CURRY RECLARES HIS WIFE THREATENED TO POISON HIM

Alleges This in Libel Suit for Divorce Brought Against Her—Libel a Voluminous Document—Dr. Curry's Version of the Altercation Which Brought the Police on the Scene

Dr. L. A. Curry's libel against his wife, which he hopes to obtain a divorce, is a rather voluminous document, covering fourteen typewritten pages of footnotes. In the course of the libel it is asserted that in the spring of 1906, in the kitchen of the plaintiff's residence, 155 Sydney street, just before breakfast, without the plaintiff ever speaking to the defendant, the defendant struck the plaintiff a violent blow under the left jaw with her fist, whereupon the plaintiff without speaking a word walked out of the room and out of the house without having an opportunity to take his breakfast.

LIBEL ALSO ALLEGES. The libel also alleges that at the plaintiff's summer residence at Woodman's Point in the summer of 1907 the defendant as the plaintiff was going out of the bath room slammed the door violently against the plaintiff's head and shoulders and swore over and over again in that she would kill the plaintiff.

MAKING OVER CHRISTMAS
By O'HALL PANOGAST.

"Certainly," he replied. "I shall take the love torn and weak-hearted young man in hand and advise him to buy work baskets, sewing outfits and kitchen utensils, instead of the customary celluloid album and plush toilet cases. Instead of very foolishly squandering their money on cigarette cases, collar buttons, boxes of two-tier cigars, never-worn neckties, and never-used clothes brushes, the young ladies will be advised to buy articles for the home. In this way their money is just invested, because they will get it back again—or some other girl will; they, in turn, will get the gifts of some other dear girl, so there will be an equal exchange that will be profitable all around."

So the Schemester and his wife argued pro and con until all arrangements were completed for organizing the Yuletide game of Give and Take. Owing to the probability of notoriety and a possible conflict with local merchants, who were fighting the mail-order dealers, Dan preferred to keep his name in the background, and he created a post office box, opened up a secret office in an abandoned building, and then his reform movement against the customary methods of Christmas shopping. His letter took effect immediately and he was kept busier than a one-eyed man at a Wild West Show. He never flooded with orders. By buying direct from a large wholesale house he found he could fill them at a colossal profit.

Everything seemed to go smoothly except the part of getting the people to answer the letter in which he asked them what they wanted for Christmas. Even his request that this information be furnished for the good of the country would not pull the secret from their breasts.

"I will write letters of all kinds. He argued, heated, irritated and threatened, but it was of no avail. He wrote scientifically composed business letters and devised schemes and plots, but he never did get his brain to work. He wrote long letters, short letters, and letters that were filled with promises and refined hot-air. But the people were not moved to action. It just seemed as if they could not be made to tell what they wanted for Christmas.

The Schemester worked his brain as hard as he could before, and the only solution he could take to the problem was to himself and tell his clients what

Oscar Hammerstein, at a theatrical dinner in New York told some reminiscences of theatrical deadheads. "Then there was Blank," said Mr. Hammerstein. "Blank's impudence was second only to that of a waiter I heard about the other day."
"Look here, waiter," said a guest; "this fish is not cooked properly."
"I know it," said the waiter; "but you told me it was for your wife."
"Well, what of that?" asked the surprised guest.
"Why," said the waiter, "I knew that if the lady was your wife she couldn't be very particular."

ST. JOHN STAR.

ST. JOHN, N. B., SEPT. 16, 1904.

THE TWO LEADERS.

There is only one thing which keeps Mr. R. L. Borden to the front in Canadian politics. This is his reputation as a man worthy of trust because of his personal honor. Mr. Borden is a clean man, and this quality is being worked to good advantage by many of his followers who are unable to satisfactorily pose before the people in the same light. A party which includes in its ranks many such men as the Fosters, Powells, Dear Lefurgeys, etc., etc., realizes that its only hold on the electors is by booming as its leader one against whom charges or insinuations of double-dealing have not been made. And this very feature exemplifies the weakness of Mr. Borden. In that he lets himself be worked by such men as are leading him to the skies. If it were not for this one qualification for the leadership, Mr. R. L. Borden would speedily sink into insignificance. Last evening's meeting was a fair example of his campaign gatherings. He and two friends kept an audience for three and a half hours, and spent the time in saying nothing. Compare Mr. Borden's puerile criticisms with the masterly review of Liberal achievements and forecast of future development by Premier Laurier at Niagara. The Conservative leader could find nothing new to say, but he and his friends were compelled to go over—each in turn as it learned by rote—the same false assertions made four years ago, which have been repeatedly refuted since they were first uttered. If Mr. Borden who now advertises himself as the creator of the famous Halifax platform which has so far been productive of entirely unexpected results in Colchester and elsewhere—if this Mr. Borden could turn back to any one thing which the Conservative party has done for Canada since confederation, his words might be listened to with some interest. But he represents a party which bungled the only important proposition it ever undertook, and which in its efforts to straighten out the tangle was exposed in an instant to the full glare of publicity by the revelation of its dishonesty. Mr. Borden does not talk of what his party has done. If he did, and confessed himself to this subject, last evening's meeting would have ended with the opening effort of the chairman. And at Niagara Sir Wilfrid Laurier pointed with excusable pride to the record of twelve years of brilliant constructive legislation, to the great policy of transportation which in a decade has wrought a revolution in Canada, and which is continuing to develop this country's resources at a rate hitherto unequalled in the history of the world. He has something to which he may point with pride, the gradual application of a policy which all men know has been most successful, and he naturally asks that the government which has done so much for Canada should be given the opportunity of doing more. The reply of the people will be as the Premier expects.

SHOOTING ROSE.

The shooting season opened yesterday. Benjamin Smith lies at the point of death in his home at Beaver Dam, having been terribly wounded by a bullet fired by his brother, Edward Smith. The latter appears to have entertained the view which seemingly is held by a good many people, that a game license carries the right to shoot whatever may be in sight, and to be possessed with the idea that everything in the woods is a moose. This is decidedly erroneous. It is not permitted man to kill his brother or his companion. There will be deep sympathy for the victim in the present case, and perhaps even stronger sympathy for the unfortunate who held the rifle. But sympathy is not enough. So long as the law takes no notice of these incidents, just so long will men continue to be killed by careless fools. There was absolutely no reason for the shot fired last evening. The man responsible saw something dark among the trees, and of course felt certain that it was a moose and that he should kill it. He did not take the trouble to ascertain what the object was. He guessed it to be a moose. He fired, and the bullet went through the body of his brother. If the victim in this case dies, Smith is a murderer, not a willful nor malicious murderer, but one who has committed a crime through criminal carelessness. And so long as such carelessness is excused, so long will brothers and companions die. It is the duty of the government to decree, as has been done elsewhere, that the one who in the woods inflicts death or injury by the careless use of firearms shall be liable to prosecution and punishment for murder or doing bodily harm, just as though such crimes were wilfully committed. If men have not sense enough to exercise their own accord, a sufficient caution, they should be taught how to respect the rights and lives of others.

