28TH YEAR

WILL INVITE COUNCIL TO RESIGN IN A BODY AND SEEK TEST VOTE

Ald. Church Will Move To-Day That Aldermen Show Their Confidence in Their Reduction Vote by Having It Approved by the Electors.

The resignation of the entire city council in a body, in order that the electorate may have early opportunity to declare its sentiment on the license reduction by-law, will be proposed by Ald. Church in a motion to be submitted at this afternoon's council meeting. It is thought he will have some support. Ald. Bengough, for instance, declares that he is not unwilling to have the electorate pass upon his vote.

Not a few of the council are now satisfied that they "rushed in" and because of a personal sentiment railroaded through a by-law, without the slightest attempt at a businesslike discussion, concerning several hundreds of thousands of dollars, as well as being in direct opposition to the wishes, so far as they know, of the people whom they were elected to serve.

In consequence there is some talk of the possibility of a motion also being introduced to rescind the reduction by-law, in view of the manner in which public sentiment has manifested itself against the largely signed petitions against the overriding of the vote of two years ago, or by some other means to nullify the by-law to remain inoperative until another general vote has been taken.

Ald. Church's Reason.
Ald. Church said that his attitude was the result, more directly, of the legal steps being taken to unseat members. If the council should resign, their seats, the troublesome issue would be at an end, and public sentiment would be satisfied.

"We were elected on the power issue, and another issue, which was not an issue in the election has been set up," he said. "I hope all the council will agree to resign, and have another fight. I am willing to hand in my resignation now and have the people pass on our verdict. I always will have in trusting the people and will abide by their decision."

"Rather than fight any technicalities, while I am, and have always been fully qualified, I would prefer that we should all retire."

A suggestion that if the "unlucky" chairman of the council who voted for reduction without a referendum are subjected to quo warranto proceedings, and the council be taken up, by other than who did it is evidently made in forgetfulness of the law. If the people are not completely satisfied with the result on Wednesday, which is the last day on which proceedings may be taken, it would then be too late for the ten cases to be taken up, as Thursday morning would be outside the statutory period.

Ald. Bengough Explains.
Ald. Bengough has addressed a letter to The World under the caption, "All Honorable Men," saying:

"This heading is, you ironically placed over the copies of the statement, signed by myself and other members of the city council, in testimony to our adherence to the principle of government by majority, in your issue of Saturday, is intended, I presume, to imply that we have not consistently in voting against the submission of the license reduction question to popular vote."

"As I said during the debate on the occasion of the vote for the by-law, license reduction of increase is a matter which the law of the province, especially places upon the city council, and not upon the council."

STEAD WILL QUIT WHISKERS.
Would Shave His Head to Act Part of Cromwell.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—When it was noticed that Oliver Cromwell was to be excluded from the list of characters to figure in London's historical pageant, W. T. Stead protested vigorously to the committee in charge that this would be to boycott "The Greatest Man in English History."

The committee replied that it would include Cromwell if Mr. Stead would appear in the part. Stead gladly and proudly consented, who will involve the sacrifice of an ample beard, which never yet has known the razor. It was never even trimmed till Stead was past forty. But Stead declares he would have shaved his head, if necessary.

COATSWORTH FOR M.L.A.?
Has Designs on the Second Seat in East Toronto.

"Tommy Church. And Tom Foster. And Tom Whitesides. And Billy Crawford. And Doc Noble. And how many more? Go over the census roll and if there's anybody that can qualify and isn't mentioned, put him on the list. They all have the same chance. It's the chance of the snowball."

The utterance was a diagnosis of the political situation in East Toronto as regards the choice of a junior candidate should the representation be doubled, as expected. How Dr. Pyne is considered to have been approved by senior men. The shrewd politician ventured a further remark:

"Barring a dark horse, and they say they have one, and they say they have it not named on you that Emmie Coatsworth is expecting things to happen to him? That's my tip. He's out for the nomination, but don't say I told you."

Charged with stealing harness from Richard West, William Bryant, aged 35, No. 2 Elm Grove place, was arrested by Detective Murray on Saturday night.

SAYS REPUBLIC IS NEAR FOR PORTUGAL

Leader of Reform Party Predicts a Peaceful Revolution Some Fine Morning.

