THE PRESIDENTIAL CONTEST.

After having twice all but obtained the Presidential nomination, the Hon. Jas. G. Blaine has at last been successful and has been selected with the trial of Jerome Gillis for world are receiving renewed interest from Mr. Chamberlain's Bill in the British Parliament, to prevent overinsurance, a bill that is receiving intense opposition from the shipowners of Eagland, but has created for itself a powerful feeling in all other classes, especially the industrial, and will in some modified form become law. An article from the London Times is published on an outside page. The facility with with over-insurance could be obtained, has led to the construction of a class of vessels made to go to the bottom. It is difficult to believe two ballots in order to create the between the next to cover the Morse bogs and marshes. Advisor of his counsel, Gillis pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 14 days returned without opposition.

—The Agricultural Society Committee divided to convention mittee divided to cover the Morse bogs and marshes. The occurry with advisoring court was adjourned more rapidly than in 1880. In that the convention and the convention and the convention of his canvass was conducted with British Parliament, to prevent over-insurance, a bill that is receiving intense opposition from the ship-owners of Eagland, but has created for itself a powerful feeling in all other classes, especially the industrial, and will in some modified form the London Times is published on an opened on Tuesday, June 3rd, and London Times is published on an opened on Tuesday, June 3rd, and the convention opened on Tuesday, June 2rd. This has fallen through. The low freights and the losses on idle vessels are already checking the iron shipbuilding trade. Capital will not for some time flow into a channel that invites only losses. will not for some time flow into a channel that invites only losses. The passage of a bill making ship-owners bear a large portion of the risks will still further check it, and necessitate the construction hereafter of a more substantial and therefore more expensive vessel.

This will operate to the advantage of wooden ships. The latter costing £8 per ton, cannot compete with iron vessels at £9.15, but competent shipping men declare that when the latter rise to £11.00 per tor, the latter with the latter rise to £11.00 per tor, the shipping men declare that when the latter rise to £11.0.0 per ton, the Harper's Weekly, will not support former can be built and owned at a him and as the independent vote good profit, for cortain trades.

Large vessels—1500 to 2000 tons to day are carrying petroleum, cotton, &c., across the Western ocean, prosumably at a small profit. The cheapness with which such vessels can be operated enables them to-day to compete with all others and find business at rates that have driven the English iron vessels into port. Nova Scotia ship builders appear to recognize where they will have ironships at a disadvantage, and are building either small vessels for local trade, or the class above mentioned to compete with iron ships.