THE HALF HOLIDAY.

There are apparently a few merchants not wholly in sympathy with the Thursday half holiday plan, and some of these express the intention of keeping their places of business open while their fellows comply with the request made by the mayor. It is admitted that the half holiday suggestion was neglected until the last moment, that to be favorably received by all it should have been broached a month ago, and the views of all business men obtained. But this is not the fault of the mayor. It is his duty to comply with the wishes of citizens, and not to force upon them anything which may appear undesirable. But on Monday and yesterday a large number of merchants, having talked the matter over among themselves, requested Mayor Bullock to act. As many as possible were asked to approve the suggestion, and as the time was extremely limited it was felt that, when no objection was offered, it would be better to declare the holiday than to lose time by waiting for a thorough canvass of the city.

The experience of St. John has been that no money is lost to merchants by closing their places of business for a half day. Buyers, being aware that such is to be done, make their purchases in time, and merchants can have no reasonable ground for serious objection. If any feel that in the present case they should have first been consulted, they will no doubt generously accept the explanation that time was limited and it was impossible to call on everybody. It is better to arrange this half holiday at the eleventh hour than not to do it at all.

"I thought your bank wasn't going to give any vacation this year."
"It didn't intend to," replied the assistant cashier, brown from a long outing, "but I put on an anxious look and puttered over my books so long they insisted on my taking a rest."
"So they could examine your accounts?"
"Sure. And they found them in such elegant shape that when I struck for a raise they had to give it."
"It is no trick at all to be honest."
"Is that so?"
"Yes."
"How do you know?"
"The stupidest men I know are all honest."
"Are you fond of entertaining callers?"
"Yes," answered the lady addressed, "but few of mine are that variety."
"Master—I'm sorry to hear, Pat, that your wife is dead."
"Patrick—Pat an 'tis a sad day for us all, sir! The man that rocked the cradle has kicked the bucket."
"It takes a baby two years to learn to talk," said Uncle Eben, "and it takes de rest of his lifetime to learn to keep 'em talkin' too much."

SOME WILD BUGS HE HAS MET

An Ancient Mariner Recalls Entomological Experiences—
Geometrical Beetle That Bites Problems on a Man's Back—
The Four o'Clock Monster of Venezuela.

"Speaking of political conventions, reminds me of bugs," said the ancient mariner, romancer of seven seas, and he reached for his papers and rolled a cigarette. "And about bugs—well, I know something of strange bugs. I've been bit by 'em, crawled over by 'em, driven crazy by 'em all the way from Fetropavlovsky to Nova Zembla."

"These fellows write books about wild animals and bugs. I should write a book about wild bugs I've known I'd have after the publishers offering me a dollar a word. That's something out of the ordinary, you know—that wild bugs subject. It's something of a bird fancier myself, and what I've done to help the Smithsonian out in the line of preserved bugs had best be kept private, for I'm modest man."

"Now, for instance, right here on East Twenty-third street, New York, after I've hatted about the whole world and been bitten by more kinds of bugs than you could hunt up in ornithology books in a month, I've known to bite and bites me thirty-six times on one leg. But wait—"

"The ancient mariner reached in his desk and brought out a paper upon which was drawn in ink a chart of his leg, each of the thirty-six bites being noted by a dot. He pointed to the array of dots with his cigarette holder and continued:

"This here beetle I take to be one of the very rare species of geometrical beetles found in the Colobos, down off the coast of Java. I never saw one outside the islands there before. But along comes this beetle and takes those thirty-six bites out of me one night at a time, and the next morning I found him, put him in a bottle of alcohol and shipped him down to the Smithsonian as a very rare type."

"The geometrical beetle is so named because he always bites in strictly geometrical fashion. You notice by two exactly parallel lines, each line containing the same number of spots. "Now draw imaginary lines between the top bite on the left hand line and the bottom bite on the right hand line and you get a regular parallelogram, which can be divided by pi if you are a mariner like myself and know how to take the sun. Some of these beetles down in the Celebes I've known to bite a perfect Pythagorean problem on a man's back—the sum of the squares of the opposite sides of a right triangle equals the square of the hypotenuse. You know how it goes. Yes, sir, you could stand right up and tell that problem, using the lines that beetle had bit."

"That's not the geometrical beetle. I can't touch the East Indian cockroach. I think that cockroach is the king of bugs. Just like the tiger, for a tiger gives you a bigger run for your money. Why, when I was shooting tigers down in the Malay States, he'd go back to that cockroach."

"He is as long as your finger and as broad as the blade of a kitchen knife, and he has legs on him that can take him over the side of your ship's cabin so quick all you can see is a blur. He also smells, but that we won't talk about."

"Well, sir, this cockroach you get south of Singapore and east of Aden, all the way down to Australia. What makes him so bothersome is his feeding habits. He'll come up to you and gnaw all your toenails off if you happen to be a heavy sleeper like myself; yes, he'll gnaw 'em down to the quick. Not fingernails, just toenails he prefers."

"Not only that, but he'll eat all the waxed thread out of your shoes. You wake up in the morning and start to put on your shoes and the uppers fall apart from the soles and you've got nothing but worthless leather strips to show for your good pair of brogans."

"He likes horn buttons. Just hang up your coat with horn buttons in a cabin where the cockroach is and next morning you'll find they've eaten all the buttons up, right down to the thread."

"Why, know what the skippers do when their boats get overrun with these cockroaches? They go ahead and beach her somewhere and open the sea-cocks. The water floods the hold and the cabins right up to the deck and you can see those cockroaches floating off so thick they look like tea grounds in a pot."

"The ancient mariner paused to roll another cigarette for his better ease of nerves, then continued:
"Now you can't exactly call him a bug, that 4 o'clock Venezuela way, you can't call him a bug; but he's worse than any bug born. He's poison, deadly poison."
"The 4 o'clock lives only in Venezuela; whenever they change the boundary line down there he moves back so as to be always in Venezuela. He's a lizard. I guess you'd call him, and he always lives in the same bush with a tarantula. Find a tarantula and you'll find a 4 o'clock right next door."

"Well, sir, the strange thing about these 4 o'clocks is that when they bite you you always die at 4 o'clock. I guess that's where they get their names."
"Say you are bitten at 11 o'clock in the morning; you'll die at 4 that afternoon. Or say you're bitten at 5 o'clock in the afternoon; you'll linger until 4 o'clock next morning. There is absolutely sure death about the 4 o'clock's bite and it's sure death at just the minute the hands of the clock point to the figures 12 and 4."

