coban, which left here for North Sydney last week, was jammed in the ice off Table Head, Cape Breton, for two days, but has since reached port safely.

OCEAN RACE—The schr. Waterwitch, fish laden by James Baird, Ltd., sailed yesterday for Pernambuco. The barg. Attila, taking a cargo of fish shipped by Baine Johnston & Co., also left for Pernambuco yesterday. Both vessels are fast sailers and it will be interesting to know which vessel will cross the "herring pond" first.

Here is a New Game for the Children, AMUSING AND INSTRUCTING.

The Fox Educational Board for good boys and girls. Educate your children while they play.
The Sentence and Wordbuilder consists of 48 letters and pictures from which the groups of words and sentences may be built, separate, and re-built, while the child plays until his interest in spelling and in writing, as well as in the meaning of words, is forever rightly fixed.

Introduce the Letters and easy Words slowly. As soon as the child gets acquainted with a few letters and words, and the process of Word Building, he will be able to build his own thoughts into words and sentences.
The board is in the form of a circle, is strongly made, of a bright color and is nicely decorated. A most attractive looking game and one that will stand a lot of hard wear.
The price is $1.75 each, and there are only ten in stock.
