Dear Sir—I have sold your VEGETINE since it was first introduced into Canada, and most cheerfully recommended it to all who are in want of a blood purifier, and believe it to be just what it is advertised to be, a purely vegetable compound. My customers all speak in its favor. My sales are steadily increasing. I have sold many articles of the same description, but VEGETINE gives the most universal satisfaction.

BOWMANVILLE, ONT., Oct. 4, 1879.
MR. H. R. STEVENS:
Dear Sir—I have used your VEGETINE, and have derived great benefit therefrom. As an alternative and blood purifier it has no equal. I have used it for Dyspepsia, or Liver Complaint. I have not had a day's sickness since taking it nearly two years ago.
JAMES ROSS.

Vegetine
GOOD FOR THE AGED.
CLIFTON, ONT., Jan. 16, 1880.
H. R. STEVENS:
Dear Sir—I advise you of the good results of your VEGETINE. My wife's father, now nearly eighty-five years of age, was afflicted with Dyspepsia in its worst form. His head and stomach were badly swollen and one of his limbs was badly swollen and discharged. His physician said there was no remedy but could cure him, as he was such an old man. To gratify a son-in-law, I purchased a bottle of your VEGETINE, and he took it for a few days, and he is now a healthy old man.
Last Spring I was troubled with a disordered stomach, cold extremities, and headache. Being opposite the U. S. Patent Office, and being in need of a blood purifier, I took two bottles of VEGETINE; it cured me, and I am satisfied that it is a tonic and blood purifier in the market, and has done me much good. I can now thank the maker for his kindness.

Vegetine

Vegetine is sold by all Druggists.

The Union Advocate.
NEWCASTLE, NOV. 17, 1880.
Sir Leonard Tilley's Speeches at Bowmanville.
The N. P.—Pacific Railway Syndicate—Splendid Financial Prospect.
—The Revenue Increase—Protection in New Brunswick Thirty years ago.—The Brewery Representation.—The Advantages of Sugar Refineries.
We give the most important portions of Speeches delivered recently at Bowmanville, by the Finance Minister, knowing that the utterances of this gentleman will be read, as they always are, with considerable interest.
At a public meeting held in the Town Hall on the occasion of his visit, the Finance Minister was introduced by Mayor McArthur. After a few introductory remarks, Sir LEONARD said:—
Allow me to say that I appreciate the honor conferred upon me by this assemblage this evening. It is a pleasure, as Finance Minister of this country, having introduced a tariff which we believed to be in the interests of the country, to come among you, and to see how best the interests of the country can be dealt with. I should have been pleased had it been possible for me to enjoy the pleasure last year, but unfortunately I was unable at that time to visit all the manufacturing centres of the Dominion. Failing that, I gave a partial promise twelve months ago that when the opportunity offered I would visit this flourishing portion of our Dominion. That opportunity has just arrived, and I was pleased, I trust, to have the great North-West open, which fact will counteract the prejudicial influence approaching hard times may produce elsewhere, and might produce here, under different circumstances. (Cheers.) Let us consider some of the EVIDENCES OF RETURNING PROSPERITY.
When we introduced the Policy it was said that it would interfere with certain industries. For instance, it was said that a duty imposed on breadstuffs would divert the trade in grain, and that the press being present, I shall not be misrepresenting.