LISBON, Feb. 7, via Badajoz, Spain, Feb. 8.—The republican leaders in Portugal are to-day in extremely high spirits. They assert confidently that a republic is now a matter of months, not of years.

The Associated Press to-day secured an opinion on the situation and an outline of the republican plan of campaign from perhaps the most competent spokesman of the party. This man said:

"The end of monarchy is near. It will come as unexpectedly as did the murder of the King and the Crown Prince and the world will wake up one morning to find a republic in Portugal. We are convinced that the revolution will be a peaceful one. It is a mistake for foreigners to imagine that the people of Portugal are not awake. There is a republican organization in every town, and doctors, lawyers and even the village priests are sending in notices of their adherence by the score, and there are avowed republican officers in the army."

"We will make a change of regime an open issue in the coming campaign. We will demand that the monarchy which has dragged down Portugal into the mire of political and financial bankruptcy, abdicate to the people. They dare not try repression again; they can only surrender."

"While the troops since last Tuesday remain in their barracks during the day time, Lisbon at night still resembles an armed camp. Cavalry in masses in the public squares, pickets patrol the streets and heavily armed soldiers guard the state bank night and day."

The financial situation is viewed with great alarm. The country is staggering under its foreign debt, and commerce is almost paralyzed by the fluctuations of the gold premium. Conservative bankers consider the financial situation to be more critical than the political.

It is hard to forecast the future. It things drift back to the old rut of governmental corruption, whence have been signalled during the last fortnight by the discovery at various places and points of bombs and arms and ammunition.

There have been many reports of dissatisfaction in the army and navy, but a careful investigation made by the correspondent of the Associated Press does not confirm them and it may be assumed that the military is still loyal.

There has been much commotion at Lisbon over both commercial and news despatches is most rigorous. There is in operation a review chamber to prevent any but the most rosy view of the situation from reaching the outside world. Even letters mailed at the post office are opened by the authorities.

NO CHANGE OF STATUS.

Closer Trade With Canada—Bryan to The World.

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—(Special)—To The World to-day William Jennings Bryan said:

"If at any time Canada, of her own free will, desired a more intimate relationship with the United States, such relationship would no doubt be satisfactory to the people of our country, but I am sure that at present no change in the status of each country is thought of except that which might conduce to a closer trade relationship between the two countries."

Stretch Day 80 Minutes

British M.P. Proposes Legislation to Set All Clocks Back.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—About a year ago The Sun published a scheme proposed by a certain Willet, who was distressed by the enormous amount of daylight Britishers, and especially Londoners, wasted each day. He suggested that all clocks in the United Kingdom should simultaneously be put forward, so that a man getting up at presently 9 in the morning would really be doing so at 7.40. Thus he would gain one hour and twenty minutes in the morning, and to city men, giving an extra 2 1/2 hours of daylight as by a miracle to British business men. An eminent brain specialist declares that all the best work is done in the early morning hours. Therefore the scheme will increase the output of authors, clerks and all sorts and conditions of men.

The head of one of the biggest business firms in the city says he is willing to discuss the plan, but the railways and business houses all must concur. An extra hour on a summer evening for cricket and tennis would appear to the young and to city men. The astronomer at Greenwich says it would be easy. Already they record three times—sideral, according to the stars; astronomical, beginning at noon, and civil, beginning at midnight.

The manager of the Savoy Hotel, on the other hand, declares it would be impossible to change the time as Mr. Pearce proposes. The society dining room, he says, is already late and it is impossible to change the time as Mr. Pearce proposes. The society dining room, he says, is already late and it is impossible to change the time as Mr. Pearce proposes.

SHIPYARD SUSPENDS.

Sunderland, Eng., Feb. 8.—The big shipbuilding syndicate of Sir James Laing & Sons has suspended. The yards of the syndicate at Sunderland and Deptford employed 5000 men. The concern had built liners for the Peninsular & Oriental and other companies, as well as several men of war. A scheme of reconstruction will be submitted to the creditors at an early date.

Stately Funeral of Portugal's Royal Dead

The heavily armed procession which left the Necessidades Palace was reminiscent of a bygone age. Cavalry with pikes led the way; infantry brought up the rear.

