Published every evening (Sundays excepted) at No. 21, CANAL STREET, SAINT JOHN, N. B. JOHN A. BOWES, Editor and Publisher.

THE EVENING GAZETTE

will be delivered at any house in the cities of St. John and Portland for a month for thirty-five cents. The subscription may be paid at the office, or to any news agent who sells the GAZETTE.

ST. JOHN, N. B., MONDAY, MAY 6, 1899.

Coming to the large increase in our subscribers within the past few months we have been obliged to add new carriers, and to alter the boundaries of the carriers districts. Subscribers failing to receive their papers regularly will please give notice at this office at once, so that the mistake may be remedied.

THE TELEGRAPH ON DIET.

At the present exciting crisis in local political affairs, it might be supposed that the editor of the Telegraph would give his readers some information or tender them some advice, in regard to the questions about which every person in the city is talking. He might tell them, for instance, what share he had in promoting the candidature of Mr. Ritchie for the office of Police Magistrate, and he might give his views as to that gentleman's chances of retaining his post. But the man from Penobscot does not do this. He is less concerned in regard to what is to be done, than he is as to the manner in which it will be done. He is a physician, and he knows that a very large dish of raw meat is being got ready for him to swallow, he calmly sits down and writes an article on "A vegetarian versus a meat diet." This article may possibly have a deeper meaning than appears on the surface and may be intended as a sort of request to the Attorney General not to attempt to touch too much of the meaty bit. In it he elaborates the theory that the flesh of beasts revivified by being eaten by man, enters into the human system the animal passions and appetites which war against the better qualities of man's mind and moral nature. This theory receives an apt illustration in the case of the editor of the Telegraph himself who stands as a conspicuous example of the baneful effects of a diet of raw meat. "It is notorious," says the Penobscotian, "that the editor of the Telegraph is a man who is very fond of eating meat like the lion and tiger, while the best-looking quadrupeds on the globe are the opposite of this. What, perhaps, more to the point is that the character of the same brute may be changed by his diet. The butcher's dog fed exclusively on raw meat, is usually a much more cruel and vicious brute than the differently fed."

When the Telegraph man was brought down from Penobscot and his diet changed from fried pork and baked beans to crows, the alteration in the economy of his system was immediately apparent. He at once began to exhibit a desire to fly and became possessed of an uncontrollable mania to steal the chickens on a golfing from the farmer's yard. The Telegraph, under the present editor, has shown all the signs of the diet upon which its editor has been feeding. It has become the crow of the newspaper world. It is noisy, quarrelsome, selfish, and not over honest, and in all respects resembles in its morals the sable winter visitor of the farmer's barn yard. The editor of the Telegraph now seems to think that a vegetable diet might do him some good, and informs his readers that in the anti-dietarian days the eating of raw meat was forbidden, and that only after the deed was committed was man to eat of flesh. This ought to settle the question. The Telegraph has become an anti-dietarian paper and its editor ought to feed on an anti-dietarian diet.

A BILDUNG M. P.

The editor of the Globe is returned from Ottawa in a very bad humor, at least we judge so by an editorial which appeared in his paper on Saturday, entitled "A local trouble." During the editor's absence in the Dominion capital everything has gone wrong. The Globe has lost its circulation and in advertising; the Globe has ceased to carry any weight, because it had no opinion to express on any of the subjects in which the people of St. John are interested. The Globe has but its lead and is never likely to regain it, the Gazette having taken its place. The union of the two cities has been carried without the Globe's assistance, indeed in spite of its opposition. It is plain to see that the editor of the Globe has been carried away by the fever of the Union Act and is now in a state of mental derangement. He finds then, he is not feeling well. He finds then, he is not feeling well. He finds then, he is not feeling well.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