upon to address a public gathering. However, a public man is public property, and on any occasion when called upon to express his views and sentiments on public questions he would be recreant to his duty if he declined. This being the case, I am before you to-night. In the first place then, in addressing you, permit me to say that while the two leading industries of your own town which I have just visited are the last I have been through, I have experienced in what I have seen in them as much satisfaction as I have experienced in any other manufacturing which I have examined. I will tell you why. I have visited many towns of the size of Bowmanville, having more than you have, but it has scarcely been my privilege to visit a town of this size containing within it two so large and important industries as you have. Let me also say, that in my humble judgment it will be in the interest of all engaged in these industries to enlarge their operations, and to concentrate their energies more and more upon the production of one particular class of industries. I might also, remark regarding the industries—one of them in particular—which I visited to-day, that it has seldom been my privilege to visit an industry in which there is so much skilled labor employed, and in which such ample compensation is paid for that skilled labor. If, my friends, I had any doubt at the outset with reference to the success of the tariff, I have no doubt now. I have seen the success of the tariff in the fact that the tariff has not been a failure. Some gentlemen in Parliament said last session that from the halting manner in which I delivered the financial statement, I must have realized that the policy of the Government had not been a success. But if my manner was halting, it was because I felt the importance of the statement, and was only to make, and because I knew that the statements I did make must be thoroughly reliable in every sense of the word. You know, Mr. Chairman, that while on the stump, or on the eve of an election, irresponsible people may speak glibly, and indulge in exaggeration, a member of the Administration, or a leading member of the Opposition, must be particular what he says. If I was halting in my statement it was because of that fact. But if I had any doubts when I made my first financial statement, they have been, as I have already said, banished by what I have seen since. (Applause.) I know, Mr. Chairman, the ground upon which we stand to-night. I know I am here not as a party man, but still I have no doubt every intelligent man here to-night will expect me to say something in vindication of the policy of which I profess to be, not the father exactly, but the sponsor, and a few words of encouragement and of hope.

THE CAUSE OF THE GOOD TIMES:
I know there is a great conflict of opinion and of statement with reference to the position of our country, compared with what it was a few years ago. I know there is a diversity of opinion with reference to the causes which have led to the change which has taken place. In my opinion, perhaps both extremes are wrong. Providence has blessed us most bountifully during the past few years. I know that the Nation will be the request of the Governor General, to offer up our humble acknowledgments for the blessings which have been showered upon us. I know, too, that there are circumstances outside of our Dominion that influence the trade and commerce of this country in one direction or the other; I refer to the condition of our neighbors to the south of us. We know perfectly well that when the United States is prosperous great advantages accrue to us. Still, the advantages are not unaccompanied by disadvantages, one of which is—as we have seen and which in the past few years—the rapidly increasing prosperity of that country, and its awakening from a commercial depression, less to the taking away of our trade, and more to the fact that there are more people in that country than there were a few years ago, and that the prosperity of that country has led to the immigration of that country.

IMMIGRATION FROM CANADA,
still the statements regarding emigration to the United States which are made—and by parties who, perhaps, consider they have the data sufficient to warrant them in making them—are exaggerated in every shape and form. An enquiry has been going on for some time, and I have no doubt that the reference to the matter, and though it is asserted that in certain quarters something like 33,000 people have crossed the border at Port Huron during the last year for the purpose of settling in the United States, I have a view to deserting Canada, we find on good authority that the number of passengers passing through Port Huron during that period, including persons who crossed the border as settlers, and as persons on various missions and intending to return—only amounted to 53,000. (Applause.) We have all rays had a certain amount of emigration to the other side, and we have in an especial manner when that country is prosperous. Let us not, therefore, exaggerate the emigration. Let us rather realize that the depression is passing away, we are on the eve of years of great prosperity, which will extend, I may say—because the period usually extends for a decade or ten years, I have no doubt that the period of prosperity on this occasion will last longer than that, because when the pendulum reaches the turning point and is just about to come back we shall have the great North-West open, which fact will counteract the prejudicial influence approaching hard times may produce elsewhere, and might produce here, under different circumstances. (Cheers.) Let us consider some of the EVIDENCES OF RETURNING PROSPERITY.
When we introduced the Policy it was said that it would interfere with certain industries. For instance, it was said that a duty imposed on breadstuffs would divert the trade in grain, and that the press being present, I shall not be misrepresenting.

