MARKET REPORTS

indicate that there is no surplus of Anthracite Coal in the U.S. The shortage caused by the strike of Anthracite Miners last year has not been made up, and American hard coal will, in all probability, be hard to get and high priced. Coke is an excellent substitute for hard coal, and we have on hand a stock of same that will soon be disposed of, because a shortage of hard coal invariably creates an increased demand for our product.
We advise our customers to book their requirements as soon as possible.

An Indispensible Favorite

OR

Wealth and Beauty at Stake!

CHAPTER XI

Late in the evening Captain Glynn and Yolande find themselves alone in the small drawing-room, which, as it is a bitterly cold, stormy night, has the heavy terra-cotta plush portieres dropped between it and the larger room. Just now, in the warm light of the lamp with its big amber-glass shade and the ruddy glow of the fire, it looks a nest of luxury and comfort.

Captain Glynn is standing by the fireplace, resting his elbow on the lower shelf of the overmantel and closely watching Yolande.

"To make conversation"—for there are sudden lapses which are becoming dreadfully embarrassing—Yolande takes up a little white porcelain figure—a peasant maiden with a basket on her arm in which are delicate ferns—shows it to Captain Glynn, and asks him if he admires it.

"For answer" he puts his two strong hands upon her shoulders and draws her toward him, and stoops down until his heavy mustache touches her cheek.

"Yes, I admire it very much," he replied, smilingly. "I should like to have it. Will you give it to me?"

"With pleasure," Yolande answers, with tremulous gladness of heart and not swift blushes.

"And I want something else," Captain Glynn whispers.

"What?" Yolande whispers back again.

"You?" he says, smiling. "Will you be my wife, Yolande?"

No answer comes from frightened, happy Yolande, who can only tremulously cling to Captain Glynn's arm with both hands.

"Silence gives consent, I suppose, after the immemorial fashion!" he says, with a slight laugh; and he presses his lips to her cheek. And then, after a little pause, in a rather formal manner and deliberate tone, he continues, "I will be a good husband to you, Yolande. You are an amiable girl, and I know you will be affectionate, faithful wife—you could not be anything else—and I will be a good, faithful husband to you—as Heaven hears me, I will!"

In the dead hour of the night she recalls that he did not once say he loved her—did not once ask if she loved him.

And thenceforward the dream is a troublous whirl of people and things—shops, dressmakers, lawyers, worry—the people not so pleasant as they might be—for old Miss Dornier is always ailing and fidgety and a little cross—indeed, she is overbearingly tyrannical and imperious at times, which has to be endured for the sake of the valuable services which, with her cleverness and tact, she impresses upon her employers she alone can render.

And then there is a dream of a chill, gusty, lowering morning, with the wild wind swaying the leafless trees in Rutland Gardens. There is a dreadful sense of unreality, of a dream which oppresses her spirit and a faint, wild longing, sometimes flying away, sometimes rising into a frenzy, to awake a bewildering series of visions and scenes in which she seems to take part with no will of her own.

There is one scene in which she is dressed in stiff white, rustling robes, strangely purchased splendid-looking, such as she has never before worn—a vision of going in a carriage to church with the heavy fragrance of a great bouquet of lilies and white hyacinths almost making her swoon, while her heart beats heavily against her tight-laced satin bodice.

And there, in her dream, she is walking slowly up a long aisle, and seeing as in a kaleidoscope, a series of faces and rich dresses, but noticing nobody except her Aunt Sarjent, who is prominent in the foreground in emerald velvet and sables, until she sees Captain Glynn's face as he stands before the altar waiting for her, gazing at her with calm, critical eyes, without a trace of emotion or embarrassment.

This is the dream that the girl in the white silk robe and the bridal veil has been dreaming; and now she awakes, in her own room in No. 9 Rutland Gardens, to know that the dream is all real, and that her wooing and her wedding, her six weeks' engagement and her bridal morning, are all deeds of the past—done, and never to be undone—and she who was Yolande Dornier, an unwedded girl three hours ago, is Yolande Glynn, a wedded bride, now.

Her maid has gone to fetch her some tea before she begins to change her costume, and Yolande has gladly locked the door against her bridesmaids, relatives, and every one for a few minutes' rest, and to give her time to think.

But now, as she rouses herself and looks at the clock, Yolande sees with dismay that she must hurry to be ready in time, and wishes earnestly she could see Captain Glynn and tell him that she had decided on his suggestion that they should go to Dover by a later train and cross over by the day service the next morning to Paris.

It is not by any means on a regular reappearing of a bride in her wedding dress after the breakfast—mademoiselle is sure to tell her of it again; but Yolande feels, in her present excited, overwrought state, as if she would rather like to defy her and her opinions; and, without giving herself time to hesitate, she opens her door, and glides softly down the thickly carpeted stairs to the door of the small drawing-room where she has last seen Captain Glynn—she does not yet dare to say to herself "my husband."

She folds her white, shimmering white robes about her, and pauses irresolute in the deep narrow entry; for the door, though closed, is not shut, and, though Captain Glynn is there, he is not alone, for he is speaking in a low voice.

Why should she not open the door and go in and speak to him? She has the right. But the sudden impulse to see him and speak to him is the impulse of the fond young heart of his shy girl bride, which is yearning for a few soft, low-spoken words, a reassuring touch of his kind hand, a tender glance from his eyes. And now he is not alone, and—worse still—mademoiselle is there, too; and she is laughing—a mocking little laugh, though she speaks in a tone of condolence.

"It is hard on you!" she exclaims. "Couldn't Lord Danvers have broken his neck in the hunting field a little sooner than yesterday, or not broken it at all? He had signed the settlement a week ago, my friends tell me; so Miss Joyce Murray has a nice little fortune now—fifteen thousand. Only half what your bride has, of course; but a half a loaf with the girl you love is better than a whole loaf with

The Horror of the Horn.

(Toronto Saturday Night)

As time passes the motorist does not undear himself to a long-suffering public. No one contributes more to the demoralization of the nerves and consequent break down of the health of citizens of a great city. At least it is so in Toronto. There are, we know, well governed cities where the motorist is made by law to be seen, but not heard except in cases of emergency. It is not so with us. When the motorist is not speaking to his own and others' danger, invading the very sidewalks and knocking people down, or killing children, he bellows with his horn and fills the city streets with terror and distraction. At the moment of writing, there is a hold up in the street below of the east and west bound traffic—a perfectly proper stoppage, for it is made by the traffic "cop" to allow the north and south bound vehicles to pass. But what do these autocrats of the motor, who don't like being held back, do? Quite disregarding the ears and nerves of all the people in the offices on the street, they make pandemonium with their horns. One begins the howling and the others—with their queer sense of humor—follow suit, till one would think that all the bulls of Bashan had been let loose in the street. The noise is maddening, nerve shattering to those still at work, but it goes on, and none of the impatient autocrats of the hold-up cars has the slightest compunction. They want to pass in spite of the law embodied in the police officer, and they protest noisily and behave like savages. They roar and bellow and hoot with their horns till the neighbourhood rings like Babel. Perhaps you think that these rowdy motorists are of a class proclaimed by their behavior? Not at all. I look carefully at the cars and they are all well-kept, expensive affairs that would seem to belong to civilized human beings—for we most erroneously think that prosperity and worldly possession go with manners and decency. No—all these cars would seem to indicate ownership by the better class of citizens. But their behavior argues against this. They sit in their cars and make the afternoon hideous with the "impious uproar."

Now what would happen if pedestrians were to take to shouting, booning, bellowing, roaring and shrieking on the public streets when they have to stand still and allow the vehicular traffic to pass, or for some other cogent reason? They would be arrested very promptly for disorderly behavior and for contempt of the law. Why then, does the roaring, barking, howling motorist go free? Surely there is no difference in the effect created! And is it not time that motorists who are guilty of such unseemly behavior on the street should be treated the same as the disorderly pedestrian? He should be arrested promptly and smartly fined for any such breach of the quiet of the city. Those in down town offices who are engaged upon work that calls for concentrated attention and great accuracy toward the end of the long day's strain are in no condition nervously to be made the victims of unnecessary street noises, and it is an offense and an outrage that they should be subjected to it. The self-control and irresponsible drivers of cars who are bitten with the speed and hurry germ, think of none but themselves, and are every much astonished and even pained to learn that instead of being decent citizens they are menaces to the health and safety of the city.

A Smart Salesman.

At the Lyceum the other day, Mr. Bransby Williams told me a good story.

A pedlar was selling almanacs at a shilling each, and although the innkeeper he pestered didn't really want one yet he paid a shilling to get rid of the pedlar.

Exiting the almanac in his pocket, the landlord visited the inn for a brief period, after calling his wife downstairs to look after the bar, while he was away. The pedlar stayed on to finish the glass of beer he had ordered, and succeeded in persuading the woman to buy an almanac, she being ignorant of the fact that her husband had one already.