"I got bit by a 4 o'clock once by mistake and I tell you it was pretty dreary. "Oh, no, of course I didn't; at five minutes of 4 that afternoon I blew up the bite with gunpowder and that saved me. Ever have to blow up your leg with gunpowder? It isn't nice."
"Now, that reminds me of the whale flea; he's a strange bug when you stop and think about it. First time I saw a whole flea was up at Herschel Island, off the north coast of Alaska. I thought it was a rat, he was so big. "Of course you never find bugs on feet; but a whale isn't a fish, you know, so he's got bugs. This whole flea is about as big as a rat, as I said, and he's got such strong hind legs he can jump from one end of a right or Greenland whale to the other in a little over three jumps."
"The peculiar thing about this whole flea is he's got both gills and lungs. When he tackles onto a big man whale and the whole dives the flea just naturally uses his gills like any fish; but when the whale comes up to blow or sleep all the fleas he's got work around on the upper deck and use their lungs for breathing."

"Those whole fleas certainly bother whales terribly. They have a way of catching on in the tender parts right under his flippers and behind his ears—especially the ears of the male eardrum variety of Alaskan whale, which I must say is a rare specimen—and they chew right into the whale's vitals. The whales stand it as long as they can and then they take a desperate remedy to rid themselves of the pests."
"They deliberately go up where the ice floes are forming and get packed in a freezing fog. There they stay practically frozen in the ice until the whole fleas, whose fur isn't so long as it might be, die of exposure. I've seen ice floes with dozens of these whole fleas frozen in about a great cylindrical space where the whole has been. "And there's just one more bug they like to know about, that's the warbling katydid. The Japs love to have them around and you'll see boys standing on the street corners selling little bamboo cages each with a warbling katydid inside."

"These singing bugs come along about June and they have a way of perching on the roofs of the Jap houses and rubbing their wings on the grass thatch, which produces the warbling sound. They can't warble on a tiled house because the tiles are too slippery; only on thatched houses."
"Why I've known some of the warbling katydid to accompany a zebra girl on her samian when she was singing to a dance. And a fellow I used to know up in Nagoya kept a warbling katydid for four years and taught him to sing the Japanese national anthem, the 'Kimigayo' played? Well if you did you could understand how easy it'd be for a warbling cricket to imitate it."

STRATHCONA CANCELS TRIP TO CANADA ON DOCTOR'S ORDERS.

MONTREAL, Sept. 15—A special cable from London says, Lord Strathcona, who is now at Glencoe with his family, expresses the greatest disappointment that he was forbidden to sail for Canada last Wednesday to take part in the Canadian Manufacturers convention in Montreal. He had completed arrangements when Sir Thomas Barlow peremptorily intervened. He is somewhat concerned about Lord Strathcona's death, remembering a sudden concussion of the gull signal as his lordship's yacht was entering Colony waters a week or so ago. The family hope to induce him to take a period of rest at Glencoe, which Sir Thomas Barlow says is imperative, but now, as always, Lord Strathcona finds inactivity extremely irksome.

A UNION OF SOUTH AFRICAN COLONIES

Delegates From Four States to Meet on October 12th.

Three Questions at Issue—Difficulties
Due to Race, to Debt and to Trade.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—On October 12 delegates from the four independent States which at present constitute British South Africa will meet at Durban to frame a plan of union. The scheme they adopt will be submitted to the four Parliaments, and possibly to the four peoples, by referendum, and if accepted another great confederacy will be formed side by side with the Dominion of Canada and the Commonwealth of Australia. There seems to be a natural law compelling British colonies to amalgamate and gather into strong groups. When Natal, Cape Colony, the Transvaal, and the Orange River Colony become one State its territory will cover close on half a million square miles, or five times that of Great Britain, and will be equal to France, Germany, Spain, Italy and Austria-Hungary put together. The total population of the new State will be about 8,000,000. "The future of South Africa is a vast unknown region, and evil to the empire," said Lord Milner, in a recent speech, and he knew what he was talking about.

THE RACE QUESTION.
But before union can be accomplished there are difficulties to be overcome. There is a race question, there is a debt question, and there is a trade question. Australia had the two last. Canada the first and last; South Africa has all three. The greatest trouble of all is the race question. In all four colonies the number of natives far exceeds the number of whites, and the whites are divided into Dutch and British. The great question that will lie before the Durban convention on October 12 is: How are the races to be represented? Are the natives to vote as in Cape Colony, or not to vote, as in the other States? And how is the fair proportion of representatives to be struck between the Dutch, who occupy the country, and the British, who occupy the towns? In the Cape, Transvaal and Orange there are at present overwhelming Dutch majorities in the Parliaments. Dutch Ministers are in power, and these Ministers have appointed the delegates to the convention. Unless they use their position fairly and recognize the rights of the British minorities it is safe to predict that union will be far off.

MATTERS OF FINANCE.

Next is the question of State debts. In the Cape and Natal there have been successions of alarming deficits; debts are accumulating, credit falling. In the Transvaal and the Orange River Colony there have been surpluses ever since civil administration was re-established, despite the recent depression. For instance, the Cape budget this year showed a deficit of £96,000 and an increase in the public debt during the last four years of £12,000,000. All incomes over £50 are to be taxed; all salaries of civil servants and members of Parliament reduced, and the sinking fund suspended. The Transvaal budget, on the contrary, showed a surplus of £400,000, notwithstanding the diamond crisis. In short, the coast colonies must raise fresh revenue, while the inland colonies' first necessity is a reduction of the burden of taxation and the cost of living.

THE PROBLEM OF TRADE.

Lastly comes the problem of trade, and more especially the railway rates. The tariff, as just hinted, will be one battlefield, but another will be the railroads, which are State-owned. Natal's revenue depends chiefly on its through railroad traffic, Cape Colony's to a very considerable extent. But the nearest and cheapest port of entry and exit for the Rand is Delagoa Bay, in Portuguese territory, and to reduce the excessive cost of living the Transvaal requires, first and foremost, reduced transport charges. Then, again, the Cape's practice of granting preferential rates to local produce is deeply resented by the Transvaal. It is apparent that the inland colonies hold the key to the situation. But will they assume the sister colonies' debts and submit to higher freight rates and higher freight rates without a quid pro quo? Obviously not. The difficulties are great, but the whole people of South Africa, Dutch and British, demand a unification rather than a loose federation.

TWICE DEAD SHE ESCAPED BURIAL

Connecticut Woman Was Twice "Laid Out" by Sorrowing Friends.

