MASSACREING MONKS.

A dispatch to the Madrid Imparcial capital of the Philippine Islands, brings the announcement that Cavite is occupied by 15,000 insurgents. Over 100 monks have been murdered in the island since the breaking out of the insurrection. Rich natives are being arrested Documents have been seized by the authorities, in which are given the names of the president and various other officials of the proposed republic

A SENSATIONAL ARTICLE. London, Sept. 25.-In a restrained and dignified article on the Armenian question, the Russian Gazette urges in the interests of European peace and upon the principles of humanity, a rapprochement between Russia and Great Britain. It declines to indorse the suggestion that Great Britain arranged the massacres in her own interests, and declares that it believes that the sympathy of the powers is on her side. It is in favor of decisive pressure being brought to bear on the Porte, to whose faulty Government is largely due the dark side of recent events. The Gazette adds: "Strict watchfulness of the interests of Russia in the East cannot be considered by Russian diplomacy as an absolute impediment to the establishment in with Great Britain and the other the complicated question which un-ceasingly alarms Europe."

The London Daily News sees in the presentation of a photograph of the German imperial family to the Sultan, and in the expulsion from Berlin of Prof. Thoumayan, the well-known Armenian lecturer, confirmation of the statements telegraphed from Constantinople that Germany's influence with the Sultan is more powerful than that of all the other powers.

BRITISH PUSHING ON. Dongola, on the Nile, Sept. 24.-An Inspection of the Dervish defenses at this place shows that they were constructed with great skill, that the positions were well chosen, and that if they had been held by resolute men they would have caused an immense amount of trouble and loss to the Anglo-Egyptian expedition, About 900 Dervish prisoners were captured, in addition to the large quantity of arms of all kinds, dates sufficient to support an enormous fighting force for a long time, a great quantity of grain and a large supply of sheep and cattle. The honors of fighting fell to the gunboats and the artillery, whose shells reached the fleeing Dervishes far out in the desert. Deserters from the Dervish forces continue to arrive here, and they are all anxious to serve under the Egyptian flag. The work of perfecting the chain of depots and forts connecting this place with Wady Halfa is being pushed with the greatest energy, and from here work on the railroad embankment begins tomorrow, so as to join the line being pushed southward as quickly as possible. All the troops are in excellent health and spirits, and the provisions captured have considerably strengthened the position of the sirdar. No announcement had been made as to the Beautiful in Oratory and Practical in Proposition-Phrases That Will Live.

London, Sept. 25.-Apart from the marvelous oratorical beauty of the speech delivered by Gladstone yesterday afternoon, its most prominent feature was the statesmanlike quality of the plan of action proposed. The audience was largely composed of bitter political opponents of the veteran ing to the rough sea. The steamer is one of the vessels of the North German Lloyd Line.

oratorical effect of the Old Man Elo Some phrases, for instance, as "the weakness of diplomacy about to be strengthened by the echoes of a nation's voice," or "to the guilt of massacre is added the impudence of denial," or the words he puts into the Sultan's mouth, "I have tried your patience in distant place, now I will try it under your own eyes. I have desolated my provinces and will now desolate my capitol," are not only likely to produce immediate effect, but will pass into the history of this generation's oratory.

SOUTH ESSEX NOMINATION Reeve John A. Auld Chosen by the Lib-

Kingsville, Sept. 25.-The Liberals of the South Riding of Essex met here yesterday, and the meeting was the largest and most enthusiastic ever held in the county, every municipality being fully represented. The convention was called to order by President

Barrett at 2 o'clock, after which Mr. Wm. McSwen, deputy reeve of Leamington, in a short but excellent speech placed in nomination the name of Mr. John A. Tremblay, of Tilbury North. seconded this in a spirited speech, delivered in both English and This was carried unanimously, and Mr. Auld was declared th choice of the convention.

Mr. Auld was escorted to the platform, and amid great enthusiasm accepted the nomination. He urged upon the delegates to use every effort to secure his election by a rousing ma jority.

Was Buried Alive.

Fell Into the Hole Which He Was Ligging Himself.

W. P. Cooper, of Hamilton, Came to His Death by a Most Distressing Accident.

Hamilton, Sept. 25.-Early yesterday Wm. P. Cooper, a shoemaker employed at McPherson's, but who was not working, started to excavate a small hole in a vacant lot south of the T., H. and B. track, on Bailey street, to locate the sewer pipes which had been left there some months ago when the house on the lot was torn down. He laid his coat on the ground close by. and his dog sat down beside it. About 9 o'clock Robert Graham, B. B. Jones and others saw Cooper digging, and at noon they noticed the coat and the dog there, but the hole was filled in. About 5 o'clock the coat and the dog noticed in the surface of the ground. A couple of hours later John T. Laing, who owned the lot, and had employed Cooper, went down to see what was the matter, as Mrs. Cooper had gone to his house to find out why her husband had not been home to dinner. He began to dig, and was assisted by other men, who dug up the body of Cooper. The bank had caved in on him early in the morning. He was about 25 years old. An inquest will likely be held.

OUR WESTERN MINES

Bright Outlook for the Ensuing Year's Development,

Rossland letter to Vancouver World. "What do you think will be the output of Trail Creek camp for the calyear of 1896?" was the question asked by a local mining man, who is well known for his knowledge of the doings of the camp.