The New Glasgow Enterprise says of the proposed fast trans-Atlantic steamship line: "These floating palaces are not likely to run the risk of making St. John their winter terminus. But they must get returns, and if they cannot get it at Halifax—and but comparatively little freight is going to filter through St. John and to Halifax—and if they will incur the risk of going to St. John, then the policy of a fast Atlantic line with a Canadian terminus will soon come to a head. This is a frank confession that Halifax is beaten, and that the fast steamers must come to St. John if they expect to get any freight. The editor of the Telegraph has not a word to say in his paper, in regard to Mr. Ritchie or the police magistracy, but he is assuring his friends privately that Mr. Ritchie will be appointed. This statement shows the direction of the editor's will be done. The editor of the Telegraph has no influence over the attorney general, and he does not appear to have any friend among the St. John members except Mr. Ritchie. St. John has a stately champion in the Canadian World, which prides the senate highly for throwing out the Harvey-Salisbury bill, and adding "Proclamation has shown itself eager and willing for the mere sake of seeing the Canadian Pacific trains pass through the town, and leaving the conductors shout, 'Ten minutes refreshments,' to see the contemplated wrong done to New Brunswick's chief city. It ought to be ashamed of itself. The benefit to it would be so little, and the injury and injustice to St. John so great, that it should have risen above the paltry local interest and refrained from lending its influence to the Halifax scheme." True every word of it. The drowning accident which is reported from St. Andrew, by which six persons lost their lives, was a dreadful affair and calculated to evoke universal regret and sympathy. It has plunged a number of families into the deepest grief and it would seem as if the friends of the deceased would be deprived of even the poor consolation of burying their remains.

THE SHORT LINE AND THE FISH TRADE.

We have on several occasions directed the attention of our readers to the fact that one of the effects of the completion of the Short Line to Montreal would be to make St. John the centre of the fish trade of Canada. There is a very large consumption of fish in the upper Provinces, and their supplies are chiefly from the Boston markets. But when St. John is brought within sixteen hours of Montreal, as it will be by the Short Line, we will be, for all practical purposes quite as near to Montreal as Boston is, with the advantage of being much nearer the source of supply. Except for the Georges Bank, Boston is not a convenient depot for the fish trade, for no fish of any consequence are caught in its vicinity. But it is quite otherwise with St. John. The great and productive fisheries of the Bay of Fundy lie at our very doors and the railway brings us within easy reach of the fish catching life of the Gulf of Lawrence. The Montreal Star, which has always taken an intelligent and impartial view of the effect of the Short Line on St. John's trade, in a recent article, points out the advantages we possess in respect to the fish business. This city ought to be in control not only of the fish trade of Canada but also of the North Western States. We are convinced that the Short Line will displace Boston in the fish trade, and become as much the centre of the business as Chicago now is of the produce trade.

GARBLING DISPATCHES.

The methods of the Halifax Grit papers in regard to the Government are in the last degree unsafe. It is surprising that so called organs of public opinion should not only employ correspondents at Ottawa to misrepresent the government, but when they fail to find material for attack, should doctor their despatches in order to manufacture political ammunition to be used against Sir John and his colleagues. The Halifax Herald has just exposed the methods of this kind in which the Chronicle is concerned. The St. John Telegraph and Halifax Chronicle both receive the same despatch, which is furnished them by one Gorman, a person whose manifestations tend to show that he is not a disinterested reporter. The Halifax Herald, after the defeat of the Short Line bill in the Senate, wired the Telegraph and Chronicle the facts of the case, which were that the government extended their influence to procure the passage of the bill in the Senate, and that Sir John Melville personally canvassed senators for their votes, while Mr. Abbott implored the friends of the government to stand by them and help them carry out their pledges. The Telegraph printed this despatch, just as it was transmitted, but the Chronicle entirely changed it and interpolated the "assist" was to "assist" in the matter of the government. How, Frank Smith, came from Toronto this morning and though he admitted his despatch, just as it was transmitted, but the Chronicle entirely changed it and interpolated the "assist" was to "assist" in the matter of the government.

RECAPITULATION.

