London, Dec. 13.—The morning papers say Mrs. Langtry offers a reward of £50 for information as to the origin of an unpleasant story. Conservatives in Conference.

London, Dec. 13.—The Union of Conservative Associations held its annual meeting in Sheffield to-day. The Earl of Strathmore was elected president. Charles Stewart Wortley, M.P., declared the whole Conservative party would oppose the burden of what he called the "Liberal gerrymandering electoral reform bill" and the Irish Home Rule Bill, which latter measure measured the unity of the Empire. The conference adopted a resolution declaring in favor of the return to Parliament of candidates of the labor party.

Fashionable Cruelty.

London, Dec. 13.—Even Wales patronized the cruel battle. He was for a week prior to his return to celebrate the 48th birthday of the Princess—the guest of Lord and Lady Alington at their hunting estate at Cheltenham. It is chronicled with much gusto in the Morning Post, the organ of the "Princess's" friends, that the guests in two days shot within a dozen of 1,000 pheasants, 243 partridges and 396 rabbits. That is a very "preserved" and feels game for the purpose of slaughtering it. By the aristocracy may take to quailing here, ducks and peacocks. In all the Queen's household had their deer, and a side of a distinguished party, who seem to delight in animal cruelty. The hunt has been commented upon by the Radical press with great severity. To the Pall Mall Gazette a Wokingham priest living in the Windsor district thus writes:

"It is surprising that this cruel and disgraceful sport is patronized by people who say to be humane and religious, and that the rural clergy keep so quiet about it. It is not surprising that a clergyman of such barbarity fills the minds of the poorer portion of the lower classes. This hunt being, I am glad to think, is growing with rapidly, and were it not for the present primary and social influences arising on the side of rural hunting, would sweep away all evil custom away."

Dec. 28 a stag passed my house, paroled by the Queen's park, and took refuge in a bush hard by, after a good run. The animal was duly captured and housed as an amusing inn, but, shortly after, it was sent into the park and trotted about the streets. Instead of being caught, however, it was suffered to get on the outskirts of the town, and, as my information goes, whose accuracy I have no doubt of, the hounds were a second time laid upon its track and a long chase ensued. It is certain that the public are disliking the whole habit of treating as wild a stag that is kept in a small paddock, has its antlers sawed off, is carried to the meet, that will often run the road for miles, that flies for refuge to the abode of its pursuers—to streets of towns, to villages, roads and yards, joining in its efforts to shield itself, even dogs and cows."

The third charge accused him of teaching an inspiration of the Scriptures in a sense that was contrary to the confession of faith, themselves and by the confession of faith. The final vote was: Charge second—Guilty, 36; not guilty, 26. A committee was appointed to consider and report the penalty. The majority of the committee recommended a reprimand, but the minority voted 31 to 27 to suspend Prof. Smith from the ministry.

REV. GEORGE BOYD DEAD.

The Pastor of Queen's Avenue Methodist Church Passes Away.

Surrounded by His Family and the Church Officers—A Useful, Career Ended—Sketch of His Life.

Rev. George Boyd, pastor of the Queen's Avenue Methodist Church, passed peacefully away at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon, surrounded by the sorrowing members of his family and number of the officers of the church. He became unconscious a short time before his death, and remained so until the feeble spark of life went out. He had been so utterly weak the last few days that to speak was a painful effort. This morning a few of the officers of the congregation called. He recognized them and requested them to sing one of the good old hymns he so dearly loved. They complied and the dying man, unable to repeat the words, beat time with his hand. It is a little more than a month since the reverend gentleman took to his bed. Everything that human skill could do was done to save his life, but the physicians realized almost from the first that the internal complaint from which he suffered was too critical to admit of much hope, though they suppressed their fears for the family's sake.

The news of his untimely death in the midst of a useful and promising career will cast a deep gloom over the community, for no man was more beloved for his noble qualities of heart and head. He was a man of high character and high ability. He was a resident of London for a little over two years, he became widely known as the pastor of one of the largest congregations in the city and as a foremost champion of every good cause.