"This matter was up for discussion by a number of mining men, and I will give you the figures we arrived at, and we came to the conclusion they are conservative, and that the total given will be below the actual total at the end of the year. We came to the conclusion that the Le Roi will ship 50,000 tons of ore, valued at around $2,000,000. The War Eagle and Iron Mask combined will produce 19,-000 tons of ore, valued at $770,000. The Josie will add 5,000 tons, or $2,000,000 to the total, while the ore from the Mayflower, Crown Point, O. K., Nickel Plate and Cliff will aggregate 2,000,000 tons, or a value of at least $100,000.

making a grand total of $3,070,000 for the year. "Of course," said he, "those figures do not include any shipments from the Center Star. Jumbo, Evening Star, or City of Spokane. All mines with shipping ore in the dump, and quantities of it in sight in the mines, and it is conceded that nearly all of these mines will ship continually on the completion of the Red Mountain Railway. An analysis of these figures shows that the camp will produce 76,000 tons of ore at an estimated value of $3,070,000 which will add to the wealth of the world as follows: 133,000 ounces of gold, or $2,600,000; 3,377,777 pounds of copper, valued at $304,000, and 193,333 ounces of silver, valued at $106,000. This seems to be the most accurate and interesting estimate of the production of the camp for the year yet made, and will be generally accepted as very

POOL. A BIG SURPRISE IN THE TOUR-

Yesterday afternoon's game in the City championship tournament at the Grigg House was a genuine surprise for the friends of both players. ssrs. Ed. Horsman (proprietor) and George Crabbe (billiard marker) of the Grigg, drew cues, with all the odds in favor of the proprietor; in fact, everybody considered it would be an easy game in Horsman's favor. The first four racks were played with Horsman leading by 22. But Crabbe had pluck, and starting in on an up-hill game, took chances which, had considered himself evenly matched, would never had risked. The result was that through his success some of the difficult shots, he gained nerve, which brought him out the victor. Mr. Crabbe played some rewhich brought him out the markably brilliant shots, and was the recipient of the lion's share of ap-plause. Mr. Horsman, after the few starting frames, did not seem to keep up his usual game, and missed several linary shots, either through confidence or nervousness. Crabb took advantage of this, and played pluck-My to the finish, winning by 125 to 119, causing the greatest surprise by his nervy, up-hill game. Score by racks: Crabbe. THE EVENING GAME. Messrs. John Sheere and Joseph Ryan were the contestants last night, while the game was not as interesting to the spectators as the afternoon game, it was the best scientific game so far. Sheere played a smooth, clean game all through, and was safely in the lead from the start. A fine cut across the table to side pocket was the shot of the evening, and was much applauded. The Board of Works Has Lively Meeting.

Pritchard Sails Into the Engineer.

The Latter Repudiates the Attacks on His Efficiency.

The Wellington Street Grade, the Difficulty-Miss Hayes' Claim for Damages-Other Important Matters.

Last night's meeting of the Board of Works was somewhat stormy. though it started calmly enough. The cause of the tempest was a petition for the construction of a foot-bridge on the east side of Clark's bridge. It had been referred back from the council to the committee for further consideration.

Ald. Pritchard thought there never would have been so much talk about Wellington street if the engineer had put a proper grading there. This was not the only place where the engineer had made a mistake. He had done so on Ridout and Horton streets, and Central avenue.

Engineer Graydon then stated that some members of the council had accused him of not knowing his business. He said he knew as well as anyone else that the grade on Wellington street, from Simcoe street to the bridge, was wrong, but that was not his fault. It had been that way for the past fifteen years. Mr. Graydon said he was found fault with for personal reasons.

Ald. Dreaney thought that if any alderman knew more about street grading than the engineer he had better make application for the position The engineer, in his opinion, had always done what he had deemed best as a practical man.

Ald. Pritchard—I am prepared stand by every word I have said. There are plenty of men with just as much good common sense as the engineer, who would back him up in every word he said. He could point to several streets where Mr. Graydon made mistakes in the grades. One of them was Ridout street, between King and York, where Mr. Graydon said the owners would require a movable platform to allow teams to be driver into their vards. Mr. Graydon-I never made such

Ald. Pritchard-Well, I know what I am talking about, and can prove every word I say. That is not the only street you made mistakes on. Mr. Graydon then explained that the Ridout street grade had been altered very little. They did the best money in New York, often loaned they could with Central avenue. Wellington street, as at present, was not for its repayment.

Cincinnati will probably clear more his fault. According to instructions, graded properly, but that was not money than any club in the major he had raised the grade at the lower would be imagined. Though Louisville sitated cutting into the roadway consistently every season brings up in the rear of the procession, the club places. Then, to make things right, never fails to make money for the diall the intersecting streets, from Horton street to the bridge, would have to be graded in conformity with the grade on Wellington and this would cost from $1,500 to $2,000, which the city could ill afford to spend this year. He had always done what lay in his power to save the city all he could. and because of this some aldermen were sending broadcast through the country the statement that he did not know his business, and this was hurting him. He would leave any of these grades to the engineers of Hamilton

Ald. Pritchard-I am prepared to stand by what I have said, and am going t otake nothing back. You or any other man is not going to choke me off like that and say that I am wrong, and force it down my throat that you are right. I will move that the grade be lowered, from Hill street Ald. Ald. Pritchard looked at the chairman and said nothing. Mr. J. C. Judd appeared before the committee in support of the claim of Miss Annie Hayes, who was injured in a collision with the patrol wagon, and detailed the particulars of the accident. He said the lady was suffering from concussion of the spine, and would likely be a cripple more or less all her life. She was still in bed, and would likely be for some time yet.
Mr. Hayes was not in a position to walk into a suit, but if a settlement could not be arranged the suit would have to follow.

Mr. Graydon asked if the accident was not due to negligence.

On motion of Ald. O'Meara and Hea man, the clerk will be instructed to write the police commissioners regard ing their version of the affair, and Mr. Judd said he would obtain a statement from other parties who saw it. The committee then took up Mr. His cox's communication in regard to a stone sidewalk on King street, in front of his new building. Mr. Kingston informed the committee by letter that one-third the cost would be borne by the city and two-thirds by Mr. Hiscox if the work were gone on with immediately. The engineer stated that the total cost would be $144. Assessment Commissioner Grant reported that he had called on Messrs. Coote and Bullen, and requested them to sign a petition for a brick pavement on the Market Lane. They declined to sign for the improvement, stating that the city was granted certain privileges on the opening of the lane should entitle them to exemption from local improvement rates. "If they will not sign, what can we do?" asked Ald. Dreaney. Ald. Heaman—Nothing. Ald. Pritchard-Let the rubbish stay

there.
The question was filed, and this setof the Market La Mr. John McClary appeared before the committee regarding the opening of High street. He thought it would be an expensive undertaking. It was not going to be an easy matter to get past his corner. He understood that most of the owners had consented to give five feet to the street appropria-tion. When he had built it, he had put his house in such a position that he was sure no one would build and obstruct his view of the city, and if the council wanted to appropriate ten feet of his property he would consider that $200 per foot, of $2,000, would hardly pay him for the loss of his land and trees. Ald. Parnell said they deemed it unwise to go to such expense, and that an effort was being made to have the work done on the frontage tax plan. They would, he said, know more about it in a week or so, but it was likely the matter would be filed.