The cortege proper was surrounded by squadrons of dragoons. It consisted of the funeral cars, following in the wake of high-seated gilded coaches, each drawn by six pairs of richly-caparisoned mules, in which rode the special ambassadors and the high dignitaries of the court. These lumbering, creaking, springless vehicles are Portugal's pride, dating back to the golden age. Each has a romantic history. Riding alongside of these were special platoons of hussars with drawn sabres.

The crown, veiled with crepe, was borne in a separate carriage. The sword-bearers, black-capped, and the staff-bearers, walked ahead of the funeral cars, and three rows of taper-bearers on either side.

Barheaded lacquies, in royal livery of red and yellow, and halberdiers, with arms reversed, marched behind the cars. Here also came the mounts of the dead master, covered with black mantles.

The sleeves of the soldiers, the whips of the coachmen, hilts of swords, caps of grooms and points of lances, all bore crepe.

The three lamps, veiled and lighted, heightened the effect of the cortege.

On the arrival of the funeral coaches before the door of the Mortorio de Sao Vincente, the Holy House of Lisbon, an association for helping the poor, assisting the wounded and burying the dead, exercised the ancient privilege of carrying the coffins to the grave and saying the first prayers. The caskets were placed on two tiers before the door of the church, where the patriarch, assisted by clergy, received them, first sprinkling them with holy water, then giving his blessing and saying: "Requiescat in pace."

The ceremony of handing over the coffins to the patriarch of Lisbon was carried out immediately after the departure of the members of the cortege. The grand chamberlain handed him the keys and declared upon solemn oath that the bodies of King Carlos and Crown Prince Luiz Philippe really were contained in the coffins, that he had seen and recognized them and had accompanied the bearers of the keys to the cathedral.

High court officials signed as witnesses the two documents regarding the handing over of the keys.

Bold Swindler Fleeces Italians at Big Hotel

Promised Them Easiest Sort of Work at King Edward and Collected $15 From Each—Nabbed.

Work—Four hours a day.
Library—Two hours a day.
Position—Light work and cleaning the corridors of the King Edward Hotel.
A beautiful new uniform and $2.50 a day.

The above position was offered to several Italian youths yesterday by a man who registered at the King Edward Hotel as H. Chapman. The Italians were to put up $15 apiece to get the job. Chapman got between $60 and $70 and took the 6:19 train last night for Chicago.

The matter was reported to the department too late to get him here, but he was arrested at London by Detectives Ryder and Egeleton.

He is described as a man of Jewish appearance, from 30 to 35 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches, weight 160 pounds, dark complexion, clean shaven, wearing a brown shirt, dark spring overcoat, black scarf, a brown leather suitcase and a silk hat box.

Chapman registered Saturday night. He went up to see Michael Basco and got the address at 159 Teraulay-street, where a number of Italians lived.

He took several of the foreigners looking for work to his room at the hotel, where he displayed a contract for them to sign after they had paid him $15 apiece for getting their new position as general cleaners-up around the big hotel.

They were to receive $2.50 per day for 4 hours' work a day and each day for 2 hours' work in the library to improve their English, etc.

Detectives Guthrie and McKinney are working on the case.

Wabash Flyer Wrecked

Cars Went Down Embankment, But Passengers Luckily Escaped Serious Injury.

DELEH, Feb. 9.—(Special)—Wabash flyer No. 1 is lying in the ditch two miles east of this town as a result of a broken rail. The Wabash flyer consisted of an engine and five coaches. She was running westbound and left Simcoe about 9:30 this morning.

All went well until about two miles east of Delhi, when the entire train jumped the rails and tore along the ties for a distance of a hundred yards, when the two rear coaches broke loose and tumbled down a fifteen foot embankment. These two coaches are badly wrecked. They are lying on their sides, and the trucks in some places are badly smashed and torn completely off.

In these two cars there were only six passengers and two porters. One old lady was said to be badly injured, and one man had his head badly cut.

Apart from this none of the occupants were severely injured, beyond a bad shaking up.

It is little short of a miracle that all the occupants were not killed, as the train was traveling at the rate of a mile a minute, and these two rear coaches were hurled a considerable distance. The other three coaches remained right side up.