Rev. Geo. Boyd was born Feb. 13, 1847, at Grangemouth, Stirlingshire, Scotland. He received his primary education at the public and grammar schools, by private tuition in Glasgow, and then finished at Mount Allison College, Sackville, N. B.

When a boy, Mr. Boyd had an ambition to become a practical engineer, and worked at that trade for several years. He, however, felt called to the ministry, and in the year 1869 became a local preacher in connection with the John Street Wesleyan Church, Glasgow. He was brought up in the Presbyterian faith, but at the age of 14 was converted in the Methodist Church, and united with that denomination. In the year 1872 he went to Newfoundland, where he joined the Wesleyan Methodist Conference, and was ordained in 1877. He continued in that conference for eighteen years, when, in the year 1890, he was transferred to the London Conference as the pastor of the Queen's Avenue Methodist Church, this city. While in the Newfoundland Conference he traveled to several cities: Port-de-Grace, Capids, Carleton, Harbor Grace and St. John's, remaining on the two circuits in the latter place for six years. He was pastor of the largest churches on the island during his residence there. At the Conference of 1891 he was elected chairman of the London district. Mr. Boyd was second secretary of the Newfoundland Conference, and its president in 1886. He was one of the representatives of that conference to the General Conference of 1882 at Hamilton, of the Union General Conference at Belleville in 1885, and of the Conference at Toronto in 1888. He had been the representative of his conference to the General Board of Missions on several occasions. He was an eloquent and earnest preacher, a diligent and sympathetic pastor, as well as a man of great determination of character and consecrated zeal, and he was greatly beloved by his own congregation and enjoyed the esteem of all who knew him. He was also a strong opponent of the liquor traffic. Mr. Boyd was united in marriage with Miss Bartlett, daughter of Isaac Bartlett, of Bay Roberts, Newfoundland, on the 23rd of August, 1877, and leaves several children. He had become much attached to this place, refusing to leave one temporary assignment to go to another city, preferring to accept the charge of Askin street church in South London, where he had many warm friends and admirers.

Attempt to Kill Hayti's President.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—The Atlas Line steamer Adriatic, at this port yesterday from Kingston, Jamaica, brings a confirmation of the report that an attempt had been made to kill President Hippolyte, of Hayti. Several of the passengers of the Adriatic stated that on the day of sailing, Dec. 2, a report was current in Kingston that a conspiracy of revolutionists had culminated that morning in an attack upon Hippolyte while he was walking in his garden. Several men had concealed themselves until a favorable opportunity presented itself, when they rushed upon the President. He understood their design as soon as he caught sight of them and cried loudly for help. A number of guards rushed up and caught the would-be assassins before they had done any injury. The report was that the men had been shot to death in the prison yard after a short trial. It was supposed they were in the interest of Gen. Maignat and other exiled conspirators.

Each day more trains arrive at and depart from London than arrive at and depart from any other Canadian city in the same time.

London's public water supply is obtained from never-failing pure springs four miles from the city. Their yield is practically unlimited. London has the best drinking water on the continent.

London is an excellent health resort, as it has a lower death rate than any city of its size on the continent, and it has magnificent white sulphur baths within its limits.

London has 13 public schools (and a number are under contract), not including kindergarten; 3 R. C. separate schools, 2 ladies' colleges, and 1 collegiate institute.

London has 1 university and 1 medical school.

London has 2 public libraries.

London is an excellent center for manufacturing and commercial enterprises.

There are already established wholesale houses for groceries, hardware, dry goods, small wares, boots and shoes, drugs, crockery, etc. There are one or more manufacturers of furniture, engines, boilers, stoves, furnaces, iron and brass foundries, carriages, burial caskets, agricultural implements, stamped tinware, railway cars, oil refining, leather, barrels, machine tools, clothing, cigars, office and school furniture, biscuits and confectionery, mirrors and beveled plate-glass, etc.

London has 44 churches, almost every religious denomination of any importance being represented.

London has markets three times weekly, the best in the west. The Great Western Fair is held for ten days in September.

Further particulars about the city may be obtained by applying to the mayor, the city clerk, the secretary of the Board of Trade, or the ADVERTISER.

LONDON AND THE COAL TRADE.