Ald. O'Meara brought up the matter of removing the drinking fountain on Richmond street, in front of Dufferin avenue. He said it was dry half the time. It was referred to the member for the ward.

Ald. Dreaney said the fountain on Adelaide street near Dundas, was leaning up against the casket works. He said the fountain was built so that the horses' bridles caught in it and pulled it over. He wanted the top bowl taken off and a wooden guard erected in front of the fountain, which he claimed would remedy the difficulty. The matter was left in the hands of

A Universal Feminine Trick.

From a mistaken notion of economy, many maids and matrons sit themselves down when the nippy days begin and take out their last season's hats, instead of looking at the beautiful and economical affairs which MISS AUTUMN has trailed along in her wake. They wonder and worry how they shall put this ribbon and that feather to get the best effect. Now, this is a bad habit. Don't do it this fall; instead, give us a visit. If you don't want to buy, you may get some good ideas.

& Co.'s weekly statement of trade in

There is not the activity in trade at Montreal that is generally looked for at this season, and collections generally are reported but indifferent. In the grocery line attention is largely directed to dried fruits, which, in most lines, show a strong tendency to advance. In drygoods, travelers' orders are moderate. Cottons continue to advance, the last notification to the trade advising an increase of 5 to 7 1-2 per cent in the quotations for pillow cottons. Wholesale orders for woolen goods are reported rather freer, and several mills that were closed down are resuming work. For leather there is little improvement in the local demand, but sole is firmer, and the English market for Canadian black leather is better. The cheese market is about on the level of a week ago, with moderate shipments. Butter is a shade firmer. The general quotation for call money is 41-2 trade situation at Toronto. Dealers report a fair business, and seem satisfied with the outlook. There is a better feeling, with increased confidence in financial circles. The home prices of wheat are encouraging to farmers, and the increased movement of produce is being felt in slightly improved payments. Country merchants are buying cautiously, and stocks of merchandise are not large-a very good feature. Cotton goods are firm in prices, while woolens remain steady. Business in groceries is fairly There is a good deal of local competition in sugars, with sales of granulated at 4 cents. Dried fruits firm, and currants in limited supply. Hardware dealers report a fair trade with little change in prices. New York drafts are selling in Toronto at a premium of $1 50 per $1,000 between bankers. Speculation is quiet on the domestic exchanges, and prices firm as a rule. Bank of Commerce stock is in demand and higher.

Mr. Laurier remarked that in 1887 the most charming of the many smallthe resolutions which he had moved had been voted down. In 1887 the Conservatives and the House had declared that translators who interfered in politics should be dismissed. Now the Conservatives were opposed to translators being dismissed for interfering in politics.

Mr. Craig replied that Massrs Van.

Mr. Craig replied that Messrs. Vanasse and McLeod had acted upon a rule laid down in 1887.

Mr. Somerville retorted that the rule laid down in 1887 by the House was that translators should not interfere.

Mr. J. Ross Robertson said that he thought translators were not on the same footing as permanent employes.

But inasmuch as they received the management of the same footing as permanent employes.

But inasmuch as they received the management in this section, and that But inasmuch as they received the major portion of their income from Parliament, they should have better sense than to take the platform and "shake the receiled to speak to their Gerbara to take the platform and "shake the Excellency to speak to their Gerbara to take the platform and "shake the Excellency to speak to their Gerbara to their Gerbara to the speak to the speak to their Gerbara to the speak their torgues and play the Sir Oracle man fellow-subjects in their own act." He thought that this was a case tongue. (Applause.) where mercy should be extended, and that the House should render the old Hibernian verdict, "Not guilty, but do not do it again."

Mr. Casey said the disposal of these men was exactly on the lines laid down the Conserver by the Conserver the Conserver to the co

Mr. Bergeron moved as an amend-"That in the opinion of this House the translators of the debates of the House of Commons be notified amid loud cheers, the treble of the that in future they will not be allowed to speak on political platforms or they were really to get the holiday, to write political articles.."

MR. LAURIER'S DECISION. The Prime Minister, in closing the discussion, said that the report of the committee was the application of the rule which had been adopted by the House in 1888. The amendment had no application whatever, because that very principle had been adopted in 1888 against his (Mr. Laurier's) protest. He had then fought in vain against that action of the House. The House by its action in 1888 had decided that the translators were like all civil servants. and so if they took part in politics they must pay the penalty. The Liberals had come into office. They found the rule laid down, and they found that these translators nad violated that rule. They should be treated just as the others. If that other rule was to be applied, let it be after this report was adopted.

Mr. Bergeron's amendment was lost, and the motion to adopt the report was carried.

BRITISH COLUMBIA BENCH.

Col. Prior asked the Premier, upon the House going into supply, whether there was any truth in the rumor that Mr. Joseph Martin was to be appointed to the Supreme Court of British Columbia. He expressed his disbelief that the Premier would administer such a snub to the bar of that Province. He pitched into Mr. Martin.

Mr. Laurier promised that the vacancy would be filled as early as possible. But if it had been vacant for eight months the fault was with the Government of which Col. Prior had been a member. (Hear, hear.) Prior was too old a politician to put reliance in newspaper rumors. However, as to the name mentioned, Mr. Laurier said he was surprised to hear him spoken of by Col. Prior in the terms he had used. It was only evening that the member for Winnipeg (Mr. H. J. Macdonald) had spoken of Mr. Martin in such terms as to make it appear that nothing was too good for Mr. Martin. Mr. Martin's fitness for a judgeship might be left to Col. Prior's colleague. Mr. Fraser directed the attention of mmittee to the consistency of Mr. Davin's speech. How Mr. Davin could vote for protection last night and beg for the removal of duties on agricultural implements and coal oil tonight passed all understanding. Messrs. The question of freight rates, land companies and railway monopolies came up for treatment from a Northwest standpoint. The House adjourned at 12:30

Almost immediately afterwards the division bell rang, with the result that the new Administration had a majority of 37

In nominating Mr. John Auld, of Amherstburg, to succeed the late Hon. W. D. Balfour in the Legislature, the Liberals of South Essex have done well. Mr. Auld is not only a good business man, but like his predecessor, he has served an apprenticeship in the mark as a careful legislator for the public welfare. In the wider sphere, there cannot be a doubt, Mr. Auld will prove an equally painstaking, progressive representative.