How his Fortunes Have Been Made Out of Little Investments. The New Jersey man who hit upon the idea of attaching a rubber coating to the end of his pencils is worth $200,000. Every one has seen the metal plates and pens used to protect the heels and soles of our shoes. It is a simple idea, but it has made the man who hit upon the idea his fortune. As large a sum as was ever obtained for any invention is the sum which Mr. Yankee who invented the inverted glass, by inventing an odd toy that consisted of a wooden ball with a rubber string attached to it, has made $1,000,000. The common needle threader which every one has seen and which is used by every woman who sews, was a boon to needle makers. The man who invented it has an income of $100,000 a year from his invention.

IN REGARD TO PASSES.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—In response to the order of the late-state commerce commission there were present at the meeting today officials and council representing eastern railroads, mostly to the number of thirty-five. Each road was called upon separately and the representatives of all the roads interested presented the information in regard to passes called for by the order.

VISITORS BILL LINGER.

NEW YORK, May 4.—The city is gradually resuming its every day appearance. Flags and bunting are coming down on all sides to day. It is evident, however, that all the visitors have not left town yet. On Broadway and other principal thoroughfares there were many strangers this morning.

THE BRITISH PARLIAMENT.

ST. JOHN, May 4.—The Brazilian parliament was opened by the Emperor to day.

IRON AND WOOD TIES.

IRON ties have proved a failure on the Pennsylvania railroad, where they have been tried for several months, and while oak ties are being substituted. The wooden ties yields sufficiently to the motion of the train to make the riding easy and comfortable, while the iron ties fail to give on the road bed of broken stones and makes the riding hard and unpleasant to the passenger, as well as wearing on the locomotive and rolling stock; more frequent repairs to the road bed were found necessary with the iron ties. In England and France, where iron is much cheaper than here and wood much dearer, the use of the latter is in preference.—Frank Leslie's Newspaper.

Let us be cheerful and talk of churchyards and epitaphs. An uninvited phantom is present at every scene of jollity; some ghost is always at our elbow when we would fain cheat ourselves into oblivion of the inflexible actualities of life. Therefore let us be cheerful and talk of churchyards and epitaphs. What is the truth but one vast churchyard? We are all dead, and we shall all be dead again. Science speaks a truth that the most popular city are not so popular as the fields are with their dead. The graves of men and women who have lived and died in the ages that are gone, if placed side by side, would leave no spot on land or sea to walk or sail upon. And they sleep well. No specter of untried opportunities jeers them in their dreams. No phantom reproves them for the mistakes and follies of their lives. Though the snow lies deep upon their graves, though the wild flowers spring about them and the birds sing over their heads, though autumn comes with its falling leaves, though the gray ocean moans above them through all the years, and though the sheep of the cent childhood and a thousand times blessed.

TOWN TALK.

It is stated by the Toronto Empire that the syndicate represented by Anderson & Co., are experiencing some difficulty in raising the necessary capital to build steamers for the proposed fast Atlantic service. It is estimated that in order to give such a service as the Dominion Parliament requires and has provided for this session, a capital of $200,000 will be required. This sum is probably not correct. There is abundance of money awaiting investment in Great Britain, and the subsidy offered by the Canadian government is large enough to give quite a respectable dividend on an expenditure of $1,000,000.

THE DEATH OF THE SENATOR.

The death of the late Senator, Daniel L. Huntington removes the last of the members of the Legislative Council who were in that body prior to Confederation. Mr. Huntington has but an active life, and he died full of years and amidst general regret.

THE FACT THAT MR. MELVILLE.

The fact that Mr. Melville, one of the Senators who are supposed to represent New Brunswick is not and has not been a member of this province's parliament for many years is a fact which attention ought to be called to. It seems that under the present law of Canada it can be done to remedy such a state of affairs, but there certainly ought to be a provision vacating the seats of Senators who have ceased to reside in the Province they were originally appointed from.

CONDITION OF THE SECRETARY'S HEALTH.