With a daily boat between Port Stanley and Cleveland the scheme for conducting the Western Ontario trade with the West Indies would get a boom, according to Mr. John Law. But Mr. Law also asserts that the coal trade between London and the West and the Ohio fields would be much advantaged. The Cambridge, O., steam coal is asserted to be one of the best coals in the market. It burns well and gives off little ash. Now would be a good time to agitate for the removal of the duty on coal. So necessary a product to our industries should not be taxed.

The single tax movement has had a significant triumph in New South Wales.

In the Parliament of that colony recently, Mr. Cotton, a single taxer, moved the following amendment to a motion that a progressive land tax on holdings over £1,000 in value should be imposed: "That in the opinion of this House a system of raising revenue by the direct taxation of land values, irrespective of improvements, would greatly promote the welfare of this country."

In the debate which ensued the Premier, Sir George Dibbs, came out with the declaration that he should vote for Mr. Cotton's amendment. Sir George stated also that the Government intended to press the "Local Government Bill," which authorizes the municipalities to raise their revenues by a tax on land values without reference to the improvements on the land.

On division Mr. Cotton's amendment was adopted in place of the original resolution by a vote of 46 to 13. Both the leader of the Government and the leader of the Opposition voted for it. It was then finally adopted by a vote of 49 to 10. We will watch the effect of this radical advance.

WHAT ENGLISHMEN SAY OF US.

Three great English newspapers have, within the last few weeks, spoken boldly out in regard to the loyalty that prompts enactments against British trade with Canada, while calling for special privileges from the motherland. The Newcastle Daily Chronicle, referring to the imperial federation propositions, comments on the subject as follows:

"Surely the first step to Federation ought to be the abolition of the hostile tariffs which, while they are protecting their loyalty and affection, the colonies have raised against the mother country."

The Manchester Guardian also says: "There is only one desire at the root of the very faint and intermittent aspirations of some sections of colonialists for imperial federation—they would like to command the English market for their produce. They do not want a Kriegsverein or Defense League; they do not even want an equitable Zollverein or Customs League. The proposals of the committee read very well in a certain sense, but they do not tell us how we are to deal with such facts as these."

And the Liverpool Journal of Commerce shows conclusively that Englishmen appreciate, at its face value only, the protest of loyalty by men who are continually leaguing to prevent free commerce between Canada and the United Kingdom. Taking up the question of scheduling our cattle, the Journal proceeds:

"A nation which places against us a 52 per cent. tax on iron bars, a 72 per cent. tax on cast iron pipes, and a 30 per cent. duty on glass, besides heavy prohibitive duties on all kinds of manufactures, has no right to whine because we very rightly refuse to allow her to introduce cattle into our country which our official veterinary surgeons have pronounced to be suffering from infectious disease, and the Canadian goose must be served with the same kind of sauce as has proved palatable with the American gander. Canada must abolish the so-called 'National Policy' taxes before Englishmen can feel any kind of sympathy for her."

This declaration once more proves that in matters of trade the average Britisher is like the rest of us; he is not controlled by sentiment so much as by the necessity of seeking, by the best possible way, to make an honest living. The truth is that the man who prates loudest about his loyalty, and professes the strongest suspicion of his neighbor's patriotism, is apt to be the least likely of any one to deal fairly with others. We find in Canada that the loudest-voiced declaimer in favor of loyalty to Britain is the man who also is to raise up against her and against Canada the barriers to trade that the motherland now most complains against. Indeed, the patriot of this stamp fears the competition of Englishmen much more than he fears the competition of our neighbors in the States.

Our English contemporaries size the situation up pretty accurately, but they cannot expect a Government that exists by the grace of the millionaire monopolists in cotton, sugar, rubber, binder twine, etc., to be very solicitous about reducing the taxes on British imports into Canada. Men and methods at Ottawa must be changed before fair play is extended to all parties.

The late J. B. Armstrong, of Guelph, whose death was announced in these columns the other day, was not afraid to compete with our neighbors in the States. Being unable through the high tariff wall to get his carriage goods into the United States he built a large factory at Flint, Mich., and was busily engaged in conducting both businesses at the time of his death. Canada can ill afford to lose patriots of Mr. Armstrong's stamp.