The serious illness of Sir Isaac Pitman, the originator of the most widely written system of shorthand, revives the fact that some years ago he was reported dead, and had the felicity to live to read hundreds of kindly obituary notices of himself. On account of his extreme age, having celebrated his 83rd birthday several months ago, it ts hardly possible that he has strength sufficient to rally from his present illness. Mr. Pitman was made a knight in 1884 in consideration of the work which he had done in his marvelous system of stenography. He left school at 12 years of age, and became a clerk in the counting house of a cloth manufacturer. After six years of this service he entered the Normal College in Borough roads, and became a schoolmaster. Later he established the British school at Wotton-under-Edge, and removed to Bath in 1839. In 1837 appeared his first treatise on shorthand. It was entitled "Stenographic Soundhand." To the perfection of this system and to the reform of spelling Mr. Pitman has devoted his life since 1843. He established the Phonetic Society, now numbering 6,000. He published several works on shorthand, and is the publisher of the Phonetic Journal, which circulates over own instruction books, Mr. Pitman has published a library of books in shorthand, including works from the Bible to Rasselas. In the autumn of 1887 en international shorthand congress English language is spoken.

A dispatch from Winnipeg says that there is no truth in the statement for saying that the story that Premier Greenway would resist a conciliatory settlement of the school question has no foundation. Here is what the Winnipeg Free Press-a Conservative journal-says:

"Information from a reliable source received by the Free Press is to the effect that an agreement has about been reached for the settlement of the question, practically on the basis of the terms offered to the Do-Commissioners last winter. minion Papers are now being prepared in

A gang of mischief-makers seem to live in Winnipeg. They first concoct a story, and give it publicity, and 24 hours of a start. Then they deny it, or vary its make-up, and so they keep misleading the public abroad from day to day, and from week to week.

Formerly, the "Ottawa liar" held the palm for the circulation of falsehoods. Either he has moved to the fully apt disciple.

Some of our contemporaries sion was not brought to a close with-

Our readers are aware that in the lowed ten dollars a day for the period of 30 days; but if the session extends beyond 30 days, the amount of indemnity is fixed at $1,000. The argument is that $1,000 is far too large a sum for a session extending but a little beyond thirty days in duration. If members returned to the House of Commons incurred no other expenditure beyond that which is necessitated through attendance in Parliament, the contention would be wellfounded; but this is not the case. No matter how careful a member may be, County Council, where he made his he is compelled to spend in his election a very considerable sum of money, in addition to the foss of time, which to a busy man means money, and every year, incidental to his position as M. Mr. Phillips at present is chair- temporaries, representing a member of man of the special committee whose Parliament as going there in much the same way that the barbarian goes to plunder which he may there obtain, and which, being received, he is ready at once to return home.

Human nature is pretty much the same on both sides of the House. There are but few men of wealth on either side of the Commons' chamber. and unless it is the intention to exclude all except the rich from the House of Commons, the attempt to found its practices upon the heroic virtues is altogether misdirected. The indemnity which members at present receive was based upon the assumption that the average session would continue 90 days. Many sessions have continued for a much longer period. The session of 1891 lasted for more than four months; but if we remembed rightly, no member received more than the usual indemnity. It is held by many that when a session lasts over 100 days a small per diem allowance should be made, so as to protect members against actual loss after their indemnity has been earned.

We must look at the pecuniary circumstances of those of our population who become representative men. If a man is to succeed in public life, he must go into Parliament comparatively early, and in the vast majority of cases, if he does so, he must enter all the world. Besides printing his it before opportunity has occurred for him to accumulate wealth.

An Irritating Mistake.

"Knoxonian," in the Canada Presbyterian, referring to his recent tour in Great Britain, says: "One of the things a Canadian learns with a little pain on the other side of the water is that most of the people meets do not seem to know, perhaps, do not care to know, the difference between a Canadian and a citien of the United States."

This is a common experience. Four this city, while on a trip through Great Britain, was constantly asked, "How is your Presidential election likely to go?" Almost everybody—shrewd or in the treatment of any disease, business men included—knew Canada The people were told that Prof. Munonly as "America," which, being interpreted was the United States.

Within the corporate limits of Durango, Mexico, is a mountain of solid iron ore. The mountain is one mile long, 388 yards wide, and 640 feet high, and represents a total of 1,246,984,244 cubic feet of ore. This would be enough, it is estimated, to supply all the foundries of Great Britain with ore for 330 years, and the value of the metal so obtained would be nearly ten billions of dollars.

Who will persuade the short, stout woman that the bolero and Eton jackets, with the clasping ceintures or girdles which accompany them, and are so much worn, are not for her? It is pathetic the way women make themselves unattractive by studying other women's fashions instead of their own. Every woman who has reached the age of 25 has achieved by accident or intention some time in her life a becoming toilet. It may have been piecemeal, a hat that specially suited her, a gown that her friends spoke of, a jacket or mantle that she knew she looked well in-let her remember the combination and forever dress on that model. It must be modified and adapted to the prevailing style, but a little care will do this, and in these days of infinite variety of fabric and garniture it is easy to avoid monotony.

General Horace Porter, whose articles on "Campaigning with Grant" will be published in The Century the coming year, owed his position on Grant's staff to the latter's steadfastness of purpose. General Porter, then a captain in the artillery branch of the service, was introduced to Grant at Chattanooga in 1863. The commanding officer saw in the young artillerist one who could be of service to him, so he asked General Halleck to assign Porter to his staff. General Halleck refused to make the transfer, and even appeals to Secretary Stanton by both Grant and Porter were of no avail against department red tape. It was not until General Grant was placed in supreme command of the army that he succeeded in carrying out his purpose, and Por-ter was made one of his aides.