WINSTED, Conn., Sept. 15.—Mrs. John Barnum, who lives with Mr. and Mrs. Hawley, Wickwike, near Falls Village, twice this week has been sorrowfully "laid out" as dead and an undertaker called. Twice she has revived. After a long illness Mrs. Barnum passed away, as her friends thought, several days ago. She was being prepared for burial and L. P. Hornbeck, undertaker, was called. While being "laid out" by Mrs. Wickwike and other women the supposed dead woman raised one of her knees. Mrs. Wickwike had heard that sometimes there is muscular contraction in dead bodies. She straightened out the contracted leg and was about to carry out the directions of the undertaker for the care of the body when the other leg contracted in the same manner. Unwinded, Mrs. Wickwike fed the room and summoned her husband. Together they sat down to await developments. In a few minutes Mrs. Barnum opened her eyes and said she was hungry.

Mrs. Barnum then lapsed into unconsciousness for twenty-four hours and then seemed to die again. The second time she was "laid out" and the undertaker called. Careful examination revealed no sign of life. But owing to the uncanny experience of the day before Mrs. Wickwike and friends of the supposed dead woman determined to go slow. No indication of life appearing, they went ahead with preparations for the funeral. Just as the undertaker was about to begin his work a slight pulsation in a vein of Mrs. Barnum's neck was observed. Again the preparations were halted and a little later Mrs. Barnum revived. This time she wanted a cup of tea, as she had had nothing to eat for a week. Mrs. Wickwike made the tea and the undertaker departed. Since then Mrs. Barnum has been growing stronger. The local physicians are puzzled over the case of Mrs. Barnum. They have issued orders that if she appear again to die no funeral preparations be begun without medical advice. The undertaker has removed his embalming materials from the house.

HUNTER MISTAKES BROTHER FOR MOOSE AND SHOOTS HIM!

FREDERICTON, N. B., Sept. 15.—What may yet prove a fatal shooting accident occurred about dusk last night on the Yoho waters, midway between Beaver Dam and Tracy, about twenty miles from this city. Two brothers, Benjamin and Edward Smith, both well to do farmers, married, and sons of Israel Smith of Beaver Dam, New Maryland parish, this county, got an early start for big game, left their homes yesterday afternoon with a team, tent and rifles, traveling in different directions, Benjamin to a pond some distance away and Edward to a brook. Finding no game in either direction, Benjamin might be at a spring not far away, and both started for the spot. Benjamin got there first and was making a birch horn to call the moose when Edward approached. Seeing only the lower limbs of his brother who was in a crouching position and leaving the horn in the making, Edward thought he had found the moose and, leveling his rifle, fired, the bullet entering Benjamin's groin, smashing a rib and passing through the abdomen. "You have shot me," was the wounded man's pathetic cry as his brother

AMUSEMENTS.

"SAMSON AND DELILAH AT NICELLEL"

The Nickel management is greatly pleased to be enabled to present during this exhibition season the most magnificent pictorial production of the year in "Samson and Delilah," a motion-photo of eighteen minutes' duration and acknowledged to be the most gorgeously costumed, most spectacular and in every way the most elaborately enacted picture-play ever made. It is the little story of the great strong man of the Bible, the pictures being colored throughout and depicting Samson carrying away the gates of Gaza; the next picture is his final feat of tumbling the pagan temple into a heap. In fact, all the great events of Samson's life are pictured. Then there will be a Scottish drama of the olden time, entitled "The Chieftain's Revenge," and a comedy of the American quality. Two catchy New York songs, orchestra and the great Humano Co. in their latest picture production of the dramatic labor play "A Hero In Overalls." This novelty is still the great attraction at the Nickel.

EXCELLENT! EXPRESSES BLOU
PROGRAMME TODAY!

While we are doing our best to tell the people, both our own city folks and the many visitors now in town, about the various places of amusement, it behooves us to say a good word for the Bijou Theatre, the Union street motion picture house, and the excellent programme they are putting on today. Dropping into the office of the manager of this popular amusement resort yesterday afternoon, the manager, who has a picture machine set up in his office, kindly ran his today's programme off, and that one word EXCELLENT expresses its merits, you have our assurance. The first picture tells of a discharged workman, from no apparent cause by the foreman, and how, when he cannot find employment, he revenges the foreman by stealing his only child, returning it when he finds other work. This is called "A Workman's Revenge." The next two are comedies of the most laughable nature, and are called "The Automatic Laundry" and "The Merry Widow Hat." In the first is seen how people can be humiliated from top to toe while they wait, and the other shows the many trying experiences of the weavers of this season's craze, "The Merry Widow." The other is very instructive as to Chinese life and one all should see. "Home Work and Street Life in China." Then as to the musical part, we'll just mention the fact that Miss Smith, the English soprano, will sing "Oath the Boughs of the Old Maple Tree."

NEW SHOW AT HAPPY HALF HOUR.

Visitors and citizens should not miss the big show at the Happy Half Hour today. An entire change of programme commences. Holmes and Bushman will sing by request "Won't You Take a Walk With Me," a conversational duet from the big musical comedy "The Girl Behind the Counter." Prof. Woods, who by the way has created a sensation, will present a new programme of diabolical feats in magic. Of course the big illusory act and catching the gold fish will be retained. Don't fail to see this act. The new pictures are Balled at the Altar, 1,000 feet of laughs; A Flower Girl's Gazette, a powerful dramatic story, and Uncle's Steel Sofa, a hearty laugh. Prof. Titus will sing "The Town at the End of the Line." The Bill makes an hour and a half show.

NEW PICTURES AND SONGS AT THE UNIQUE TODAY.

Visitors to the St. John exhibition should not forget that the best motion pictures can always be seen at the Unique. Today the programme is especially good and is worthy of a visit from the most particular patron. The leading film is called "The Little Cockswain of the 'Varsity Eight.'" This picture is one of the best ever produced. The story is very thrilling and the little story of love holds the luncheon all. This great film is over 100 feet in length and the picture is divided into eight separate scenes. The next picture is his final feat of tumbling the pagan temple into a heap. In fact, all the great events of Samson's life are pictured. Then there will be a Scottish drama of the olden time, entitled "The Chieftain's Revenge," and a comedy of the American quality. Two catchy New York songs, orchestra and the great Humano Co. in their latest picture production of the dramatic labor play "A Hero In Overalls." This novelty is still the great attraction at the Nickel.

CLEVER TEAM AT THE CEDAR.

Martin and Doyle are still making good at the Cedar. The pictures are all new for today. Broken Heath, Freckled Remill, and the Outlaw make up the bill. Mr. Wallace will have a new song. Admission 5c.

GRAND OPERA COMING.

There is no question about the popularity of grand opera if it is properly presented with careful attention to the many details that go to make music enjoyable to all. The Boston Opera Singers' Company is an organization which has met with great favor in other cities where it has been presenting a varied repertoire with unprecedented success. It has been looked upon by music lovers as worthy of comparison with many more pretentious organizations although the object of its management is to give the public the benefit of first-class productions of grand opera at prices within the reach of all. This excellent company comes here soon for a cycle of grand operas. The operas to be given are Verdi's "Il Trovatore," "Rigoletto," and "La Traviata," Gounod's "Faust," Bizet's "Carmen," Balfe's "Bohemian Girl," and Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana."