ONLY ANSWER IS "KILL HIM"

Bernard Shaw's Lesson Drawn From the Assassination at Lisbon.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Bernard Shaw, writing about the appalling frequency of political assassinations, and after reviewing those since the murder of Alexander of Russia and referring to the death of Charles I, says:

"Let me try to bring the question home to England. For 200 years our monarchs have run no risks. Our kings have accepted a liberal position so completely that we have forgotten it is still possible for our kings to do what the late King of Portugal did. Our revolutions have been general elections, swinging the pendulum between the Whigs and the Tories."

"But the twentieth century brings a new force into the field—socialism. Private property as present is unprofitable for both king and parliament. It may be within a lifetime that many now living will be defending property in its last ditch."

"Suppose the next four general elections should show such a steady increase of Socialists in parliament as to make it a political certainty that the fifth general election will place them in a majority. Suppose that the only way of averting this will be the repeal of the two great reform acts or the introduction of the three class system of voting, with the establishment of a Straford or a Franco in a dictatorship to suppress public demonstration against the measures. Suppose the projected classes of the day compel the reigning monarch to countenance those proceedings. Suppose he, having taken a political bias, and no like King Edward in the heyday of Victorian liberalism, but in a heyday of jingo imperialism, were to throw himself heart and soul into an attack on democracy, what should we do, what would be our remedy against the King?"

The English answer so far is, "Kill him"; the French answer so far is, "Kill him"; the Russian answer so far is, "Kill him"; the Portuguese answer so far is, "Kill him"; the Roman answer, glorified to the utmost of his power by our greatest poet, is "Kill him." No sane human person can be satisfied with that answer, but it stands and it will continue to stand until a better one can be found."

The most impartial advices from Lisbon give the impression that the cumulative effect of recent political history which culminated in the royal tragedy will be toward purity and conservatism in Portugal. It is not impossible that the man who will perform the real task of pacifying and uniting his country will be the Marquis de Soveral, the Portuguese minister at London. He is one of King Edward's closest, and most intimate friends among the members of the diplomatic corps, and he has been in constant communication with Buckingham Palace since his arrival here on Wednesday.

FOUND DEAD IN BASEMENT.

Leonard Raffe, an Englishman, aged 45, was found dead at 8:45 yesterday morning in the basement of the building at 14 Leader-lane. Raffe had been employed by the caretaker to do odd jobs. He was apparently in good health Saturday afternoon. Heart failure was the cause of death.

RUSSA MOVES LARGE ARMY TO FRONTIER

Alarmed at Turkish Penetration of Persia, Funds Are Voted and Troops Will Advance.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 8.—The Russo-Turkish relations have entered upon a menacing phase. Alarmed at the unchecked Turkish penetration of Persia, and the mobilization in Armenia, the Russian government has decided to execute a formidable military demonstration in reply on the Turkish frontier despatching there a compact expedition of 60,000 select troops from Central Russia, with full war equipment, and it is acting with uncommon rapidity with a view to overtaking the Turks by a decisive exhibition of force.

The war office has drawn up plans of the expedition, and submitted them hurriedly for legislative enactment to the duma on Friday. The committee on national defence assembled in a virtually closed session, and a representative of the war office briefly and impressively outlined the Turkish preparation, of which Russia is fully informed, and asked for an open credit for the maintenance of an army of 60,000.

He met the possible arguments of economy by saying that Russia had expended blood and treasure in Manchuria in vain, owing to the initial backwardness in armament. The empire's prestige in the middle east, he said, is now also in the balance, and Russia must be prepared to defend it.

The leader of the Octobrist party, in a speech, said that the majority in the duma were Russian patriots while willing to have the Russian "at-shirt" to defend the fatherland. The committee in a high pitch of patriotism passed the appropriation unanimously. At the same session the war office obtained sanction for a further item of $10,000,000 to create floating batteries along the Baltic coast, which, owing to the weakness of the navy, is at the mercy of Germany.

War Cloud in Balkans Regarded as Threatening

ROME, Feb. 9.—The situation in the Balkans, which suddenly has attracted attention in reply on the Turkish frontier despatching there a compact expedition of 60,000 select troops from Central Russia, with full war equipment, and it is acting with uncommon rapidity with a view to overtaking the Turks by a decisive exhibition of force.

Terrorists Had Bombs and Electric Wires Ready.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—A sensational story comes from St. Petersburg which gives the details of the latest reported plot against the czar.

A letter containing a terrorist death sentence was found in the room of the czarvitch. Investigation, according to this yarn, showed that there was a network of electric wires within the palace connected with concealed bombs at various parts of the building.

