SPORTING MATTERS

ST. PETERS LOST TO ST. ROSES

The St. Peter's went down before the St. Rose's last evening in the Inter-Society contest by a score of 11 to 10. The game lasted five innings, and Jack O'Toole, with two out and the score tied, batted in the winning run with a clean hit to left field.

This is only the second game that the St. Peter's have lost since the league opened, and loss playing was chiefly responsible for their downfall last evening, although the boys from Fairville played a plucky game, battling out eight hits and had three errors in spite of the fact that they were up against about the strongest team that the St. Peter's has put on the field this season.

Small's fielding was a feature, and he was loudly applauded as he dragged two difficult flies down in the first inning with one hand.

There were fully 800 spectators present on the grounds, while a couple of hundred men watched the game from a nearby public dumping ground and from the surrounding hills.

The following is the score and summary:

PARIS, July 6-The latest photograph of Princess Louise of Orleans, who is to marry Prince Charles of Bourbon. The Princess, who is a sister of the Queen of Portugal, is twenty-five years old, and the marriage will take place some time this fall at Wood Norton, the Duke of Orleans's splendid estate, when a great gathering of royal personages will be present, and when it is possible that an absolute recon-ciliation between the Duke and the royal English family will take place.

So far this year 600 dog licenses have been issued by the mayor's clerk. This is about half the number of licenses issued last year. It is expected that the number will be taken shortly against those who have not yet complied with the law. At the next meeting of the board of aldermen a committee is proposed to consider the matter of increasing the tax on licenses to $5.

An opportunity is afforded the house-holders of St. John and vicinity to secure the United States patent commis-sioner, William Atkins, inventor of the new invention, to hold a nut on turning on a bolt, particularly for railway bolts. It consists of flexible fingers on both to be engaged with a notched flange and washer. The application was filed in Washington for a patent October 8th last. Atkins has assigned two-thirds of the patent to Alex. W. MacRae, of St. John. No con- sideration for the transfer is stated.

The new invention is not, strictly speaking, a nut lock but rather a special bolt and nut. Not content with trying to make a lock, Mr. Atkins has adapted for railway purposes which he believes will stand as long as the nuts last, the slight but almost in- cessant jar of passing trains. A special feature of the new bolt and nut is that the bolt screws into the nut and the nut and bolt has now been tested for the last eight or nine months by the P. E. R. and has met with the approval of the company's officials, including Supt. Downie.

The new invention has also been pat- ented in Canada and patents have been applied for in European countries. A company will probably be organized to put the new invention on the market at once.

Should the new invention prove to be the ideal for which railway corpora- tions have been searching for so long a time it would mean a fortune to the inventor and his backers. Mr. Atkins, who is an organ tuner by trade, is very familiar with the mechanism of the railroad. He previously invented two kinds of nut locks, and also another special nut and bolt. In the model re- cently made in Myers' machine shop, and which has now been patented, Mr. Atkins long ago invented an ap- paratus to keep oil off the edge of a car wheel and thus to allow the brake to be used more readily. The inven- tion, although it met with the approval of P. E. R. railway men, was never put upon the market.

HE HAD IT. A farmer told a conversation he chanced to hear between a boy and a Christian Scientist, who came across a lad sitting under an apple tree doubt- ing with pain. "My little man," the Scientist said, "what is the matter?" "I ate some green apples, and, oh! how I ache." "You don't ache; you only think so." The boy looked up, saying, "but I've got inside information, sir!"

SORE THROAT-IT'S DANGERS. A sore throat unchecked may result fatally in a very short time. One of the quickest and surest ways of escape from the danger is through Dr. Scott's White Linctum, the penetrating pot- ency of which acts like magic, 25c at all druggists.

HOW NEWCASTLE SLEUTH WAS FOOLED

Campbellton Events.
Detective Alphonse Goguen of Newcastle, is down in the dumps. Smart wonder when a man discovers that he is as far from the goal of his ambition as ever, after being led to believe that he is within sight of it, he is apt to feel depressed.
That's the way it was with Mr. Goguen. It has long been his dream to emulate the deeds of the immortal Sherlock Holmes. With this end in view he became a member of the staff of the Webster Detective Agency, Indianapolis, Ind., and made Newcastle his headquarters. He planned a regulation sleuth's badge conspicuously on his waistcoat and stood ready to unravel the deepest mystery or run down the most sought after crook. For some time he was doing nothing doing and when he arrived in Campbellton last Friday on business with the International Correspondence Schools with which he is also connected, he had about given up all hope of ever distinguishing himself as a Hawkshaw. But he had scarcely been here an hour when he received a "telegram" which ran—"Bank broken into by two Italians. About $7,000 stolen and two watchmen fatally shot. Men wanted supposed to be somewhere on the I. C. R. between St. John and Montreal. Two thousand dollars reward for their capture." Signed: Webster Detective Agency.
This is what Detective Goguen had long prayed for. He immediately notified the police he boarded the down freight and went as far as Bathurst. He stayed in the Gloucester shiretown until the arrival of the Maritime express; then he came north again, and Bathurst, and Campbellton he went through to discover several times, but failed to locate the sleeping car conductor refused to permit him to search the berth, and that he had to content himself with an examination of the passengers in the first and second class cars. He got off at Campbellton feeling rather disappointed but not discouraged. The following day he was on the job again, bright and early. He watched every train which passed Campbellton, but all to no avail.
Meanwhile all sorts of rumors were in circulation in Campbellton. One was to the effect that the Bank of Nova Scotia, St. John, had been broken into, the night watchman shot and $7,000 stolen. I. C. R. Detective Noble desiring to get at the bottom of the matter, hunted up Detective Goguen, and together they went to the telegraph office, where it was found out that no such telegram as Goguen had received had been received. Detective Noble concluded that the whole thing was a joke. Goguen now believes that it was, and he would give a good deal to know who was responsible for it. His little joke cost him $4.50 in cash besides about twenty-four hours time.

MEN WANTED A FREE PASSAGE

CAMPBELLTON, N. B., July 4.—Thomas Macleod, of the International Railway, has had an emigration problem on his hands during the past week. At an expense of about eight thousand dollars, two hundred and seventy Englishmen were brought to work on the new railway. About thirty took their departure for parts unknown shortly after their arrival. There has been a continual exodus ever since, until now it is said that over one hundred have escaped. To use the language with which they voiced their indignation against the bunka which had been put up: "They expected us to sleep in manure with nothing but boughs to lay on." There was also some trouble over the wages. Some have been arrested and given their choice of either working or going to jail to await trial. Two men were taken by the officers to the train this morning and put aboard, but the train had hardly left the station before they jumped off and have not been heard of since. THE NEEDFUL (Argonaut)

A young mother in Spokane, said Senator Borah, had engaged a new nurse for her baby. The nurse came to her and said: "I don't know what the matter, madam, but the little one cries and cries. I can do nothing to quiet it." The mother thought a moment. Then, brightening up, she said: "I remember now. Baby's last nurse was a southern maiden. You will find the stove polish on the third shelf of the kitchen closet."