The organization itself is so well known that it needs no comment and the music lovers of this city will no doubt respond most willingly to this opportunity of expressing their appreciation of being able to hear grand opera presented by the most thorough and competent organization singing grand opera in English.

"Towne—Little thing? Why, man, I actually bought that umbrella."

MUFFY SHUFFLES

BY B. CORY KILVERT

COPYRIGHT 1908, ALL RIGHTS RESERVED

1 Sweet Muffy Shuffles never let despair possess her heart. She always sought to undertake some new and useful part. So, learning Mrs. Astorblit was seeking fat and wild nurse-maids for her little dears, she thereat accepted!

2 That large and stately lady made poor Muffy all at ease. But still she kept her courage up and calmed her quaking knees. When asked to state her references she said that she had none. But when it came to explain why she was so late she said!

3 So light of heart she led the youthful Astorblits away. To dance about a ribboned pole, as children do in May. And Muffy was their May-Queen, and they danced with cheer and shout. Quite happy in their innocence till Reddie found them out!

4 Now Reddie and his youthful gang might be described as tough. Their costumes were not costly, they were diamonds in the rough. So when they swooped on Muffy's pole they frightened all away. Those tender little Astorblits in dresses white and gray!

5 'Twas Mrs. Astorblit herself came in the nick of time. And rescued all her dears from such contaminating grime. "You thought to nurse my darlings," said that lady, stern of brow. "But with such comrades as these, I seem to nurse your sorrow, now!"

CAUGHT THE WOLVES ALIVE

But Roosevelt's Friend Was Badly Bitten in Doing It

Jack Abernathy's Last Hunt—Sot Out to Capture Two Big Wolves With Bare Hands and Had Mishaps.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Sept. 14.—With his hands, arms and legs covered with wounds inflicted by the teeth of two lobo wolves, John Abernathy, United States Marshal for the Western district of Oklahoma, is being treated by his physician to save him from blood poisoning. Abernathy catches wolves alive with his bare hands. He performed this feat several times for the entertainment of President Roosevelt when the latter hunted in the Kiowa and Comanche Indian pastures in southwestern Oklahoma. Later he was appointed United States Marshal in Oklahoma Territory. The encounter with the wolves in which he received his wounds occurred in August. Symptoms of blood poisoning followed, and at one time it was feared that two of his fingers would have to be amputated. His wounds now are yielding to treatment. In seeking encounters with wolves Abernathy is impelled by the same motives that send other men up in balloons or through Niagara rapids in barrels. He enjoys the thrill and excitement of adventure. He lived most of his life in western Texas and is a man of great physical strength. In attacking a wolf Abernathy presents his right hand, and the wolf springs to seize it. It is here that Abernathy uses his skill, gained after long practice. As his hand passes into the wolf's mouth he takes hold of the wolf's lower jaw back of the long canine teeth and grips it with all his strength. The wolf may close its jaws, but is unable to bite. Abernathy's safety depends upon his not relaxing his hold until assistance comes and the wolf's jaws are bound together with wire. Its feet are then tied and it is thrown across a horse and carried to camp and caged.

Abernathy was in summer camp with friends in the Wichita game preserve, near the town of Cacha. There are many wolves in the Wichita mountain region, some of them being of the lobo species, of great size and without fear of men. The lobo wolf can easily kill a horse or a steer. Abernathy prepared for his hunt by placing a number of wolves in wire cages in the mountains. They are a better decoy than a cat or a goat. Fourteen trained wolf dogs, twelve of them being greyhounds and two staghounds, were in camp to run the wolves down.

Abernathy had been told of the presence of lobo wolves in the vicinity and had been waiting for them to be drawn near the camp by the caged wolves. One afternoon a single wolf was seen loping up the mountain side about half a mile distant. The dogs were released and the game pointed. After a run of less than a mile the wolf turned against the dogs in a shallow ravine. Some of the dogs were knocked fifteen and twenty feet when struck by the wolf. A number were badly crippled and two were killed. The wolf was in an open space when it turned and came toward Abernathy, who saw that he would be attacked.

Abernathy sprang from his horse and unluckily found himself on a bed of pebbles that had been worn smooth by washing rains. He slipped and fell to his knees just as he presented his hand and the wolf caught his hand with its teeth. Abernathy's safety depended upon his holding on, which he did, throwing himself bodily upon the wolf to restrain its struggles. Two of Abernathy's companions came to his assistance and seized the wolf by the feet. Abernathy was in great pain, and when the wolf's lips were raised it was seen that one of its fangs had passed entirely through Abernathy's hand and that the wolf's jaws were locked in a vise-like hold. Abernathy remained in this situation until wire was brought, and the wolf was securely muzzled.

Abernathy started for camp without waiting to wire his paw together. He was compelled to ride with the bridle reins between his teeth. His horse was fiery. In its struggles the wolf scratched the horse with its sharp claws, causing the horse to plunge and run away. Abernathy lost the reins going down a steep mountain side and was in danger of being thrown. Two companions overtook him and seizing the loose reins led his horse to camp. The captured wolf was a female. Abernathy knew that her mate must be somewhere around. Then he learned that another wolf had been seen and was described as one of the largest ever seen in southwestern Oklahoma. Abernathy began hunting for this wolf, but ten days passed before he caught sight of it.

Abernathy had been riding hard all forenoon and was lying under a tree fagged out when one of the women in camp cried out, "Look at that great wolf!" The wolf was about 200 yards distant.

"It was the biggest wolf I ever saw," said Abernathy, telling of his adventure. "He was taller than any dog I ever saw and heavier than the biggest mastiff. Later I found that his head was not less than sixteen inches in length, and my hand slipped into his mouth as easily as into a corncrib." The second wolf began making its fight against the dogs in an open place. Abernathy was a skilful pacer, and seizing the wolf's jaw bore the lobo to the ground without being bitten. The wolf was muzzled with wire and its feet tied and it was thrown across Abernathy's horse in front of his saddle. Just as Abernathy was mounting he heard a popping sound, and instantly saw the wolf with mouth wide open coming toward him from off his horse. The wolf had broken its wire muzzle. Abernathy grabbed the wolf's lower jaw with his left hand in mid air and the two went to the ground in a heap. He was again unlucky and his hand was badly lacerated. The wolf was bound again, carried to camp and caged. In less than an hour it broke the wire of its cage and ran to a nearby creek when the dogs started in pursuit. The wolf plunged into the water, swam to the opposite side and backed up against a steep bluff at the water's edge. Abernathy swam the creek, but before he could get a firm foothold the wolf lunged toward him in the water, which was about five feet deep. In the encounter Abernathy's thumb was split and his leg cut. The wolf was pulled finally into shallower water and secured. The wolves were taken to Oklahoma city and placed in the zoo at Wheeler park.