Mr. Blaine's Attitude Towards the Time. The Springfield Republican's Washington correspondent says: Secretary Blaine is still confined to his room with lambo and rheumatism, but he is not paralyzed yet, except by the pen of imaginative correspondents. Mr. Blaine has been very careful of himself since his amiable thirteen years ago and is easily frightened by slight indisposition. The medicine given him yesterday upset his stomach, and produced a depression of spirits not very agreeable to him or his family. The lack of lambo has been his chief ailment, but he has had times nearly doubled him up with agony. The weather has been unfavorable, and the day Monday Mr. Blaine no particular good. There appears to be nothing specially to be apprehended from the present attack, and most of Mr. Blaine's friends talk hopefully of his recovery. However, it is not possible to say, but he is not paralyzed yet, except by the pen of imaginative correspondents.

The wooden ties yields sufficiently to the motion of the train to make the riding easy and comfortable, while the iron ties fail to give on the road bed of broken stones and makes the riding hard and unpleasant to the passenger, as well as wearing on the locomotive and rolling stock; more frequent repairs to the road bed were found necessary with the iron ties. In England and France, where iron is much cheaper than here and wood much dearer, the use of the latter is in preference.—Frank Leslie's Newspaper.

With Ayer's Hair Vigor, its cleansing, beneficial effects on the scalp, and lasting perfume commended it for universal use. It keeps the hair soft and silky, preserves color, prevents it from falling out, and if the hair has become weak or thin, promotes a new growth. I cheerfully testify to the efficacy of this preparation.—Mrs. P. H. Davidson, Alstair, La.

Efficiency

"I was afflicted some three years with scalp disease. My hair was falling out, and I was in great distress. I was induced to try Ayer's Hair Vigor, and in a few weeks the disease in my scalp disappeared and my hair began to grow again. I am now in the enjoyment of perfect health. I cheerfully testify to the efficacy of this preparation.—Mrs. P. H. Davidson, Alstair, La.

FOR PARLOR AND GARDEN.

It may be I am not sure, that the fathers and mothers of the city, know nothing of the beauties in the Old Burial ground. It may be, and most likely is, that their sleep is undisturbed by thoughts of the millions and millions of kindred men in our sleep. It is not enough that Nature renews us, for she is forgetful of nothing and therefore we are not subjects of her special care. The sunshine falls equally on the pure and the depraved, hence we are not grateful for the sunshine. The grass grows as green on the grave of a murderer as on the grave of a saint. Hence the goodness of Nature fails to satisfy the soul.

BEBE; OR, Two Little Wooden Shoes. By "OUIDA."

The Romance of a Beautiful Flemish Peasant Girl

CHAPTER I. "I want to point you as Bebe, only it will be a shame," he said. "Who is Bebe?" "You shall read her by and by. And you shall see all the good things that she has done."

"What woman, my dear?" "That is Bebe, my dear, the one who has done so much good for the poor."

"Oh!—woman, woman, woman! if I had seen you, I would have dropped you some of my own. Did you go by, and I never knew?"

"Yes, and they were beautiful!" "You are laughing!" "No, I am not laughing. I am only saying that you were beautiful."

"You are laughing!" "No, I am not laughing. I am only saying that you were beautiful." "You are laughing!" "No, I am not laughing. I am only saying that you were beautiful."

"You are laughing!" "No, I am not laughing. I am only saying that you were beautiful." "You are laughing!" "No, I am not laughing. I am only saying that you were beautiful."

"You are laughing!" "No, I am not laughing. I am only saying that you were beautiful." "You are laughing!" "No, I am not laughing. I am only saying that you were beautiful."

CHAPTER II. "What do you know that is certain?" "I know that I am a poor girl, and that I am a peasant girl."

"What do you know that is certain?" "I know that I am a poor girl, and that I am a peasant girl." "What do you know that is certain?" "I know that I am a poor girl, and that I am a peasant girl."