SATURDAY SERMONETTE

WHY?

Why is the train of time when I am behind time, and behind time when I am on time?

Why was my old umbrella never taken (by mistake) and a new one left in its place?

Why are my new rubbers taken (by mistake) and rubbers too big and shabby for me to wear left in their place?

Why did the biggest fish (if almost) caught get away? And why do they laugh at home when I tell them how much he weighed and measured?

THE WIDOW OF NAIN.

(Copied for the Star by M. J. C.) The dust on their sandals lay heavy and white. Their garments were damp with the tears of the night, Their hot feet weary and throbbing with pain...

But lo on the pathway a sorrowing throng Passed mournfully, chanting the funeral song. And like a sad monotone, ceaseless and slow, The voice of a woman came laden with woe.

What need stricken mothers to tell how she wept, You read by the vigils that sorrow hath kept. You know by the travail of anguish and pain, The desolate grief of the widow of Nain.

As he who was first of the wayfaring men Advanced, the mute burden was lowered, and then As he touched the white grave cloths that covered the bier The bearers shrank back, but the mother drew near.

Her snow-sprinkled tresses had loosened their strands, Great tears fell unchecked on the tightly clasped hands, But hushed the wild sobbing and stifled her cries, As Jesus of Nazareth lifted his eyes.

Eyes wet with compassion as slowly they fell, Eyes potent to soften griefs tremulous and sweet, As he called to the voiceless one, "Young man, arise."

The hard, rigid outlines grew fervid with breath, The dull eyes unsealed from the mid-night of death, Weep, weep, happy mother, and fall at his feet, Life's dull, blighted promise grown hopeful and sweet.

THE NEW LUSTANIA WILL BE A MODERN HOTEL

Open Fireplaces, Electric Elevators, and all the Comforts of the Waldorf--Engineering Difficulties--Interesting Report on Crime in Scotland.

GLASGOW, July 6.—The greatest interest is being taken here in the new liner of the Lusitania, easily the largest ship in the world, now being built on the Clyde. This newest and latest Canadian will have a population of 2,150, of whom 800 will compose the crew. She will have accommodations for 150 first-class passengers, 500 second-class and 1,300 third-class. Other statistics of interest in connection with this floating palace of luxury which is being equipped with a telephone in every cabin are as follows: Length, 783 feet; gross tonnage, 32,500 tons; speed, 25 knots; staterooms 19 1/2 feet high, 5,000 electric lamps; 1,200 windows.

The Lusitania is now receiving the finishing touches at the hands of Messrs. John Brown & Co. Recent experiences with turbine-propellers of the Lusitania will prove a very serious matter when this ship, with its gross tonnage of 32,500 tons, is forced at the rate of twenty-five knots an hour through the water. The action of the turbines will tend to keep this huge bulk down in the water, thus preventing pitching, but putting the same time an immense stress on the propellers. To safeguard against mishap is now the chief problem which is worrying the engineers.

For the first-class passengers nothing is being spared. Each passenger gets 50 per cent. more of room than in the older boats. They can choose between dining a la carte in a lovely white and gold Empire salon or table d'hôte in a staid mahogany dining room. Everything has been designed to look as much like the Waldorf-Astoria, the Carlton or the Ritz as possible and as little like a ship as human ingenuity can do it. The fire places will, except in the dining room, be of the plebeian hearth. The windows will be shaped and curtained like a private house. Elevators will take the passengers from one deck to another.

However, it is not even necessary for the passenger to take these elevators unless he chooses to do so. He can call up "Central" and be switched on to the purser, or the barber, the wine merchant or the newspaper agent. In the event of a robbery in his cabin or in the card room, after the fashion of things on the land he can call up the chief of the police, or the steward, having attended the court of the captain of the ship in case of course the Judge pro tem, he can have the pleasure of seeing the offender, if held, committed to the cells.

For the millionaires the state rooms are as beautiful as the shell of the first decorators of the world can make them. In the regal rooms, as they are to be called, there will be two bed rooms, a dining room, reception room and bath room, just such a suite as would be found at Claridge's in London. The rooms are all 19 feet high and furnished in land fashion. The bedsteads are of brass without a suggestion of electric bed-warmer. In these rooms tending to human comfort. Even the sheets will be warmed with electric bed-warmer. The bath rooms will include Turkish and vapour baths, needle baths and several kinds of medicated baths. There will be a nursery for children and a gymnasium for athletes. The lounge will be lined with satinwood.

The annual report upon the Scottish prisons contains many interesting statements. Drunkenness is declared to be one of the offences which in 1906 showed a marked increase over the average of the previous five years, and an examination of sixty men admitted to one particular prison shows that in every case except two their breakdown was accompanied, if not caused, by addiction to drink.

The second main cause for the downfall of the prisoners who come under the notice of the commissioners is less often noted but it can scarcely be regarded as less important. Says the report:—The time when he first goes to work and earns wages seems to be a dangerous epoch in the life of the lad who is not well looked after by his natural guardians. Quite one half of the prisoners style themselves laborers. Through the fault of themselves or their parents they have never been taught a trade, and may have never learned to work steadily in any employment.

It is found in fact that on leaving school a large number of boys are compelled by the necessities of their parents to enter occupations in which they can earn comparatively high wages, but which offer them no training for industry and no permanent employment.

The "Society of Artists at Work," inaugurated by Mrs. Charles Muller, the one that skilled craftsmen and craftsmen may be put in touch with the great public and so stimulate it has now completed arrangements which will enable them at the end of November to organize an exhibition in the Royal Institute. The whole of the upper floor, some 3,000 or 4,000 feet of space, will be occupied and this though much smaller than the Prince's sketching rink at Kilmahide, where three successful exhibitions have been held.

LEADERS OF THE ITALIAN CHURCH SEND A REMARKABLE LETTER TO THE POPE

Criticizing His Policy as Outlined at the Recent Consistory --- Italy in a Strange Agitation Against Electricity.

ROME, July 6.—A remarkable document has just appeared here in the form of an "open letter" addressed to Pius X. by a group of priests. The letter, which is written in Italian, is not signed, but the blank space at the end indicates the number of authors. It is a direct reply to the Papal Allocution delivered by Pius X. when conferring the Cardinal's hat on those recently promoted to the purple. On that occasion the Pope called upon the bishops to cooperate with him in driving out those who were "sowers of tares, apostles of monstrous heresies and rebels who dreamed of the renewal of dogma in a return of the church and of theology." The writers of the open letter felt themselves aimed at in this call to arms and have not hesitated to reply with incisive vigor which is regarded as unusual to say the least in members of the church to its spiritual head.

However, they begin by reminding the Pope of the burden of his first Encyclical in which he invited the co-operation of all men of good will in the Christian restoration of society. It is because believing in the sincerity and the clearness of the Pope's intentions that they could give effect to it, and that authority they thought they were obeying.

"Your programme, Holy Father, of restoring things in Christ was a noble one. But remember that pious wishes and the holiest intentions are not enough to give effect to it, and that the way that you have chosen leads in an opposite direction. You have evinced the same intention when you have aimed at leading back into the church. You have closed the gates against them."