THE LATEST PETROLEUM RIVAL.

The United States consul at Singapore has made a report to the State Department on the development of the Russian petroleum industry, in which he says:

"The only important imports of the Straits Settlements from the United States is petroleum. For years it held a monopoly of this market. Russian case oil since February, 1888, has been gradually working its way in, until to-day its shipments equal those of the United States. This state of affairs has gone on from year to year to the present date, when it now looks as if the American flag would be banished from the roads, and the entire case oil trade from the United States driven out of the market. Two circumstances have conspired to bring about this result—the introduction of tank steamers loaded with Russian oil and the discovery of a new oil field at Langkata, Sumatra. The determination to revolutionize the export trade of petroleum from Batavia by substituting tank steamers for the ordinary method of the production of oil from the Bakoo wells, which reduced the price. Something had to be done. The suggestion to build tank steamers which could carry large quantities of oil at a cheap rate to the various markets was welcomed, and the Rothschilds, who have largely aided the Batavia trade financially, were favorably impressed with the idea. The second feature which threatens the American trade is the newly-discovered oil fields in Sumatra. Altogether, concessions have been granted some $20 square miles of what has been pronounced by experts to be very rich oil-producing territory, and, being on the sea coast, and not, like the American and Russian oil fields, far inland, and having bordering excellent deep-water, well-sheltered harbors, its position may be said to be unique. Also the gasoline produced at Langkata is proved by a skilled English engineer to be of first-rate quality, being 'water white,' absolutely without bloom, flashing by 'Abbe's test' at 82°, burning at 124°, the percentage of kerosene yielding being equal to good American and quite double that of Russian petroleum. The question, of course, for American shippers to decide is whether the trade is worth saving. The Standard Oil Company of the United States evidently thinks the matter worth looking into, as during the last month it has had two agents here looking over the field."

Rough Hon. A. B. Forwood, the well-known British M.P., in an interview with the Jamaica Gleaner, states that the center of the West Indian trade must eventually be the United States. He says he has no fewer than six departures a month from New York of steamers belonging to the Atlas Steamship Company, which he founded. "Twenty years ago," he said, "it was difficult to obtain 500 barrels of fruit, and we now take them by thousands, and a great deal may yet be done." We should like to hear Mr. Forwood's views respecting the scheme to carry West India supplies to Western Ontario by way of Pensacola, Florida.

EXAMPLE AND PRECEPT.

"Knoxonian," writing in the Canada Presbyterian, pertinently remarks:

"At the present time political corruption is producing thorough and unutterable contempt for the administration of the law, we shall not say the administration of justice. How can anybody with a sense of right and wrong have any respect for forms that imprison a hungry boy for taking a biscuit, and not only acquit, but honor men who have stolen hundreds of thousands. If that ragged, untaught, homeless, motherless, hungry lad, who is handed by the police into the cell and from the cell sent to prison, had been a cabinet minister and had stolen a million or corrupted the morals of more than a million, he would have been a hero, and churchwardens and class-leaders, elders and evangelists, women and clergymen would have vied with each other in doing him honor."

And again:

"If a man defend tampering with a voter's list, can he expect his son or his clerk to be honest with other documents? If a citizen defends or ignores uncleanness in a public man, can he complain if his own son follows the example of the citizen his father lionizes? Can the citizen who champions a drunken public man be honest if his own son imitates their father's hero? Can he wonder if his daughter marries an inebriated drunkard and debauchee? They see their father working night and day to put a drunkard or debauchee or dishonest man in a place of honor and trust. Can the young people be blamed if they imitate their father's hero?"

Few American books of its class have received so early and so hearty a recognition from the highest literary authorities abroad as Douglas Campbell's "The Puritan in Holland, England and America," recently published by Harper & Brothers.

The following letter from Mr. Gladstone is a fitting answer to some of Mr. Campbell's critics who have charged him with an undue bias against England and her institutions:

HAWARDEN CASTLE,
CHESTER, Oct. 17, 1892.