The husband shortly returned, and discovering the trick, sent his potman to the railway station after the pedlar, with a message that he wished to see him on business.

"Oh, yes," said the pedlar, "I know. He wants one of my almanacs, but I can't really miss my train for that. You can give me a shilling and take the almanac to him!"

Pineapple fritters served with cream sauce are nice with roast duck. Hamburg steak will be especially welcome when served with tomato sauce.

What Do You Think of a Fluid

That will draw roaches and ants out of every hole, crack, or crevice before killing them and not poison food?

That will kill bugs instantly and not leave an unpleasant odor?

That will knock flies off the wall and not harm paint or paper?

That will keep the bedroom, kitchen, or verandah clear of flies, mosquitoes, etc., for several hours after a few sprays?

That will take fleas off a dog and not harm the dog?

That will destroy chicken lice without any injury to your stock?

That applied in small quantities to the exposed parts of the body will insure you from Mosquito bites?

That as a general disinfectant is stronger than the ordinary carbolic solution.

THAT FLUID IS

SAN-O-SPRAY.

Possible Solution of Reparations Difficulty more Hopeful.

Sydney Miners Return to Work--Russia will Dispute Ownership of Wrangel Island--Firpo and Dempsey will Meet on September 14th.

FRANCE AND BELGIUM AGREE WITH BRITAIN ON LEADING POINTS.

PARIS, July 29. The text of the Belgian reply to the British communication, dealing with reparations was received at Quai d'Orsay this morning, and the French and Belgian replies will be delivered to the British Foreign Office to-morrow. Secrecy, on which has been insisted, has not prevented the Paris and Brussels newspapers of serious repute from assuring their readers that the French and Belgian replies, will be found to be in agreement in the principle or leading points, that there will be no negotiations with Germany until the evacuation of the Ruhr will be subordinate to sufficient payment by Germany, and settlement of differences regarding the method of payment of Reparations which already has been proposed by Belgium to the Allies.

TROOPS LEAVING SYDNEY; ALL MINERS AT WORK.

SYDNEY, July 29. Although the local authorities profess ignorance of any general order for the military evacuation of the Island, several hundreds of troops have started for the mainland in special trains during the past twenty-four hours. The coal strike is at an end and the mills will be working within a day or two, and practically all the miners are back on their old jobs. Numerous complaints of discrimination against those who were active in the strike are heard from different points, and these are being investigated as rapidly as possible by the United Mine Workers Provisional Executive. In seventy-six cases the men were taken back to work on the recommendation of Provisional President Barrett. The steel strike is dragging on, although the Company intimates that it now has practically all the men it requires for the operation of its plant. John MacLeod, known locally as Jack Popper to distinguish him from the other Johns of the same clan, was arrested at Glace Bay Saturday on a charge of seditious utterances. The exact terms of the charge were not stated.

FRES. HARDING'S PHYSICIANS ORDER HIM COMPLETE REST.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29. Improved from an attack of ptomaine poisoning from which he suffered during the last two days, Pres. Harding arrived in San Francisco today, needing, according to his physicians, indefinite rest to restore him to his normal health.

A FATAL STABLE FIRE.

BOSTON, July 29. Two stablemen and eighty-two horses were killed in a fire which swept through Landers' Broadway Stables, in the south end of Boston late Saturday. The damage is placed at seventy thousand dollars.

LONDON DOCK STRIKE STILL IN PROGRESS.

LONDON, July 27. The strike of dock workers in London continues, but the men at Hull, by a decisive vote, decided to resume work to-morrow.

NOT A MARRYING KIND OF MAN.

LOS ANGELES, July 29. The engagement of Pola Negri, Polish Movie Star, to Charles Spencer Chaplain, is indefinitely off, after being once before off, then on again. Miss Negri still says hello to Chaplain, but says she realized five weeks ago a match with him was an impossibility, according to a published interview. "He is too temperamental, changing as the winds; he experiments in love, and he has no quality for matrimony," Miss Negri is quoted as saying.

ONLY A HOAX.

BERLIN, July 29. The anti-Fascist day with which the German Communists had threatened to overthrow the Cuno Government, and incidentally to wipe out Bourgeoisie, revealed itself as a Bolshevik hoax of the familiar type, notwithstanding the fact that it proved to be one of the chief elements of agitation in the perturbed economic and political situation, during the past week.

DEMPSEY WILL MEET FIRPO SEPT. 14TH.

NEW YORK, July 29. Jack Dempsey will meet Luis Angel Firpo of Argentine at the Polo Grounds, Friday, Sept. 14th, in the defence of the world's heavyweight title, promoter Tex Rickard, announced Saturday.

GILMORE WINS SCULLING CHAMPIONSHIP.

ST. CATHERINES, Ont., July 29. W. E. G. Gilmore, Bachelor Barge Club, Philadelphia, took Canadian single amateur sculling championship yesterday from Hilton Belyea of St. John.

WELL KNOWN ENGINEER DEAD.

HALIFAX, July 29. William A. Hendry, Chief Engineer of the Nova Scotia Provincial Highways and one of the best known engineers in the Maritime Provinces, died at his home in Bedford, a suburb of Halifax, this evening.

THE WRANGLER ISLAND EXPEDITION.

NOME, Alaska, July 29. The Siberian Government is outfitting a vessel at Vladivostok for a voyage to Wrangel Island for the avowed intention of capturing the British explorers, headed by Alan Crawford of Toronto, and taking possession of the island in the name of Russia, Captain E. Putta of the United States trading schooner Iakum declared to-day. Harold Noice, who is in charge of the Canadian Wrangel Island Relief Expedition, stated last night that all preparations are completed and the relief ship Donaldson will sail at once for Wrangel.

Return Engagement of Mr. A. Lawrence.

STAR MOVIE TO-DAY.

The popular Star Movie as will be seen from the advertisement to-day is announcing for to-night Mr. "Sandy" Lawrence, and to whom no extended reference is necessary, as this talented and able singer has already won a reputation for himself at this theatre. To-night he will appear in illustrated songs, and no doubt as in the past he will be greeted with a large audience. In the feature picture will be seen in a picture full of exciting climaxes, entitled, "A Temporary Vagabond." It is one of Britain's foremost films, and one abounding with thrills and interest from beginning to end, and one that is well worth seeing.

CHRISSE WHITE

U.S. and League of Nations.

Washington, July 27. (By Canadian Press) — Disposition of democratic candidates for the Presidency to back away from the League of Nations causing comment here. Senator Underwood, of Alabama, who is all but an avowed candidate for the democratic nomination, has issued a statement, following his recent return from Europe, in which he holds the world court cannot settle the most serious of Europe's present troubles. At the same time, while not attacking the League of Nations, he leaves no doubt of his view that the League at this time is not functioning in such a way as to reach to the gravest of the European difficulties. He takes a stand for a strong U. S.

foreign policy which would deal with each of Europe's serious problems as they arise, and not hold aloof. At the same time he is against political entanglements. Meantime, former Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo is dealing gently with the League issue. He is holding it at arm's length. Other democratic aspirants for the most part are doing the same thing. Former Governor Cox of Ohio is for the League but it is generally conceded he cannot be re-nominated for President. This attitude of democratic aspirants toward the League, in view of the fact that Mr. Wilson is still for it, may lead to some surprising results in the democratic convention next year. The friends of the League and the World Court will not calmly see anyone nominated who is cold toward league and court. Meantime, the republican national committee continues to hammer on the idea that the U. S. is well out of the league and to take flings at the idea of the United States joining the world court. It is regarded as doubtful here whether the Harding administration presses the world court question except in a perfunctory way the coming session.

Find Precious Stones.

Melbourne, July 25.—(A.P.)—A remarkable find of precious stones has been reported near Wyangala, about 25 miles from Gowra, New South Wales, and not far from the once-famous Mount McDonald gold and copper mines. The stones, which comprise diamonds, rubies, sapphires and turquoise, have been submitted to experts who declare them genuine. The diamonds were found in blue pug clay similar to the pug clay in which South African diamonds are embedded. The sapphires are of a brilliant hue, and the rubies a deep red. MINARD'S LIVERY FOR FALLING OUT OF HAIR.

SIDETALKS
By Ruth Cameron.

SHE ISN'T STINGY!

I have a friend who is considered peculiar by some of her relatives, because she does not indulge in the orgy of gift giving which has become the fashion within the last few years. Her relatives are inveterate gift givers. They remember each other's birthdays and wedding anniversaries, even to second cousins. They work for months getting their Christmas gifts ready. They exchange going away gifts and engagement gifts and graduation gifts and Easter gifts and St. Valentine day gifts, and I don't know how many other varieties.