"Yet science and democracy are the living forces of the time. They are the forces of the future. They will understand, and not only will they understand, but they will fulfill their mission. And it is because she has not understood them that she is losing her hold upon the people. Not only have men withdrawn from the church but she herself has come to be regarded as an obscurantist parasite and the Gospel and Christianity to be treated as expressions of the past. The Church is obsolete because it is unable to respond to the ideals of liberty, justice and knowledge which are the life of the age. This feeling has filtered down from the university to the workshop, from the great city population to the peasants of the country districts. And even for the minority which has remained faithful to the Church Christianity is rather the mere cold observance of traditional formulas and precepts than the directing force of their life."

Some are already announcing the death of Christianity. Others are bemoaning its miserable condition. The writers are not of this number. They believe that Christianity is passing through one of those crises which which it purifies itself of elements heterogeneous and hostile to nature and from which it emerges to a more vigorous life. It is in this belief that in response to the call of the Pope they set themselves to the work of the renewal. But such a task was not lightly to be undertaken. There was necessary for its accomplishment a frank recognition of the causes of the crisis. It was necessary to do away with the usual clerical explanation that the masses reject religion because of the duties it imposes upon them of moral, or even because of the intellectual difficulty of accepting its dogmas. The real reasons are more fundamental. They are that the church has adopted an attitude towards democracy and science which has made her justly suspected by both these forces. In France the church has obstinately allied herself with the remnants of Monarchy and aristocracy in order to hamper and if possible to overthrow the Republic. In Italy she consistently resisted the aspirations of the people towards unity and since their fulfillment has withdrawn into a self centered silence and inaction. If she is to consolidate and inspire the democracy she must bring herself into line with its ideals. She must not only abandon her alliance with the shrunken remnants of privilege among democratic forms, but also transform and purify the form of her own government so tenaciously monopolized and absolute, abandon or freely the religious authority of the laity, and secure more equitable tests in the selection of her central executive body while providing for a fuller representation of foreign nations upon that body.

"As for science the church has altogether failed to appreciate the revolution which has been wrought in our conceptions, both of the nature of truth and of the methods necessary to its establishment. The progress of the positive and experimental sciences has demonstrated the inefficiency of every metaphysical explanation of the universe. The historical and psychological methods of establishing truth, partial as they are and must be, by superadded elaborate and logically consistent deductions from a reality antecedently given in certain metaphysical abstractions. This letter, remarkable in many respects, is evidently intended as the new apologetic. It says: "Today it is considered a crime to utter a word of disapproval of the conduct of ecclesiastical government or of the worthy methods of those who represent it. Yet meanwhile reviews and journals which breathe all the fanaticism of the past in the way of pointing the finger upon the most shameful titles and accuse us of the most loathsome infamies in spite of the clerical dress which many of us wear and far from unwhorly."

The whole of Italy appears to be suffering from a strange and almost superstitious outbreak of fury against electric trams and the people omit no occasion for causing accidents in order to have a pretext for attacking the cars and their conductors. The other day at Naples one of these trams, after a five hours' fight the police and two squadrons of cavalry succeeded in removing the bodies in a hearse.

THE HAGUE CONVENTION CANNOT ACCOMPLISH MUCH

Nations Cannot Stand Alone But Are Bound to Interfere With Each Other's Business --- The Troubles in Portugal.

THE HAGUE, July 6.—The hypocrisy of the Hague must be apparent to any student of international politics who looks beneath the surface of things. Idealists like Andrew Carnegie who found temples of peace undisturbed do have some faith in the good time coming when the battle flags of the world are furled at a parliament of nations but it will not soon be forgotten by more practical men that the first peace conference was suggested by the peace star and that he has had more trouble since the suggestion of the conference than his ancestors before him. From the time he first broached the peace conference down to the present he appears to have had the great lesson that "international law is only brute force" brought home to his attention in a thousand ways, foreign as well as domestic. He has been compelled to see that the greatest war since the American Civil War—in the extent of its operations certainly greater than the Franco-German war of 1870, and he has had one continual round of turmoil from one end of his dominions ever since he mentioned the peace conference a number of years ago.

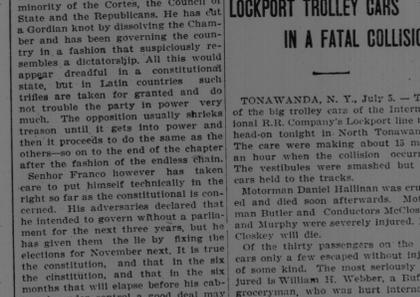

It is of course impossible within the limits of a modern press despatch to trace all of the troubles in connection with the various thrones of Europe but the interesting question is raised—a question of far greater import than the question of armament or disarmament—the question of how wars really to be prevented in the future unless the various nations club together to suppress rebellions and revolutions. And if so the question is naturally suggested whether this would mean the greatest good for the greatest number of people or whether the greatest good for the greatest number of people would be to let the nations alone.

LONDON, July 5.—Mark Twain is a disappointed man tonight. He expected the luncheon given by George Bernard Shaw today to be able to breathe out the problems of the universe and get an inside line on the mental workings of Mr. Shaw. The latter evidently anticipated this. He gave a formal luncheon with George Bernard Shaw, Henderson and Mrs. Shaw to assist in entertaining Mr. Clemens. He carefully kept the conversation in conventional channels and never once permitted it to go beyond such surface topics as the weather and taxinometer. "Tonight Mark Twain said: 'I have no opinion of I mean on Mr. Shaw. He gave me no chance to get one. I started with poor knowledge of other people's minds, but I have only in the last few days read part of one of his plays. My experience today has not added to this knowledge, except that he is a charming and delightful host.'"

"I did not have even a chance to discuss vegetarianism, which I hear is one of his hobbies. If I were a little younger I might be induced to take up that magnificent covering of flesh which should they not be sufficient for the needs of mankind?"

TORNADO DEATH LIST NOW NUMBERS TWENTY ONE ST. PAUL, Minn., July 5.—Twenty-one persons are now reported to have been killed in the tornado which swept a path of 100 miles long and from a mile to a few rods in width through Western Wisconsin Wednesday night. Details are still coming in slowly, and it may be that the death list will be increased when all points struck by the tornado are heard from. A score of persons were injured and some may die. The property damage undoubtedly will be more than $100,000.

A DUCAL FAMILY IN GERMANY CONSIDERED VERY GOOD LOOKING

BERLIN, July 6.—A recent photograph of the handsome ducal family in Germany—Duke William of Urach, the Duchess and their children. Not long ago the Kaiser remarked to the Duke that he ought to consider himself an exceedingly lucky fellow, because he had one of the prettiest wives and even prettier children of any prince in Germany. The Duchess is the oldest daughter of Duke Carl Theodore of Bavaria, the celebrated oculist.