to Custom House interference, to the United States, and make New York and Boston the ports of shipment, while our carrying trade would fall to nothing, and the volume of business done at Montreal would be diminished. What has been the fact? During last year we had an increase in the exports from Montreal of three million dollars; and during this year the exports have been in excess of those of last year, while the tonnage leaving Montreal has been greater than has ever been the case before. (Applause.) We find that the grain from our own country and the grain from the United States, which has been carried by our railways and by vessels across our lakes and through our canals, has been in quantities so large as to give an impetus to our trade such as has not been experienced for years. The alarm that was given expression to as to the effect of the tariff on our carrying trade was therefore groundless. Then it was said that the tariff would shut out the manufactures of the United States, and as a consequence it was not long before I heard it said that Mr. Tilley not only wanted a mauling-house, but that he wanted a brewery. (Laughter.) The next I heard was that I wanted cheap ale and plenty of it. (Loud laughter.) A report that I said anything like that, I should be glad to hear of it. (Loud laughter.) Then I was down at Halifax, and while there I visited a place where they were enlarging a brewery. I called the attention of the proprietor to the same fact which I mentioned in Prince Edward county, and asked him why, situated as he was, with a port at which there was regular communication by steamer, summer and winter, with England, he did not export malt to England. I was soon afterwards reported as being most recent to my temporary residence in the city, and as openly encouraging the use of beer and porter. (Laughter.) Under these circumstances it will be a caution to me to be careful how I speak. However, moving through the country one does not help oneself.

NEW OPENINGS.
I have observed that there are new industries which may be opened in addition to those already established, and there are other already established industries, as the increased number of hands employed and the machinery now in use cannot supply the demand of the Dominion. Before I leave I will take the opportunity of pointing out an industry that may be established in this town, with perhaps $30,000 or $40,000 of capital, which will employ a large number of hands. (Applause.) I believe that while male labor is in many respects more plentiful than female labor, there are still some industries which require the services of women. (Loud applause.) Now let me say something with reference to—
OUR POSITION IN ENGLAND.
Well, our credit as you know has not been prejudicially affected by the National Policy. (Hear, hear.) I may also say that we have never occupied so conspicuous a position in the minds of the people of the Old World as we do now. Every year gives an increase of interest in the country, and the people of Europe. The circumstances that have transpired lately in Great Britain, the failure of the London and North Western Railway, and the unhappy state of Ireland at the present time, have not only increased interest in the country, but have also increased interest in the country, and the people of Europe. From Kouchibouguac the tug will proceed to Pictou, to enter winter quarters.

Snow fell yesterday afternoon and evening. The storm was general in the Northern section.

Personal.
The Charlottetown Examiner of a recent date says:—"The firm of H. Corby & Son have withdrawn their business from St. John."

The business of the firm has for the past two and a half years been transacted by the senior member, Mr. James Corby, who has during that period kept up a correspondence with the public, and has done course with his many customers on Prince Edward Island, and has thus succeeded in gaining the confidence of every firm with whom he has done business. We would understand that Mr. Corby will at no distant date return to the Provinces to prosecute a business on his own account. If so there is no doubt that the business of the firm will renew even more fully the patronage which they heretofore so liberally extended to the firm.

We cordially endorse the sentiments expressed in the above extract. The firm have done considerable business in this Northern section of country, and in all cases their business transactions have been of the most honorable and successful character. We have given his personal attention to the business in this quarter, and during the New Glasgow Plain Dealer, we read with interest in this quarter:

Rev. John Allan, formerly pastor of St. John's Presbyterian Church, has been appointed to the pastorate by many in this section, is moderator of the Free Church congregation in the lovely Island of Madeira, and also preaches in Portuguese as well as English.

"The barge 'Richard Hilditch' arrived New York on Friday, with a cargo of goods from Liverpool, and the arrangements for the future movements of it. A friend has handed us a copy of the Herald of the 28th inst., in which is set out that on the 6th Oct., when in lat. 42° 30' N. and 10° 30' W., on the 12th of the month, twelve hours, with a dangerous cross sea, the ship was wrecked on a rocky shore, washing everything in a moment of time. The passengers from hatches, and the crew, were rescued, and were taken to the starting yard. The cargo consisted forty tons of goods."