LADIES' HATS WILL BE HIGH

The wholesale millinery openings today are considered to be the most elaborate and up-to-date display of feminine headgear prepared in the Maritime Provinces for years. The assortments are splendidly arranged to give a correct idea of the styles to be worn this season and hundreds of beautiful hats artistically finished demonstrate the excellent ability of the milliners in each large warehouse.

The styles generally are large, with exceedingly high crowns and wide brims. In some beautiful specimens of art the crown is nearly ten inches high and trimmed with large plumes and wings. A great many satins in various shades are being used. Tulle shades and peacock blues are a feature. Several large ornaments are used, especially large buckles. Ostrich feathers are also used.

Manchester, Robertson, Allison, Ltd., are making an excellent showing. While the shapes are varied, the large hats predominate. The brims are displayed slightly flaring at the left side. This is the very latest shapes shown have a turn up all round. These hats are mostly trimmed with large wings and bandeaux. The novelty in this way is called the Pocahontas wing, giving the effect of the Indian head-dress, from which it takes its name. The leading colors for the season are canard and puce blue, taupe prunele (a dull amethyst shade), tan and khaki brown. These colors are seen both in self shade and various combinations being the most popular.

Among the patterns at Brock & Paterson's, most of the models shown were equally as large or larger than were worn in the summer. The Gainsborough and Trembrandt shapes are the most popular. Charlotte Cordays are still being shown and some exceedingly smart turban effects, which fit down well on the head. One particularly noticed was made of a Persian band in taupe and empire colorings. The crown was completely covered with a pair of soft, pliable wings, in same shades fastened in front with ornament in oriental design.

FRANK SKINNER & CO. Frank Skinner & Co.'s display of millinery is the largest ever shown by this firm. The decorations in velvet and floral effects add much to the appearance of these warehouses. The milliners are in earlier than usual and this makes the establishment a very busy one for the week. The hats shown are principally large with high crowns, although the crowns vary in size, the most popular are the high crowns covered with liberty satin or velvet and with foliage in autumn tints. The brims are very broad and gradually shelve downwards in a slanting line instead of drooping as did the mushroom. Many have the brims slightly rolled up on one side. They are plain covered with six folds of velvet or satinet worked as designs on the edges. Tulle and turbans are much in demand. In striking contrast to the large trimmed hats there is a strong leaning towards those shapes all generous in their proportions. The new pose of the hat is the striking feature. Hats are now worn crusted down over the head, pushed more to the right and tipped slightly over the eyes with the hair falling under the brim. Wings are large and broad, some measuring 24 inches long and 18 inches wide, but there are many of more moderate sizes also required. Bandeaux and pointed effects are all excellent, quilts innumerable are used, broad and narrow, straight and curved, beautiful colorings are their leading attributes.

ELEVEN

BEGINNING TO DRAW INTENSE CROWDS

With nearly twelve thousand visitors yesterday St. John's International Exhibition came near breaking the record for a second day. Attendance was estimated at more than a hundred and fifty thousand. The attendance today is expected to be still higher. The weather was very much improved. With nothing to mar the attendance today a new record should be made for Wednesday. The management are confident that the total attendance will be highly encouraging. Mayor Bullock has proclaimed Thursday afternoon a public holiday. This will give all clerks a good chance to see the exhibition in the day time. The best time for the performance of the diving horses and practically the only time a good inspection of the live stock can be made. The school board will close the schools in Friday in order to allow the children to attend on that day. It is to be hoped that the citizens of St. John will make every effort to swell the attendance during the remainder of the week. With the weather such as we have had since the exhibition began and a little more enthusiasm on the part of the people of this city the big lift should be a pronounced success.

CANADIAN FAIRBANKS COMPANY
One of the largest and most attractive exhibits in the machinery hall is that of the Canadian Fairbanks Company. This enterprising company have an excellent exhibit indeed and are showing many useful devices. The centre in the back of the booth the sign "Canadian Fairbanks Company" is in bright electric lights.
T. E. Ryder, the popular local manager, is in charge of the exhibit and has a large staff of assistants. The Fairbanks company have always been noted for their standard scales, which are in use throughout the entire world. An attendant is present at the booth taking the correct weight of all persons free of charge.
A very interesting display indeed is that of a two horse-power gasoline engine. This machine saws wood, pumps water, all at the same time. It would be most advantageous to farmers.
Many other interesting affairs may be seen, including marine engines and motor boat supplies, saw mill and wood working machinery and Fairbanks wood split pulleys.
The exhibit is a great credit to the management, who will be pleased to have the visitors to the big show give them a call. Many had their correct weight taken yesterday and more are expected today. The exhibit is at one end of the building and cannot be missed.

W. H. JOHNSON CO., LTD.
One of the finest lots of high class instruments ever exhibited in Canada is that to be seen at the attractive booth of the W. H. Johnson Co., Ltd. From morning until night the booth is crowded with musically inclined people and it is well that anyone wishing to inspect an instrument should visit this booth before the exhibition closes. The W. H. Johnson Co., Ltd., is one of the oldest and best known piano firms in America. They have been doing business in Canada for thirty-five years and during that time have sold nearly 15,000 pianos and organs. In that period they have seen several firms come up and go down again. Therefore it is not surprising that the public have more than average faith in this concern. In their booth they have on exhibition the Nordiska and John Brineman & Sons' piano; the Steinway of England; the Gerhard Heintzman; the favorite of the German-made piano; the Marten-Orme, a magnificent piano manufactured in Ottawa; the New Scala Williams, and several other high class instruments. This booth was visited by hundreds of people yesterday, where they were cordially received by a large staff of demonstrators and representatives. A pleasing feature of one's visit to the booth is the warm welcome tendered them by W. H. Johnson himself, who is making a special visit to the city in connection with the exhibition. The booth is upstairs in the main building, and adds greatly to the appearance of the exhibition hall. A full selection of organs and gramophones can be seen at the booth.