My friend thinks this gift giving—(or, rather, exchanging)—clutters up their lives and homes altogether too much so she confines her own gift giving to a few birthday and Christmas gifts to those closest to her. Consequently, her relatives are apt to regard her as queer and perhaps stingy.

Her Ways of Giving.

She isn't stingy. Not one bit. She has her own ways of giving. And these are some of them:

She is a great reader and when she sees an article in a magazine or a newspaper that she knows a friend would be interested in, she says, "I must cut that out and send it to so and so." Just as you and I say it, but unlike you and I (I ask your pardon if I do you a wrong), she does cut it out and sends it.

She has a friend who writes articles on music and likes material for them. Again and again she has sent her items she has picked up.

Stamps For The Small Boy.

She has a nephew who is greatly interested in stamps. She never fails to cut out any interesting article about stamps for him, or to clip any foreign stamp of the letters that come to her from distant lands.

If she has a friend who has travelled in some foreign land and she sees an interesting article on that land, she clips it and sends it.

If anyone writes her a letter and asks for information of any sort, she is punctilious in answering to the best of her ability, and in answering promptly.

A Welcome Gift.

If she hears something said that she knows will cheer the person about whom it was said, she makes a point of passing it along.

In short, she is punctilious about all these little gifts of time and service that many who are generous with material gifts are careless about.

I like her kind of generosity. I think in an age that is already cluttered with materialism, we need more of it quite as much as we need the more common variety.

Splendid Trout and Salmon Fishing.

SPORTSMEN DOING WELL.

Mr. M. S. Sullivan, M.H.A., accompanied by his son Arthur, and Mr. Towers, of the Royal Bank of Canada, motored to Colinet on Saturday to spend the week end. They returned to the city this morning with a glowing account of their trip. They found salmon and trout very plentiful at Colinet Pond and other places known to anglers along the route. Some big catches are recorded daily.

Mr. Towers was particularly fortunate. Judge Kent and party are at Southeast Army, Dr. Bayden, Knight, Fox and Parsons are also at Fallford; Mr. Gerald Harvey, also at Colinet, is doing well; Mr. Thomas Smyth and Mr. Thorburn McNab arrived at Placentia to-day to spend a few days along the rivers. Messrs. P. F. Fearn and J. Barnes, who have just returned from these resorts, also report splendid fishing. It is a pity that some attention is not given some of the roads which should be made more passable. The road from Harcourt to Colinet, a distance of three miles, as well as that of Colinet to Placentia, need immediate attention and the traffic at this particular season of the year means much to the people of this part of the district; also the numerous sportsmen who spend their vacations in the places mentioned.

Big Regatta Night Dance C.C.C. Hall.

As will be seen in an advertisement elsewhere in this issue to-day, a big Regatta Dance will be held in the C.C.C. Hall Wednesday next, Regatta Night, August 1st. No doubt this Dance will be a big event and largely attended for two reasons, firstly: because the C.C.C. Hall is without doubt the BEST Dance Hall in the city; and secondly: the Prince's Full Orchestra, which is now considered without doubt the best Dance Orchestra in the city, will furnish the music and a programme to suit everybody. Lancers, Waltzes, One-Steps and Fox Trots, absolutely the very latest from New York. Therefore, if you wish to enjoy a good dance Regatta Night, the C.C.C. Hall is the place you will get value for your money. Should it be necessary to postpone the Regatta on Wednesday, the dance will not be postponed. It will go on Wednesday night, rain, shine or postponement, and also on Thursday, should the Regatta be held on Thursday—Adv.

One of Many.

Charming Miss Nancy Lovat, of Merry Widow fame, told me a story the other evening about a young City clerk who became engaged to a chorus girl.

She was a good girl, explained Miss Lovat, but inclined to be factitious. She saw no harm in an occasional kiss from another man.

The young man stood it for some time. Then, when friends began to tell him a little too frequently that other men kissed his girl, he decided to make an example of one of them.

Being his fountain pen, he wrote to one of the most persistent of admirers as follows:

"Sir—I hear you have been kissing Miss Blank! The lady, I presume, have you to know, is my wife. Come round to my place this office hours to-morrow night, to have this matter out."

Back came the answer: "I have received a copy of your circular letter, and will be present at the meeting."

Funny Jobs, These!

STRANGE WAYS OF EARNING A LIVING—RELATED BY OUR READERS.

In a recent competition on the Editorial page, readers were asked to tell of the most original and curious ways of making a living that have come under their notice. Here is a selection of the quaint jobs mentioned in the replies:

A man in the North makes a good living by fashioning hand-protectors from the uppers of old boots and selling them to metal-workers.

Another man lives on the tips he receives for acting as a human signal. Each morning he takes up a position near the railway signals. Then as each train is noticed he shouts a warning to those approaching the station: "Hurry up, gentlemen, for such-and-such a train!"

Near Glasgow, a man is employed in wheeling cycles up a steep hill for cyclists who are visiting a beauty-spot at the top.

The filler and lighter of pipes is another "quaint" man. In a large town in Scotland, new tram-lines are being put down. The workmen are allowed to smoke, but are working at such high pressure that they have no time to re-fill their pipes. This man is employed to do it for them!

A job peculiar to certain parts of Wales consists in the gathering of seaweed, which is afterwards boiled, made into a very palatable kind of cake, and sold at fairs.

A Scotsman is engaged in tearing and twisting by hand the fringes of tartan plaids which are worn in certain Highland regiments.

Miners, of course, are not allowed to take smoking materials with them into the pits. In one mining district, a man stands at the colliery gates, and relights cigarettes and a light at a penny a time. The miners readily pay this sum to get a smoke-quickly.

An unemployed commercial artist visits large houses, offering to repair damaged wallpaper. His method is to place a piece of white paper over the damaged portion, and then paint in the appropriate design.

them to local householders to make garden paths.

Rearing snails for human consumption gives employment to a few people in this country.

A Londoner makes a very good living by going round the hotels and collecting the corks from wine bottles. These he sorts out and returns to the wine merchants concerned, receiving as much as sixpence each for certain kinds.

All over the country, men find employment in painting other people's knockers and letter-boxes. Other casual callers ask if the wireless set is working all right—if it isn't, they will put it right for a small fee.

The seller of "carbolic" has given us a new catchword, but the occupation is not so uncommon as it was a year or two ago. A street trader who still has very little competition is the who buys the cloths in which frozen meat is packed, washes them, and sells them to housewives as polishing rags.

Beyond His Comprehension.

Appropos the recent inquiry into alleged irregularities in connection with the sale of surplus Government stock, I recall a story told by Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, our new Postmaster-General.

At the time when he was Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Munitions he was called upon to be present at a sale of a lot of Government mules.

The auction took place in a ring enclosure, access to which was by one small gateway, and considerable amusement was caused among the onlookers by the efforts of the man in charge of the animals to induce them to go through it.

One mule especially seemed obstinately bent on doing anything and everything but pass through that gateway.

"Want any help?" shouted one of the by-standers, as the mule-driver rested a moment.

"No," answered the driver, "but I'd like to know how Noah ever got two of these blighters into the Ark!"

William of Germany Still Retains His Autocratic Bearing.

Doorn, July 27.—(A.P.)—William Hohenzollern, once German emperor, to-day in Doorn maintains his imperial airs as of old, according to the recitals of those who from time to time come in contact with him. The latest story is contributed by a traveling company of student-actors. Augmenting their slender incomes by acting medieval mystery plays in various German and Dutch cities, the actors were requested to give a performance at the former emperor's residence. Before doing so they were received by William, and they have since given their impressions of the reception.

First they were instructed how to behave. "Speak to His Majesty just as the words come," said the marshal. "Address him in accordance with his exalted position, and kindly make a very, very low bow."

After being admitted to the house, William and an officer appeared in the hall. One of the students describes William as having haughty movements and superior airs. His eyes are nervous, and a hard, pale grey in color. He has striking grey eyebrows. Lines of age furrow his brow, and his mouth seems extraordinarily sensuous. His beard and moustache have turned grey, and his complexion is unhealthy.

William wore a grey-green field-cape and a green sporting hat. The student thought that "civilian" dress made him appear bourgeois. His manner of address was sharp and Prussian.

William's folble of omniscience appeared at once in his conversation, and he started right in. "So you are going to offer us mystery plays? They are, of course, the plays that reached such a flourishing condition among the ancient Greeks."

Then the former monarch proceeded to give a history of these plays down to modern times. The marshal whispered delightedly to the student: "The Kaiser knows everything."

Says Russia's Future Rests With Speculators.

Petrograd, July 25.—(A.P.)—Only two profitable careers are open to Russia's bright young men to-day, and they are speculation or banditry," a bearded old civil engineer told the writer while riding on the train from Moscow to Petrograd the other day.