Disastrous Fire at Tilsonburg - Several Severe Losses.

Tilsonburg, Ont., Sept. 25. — Fire broke out at 1 a.m. in Weatherwax's paint shop (the old Presbyterian Church), and in a minute or two there was a loud explosion. The up-per part of the building has of late been used by the Salvation Army, and was owned by Mr. Tillson, whose loss will be about $3,000. The basement was occupied by H. Weatherwax as a paint shop, and D. Palmer, pump maker. Mr. Weatherwax had a large stock of wall paper, besides his oils and paints, and puts his loss at $2,500, with $1,000 insurance. Mr. Palmer had a large number of pumps on hand, a few of which were saved. He puts his loss about $600 to $800. with a small insurance.

A Fine Crowd at the West Middlesex Show.

Entries creatly in Excess or Last Year.

Attendance Over 6,000-Unusual Display of Fruit-Entertaining Speeding Events.

Special to The Advertiser.

Strathroy, Sept. 24.-The union fall show of the West Middlesex, Lobo and Adelaide Agricultural and Strathroy Horticultural Societies was commenced yesterday, with a splendid crowd in attendance, and with bright, warm weather such as was enjoyed today the fair tomorrow will conclude one of the most successful ever held in the

From early morning until away into the afternoon farmers continued to arrive in conveyances as various in styles as the disposition of their occupants, and the clouds of dust raised made business brisk for the vendors of red, green and white lemonade, who fairly swarmed on the grounds and handed out drinks at reduced prices to those taking more than one There was the usual number of fakirs present. The crowd was a spending one, and in consequence money changed hands rapidly to the lively as well as mournful music of the carousal, the managers of which seemed to enjoy the lion's sharpe of patrons. who crowded the affair as long as it moved around. It is estimated that over 6,000 people attended today. This season's entries are away in advance of previous years. There has been a considerable addition made to the cattle shed, but it was inadequate to meet the demands made upon it, and the animals were of necessity housed outside in as comfortable a way as the directors could devise. It is reason for congratulation that no matter how great provision is made to accommodate exhibitors, such is the popularity of the fair among the sturdy yeomanry of Middlesex, the space provided generally seems to be short of the requirements. Every department is overflowing with exhibits, with one or two exceptions. Fruits in particular show a large increase double last year's entries. Roots are not much in evidence. The display of cut flowers was never better, though the beauty of some classes is marred by the frost, which caught the exhibitors napping.

FRIENDLY RIVALRY. Two years ago the town of Wat-ford endeavored to steal a grand march on Strathroy by holding their fair before the day announced by the latter show, hoping to profit thereby, This is what the Strathroy people say, but they refused to change their date. and as a result the two exhibitions clashed. This rivalry has stimulated both societies to redoubled efforts, which has had the effect of providing greater attractions in both places. Watford Fair was in session today; so was Strathroy doing business at the old stand. And to prove that com-petition has not resulted disastrously, the Strathroy people point with pride to the following comparative table of Judges on horses found it rather difficult work to perform their auties properly by reason of the large crowd of people who would insist on jamming the space allotted to this portion of the display; but they worried through all right, though many spectators had narrow escapes from being run over by the spirited beasts on exhibition. A determined effort should be made in future to keep people out-side the railing, when he work could be done with much more celerity and comfort.

THE RACES.

About 3 o'clock the crowd began to collect around the ring railing and to file into the grand stand. The bill of fare provided was an excellent one, a good string of horses being on the track to contest the various events. and it was just as one of the drivers said—in order to be a winner now-adays one was compelled to own a pretty fast horse. There were several narrow escapes. The crowd would persist, despite threats and entreaties of constables and starter, in standing around the track, but finally order was established, and the sports were run off with little delay, for which thanks are due to Randy McKellar, of Glencoe, who officiated as starter to the entire satisfaction of the entire out any apparent exort. It was Collins' race from the start. In the second heat the finish was sensational. Dr. Routledge had a good lead, but J. W. Horton steadily gained on the stretch and overtook the doctor's team, winning by a neck. Some thought it a dead heat. To satisfy themselves as to who had the best pair, the two drivers, like true sports they were, decided to run over again for second money. Routledge won in a close finish, though he led throughout and seemed to have won from the start. The crowd required to exercise all their patience, for it seemed impossible to get the bunch started together. Little Joker, a very spirited beast, rid-den by a boy who was too young to properly manage the animal, created a little diversion by running away and doing a mile all alone before the driver could bring him up. This unfitted the beast for the race to some extent, though the rider was changed. The event was a splendid one, creating a deal of excitement among friends of the various horses.

Dr. Whitehead, V.S., Strathroy, and Eli Griffith, London, were judges on speed specials. NOTES. The race events were run off with ommendable promptitude.

There should be a band to make affairs a trifle more lively. There is nothing like a little music to keep the crowd in good humor. The half-mile track is among the best in the country, and was in prime con-dition for good work yesterday.

Secretary David Evans is a worker. The appeals of the fakirs to visitors to spend their good Canadian coin were both humorous and pathetic.

The sprinkling of a little water on the roads would make things a deal more comfortable.

For such a big crowd the grand stand enjoyed poor patronage. Dr. Routledge, of Lambeth, is a prime favorite here. It is said he handles a team of racers better than any other man in Canada, and the people who say so are sports of the first magnitude

A Disputed Right.

Bailiff Templar Sold Goods and Mr. Bell Objected.

The Case Reserved - Anna rahey's Condition-Drunks in the Docket.

The police magistrate every now and again has a complicated case before him, which he prefers to take into consideration before giving his decision. He had one of these cases this morning. It was an action brought by Inspector Wm. Bell against Frederick Templar for auctioning goods without an auctioneer's license. Mr. McKillop appeared for Templar, and argued that he had a perfect right, while acting in the caperfect right, while acting in the capacity of bailiff, which was the fact 1,100 feet of 42-inch steel pipe, in this case, to sell the goods he took into possession under a distress warrant. If this were not the case, a Masonry culvert . . . . . . . 1,500 landlord, he said, could have no way 9,000 cubic yards filling at Cove. 2,250 of collecting his rent, as it would not pay a bailiff to take out an auctioneer's license. Mr. McKillop said this action had grown out of a distress warrant for the sum of $96. He then cited an old English precedent, to show that a bailiff had power to dispose of goods obtained by him under such circumstances to the amount of

Mr. Fisher, for the city, contended that Templar had no right to sell the goods any more than an assignee, and cited the case of Regina vs. Rossen, tried before Judge McMahon, where the assignee had sold the goods, and the judge decided against his right to do so. At any rate, he said, it was an injustice to other auctioneers who paid a license fee, to give balliffs the right to dispose of these goods. The police magistrate reserved de-quents paid up.