My Dear Sir,—It happened that I opened your work and read the deeply interesting preface before I had seen your letter, and ascertained to whom I owed the gift. Allow me now to offer you the special thanks it so well deserves.

The English race (I am a pure Scotchman) are a great fact in the world, and I believe will so continue, but no race stands in greater need of discipline in every form, and, among other forms, that which is administered by criticism vigorously directed to confining their character and claims. Under such discipline I believe they are capable of a great elevation and of high performances, and I thank you partly in anticipation, partly from the experience already had, for taking this work in hand, while I am aware that it is one collateral and incidental to your main purpose.

Puritanism again is a great fact in history, exhibiting so many remarkable and noble traits. It may, perhaps, be liable to the suspicion of a want of durability. During the last century it seems to have undergone in various quarters much disintegration, and it is difficult to connect it historically with the divorce law of Connecticut. But I am wandering into forbidden ground, which my qualifications do not entitle me to tread, and I will close by expressing my sense of the value and importance of a work like yours, and of the benefit which we in particular ought to derive from it. I remain, dear sir, your most faithful and obedient,

W. E. GLADSTONE.

"ALL SAINTS."

Dedication of the New R. C. Church at Strathroy.

Interesting and Impressive Ceremonies—A Great Array of Ecclesiastical Talent.

(Special to the ADVERTISER.)

STRATHROY, Ont., Dec. 13.—All Saints' R. C. Church in Strathroy, which was burned down on Aug. 2 last, has been erected and fitted up on a scale far surpassing its former symmetry and attractiveness. The dedication of London diocese, assisted by Rev. Dr. Flannery, of St. Thomas, and Rev. Father Boubat, of Simcoe, as deacons of honor, performed the interesting and imposing ceremony.

The attending priests were Rev. Father Molloy, of Ingersoll; Rev. Father Regan, of Wallaceburg; Rev. Joseph Bayard, Sarnia; Rev. Fathers Tierney, Gahan and Noonan, of the cathedral, London; Rev. Father Corcoran, La Salle; Rev. Father Gnam, Wyoming; Rev. Father Mullan, Woodstock; Rev. Father Mullan, Woodstock; Rev. Father Hodgkinson, Woodstock; Rev. Father Aylward, Port Lambton; Rev. H. Tremer, Mount Carmel.

Rev. Father Molloy preached the dedicatory sermon from the text: "Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church." (Matthew, xvi, 18.) The reverend gentleman was listened to with marked attention. His instructive and eloquent discourse occupied with but few minutes of an hour's duration, and gave unqualified satisfaction and pleasure to all present.

The choir assisted by members of St. Peter's choir, London, and under the leadership of Mr. W. Miller, of this city, executed with much spirit Willard's "Grand Mass in G."

Bishop O'Connor, at the close of the interesting ceremonies, imparted his episcopal benediction. The celebrant of the high mass was Rev. Jas. Bayard, Rev. Fathers Brady and Aylward acting as deacon and sub-deacon.

At 1:30 the church was again attended by a very large congregation, anxious to listen to a lecture by Rev. Father Flannery, who preached from the text: "Christ sanctified his church and delivered for its cleansing it by the laver of water in the word of life," etc.—Ephesians v. 2. Sanctity was eloquently set forth by the true church in its foundation, its teachings and the number of its children who were animated for holiness of life, in all ages of the church's history.

DREADFUL PSORIASIS.

Covering Entire Body With White Scales—Suffering Fearful—Cured by CUTICURA.

My disease (psoriasis) first broke out on my left cheek, spreading across my nose, and almost covering my face. It ran into my eyes, and the physician was afraid I would lose my eyesight altogether. It spread all over my head, and my hair all fell out. I was entirely bald-headed; it then broke out on my arms and shoulders, until my arms were just one sore. It covered my entire body, my face, head and shoulders being the worst. The white scales fell constantly from my head, shoulders and arms; the skin would thicken and be red and very itchy, and would crack and bleed if scratched. After spending many hundreds of dollars I was pronounced incurable. I heard of the CUTICURA Remedies, and after using two bottles CUTICURA RESOLVENT, I could see a change, and after I had taken four bottles I was almost cured; and when I had used six bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, one box of CUTICURA SOAP, and one box of CUTICURA SCAP, I was cured of the dreadful disease from which I had suffered for five years. I cannot express with pen what I suffered before using the REMEDIES. They saved my life, and I feel it my duty to recommend them. My hair is restored as good as ever, and so is my eyesight.