"This engineer, who occupies an important post with the state railway administration, said that he earned a salary which is the equivalent of about $15.00 a month. His son, who is a speculator and admittedly not over scrupulous in the way he turns his profits, makes fifty times that amount.

"Our salaries are so low in the state service that no ambitious young man, particularly if he is married, can reconcile himself to accepting them. Therefore, to win a fortune or live comfortably, he must become one of that hated class in Russia and elsewhere, a speculator. The only other lucrative profession is that of a bandit, or hold-up man.

"People who blame the speculators forget that it probably will be they, with their quickly secured profits and faculty of taking long chances, who will ultimately build up Russia. It is not a long cry from speculating in merchandise to taking a chance on building a railroad or developing a mine. They are the pioneers, breaking away from old Russian traditions and becoming men of business. Exactly the same kind of pioneers or speculators in your Wall Street helped build up America."

Dry crusts of bread can be nicely browned in the oven, and are good eaten with cheese and fruit.

The Government Re-Formed.

The curtain has again been raised on our Political Stage and Act II has begun. Several changes have been made in the interval, but to a great extent the personnel is the same.

The retention of the Department of Justice by the Prime Minister will be taken as an earnest of his determination to conduct a public investigation, thorough and complete, into the alleged scandals which resulted in the disorganization of the late Government.

One irregularity of the late Government has already been rectified, namely the appointment to departmental offices of men who are not representative of the people.

Statescraft and Politics.

The Kenya Problem.

The brief reference in the cable despatch on Saturday to dissatisfaction in India over the methods adopted by the Home Government in dealing with the problems that face them in Kenya, British East Africa, is but one instance of the paucity of information contained in these messages.

The item in question, although it does not concern us in particular, is one that has a bearing on the many difficult situations that are constantly cropping up in our great Empire.

The settlement of East Africa by Europeans on the high table lands which extend over a great part of that territory began in the latter part of Queen Victoria's reign.

It was not long before the Kenya administration was faced, among other matters, with the racial problem. With the increase of white settlers a form of representative government was established, the members of which, representing the different factions, namely the colonists, the Indians, and the natives, were nominated by the Governor.

They have been active in their agitation against certain regulations which for obvious reasons have been enforced. These are—the reservation of certain parts of the plateau for Europeans, segregation, and the limitation of Indian representation on the Council to two members elected from and by themselves.

There are so many aspects of such a problem from which it, and many others of a like nature, must be viewed by those who have undertaken to rule this cosmopolitan Empire with impartiality, to better the conditions which exist, and to raise to the full status of citizenship these native races, that one cannot but realize how insignificant by comparison is the magnitude of our local troubles.

Nfld. Poultry Association.

In Passing.

The new ministry is made up of the Squires-Coaker Government, excepting that for the present Sir Richard is eliminated.

One particularly good feature in connection with same is that all the departmental heads hold seats in the House of Assembly and are direct representatives of the people.

Sir W. F. Coaker once more finds it convenient to fill a seat in the Executive Council and in accepting it divides the honours in the composition of same with the Warren and Squires factions.

The question now asked is will Sir Richard represent his constituents in the House? If so, will he continue to sit on the left of the speaker?

The make up of the new ministry completely dispels the idea that it was the Opposition members who were anxious for pay and power and forced the resignation of the late Prime Minister as it will be seen that to a man despite all overtures they refused to have anything to do with a Government that was a part and parcel of the many scandals since 1919.

Following his declaration in the Assembly on Tuesday last the Hon. Mr. Warren sought the co-operation of the Opposition in the formation of the new Government.

In the new administration, Dr. Campbell and Capt. T. Bonga are replaced by Hons. J. F. Downey, and M. E. Hawco. Sir W. F. Coaker takes the place of the late Prime Minister in the Executive and Mr. Geo. Grimes is substituted for Hon. W. W. Halfyard, ex-Minister of Fisheries, who has been appointed Colonial Secretary.

Three bye-elections will result in consequence which must take place within six months if the Ministers are to still retain their portfolios. These are St. George's, Hon. J. F. Downey; Harbour Main, Hon. M. E. Hawco; and Fogo, Mr. Geo. Grimes.

The Society for Protection of Animals was aided last Saturday in their campaign for funds by the following young ladies who acted as flower girls: Misses Annie Thorburn, Bory Warren, Kathleen Ellis, Kathleen Knight, Jean Fogwill, Grace and Ena Willis, Hazel LeDrew, Mary and Jean Johnston, Evelyn Grimes, Margaret Percy, Olive Percy, Mercedes Condon and Nellie Duff.

Consequently Mr. Warren was compelled to form a ministry out of the old Government and carry on the business of the House as heretofore.

The Opposition are firm in their demands for a thorough investigation into all the alleged scandals which have taken place in the various departments which have come to light since the Assembly opened the first week of June.

The promise of an investigation that will amount to only an enquiry such as conducted by a committee of privilege will not be sufficient to meet with the expectations and requirements of the public.

An impartial tribunal that will enjoy the confidence of the people must be appointed and every facility possible must be granted same in an honest endeavour to vindicate the innocent and punish the guilty.

The new ministry testotally dispels the idea that it was the Opposition members who directly compelled Sir Richard Squires to resign inasmuch as that not one member gained anything directly or indirectly by the shuffle but that the same Government which was elected on the policy and Manifesto of Sir Richard Squires still retains power.

It is understood that Hon. Mr. Warren will make a special announcement in the Assembly to-morrow afternoon, after which the House will adjourn for a few days before the regular business of the session is continued.

One pleasing feature worthy of passing notice is contained in the statement of Mr. Higgins, leader of the Opposition who in an interview made it known that he and his associates would from every aspect assist the new administration in its arduous task.

New S.A. Officers Welcomed.

Commandant and Mrs. Thomas Urquhart, who have been appointed to the charge of the work at the No. 1 Barracks in this city, were warmly welcomed at the 7 o'clock meeting yesterday evening. Commandant Hurd conducted the meeting and made a very interesting and helpful address. He spoke of his intimate acquaintance with the late Commandant Urquhart extending over a number of years, and stated that he had always found him to be a true and an exemplary Christian. Commandant Urquhart was a true helpmate to his wife and he felt sure that her husband and he would be much blessed in their work. He spoke of the many successes in St. John's. Commandant and Mrs. Urquhart stated that they were prepared to devote themselves wholeheartedly to the work at No. 1. They had no doubts about their appointment being the will of God and their faith was for a rich outpouring of God's blessing upon the Corps during their term of office. The Commandant is an officer of many years standing, and has commanded some of the most important Corps in the Canadian Field. He has considerable experience as a speaker as well as being a successful soldier and an accomplished leader. He was last stationed at St. John's, where under his leadership every branch of the work has progressed and much good has been accomplished.

Colonel and Mrs. Cloud paid their visit to the No. 11 Corps yesterday where they conducted the services and were warmly welcomed by the congregation. At 11 o'clock the Colonel gave an eloquent and forceful sermon taken from Matthew 19-22. The evening meeting commenced at 7 o'clock when Colonel Cloud gave a short address which was full of soul-stirring truths and greatly impressed the congregation. Taking as his text Luke 13:31-35, the Colonel preached a very impressive sermon describing the mission of Jerusalem when Christ came to earth, showing the analogy between the attitude of that people at the end of the present generation, and the present speaking, and in the meeting god results were obtained.

Express Passengers.

ES. Kyle, Capt. Stevenson, arrived from the Bay St. Lawrence early yesterday morning, with the following passengers:—Mrs. M. Delaney, E. J. Boyd, T. R. and Mrs. Bailey, T. B. Moore, R. O. Dufol, G. Motor Car Stolen.

Early yesterday morning some persons stole a motor car owned by Mr. Edward Lawrence from in front of a residence, Hayward Avenue, and drove it some hard usage. The car was recovered during the day, on Power Street, with the front axle broken. The matter was reported to the police and an investigation is being held.

Bonavista Budget.

It is rather disconcerting to think that this, the largest output in the Island, seldom appears in the limelight, as regards a news budget. Perhaps the lack of energetic scribes, would account in part for the omission; then we are rather out of the world as regards mail service; true, we have a regular train connection, but even that does not enable us to keep in close touch with the outside world. Then again, the lack of sufficient news that would be of interest to your readers may be regarded as the final and chief cause of this reticence.

So far the fishery outlook is anything but encouraging. To-date we are of the opinion that there are very few traps that could be said to have what may be called a sailing voyage. For a couple of days or so there was a good sign of fish at the Cape Shore grounds, but it did not last, and only a few were fortunate enough to benefit by it. Hook and line and trawl men did very well for a few days during the caplin spurt.