There is a possibility that the fervor exhibited by all classes for the bicycle carries with it an element of danger. Exercise is essential to vigorous health, but in disease, or in those cases where the muscular force is greatly reduced, the use of the wheel should be employed cautiously. The proprietors of the very well known remedy, Putnam's Corn Extractor, attribute the largeness of their sales, not to the use of the bicycle by the people of Canada, but to the absolute certainty of their preparation to remove the most painful and obstinate corns in 24 hours. Putnam's Corn Extractor is always certain, safe and painless. Try it.

Another Independent Report on the Sewerage Question.

Larger Pipes Than Mr. Chipman Proposed - Some Changes in Routes -Separate System Advocated,

The Board of Health evidently be lieves that in the multitude of sewerage counsel there is wisdom. If the system is not a success it will not be for want of counsel. The collective wisdom of such experts as Messrs. Goodnough, Chipman and Horetzsky had already been embodied in reams of manuscript, but the board wanted to make assurance doubly sure, and engaged Engineer Rust, of Toronto, to make an independent report.

Mr. Rust has completed his observations and handed in his conclusions They agree generally with Mr. Chip-man's, the main difference being that Mr. Rust favors a larger main sewer Mr. Chipman recommended 36 inches; Mr. Rust from 39 to 42 inches. An interesting paragraph of Mr. Rust's report is this:

"I have not gone into the question of the disposal of the sewage, and have therefore not considered the reports of Messrs. Goodnough and Horetzsky, but have confined my report almost entirely to the question of size, locality and cost of the main and intercepting sewers. In designing the sewers I have followed Mr. Chipman's report, adopting the separate system, as your city is very favorably situated for an easy and rapid means of disposing of storm water, I have estimated that the population of your city in 1930 will be 75,000, and the population per acre ranging from 10 to 40, depending on locality, and have assumed a daily consumption of water of 75 to 100 gallons per head, half to flow off in eight hours, and have designed the sewers to run two-thirds full. I have also estimated that during the period of 40 years about 1,100 acres will be added to the present area of your city." With regard to the drainage of the northerly portion of Wortley road, Beaconsfield and Stanley streets, he finds that that section can be drained into the trunk sewer at the intersec-tion of Becher and Horn streets by obtaining a right of way through private property for a short distance.

THE TRUNK SEWER. The cost of the trunk sewer he estimates at follows: 1,950 feet of 39-inch sewer .. ...$11,733 950 feet of 42-inch sewer ..... 5,885 Manhole connections, etc. ... 750 Filling at bridge ...... 5,000 Iron bridge and masonry piers. 6,500 Steel pipe crossing river .. .. 16-inch and 18-inch pipe over-650

Mr. Rust thinks it should run easterly from Ridout either along Albert street or Lichfield to Talbot street and thence northerly to Mill street. The cost of this he estimates as fol-

The report continues: "Mr. Chipman advises that all new sewers to be constructed should be on the separate system. This plan should not be adopted without careful consideration. On the outlying and residential streets it may possibly be suitable, but in business streets, where storm water must be carried to the sewers, involving in many cases the construction of two sewers, I am of opinion that owing to the favorable opportunity of discharging your storm water into the rived and creek by means of overflows, there is no reason why, in many cases, one sew on the combined plan would not be more economical and selves at Guelph. London marksmen made some excellent scores at the Guelph rifle matches held at that city yesterday. The three members of the Seventh to enter the competition were Major Hayes, Staff-

Sergt. Goodwin and Capt. Watt. The latter made a possible 35 at 500 yards and won the first prize. This surprised himself and his friends. He won third prize at 600 yards, with a score of 31, and also won a prize in the extra series.

Major Hayes entered a team of London shots that won second prize, with an average of 90 per man. The major himself won prizes in every match. He scored 28 points at 200 yards, 32 points at 500 yards, and 29 points at 600 yards, and also took two good prizes in the extra series; with 24 out of 25 at 200 yards, and 23 out of 25 at 500 yards.

Staff-Sergt. Goodwin got second place in one match, with a score of 34 points, and second or third in two other matches, and also good prizes in crack marksmen, and at the 21st annual meeting of the Western District Rifle Association, which takes place at the Cove ranges on Wednesday and Thursday of next week, some more good shooting may be looked for. The boys are at present busy getting the butts and targets in shape for the event, which promises to be the best ever held here.

Squire Lacey Deals With Some Queer Characters-Robert Moore Goes for Trial.

A MOTLEY DOCKET.

Squire Lacey had quite a batch of cases before him yesterday. The first was that of an old man named Moore, who is charged by Mrs. Parkhouse with using abusive language towards her. He was bailed to appear before Squire Lacey on Monday at 2 p.m.

Henry Clark was arrested and charged by Detective Ward with being drunk and disorderly. He was remanded until Monday at the same hour. James Kenna, a drunk, was taken in yesterday afternoon for acting dis-orderly, and remanded until Tuesday next at 2 o'clock. Henry Allard is a bold and vulgar tramp from Quebec. Word was sent to Detective Ward yesterday afternoon that he had insulted a little girl named Sonley, on Oak street, London West. When Ward got there he found such to be the case, and learned that Allard had made tracks west. The detective followed him almost to Hyde Park station before he succeeded in capturing him. He placed him under arrest, and charged him with indecent exposure. The case was explained to Squire Lacey, and he remanded the villain until Tuesday.