CANADA HAS STOOD DEPRESSION WELL

Canadian Manufacturers Think So, But Want Higher Tariff
Ontario Members of C. M. A. Want Workmen's Compensation Made Compulsory
MONTREAL, Sept. 16.—An encouraging tone of hopefulness for the country's progress in the ensuing year and a proper sense of proportion in measuring the cause and the effects of the depression of the past year, marked the presidential address of the Hon. J. D. Roland at the annual meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, which opened at the Windsor Hotel this morning. The chairman said the past year had been one of peace, marked with a strengthening of the ties of sympathy by which the scattered colonies of the Mother Country are bound together.
"And," he added, "the pronounced favor with which the all round route proposals have been received, the adoption of a preferential tariff by Australia and the undoubted short period of sentiment in Great Britain, all point with significance to the coming of a new era in the relations of our empire. It has ceased to live by and for themselves alone, but in the relations of the world. It is a grander organization than the mind of man has ever conceived."
The Hon. Mr. Roland submitted the following as lessons which the people of Canada should learn from the depression:
"The manufacturer should learn that his very existence depends on the thorough organization of all his departments."
"The Canadian artisan should learn that the most valuable markets he can get for his labor are abroad."
"To the government of Canada, proceeded the speaker, it has given striking proof of the soundness of the policy persistently advocated by this association. It has shown them clearly our country's need for a tariff which should be a protective tariff, but not a protective measure of protection afforded us by our tariff wall. The very fact, however, that the government has done so, gives us some shelter against the tide which came sweeping in our direction should only encourage our government to strengthen it against the day when the storm will again overtake us, to build it up still higher and to stop up the cracks in the wall which cannot be closed by the tariff wall."
The Hon. Mr. Roland also pointed out that the indiscriminate preference of twenty-five per cent. and afterwards of thirty-three per cent. given to Canadian goods under the British preferential tariff the woolen industry was fairly prosperous.
"Since then," he said, "the introduction of an increase of nearly two million in our population it has been steadily declining to 1877 valued $7,044,000 and in 1908 $21,213,374."
"Unless a helping hand is stretched forth from some quarter to stay it in its downward career the Canadian woolen industry which ought to be indigenous to this country is doomed to speedy extinction. The question for the Canadian people is, does it lie in the hands of the manufacturer, or does it lie in the hands of the government? It is then let them give it first treatment."
Quite a number of reports were presented during this morning's session, the most noteworthy being that of the treasurer showing that total receipts had amounted to $48,377 and the disbursements to $47,118.89.
At the afternoon session the principal business was the consideration of the report of the parliamentary insurance and British office committees. In the discussion on the subject of workmen's compensation.
The Montreal committee recommended that it should be compulsory in the case of all employees of labor but a number of Ontario members, led by St. John, who had been fighting it since then. He had been fighting it with success for years. The other reports were adopted with but little discussion. Today the tariff question will be taken up.
The Montreal branch tendered the members a reception this evening in Peter Redpath Museum of McGill University.

LOCAL NEWS.
A. L. Goodwin is landing this week three truckloads of Ontario onions. The quality of this year's crop is exceptionally fine and the stock now being received is in splendid condition.
The stores of M. R. A. Ltd., will be open every day this week and on Saturday evening until 10 o'clock for the convenience of the public and the numerous visitors to the city who are combining business with a trip to the big exhibition.
The well known store of P. A. Dykeman & Co. is brim full of attractions for exhibition visitors. The store has made extra preparation for the outside trade, and as their store is known chiefly for its stylish goods at popular prices, every visitor would do well to call on them before leaving the city.
PUBLIC TYPING.
Strangers in the city who may have a mass of correspondence specifications which are to be attended to for the various mails leaving the city should call at the Public Typewriting Bureau at the corner of the Charlottetown street, where a competent staff with full equipment is to be found.
SAINT JOHN BUSINESS COLLEGE.
It is not surprising that the college retains its popularity, and that the year ending June last was by far the most successful in its history of forty years, considering the fact that the leading positions in almost every important office in St. John are held by its graduates.

ANOTHER BIT HEY FOR "MARRYING MARY."
Miss Florence Goss again scored a success in her sparkling musical comedy "Marrying Mary," at the Opera House last night.
The music, the comedy, the dancing, the costumes and scenery, all combine to make the show one of the most enjoyable ever seen in the city. Nothing has been spared to make it as attractive as possible and the result is well worth the largest patronage.
Throughout the whole play the chief attraction is furnished by Miss Goss's delightful personality, her singing and acts and does one or two little dances with a gaiety and abandon that make her irresistible to the audience and endore after encore tencers to the success she had scored.
The other members of the company were in good form and did their full share in contributing to the enjoyment of the evening.
St. John theatre goers are fortunate in having this opportunity to see such a thoroughly good company, and the three remaining performances should be given to packed houses.

NO COUNSEL FOR ST. JOHN MEN IN 'TON

The U. N. B. Has Prospects of a Banner Year
Gillis-Thibits Wedding This Evening—Big Tory Meetings Today—Delegates to General Synod
FREDERICTON, Sept. 16.—Mr. R. B. Miller, who is to have charge of the new forestry department at the University of New Brunswick, arrived here from the west today, ready to take up his work. He is a young, vigorous and attractive man, a native of Indiana, and a graduate of the Yale forestry department. Already some half dozen students have made application to be admitted to the forestry course.
It is expected that the freshman class at the university this year will be record breaker, reaching probably fifty in number, and the attendance of all the classes will be the largest in the history of the old institution. The other new professor, Mr. Stone, dean of the engineering school, arrived some days ago and is in camp with his class at Croton.
Recent Cape Breton newspapers record here note the marriage at Middle River, C. B., of Rev. Mr. E. Laxton, who was in pastoral charge of St. Paul's Presbyterian church here during the summer. Mr. Laxton's bride, Miss Louise McLeod, daughter of Chas. McLeod, of Middle River. Mr. and Mrs. Laxton have called for the special course of study.
Miss Millie Thibits, daughter of the Deputy Provincial Secretary, to be wedded at 6.30 this evening to W. C. Gillis, of the civil service, Ottawa, is one of the city's most popular young girls. The wedding ceremony will be performed by Rev. J. W. McLeod, in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends.
The new T. M. C. A. secretary, Mr. Ladue, of St. John, who was formerly of the association Monday night, created a very favorable impression in his address. He is a long time in the past year has acted as physical culture instructor in the school and in the employ of the association.
"Every possible effort has been made to ensure the success of the convention and public meeting here today, and the attention of all speakers, some of them never heard here before, will doubtless ensure a full house. The gathering is to be held, has a seating capacity of only 500. Messrs. Jordan, Heaton, J. H. McParlane, have arranged rooms at the Barker House.
The case of Ross and Peterson, for ill-treating a horse which they hired a few days ago at Gunter's livery stable, was sent to the police court today. An adjournment was made yesterday to permit the prisoners to secure counsel. Since then they were unsuccessful, and the case proceeded without legal assistance for the men. Mr. J. D. Phinney, C. C., appears for the defendants—the local branch of the S. P. C. A.
Mrs. Colter, wife of T. H. Colter, registrar of deeds, has gone to Boston to look after her daughter, Mrs. Dr. King.
Rev. T. F. Fullerton, of Charlottetown, who has been here the past two weeks taking St. Paul's church services, was chaplain of the 1st Canadian contingent that went to South Africa during its stay here hunted up many of his old comrades in arms, who were very glad to meet him again.
Col. H. H. McParlane, of the Grand Trunk Pacific staff, was among the visitors in the city yesterday.
The St. John exhibition will now account in the Crown Lands office, has removed his family to this city from Hillside, and has taken up housekeeping in the St. Ann's church cottage on St. John street.
His Lordship Bishop Richardson and Canon Cowie, of this city, will be among the delegates from the Province of New Brunswick at the general Synod meeting which opens at Ottawa Wednesday, Sept. 23.
The St. John exhibition will have some eager visitors from this part of the province, but none more so than Mrs. Dorothy Price, of Ladlow, who went to St. John by C. P. R. today. Mrs. Price is ninety years old but boasts that she has not had a day's illness for the past eight years. She left her home in Ladlow yesterday and visited relatives at Gilson, leaving here this morning at 9.30 o'clock by C. P. R. unaccompanied, but feeling happy and out to enjoy the "the same as those who are many years her junior."