CHAPMAN'S.

Danesbury House.

"How much longer am I to be nurse?" said Lord Temple, from the opposite end of the room.

Isabel laughed. "Why do you not bring him here, Reginald? You have kept him yourself."

"But the young Turk has got his eyes and hands on this shining curtain bracket. If I take him away, he may deafen Arthur's ears with screams; and they are not used to the music."

Isabel rose, and took the baby. But if he had lost the curtain ornament, he had found his mother and did not cry. She summoned the nurse, who carried away the child.

"I need not ask if you intend to make him a warder," said Arthur.

"No, that you need not," he heartily responded. "Neither do I intend to make any of my brothers an inmate who may come after him shall ever touch aught but water while I control them. I don't know what they may do afterwards."

"I'm up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it. That was spoken by a wiser man than either you or I, Temple," said Arthur.

"Dinner, my lady," cried a servant, opening the door.

"We dine early on Sundays," remarked the viscount, as he followed his wife and Arthur to the dining-room. "Isabel has got me into the habit—and we find it to be a good one; more particularly as regards the convenience of the servants. Of course, it is not getting into good habits—do you know that St. George has become a water-drinker?"

"Has he?" St. George?

"He used here a fortnight ago, and wine was placed on the table as usual when we have any one with us, for I don't force my temperate habits upon my guests," continued Lord Temple. "But St. George said I might order the wine off again; he had given up drinking it."

"Did he give his motive?"

"Simply that, feeling so much evil rising from indulgence in it, especially to young men, he had come to the determination to banish wine and beer from his own table before his children should grow up. Of course, that could only be done by abjuring them himself, and he has done it."

"And his wife also," added Isabel.

Arthur looked amused. "His wife! Charitable and to say that she loved her wine, and could not do without her porter. She was passionately offended with me once for telling her that it was the drinking porter made her fat."

"She did love her porter," resumed Isabel, "but she says she loves her children better and therefore makes her sacrifice; and a real sacrifice I can hardly imagine it to be to Charles."

"Ah," interposed Lord Temple, "if people were only brought up to drink water, as you say, it is a sacrifice the world knows little of."

CHAPTER XVII.

A NICE YOUNG MAN.

Arthur took leave of Lord and Lady Temple at the church door, as they were going in for evening service, and proceeded toward the Golden Eagle. The shops were closed, every shop was passed; but the gin-shops were open and lighted up, outside and in. Light this to be he said to himself; ought this marked distinction to be permitted? The shops closely shut, in accordance with our professed religion, and with God's commandment that the Sabbath shall not be profaned, while these flaunting liquor places, and their evil attractions, are staring boldly open! He recalled to mind what had been said by his brother-in-law that day for the legislature might do more to crush—Arthur would have said, not encourage—the vice, than they were doing.

As he reached the Golden Eagle. One of the first objects his eye encountered on entering was his brother Robert, in a state of semi-stupor. He had been sitting, with other of the Golden Eagle's public parlor, and was now reeling out of it into the bar, on his way to quit the house, having drunk away his money. Arthur went up to him and laid his hand upon his shoulder, and partially intoxicated as Robert was, he started at the sight, and covered visibly. He was dressed as Arthur had never yet seen him dressed, in a common gray suit of clothes; not at all like Sunday ones.

Arthur tucked his arm into his own, and led him out. The landlord followed; he had caught a word of the recognition.

"Oh, sir," he said to Arthur Danesbury, "is he your brother?"

"Yes, sir," he said to Arthur Danesbury, "is he your brother?"

"Yes, sir," he said to Arthur Danesbury, "is he your brother?"

always a supply of him, and not get paid. Candles he have had; and three leaves, and a quarter of butter he have had; and a go of brandy, as I sent for him, for he was a praying and crying for it as if he'd die; and two quarters and a half of gin; and a piece of soap; and a tumbler and plate he broke—he can't deny as he have had 'em, and owes me for 'em."