These bombs could be fired simultaneously by the pressing of a button.

IMPOSING OBSEQUIES FOR PORTUGAL'S ROYAL DEAD

King Manuel Did Not Have a Place in the Procession.

LISBON, Feb. 8.—With the church bells tolling continually, the bodies of the murdered king and crown prince in two golden chariots shrouded in black velvet and drawn by eight hooded horses, were escorted by a glittering funeral pageant today, across Lisbon to the Portuguese pantheon, and laid at rest beside their ancestors of the Braganza dynasty.

Seven hours elapsed from the time the foreign princes and the special ambassadors of all the nations gathered at the doors of all the ministers' palaces until three salutes of twenty-one guns and three volleys of musketry, reverberating over the terraced and sun-bathed hills, and answered by the British warships in the harbor, announced that the great outpouring of people along the line of the procession was noteworthy.

Not a single untoward incident marred the last act of Portugal's tragedy. Expresses said the day from a distance.

could be heard the minute guns of the land batteries, to which the British and Spanish cruisers replied gun for gun.

Meanwhile, the master of ceremonies conducted the special missions, and the diplomats to special tribunes built for their use.

The second abolition having been pronounced by the patriarch, a requiem mass was celebrated. The ceremony in the church lasted half an hour, and the coffins remained for some time for public view and were then conveyed to the mortuary chapel adjoining the church, where another mass was said for the repose of the souls of the dead.

The display of flowers in the interior of the cathedral was remarkable. The tribune erected for the diplomats and other official guests, as well as the altar and chancel rails, and the four high flanking pillars, were thickly hung with wreaths, which thus formed a beautiful square of rich blooms, the predominant colors of which were purple and white.

The cortege, on account of the ancient coaches, moved at a snail's pace.

BRITISH COLUMBIA AND ASIATICS

According to a cable despatch of Saturday The London Times, editorially commenting on the passing by the British Columbia Legislature, of an act framed on the model of the Natal statute and imposing an educational test on immigrants, holds it to be contrary to the Anglo-Japanese treaty and also to the understanding with Japan recently negotiated by Mr. Lemieux.

The English daily apparently assumes that the question of Asiatic immigration into British Columbia begins and ends with the entry of Japanese, and that the legislature is attempting to supersede the treaty as modified by the subsequent arrangements.

The educational test in force in Natal and the Australasian states affects all Asiatics, including natives of British India, and the acts imposing it have all received the sanction of the imperial government, as also has the more recent Transvaal legislation.

"ALL HONORABLE MEN."

By a transposition in the issue on Saturday The World did an unintentional injustice to either Alderman Hales or Alderman J. J. Graham. In answer to the printed question put to them prior to the city election, "Do you believe that the will of the majority should prevail in this city, majority meaning a majority of those entitled to vote and who do vote?" Mr. Graham was made to say simply, "I do," while Mr. Hales was attributed the more emphatic reply, "I most certainly do."

This was incorrect, since to Mr. Graham belongs the honor of attaching the emphatic super-positive, not-to-be-questioned-or-doubted reply, "I most certainly do." It was Mr. Hales who contented himself with the plain, unadorned but still equally definite, "I do." The World is not sure to which of these gentlemen an apology is due.

At first glance it would appear that Mr. Graham has been robbed of the honor of having been the most emphatic of all in his declaration of undying devotion to the popular will. But on the other hand, since neither of the gentlemen kept his pledge, it may be that Mr. Hales was wronged by making the promise, which he did not keep, more declaratory than he phrased it.

It may have been noticed that, in his reply to the same question, Alderman Boughough, the untrifled democrat-to-the-hilt of Ward Three, simply said, "Yes." In his case the simple affirmative sufficed. Indeed to put such a question to him was almost of the nature of an insult. His whole past and his oft-repeated, determined, nay profusely illustrated declarations of undying devotion to the great, vital democratic principle of majority rule ought surely to have made it impossible for any one even to imagine that under any possible circumstances Mr. Boughough would be found relevant to it.

BLACKHAND LEADER.