LOCKPORT TROLLEY CARS IN A FATAL COLLISION

TOWANANDA, N. Y., July 5.—Two of the big trolley cars of the International R.R. Company's Lockport line met head-on tonight in North Towananda. The cars were making about 15 miles an hour when the collision occurred. The vestibules were smashed but the cars held to the tracks.

Motorman Daniel Hallman was crushed and died soon afterwards. Motorman Butler and Conductors McCloskey and Murphy were severely injured. McCloskey will die.

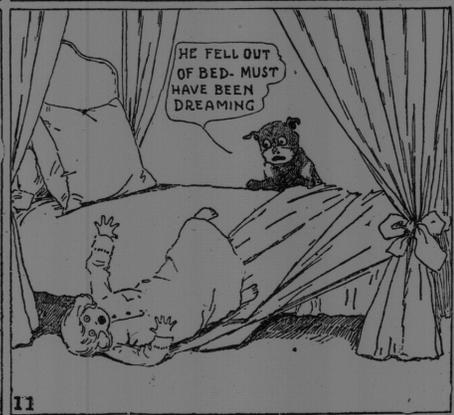

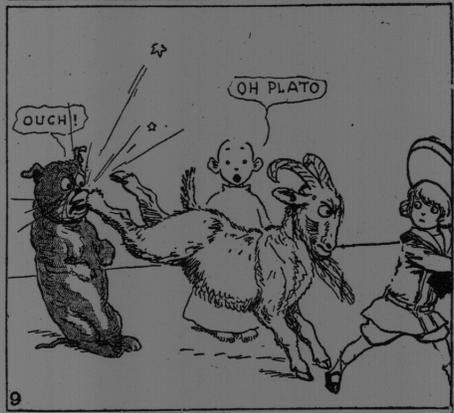

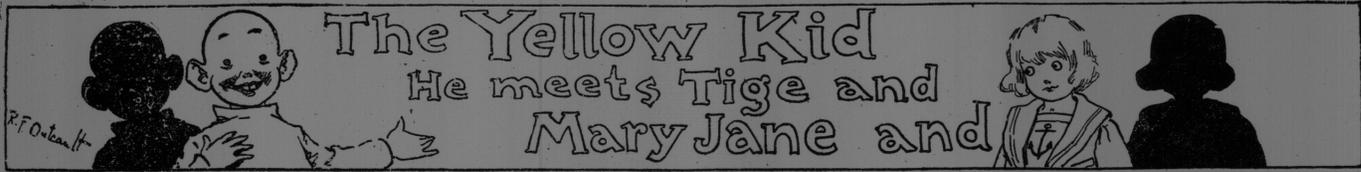

Of the thirty passengers on the two cars only a few escaped without injury of some kind. The most seriously injured was William H. Weber, a Buffalo grocerman, who was hurt internally.

DUBLIN, July 4.—The American visitors left this city today with demonstrations of honor of the fourth of July.

For the Home Dressmaker

DECOLLETE GOWNS FOR SUMMER DANCES

WE HAVE become such travelers, and so much of our summer is spent flitting from one summer resort to another, that evening gowns are practically indispensable, especially for the girl or young matron who still finds pleasure in hotel dances when a supply of partners can be had. Though last winter's ball gowns may be made to do duty for summer dances, a woman, more particularly a young one, looks daintier and fresher in the simple evening frocks that are made from the exquisite filmy cotton materials, which are such a delight in the stores just now. Such gowns are quite possible for the woman of limited income, especially if she can make her own clothes. One young woman who is a great social favorite, and has the reputation of dressing well on very little money, recently disclosed the secret of how she could afford so many dressy summer dancing gowns. "I always have them made late in the season, just before I am ready to go away. I have a dressmaker in the house for ten days, at $1.75 a day, and I sew with her every minute. By that time summer fabrics are very much reduced, and embroidered batistes, mulls, mousselines—even the lovely novelties of the season—can be picked up for from a half to a third of their original price. Laces and embroideries may also be bought very reasonably, and there are sure to be bargain sales in ribbons, so I can afford several sashes, girdles and ribbon garnitures for each gown, thus quite transforming them. Besides, I have the advantage of seeing all the latest models and new styles, and thus can avoid commonplace effects." In choosing materials for these summer dancing frocks, one cannot go far wrong in selecting any of the soft, filmy materials. Cotton nets, either plain or dotted, make charming gowns and very inexpensive ones, too. They need not be made up over silk, as they are really more diaphanous over white lawn slips and a dressy corset waist, or even the colored lawn slips give a pleasing effect. Dotted swiss is another satisfactory fabric for a dancing gown; it is wide and does not crush easily, and so late in the season is very apt to be reduced. The colored swisses are popular this season, or the white with large coin dots in pale blue, pink or green. Flowered organdies are lovely, if perishable, but the new flowered dimities are fully their equal in coloring and launder much better. Some of the newest have an undertone of fine satin bars or stripes, with wreaths and floral sprays scattered through them. Then there are mulls, batistes, plain or embroidered, silk muslin, and some of the sheerest of the cotton voiles. The all-white gown is always good, and this summer it is much seen with touches of the new shade of pink. All-over valenciennes lace can be had cheaply, and makes lovely evening frocks, particularly if one takes the trouble to embroider parts of the design in color. Trimmings are not specially changed from early in the season. Laces are in greater favor than anything else, with German valenciennes, daisy and baby Irish in the lead. Dyed laces are much used in every tone known to the dyer's art, and all sorts of ribbon, either plain or fancy, are seen in girdles and sashes. The four frocks sketched today by Jeannette Hope are marked by distinctness and simplicity. All show the long shoulder and the clinging long skirt. Paris has been so insistent on this style that it is at last generally adopted on this side of the water for all dressy clothes. The first model to the left is of light blue batiste, trimmed with two-inch chiny insertion in a deep ecru tone. The blouse is a simple round waist, cut with separate pieces over the shoulder to give the long effect. The insertion is continued back and front in two deep points to the belt line. The skirt has a shaped circular ruffle, laid in overlapping two-inch tucks, the upper part cut in points and trimmed with the insertion. A sash of blue louisiane ribbon, with short loops and long ends, completes this dainty costume. Nile green dotted swiss, trimmed with broad Irish crochet insertion dyed a slightly deeper shade of green, forms the next gown. The ruffle is tucked in vertical eighth-of-an-inch tucks, and is cut in two parts, the lower much fuller than the other and joined by a band of the insertion. A very effective treatment for this gown would be to use pompadour ribbon instead of the lace. The knot of ribbon tied through the hair is new and peculiarly girlish and becoming. The bows are wired and easily made. Youthful and easily copied is the next model when developed in white dotted swiss or mull, trimmed with German valenciennes insertion. The shaped ruffle on the skirt is laid in high pleated panels at each side, rounding at the front and back. The waist trimming consists of rows of puffs and lace insertion. For mull, batiste or plain organdie the last model is charming in its simplicity. The gown shown is of mull in the new coral pink, trimmed with ribbon bands the same color as the gown. The ruffle, yoke and sleeves are made of deep valenciennes lace.