First Brick Laid

Work of Bricklaying Begun at the Car Shops.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon the first brick was laid at the new car shops, and in a very short time the count was up in the thousands as a large number of masons were at work. A car of lime and a car of cement stand in the center of the site, and the scene is a busy one. The levels were furnished last night by Engineer Hollinshead. Mr. J. R. Moyes was appointed temporary inspector, and Engineer Baker will act temporarily as clerk of the

A large portion of the excavating for the foundations has been made. The sand and gravel is being delivered. The piles of cleaned brick have been measured, and have been found to contain nearly 450,000 bricks. Laborers who cleaned them will be paid for their work in a few days. The contract for all of the 1,000,000 new brick has not yet been awarded, but Mr. McLaughlin, a local brick dealer, will supply 200,000, and it is more than likely that Wade Bros. will furnish the remainder. Mr. McLaughlin's price was $5 50 per 1,000. The foundations of the long side walls of the old buildings have been raised a few inches with cement, and the new walls will be built on them without other alteration. Mr. H. The next afternoon he called again on Katherine. His arm was still useless, his pallor and weakness so great as to win, even from Lysbet, that wo-manly pity which is often irrespect-ive of desert. She brought him wine, esert. She brought him wine, she made him rest upon the sofa, and, by her quiet air of sympathy, bespoke for him a like indulgence from her daughter. Katherine sat by her small wheel, unplaiting some flax, and Neil thought her the most beautiful creature he had ever seen. He kept angrily asking himself why he had not perceived this rare loveliness before-why he had not made sure his claim ere rivals had disputed it with was love which had called this softer, more exquisite beauty into exist-The tender light in the eyesthe flush upon the cheek-the lips, conscious of sweet words and sweeter kisses-the heart beating to pure and loving thoughts-in short, the loveliness of the soul transfiguring the meaner loveliness of flesh and blood -Neil perceived and wondered at; but he had not that kind of love experience which divines the cause from the result.

On the contrary, had Hyde been watching Katherine, he would have been certain that she was musing on her lover. He would have understood that bewitching languor, that dreaming silence, that tender air and light and color which was the physical atmosphere of a soul communing with its beloved-a soul touching things present only with its intelligence, but reaching out to the absent with intensity of every loving emotion. For some time the conversation was general. The meeting of the delegates and the hospitalities offered them; the offensive and tyrannical Stamp Act; the new organization of patriots who called themselves "Sons of Liberty," and the loss of Miss Mary Blankaart's purse, furnished topics of mild dispute. But no one's interest was in their words, and presently Madame Van Heemskirk rose and left the room. Her husband had said: "Neil was to have some opportuni-ties," and the words of Joris were a law of love to Lysbet.

Neil was not slow to improve the "Katherine, I wish to speak I am weak and ill; will you come here, beside me?" She rose slowly and stood beside him; but when he tried to take her hands, she clasped them behind her

His whispered words and death-like countenance moved her to human pity. She rose for the wine, and, as she did so, called her mother; but Neil had at least the satisfaction of feeling that she had so ministered to his weakness and held the wine to his lips. From this time he visited her constantly, unmindful of her frowns, deaf to all her unkind words, patient under the most pointed slights and neglect. And as most men rate an object according to the difficulty experienced in attaining it, Katherine became every day more precious and became every day more precious and desirable in Neil's eyes.

In the meantime, without being watched, Katherine felt herself to be under a certain amount of re-straint. If she proposed to walk into the city, Joanna or Madam were sure to have the same desire. She was not forbidden to visit Mrs. Gordon, but events were so arranged as to make the visit almost impossible; and only once during the month after her marriage had she an interview with her husband. For even Hyde's impatience had recognized the absolute necessity of circumspection. The land-lord's suspicions had been awakened, and not very certainly allayed. "There must be no scandal about my house, Captain," he said. "I merit something better from you," and af-ter this injunction it was very likely that Mrs. Gordon's companions would be closely scrutinized. True, the King's Arms was the great rendezvous of the military and Government officials, and the landlord himself sub-serviently loyal; but, also, Joris Van Heemskirk was not a man with whom any good citizen would like to quarrel. Personally, he was much beloved, and, socially, he stood as a representative of a class who held in their hands commercial and political power no one cared to oppose or offend. The marriage license had been obtained from the Governor, but extraordinary influence had been used to procure it. Katherine was under age, and was yet subject to her fa-ther's authority. In spite of book, and priest, and ring, he could retain his child for at least three years; and three years, Hyde, in talking with his aunt, called "an eternity of doubt and despair." These fact Hyde in his letters had fully explained to Katherine; and she understood clearly how important the preservation of her secret was, and how much toward allaying suspicion depended upon her own behavior. Fortunately, Joanna's wedding day was drawing near, and it absorbed what attention the general public had for the Van Heemskirk family. For it was a certain thing, developing into feasting and dancing, and it quite put out of consideration suspicions which resulted in nothing when people examined them in the clear atmosphere of Katherine's

At the feast of St. Nicholas the marriage was to take place. Early in November the preparations for it began. No such great event could happen without an extraordinary housecleaning; and from garret to cellar the housemaid's pail and brush were in demand. Every inch of paint was spotless, every bit of polished wood and glass shining—not a thimbleful of dust in the whole house. Towards the end of the month Anna and Cornelia arrived with their troops of rosy boys and girls, and their slow, substantial husbands. Batavius felt himself to be a very great man. The answer gave him a little com- weight of his affairs made him solemn and preoccupied. He was not one of those light, foolish ones who can become a husband and a householder without being sensible of the respon-

In the midst of all this household excitement, Katherine found some opportunities of seeing Mrs. Gordon, and in the joy of receiving letters from and sending letters to her husband, she recovered a gaiety of disposition which effectually repressed all urgent suspicions. Besides, as the eventual day drew near, there was so much to attend to. Joanna's personal goods, her dresses and household linen, her china and wedding gifts, had to be packed, the house was to decorate, and there was a most amazing quantity of delicacies to be prepared for the table. In the middle of the afternoon of the day before the marriage there was the loud rat-tat-tat of knocker announcing a visitor. But visitors had been constant since the arrival of Cornelia and Anna, and Katherine did not much trouble herself as to whom it might be. She was standing upon a ladder, pinning, among the evergreens and scarlet berries, rosettes and bows of ribbon of the splendid national color, and singing with a delightsome cheeriness