May Have Been the Murdered Italian Barber.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Coly Calcagno, an Italian barber who was shot to death in East 106th-street last Monday, may have been the leader of the Black Hand organization in the United States. Detective Wm. H. Atkinson of Baltimore, after seeing the body yesterday, said he was convinced the dead man was the chief of the Black Hand in this country.

vice of Toronto, for example, should not be as capably and efficiently operated by its present or any competent permanent staff under the city council as under the existing boards of directors. Probably, indeed certainly, the expert officials who are charged with the actual responsibility would do better service since they would not be called on to separate between the private interests of the companies and the public convenience, but would be free to devote themselves exclusively to filling, as satisfactorily as possible, the requirements of the citizens.

City councils in Canada and the United States are also subject to another form of attack, especially by those who are opponents of public ownership, who feel themselves constrained by the logic of fact and circumstance to concede the success of the municipal enterprises of Great Britain. Unable to deny this, they explain it by a difference in the calibre of the men, who, in Britain, devote themselves to civic affairs. The old country is described as the home of a leisured class, having the means, the time and the inclination to undertake the burden of municipal administration on an extensive scale. Nothing could be further from the truth than this fanciful picture of British city parliaments, composed almost entirely as they are of citizens engaged in private business, either professionally or as manufacturers, merchants, tradesmen, shopkeepers and workmen.

An excellent example of the class of citizens that have made civic government in Great Britain what it is, was that of the late Sir David Richmond, ex-lord provost of Glasgow, whose death recently occurred. Born in 1843, he started in business as a tube-maker in 1867, and in 1879 was returned to the city council as one of the members for Hutcheson Town Board, which he held until 1898, and served for twenty years. Elected bailie and magistrate in 1882, he became senior magistrate in 1886, was appointed city treasurer in 1887, also serving as master of works and convenor of the parliamentary bills committee. In all these capacities Sir David Richmond displayed a soundness of judgment and solidity of character which were fully recognized by his fellow-citizens. He was a man of high standing in the city—the first to hold that office after the great extension of its boundaries, that made Glasgow the second city of the empire. His three-year term of office was marked by extraordinary civic activity and many important schemes connected with gas, street railway, sewage and general improvements.

SOMETHING ABOUT BRYAN

'HOPE OF THE DEMOCRATS'

Not Yet 50 Years of Age, But Three Times Candidate for U.S. Presidency.

William Jennings Bryan, who will address the Canadian Club, the Press Club and a meeting in Convocation Hall during to-morrow afternoon and evening, is one of the most striking and picturesque personalities in the United States to-day. Not yet 50 years of age, he represents a type of American strenuousness quite distinct from that which finds its personification in President Roosevelt. The hope of the Democratic party, he has heard an aristocrat, and the paradox has found expression in a dozen phases, and lively career is his brilliant and lively career.

THE NEW CANADIAN BIRKBECK BUILDING.

The Canadian Birkbeck Investment and Savings Company has commenced the construction of a new office building at 4 and 8 East Adelaide-street to provide accommodation for the increasing requirements of its business. The building, with a frontage of 50 feet on Adelaide-street, and a depth of 140 feet, will have a handsome freestone front and will be the best fireproof construction throughout, well lighted, with wide corridors and thoroughly equipped elevators. Four stories are now being erected, and structural provision has been made for the addition of other four stories at a later date.

The company's public office, which will occupy the ground floor fronting on Adelaide-street, has been adapted to meet in every way the requirements of its business. The offices for rental will have all modern conveniences, and large vaults will be placed on each floor for the use of tenants.

CITY GOVERNMENT AND PUBLIC OWNERSHIP.

Admirers and defenders of the policy that hands over public services to private operation and control have always on tap various stock assertions more dogmatic than accurate, and among them a comparison, necessarily invidious, between the relative executive capacity of representative bodies and directorial boards. It matters nothing whatever to the merits of the case that the average director cares little and knows less about the expert technical knowledge, whose lack on the part of a common councillor is so much apprehended and deprecated. Of course, there is no reason under heaven why the gas supply or the street railway ser-

AN EPISTLE IN VERSE.

To Dr. A. S. VOGT, Conductor Mendelssohn Choir.

Dear Doctor: When Orpheus wailed Eurydice, Tho surely fled from him forever, No doubt the nymphs who wept with him Thought his reverent music clever.

But what could Orpheus really do With his poor four-stringed ancient lyre? He might have wooed his lady back, If he had led a choral choir.