SOME INTERESTING PARISIAN FASHION NOTES
Havana straw cloche hat, trimmed and lined with blue, gave the finishing touch.
By the way, those crepe de chine scarfs, which are so much seen just now, are made in every conceivable tint of brown and give a characteristic note to the simplest black dress.
Striped stuffs more than hold their own, especially in the tailor-made gown. They are particularly smart in the long straight coats so much worn by Parisiennes, also in the Directoire coats, with long narrow revers opened on a front of pleated frills. The stripes are always made up vertically.
A curious feature of some of the latest hats is that they show no dividing line between the crown and brim. Some women wear these hats set right back from the face, so they entirely cover the nape of the neck.
The very latest in hats resembles in shape the Devonshire harvest-woman's bonnet. The Parisienne looks very equine in one of these novel head-coverings, as she wears it well at the back of her head tilted over a mass of small curls. Usually these hats are in neutral tints. One of the prettiest yet seen was worn with a tailor gown of dark gray striped cloth. It was a subdued shade of violet, covered with small wood violets.
Many of the new evening dresses are of extreme simplicity, the skirts depending chiefly on their cut and long beautiful lines for their effect, and hanging in graceful folds without any trimming.

Vivid pinks are much worn just now for theater and evening gowns. This shade is specially liked for silk voiles and chiffons.
To edge her collars the Parisienne is using a tiny little ruche made of linen or very soft fine tulle. It is easily changed and makes a becoming finish.
It takes a lot of hair, either real or bought, to make the summer's somewhat extravagant headgear look well. The woman who persists in wearing her hair flat has little chance to find becoming the new hat massed with trimming and set back on the head.

Color boots matching the color of the belt are much worn with summer gowns. Mordore shades are in great favor, also royal blue.
Suede gloves in an ivory shade, dark champagne and pretty tones of gray seem to have caught the popular fancy.
A new soft and fluffy stole is made of two large venise stoles, with little ruches all around.
All the dresses seen at the Concours Hippique were made with the fashionable Japanese sleeve. This style of sleeve is seen in infinite variety—some entirely in lace, others in mousseline de soie, or embroidered cloth. As a rule, they are in the same color, but in a different material from the dress.

ABOUT CHILDREN.

(Montreal Star) Of course, children have not even yet, in spite of all our modern progress, come to wear old heads on young shoulders, and it is our fervent wish that they never will. During this holiday season, this peculiarity of theirs will become deeply impressed upon most of us sedate older folk. They are enjoying their fullest liberty; and are therefore more truly that most enviable section of the human family—children—than ever. We will be able to beat them all hollow at keeping quiet during the hot weather, at keeping the neighborhood quiet at silent hours and at showing a wise restraint in the presence of pleasure. For we have old heads on old shoulders. But let us be glad that there are still young hearts in young bodies on top of the earth, and dismiss from our minds the fiction that childish mischief is something deserving the epithet of "worst."

Constant success shows us but one side of the world, for it surrounds us with flatterers, who will tell us only from whom alone we might learn our defects.

Every Woman is interested and should know the wonderful MARVEL Whirling Spray. It is the most wonderful remedy ever discovered for all kinds of ailments. It is a sure cure for all kinds of ailments. It is a sure cure for all kinds of ailments. It is a sure cure for all kinds of ailments.

JUDGE WEDDERBURN AND THE INDEPENDENT FORESTERS

Hampton, July 3rd, 1907. To the Editor of The Star: In a report of an address delivered by my friend, the Supreme Vice Chief Ranger, at the meeting of the High Court I. O. F., of New Brunswick, it is said the distinguished speaker, among other observations "made a few remarks upon the judicial necessity of removing Judge Wedderburn from the Supreme Executive." I am quite sure that the speaker was unintentionally, and I fear, the language used, as quoted above, and which perhaps is not absolutely incorrect, is calculated to convey a very ambiguous and to me unhappy interpretation. Parliament passed an Act providing that judges must not act as directors of corporations, insurance companies, etc. but must confine themselves "exclusively" to the performance of their respective judicial functions. Upon my return to New Brunswick from the session of the Supreme Court at Atlantic City—at which I had been again re-elected P. S. C. Ranger by acclamation, after many years of continuous service on "the executive council"—and at the suggestion of many Foresters—I wrote to the Honorable Minister of Justice, for his opinion on the question, which many thought a doubtful one, whether the Act of Parliament included judges on the directorate of such "corporations" as the I. O. F. The minister, in a very kind reply gave as his opinion that the Act imperatively applied to all judges without exception or distinction. Immediately on receipt of that reply, I wrote my resignation to the late Hon. Dr.

AMERICAN ARTISTS STUDY OLD MASTERS

Those in Madrid Pay Special Attention to Velasquez's Works in Prado Museum. MADRID, July 6.—Senor Villgas, curator of the Prado Museum, remarked yesterday upon the great increase which has taken place during the last five years in the number of American art students who visit Madrid. "They pay some attention to Velasquez," he said, "and copy Greco's portraits and Goya's work to some extent, but they study Velasquez very thoroughly. All his works except his Christ have been copied over and over again by Americans. In this they follow the example of a celebrated countryman of theirs, C. Dana Gibson, who painted with such seal and vigor that he actually exhausted the stock of the dealer who supplied him with canvases."

Senor Villgas added that among American children now in Madrid are a Spanish woman, Mr. Williams, S. Stuart, William Palmer, Alfred Murray, Mr. Daring, Miss Grace Edwards, Miss Stewart and Miss Nellie Harvey. Japanese painters have also made their appearance in Madrid, for the first time. One of them has sold a Velasquez copy in an antique shop. Another Japanese, Mr. Shintaro Tamaishi, is engaged on a replica of St. Mary's, a historical painting, "The Surrender of Breda."

The Prado Museum has been recently enriched by a fine Velasquez, a "Portrait of a Judge," bequeathed by Duquesa Vistahermosa. During her lifetime she received several offers for the picture from American dealers, but refused them all, and to keep it in her own country after her death she left directions in her will that it should go to the Prado Museum. The Spanish government has now placed restrictions on the sale of works of art from churches and other public buildings. America remains a favorite market for Spanish Velasquez himself intends to send some pictures for exhibition at Pittsburg next year.

THE TOMB OF WALTER SCOTT.

In Durburgh Abbey, standing among the ruins of the ancient choir, with the afternoon sun shining upon it, we saw the tomb of Walter Scott in St. Mary's aisle. A noble block of Aberdeen granite marks the last resting place of Sir Walter and Lady Scott. The simple inscription records the dates of birth and death of the husband and wife. Here also are the mortal remains of the novelist's children and of his son-in-law and biographer, John Gibson Lockhart, of whom Scott wrote affectionately, "Lockhart is Lockhart, to whom I can most willingly confide the happiness of the daughter who chose him and whom he has chosen." As we turned from the grave of Walter Scott and wandered across the new roofless and grass grown refectory we recalled his last connected words to Lockhart: "My dear, be a good man—be virtuous—be religious—be a good man; nothing else will give you any comfort when you come to lie here."