Now that the holiday season is with us we have once more in our midst many of our boys and girls whose avocations lead them to spend most of their time away from home. Their presence adds to the gaiety and attractiveness of our town and the display of angry in many cases would lead us to believe that we were not in Bonavista—but elsewhere. Quite a few of our townfolk, who, having gone to foreign climes, settled down and made their homes there, are also taking advantage of this season to see again the old home town and renew past acquaintances. Glad to see them.

The recent Sydney strike was responsible for the return home of quite a number of young men who were employed there. They found it cheaper to come home and await a settlement than to remain idle in the land of the Maple Leaf.

It is rather surprising Bonavista should be among the last to think of a memorial for those of its honored dead, who gave their lives in the Great War. The only memorials we have are those of the various societies the Methodist Church, and the Bank of Nova Scotia, for their individual members, who fought the good fight. However memorial day this year saw the inauguration of a War Memorial Fund that will, we trust, form the nucleus of a memorial that will do justice, first to the memory of our gallant dead; second, to the town of their birth, and lastly, to the country for which they so gladly paid the Supreme Sacrifice.

Since the opening of the season, there has been rather, one might say, a "football" boom. Bonavista once had the premier team in this section of the country and frequently sent down to defeat the best amalgamations the neighbouring towns of Catalina, Trinity and King's Cove could put forward. Of recent years, however, the sport has practically died out. This spring saw its revival, with Messrs. McLagan and James of the Bank of Nova Scotia, to the fore. Local fans generously subscribed donations and the field was soon put in order. A fortnight ago, the married men went down to defeat at the hands of the Singles by a score of one to nil. Half the receipts were deposited to the War Memorial Fund yesterday a Garden Party was held, the stores being closed for a half holiday. After tea a return match was played with a slight change in the Married line-up. The game resulted in a win for the Singles by a score of one to nil. The game was an exciting one and play was close throughout. Both sides were frequently called upon to save, which they did in neat style. Our genial friend the foe and several more "old reliable" were seen to advantage yesterday's kick. However, the young bloods are a spirited group and have an able defence in full backs Brown and Lench, and James can't be beaten when it comes to goal tending.

SPORTOGRAPHS

BIG RACE TO-NIGHT.

All preparations have been completed for the race for the Gratian Trophy at the St. Bon's Campus this evening, and as the entire proceeds are for the Belvidere orphan it is expected that the public will respond magnificently by attending in large numbers. O'Toole is the favourite in view of his recent performances, but the other eight contestants have no intention of letting him carry off the honors if they can at all prevent it. Our local champion, Bell, will unfortunately not be competing as he is rowing two races on Wednesday and therefore does not wish to jeopardize the chances of the crew through an injury to himself. The course has been measured by Mr. W. Noel of the A. A. A., assisted by Mr. Thornburn, so that it will be a championship event.

ANSWERS.

"No. 8 Ques"—We give herewith the rules governing the Amateur and Mercantile Races. Any protest can be made and discussed at to-night's final meeting of the Committee who have this power.

Amateur Race—(a) This Race shall be confined to persons whose bona fide occupation for the two years immediately preceding the Regatta in which they row does not necessarily involve manual labour. (b) No person shall be eligible to row in this race who has competed for a money prize at a public athletic meeting held on or after the first day of January, A.D. 1900, provided that the Committee may exercise its discretion as to the application of this sub-section in cases where a person has taken part in a Race other than Amateur in a previous year. (c) The names, addresses and occupations of all intending competitors in this race shall be lodged with the Secretary in writing not less than two weeks before the date fixed for the Regatta. (d) Objections to the eligibility of any competitor in this race must be lodged with the Secretary, in writing, not less than 10 days before the date fixed for the Regatta.

Mercantile Race—Those only may row in this race who have been continuously employed by the firms which they represent for the four months immediately preceding the Regatta, and whose occupation during that period does not necessarily involve manual labour.

FIRPO TO FIGHT DEMPSEY.

New York, July 29th.—Jack Dempsey will meet Louis Angel Firpo of Argentina at the Polo Grounds, Friday, September 14th, in defence of the world's heavyweight title. The agreement was signed on Saturday. The purse has not yet been made known but Louis Angel Firpo is now $250,000 richer than he was a year ago.

ago. Then he was unknown. Several promoters refused to give him $150 to meet second raters at that time.

This young man from the Argentine pampas has but one idea to-day and that is to have a crack at Dempsey. But experts figure he is yet too green for such a stupendous undertaking. They will admit that if Firpo landed one on the jaw of Dempsey as he did on Willard there would be a new champion. But, considering the great skill and the fighting qualities held by the title holder, they fear that it is sheer folly to send the Argentinian against him without more seasoning and training in defensive methods.

Firpo is first and last and at all times a one handed scrapper. His right is a man-killer, but his left is a mere encumbrance; it hangs in front of his stomach from start of the fight till the finish. His trainer, De Forest, has tried faithfully to make the lad use his left but has met with no success in his efforts.

In spite of his poor showing against Tommy Gibbons, Dempsey is still considered king of the heavyweights. Whether or not this is so will be proven, as undoubtedly the champion will take on both Willis and Firpo before the year ends.

All this scrapping in the heavy division is the outcome of the Milk Show Fund. Where Willard downed Johnson, and Firpo cleanly knocked out McCallie, the Willard-Firpo bout was the natural outcome of an old man well over forty years marching steadily along the come-back trail and a young Hercules of the south irresistibly battering his triumphant way to the top. Should Firpo become the champion, he ought to be the wealthiest fighter in the world, as he is a very keen business man. His only recreation is figuring his earnings; he will be a millionaire within a year in all probability.

ENGLISH A.A.A. CHAMPIONSHIPS.
Never was there a day more suited to fast times, and the champions who took the track at Stamford Bridge on Saturday gave a crowd of 25,000 spectators some thrilling sport.

British record was beaten in the 100 yards, in which E. H. Liddell, of Edinburgh University, the flying Scottish Rugby three-quarter, gained great victories in two sprints.

champion, T. Matthewman, of Huddersfield, W. P. Nichol, of Highgate, and others against him.

In the final of the 100 yards Liddell, who got off badly, beat British amateur record by 1-10th of a second, by covering the distance in 9 7-10s. He finished two feet in front of Nichol, with Matthewman another foot away, so that all beat 10s.

The same three filled the places in the 220 yards. In this Liddell beat Matthewman by a mile and a half, with Nichol third, a mile and a half behind the Huddersfield boy. The time, 21-3-5s, is two-fifths outside Applethorpe's British record. To see these two faces alone was worth all the journey.

Lewden's Great Jumping.

P. Lewden, of France, retained the high jump with 6ft., and subsequently cleared 6ft., 4in., three-quarters of an inch more than Howard Baker's previous best for the championships.

The hurdles, too, gave us an exciting race as F. R. Gaby, the holder, only beat L. F. Partridge (Achilles Club) by inches in 15-1-5s., which is one-fifth of a second better than the time of that great American champion

A. C. Kraenzlein, who won in 1900 in 15 2-5s.

Nothing startling was done in the mile, which was won by H. B. Stalard, of the Achilles Athletic Club, in beating R. D. Pugh of the Queen's Park Harriers, and H. A. Johnston, of Herne Hill Harriers, in 4m. 21 3-5s.

One is pleased to congratulate Percy Hodge, the Surrey A.C. man, on winning the two-mile steeplechase for the fourth time. In the half-mile Cecil Griffiths, another Surrey man, ran a splendidly judged race in beating E. D. Mountain, the holder, by four yards. The time, 1m. 56 3-5s., is a trifle outside the average of recent years.

W. E. Stevenson, the Oxford crack, who won the quarter-mile in 49 3-5s., is to be congratulated on beating 50s.

BELEYA LOSES CHAMPIONSHIP.

St. Catharines, Ont., July 29th.—At the Annual Canadian Henley yesterday W. E. G. Gilmore, of the Bachelor Barge Club, Philadelphia, took the Canadian single amateur sculling championship yesterday from Hilton Belyea, of St. John.

Belyea has just returned from England where he rowed against Hallom, who won for England, and Hoover, the American champion. Belyea's trip across the "pond," was financed by the people of the Maritimes.

REGATTA FORECAST TO-MORROW.

A well known rowing enthusiast, who has been following closely the "doins" at the Lake for the past month, has promised us a forecast, which will be published to-morrow. This should be of more than ordinary interest, as owing to the unsettled weather of the past ten days, it has been impossible for any of the crews to get good times and the devotees on the "bank" are all upset on their dope. It is unfortunate that the Labourers, Truck Trade, and Factory race, only two crews have entered. The suggestion has been made, and favourably received, that another year, when less than three boats have entered for any particular race one week before the Regatta, that such be converted automatically into an All Comers' Race, which would not only create interest and excitement, but would be doing justice to the men who have put in their three and four weeks' practices. Against the short crewed races however, we have the unique spectacle of the necessity of three preliminary dashes in the Amateur, Football and Juvenile Races, while the Mercantile, Intermediate and Sr. Football are fully crewed.