"How much is it in all?" inquired Arthur, putting his hand into his pocket.

"Well, sir, I know it's as much as four shillings, but I can't reckon it up in my head all in a moment. Oh, and there was the washing of his sheets I forgot that. And there's the rent besides."

"How much?"

"Two weeks, sir; come to-morrow, at four and sixpence, making nine shillings. And if I say five for what he owes me, instead of four, I shan't be a gainer. A precious trouble my husband have had of him in his drunken bouts! That'll be 14 shillings, sir, altogether."

Arthur placed a sovereign in her hand. "Is any notice requisite because he will quit your house to-night?"

"No, sir," answered the woman, who appeared to be a sufficiently honest one, whatever may have been her faults of manner. "He gave me notice a week ago, and though he was drunk then he said it, of course it was a notice. Six shillings I'm afraid as I've not got enough change, sir, but I can run to the nearest public and get it."

"No, do not run there. You may keep the 6 shillings in recompense for any trouble he may have been to you."

"Well, sir, there ain't many like you," exclaimed the grateful woman, after a pause of astonishment—"but you carries the gentleman in your face. Can I do anything else, sir? Shall I run up and light a bit of fire in his grate; his coat's chilly."

"Oh, no. I shall want a cab brought presently, if you have anyone to send."

Use the Best.

Is a good motto. It is particularly good when applied to anything which we use daily at our own meals. Bread may truly be called the staff of life and we cannot be too careful as to what we put into it. Good health is of too great importance to be trifled with, and biscuits or pastry made with the alum powders which are so commonly sold in this country, are very injurious, leading to dyspepsia and numerous other troubles resulting therefrom. The pure cream of tartar and soda baking powders are healthful in every respect. In this class of powders the Pure Gold Brand has obtained the highest position and is always reliable.

A Man Made Happy.—GENTLEMEN,—For five years I have been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only seemed a drag to me. When I would go to sleep I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest either day or night. But with the use of only two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the wonderful curative qualities possessed by this medicine, that are specially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything, and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim for it.

THE KNIFE!

Fatal Affray at Bromhill, Man.—Two Brothers stabbed.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 13.—A fatal stabbing affray occurred at Bromhill, Man., on Sunday. Harry Vaughan crossed Geo. Randall's farm with a gun, following a jack-rabbit. Randall ordered him off, and the two had words. Vaughan threw his gun down on the snow and started to fight. Arthur Randall, a brother of George, ran up and joined in the fight, and broke the gun-stock over Vaughan, who drew a knife and stabbed both. George is dead, and Arthur is seriously wounded. Vaughan is highly respected. Randall was of a quarrelsome disposition.

"OUR CHURCH CHOIR."

A lady writing from a western Canadian city says: "Some half-dozen members of our church choir have used Harvard Brand's Syrup with wonderful results. I am never without it in my home or when I go abroad. I find that one small dose is quite sufficient to clear the voice and remove huskiness."

This lady voices the opinions of thousands of other singers in Canada. No other remedy is so popular with our amateur and professional vocalists. And use it because it is reliable, prompt, effective and pleasant to the taste. Every druggist in Canada sells the Harvard. Ask for the large 25-cent bottle.

Love is the intangible unrest, the quintessence of what should be but is not, the pleasure of pain, the happiness of heartache, the alleged attainment of the unattainable, the folly of feeling, the definition of the undefined, and about ten thousand million other things we are always seeking and never finding with any degree of certainty.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

TO THE ELECTORS!

Shall All Saloons and Pans in London be Closed at Seven O'clock Every Night as at Present on Saturday Nights?

Twelve Good Reasons Why You Should Vote for Early Closing.

A Straightforward, Yet Moderate Proposal to Men and Women Who Possess the Responsibility of the Franchise.

We want an expression of your opinion by vote on the occasion of the coming municipal election, Monday, Jan. 2, 1893, whether it would not be better, in the interests of the community, as a suggestion to the license commissioners, to make the hour of closing the bars for the license year, beginning next May, 7 o'clock p.m.