POOR BARONET DIES IN HOUSE OF SERVANT

Another Instance of Apolloness of Fable That Truth is Stranger Than Fiction. LONDON, July 6.—A very favorite character in the old family servant who, when adversity overtakes his master, offers him a home where he can spend the evening of his life. An instance in which truth was at least as strange as fiction was brought to light by the death of Sir John William Honeywood, formerly a wealthy Kentish landowner, whose death in the cottage of a former servant at Folkestone was reported yesterday. The entailed family estates at Evington, near Ashford, cover about 5,700 acres. Sir John Honeywood succeeded to the estate as the eighth baronet when twenty-one years of age; but heavy charges on the estate and the great agricultural depression of recent years caused the revenue to be reduced almost to the vanishing point. The last few years were particularly unfortunate ones for the baronet. Broken in health by his struggle with adversity and possessing only the merest pittance, he went to Folkestone and took up his quarters with an old family servant, in a cottage in a small back street. This servant is Mrs. Bevis, who, with her husband, resides in Garden Road. She stated, in an interview yesterday, that she was in the service of the Honeywood family for some years, and as a child lived in the neighborhood of Evington. She spoke with the greatest sympathy for Sir John Honeywood and his family. "He came here thirteen months ago, with the intention of stopping for a month," she said. "We made him as comfortable as we could, but it was sad to see the old master brought so low. He had been in bad health for some time, and continued to live with us. He was only fifty years old." Sir John Honeywood was a county alderman for Kent until recently, and was a county magistrate. He leaves three sons and two daughters.

CHILD SLAVES PLENTY WITHIN OLD ENGLAND

Tots of Six and Some of Four Employed in Lace Industry of Nottingham. LONDON, July 6.—"It is said that children in Nottingham start lace work at the age of five, and I myself have seen 6-year-old children at work," said Miss Squire, an inspector of factories, in giving evidence yesterday before the House of Commons committee which is investigating the question of home work. "It is quite a common thing at the dinner hour to see children busy at home with lace work," she continued. "They do not even wait to take off their hats or jackets before beginning. They are given something to eat on the way back to school, and they still make their own work in the evening, sometimes with their mothers and sometimes in neighbors' houses. Children as young as 12 years old are found carting several hundred a week. "In the Birmingham metal trade children are employed at home sorting out small articles. In the past they were largely employed in the matchbox trade, and they still make boxes for sticks and other small things. "Dealing with the very low prices paid for their work, Miss Squire said one case which came under her notice was that of a widow with two children. This woman made shirts at 8s a dozen, and she had to provide her own cotton, a 4d reel being used in making three dozen shirts. Her earnings varied from 6s to 12s a week.

ENGLISH MAGICIAN

"Mr. X." said that it was a mysterious apple and that none like it had ever been seen in the neighborhood. The investigation went on in a factory where rattan furniture is made, and here they heard the rattling on pipes and muffled voices, which seemed to come up from the swappings of mummy cloth. They entered a store room in a factory and Mr. Carrington was amazed to see a whole row of rocking chairs suddenly and apparently of their own accord begin to rock. "I crawled in behind," said Mr. Carrington, "in order to get a view of the head of the rockers which were behaving in such a remarkable manner. A string attached to one of the chairs and carried over several other chairs disappeared through a hole in the floor. The fraud stood confessed and detected. A whole ingenious system of trickery was evidently in operation, that it was now my duty to unearth and detect."

THE CHANGE IN SURGEONS.

"The surgeon of the past was a huge, coarse, red faced brute, a very terror," said a surgeon of the present. "And to brute type could cut off legs or saw through the skull while the patient, perfectly conscious, howled and wailed. In the past surgery was barred to gentle and refined men. Whatever their interest in anatomy, in medicine, they shunned surgery. They could not endure to operate upon a conscious subject. The advent of anaesthetics caused the advent of new men into surgery. Men of delicacy, of sympathy, of imagination—a higher type—took the profession up. That is why surgery is continually advancing now, whereas in the past it stood dead still."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

WILL SEEK SOUTH POLE BY SPECIAL MOTOR CAR

Manchurian Ponies Will be Held in Reserve Should Locomotion be Impossible. LONDON, July 6.—There is at present in the River Thames a vessel whose past is as adventurous as its future promises to be. She is the Nimrod, a Newfoundland sealer, which during the last forty years, has captured nearly 400,000 seals. She will sail this month under command of Captain England for the Arctic seas on a geographical expedition. Captain England said yesterday that the vessel, which is to be renamed the Endurance, was selected for this work on account of its stability. While an iron-plated ship would be crushed by the walls of ice which hemmed her in, the oak walls of the Nimrod will withstand the pressure. Captain England said the second in command of the Nimrod, which went to the relief of the Antarctic exploration vessel Discovery, his views are, therefore, interesting. "I am hopeful," he said, "that the South Pole will be reached. The Discovery was within 465 miles of it; but the party this time is taking a motor car specially constructed, so are specially Manchurian ponies, which will be replaced by runners. "We shall sail and arrive at New Zealand about for noon later. The scientific party will land. The vessel will return to New Zealand by the following January. "The party is to go ashore on King Edward VII Land. The ship will return for their twelve months later. "The motor car will be used for haulage, and should that break down, we shall have in reserve a number of Manchurian ponies, which are especially suited for traveling over the icefields."

MANY PERSONS KILLED IN WISCONSIN STORMS

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., July 4.—The flood in the railroad wheat lands in the lower part of Kern County caused by the breaking of the Buena Vista Lake levee continued to spread today. Coincident with breaking of the levee yesterday were two large fires in the grain fields of Miller and Lutz, nearly twenty miles from the lake. Two sections of grain were destroyed aggregating between 15,000 and 20,000 sacks. Suspicion has been aroused from the fact that the fires and the levee break occurred simultaneously. CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, July 4.—Today two men were killed and five injured by an explosion of giant powder. The seven men with others were riding to a picnic up the river and had four pounds of used in celebrating the fourth. The survivors say that one of those killed threw a cigarette from the top of the can containing the powder, the explosion following instantly. ST. PAUL, Minn., July 4.—It is now believed at least 17 lives were lost in the storms which swept Western Wisconsin last night. Numerous other persons to farm property and to dwelling houses was reported. According to reports received here, Oakdale, on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul R. R., near Camp Douglas, was wiped out. Four persons are said to have been killed there. At Grand Rapids, Wis., late today a passenger train on the Boston and Maine R. R. at Shepans Crossing, about one and a half miles west of Clinton station. The men were driving in a carriage, and apparently drove into the train, the carriage striking the carriage and killing them instantly.

HOW "UNDESIRABLES" ARE WEEDED OUT OF THE CROWDS OF IMMIGRANTS TO CANADA

A Comparison of the Methods of Canadian and United States Inspectors as Seen at Quebec — What the Requirements Are.

Before setting free foot on the continent of North America, whether his destination is to a point in the United States or to a point in the Dominion of Canada, the alien, and even the immigrant of British birth, must submit to an examination.