Personal.

Mr. R. E. Evans, of The Royal Stores Advertising Dept., returned to town Friday, after spending a very pleasant holiday salmon fishing at Fiacentia. Mr. Evans had very good luck with the salmon having brought several large ones in with him. His many friends are delighted to have him back, looking so well after his vacation.

Cutter "Arras" Arrives From Banks.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT PROTECTS FISHERY.

The Canadian cutter "Arras," which has been operated by the Canadian Government for Fishery Protection Services along the Banks, arrived in port yesterday afternoon to have her bunkers replenished, and a new supply of provisions taken on board. The "Arras," which is armed, is now berthed at the premises of A.H. Murray & Co. During the past few years the fishing vessels operating on the Banks have time and again had cause for complaint either in the damaging work of the French and Portuguese trawlers. There was a general demand made for future protection with the result the Canadian Government acted in the matter and despatched the cutter "Arras" to the scene. Our Newfoundland fleet has suffered greatly from these trawlers, and time and again vessels had to return home for a new outfit. Capt. Barkhouse stated that the weather had been very foggy all season, and unless a change occurs the hopes for a good fishery are not very bright. There is a scarcity of bait, and very little has been done by any of the vessels.

Borden's PURITY BRAND CONDENSED MILK

Far and Near.

A story of passion, treason and crime, the degradation of a young naval officer who, fifteen years ago betrayed his country in order to obtain money for a woman of whom he was enamored, is recalled by the release from his prison in Devil's Island of the unfortunate man, La Belle Lison was the name of the woman who fascinated young Ulmo in the early years of his career at Toulon. The son of a wealthy industrialist at Lyons, from whom he received a handsome allowance to supplement his pay, Ulmo was carried by his poorer comrades. But La Belle Lison had expensive tastes. To satisfy them the young officer was soon reduced to borrowing and then to other more dishonest means of procuring money. Employed in a naval department office where he had access to importation documents, he succumbed to temptation and began to sell secrets to foreign agents. He even endeavored to sell to his own Government forged documents purporting to be information relative to a foreign power's military plans. Suspicious were raised and the French authorities laid a trap for Ulmo. He has been released from prison and given comparative freedom—in the scorched lands of Guyana, or French Guiana, where he will drag out the remainder of his miserable existence.

A mysterious epidemic is raging among the horses in Scotland. Much alarm is felt from Forfarshire north to Ross-shire, at the havoc being wrought amongst horses by a deadly and mysterious disease known as grass sickness. About 50 valuable animals have died and several farmers have each lost two horses. Suffering animals have been destroyed for experimental purposes. The disease is of a virulent type, and is spreading rapidly.

Raid by lions in the Barberton district, north of Swaziland, South Africa, are causing a great deal of alarm among the farmers and white settlers. Large numbers of pedigree cattle are reported to have been killed by the beasts. One lion, a huge beast, was shot by a young white girl from the veranda of her house, where she was keeping watch while her father had gone out into the bush to bring in his stock.

Only a common hound, but he fought a maddened bull to save his eight-year-old master's life and won. The boy was resting under a tree in a field near Sunbury, Pa., when the infuriated bull saw him. The animal charged and tossed him high into the air. The little boy sank into the child's arm. The boy screamed with pain as the animal dragged him across the field, but no one heard except the little dog. The pup was game, but cautious too, and opened his attack from the rear. He sank his teeth into the bull's hind leg and hung on despite violent kicks. The bull released the little lad to deal with the new annoyance and the hound let go. That was his strategy. Snapping and snarling, he backed away from the charging bull, dodging and leading the animal away from the boy. The little victim crawled away under the fence and the pup at once gave up the fight. With a final snarl, he dashed away after his master, wagging his tail proudly.

10,000,000 illiterates there are in the United States according to the Chairman of the United States Illiteracy Commission. A careful census in which every individual be put to the test of reading simple paragraphs and writing simple sentences, would show there are approximately 10,000,000 illiterates in the United States and almost as many near-illiterates, delegates to the National Education Association's convention were told by the Chairman. "In the most illiterate sections," she asserted, "conditions approach the barbaric, marriage has no sanctity and commerce is carried on through barter and trade."

Lynchings in the United States in the first six months of 1923 dropped to eleven compared with thirty-three for the same period in 1922, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has announced. The decrease was attributed to agitation for a Federal anti-lynching law, to the northward migration of negroes and the consequent desire to retain negro labor in the South. Florida had three lynchings, Georgia two, and Arkansas, Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri and Texas one each.

New aeroplane records and tests are being performed almost daily. The latest feat is that of Lieut. Hines, and Seifert who re-fueled an aeroplane in flight, at San Diego, when Lieut. Richter and Capt. I. Smith went after a new world's endurance record. Rushing through the air at 90 miles an hour, Lieut. Hines and Seifert guided their craft above that flown by Capt. Smith and Lieut. Richter, ran down a 40-foot steel wire-encased rubber hose and within two minutes the feat was a matter of history. The quartets of officers many times in practice had succeeded in getting the pipe from one plane to another, but never before had the gasoline been sent from one plane to another. Had a few drops of the fuel scattered over the hot exhaust pipes it would have spelled disaster for at least one of the planes. It required expert jockeying on the part of the pilots to get the two planes, 35 feet from wing tip to tip, together, and then throttle down so that the hose could be caught and fastened to the tank. Preliminary re-fueling in the test developed one fault that was remedied quickly! That was the inability of the fueling plane pilots to haul the hose back into the fuselage. The rush of wind under the plane caused the heavy hose to whip around like a piece of string, and Lieut. Seifert was compelled to make a landing with the forty-foot hose dangling under his machine.

The largest floating dock in the world, surrendered by Germany under the peace treaty, is being prepared at Chatham for special naval work. In service circles it is stated on reliable authority that the dock is intended for the new naval base at Singapore. Before the dock was surrendered three sections of the structure were rendered useless by the Germans, and at Chatham Dockyard 800 men are now at work on the building of new sections.

Each of these sections will be 180 feet long, 85 feet in width and over 100 feet high. The work is the most important of its kind yet undertaken at Chatham Dockyard. The total wages bill will amount to more than $400,000. In connection with the building of the new sections a system of payment by results has been instituted, and it promises to be distinctly successful. It is hoped that the first of the new sections will be launched by next autumn. When the new sections have been added the dock will be capable of receiving the largest battleship at present afloat, or the Nelson or Rodney, now building. The value of such a dock at Singapore would be incalculable. The greater part of the dock lies in the Medway, near Chatham. After the armistice it was towed in sections across the North Sea from Germany.

BURMAH'S GREAT OIL WELLS
Home again after three years of geological investigation of oil fields in India, Dr. B. R. Mackay, of Cornwall, Ont., formerly of the geological survey branch of the Dominion Government, was a passenger on board the S.S. Empress of Canada, the new champion of the Pacific and the holder of the blue ribbon for her record trip from Yokohama to Vancouver, made in 8 days, 10 hours and 55 minutes at an average speed of 26.8 knots per hour. Dr. Mackay and five other members of the Dominion geological service, were engaged by Lord Cowdray in April, 1920, to proceed to India and investigate the oil formations. In Burma, which, he said, was the chief producer of oil in the British Empire, all the producing wells were on one area three quarters of a mile square. There were no fewer than 4,000 wells on this tract and all the upper structures gave the area the appearance of a dense forest.

The race for oil, he said, was still a tremendous international competition. In India only British countries could operate, so that Lord Cowdray has not hesitated to spend large sums in seeking to develop this field. Speaking of political conditions, Dr.

Mackay stated that the unrest was greatly exaggerated in the foreign press. "There is nothing wrong in India," he said. "Once the Government showed a firm hand in putting down Gandhi and his followers, the whole thing collapsed."

The Five Mile Race on St. Bon's College Campus will start at 8 p.m. sharp on Monday evening. Contestants are requested to be present at 7.45. The grounds will open to the public at 7.30. Gate 10c. Proceeds in aid of Belvedere Orphanage.—1/25,21

Britain's Reparation Policy Made Known To Commons By Baldwin.

PRIME MINISTER ADVOCATES UNDEFINITE ACTION TO SOLVE PROBLEM—INDEFINITE OCCUPATION OF RUHR REGRETTABLE—NATURE OF BRITISH PROPOSALS NOT DIVULGED.

Great Britain has informed France and Italy that she is ready to assume the responsibility of preparing the draft of a reply to the German reparation note. The reply will be submitted to the Allies with the least possible delay in the hope that they will agree to its terms.