Presbyterians Want Westmount Preacher—Salary Offered is $1,000 Per Annum
FREDERICTON, Sept. 16.—Last evening at one of the largest and most representative congregational meetings ever held in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, it was decided unanimously to extend a call to the pastorate to Rev. J. G. Clark, of Westmount, Quebec, and it was stated that there is a strong feeling in the minds of the members of the church to press the call before the Montreal Presbytery, Rev. Gordon Dickie, of St. John, president of the Montreal Presbytery, was secretary.
Rev. Mr. Clark occupied the pulpit of St. Paul's church three weeks ago and created a most favorable impression. He is a Scotchman by birth and has been settled at Westmount for the past four years.

STATE CANNOT ENGAGE IN LIQUOR TRAFFIC
United States Circuit Court Declines Against Appeal of South Carolina Dispensary Commission
RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 16.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals in a decision handed down yesterday, sustained the opinion of Judge J. C. Fritchard in the famous case of Pleaschman Company and others against the South Carolina dispensary commission, holding in effect that a state cannot conduct liquor traffic, that being a private business. The opinion was written by Judge James B. Boyd, of Greensboro, N. C., and concurred in by his associates, Judge Edmund Waddell and Chief Justice Fuller. The opinion consumed more than forty pages of closely typewritten matter, a great part of which is devoted to a statement of facts. In the opinion, Judge Boyd states in part: "There are two main propositions, the jurisdictional point which presents the question whether this is a suit against the state of South Carolina and therefore forbidden by the eleventh amendment, and second, whether the dispensary commission is a court incapable of having its proceedings stayed by a writ of injunction granted by a federal court."
The court further announces that in the conception and adoption of the eleventh amendment, it never entered the minds of the framers of that amendment that a sovereign state could engage in the liquor business and become a trader by buying and selling an article of commerce in the competition with the citizens of the country.
"It may be questioned, therefore," says the court, "whether the state of South Carolina was exercising a governmental prerogative or performing a function necessarily or properly incident to its autonomy as a state."
Counsel for the dispensary board were granted a stay of mandate for forty days in which to prepare an appeal.

FIRST DEER OF THE SEASON REACH TOWN

Big Game Season Open and Hunters are Busy

Sportsmen Coming from All Parts of the Continent—Game Plentiful and Good Sport Expected

The big game season opened yesterday and from present indications it looks as if the season will be an unusually good one, both in the point of the number of licenses taken out and in the amount of game taken.

A new system of vending licenses has been put in force this year. Permits were issued through the office of the local government on Church street, to which office the various vendors throughout the province applied.

The licenses are now all issued from the Crown Lands Department, Fredericton, with which department the vendors now deal direct. J. H. Noble, of King Square, is the vendor for this locality. Licenses can also be secured from the game wardens of the county.

Before the season had opened Mr. Noble had issued four licenses to non-residents. These are for visitors from quite distant points. One comes from New Jersey, one from Tennessee and the other two from different parts of Michigan.

Over sixty residents of the province have also taken out their licenses already. Most of them in talking to Mr. Noble said that they knew just where to get the animal as soon as the season opened.

There are no caribou in this section of the province, but from the reports reaching the city the moose seem very plentiful, and the local hunters are looking for good sport.

Every applicant for a license is furnished with a copy of the game laws in pamphlet form in order that there may be no excuse for breaking any of the laws.

The secretary of the New Brunswick Tourist Association has been receiving numerous inquiries from all parts of the continent and even one from South Africa regarding the game season. Judging from inquiries received more outside sportsmen than usual are expected to visit the province this autumn.

The reports concerning the supply of game throughout the province which have been received by the association are very encouraging. The reports speak particularly of the plentiful supply of moose.

The big game to strike the city was received by express from Norton this morning by O'Neil Brothers. All of the deer was the chester, and the shipment consisted of two very nice deer, which were secured back of Norton.

A fair supply of partridge have also reached the market. Black duck have been in ever since the first of the month.

YOUTHFUL THIEF GETS TWO YEARS IN REFORMATORY

A Big Bunch of Exhibition Drunks in the Police Court This Morning

This morning Magistrate Ritchie sent Irvin Earl, a fifteen year old boy who stole $25 from O. H. Warwick and Co., on the 8th instant, to two years in the boys' industrial home.

A quartette of exhibition drunks adorned the prisoners' bench. They were given 18 or ten days, and paid up Jas. Wald was fined $4 for being drunk.

Adeline Cordasco, who was arrested five days ago for being and lurking in a building on the Shamrock grounds, was also before the court. She was sentenced to six months in jail or $50 fine.

Charles Jackson, who was charged with being drunk, put in a plea that he be allowed to catch the Boston boat and leave town. He said that he had $2 with him.

"Well that will take you as far as Eastport," said Judge Ritchie. You're liable to $20 fine or six months in jail. You will be remanded until Friday when the boat leaves for Boston.

Ada Glos, colored, who was found drunk on her street at an early hour this morning, was sent to jail for two months.

TEMPERANCE PEOPLE MEET

The Temperance Federation of New Brunswick meets this afternoon at 2:30 in Temperance Hall, in the Market building. Representatives from all parts of the province are expected to be present, and the general situation of the work will be discussed. At present the Federation is carrying on an active campaign for provincial prohibition and this subject will, with others, receive attention today.

The St. John Exhibition will have some eager visitors from this part of the province but none more so than Mrs. Dorothy Price, of Ladlow, who went to St. John by C. P. R. today. Mrs. Price is ninety years old but boasts that she has not had a day's illness for the past eight years. She left her home in Ladlow yesterday and visited relatives at Gbosa, leaving here this morning at 9:30 o'clock by C. P. R. unaccompanied but feeling happy and out to enjoy the Fair the same as those who are many years her junior.—Glasgow.