WITHOUT SENTIMENT. The Canadian Government seeks a good character from each immigrant landing, a certificate of health and some evidence of sufficient money to pay further transportation and to remain away from the public charities.

THE TWO SYSTEMS. The near presence of these places gives excellent opportunity for an observer to examine the workings of both systems. The machinery of the United States Government is the same in all Canadian ports, and is carried out in the same manner as at Ellis Island.

IN BOTH SIDES THE EXAMINATION is to cover practically the same ground, general health and absence of disease. The immigrants are supplied with vaccination certificates before leaving Antwerp, and these must be handed in with other necessary papers.

CAREFUL EXAMINATION. Now the difference in systems and methods begin to appear. It is probable that the statement of one fact will more amply illustrate the difference than many words.

USE BERTILLON SYSTEM. The systematic work of the United States officials is shown in another direction, the Bertillon system being used to a large extent. Persons of undesirable character, women of ill repute and men who have been in jail, cannot pass the border.

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE BEWARE OF IMITATIONS SOLD ON THE MERITS OF MINARD'S LINIMENT

THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT is not so keen on rejection, but there is a friendly spirit between both sides of the fence at Quebec, and each gives the other a hand without discussing international formalities.

Victoria Colonist Intimates
He May Oppose Templeman

British Columbia Premier Has Just Returned From England However and Denies That He Will Resign.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 5.—The Conservative party wants Hon. Richard McBride in Dominion politics. The Colonist, the organ of the provincial government, foreshadows his withdrawal in an editorial which says: "There is no question as to the other line of activity, and the great success achieved by Mr. McBride will secure for him a reputation in all parts of Canada which will undoubtedly lead to an early dash to his entry into the larger field of usefulness. There is plenty of work in Canada for men of McBride's stamp to accomplish."

"At the same time the Colonist has no desire to see him leave the provincial field. British Columbia presents wonderful opportunities for a public man to make himself extremely useful, not only to the province, but to Canada as a whole. Upon this western frontier some of the most important work in the whole of the British Empire will have to be done, and while the federal arena is the more conspicuous of the two, we are strongly of the opinion that the provincial field might easily be made the more profitable to the people of the Dominion as a whole."

MONTREAL, July 5.—The passengers of the Empress of Ireland, which reached Quebec at noon today, arrived in Montreal by special train tonight. Among them was Premier McBride of British Columbia. Premier McBride gave emphatic denial to the report that he purposes resigning his present position to enter federal politics. CAMP SUSSEX OVER
FOR THIS SEASON

Sham Fight and March Past Concluded Drill
Troops Tired After Field Day Manoeuvres
Tents Being Rapidly Taken Down and Troops Leaving

SUSSEX, July 5.—Camp Sussex, 1907, has come to a close. The sham fight of this morning and this afternoon's march past concluded the drill. Already tents are being taken down and the camp is to be followed tomorrow by the others.

Last evening the army service corps held its concert in the unused building in the rear of its lines, which was originally intended for a slaughter house. The concert was largely attended, and as usual the entertainment of the service corps men was excellent in every way.

The sergeants' mess of the 1st regiment also entertained last evening. Guests from most of the corps in camp were present. The officers of the 1st attended in force. Col. Chipman after a brief address left the smoker, Chaplain Montgomery taking his place. Tobacco, refreshments and music helped to pass the time between nine o'clock and midnight. The affair was one of the most successful ever held by the regiment.

Today was field day, and to carry out the scheme of manoeuvres it was necessary that the troops be early on the move. The cavalry were up at four and on the march to Jeffrey's, eight miles south of Sussex. The infantry marched out at seven. The 67th, 71st, 73rd and 74th regiments, the engineers, the 10th battery and part of the field ambulance composed the blue force, which was to convey a wagon train from Plumvessop to Sussex. The remaining three squadrons of Hussars, together with the 12th field battery, and a small detachment of infantry, formed the red force, which was to try to capture the wagon train. At nine o'clock the advance guard of the convoy moving westward from Plumvessop. The 71st were the main body of the convoy, the 74th the supports and rear guard. The other half of the 6th were sent southward as a guard to the left flank.

The artillery of the Blue force went into action first, shelling the main body of the cavalry as it advanced. The 74th was driven back. The same happened at Roschville Bridge, which was attacked by a squadron of Hussars, which advanced along the Ward Creek road. The main body of the Blue force was practically not in action at all. The Red artillery came into action at a rather late hour. At eleven o'clock the convoy was in camp and the action over.

Tonight at seven the 67th regiment and Woodstock battery left camp for home. At eleven the 73rd and one company of the 71st will leave. The same happened at various times tomorrow. All ready the various rear parties have begun to clear the grounds and the camp will soon be but a name.

ONLY FRANCE CAN PRODUCE SUCH CRIMINALS AS THESE

The Melodramatic Side is Foremost in Tragedies—Sensational Murders—Girl With a Wooden Leg the Prisoner in One of the Cases.

PARIS, July 6.—Jeanne la Republique, who was murdered by her lover, was not murdered by her lover, as it is alleged, killed her lover in a fit of jealousy. It appears that previous to the accident in which she lost her leg she was quite a popular beauty. But a little over a year ago she became the victim of a surgical operation she had to undergo to remove a tumor which was in the vicinity of her eye. She was in love with her first sight. He did not know that she possessed a wooden leg at first, but even when he discovered this fact he said that it did not matter and offered to throw her leg with him. Pauline was naturally delighted with this and became intensely fond of the gallant workman. But in time she became so jealous that she was always afraid that he would grow tired of her that she had frequent disputes with him and could not see him even talk with another woman. The workman finally became tired of this restraint and meeting an old acquaintance went with her to a cafe. When Pauline heard of this she got into such a terrible passion that she took a knife and stabbed him to the heart.

A baby girl came into the hands of a poor peasant woman near London in such a sudden way that she has scarcely yet got over her wonder and stupefaction. However she is pleased with the sudden way that she has been the tiny creature. She was sitting in front of her cottage on the highway, when an automobile came along and stopped. The chauffeur got out and handed her a package asking her to accept it and saying she would not receive it because it contained a baby. Her hands wonderingly and wanted to ask some other questions, but before a word could get out of her mouth the chauffeur had jumped back into his seat and the motor car went off at full speed. The woman opened the package and found it contained a baby wrapped up in rich linen to which four bank notes of £200 were pinned. She adopted the child on the spot.

Convinced that his talent was mis-underrated, not only by the public but by the one person whom he thought should have appreciated it, an actor who has been for some time connected with a Parisian theatre, fired on his wife and child under very dramatic circumstances. As long as the husband was earning a good livelihood on the boards things went on apparently well and he lived happily with his wife and three children, the eldest of whom was a girl of seven. But a time came when after he had left the last theatre where he appeared, having refused a part which he considered beneath him, he was unable to find another engagement. His wife was able to support the family precariously for some time by fancy painting on fans, her work being appreciated by several dealers. But at last she grew tired. Her husband also spent more of his time than was good for him at the cafes looking in vain for an impossible engagement. She tried in vain to persuade him to find employment in some other pursuit but he looked upon this as an insult to his talent. She was the last from whom he expected this blow. He proposed to commit suicide and wanted her to join him. This frightened the poor woman and she hurried away with her two little girls, one of them an infant of thirteen months who was nursing, and went to live apart from her husband in a room in her small hotel. The third child remained with her father. He went to see his wife several times and asked her to return to him, but she would not unless he gave up the stage. To this he would not consent. His wife then decided to apply for a divorce. The actor procured a revolver, followed her to her hotel and sent her with her baby in her arms and leading the other little girl by the hand he discharged the weapon. It is now feared that the injury will prove fatal.