Announcement to this effect was made by Prime Minister Baldwin in a statement to the House of Commons on Great Britain's reparation policy.

The British Government, he said, invites the sympathy of the Allies and of all interested states for the proposal which aims solely at the pacification of Europe and the recovery of the exhausted world.

Mr. Baldwin failed to state what the British proposals will be in the note the Government intends framing, nor did he say anything in regard to an international commission to examine into Germany's capacity to pay.

Prime Minister Baldwin said it would not be made too clear, in the interests alike of the Powers concerned, and any who might help to profit by exploiting the differences between them that the sole ground of divergence, was the best effective means for realising the ends which were vital to all.

These ends were the payment of reparations and the recovery of the security of Europe. To secure these ends, he said, the Allies "have grudgingly nothing in the past, nor will they grudge anything in the future."

"This responsibility," he went on, "is acknowledged and shared in equal measure by the Allies, but devolves especially on the British and French nations. We are as determined as any of our Allies that Germany shall make reparations for the damages done in the great war to the fullest extent of her capacity. We have never wavered on that point. The Government is conscious that, as a business nation, if we ask Germany to pay in excess of her capacity, we shall not succeed.

Ruin of Germany.

"We are firmly convinced that the measures which would result in the ruin of Germany would be fatal to this country, our Allies and the whole of Europe. The Allies are obtaining less reparations than before the occupation of the Ruhr, and these have to be exacted at the price of dislocation of the German economic system and probably the future collapse of that system.

"Opinion throughout Europe, and not the least in Great Britain, is becoming more sensitive to these conditions, with alarm at their continuance. The recovery of the world is in danger. Peace is at stake. Peace cannot be secured until three questions are settled: first, the payment of reparations; second, settlement of the inter-Allied debts and the third, the security of a pacified Europe.

"From the beginning we have made it clear that in our opinion the occupation of the Ruhr was not calculated to produce the maximum amount of reparations payment. Many of the consequences which were anticipated are in the course of fulfilment. Germany herself appears to be moving fast toward economic chaos."

United Action.

Dealing with the present situation in the Ruhr, the Premier said definite occupation by one country of the territory of another in time of peace was a phenomenon, rare and regrettable, to which an honorable end should be found as soon as possible.

The proposals set forth in the recent German note were inadequate, he admitted, but they should be explored and examined, not ignored.

"We shall submit a reply with the least possible delay to our Allies for their consideration and remarks," he announced, "and we indulge in the hope that we may be able to arrive at an agreement with them on the terms. What the exact nature of the reply should be, it would be premature to discuss at the present stage.

"In formulating these views, His Majesty's Government are not without hope that they will be expressing the Allied sentiments as well as our own. We do not believe that in principle we are widely separated, if at all, from them. Divergence of method should not be incapable of resolution."

In conclusion Mr. Baldwin said: "So far as united action is possible we shall continue to pursue it. We shall confidently invite the sympathetic consideration of the whole of our Allies and all interested states to proposals which will have no other aim than the pacification of Europe and the recovery of an exhausted world. Referring to the position of the Allies, Mr. Baldwin said the exchange of friendly conversation had not appeared to lead to positive results and it was becoming evident that the attitude of the principal parties must be more clearly defined. He held that the debtor should not merely be called upon to pay his debt, he should be placed in a position to do so.

United States Copy.

Replying to questions by Ramsay MacDonald, the Opposition leader, Premier Baldwin said the reply to Germany would be proceeded with forthwith. He would say later whether the reply was being communicated to the United States.

Commander Kenworthy, Liberal member for Hull, asked whether the Government had approached or had been approached by the United States in the matter of reparations. Mr. Baldwin's reply was described by the reporters as inaudible, but belief was expressed by those near him that he had said "no."

It has been a long time since any Ministerial utterance here was anxiously awaited. An extraordinary number of applications was received for admission to each chamber, but the limited accommodations, severely taxed the seating capacities of both Houses.

The Cabinet, which previously had agreed upon the general outline of the Ministerial declaration, was understood to have reviewed the whole situation again before Parliament assembled. The official secrecy that has veiled the most recent difficulties between Great Britain and France on the reparations question was well maintained to the last, as was indicated by the varying forecasts offered to the public by the political writers in the morning newspapers.

Last minute changes were made by the Cabinet in the Ministerial declaration on the reparations questions to be made to both houses of Parliament this afternoon but nothing was divulged as to their nature.

It has been decided by the parliamentary leaders that the debate on the statement in the House of Commons will be deferred until next week, after the European countries and the United States have had an opportunity to recover their views on the pronouncement.

The British Government's future course of action is expected to be influenced in no mean degree by the public opinion of the world, but especially by the expression of opinion on the part of the British Empire's hundreds of millions of population.

The idea of an international commission of experts to examine Germany's financial resources will not be advanced this afternoon, according to the best information, but will be presented some time later during the discussion.

First Crisis.

Although the afternoon developed into the hottest of the season, the House of Commons was crowded half an hour before the Speaker took the chair.

It was recognised that Premier Baldwin was to deal with the first international crisis of the Government. No one expected the sensation which Mr. Lloyd George usually managed to provide on similar occasions but there was the greatest curiosity to learn what the Prime Minister's policy was and to see how he would acquit himself.

The floor of the House did not present the usual dreary array of black coats and silk hats, the majority of the members wearing light summer suits, while the galleries were gay with the bright-hued gowns of the women spectators. The rows of seats reserved for the diplomatic representatives were unusually full. Count de Saint Anlaire, the French Ambassador, who is said never to have attended a session of the House before, was in the front row, with Baron Moncheur, the Belgian Ambassador, the Italian and German Ambassadors and Dr. Eduard Benes, Foreign Minister of Czecho-Slovakia.

Swedish Speeders to Establish Own Guilt.

Stockholm, July 27.—(A.P.)—Unusual measures for preventing automobile accidents, and an entirely original idea for keeping the speeding nuisance in check are features in the new motor traffic laws which have just been passed by the Swedish Riksdag. A striking paragraph in the new law is that which provides for the compulsory use of recording speedometers on all motor vehicles. Such a device not only indicates the number of miles the car has run but also the rate of speed during any part of the run. Thus, on the one hand, the innocent driver who may be wrongly accused of exceeding speed limits, has a mechanical record with which to prove his innocence, while officers of the law can use the automatic record as irrefutable evidence against the guilty speeder. Up to the present, no recording speedometer for automobiles has been perfected, but promising experiments with such an instrument are being conducted, and the new law provides that, as soon

Suez Canal Company's Report.

(Suez and Shipping.)

Perhaps the most arresting feature of the Suez Canal Company's annual report, presented at the 69th annual meeting last week, is the statement that the traffic not only attained last year its pre-war dimensions, but established a record. There were, in fact, 4,345 passages through the Canal, representing a total net tonnage of 20,743,245, which figure exceeds by nearly half a million tons the highest tonnage previously recorded, viz., that of 1912. Compared with 1921 the increase is 370 passages and 2,824,246 tons. In view of the stagnation in the shipping industry such a result is rather surprising, but a study of the report supplies a reasonable explanation. It seems, indeed, that while the volume of goods passing through the waterway increased to a considerable extent compared with the previous year, the total of 21,240,000 tons does not equal the pre-war figures. The reason for this is that the ratio of the weight of goods carried to the capacity of the ships passing, which has been largely reduced since the war, is still below what it was in 1913. In other words, vessels are running either in ballast or only partially filled. The complete recovery so far as the volume of traffic is concerned will be noted with interest by ship-owners, who are for obvious reasons closely interested in the fortunes of the Suez Canal. During the water-way decreased by 85 per cent., so that the traffic record of the past year is more remarkable. Writing twelve months ago, we observed that in view of the notable recovery which had taken place it might be expected that the traffic figures for 1912 would surpass those of 1913. That this has actually been the case without any revival of the shipping industry is a notable tribute to the exertions which are being put forth by ship-owners of all nationalities, and especially British, to keep as many of their ships as possible in commission, even though the results in pounds, shillings and pence may be the reverse of profitable. The Canal directors dwell with satisfaction on the noteworthy growth of the company's receipts, which was accompanied during the past year by a decrease in expenditure. These facts, coupled with the removal of a substantial charge on the funds due to the complete repayment of the consolidated coupon bonds, have enabled them to recommend a material increase in the dividend, while at the same time they have been able to allocate from the profits a sum of 25,000,000 francs to pay off a part of the installation expenses recently effected. Shipowners have also been privileged to participate in the prosperity of the undertaking, and the Canal directors are not backward in throwing bouquets at themselves on this account. Drawing attention to the fact that the rapid growth of the traffic enabled them to reduce by 25 centimes the Canal dues on shipping as from March 1st, they add in a characteristic passage that this concession appeared to them opportune "in order to conform to the liberal policy of enabling shipowners who are still to-day suffering the consequences of a formidable crisis to benefit from the peaceful prosperity of the Suez Canal, and to contribute their share to lighten the burdens which weigh heavily on the industry of marine transport." Railway companies and other organizations which profess to be unable to reduce their charges on the ground that the loss of revenue would seriously affect them would do well to note the experience of the Suez Canal Company since it lowered its rates.