For when I come to think of it, His lyre was as a concertina,— It sounded worse than "Organum" Before the days of Palestrina.

But even if he had the choir, Good "scores" would still be sadly lacking; For early Church polyphony Sounds better with a little Bach—ing.

Handel, Haydn, Mendelssohn, Tho lately going out of fashion, Would have to add their quota, too, In choral strains of lofty passion.

Yet these could not Eurydice Have wooed, or from the lost have plucked her, For choral choirs with modern scores Would fail without a great conductor.

Believe me now, Herr Doktor Vogt, Even if old Orpheus was divine, His nymphs and lyre couldn't "touch" your choir,— You're the greatest ever in your line.

DEMOCRAT LEADER STEPS OVER THE BOUNDARY LINE

Reminds Citizens of Montreal of Hon. Felix Geoffrion—Greeted by Many Admirers.

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—(Special.)—The distinguished American citizen, the Nebraska newspaper man and the Democratic statesman, who will be a candidate for the third time for the presidency of the United States, arrived in the city to-day and during the day received a good number of friends and admirers. Those who remember the kind yet strong face of the late Hon. Felix Geoffrion, minister of inland revenue in the Mackenzie administration from 1874 to 1878, and a very strong resemblance to the eloquent Democratic leader from the neighboring republic. He is accompanied by Harry W. Walker, a personal friend of Mr. Geoffrion, who is also secretary of the Aqueduct Commission, and being a very great admirer of the political leader, believes in his star and opines that Mr. Bryan will not only secure the Democratic nomination in July next, but will be elected president of the republic.

Reticent About Candidature.

Mr. Bryan did not care to discuss the probability of his own candidature in the coming electoral campaign, but he remarked in the first place that there was less marked feeling in his country than in this period, and consequently the independent voter had become a very strong factor in the land. No, he did not expect President Roosevelt to be a candidate for another term at the White House, as the president's utterances, deprecating such nomination, were taken as final by his fellow countrymen.

The University Sermon.

Rev. Canon Welch, in his discourse to the students of the university yesterday morning, sounded a note of warning regarding over-eagerness to accept new theories developing from the higher criticism and the new theology, but, on the other hand, he was equally earnest in his warning against a conservative view, declaring that much good would develop from it. He drew a parallel between the modern development and that of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, when, with the revival of the Latin and the discovery of the Greek, came a reformation of theories and a throwing away of the traditions of the Old Testament.

His Plunge Into Politics.

His first practical experience on the political stage was as the delegate for the State of Illinois to the National Democratic convention in 1896. He had been a lively worker long before this, however, and was well and favorably known to all the leading Democrats in the country. His fervid enthusiasm, his irrepressible optimism, and his power to convince even the "hardbacks," carried the convention home to him, and he found himself nominated for the presidential candidature in the first year of his delegate representation.

Opposed Imperialism.

The imperialist doctrine had bitten deep into the minds of the nation, and opinion was keenly divided on this question. Bryan took the side of the opposition. He fought against imperialism, and he waged a terrific war against the trusts. McKinley was supported by every possible influence that could tell in a candidate's favor with the electorate. But his opponent did not give him an easy victory. It was one of the most keenly contested elections the States had known for years. Passions were aroused which have been dormant for many years, and though McKinley won, his victory was not easily bought.

OWEN SOUND LINE OPEN.

Regular Service Will Be Resumed To-Day.

ORANGEVILLE, Feb. 9.—(Special.)—The blockade on the Owen Sound division was lifted to-day, and to-morrow the regular service will be resumed.

The body of Rev. Mr. Keyes, which was blocked at Shelburne, will probably reach Chateaufort Monday in time for interment.

The body of Mrs. Campbell, en route from Saskatchewan to Owen Sound, is at the station here, and will be sent north to-morrow.

To-night, at the request of the rector, Mr. Clement Keyes, a financial journalist of New York, and son of the late Rev. Mr. Keyes, preached in the Church of England on "Business Morality." The insurance frauds, he declared, had injured the financial reputation of the United States throughout the world.

He spoke of the cruel crushing out of competition by combinations of heartless millionaires, and touched upon the evils of the bucket-shop, especially mentioning that there were a number flourishing in Toronto.

His plea was not to make the struggle for wealth exclude all the better things of life.