EXPLOSION OF GASOLINE.
A gasoline tank rarely explodes. It cannot unless it contains gasoline vapor and air in explosive proportions, and being always afraid that he would grow tired of her that she had frequent disputes with him and could not see him even talk with another woman. The workman finally became tired of this restraint and meeting an old acquaintance went with her to a cafe. When Pauline heard of this she got into such a terrible passion that she took a knife and stabbed him to the heart.

ALDRICH'S BIRTHPLACE.
The quaint old town by the sea called Portsmouth is the only seacoast town in New Hampshire and is one of our very oldest settlements, for it was founded in the year 1623 and it has a history worth knowing. It was an old town when Thomas Balley Aldrich was born in one of its quaint and ancient houses on the 11th of November in the year 1836, and he has written a very delightful book about Portsmouth called "An Old Town by the Sea," while his famous "Story of a Bad Boy" is a very true account of his boyhood in the New Hampshire seaport—L. Harbour in St. Nicholas.

CUT RATE CONTRIBUTORS.
In a certain parish of Greater New York the rector, while administering his flock on Sunday last that the collection book receipts were steadily growing less, took occasion to declare that "certain parishioners contribute according to their means, but others give in keeping with their meanness." He added that in measure such exhibitions of false pretense reminded him of the story told of the pilgrim fathers upon their arrival at Plymouth Rock. "First they fell upon their knees; then they fell upon their aborigines."

READY FOR THEIR LONELY VIGIL

Wireless Operators Will Soon Sail for Their Stations
Will Man the Five Marconi Stations on the St. Lawrence Gulf and the North Shore.

OTTAWA, July 5.—The steamer Montcalm which was pulled off the sand at Sydney undamaged, is to proceed at once to Pictou where ten wireless operators are waiting for their summer supplies to man the five wireless stations on the St. Lawrence Gulf. The weather is favorable the Montcalm will have the men and supplies on board and along the North shore. If the tomorrow evening and will at once leave to deposit them at their lonely stations to spend the summer talking to ships which they seldom see more than the smoke. The last pair should be loaded and have their station working in ten days from now in time for the opening of navigation by the northern route through the Strait of Belle Isle. The operators have been assembled for some time waiting to make a start, but owing to the failure of the marine department no steamers were engaged and as the Montcalm went ashore there was a little delay. It is claimed that the delay resulted in no inconvenience for the strait has not been navigable as yet.

BOARDER'S CLOTHES WERE ON FIRE

Brigade Turned Out, But Fire Was Slight—Chief's Horse Took Blind Stagger.

A fire alarm was sent in from box eight last evening about five-thirty for a slight blaze at the Depot House on Mill street. Smoke pouring from one of the upper windows led some of those passing by to think a serious fire was in progress. The facts, however, were that the clothing of one of the boarders had caught fire in some way. The clothing was thrown out without the assistance of the fire brigade. It is supposed a spark from a pipe the gentleman boarder was smoking got into the clothing unobserved and set the apparel on fire.

HE REVISED IT.
Young Author Was Anxious to Comply With the Editor's Request.
"Your story possesses merit," wrote the kindly magazine editor in returning a manuscript to a struggling young author of Washington, "but you have embellished it with too many descriptions, atmosphere and other irrelevant matter. What we want is a story setting out the simple facts. Just state plain facts. If you will revise your story according to our ideas, we will be glad to pay you $25 for it."

A few days later the editor got the following from the struggling young author of Washington: "Herewith revised story. Please send check by return mail, as I need the money."
"And this was the story as rewritten—
"Jonas loved Eliza, but he was poor, and wealthy papa kicked Jonas west into Wall Street and made a million. Incidentally bankrupting papa. Then Eliza went fishing, fell off a log into the mill pond, and Jonas fished her out. Papa released and borrowed a hundred thousand from Jonas. Marriage."
—Washington Post.

NORFOLK, Va., July 5.—The board of directors of the Jamestown Exposition Company tonight adopted the report of the conference committee formally electing James M. Barr director general of the exposition.

The recorder has given his opinion in which he backs up the stand taken by the mayor.

ALL RECORDS BROKEN IN THE PAST TWO MONTHS

Number of Prisoners for Drunkenness in May and June Ahead of Any Previous List.

The months of May and June appear to be record breakers for the arrests of drunks by the local police. In May there were placed in the police station cells no less than 151 persons. Of these eleven were protectionists, thirty-nine were prisoners with various charges against them and one hundred and one were for drunkenness. In the month of June there were even a larger number of arrests as 169 prisoners were placed in the cells. Seven were protectionists and fifty-three for various charges and one hundred and ten were common drunks. All records of the St. John court and there does not seem to be any decrease in the drunk habit.

The total number of persons placed in the police station cells for the past two months was 311 and of these only 18 were unfortunate persons looking for lodgings.

The police force has certainly been energetic.

NEW LIGHTING COMPANY AND UNDERWRITERS DISAGREE

Halifax Concern Wants to do Business Here But is Opposed by the Insurance People.

Some time ago a company in Halifax secured the Canadian rights for the Pitner gasoline lighting system and have during the past couple of months been endeavoring to do business in St. John. The light was installed in a King street shop but objections were immediately made by the underwriters and the plant was taken out. Since then the representatives of company have been struggling with the underwriters, but so far have not been able to secure the consent of the board excepting upon conditions which are regarded as prohibitory.

Gasoline is conveyed to the lamps by hollow wires, from small supply tanks. It is the location of these tanks which is the sticking point between the company and the underwriters. In Nova Scotia, users of gasoline lighting are permitted to have not more than one gallon of the liquid in the building, while the main supply tank which must contain more than five gallons may be anywhere outside. The St. John board insists that the tank must be underground, and the building at least one hundred feet from its nearest neighbor. This precludes the possibility of installing the light in any business houses in St. John and the company has enlisted the sympathy of the Board of Trade in its behalf. A meeting of the latter body, it is said, will be held early next week when an endeavor will be made to reach a compromise with the underwriters. Many of the insurance companies on the St. John board are in business in Nova Scotia and admit the gasoline lighting there.

A BIG BASS.
(London Express.)
Edouard de Rosazke is to open a singing school in London as his brother Jean has in Paris. "Grand opera is no good," he is reported as saying: "that is, if you happen to a bass, like me, or even a contralto. The composers won't write for us. The public won't get us. All the big fees go to prima donnas and tenors, while a basso profundo has to worry along on the pay of a chorus girl."