Albert Chevalier.

Albert Chevalier, actor and dramatic author, long famous as a delineator of coster types, died in London last week after an illness of six months. Of his 62 years, 46 were spent on the stage.

Albert Chevalier, born in London on March 21st, 1861, of a French father and Welsh mother, was educated in Bayswater and made his first appearance on the stage at the Prince of Wales theatre, under the Bancrofts' management, on September 29, 1877, as Master Skeggs in "To Parents and Guardians." He was subsequently engaged with John Hare and the Kendalls at the Court and St. James' theatres in 1879 and 1880; appeared at Toole's theatre in 1882 in "M.P." and "Ours"; at the Globe in 1884 in "Low Water"; at the Court in 1885 and 1886 in Piner's "The Magistrate" and "The School-mistress"; at the Strand in 1888-9 in "Katti," "A Frey Aunty," "His Wives," "Run Wild," "Aladdin"; at the Avenue in 1889-90 in "The Prima Donna" and "The Struggle of Life," and at Toole's in 1890 in "The Two Recruits."

It was in 1891 that Chevalier took the step which was to earn him fame in a line of characters which he made peculiarly his own and in which he remained unique. He appeared in the London music halls in a series of coster impersonations, and won almost immediate success with such characteristic members as "Knocked 'Em in the Old Kent Road," "Oh, Liza!" "My Old Dutch" and "The Little Nipper." He made a vaudeville tour of the United States about 1895, the first of six such visits in three or four of which Canada was included. In 1906 he appeared at the Duke of York's, London, with Mme. Yvette Guilbert in a series of matinees, and later toured America with her, after a London appearance as Pantaloon in Sir James Barrie's play of the same name. On this and other of his later tours he showed his versatility by interspersing his studies of coster types with other strikingly differentiated and convincing impersonations, some in odd dialects and others "straight." One of the most memorable of the latter was "A Fallen Star," depicting a broken-down tragedian of the Vincent Crummies order. Memories of the Boer War were still fresh enough to lend point to the whimsicalities of "Mafficking Night," a rollicking description of the adventures of a coster family and their donkey in the wild scenes which marked London's celebration of the relief of Mafeking. At Eastbourne in 1907 Chevalier appeared as Professor Pindler in "The Dream of His Life," a condensed version of "The Land of Nod," both written by himself. At Drury Lane in the same year he played James Hogg in "The Sins of Society," and at the Court he appeared as Jack Mudgey in "The House." At the Hackett theatre, New York, on December 6th, 1910, he first played the title role in "Daddy Dandard," also written by himself, and introducing in one act some of his most notable characterizations of the halls. This play he brought to Montreal and Toronto for successful engagements. He re-appeared at the Coliseum Music Hall in London in August of 1911, and in the following February he played at the Savoy in revivals of "The House" and "Pantaloon." In May of 1913 he appeared at the New Theatre, Manchester, as Manheim in a one-act play, "Washington," and in April of 1914, at Brighton, he took the part of Eddie in Tom Robertson's "Caste." In the same year he created the part of Joe Brown in "My Old Dutch" written by him in collaboration with Arthur Shirley, and in the following September played Joe Brooke in "The Light Blues." During the following four years he toured the provinces mostly playing "My Old Dutch," which appeared at the Coliseum in April 1920, and presented "My Old Dutch" at the Lyceum in the following May. He maintained his stage activities until the past winter, and was playing in London in revivals of some of his best-known vehicles when forced to retire by failing health.

—By Bud Fisher.

In addition to the plays noted above he was the author of a number of songs and sketches, and of the following plays: "Called Back Again," "The Lady Killer," "Cyclins," "The Lord of the Rings," "The Garden," and "When William Wood," and also of a book of reminiscence, "Before I Forget."

Making His Choice.

The well-known American poet and humourist, Mr. James Whitcomb Riley, tells a story of a negro election who was asked after an election how he voted.

"Well, sah," he said, "I voted for the Republic. It was like this. The Democrats, they came and gave me fifteen dollars and the Republicans came and gave me ten, and so I voted for the Republic."

"But why?" said his questioner, "I don't know." "Well, sah, I tho't they was the corrupt of the two."

Expert Advises on Way to Act During Thunderstorms.

LEON, Mass., July 28.—(A.P.)—

Under cover if possible when a storm threatens. If this is not possible, lie down. This is the best advice given by Alexander G. McArdle, director of the Blue Hill Observatory and Professor of Meteorology at Harvard University, given in an explanation of the action prepared for The Associated Press. He says that he describes as "ten good ways to help people take care of themselves."

"First: If you are in a building that is struck the damage is, in 98 cases out of a hundred, confined by ripping out plaster or knocking off slates, and tearing away any projecting timbers. But there are times when the storm clouds descend to earth and amid darkness the flashes are heavy and numerous. As such times there is danger. It is dangerous to be near a chimney or a tree or a flagpole or a metal clothes-line."

"Fifth: Stock should not be tied near a wire fence."

"Sixth: There is no particular sense in going to bed. Standing on glass or rubber or any good insulator, a woolen blanket for example, will give one a little more security and a great deal more confidence. The probability of a person in an ordinary residence building being struck is very slight."

"Seventh: If you are near a person who has been struck make every effort to resuscitate him. Only rarely does lightning kill outright. Mostly people are stunned, and all that is needed is a little artificial respiration to restore them to consciousness. Of course get a doctor quick."

"Eighth: If you are in a trolley car and a flash comes in and burns the fuses with a roar and a blinding flash, sit still. The danger is over, and while you may be frightened you are not likely to be hurt."

"Ninth: If you have a radio, better cut it out during a thunder storm. The antennae should be grounded direct and all wires as far as possible, kept outside."

"Tenth: If your house is provided with good lightning rods you need not have much fear. Moreover, dwelling houses in city blocks are practical, safe."

Perfectly True.

The orator had made a speech, and as he left the platform he was congratulated by a friend.

"A magnificent speech," said the friend, "but hardly original, for I have a book at home that contains every word of it."

The surprised orator said that he would like to see the book, and the next morning he received an un-abridged dictionary.

Property Man (to theatrical manager)—"Sorry, guv'nor, we haven't got any jewels for the great burglary scene."

"Oh, well, run around and get a shilling's worth at the penny bazaar."

Mr. Youngwed—"This pudding is parson me—perfectly dreadful."

Mrs. Youngwed—"I'm sorry, dear, but the fact is the recipe was given me by a friend, and her handwriting is simply atrocious."

Enemy (at the manoeuvres)—"You are my prisoner."

Sergeant Binks—"Nonsense! How did you get here?"

Enemy—"Over that bridge."

Sergeant Binks—"Then, my dear fellow, you are drowned. We blew up that bridge yesterday."

"Johnny, you must comb your hair before you come to school."

"I ain't got no comb."

"Borrow your father's."

"Father ain't got no comb, neither. Doesn't he comb his hair?"

"He ain't got no hair."

William Ann (to blind beggar)—"Poor man, how do you tell when it is time for you to drop your way home?"

Blind Man—"By the heat of the sun, kind sir."

William Ann—"But suppose the sun is under the cloud?"

Blind Man—"I sneak behind that bush, an' have a peep at me-ticker."

Wonderful Film of Good and Evil.

IS "THE NIGHT ROSE", NOW AT THE NICKEL.

Justice uses strange weapons. Slave of the underworld's king, she killed him that he might not cast her off for an innocent girl and with her act won a city's battle against the forces of evil. This is the powerful theme contained in "The Night Rose", now playing at the Nickel Theatre.

LeRoy Scott, one of the greatest and most virile of American writers, whose novel, "Partners of the Night" was made into a splendid picture, has surpassed all previous efforts in "The Night Rose", his latest triumph.

One of the best stories told by Sir H. W. Lucy concerns Sir Ellis Ashmead-Bartlett.

At one of Sir Ellis's political meetings he was frequently interrupted by a man in the body of the hall, who resented his uncompromising attacks upon political opponents.

Sir Ellis bore the trial with admirable good humour, till, seeing an opening for scoring a point, he said: "Now I am going to tell you something about the Government that will make my friends' hair stand on end." Indicating, with a smiling nod, the vigorous critic in the body of the hall.

"Wrong again!" shouted the irrepressible one, removing his cap and displaying a head as smooth as a billiard ball. "As you can see, it can't be done."