"Orange still above! Oh, my dear, don't trouble yourself to come down; I can pass the time tolerably well watching you."
"It was Mrs. Gordon, and she nodded and laughed in a triumphant way that very quickly brought Katherine to her side. "My dear, I kiss you. You are the top beauty of my whole acquaintance." Then in a whisper, "Richard sends his devotions; and put your hand in my muff. There is a letter. And pray give me joy-I have just secured an invitation. I asked the Councilor and Madam point-blank for it. Faith, I think I am a little of a favorite with them. Every one is talking of the bridegroom, and the bridegroom is talking to every one. Surely, my dear, he imagines himself to be the only man that will ever again commit matrimony! Orange Boven everywhere!" Then with a little exultant laugh, "Above the Tartan, at any rate. How is the young Bruce? dear, if you make him suffer, I shall never forgive you. Alternate doses of hope and despair—that would be my prescription!" To be Continued.

A Single Instance in Which Dodd's Kid ney Pills Failed to Cure Kidney Discase

Mount Forest, Sept. 21.-The proprietor of the Queen's Hotel of this town declares that he has every reason to believe that any claim made by the people who are advertising and selling Dodd's Kidney Pills is true. These people were the first to inform and instruct him as to the cause of his long continued suffering from extreme nervousness. He says that, "unable to obtain any relief from other sources, that it was on account of reading the particulars of other cures that his confidence was gained." Two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills were all that were required to com-

The New System of Purchasing

Bought on Commission - Unlimited Deand for Good Apples.

Woodstock Sentinel Review. The new system under which the apple buyers this year are shipping has several features about it which are already having a visible effect on the Camadian and English apple markets. Last year the shipper purchased the apples and assumed the entire responsibility for their sale in Liverpool, but under the system which is now being adopted by most of the buyers and orchard owners, the interest is divided between the two. terest is divided between the two. The contract provides that the owner of an orchard will allow the packer to ship his apples under certain conditions. For instance, the seller will pick his own apples, provide suitable barrels, afford accommodation to the pickers and draw the apples to the station. For the trouble of packing the buyer will be allowed 12 cents there. The company expects to spend per barrel, besides 5 per cent, commission on gross sales. The contract also contains the proviso that the apples are to be sold to responsible commission merchants in the British market.

The Sentinel-Review interviewed several of the local apple buyers this morning and from them it was learned that nearly all of the apples in this section are being bought on terms similar to the above. The farmers, they say, are recognizing the benefits that are already manifesting them-selves and are falling in with the commission scheme. The buyers reason that with an equality of interest between them and the farmers the standard of quality will be raised. The orchard owners will put nothing but the best fruit into the barrels, knowing that the English market prices are graded according to quality, and that the better the fruit they deliver to the packers the bigger will be the returns.

"The new system," said one of the shippers, "is already raising the standard of Canadian apples in England. I'll venture to say that where there were ten barrels of inferior apples shipped last year there will not be one sent to the English market this season. All of the stock going forward now is prime and is demand ing much better prices. There is practically an unlimited demand in England for Canadian apples of good quality.'

Liverpool prices this year are from one to two shillings in excess of last year's quotations, with an import of 50,760 barrels, as compared with 1,341 in the corresponding period of last year. Recent cable advices quote red apples at 12 to 16 shillings, and greens from 8 to 13 shillings. Last year's prices at the same period were several shillings below these figures. This the packers claim is due to the fact that the fruit sent to England this year is of the best quality and consequently finds ready and good sale. A large quantity of apples is being purchased throughout the county by the local buyers. H. N. Abell yester-day closed contracts for 1,400 barrels for shipment to the old country mar-

Doan's Kidney Pills cure them. They reach the cause. They cure urinary troubles. Is the cure lasting? Well, London people say it is. That is pretty good proof.

Here is another case. Mrs. A. W. King, 123 Horton street, London, says: "Yes, Doan's Kidney Pills have done me a wonderful lot of good. I have been troubled for the past five years with severe pains in the back and side, also severe pain in my head, accompanied by stomac troubles, with other symptoms of kidney complaint.

"Many remedies have I tried, but was constantly disappointed, and grew worse from month to month. I was completely exhausted. Had no appetite; what I are caused me suffering. I could not sleep well, and awakened unrefreshed in the morning. Some of my friends, knowing the exhausted state I was in, advised me to go to Mr. Strong's drug store and get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. I did so, and can truly state that I commenced to improve at once.

"I have now taken three boxes. My back, head and side pains have vanished. I am no longer troubled with my stomach. My appetite is better, very much, and my food does not disagree with me. I have restful sleep every night and am stronger in every way. I am glad to be able to say that from taking the pills I am better, far better, than I have been in the past five years. Doan's Kidney Pills are the only medicine that ever did me any practical good."

He Has No Use for Grab Bags, Fish Ponds and Socials as Generally Conducted for Church

Purposes.

The church social, with its fishponds, grab bags, voting competitions and postoffice schemes, got a very rought handling at the Church of England conference in Holy Trinity Church, Toronto, Tuesday. The Bishop of Huron won loud applause for his scathing denunciation of the whole business. He said that there were too many so-called Christians who wanted costly houses, costly 198-Dundas Street-198 raiment, and costly amusements, but sunded.

they wanted a cheap religion. Tried by the test of creed, they were ortho-dox in the extreme, but tried by the test of free-will offering, they failed utterly. One of the chief objections to church socials as now conducted was that the money collected did not constitute a free-will offering. It was a quid pro quo; it was for value received. The meanness and smallness of some church-goers in the matter of money giving was something astonishing. Bishop Baldwin contended that the Church of England suffered from the want of fellowship between the icebergs in the front pews and the poor people in the back pews. The object of the church social should be to bring these two classes together. It was good for the rich to meet the poor and good for the sad to meet those who were full of joy. All men would never be equal in a world there was sin, and the socialist's dream would never be realized, but we could bear one another's burdens, as commanded, and we could never bear them if we did not know what they were. Unrentable pews were a necessary corollary to an unpurchasable Gospel The church should take an active part in alleviating the wrongs and injustices, which the poor and down-trodden are crying out against all over