Our reasons for this movement are:

1. Because we believe Hon. W. E. Gladstone's statement—"Greater calamities are inflicted upon humanity by intemperance than the three historic scourges of war, pestilence and famine." The more bars and the longer hours the more drinking and consequently the more intemperance. The following London statistics indicate this:

Arrests for drunkenness, 1890..... 914
Arrests for drunkenness, 1891..... 602
Arrests for drunkenness up to the preceding week this year..... 432

2. Because these licensed houses are the base of our young men, who are attracted by the blandishments of friendship and the attraction of open bars. Therefore we appeal to the parents of London, whether abstainers or not, to vote with us, if not for their own sake for that of their neighbors' children.

3. Because the wages of the laborer and artisan, homeward bound, are often diverted into the barroom and the benevolent are burdened to help those whom drink has made poor. Ask the doctors, the King's Daughters and Sons, and the various benevolent workers if this is true. The liquor-sellers themselves admit they do the most of their business after 7 o'clock p.m.

4. Because if you are a friend of the early closing movement you ought to give the bartender a chance to close up early!

5. Because healthy men do not need liquor, and the sick man who prescribes it for himself has a fool for a patient. Indeed he ought to be prosecuted for practicing medicine without a diploma!

6. Because beer only makes the constant drinker appear well when his bones are like sticks in a bag of water. It's all "beer blast!"

7. Because a large proportion of the liquor sold under high sounding names, is fraudulent and absolutely poisonous. Hon. Geo. Gifford, American consul, La Rochelle, France, wrote in 1882: "All French brandy might properly, and perhaps ought to be, excluded from the United States on sanitary grounds," simply because such a thing as pure brandy is almost, if not entirely, unknown even in France, and what is true of brandy is true of so-called foreign wines.

8. Because, as Ruskin says, "The encouragement of drunkenness for the sake of the profit on the sale of drink is certainly one of the most criminal methods of assuaging the money-hunger adopted by the bravos of any country." If it were only the drinker was killed it would not be so bad. You have but to look at the murder of Detective Phair to see what a few cents' worth of liquor can do! And the end is not yet. Every man hanged in London for crime was brought to the gallows through intemperance.

9. Because the public have to foot the bills! Who pay the jailers, turnkeys, the extra policemen, the witnesses and lawyers in criminal cases, three-fourths of which are caused by drink? And now, when we want to vote on a resolution introduced by an almost unanimous vote of the council, without any expense to the city, these license-holders want to prevent you from expressing an opinion on this question and to save you the trouble of writing yes or no on your ballot papers on election day, put the city to the expense of defending their action in Court of Chancery, Toronto! How considerate they are of our rights and privileges!

10. Because, if the Scripture be true, that the drunkard is excluded from the Kingdom of Heaven, this business not only keeps him, but it certainly prevents the seller from doing any genuinely religious work.

How many license-holders are regular attendants at church—are Sunday school teachers, elders, deacons, class-leaders, Y. M. C. A. workers, sick and prison visitors, etc.? By their fruits ye shall know them. Many of these men do not want their own children near their bars, or under the influence of the traffic. No class has suffered more than they by the evils of drink. We want to help them out of the business.

11. Because it is your duty to vote.

Do you only vote in a Parliamentary election when you are sure your candidate will be elected? Has there not been a loosening of drinking in the past? What caused it? The men in the business? The incident, like some of you, or, as you are fond of saying, "public opinion"? Who created public opinion? Those who never gave, spoke, or voted to hinder the traffic?

Do not call us cranks and fanatics who do nothing yourself. Does it not seem sometimes, even to you, that "if these should hold their peace the very stones would cry out."

12. Because it is important in every way that you should show where you stand. You remember the Master's statement, "He that is not with me is against me." Can you be neutral on such a question? Canon Farrar says, "I feel convinced, if men, if Christians, had a heart of pity in them, have any spark of nobleness in them, they would do everything in their power to show that it is an evil that is destroying our brothers and sisters in multitudes."

"They would do their best in some way or other to save the continuance of this evil in their midst." What will you do?
